

THE DICTIONARY
OF
MYTHOLOGY

AN A-Z OF THEMES, LEGENDS AND HEROES

J. A. COLEMAN

THE DICTIONARY
OF
MYTHOLOGY

THE DICTIONARY
OF
MYTHOLOGY
AN A-Z OF THEMES, LEGENDS AND HEROES

J. A. Coleman

For Geoffrey, friend and mentor

Thanks to George Davidson for his exhaustive work on the Chinese entries

Thanks also to Immanion Press for permission to reproduce material from *Charlemagne – Man and Myth

By the same author:

Beginner's Guide to Cryptic Crosswords
Cassell Cluefinder – Dictionary of Crossword Clues
Collin's Crossword Dictionary
Complete Guide to Cryptic Crosswords
Cryptic Crossword Cluefinder
Wordmaster – A Reverse Dictionary

Charlemagne – Man and Myth
Mythilarity

Arcturus Publishing Limited
26/27 Bickels Yard
151–153 Bermondsey Street
London SE1 3HA

Published in association with foulsham
W. Foulsham & Co. Ltd,
The Publishing House, Bennetts Close, Cippenham, Slough, Berkshire SL1 5AP, England

ISBN: 978-0-572-03222-7

This edition printed in 2007
Copyright © 2007 Arcturus Publishing Limited/J A Coleman

All rights reserved

The Copyright Act prohibits (subject to certain very limited exceptions) the making of copies of any copyright work or of a substantial part of such a work, including the making of copies by photocopying or similar process. Written permission to make a copy or copies must therefore normally be obtained from the publisher in advance. It is advisable also to consult the publisher if in any doubt as to the legality of any copying which is to be undertaken.

British Library Cataloguing-in-Publication Data: a catalogue record for this book is available from the British Library

Printed in Singapore

CONTENTS

Introduction .....	7
A .....	11
B .....	119
C .....	180
D .....	265
E .....	313
F .....	354
G .....	392
H .....	447
I .....	507
J .....	538
K .....	551
L .....	599
M .....	646
N .....	729
O .....	766
P .....	797
Q .....	856
R .....	861
S .....	894
T .....	978
U .....	1053
V .....	1068
W .....	1090
X .....	1109
Y .....	1112
Z .....	1128

---

INTRODUCTION

What is a myth? The Greeks knew and, as usual, had a word for it; the word mythos which means word, story, talk, etc. So, for that matter, did the tribes of North America – for the Chinook ik!anam; for the Kwakiutl nayam; for the Thompson tribe spektakl; for the Tsimshian adaox, while in Alaska it was adaork. And so, of course, did many other cultures – and they had not only the word but the stories to go with it. To most of them it was a story passed orally from one person to another, from generation to generation, telling of some hero, some god, some formulation of an abstract idea such as creation. Some of these became written records and so survived for us to know them and such is their power that, despite the disappearance of the cultures that gave rise to them, modern literature abounds with allusions and direct references to these marvellous tales, many of which are still endlessly retold – as they are in this book.

Although they probably represent the most well-known body of mythological material, myths did not start with the Greeks. Many of the myths included here predate the Greeks by many centuries and there can be little doubt that men have constructed accounts to answer such questions as ‘What causes thunder?’ or ‘Where did we come from?’ ever since they were capable of thought. This implies that myths go back not centuries but millions of years but, since those early people could think and formulate the questions to which they had no real answers but could not write either the questions or the answers, we have no way of knowing what myths they constructed. One thing, however, is abundantly clear from the records that are available to us; the urge – the need even – to create myths seems to be inherent in all cultures. Although it can be argued that each culture took over and elaborated the stories of earlier cultures (as the Romans did, taking over virtually the whole of the Greek pantheon and their myths), it is just as valid to suggest that the many similarities between the major myths have no such connections since they appear in cultures so widely separated by both distance and time that no contact between them seems possible. Stories of creation, of floods, of the mating of gods with mortals, of heroes who brought fire – these and many others crop up in the myths of numerous cultures throughout recorded time.

One can regard these ancient tales as simple tales of derring-do – the work of a bygone Archer, Forsyth or Shute – or one can attribute to them the deeper significance that almost certainly prompted their creation. Some maintain that the similarities between many of the basic myths postulate a common origin, others that these similarities prove only that similar questions, similar phenomena, evoke similar answers in each culture. This book brings together under such headings as creation, first humans, flood, etc many of these similar stories but the significance of the similarities and the interpretation of individual myths is left to those whose interests lie in those fields and to the reader who is free to add his own interpretation – or none.

Scholars divide stories of the imagination into categories such as myth, legend, fairy-tales, folklore, marchen and so on but, given that the stories relate to postulated entities such as gods, real characters such as Charlemagne, completely imaginary characters such as Ali Baba and characters such as King Arthur who live in that shadowland between fact and fiction, it is hard to see how one can slot all of them neatly into classes. Add to this the fact that huge swathes of what passes in the study of the world's faiths as religion appear again in world mythologies and it is wise, in my view, to take a much more relaxed view of what constitutes mythology. As a result, this book contains entries that purists might well reject as being outside the realms of true myth but it seems to me that, if a demon such as Ravana in Hindu myth or the oni of Japanese stories are eligible for inclusion, there is no good reason to exclude the whole host of demons which inhabit the grimoires and demonologies of the western world.

Another feature of this book is that it attempts to encompass as wide a coverage of the world's mythologies as is reasonably possible within one set of covers. If it opens a wider field to those whose reading has previously been confined to the well-known mythologies of the Greeks, the Romans and the Norsemen, it will have served the purpose for which it was conceived.

It is a common feature of language that meanings and spellings change over time and distance and it is, therefore, no surprise to find that the names of many of the gods and heroes occur in many forms. Marduk, for example, is said to have 50 names, Ra 75, Allah 99 (or 400), Odin over 200 and Shiva over 1000. I have included all the different versions I have encountered, cross-referenced as appropriate. These alternative names and spellings appear in square brackets after the headword and the entries here also include some favourite epithets and attributes together with equivalents in other cultures. In the case of Chinese entries, there are often significant differences in spelling depending on which of the several transcription systems is used (Wade-Giles and Pinyin are the most frequently used). In this book, all Chinese entries are Wade-Giles. The majority of the entries also carry a label in italics giving an indication of origins. These labels are not intended to indicate nationalities so much as the mythology in which they are featured. Priam for example, though a Trojan, has a Greek label since he appears in the stories of Greek mythology and Lancelot, although French, appears with a British label since he is a hero of the Arthurian saga.

Indexing in this book is based on word order rather than on a strict letter-by-letter order. Some languages have unfamiliar letter groups that cause problems in this field. Many Tibetan entries begin with such combinations as dMu, sMan, bDud and so on and some African words begin with uG. One normally finds the Tibetan words indexed under the second (capital) letter but the African words under the first (lower case) letter. Since the normal English practice is to index by initial letter, not sound – we don't index phonetic under 'f' nor psalm under 's' – the word, however pronounced, is indexed here under the first letter, whether capital or lower case.

J. A. Coleman
Penkridge, July 2007

A

- A<sup>1</sup> Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity referred to as god A: perhaps the god of death, Ah Puch This deity is depicted with exposed spine and skull-like features, wearing a snail on his head and a pair of cross-bones.
- A<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
[Aa.Ai]
the Sumerian moon-god
- A-a (see Aa<sup>1</sup>)
- A Cholla mo Rùn Scottish a musical legend that credits the Scottish bagpipes with the power of speech
- A-Mertat (see Ameretat)
- A-mi-t'o-fo Buddhist [Amito (Fo).A Mi To Fo.O-mi-t' o-fo.Omit'o-fo.Omitofo.O Mi To Fo:=Japanese Amida]
the Chinese name for Amitabha
(see also Pu T'ai Ho-shang)
- A-mong Burmese
a progenitor of the Karens
A-mong and Lan Yein descended from heaven bearing the magic drum given to them by Sey-ya and founded the tribe.
- A-Murdad (see Ameretat)
- A-shih-to Chinese [A-tzu-ta]
the Chinese version of Asita
(see also Mi-lo-fo)
- A-tzu-ta (see A-shih-to)
- Aa<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
[A-a.Ai.Aya:=Sumerian Serida]
a Babylonian sun-goddess wife of Samas mother of Giru, Kittu, Mesharu and Nusku
- AA<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
a Chaldean god of life
- A'a<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands
a Polynesian god
- Aa<sup>4</sup> (see A<sup>2</sup>)
- Aa<sup>5</sup> (see Ea)
- Aac Central American
a turtle: a Mayan prince
son of Kan
brother of Cay, Coh, Moo and Niete
He wanted to marry Moo but she rejected him in favour of his brother Coh. Their argument turned into war and Aac killed his brother, renewing his suit for Moo. Rejected for a second time, Aac made war on Moo who, when her forces were defeated, escaped and left the country.
- Aager Norse
lover of Else
He is said to have spoken to Else from his coffin, asking her to smile.
- Aah (see Ah)
- Aah-te-Huti (see Ah)
- Aalardin British
a knight
husband of Guigenor
He was a magician who provided a magic gold boss for Guimer when she lost one breast in removing the serpent that was wrapped round the arm of her husband, Caradoc.
- Aalu Egyptian
[Aaru]
the paradise of Osiris, far to the West
To reach this land, the soul had to pass through many gates (versions of the story differ between fifteen or twenty-one) each guarded by demons.
- Aamon (see Amon<sup>2</sup>)
- Aani Egyptian
an ape-headed god
- Aapep (see Apep)
- aart Egyptian
a symbol of Ra
When washed in a sacred lake, it became the crocodile god, Sebek.
- Aaru (see Aalu)
- Aarvak (see Arvakur)
- A'as Mesopotamian
a Hurrian god of wisdom keeper of the tablets of destiny
- Ab<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the symbolic heart, as distinguished from the corporeal heart Hati, judged at death
- Ab<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
the Sumerian lord of wisdom
father of Abzu
- Ab<sup>3</sup> (see Sahar<sup>1</sup>)
- Ab Kin Xox Central American [Ppiz Hiu Tec]
a Mayan god of poetry

Aba North American

the supreme god of the Choctaws

Abaanau South American

a culture hero of the Guaraye tribe brother of Zaguaguaya

ababil (see camel bird)

Ababinili North American

[Great Holy Fire Above. Loak-Ishto-hoolla-Aba. Sitting Above] the supreme god of the Chickasaw tribe

He is a sun-god, god of fire, regarded as the creator of all living things.

Abac Irish

[Abhac]
the Irish version of the Addanc

Abaddon

a demon of evil, the angel of the abyss

Abaeus (see Apollo)

Abailard (see Abelard)

Abakan Khan Siberian

a rain-god

Abadin Phoenician

[Mighty Father]
a supreme deity

Abaeus (see Apollo)

Abaia Pacific Islands

a magic fish

Abaia became angry when a woman fished in the lake where he lived and caused a deluge.

Abaios (see Apollo)

Aban Irish

[Abban mocu Corbmait]
son of Cormac and Milla

When he expressed a wish to become a priest, his parents put him in chains, which miraculously fell off. As a boy, he restored to life a calf that had been killed by a wolf. When his uncle, Inbhar, took ship to Rome without him he walked on the waves to catch the ship. He is said to have lit a lamp merely by breathing on it, restored to life a newly dead queen and vanquished many monsters. He established several churches and monasteries where wolves protected the flocks.

Abandinus British

a Roman-Celtic god

Abang Salam Pacific Islands

a retainer of Anggun Nan Tungga

Abans Persian

a spirit that inhabits iron ore mines

Abantubomlambo African

river spirits in the Transkei

They take devotees under the surface of the water for many days and teach them the arts of the medicine man.

Abaris Greek

a Hyperborean sage

a priest of Apollo

He was the owner of a magic golden arrow on which he rode as Apollo's messenger.

Abarta (see Gilla Dacar)

Abarthach (see Gilla Dacar)

Abas<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of Argolis husband of Aglaia
son of Lynceus and Hypermnestra father of Acrisius, Idomene and Proetus

He had a shield that subdued any enemy who saw it.

Abas<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Celeus and Metaneira

He was changed to a lizard by Demeter, who was acting as wet nurse to his newly born brother, when he made a foolish jest about her own son, Iacchus.

Abas<sup>3</sup> Greek

son of Melampus, some say father of Coeranus and Lysimache

Abasdarchon

a demon

Abassi African

['god']
creator-god and sky-god of the Efik husband of Atai

He reluctantly allowed his two children to descend to earth but imposed conditions that they neither mated nor engaged in agriculture, returning to heaven for their meals.
Inevitably, the pair mated and soon the earth was fully populated. Abassi endowed these people with the gift of argument and instituted death, so that, since then, men have quarrelled and killed each other.

Abassylar Siberian

a demon that is said to devour the souls of the dead

Abaster Greek

one of Pluto's horses

Abasum (see Abosum)

Abasy Siberian

a group of spirits of the Yakut underworld

The Abasy are ruled by Arson-Duolai.

Abatos<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

paradise: a sacred island in the Nile

Abatos<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of Pluto's horses

abatawa African

[abatava]

a fairy

These beings are envisaged as being so small that they can walk under grass.
They are said to sleep in anthills and to shoot poisoned arrows at their enemies.

abativa (see abatawa)

abawinae North American

in the lore of the Tubatulabal tribe,
a ghost

This entity is the soul of a dead person, which appears in the form of a human being.

abayifo African

experts in witchcraft

Abban (see Aban)

Abbot of Unreason
(see King of Unreason)

Abcan Irish

a harper of the Danaans

Abd-el-Rahman European

[Abdalahman]

a leader of the Saracen invasion of France

He was killed at the Battle of Tours in 732.

Abdallah the Fisherman Persian

a character in The Arabian Nights

He visited Abdallah the Merman under the sea and killed a sea-monster merely by shouting at it.

Abdalahman (see Abd-el-Rahman)

Abdeel (see Abdiel)

Abderus Greek

an armour-bearer for Heracles

He helped Heracles on his eighth Labour but was eaten by the mares of Diomedes.

Abdiel

[Abdeel]

a demon: one of the seraphim in Milton's Paradise Lost

Abdullah Arab

a man who saw the fabulous city of Iram

Abduxuel

a moon demon

Abe Antak Pacific Islands

an Indonesian creator-god

Abe Mango South American

daughter of Page Abe

She came down from the home of the gods to teach the Turkanos American Indians the arts of weaving, pottery, etc.

Abe no Miushi Japanese

a noble

He was one of the suitors for the hand of Kaguya and undertook to get for her a robe made from the fur of a flameproof rat. He bought a robe from a merchant and gave it to Kaguya who threw it on the fire and, when it proved not to be flameproof, she rejected his suit.

Abelim Canaanite
a city of the moon

Abelleus (see Arbellus)

Abellio Celtic
a Gallic god

Abeona Roman [Adeona]

a goddess of children and revellers

Aberewa African

a primordial woman in the lore of the Akan

When she pounded maize in her mortar, the pestle bumped the sky, annoying the god Nyame who soon moved further away. Aberewa collected many mortars and piled them one on top of another, trying to reach Nyame. The pole was too short and when she persuaded a child to remove a mortar from the bottom of the pile so that she could put it on top, the whole edifice collapsed.

(see also Abuk)

Aberffraw Welsh

the home of the kings of Gwynedd on Anglesey where Branwen was married

Abgal Arabian

a god of the desert

Abgal Mesopotamian

spirits attending the major gods

These spirits were said to live in Abzu.

Abhac (see Abac)

Abhainn Dea (see Avon Dia)

Abhapisacha Hindu

a name of Rahu as 'demon in the sky'

Abharthach (see Gilla Dacar)

Adhasvara Hindu

one of a group of minor deities, a type of Gana

Abhayakara Buddhist

a patriarch in Bengal

He is said miraculously to have brought into being a huge serpent, which so terrified an evil king that he released all his prisoners.

abhicara (see maya<sup>4</sup>)

Abhidhamma Pitaka
(see Abhidharma-Pitaka)

Abhidharma Pitaka Buddhist

[Abhidamma-Pitaka]

a collection of writings on the subject of dharma: part of the Tripitaka

Abhidharmakosa Buddhist

a collection of texts translated by Hsüan Tsang and used by the Kosa sect of Chinese Buddhists

Abhijit Hindu

a goddess of fortune

daughter of Daksa

wife of Candra

Abbijnanasakuntala Indian

a Sanskrit story of Shakuntala and Dushyanta

Abhijinaraja Tibetan

a Buddhist physician-god

He is depicted with long ear lobes.

Abhimani Hindu

a name for Agni as 'the proud one'

Abhimanyu Hindu

[Saubhadra]

son of Arjuna by Subhadra husband of Uttara

father of Parikshit

He fought in the battle with the Kauravas and killed Lakshmana but was himself killed later in the conflict.

Abhimukhi Buddhist

a minor goddess

one of 12 bhumis

She is depicted holding a staff and a book.

Abhinava Gupta (see Gupta)

Abhirati<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

the Eastern paradise

Abhirati<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a mother-goddess

wife of Panchika

mother of Priyamkara

She was said to have borne some 500 children. She is depicted with a pomegranate and accompanied by a mongoose.

abhisheka Hindu

a form of initiation or baptism used in Tantrism

abhyasin Hindu

[yogin.sadhaka: fem=abhyasini]

a male practitioner of Tantrism

abhyasini Hindu

[male=abhyasin]

a female practitioner of Tantrism

abhiyoga Jain

minor gods

Abiasa East Indian

[(Kresna) Dwipayana.Raden Abiasa]

the Javanese equivalent of Vyasa

son of Palasara and Durgandini

He slept with Ambika and Ambahini (Ambilika) to become the ancestor of the Koravas (Kauravas) and the Pandavas.

Abibaal Phoenician

a god of Byblos

Abies British

brother of the Irish king, Cildadan

He was killed by Amadis and when his brother sought to avenge his death, the Irish forces were routed by the British led by Amadis.

Abigor

[Eligor]

a demon said to foretell the future

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as a soldier on horseback, armed with a lance.

abiku African

in Dahomey, the spirit born with each child, which tries to take the child to its forest home

To prevent a child from being taken, some parents put them in chains while others disfigure the child's face so that the spirit will reject or fail to recognise the child. These spirits are said not to like bells so some parents fix bells to a child harbouring an abiku or rub pepper into cuts in the child's skin, hoping the pain will drive the spirit away. In some accounts these demons eat children.

Abila (see Abyla)

Abilii (see shaitan)

Abimiliki Egyptian

[Milkilu:=Canaanite Athar]

a god of irrigation

Abira South American

a creator-god in Colombia

Abjaja (see Brahma.Vishnu)

Abjar (see Abjer)

Abjayoni (see Brahma.Vishnu)

Abjer Arabian

[Abjar]

the marvellous horse of Antar

Abla Arabian

a princess

wife of Antar

Ablach Irish

[=Welsh Ynys Avallach]

an Irish name for Avalon

(see also Emain Ablach)

Ablamor British

[Ablamor of the Marsh]

a knight

When Gaheris and Gawain killed his white deer, he killed two of their hounds. In the fight that ensued, Ablamor's wife threw herself between Ablamor and Gawain and was killed.

Abmerira (see Akkthoes)

Abnoba Celtic

[=Roman Diana]

a German goddess of the hunt, trees and rivers

Abode of Truth (see Satya-Loka)

Abog Pacific Islands

a god of the hunt in the Philippines

Abokas Pacific Islands

the home of the dead in the New Hebrides (see also Banoi)

Abominable Snowman Tibetan

[kang-mi.ladni.meti.mi-go.mirka.
shukpa.sogpu.temu.yeti.fem=ladni]

a mythical monster of the Himalayas

The monster is said to resemble a human being covered with long hair and with feet pointing to the rear.

Above Old Man (see Gudatrigakwitl)

Abommubuwafré African

a name of Nyame as 'he who consoles'

Abonsam African

an evil spirit

This spirit could be driven off by making a great noise.

Abora Canary Islands

a supreme god of Palma

Aborigines Roman

a tribe said to have originated in Greece who founded Rome

Abosom (see Abosum)

Abosum African

[Abasum.Abosom]

the gods of the Ashanti

Abou (see Abu)

Abou Hassan Persian

a rich merchant

In the Arabian Nights story The Sleeper Awakened, he was mysteriously transported to the bed of the caliph and was then treated as if he were the caliph.

Abracas (see Abraxas)

Abraxas<sup>1</sup>

[Abracas.Abraxis]

a demon

He is depicted with the head of a cock wearing a crown, serpents for legs and holding a shield and a whip.

Abraxas<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Abracas.Abraxis]

one of the horses of Aurora

Abraxas stones

gems engraved and used as talismans

Abraxis (see Abraxas)

Abred (see Annwfn)

Abrinael

a moon demon

Arbulges

a demon

aBruguma (see Brugma)

Absolute Buddhist

a name or attribute of Buddha

transcendental reality

Absu (see Abzu)

Absusu (see Abtagigi)

Abtagigi Mesopotamian

[Absusu]

a Sumerian harlot goddess

Absyrtus (see Apsyrtus)

Abtu Egyptian

a fish, one of a pair with Anet,

swimming in front of Ra's boat to give warning of any danger

Abu Mesopotamian

[Abou]

a god of vegetation

In some accounts he was said to have been born from the head of Enki. In others, he was one of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to heal the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten eight plants produced by Uttu.

Abuba Mesopotamian

an Akkadian being helping Marduk in his struggle with Tiamat

Abuda Buddhist

in Japan, the 8 cold hells

(see also To-Kwatsu)

abuddha (see apratibuddha)

Abuk African

a primaevial woman of the Dinka

consort of Garang

She and her husband originally lived in a small pot on one grain of corn per day, but they grew bigger when the pot was opened. She annoyed the god Deng when she struck the sky with her pestle as she was grinding corn and he made the work harder than ever.

(see also Aberewa)

Abundant Pearl Prince (see Otohime)

Abundantia Roman

[=German Abundia:=Norse Fulla]

a fertility-goddess, goddess of plenty

Abundia German

[Dame Habonde:=Norse Fulla:=Roman

Abundantia]

the goddess of plenty

Abydos Egyptian

the source of the spring of youth

This site was said to be in the entrance to the underworld.

Abyla Greek

[Abila.Ape's Hill.Jebel M(o)usa]

one of the Pillars of Hercules: the cliff opposite the Rock of Gibraltar, now

Mount Hache (see also Calpe)

Abyrga Mongolian

a sea-monster

This monster lives in a lake full of milk near the foot of the world-tree and is attacked by the bird Garide, which lives in the top of the tree.

Abyss (see Abzu.hell)

Abzu Mesopotamian

[Absu.Abyss.Apason.Apsu.Rishtu.Zigarun:

=Babylonian Apsu-Rushtu:=Egyptian

Nun]

an underground cavern of sweet water

a Sumerian god of these waters offspring of Sige

son of Ab, some say

consort of Tiamat

father of An, some say

father of all the gods

The mixing of these waters with the salt water, Tiamat, produced the early gods Lahmu and Lahamu. When Mummu, the mist over the waters, plotted with Tiamat and Abzu to overthrow their descendants, Abzu was either put into a long, deep sleep or killed by these gods.

Some accounts distinguish between Abzu and Apsu, calling the former the primaevial void, the source of the waters and the home of Ab, using Apsu for the sweet waters themselves.

(see also Apason)

Ac Yanto Central American

a Mayan god of the white races,

brother of Hachacyum

Acacallis Greek

daughter of Minos and Pasiphae

mother of Amphithemis

mother of Miletus by Apollo, some say

acacila (see achacila)

Acacitli Central American

one of the leaders of the Aztecs when they left their homeland, Aztlan

Academus Greek

a Greek youth

It was he who told Castor and Polydeuces where to find their sister, Helen, who had been abducted by Theseus.

Acadine Roman

a magic fountain in Sicily

Acaill Celtic

a sacred book

Acala<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Acara]

a minor goddess

one of the 12 bhumis

Acala<sup>2</sup> Buddhist

[Acara.Trailokya-vijaya:=Japanese Fudomyoo. Gozanze-myoo]

a tutelary god

lord of the 3 worlds

one of the Krodhadevatas

He is responsible for guarding the north-east quarter.

He is depicted with four faces and eight arms, one foot on Parvati's bosom, the other on Maheshvara's head.

Acala-Vajrapani (see Vajrapani)

Acallam na Sonorec

(see Colloquy of the Old Men)

Acamas<sup>1</sup> Greek

a Cyclops

Acamas<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Theseus and Phaedra

brother of Demophon

husband of Phyllis, some say father of Munychus by Laodice. He and his brother were with the Greeks at Troy and Acamas fell in love with Laodice, one of Priam's daughters, on whom he fathered Munychus. They were both members of the party inside the Wooden Horse and, when the city fell to the Greeks, freed Aethra who had raised the infant Munychus. He (or in some versions his brother) married Phyllis but left her saying he would return. She presented him with a box that he was enjoined not to open. He did open it and whatever was in it so frightened him that he galloped off on his horse, dying when he fell off and on to his sword.

(see also Demophon<sup>2</sup>)

Acamas<sup>3</sup> Greek

son of Antenor and Theano. He was the leader of the Dardanians fighting alongside the Trojans against the invading Greeks.

Acan<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Great Serpent]
a Chaldaean deity, a wine god,
some say

Acan<sup>2</sup> South American

a Mayan god of wine

Acantum Central American

a name for any one of the 4 Bacabs

Acanum (see Ah Cancum)

Acarnan Greek

son of Alcmæon and Callirrhoe brother of Amphoterus

He and his brother are said to have grown to manhood in one day to avenge the murder of their father, killed by Phegeus and his sons.

Acara (see Acala)

Acarya-Vajrapani (see Vajrapani)

Acastus Greek

king of Iolcus
son of Pelias and Anaxibia husband of Hippolyta or Astydamia father of Laodamia

He was one of the Argonauts and also took part in the hunt for the huge Calydonian boar. After the return of the Argo to Iolcus, Medea induced the daughters of Pelias to kill him. For this crime, Acastus, the new king, banished Medea and Jason. His wife Hippolyta accused Peleus, who had come to his court to be purified, of rape. Acastus abandoned his guest, unarmed, on Mount Pelion, hoping that the wild animals would kill him. Peleus was saved by Chiron and attacked Iolcus with a band of former Argonauts, killing Hippolyta and, some say, Acastus.

Acatl<sup>1</sup> Central American

the thirteenth of the 20 days in the Aztec month

Symbolising east, and the arrow, the day was governed by Tezcatlipoca.

Acatl<sup>2</sup> (see Omacatl)

acatlaxqui Mexican

a fertility dance of the Otomi tribe

In this ceremony a snake is held over the head of a young girl known as the Maringuilla.

Acavir Roman

[Achvistr]
an Etruscan deity, one of the Lasae

Acca Larentia Roman

[Acca Larentina.Fa(b)ula.Larentia]

an Etruscan mother goddess

She was said by some to be the mother of the Lares, the Arval Brothers and Hercules. In some accounts she was a prostitute who was won by Hercules in a game of dice and who later married Tarutius. Others say she was the wife of the shepherd Faustus and adopted Romulus and Remus.

Acca Larentina (see Acca Larentia)

Accasbel Irish

one of Partholan's men

He is said to have built the first inn in Ireland.

Acchupta Jain

a goddess of knowledge and learning
one of 16 vidyadevi

accidental god Baltic

the first object seen by a Lapp when he emerges from his tent in the morning is worshipped as a god

Accius Naevius Roman

an augur

He is said to have cut through a whetstone with a razor.

Acclas South American

[Chosen Woman]
Inca devotees serving the god Inti as priestesses

Accolan of Gaul British

[Accolon]
a treacherous knight
lover of Morgan le Fay

When the king executed one of Morgan's lovers, she stole the sword Excalibur and gave it Accolan, another lover.

Accolan was hunting with King Arthur and Urien, Morgan's husband, when a ship on a lake came in to the shore. They boarded it and were bewitched by Morgan. Urien was transported back to his home, but

Arthur, duped by Morgan, fought Accolan who was expected to kill the king. Morgan then planned to kill Urien, marry Accolan and rule as queen at his side. Instead, although he sustained severe wounds, Arthur, with the help of the magic of the Lady of the Lake, recovered Excalibur and killed Accolan. (see also Damas)

Accolon (see Accolan)

Acein Irish

[Ocean]

the black horse of the Dagda

In some accounts, Acein was a poor specimen of a cow. When the Dagda was displaced by Angus Og he was employed by Bres to dig ditches and build a castle. All he asked in payment was this cow, which Bres was quite happy to part with. When the Dagda led his prize away, the rest of Bres' herd followed.

Acelandema Hebrew

the field of blood, or the potter's field

Acelin European

a Norseman

When he led a rebellion against King Louis, Guillaume of Orange came to the aid of the king and suppressed the rebels.

Acerbas (see Acherbas)

Acephali Greek

a headless race said to live in Lybia. Some say that these beings had their face on their chest.

Aceroba

a demon

Aceso Greek

[Acesius]
in some accounts a son of Asclepius

(see also Telesphorus)

Acesius (see Aceso)

Acestes Greek

[Aegestes.Akestes]
a king of Sicily
son of Criniseus and Egesta

Acestes was the son of a Trojan noblewoman, Egesta, who went to Sicily to escape a monster ravaging Troy. He became king of Sicily, fought on the side of the Trojans in the war against the Greeks and later welcomed Aeneas on his journey to Italy.

He, or a Sicilian archer of the same name, is said to have shot an arrow so fast that it ignited.

Acetes<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Acoetes]
a sailor

He was the pilot of the ship on which

Dionysus was imprisoned by the crew and he refused to be a party to the proposal to sell the god as a slave in Egypt.

Acetes<sup>2</sup> (see Aetes)

Ach-chazu Mesopotamian

[Ahhazu]

a Semitic monster causing death and disease

Acglavael European

the Dutch name for Agloval

achacila<sup>1</sup> South American

[acacila.achachila]

in the lore of the Aymara, spirits controlling the weather

They are said to live underground and sometimes appear as old men.

achacila<sup>2</sup> South American

[acacila.achachila]

a sacred object among the Aymara

achachila (see achacila)

Achaea Greek

[Achaia]

a priestess of Gaia

Achaeus Greek

son of Xuthus and Creusa

brother of Ion

Some say that he was the son of Poseidon, others that he and Ion were the natural sons of Xuthus and Creusa.

Achaemenes Greek

a patriarch

He was reputed to have been abandoned as a child and rescued by an eagle.

Achaemenides Greek

a seaman with Odysseus

He had been left behind in Sicily when Odysseus sailed without him and he spent his time trying to avoid the Cyclopes on the island. He was able to warn Aeneas and his men when they called there in time for them to escape when the Cyclopes came running to the attack; he went with Aeneas to Italy.

Achaia (see Achaea)

Achaiva Greek

a name of Demeter as 'spinner'

Achala Buddhist

[=Tibetan Mi-gyo-ba]

a Buddhist god

Achaman Canary Islands

the supreme god of Tenerife

Acharon

a demon said to take possession of humans

Acharya (see Drona)

Achates Greek

armourer and faithful friend of Aeneas

He is said to have killed Protesilaus, the first Greek to land when they invaded Troy. He accompanied Aeneas on his wanderings after the fall of Troy.

Acheflour British

in some accounts, a sister of King

Arthur and mother of Percival wife of Bliocadrans

She reared Percival, after the death of his father, in the solitude of the Waste Forest, hoping to keep him from knightly pursuits.

When she believed that Percival had been killed, the thought drove her mad. Percival found her living in the woods and took her home.

Acheleids Greek

nymphs of the River Achelous

Achelous Greek

[Akelos.Akheloos]

a river-god

son of Oceanus and Gaea or of Helius

and Tethys

father of Callirhoe, Castalia and the Sirens

He was able to assume the shape of a serpent or bull or a bull-headed man.

He fought Heracles for the hand of Deianeira and was defeated, losing one of his horns in the struggle. He replaced it with a horn of the goat which had suckled the infant Zeus.

Achemedai (see Asmodeus)

Achemon (see Acmon)

Acherbas Greek

[Acerbas]

uncle and husband of Dido, in some accounts (see also Sychaeus)

Acheri North American

the ghost of an American Indian girl

This spirit is said to come by night bringing illness to children. The sound of her voice portends death.

Acheron<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Akheron]

one of the rivers of Hades

son of Demeter with no father

He was condemned to the underworld by Zeus for helping the Titans in their struggle against the gods and was turned into a river. This was the River of Woe over which Charon ferried the souls of the dead, provided that they had the required fare of one obol. The word sometimes refers to the underworld itself.

Acheron<sup>2</sup> (see Achren<sup>1</sup>)

Acherontian Books (see Twelve Books)

Acherusa Greek

[Acherusia]

the site of one of the entrances to the underworld

Heracles used this entrance when he captured Cerberus and dragged him from Hades as his twelfth labour.

Acherusia (see Acherusa)

Achikar Mesopotamian

a counsellor to Sennacherib, king of Assyria

He went into hiding to escape the punishment of execution for a crime he did not commit and reappeared in time to help the king by building a castle in the air to win a wager with the pharaoh of Egypt.

Achilleis Roman

an unfinished poem by Statius about the life of Achilles

Achilles Greek

[Aeacides.Akhilleus.Liguron.Pelides]

son of Peleus and Thetis husband of Polyxena, some say

father of Pyrrhus by Deidamia

At his birth, Thetis dipped him in the river Styx to make him invulnerable, holding him by one ankle. This part of his body did not go in to the water and consequently remained unprotected.

Another version says that Thetis held the child by his ankle over the fire but Peleus snatched him from her in time to save him from being completely consumed.

Like many famous Greeks he was a pupil of the wise Centaur Chiron and of Phoenix.

Thetis sent him to the court of Lycomedes where, dressed as a girl, he hoped to escape service with the army at Troy. Odysseus, in the guise of a pedlar, saw through the disguise when Achilles chose weapons rather than trinkets from the wares on offer and persuaded the younger man to join the expedition to rescue Helen from the Trojans.

En route to Troy, the Greeks came ashore at Mysia and were repelled by the inhabitants. In the fighting Achilles wounded Telephus but later cured him with rust from the spear that had caused the wound.

He fought at Troy, leading his band of Myrmidons but fell out with Agamemnon over a girl, Briseis, awarded to him as a prize and refused to fight any more.

When the Greeks were on the verge of defeat, his best friend, Patroclus, put on Achilles' armour and led a renewed attack but was killed in single combat with Hector, who took over the armour.

Spurred into action by the death of his friend, Achilles donned new armour made for him by Hephaestus and led the Greeks in a fresh assault on the Trojan forces.

He met and killed Hector and defiled his body by dragging it round the city walls behind his chariot and when Memnon intervened with his army on the side of the Trojans, Achilles met him also in single combat and killed him, driving the defenders right back to the gates of the city. He also killed Penthesilea, the Amazon queen who was fighting on the side of the Trojans, and when Thersites mocked him for mourning her death he killed him too. In the fighting near the gate, Achilles was struck by an arrow fired from the walls by Paris which, striking his ankle, the only vulnerable part of his body, killed him.

In some accounts he fathered a son, Caistus, on Penthesilea.

Another account says that Polyxena, given to him as a prize, persuaded Achilles to divulge the secret of his vulnerability and she passed on the knowledge to her brother, Paris, who stabbed Achilles in the heel at his wedding to Polyxena.

It is said that he married either Helen or Medea in Hades.

Achilles of Lombardy European

a soldier in Godfrey's army at the siege of Jerusalem

brother of Palamedes and Sforza

Achilles of the North (see Roland)

Achilles of the West (see Roland)

Achilles' spear Greek

magic spear said to have the power to heal wounds

Achimi African

bull-god of the Kabyle

He was the son of Itherther and Thamautz who drove off his father, mating with his mother and sister.

Achiyalabopa North American

[Achiyalatopa]

a monster in the lore of the Zuni

This beast was envisaged as having feathers made of sharp flints.

Achiyalatopa (see Achiyalabopa)

Achlahayr

a demon

Achmon (see Acmon)

Achor Greek

[God of the Flies]

a god of the Cyreneans guarding against insect pests

Achren<sup>1</sup> Welsh

[Acheron.Echren]

a name for Annwfn, the Welsh

Otherworld

Achren<sup>2</sup> Welsh

a woman fighting on the side of

Amaethon at the Battle of Godeu

In some accounts, the conflict is called the Battle of Achren for this reason.

Achtan Irish

daughter of Olc Acha

mother of Cormac mac Airt

Art slept with her when he stayed overnight at her father's house on his way to battle with Lugaid mac Con. He left his ring, robe and sword with her in trust for their son.

When their baby was due she set out for the house of Fiachna Casn, where he was to be fostered, but the baby arrived en route. While she slept, the child was taken by a wolf which suckled the boy. The child was rescued by a trapper, called Luighne, and returned to his mother who put him in to fosterage with Fiachna Casn.

In some versions her name is given as Etain. (see also Eachtach)

Achtland Irish

daughter of Daol Dearmaid

wife of Connla

Her three brothers had been carried off by the warrior Eochaid Glas. When Cuchulainn came to her island in search of the boys, she led him to where they were being held and he killed Eochaid, freeing his captives.

Achvistr (see Acavisr)

Achyuta Hindu

a name of Vishnu as 'unfallen'

Acis Greek

[Akis]

a shepherd-prince of Sicily

son of Pan and Simaethis

He was loved by Galatea but was killed by the Cyclops Polyphemus, who wanted Galatea himself. Galatea turned the blood from his corpse in to a stream, the river Acis.

Acllacuna South American

[Selected Ones]

young girls taken from their parents and prepared as sacrificial victims to the Inca gods

Acmon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Ach(e)mon]

son of Oceanus and Thea

twin of Basalus

He and Basalus were known as the Cercopes, deceitful gnomes who could assume many shapes. He and his brother stole some weapons from Hercules, who later captured them both and carried them over his shoulder, tied head-down to his huge club. They are said to have been changed into monkeys by Zeus.

Acmon<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Ach(e)mon]

one of the Dactyls, in some accounts

Acmon<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Ach(e)mon]

a Greek warrior

He was one of those who went to Italy with Diomedes and was changed into a bird by Aphrodite.

Acna Central American

a Mayan moon-goddess

Acetes (see Acetes)

Acolmiztli Central American

an Aztec god of the underworld

an aspect of Mictlantecuhtli

Acolnahuacatl Central American

[Acolnauacatl]

an Aztec god of the underworld

an aspect of Mictlantecuhtli

Acolnauacatl (see Acolnahuacatl)

acon West Indian

a rattle used in voodoo ceremonies

aconite Greek

[monkshood.wolfbane]

a poisonous plant

The plant sprang from the foam dripping from the mouth of the dog Cerberus when Hercules seized it and carried it off from Hades.

Aconteus Greek

a friend of Perseus

During the fight that ensued when Agenor (or Phineus) and his followers interrupted the wedding of Perseus and Andromeda, Aconteus was inadvertently turned to stone when Perseus displayed the head of Medusa to petrify the intruders.

Acontius Greek

[Akontios]

husband of Cydippe

He declared his love for Cydippe by writing a declaration on an apple (or a quince) that he dropped as he passed her.

Aconzentli Central American

the tree of life, in Mexico

Acoran Canary Islands

a supreme god in Gran Canaria

Acrasia<sup>1</sup> British

an enchantress in The Faerie Queene

She lived in the Bower of Bliss and changed her lovers into monsters, keeping them in prison. Sir Guyon rescued them all and sent Acrasia as a captive to the Queene of Faerie.

Acrasia<sup>2</sup>	Greek	Actaeon<sup>2</sup>	Greek	Mer.=Canaanite Baal.
intemperance personified		[Aktaion]		Baal Had(d)jad.Kurgal.=Semitic
Acrates	British	one of the horses drawing the chariot		Idurmer.=Sumerian incontinence personified in The Faerie Queene		of Helios		Enlil.Ishkur.=Syrian Hadad]
Acraea	(see Rhea)	Actaeus	Greek	a Babylonian storm-god, a form of Marduk
Acrisius<sup>1</sup>	Greek	a king of Athens, in some accounts		son of Anu
king of Argos		father of Aglauros		son of El, some say son of Abas and Aglaia		Acteror		husband of Salas
twin brother of Proetus		a demon		husband of Anat, in some accounts husband of Aganippe		Action Games	Greek	In some early accounts Adad was created from Chaos. After usurping the power of his father, Prince Sea, he challenged Mot who invited him to the underworld. There he ate the food of the dead and died. He was rescued by Anat who dragged Mot out of the underworld and chopped him up, so restoring Adad to life.
father of Danae		a festival in honour of Apollo		He is depicted as wearing a horned headdress and wearing a robe decorated with stars, etc. He may also be shown holding thunderbolts.
He and his brother quarrelled over the kingdom when their father died and he expelled Proetus. When Proetus returned with an army they agreed to share, Proetus taking Tiryns.		Actis	Greek	Adad-Ea
Warned that he would be killed by a son his daughter would bear, Acrisius shut Danae in a cell made of bronze. This did not solve the problem: Zeus came to her as a shower of gold and she became the mother of Perseus. He cast Danae and her baby adrift in a cask but they survived and Perseus did eventually kill Acrisius when his discus accidentally struck his grandfather.		one of 7 sons of Helios by Rhode		Mesopotamian
In some accounts his wife is referred to as Eurydice.		He became an astronomer and was banished to Egypt when he killed one of his brothers. He founded the city of Heliopolis and the Colossus of Rhodes was built to honour his memory.		[=Greek Charon]
Acrisius<sup>2</sup>	(see Arcisius)	Actl	Central American	the ferryman in the Babylonian underworld
Acron	Roman	a god of tattooing		Adaheli
a king		Actor<sup>1</sup>	Greek	South American
He led the first attack on Rome in an effort to recover the Sabine women taken captive by Romulus.		a king		the sun personified
acrostic		father of Antigone, Eurydamus and Eurytion		Some Carib peoples say that, in the beginning, Adaheli descended from the sky and mated with the cayman to produce the first tribes.
a word puzzle		Peleus came to his court to be purified of the murder of Phocus and married the king's daughter Antigone. He gave part of his kingdom to Peleus as a wedding present.		Adalinda
The first letter of each line of a verse can make a new word. It also referred to the prophecies of the Sibyl of Cumae which, written on loose leaves, had to be put into the correct order.		Actor<sup>2</sup>	Greek	European
acsumama	South American	one of the Argonauts		in some accounts, one of the 9 wives of Charlemagne
an Inca spirit controlling the growth of potatoes		son of Deion and Diomedes		Adam<sup>1</sup>
Actaeon<sup>1</sup>	Greek	brother of Aenetus, Asteopeia, Cephalus and Phylacus		British
[Aktaion]		father of Icheles, Irus and Menoetius		in some accounts, a son of Joseph of Arimathea son of Aristaeus and Autonoe		Actor<sup>3</sup>	Greek	Adam<sup>2</sup>
pupil of Chiron		brother of Augeas		Pacific Islands
A hunter who was changed into a stag by Artemis who caught him watching her as she bathed. In another version, he approached the goddess when he was wearing the skin of a stag, or she threw a goat-skin over him. He was torn to pieces by his own hounds.		husband of Molione		a deity in the Philippines
Other versions say that he suffered this fate for boasting that he was a greater hunter than Artemis herself or because he was a competitor of Zeus for the love of Semele.		father of Eurytus and Cteatus		son of Kadaklan and Agemem
		Actor<sup>4</sup>	Greek	brother of Balujen
		a Theban warrior who fought with Parthenopaeus at the Borrahaean Gate		Adam of China
		Acu	Mesopotamian	(see Fu-hsi <sup>1</sup> )
		[Agu.=Babylonian Nanna.Sin]		Adama an Akkadian moon-god		African
		Acuecuyotl	South American	husband of Hawa
		waves personified		He fathered forty children but hid twenty of them from god. When god discovered these children he kept them for himself, building a wall between them and their parents.
		an aspect of Chalchiutlicue		Adamantine Sow
		Acvins	(see Aswins)	Buddhist
		Acyata	Hindu	a name for Vajravara an aspect of Shiva or Vishnu		Adamas
		ada		(see Hades)
		a magic word uttered to avert bad luck		Adamastor
		adab	Pacific Islands	African
		one of the Five Virtues – civilisation		a hideous spirit of the Cape of Good Hope
		Adachigahara	Japanese	Adamnain
		a female demon that kills and eats children		(see Adamnan)
		Adad	Mesopotamian	Adamnan
		[Adda(d).Addu.Dadda.Dadu.Isher.Marduk. Ramman.Rimmon.=Assyrian		Irish [Adamnain.Adhamnhan.Eunam] an abbot on Iona biographer of St Columba

He was said to have secured the release of sixty prisoners held by the Saxons by performing a miracle that held the sea back to allow his ship to land.

In another story, monks looking through the keyhole of his cell saw the baby Jesus sitting on the abbot's knee.

Adam's Bridge Hindu

[Nala's Bridge.Rama-setu.Rama's Bridge.Setu-Bandha]

a bridge built by Rama or Sugriva (Ovala)

The construction of this bridge from India to Ceylon allowed Rama to attack the fortress of Ravana, who had captured Rama's wife Sita. It was originally made of floating stones but the gods later fixed them in position to make a permanent causeway.

Adam's Footprint (see Adam's Peak)

Adam's Jewel

a magic stone said to light the way to the underworld

Adam's Peak

[Sumanakuta.Sumanala]

a mountain in Ceylon with a depression shaped like a large footprint

The Buddhists regard it as the site of the sacred footprint of the Buddha, while the Hindus regard the footprint as that of Shiva and say that the mountain itself is the home of Sumana. In Christian tradition, the footprint is that of St Thomas.

adaox North American

[=Chinook ikanam:=Kwakiutl nuyam: =Thompson spetake]

a myth or tale of the early days of the world in the lore of the Tshimshian

Adapa Mesopotamian

the first man in the lore of the Akkadians

one of the Apkallu

son and priest of Ea

He is credited with the invention of speech. He broke the wings of Shutu, the south wind, when it buffeted him. When he was summoned to heaven to explain why the wind no longer blew he refused the food and drink that was offered to him by An, not realising that it would have made him immortal.

In some accounts, there are two separate beings called Adapa – the deity, son of Ea, and the wise man, one of the Apkallu, but the story of the visit to the heavens seems to be common to both.

Adar<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Adram(m)elech.Adrameleck]

a Babylonian sun-god to whom children were sacrificed

Adar<sup>2</sup> (see Atar.Ninib)

Adarno Pacific Islands

in the Philippines, a magical bird that could cure illness

Adaro Pacific Islands

a spirit of the sea

These beings are envisaged as half man, half fish, riding on waterspouts and rainbows.

In the Solomon Islands they are said to shoot men with flying fish.

In some versions, the soul has two parts – the aunga (good) which dies and the adaro (bad) which remains as a ghost.

adat Indonesian

traditional rites and practices

Adawulcanak North American

a goddess of the tribes of the North-West, a servant of Nascakiyetl

(see also Tliewatuwadjigican)

Adda (see Adad)

Adda-Nari Hindu

[=Egyptian Isis]

a goddess of religion and truth

Addad (see Adad)

Addanc Welsh

[Addanc of the Lake.Afanc.Avanc:

=Irish Ab(h)ac]

a dwarf or monster living in a lake

He killed the sons of the King of Suffering each day. He lived in a cave and hid behind a pillar, killing all who entered with his poisoned spear. Peredur, protected by a magic stone given to him in some accounts by the Empress of Constantinople, saw where he was hidden, killed him and cut off his head.

In an alternative story, he was the cause of the Flood and was killed when he was dragged from his underwater lair by Hu Gardarn's oxen after being lulled to sleep on the bosom of a maiden.

Addanz British

one of the ancestors of Percival

Addaon Welsh

son of Taliesin

In the dream of Rhonabwy, he was the leader of the black and white troop.

He was killed by Llongod.

Addephagia Roman

a goddess of good cheer

adder bead (see adderstone)

adder gem (see adderstone)

adderstone

[adder bead.adder gem.druid stone. serpent stone]

a prehistoric bead once thought to be associated with the adder or to cure the bite of an adder

(see also gloine nathair)

Addu (see Adad.Marduk)

adeborsteine German

[stork stones]

rocky places where, it is said, birds

such as storks found the babies they brought to mothers in childbirth

Adekagagwaa North American

an Iroquois god of summer

Adeluf British

a king of Britain before the time of

King Arthur

Adeluf British

in some accounts, a son of King Arthur

Adeona (see Abeona)

Adeyn y Corph Welsh

a fabulous bird said to foretell death

Adha (see Al adha)

Adham-Algal Mesopotamian

purgatory, where the wicked

undergo torture

Adhamain Irish

a king

husband of Flidhais father of Nia Seaghamain

Adhamnhan (see Adamnan)

Adharma Hindu

son of Brahma

the personification of Brahma

as destroyer

Adhidharma (see Adidharma)

Adhimukticarya Buddhist

a minor goddess

one of the 12 bhumis

Adhimuktivasita Buddhist

a minor goddess

one of the 12 bhumis

Adhnuall Irish

a hound of Finn

After a battle he ran three times round Ireland and then returned to the scene of the battle where he let out three howls and died on the spot where the Fianna dead were buried.

Adhoksaja (see Vishnu)

Adhrapuisacha (see Rahu)

Adhur (see Atar<sup>1</sup>)

Adhvaryu Hindu

a priest officiating at a

Brahmin sacrifice

Adhyatman Hindu

the supreme spirit; soul of the universe

(see also Adi-Daivata)

Adi Hindu

a demon

This demon, which appears as a snake or a bird, is said by some to be an incarnation of Vishnu.

Adi-Buddha Indian

[Adibuddha.Vajradhara:=Tibetan Vajrabhairava.Vajrasattva]

the primeval source of the 5, 6 or 8 Dhyanibuddhas

He is regarded as the original Buddha of which all later Buddhas are emanations.

In some accounts Manjushri is referred to as the Adi-Buddha.

Adi-Daivata Hindu

a supreme spirit; lord of the gods
(see also Adhyatman)

Adi-Mailagu Pacific Islands

a Fijian sky-goddess

It is said that she came to earth, taking the form of a rat, living in a tree, but she could also appear as an old crone or a beautiful maiden.

Adicia British

wife of Soldan

In Spenser's Faerie Queene she was turned into a tigress.

Adibuddha (see Adi-Buddha)Adidharma Tibetan

[Adhidharma]

a primeval Buddhist goddess

adidharma Buddhist

[adhidharma]

sacred writings on metaphysics

Adikia Greek

the ugly goddess of injustice

Adim Egyptian

an ancient king

son of Budasheer

Budasheer died but his spirit still lived on in an underground palace and so Adim was able to go to him for advice.

Adimurti Hindu

[Paramapathanatha.Vaikunthanatha]

an aspect of Vishnu seated in the coils of the world-serpent

Adinatha Hindu

[Primal Lord]

a teacher in the Kaula or Natha sect

He is identified as Shiva.

Adipati (see Yama<sup>2</sup>)Adiri<sup>1</sup> East Indian

the Papuan land of the dead

Originally the cheerless home of Adiri and his daughter Dirivo. When Dirivo married Sido, the first man to die,
Adiri became a more cheerful place.

Adiri<sup>2</sup> East Indian

father of Dirovo

Adisechen (see Ananta<sup>1</sup>)Adisesa (see Ananta<sup>1</sup>)Aditi Hindu

[Deva-matri.Devaki.'free'. 'infinity'] daughter of Brahma or Daksha wife of Kashyapa

mother of Vishnu and the Adityas

In some stories Daksha is her son, in others her father; some say she was the consort of Vishnu, others that she was his mother in his fifth incarnation, as a dwarf. In some versions she is depicted as a cow and, in early myths, was identified with Diti. (see also Diti)

Aditingga Pacific Islands

an Indonesian volcano-god

Aditya Hindu

a child of Aditi (see also Adityas)

Aditya-Bandhu (see Buddha)Aditya-Raja (see Athityarat)Adityas Hindu

[Celestial Deities]

a group of early gods, sons of Aditi or of Dyaus and Prithivi

Variouly given as a triad (Aryaman, Mitra and Varuna) or a group of six (with Anisa, Bhaga and Daksha) or eight. In later years the number was increased to twelve (guardians of the months of the year) by adding Dhatri, Indra, Ravi, Savitri, Surya and Yama.
Some lists include Aditya, Marttanda, Varuna, Vishnu and Vivasvat.

Adivaraha (see Daityas)Adja (see Varaha<sup>2</sup>)Adja West Indian [Adja Bosu.Adjassou Li(n)guetor.

Adjassou Miro.Aguasu]

a Haitian spirit

This being, a loa, is inclined to drown those who upset him.

Adja Bosu (see Adja)Adjassou Ligueter (see Adja)Adjassou Lingueter (see Adja)Adjassou Miro (see Adja)Adjuchas

a rock demon

Adlet Inuit

[Erqiglit]

the Dog People

These beings are said to be the descendants of a red dog and an Inuit woman. Five of her ten offspring were dogs who became the ancestors of the white races; the other five were monsters who gave birth to even greater monsters, the Adlet.

Adliparmio Inuit

a spirit that has passed from Adlivum to Adliparmiut and is no longer harmful to human beings

Adliparmiut Inuit

the lower level of Adlivum

Those permitted to penetrate to this level enjoy the privilege of being allowed to carry on hunting but must endure great extremes of weather in so doing.

Adlivun Inuit

home of the wicked dead

This underworld is ruled by Sedna and her father Anguta. Murderers are kept forever in this grim place but others can progress to the lower level, Adliparmiut. Those who stay in Adlivum, the tupilag, sometimes return as spirits carrying illness and disease.

Admeta (see Admete)Admete Greek

[Admeta]

daughter of Eurystheus

As his ninth Labour, Heracles was required to get the girdle of Hippolyta as a gift for Admete.

Admetus Greek

king of Pherae

son of Pheres and Peridymene

brother of Lycurgus

husband of Alcestis

father of Eumelus, Hippasus

and Perimele

He was one of the Argonauts and took part in the hunt for the Calydonian Boar.

When Apollo killed the Cyclops, Zeus ordered him to serve as a slave to Admetus for one year. With the help of Apollo he won the hand of Alcestis by driving a chariot drawn by a boar and a lion. He forgot to make a sacrifice to Artemis when he got married and the goddess filled his bed with snakes.

Artemis promised that he should escape death if one of his family offered to die in his place. Alcestis poisoned herself to save him but was rescued from Tartarus either by Hercules, who wrestled with Thanatos, or by the mercy of Persephone.

Adna Irish

a warrior of the Red Branch

a chief poet

father of Neide

Adnachel

[Advachiel]

the ruling spirit of the constellation

Sagittarius (see also Saritiel)

Adno-artina Australian

an ancestral lizard

He fought and killed the ancestral dog
Marindi during the Dreamtime.

Ado African

the supreme god of the Lugbara

Adolf, Bishop (see Bishop Adolf)Adon<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Adim.'lord']

a Canaanite fertility-god

brother, son or husband of Astarte

He later appeared as the Greek Adonis.

Adon<sup>2</sup> (see Aten)

Adoni-Bezek Mesopotamian

a Canaanite tyrant

He had the habit of cutting off the thumbs and big toes of defeated enemies. He was given the same treatment when he was defeated by others.

Adonia Greek

an eight-day festival in honour of

Adonis, held in July

Adonides

a demon said to take possession of humans

Adonis<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Adon.Syrian God:=Babylonian

Tammuz:=Etruscan

Atunis:=Phrygian Attis]

god of rebirth, vegetation, etc.

son of Myrrha by her own father,

King Cinyras

son of Phoenix and Alpheisboea,

some say

The king's wife upset Aphrodite by saying that Myrrha (Smyrna in some stories) was more beautiful than the goddess, who thereupon caused Myrrha to fall in love with her own father who slept with her when he was drunk. Her father is variously referred to as Belus, Cinyras or Theias. The result of this union was Adonis who was saved from Cinyras' sword by Aphrodite who put him in a box and handed him over to Persephone to be reared. Some say that Myrrha was changed into a myrtle tree and that the baby was delivered from the trunk of the tree when it was split open by the tusk of a charging boar.

When Aphrodite wanted him back, Persephone refused to hand him over and Zeus had to intervene to settle the argument. Calliope adjudicated and she decreed that Adonis should spend half of each year with the two women who loved him or, in some versions, four months with each of the women and the rest of the year by himself.

Some say that he was married to Aphrodite and they had two children.

He was killed by Ares, in the form of a boar, when he was out hunting with Aphrodite. The crimson flower of the anemone grew where his blood stained the earth. Alternatively, his blood became red roses and Aphrodite's tears became anemones.

After his death, Aphrodite pleaded successfully with Zeus to allow Adonis to spend half the year with her and half in the underworld.

He is sometimes depicted with a lyre.

Adonis<sup>2</sup> Phoenician

a god of Byblos

Adonis flower Greek

the rose, the anemone or the pheasant's-eye

It was said that the rose was originally a white flower that became stained with the blood of Aphrodite who was scratched by a thorn when she went to help the dying Adonis.

The anemone is said to have sprung either from the blood of Adonis or from the tears of Aphrodite. The pheasant's-eye, like the anemone, sprang from Adonis' blood.

adoratrix Egyptian

a chief priestess of Amon-Ra

Adragain British

a Knight of the Round Table

Like many other knights, in later life he became a hermit.

Adramelech (see Adrammelech)

Adramelech<sup>1</sup>

a demon

In black magic, one of the Ministers, the High Chancellor.

Adramelech<sup>2</sup> (see Adrammelech)

Adrammelech<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Adramelech.Adramelech.Sardon]

a demon derived from the god Adar

He was said to appear as a man, a mule, a peacock or a combination of all three. (see also Anamelech.Andramelech)

Adrammelech<sup>2</sup> (see Adar)

Adranus Greek

a fire demon in Mount Etna

Adraste (see Andrasta)

Adrastea<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Adrast(e)ia]

a Cretan nymph

daughter of Melisseus

sister of Ida and Melissa

She and her sisters nursed the infant Zeus when he was hidden on Crete to prevent his father Cronus from swallowing him.

Adrastea<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Adrast(e)ia]

one of the 2 primordial deities present at the beginning of the world

a name for Nemesis as a goddess of justice

In some accounts, she was the mother of the Dactyls. (see also Chronos)

Adrastea<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Adrast(e)ia]

a name for Rhea as goddess of justice

Adrasteia (see Adrastea)

Adrastia (see Adrastea)

Adrastine Greek

[Aegialeia]

a name for Aegialeia as daughter (or grand-daughter) of Adrastus

Adrastos (see Adrastus<sup>2</sup>)

Adrastus<sup>1</sup> European

an Indian prince

He fought on the side of the Saracens and was killed by Rinaldo.

Adrastus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Adrastos]

king of Argos

one of the Seven against Thebes

son of Talau and Lysimache

brother of Eriphyle and Hippomene

husband of Amphithea

father of Aegialeus, Aegialia, Argia,

Cyanippus and Deipyla

He received Polyneices and Tydaeus at his court and they married his daughters, Argia and Deipyla. He led an army to restore Polyneices to the throne of Thebes but the attempt (Seven against Thebes) failed. He later led the sons of the Seven, the Epigoni, in a successful attack on the city. When his son Aegialeus (one of the Epigoni) was killed at Thebes, he died of grief. Others say that he and his son immolated themselves.

Adrastus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Adrastos]

son of Gordius

He was purified by Croesus after killing his own brother but killed Atys, son of Croesus, in a hunting accident. He killed himself in grief.

Adrastus<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Adrastos]

father of Eurydice

Adrastus<sup>5</sup> Greek

[Adrastos]

son of Merops

brother of Amphius

His father did not want him to fight at Troy but Adrastus ignored his advice and was killed there by Diomedes.

Adrastus<sup>6</sup> Greek

[Adrastos]

son of Polyneices and Argia,

some say

brother of Thersander and Timeas

Adriel

a moon demon

Adrija Hindu

a name of Parvati as 'mountain born'

(see also Girija<sup>2</sup>)

Adrika Hindu

a nymph in the form of a mermaid

mother of Satyavati

- Adrisyanta Hindu
wife of Kalmashapada mother of Parashara
- Adro African
an aspect of Adroa as bad
He is depicted as half-bodied with one leg, arm, etc and is said to live mainly in rivers.
- Adroa African [Adro]
creator-god and sky-god of the Lugbara
- Adroanzi African
the children of Adro
They have the habit of following humans and killing those who look back at them. Other accounts describe them as having the form of water-snakes, which drown and eat humans.
- Adsullata Celtic
a Continental river-goddess
- Adu Ogyinae African
the leader of the first group of humans
The Ashanti say that these people came up out of the earth and Adu Ogyinae was killed when a tree fell on him.
- Advachiel (see Adnachiel)
- Adventures of Nera
(see Eachtra Nerai)
- Adventures of the Sons of Mugmedon, The Irish
the story of the exploits of Niall and his brothers
This story, found in both the Book of Ballymote and the Yellow Book of Lecan, tells the story of Niall's encounter with the Loathly Lady.
Niall and his four stepbrothers were out hunting and needed water for cooking their supper. Fergus went to a nearby well and found it guarded by an extremely ugly woman who demanded a kiss as the price of the water. Fergus and all the others except Niall refused the offer. Niall not only kissed her but slept with her and she turned back into the beautiful woman she really was – Flaitheas, the embodiment of Irish sovereignty. She decreed that Niall and his descendants should be the kings of Ireland forever.
- Adventurous Bed British [Perilous Bed]
a bed in Castle Carbonek
In some accounts, Galahad slept here and was wounded by a fiery lance, while others say that this was where Lancelot spent an uncomfortable night. (see also Lit Merveile)
- Adversary, The<sup>1</sup>
a name for the Devil, Satan
- Adversary, The<sup>2</sup> Persian
a name for Ahriman
- adykh Siberian
[=Buddhist seterty]
an animal dedicated to a deity or to an ongon Animals as varied as horses and fish, and even birds, can be used in this way, being purified with the smoke of burning juniper and decorated with coloured ribbons. Once so dedicated, the animal is never again ridden or put to work.
- Adyok (see Ajok)
- Ae North American
the first woman in the lore of the Californian American Indian tribes wife of Ejoni
She and her husband were made from soil by Nocuma and they mated to produce descendants who became the tribes of California.
- Aeacides<sup>1</sup> Greek descendants of Aeacus
- Aeacides<sup>2</sup> (see Achilles)
- Aeacos (see Aeacus)
- Aeacus Greek
[Aeacos.Aiakos]
king of Aegina
son of Zeus by Aegina or Europa husband of Endeis
father of Telamon and Peleus
In some accounts, he fathered Phocus on the Nereid, Psamathe, who was killed by Peleus and Telamon.
Hera, jealous as usual of her husband's affairs with others, avenged herself on Aegina by sending a plague which decimated the population of the island kingdom. Aeacus prayed to Zeus who re-populated the island by producing the Myrmidons from a colony of ants.
He helped Apollo and Poseidon build the walls of Troy.
After his death he was made one of the three judges in the underworld.
- Aeaea<sup>1</sup> Greek
the island of Circe
- Aeaea<sup>2</sup> Greek
a name for Circe taken from the island on which she lived
- Aeb (see Aobh)
- Aebh (see Aobh)
- Aed (see Aedh)
- Aed Slane (see Aedh Slaine)
- Aeda (see Aedh)
- Aedan (see Aodan)
- Aedd (see Aedh)
- Aedh<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a dwarf poet
He entertained at the court of Fergus mac Leda and once visited Iubdan, king of the Faylinn, who later went to the king's court with his wife Bebo.
- Aedh<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
the real name of Goll mac Morna
- Aedh<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh] son of Lir by his first wife, Aobh (see Children of Lir)
- Aedh<sup>4</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a name for the Dagda as an underworld god
- Aedh<sup>5</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a king of Oriel
- Aedh<sup>6</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
son of Bodb Dearg
- Aedh<sup>7</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
son of Mochaen
brother of Conn and Corca
He, his father and his two brothers were killed by the sons of Turenn when the latter attacked Mochaen's hill and raised a shout to satisfy part of the penalty imposed on them for the murder of Cian.
- Aedh<sup>8</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a giant
He killed the giantess Bebhionn who had been forced to become betrothed to him but finally refused to marry him. She had appealed to Finn for help and the Fianna pursued Aedh when he fled, but the murderer escaped in a ship.
- Aedh<sup>9</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a poet at the court of Conor mac Nessa
He had an affair with Mughain, the king's wife, and was condemned to death by drowning. By reciting verses, he caused each lake he was taken to to dry up except the lake near the house of Laoghaire Buadhach. Laoghaire saved him by killing the men charged with drowning the poet.
- Aedh<sup>10</sup> Irish
[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a prince of Leinster
He spent three years in a sidhe, ensnared by the daughter of Bodb Dearg. He finally escaped and, meeting St Patrick, was converted to Christianity.

Aedh<sup>11</sup> Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a son of Art, in some accounts

Aedh<sup>12</sup> Welsh

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
father of Prydein

Aedh<sup>13</sup> (see Maodhog)

Aedh Abrat Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
father of Angus mac Aedh, Fand and Liban

Aedh Allan Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a high-king of Ireland
son of Fergal mac Maolduin by a nun brother of Niall Frasach

His mother had a secret affair with Fergal and when his son was born she gave him to women to be drowned. They kept him and some years later Aedh was reunited with his mother. Other accounts say that his mother was Brighe.

He was killed in battle with his relative Domhnall.

Aedh Baclamh Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a tax collector

He was killed by Aedh Guaire while collecting taxes for the high king, Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill, who demanded Guaire's head. The intervention of Ruadan, who had hidden him in a monastery, saved Guaire's life.

Aedh Beag Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
son of Finn mac Cool

He and his father went to the rescue of the party of the Fianna trapped in a house by Eochaid Beag Dearg.

Aedh Beannan Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Beannain.Aod(h). Hugh] father of Mor Mumhan

Aedh Caomh Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a son of the Dagda, in some accounts
He was killed by Corrchend when he tried to seduce the latter's wife.

Aedh Dubh Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
son of Feargna

He helped St Caillin to establish a monastery and, in compensation, the saint changed him from an ugly man to a handsome one and gave him the kingdom of Aedh's father, who had been swallowed by the earth for opposing Caillin.

In another story, he was the son of Suibhne, king of Dalraida.

It was prophesied that he would cause the death of his foster father, the high-king Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill, and this prophecy was fulfilled when he ran the king through with his spear as he tried to escape from a burning building.

He was said to have been killed in a fight at sea.

Aedh Eangach Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a king of Ireland

The coming of Aedh, a great leader, was prophesied by St Bearchan.

Aedh Fionn Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a sub-king in Ulster

He persuaded the blind poet, Dallan, to get a famous shield from another sub-king, Aedh mac Duach. When the king refused to hand it over, Dallan satirised him.

Aedh Guaire Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a noble of Connaught

He killed the tax collector Aedh Baclamh, and was hidden by Ruadan in a monastery. The high-king, Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill, demanded his head and took him to Tara for execution. After much argument with the clerics, Diarmaid relented and Aedh was pardoned.

Aedh mac Ainmhireach Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a high-king of Ireland
son of Ainmire
father of Cumasach

When his son was killed by the Leinstermen for sleeping with the wife of their king, Brandubh, he attacked the province with a large army. He had a cowl that kept him safe in battle, but he lost it and was killed when he fought with Brandubh in an attempt to collect the annual tribute, the borhama. In some stories he was killed by Brandubh, in others by Ron Cerr, one of Brandubh's men. In some accounts, the battle was lost as a result of the prayers of St Maodhog.

Aedh mac Duach Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a sub-king in Ulster

Another sub-king, Aedh Fionn, persuaded the blind poet, Dallan, to get a marvellous shield owned by Aedh. When the king refused to hand it over, he was satirised by the poet.

Aedh mac Ruadh Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Red Hugh] king of Ireland
father of Macha

He ruled alternately with his brothers, Kimbay and Dithorba, or, in some versions, they were due to rule alternately on his death.

In some accounts, Macha was the sister of Dithorba and Kimbay.

Aedh Ruadh Irish

[Aeda.Aed(d).Aod(h).Hugh]
a king of Ireland

He ruled as a tyrant and was defeated by the forces of nature. When bathing in the sea one day, to escape the burning heat of the sun, a storm blew up and he was drowned.

Aedh Slaine Irish

[Aeda.Aed Slane.Aedd.Aod(h). Hugh]
a high-king of Ireland
son of Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill
husband of Maireann and Mughain

He was said to have cried out while still in his mother's womb, foretelling the death of Suibhne.

As a man, he killed his cousin, Suibhne mac Colmain, and was himself killed by Suibhne's son, Conall.

Aedon<sup>1</sup> Greek

['singer']
daughter of Pandareus and Hermothoe sister of Cleotheia and Merope wife of Zethus
mother of Itylus and Neis

She tried to kill the eldest son of Niobe, her sister-in-law, but killed her own son Itylus by mistake. Zeus changed her into a nightingale. In some accounts, Thebe takes the place of Aedon.

Aedon<sup>2</sup> (see Aodan.Maodhog)

Aectes (see Actes)

Aega Greek

the human form of Amalthea

In some accounts she is identified with Libya.

Aegaeon (see Briaraeus)

Aegealea (see Aegialeia)

Aegealia (see Aegialeia)

Aegeon (see Briaraeus)

Aegeria (see Egeria)

Aegestes (see Acestes)

Aegeus Greek

[Aigeus]
king of Athens
son of Pandion and Pylia son of Scyrius, some say brother of Lycus, Nisus and Pallas
father of Theseus by Aethra

His father had been driven from the throne of Athens by the sons of Metion, but Aegeus, with the help of his brothers, regained the kingdom.

He seduced, or some say married, Aethra of Troezen and went off to Athens, where he expelled Lycus, leaving his sword and sandals hidden behind a huge rock to be reclaimed by any son of their union. That son was Theseus and, in some stories, it was Poseidon who fathered the child which was accepted by Aegeus as his own.

He had no children by his first wife, Melite, nor his second, Chalciopie the daughter of Rhexanor, but his third wife, Medea, produced a son called Medus. He recognised Theseus as his son just in time to prevent Medea from poisoning him at a banquet.

On his return from Crete after killing the Minotaur, Theseus forgot to hoist the white sail that would signal success and his father, thinking him dead, died when he fell from the Acropolis.

Aegiale (see Aegialeia)

Aegialea (see Aegialeia)

Aegialeia Greek

[Adrastine.Aegealea.Aegeal(e)ia.

Aegi(a)le.Aegialea.Aegialia]

daughter of Adrastus and Amphithea sister of Aegialeus, Argia, Cyanippus and Deipyra

wife of Diomedes

She was unfaithful to Diomedes when he was fighting with the Greeks at Troy, and had an affair with Cometes. The lovers planned to kill Diomedes so he left her and went to Italy.

Aegialeus<sup>1</sup> Celtic

a king of Gaul

Aegialeus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Aigialeus]

one of the Epigoni

son of Adrastus and Amphithea

brother of Aegialeia, Argia, Cyanippus
and Deipyra

When he was killed at Thebes his father died of grief.

Aegialeus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Aigialeus]

son of Inachus and Melia brother of Phoroneus and Io

Aegialia (see Aegialeia)

Aegidius British

a 5th c Roman ruler in Gaul

He was said to have known King Arthur personally.

Aegile<sup>1</sup> Greek

a nymph, one of the Hesperides

daughter of Panopus

Aegile<sup>2</sup> (see Aegialeia)

Aegimius Greek

king of the Dorians son of Dorus

father of Dymas and Pamphylus

Heraclides helped him to drive out the Lapiths and, in return, Aegimius granted asylum to all the hero's descendants.

Aegina Greek

[Aigina]

a nymph

daughter of Asopus and Metope

wife of Actor

mother of Menoetius

mother of Aeacus by Zeus

She was abducted by Zeus and taken to an island, Oenone, later known as Aegina. Sisyphus observed the abduction and told Asopus. When her father pursued them, Zeus hurled one of his thunderbolts at him and he gave up the chase. Sisyphus was punished by Zeus who condemned him to Hades.

Aegipan Greek

a monster, part goat, part fish

son of Amalthea

Some stories say that he was the son of Zeus by Aex, others that he was a foster-brother of Zeus.

He (or Cadmus or Pan) helped Hermes to retrieve the sinews of Zeus, which had been cut out by Typhon. Zeus put him in the heavens as Capricorn so that he escaped the vengeance of Typhon.

Aegir Norse

[Eagir.Egther.Gymer.Gymir.Hler.Ogir:

=Anglo-Saxon Eager]

god of the deep seas

son of Ymir

brother of Kari and Loki

brother and husband of Ran father of Gymlr, Mimir and the 9 Wave-Maidens

He was one of an early trinity of gods with Kari and Loki and he wrecked ships and dragged them down to the ocean depths. His servants were Elde and Funfeng. At the least he gave for the other gods, Loki turned up uninvited and killed Funfeng.

aegis<sup>1</sup> Greek

[egis]

the breastplate or shield of Zeus, carried by Athena

It was originally said to be a breastplate made by Hephaestus and was later depicted as a goatskin with the Medusa mask in the centre.

Aegis<sup>2</sup> (see Helmet of Invisibility<sup>2</sup>)

Aegisdrekka Norse

[Carousal of Aegir.Lokasenna.

Taunting of Loki]

a poem in the Elder Edda

This tells the story of a feast arranged by Aegir for the gods at which Loki killed Funfeng. It also suggests that Loki killed Balder.

Aegisthus Greek

[Aigisthus]

son of Thyestes and Pelopia

father of Aletes by Clytemnestra

Thyestes raped his own daughter Pelopia, and the product of this union was the boy Aegisthus. Pelopia abandoned the boy on a mountain where he was found by shepherds and suckled by a goat. She later married Atreus, the brother of Thyestes, who recovered Aegisthus and raised him, not realising he was the son of his own brother. When the boy was seven, Atreus told him to kill Thyestes whom he had imprisoned but Thyestes recognised his son and reversed the situation by ordering Aegisthus to kill Atreus. This was done and Thyestes took over the throne of Mycenae, which he held before being banished by Atreus.

He further avenged himself by seducing Clytemnestra who had become the wife of Atreus' son, Agamemnon. Together they killed Agamemnon when he returned from Troy, with Cassandra and the twins she had borne to Agamemnon. With Clytemnestra, he ruled Mycenae for seven years and they had three children, Aletes, Erigone and Helen.

Orestes, the son of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra, avenged his father's death by killing not only Aegisthus but also Cytemnestra and the girl Helen.

Aegla Greek

in some accounts, a name for Coronis

Aegle<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aigle]

one of the Heliades

daughter of Helios and Clymene

sister of Phaeton

She and her sisters, Lampetia and Phaetusa, were turned into poplar (or pine) trees as they grieved at the death of their brother Phaeton.

In some accounts she is called Phoebe.

Aegle<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Aigle]
a nymph said to be one of the 7 Hesperides

Aeglon
a demon of lightning

Aegyptus Greek [Agyptos.Egyptus]
ruler of Arabia and Egypt
son of Belus and Archinoe or of Agenor and Telephassa
twin brother of Danaus

He was the father of fifty sons, including Chaetus, who wed the fifty daughters of his brother Danaus. All the sons, with the exception of Lynceus, were murdered by their wives on their wedding night.

Aeife (see Aoife)

Aelens (see Aeolus)

Aelens British [Aelens] a king of Iceland
father of Escol

He submitted to the sovereignty of King Arthur and gave him his son in service.

Aelf-Ric (see Alberich.Andvari)

Aelfrich (see Alberich.Andvari)

Aelis (see Elisent)

Aelle British

[Bretwalda]
a Saxon king
father of Cissa, Cymen and Wlencing

In some accounts he was the leader of the Saxon forces defeated by King Arthur at Mount Badon.

Aello<sup>1</sup> Greek

['squall']
one of the Harpies

Aello<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of Actaeon's dogs
When Artemis discovered Actaeon
watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Aello, tore him to pieces.

Aelopus (see Harpies)

aeluranthropy (see ailuranthropy)

Aemilia Roman

a vestal virgin

Aemilia Pudentilla Roman

[Pudentialla] wife of Apuleius

Apuleius was charged with having acquired this rich widow as his wife by the use of magic but was acquitted.

Aeneas Greek

[Aeneus.Aineius.Indiges]
a Trojan hero
son of Anchises and Aphrodite husband of Creusa
father of Ascanius

He was said to have been raised by the nymphs of Mount Ida and, in some accounts, was regarded as an ancestor of King Arthur.

At the siege of Troy he was wounded by Diomedes, but Apollo carried him off to safety at Pergamos where his wounds were treated by Artemis. When the city fell, his mother Aphrodite ensured his safety and he was able to escape with his father Anchises and his young son Ascanius but not his wife, who became separated from the others and died.

Another version says that he betrayed Troy to the Greeks and was rewarded by being given safe conduct when the city fell; another version that he was captured by Neoptolemus.

After many adventures (see Aeneid)
he settled in Italy and married Lavinia, daughter of the king of the Latins, so founding the Roman race. In some accounts, he had a daughter, Rhome, who murdered Latinus and bore Romulus and Remus.

On his death, in a later battle with the Rutilians, he became one of the gods with the title Indiges.

(see also Aeneid)

Aeneas Silvius Roman

king of Alba Longa
a descendant of Aeneas

Aeneid Roman

Virgil's account (in 12 volumes) of the adventures of Aeneas after the fall of Troy

Aeneas sailed from Troy looking for a new place to settle and dreamed that he should go to Hesperia (the land to the west, Italy) and find a home on the west coast. His ship was driven off course by the Harpies. When they next made land in Epirus they found that the rulers were Helenus the Trojan seer and Andromache, formerly the wife of Hector who had been killed at Troy. Helenus advised him to look for a white sow with thirty piglets. Other accounts say that Aeneas was given this advice, some time after he arrived in Italy, by the god of the River Tiber.

Their next stop was in Sicily where only the warning given them by a starving sailor, Achaemenides, who had been left behind when Odysseus and his crew escaped from the cave of Polyphemus, saved Aeneas and his crew from the clutches of the Cyclopes who still inhabited that part of the island. Anchises, his old father, died soon afterwards.

A storm contrived by the gods blew
the ship to the north coast of Africa where they were feted by Dido, Queen of Carthage, who fell in love with Aeneas. He knew that his destiny lay in Italy and eventually forced himself and his crew to give up their life of luxury and set sail once more, heading north.
Dido was distraught at the loss and killed herself.

Arriving in Italy, Aeneas was advised by the Sybyl of Cumae to arm himself with a golden bough and seek advice from his father in the underworld who was able to tell him of the problems that lay ahead.

The inhabitants of the area where they finally landed were the Latins, under King Latinus, and the Rutulians, under King Turnus. When Ascanius, the son of Aeneas, inadvertently killed a highly acclaimed pet stag, the Latins were greatly angered. Latinus had been told that his daughter, Lavinia, would marry a stranger from another country and he accepted Aeneas in that role, but Turnus married Lavinia and was only too ready to help the Latins against the Trojans when they went to war.

Aeneas, on the advice of the river
god of the Tiber, consulted Evander, king of an impoverished state, who told him to seek help from the Etruscans who had been oppressed by the tyrant Mezentius who was now fighting with the Rutulians against the Trojans. They readily provided an army which, after much fighting, defeated the Latins and Rutulians. Aeneas was wounded by an arrow and when the physician Iapis could not heal him, Aphrodite intervened with a magic herb and he was soon back in action. Evander's son Pallas was killed in the battle by Turnus. The warrior queen Camilla also died. Aeneas himself killed Turnus in single combat and also Lausus and Mezentius.

On one occasion, Cybele intervened to prevent Turnus from setting fire to the Trojan ships, which turned into swans and swam away.

The white sow and her litter,
referred to in the prophecy of Helenus,
were found on the site of what was later to be the city of Alba Longa.

Aenete Greek
wife of Aeneus mother of Cyzicus

Aenetus Greek
son of Deion and Dimele brother of Actor, Asteriopeia, Cephalus
and Phylacus

Aeneus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Aenus]
king of the Doliones husband of Aenete
father of Cyzicus

Aeneus<sup>2</sup> (see Aeneas)

Aengaba Irish
in some accounts, a Danaan fighting at the first Battle of Moytura

Aenghus (see Angus)

Aengus (see Angus)

Aenus (see Aeneus)

Aeolides Greek
a name for Sisyphus as a son of Aeolus

Aeolus (see Aeolus)

Aeolus<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Aeolos.Aiolos.Eolus]
god of the winds
Said by some to be the mortal Hippotades or his son. He lived on the floating island of Aeolia with his wife Eos (some say she was Cyane) who bore him six sons and six daughters.
His sons, controllers of the various winds, are given in some lists as Aquilo (west), Boreas (north), Corus (northeast), Eurus (east), Notus (south-west) and Zephyr (south).
(see also Aeolus<sup>3</sup>.winds)

Aeolus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Aeolos.Aiolos.Eolus]
king of Thessaly
son of Hellen and Orseis
brother of Dorus and Xuthus husband of Enarete
father of Alcione, Athamas, Calyce, Canace, Cleobule, Cretheus, Deion,
Macar(eus), Magnes, Pereires, Perimede, Peisidice, Salmoneus and Sisyphus
father of Melanippe by Euipe
He is regarded as the founder of the Aeolian branch of the Greek people.

Aeolus<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Aeolos.Aiolos.Eolus]
son of Poseidon by Melanippe
brother of Boeotus
He and his brother Boeotus were abandoned, suckled by cows and sheltered by shepherds who gave them to Theano. When she had two sons of her own, by her husband Metapontus, she incited them to kill the foundlings but Poseidon intervened and killed Theano's sons.

The brothers returned to the shepherds and Poseidon told them that their real mother, who had been blinded by her father Aeolus when they were born, had been imprisoned by her father. They killed their grandfather and freed Melanippe, who married Metapontus after Theano
killed herself.

In some accounts, Arne takes the place of Melanippe and Aeolus becomes the God of Winds on the floating island of Lipara.
(see also Aeolus<sup>1</sup>.Arne)

aeon<sup>1</sup>

[eon]
the power emanating from a deity in the creation of a universe: an eternal being

aeon<sup>2</sup>

an age of the universe

In some accounts, there have been 365 such ages though others say only thirty.

Aeon<sup>3</sup>

an eternal being or god
an age personified

Aeon<sup>4</sup> (see Zurvan)

Aeonus Kamui (see Pon Okikurvini)

Aepytus<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of Arcadia son of Cresphontes and Merope
father of Hippotheus

He and his mother killed Polyphontes, who had usurped his father's throne
and he took over as king of Messenia.

In some accounts he is a sun-god.

Aepytus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Elatus and Laodice
brother of Cyllen, Pereus
and Stymphalus

He raised Evadne, daughter of Poseidon and Pitane. She gave birth to Iamus, fathered by Apollo, and he too was raised by Aepytus.

Aequitas Roman

the god of equity

Aer<sup>1</sup> Phoenician

[Air.Ner]
a primeval creator-deity: the spiritual force of the universe

He appears in various creation legends as the son of Omichle and Pothos who fathered Otos on his sister Aura; the consort of Chaos with whom he produced Kolpia and Pothos; or as consort of Ether with whom he produced Oulomus.

Some accounts say that he was the offspring of Uranus. (see also Aura<sup>3</sup>)

Aer<sup>2</sup> Welsh

father of Eidoel

Aeracura (see Aericura)

aeriae potestates

aerial powers, the sixth order of demons, ruled by Merizim (see also Aerials)

Aerials

demons of the air who can materialise
These beings are said to cause storms at sea. (see also aeriae potestates)

Aericura Celtic

[Aeracura]
an underworld god

In some accounts, Aeracura is an earth goddess.

aerimancy (see aeromancy)

Aero (see Merope)

aerolite

a meteorite: a sacred stone These stones are regarded by some as having healing properties.

aeromancy

[aerimancy] divination from atmospheric phenomena

Aerope Greek

daughter of Catreus
second wife of Atreus
mother of Agamemnon, Anabixia,

Menelaus and, some say, Pleisthenes
She was sold by her father as a slave and bought by Atreus who married her. She fell in love with Thyestes, her husband's brother, and handed to him the stuffed lamb that was taken as proof of the owner to succeed to the throne of Mycenae. Atreus killed her for this treachery.

In some accounts, she was first married to Pleisthenese; in others, he was her son.

Aerth (see Nerthus)

Aerytheia Greek

a nymph, one of the 7 Hesperides

aes sidhe Irish

[aos sidhe.daoine beaga.daoine sidhe. oes sidhe.=English shue folk] people of the hills: fairies

This name applied to the Danaans after their defeat by the Milesians.

Aesa Greek

one of the Moirae – fate

Aesacus Greek

a prophet
son of Priam and Alexirrhoe

He interpreted Hecuba's doom-laden dreams as meaning that her baby, Paris, would cause the death of his family and the downfall of Troy.

He fell in love with Hespera who died from a snake bite when running away from him. In remorse he tried to drown himself and was changed by Tethys into a diver bird.

Aesar Irish
[Dia.Logh]
a supreme god
consort of Eire

Aeschere Danish
a counsellor of Hrothgar

He was seized by Grendel on the night when Beowulf pulled off one of the monster's arms, but Grendel escaped carrying Aeschere, whose headless body was found next morning.

Aeschylus Greek
[Aiskhulos]
(525–456 BC)
a dramatist and poet

He wrote some ninety plays of which seven survive. These are the trilogy Agamemnon, Choephorae (The Libation Bearers) and Eumenides known as Oresteia, together with Prometheus Bound, Seven Against Thebes, The Persians and The Suppliant Women.

He was said to have been killed when an eagle dropped a tortoise on his head.

Aesculapius Roman [Esculapius]
the Roman version of Asclepius

Aeshma Persian [Aeshma Daeva.Aesma.Khasm: =Hebrew Asmodeus]
a demon of violence opposing Sraosha or Vohu Manah

Aesir Norse
[Asir.Elder Gods:sing=As(a).Ass]
the 12 early sky-deities of the Norse pantheon

They were originally at war with the later gods, the Vanir, but made peace with them and exchanged hostages. Some versions say that they came later than the Vanir.

At one time or another any of the following might have been regarded as one of the Aesir: Balder, Baugi, Bragi, Forseti, Frey, Frigga, Heimdall, Hermod, Hoder, Hoenir, Iduna, Ing, Loki, Mimir, Nanna, Odin, Sif, Thor, Tyr, Uller, Vali, Ve and Vidar.

Aesma (see Aeshma)

Aeson Greek [Aison]
king of Iolcus
son of Cretheus and Tyro
husband of Alcimedea
father of Jason and Promachus

He was in dispute with his half brother, Pelias, over the throne of Iolcus and, to avoid being killed by him, committed suicide by drinking bull's blood.

In another story, Pelias imprisoned him and took over the throne. He was an old man when Jason returned with the Golden Fleece but the sorceress Medea restored his youth and vigour.

Aesus (see Esus) Aeternitas Roman

eternity personified
This being is depicted as the ouroboros or the phoenix.

Aetes Greek
[Acetes.Aeetes.Aietes]

king of Colchis
son of Helius and Perseis brother of Circe, Pasiphae and Perses husband of Asterodea and later Idyia father of Chalcioppe by Asterodea father of Apsyrtyus and Medea by Idyia
When Phrixus was forced to flee from Iolcus to escape death on the altar he was carried off on a golden-fleeced ram. He was finally given shelter by King Aetes and, when Phrixus sacrificed the ram to the gods, he gave the golden fleece to the king who hung it on a tree guarded by a dragon. He was still ruling in Colchis when Jason came to demand the golden fleece be returned to Iolcus.

In some accounts he killed Phrixus. He was deposed by his brother, Perses, but later restored to the throne by Medea.

Aethalia (see Thalia) Aethalides Greek

a herald for the Argonauts
Aether<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aither.Light]
the god of light
son of Erebus and Nyx

In some accounts, he is the father of Uranus.

Aether<sup>2</sup> (see Zeus)
Aethiope Greek

one of the poems in the epic cycle by Actinus, relating the events following the Trojan War

Aethiopians (see Ethiopians)
Aethlem Welsh

a hound
This animal, one of a pair with Aned, was one of the things that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth. It followed the boar when it was driven into the sea off Cornwall by King Arthur's men.

Aethlius Greek
father of Endymion by Calyce

Aethnici (see Aethnicus)

Aethnicus
[plur=Aethnici]
a fire demon
These demons are envisaged in a form like a salamander.

Aethon<sup>1</sup> Greek
one of the horses of Helius

Aethon<sup>2</sup> (see Erysichthon)
Aethra<sup>1</sup> Greek

[A(i)thra]
a princess of Troezen daughter of Pittheus mother of Theseus

She was seduced by Aegeus or, some say, by Poseidon who fathered Theseus on her, but Aegeus accepted the boy as his own son. In other stories, she was married to Aegeus.

In some versions she looked after the young Helen when she was abducted by Theseus. When Helen's brothers, Castor and Polydeuces, rescued their sister, they took Aethra as a slave and she went to Troy with Helen. There she raised Munychus, the illegitimate son of Acamas and Laodice. She was freed by Acamas and Demophon when the city fell to the Greeks.

Aethra<sup>2</sup> Greek
[A(i)thra]

a nymph, one of the Oceanides daughter of Oceanus and Doris mother of the Hyades, Pleiades and, some say, the Hesperides by Atlas (see also Pleione)

Aethusa Greek

daughter of Poseidon by Alcyone mother of Hyperenor and Hyrieus
by Apollo

aetites (see eagle stones)

Aetneans
elementals, fire spirits, in some accounts

Actius Greek
a king of Troezen

Aetolus Greek [Aitolos]

a king of Elis
son of Endymion
brother of Epeius and Palon husband of Pronoe
father of Calydon and Pleuron

He accidentally killed Apis in a chariot race and was banished from Elis. He fought for and won a new kingdom, Aetolia.

Aeton Greek
one of the horses of Pluto

Aeturnus Welsh
son of Paternus
father of Cunedda

Aex Greek
 a nymph
 In some accounts she is the mother of Aegipon by Zeus.

Af (see Auf)

Af-Ra (see Auf)

Afa Pacific Islands
 a Samoan storm-god

Afagddu (see Avagddu)

Afallach (see Avalloc<sup>1</sup>)

Afallon (see Ynys Avallach)

Afanc (see Addanc)

Affan (see Annwfn)

Affwys (see Annwfn)

Afgaddu (see Avagddu)

Afgod
 a false god; an effigy

Afi<sup>1</sup> European
 a storm god in the Caucasus

Afi<sup>2</sup> Norse
 husband of Amma

Afifi African
 a mythical tribe of pygmies

afiriti (see afrit)

Afiti African
 wizards
 These people are said to hypnotise their victims, take them into the forest and kill them. They feed on the bodies of the dead, which animals such as the hyena and jackal dig up for them.

Afollonau Welsh
 a poem by Taliesin, a Welsh poet

Afrasiyab Persian [Frangrasyan.Frasiyav]
 a demon of draught
 brother of Keresavazdah
 He took over Persia after driving out the demon Zainigav, but was himself defeated by Rustem, Kay Khusraw or Uzava Tumaspana. He is said to have killed the young Siyawush when the latter fled from his father's court.

afreet (see afrit)

African (see Tehenut)

African Sisters (see Hesperides)

Africus Roman [=Greek Lips]
 a wind from the south-west quarter

Afrikete African
 a sea goddess of the Fon daughter of Agbe and Naete
 She was regarded as a trickster and a gossip.

afrit<sup>1</sup> Arabian [afreet.efreet.efrit.ifriti=Swahili afiriti.
 ifriti:female=afrita]
 an evil demon
 a type of jinnee
 These beings sometimes take human form and may even marry mortals.

They are said to live in the ground from whence they may appear as clouds of smoke. They can appear in different sizes varying from giant size to miniature beings small enough to enter a bottle. They are said to be enormously strong, capable of lifting and flying off with a complete city, flying at lightning speed on their bat-like wings.

afrit<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
 a spirit of the desert

This spirit was manifest in the whirlwind and could be called up by Set.

afrita (see afrit<sup>1</sup>)

afriti African

[afiriti.ifriti:=Arab afrit]
 an evil demon (see also afrit)

Aftab Persian
 [=Babylonian Samas]
 a sun deity

Aftabul Ardi Malay
 a sea king

father of Muhtabul Bahri

afterbirth

the placenta, in some cultures, is regarded as having mystic powers, ruling the life of the person concerned or acting as guardian or twin; should it be eaten by an animal, the child will grow up with the characteristics of that beast

African

The Baganda are among those who regard the afterbirth as the twin of the child. They put the afterbirth in a pot which is then buried under a tree. Here it becomes a spirit, which enters the tree. If the tree is damaged or if someone outside the tribe should eat the fruit of that tree, the spirit leaves, whereupon the twin is forced to follow and will die.

In the case of a king, the so-called twin is housed in a specially built small temple where it is guarded by an official known as the kimbugwe. Part of his duties is to expose the placenta to the light of the moon once in each month and, after anointing it with melted butter, return it to its resting place.

Australian

Some of the Aboriginal tribes believe that part of the soul, known as the choi-i, is to be found in the placenta, which is buried in a spot marked by a small mound of twigs.

This enables the fertility spirit, Anjea, to locate the afterbirth which she can use, they say, to make another baby.

Chinese

The Chinese had a practice, like that of the Hebrews, of making medicines from the afterbirth.

East Indian

(1) In Java the afterbirth is cast adrift in a small boat decorated with fruit, flowers, etc. to be eaten by the crocodiles who, it is said, are the products of afterbirths or are ancestors of the tribes.

(2) In Sumatra, some tribes say that the afterbirth holds a tutelary spirit that will guide the person concerned during his or her lifetime. Others say that one such guardian exists in the afterbirth while a second exists in the embryo. Some bury the afterbirth under the house, others keep it after preserving it in salt.

Finno-Ugric

In countries occupied by various branches of the Finno-Ugric peoples, the placenta is hung on the branch of a tree in the forest and sacrifices are offered to it in recognition of its role in nourishing the child.

Hebrew

An ancient custom involved burning the placenta and mixing the ashes with flowers or milk as an antidote to disease or a charm to protect the user from witchcraft.

New Zealand

The Maoris plant a tree when a baby is born and bury the placenta under it so that both the child and the tree will develop together.

North American

(1) The Hupa tribe place the afterbirth in a tree that has been split open to receive it and then bind the split; if the tree thrives, so will the child, and vice versa.

(2) The Kwakiutl treat the afterbirth differently according to the sex of the child. That of a boy is put out to be eaten by the ravens in the belief that this will endow the child with the power to read the future; that of a girl is buried on the shore to ensure that she will become expert at digging up clams, a useful accomplishment in the coastal area of British Columbia.

(3) Other tribes, including the Cherokee, Creek and Pawnee, say that a real living twin can emerge from the afterbirth.

Siberian

The Yukaghi people tie the afterbirth inside a reindeer skin together with miniature hunting weapons for a boy and sewing implements for a girl so that they will acquire the skills appropriate to their sex.

South American

The Aymara bury the afterbirth alongside tools for a boy and cooking utensils for a girl. In some cases the afterbirth is burned so that the ashes can be used to make medicines.

Aftermath (see Golden Bough) afterworld (see underworld)

Agacella

a monster in the form of a tiger-like animal with horns and hoofs

Agaz-azag (see Tutu<sup>1</sup>)

Agadah (see Haggada)

Agadzagodza African

in Nigerian lore, the worm that brought a message from the god Hyl

Agag Canaanite

a sacred king

Agaku Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'love', etc

Agaliarept

a demon of hell

Agallamb na Seanorach

(see Colloquy of the Old Men)

Agamede Greek

a sorceress

daughter of Augeas

sister of Agasthenes and Phyleus

Agamedes Greek

son of Erginus

step-brother of Trophonius

father of Cercyon, some say

He and his brother built a temple to Apollo and, after six days of merry-making, died in their sleep.

In another account, they built a treasury for the king, Hyrieus, leaving a secret access so that they could steal the contents. The king set a trap which caught Agamedes and Trophonius cut off his brother's head so that he could not betray their secret.

A similar story is told of King Rhamsinitus.

Agamemnon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[King of Men]

king of Mycenae (or Argos)

son of Atreus and Aerope

brother of Anabixia and Menelaus husband of Clytemnestra

father of Chrysothemis, Electra,

Iphigenia and Orestes by Clytemnestra, twins by Cassandra and at least one other illegitimate

son, Halesus

As an infant he was saved with his brother Menelaus when Aegisthus killed his father Atreus and fled to Sparta. Later, helped by Tyndareus the king of Sparta, he regained his father's throne.

He killed Tantalus, king of Pisa, and married his widow Clytemnestra. When the Greek forces were assembled at Aulis ready to invade Troy to recover the beautiful Helen, adverse winds kept them shore bound. To propitiate the gods, Agamemnon sacrificed his daughter Iphigenia, so ensuring favourable winds for the voyage.

In the fighting at Troy he was given the girl Chryseis as a prize and refused to release her when her father came to plead for her. The father was a priest of Apollo and the god intervened in the dispute, bringing much sickness to the Greek forces. To avoid further trouble, Agamemnon released the girl but, in compensation, demanded the girl Briseis, who had been given to Achilles whereupon Achilles swore vengeance and refused to fight any more.

When Troy fell, Agamemnon returned to Mycenae with Cassandra who had borne him twin boys to find that his wife, Clytemnestra, had taken Aegisthus as a lover while he was away. These two plotted Agamemnon's death and killed him with Cassandra and her two children.

Agamemnon<sup>2</sup> Greek

the first play in the trilogy Oresteia

by Aeschylus

Agamma African

the Fon messenger of the gods

Aganippe<sup>1</sup> Greek

the original name of Pegasus

Aganippe<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Aonian Fount]

a fountain on Mount Helicon

This fountain, sacred to the Muses, sprang up where the hoof of Pegasus struck the earth.

(see also Hippocrene)

Aganippe<sup>3</sup> Greek

a nymph of the fountain on

Mount Helicon

daughter of Permessus

Aganippe<sup>4</sup> Greek

wife of Acrisius mother of Danae

Aganippides (see Muses)

Aganju African

a god of the Yoruba

son of Oduduwa

brother and consort of Yemoja

father of Ogun, Oko, Olokun, Orunjan,

Shango, Shankpanna and others

Agaoone (see Damballah Wedo)

Agau Tonné (see Damballah Wedo)

Agau Wedo (see Damballah Wedo)

Agape British

a fairy in Spenser's The Faerie Queene

mother of Diamond, Priamond and Triamond

Agapenor Greek

king of Nemea or Tegea

father of Laodice

He led the Arcadian forces at Troy.

When Arsinoe was abandoned by Alcmaeon she was sent (or sold) to Agapenor as a slave.

Agaros

[Agaros.Agaures]

a demon, duke of hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to have taught languages and is depicted as a human riding a crocodile.

agaric

a mushroom-type fungus

The poisonous fungus, fly agaric, is regarded by the Koryaks of Siberia as being inhabited by the wapaq. Anyone eating it will find himself thereafter instructed by the wapaq, who may even tell him to die.

Another variety, highly inflammable, was used in Celtic rituals such as lighting the fires at Beltane.

Agaros (see Agares)

Agarou (see Damballah Wedo)

Agartha Hindu

the underground realm of the King of

the World

Agas Persian

a demon causing illness

Agas Xenas Xena North American

in the lore of the Chinook, the deity of the evening star

Agassou African

a panther god of the Fon

Agasthenes<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of Elis

son of Augeas

brother of Agamede and Phyleus

father of Polyxenus

Heracles cleansed the filthy stables of Augeas who then reneged on his promise to give Heracles a tenth of his herds. When Heracles later returned to exact vengeance, some say that he installed Agasthenes on the throne of Elis; others say that his brother, Phyleus, was made king.

Agasthenes<sup>2</sup> Greek
a suitor for the hand of Helen

Agasti (see Agastya)
Agastya Hindu

[Agasti.Kalasi-sutra:=Tamil Akattiyar] a sage, one of the writers of the Vedas son of both Mithra (or Surya) and Varuna
husband of Lopamudra

He is regarded as the ruler of the star Canopus, and was born from semen of the two gods, produced as they watched Urvashi dancing.

He once drank all the water in the seas to expose the demons, the Dityas, who were conspiring against the gods.

His other famous feat was to stop the growth of the mountain Vindya which, in trying to become higher than Mount Meru, threatened to block out the light of the sun. The sage merely asked Vindya to pause in its growth until he came back – which he never did.

agate
a semi-precious stone, a variety of chalcedony

This stone is said to have special properties in many cultures.

Some say that it can relieve thirst and cure a snake bite or fever, while others say that it is capable of turning a sword against its bearer.

Some Arabs use it as a charm or amulet and, in Hebrew lore, it is said to prevent the wearer from falling over or off his horse.

Agathe Tyche (see Tyche)

Agathion
a demon or witch's familiar that may live in metal rings or in bottles

Agathodaemon (see Agathos Daimon)

Agathos Daimon Greek [Agathodaemon:=Egyptian S(h)ay] a god of good fortune husband of Tyche

He is depicted as a snake or a shepherd.

Agathysrus Greek
son of Heracles

brother of Gelonus and Scythes
On his way back to Greece after seizing Geryon's cattle, Heracles had his horses stolen by a snake-tailed woman (Echidna, some say) who returned his horses only after he had made love to her. She bore him three sons.

Agauē (see Agave)

Agaures (see Agares)

agati Hindu rebirth

Agave<sup>1</sup> Greek [Agaue]

daughter of Cadmus and Harmonia
sister of Autonoe, Ino, Semele wife of Echion and Lycotheres mother of Pentheus by Echion

She joined the revels of Dionysus and, inflamed to madness, led the Maenads in pulling her own son, Pentheus, to pieces. After this, she fled to Illyria and married the king, Lycotheres, who she later murdered. Some say that she gave the throne to Cadmus.

agave<sup>2</sup> Mexican
a shrub: the tree of life

Agbe African [=West Indian Agwe]
a sea god of the Fon
a thunder god, some say offspring of Mawu-Lisa or Sogbo, twin brother of Naete
father of Afrikete, some say

Agbon African
the palm tree

In the lore of the Yoruba, this was the first living thing to be created by Olorun.

Agdistes British
a god in The Faerie Queene
ruler of the Bower of Bliss

Agdistis Phrygian
a hermaphrodite deity offspring of Pappas or of Cybele raped
by Zeus

In some versions, Agdistis is Cybele who interrupted the wedding of Attis, with whom he/she was in love, causing the bride to die of self-inflicted wounds and Attis to castrate himself.

In other versions, Agdistis is the father of Attis. The god Dionysus made him drunk and tied his genitals to a tree so that when he jumped up he castrated himself. An almond tree grew from the spot where his blood fell on the earth. When Nana, daughter of Sangarios, picked some of the fruit and dropped it in her lap she found herself pregnant and her baby was Attis. (see also Cybele)

Age<sup>1</sup> African
a desert god of the Fon, god of animals
son of Mawu-Lisa

Age<sup>2</sup> Italian an icon in the form of a woman in a multi-coloured robe, arms held aloft holding the sun and the moon

Age<sup>3</sup> West Indian [Lomi Ago]
a Haitian spirit

Ageb Egyptian
a deity of the abyss or of the waters covering the earth

Agelasta Greek [Anaclethra]
a stone

Tired from searching for Core, her lost daughter, Demeter rested on this stone.

Agelaus<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Heracles by Omphale

Agelaus<sup>2</sup> Greek
a shepherd who raised the infant Paris

Agelaus<sup>3</sup> Greek
one of the unwanted suitors
of Penelope

He was killed by Odysseus when the latter returned from his wanderings.

Agemem Pacific Islands
wife of Kadaklan mother of Adam and Baluyen

Agenor<sup>1</sup> Greek [Chnas]
king of Phoenicia

son of Poseidon by Libya
twin brother of Belus brother of Iasius, Lelex and Pelasgus husband of Telephassa
father of Cadmus, Cilix, Europa, Phineus, Phoenix and Thasus
father of Aegyptus and Danaus,
some say

He sent his sons to search for Europa when she was abducted by Zeus.

He later invaded Greece and became king of Argos.

Agenor<sup>2</sup>
a Trojan
son of Antenor and Theano

He challenged Achilles at Troy and was saved by Apollo but was later killed by Neoptolemus.

Agenor<sup>3</sup> Greek
king of Pleuron
father of Thestius by Epicaste,
some say

Agent of Earth (see Ti-kuan)

Agent of Heaven (see T'ien-kuan)

Agent of Water (see Shui-kuan)

ages

periods distinguished by major changes in lifestyle, environment, etc. Many cultures regard time as being divided into distinct ages:

Aztec

- (1) Age of Conistal
- (2) Age of Coneuztuque
- (3) Red Age
- (4) Age of Black Hair

During the Age of Coniztal, man lived on maize. The end of this period came in the form of a flood. The next age, known also as the Golden Age, saw man living on the fruits of the forest. This age ended with violent wind storms and men were changed into trees. The third (Red) age, when men lived on the fruit of the tree of life, ended in fire. The final period, the Age of Black Hair, was characterised by great wickedness, earthquakes and famine, resulting in the destruction of many people. It is said that Tezcatlipoca will usher in the next age, which will bring eternal light.

(see also sun<sup>1</sup>)

Babylonian

The Babylonians refer to four ages; at the end of each, humans were destroyed respectively by flood, wild animals, famine and pestilence.

Greek

- (1) gold
- (2) silver
- (3) bronze
- (4) iron

In the Golden Age men lived in the Garden of Eden, free from care and provided with all they needed without working for it. This led to the Silver Age when men had become licentious and, refusing to worship the gods, were destroyed by them. The subsequent Bronze Age was a period of internal warfare leading to the Iron Age when the rule of law had broken down and all was anarchy.

Some accounts postulate a Heroic Age between the Bronze and Iron Ages in which survivors attempted to return to their previous state of grace but failed.

Hindu

- (1) white (silver) (Krita)
- (2) red (bronze) (Treta)
- (3) yellow (gold) (Dvapara)
- (4) black (iron) (Kali)

(see also yuga)

Norse

- (1) Axe Age
- (2) Sword Age
- (3) Wind Age
- (4) Wolf Age

North American

(1) The Navaho refer to four ages: the first was when their progenitors ascended from the underworld; the next was the age of heroes, when the world was set in order and light appeared; then came the age of the gods who destroyed all the monsters, while the fourth age saw the growth of the Navaho nation.

(2) The Tualati people of Oregon also tell of four ages; at the end of each, humans were respectively turned into stars, stones and fish or just disappeared.

Roman

- (1) gold
- (2) silver
- (3) copper
- (4) iron

No evil existed in the Golden Age, ruled by Saturn; during the Silver Age, ruled by Jupiter, agriculture started and evil first appeared; under Mars, in the Copper Age, war came into the world; Pluto ruled the Iron Age, which was characterised by man's decadence.

ages of man

periods in the life of the individual

Central American

The Maya envisaged the ages of man as twenty in parallel with the twenty days of creation and their twenty-day month.

- (1) Imix, start of life's journey
- (2) Ik, spirit given to the embryo
- (3) Akbal, birth
- (4) Kan, realization of evil
- (5) Chicchan, collection of life's experiences
- (6) Cimi, death
- (7) Man-Ik, entry to the afterlife
- (8) Lamat, descent to the nether regions
- (9) Muluc, judgement
- (10) Oc, conversion to base matter
- (11) Cheun, burning
- (12) Eb, start of ascent
- (13) Ben, continuation of ascent
- (14) Ix, absolution of sins
- (15) Men, perfection achieved
- (16) Cib, enlightenment achieved
- (17) C'haban, removal of all traces of burning
- (18) Edznab, confirmation of perfection

- (19) Cauac, divine nature achieved
- (20) Ahau, entry to heaven

Hindu

The ideal life of the Brahmin involves four stages (ashrama).

- (1) brahmacarya, the stage of a student studying under a guru.
- (2) garhasthya, the period of married life during which one raises a family.
- (3) vanaprasthya, when one retreats to the forest as a hermit, leaving the eldest son in charge of the family.
- (4) sannyasa, the stage of detachment from the pains and pleasures of this world, when the Brahmin becomes a mendicant teacher until, finally, he is absorbed into the divine spirit.

Agga

Mesopotamian

king of Kish

He challenged Gilgamesh to fight and was defeated.

Aghora

Hindu

a name of Shiva as 'the horrible one' one of the 5 aspects of Shiva known as the Pancabrahma

Aghori Panthi

Hindu

an extreme saddhu

Agiel

Hebrew

one of the Seven Intelligences ruler of the planet Saturn

Agilma

Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'creativity'

Agilolphus

European

bishop of Cologne

He undertook the building of Cologne cathedral in Germany, where Rinaldo worked as a labourer until he was killed by jealous workmates.

Agimon

one of the cardinal demons, in some accounts

Agla

a magic word used to drive the Devil away

Aglaia<sup>1</sup>

Greek

daughter of Zeus and Eurynome wife of Hephaestus, some say one of the 3 Graces – splendour

In some accounts, she is referred to as Charis or Pasithea. (see also Charis)

Aglaia<sup>2</sup>

Greek

wife of Abas, king of Argolis mother of twins, Acrisius and Proetus, and of Idomene

Aglaonice

Greek

a sorceress

She claimed to have the power to draw the moon from the sky.

Aglaopheme

(see Aglaophone)

Aglaophone Greek
[Aglaopheme]
one of the Sirens

Aglaophotis
a demon

Aglas
a demon

Aglauros (see Aglaurus)
Aglaurus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aglauros.Agraulus(t)]
daughter of Actaeus wife of Cecrops
mother of Aglaurus, Herse and Pandrosus

Aglaurus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Aglauros.Agraulus(t)]
daughter of Cecrops sister of Herse and Pandrosus
mother of Alcippe by Ares

When Hermes bribed her to allow him to have his way with Herse she took the money but did nothing. Hermes turned her to stone.

She and her sisters raised the infant Erichthonius and they were so shocked at the sight of the child that they threw themselves to their death from the Acropolis.

Aglaus Greek
son of Thyestes

brother of Callieon and Orchomenus
He was killed with his brothers by their uncle, Atreus, who cut them up, boiled them and served them to their own father.

Agli-bel (see Aglibol)

Agli-bol (see Aglibol)

Aglibol Arabian [Agli-bel.Agli-bol]
a Syrian moon-god
brother of Malakbel

Aglookik Inuit
the spirit of the hunt

He is said to live beneath the ice and to direct the hunter in his search for game.

Agloval British [Aglovale;=Dutch Acglavael]

a Knight of the Round Table
son of Pellimore
brother of Percival
father of Moriaen

In later years, Moriaen went in search of his father and, with the help of Gawain and Lancelot, found him. They then retired to Moraine and Agloval married the princess whom he had deserted when Moriaen was born.

In a Dutch story, Acglavael seduced a Moorish princess, fathering Moriaen, though others say that Percival was the father.

Aglovale (see Agloval)

Agnan (see Agnen)

Agnar<sup>1</sup> Norse
son of King Hrauding brother of Geirrodd
foster son of Frigga

He and his brother were cast ashore on an island and were given shelter by Odin who was living there disguised as an old man. When they finally returned home, Geirrodd abandoned his brother to the sea in their small boat.

Later, Geirrodd succeeded to the throne, and when Odin visited his court in disguise to test his hospitality, he had the god tied to a stake between two fires. During the eight days of this ordeal Odin received no food or drink except a draught of ale brought to him by Agnar. When Odin revealed himself as a god, Geirrodd tripped over and impaled himself on his sword and Agnar was elevated to the throne by the grateful Odin.

Agnar<sup>2</sup> Norse
son of Ragnar Lodbrok and Thora brother of Erik

Agnayi Hindu
wife of Agni, some say

(see also Agneyi.Svaha)
Agnen South American

[Agnan]
a demon

He caught fish to feed to the dead in the underworld, and when one of the twin brothers Ariconte and Tamendenare stole some of his bait, he killed one of them, who was then restored to life by his brother.

Agnes (see Black Annis)

Agness (see Black Annis)

Agneya Hindu
a name for Karttikeya as 'son of Agni' (see also Subrahmanya)

agneyastra Hindu
a fire-weapon

This devastating weapon was given by Aurva to Sagara who used it to kill all the enemies who had forced his father Sachi into exile.

Agneyi Hindu

daughter of Agni sister of Agnivesha wife of Angiras
mother of Agni, Utathya and Vrihaspati, some say

(see also Agnayi)
Agni<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Abhimani.Agni Yavis(h)ta.Agnis.
Asani.Bhava. Garuda.Grihaspati.

Ishana.Jatavedas.Lord of the House.
Mahadeva.Narasamsa.Pashupati. Pavaka Pramanthi.Pramati.Rudra.

Sarva.Surya.Tanunapat.Trita.Ugra.
Vaicnavara]
the god of fire

one of the 8 Vasus, some say son of Kasyapa and Aditi or of Dyaus and Prithivi

son of Urvashi, some say brother of Mara husband of Ambi or Agnayi father of Agneyi

father of Subrahmanya by Svaha

In some accounts his father was Brhaspati; others say he was born of the lotus or was kindled from wood by Brighu. Some say that he ate his parents (the two pieces of wood) when he was born. His voracious appetite led him, on one occasion when he was exhausted, to consume the Khandava forest. He is said to appear when two pieces of wood are rubbed together.

He is one of the eight Dikpalas, the guardian of the south-eastern quarter of the world with his elephant, Pundarika, and rides either on a goat or in a chariot drawn by parrots or red horses.

Some versions have it that his huge appetite was not something that he was born with but was inflicted on him by a curse by Brighu when Agni told a demon that Brighu was the one who had stolen the demon's wife, Puloma. Some regard the reference to his huge appetite as a metaphor for Agni's fire-raising propensities.

In some accounts he is revered as Trita (lightning) and Surya (sun); the three forms are referred to as Tryambaka. Another version says that he was given eight names at birth – Asani, Bhava, Ishana, Mahadeva, Pashupati, Rudra, Sarva and Ugra. In the morning he is Mitra; in the evening, Varuna; as the light of the sky he is Indra; as he crosses the sky he is Savindra.

He is depicted as having two or three heads, seven tongues and four hands (or seven arms) and sometimes with a goat's head, carrying a flaming spear.

(see also Grahapati)
Agni<sup>2</sup> Norse

a king of Sweden
husband of Skialf

His wife killed him with her necklace.

Agni-Durga Hindu
a name of Durga as 'eight-armed'

- Agni-Yavishta (see Agni<sup>1</sup>)
- Agnidatta Buddhist
a heretic
When Agnidatta turned himself into a many-headed serpent, Shariputra turned himself into a garuda and defeated him.
- Agnihotra Hindu
a sacrifice to the god Agni performed by a Brahmin sect
- Agnihotri Hindu
a Brahmin sect who sacrifice to the fire-god Agni
- Agnikumara Jain
a young storm-god
one of the ten Bhavanavasi
- Agnimukha Hindu
a fiery demon in hell
- Agnis (see Agni<sup>1</sup>)
- Agnivesha Hindu
son of Agni
brother of Agneya and Agneyi
He passed on a store of medical knowledge to the scholar Charaka.
- Agnoman<sup>1</sup> Irish [Agnomen]
a Scythian son of Sera brother of Partholan and Starn father of Nemed
- Agnoman<sup>2</sup> Irish [Agnomen]
father of Crundchu
- Agnomen (see Agnoman)
- agnostos theos Greek unknown gods
- agnothetai Greek
minor officials responsible for the supervision of sacred games
- Agohya (see Pushan)
- Agomme Tonnère (see Ogoun Tonnère)
- agones Greek
festivals, originally religious, at which games were held These festivals, held in honour of various gods, included the major games such as the Isthmian, Nemean, Olympic and Pythian.
- Agoneus Greek
a name for Hermes as patron of athletics
- Agoni (see Ogon)
- Agonium Roman
one of 4 festivals
One, held on 9 January, was in honour of Janus; one on 17 March honoured Mars; one on 21 May was for Veiovis and the last, on 11 December, was for the seven hills of Rome.
- Agor
a demon
- Agoraios Greek
a name for Zeus as god of oratory
- Agoraria Greek
a name for Athena as the goddess of assemblies
- agorero (see mohane)
- Agorius Greek
a co-king of Elis ruling with Exylus
- Agothyathik African
a Dinka tribesman
He was one of those who followed Aiwel on his journey to a better land and defeated him when he killed many of the tribe.
- Agoué (see Agwé)
- Agra
a demon
- Agrais British
a prince of Scotland son of Languines
cousin of Amadis
He helped Amadis and his brothers to restore Briolania to the throne of Firm Island by overthrowing the tyrant who had usurped it. He was one of the hundred knights fighting for Lisuarte against a hundred knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.
- Agrainain (see Agravain)
- Agrama Roman
a festival for women at which the effigy of a male was destroyed
- Agramant European
king of Africa
brother of Galaciella
His father had been killed in battle with Charlemagne and he planned an invasion of France to exact revenge. The king of the Garamantes, on his death bed, advised that the venture would succeed only with the help of the knight, Rogero, and he could be freed from the clutches of his foster father, the magician Atlantes, only with the magic ring of Angelica.
During his battles in France, he heard that his capital, Biserta, was besieged by Abyssinians led by Astolpho and he withdrew his forces. On the return voyage he met Gradasso, who had left France earlier to return to his own country and he offered to help Agramant. The two of them, with Sobrino, challenged Florismart, Oliver and Roland to fight to settle their differences. Agramant was killed in this fight. (see also Angulandus)
- Agrapard European
the caliph of Arabia
He ordered the killing of the Sultan Gaudisso whose store of treasure he coveted.
- Agras Baltic
a god of twins in Finland; a turnip-god
- Agrasandhari Hindu
a book of judgement: the register of an individual's deeds
This book, which records all one's life on earth, is kept by Chitrugupta, the registrar of the dead, in the realm of Yama.
- Agraulos Greek
a name for Athena as a goddess of agriculture
- Agraulus (see Aglaurus)
- Agraulust (see Aglaurus)
- Agravadain British
a cuckold
His wife had an affair with King Ban and bore him a son, Ector de Maris.
- Agravain British [Agr(a)ivain.Agrawain]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Lot and Morgause brother of Gaheris, Gareth, Gawain and Mordred husband of Laurel
He and Mordred set out to prove that Lancelot and Guinevere were having an affair and, when King Arthur was away from Camelot, they caught the lovers in bed together. In the ensuing fight Lancelot wounded Mordred and killed not only Agravain but all the other knights who had helped.
Other sources say that he was killed by Lancelot when he rescued Guinevere from the stake.
- Agrawain (see Agravain)
- Agre Greek
one of Actaeon's dogs
When Artemis discovered Actaeon the hunter watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Agre, tore him to pieces.
- Agreskovi (see Areskovi)
- Agrestes British
an early ruler of Camelot
He was driven mad by God for persecuting Christians.
- Agrestizia British [Dindrane]
the name given to Percival's sister in the Italian story of the Round Table, Tavola Ritonda
- Agrianome Greek
daughter of Poseidon wife of Hodoedocus
mother of Oileus
- Agrican European
king of Tartary
father of Mandricardo

He was a suitor for the hand of Angelica and his forces besieged the city of Albracca but, when they finally took the city, Angelica locked herself in a tower. She escaped with the aid of her magic ring and released Roland and the other knights imprisoned in the Castle of Oblivion. They routed Agrican's army and the Tartar king was killed by Roland after a tremendous fight. He converted to Christianity on his death bed.

Agricola British

a 5th c king of Dyfed

Some say that he commanded some of King Arthur's forces. (see also Agrisant)

Agriodus Greek

one of Actaeon's dogs

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Agriodius, tore him to pieces.

Agrionia Greek

[Anthesterion]

a spring festival in honour of Dionysus

Agrios (see Agrius)

Agrippa

a book of spells

Agrippina<sup>1</sup> Roman

wife of Germanicus

mother of Agrippina, Caligula and Drusilla

Agrippina<sup>2</sup> Roman

daughter of Germanicus and Agrippina

sister of Caligula and Drusilla

mother of Nero

Agrippine Sibyl Roman

a mediaeval prophesess

Agrisant British

a king of Dyfed

Some say that he was the commander of part of King Arthur's forces.

(see also Agricola)

Agrioukoue (see Areskoui)

Agrius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Agrios, 'untamable']

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

He was killed by the Fates during the battle with the gods.

Agrius<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Agrios]

one of the Cyclopes

He was killed by Heracles during his pursuit of the Erymanthian boar.

Agrius<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Agrios]

a Centaur

Agrius<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Agrios]

son of Odysseus and Circe

brother of Latinus and Telegonus

father of Thersites

Agrius<sup>5</sup> Greek

[Agrios]

son of Portheus and Euryte

brother of Alcahous, Melas and Oeneus

When Meleager, his brother's son, died, Agrius usurped the throne of Calydon. Diomedes, grandson of Oeneus, drove him out and killed his sons, and Agrius committed suicide.

Agrivain (see Agravain)

Agrona Celtic

a goddess of slaughter

Some accounts equate her with Morrigan.

Agrotera Greek

a name for Artemis as protectress of the young

Agroteras Thusia Greek

a festival in honour of Artemis celebrating victory over the Persians

at Marathon

Agu (see Acu)

Aguasu (see Adja)

Agué (see Agwé)

Agué Woyo (see Agwé)

Agueius Greek

[Agyieus]

a name of Apollo as guardian of doors, open spaces, etc.

Agu'gux

the creator-god of the Aleut

Aguisant British

son of Karadan by a sister of

King Arthur

Agulandus European

[Agulant, Aigiolandus, Aigiolant]

an African king

father of Jutmundus

In some accounts it was he who led the Moorish invasion of Spain.

Agulant (see Agulandus)

Agunua Pacific Islands

a serpent creator-god of the

Solomon Islands

chief of the figona

He created a woman and they mated to produce a daughter. When the woman grew old she disappeared, returning after she had changed her skin. Her daughter then rejected her, so she resumed her old skin. As a result, humans can no longer renew their youth by sloughing their skins and growing a new one, as snakes do. (see also Koevasi)

Agusaya Mesopotamian

a Babylonian goddess, as an aspect of Ishtar

Agung (see Rangsang)

Agusans British

[Berrant le Apres, King with A Hundred

Knights, Maleginis]

husband of Riccarda

He was one of the eleven sub-kings and barons defeated by King Arthur at the Battle of Bedgrayne.

Agwani Hindu

a goddess of healing

one of the 6 sisters of Shitala

(see Shitala)

Agwatana African

a supreme god in Nigeria: the sun

Agwé West Indian

[Agoue Oyo, Agué (Woyo), Agwé

Woyo:=Fon Agbe]

a Haitian sea-god imported from Africa

one of 3 husbands of Erzulie

consort of La Sirene

father of Agweta and Agweto

Agwé Woyo (see Agwé)

Agweta West Indian

daughter of Agwé

sister of Agweto

Agweto West Indian

son of Agwé

brother of Agweto

Agyieus (see Agyieus)

Ah Egyptian

[Aah(-te-Huti)]

a moon-god

son of Apet

He was later assimilated into Khons.

Ah Bolom Tzacab

(see Ah Bolon Dz'acab)

Ah Bolon Dz'acab Central American

[Ah Bolom Tzacab]

a Mayan fertility-god

Some identify him as the leaf-nosed deity, God K.

Ah Cancum Central American

[Acanum]

Mayan god of hunting

Ah Chun Caan Central American

[Ah Cun Cun]

a war-god, god of the city of Merida

Ah Chuy Kak Central American

a Mayan war-god and fire-god

Ah Cun Cun Central American

a serpent charmer: a war-god

Ah Ciliz Central American

the Mayan god of eclipses

He was thought to swallow the sun when it disappeared during an eclipse.

Ah Cuxtal Central American

the Mayan god of birth

Ah holpopoh Central American

a low social caste in Mayan society

Ah Hoya Central American

a name for Chac as 'urinator'

Ah Hulneb Central American

a Mayan war-god

Ah Kin Central American

[Ah Kinchil, Alcan Chob, Chi Chac

Chob, Kinich Ahau, Kinich Kakmo]

a Mayan sun-god

He was carried back every night through the underworld by Sucunyum ready to start his journey through the sky the following day. He was regarded as the source of cures for illness.

In some accounts, he is equated with Quetzalcoatl or Itzamna.

He is depicted as having a third eye, square in shape, and teeth filed into the shape of the letter T.

Ah Kin Xoc Central American
[Ah Kin Xocbiltun.P'izlimtec]
the Mayan god of poetry

He is sometimes depicted as a humming-bird.

Ah Kin Xocbiltun (see Ah Kin Xoc)

Ah Kinchil (see Ah Kin)

Ah Kiuc (see Ek Chuah)

Ah Kumix Uinicob Central American
Mayan water-gods

These small deities assume the duties of their larger counterparts, Ah Patnar Uinicob, when there is less work to do in the dry part of the year.

Ah Mun Central American
a Mayan maize-god

Ah Muzencab Central American
Mayan bee-gods

Ah Patnar Uinicob Central American
Mayan water-gods

These four deities are depicted as giants pouring water from jars to nourish the earth. They cause rain by beating the clouds with axes made of stone. In the dry season, their duties are taken over by their small counterparts, Ad Kumix Uinicob.

Ah Peku Central American
a Mayan thunder-god

Ah Puch Central American
[Ah Puchah.Ahpuch.Cizin.Cumhau.
Eopuco.Hunhau. Yum Cimil: =Aztec Mictlantecuhtl]

the Mayan god of death: chief demon
He is depicted as a decaying corpse or as a skeleton wearing bells. In some accounts, he is equated with Cizin.

(see also Mictlantecuhtli)

Ah Puchah (see Ah Puch)

Ah Tabai Central American
a Mayan god of the hunt

Ah Tzenul Central American
a name for Chac as 'food giver'

Ah Uincir Dz'acab Central American
[Ah Uincir Kopot]
the Mayan androgynous god of healing

Ah Uincir Kopot
(see Ah Uincir Dz'acab)

Ah Uuc Ticab Central American
a Mayan fertility-god

Aha<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a demon sometimes identified with Bes

Aha<sup>2</sup> Siberian a river-god of the Yakut

Ahaharnaz Persian
one of the wives of Azhi Dahak
Thraetona fathered three sons, Eraj, Salm and Tur, on Aranvaz and Ahaharnaz.

Ahalcana Central American
one of the lords of Xibalba

Ahalpuh Central American
one of the lords of Xibalba

Ahalya Hindu ['night']
the first woman
wife of the sage Gotama

She was seduced by the god Indra and Gotama cursed Indra with the loss of his testes. Ahalya was forced to lay in ashes for centuries, living only on air,
until she was rescued by Rama.

Ahans (see Aswins)

Aharaigichi (see Queevet)

Aharyu Hindu
a Vedic solar hero who fought and overcame the moon goddess Brisaya

Ahat<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
[Ahet.Ahit.Ehat.Ehet]
a cosmic cow that acted as nurse to the sun-god

Ahat<sup>2</sup> (see Aqhat.Kokui)

Ahat<sup>3</sup> Central American
one of the leaders of the Aztecs when they left their homeland, Aztlan

Ahau<sup>1</sup> Central American
the last of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the arrival in heaven
(see also Ten Ahau)

Ahau<sup>2</sup> Central American
the beginning of time, in Mayan lore

Ahau<sup>3</sup> Central American
the Mayan moon-god, god of the night

Ahau Chamahez Central American
a Mayan god of medicine
(see Cit Bolon Tum)

Ahau Kin Central American
[Jaguar God.Lord of the Sun Face]
a Mayan sun-god

After sunset he became lord of the underworld, the Jaguar god.

Ahavaniya Hindu
one of the 3 forms of sacred fire
(see sacred fire)

Ahayuta achi North American [War Brothers.War Twins]
twin war-gods of the Zuni sons of the Sun by Dripping Water

In some versions these twins are regarded as mischievous boys forever

disobeying their grandmother, Spider Woman, and getting into scrapes from which they always emerge triumphant. As culture heroes, they are credited with building mountains, digging canyons and introducing irrigation.

Ahes European [Dahut] daughter of Gradlon
a name for Morgan le Fay in Brittany,
in some accounts

She is said to have caused the city of Ys to be inundated by the sea. She stole the keys of the sluice gates from her father and gave them to her lover, who opened the gates and let the sea-water in. She and her father tried to escape on his horse but she fell off and was drowned. The king escaped but his daughter still haunts the sea, luring sailors to their death.

Ahet (see Ahat<sup>1</sup>)

Ahhazu (see Ach-chazu)

Ahi<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
[Ahu: =Greek Eos]
a goddess of the dawn
daughter of Pa-hra

Ahi<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Ahu.Dragon of the Waters.Vitra.Vr(i)tra] a serpent causing drought son of Danu

This demon stole the cloud cattle and Indra (or Trita) split it asunder with a thunderbolt, so releasing the primaeval waters which the serpent had swallowed. In some accounts he was killed by Sarasvati.
(see also Namuci.Vritra)

Ahi Budhnya Hindu
a cosmic serpent born in the primordial waters

Ahifatumoana Pacific Islands
a Tahitian sea-demon

Abijnana Sakuntala Hindu
an epic poem by Kalidasa, the story of Sakuntala

Ahimsa Hindu
the doctrine that all life is sacred In pursuit of this ideal, true believers will kill nothing, not even the most insignificant gnat. Ascetic Jains even sweep the earth in front of them as they walk to avoid stepping on an insect.

Ahit (see Ahat<sup>1</sup>)

Ahkinshok Central American
a Mayan spirit of the day

Ahkusta<sup>1</sup> Central American
a Mayan goddess of childbirth

Ahl al-trab Arabian destructive beings said to live under the sands of the desert

It is said that these beings will drink dry the springs that the desert traveller needs for survival or trip up him or his camel as they pass. Some tribes say that these beings take the form of the columns of sand that appear in desert sandstorms.

Ahimakon North American
a demon of the woods on Vancouver Island

Ahladini-Sadini (see Parvati)
Ahmakiq Central American
a Mayan guardian-god of crops

Ahmed Arabian
a prince in The Arabian Nights
He owned a tent, given to him by Paribanou, which could house a whole army but which could be folded so as to fit into a pocket. He also owned an apple that could cure illness.

Ahmes-Nefertari Egyptian
a goddess of Thebes mother of Amenophis

Ahmucencab Central American
a Mayan deity representing primordial darkness

Ahnfrau German
the spirit of a noblewoman that warns her descendants of approaching death

Ahoecitu Pacific Islands
king of Tonga
son of Eitumatupua and Ilaheva
His jealous brothers tore him to pieces and ate him, but their father made them regurgitate the pieces which he then made whole again.

Ahola (see Kachina)

Ahone North America
supreme god of the tribes of Virginia

Ahpuch (see Ah Puch)

Ahriman Persian
[Adversary.Angra
Mainya.A(h)rimanes.Arch-demon.
Dregvant.Prince of Darkness.Prince of Lies. The Evil One: =Greek Areimanos.
Arimanes:=Roman Arimanius]
the Zoroastrian evil principle
god of darkness

In some accounts he and Ahura Mazda are the twin sons of Zurvan.

He was envisaged as a black toad and was constantly in opposition to Ahura Mazda, creating ashes where Ahura Mazda had made fire, poison where Ahura Mazda had created a cure, and so on.

He is said to have sunk a shaft to the centre of the earth and there created a hell.

This diety killed the primaeval ox and introduced disease and all the other ills of mankind and, in some stories, sent a flood. He incorporates Angra Mainya and will be defeated at the final battle and confined eternally to hell. (see also Angra Mainya.Tash)

Ahrimanes (see Ahriman)
Ahsonnutli North American

[Turquoise Man]
supreme god of the Navaho
consort of the Turquoise Woman

He is regarded as a hermaphrodite deity who placed men at the four corners of the earth to support the heavens. (see also Turquoise Man)

Ahti<sup>1</sup> Baltic
[Ahto]

in Finnish lore, an ancient god of the waters
consort of Vellamo

This primordial ocean preceded creation but mated with Ilmatur, when she fell from the heavens, to produce countless creatures.

Ahti<sup>2</sup> (see Lemminkainen)

Ahto (see Ahti.Lemminkainen)

Ahu (see Ahi)

Ahuacan Central American
the priestly caste of the Maya

Ahuehuel Central American
the Aztec tree of life

When the earth was destroyed by flood, a man and a woman survived, to repopulate the earth, by climbing this tree.

ahuizotl Central American [ahuizotle]

an Aztec water monster

This monster is said to be half dog, half monkey, with an extra hand on the end of its tail. It was said to pull people into the water with this hand, killing them and eating only their eyes, nails and teeth.

ahuizotle (see ahuizotl)

Ahulane Central American
a Mayan war-god depicted as an archer

Ahura (see Asura)

Ahura Mazda Persian

[Ahura Mazdah.Armaiti.Auramazda.
Aurharmazd. Harvatat.Hor(o)mazd.
Hormazu. Kshathra. 'Living
God'.Mazda.Mazdah
Ahura.O(h)rmazd.O(h)rmuzd.Spenta
Mainya.Sraosha.Vohu Manah.Wise
Lord:=Armenian Aramazd:=Assyrian
Assara Mazas:=Georgian Armaz:=Greek

Oromasdes.Zeus:=Hindu Rudra.Varuna] god of light and creator-god
the Zoroastrian good principle father of Atar, Dena, Haoma, Mithra and Zoroaster

In some accounts he and Ahriman are the twin sons of Zurvan.

He created a bull which, when it escaped from its cave, was found and killed by Mithras, the blood spots forming living beings where they touched the earth. He sent his son Atar to chain the dragon Azhi Dahaka to a mountain to stop his persecution of mankind.

He is depicted as a venerable,
bearded figure, usually inside a circle,
holding a ring and with one hand held up in blessing. Sometimes he is shown enveloped in flames and wearing a mantle of the sky.

Ahurani Persian
a Zoroastrian water-goddess, goddess of fertility, health and prosperity

Ahuza Mesopotamian
a Semitic demon said to carry people off by night

Ahy (see Ihy)

Ai<sup>1</sup> Baltic

[Aijatar.Aijo:=Finnish Ajata:=Lithuanian Aitvaras]
in Estonia, an evil female spirit

She is said to be either the mother or daughter of the Devil. In other accounts, Ai is said to be a thunder god.

Ai<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Aoi mac Ollamain]
a Danaan poet

It was prophesied by a druid that Ai would have wonderful powers, so the king, Fiachna mac Dealbaidh, tried to have the child killed. His father, Ollamain, managed to save him to live and fulfil the prophecy.

He, together with Bechuille Cridhinbheal and Lugh Laebach, defeated the sons of Carman and took their mother prisoner.

Ai<sup>3</sup> Norse
husband of Edda

Ai<sup>4</sup> Norse

a dwarf
one of the Lovar

Ai Apaec South American

[Aiapaec]
the supreme god of the Mochica
tribe

He is depicted as a feline form with large fangs or as an old man with whiskers. He may sometimes be shown accompanied by a dog or a lizard.

ai-hua Chinese a dragon said to delight in killing

Ai Kanaka Pacific Islands
a mortal who married a goddess

He married the moon-goddess, Lona, who took him to her own realm, the White Kingdom. In some accounts his wife was known as Mahina and in this version they had two sons, Hema and Puna.

Ai-Tojon (see Ajy-Tangara)

Ai Tupuai Pacific Islands [‘head-eater’]
a goddess of Tahiti daughter of Oro
sister of Hoa-Tapu, Maha-Fatu Rau and Toi-Mata

She and her sisters accompanied their father in battle.

Aiakos (see Aeacus)

Aiapaec (see Ai Apaec)

Aias (see Ajax)

Aiauh (see Chalchihuitlicue)

Aibell (see Aiobheall)

Aichleach Irish
son of Uigreann

He is one of the five sons of Uigreann who killed Finn after Finn killed their father. In one version he killed Finn when the Fianna staged a rebellion.

Aida (see Gro Mama)

Aida-Wédo West Indian

wife of Damballo Wedo
(see also Ayida)

Aide Irish

a woman drowned by Dubh when she had an affair with Dubh’s husband, Enna

In some accounts both Aide and Dubh were wives of Enna.

Aided Chlainne Lir Irish

the story of the Children of Lir

Aided Chlainne Tuirenn Irish

the story of the Sons of Tuirenn

Aideen (see Aidin)

Aides Greek

[‘unseen’] the original name of Hades

Aidin Irish

[Aiden] wife of Oscar

When her husband was killed in the Battle of Gabhra, she died of grief.

Aidne Irish

a Milesian

He is said to have created fire by rubbing his hands together.

Aido Hwedo (see Dan Ayido Hwedo)

Aido Wedo West Indian

[Dan Ayido Hwedo]
the name for Aido Hwedo in Haiti

Aidoneus Roman

a name for Hades

Aidos Greek

reverence or modesty personified

Aiel

an angel, ruler of the sign Aries

Aietes (see Aetes)

Aifa Irish

[(Princess) Aoife]

a warrior maid

daughter of Ard-Greimne

sister of Skatha

mother of Connla by Cuchulainn

She was defeated in single combat by Cuchulainn during his training under Skatha. He carried her off to Skatha’s camp, forcing the two to make peace, and she became his lover.

Alternative versions say that it was Uathach, daughter of Skatha, who became Cuchulainn’s mistress. Whichever it was, she became the mother of Cuchulainn’s son, Connla, on whom she laid a geis to tell nobody his name. In some versions, Aifa was Skatha’s daughter.

Aigamuchab (see Aigamuxa)

Aigamuxa African

[Aigimuxo:sing=Aigamuchab.Aigamuxab]

man-eating monsters of the Hottentot

They are said to have eyes in their insteps or in the back of their feet and can pull human beings to pieces with their long fangs.

Aige Irish

daughter of Broccaid mac Brice

She was turned into a fawn by a jealous druidess and killed by a hunting party of King Meilge’s men.

Aigealeia (see Aegialeia)

Aigeus (see Aegeus)

Aigialeus (see Aegialeus)

Aigimuxo (see Aigamuxa)

Aigina (see Aegina)

Agiolandus (see Agulandus)

Agiolant (see Agulandus)

Aigisthus (see Aegisthus)

Aiglaer Greek

the name given to the infant Asclepius, who had been abandoned, when he was found by the shepherd Aresthanas

Aigle (see Aegle)

Aigyptos (see Aegyptus)

Aijatar (see Ai1)

Aijo (see Ai1)

Ai’kren North American

[Duck Hawk]

a guardian spirit of the Karok tribe

He is said to live on top of Sugarloaf Mountain. When he found two maidens weeping at the loss of their lovers he reunited them for a year, at the end of which the girls had to return to their tribe, but not before they had been given the secret of reviving the dead by rubbing salmon flesh on their lips.

Ailanos (see Linus)

Ailanthus Chinese

the tree of life

Ailbe1 Irish

[Ailbhe]

daughter of Cormac mac Airt

and Eithne

When she answered a set of riddles posed by Finn mac Cool, he fell in love with her and she lived with him for some time.

In other accounts she was taken off by Manannan but later returned to her family.

Ailbe2 Irish

[Ailbhe]

son of Ollechu

He was exposed as a baby but suckled by a she-wolf and reared by British slaves.

Ailbe3 (see Ossar)

Ailbhe (see Ailbe)

Ailell (see Ailill)

Ailgheasach (see Aithirne)

Ailill1 Irish

[Ailell]

a king of Ulster

father of Etain Echraide

Ailill2 Irish

[Ailell]

son of Eochaid Muigl and Mongfhinn

brother of Brian, Fergus and Fiachna

step brother of Niall Noigiallach

Ailill Agach Irish

[Ailell Ochair Agha]

father of Maeldun

He raped a nun, fathering Maeldun.

He was killed by invaders from Leix.

Ailill Aine Irish

[Ailell]

king of Leinster

son of Laoghaire

father of Labraid

When he and his father visited his father’s brother, Covac, who was feigning illness, they were both killed.

Labraid was forced by Covac to eat part of his father’s and his grandfather’s hearts, as a result of which the boy lost the power of speech and was thereafter known as Maon.

Ailill Alom (see Ailill Olom)

Ailill Anghuba Irish

[Ailill Angl(h)onnach]

brother of Eochaid Airemh

He nearly died from longing for Etain, his brother's wife.

Ailill Anghonnach (see Ailill Anghuba)Ailill Anglonnach (see Ailill Anghuba)Ailill Aulom (see Ailill Olom)Ailill Dubh-dedach Irish

[Ailell]

He was immune to harm from weapons but was killed by Art who found his one weak spot.

Ailill Fionn Irish

[Ailell]

a sub-king

husband of Flíodhas

His wife fell in love with Fergus mac Roth and they planned the death of Ailill. Fergus attacked his rival's castle, killed Ailill and took Flíodhas as his own wife.

In other accounts Ailill is referred to as Donal Dualbhui and Flíodhas becomes Muinchinn, but others say that Donal was Ailill's father.

Ailill Flann Beag Irish

[Ailell]

a leader of the Munster Fianna

When his wife eloped with Fothadh Canainne, Ailill pursued them and in the ensuing battle Fothadh was killed.

Ailill Ionbhanna Irish

[Ailell]

a king of Connaught

brother of Eoghan Beal

In some accounts, he succeeded to the throne when his brother died instead of Eoghan's eldest son, Ceallach. Others say that it was Guaire who took the throne.

Ailill mac Dunlaing Irish

[Ailell]

a king of Leinster

The saint Feichin caused an earthquake which made the shackles fall from the prisoners held in Ailill's castle. It also killed Ailill, but he was restored to life by Feichin.

Ailill mac Mata Irish

[Ailell mac Matach]

king of Connaught

brother of Find File, some say husband of Maev

father of Findbhair, the Maini

and Orlam

When his wife wanted the Brown Bull of Cooley to add to her large herds he led an army into Ulster to seize it.

He was killed by Conall Cearnach to avenge the death of Fergus mac

Roth or at the behest of Maev who was jealous of her husband's affair with another woman.

Ailill mac Matach (see Ailill mac Mata)Ailill Molt Irish

[Ailell]

son of Diathi

He tried to collect the boramha tribute from the Leinstermen but was defeated.

Ailill Ochair Agha (see Ailill Agach)Ailill of Aran Irish

[Ailell]

father of Alva, Aobh and Aoife

He offered all three of his daughters, who were fostered with Bodb Dearg, as wives to Lir. Some say that these girls were the daughters of Bodb himself.

Ailill Olom Irish

[Ailell Aulom.Ailill Olom.Moshaulom.

Oilill]

a king of Munster

husband of Saba

son, or some say, father of Eoghan Mor

brother of Lugaid Lagha

He was said to have raped the goddess Aine who pulled off his ears in revenge or, in some accounts, killed him.

He defeated Lugaid mac Con but was himself defeated when Lugaid returned from Scotland with a large army, won the Battle of Mucramha and took the throne.

In using his poisoned spear to straighten a tooth, the tooth itself became infected with the poison and he passed the infection on to Lugaid by kissing him when his former foe came to renew an earlier friendship.

Ailinn (see Ailinn)Aille Irish

wife of Meargach

When her husband was killed in battle by Oscar she persuaded her druid, Fer Gruadh, to capture Finn, Oscar's grandfather. When Finn was released Oscar killed the druid and Aille committed suicide.

Ailleann (see Ailleann.Aillen)Ailleann Irish

[Ailleann]

a woman of the Otherworld

daughter of Daire by Rathlean

She was said to have appeared from time to time as a deer. Some say that she married King Arthur when she took him and his men to the Otherworld.

Aillen<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Ailleann]

son of Midhna

a creature from the Otherworld

Every year he emerged from his cave and, putting the garrison to sleep with his music, burned down the king's palace at Tara with his fiery breath. Finn killed him and cut off his head.

In some accounts Amergin, not Finn, is the hero of the story.

Aillen<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Ailleann]

son of Eoghabal, in some accounts

brother of Aine

He fell in love with Uchdealb and she was given to him by her husband, Manannan, in return for Aillen's sister Aine.

Aillinn Irish

[Ailinn]

a princess of Leinster

She fell in love with Baile, son of the king of Ulster, traditional enemies of Leinster. They arranged to meet but when Baile arrived at the meeting-place a stranger told him that Aillinn was dead, whereupon Baile died of grief. The same stranger then told Aillinn that her lover was dead and she died broken-hearted. Their story was carved into branches of the yew tree and apple tree that grew on their graves and their branches, when placed together, became inseparable.

Ailo (see Alu<sup>2</sup>)ailuranthropy

[aeluranthropy]

the ability to turn oneself into a cat

Ailuros (see Bast)Aimend Irish

a sun-goddess

Aimon Kondi South American

[Aim(o)un.Aiomoun Kondi.Makanaima]

a creator-god of the Arawak tribe

father of Sigu

He is said to have set the world on fire and followed that with a flood.

Aimoun (see Aimon Kondi)Aimun (see Aimon Kondi)Ain Irish

[Aion.Ayin.Molc.Mollac.Molloch.Mulac.

Oin.On(n)]

a fire-god and god of magic husband of Ea-Anu

Ain Shams Egyptian

a well

It was said that the sun was born in this well and renewed itself by bathing in it.

Aindri Hindu

a name of Indrani as a goddess of jealousy

Aine<sup>1</sup>Irish*

[Aine Chliar]

a sun-goddess, goddess of love and fertility

daughter of Eoghabal or Manannan wife of Echdae or Manannan, some say mother of Owel

In some stories she is equated with Morrigan, the goddess of war; in others she is the moon-goddess of Munster who was raped by Ailill Olom who, some say, she killed. Some say that she was killed by Ailill who drove a spear through her chest when she pulled his ears off.

Some accounts equate her with Ana, the beneficent version of Danu, while in some stories she is a fairy queen in Limerick. She was sometimes seen in the form of a mermaid, bathing in a lake, while in other versions she became a banshee living in a palace inside a hill where she wove sunbeams into cloth of gold.

In some accounts, she fell in love with Manannan and her brother gave her to the sea god in exchange for Manannan's wife, Uchdealb.

In a much later story, Maurice stole her cloak while she was bathing in a lake and seduced her, fathering a son, Gearoid Iarla. She was said to have been killed by Ailill who drove his spear through her chest.

Aine<sup>2</sup>Irish*

a Scottish princess

Aine<sup>3</sup>Irish*

daughter of Culann

sister of Milucra

Both sisters wanted Finn mac Cool as a husband and were jealous of each other. When Milucra turned Finn into an old man, his followers dug into Culann's fairy mound and Aine gave Finn a drink that restored his youth but left his hair permanently grey.

Another version says that Aine would not marry a grey-haired man so Milucra changed herself into a hind and let Finn chase her. She led him into a lake, which she herself had created, which turned his hair grey. Aine then rejected him but he, in turn, rejected Milucra.

Aine<sup>4</sup>(see Dana<sup>2</sup>)Aine Chliar(see Aine<sup>1</sup>)Aineius(see Aeneas)Ainemoinen(see Vainamoinen)AingeIrish*

daughter of the Dagda

It is said that the forests of Ireland

were created from a bundle of twigs that she had collected and that were stolen by Gaible who scattered them on the wind.

Aini

[Aym.Haborim.Haborym]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted with three heads: one of a man, one of a cat and one of a snake, and he rides a snake.

AinikkiBaltic*

sister-in-law of Kylli, in Finnish lore

It was she who told Lemminkainen that his wife, Kylli, had broken her promise not to attend local dances.

AinléIrish*

[Ainnlé]

one of the 12 champions of the Red Branch

son of Usna and Elva

brother of Ardan and Naisi

He was killed by Eoghan mac Durthacht at the behest of Conor mac Nessa when he arrived back at Macha after escorting Deidre and Naisi back from Scotland under safe conduct.

Ainnlé(see Ainlé)Ainmhire(see Ainmhire)AinmhireIrish*

[Ainmhire]

a high-king of Ireland

father of Aedh mac Ainmhireach

AinoBaltic*

a Finnish heroine

sister of Joukahainen

She was wooed by Vainamoinen but jumped into the sea rather than marry him.

Ainu-rak-kux(see Okikurumi)AioNorth American*

a Hopi sorcerer who can communicate with the gods

Aiolos(see Aeolus)Aiomoum Kondi(see Aimon Kondi)Aion<sup>1</sup>Greek*

time personified

This being is depicted as a lion-headed human entwined with snakes.

Aion<sup>2</sup>Phoenician*

daughter of Kolpia and Baau

sister of Protogonos

She mated with her brother Protogonos to produce Genos and Genea.

Aion<sup>3</sup>Phoenician*

a god of time in some accounts

Aion<sup>4</sup>(see Ain)AioraGreek*

a festival in honour of Antigone held at the time of the grape harvest

Air<sup>1</sup>(see Aer<sup>1</sup>)air<sup>2</sup>

some cultures believe that air contains an evil spirit which can cause illness and death if inhaled

Air Spirit(see Sila)Airabata(see Airavata)Airavana(see Airavata)AiravataHindu*

[Airabata.Airavana]

the white elephant of Indra

This animal was the eleventh thing to be created at the Churning of the Ocean. Some say that it was created from shavings from the sun (see Vishvakarma), others that it was created by Brahma. This animal is sometimes depicted with three heads or four tusks. (see also elephant<sup>2</sup>)

airbedruadIrish*

an impenetrable magic hedge

It was said that druids could conjure up such a hedge round opposing armies.

AireachIrish*

son of Milesius and Seang

He was one of those drowned during the Milesian invasion of Ireland.

Airem(see Eremon)Aireskovy(see Areskouei)Aireskovy Sutanditennr(see Areskouei)AirgedlamhIrish*

[Airgetlamh.Argetlam]

a name of Nuada referring to his silver hand

Airgetlamh(see Airgedlamh)AirtheachIrish*

[The White House]

an island paradise

This was one of the many islands visited by Bran in the course of his famous voyage.

airiHindu*

a mountain spirit, the ghost of a dead hunter

It is said that a human who catches sight of one of these spirits may die but, if he survives the shock, the spirit may lead him to hidden treasure. Their saliva is said to be poisonous to humans.

AiriuIrish*

daughter of Eochaid mac Maireadha sister of Li Ban

She, with the rest of her family except Li Ban, was drowned when Lough Neagh flooded their home.

AirlangaEast Indian*

[Erlanga]

a king who was regarded as the prince Arjuna in the Javanese version of the Mahabharata

Airmed (see Airmid)
Airmeith (see Airmid)
Airmid Irish

[Airmed.Airmeith]
 daughter of Dian Cecht
 sister of Miach

Airnealach Irish

brother of Eoghan and Tadhg mac Cein
 He and his brother Eoghan and Tadhg's wife Li Ban were carried off by Camthann, king of Fresen. Tadhg brought a force to conquer Fresen, killing Camthann and rescuing his family.

Airsekui (see Areskoui)

Airsekui Sutanditenr North American
 a name for Areskoui in times of peril

Airy Horse (see Vayuarvat)

Airyra (see Eraj)

Airyaman Persian [Irman]

a god of friendship and healing

Airyano Vaejo Persian

a happy land: a paradise or Eden

Ais (see Hades)

Aiskhulos (see Aeschylus)

Aisklepios (see Asclepius)

Aislinge meic Conglinne Irish

[Vision of Mac Conglinne]

the story of Anera mac Conglinne and the tricking of the Hunger-beast

Aislinge Oenguso Irish

[Dream of Angus]

the story of Angus Og and his quest for Caer Ibormeith

Aisneach, Hill of (see Hill of Aisneach)

Aison (see Aeson)

Aisoyimstan North American
 a god of the American Indian tribes in Montana

He is said to be the bringer of frost
 and snow.

Aitheachda Irish

a sub-king

He tried to kill Maelodran who had married his daughter but she was killed instead. To avenge her death he had Maelodran blinded with hot ashes.

Aither (see Aether)

Aitherne (see Aithirne)

Aithirne Irish

[Ailgheasach.Am(h)nach.Athairne.Aitherne.
 Dibheach]

a poet and satirist
 son of Fer Chedne

He spoke verse, while still in the womb, breaking open all the barrels at a feast.

As a man he was noted for his meanness and he took the remaining eye of Eochaid mac Luchta as a gift and refused food to starving warriors.

On another occasion, he demanded the wife of Mesgora mac Da Tho and when this request was refused he persuaded Conor mac Nessa to make war on Leinster, a war in which Mac Da Tho was killed

He was killed when his house was fired by Ulstermen angered by his treatment of Luaine which had caused her death.

Aithra (see Aethra)

Aithuia Greek

a name for Athena in the form of a diving bird

Aitolos (see Aetolus)

Aitu Pacific Islands

[Maui]

a group of Polynesian demigods

Aitvaras Baltic

[=Estonian Ai:=Finnish Ajata]

a Lithuanian house spirit

This spirit was variously described as a cockerel or as a flying dragon with the head of a snake and a fiery tail. Such a bird can be obtained in exchange for giving one's soul to the Devil or it can be reared from an egg laid by a seven-year-old cockerel. Fed on omelettes, the bird can increase its owner's wealth
 by stealing food and money.

(see also pukys)

Aius Locutius Roman

a personification of the voice said to have warned the Romans of the coming of the Gauls

Aiwass

a spirit said to have dictated a book of magic

Aiwei African

[(Aiwei) Longar]

an ancestral hero of the Dinka

His mother impregnated herself with the waters of the Nile when her husband died, so producing Aiwei
 who was born with a full set of teeth.
 When his mother died as a result of betraying a secret, Aiwei returned to the river, emerging when he reached maturity, bringing with him a multi-coloured ox, Longar. His people laughed when he promised to lead them to a better land where there was no death so he set off alone and killed those who tried to follow him across a river. Agothyathik avoided his spear and defeated him. Aiwei then issued spears to the survivors,
 founding the Spear Masters, hereditary priests. His alternative name is taken from his ox.

(see also Longar)

Aiyanar Indian

a Tamil god consort of Puranai

aiza African

a guardian spirit in Dahomey

These beings protect various groups:
 the ax'aiza protects the local marketplace; the sib aiza, the family group;
 the to'aiza the local area; and the xwe'aiza, the village compound.

The establishment of an aiza involved the sacrifice of humans, the number varying according to the type of aiza.

Aizen-myoo Japanese

[Aizen Myo-o.(Raga) Vidyaraja]

a Shinto (later Buddhist) god, the personification of love

He is depicted seated, with two, four or six arms and sometimes two heads.
 He often wears a lion's mask on his head and carries a five-pointed thunderbolt.

Aja<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a name of Parvati as 'female goat'

Aja<sup>2</sup> Hindu

['unborn'] son of Dilipa

husband of Indumati

father of Dasha-ratha

A Gandharva who had been cursed by a holy man was turned into an elephant but was released from this curse when Aja killed the elephant.
 The god gave Aja some magic arrows, which always hit the target, and with these Aja won an archery contest for the hand of Indumati.

Aja Ekpada Hindu

a god of lightning

Ajagava Hindu

the bow of Shiva

Aja'ib al-Makbluqat Persian

[Wonders of Creation]

the story of the various wonders of the world then existing

Ajala African

in the lore of the Yoruba, a man who works in heaven making faces from clay

Ajalamo African

a Yoruba god of unborn children

Ajalpal Thai

[Ajalpala]

a king

son of Anomatan and Manikesara

father of Dasha-ratha (see also Aja<sup>2</sup>)

Ajalpala (see Ajapal)

Ajamila Hindu

a Brahmin

father of Narayama

Among the many sins he committed was that of living with a woman of the shudra caste. Dying, he called on his son to save him, with the result that Vishnu, who has Narayama as one of his many names, told Yama to let Ajamila live.

Ajarjoan Japanese
a priest

He was turned into a demon for the sin of loving a maiden. In later years he was restored and spent the rest of his life in prayer, continuing to utter prayers even after his death.

Ajata Baltic
[Ajatar.Ajattara:=Estonian Ai:=Lithuanian Aitvara]
a malevolent female wood spirit in Finland

These beings are said to suckle snakes and to cause illness.

Ajatar (see Ajata)

Ajatasatru Buddhist

a king
son of Bimbisara and Vaidehi

He and Devadatta got the elephant Nalagiri drunk and turned it loose, hoping that it would kill the Buddha as it rampaged through the streets.

Ajattara (see Ajata)

Ajax<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aias.Ajax Telamonius.Ajax the Greater.

'earthman']

a warrior hero

king of Salamis

son of Telamon and Periboea

half brother of Teucer

father of Eurysaces by Tecmessa

In some accounts his mother was Hesione, in others Telamon's second wife, Periboea.

During the Trojan war, he attacked Teuthrania, killed the king, Teuthras, and seized his daughter Tecmessa. He also killed Glaucus in battle.

When Achilles was killed at Troy the chieftains had to decide whether Ajax or Odysseus should have the wonderful arms made for Achilles by Hephaestus. When the choice fell on Odysseus, Ajax decided to kill both Agamemnon and Menelaus since they had, he thought, swayed the decision against him, but Athena intervened to strike him with temporary madness, causing him to kill the Greek flocks, thinking they were soldiers. When he came to his senses and realised what he had done he killed himself with his own sword, one given to him by Hector when they fought an inconclusive duel. It was said that the hyacinth sprang up where his blood stained the ground (see also Hyacinthus).

In other versions Odysseus killed Ajax or Paris killed him with an arrow or the Trojans captured him and buried him alive.

Ajax<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Aias.Ajax Oileus.Ajax the Less.

'earthman']

son of Oileus

brother of Medon

At the fall of Troy he raped Cassandra who had taken refuge in the temple of Athena. For this sacrilege the gods caused a storm to disperse the homeward-bound Greek fleet and he was drowned. Others say he was killed by a thunderbolt hurled by Poseidon when Ajax boasted that he would escape the sea despite the gods.

Ajax<sup>3</sup> Greek

a play by Sophocles

Ajax Oileus (see Ajax<sup>2</sup>)

Ajax Telamonius (see Ajax<sup>1</sup>)

Ajax the Greater (see Ajax<sup>1</sup>)

Ajax the Less (see Ajax<sup>2</sup>)

Ajaya Buddhist

['invincible']

a minor goddess

Aje<sup>1</sup> African

[=Roman Moneta]

a Yoruba goddess of wealth

She is said to appear in the form of a hen.

aje<sup>2</sup> African

Yoruba sorcerers who can leave their bodies at night and become birds of prey

Aji Saka East Indian

a Javanese scholar

He is said to have given the islanders the art of writing.

Aji-shi-ki

(see Aji-Shika-Taka-Hiko-Ne)

Aji-Shiki-Taka-Hiko-Ne Japanese

[Aji-shi-ki.Ajisukitakahikone]

a Shinto rain-god or thunder-god

son or father of Takisuhiko

As a child he made so much noise that he was placed in a boat which sails for ever round the islands of Japan.

Ajisukitakahikone

(see Aji-Shiki-Taka-Hiko-Ne)

Ajita Buddhist

in some accounts, another name for Asita

Ajok African

[Adyok.Naijok]

the supreme god of the Lotuko

He created the human race but the baby born to the first couple died. To please the mother, Ajok restored it to life but the father killed both the baby and his wife because he had not been consulted in the matter. Since then, humans have been mortal rather than immortal.

Ajokit African

[Aji-Khoton.Ijaksit.Kubai(-Khotun)]

in the lore of Uganda, the spirit of a sick person that talks to the medicine man

Ajy-Khoton (see Ajysyt)

Ajy-Tangara Siberian

[Ai-Tojon]

a creator-god of the Yakuts

He is envisaged as an eagle, which perches on the world tree.

Ajysit (see Ajysyt)

Ajysyt Siberian

the mother goddess of the Yakuts

She brings the soul from heaven at the birth of a baby and records each one in the Golden Book of Fate.

Aka-Kanet (see Akakanet)

Aka Manah (see Akah Manah)

aka-oni Japanese demons of the underworld with red bodies

Akaf African

king of Kordofan

brother of Sali

The custom was that each king was killed at a time decreed by the priests, who read the stars. Akaf proposed to take the story teller, Far-li-mas, and his own sister Sali with him when his time came. She induced Far-li-mas to recite such marvellous stories that the priests forgot the stars and no date was ever fixed for the king's death.

Akah Manah Persian

[Aka Manah]

a demon of evil thought opposing

Vohu Manah

Akaiyan North American

an Algonquian youth

brother of Nopatsis

The evil wife of Nopatsis accused Akaiyan of rape and Nopatsis abandoned him on an island when they were hunting together. Akaiyan survived with the help of the beavers. When Nopatsis came to the island the following year expecting to see his brother's bones, Akaiyan jumped on to the raft and left Nopatsis stranded.

Next year, Akaiyan found his brother's bones when he went back to the island to visit the beavers.

He taught his people the art of medicine, which he had learned from the beavers.

Akajata (see Ekajata)

Akakanet South American

[Aka-Kanet.Algue]

a vegetation deity of the Araucanian tribe

This deity, who lives in the Pleiades, is said to provide flowers and fruit for the use of the tribe. In some accounts he is the benevolent aspect of an evil spirit Guecubu, while others say they are brothers.

akalo Pacific Islands

a benevolent spirit of the Solomon Islands
Every person who dies becomes an akalo; if the person concerned was a chief, a priest or a warrior he would become a li'oa. Such spirits can be caught and kept in the container used to store relics of the dead.

(see also li'oa)

Akambou West Indian

a Caribbean beneficent spirit, one of a pair with Yris

Akandoji Japanese

a demon killed by Momotaro

Akano Jewel Japanese

a god of famine

Akar Akeru (see Aker)

Akarana (see Zurvan)

akasa (see akasha)

Akasagarbha Tibetan

[Akasha.Khagarbha:=Japanese Kokuzo]

a Buddhist sky-god
the twelfth bodhisattva

akasha<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[akasa]

the spiritual essence of space:
primordial matter

Akasha<sup>2</sup> (see Akasagarbha)

Akashic records Buddhist

[Book of Life]

the cosmic record in which every action of the individual is recorded

Akasi tatwa Hindu

essence of ether, one of the 5 forms of Parabrahma

Akatauire Pacific Islands

a co-king of Mangaia Island brother of Rangī husband of Ruange

Akattiyar Hindu

the Tamil version of Agastya

Akawi-ko Japanese

a faithful woman

The emperor Yu-Riyaku fell in love with this humble girl and told her to marry no-one until he sent for her. After eighty years she reminded him of his promise, but by then she was too old and ugly and he sent her away.

Akbal<sup>1</sup> Central American

in Mayan lore, the third of the 20 ages of man - birth

(see also Thirteen Akbal)

Akbal<sup>2</sup> (see Huecomitl)

Ake Pacific Islands

a Polynesian water-deity

Together with Oakeu, Ake was responsible for the deluge in which he caused the waters to rise while Oakeu caused the rain to fall. Rongo intervened to put a stop to their activities and the flood subsided.

Akelos (see Achelous)

Aken (see Aker)

Akephalos Greek

a headless demon

These beings are the ghosts of those beheaded for criminal offences.

Aker Egyptian

[Akar Akeru.Aken]

a god of the underworld

He guards the gate into the underworld and ensures the safe passage of the boat carrying the sun-god back through the underworld, Aker's body, each night. It is said he annulled the cause of death for each person as they passed.

He is depicted in the form of a pair of heads facing in opposite directions.

In other accounts he is regarded as an earth-god and is depicted as a lion or a two-headed sphinx.

Akerbelt European

a god of animals

He is depicted as a black goat.

Akercock

a demon attendant on Belphegor

Akestes (see Acestes)

Akethor (see Thor)

akh Egyptian

one of the 5 elements said to comprise the complete individual

This is the form that the dead assume in the underworld.

Akheloos (see Achelous)

Akheron (see Acheron)

Akhi North American

the Objivay name for Mother Earth

Akhilleus (see Achilles)

Akhtar Persian

the 12 constellations of the Zodiac

These are envisaged as the leaders of Ahura Mazda's army.

Akhthoes Egyptian

[Abmerira.Kheti]

a legendary king

He was said to have gone mad and was eaten by crocodiles.

Akhtya Persian

the chief of the Yatis, the Zoroastrian sorcerers

In some accounts a demon who was killed when he failed to answer three riddles posed by Yoishta.

Aki-Yama Japanese

a mountain-god representing autumn brother of Haru-Yama

When he failed to give his brother a wedding gift, his mother placed a curse on him and he withered away.

Akibeel

one of the 7 Ischin who taught man the meaning of signs

Akieros (see Axierus)

Akiko Japanese

a maiden betrothed to Takahama

She died just before she was to be married to Takahama and in the form of a white butterfly visited him when after years of tending her grave, he lay dying.

Akis (see Acis)

Akitu Mesopotamian

an Akkadian festival in honour of Marduk or Nanna, held at New Year

Akka (see Rauni)

Akki<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

a water demon

Akki<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

a man who found the infant Sargon and reared him

Akkruva Baltic

[Avfruvva.Havfru:=Danish Havfrue]

a fish-goddess in Finland

Ako Japanese

husband of Aya, in some accounts

Other versions say that Aya married the second (unnamed) son of the Lord Ako.

Ako Mana (see Akoman)

Akoman Persian

[Ako Mana]

an evil spirit that takes possession of liars

Akonadi African

a West African goddess of justice guardian of women

akonda African

a charm worn by the Fon

This armlet, made of raffia and ram's hair, is said to give the wearer strength in work or battle. It is one of the many charms known as gbo.

Akongo African

a creator-god of the Ngombe people

He found the people whom he had created to be so noisy that he left them and went to live in the sky. Others say that at first they all lived in the sky, but Akongo sent the humans to earth to be rid of them.

akpou African
a charm carried by travellers in Dahomey

This charm, another of the many gbo, takes the form of a metal rod with a small cup at one end and a skirt concealing a special leaf at the other. The cup can be filled with strong spirit to excite the charm into action. If a traveller points the akpou at a ghost, he will not be harmed by it.

Akontios (see Acontius)

akra<sup>1</sup> African [kɫa.kra]
the soul in the lore of the Ashanti

akra<sup>2</sup> (see simurgh)

Akrabh Hebrew [=Akkadian Girtab]
the constellation Scorpio

Akras (see Egres)

Akria (see Athena)

Akrura Hindu
a messenger of Kansa

He was sent to invite Balarama and Krishna to a feast. He warned them that Kansa was planning to kill them but they still accepted the invitation.

Aksak South American
a Chaco creator deity in the form of a beetle

This being created the first humans.

Aksayajnana-Karmanda Buddhist
one of 12 dharanis: literature

Akshobhya Buddhist

[Aksobhya.Buddhakapala.Candarosana.
Heruka.Hevajira.ahacinatara.

Mahapratyangira.Manjushri.Nairamata.

Rakta-Yamari.Theimperturbable.

Ucchusma.Vajracarcika.Vajradaka.

Vajraheruka.Vajrasana.Vasudhara.

Vighnamtaka.Yamantaka:=Hindu

Vishnu:=Japanese Ashuku:=Tibetan

Samvara]

one of 5 Dhyani Buddhas, the second one of the 5 Dhyani bodhisattvas, in

some accounts

consort of Locana or Mamaki

father of Vajrapani

He lives in Abhirati and is usually depicted with two elephants.

Aksobhya (see Akshobhya)

Aktaion (see Actaeon)

Aktaios (see Zeus)

Aktunowihio North American

a Cheyenne earth spirit

Aku-Thor Norse

[Oku-Thor]

a name for Thor as a charioteer and thunder-god

akua<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands
the gods of Hawaii, as opposed to the demi-gods, knpua

Akua<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
[Ke Akua:=Polynesian Atua]

a creator-god of Hawaii
Akuj (see Apap)

akuko African sacred leaves in Dahomey

These leaves are used in the charms (nguneme) used to protect property.

akula<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[female=kula]

in Tantric lore, divine power: the male aspect of the Absolute

Akula<sup>2</sup> (see Shiva)

Akuma Japanese

[ma.toori-akuma]

an evil spirit

Envisaged as a terrifying flying monster with fiery head and eyes, carrying a sword.

Akupara Hindu
[Akupera]

the tortoise that supports the earth

Akupera (see Akupara)

Akwan Persian

an evil demon

He once found Rustem asleep and threw him into the sea.

Akycha Inuit
an Inuit sun-god

Al<sup>1</sup> Afghan
a monster

This version of the Persian Al takes the form of a young woman with long nails and teeth and with feet pointing to the rear. It is said that she feeds on the bodies of the dead.

Al<sup>2</sup> Persian [=Babylonian Alu]

a monster, half human, half animal

This monster is said to have fiery eyes and a single tusk. It causes birth problems, blinds unborn children and steals babies.

Al Ait Phoenician
a fire-god

Ak Akbar Arabian
[Al Dubh]

the Arab name for the Great

Bear constellation

Al Babadur Arabian

a name for the constellation Orion as

‘the strong’

Al Fanik (see Aldebaran)

Al Hamal Arabian

[Al Kabah al-Alif:=Chinese Pai Yang]

a later name for the constellation Aries

Al Iskandar Arabian

[Eskandar.Iskander.Iskender]

the Arab name for Alexander the Great
(see also Zul-Qarnain)

Al jann Arabian

a name for Eblis as ‘father of the jinn’

Al Kabah al-Alif Arabian

[Al Hamal:=Chinese Pai Yang]

an early name for the constellation Aries

Al Kassab Arabian

a devil: a demon of lies: Satan

(see Xezbeth)

Al Muhdij (see Aldebaran)

Al Mundzir Arabian

son of Hilal

father of Jabir and Jubayr

Al Shuja Arabian

a name for the constellation Orion as

‘the snake’

Ala<sup>1</sup> African

[Ale.Ana.Ani]

earth-goddess and fertility-goddess of the Ibo goddess of the underworld

wife or daughter of Chuku

Ala<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

one of a type of bisexual demon

Alaaye African

a name of Olodumare as ‘he who lives’

Alacita South American

[Alasita]

an annual festival in honour of Ekkekko

Alad (see Nergal)

Alad Udug Lama Mesopotamian

Babylonian guardian spirits,

later demons

Aladdin Arabian

the owner of a magic lamp in The

Arabian Nights

son of Mustafa

He could conjure up a jinnee that would obey his orders merely by rubbing the lamp. With its help he won the hand of a beautiful princess, Badr al-Budur. He later killed the magician who tried to take the lamp from him. On the death of his father-in-law, he became emperor of China.

Alaghom Naom (see Alaghom Naum)

Alaghom Naum Central American

[Alaghom Naom.Iztat Ix.Mother of Mind]

a Mayan mother-goddess wife of Patol

Alain le Gros (see Alan)

Alaisiagae Celtic

4 minor goddesses of the Roman period

Originally Germanic deities, these beings were associated with war and their names are given as Baudihillie, Bede, Finnilene and Friagabi.

Alajeru African

wife of Oroko mother of Ifa

Alaka Hindu

a mythological kingdom in the Himalayas, ruled by Kubera

alake African

a dead king

His successor is given his predecessor's head and is required to eat some part of the corpse such as the tongue.

Alako Norwegian

the god of the gypsies

He was known as Dundia, son of the supreme god, and was sent to earth to instruct the gypsies in the secret lore. Afterwards he returned to his home in the heavens and was known as Alako.

Alalcomeneus Greek

[Alalcomeneus.Cithaeron]

the first man to emerge from the primordial waters

founder of the Great Daedala

Alalkomeneus (see Alalcomeneus)

Allalu Mesopotamian

a fabulous bird in the Babylonian story of Gilgamesh

Alalu Mesopotamian

[Alalus]

a Hurrian god, the king of heaven

He was overthrown by Anu and sent to the underworld.

Alalus (see Alalu)

Alan<sup>1</sup> British

[Alain le Gros.Aleyn]

son of Hebron and Enygeus brother of Joshua

In some accounts he was the son of Pellimore and father of Percival. He took over as keeper of the Holy Grail after Josephus.

In other accounts he is the Fisher King.

alan<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

benevolent spirits of the Philippines

These beings are said to be half human, half bird, and live in the forest where they hang from the branches like bats. Some say that their toes are at the back of their feet and their fingers point to the rear. Some regard them as wind demons.

Alandine European

king of Jerusalem at the time of its capture by the forces led by Godfrey

Alane European

sister of Bertrane and Guillaume

Alannus Roman

[Alaenis.Alaunus:=Roman Mercury]

a Celtic messenger god in Gaul

Alard (see Alardo)

Alardi Russian

in Ossetian lore, a spirit that causes smallpox

Alardine British

a king

He challenged Gawain, who was on a quest to catch the white stag that had run into the hall during King Arthur's wedding feast, and was killed.

Alardo European

[Aalarth.Alard]

son of Aymon and Beatrice brother of Bradamante, Guichard, Ricardo, Ricciardetto and Rinaldo

In some accounts, he was killed by Charlot who, in a fit of passion, struck him on the head with a chess-board when Alardo won the game.

(see also Baldwin<sup>3</sup>.Bertelai)

Alaron British

wife of Bladud

Alasita (see Alacita)

Alasnam Arabian

owner of 8 precious statues in The Arabian Nights

He filled a ninth empty pedestal with his wife, the most beautiful woman in the land. He also owned a magic mirror that could tell him whether a maiden was faithful.

Alastor<sup>1</sup>

a demon acting as executioner in hell

In some accounts he is equated with Raim and is the Commissioner for Public Works in black magic.

Alastor<sup>2</sup> Greek

an evil house spirit: an avenging demon

Alastor<sup>3</sup> Greek

['avenger'] son of Neleus

brother of Nestor

husband of Harpalyce

The personification of familial feuds, he married Harpalyce but her father Clymenor, who wanted her for his own gratification, seized her as she was leaving with him. Alastor was killed by Heracles when he attacked Pylus.

Alastor<sup>4</sup> Greek

a name for Zeus as 'avenger'

Alastor<sup>5</sup> Greek

a Lycian killed by Odysseus

Alatanagana African

[Alatanga]

creator-god of the Kono

He and Sa created land and vegetation. He ran off with Sa's daughter and they produced seven boys and seven girls, but because he failed to produce the traditional bride-price, death came into the world.

Alatanga (see Alatanagana)

Alateivia German

a minor deity

Alatuir Slav

a magic stone or a stone that stood near to Christ's cross

Originally a boulder at the source of a healing river; later a marker for a cross-roads.

Alaunus (see Alannus)

alautun Central American

in the Mayan time scale, a period of about a million years

Alb (see Alp)

Alba Celtic

[Alba(i)n.Albania.Albany.Albu]

an early name for Scotland

Albadanzor Irish

an Irish chieftain

He was one of 100 warriors fighting for King Cildadan against 100 knights of the British king, Lisuarte.

Alban<sup>1</sup> British an early giant

Alban<sup>2</sup> (see Alba)

Alban Kings Roman

mythical kings said to rule before Romulus and Remus

Albain (see Alba)

Albanact<sup>1</sup> British

[Albanactus]

king of Scotland

son of Brutus

brother of Camber and Locrin

On the death of his father, Albanact and his two brothers shared the kingdom. He was killed in battle when the German king, Humbert, invaded Britain.

Albanact<sup>2</sup> British

a captain of the guard in the opera King Arthur, probably based on Albanact, king of Scotland

Albanactus (see Albanact<sup>1</sup>)

Albania (see Alba)

Albanio British

a knight at King Arthur's court

Albany (see Alba)

Albasta Siberian

a Tartar spirit

This being is sometime envisaged as male, killing people by suffocation, sometimes as female with pendulous breasts and long nails.

Albeborael quahayona West Indian
the name taken by Guagugiana when he met Guabonito

Alberich<sup>1</sup> German [Aelf-Ric.Aelfrich.Alferich.Alfrik.Alpris.
Elberic:=European Oberon:=Norse Andvari]
a king of the dwarfs
brother of Mime

In one story he was the father of Ortnit and gave him a magical suit of armour and the sword Rosen. He helped Ortnit when he laid siege to the fortress of Muntabure.

In the Wagnerian version, he stole the Rhinegold from the Rhine daughters and his brother, Mime, made from it the Helmet of Invisibility and the Ring of Power.

In some accounts he was the father of Hagen by Krimhild.

(see also Andvari)

Alberich<sup>2</sup> (see Elbegast<sup>1</sup>)

Albert le Grand

a book of magic used in the New World, originally of European origin (see also P'ti' Albert)

Alberto Pacific Islands

a hero in the Philippines

He owned a hat that made him invisible and used it to approach and kill three monsters with, successively, seven, ten and twelve heads, all of which he cut off.

Albhere German

[Alphere]
a king of Aquitaine

father of Walther von Wasgenstein

When the advancing hordes of Attila threatened his kingdom, Albhere decided to surrender without a fight, paying a tribute of gold and handing over his young son, Walther, as a hostage.

Albia British

the eldest of the 50 daughters of the king of Syria

All the sisters, who were married on the same day and murdered their husbands on the wedding night, were cast adrift in a ship which, it is said, brought them to Britain, giving rise to the name Albion.

Albina<sup>1</sup> British

[Albine.White (Sow) Goddess]
a princess

She is said to have landed in the uninhabited Britain with her three sisters or, some say, fifty women who mated with demons and produced a race of giants.

Albina<sup>2</sup> (see Alphito)

Albine (see Albina<sup>1</sup>)

albino
in some accounts, those born without skin pigment are the children of fairies by mortal women

Albion<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of the Giants ruler of Britain
son of Poseidon

He led an assault on the gods, climbing a pile of stones that reached to the sky. Heracles came to the aid of the gods, killing many of the giants. In one story Albion, who survived, planned to kill Heracles and waited in ambush in the Pyrenees. Heracles came on him from the rear and killed him before going on to seize Geryon's cattle.

In another version he and his brothers went to Gaul and fought against Heracles. When they tried to steal some of Geryon's cattle that Heracles had brought back from his tenth Labour, all the giants were killed.

Albion<sup>2</sup> Celtic

an old name for Britain

Albiorix Celtic

a name for Teutates as 'king of the world'

albogaleus Roman

the lower part of the headdress of the flamen Dialus

This was said to be made from the skins of those sacrificed to Jupiter.

Alboin German

a king of the Lombards son of Audoin
husband of Rosamund

When Alboin went to war with the Gepidae, their king, Thurisind, was killed and Alboin forcibly married the king's daughter, Rosamund. The skulls of the dead were made into drinking vessels and when Alboin tried to force Rosamund to drink from her father's skull she refused and persuaded the giant Perideus to kill Alboin.

Albors (see Mount Alburz)

albotritch North American

a fabulous animal

Albracca European

the capital city of Galafron, king of Cathay

Albu (see Alba)

Albunea<sup>1</sup> Roman

an Italian water nymph

She had the gift of prophecy and some of her pronouncements were recorded in the Sibylline Books.

Albunea<sup>2</sup> (see Diana<sup>3</sup>)

Alburz (see Mount Alburz)

Alcaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek

grandfather of Heracles
son of Perseus and Andromeda
brother of Electryon, Mestor
and Sthenelus

husband of Astydamia
father of Amphitryon and Anaxo

Alcaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Heracles by Malis
brother of Cleodacus

Alcaeus<sup>3</sup> Greek

son of Androgeus
brother of Sthelenus

He and his brother served as slaves to Heracles, on his ninth Labour, to atone for the murder of two of Heracles' crew.

Heracles made them rulers of Thasos.

Alcaeus<sup>4</sup> (see Heracles)

Alcaides (see Alcaids)

Alcaids Greek

[Alcaides]

the sons of Heracles by Megara

Alcan Chob (see Ah Kin)

Alcardo British

[Lantris]

a squire

brother of Isolde

He was a friend of Tristram who was killed in an attempt to rescue Isolde from the hands of King Mark. He is called Lantris in some accounts.

Alcathae Greek

[Alkathoia]

a festival in honour of Alcathous

Alcathous<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Alkathoos]

son of Pelops and Hippodamia
brother of Atreus, Chrysippus and Thyestes

father of Automedusa, Ischepolis and Periboea

In some stories it was Alcathous, not Heracles, who killed the Cithaeronian Lion and was rewarded with the hand of Euachine, daughter of the king of Megara. He later succeeded to the throne.

When Callepoleis told Alcathous that his son Ischepolis had been killed in the hunt for the Calydonian boar, Alcathous struck him with a piece of firewood and killed him.

Alcathous<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Alkathoos]

son of Portheus and Euryle

brother of Agrius, Melas and Oeneus

In some accounts he was killed by his nephew Tydeus.

Alce<sup>1</sup> Greek
a deity, night personified

Alce<sup>2</sup> Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon the hunter watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Alce, tore him to pieces.

Alceste (see Alcestis)
Alcestis<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Alceste.Alkestis]

daughter of Pelias and Anaxibia

wife of Admetus

mother of Eumelus, Hippasus
and Perimele

She refused to take any part when her two sisters, Evadne and Amphinome, killed and dismembered their father when they were bewitched by Medea.

Admetus won her hand when, with the help of Apollo, he drove a chariot to which were yoked a boar and a lion. She poisoned herself to save her husband's life and was rescued from Hades by Heracles, who wrestled with Death himself and made him give her up. Another version says she was saved by the mercy of Persephone.

Alcestis<sup>2</sup> Greek
a play by Euripides telling of her sacrifice to save her husband Admetus

Alchard Irish
a king of the Otherworld
father of Gilla Dacar

alchemy
[Hermetic art.Hermetic philosophy] pseudo-science directed towards the transmutation of base metals to gold, and other unlikely aims such as finding the elixir of life

Alchendic British
a giant
king of Sarra

He fought the Crusaders but later converted to Christianity.

alchera Australian [alcheringa.Bamum.altjiranga.(Eternal)
Dreamtime. The Dreaming.tjukui]

The period when the ancestors of the Aborigines rose out of the ground to shape the earth and make mankind by singing. When they had finished their work they returned to their sleep under the earth.

Alchera is the term generally in use in central Australia; further north in Arnhem Land the tribes refer to this period as Bamum and to their ancestors of that period as Wongar; to the West and South, the usual name for the Dreamtime is tjukui.

alcheringa (see alchera)
Alchochoder

a planet said to control the length of a person's life

Alcides (see Heracles)
Alcimedede Greek

[Alcumede.Polymede.Polymele]

daughter of Phylacus and Clymene,
some say

wife of Aeson

mother of Jason and Promachus

When Pelias dethroned her husband and took over the throne of Iolcus, she killed herself rather than be slain by Pelias.

In some accounts, she is referred to as Polymede or Polymele.

Alcimenos Greek
son of Jason and Medea

Alcimus Greek
father of Mentor

Alcina European [Fata Alcina]
a sea nymph, a sorceress
sister of Morgana and Logestilla

She and her sister, Morgana, had deprived their other sister, Logestilla, of most of her kingdom.

She took mortals as lovers and then changed them into objects such as rocks, trees, etc. She treated Astolpho in this manner and turned him into a myrtle tree. When Rogero found Astolpho in this predicament he set out to find Alcina and destroy her power. She trapped Rogero but Melissa arrived on the scene in the shape of Atlantes and caused Rogero to see how he had been ensnared. He broke the bonds and left, riding the horse Rabican, while Melissa freed Astolpho and the others who had been held in thrall by the enchantress.

(see also Arcile)

Alcinoe Greek
daughter of Sthelenus and Nicippe sister of Eurystheus and Medusa

Alcinous Greek [Alkinoos]
king of the Phaeacians son of Nauthisus
brother of Rhexenor husband of Arete
father of Nausicaa

When Odysseus was cast ashore on his island, Alcinous provided him with a ship for the last stage of his journey home.

Alcion (see Alcyoneus)

Alcippe Greek

daughter of Ares by Aglaurus wife of Evenus

mother of Marpessa

When she was raped by Halirrhothius, her father killed him. In some accounts she is also the mother of Daedalus.

Alcis German
twin sky-gods in East Germany

Alcithoe Greek
daughter of Minyas

sister of Arcippe and Leucippe

With her sisters Arcippe and Leucippe she tore apart and ate Leucippe's young son Hippasus in a fit of madness induced by Dionysus who was upset when they refused to join his revels. Hermes changed all three sisters into bats (or birds).

Alcmaeon Greek

[Alcmeon.Alkmaeon.Alkmaion]

son of Amphiarus and Eriphyle

one of the Epigoni

brother of Amphilocho

husband of Arsinoe and later Callirhoe

father of Arcanan and Amphoterus

by Callirhoe

His mother, bribed by Polyneices with the gift of Harmonia's fabulous necklace, persuaded his father to join the Seven against Thebes, and Amphiarus ordered his two sons to kill her if he failed to return. He fought with the victorious Epigoni at Thebes only because he was persuaded by his mother who had again been bribed, this time by Thersander who gave her Harmonia's wedding veil.

He killed his own mother and was driven mad by the Furies. He was purified by King Phegeus and married Arsinoe, or Alpheisiboea, the king's daughter, abandoning her when still pursued by the Furies. He married Calirrhoe but was killed by Phegeus and his sons when they discovered his treachery.

In some accounts he married Manto and they had two children.

Alcmene Greek

[Alc(u)mena.Alkmene]

daughter of Electryon and Anaxo

wife of Amphitryon

mother of Heracles by Zeus

mother of Iphicles by Amphitryon

She was seduced by Zeus in the guise of her husband who was away fighting the Teleboans and Taphians who had killed Alcmene's eight brothers. When Heracles was born she abandoned him in a field, fearing the jealous Hera. On the death of Amphitryon, she married Rhadamanthus; in some accounts this marriage took place in Tartarus after her death, when she was carried to the Elysian Fields by Hermes on the instructions of Zeus.

Alcmeon (see Alcmaeon)

Alcmon Roman

a minor god
father of Lara

Alcon Greek

father of Phalerus

Alcon was a famous archer and a companion of the young Heracles. He was said to have shot the snake that had seized his child without harm to the infant.

Alcuin European

(734–804)

an Englishman, adviser to Charlemagne. He protested against the practice of wearing relics of saints as a form of protection. As one of Charlemagne's Pleaid, he used the name Horace.

Alcumede (see Alcimede)

Alcumena (see Alcmene)

Alcyoone<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Alkione.Alkuone.Halcyone]

daughter of Aeolus

wife of Ceyx

She was distraught when her husband was shipwrecked and drowned in a storm at sea. Morpheus visited her in her sleep and convinced her that Ceyx was dead, whereupon she determined to kill herself by jumping from the headland. There she saw the lifeless body of her husband floating in towards the shore and plunged into the sea to join him. Both were changed into kingfishers.

The seven days of calm (the Alcyon or Halcyon days) that are said to occur each year are when she is hatching her young in a floating nest.

Another story says that, for disrespect to the gods, Zeus turned Alcyone into a kingfisher and Ceyx into a gannet.

Alcyone<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Alkione.Alkuone.Halcyone]

daughter of Atlas by Pleione leader of the Pleiades

mother of Aethusa by Poseidon

Alcyone<sup>3</sup> (see Cleopatra)

Alcyoneus Greek

[Alcion. 'brayer']

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

He was one of the leaders of the revolt of the giants against the gods. He was killed by Heracles during this battle or when he attacked Heracles during his tenth Labour in an attempt to steal the cattle that Heracles had taken from Geryon. He threw a rock at Heracles, which rebounded and killed him.

Aldabella European

wife of Roland in Orlando Furioso

(see Aude)

Aldan British

the mother of Merlin, in Welsh accounts

Aldebaran North American

[Broad Star]

a reddish star in the constellation Taurus

In other cultures this star is known as Bull's Eye or Eye of the Bull while the Arabs refer to it as Al Fanik (stallion camel) or Al Muhdij (female camel).

alder

a deciduous tree growing in temperate climates which appears in the mythologies of many cultures:

Greek

In some accounts, alder is the tree of resurrection.

Irish

Represented in the ancient tree alphabet by F, this tree was held in such reverence that those who felled it were put to death.

Norse

The first woman, Embla, is generally held to have been made from an elm tree but others say it was an alder.

North America

In Newfoundland it is said that the buds of the alder (from the bark of which the natives made medicines) act as homes for breeding mosquitoes.

Welsh

In the story of the Battle of the Trees, it is said that Gwydion was able to recognise Bran from the fact that he carried a bunch of alder twigs.

Alderley Edge British

a site in Cheshire where King Arthur and his knights are said to be sleeping

Other suggested sites are at Cadbury, Craig-y-Dinas, Mount Etna, Ogof Lanciau Eryri, Ogo'r Dinas, Richmond Castle and Sewingshields.

Aldhelm

author of Book of Monsters

Aldinach

a demon causing storms and earthquakes

Aldonza (see Dulcinea)

Aldrian German

son of Hagen

He lured Etzel into a cave where the treasure of the Nibelungs was stored and locked him in, leaving him to starve to death.

Aldroen British

[Aldroenus.Audrien]

king of Brittany

brother of Constantinus

He sent his brother to Britain with an army to drive off the many invaders and take over the country.

Aldroenus (see Aldroen)

Ale<sup>1</sup> Norse

a divine fluid

Ale<sup>2</sup> (see Ala<sup>1</sup>)

Ale of Goibhniu Irish

a drink which conferred immortality on those who drank it

Alea Greek

a name for Athena as 'goddess of light and warmth'

alecpong South American ancestral stones worshipped in Peru

Alecto Greek

[Allecto. 'relentless']

one of the 3 Furies

Alector Greek

a king of Argos

son of Anaxagoras

father of Iphis

Alectorian stone Greek

a magic stone said to be found in the stomach of a cockerel

alectromancy (see alectryomancy)

alectryomancy

[alectromancy]

divination from the actions of a cockerel eating grain placed beside letters written round a circle

Alectryon Greek

an attendant on Ares

He was guarding the door when Ares was in bed with Aphrodite, but fell asleep so that they were discovered and trapped in a net by Hephaestus. Ares turned him into a cockerel, doomed always to wake at dawn.

Aleine British

in some accounts, niece of Gawain

Aleian Plain Greek

a plain in the sky where Bellerophon

roamed and eventually died

Aleion Baal Mesopotamian

god of storms and spring

son of Baal

He was in conflict with Mot and in some stories was the victor, in others the loser. In one version his sister Anthat asked the underworld gods to restore her brother to life and, when they refused, cut his body in half with a sickle.

alekoki Pacific Islands
women's dance in Hawaii, in honour of the gods

Alemandine Celtic
a queen

When Floriant rid her kingdom of a beast that had devastated the countryside, she offered to marry him but he, loving Florete, declined the offer.

Alemmanus British
son of Histion

In some accounts he is regarded as the ancestor of the Germans.

Alemona Roman
a goddess of childbirth and passage

Aleph-tau eternity: beginning and end; author of the universe

Aleria Egyptian
an Amazon
wife of Guido the Wild

She was one of the ten wives whom Guido was forced to marry when he was captured by the Amazons. When he escaped, he took only Aleria with him.

Aletes<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Hippotas

He was told by the oracle at Dodona that he would acquire the throne of Corinth if he were given a lump of earth. In the guise of a beggar, he asked for bread at a festival and was given earth. He later took the throne of Corinth.

Aletes<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Aegithus and Clytemnestra

He was said to have become king of Mycenae but was killed by Orestes.

Alethai Pboenician
devotees of the fire-god, Al Ait

Aletis Greek
a name for Erigone, daughter of Icarus, as 'wanderer'

aleuromancy
divination from burning flour or from messages concealed in balls of dough

Aleuromantes (see Apollo)

Aleus<sup>1</sup> Greek
a god of night (see also Aleus<sup>2</sup>)

Aleus<sup>2</sup> Greek
king of Tegea
husband of Neara

father of Amphidamus, Auge, Cepheus and Lycurgus

In some accounts he is the same as Aleus, god of night.

Alexander<sup>1</sup> British
an emperor of Byzantium husband of Tantalis
father of Alexander and Alis

Alexander<sup>2</sup> British a prince of Byzantium son of Alexander and Tantalis husband of Soredamor
father of Sorigés

Alexander<sup>3</sup> European husband of Belisent
father of Orson and Valentine

Alexander<sup>4</sup> Greek [Alexander the Great. Son of Ammon.

Two-horned: = Arab Al-Iskandar.

Eskandar. Iskander. Iskender:
= Malay Iskandar: = Swahili Sikandari]
a 3rd c Macedonian general
son of Philip and Olympias

Although, like Charlemagne, Alexander was a real life character, many mythological tales are told about him. Some say that his father was a snake, others that it was the god Zeus Ammon. Alexander himself claimed Hercules as an ancestor. Another story says that the exiled Egyptian magician-king, Nictanebus, in the guise of Zeus Ammon, seduced Olympias, fathering Alexander.

He cut the Gordian knot that nobody had been able to unfasten and is said to have ridden under the Sahara looking for the Well of Life. He was said to have had aspirations to be regarded as a god.

Some say that he could make himself small and ride on an eagle or on two smaller birds which he guided by holding in front of them a piece of liver impaled on a spear. In this way, he was able to explore the heavens. Others maintain that he explored the heavens in a machine drawn by griffins. He is also said to have explored the depths of the oceans in a glass bell.

In one story, his cook, Khadir, achieved immortality by drinking the water from a pool (The Well of Life). Alexander was angry when he was prevented from doing the same when the well disappeared and he tried, unsuccessfully, to kill Khadir. He finally threw the cook into the sea, weighted with stones, but to no avail – Khadir became a sea-god, still immortal.

In some accounts, Alexander is described as an ancestor of King Arthur arising out of an affair with Sebille.

Alexander<sup>5</sup> (see Crop-eared Dog)

Alexander<sup>6</sup> (see Paris<sup>2</sup>)

Alexander of Abonuteichos
(see Alexander the Paphlagonian)

Alexander the Great (see Alexander<sup>4</sup>)

Alexander the Paphlagonian Greek
[Alexander of Abonuteichos]
a charlatan

He set up an oracle using a snake called Glycon that, he claimed, was a reincarnation of Asclepius, and used it to deceive the gullible.

Alexandra Greek
the name under which Cassandra was worshipped in some places

Alexandros (see Paris<sup>2</sup>)

Alexandros (see Paris)

Alexanor Greek
a physician

son of Machaon and Anticleia brother of Gorgasus and Nicomachus

Alexiars Greek
son of Heracles and Hebe

Alexirrhoe Greek
mother of Aesacus by Priam

Alexis<sup>1</sup> European a lover of Angela

When Angela was abducted by the giant Angoulaffre, Alexis appealed for help to Huon who killed the giant, took his magic ring and rescued Angela.

Alexis<sup>2</sup> Greek
a beautiful youth loved by Corydon

Alexius (see Alis)

Aleyan (see Aleyn)

Aleyn<sup>1</sup> Canaanite
[Aleyan. Al(y)iyn]
a name of Baal as 'mighty'

Aleyn<sup>2</sup> (see Alan)

Alf (see Elf. Elves)

Alf-blot Norse
a sacrifice to the elves

Alfader Norse
[Alfadir. Alfadur. Alfodr. All-father. All-seer]
a name of Odin as 'father of the gods'

Alfadir (see Alfader)

Alfadur (see Alfader)

Alfana European
a horse of Gradasso

Alfar (see Elves)

Alfasein British [Alfasem. Kadafes]

the name taken by Kalafes when he became a Christian

Alfasem (see Alfasein)

Alfatin African

a Moorish culture hero
He is said to ride a green horse and live in a cave. He is expected to emerge to save his people in their hour of need.

alferez South American

an organiser of religious rites and festivals

This post is occupied for one year, usually by a wealthy man who carries a small flag as his symbol of office.

Alferich (see Alberich.Andvari)Alfheim Norse

[Alfheimr.Elfhame.Elfheim.Liosalfheim.

Ljosalfaheim.Nibelheim]

the home of the good elves

This domain is said to be poised between heaven and earth. It is also regarded as the home of Frey.

(see also Liosalfheim.Svartalheim)

Alfheimr (see Alfheim)Alfild

first wife of Sigurd Ring

mother of Ragnar Lodbrok

She wove a magic shirt for Ragnar to keep him safe in battle.

Alfodr (see Alfader)Alfonso Spanish

son of Ferdinand

brother of Elvira, Garcia, Sancho and Urraca

On his father's death he was given the city of Leon. When his brother Garcia seized Zamora, which had been left to their sister Urraca, he helped Garcia in the battle that ensued when Sancho sent an army under El Cid to help Urraca. He was captured in the battle but survived.

He joined a monastery but later went off to join forces with the Moors under Alimaymon at Toledo.

When his brother Sancho was killed during the siege of Zamora, he was made king and, angry at being forced to state on oath that he was not involved in the death of Sancho at the hand of Dolfos, he dismissed El Cid from his service.

He later recalled El Cid and restored him to favour when he had a number of successes in fighting the Moors. Later they quarrelled again and El Cid left the siege of Toledo, which Alfonso was attempting to capture, and attacked Castile, but, when the Moors broke out of Toledo, Alfonso hastily recalled El Cid who soon captured the city for him.

Alfr Norse

a dwarf, one of the Lovar

Alfreiker (see Andvari)Alfrigg (see Alfrik)Alfrigga (see Alfrik)Alfrik Norse

[Alfrigg(a)]

a dwarf

He was one of the four dwarfs with whom Freya slept to get possession of the necklace Brisingamen, which they had made.

In the Thidrekssaga he owned the sword Naglring until it was taken from him by Thidrek (see Alberish.Andvari)

Alfrigga (see Alfrigg)Alfsol Norse

a princess

The aged Sigurd Ring fell in love with her but her parents refused to sanction the marriage. When Sigurd tried to take her by force, her father poisoned her. The grief-stricken Sigurd killed himself and died on her funeral pyre with his beloved.

Algarsife British

son of Cambuscan and Elfeta

brother of Canace and Cambalo

Algea Greek

[Algia]

pain personified

a descendant of Eris, goddess

of mischief

Algia (see Algea)Algol

[Demon (Star):=Arab Demon's Head. Ras

al Ghul:=Hebrew Demon's Head. Rosh

ha Satan.Satan's Head]

a bright star in the constellation

Perseus

This star is regarded as the head of the Gorgon, Medusa, suspended from the belt of Perseus, her slayer.

Algon North American

a Chippewa hunter

He found a fairy ring on the prairie and watched as twelve star maidens descended from the sky in a basket and danced round the ring. He tried several times to catch the youngest star maiden, without success, and finally turned himself into a mouse. When she tried to kill him, he returned to his normal form and carried her off. They married and had one son. Some years later she made another wicker basket and, taking the child with her, ascended to her home in the sky.

When the boy was grown up he asked to see his father so they came back to earth in the basket. Algon returned to the skies with them, taking parts of all the animals and birds with him. The star people each took one of the fragments and became the animal or bird whose part they had chosen. Algon, his wife and son all became falcons.

Algue (see Akakanet)Alhoniel

a moon demon

Ali<sup>1</sup> Malay

[Sheik Ali]

a king

He was said to have three regiments of fighting animals – elephants, horses and lions.

Ali<sup>2</sup> (see Vali<sup>2</sup>)Ali Baba Arabian

the hero of a story in The

Arabian Nights

brother of Cassim Baba

He discovered the password (Sesame or Simsim) to the robbers' cave and stole their treasure. His slave, Morgiana, killed the robbers when they hid in large jars by pouring boiling oil over them and later killed their leader. As a reward Ali gave her her freedom and allowed her to marry his son or nephew.

Alibadiri (see Ahl Al-Badr)Alice European

duchess of Bordeaux

wife of Sevinus

mother of Girard and Huon

Alice la Beale Pellerin British

[Alice the) Beautiful Pilgrim]

daughter of Ansirus wife of Alisander

mother of Bellengerus

It was said that she always wore a veil covering her face.

She rescued Alisander when he was held captive by Morgan le Fay.

Alice Marr North American

a phantom ship

This vessel enters the harbour at Gloucester, Massachusetts, but disappears when halfway across.

Alice the Beautiful Pilgrim

(see Alice la Beale Pellerin)

Alichino European

[Hellkin]

a demon in Dante's Inferno

Aliduke British

[Alyduke]

a Knight of the Round Table

He was one of the many knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot.

Alif Arabian

a title of the supreme spirit

Alif European

[Olif] daughter of Pepin, some say wife of Hugon
mother of Londres

When Alif was seduced by the courtier Milon, Hugon locked her in a dungeon full of snakes and toads where she stayed for seven years until rescued by her son, Londres. Her brother Charles (Charlemagne) restored her to her proper position and had Milon incarcerated in the same dungeon. When Hugon died, Alif entered a monastery. (see Bertha<sup>1</sup>)

Alifanfaron Spanish

a giant in the story of Don Quixote

Alifatima British

a king of Spain

He was killed while fighting on the side of Lucius against King Arthur

Aliha<sup>1</sup> Arabian

[=Babylonian Samas]

an ancient sun-goddess

Alilah Arabian

the supreme spirit

consort of Alilat

Alilat Arabian

[Al.Ailita.Allat.Halitta.Lat.=Greek

Aphrodite]

a mother-goddess

consort of Alilah

mother of Dasar

In some accounts she is identified with Atarsamain. She was worshipped by the Nabataeans in the form of a four-sided stone idol.

(see also Ilat.Rusa)

Alilta (see Alilat)alimagba African

a charm used in Dahomey

This Fon charm, a small carved figure, is carried on the belt to ensure safety when travelling based on the theory that two are safer than one. To make the charm effective it must be sprinkled with the blood of a cockerel.

Alimaymom Spanish

a leader of the Moors at Toledo

father of Yahia

When he died, the city, which was besieged by Alfonso, passed into the hands of his son, Yahia.

Alimiel

an astral spirit of fruitfulness

alipes Greek

the winged sandals of Hermes

Aliquipiso North American

a heroine of the Oneida

Her tribe had been overwhelmed by the Mingoes and the remnants were hiding on a mountain. Aliquipiso, pretending to help the Mingoes, led them to the foot of a cliff and signalled to her people, who then rained down boulders which killed many of the enemy. She herself died in the ambush.

Alis British

[Alexius]

an emperor of Constantinople

son of Alexander and Tantalus brother of Alexander husband of Fenice

His nephew, Clygés, fell in love with Fenice and went off to King Arthur's court to avoid conflict with his uncle.

When Alis died, Fenice married Clygés.

Alisander British

a knight of King Arthur's court

son of Baldwin and Anglides husband of Alice la Beale Pellerin

father of Bellengerus

He set out to avenge the murder of his father by his own brother, Mark, king of Cornwall.

Alice rescued him from the prison in which he had been incarcerated by Morgan le Fay and became his wife.

Alisanos Celtic

[Alisanus.Alisonus]

an earth-god and god of stones in Gaul

Alisanus (see Alisanos)Alisonus (see Alisanos)Aliste European

daughter of Margiste wife of Pepin I

mother of Andri and Remfré

Her mother was the nurse of Bertha, daughter of the king of Hungary, who was sent to France to marry the Frankish King Pepin I. Margiste contrived to substitute Aliste for Bertha and she became queen, producing two sons. When the deception was later exposed, Margiste was burnt at the stake. The fate of Aliste is not recorded.

Aliyn (see Aleyn)aljan African [plur=aljannu]

a Hausa name for a jinnee

Aljosa Popovic Russian

a hero based on a real person

The legends surrounding Aljosa credit him with slaying the dragon hero Tugarin. He tried to force into marriage the bride of Drobrynja who had left her in order to seek out and slay a dragon and was away for over seven years, but he returned in the nick of time to thwart Aljosa's plans.

Alk-unta'm North American

a sun-god of the Bella Coola tribe son of Nunuso'mikeqone'im

Alka<sup>1</sup> Baltic

sacred lands dedicated to the gods,
in Lithuanian lore

Alka<sup>2</sup> (see Alklha)alkahest

a mythical universal solvent

Alkathoia (see Alcathae)Alkathoos (see Alcathous)Alkestis (see Alcestis)Alkinoos (see Alcinoos)Alkione (see Alcyone)Alklha Siberian

[Alka.Arakho]

a monster

It is said that it is this monster in the sky that swallows the sun and moon at eclipses.

Alkmaeon (see Alcmaeon)Alkmaion (see Alcmaeon)Alkmene (see Alcmene)Alkuntam North American

a creator-goddess of the Bella

Coola tribe

She assisted Senx at the creation of living things. In some accounts, Alkuntam was male. His or her mother was said to be a mosquito which, by inserting its long snout into a person's ear, could suck out the brains.

Alkuone (see Alcyone)All-Container (see Awonawilona)All-Covering Father Sky

(see Apoyan Tachi)

All-father<sup>1</sup>

[All-seer]

a name given to supreme gods such as

Odin and Zeus: the pre-existing,

uncreated ruler of all things

(see also Alfader)

All-father<sup>2</sup> North American

the sky

All-father<sup>3</sup> (see Eochaid Ollathair)All Gods' Day Chinese

the eighth day of the New Year festival

All-Gracious (see P'u Hsien)All-mother (see Gaea)All-seer (see All-father)All-spirit (see Maheo)All-wise Norse

a dwarf

All-wise had been promised the hand of Freya but, when he arrived to claim her, Odin, who had been away from Asgard when the promise was made, saved Freya from this union. He said that he needed to test the dwarf's claim to great knowledge and kept him up all night answering questions about the gods and creation. He kept the questions going until the sun came up and its rays turned the dwarf into stone. A similar story is told of the dwarf (Alvis), Thor and his daughter Thrud. (see also Alvis)

Alladhan Irish

[Fear Caille]
a madman

He met the Irish madman Suibhne Geilt when the latter came to Britain and was with him for some time, but finally killed himself by drowning.

Allala bird Mesopotamian

a bird loved by Ishtar who broke his wings and abandoned him

Allantide British

a Cornish name for the festival of Samhain

Allat<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[=Carthaginian Allatu:=Egyptian Sakhmet]

a Babylonian goddess of the underworld (see also Sa'dan)

Allat<sup>2</sup> (see Alilat.Anat.Bethel)

Allatou (see Allatu)

Allatu Cartbaginian

[Allatou:=Babylonian Allat:=Sumerian Ershkigal:=Semitic Allatum]
a goddess of the underworld wife of Nergal

In some accounts she is equated with Asherah.

Allatum Semitic

[=Carthaginian Allatu:=Sumerian Ershkigal]

a goddess of the underworld

Allecto (see Alecto)

alligator

a reptile found in China, the southern part of the US and elsewhere

(1) In Bolivia the Guarani envisage an underworld ferryman, akin to the Greek Charon, in the form of an alligator.

(2) In Central America some tribes revere a deity depicted with the body of a man and the head of an alligator.

(3) Some Indonesian tribes tell how the trickster mousedeer induced the alligator to line up his family nose to tail and used them as a bridge to cross a swamp.

(4) A Japanese story has a monkey in place of the mousedeer of the Indonesian story.

(5) One North American story tells how Rabbit lured the alligator into a field and then set fire to the grass; this accounts for the beast's scaly skin. The story of walking on the backs of alligators to cross a swamp appears again in the southern states and, in this case, the last alligator in the line bit off Rabbit's tail. The alligator's dented nose is said to be the result of a blow when he was playing a ball game with the birds.

(6) In the Pacific Islands, the teeth of the alligator are worn as a charm to protect the wearer from illness and witches.

Alliterative Morte Arture British

a 15th c poem of over 4,000 lines about the life and death of King Arthur

Allocer

[Allo(i)en.Alocer]
a demon, a duke of hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

Alloen (see Allocer)

Alloien (see Allocer)

Alloit Irish

a sea-god

In some accounts he is regarded as the father of Manannan.

alloeism

the worship of strange gods

Allulu Mesopotamian

a birdman whose wing was broken by Ishtar whom he loved

Allvaldi Norse

a Giant
father of Thiassi

Alma<sup>1</sup> British

mistress of the House of Temperance in The Faerie Queene

Alma<sup>2</sup>

soul personified

Almaqah Arabian

a sky-god of the Saba tribe

Almaris European

a Saracen king

He was the leader of the Saracen forces at Roncesvalles.

Almenhenob Central American

a Mayan caste

To qualify as a member of this caste one needed to know the sacred language, Zuyua.

Almhu (see Almu)

almond

a small tree of temperate climates producing hard-shelled nuts

(1) In the Bible, Aaron's rod was made of almond wood.

(2) In the German story of Tannhauser, the hero's staff, which blooms when stuck into the earth, was made of almond wood.

(3) The Greek story of Demophoon and Phyllis has the girl turning into an almond tree when she despairs of ever seeing her lover again.

Almontes European

[Eaumont]

a Saracen warrior

He was killed by Roland who then took his sword, Urindana.

(see Jutmundus)

Almu Irish

[Almhu (of the White Walls)]

the home of Finn mac Cool

Almus Greek

[Halmus]

son of Sisyphus and Merope

brother of Glaucus, Orytion and Thersander

Alnaschar Persian

brother of the barber in The Arabian Nights

He frustrated all his ambitions to become rich when he kicked over the basket of glassware that he had bought to sell at a profit.

Aloadae Greek

[Aoadai.Aloeidae.Aloidae.Aloidai]

the twin giants Ephialtes and Otus

Their nominal father was Aloeus but they were really sons of Poseidon.

Aloadai (see Aloadae)

Al'o'alo Pacific Islands

['fanner']

a weather-god in Tonga

Alocer (see Allocer)

Aloeidae (see Aloadae)

Aloeos (see Aloeus)

Aloeus Greek

[Aloeos]

one of the Earthborn

Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

husband of Iphimedia and Eriboea

He was the nominal father of the twin giants Otus and Ephialtes whose real father was Poseidon.

Aloidae (see Aloadae)

Aloidai (see Aloadae)

Alois British

a king of Northgaels

He waged war against Amorolodo, the king of Ireland but they made peace when Isolde and Guinevere intervened.

alomancy

[halomancy]

divination using salt thrown on the fire

- Alon British
a Knight of the Round Table
a young relative of King Arthur
- Alope Greek
daughter of Cercyon
mother of Hippothous by Poseidon
When she gave birth to Hippothous, she abandoned the infant who was found by shepherds. They took him to her father who killed her and then abandoned the child again. It was found by the same shepherds who kept the boy and reared him.
- Aloros Greek
the Greek version of Alulim
- Alory European
a standard bearer in Charlemagne's army
He proved to be a coward in his first battle so Ogier took the oriflamme from him and carried it back into the fray.
- Alose African [=Ashanti Obosum:=Dahomey
Vodun:=Yoruban Orisha]
a god: a group of minor deities of the lbo
- Alounis (see Alannus)
- Alouqua
a female demon or succubus
- Aloya Pacific Islands
a girl loved by the giant Arogo
- Alp Norse
[Alb]
a demon of the night, half god,
half dwarf
- Alpan Italian
[Alp(a)nu]
an Etruscan god or goddess of the underworld
- Alpanu (see Alpan)
- Alph Greek
a sacred river
- alphabetical gods South American unidentified gods of the Maya The Spaniards destroyed many of the records of the Maya, making identification of some deities difficult or impossible. These have been given labels, A to I and K to P.
- Alphaeus (see Alpheus<sup>2</sup>)
- Alphariza
an astral spirit of fruitfulness
- Alphee (see Alpheus<sup>2</sup>)
- Alpheius (see Alpheus<sup>2</sup>)
- Alphere (see Albhere)
- Alphesiboea Greek [Arsinoe]
daughter of Phegeus
In some stories she was the mother of Adonis by Phoenix, in others she was
- Arsinoe, the first wife of Alcmaeon.
(see also Arsinoe)
- Alpheto (see Ariadne)
- Alpheus<sup>1</sup> European a physician and astrologer in Charlemagne's camp
He was killed in his sleep by Cloridan who penetrated the Frankish camp by night, intent on revenge for the death of his leader, Dardinel.
- Alpheus<sup>2</sup> Greek [Alphaeus.Alphee.Alpheius]
a river-god of Arcadia son of Oceanus and Thetis
When he attempted to seduce Arethusa who was bathing in the river, she ran off and Artemis turned her into a spring or fountain to save her from his clutches.
- Alphin
a dove spirit
- Alphito Greek [Albina.White (Sow) Goddess]
the goddess of barley
She disguised herself as a bird or an animal to destroy children. In one account, as Albina, she arrived in Britain at the head of a group of fifty women who had killed their husbands, for which crime they had been banished.
- Alphyn
a monster with knotted tail
- Alpiel Hebrew
a guardian of fruit trees
- Alpnu (see Alpan)
- Alpris (see Alberich.Andvari)
- Alquife
a famous enchanter
- Alraun
the root of the mandrake: a good luck
charm is made from it
- Alraun<sup>2</sup> (see Alrune<sup>3</sup>)
- Alrida (see Odin)
- Alrinach
a demon causing shipwrecks, sometimes seen in the form of an old woman
- Alruna-wife (see Alrune-wife)
- alrune<sup>1</sup>
a demon: a succubus
- alrune<sup>2</sup>
a magic doll that could foretell the future and warn of danger
- Alrune<sup>3</sup> German [Alraun]
a household-god
This being was said to be about twelve inches tall and was housed in a cupboard. Milk and biscuits were provided to sustain the Alrune.
- Alrune-wife German [Alruna-wife]
a household-goddess
- Alseides Greek
tree-nymphs
- Alsuid (see Alsvid)
- Alsvid Norse
[Alsuid.Alsvidur.Alsvid.Alsvinn]
a horse drawing the chariot of the moon-god (see also Arvakur)
- Alsvidur (see Alsvid)
- Alsvin (see Alsvid)
- Alswid (see Alsvid)
- Altair (see Ch'ien Niu)
- Altarpia European
a castle where Rinaldo was saved from a monster by the help of Angelica
- Altcanals Central American
an Aztec god
This deity, envisaged as blue with yellow hair and purple face, is the male version of Chalchiutlicue.
- Altecler (see Hauteclair)
- alter ego
second self: spirit double
- Altes Greek
king of Leleges
father of Laothea
- Althaea<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Althea.Althaia]
a name of Eurynome as 'she who causes growth'
- Althaea<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Althea.Althaia]
daughter of Thestius and Eurythemis sister of Plexippus and Toxeus wife of Oeneus
mother of Deianeira, Gorge, Melanippus, Meleager and Tydeus Her daughter Deianeira (later to be the wife of Heracles) was said to be the daughter of Dionysus, and Meleager was said to be the son of Ares. When Meleager was born, the Fates decreed that he would die when a piece of wood they threw on the fire was completely burnt away. Althaea doused the flames and hid the brand, but when Meleager killed her brothers after a quarrel arising out of the hunt for the Calydonian boar, she threw it back on the fire and as it burnt away Meleager died. She hanged herself in remorse.
Some of her daughters were changed into guinea fowl by Artemis.
In some accounts she was the mother of Atabyrius.
- Althamenes (see Althamenes)
- Althaia (see Althaea)
- Althamenes Greek [Althamenes]

son of Catreus
brother of Aerope, Apemosyne
and Clymene
Hoping to frustrate an oracle that decreed that Catreus would be killed by his own child, Althamenes went from Crete to Rhodes with his sister, Apemosyne. When she became pregnant as a result of rape by Hermes, he kicked her to death. When Catreus came to Rhodes to offer his son the throne of Crete, Althamenes mistook his father's ship for a pirate vessel and killed his own father.

Althea (see Althaea)
Althjofr Norse
one of the dwarfs
Altis Greek
the sacred precinct of Zeus at Olympia
Altjira Australian [Altjira]
creator-god and sky-god of the Aborigines
He was one of the ancestral deities of the Dreamtime, but when the others returned to their underground sleep he ascended into the highest heaven. He is depicted as having the feet of an emu.

altjiranga (see alchera)
Altjirra (see Altjira)
alto misayoc South American high-ranking sorcerers of the Quechua Altor Roman [feeder] an ancient god
Altus Irish
a Roman
In some accounts it was he, not Cathbad, who brought the news of Christ's death to Conor mac Nessa.

Altvaras Baltic
a flying snake
Alu<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
a storm-god
a Babylonian demon who killed people by crushing them
Alu<sup>2</sup> (see Galla)
Aluberi South American
a remote supreme god of the Arawak American Indians Aluelap Pacific Islands
the omniscient son of a sky-god grandson of Ligoupup
Alukah Canaanite
[Aluqa]
a blood-sucking monster
She seduces men who, exhausted from intercourse and loss of blood, kill themselves.

Alulim Mesopotamian [=Greek Aloros:=Persian Al]
a Sumerian deity: the first man
He is said to have descended from heaven and ruled on earth for 28,000 (or 67,200) years.

Aluluei Pacific Islands
a god of navigation
When his brothers killed him, his father brought him back to life The stars are regarded as his many thousand eyes.

alum
a transparent mineral, sulphate of aluminium
(1) In Egypt this mineral is regarded as protecting from the evil eye. A lump of alum placed in the fire will, it is said, take on the shape of one's enemy provided that verses from the Koran are recited as the alum is heated. When it has cooled the alum is ground to a powder that is mixed with food and fed to the dogs.
(2) In the southern states of North America it is said that a lump of alum held in the mouth protects against witchcraft.

Alun Dyfed Welsh
a Welsh huntsman
Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get the help of this famous huntsman in the quest to capture Twrch Trwyth.
Aluqa (see Alukah)
Alutanga Nuku Pacific Islands
a chieftain for whom the hero Atonga built a magical canoe
Alv (see Alf<sup>6</sup>)
Alva<sup>1</sup> Irish [Arbha] daughter of Ailill of Aran sister of Aobh and Aoife foster daughter of Bodb Dearg daughter of Bodb Dearg, in some accounts
Alva<sup>2</sup> (see Maahiset)
Alv-myror (see Maahiset)
Alvarez British [Alvrez]
a king of Ireland
father of Kamelin and Miroet
Alvasta (see Ovda)
Alvis Norse
[Alviss]
a dwarf
When he tried for the hand of Thrud, Thor, her father, kept him answering questions until the sun rose. The daylight turned the dwarf, accustomed only to the darkness of his underground home, into stone.

Alvis-Mal Norse
[Lay of Alvis]
a poem in the Elder Edda telling the story of Alvis and his quest for the hand of Thrud
Alviss (see Alvis)
Alvit Norse
[Hervor] a swan maiden
wife of Volund
mother of Heime
With her sisters Olrun and Svanhvit she flew to earth to bathe. They left their wings on the shore where they were seized by the brothers Egil, Slagfinn and Volund who kept the maidens as their wives for nine years before they recovered their wings and flew off. Her husband, the smith Volund, after being captured and enslaved by Nidud, made a pair of wings with which he flew to Alfheim where he was re-united with Alvit.
In some accounts she is referred to as Angeburga or Hervor.

Alvor Norse
a race of small people: the hog folk: a form of elf
These people are said to dance in the fields at night. (see also Elves)
Alvrez (see Alvarez)
Alyattes Greek
a king of Lydia
father of Croesus
Alyduke (see Aliduke)
Alyiyn (see Aleyn)
Alyne (see Elaine<sup>6</sup>)
Alyssus Greek
a fountain in Arcadia said to cure madness
Am-Duat (see Book of Am Duat)
Am-Heh Egyptian
a dog-headed god of the underworld
ama<sup>1</sup> Japanese [ame]
heaven
Ama<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
[Ma]
a Sumerian virgin mother-goddess
Ama<sup>3</sup> (see Amma<sup>4</sup>.Eire)
Ama-arhus Mesopotamian
[Amat-Ara-arhus.Arad-Ama-arhus.Great Mother.Mama] a Babylonian fertility-goddess (see also Mami)
Ama-inu Japanese
a celestial dog that drives away demons
Ama-no-Hashidate Japanese [Ama-no-iha-fune.Ama-no-uki-hashi]
a stairway linking heaven and earth

Ama-no-ho Japanese

[Hohi]

a divine messenger

He was the first of three envoys sent to prepare the way for the arrival on earth of Ninigi.

Ama-no-iha-fune(see Ama-no-Hashidate)Ama-no-iwato Japanese

[Ame-no-iwato]

the cave in which Amaterasu hid

Ama-no-Kama Japanese

[Ama-no-yase-kawa.Ama-no-yasu-kawa]

a river in heaven: the Milky Way

Ama-no-Minaka-nushi(see Minaka-nushi)Ama-no-Oshihō-mimi Japanese

son of Amaterasu

His mother asked him to take over as ruler of the earth, but, having taken a look at the earth from the celestial bridge he refused.

Ama-no-uki-hashi(see Ama-no-Hashidate)Ama-no-yase-kawa(see Ama-no-Kama)Ama-no-yasu-kawa(see Ama-no-Kama)Ama-no-yasu-no-gawa *(see Tenga)Ama-Terasu *(see Amaterasu)Ama-Tsu-Kami Japanese

gods of heaven as opposed to

Kuni-Tsu-Kami

Ama-Tsu-Mara Japanese

the Shinto smith-god

He made the mirror that was used to persuade Amaterasu to come out of her cave. The mould for the mirror was made by Ishi-Kore-Tome.

He is depicted as having only one eye.

Ama-Tsu-mika-hoshi Japanese

an evil star-god

Ama-Usum-Gal-Ana(see Amaushumgalanna)Amadan Irish

[‘fool’.Stroke Lad]

a male fairy that can paralyse a human merely by its touch

Amadan Mor Irish

[Great Fool]

the chief Stroke Lad of the fairies

Amadan na bruidne Irish

the fool of the fairy palaces of the sidhe

Amadi-Oha African

an Igbo storm-god

Amadis Spanish

a love-god

Amadis of Gaul European

[Beltenbras.Beltenebros.Child of the Sea.Child of the Sun.Knight of the Dwarf.Knight of the Green Sword. Knight of the Invincible Sword. Lion Knight.Lovely Obscure] a knight errant

son of Perion and Elizena husband of Oriana
father of Esplandian

As a baby he was set adrift in a boat but was saved from the sea by Gandales who reared him alongside his own son, Gandalin. Both were taken to the court of the Scottish king, Languines, and became firm friends of his son, Agraies. He was in love with Oriana, daughter of the king of Britain who, when he went to the aid of the princess Briolania, thought he had deserted her and wrote a letter terminating their relationship.

He went to Firm island where he and Agraies, his cousin, were able to pass through the Arch of True Love while Galaor and Florestan refused to try. All four tried to enter the Forbidden Chamber but only Amadis succeeded, the others being thrown back by unseen forces. He was acclaimed as ruler of the island but, when he received Oriana’s letter, he left his companions and went off alone, seeking death as a release from his sorrow.

He met the monk Andalod, who called him Beltenbros when Amadis refused to give his real name, and together they went to a hermitage on Poor Rock Island. Here he was found by the Damsel of Denmark who gave him a second letter from Oriana in which she begged his forgiveness, whereupon he returned joyfully to Britain.

He met a wagon-train of captured knights and maidens, led by the giant Famongomadan and Basagante, his son. Among the many captives was Leonoretta, sister of his beloved Oriana. He killed both the giants and freed their prisoners.

When the Irish king, Cildadan, challenged Lisuarte for the kingdom, Amadis led 100 British knights in a contest, with a like number on the Irish side. Amadis rescued Lisuarte, who had been captured by the giant Mandanfabul, and killed the giant, after which they routed the enemy who fled to their ships. Amadis received the gratitude of Lisuarte and the hand of Oriana.

He was said to be the original owner of the horse Bayard.

Amadis of Gaul European

a 16th c Spanish story of the exploits of Amadis

Later additions increased this story to fourteen volumes.

Amadis of Greece European

great grandson of Amadis of Gaul grandson of Lisuarte

son of Esplandian

amadlozis African

the ancestors of some South

African tribes

These beings are said to live in the centre of the earth and can convey instructions from the gods to their descendants. It is the amadlozis who select and compel a person to become a sangoma, using illness as a means of forcing the chosen ones to obey. It is said that the spirits of these ancestors reside in cockerels.

Amaethon Welsh

[Amath(a)on] a Welsh god of agriculture

son of Beli and Don brother of Govannon and

Gwydion

In the story of Culhwch and Olwen, only Amaethon was capable of the ploughing task that Ysbaddaden imposed on Culhwch and he was required to force the giant to plough the land using the ploughshare of Govannon and the four giants who had been turned into oxen.

He is said to have visited the underworld and returned with a dog, a lapwing and a young buck belonging to Arawn, the lord of the underworld.

Amapat Siberian

a spirit that advises a shaman

Amahasis *(see Atrahasis)Amaiauna West Indian

a cave

Human beings were originally confined to this cave and another, called Cacibagiagua.

Amaimon

[Amaymon.Amoymon.Maimon.

Maymon]

a mediaeval devil, ruler of the eastern part of hell

one of the cardinal demons

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

Amairgen *(see Amergin)Amaite Aidgill Irish

[Hags of Doom]

evil spirits on the side of the Danaans in their battles with the Fir Bolg

Amaite-Rangi Pacific Islands

a demon of the Mangaia Islanders
He was said to lower baskets from the sky and devour any mortals he might catch in them. He was overcome by the culture hero, Ngaru.

Amaka Siberian

one of the 2 aspects of the supreme being of the Evenk tribe

In this aspect the creator looks after the interests of human beings; in his other aspect, as Ekseri, he is the guardian of animals and forests.

Amakandu *(see Sakkan)Amala North American

['smoke hole'.Very Dirty]
a culture hero

According to a number of tribes, the world was originally supported by an old man who took the weight on a pole balanced on his chest. Amala was the youngest of several brothers, dirty and lazy but phenomenally strong. When the old man was dying, he sent for Amala who then took over the job of supporting the world-pole on his chest.

Amalivaca South American

a culture-hero of the American Indian tribes of the Orinoco basin

He instructed his people in the arts of agriculture.

Amalthea<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aega.Amaltheia]
a goat

She is variously referred to as the goat nymph or a she goat that suckled the infant Zeus. Zeus is said to have broken off one horn and decreed that it should always be full of food and drink (cornu copiae, horn of plenty).

In some accounts Zeus placed the horn in the heavens as the constellation Capricornius.

(see also Aega)

Amalthea<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Amaltheia]
a goat skin worn by Zeus, later made into Athena's shield

Amalthea<sup>3</sup> *(see Sibyl of Cumae)Amaltheia *(see Amalthea)Amalung Norse

son of Hornbogi

Aman<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

a demon who devoured the dead

Aman<sup>2</sup> *(see Amen<sup>1</sup>)Amana South American

a creator-goddess of the Calina tribe
She lived in the Milky Way attended by the creatures of the sea. She first created the sun, and when it tried to scorch the earth she trapped it in the sea, creating two other beings, Tamulu and Tamusi, to guard it.

amanani African monsters of the Abaluyia

Amanda European

the name taken by Clarimunda when she became a Christian

Amangons British

a king of Granland

He was said to be a cruel king who, with his followers, raped the maidens guarding the wells and stole their golden vessels, driving them off to live in the forests. For 100 years, the country was a wasteland. Then King Arthur found some of the descendants of the maidens and heard the story from one of them, Blihos-Blikeris, and ordered a search of the country for the court of the Fisher King, which led to the restoration of the countryside.

Amangundu African

in the lore of the Ovandonga, the first man

father of Kanzi and Nangombe

Amanki Mesopotamian

a Babylonian water-god

Amanominakanushi *(see Minaka-Nushi)Amanoro Armenian

a spring-goddess

Amanotokotachi *(see Tokotachi)Amant British

a knight at King Mark's court

He set out with Mark and Bersules to kill Tristram but refused to be party to the murder. When Mark killed Bersules, who had also refused to help, Amant charged Mark with murder at King Arthur's court. He fought Mark on the issue and was killed.

Amaomec African

a name of Nyame as 'he who gives sufficiency'

amara-varuni *(see amrita)Amaradu Mesopotamian

[Amaraduk]

a Sumerian name for Marduk

Amaradevi Buddhist

a virtuous woman

When four men pestered her with their attentions, she shut them up in a basket and left them there all night.

Amaraduk *(see Amaradu)Amaranit British

an Ethiopian giant killed by Guy of Warwick

Amaravati Hindu

[Devapura:=Norse Valhalla]

the chief city of Svarga, Indra's heaven, built on Mount Meru: land of bliss

This city, home of the blessed and fallen warriors, is said to be encrusted with jewels and has 1,000 gates.

Amarga Mesopotamian

a Babylonian divine calf, offspring of the sun

Amargen *(see Amergin)Amarok Inuit

[Great Wolf]

an Inuit deity: a wolf-like monster

Amarud *(see Marduk.Nimrod)Amarum South American

a demon in the lore of the Quecha, envisaged as a water snake

Amarnyuceus Greek

son of Pyttiis

father of Diore

He led the forces of Augeas when Heracles returned to exact vengeance for being cheated out of the promised reward for cleansing the stables of Augeas.

Amarynthus Greek

a dog of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon the hunter watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Amarynthus, tore him to pieces.

Amasarac

a demon

Amasis<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Masis]

in Babylonian stories, the site (Mount Ararat), where Noah landed his ark

Amasis<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Egypt

He advised Polycrates to discard something he valued to avert possible ill fortune. Polycrates threw a valuable ring into the sea but found it a few days later in the stomach of a fish.

Amasuhiko Japanese

son of Fire Fade and Toyo-tama husband of Tama-yori

father of Jimmu-tenno and Itsu-se

His mother abandoned him, resumed her form as a sea dragon and returned to her underwater home when his father, disobeying orders, witnessed the birth. His mother's younger sister Tama-Yoni reared the boy and later married him.

Amata Roman

wife of Latinus

mother of Lavinia

She wanted her daughter to marry Turnus, not Aeneas. She was driven mad by one of the Furies at the behest of Hera and she hid herself and Lavinia in the woods. When Turnus was killed she hanged herself.

Amat-Ara-arhus (see Ama-arhus)

Amaterasu Japanese

[Ama-Terasu.Amaterasu-no-mikoto.

Amaterasu-oho-hiru-no. Amaterasu-oho-mi-kami.Amaterasu Omikami.Mikurata-na. Oho-hiru-me-no-muchi.Omikami. Shinmei.Tensho-ko-daijin]

a Shinto sun-goddess

an aspect of Kunitokotachi

daughter of Izanagi and Izanami sister of Susanowa, Tsuki-yomo and

Waka-hiru-me

She was said to have been produced from the eye (right or left according to which story is read) of Izanagi when he washed his face. When she was born, her parents sent her up the Ladder of Heaven to take her place as the sun-goddess.

Susanowa challenged her to a contest in an attempt to take over her kingdom of heaven. She chewed up his sword and spat out three female deities, and he swallowed her five-strand necklace and spat out five male deities. He then claimed her realm, and so upset his sister that she shut herself in the cave Ama-no-iyato and darkness descended on the earth until the Eighty Myriad Gods persuaded her to emerge when they invented the mirror, Kagami, for her and had Uzume dance to make them all laugh.

Her sacred bird was the Yatagarasu.

(see also Hachioji)

Amatheon Greek

king of Pylus

Amathaon (see Amaethon.Amathaounta)

Amathaounta Egyptian

[Amathaon:=Sumerian Ashima]

a sea-goddess of the Aegean

Amathon (see Amaethon)

Amatsu-Kami (see Ama-tsu Kami)

Amaunet Egyptian

a fertility-goddess, goddess of the primitive waters

With Amen, she represented the unknowableness of the waters. In some accounts, she is identified with Neith or Mut.

She is sometimes depicted as having a snake's head.

Amauri (see Amaury)

Amaury European

[Amauri]

a cousin of Gano

He plotted with Charlot to kill Huon and his brother Girard so that Charlot could take over their dukedom. The plan went astray and Charlot was killed by Huon.

Amaushumgalanna Mesopotamian

[Ama-Usum-Gal-Ana]

a name of Dumuzi as date-god

amautas South American

Inca wise men, compilers of their history and legends

Amayicoyondi (see Anayicoyondi)

Amaymon (see Amaimon)

Amazarak

one of the 7 schin, said to have taught men the arts of sorcery and mathematics

Amazonas (see Amazons)

Amazonomachy Greek

the war between the Athenians under Theseus and the Amazons which the Athenians won

Amazons<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Amazonas.Oeorpata]

warrior maidens

daughters of Ares and Artemis, some say

In some accounts their mother was Aphrodite or Otrere. They came from Asia Minor or Scythia and made a practice of breaking the arms and legs of all male infants to keep them subservient. They cut off one breast to make it easier to use a bow

or spear. There were three tribes, each with its own city and ruled by one of three queens.

Some say that they killed and ate any men who landed on their shores.

They were defeated in battle by Theseus leading the Athenians.

In Arthurian lore, they appear as a subject race under Lucius. In one story they were engaged in battle by Gawain, and the Crop-eared Dog is said to have killed their queen. Spenser called their queen Radigund.

In Arabian lore, each had one male, one female breast or one breast in the centre. Some say men and women lived on opposite sides of the river in West Africa, and met only in the dry season when the river could be forded.

Others say the women lived without men, conceiving by bathing in a certain pool, perhaps inhabited by a jinnee who mated with them.

Amazons<sup>2</sup> Slav

[=Russian Polenitsa]

female warriors led by Vlasta

Amazons<sup>3</sup> South American

a race of female warriors

Amba<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a name of Parvati as 'mother'

Amba<sup>2</sup> Jain

gods of the underworld

These beings are said to torture

the wicked dead by scraping their nerves.

Ambahini East Indian

a name for Ambalika in Java

Ambalika Hindu

[=Javanese Ambahini]

wife of Vichitravirya

mother of Pandu by Vyasa

Her husband died before fathering any children so his half-brother, Bhishma, was prepared to do his duty to the widow in this respect. The hermit Vyasa anticipated him and Pandu, Ambalika's

son, was born with very pale features

because, it is said, Ambalika went white with shock when she realised who was in her bed.

Ambara Jain

gods of the underworld who torture

the wicked dead by cutting the flesh

from their bones

Ambarisha Hindu

one of the 7 realms of hell, Naraka

Ambarvalia Roman

the festival of the crops in late May

amber

this fossil resin features in many cultures

(1) In the Baltic it is used as a cure for pains in joints.

(2) In China amber is regarded as the mineralised form of the soul of the tiger.

(3) Inuit wear amber to bring good luck in hunting.

(4) Some European cultures have used amber as a cure for illnesses.

(5) The Greek story of Phaeton says that the tears of his sisters, grieving at his death, turned into amber beads. A similar story is told of the sisters of Meleager.

(6) In Italy, it is regarded as protecting the wearer from witchcraft.

(7) Muslims use amber beads in bracelets, etc. as an alleged cure for jaundice.

(8) The Norse myths say that when Odin left Freya for his sojourn on earth, she wept and her tears turned to amber.

(9) In Tibet amber is used to bring good luck to hunters and fishermen.

(10) The Turks use amber for the mouthpiece of a pipe in the belief that it can prevent the spread of infection when the pipe is passed from one to another.

Ambi<sup>1</sup>	Hindu [Ambika]
a moon-goddess wife of Agni
Ambi<sup>2</sup>	(see Kali.Parvati.Uma)
Ambicatus	British
a fictitious king of Britain
Ambika<sup>1</sup>	Hindu
wife of Vichitravirya
mother of Dhritarashtra by Vyasa
Her husband died before fathering any children so his half-brother, Bhishma, was prepared to do his duty to the widow in this respect. The hermit Vyasa anticipated him and Ambalika's son, Dhritarashtra, was born blind because, it is said, she closed her eyes when she realised who was in her bed.
Ambika<sup>2</sup>	Hindu a goddess of food
a manifestation of Lakshmi
a name for Devi or Parvati as 'mother' (see also Ambi <sup>1</sup> .Kali.Mahadevi. Parvati.Sati <sup>3</sup> .Uma)
Ambika<sup>3</sup>	(see Ambu Dewi)
Ambisagrus	Roman a Celtic god in Gaul
Ambologera	Greek
a name of Aphrodite as 'postponer of old age'
Ambres	Celtic [=Roman Jupiter]
a sun-god
Ambreu	British
son of Bedivere
a page at King Arthur's court
Ambriel a demon, ruler of the sign of Gemini
Ambron	British
a servant of Renwein Aurelius had killed Vortigern and reclaimed his throne but Renwein, Vortigern's wife, avenged his death through Ambron. She gave him a phial of poison and when Aurelius fell ill, Ambron appeared in the guise of a physician and administered the poison, claiming it was a cure for the king's illness.
Another story says that Eopa administered the poison at the behest of Vortigern's son Paschent.
ambrosia<sup>1</sup>	Greek
the food of the gods conferring everlasting youth oil used for anointing and healing
Ambrosia<sup>2</sup>	Greek
one of the Hyades, in some accounts
Ambrosius	(see Merlin)
Ambrosius Aurelianus	(see Aurelius)
Ambroy Orselet	Celtic [Oyselet]
a knight mentioned in Merlin
Ambu Dewi	East Indian [Ambika.Bairawi.Divine Mother.Lara Jonggrang.Sunan Ambu.=Hindu Durga. Kali] consort of Siwa
In other versions she was the wife of Guriang Tunggal and mother of Guru Minda.
Ambupati	Hindu [Lord of the Waters]
a water-god
Ambuscias [Amduscias]
a demon, duke of hell
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
Amduscias	(see Ambuscias)
ame	(see ama <sup>1</sup> )
Ame-no-Murakumo	(see Kusanagi)
Ame-no-wo-ha-bari	Japanese
the magic sword of Izanagi Izanagi used this weapon to decapitate his son, the fire-god Kazu-Tsuchi.
Ame-no-ih-a-kina	Japanese
the throne of God
Ame-no-iwato	(see Ama-no-iwato)
Ame-no-minaka-nushi
(see Minaka-Nushi.Toyo-uke-hime. Zoka no sashin)
Ame-no-Toko-Tachi-no-kami	Japanese
a primordial female deity: the female principle
Ame-no-Uzume-no-mikato	(see Uzume)
Amei Awi	East Indian
a Dayak god of agriculture
brother and husband of Burung Une These two were the progenitors of the human race. Amei Awi also created some animals from pieces of bark. Some of their later children could not speak until they ate a fish caught by their father, after which they were able to speak in a different language. Having completed their creative work on earth, Amei Awi and his wife disappeared into the ground.
Ameinius	Greek [Amenias]
a suitor of Narcissus who killed himself when he was rejected
Ameles	(see Lethe)
Amelia	West Indian [Maitresse Amelia]
a voodoo spirit
Amelis	(see Amiles)
Amelott	German an old warrior serving Dietrich von Bern
He was one of the party captured by Ermenrich.
Amelrich	German
a name used by Hagen
This name persuaded a ferryman to take Hagen into his boat, but when he realised that he had been tricked he fought with Hagen and was killed.
Amelunc	German grandfather of Dietrich von Bern, in some accounts father of Dieter, Dietmar and Ermenrich
Amem	(see Amon <sup>1</sup> )
Amemait	(see Ammut)
Amen<sup>1</sup>	Egyptian [Aman.Amem.Amom.Ammon.Am(o)un. Hammon.Min.=Greek Zeus.=Libyan Hammon.Jupiter- Ammon.=Roman Jupiter] supreme creator-god, god of fertility and life
god of Thebes
one of the 3 Lords of Destiny husband of Ament
father of Khons
Some say that he was born from the voice of Thoth.
As a god of the primitive waters he represented, together with Amaunet, the unknowableness of the waters.
In one account, he engendered Athor and Kneph who were the parents of Osiris and Isis.
In Greek mythology, his cult existed at the oasis of Siwah.
His bird is the goose and he is depicted variously as a man with a human head or that of a frog, a ram or a serpent, or as an ape or a lion, and sometimes wearing a cap with two long feathers.
Amen<sup>2</sup>	Welsh [Cauldron of Inspiration]
the magic cauldron of Ceridwen, in Welsh lore
She used this cauldron to prepare a brew to give her son Avaggu all the knowledge in the world.
(see also Ogyrvan)
Amen<sup>3</sup>	Central American
shamans said to control elemental forces
Amen-Khum	Egyptian [Amun-Kneph]
a deity, darkness personified
He was worshipped in the Great Oasis and was envisaged as having a ram's head or horns.
Amenadial [Ament]
a demon of the West

Amene British
a queen
wife of Lar
mother of Larie

When her kingdom was invaded by Roaz, she asked King Arthur for help. He sent Wigalois to help her and he defeated Roaz and married the queen's daughter Larie.

Amenophis Egyptian
[=Greek Memnon]
god of Thebes
son of Ahmes-Nefertari husband of Tiy

He is depicted as being a black-skinned version of Amenhotep III.

Amenhotep Egyptian
the god of healing

He was originally a mortal pharaoh, later deified.

Ament<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a serpent-headed or cat-headed mother-goddess wife of Amon

Originally she was a Libyan goddess. In Thebes she is Mut.

Ament<sup>2</sup> (see Amenadia)
Amentet<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

a goddess of the West
She is regarded as a goddess of the underworld who receives the dead.

Amentet<sup>2</sup> (see Amenti)

Amethes (see Amenti)

Amenias (see Ameinius)

Amenti<sup>1</sup> Egyptian [Amentet.Amenthes.Ashet.Dewat.Duat.
Dwjt.Fields of Peace.Land of the Dead.Pet.Tuat]

a region of the underworld
Ra, as Auf, passed back through this valley in the sky at the end of each day, ready to start his journey across the sky at dawn. (see also Yారు)

Amenti<sup>2</sup> (see Sons of Horus) Amerant British

a giant killed by Guy of Warwick
Ameretat Persian

[(A-)Mertat.A-Murdad] goddess of water and vegetation
one of the Amesha Spentas
an aspect of Ahura Mazda as 'immortality'
daughter of Ahura Mazda

This being is in charge of plants and is opposed by the demon Taurvi.

Amergin<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Ama(i)rgen.Amhairghin.Amorg(a)in.
Amorgein]
a smith

He slept with a slave girl and his master, King Tigernmas, ordered that they be burnt. The child still in the womb spoke to the king and he abandoned his intentions.

Amergin<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Ama(i)rgen.Amhairghin.Amorg(a)in.
Amorgein]
son of Milesius and Scota
brother of Eber Finn and Eremon husband of Scena

He was the first of the sons of Milesius to set foot in Ireland and he killed one of the Danaan kings, Mac Greine, and arbitrated when Eber Finn and Eremon disputed the sovereignty of Ireland, awarding the throne to Eremon. He was killed by Eremon at the Battle of Bile Teaneadh when the brothers quarrelled.

Amergin<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Ama(i)rgen.Amhairghin mac Eigit Salaigh.Amorg(a)in.Amorgein]
a druid and poet to Conor mac Nessa son of Eigit Salaigh husband of Finchoom
father of Conall Cearnach

When Aithirne, jealous of the boy's powers, went to kill him, his father made a clay statue which Aithirne struck with an axe.

He killed a three-headed monster that was ravaging the countryside. Some say that this is the monster, Aillen, slain by Finn mac Cool while others maintain that it was a bird which lived in the Cave of Cruachan.

In a battle with Fergus, they threw stones at each other but the stones met in the air and so they called a truce.

He was involved in the fight at the hostel of Da Coga and was one of only three survivors.

Amergin<sup>4</sup> Irish
[Ama(i)rgen.Amhairghin mac Amhalghaidh.Amorg(a)in.Amorgein]
a poet at the court of Dearmaid mac Cearbhaill

Amers
one of the 7 angels, the Ischin
His function was to teach men how to solve problems in magic.

Amesemi African
a Sudanese goddess

Amesha Spentas Persian [Amshaspands.Ameshe Spend.Heptad.
Immortal Holy Ones]
7 aspects of Ahura Mazda

Seven abstract qualities, known as the Heptad, they were personified as children of the god protecting mankind from evil and were listed as Ameretat, Armaiti, Asha Vahista, Haurvatat, Kshathra Varya, Spenta Mainya and Vohu Manah. In some accounts, there are only six (Spenta Mainya being omitted) while other lists include Atar, Gosurvan or Sraosha to make lists of up to nine.

Amesho Spend (see Amesha Spentas)

Amethea Greek
one of the horses drawing the chariot of Helios

amethyst
a violet-coloured quartz used as a gemstone

This stone is variously said to prevent disease or drunkenness, protect from theft, cure nervous diseases and induce pleasant dreams.

In Egypt it was used as a talisman to protect warriors from harm.

Amfortas British [Anfortas.Grail Keeper.Grail King.Le Roi Pêcheur.Pelles.The Fisher King.The Sinner King]
son of Frimutel
son of Titurel, in some accounts

brother of Herzeloÿde, Josiane, Repanse and Trevezent

In the Wagnerian story, he took over the guardianship of the Holy Grail when his father became too weak. Relying on the power of the Sacred Spear, he set out to destroy Klingsor, the evil magician who had built a garden of delight to seduce those knights seeking admission to the Temple of the Grail, but he himself was seduced into losing the spear to Klingsor who wounded him in the side with it. Nothing would heal this wound but the touch of this spear and he suffered great pain for many years until Parsifal regained the spear and cured him.

An alternative version says that, forgetting his vows of purity, he looked lustfully on a maiden, whereupon the Holy Spear wounded him of its own accord. Other accounts say that he sustained a wound in the scrotum in a jousting match.

He appears as Peredur's uncle in the Castle of Wonders and shows him the Grail and the Holy Lance.

(see also Fisher King.Pelles.
Rich Fisher)

Amhairghin (see Amergin)
Amhar British

[Amr.Anir]
an illegitimate son of King Arthur
He acted as squire to his father who killed him.

Amhas Norse
a Scandinavian warrior
He was sent by Doireann, daughter of the king of Scandinavia, to kill Conall Gulban when he failed to return her love, but Conall defeated Amhas who later helped him in his search for Eithne.

Amhlaoihb Irish
a king of Scandinavia
father of Beiuada

Amhnach (see Aithirne)

Amhren British [(Long) Amren]
son of Bedivere
brother of Eneuawg
One of King Arthur's chamberlains.

Amida Buddhist
[Amida Butsu.Amitayas. 'boundless light'.Buddha of Infinite Light.Dai-Itoku. Dharmakari.Goemasson.Impersonal Buddha.Kanro-o.Kuwarishiki.Muryoju. Muryoku.Taho.Yamagoshi.=Chinese A-mi-t'o-fo.O-mi-t'o-fo.etc (see A-mi-t'o-fo)=Hindu Shiva=Indian Amitabha] the Japanese version of Amitabha one of the 5 Dhyani bodhisattvas, some say

He is the supreme Buddha of the Shin sect, revered in Pure Land Buddhism; he taught that one could attain Nirvana by faith as an alternative to meditation.

Some say that he was a reincarnation of Dharmakari.

Amijn (see Aymon)

Amiles European [Amelis.Amiloun.Amyles.Amylion]
a knight of Charlemagne

He and his friend Amis found favour at Charlemagne's court but the jealous courtier, Arderik, accused Amiles of being the lover of the king's daughter, Belisent, requiring Amiles to fight in single combat to prove his innocence. Amis took his friend's place and killed Arderik but was afflicted with leprosy as a punishment for his deception. Amiles killed his own children and used their blood to cure Amis. The children were later restored to life.

Amilias Norse
brother of Volund

He died when he was struck by a sword made by his brother. The cut was so fine that he was not aware that he had been hurt until the two halves of his body fell apart.

A similar story is told of Socht's sword.

Amilous (see Amiles)

Amimitl Central American
the Aztec god of lakes and fishermen

Amina Arabian [Amine]
a ghou in The Arabian Nights

She treated her three sisters very badly and led them about on leads like dogs.

Aminabad British
son of Joshua father of Castellors

In some accounts he was an ancestor of King Arthur.

Aminadab
a name for Satan
Aminaduc British
a ruler of Denmark in some Arthurian tales

Amine (see Amina)

Amir Hamza Malay
[=Javanese Menak]
a hero
father of Badiu Zaman

He is said to have had many wonderful adventures.

Amirini African
an early Yoruba goddess

Amis European [Amys]
a knight of Charlemagne

He and his friend Amiles found favour at the court of Charlemagne.

(see Amiles)

Amisakya (see Anjana<sup>1</sup>)

Amita (see Amitabha)

Amitabha Buddhist [Amita(yas).Bhrkuti-Tara.Dharma-datuvagisvara.Dharmakari. Great Vehicle Mahabala.Mahasitavati.Vac(h). Vajradharma. Vajratara.Vak:=Chinese A-mi-t'o-fo.O-mi-t'o-fo.etc (see A-mi-t'o-fo):=Hindu Shiva:=Japanese Amida: =Tibetan O Pamé.Od-dpag-med]

an Indian bodhisattva, 'god of infinite light' the first (or fourth) of the 5 Dhyani buddhas consort of Pandara

He generated Avalokiteshevara from a ray of light issuing from his right eye.

He was the ruler of the Western Pure Land, Sukhavati, and revered in Pure Land Buddhism, in which he is equated with the Japanese Shakyamuni. (see also Pu Tai Ho-shang)

Amitayas Buddhist
[Amitabha.Amitayus. 'infinite light'. Muryoju.:=Persian Zurvan:=Tibetan Tshe-dpag-med.Tshe-pa-me]

the Buddha of infinite light a name of the Buddha as 'eternal Buddha'

In some accounts this deity is the same as Amitabha. (see also Dharmakari)

Amitayus (see Amitayas)

Amite British
in some accounts, mother of Galahad

Amito (see A-mi-t'o-fo)

Amitolane North American
the Zuni rainbow spirit

Amlawd (see Anlawdd)

Amlawdd (see Anlawdd)

Amlé Siberian
a hero
son of Siduku

He is said to be the founder of the Kamehadal people.

Amléth European [Hamlet:=Icelandic Amlode]

a Danish hero
son of Horvendil and Gerutha

When Feng killed his brother Horvendil and married his widow Gerutha, Amléth pretended to go mad. Feng sent him to the British king with a message to kill Amléth but he changed the message and two of Feng's minions were killed instead. Amléth married the king's daughter and later killed Feng and took the throne that his uncle had usurped.

When later he returned to Britain, the king sent him to Scotland with a letter asking the queen, Hermutrude, to have Amléth killed but again Amléth altered the words with the result that the queen became his second wife.

He later defeated the British king in a battle in which he propped up dead soldiers to convince the enemy that he had a huge army and then, taking both his wives, retired to Denmark where he was killed in battle.

Amlode Icelandic
the Icelandic version of Amléth

Amm (see Sahar<sup>1</sup>)

Amma<sup>1</sup> African supreme god of the Dogon

father of Ogo and the twins Nummo
The primordial egg he created had two yolks: from one came Ogo and Yasigi, the other produced the twins known as the Nummo.

He created the sun and the moon by baking a clay pot with bands of copper for the sun and brass for the moon, and he made white people from moonlight and black people from the light of the sun. Some say that he mated with the earth goddess to produce Ogo the jackal, the first of the animals.

In some accounts Amma was the primordial egg from which sprang the Nummo who created the earth and everything on it.

Amma<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Mar(i)amma:plur=Amma navaru]
a village goddess

Each village has its own deity, some of whom are feared as bringers of small-pox, etc, while others are revered as guardians.

Amma<sup>3</sup> Indian

[Mar(i)amma:plur=Amma navaru:=Hindu Mata]
a guardian god of the Tamils

Amma<sup>4</sup> Norse

[Ama] wife of Afi

She bore a son, Karl, to Heimdall when he visited earth as Riger.

Amma-ana-ki Mesopotamian

a name for Ea as 'lord of heaven'

Amma-Serou African

in the lore of the Dogon, the first man, made by Amma

He stole fire from the smithy of the Nummo and brought it to earth, landing badly as he slid down the rainbow. He broke his arms and his legs, which is why men have jointed limbs.

Amma navaru (see Amma<sup>2,3</sup>)

Ammas (see Ma<sup>2</sup>)

Amnavaru Indian

an early mother-goddess

She created the cosmic egg floating in the sea of milk from which the later Hindu gods were born.

(see also Amma<sup>2,3</sup>)

Amminan West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Ammit (see Ammut)

Ammon (see Amon)

Ammon-Ra (see Amon-Ra)

Ammon-Re (see Amon-Ra)

ammonite

[snake-stone]

a fossil in the form of a coiled shell

In some accounts ammonites were thought of as coiled snakes that had been turned to stone.

Ammonium (see Amonium)

Ammut Egyptian

[Ammat.Ammit.Amemait]

a goddess of the underworld

She sat with the forty-two judges of souls in the Hall of the Two Truths and ate the hearts of condemned souls.

She is depicted as a female monster, part crocodile, part hippopotamus, part lioness.

Amnach (see Aithirne)

Amnedial

a moon demon

anniomancy

divination using the caul of a newborn child

The condition of the caul was said to indicate the health of the child in later years.

Amnixiel

a moon demon

Amoghapasa Buddhist

[=Tibetan Don-yo-sha-pa.Don-yod-shags-pa]

a name of Avalokiteshvara

In this aspect he is depicted with a number of hands, varying from six to twenty.

Amoghasiddhi<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Dhanada.Kamaheruka.Kharmaheruka.

Mahamayuri.Mahasritara.Sitatarata.

Vajrasrnkhala.Vasya-tara. Vishvapani:=

Hindu Indra:= Japanese Fuku-joju.

Shaka:= Tibetan Don-yod-grub-pa.Don-yo-dup-pa]

one of the 5 Dhyani buddhas, the fifth the bodhisattva aspect of Shakyamuni

consort of Arya-Tara

He lives in the northern paradise and is depicted as accompanied by two dwarfs.

Amoghasiddhi<sup>2</sup> Tibetan

an adaptation of the Indian Buddha as a tutelary god of Lamaism

In this form he is depicted with a prayer wheel.

Amon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Ammon]

the Greek and Roman version of the Egyptian god, Amen

Amon<sup>2</sup>

[Aamon]

a demonised version of the god Amon one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

In some versions, this being is a serpent-tailed wolf, while earlier versions may show the head of an owl.

Amon<sup>3</sup> (see Aymon)

Amon-Kematef Egyptian

Amon as a creator god in the form of a snake

Amon-Ra Egyptian

[Ammon-Ra.Amon-Re.Amun-Ra.Amun-Re:=African Shango]

an assimilation of Amon with the sun god Ra

god of Thebes

consort of Mut

father of Khensu

He is depicted as having the head of a snake.

Amon-Re (see Amon-Ra)

Amona Aramaic

['mother']

a goddess

wife of Abba

Amonium Greek

[Ammonium.Siwa(h)]

an oasis in Libya, site of an oracle of

Amon and, later, of Zeus

Amor (see Amurru.Cupid)

Amoret British

daughter of Chrysgone

sister of Belpheobe

female loveliness personified in The

Faerie Queene

Amoretti Roman

[=Greek Erotes]

minor love gods

Amorini Roman

small love gods

Amorgain (see Amergin)

Amorgein (see Amergin)

Amorgin (see Amergin)

Amori Pacific Islands

a female kangaroo, in the lore of

New Guinea

mother of Sisinjori

It is said that she produced a human son, Sisinjori, after swallowing the sperm that she found on the spot where the first human couple mated.

Amorka (see Tiamat)

Amoroka (see Tiamat)

Amoroldo Irish

a king of Ireland

In the Italian story of the Knights of the Round Table, Tavola Ritonda, he is said to be the son of Morholt and brother of Golistan. He fought a war with Alois and was killed by Lancelot.

Amosu African

a name of Nyame as 'rain-giver'

Amotken North American

the creator-god of the Selish

American Indians

He created five goddesses from hairs from his own head and arranged for them to rule in succession. The present age is ruled by the goddess of evil.

He is envisaged as a wise old man, living alone.

Amoun (see Amen<sup>1</sup>)

Amowia African

a name of Nyame as 'light-giver'

amoxaoque Central American

an Aztec sage

Amoymon (see Amaimon)

Ampelus Greek

a youth loved by Dionysus

He was killed by a wild bull and Dionysus turned him into a vine.

Amphiarus Greek
 a prophet
 son of Oicles and Hypermnestra husband of Eriphyle father of Alcmaeon, Amphilocheus and Demonassa

He was one of the Seven against Thebes, a member of the party that hunted down the Calydonian boar and an Argonaut. He was reluctant to join the Seven Against Thebes but was persuaded by his wife who had been bribed by Polyneices with the fabulous necklace of Harmonia.

In the battle at Thebes, Melanippus and Tydeus had each dealt each other a mortal blow. Amphiarus decapitated the dying (or dead) Melanippus and gave the head to Tydeus who split it open and ate the brains before dying himself. After the battle with the Thebans, where he had faced Lasthenes at the Homoloid Gate, he was saved from death only by the intervention of Zeus who opened up a chasm beneath his fleeing chariot, so sending him straight to Tartarus where he ruled among the dead. A sanctuary with an oracle, the Amphiareion, was built on this spot.

He had earlier told his sons to kill their mother, who had persuaded him to join the Seven, if he failed to return.

In some accounts, he is regarded as a god.

Amphictyon Greek
 son of Deucalion and Pyrrha brother of Hellen, Idomeneus and Molus husband of Cranae
 father of Clitonymus

He deposed his wife's father Granaeus, and took over the throne of Athens.

Amphictyonis (see Demeter)

Amphidamus<sup>1</sup> Greek
 son of Busiris
 father of Naupiadame

He was killed by Heracles when his father tried to kill Heracles as a sacrifice to avert drought.

Amphidamus<sup>2</sup> Greek
 son of Aleus and Neaero brother of Auge, Cepheus
 and Lycurgus

He was one of the Argonauts.

Amphidocus Greek
 son of Astraeus
 brother of Ismarus, Leades
 and Melanippus

He and his brothers helped to defend Thebes against the attacking Seven.

Amphidromia Greek
 a festival to celebrate the birth of a child, held 5 days after the birth

Amphilochus<sup>1</sup> Greek
 a seer
 son of Amphiarus and Eriphyle
 brother of Alcmaeon
 one of the Epigoni

His mother persuaded his father to join the Seven against Thebes and Amphiarus instructed his sons to kill her if he failed to return. They did so and Alcmaeon was hounded by the Furies in punishment. Amphilochus escaped punishment but fought at Troy and was killed.

Amphilochus<sup>2</sup> Greek
 a nephew of Amphilochus son of Alcmaeon and Manto

He quarrelled with his half-brother Mopsus, and each killed the other when they met in single combat.

Amphilogeai Greek
 a descendant of Eris, goddess
 of mischief (see also Androktasiai)

Amphilytus Greek
 an Athenian prophet

Amphimachus Greek
 son of Cteatus

He led the forces sent from Elis to fight at Troy and was killed in battle by Hector.

Amphimarus Greek
 a musician
 father of Linus by Urania, some say

Amphinome Greek
 daughter of Pelias
 Bewitched by Medea, she and her sister Evadne killed and dismembered their father avenging the death of Jason's parents and young brother. She was banished by her brother, Acastus, who succeeded to the throne of Iolcus.

Amphinomus Greek
 one of the unwanted suitors
 of Penelope

He treated the 'beggar' (Odysseus in disguise) rather more courteously than the others but he nevertheless died when Odysseus slew all of them except Pheemus.

Amphion<sup>1</sup> Greek
 king of Thebes
 son of Lycus or Zeus by Antiope, wife of Lycus

twin brother of Zethus husband of Niobe

Amphion and his brother were abandoned as babies but they were found and reared by herdsmen.

He was a famed musician and, with

Zethus, he built the walls of Thebes, moving the stones by the music of his lyre, given to him by Hermes.

He and Zethus avenged the ill-treatment of their mother Antiope by her husband Lycus who had put her aside in favour of Dirce. They tied Dirce to the tail of a bull and she was dragged to her death. They also killed Lycus, and Amphion took over the throne.

He was the father of seven sons and seven daughters (or twelve children, in some accounts) all of whom were destroyed by Apollo and Artemis when Niobe boasted that she was greater than Leto. Niobe was turned to stone and he committed suicide or, in some accounts, was killed by Apollo.

In a different version, Amphion was the son of Iasus and king of Orchomenus. One of his daughters, Chloris, escaped when the gods killed Niobe's children and lived to marry Neleus, king of Pylus.

Amphion<sup>2</sup> Greek
 the Theban version of Polydeuces

Amphion<sup>3</sup> British a poem by Tennyson

amphisbaena
 a monster, a two-headed snake or a bird/snake with a second head on the end of its tail

Amphissus Greek
 son of Apollo by Dryope

Apollo fathered this child on Dryope by appearing in the form of a tortoise.

Amphithea<sup>1</sup> Greek
 wife of Adrastus
 mother of Aegialia, Aegialius, Argia Cyanippus and Deiphyla

Amphithea<sup>2</sup> Greek
 wife of Autolycus mother of Anticlea

Amphithemis Greek [Garamas]
 son of Apollo by Acacallis father of Caphaurus and Nausamon
 by Tritonis

Amphitryon (see Amphitryon)

Amphitrite Greek [Venilia:=Roman Salacia]
 a sea-goddess, one of the Nereids daughter of Nereus and Doris wife of Poseidon mother of Benthescyma, Rhodes and Triton

She fled from Poseidon's advances but Delphinus, king of the dolphins, wooed her on the sea-god's behalf and she agreed to marry him.

Jealous of her husband's interest in the lovely Scylla, she changed her into an ugly monster by putting herbs into the water where she bathed.

She is depicted as crowned with seaweed in a pearl-shell chariot drawn by sea-horses and dolphins.

Amphitruo (see Amphitryon)

Amphitryon Greek

[Amphitryon.Amphitruo]

king of Tiryns

son of Alcaeus and Astydamia,

Hippomene or Lysidice

husband of Alcmena

father of Iphicles

He inadvertently killed his father-in-law Electryon when a club he had thrown rebounded off the horn of a cow and struck him. He fled to Thebes where he was purified by Creon for whom he undertook to rid the kingdom of the Cadmeian Vixen. He used the marvellous dog Laelaps, owned by Cephalus, but both dog and vixen were turned into stone by Zeus.

He led an army to the land of the Taphians to exact revenge for the killing of Electryon's sons. Comaetho, daughter of the king, Pterelaus, cut off the single golden hair on her father's head so that he became vulnerable and died. Amphitryon rejected her love and killed her, giving the kingdom to Cephalus and Helius, who had helped him. While he was away, Zeus (in the guise of her husband) slept with Alcmena to beget Heracles who was born at the same time as Iphicles, natural son of Amphitryon and Alcmena.

He was killed in a battle between the Thebans and the Minyans.

Amphitryonides (see Heracles)

Amphius Greek

a Trojan

son of Merops

brother of Adrastus

He was warned by his father not to fight at Troy but he ignored the warning and was killed by Diomedes.

Amphoterus Greek

son of Alcmaeon and Callirrhoe

brother of Arcanan

He and his brother Arcanan were said to have grown to manhood in one day so that they could avenge the death of their father who had been killed by Phegeus and his sons.

Amphyrisian Prophetess

(see Sibyl of Cumae)

Ampycides Greek

a name for Mopsus as son of

Ampyx

Ampycus (see Ampyx)

Ampyx<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Am[pycus]

a supporter of Agenor

He was one of those who interrupted the wedding of Perseus and Andromeda and was turned to stone by the sight of the Medusa mask.

Ampyx<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Ampycus]

a prophet in Thessaly

son of Pelias

husband of Chloris

father of Mopsus

Amr (see Amhar)

Amra (see Imra)

Amrapati Buddhist

One of the sinful women who wept at the Buddha's feet. It is said that their tears caused the marks on the Buddha's feet that appear in the reproductions of the Footprints of Buddha.

amrata (see amrita)

Amren (see Amhren)

amrit (see amrita<sup>2</sup>)

Amrita<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[Kanro-o]

a form of Amida

amrita<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[amara-varuni.amrata.amr(i)t.amrta.

soma.sudha]

drink of the gods, water of life

The drink, which conferred immortality, was originally made by the gods and demons who coiled the world serpent, Vasuki, round Mount Mandara and spun it, so 'churning the ocean'. Amrita was the first of the fourteen things to emerge from the waters.

(see also Jambu<sup>1</sup>.soma)

amrita-khumba Hindu

the phial that contained the original amrita which appeared at the

'churning the ocean'

Amrita-Kundalin (see Gundari-myoo)

Amrita-Kundika (see Gundari-myoo)

amrita-surabhi (see amrita-surabki)

amrita-surabki Hindu

[amrita-surabhi]

the begging bowl used by the Buddha

When not in use, this bowl is kept in a lake from which it emerges on the Buddha's birthday so that Manimekhalai can use it to feed the poor from the never-failing supply of food it provides, and to cure the sick by allowing them to touch the bowl.

amrt (see amrita<sup>2</sup>)

amrta (see amrita<sup>2</sup>)

Amrtadhara Buddhist

a celestial doorkeeper

Amsa (see Anisa)

amsavatara Hindu

a minor manifestation of Vishnu

In some cases, Vishnu invested only part of himself in another, or the whole of himself in two or more. There were said to be as many as thirty-nine such incarnations in addition to the ten major avatars.

Amset Egyptian

[Imseti.Imset(y).Mest(h)a.Mesti]

a human-headed deity

son of Horus

one of the 4 Amenti

He was guardian of the South and his function was to guard the liver of the dead or, some say, the North, the stomach and large intestine.

Amshaspands (see Amesha Spentas)

Amsu (see Min)

Amsvartnir Norse

a lake

In this lake was the island of Lyngvi where Fenris the wolf was left bound by the gods.

amulet

a charm, carried or worn, to ward off evil: a medicine with magic properties

(1) In Assyria images of the gods, buried under the doorway, were said to give protection to the building.

(2) Celtic amulets include figures of animals such as the boar and the horse.

(3) The Chinese make amulets from the wood of the peach tree or from the stones of its fruit.

(4) The Inuit believe that the soul of a sick child can be transferred to an amulet for safety until it recovers. They also sew various bits of animals to a boy's clothing so that he will take on the skills characteristic of those animals.

(5) In India powerful amulets are made by gluing together pieces of various trees and binding them with gold wire. Some Hindus carry a locket with the image of a deity for protection, and in the Punjab they believe that the spirit that causes sciatica can be warded off by wearing a ring or an ear-ring made of copper.

(6) In Jewish lore amulets are worn by women as protection against miscarriage. Other amulets consist of words or phrases from scripture, written on paper.

(7) A brass band is worn on the right arm in Lapland by anybody handling a corpse, to prevent the ghost of the dead person from causing harm.

(8) The favourite amulet of the Maya was a golden frog.

(9) In Mongolia, amulets are regarded as protection from thunder and lightning.

(10) Some North American Indian tribes carry amulets in the form of animal parts (e.g. the foot of a deer) in the hope of acquiring the characteristics of that animal. Others carry bags of spruce needles ground to powder to protect from illness or bags of pollen to ensure wealth and happiness. Some carry tiny model canoes to protect the bearer from drowning.

(see also talisman)

Amulion, Walter d' European

one of Charlemagne's paladins

Amulius Roman

a demi-god

a king of Alba Longa

son of Proca

brother of Numitor

He deposed his brother Numitor, and forced his sister Rhea Silvia to become a vestal virgin so that she should not have children who might threaten his position. She nevertheless bore Romulus and Remus to Ares, and Amulius killed her and abandoned the twins in the Tiber. They survived and when they grew up they killed Amulius and restored Numitor to the throne.

Amun (see Amen<sup>1</sup>)

Amun-Kneph (see Amen-Khnum)

Amun-Min-Kamutef (see Kamutef)

Amun-Ra (see Amon-Ra)

Amun-Re (see Amon-Ra)

Amurfine British

wife of Gawain, in some accounts

Amurru Syrian

[Amor.Hadad.Kurgal.Martu]

an Amorite mountain-god

consort of Asherah

an aspect of Adad

Amurru-Ramman (see Marduk)

Amustant British

a chaplain to Guinevere

Amutiel

a moon demon

Amy

a demon in hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This being can appear as a beautiful woman and is said to be a teacher of astrology.

Amyas<sup>1</sup> British

lover of Amadia in The Faerie Queene

Amyas<sup>2</sup> Roman

a love-god

Amyclas Greek

son of Lacedaemon and Sparte

father of Hyacinth(us)

father of Daphne, some say

Amycus Greek

a giant drought-demon

king of Bebycos

son of Poseidon

brother of Mydon

He would challenge all comers to a boxing match and throw the losers over a cliff. He was in turn killed by Polydeuces when he issued a challenge to the crew of the Argo.

amygdalus

the almond tree

this tree was held to be sacred by the Phrygians.

Amyles (see Amiles)

Amylion (see Amiles)

Amymone Greek

a river-goddess

daughter of Danaus

mother of Nauplius by Poseidon

She was one of the Danaids, the fifty daughters of Danaus shipped by their father to Greece to escape the murderous intentions of his brother Aegyptus.

In some accounts she was one of three daughters who did not kill their husbands on their wedding night. The others were Berbyce and Hypermnestra.

She was sent to find water and was attacked by a satyr. Poseidon chased the satyr off and lay with Amymone himself, after which he was happy to provide a water supply, which he did by striking the ground with his trident, so producing three streams.

Amyntor Greek

son of Ormenus

husband of Cleobule father of Astydamia (or Deidamia)

and Phoenix

His father took a mistress and when Phoenix slept with her in an attempt to break the liaison his father cursed him to make him childless.

In another version the concubine falsely accused Phoenix of sleeping with her, and his father blinded him.

He was killed by Heracles when he denied Heracles the right to pass through his kingdom or for refusing to let him marry his daughter.

Amyris Greek

a Sybarite

When he was told by the Delphic Oracle that his nation would be destroyed, he fled, and in doing so saved his own life when the prophecy was fulfilled.

Amys (see Amis)

Amytans British

a sage mentioned in Lancelot of the Lake

Amythaon Greek

son of Cretheus and Tyro

husband of Idomene

father of Bias and Melampus

In some accounts his wife was the nymph Melanippe.

Amythaonius Greek

a name for Melampus as the son of Amythaon

An<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

a name for Osiris as a sun-god

An<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[Ana:=Babylonian Anu]

Sumerian creator-god, god of heaven,

father of gods

son of Nammu

husband of Ki

father of Ea, Enlil, Gatumdug

and Ninhursaga

father of Enki by Nammu

He was the son of Ansar and Kisar, or of Abzu and Tiamat, while others say he was generated by Nammu.

He was killed and flayed by Marduk and is usually depicted as a bull.

An<sup>3</sup> Norse

one of the dwarfs

An<sup>4</sup> (see Aun<sup>1</sup>)

An Ch'i Chinese

a tutelary spirit

His function is to guide mortals to the paradise, P'eng-lai.

In some accounts he imparts knowledge of the transmutation of base metals into gold.

an-nar Arabian

['fire']

a name for hell

An Scal Irish

a name of Lugh as 'the phantom'

An Teng Chinese

a princess

mother of Shen Nung

Ana<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Anan.Anna.Anu]

a benevolent aspect of Dana

Ana<sup>2</sup> Irish
 a goddess of war
 an aspect of Morrigan or Nemain
 She was one of a trinity of names (Ana, Badb and Macha) known as the Fate Trinity and regarded as an aspect of Morrigan.

A'na<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian
 [Anu]
 a Babylonian spirit of heaven

Ana<sup>4</sup> Siberian [Ha'na]
 a mother-goddess
 sister of Qaitakalni

Ana<sup>5</sup> (see Ala.An)
Ana-hid (see Anahita)
Ana-hita (see Anahita)
anachitis
 a stone said to have the power to conjure up water spirits

anachithidus
 a stone said to have the power to conjure up demons and ghosts

Anaclethra (see Agelasta)
Anadyomene (see Aphrodite)
Anael<sup>1</sup>
 a demon of the hours of the day
 king of astral light

Anael<sup>2</sup> (see Aniel)
anagamin Buddhist one who, progressing towards Nirvana, is in his last life on earth

Anagke (see Ananke)
Anago West Indian
 a Haitian voodoo spirit

Anagtia (see Angitia)
Anahit Armenian
 [=Canaanite Anaitis.Anat.=Greek Aphrodite.=Persian Anahita]
 a fertility-goddess
 daughter of Aramazd wife of Vahagn (see also Arusyak.Astlik)

Anahita Persian
 [Ana-hid.Ana-hita.Meter Anahita:The Immaculate.=Armenian Anahit.=Canaanite Anaitis. Anat.=Greek Aphrodite.Athena.Core]
 a water-goddess, fertility-goddess and goddess of the dawn
 one of the Yazatas
 sister of Mihr an Nane
 She purified the original primitive waters. Her female temple slaves acted as religious prostitutes. Her own lover was Apam Napat.
 In some accounts, she was regarded as a war-goddess who drove a chariot drawn by four white horses.
 She is depicted as a tall handsome woman in a cloak embroidered with gold thread and ornamented with otter skins. She is identified with the planet Venus.

Anahuac Central American
 a sacred place of the Toltecs

Anait (see Anaitis<sup>1</sup>)
Anaitis<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Anait.Anta]
 the Greek name for Anahita

In some accounts she is equated with Ma.
Anaitis<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[Anat.Great Mother:=Armenian Anahit:=Greek Aphrodite: =Persian Anahita]

a Canaanite fertility-goddess

In some accounts she is equated with Anthat.

Anaitis<sup>3</sup> Persian
 one of the yazatas assisting women at childbirth

Anak<sup>1</sup> Hebrew
 a giant son of Arba

He was the only giant to survive the flood and is regarded as the progenitor of the Anakim.

Anak<sup>2</sup>
 a demon

He and Og are described as rulers of prisons.

Anakes Greek
 a name for the twins Castor and Polydeuces (see also Ax)

Anakhai Mongolian
 a spirit of the dead, said to haunt its former home

Anakim Hebrew
 [Anaqim.Rephaim]
 a race of giants descended from Anak

Anala Hindu
 a god of fire
 one of Indra's 8 attendant gods

In some accounts Anala is female, daughter of Surabhi and progenitress of the palm and date trees, etc.

Analecks (see Lun Yü)
anamaqkiu North American

evil spirits of the Algonquian under-world

Anamelech<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian [Anammelech]
 an Assyrian demon said to appear as a quail

In some accounts Anamelech is a moon-god.

(see also Adramelech.Andramelech)
Anamelech<sup>2</sup> (see Anu)
Anammelech (see Anamelech)

Anan<sup>1</sup> Japanese the Japanese version of Ananda

Anan<sup>2</sup> South American an evil spirit of the Guarani

Anan<sup>3</sup> (see Ana<sup>1</sup> Dana.Sire)
Ananatesa (see Shiva)

Ananda<sup>1</sup> Buddhist ['bliss'.Nanda:=Japanese Anan]

son of Prajapati
 half brother or cousin of the Buddha

Some say that he was born at the moment of the Buddha's birth and became his chief disciple, others that he was much younger than the Buddha.

He was torn between the pleasures of this world and the life of the spirit, but when the Buddha showed him the beauty of heaven and the torments of hell, he gave up his young wife and devoted his life to contemplation. In some versions he is due to appear in a later age as the Buddha.

Ananda<sup>2</sup> Buddhist
 ['bliss'.Hariti]

a guardian goddess of children

She was originally a goddess of smallpox who seized and devoured children, but when the Buddha hid her own son, Pingala, she realised the error of her ways and was converted.

Ananda<sup>3</sup> Hindu
 [Ananga. 'bodiless']

a name of Kama

Kama was charred to a cinder by the fierceness of Shiva's third eye for shooting one of his arrows at the god, and was thereafter referred to as Ananda.

Ananda<sup>4</sup> Hindu
 bliss, a quality of Brahman

Ananda<sup>5</sup> (see Shiva)
Anane
 a demon

Ananga (see Ananda<sup>3</sup>.Kama.Rukmini)
Anangopa Tibetan

a Lamaist sorcerer

Ananizapta
 [Ananyzapta]

a magical phrase used to repel demons

Ananke Greek
 [Anagke:=Roman Necessitas]

a goddess of destiny

mother of the Moirae, some say

(see also Themis)
Anansesem African

[=South American Anansi-toro]

spider stories that Anansi bought from the sky-gods

Anansi African [Annancy.Aunt Nancy.Mr Spider.Nansi.Ti

Malice:=Ashanti Kwaku Ananse:=Hausa Gizo:=West Indian Annency]

a trickster-god of the Yoruba
 father of Ntikuma

He was originally a creator-god but was changed into a spider when a king kicked him for killing his huge ram, which had eaten Anansi's crops. Others say that he was defeated in a shape-changing contest by the chameleon and came down to earth on a rope. He now appears both as a spider and a man.

He begged a single cob of corn from God, promising to provide him with 100 slaves. By pretending the cob had been stolen, he tricked a chief into giving him a basketful of cobs to keep him quiet. He swapped the cobs for a hen, the hen for some sheep and the sheep for a corpse. Pretending that this was a son of God who had been killed by the sons of a chief, he persuaded the chief to give him 100 young men whom he presented to God as slaves.

To prove that he was as clever as God himself, he captured the sun, the moon and darkness in a bag. When he produced the sun from the bag some people were blinded.

On one occasion he got stuck to the Gum Girl, on another an antelope carried him to safety from a bush fire. To repay this kindness he wove a web around the antelope's baby, so hiding it from the hunters.

When he asked the sky-gods to sell him some stories he was told that the price would be a fairy, a hornet, a leopard and a python. The gods were so impressed when Anansi produced all these items that they gave him all their stories, which they called Anansesem.

In one story he owned a pot that was always full of food, and when his children broke the pot he punished them with a whip. The inquisitive children examined the whip, which then started to beat them and would not stop.

On another occasion he boasted that he could ride a tiger but the king asked the tiger, who said that this was a lie and tried to get Anansi to retract in the king's presence. By pretending to be ill the spider induced the tiger to carry him on his back and, of course, he needed a bridle, a saddle and a whip. When the king saw the spider riding the tiger, he welcomed him to the royal palace.

Anansi Kokroko African

a name of Nyame as 'wise spider', a name of Onyankopon

Anansi-toro South American

[=African Anansesem]
some African tribes call their version of the spider stories by this name

Some tribes relate these stories to the dead during the period (seven days) before the body is buried.

Ananta' Hindu

[Adisesa.Adisechen.Charaka.Endless One. 'infinite'.Lakshmana.Remainder.Ses(h)a. Ses(h)anaga.Vasuki. World Serpent. =Buddhist Muchalinda]

a serpent with 1,000 (or 7) heads king of the Nagas son of Kasyapa and Kadru, some say brother of Manasa

In some accounts Ananta is identified with Vasuki; in others they are separate and Vasuki is Ananta's son.

He is the ruler of Patala and lives in a palace, Mani-Mandapa. The world is said to rest on his heads. The world is destroyed at the end of each kalpa by the fiery breath of Ananta. Vishnu sleeps on the coils of the serpent, floating on the primordial waters, in the intervals between cosmic cycles.

He or Vasuki was used as a rope, coiled round Mount Mandara and pulled by the gods and demons to cause the Churning of the Ocean. Either Ananta or Vasuki tried to poison the amrita that emerged at the Churning of the Ocean but Shiva sucked up all the snake's venom and held it in his throat to save the lives of the other gods.

Some say that Balarama is an incarnation of Ananta, others that Ananta came out of his mouth just before Balarama died.

Ananta' Hindu

['infinite'] an epithet applied to the major Hindu deities such as Devi and Vishnu

Ananta Nakhon Thai

a city, home of Sison

Ananta Thewi Thai

[=Sanskrit Ananda]
a goddess of good luck consort of Phra Sao

Anantaboga East Indian

in Javanese lore, King of the Underworld Dragons father and husband of Nagagini

Anantamukhi Buddhist

one of the 12 dharanis - literature

Anantaraja East Indian

son of Anantaboga and Nagagini

Anantasayana (see Anantashayana)

Anantashayana Hindu

[Anantasayana]
a name for Vishnu as 'he who sleeps on Ananta'

Anantesa Hindu

an aspect of Shiva as 'lord of knowledge'

Ananyzapta (see Ananizapta)

anapel Siberian

a 'naming' stone

Some tribes believe that the soul of an ancestor is reborn in a new baby, which must be given that ancestor's name. This name is discovered by using the anapel, which is suspended from a stick so that it swings freely. The names of ancestors are recited and the appropriate name is indicated when the anapel starts to swing more rapidly.

Anaqim (see Anakim)

Anar (see Annar)

Anarawd Welsh

father of Iddig

Anarazel

a demon

He, with Fecor and Gaziell, is a guardian of hidden treasure.

Anasuya Hindu

['charity'] wife of Atri
mother of Durvasas

The goddess Sita gave her a gift of cream, which made her beauty last, as a reward for her hospitality.

Anat Mesopotamian

[Anata.Anaitis.Anath.Anta.Anthath. Ashtareth.Ashtoreth.Ashtoroth.Astarat. Astarte.Athirat.Athtar(a)t.Attart.Hanatu. Queen of Heaven.Syria Dea.Yabamat Liimmim:=Babylonian Ishtar:=Egyptian.Anthrathi.Antit: =Phoenician Antaeus.Anthy:=Phrygian Cybele:=Sumerian Inanna]

a Canaanite goddess of the heavens, fertility, mountains, springs and war

daughter of El and Asherah

sister and wife of Baal or Anu wife of Reshef, in some accounts

mother of Baal, in some accounts

She offered Aqhat immortality for his marvellous bow and when he rejected the offer she had him killed by Yatpan. As a result darkness ruled the earth, and plants and animals started to die. With the help of El, Anat rescued Aqhat from the underworld and restored the bow to its rightful owner, whereupon things returned to normal.

As Athirat, wife of El, she is said by some to have slain the demon Lotan.

When Baal died she went to the underworld to plead for his release. Mot refused so she killed him and ground him under a millstone.

She is often depicted with a lance and a shield, and in some accounts is equated with Atargartis or Allat.

In Egypt she was regarded as the daughter of Ra. (see also Baalat<sup>2</sup>)

Anata (see Anat.Antu)

Anatha Baetyl Armenian

[=Hebrew Ashima Baetyl]

a lion-goddess

Anath (see Anat)

Anathapindada Buddhist

a rich merchant

He bought a magnificent horse from a prince and offered it to the Buddha.

Anatiwa South American

a demon in the lore of the Karaya

American Indians

He originated the flood from which the tribe escaped only by the help of Saracura.

anatman Hindu

[anatta]

everything other than the self

anatta (see anatman)

Anatu (see Antu)

Anatum (see Antu)

Anaulikutsai'x North American

a river-goddess of the Bella Coola

She lives in the cave Nuskesiu'tsta and controls the movement of salmon.

Anax Greek

a giant

son of Uranus and Gaea

father of Asterius

Anaxagorus Greek

father of Alector

Anaxarete Greek

a hard-hearted woman

For her rejection of the love of Iphis, who hanged himself in her doorway, she was turned into stone by Aphrodite.

Anaxibia<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Atreus and Aerope

sister of Agamemnon and Menelaus wife of Strophius

mother of Phylades

Anaxibia<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Bias and Iphianessa wife of Pelias

mother of Acastus and Alcestis

Anaxirrhoe Greek

daughter of Cornus

sister of Leontius

wife of Epesus

Anaxo Greek

daughter of Alcaeus and Hippomene,

some say

sister of Amphitryon

niece and wife of Electryon

mother of Alcmena

Her eight sons were killed by cattle raiders.

Anaye North American

monsters of the Navaho

These beings, which took various forms, were said to be the offspring of women who indulged in unnatural practices. They were exterminated by Nayenezgani and Tobadzistsini; the only four to survive were cold, hunger, old age and poverty.

Anayicoyondi North American

[Amayicoyondi]

a bodiless female deity of the Pericue wife of Niparaya

mother of Quayaayp

Anbay Arabian

a god of justice

attendant on Amm

Anbessa European

a Saracen

governor of Spain

He invaded France and was killed in battle.

Ancaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Ankaios]

son of Lycurgus

father of Agepenor

He was one of the Argonauts and a member of the party hunting the Calydonian boar, which killed him.

(see also Ancaeus<sup>2</sup>)

Ancaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Ankaios]

son of Poseidon or Zeus by Astydamia

king of the Leleges

He was one of the Argonauts and took over as helmsman on the death of Typhus. Warned by a seer that he would not live to drink the product of his grapes, he was killed by a boar that was ravaging his vineyards.

Some say that he is the same as Ancaeus the son of Lycurgus.

In some accounts, his mother is referred to as Astypalaea.

Ancamna Celtic

a water-goddess in Gaul

Ancestor Lo (see Lo-tsu Ta-hsien)

Ancestor of Thunder (see Lei Tsu)

ancestor worship

an ancient religion revering

one's ancestors

(1) In some temples in China ancestral tablets are erected and are regarded as sacred. Some say that the tablets house the spirits of their ancestors.

(2) In Japan, similar tablets, inscribed with names and dates, have offerings made to them at the Bon festival (Festival of the Dead). The tablet is known as an ihai.

anchanch (see anchanchu)

anchanchu South American

[anchanch]

a demon of the Aymara people that is said to cause disease

Anchiale Greek

a nymph

In some accounts she was the mother of the Dactyls whom she created from handfuls of soil. Others gave the credit to Rhea.

Anchialus Greek

father of Mentos

Anchimallen South American

in the lore of the Araucanian tribe, a moon-woman wife of the sun

Anchin Japanese

a monk

He hid under a large bell in a temple to escape the advances of Kiyohime. When the bell fell over him, and trapped him, she became a fire-breathing monster, but in melting the bell with her breath she killed both the monk and herself.

Anchinoe Greek

daughter of Nilus

wife of King Belus

mother of Cepheus, Phineus and the twins Aegyptus and Danaus

Anchises Greek

[Ankhisēs]

a Trojan herdsman

son of Capys by Themiste

father of Aeneas by Aphrodite

Zeus caused Aphrodite to fall in love with Anchises; their son was Aeneas. His punishment for union with a goddess was, in some stories, lameness and in others, blindness caused by bee stings. In some stories he was killed by Aphrodite using a thunderbolt for disclosing his affair with a goddess, in others he survived and, after the fall of Troy, sailed for Italy with Aeneas but died during the voyage.

Other versions have him marrying Venus Erycina and being killed by lightning.

anchunga South American

a spirit in Brazil

Many of these demons were destroyed by Ware.

Ancient-Bodied (see Eagentci)

Ancient of the South Pole

(see Shou Shen)

Ancient Old Man (see Kmukamitch)

Ancient One

a title for God

Ancient Spider (see Areop-Enap)

ancile Roman

[plur=ancilia]

the shield of Mars

When the Romans prayed to Mars to relieve them of a plague, he not only obliged but dropped a shield from heaven that, it was said, would always protect the city. The king, Numa Pompilius, had eleven copies made and then hung all twelve in the temple of Mars to frustrate anyone wanting to steal the original. The shields were guarded by the Salii.

(see Mamurius Veturius)

ancilia (see ancile) Greek

Ancius Greek

one of the Centaurs

Ancus Marcius Roman

a legendary king of Rome

Andal Hindu

a saint

She is the only female among the twelve alvars.

Andalma-muus Siberian

in the lore of the Tartars, a man-eating monster

This monster was created by Erlik and lived in the sea, capturing humans with his long tongue. When it was killed by Tyurin-muzyka, mosquitoes were born from the corpse.

Andalod European

a hermit

He met Amadis who had left his companions on receiving a letter from Oriana in which she accused him of faithlessness. He gave the despairing knight what comfort he could, and as Amadis refused to reveal his name, called him Beltenbros. Together they retired to the hermitage on the island known as Poor Rock.

Andandara African

a mythical animal of the Zande

It is said that these animals mate with women to produce kittens.

Andar (see Indra<sup>2</sup>)

Andarta Celtic

[=British Andrasta]

a Gaulish fertility-goddess and war-goddess

This deity sometimes appeared in the form of a bear.

Andate<sup>1</sup> Indian

a name for Bhagwan as 'giver of corn'

Andate<sup>2</sup> (see Andrasta)

Andhaka Hindu

a demon with 1,000 arms and heads

son of Kasyapa and Diti

He was killed by Shiva when he tried to take the tree of paradise from heaven.

Andhatamisra Hindu

one of the 7 realms of the hell, Naraka

Andhrimnir Norse

a cook preparing the meals for the slain in Valhalla

Andjeti (see Andjety)

Andjety Egyptian

[Andjeti.Anjety]

an underworld-god

a form of Osiris

His responsibility was for the rebirth of souls in the afterlife.

(see also Anjety)

Andoid Irish

one of the 4 who survived the biblical flood outside the Ark

Andraemon<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Oxylus, some say husband of Dryope

father of Haemon

Andraemon<sup>2</sup> Greek

king of Calydon

husband of Gorge

father of Thoas

Andramelech Mesopotamian

an Assyrian sun demon

(see also Adrammelech.Anamelech)

Andras

a demon, a marquis of hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as a bird-headed angel with wings, riding a black wolf and holding a sword.

Andrasta British

[Adraste.Andate.Andraste:=Gaulish

Andarta]

a war-goddess

Andraste (see Andrasta)

Andre British

son of King Mark

He attacked Tristram during the assembly for the trial of Isolde for adultery, but was unhorsed and broke his arm.

Andrealphus

a demon, a marquis of hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as a peacock and has the power to teach mathematics and to change humans into birds.

Andred British

[Andret]

a knight at King Mark's court

He spied on Tristram and Isolde and caught them in bed together. Tristram was captured and imprisoned but he escaped after seizing Andred's sword and killing him and ten other knights.

Other stories say that Andred killed Tristram and was himself killed by Bellengerus.

Andret (see Andred)

Andreus Greek

a king of Orchomenus

son of Peneius

husband of Euippe

father of Eteocles

Andri European

son of Pepin I by Aliste

brother of Remfré

His mother had been substituted for Pepin's intended bride, Bertha, and produced two sons before the deception was exposed.

Andriamahilala African

the first woman in Madagascar

She later became the moon.

Andriamanitra African

a goddess in Madagascar

wife of Zanahary

In some accounts Andriamanitra is another name for Zanahary.

Andriambahomanana African

the first man in Madagascar

He later became a banana plant.

Andrias Serbian

son of Voukashin and Yevrossima

brother of Marko

Andrivete British

daughter of Cador

wife of Kay

Her uncle Ayglin tried to force her into an unsuitable marriage when her father died but she made her own choice and married Kay. Ayglin usurped her father's throne but his subjects rebelled and Andrivete regained her inheritance.

Androcles Roman

[Androclus]

a runaway slave

He removed the thorn from a lion's foot. When he was recaptured and thrown into a cage of lions, he found that the one he had befriended protected him from the others and he was given his freedom.

Androclus (see Androcles)

Androgeus<sup>1</sup> British

duke of Kent

son of Lud

brother of Tenuantius

He treacherously helped the Romans against his uncle, Cassivellaunus, and returned with them to Rome.

Androgeus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Androgos]

a king of Paros

son of Minos and Pasiphae

father of Alcaeus and Sthenelus

On a visit to Athens he was killed when sent on an expedition to kill the Marathonian bull, or by the young Athenians who were jealous of his abilities. His father invaded Athens and exacted a tribute of seven youths and seven maidens to be sent every year (or every six or nine years) to be fed to the Minotaur.

Androgeus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Androgos]

a leader of the Greeks who was killed at Troy

Androgos (see Androgeus)Androktasiai Greek

descendants of the goddess Eris

(see also Amphilocheai)Andromache<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Andromakhe]

daughter of Eetion wife of Hector

mother of Astyanax by Hector mother of Molussum, Pielus and

Pergamus by Pyrrhus

At the fall of Troy she was captured by the Greeks and given as a prize to Pyrrhus, the son of Achilles, who abandoned her after fathering three sons on her.

She later married Helenus, the Trojan prophet, and bore him a son called Cestrinus.

Andromache<sup>2</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides

Andromakhe (see Andromache)Andromalius

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He appears as a man holding a snake and has the power to expose thieves and recover the stolen goods.

Andromaque French

a play by Racine

Andromeda Greek

daughter of Cepheus and Cassiopeia wife of Perseus

mother of Alcaeus, Electryon,

Gorgophone, Heleius, Mestor, Perses

and Sthenelus

She was chained to a rock in the sea as a sacrifice to the sea monster sent by Poseidon when her mother boasted that her daughter was more beautiful than any of the Nereids. She was rescued by Perseus and, at her death, placed in the heavens by Athena.

Andromedes Greek

a fisherman

He caught Britomartis in his nets when she threw herself from the cliffs to escape Minos, and he took her to Aegina.

Andronice Greek

mother of Evenus and Thestius by Ares, in some accounts

Androphonos Greek

Aphrodite as 'mankiller'

androsphinx

a sphinx in which the human part is male

Anduruna Mesopotamian

heaven, the playground of the gods

In Babylonian lore, Anduruna was the underworld

Andvare (see Andvari)Andvarenaut (see Andvarinaut)Andvari Norse

[AelfRic.Aelfrich.Alberich.Alferich.

Alfreiker.Alfrigg.Alfrik.Alpris.Andvare.

Elbegast.Elberich.Gondemar.Laurin.

Laurus:=German Alberich]

king of the dwarfs

He was a dwarf who lived in a gem-studded palace underground and owned, in addition to a fabulous hoard of treasure, a magic ring, a magic belt that could increase his strength and a wonderful sword.

In different countries he had different names. As Alberich he was said to own the red cap, Tarnkappe, which allowed him to appear in daylight without being turned to stone.

As Elbegast, he gave Dietrich von Bern the marvellous sword Nagelring.

Loki had killed Otter, son of Hreidmar, and demanded that Andvari should hand over his treasures to satisfy Hreidmar's craving for gold and to secure the release of Odin and Hoenir, who had been imprisoned with Loki for the murder. Andvari handed over the gold and the Helmet of Invisibility, but when Loki also snatched his magic ring, Andvarinaut, he put a curse on the treasure.

In some accounts he is equated with Oberon. Some describe him as a fish or fish shaped. (see also Alberich)

Andvari Force (see Andvari Foss)Andvari Foss Norse

[Andvari Force]

a waterfall

In those versions which have Andvari as a fish, this is the place where he lived, in the form of a pike.

Andvarinaut Norse

[Andvarenaut]

the magic ring owned by Andvari and stolen by Loki

In some versions this magic ring was Draupnir, Odin's ring, in others it was the ring given by Sigurd to Brunhild.

(see also Draupnir<sup>1</sup>.Ring of Power)Andzti Egyptian

a god of the Nile delta

He was depicted as a man bearing a crook and a whip.

Aned Welsh

a hound in Welsh stories

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get this dog, one of a pair with Aethlem, which could be controlled only by Cyledyr, in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth. The dog followed the boar when it was driven into the sea off Cornwall by King Arthur's men.

Aneka-Warna Pacific Islands

a garden of the gods

anemone

the flower of Adonis

Anera mac Conglinne Irish

[Conor]

a young scholar

He was badly treated by Abbot Mainchin, and would have been executed for an alleged insult to the Church but was spared when he recited a poem that traced the abbot's descent from Adam.

He was entertained by Piochan, a noble threatened with impoverishment by the gluttony of the king, Cathal. At Cathal's castle, Anera chained the king to the wall and tempted the Hunger-Beast, which was the cause of the king's insatiable appetite, with tasty morsels until, finally, it left the king's stomach and was banished.

In some accounts, Anera is referred to as Conor.

Anet Egyptian

a sacred fish

This fish, one of a pair with Abtu, swam in front of Ra's barge to warn him of possible danger.

Aneurin Welsh

[Aneurin]

a 13th c Welsh poet, author of The Book of Aneurin, which contains the poem Y Gododdin

Aneurin<sup>1</sup> British

a bard

He was on the boat that conveyed King Arthur to Avalon. He was killed with a hatchet, by Heidyn.

Aneurin<sup>2</sup> (see Aneurin)

Anexiomarus Celtic
a tribal god and sun-god in Britain and Gaul

Anfere British
the realm of Laudame

Anfortas German
the name for Amfortas used in Parzival

Angada Hindu
son of Lakshmana and Urmita
brother of Chandraketu

Angaja (see Angida)

angakok (see angakoq)

angakoq Inuit [angakok:plur=angakut]
a medicine man: a shaman

(see also ilisitsoq)

angakut (see angakoq)

angang European

ominousness of a meeting

Some say that an encounter with a man on a horse will bring good fortune, one with an old woman or a priest will be unlucky.

Angantyr<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Jarl Angantyr]

a friend of Thorsten and Belé

He accompanied them on many sea raids and was given the Orkneys as his kingdom, paying a yearly tribute to Belé.

Angantyr<sup>2</sup> Norse

a man with whom Ottar disputed the ownership of some land

The dispute was settled by a contest to see who could recite the longest list of ancestors. Ottar, with the help of Freya and the sorceress Hyndla, won the contest.

Angantyr<sup>3</sup> Norse

father of Hervor

The dwarfs made the sword Tyrting, which could fight of its own accord, and gave it to Angantyr. When he died the sword was buried with him but his daughter Hervor used magic to force him to rise from the grave and hand over the sword to her.

(see also Heithrek)

Angarad British

[Anghar(h)ad]

a lady of King Arthur's court

Peredur fell in love with her and, when she scorned him, vowed never to speak again until she came to love him. When he returned, a seasoned warrior, she relented and declared she loved him.

Angarua Pacific Islands

wife of Mokoiro in the lore of the Mangaia Islanders

Angbodi (see Angerbode)

Angeburga (see Alvit)

Angel-face (see Sandda)

Angel of Death
(see Nduli.Mtwaa-roho)

Angela European

lover of Alexis

She was abducted by the giant, Angoulaffre. Huon killed the giant and rescued her.

Angelica<sup>1</sup> British

mother of Tom a'Lincoln by King Arthur

Angelica<sup>2</sup> European

daughter of Galafron

sister of Argalia

She and her brother attended a great tournament arranged by Charlemagne. She had a ring that could make her invisible; her mission was to induce Christian knights to fight with her brother so that he might kill them. Only Malagigi recognised her for the enchantress that she really was. She and Argalia captured Malagigi and had him transported by demons to Albracca where he was imprisoned in a rock under the sea.

Ferrau, Rinaldo and Roland were enchanted by her and while Ferrau and Roland were fighting over her she disappeared. Rinaldo drank from a fountain built by Merlin and his love for her turned to hate, while she drank from a second fountain and fell in love with Rinaldo. When he rejected her, she freed the magician Malagigi and enlisted his help to win Rinaldo's love. She saved him when he was trapped in a room with a monster, but to no avail. When Albracca fell to Agrican, she escaped and freed Roland and the other knights who had been trapped in the Castle of Oblivion. She finally left with Roland, but they soon met Rinaldo who now regretted his earlier treatment of her. The two knights fought while she fled to Charlemagne who ordered them to stop fighting, and to put Angelica in the care of Namu. Again she fled and met Sacripant, who also loved her. He was challenged and defeated by an unknown knight (who turned out to be the warrior-maid Bradamante) and was left on foot. Angelica travelled on with Sacripant and they came across the straying horse, Bayard, which Sacripant claimed. When Rinaldo arrived on the scene and fought with Sacripant, she fled yet again and met a wizard who conjured up a spirit in the form of a farmhand who intervened in the fight between the two knights, telling them that Angelica had gone to Paris with Roland. In fact, she was given a horse that carried her to the coast and across the sea to the island of Ebuda and left her there. The islanders, ravaged by a sea monster that ate the inhabitants, offered her in sacrifice to the orc. Rogero, leaving Logestilla's kingdom riding the hippogriff, saw her bound to a rock and rescued her. She used her magic ring to disappear, and when the hippogriff escaped its tether, Rogero was left alone.

She next appeared after a great battle between the forces of Charlemagne and the Saracens. She rescued Medoro, who had been wounded while recovering the body of his leader Dardinel, who had been killed in the battle by Rinaldo. She and Medoro were sheltered by a shepherd and she nursed Medoro back to health using her secret knowledge of herbs. When he was fully recovered, she married him.

angelica<sup>3</sup>

a plant said to ward off evil

Angels of the Elements

the angels said to rule the 4 basic elements

These are listed as Gabriel (water), Michael (fire), Raphael (air) and Uriel (earth). Other versions have Ariel (earth), Cherub (air), Seraph (fire) and Tharsis (water).

Angels of the Twelve Signs

the angels said to rule the signs of the Zodiac

These beings are listed as:

Ariel (Aries)
Ausuil (Aquarius)
Cael (Cancer)
Casujoiah (Capricorn)
Giel (Gemini)
Jael (Libra)
Ol (Leo)
Pasiel (Pisces)
Sizajasel (Sagittarius)
Sosal (Scorpio)
Tual (Taurus)
Voil (Virgo)

Angerboda (see Angerbode)

Angerbode Norse

[Angbodi.Ang(e)rboda.Angrbotha.

Angubodi.Angur-Boda.Angurboch.

Angurbode.Aurbada.Hoder]

an ugly giantess

mother of Fenris, Hel and Iormungandr
mother of Gerda by Gymir

She was said to have been the second wife of Loki, whom she married in secret.

In one story she took the form of a maiden by the name of Liod and became a maidservant of Frigga.

In some accounts she is the same as Gollweig. (see also Gna.Hyrokkin)

Angerona Roman

[Diva Angerona]
an Etruscan goddess

She was the guardian of the secret name of the city and is depicted wearing a gag or with her finger to her lips.

Angeronalia Roman

[Divalia]
the festival in honour of Angerona, 21 December

Anggun Nan Tungga East Indian

[Sijobang] a Sumatran voyager hero husband of Dandomi

He sailed to heaven where he learned the arts of magic and then returned to earth where he married Dandomi, leaving her after she had borne a son after only three days gestation.

On his later voyages he had many affairs and his beloved, Gondoriah, upset by the tales, told by a parrot, of Nan Tungga's many mistresses, disappeared. Her coat became a monkey but she was never found and Nan Tungga drowned himself in the sea, becoming a dolphin.

Anghar (see Annwfn)

Angharad (see Angarad)

Angharhad (see Angarad)

Anghiera (see Martyr)

Anghlonnach (see Ailill Anghuba)

Angida Buddhist

[Angaja:=Chinese Yin-chieh-t'o]
one of the Eighteen Lohan

Angida is regarded as an incarnation of Maitreya. He is depicted as an old man with a book and a staff.

Angilbert European

an adviser to Charlemagne

Angiras Hindu

[Lord of the Sacrifice.Prajapati]
a priest and astronomer
one of the 7 Rishis
son of Agneyi

Angirases Hindu

fire-gods
the Luminous Race descendants of Agni

Angis (see Anglis)

Angitia Roman

[Anagtia]
a goddess of healing

In some accounts there are several such deities, the Angitiae. Others identify her with Fauna.

Anglides British

wife of Baldwin
mother of Alisander

Anglis British

[Angis]
one of Lancelot's squires

Anglitora British

daughter of Prester John wife of Tom a'Lincoln mother of the Black Knight

She eloped with Tom but left him when she found out that he was a bastard. When he followed her, she killed him and was herself killed by her son, the Black Knight, in revenge.

Anglonnach (see Ailill Anghuba)

Angoi East Indian

a god in Borneo

He was killed by another god who cut the body into pieces, from which sprang the various species of animals.

Angoulafre (see Angoulafre)

Angoulafre European

[Angoulafre.Orgueilleux]
a giant

He abducted Angela whose lover Alexis went to Huon for help. Huon killed the giant and rescued Angela.

Angpetu North American

a sun-god of the Dakotas

Angra Mainu (see Angra Mainyu)

Angra Mainya Persian

[Ahriman.Angra Main(y)u.Angro Mainyus.Angru Mainyu.Anra Mainyu.

Drauga.Druj]

an underworld-god, god of darkness

the Zoroastrian evil principle later identified with Ahriman

(see also Ahriman)

Angra Mainyu (see Angra Mainya)

Angrboda (see Angerbode)

Angrbotha (see Angerbode)

Angro Mainyus (see Anra Mainya)

Angru Mainyu (see Angra Mainya)

Angubodi (see Angerbode)

Anguipedé

a name for Abraxas as 'snake-footed'

Anguisel (see Anguish.Angusel)

Anguish Irish

[Anguis(h)el.Anguyshance.Angwisance.
Angwish.Argia.Argiuj]

king of Ireland

father of Isolde

He sent his huge brother-in-law Morholt to demand tribute from Mark, king of Cornwall, but the giant was wounded (or killed) by Tristram.

In the story of Tristram and Ysoud

he is known as Argius and Tristram saved the king's life when he was attacked by an ogre.

In another account he was one of the leaders fighting against Arthur at the Battle of Bedgrayne.

Anguishel (see Anguish)

Angur-boda (see Angerbode)

Angurboch (see Angerbode)

Angurbode (see Angerbode)

Angurvadel Norse

the sword of Frithiof

This weapon, forged by the dwarfs, had a blade marked with runes; in battle it became flaming red. It was given to Viking by his father.

Angus Bolg Irish

[Aeng(h)us.Aong(h)us.Oeng(h)us Bolg]

a chief of the Desi tribe

an ancestor of the Firbolg

He killed Cellach, who had abducted a Desi girl, and knocked out the eye of Cellach's father, Cormac mac Airt.

Angus mac Airt Irish

[Aeng(h)us.Aong(h)us.Oeng(h)us]

one of Finn mac Cool's men carried off by Gilla Dacar

Angus mac Aedh Irish

[Aeng(h)us.Aong(h)us.Oeng(h)us]

son of Aedh Ahrat

brother of Fand and Li Ban

Angus mac Lamh Irish

[Aeng(h)us.Aong(h)us.Oeng(h)us]

an Ulster warrior

Cet had cut off the hand of Angus' father and Angus challenged him to a fight to avenge the injury.

Angus mac Nadfraoich Irish

[Aeng(h)us.Aong(h)us.Oeng(h)us]

a king of Munster

When he was desposed by Eoghan Mor, he enlisted the help of the high-king, Conn, but they were defeated in battle by Eoghan, forcing Conn to divide Ireland into two halves, the more southerly of which was ruled by Eoghan.

Angus of Newgrange (see Angus Og)

Angus Og Irish

[Aeng(h)us.Angus of Newgrange.

Aong(h)us.Fiodhbhadach.Mac ind Oc.

Mac (ind) Og.Oeng(h)us.Young God:

=British Maponus:=Greek Apollo:=Welsh Mabon]

god of love and beauty

son of Dagda and Boann

brother of Broadh

father of Freabhlann

foster-father of Dermot

He was born when the Dagda seduced Boann (or in some accounts, Ethne)

having sent her husband Elmar (or Nuada) away for nine months. He was raised by Midir and when he reached manhood he lived in the palace of Bruigh after displacing his nominal father, Elcmar, or, some say, the Dagda as king of the Danaans. He carried off Etain, wife of Midir, and intervened to save Dermot and Grania when they were pursued by Finn.

It was said that four swans always hovered round his head. He owned a huge horse, which he loaned to Eochaid mac Maireadha when he eloped with Eibhliu, and a dun cow given to him by Manannan.

He helped Dermot in battle by making each enemy soldier appear in the likeness of Dermot, so that they were all killed by their fellow soldiers. When Dermot was killed by the boar, Angus kept his body in his palace and by breathing life into the corpse, could talk to Dermot whenever he wanted.

Another story says that he pined for the love of a girl until his parents discovered that she was Caer Ibormeith, daughter of the king of Connaught, who lived as a swan on a lake with 150 other swans. He was able to identify her and she went to live with him in his palace. In some versions, Angus changed himself into a swan.

Angus Tuirmheach Irish
[Aeng(h)us.Aong(h)us.Oeng(h)us]
father of Fiachu Fear Mara

It is said that he got drunk and slept with his own daughter, fathering Fiachu. He dressed the baby in kingly clothes and cast him adrift in a small boat.

Anguta Inuit
creator of earth, sea and sky
father of Sedna
this deity is said to live in Adlivum.

When Sedna fell or was thrown into the sea and clung to the side of his boat, he chopped off her fingers so that she sank to the bottom. He also had some fingers missing and had but one eye.

Anguysance (see Anguish)

Angwisance (see Anguish)

Angwish (see Anguish)

anhanga South American
a demon in Brazil, said to steal children

Originally this being was no more than an imp who played tricks on humans.

Anher (see Anhur)

Anhert (see Anhur)

Anhoret (see Anhur)

Anhour (see Anhur)

Anhur Egyptian

[Anher(t).Anhoret.Anhour.Anhuret.

Anuris.Inhert.Lord of the Lance.

On(o)uris:=Greek Ares:=Roman Mars]

a sun-god and war-god at Abydos son of Hathor

consort of Mekhit

He sought out and killed the enemies of Ra. He rescued Sakhmet when she was carried off by a gazelle; she became his consort, as Mekhit.

He became identified with Shu and is depicted as bearded and bearing a rope or a lance or a sceptre.

In some versions, Anhur (Anhour) was a sky-god and sun-god of Thinis, etc. and separate from Anhur (Anhoret, Anher(t), On(o)uris) who was a god of war (hence, Lord of the Lance) at Abydos. (see also Shu<sup>2</sup>)

Anhuret (see Anhur)

Ani<sup>1</sup> Roman

an Etruscan sky-god

He is sometimes depicted as having two faces.

ani<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

ancestors of the Caroline Islanders

Ani<sup>3</sup> (see Ala<sup>1</sup>)

Aniani-te-ani Pacific Islands

a tree that was felled to make a canoe in the story of Apakura

Anicetus Greek

son of Heracles and Hebe

Aniel

an archangel associated with the planet Venus in mediaeval lore

Anila Hindu

one of Indra's 8 attendant gods (wind)

In some accounts, there is more than one and Anilas are referred to as minor gods, a type of Gana.

anima Roman

in the theory of the threefold soul, the part that returned to the gods

animals

many animals (and birds) appear in mythologies worldwide, often as supports for the world

(1) The Chinese say that the world is supported on the back of a tortoise. Animals ruling the months and double-hours are the rat, ox, tiger, hare, dragon, serpent, horse, goat, monkey, cock, dog and boar.

(2) The European version of the animals that support the sun gives ram, bull, (twins), crab, lion, (virgin), (scales), scorpion, centaur, (waterman), fish (or ship). In Greece the list was cat, dog, snake, crab, ass, lion, goat, ox, hawk, monkey, ibis and crocodile.

(3) In Hindu lore Vishnu appears as the turtle Kurma in his second incarnation, while the turtle Chukwa supports on its back the elephant Mahapudula, which in turn supports the earth.

(4) The Japanese say that a tortoise supports the Cosmic Mountain on its back.

(5) The supporters of the sun in Mongol lore are given as mouse, cow, tiger, hare, dragon, snake, horse, sheep, monkey, cock, dog and sow.

(6) In North America many tribes say that the world is supported on a tortoise or on four such animals.

(7) In Persian lore the three animals corresponding to those of the Old Testament are given respectively as Hadhayosh, Khara and Chena-maergha.

(see also sacred animals)

animalism

the belief that there is life in all things (see also animism.polyd(a)emonism)

animan Hindu

the magical power to make oneself so small as to be virtually invisible

Animiki North America

an Ojibway thunder-god, creator of the West Wind

animism

belief in spirits inherent in all things

(see also animalism.polyd(a)emonism)

Anind Irish

son of Nemed

It is said that when his grave was being dug, Loch Ennell was formed.

Aningan Inuit

an Inuit moon-god

Anir (see Amhar)

Aniran Persian

a sky-god assisting Kshathra Varya

Aniruddha Hindu

son of Pradyumna and Mayadevi or of Kama

He was captured by the demon Bana as a husband for his daughter, Usha, but was rescued by his grandfather, Krishna.

Anisa Hindu

[Amsa.Ansa. 'bounty']

a minor sun-god

one of the Adityas

Anishinabeg North American
a primeval race of beings, ancestors of the human race

Anit Egyptian
a goddess sometimes equated with Hathor

Anita Mesopotamian
a cup bearer to Lida

Anith (see Eire)

anito Pacific Islands
gods and spirits of the Philippines

It is believed that anito are the souls of the dead and hence worthy of worship and sacrifice.

Anitsutsa North American [=Huron Huti Watsi Ya]
star spirits of the Cherokee

Anius Greek
a priest at Delos
son of Apollo and Rhoeo husband of Dorippa

His three daughters (the Oenotropoe, Elais, Oeno and Spermo) had been given by Dionysus the power to produce corn, oil and wine at will, and so he was easily able to provide food for the Greek fleet assembled at Aulis for the assault on Troy, and later during the siege of that city.

In some accounts his wife was Dryope.

Anjana<sup>1</sup> Chinese [Amisakya] a king of Koti
father of Maya

Anjana<sup>2</sup> Hindu
one of the apsaras
consort of Vayu

She was said to appear in the form of a monkey and produced a son, the monkey god Hanuman, as the result either of eating a cake dropped by a kite or from being raped by Vayu as Pavana.

Anjana<sup>3</sup> Hindu
Varuna as one of the Dikpalas or his elephant

Anjea Australian
a fertility spirit of the Aborigines
She is said to place babies made of mud in the wombs of women. When the baby is born, the placenta is buried and marked with a little mound of twigs. This enables Anjea to find the placenta, from which she can make another baby. (see also cho-i)

Anjety Egyptian
[Anzety]
an early god

He is depicted as a human head on a pole. (see also Andjety)

anjina (see vata<sup>1</sup>)

anjing ajak East Indian in Javanese lore, a werewolf

Anjinmar Pacific Islands
[Nonieb:=Hawaiian Menehune; =Melanesian Masi:=Ponape Tsokelai]
the 'little people' of the Marshall Islands

anka (see anqa)

Ankaaios (see Ancaeus)

Ankalamman Hindu
a guardian-goddess of the Tamil an aspect of Kali

ankas Hindu
a goad, one of the weapons of Durga

Ankeu (see Ankou)

ankh Egyptian [onk(h)]
symbol of life worn by the gods and royal personages

This was one of the three symbols (tet and was were the others) carried by Ptah. (see also sahen<sup>2</sup>)

Ankh-Neteru Egyptian
a serpent in the underworld

Ra's boat is drawn through the serpent's body by twelve gods every night.
(see also Apep)

Ankhises (see Anchises)

Ankhoes Egyptian
the Greek name for Horus

Ankou French
[Ankeu]
the god of death in Brittany

In some accounts, Ankou is the driver of the death cart. He appears either as a skeleton or as a ghostly figure with long white hair, and is the last person to die in that year. The arrival of the cart indicates a death in the house at which it stops.

Anky-Kele Siberian
a sea-god of the Chukchee people

Anlawd (see Anlawdd)

Anlawdd Welsh
[Amlawd(d).Anlawd]
a Welsh prince husband of Gwen
father of Igraine
father of Goleuddydd and Rieingulid,
some say

In some accounts he is said to be the father of Custennin and Ysbadadden.

Anluan Irish [Hanlon] a Connaught warrior brother of Cet
son of Maga

He fought on the side of Maev in the Cattle Raid of Cooley. Conall killed him and threw his severed head at Cet during a challenge at Mac Da Tho's feast.

Anna<sup>1</sup> British

[Anne.Ermine]
daughter of Uther and Igraine sister of Arthur wife of Lot or Budicius mother of Denw by Lot mother of Hoel by Budicius some say Some accounts say that she was born to Arthur's parents some time after the birth of Arthur. In some accounts she is referred to as Ermine.

(see also Gwyar<sup>2</sup>.Morgause)

Anna<sup>2</sup> Celtic

[=Gaulish Anoniredi:=Irish Ana]
a mother-goddess

Anna<sup>3</sup> Greek

[=Roman Anna Perenna]
a goddess
Some versions make her the sister of Belus, in others she is identified with Io, Minerva or Themis.

Anna<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Anna Perenna]
daughter of Mutto
sister of Dido

She fled to Libya with Dido after Sychaeus was killed by Pygmalion, helping establish the city of Carthage.

In some accounts it was she, not Dido, who killed herself at the loss of Aeneas; others say that after Dido's death she went to Malta and thence to Italy, meeting Aeneas who was now king. Her dead sister warned Anna of the jealousy of Lavinia, wife of Aeneas, and she drowned herself. In some accounts she appeared as the nymph, Anna Perenna.

Anna Kuari Indian
a goddess of vegetation

Anna Larentia Roman
an obscure deity

Anna-Nin (see Nana<sup>3</sup>)

Anna of the Angles (see Yngona)

Anna Perenna Roman

[Mother Perna:=Greek Anna]
an ancient protective goddess patroness of the year

She saved the plebeians from starvation in their struggle with the patricians.

She is said to have acted as go-between when Mars wished to marry Minerva and told the god that Minerva was willing. When Mars raised his bride's veil, he found that his new wife was in fact the ancient Anna.

(see also Anna<sup>3,4</sup>)

- Anna-Purna Hindu
[Annapurna.Apnapura]
a food-goddess
an aspect of Kali or Parvati
When Shiva complained of hunger, the sage Narada told him to blame his wife Parvati; he then told her to blame her husband. Parvati begged for food and was able to feed Shiva, who in gratitude became unified with her as a single entity, depicted in art as Ardhanari.
- Annales Cambriae Welsh
series of Welsh tales
These tales, written in the 10th C, relate, among other things, the stories of King Arthur's battles at Badon and Camlan.
- Annales Toldeanos Spanish
stories that include some references to Arthurian lore, including the Battle of Camlan, dated 541
- Analia tu-Bari African
a princess of Ghana wife of Samba
- Annancy (see Anansi)
- Annals of Tigernmas Irish stories which include some references to Arthurian lore, including the Battle of Camlan which is dated to the year 541
- Annapurna (see Anna-Purna)
- Annamurti Hindu
an aspect of Vishnu as 'god of the kitchen'
- Annar Norse
[Anar.Onair]
second husband of Nott
father of Jord
- Anne (see Anna.Morgause)
- Anneberg German
a spirit of the mines in the form of a horse
- Annedotus Greek
a Chaldean man-fish
- Annency West Indian [Nansi.Ti Malice]
the name given to Anansi in the West Indies
In many tales he tricks the character known as (Uncle) Bouki.
- Annis (see Black Annis)
- Annona (see Anona)
- Annowre British
a sorceress
She once trapped King Arthur, and when he rejected her advances would have killed him but for a timely intervention by Lancelot, who killed the witch.
A similar story is told of Camille.
- Annuna Mesopotamian
50 Sumerian great gods fathered by Enki on his mother Nammu
- Annunaki<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
[Anunaki.Ennuki.]
earth-gods created by Marduk
These beings are regarded as spirits, appearing in the form of stars below the horizon. In some accounts they are equated with, or confused with, the Igigi who appear above the horizon.
- Annunaki<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
[Anunaki.Ennuki.Seven Judges]
judges in the Babylonian underworld
- Annwfn Welsh
[Abred.Achren.Affan.Affwys.Anghar Annwyfn.Annw(yr)n.Caer Feddwid.Caer Sid(d)i.Caer Wydyr.Fort(ress) of Glass. Is Elfydd.Land-across-the-Sea.Land-under-the-Waves. Uffern:=-Irish Sid.Tir inna mban]
the underworld ruled by Arawn: the Otherworld
In Welsh lore this realm is described variously as a group of islands or a revolving castle set in the sea, or as being anywhere on, over or under the sea, but is always a land of pleasure where neither disease nor death are known.
Other stories locate Annwfn in Wales, adjoining the kingdom ruled by Pwyll, or in Scotland or somewhere in the far North. (see also Dyfed)
- Annwn (see Annwfn)
- Annwyfn (see Annwfn)
- Annwyrn (see Annwfn)
- Anobret Mesopotamian
son of El
He was offered as a sacrifice to ward off danger to the kingdom.
- Anochi African [Anotche.(Komfo) Anotchi]
an Ashanti sorcerer
When he crowned Osai Tutu as king a golden stool, a sign of sovereignty, descended from the heavens.
- anoethu Welsh
near impossible tasks such as those set for Culhwch by Ysbaddaden
- Anogon Greek
son of Castor by Hilaria
- Anolikwotsaix North American
a female deity of the tribes of British Columbia
- Anomales Greek
a sword-bearer to Achilles
- Anomatan Thai
a king
son of Narayana
father of Ajalpal
- consort of Manikesara
He is said to have been born from the lotus with no mother.
- Anoniredi Celtic
[=British Anna:=-Irish Ana]
a mother-goddess
- Anona Roman
[Annona]
the goddess of crops
- Anos Mesopotamian
son of Assoros and Kissare an alternative version of Anu
- Anosia Greek
Aphrodite as 'the unholy one'
- Anotche (see Anochi)
- Anotchi (see Anochi)
- Anoukis (see Anukis)
- Anpao North American
a dawn-goddess of the Dakotas
- Anpu<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the Greek name for Anubis
In some accounts the same as Anpu, brother of Bata.
- Anpu<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
brother of Bata
When Anpu's wife accused Bata, the younger brother who lived with them and did most of the work, of rape, Anpu would have killed him but the gods intervened and Bata escaped. In later years Bata became king and when he died, Anpu took the throne. (see also Bata)
- Anqa Arabian
[Anka:=-Persian Simurgh]
a huge fabulous bird
- Anqet (see Anuket)
- Anra Mainyu (see Angra Mainya)
- Ansa (see Anisa)
- Ansar Mesopotamian
[Anshar.Assoros.Assorus.Ea.Ilu Sar. S(h)ar.'sky'] a primordial Babylonian sky-god son of Lahmu and Lahamu or of Apsu and Tiamat consort of Kisar
father of Antu, Anu and Ea
In some accounts he is equated with Anu and Ea.
- Anseis European
a duke fighting for Charlemagne
He was one of the first to be killed when the second army of Saracens descended on Roland's force at Roncesvalles.
- Anselm, Count European
head of the house of Maganza father of Pinabel
- Anshar (see Ansar)
- Anshumat Hindu
grandson of Sagara
His 60,000 uncles had all been killed by the sage Kapila when they accused him of stealing Sagara's horse. Anshumat recovered the horse and returned it to his grandfather.

Ansirus British
father of Alice la Beale Pellerin

Ansitif
one of the 17 demons said to have taken possession of nuns

Answerer, The (see Freagarthach)
ant-lion
a beast like a lion with the rear part like a huge ant

This beast, it was said, could eat neither flesh nor plants.

Anta (see Anaitis.Anat)
anta kusuma Pacific Islands
a magic jewel owned by the rice-goddess Dewi Sri

Antaboga Pacific Islands
a primaeva cosmic serpent
He meditated to produce Bedawang, the turtle which supports the earth.

Antaea (see Anteia)
Antaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Antaios]
a giant, king of Libya son of Poseidon and Gaea
brother of Busiris

He ate lions and had the ability to draw fresh strength from contact with the earth. In some stories he was the protector of a race of pygmies. In this role, he challenged Heracles to a wrestling match when he passed through their country on his way to perform his eleventh labour. Heracles lifted him clear of the ground and crushed him.

Antaeus<sup>2</sup> Phoenician
a war-goddess
She is sometimes equated with Anat.

Antaios (see Antaeus)
Antaka Hindu
a demon of death

Antang East Indian
in the lore of the Dayaks, the falcon owned by Mahatala

Antar Arab [Antara.Antari]
a warrior poet
son of Shaddad and Zabiba

He had an impenetrable skin. At the age of fifteen he killed a lion with his bare hands. He rode a horse called Abjer and carried a magic sword, Djamy. He fell in love with Abla and performed many feats of arms, conquering most of Africa, to become worthy of her.
In one story he passed through the trunk of a large tree and found himself in a fabulous palace in the sky; in another he discovered the land of the Amazons.

Some say that he married a princess and had a son, Jufran.

Antara (see Antar)
Antari (see Antar)
Antariksha Hindu ['sky'] one of the 8 Vasus

Antea (see Anteia)
Anteia Greek
[Ant(a)ea.Antia.Stheneboea.Stheneboia] daughter of Iobates wife of Proetus
mother of Galantias, Iphinoe and Megapenthes

She fell in love with Bellerophon when he came to her husband's court to be purified of the murder of Deliaides or Bellerus. She accused him of violating her when he rejected her advances

Antenor<sup>1</sup> European
the second zone of the ninth circle of Dante's hell, reserved for those who betrayed their country

Antenor<sup>2</sup> European
a king of Spain

He was helped by Vivien, brother of the magician Maugis, in his quest for the hand of Oriande.

Antenor<sup>3</sup> Greek
a Trojan priest
husband of Theano
father of Adamas, Agenor, Archelochus and Helicaon

He was regarded as the wisest of the Trojans and tried to avoid war with the Greeks by advising Priam that Helen should be returned to her husband. Later, after quarrelling with Deiphobus, he conspired with the Greeks to bring about the fall of Troy. He survived the battle and sailed off with his wife to settle in Africa or Gaul or, some say, to found Padua or Venice.

Antenora European
the second zone of the ninth circle of Dante's hell, reserved for those who betrayed their country

Antero Vipunen Baltic
A Finnish giant who lived below ground

This giant was said to have trees growing from his head, shoulders, chin and teeth.

Vainamoinen consulted the giant when he forgot the magic words he needed to complete the building of his ship. The giant swallowed him but Vainamoinen forged an anvil and hammer and beat so fiercely on the giant's heart that he released him and told him the magic words.

Anteros Greek
the god of passion, avenger of slighted love son of Ares or Hephaestus and Aphrodite, some say brother and attendant of Eros

Anthat Mesopotamian
[Anthrathi.Antit]
the name of Anat in Egypt where she was regarded as the daughter of Ra

Antheas Greek
son of Eumelus
He was killed when he tried to drive the chariot of his father's friend, Niptolemus, which was drawn by flying serpents.

Anthedon Greek
father of Glaucus by Alcione, some say

Anthemoessa Greek
the island home of the Sirens

Anthesteria (see Anthesterion)

Anthesterion Greek [Agrionia.Anthesteria]
a 3-day spring festival in honour of Dionysius: the month of February to March

The first day of the festival was the opening of casks (Pithoigia); the second was the feast of beakers (Choes); and the last was the feast of pots, the festival of the dead (Chutroi).

Anthios (see Dionysus)

Anthor Roman
a Greek soldier in Italy
When Aeneas and Mezentius met in single combat, Anthor was killed when the spear thrown by Aeneas glanced off his opponent's shield.

Anthrathi (see Anthat)

anthropomancy
divination using human entrails

Athropophagi Greek
cannibals living near the Caspian Sea
It was said that they ate the bodies of their parents to preserve their ancestor's souls.

Anthyt Phoenician
a war-goddess
She is sometimes equated with Anat.

Anti' Egyptian
a falcon-headed god, guardian of the East
In some accounts he is Horus; in others he cut off Hathor's head in a struggle for the throne.

He is sometimes depicted as a falcon.

Anti<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

[Anti-ma-aomata]
ancestral (demi-) gods of the Gilbert Islanders

Anti-ma-aomata (see Anti<sup>2</sup>)

Antia (see Anteia)

Antianeira Greek

daughter of Menetus and Eurytus mother of Echion by Hermes

Antichrist

a demon

In black magic he is a juggler in hell.

Antichthon

a supposed world beyond the sun

Anticlea (see Anticleia)

Anticleia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Anticlea.Antikleia]

daughter of Autolycus wife of Laertes

mother of Odysseus by Laertes

or Sisyphus

Some say that she was seduced by Sisyphus, the real father of Odysseus, before she married Laertes. She died of grief when Odysseus was absent for so long.

Anticleia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Anticlea.Antikleia]

wife of Macaon

mother of Alexanor, Gorgasus

and Nicomachus

Anticleia<sup>3</sup> (see Philonoe)

Antigone<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Oedipus by Jocasta

sister of Eteocles, Ismene and Polyneices

When her blinded father Oedipus was an outcast wandering the earth, it was Antigone who guided him.

After the battle at Thebes where her brothers Eteocles and Polyneices were killed, Creon, who had taken over Thebes, ordered that the body of Polyneices should not be buried. Antigone herself buried him under cover of a sandstorm but was condemned for disobeying the edict of Creon, who ordered his son Haemon to bury her alive in her brother's grave. Instead, he married her secretly and she bore him a son.

In later years, Creon recognised this boy and ordered that he be killed. He refused to change his mind and Haemon killed both himself and Antigone.

In some stories she was buried alive or sealed in a cave, where she hanged herself.

Antigone<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Actor

wife of Peleus

mother of Polydora

When Peleus came to her father's court in Phthia to be purified of the murder of Phocus, she married him. He went off on the Argonaut's expedition and returned to Iolcus. The king's wife sent her a message that Peleus was about to marry Sterope, her daughter, and Antigone hanged herself.

Antigone<sup>3</sup> Greek

daughter of Laomedon

She was so beautiful that the ever-jealous Hera turned Antigone's hair into snakes. She was later turned into a stork.

Antigone<sup>4</sup> Greek

a play by Sophocles

The story of the aftermath of the defeat of the Seven Against Thebes, one of the Three Theban Plays.

Antikleia (see Anticleia)

Antikonie British

sister of Vergulaht

In some accounts she was a lover of Gawain.

Antilia

a blessed land

This realm was envisaged as an island paradise situated to the west of Atlantis.

Antileon Greek

son of Heracles by Procris

twin brother of Hippesus

Antileus Greek

one of the men inside the Wooden

Horse at Troy

Some say that he was killed by Odysseus to prevent him from crying out and so betraying their presence inside the horse.

Antilochus Greek

son of Nestor

He was killed by Memnon at the siege of Troy when trying to protect his father.

Antimachus Greek

a Trojan sage

father of Deiphontes

He was opposed to the suggestion that Helen should be handed back to the Greeks and even went so far as to propose that the Greek envoys, Menelaus and Odysseus, be killed.

Antinous<sup>1</sup> Greek

a suitor of Penelope

son of Eupheithes

One of the gang of suitors who settled themselves in Penelope's house when her husband Odysseus was fighting at Troy.

He owned a magic mirror, given to him by Hephaestus, which showed the past, the present and the future. He gave it to Penelope.

He was the first to be killed when Odysseus returned.

Antinous<sup>2</sup> Greek

a handsome slave

He became a favourite of the emperor Hadrian. When Antinous drowned Hadrian declared him a god.

Antiochus Greek

son of Heracles by the daughter of

King Phylas

Antion Greek

father of Ixion, some say

Antiope<sup>1</sup> Greek

queen of the Amazons

In some stories she is identified as Melanippe, in others as Hippolyta or as Hippolyta's sister.

As Hippolyta's sister, she was the wife of Theseus who captured her when he joined the expedition to seize the love-girdle in Heracles' ninth labour. When Theseus married Phaedra, her people invaded in an attempt to recover Antiope but she was killed in battle by Theseus.

Antiope<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Nycteis]

a princess of Thebes

daughter of Nycteus

wife of Lycus

mother of Amphon and Zethus

by Zeus

Antiope left the infants Amphon and Zethus on a mountain where they were found and reared by shepherds. Her husband Lycus, then king of Thebes, put Antiope in prison and took Dirce in her place. When she was later reunited with her two sons, they, with a group of friends, killed both Lycus and Dirce, tying the latter to a bull by which she was dragged to her death.

Dionysus made her mad as punishment but she was cured by Phocus who married her.

Another story says she was a widow, mother of Labdacus, and was abducted by Epopeus. Nycteus pursued them and was killed but Lycus, brother of Nycteus, killed Epopeus and rescued Antiope who gave birth to the twins Amphon and Zethus, who were abandoned. Lycus and his wife Dirce ill-treated Antiope and when they grew to manhood, both were killed by Amphon and Zethus.

- Antiphates<sup>1</sup> Greek king of the Lestrygones at the time Odysseus landed in their country
- antiphates<sup>2</sup>
a stone said to have the power to defend the owner from witches
- Antiphus Greek
son of Priam and Hecuba
He was once captured by Achilles and sold back to Priam for a ransom. He and his half-brother Isus were killed by Agamemnon during the siege of Troy.
- Antit (see Anthat)
- Antoine West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit adopted from a Catholic saint
- Antoku Tenno Japanese
a child emperor
He was killed in a sea battle between his own people, the Taira, and the Minamoto clan. Niidono took him to the land of happiness under the sea.
- Antony British
an Irish bishop
In some accounts he acted as Merlin's secretary.
- Antor British
in some accounts, the foster-father of King Arthur (see also Ector<sup>1</sup>)
- Antu Mesopotamian
[Anata.Anatu(m).Antum.Anunitum: =Sumerian Ki]
a Babylonian goddess daughter of Ansar and Kisar consort of Anu mother of Ishtar
- Antum (see Antu)
- antyeshti Hindu
the ceremonies at death designed to ensure that the soul acquires a new body
- Antynome Greek
one of the 50 daughters of Danaus
In some accounts she was one of the three daughters who did not kill their husbands on their wedding night. The others were Berbyce and Hypermnestra.
- Anu<sup>1</sup> Hindu
son of Yayati and Sarmishtha brother of Puru and Turvaso half-brother of Yadu
- Anu<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
[Anamelech.Anos.Anum.Anus: =Sumerian An]
the supreme Hurrian god son of Ansar and Kisar consort of Antu or Anat
father of Kumarbi
He usurped the throne of Alalu but was emasculated by his son Kumarbi who took over his father's throne.
- In some accounts he is equated with Ea and regarded as a manifestation of Ansar.
- Anu<sup>3</sup> (see Ana<sup>1,3</sup>.Eire)
- Anuanua Pacific Islands
the rainbow that was made from the canoe of Oro
- Anubis Egyptian
[Anpu.Imiut.Imy-ut.Inpw.Khenti-imentiu.
Khenty-seh-netjer.Neb-ta-djeser.Tēpy-dju-ef.Wip:=Greek Anpu.Hermanubis.
Hermes]
the dog-headed or jackal-headed god of embalming and the dead son of Osiris, Ra or Set by Isis or Nephthys
He weighed the hearts of the dead in the Hall of Judgement.
Nephthys had no children by Seth so she seduced Osiris into fathering Anubis. To keep the child safe from Seth she hid him in the reeds where he was found and reared by Isis.
He is depicted as a black dog or a jackal lying down or as a jackal-headed human. (see also Wapwawet)
- Anuelap (see Anulap)
- Anuket Egyptian
[Anq(u)et.An(o)ukis.Anuk(i)t.Anuqet.
Lady of Sati]
a dark-skinned goddess of birth and the first cataract daughter of Ra second wife of Khnum
In some versions Anuket is Isis as the goddess of fertile waters while others distinguish between Anquet (Isis) and Anuket the African goddess.
- Anukis Greek [Anoukis]
the Greek name for Anuket
- Anukit (see Anuket)
- Anukt (see Anuket)
- Anulap Pacific Islands
[Anuelap.Enulap.Onulap.
a sky-god in the Gilbert Islands father or brother of Ligoupup brother of Inemes
This being is described as a giant who needed a servant to lift his eyelids or lip
when he wished to see or eat.
In some accounts he is the father of Lugeilan and Olofat.
- Anum (see Anu<sup>2</sup>)
- Anuman (see Hanuman)
- Anumati Hindu
a moon-goddess
- Anunaki (see Annunaki)
- Anunit (see Anunitum)
- Anunitu (see Anunitum)
- Anunitum Mesopotamian [Anunit(u)]
- a Babylonian war-goddess
a name for Ishtar as the morning star (see also Antu)
- Anunna Mesopotamian
a collective name for a group of local Sumerian gods
- Anunnak Mesopotamian
minor Akkadian gods
- Anuqet (see Anuket)
- Anuradha Hindu
[Ardra]
a goddess of fortune
daughter of Daksa
wife of Candra
- Anuris (see Anhur)
- Anus (see Anu<sup>2</sup>)
- Anush Armenian
mother of dragons
wife of Azdahak
- Anushayina Hindu
a deity later known as Sri
- Anut Pacific Islands
a creator-god of Bilibili
- Anwar-u-Subali Persian
the modern Persian version of the Panchantantra
- Any-Any-Any-Ah North American [=Cowichian Queenah]
an evil deity of the Haida
- anya-kut Siberian
the father soul, one of the 3 parts of the soul (kut) in the lore of the Yakuts
- Anyi-mawu-wo African
earth-gods of the Hua people
- Anyigba African
an earth-god of the Ewe people one of the trowo
- Anytus Greek
a Titan
- Anzety (see Anjety)
- Anzius German
an emperor of Constantinople
father of Hugdietrich
On his deathbed he gave his infant son into the care of Berchther.
- Anzu (see Zu)
- Ao<sup>1</sup> Chinese a sea dragon
- Ao<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands [Ao Toto. 'light']
god of the clouds
offspring of Ilu and Mamao
This deity united with Po to produce Rangiona and Rangiuiri and create
the world.
- Ao<sup>3</sup> (see Aos<sup>2</sup>)
- Ao Ch'in Chinese [Kuang-li]
the Dragon King of the South (see Four Dragon Kings)

occupants or, some say, swept the three girls back to the Otherworld.

Aoife<sup>4</sup> (see Aifa)

Aokeu Pacific Islands

a Polynesian water deity

Together with Ake, Aokeu was responsible for the deluge. He caused the rain to fall while Ake caused the waters to rise. Rongo intervened to put a stop to their activities and the water subsided.

Aonach (see Eire)

Aonbarr (see Aonbharr)

Aonbharr Irish

[Aonbarr.Enb(h)arr.Splendid Mane]

a horse of Manannan that could travel over the waves

This animal was later given to Lugh.

Aoncos Irish

an island in the Otherworld

This was one of the places visited by Maeldun and was said to be supported on a column of silver.

Aondo African

the creator god of Nigeria

Aonghus (see Angus)

Aongus (see Angus)

Aonian fount (see Aganippe)

Aonna Irish

a monk acting as confessor to Guaire

Aos<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

an alternative version of Ea consort of Dauke

father of Belos

Aos<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[Ao.Hoa.Oa]

a Chaldean god of light

aos sidhe (see aes sidhe)

Aosnara Persian

a sage

It is said that Aosnara imparted great wisdom while still in his mother's womb. He became an adviser to King Kay Kaus, who killed the sage when he became weary of his wisdom.

Aotea-ro (see Hawaiki)

Ap (see Apa)

ap thmop Cambodian

a sorcerer

He is said to be able to cause illness by pricking a wax model in the spot where he wishes his victim to feel pain.

Ap-uat (see Wepwawet)

Apa Hindu

[Ap.Apas]

one of Indra's 8 attendant gods (water)

one of the 5 forms of Parabrahma

Apa-hau Pacific Islands

a Polynesian storm demon

Apabharanis (see Bharani)

Apacita (see Apachita)

Apachita<sup>1</sup> South American

[Apacita]

an Inca guardian spirit of travellers

apachita<sup>2</sup> South American

[apacita]

stone cairns that were revered by the Incas as the home of spirits

Apaharavarma Hindu

a legendary hero

He was admired for robbing the rich to help the poor and for helping lovers who were separated.

Apakura Pacific Islands

[Apekua]

a heroine of the Philippines

She sought out and killed Hatea-motua, who had killed her son who had tried to win Hatea-motua's daughter for a wife.

Apala Hindu

a woman seduced by Indra

After the love making, Indra granted her three wishes: restoring her father's lost virility, making his fields productive and healing her skin disease. To cure the disease he pulled her three times through the hole in the centre of one of his chariot wheels. The three layers of skin that were stripped off became a hedgehog, a crocodile and a chameleon.

Apalala Buddhist

a water monster that was converted

by Buddha

Apam Napal (see Apam Napat)

Apam Napat<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Apam Napal]

god of fresh water: cloud personified

Apam Napat<sup>2</sup> Persian

[Apam Napal]

god of fresh water

son of Vourukasha

lover of Anahita

Apaosha Persian

a demon of drought

In the form of a black stallion, he fought the rain god Tistrya, who took the form of a white stallion.

Apap<sup>1</sup> African

[Akuj.Good Creator]

a creator-god of the Teso

Apap<sup>2</sup> (see Apep)

Apapi (see Apep)

Apappus Egyptian

a giant demon of drought

Aparajita<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

an aspect of Ratnasambhava

Aparajita<sup>2</sup> Buddhist

a goddess

She is depicted as yellow and standing on Ganesha.

Aparajita<sup>3</sup> Hindu

an aspect of Rudra

one of the Khrodadevatas

Aparajita<sup>4</sup> Hindu

a goddess, an aspect of Durga

Aparas Mesopotamian

a Hittite god

Aparctias (see Boreas)

Apas (see Apa)

Apason Mesopotamian

an alternative version of Abzu

consort of Tauthe

father of Lache, Lachos and Moymis

Apate Greek

a deity: deceit personified

Apaturia<sup>1</sup> Greek

an Ionian festival, held in October/

November, involving animal sacrifice

Apaturia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Phratia]

a name for Athena as patron-goddess of the Anthenaia

Apauk-kyit-hok Burmese

[Apaukkyit]

a man who was the cause of death

In the days when men were immortal, he had already lived nine lifetimes and had been rejuvenated. One day he hid himself and the others in the tribe who thought he was dead and conducted a funeral ceremony. When the sun-god discovered the old man's deception he was angry and thereafter allowed men to die.

Apaukkyit (see Apauk-kyit-hok)

Apaya Buddhist

the 4 lower worlds

These are given as the animal world, the demon world, the world of ghosts, and hell.

ape

this animal is featured in a number of mythologies

In Egypt the ape is an aspect of Thoth. European tradition has the ape in the role of Satan. Hindu symbolism regards the ape as a rain cloud. In the Philippines the ape is a trickster hero who always seems to escape punishment for his escapades.

Apedemak Egyptian

a Sudanese war-god

He is depicted as having a lion's head on a human body.

Apekua (see Apakura)

Apeliotes (see Apheliotes)

Apellai Dorian Greek

an Ionian festival

Apellon (see Apellun)

Apellun Roman

[Apellon:=Greek Apollo]
an Italic love-god

Apemosyne Greek

daughter of Catreus
sister of Althamenes, Aerope
and Clymene

She went to Rhodes with her brother, Althamenes. When she became pregnant as a result of rape by Hermes, Althamenes kicked her to death, not believing her story.

Apep Egyptian

[Aapep.Apap(i).Aepi.Aper.Apop:=Greek Apophis.Roarer:=Babylonian Tiamat]
a snake-god, the serpent of chaos an aspect of Set

This demon opposed the sun-god Ra in his daily journey across the heavens and she was stabbed by Sit with his spear, forcing the demon to disgorge all those that it had swallowed that day. Apep was renewed each day but was finally killed by Ra or Shu.

Some say that he was created when Neith spat into the primitive waters.

Apepi (see Apep)

Aper (see Apep)

Ape's Hill (see Abyla)

Apet (see Tauret)

Aphaea Greek

[Aphaia.Aphea.Dictynna.Diktunna]
mother-goddess of Aegina

Originally the Cretan goddess who jumped into the sea to escape the attentions of Minos. Caught in the nets of local fishermen, she became known as Dictynna. Later she fled to Aegina where she was revered at Aphaea.

She was sometimes identified with Artemis and later with Athena.

Aphaia (see Aphaea)

Aphareus Greek

king of Messenia
son of Perieres and Gorgophone brother of Leucippus
father of Idas and Lynceus

He married his half-sister Arene and because both of his sons died before him, left his throne to Nestor.

Aphea (see Aphaea)

Apheliotes Greek

[Apheliotes:=Roman Solanus]
the east wind (Eurus) or a wind from the north-east quarter

Aphidnus Greek

a friend of Theseus
He cared for Helen when she was abducted by Theseus and Peirithous.

Aphrodisia Greek

festivals held in honour of Aphrodite

Aphrodisias Turkish

[=Greek Aphrodite]
a fertility-goddess

Aphrodite Greek

[Ambolgera.Anadyomene.Androphonos.
Anosia.Apostrophia.Ar(e)ia.Argynnis.
Cyprian.Cypris.Cytherea.Daeira.Dione.
Dove Goddess.Epitragia.Epitymbidia.
Idalia.Kallipyges.Kypris.Morpho.Myrtea.
Myrto(essa).Pandemos.Pasaphaessa.
Peitho.Queen of Love.Tymborychos.
Urania:=Arab Alilat:=Armenian Anahit:
=Babylonian Ishtar.Mylitta:=Canaanite
Anaitis.Anat:=Italic Aprodita:=Persian
Anahita:=PhoenicianAstarte:=Phrygian
Cybele:=Roman Venus:=Scythian
Argimpasa:=Sumerian Inanna]

goddess of beauty and love, one of the Olympians
patron of prostitutes
daughter of Uranus and Hemera,
some say
wife of Hephaestus

There are conflicting versions of her birth. In one, she was the daughter of Zeus and Dione; in another she was born from the foam where the phallus of Uranus was thrown into the sea by Cronus who had cut it off; other stories thought she developed inside a cockle shell or regard her as one of the Fates.

It was she who gave the golden apples to Melanion enabling him to win the foot-race against Atalanta.

She saved Butes from the sea when he was seduced by the song of the Sirens and jumped overboard from the Argo. She made him her lover. She seems to have had many other lovers and a number of children including: Aeneas by Anchises; Anteros by Ares, some say; Eros by Ares, Hermes or Zeus; Deimus, Harmonia and Phobus by Ares; Eros by Ares, some say; Hermaphroditus by Hermes; Herophilus and Rhodis by Poseidon; and Priapus by Dionysus, Hermes, Pan or Zeus.

In one such affair she was caught in flagrante with Ares by Hephaestus, who trapped them both in a fine-meshed net of metal for all to see. She had an affair with Achises and protected their son Aeneas during the battle of Troy. She also fell in love with Adonis and her tears when he was killed by a wild boar turned into anemones.

At the wedding feast of Peleus and Thetis she was a contender, with Athena and Hera, for the golden apple tossed into the assembly by Eris. She won by bribing Paris, who was asked to be the judge, by promising him access to Helen, the most beautiful woman in the world. As a result she supported the Trojans against the Greeks during the Trojan War.

In some versions she appears as an androgynous deity with a beard, a combination of Hermes and Aphrodite (hermaphrodite).

Her birds were the dove, the sparrow and the swan; her tree was the myrtle and her symbol a shell. Her chariot was drawn by eight unicorns.

Aphrodite Pandemos Greek

[=Roman Concordia]
a version of Aphrodite as goddess of peace and harmony

Aphroditus (see Hermaphroditus)

Apis<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

a bull-god: the sacred bull son of Isis, conceived by lightning or a sunbeam

At Memphis he was worshipped in the form of a bull, an animal that was said to become Osiris or Ptah on its death. The bull was sacrificed when it was twenty-five years old and a new bull was installed. It was required to have the proper markings: a white triangle on the forehead, the shape of an eagle on the back and a lump shaped like a scarab under the tongue.

In some accounts he is the same as Hapy, god of the Nile.

He is depicted as a black bull with wings, bearing the solar disc and the uraeus between the horns.

(see also Epaphus.Serapis)

Apis<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Phoroneus and Teledice
He was killed by Aetolus in a chariot race.

Apis<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian

a bee-god

Apisaoon Greek

son of Phausius
He was killed by Eurypylos during the siege of Troy.

Apisirahts (see Apisuahts)

Apisuahts North American

[Apisirahts.Morning Star]
the morning star deity of the Blackfoot Indians, in some accounts son of Natos and Kokomikeis consort of Soatsaki
father of Poia (see also Scarface)

Apkallu Mesopotamian

[Seven Sages]
envoys of the god Ea
These beings are variously given as seven, eight or sixteen in number.

Aplu Roman

[=Greek Apollo]
an Etruscan weather-god

Apnapurna (see Anna-Purna)

Apo<sup>1</sup> Persian
a Zoroastrian spirit of sweet waters
one of the Yazatas

Apo<sup>2</sup> South American
an Inca mountain-god

apo<sup>3</sup> South American [=Aymara mallcu]
gods and spirits of the Quecha

Apo-Inti Central American
an aspect of Inti as 'lord sun'

Apo-Katawan Pacific Islands
a god of a Negrito tribe in the Philippines

Apo-tampu (see Pacari)

Apocanallotl Central American
an Aztec water deity

Apocatequil South American
an Inca chief-priest to the moon-god a god of evil in some accounts son of Guamansuri
twin brother of Piguerao

His father had seduced the sister of the Guachimines so they killed Guamansuri, and after the birth of the twins, their sister also. Apocatequil restored her to life and killed the Guachimines. Instructed by Ataguchu, the brothers were able to escape from the Cave of Refuge where they had been sheltering.

In another version Apocatequil was the father of twins who were hatched from eggs and later became cultural heroes of the tribe.

In some stories Apocatequil and his brother dug up the earth to release the progenitors of the Incas from their subterranean home.

Apochquiahuyan (see Mictlan)

Apollidon European
a magician
emperor of Greece
husband of Grimanesa

He built a marvellous palace on Firm Island where he lived happily with his wife. When he left to become emperor of Greece, he left behind the Arch of True Lovers and the Forbidden Chamber to test the purity of lovers who tried to enter.

Apollo<sup>1</sup> British

a king of Lyonesse
son of Sador and Chelinde husband of Gloriande father of Canaces

Sador left Chelinde and her son, Apollo, and returned many years later. Apollo, not recognising his father, killed him.

In some accounts his father is given as Lucius and Apollo is said inadvertently to have married his own mother.

Apollo<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Abaeus.Abaios.Aguieus.Agyieus.
Aleuromantes.Apellon.Apollon.
Apotropaeus.Archer God.Atepomarus.
Carneios.Catharsius.Cynthius.Delian.
Delius.Delphinus.Eulalon.Hecatos.Helios.
Karn(ei)os.Loxias.Lyc(a)eus.Lykaiois.
Lyc(el)ius.Lycian.Musagetes.Nomius.
Paeon.Pae(e)on.Paion.Pasturer.Phoebus
Apollo.Pytheus.Pythian.Pyth(i)us.
Rat-killer.Sminthian.Smintheus.
Sminthius.Sol.Tortor.Tyrxis:=British Maponus:=Etruscan Aplu.Veiovis:=Gaulish
Atepomarus:=Roman Apellun]

mouse-god and god of archery, beauty, doors, embarkation, light, medicine, music, poetry, prophecy, public places, roads, shepherds, truth, wolves: one of the Olympians

in the Roman pantheon, the god of light, sun son of Zeus by Leto son of Hephaetus by Athena, some say twin brother of Artemis brother of Lychnis, some say

He was born on the island of Delos and reared by Themis. While still an infant he killed the serpent Python at Delphi.

He fought with Idas for the hand of Marpessa, who chose to marry Idas.

He loved the youth Hyacinthus. Grieving at his death, caused by a discus thrown by Apollo but deliberately diverted by the West Wind, made the hyacinth flower spring up where the boy's blood stained the earth. He also loved Cassandra and gave her the power of prophecy, but when she rejected his love, he decreed that her prophecies should never be believed. In similar fashion he granted the Sibyl of Cumae the power of prophecy and as many years as she held grains of sand, but withheld the gift of youth when she rejected his advances, so that she grew old and shrivelled and asked to die.

Another lover, the young hunter Cyparissus, died of grief when he accidentally killed the god's pet stag.

He was changed by Apollo into a cypress tree.

Apollo fell in love with the nymph Daphne, who ran away at his approach. Before he could overtake her, her father, the river-god Peneus, turned her into a laurel tree, which became a tree sacred to Apollo.

He fell in love with Coronis and seduced her. When his bird, the raven, told him that she was having an affair with Ischys, he killed her but rescued his unborn son, Asclepius. He turned the raven, until then a white bird, black.

In some stories he fathered Asclepius on Arsinoe rather than Coronis and in some the black bird involved is the crow.

He had many other affairs and fathered a number of children including: Amphithemis on Pasiphae; Anius on Rhoea; Aristaeus on Cyrene; Asclepius on Coronis or, some say, on Arsinoe; Cyncus on Hyrie; Hygeius on Aethusa; Hyperenor on Aethusa; Iamus on Evadne; Idmon on Cyrene; Ion on Creusa; Linus on Psamathe or Urania; Miletus on Areia or Pasiphae; Mopsus on Manto, some say; Orpheus on Calliope, some say.

He changed one of his sons, Cyncus, into a swan.

When Zeus slew Asclepius for attempting to raise the dead Hippolytus, Apollo avenged his death by killing the Cyclopes Arges, Brontes and Steropes. For this he was punished by Zeus who condemned him to serve as a slave. In some versions he served King Laomedon, helping Poseidon to build the walls of Troy, in others King Admetus of Thessaly. Some say he served the two kings in separate punishments.

With the help of Artemis he killed the giant Tityus who was attempting to rape Leto. He and Artemis killed all fourteen children of Niobe for a slight to the goddess.

He engaged in a musical contest with Pan and when Midas adjudged the latter to have won, awarded him the ears of an ass. In a similar contest with the satyr Marsyas, Apollo won and flayed the loser alive. His music helped him when he and Poseidon built the walls of Troy as he was able to charm the stones into position merely by playing his lyre.

He turned the Lemnian serpent to stone. When Orion showed signs of having designs on Artemis, Apollo arranged with Mother Earth to have him harried by a huge scorpion, but set him and his lyre in the heavens when he died.

At the siege of Troy he helped the Trojans against the Greeks and guided the arrow that killed Achilles.

He is credited with the invention of the lute and the cithara and was given the lyre by Hermes.

His animal was the dolphin and his bird was the crow (or raven).

He is usually depicted with a bow and arrows and accompanied by lions. His chariot was drawn by griffins.

Apollo Agyieus Greek
a name for Apollo as a street-god: a stone column placed at the entrance door of houses in Athens

Apollo Carneios Greek
a name for Apollo as a rain-god

Apollo Cunomaglus British [Horned Lord]
a name for Apollo envisaged as a form of Cernunnos

Apollodoros Greek
a 2nd c BC mythographer
He was the author of Bibliothēke.

Apollon (see Apollo<sup>2</sup>)

Apollonius<sup>1</sup> Greek
a 3rd c BC poet

He was the author of Argonautica, the story of Jason and his crew.

Apollonius<sup>2</sup> Greek
a magician

He is said to have discovered that the prospective wife of Menippus was, in fact, a serpent or lamia.

In some accounts it was his own wife who was the lamia.

Apollyon Greek
the angel of the Abyss

Apomyios Greek
a name for Zeus as ‘Lord of the Flies’

Apone Roman
a fountain in Padua said to have healing qualities

Aponibolinayen Pacific Islands
[Tinguian] wife of Aponitolau
mother of Kanag

She was a beautiful Philippine maiden who was carried up to the heavens by a vine that coiled itself round her, and there she married Aponitolau, the sun.

Her son was born when she scratched an itchy spot on her finger.

Aponitolau Pacific Islands
[Ini-Init]

the sun
husband of Aponibolinayen
father of Kanag

Apop (see Apep)

apophatic
description of deity by listing what God is not

Apophis Greek
the Greek name for Apep

apophrades Greek
days held to be unlucky
These included the days in Anthesteria when the dead were said to visit their old homes.

Apostrophia Greek
a name of Aphrodite as ‘she who turns away’

Apotropaeus Greek
a name of Apollo as ‘guardian of men and animals’

apotropaism
a magic ritual to divert evil
This ceremony varies from one culture to another. In Europe, for example, naked women pulling a plough by night are said to be able to ward off disease, whereas, in other cases, a single horseshoe over a door will suffice. In Japan the ritual involves the sacrifice of some animal, such as a pig, to save the crops. Many plants are said to be efficacious and are used in these rituals.

Apoyan Tachi North American
[All-Covering Father Sky. Apoyan Tachu]
sky-god of the Zuni: god of the North father by Awitelin Tsta of the first man, Poshaiyankayo

He was formed from the splitting of the early hermaphrodite god, Awonawilona, into two separate sexes, Awitelin Tsta and Apoyan Tachi.

Some say that he was created by Awonawilona from sea foam.

Apoyan Tachu (see Apoyan Tachi)

Apparas Baltic
Lapp forest spirits

These beings are said to be the souls of children who have been killed. They control the grass and the trees.

apparition
a spirit appearance of a ghost: a supernatural vision

Appiades Roman
5 goddesses of peace

These deities, represented on horseback, were Concordia, Pallas, Peace, Venus and Vesta.

Apple Island (see Avalon)

Apple of Discord Greek
the golden apple tossed by Eris into the wedding feast of Peleus and Thetis

This apple, said to be inscribed ‘For the fairest’, caused argument between Aphrodite, Athena and Hera; Paris was appointed to adjudicate. His decision to award the prize to Aphrodite, who promised him Helen as a reward, led to the Trojan War.

The apple was one of the Apples of the Hesperides, stolen by Eris.

Apples of Iduna Norse [Apples of Youth]
the apples produced from the magic basket owned by Iduna

Iduna gave these apples to the gods to maintain their state of eternal youthfulness. Some of them were once stolen by Thiassi and recovered by Loki.

Apples of Pyban Greek fruit that sustained the pygmies by smell alone

Apples of Samarkand Arabian apples that, in The Arabian Nights, could cure any illness

Apples of Stakhar
mythical apples, sweet on one side, bitter on the other

Apples of the Hesperides Greek
the golden apples that grew on the tree given to Hera at her wedding

This tree was guarded by the Hesperides, the daughters of Atlas, and its apples were the object of the eleventh labour of Hercules.

The apples themselves were the colour of gold and tasted like honey. Used as missiles, they always struck whatever they were aimed at and returned to the thrower’s hand. They also had the power of healing.

Apples of Youth (see Apples of Iduna)

Appuleius (see Apuleius)

apratibuddha Buddhist [abuddha]

the transcendental self

Aprilists
worshippers of the Bull

Aprodita Roman
[=Greek Aphrodite]

the Italic goddess of love

apsara (see apsaras)

apsaras<sup>1</sup> Hindu [apsara: plur=apsarases:=Persian peri]

a goddess of fertility
a water spirit: a nymph of heaven
These nymphs are the dancers said to provide entertainment with the singers, the Gandharvas, in Svarga, Indra's heaven, or in Sukhavati.

Some say these beings, numbering many millions, were created at the Churning of the Ocean and appear as birds, clouds, butterflies, etc.

In some accounts they were capable of causing madness, and some say they lived in fig trees.

apsaras<sup>2</sup> Tibetan
local deities

apsarases (see apsaras)

apsasatu Mesopotamian
a female apsasu

apsasu Mesopotamian [fem=apsasatu]
a sphinx-like winged lion with a human head

Apsu (see Abzu)

Apsu-Rushtu Mesopotamian
[=Egyptian Nun:=Sumerian Abzu]
the Babylonian god of the primitive waters
consort of Tiamat

Apsurtos (see Apsyrtus)

Apsyrtus Greek [Absyrtus.Apsurtos]
son of Aetes and Idyia
brother of Chalciope and Medea

When his sister Medea left Colchis with Jason after he had seized the Golden Fleece, Apsyrtus either went with her in the Argo or followed in one of the ships of the Colchian fleet, depending on who is telling the story.

In the former tale, Medea killed him and threw pieces of his body overboard to delay the following ships, which stopped to collect the pieces. In the other story she induced Apsyrtus to come ashore where he was killed by Jason waiting in ambush.

Aptya (see Indra.Trita)

Apu-Hau Pacific Islands
a Hawaiian storm-god
son of Tawhiri

Apu-illapu (see Ilyapa)

Apu-Ko-Hai Pacific Islands
a fish-god of the Mangaia Islanders

Apu Lagang East Indian
the spirit world of the Dayaks

Apu-Matangi New Zealand
a Maori storm-god
son of Tawhiri

Apu Ollanta South American
the story of Ollanta and Curi-Coyllur

Apu Punchau (see Inti)

Apuat (see Wepwawet)

Apuatu Egyptian
an early form of Osiris

apuku South American [=Ashanti mmoatia:=Brazil saci:=Dahomey

zizan:=Nigeria ijimere]

forest spirits of the Gurana (Surinam)

Apuleius, Lucius Roman

[Appuleius]
a 2nd c writer
husband of Aemilia Pudentilla

Born in Africa, he studied in Athens and Rome and was the author of The Golden Ass, which includes the story of Cupid and Psyche.

He was accused of having acquired his wife, a rich widow, by making use of magic, but was acquitted of the charge.

Apulunus Mesopotamian
a Hittite god of gates

Apurimac South American [Great Speaker]

a river revered as an oracle

Apus<sup>1</sup> South American mountain spirits of Peru

When Roal killed all the people with the heat of the sun, the Apus created Collari and Inkari who became the ancestors of a new population.

Apus<sup>2</sup>

a monster
This beast was said to have no hind legs.

Aqas-Xena-Xenas North American
a hero of the Chinook

As a boy he climbed on to a chain fastened to an arrow and so reached heaven. There he married the Moon and they bore conjoined twins, which Blue-Jay separated.

Aqat (see Aqhat)

Aqhat Canaanite
[Ahat.Aqat.Aqht]
son of King Daniel and Danatiya

He was given a marvellous bow made by Kothar, which Anat coveted. When he refused her offer of immortality in exchange for the bow, she had him killed by Yatpan. His body was eaten by Samal. As a result, darkness descended on the earth, and plants and animals began to die. With the help of El, Anat rescued Aqhat from the underworld and restored the bow to its rightful owner, whereupon things returned to normal.

In one story Aqhat's body was eaten by vultures (including Samal). Daniel prayed to Baal who broke the vultures' wings so that they fell to the ground where Daniel ripped open their gizzards and rescued the pieces of his son, which he then buried with due ceremony.

Aqht (see Aqhat)

Aqrab Arabian

the Zodiacal sign Scorpio

Aqua South American

a bird woman in the lore of the Incas sister of Torito

Two brothers who escaped the flood came back to their hut one day to find food and drink already prepared. The elder brother watched and discovered that Aqua and Torito were responsible, but were frightened when they saw him and failed to return for some time. When they did come back, the younger brother trapped one of the bird-women and she lived with him for a long time, bearing a number of children who became the ancestors of the Canaris tribe.

aquarelle

a blue gemstone
This stone is said by some to prevent quarrels, improve intellect, cure a number of ailments, help those searching for hidden objects and protect against poison.

Aquarius

[=Arab Dahu:=Mesopotamian Giz]
the eleventh sign of the Zodiac,
the water-carrier

Aquaticus (see David<sup>2</sup>)

Aquiel

[Sargat]
a demon that can be called up on Sundays

Aquila (see Ch'ien Niu.Hikoboshi)

Aquilant European son of Oliver brother of Griffon

Aquiline European
the horse of Raymond, a Christian knights

Raymond fought at the capture of Jerusalem and killed the king, Aladine.

Aquilo Roman [Aquilon.Septentrio:=Greek Boreas]

the north wind

Aquilon (see Aquilo)

Aquitain (see Melot)

Aquitaine (see Melot)

Aquosus Greek
a Latin name for Orion as 'bringer of rain'

Aquqim Phoenician
[Okelim]

fabulous horned beings, like Baal himself, used by El in his fight with Baal

Ar-soghotch Siberian

the first man, in the lore of the Yakut son of Ar-tojon and Kybai-Khotun
He is regarded as the progenitor of the human race and lives in paradise nourished by the Zambu tree.

Ar-tojon Siberian

a supreme god of the Yakut consort of Kybai-Khotun father of Ar-soghotch

Ar Zori (see Palesmurt)

A'ra<sup>1</sup> Arabian

a local god

Ara<sup>2</sup> East Indian

in the lore of the Iban of Borneo, a primaevial creator

Ara and Irik flew, in the form of birds, over the primordial ocean. They drew two eggs from the waters and from them they made earth and sky. They then made men from soil and gave them life.

Ara<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Arae]

a goddess of retribution and destruction
This name was also used for the destructive sisters, the Furies.

Ara<sup>4</sup> (see Aray.Er<sup>1</sup>)

Ara mitama Japanese

a violent spirit

Ara Tiatia (see Ara Tiotio)

Ara Tiotio Pacific Islands

[Ara Tiatia:=Australian Awhiowhio]

a Polynesian god of whirlwinds

(see also Aratiatia)

Arabian bird Greek

a Greek name for the phoenix

Arabian Nights' Entertainments

Arabian

[The Thousand Nights and a Night]

The story of Shahriyar who married a new wife every day and executed her next morning. Scheherazade saved her life by telling him fascinating stories, including the seven epic voyages of Sinbad, Ali Baba And the Forty Thieves, Aladdin's Lamp and other stories, for a thousand and one nights, until he was over his madness.

Arabu kami Japanese

an evil spirit

Arachne Greek

['spider'] a Lydian weaver

daughter of Idmon

She challenged Athena at weaving. When her work turned out to be the equal of that of the goddess, Athena beat her severely, whereupon Arachne hanged herself. The remorseful Athena changed her into a spider so that she could continue spinning and weaving.

In some versions she is described as the goddess of weaving.

Arad-Ama-arhus (see Ama-arhus)

Arad Ea Mesopotamian

[Ardi-Ea:=Greek Charon]

a Babylonian ferryman who carried the dead across the Sea of Death or the River of Death, Khubur

a descendant of Utnapishtim

He carried Gilgamesh or Izdubar to see Utnapishtim in the Island of the Blessed.

Arada West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Aradia (see Gospel of the Witches)

Arae (see Ara<sup>3</sup>)

Arahan (see arhat.Eighteen Lohan)

Arahant (see arhat.Eighteen Lohan)

Arahat (see arhat.Eighteen Lohan)

Arahito-gami Japanese

the mikado regarded as the incarnation of a deity

Arahuta Pacific Islands

daughter of Tawhaki by Tangotango

Araidhe Irish

a wizard

He was said to be an ancestor of the Dalraida people, and in some accounts is the brother of Ollav Fola.

arak Cambodian

a guardian spirit

This spirit, often that of an ancestor, lives in the house or in a nearby tree so that it can watch over the family. If a member of the family should fall ill, the shaman is called in to attend the patient and can cause the arak to materialise and help with the cure, which involves exorcising the evil spirit that is causing the illness.

Arakan (see Rakan)

Arakho (see Alka)

Aralez (see Jaralez)

Aralgho Goa (see 'Brug-ma)

Arallu (see Aralu)

Aralo Russian

a Georgian god of agriculture

Aralu Mesopotamian

[Arallu.Araru.Emeslam.(House of)

Meslam.Shuala:=Egyptian Shket-Aaru:

=Sumerian Cuthah]

the Babylonian underworld ruled by

Nergal and Allatu or Ereshkigal

Aram Armenian

son of Harma

He is said to have fought and defeated the god, Baal-Samin.

Arama South American

in the lore of the Moxos tribe, a sun-god

Aramaita (see Armaiti)

Aramati Hindu

a Vedic goddess, devotion personified

Aramazd Armenian

[=Georgian Armaz:=Persian Ahura Mazda]
a supreme god

father of Anahit, Mihr and Nane

(see also Ormzdakan)

Arana (see Erana)

Aranbul Korean

a minister in the service of Tan'gun

Aranann Irish

son of Milesius

On the voyage from Spain to Ireland he fell, from the top of the ship's mast, into the sea and drowned.

Aranrhod Welsh

[Arianr(h)od.Arionrod.Silver Circle]

goddess of the dawn in Welsh lore moon-goddess

footholder to King Math

daughter of Beli and Don sister of Gilfaethwy and Gwydion

mother of Nwyvre by Gwydion

She applied for the job of fotholder to King Math after Goewen's departure, but when the king tested her for virginity with his magic wand, she produced a baby, Dylan, who immediately took to the sea. In some versions the birth was accompanied by a drop of blood, which Gwydion collected in a handkerchief. This developed into another child, Llew, who was raised by Gwydion but who was cursed by Aranrhod so that he could never marry a mortal woman.

Other versions say that Dylan and Llew were born together; others that there were three children, Dylan, Llew and Nwyvre; others that Llew was the son of Goewen by Gilfaethwy who had raped her in the king's absence, when he was engaged in battle with Pryderi. The more general view is that the children were the sons of Gwydion.

In some accounts she is equated with Argante.

Aranunna Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'counsellor'

Aranvaz Persian

one of the wives of Azhi Dahak

Thraetona fathered three sons, Eraj, Salm and Tur, with Aranvaz and Ahaharnaz.

Aranyakas Hindu

sacred writings of the forest hermits

Aranyani Hindu

a woodland-goddess

Aranzakh Persian

a river-god, the Tigris personified

He was one of the three gods spat out by Kumarbi or, in some accounts, produced from the earth. The other two gods were Tasmisu and Teshub.

Arapacana<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
a bodhisattva

Arapacana<sup>2</sup> Buddhist
a name for the 5 Buddhas as a group

arara Central American the firebird or sunbird with whom the god Ah Kin, as Kinich Kakmo, was identified

Arariel
a guardian spirit of the waters

Araru (see Aralu)

Aras Greek
father of Elatus

arase African
a name for the unicorn in the Kordofan area of the Sudan

Arathaso Burmese
malevolent tree spirits

Aratiatia New Zealand
Maori land of spirits in the sky
(see also Ara Tiotio.Irihia.Tāhekaroa)

Aration
an astral spirit governing the planet Saturn
one of the Olympic Spirits
This being can turn base minerals such as coal into precious minerals. It teaches the arts of the alchemist.

Aratis Hindu
a Vedic evil spirit

Aravia British [Aravius]
the mountain in Wales where Retho lived, now called Snowdon

Aravius (see Aravia)

Arawa African
a moon-goddess of East Africa daughter of Tororut and Seta

Arawn<sup>1</sup> Welsh [=British Herne:=Irish Midir]
the Welsh god of the underworld, Annwfn
He was hunting one day when Pwyll drove off his hounds and set his own pack on to the stag Arawn had been pursuing. To make recompense, Pwyll took Arawn's place as king of the Underworld for one year while Arawn ruled Dyfed for Pwyll.
King Arthur raided his realm to seize Arawn's magic cauldron.
(see also Gwyn<sup>1</sup>.Spoils of Annwfn)

Arawn<sup>2</sup> (see Augusel)

Aray Armenian
[Are] a war-god

Arazu Mesopotamian
a Babylonian artisan god

Arban European
a knight

He was captured by the wife of the giant Famongomadán, who had been killed by Amadis, to avenge her husband's death.

Arbha (see Alva)
Arbelleus (seek Arbellus)
Arbellus British [Abelleus]
a treacherous knight

When Torre arrived at Arbellus' pavilion and seized the white bitch that he had been ordered by King Arthur to find, Arbellus rode after him to get the animal back. They fought and Torre toppled Arbellus. A damsel rode up and demanded his head because, she said, he had killed her brother. Arbellus ran off but Torre overtook him and killed him, carrying his body and the white bitch back to Arthur's court.

Arberth Welsh [Arbeth.Narbe(r)th]
the court of Pwyll, chief of Dyfed
The site had an enchanted mound, Gorsedd Arbewrth, Wales, where those who sat might see marvels or be made to suffer wounds. Pwyll sat there where he saw Rhiannon and it was here that Manawydan tried to hang the mouse that turned out to be Llywd's wife.

Arbeth (see Arberth)
Arbu (see Ribhu)
Arbuda Hindu
a Vedic serpent demon, keeper of rain
He was overcome by Indra, releasing rain for the benefit of mankind.

Arca Dubh Irish
[Black Arcan.Black Arky]
a servant of Cumail
There are several versions of the death of Cumail. In one he was killed in battle by Goll mac Morna. Others say he was killed by Arca Dubh using Cumail's own sword while he was sleeping or with a spear when he was swimming.

In some stories, Cumail's son Finn mac Cool later slew Arcan Dubh, so avenging his father's death.

Arcabone European
an enchantress
sister of Archalaus
mother of Argantes, Furion and Matroco

She and her kin held the old king Lisuarte captive in their castle on the Forbidden Mountain. Esplandian, the king's grandson, came to the rescue and killed her brother and her three sons. Overcome with grief, she threw herself to her death from the castle walls.

Arcadia Greek [Arcady.Arkadia]
a bright, happy land in the East, the land of Pan

Arcadian Greek
a name for Artemis as a goddess of the hunt

Arcadian Hind (see Ceryneian Hind)

Arcady (see Arcadia)

Archalaus (see Archalaus)

Arcan
a demon king

Arcas Greek
son of Callisto by Zeus husband of Erato

In some accounts Arcas shot a bear that turned out to be his mother. Hera changed Callisto and Arcas into bears and Zeus had them placed in the heavens as the Great Bear and the Little Bear.

Another account says that his grandfather, Lycaon, killed Arcas and served his flesh to Zeus, who restored Arcas and turned Lycaon into a wolf. A similar story is told of Nyctimus, son of Lycaon.

Arcasia British
intemperance personified in The Faerie Queene

She was defeated by the knight Guyon.

Arceisius (see Arcisius)

Arch-demon (see Ahriman)

arch-magic powerful magic such as that required to restore the dead to life

Arch of the Queen (see Utingo)

Arch of True Lovers European an arch on Firm Island

This structure was erected by Apollidon to test the purity of lovers who tried to pass through it. Many had tried and failed but some had been successful. When Amadis and his friends came to Firm Island, he and Agries passed through unharmed but both Galaor and Florestan refused to try.

Archaeus
[Archeus]
a spirit investing all living things

Archagathius Roman [Vulnerarius]
a legendary physician renowned for his cruel methods of surgery

Archalaus European [Archalaus.Archaloius]
an evil enchanter

brother of Arcabone
uncle of Argantes, Furion and Matroco
He was held in prison by Amadis but his wife, in disguise, extracted a promise of help from Amadis. When she claimed the release of her husband, Amadis was bound to keep his promise.

To obtain revenge, Archalaus captured Lisuarte, father of Oriana the wife of Amadis, and imprisoned him in the castle on Forbidden Mountain. Esplandian, Lisuarte's grandson, helped by Urganda, killed Archalaus, together with his sister Arcabone and her three sons, and rescued his grandfather.

Archaloious (see Archalaus)

Archamp (see Battle of Archamp)

Archarya (see Drona)

Archbishop Turpin (see Turpin)

Arche Greek

one of the Muses in those accounts that say that there were 4 Muses

Archelaus Greek

son of Temenus
brother of Creisus, Hynritho and Perdiccas

His sister, Hynritho, married Deiphontes. When Temenus showed that he preferred his son-in-law to his own sons, they killed him.

Archelochus Greek

son of Antenor and Theano
brother of Acamas

He and his brother led the Dardanians fighting for Troy against the Greeks.

Archemorus Greek

[Arkhemorus]
a later name of Opheltes

Archenfield British

the site of Amhar's death at the hand of his father, King Arthur, and of his burial mound, Licat Anir

Archer (see Sagittarius)

archer god

[bowyer god]
a god armed with bow and arrows, such as the Greek Eros or the Roman Cupid (see also Apollo)

Archeus (see Archaeus)

Archie British

the name taken by Gurgurant when he became a Christian

archimage

a chief magician

Archimago British

the chief magician in The Faerie Queene

Architeles Greek

father of Eunomus

Archophoros Greek

a dog of Orion

Arcile British

[Arsile]

a companion of Morgan le Fay (see also Alcina)

Arcippe Greek

daughter of Minyas

With her sisters Alcithoë and Leucippe she tore to pieces Leucippe's son, Hippasus, and ate him in a fit of madness induced by Dionysus, who was upset when they refused to join his revels.

Hermes changed all three sisters into birds.

Arcisius Greek

[Arceisius.Acrisius]

father of Laertes, in some accounts

Some say his mother was a bear.

Arcismati Buddhist

one of 12 deified spiritual spheres

Arcite Greek

a knight of Thebes

cousin of Palamon

He and Palamon, both captives of Theseus, fell in love with his daughter (or sister), Emily. She was promised as a prize in a tournament, which Arcite won. On his way to claim his prize, he was thrown from his horse and killed. Emily later married Palamon.

Arcitenus Mesopotamian

a Babylonian version of the centaur, with 2 heads

Arctinus Greek

[Arktinos]

a 6th c BC poet

He wrote the Aethiopsis, the story of the events following the Trojan War, and The Sack of Troy.

Arctophonos Greek

a dog of Orion

Arcturus Baltic

in Finnish lore, a celestial archer

It is said that the world will come to an end when he shoots down the star Beahje-naste.

Arcus (see Hermes)

Ard-Greimne Irish

['high power']

lord of Lethra

father of Princess Aifa and Skatha

Ard-mhac-Leinn Irish

in some accounts, the Otherworld

Ard Ri (see Ard Righ)

Ard Righ Irish

[Ard Ri.Ardri]

the title of the high-king of Ireland

Arda Viraz Persian

a man who visited the underworld

It is said that he drank poison so that he could go to the underworld to see what happened to the just and the sinners. He spent seven days and nights in a coma induced by the haoma draught and then recovered and was able to relate what he had seen.

Ardabahisht (see Asha Vahishta)

Ardad Persian

a demon who misdirects travellers

Ardan<sup>1</sup> British

an uncle of King Arthur father of Helis

Ardan<sup>2</sup> Irish

one of the 12 champions of the

Red Branch

son of Elva and Usna

brother of Airlé and Naisi

He was killed by Eoghan mac Durthacht, at the behest of Conor, when he and Airlé arrived back at Macha after escorting Deidre and Naisi back from Scotland under safe conduct.

Ardanari (see Ardhanari)

Ardanata British

wife of Degrabel

Ardashir Persian

a hero

son of Babak

Ardat Lile (see Lilith<sup>1</sup>)

Ardat Lili (see Lilith<sup>1</sup>)

Arddu Welsh

['the dark one']

a Welsh name for Satan

Arddu, Black Stone of

(see Black Stone of Arddu)

Ardent Emperor (see Shen Nung)

Ardericus (see Arderik)

Arderik European

[Ardericus]

a courtier at Charlemagne's court

He became jealous of Amiles and Amis when they found favour at the court and denounced Amiles as the lover of the king's daughter, Belisent, requiring Amiles to meet him in single combat to prove his innocence. Amis took his friend's place and killed Arderik but was afflicted with leprosy as punishment for the deception.

Arderydd Welsh

[Arfderydd]

the Welsh name for Arthuret

Ardesial

a moon demon

Ardhanari Hindu

[Ardanari. 'half-woman']

a god of eunuchs

the combination, in a statue, of Shiva

and his consort, Parvati or Durga

This combination of deities is depicted with the right side as male, the left side as female and sometimes with three heads. (see also Anna-Purna.

Ardhanari-Ishvara)

Ardhanari-Ishvara Hindu

the deity Shiva, merged with Devi

when Brahma needed females

at creation (see also Ardhanari)

Ardanarishvara

(see Ardhanari-Ishvara)

Ardi-Ea (see Arad-Ea)

Ardokhsha Persian

[=Greek Tyche]

a goddess of good fortune

Ardra (see Anuradha)

Ardri (see Ard Righ)

Arduina (see Arduinna)

Arduinna Celtic

[Arduina:=Roman Diana]

a goddess of woods and hunting in Gaul

She is depicted riding a boar.

Arebati African

a creator-god of the Bambuti

Aredvi Persian

a mythical river, one of the 4 flowing from the lake on the holy mountain,

Mount Alburz

Aredvi Sura Anahita Persian

a lake on Mount Alburz

This lake, full of milk and overhung by the haoma tree, is the source of four rivers, which flow to the cardinal points of the earth. (see also Urvis)

Areia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aria]

mother of Miletus by Apollo

Areia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Aria]

an armed goddess: a name of Aphrodite

or Athena as a war goddess

Areimanios (see Arimanes)

Areithous Greek

a king of Arcadia

He was killed in battle by Lycurgus.

Areius Greek

son of Bias

He was one of the Argonauts.

Arejataspa Persian

an opponent of Zoroaster

King Vishtaspa, who was converted by Zoroaster, fought several battles with

Arejataspa and finally defeated him.

Arekoi (see Areskouei)

Arelivri British

a chief page at King Arthur's court

Aremata-Popoa (see Arematapopoto)

Aremata-Rorua (see Aremataroroa)

Arematapopoto Pacific Islands

[Aremata-Popoa]

a Tahitian sea demon

Aremataroroa Pacific Islands

[Aremata-Rorua]

a Tahitian sea demon

Arene Greek

half-sister and wife of Aphaeus mother of Idas and Lynceus

Arensnuphis Egyptian

[Ari-hes-nefer]

a minor Sudanese god, attendant

on Isis

Areoi Pacific Islands

[Arioi]

a religious order in the Society Islands

It is claimed that this organisation was established by Oro-Tetefa and his brother Uru-Tetefa, two gods who came down from heaven. Others say that they are descended from Rongo or Tangaloa.

Initiates are tattooed on entry and the patterns of their tattoos become more complex as they advance in the order. Their main function is in the celebration of festivals.

Areon (see Arion)

Areop-Enap Pacific Islands

[Ancient Spider]

a primaevial spider a creator deity in Nauru Island

She was swallowed by a huge clam but, helped by a caterpillar, Rigi, and a shellfish, she opened the clam shell to make the earth. The top of the shell became the sky, the caterpillar became the sun and the shellfish became the moon. She made men from stones and had them support the sky.

Some say that the caterpillar's sweat formed the oceans, but he was drowned in the ocean and placed in the sky as the Milky Way.

Areop-It-Eonin Pacific Islands

a young spider

He was born from a boil on the body of the tortoise Dabage and is said to have brought the gift of fire to mankind.

areopagus Greek

the site in Athens of the tribunal

before which Ares was tried for killing Halirrhothius

Ares<sup>1</sup> British

father of Do

Ares<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Enyalios.Kandaon:=Egyptian Anhur:

=Etruscan Maris:=Roman Gravidus.Mars]

god of war, one of the Olympians son of Zeus and Hera

son of Enyo, some say

brother of Eris, Hebe and Hephaestus

He was the father of Alcippe by

Aglaurus, the Amazons, Cynus, Oenomaus, Tereus, and of Deinus, Phobus and Harmonia by Aphrodite, Diomedes by Cyrene and also, in some accounts, of the god Eros.

He was caught in bed with Aphrodite by her husband Hephaestus who trapped them both in a fine metal net.

When his daughter Alcippe was raped and abducted by Halirrhothius, he pursued them and killed the abductor. He was tried for murder and acquitted.

The young giants, Ephialtes and Otus, once imprisoned him in a bronze jar where he stayed for over a year until released by Hermes.

In the Trojan War he was on the side of the Trojans but was wounded by Diomedes. On another occasion he was wounded in a fight with Heracles. In the form of a boar, he killed Adonis.

His animal was the dog, his bird the vulture and his symbol a spear.

Ares Mahrem Ethiopian

the name for Ares in Ethiopia

Areskouei North American

[Agreskouei.Agriskoue.Aireskouey.

Airsekuui(Sutanditenr).Arekoi]

a supreme god of the Hurons

Aresthanas Greek

the goatherd who found the abandoned baby Asclepius

Areta (see Arete)

Arete<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Areta]

daughter of Rhexanor wife of Alcinous

mother of Nausicaa

She and her husband made Odysseus

welcome when he was cast ashore in their kingdom during his wanderings.

In some accounts, she is the same as

Arete, guide of Heracles.

Arete<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Areta]

goddess of virtue

She guided Heracles in all his exploits.

(see also Arete<sup>1</sup>)

Arethousa (see Arethusa)

Arethusa<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Arethousa]

a goddess of springs

one of the Nereids

She was a huntress. When she was bathing in a river after a chase, the river-god Alpheus tried to seduce her and pursued her when she ran off. To save her, Artemis turned her into a spring, which runs under the sea from Greece to Sicily. Alpheus found her after a long search and they were reunited, their waters flowing together to form one stream.

In one version of the story of Demeter and Core, it was this nymph whose voice, in the burbling of the stream, told Demeter where her lost daughter could be found. She had seen Core in the underworld as she passed through en route to Sicily. An alternative story is told about the nymph Cyane.

Arethusa<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Arethousa]
one of the Hesperides

Aretia Armenian
the earth personified

Arezoshamana Persian
a demon killed by Keresaspa

Ardferydd (see Ardferydd)

Argadnel Irish [Silver Cloud]
an island paradise

One of the many islands visited by Bran during his famous voyage.

Argalia European [Uberto] son of Galafron
brother of Angelica

He and his sister attended the great tournament arranged by Charlemagne, where, using his magic lance, he was able to defeat all-comers whom he fought on the condition that if they lost they would become his prisoners. He owned a marvellous horse, Rabican, which lived on air. He was killed by Ferrau at the tournament.

Argalan-Zon Asian [=Hebrew reem]
a huge animal (see reem)

Argan British
a man who wanted Uther's wife Igraine

Uther defeated him and forced him to build a castle.

Argante<sup>1</sup> British [Margante]
an elf or fairy

In some accounts she was queen of Avalon and equated with Morgan le Fay; others suggest that she was a form of Aranrhod. (see also Morgan le Fay)

Argante<sup>2</sup> British
a giantess, lust personified, in The Faerie Queene

Argantes<sup>1</sup> European
a Circassian prince

He was sent as an ambassador from Egypt to Spain and was killed by Rinaldo.

Argantes<sup>2</sup> European

a giant son of Arcabone nephew of Archalaus
brother of Furion and Matrigo
He was guarding the entrance to the castle of Archalaus when Esplandian arrived to rescue Lisuate and was killed when he tried to prevent the young man from entering.

Arganthoe Greek
wife of Rhesus

She married Rhesus who was en route to help the Trojans in their war against the Greeks. He was killed, soon after he arrived, when Diomedes and Odysseus made a night raid on the city. Arganthoe went to Troy where she died of grief.

Argasill
a monster in the form of an antelope

Arge Greek [Hyperoche]
a Hyperborean virgin

She and Opis are said to have come to Delos with Leto and her twins, Apollo and Artemis.

Argeia (see Argia) Greek

Argeiphontes Greek [Argiphontes]
a name for Hermes as god of the dawn

Argeius Greek
son of Licymnius and Perimede
brother of Melas and Oeonus
He was killed when fighting for Heracles at Oechalia.

Arges Greek
[Argis. 'bright'.Pyracmon]
one of the 3 original Cyclopes
son of Uranus and Gaea

Argestes Greek
a wind from the north-west quarter

Argetlam (see Airgedlamh)

Argeus Greek
[Argus]
son of Phrixus and Chalciope
brother of Cytisorus, Melanion and Phrontis

He was shipwrecked but he and his three brothers were picked up by the Argo en route to Colchis.

(see also Argus<sup>4</sup>)

Argia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Argeia]
daughter of Adrastus
sister of Aegialeus, Amphithea, Cyanippus and Deipylos wife of Polyneices mother of Thersander
mother of Tinneus, some say

In some versions she helped Antigone to bury Polyneices.

Argia<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Argeia]

daughter of Autesion wife of Aristodemus mother of the twins Eurysthenes
and Procles

Argia<sup>3</sup> (see Anguish)

Argimpasa Scythian
[=Greek Aphrodite]
a goddess of love

Argiope<sup>1</sup> Greek
a nymph
mother of Thamyris by Philammon

Argiope<sup>2</sup> Greek
daughter of Teuthras wife of Telephus, some say

Argiphontes (see Argeiphontes)

Argis (see Arges)

Argistes British
a man who was burned, hanged
and drowned

Merlin prophesied that Argistes would die in such a fashion so Argistes set fire to Merlin's house. When his own house caught fire, he ran to the well for water, became entangled with the chain about his neck, fell into the water and burned to death when the blazing timbers of the house were tossed into the well.

Argius (see Anguish)

Argo Greek
[Argo Navis]

the ship of Jason
This 50-oared ship (some say 54-oared)

was built by Argus for Jason and his men for their quest for the Golden Fleece. The prow, made from one of the talking oaks from Dodona and provided by Athena, acted as an oracle on the voyage. After the voyage, the ship was beached at Corinth where, years later, the rotting prow fell on the aged Jason and killed him. The rest of the hull was placed in the heavens by Poseidon.

An entirely different version says that this was the ship used by Danaus to transport his fifty daughters when they fled from Egypt to escape from Aegyptus. This story says that they went to Rhodes; the original story says that they went to Argos where Danaus became king. Possibly there was confusion here between the ship and its destination.

Argo Navis (see Argo)

Argonautica Greek
a book by Apollonius dealing with the voyage of the Argonauts

Argonauts

Greek

[Minyae.Mininyans]

the crew of the ship Argo who sailed with Jason to recover the Golden Fleece

Jason had undertaken to bring back to Iolcus the ghost of Phrixus and the fleece of the golden ram on which he had fled from Iolcus to escape death. Assembling a crew from all parts of Greece, Jason set sail for Colchis where the fleece was hanging on a tree guarded by a serpent that never slept.

At Lemnos, the crew fathered many sons of the women who had earlier killed every man on the island except King Thoas. Jason slept with Hypsipyle, the daughter who had helped Thoas to escape, fathering twin sons, Euneus and Thoas (Nebroponus).

Later in the voyage they landed on Arcton, Bear Island, where they were entertained by the king. A group of six-armed giants, the Gegeneis, attacked the ship but Heracles, who had been left on guard, killed them all. After leaving the island, the ship was driven back by adverse winds and they landed at night on Arcton where they were mistaken for pirates. The king, Cyzicus, was killed in the ensuing battle.

When they stopped at Mysia, Hylas, who was acting as armour-bearer to Heracles, went ashore to find water. When he failed to reappear, Heracles and Polyphemus searched but failed to find him – he had been carried off by water nymphs to their underwater grotto. The searchers had not returned when Argo was ready to sail and they were left behind in Mysia. Heracles then resumed his Labours, which he had interrupted to join the expedition.

At Bebrycos King Amycus, a boxer who challenged (and beat) all comers, challenged the crew. Polydeuces, an Olympic champion boxer, accepted the challenge and killed Amycus after a tremendous fight.

At Salmydessus, they found the King Phineus harried by the Harpies and the winged brothers Calais and Zetes drove them off.

Escaping the clashing rocks of the Symplegades they landed at Mariandyne where Idmon was killed by a boar and Tiphys became ill and died. Great Ancaeus took over the role as navigator.

They recruited Autolycus, Deleon and Phlogius at Sinope and were attacked by bronze birds – those of the Stymphalian birds that had escaped in the sixth Labour of Hercules – when Oileus was wounded. Later they picked up four castaways, Argeus, Cytisorus, Melanion and Phrontis, sons of Phrixus and Chalciopie.

At Colchis, Jason asked Aetes to hand over the fleece, which he agreed to do if Jason could yoke his fire-breathing bulls, plough the Field of Ares and sow the serpents' teeth remaining from those sown by Cadmus at Thebes. At the behest of Aphrodite, Eros caused Medea to fall in love with Jason and she provided him with a lotion that protected him from the scorching breath of the bulls so that he was able to carry out the appointed task. When the armed men sprang from the soil, he provoked them to fight amongst themselves until none survived. Aetes reneged on his undertaking and threatened to kill the Argonauts so Medea led Jason and a few of his men to the place where the fleece was guarded by the immortal dragon which she lulled to sleep while Jason took the fleece. They all ran back to the Argo, escaping the ships of the Colchian fleet with just a few wounded and one, Iphitus, killed.

At the entrance to the Danube the Colchian ships overtook Argo. What happened next is the subject of different accounts. In one version Medea killed her half-brother, Apsyrtus, flinging pieces of his body overboard to delay the pursuers, who stopped to collect the pieces for burial. In another, Apsyrtus was in one of the following ships and agreed to a truce with Jason whereby Medea temporarily should be put in charge of a priestess and the king of the Brygians would decide whether she and the fleece should stay with Jason or be returned to Colchis. Medea, however, led Apsyrtus to believe that Jason had abducted her and induced him to come ashore, where Jason killed him from ambush. Without their leader the Colchian ships were easily routed and the Argonauts escaped, passing safely between the monster Scylla and the whirlpool Charybdis.

Jason and Medea were purified of the murder of Apsyrtus by Circe the sorceress and then married.

On the final leg of their return journey the Argo was forced by a strong wind to the shores of Libya where a huge wave carried the ship miles inland, leaving it high and dry in the desert. They managed to drag the ship to Lake Tritonis but could find no outlet to the sea. Two of the crew died during this period; Canthus was killed by the shepherd Caphaurus when he tried to steal some of his flock and Mopsus died from a snake bite. In the end, Triton himself dragged the ship overland to the Mediterranean and they sailed for Crete where the bronze guardian, Talos, attacked them with rocks. Medea quietened him with a sleeping draught and then pulled out the pin from his ankle, allowing the vital fluid to drain from his single vein, so killing him. An alternative story says that she prayed to Hades who caused Talos to graze his ankle on a rock, with the same fatal result.

Arriving back at Iolcus, Jason found that his parents, Aeson and Alcimedea, had killed themselves to escape death at the hands of Pelias who had then killed their infant son, Promachus. To avenge these deaths, Medea deceived the daughters of Pelias into believing that she had divine powers and then ordered them to kill and dismember their father. Alcestis refused but Evadne and Amphinome complied. A torch signal from the roof brought the Argonauts from hiding and they took Iolcus unopposed. Jason handed the throne to Acastus, son of Pelias, who had been one of the Argonauts and he promptly banished Evadne and Amphinome to Arcadia. Others say that Jason was banished by the Iolcans who were appalled at the killing of Pelias.

From Iolcus, Jason sailed to Orchomenus, where he placed the Golden Fleece in the temple of Zeus, and then on to Corinth where he finally beached the Argo. Here Medea successfully claimed the throne of Corinth, which rightfully belonged to her father, and, with Jason as her king, ruled for ten years. When he found out that she had poisoned the previous ruler, Corinthus, he set about getting a divorce so that he could marry Glauce, in some stories Creusa, daughter of King Creon of Thebes. Medea stopped that by killing with fire not only Glauce and her father but all the guests except Jason, although some say that he too died in the flames. By putting aside Medea, Jason had broken a promise, made in the name of the gods, never to desert her and he was thereafter an outcast. Late in life, sitting by the remains of Argo, he was killed when the prow or, in some accounts the stern-post, fell on him. In another version, Jason took his own life.

argopelter North American
a fabulous animal

This beast is said to throw logs at passers-by.

Argos (see Argus<sup>3,4,5</sup>)

Argula Australian
a trickster in the lore of the Aborigines

Argus<sup>1</sup> British
in some accounts, a son of Elaine, brother of Galahad

Argus<sup>2</sup> British
an African king

He bought the young Rainburn from the Russians, who had kidnapped him, and eventually made him head of his army.

Argus<sup>3</sup> Greek [Argos]
a dog of Odysseus

He recognised his master when Odysseus finally returned after his wandering and then died.

Argus<sup>4</sup> Greek [Argos]
the builder of the Argo

Argus<sup>5</sup> Greek [Argos.(Argus) Panoptes.Hundred Eyes]
a giant watchman with 100 eyes
son of Inachus

In some accounts he had only three eyes (one in the back of his head) or four; others say that he had 1,000 eyes.

When Zeus turned Io into a heifer she was handed over to be guarded by Argus.

He was killed by Hermes who released Io on the orders of Zeus. His eyes were placed in the peacock's tail by Hera.

Argus<sup>6</sup> Greek
son of Zeus by Niobe
father of Peiras

Argus<sup>7</sup> (see Argeus)
Argus Panoptes (see Argus<sup>5</sup>)

Arguth British
an ancestor of Lot

Argynnis Greek
a title for Aphrodite as 'the gleaming one'

Argynon Greek
one of the Telchines, a silversmith

Argyra Greek
a nymph, one of the Nereids

The shepherd Selemnus was in love with her and almost died of grief when she deserted him.

arhan (see arhat)

arhant (see arhat)

arhat Buddhist [arahant.arahat.arhan(t)]=Chinese lohan: =Sanskrit sthavita]

a monk who has attained supreme knowledge: one liberated from the cycle of death and re-birth: a saint

In some accounts, the Buddha is said to have had fifty (or 500 or more) arhats. They are destined to become bodhisattvas.

(see also Eighteen Lohan)

Ari-hes-nefer (see Arensnuphis)

Aria (see Areia)

Ariadne Greek
[Alpheta.Mistress of the Labyrinth:
=Cretan Aridela]

a minor goddess of vegetation
daughter of Minos and Pasiphae
sister of Phaedra

When she saw Theseus, who had come to Crete as one of the seven youths to be sacrificed to the Minotaur, she fell in love with him and gave him the ball of magic twine that enabled him to escape from the Labyrinth after he had killed the Minotaur. She left Crete with him but he left her on Naxos, either deliberately or, in some stories, inadvertently. There she was found by Dionysus who married her and fathered her children, Euanthes, Latronis, Oenopion, Staphylus, Tauropolus and Thoas.

Other versions say that Theseus killed her on Naxos or that she died there in childbirth. When she died, Dionysus threw the crown she had worn at their wedding into the sky where it became the constellation Corona. She was later restored to Dionysus by Zeus.

Arianrhod (see Aranrhod)

Arianrod (see Aranrhod)

Aribadale British
daughter of Percival and Condwiramur sister of Kardiez and Lohenergrain

She became the bearer of the Holy Grail after Repanse.

Ariconte South American

[Arikute]
twin brother of Tamendonar

The twins were born to one mother by two fathers – the god Maire and the mortal Sargos – but neither knew which was immortal. Tests such as jumping between the clashing boulder Itha-Irapi and stealing from the demon Agnen failed to settle the matter. One twin was killed by the boulder, the other by Agnen but, in each case, the other brother revived his dead sibling so they never found out who was the son of a god.

In another version the brothers are the survivors of the flood, which they, or in some stories, Irin Mage, used to put out the blaze sent by the creator god Monan to destroy the world; in another version Ariconte, as god of the night, is in conflict with his brother, god of the day. Another version says that the twins were Ariconte and Arikute.

Aridela Greek

the name for Ariadne in Crete

Ariel<sup>1</sup> British

a rebel angel in Milton's Paradise Lost

Ariel<sup>2</sup>

a spirit of the air: a water spirit

Aries<sup>1</sup>

[=Arab Al Hamal.Al Kabah al-Alif:

=Chinese Pai Yang]

the first sign of the Zodiac, the ram

This is the ram, Chrysomallon, of Greek legend, set in the heavens by Zeus.

Aries<sup>2</sup> British

[Ayres]

a cowherd

He raised Pellinore's son, Torre. In some accounts he was described as a king and said to be Torre's father.

Ariki Kafika Tuisifo Pacific Islands

father of Faivaronga

ariki-rahi Pacific Islands

a Polynesian king regarded as a deity

Arikute (see Ariconte)

Arimanes Greek

[Areimanius]

the Greek name for Ahriman

Arimanius Roman

the Roman name for Ahriman

Arimaspea Greek

a poem said to have been written by Aristeas, telling the story of the Arimaspi

Arimaspeans (see Arimaspi)

Arimaspi Greek

[Arimaspeans.Arimaspian.Arimaspoi]

one-eyed horsemen: Scythians

These inhabitants of the North were said to be permanently at war with the griffins who guarded the stream flowing with gold.

Arimaspian (see Arimaspi)

Arimaspoi (see Arimaspi)

Arimbi Pacific Islands

a giantess

mother of Gatutkaca by Bima

Ariniddu (see Arinna)

Arinna Mesopotamian

[Ariniddu.Queen of Heaven:=Hurrian

Hebet]

a goddess, guardian of the kingdom

Arioch British

a fallen angel in Milton's Paradise Lost

Arioi (see Areoi)

Arion<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Areon]

a winged horse with the gift of speech and with human feet

This animal was fathered by Poseidon, in the form of a stallion, on Demeter in the form of a mare. It drew Poseidon's chariot. Other versions say the parents were Poseidon and Erinys or Gaea and a harpy.

When Poseidon loaned his chariot to Pelops, the horse passed to his son Copeus and later to Adrastus and Heracles.

Arion<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Areon]

son of Cycleus or Poseidon by Oneaea

Arion was a champion lyre player who won a music contest in Sicily. When the crew of the ship taking him back to Corinth tried to rob him, he jumped overboard and was carried home on the back of a dolphin. Arion and his lyre were placed in the heavens by Apollo.

Arionrod (see Aranhrod)

Ariosto, Luduvico Italian

(1477-1533)

a poet who wrote stories of Charlemagne's paladins, including

Orlando Furioso

Arisatun Malay

son of Alexander the Great (Iskandar)

and Syarul Baria

Arisba Greek

[Arisbe]

sister of Merops

the first wife of Priam

She later married Hyrtacus and bore Asius, Eurotas and Nisus.

Arisbe (see Arisba)

Arisi African

a canopy

In the lore of the Swahili, God built this canopy to shelter his throne, Kurusi.

Arishta Hindu

a bull demon

Kansa the tyrant posted this demon to kill Krishna but the god killed both the demon and Kansa.

Arishtat Persian

a goddess of truth and honesty

Aristaeus Greek

[Aristaios]

a beekeeper

son of Apollo and Cyrene husband of Autonoe

father of Actaeon and Macris

He killed a lion on Mount Pelion and the first swarm of bees emerged from its carcass. He fell in love with Eurydice. When she ran away from him she was bitten by a snake and died. As punishment, all his bees died and he fought with Proteus to make him disclose what had caused their death. When he sacrificed some cattle to the dead nymph's memory, bees rose from the rotting carcasses. He was later revered as the god of shepherds and beekeepers.

Aristaios (see Aristaeus)

Aristeas Greek

a priest of Apollo

He made a journey to the North to try to locate the Hyperboreans. In some accounts he accompanied Apollo in the form of a raven.

He was once reported dead but appeared soon afterwards, before disappearing again for seven years. He then reappeared with a poem, Arimaspea, about the Arimaspi and disappeared again. Some 240 (or 340) years later, Aristeas appeared yet again and made the people of Metapontum build a statue of himself at the shrine of Apollo.

When not appearing as a human, he took the form of a stag.

Aristodemus<sup>1</sup> Greek

a king of Messenia

husband of Argia

He sacrificed his country in the war with Sparta; when this sacrifice proved useless, he committed suicide on her grave.

Aristodemus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Aristomachus

brother of Cresphontes and Temenus

father of the twins Eurysthenes

and Procles

He was killed by lightning or Apollo's arrows in an attack made by the Heraclidae on the Peloponnese.

Aristomachus Greek

son of Talaus and Lysimache

father of Aristodemus, Cresphontes

and Temenus

He was killed in the first abortive attempt by the Heraclidae, led by Temenus, to conquer the Peloponnese.

Aristomenes Greek

a hero of the war between Messenia

and Sparta

He and fifty of his followers were captured by the Spartans and thrown into a deep pit. While all the others died, Aristomenes was guided to safety by a fox.

Aristophanes Greek

a 5th c BC poet and dramatist

He was the author of many plays, of which eleven survive, including Thesmophoriazusa.

Aristoteles (see Battus<sup>2</sup>)

Arisya Mesopotamian

one of the wives of Baal

Aritimi Italian

[=Greek Artemis:=Roman Diana]

a goddess of the hunt

Arizial

a demon

Arjuna Hindu

[Nara:=Javanese Janaka]

a warrior-hero of the Mahabharata

one of the 5 Pandava brothers

son of Indra and Kunti husband of Draupadi

father of Abhimanyu by Subhadra

father of Babhru-Vahana

by Chitrangada

father of Iravat by Ulupi

Arjuna was betrothed to Draupadi but when her father believed that Arjuna was dead, he organised an archery contest between her other suitors for his daughter's hand. The contest, and the hand of Draupadi, was won by a hermit who turned out to be Arjuna, who had merely been in hiding.

In the battle between the Kauravas and the Pandavas, Shiva acted as charioteer to Arjuna.

In one story he was accidentally killed by his own son, Babhru-Vahana, but was restored to life with the magic jewel given to Babhru-Vahana by Ulupi.

In some stories he is described as an incarnation of Indra or Vishnu.

Arjuna-Wiwaha East Indian

a Javanese epic poem about the marriages of Arjuna

- Arkadia (see Arcadia)
- Arkaonyo (see Arcaonia) [Arkaoya] South American
a sorcerer
When the evil Valedjad caused a flood, Arkaonyo stuck his eyes and fingers together to prevent any more magic and had him carried off to the mountains by a huge bird.
- Arkaoya (see Arcaonia)
- Arkhemoros (see Archemoros)
- Arktinos (see Arctinus)
- arktoi Greek
maidens, 'bear virgins', attendant on Artemis
- Arlecchino (see Harlequin)
- Arlecchio (see Harlequin)
- Arles (see Jaralez)
- Arlotto of Soria European
a Saracen knight
He was the first man to die at the Battle of Roncesvalles, killed by Astolpho.
- Arma Mesopotamian [=Hurrian Kush]
a Hittite moon-god, predecessor of Kasku
- Armadiel
a demon of secret messages
- Armageddon Persian [Har-Magedon:=Norse Ragnarok]
the final battle
In this struggle, Ahura Mazda will defeat Ahriman and thereafter the world will be at peace and all people will once again speak the same language.
- Armais Armenian
a god
father of Shara
- Armaiti Persian [Aramaita.Asfandarmad. 'holy devotion'. Isfandarmud.Spandar(a)mat.Spantaramet. Spendarmad.Spendarmat.Spenta Armaiti. Spentaramet]
one of the 7 Amesha Spentas
goddess of justice
an aspect of Ahura Mazda as 'devotion'
daughter of Ahura Mazda
mother of Ashi
This being rules the land and is opposed by the demon Naonhathya. To the Armenians, she was a goddess of the underworld.
- Armany European
in Hungary, the personification of the fate of the world
- Armat (see Erkir)
- Armaz Russian
[=Armenian Aramadd]
the supreme god of the Georgians
- Armeis
a demon
- Armenak Armenian
son of Hayk
consort of Nvard
father of Ara (Er)
- Armenia (see Ermenia.Parmenie)
- Armenie (see Ermenia.Parmenie)
- Armes Prydein Welsh [Prophecy of Britain]
a 10th c Welsh poem
This poem includes the first reference to the wizard Merlin.
- Armida European
a sorceress
She was sent by the king of Damascus to weaken the resolve of the Christian forces under Godfrey, which were attacking Jerusalem.
Rinaldo fell in love with her and stayed with her for some time. When he left her, to help the army at Jerusalem, she burned down her own palace and fled to Egypt.
In some accounts she was killed in battle, in others she survived and, forgiving Rinaldo for leaving her, resumed her affair with him.
- Armilus
a demon, spirit of envy and greed
- Armilustrium Roman
a festival in honour of Mars, held in October
- armomancy
divination from the shoulders of beasts
- Armon
an astral spirit of fruitfulness
- Armorica Celtic
an old name for Brittany
- Armstrong, Anne British
a Northumbrian witch
- Arnaea Greek
the name given to Penelope when she was hidden from her father Icarus
- Arnaknagsak (see Sedna)
- Arnakua'gsak (see Sedna)
- Arnaquagssaq (see Sedna)
- Arnarkusuagsak (see Sedna)
- Arne<sup>1</sup> Greek
a Thracian woman
She was turned into a jackdaw for betraying the island of Siphnos to Minos.
- Arne<sup>2</sup> Greek
a nurse of Poseidon
- Arne<sup>3</sup> (see Melanippe<sup>2</sup>)
- Arnemetia British
a water-goddess
- Arneos Greek
a giant beggar killed by Odysseus
- Arnive British
mother of King Arthur, in some accounts
- She was rescued from the hands of Klingsor by Gawain.
- Arnquagssaq (see Sedna)
- Aro East Indian
daughter of Marupi
sister of Pora wife of Piri Korovu
- Aroeris (see Harwer)
- Arogo Pacific Islands
a giant
When Aloya, the girl he loved, died, he wept and his tears became the 1,776 conical hills on the island of Bohol.
- Arohi-rohi (see Arohirohi)
- Arohirohi New Zealand [Arohi-rohi. 'mirage'] a Maori creator-goddess wife of Raa
- Arom Afghan
a goddess of contracts
- Aron British
one of the Twenty-Four Knights of King Arthur's court
- Arondiel British
the horse of Fergus
- Arondight British
Lancelot's sword
- Aroteh South American
one of the primordial beings known as the Vamo-a-pod, in the lore of the Tupari of Brazil
He and Tovapod lived in a tent. When humans, who at that time lived under the earth, stole some food, the two beings dug down after them; in so doing they made openings through which some of the people were able to reach the upper world.
- Aroture Pacific Islands
a moon-goddess of the Cook Islands daughter of Tinrau and Ina sister of Koro
- Aroueris (see Harwer)
- Arpanacana Buddhist [=Tibetan Jam dpal, Jam-pa-i-dbyans. Jam-pa-yang] a god of wisdom
an aspect of Manjushri
- Arran (see Isle of Arran)
- arret West Indian a Haitian magic charm
This type of charm is said to protect the wearer from specific types of evil, as opposed to the wanga, which brings ill-fortune.
Other protective charms are the drogue and the garde.
- Arridano European
the guardian of the bridge at the entrance to Morgana's castle

He could breathe under water and, when he was unable to defeat a traveller in fair combat, he would seize him round the waist and jump over the parapet into the river. He then imprisoned his victim in the new world below the water and returned to the surface with the prisoner's arms and armour which he displayed as a trophy. He did this successfully with Rinaldo but was killed by Rogero.

arrow

the use of the bow and arrow dates from the early Stone Age period and the arrow itself has great significance in many mythologies

(1) The Bushmen use arrows as sacrifice to their ancestors who live in the rivers. Other stories include the worldwide tale of the arrows shot one after the other to form a bridge to heaven up which the archer, a culture-hero, ascends.

(2) In Arabia, arrows are used as charms to keep the blood in good order.

(3) The Assyrians associated arrows with the deities Ashur and Ishtar.

(4) In Buddhism an arrow in five colours is used in demon-worship. In Tibet, this arrow is called dar-dar.

(5) In Greek myths, arrows feature in stories of the hunter deities Apollo and Artemis and the love-god Eros as well as in the tale of Chiron, the Centaur, who was wounded by one of the poisoned arrows of Heracles. Achilles was killed by an arrow, shot by Paris, which struck his only vulnerable spot – his ankle

A sunbeam is called the Arrow of Apollo and the Arrow of Artemis is a moonbeam.

(6) Hindu myths associate arrows with both the love-god Kama and the war-god Karttikeya, Siva killed the demon Tripura with an arrow and they tell of a magic arrow (the sabdabhedhi arrow) which can seek out and strike the origin of a sound.

(7) In Ireland, an arrow might be carried as an amulet to ward off the arrows fired by the elves, while water drunk after being poured over an arrowhead was said to be effective as a remedy for croup.

(8) Italian stories allege that an amulet in the form of an arrow would ward off the jettatura, the evil eye. As a weapon, the arrow was an attribute of the Etruscan god Usil.

(9) In Japanese myths, the god Susxanowa had a bow and arrows and a magic whistling arrow.

(10) North American Indian tribes have many stories involving arrows.

The Cheyenne have a set of four arrows, used in religious ceremonies, which, they say, have been in the possession of the tribe from time immemorial. They are used in rites which cleanse any man who has killed one of his own tribe.

A Kwakiutl woman will place an arrow under her bed to ensure that any child she conceives will be male.

The Ojibway, fearing that the sun extinguished during an eclipse may never return, fired burning arrows to re-ignite it.

The Nez Percé have a story in which the trickster-god, Coyote, turns himself into an arrow.

The chain-of-arrows story is common to many tribes. One such story has it that when a man was killed and decapitated by a man from the sky, the dead man's brother shot such a chain and climbed up it to the heavens where he rescued his brother's head. When this was joined to the still bleeding torso, it became the red-headed woodpecker.

(11) In Mexico, arrows are associated with both the gods Mixcoatl and Quetzalcoatl.

(12) In the Pacific, the Philippine god Abog is placated with offerings of arrows while in Melanesia Qat went to heaven via an arrow-chain to retrieve his wife.

(13) In Siberia, the Buriats relate how Ten Geris, a thunder-god, used flaming arrows as his weapons when fighting demons while the Koryaks have the story of Eme'mqut who opened the road to the underworld to retrieve his wife by throwing an arrow into the fire. They also tell a slightly different chain-arrow story; in their version, just one arrow is fired but it carves out a road to the heavens.

(14) Some South American tribes, like the Ojibways of North America, fire flaming arrows into the sky to restart the sun after an eclipse.

Another arrow-chain story has the two sons of Tamoi climbing to the heavens where they become the moon and sun.

Arrow Boy North American

a hero of the Cheyenne

Arrow Boy was born after four years in his mother's womb and grew quickly, becoming a medicine man. In an early demonstration of his powers, he allowed others to pull a noose so tightly round his neck that his head was cut off but the boy merely replaced it. When they lifted the robe that covered him, he was an old man, then a pile of bones, then nothing at all and finally the completely restored boy.

When the chief of his tribe tried to take the bull-calf that Arrow Boy was skinning for a robe, the boy killed him and was then attacked by the tribe. He escaped by rising into the sky on a plume of smoke and left his people. At his departure, the buffalo disappeared. Later he entered a cavern in a mountain where, for four years, he was instructed in the arts of the medicine men. When his time was up, he returned to his people and, with his return, the buffalo returned to fill the plains. (see also Sweet Medicine)

Arruns<sup>1</sup> Roman

[Aruns]

an Etruscan soldier

He fought with Aeneas against the Latins and Rutulians and killed Camilla in battle. He was killed by Diana or her nymph, Opis.

Arruns<sup>2</sup> (see Tarquinius Arruns)Arryfuerys British

a huntsman at King Arthur's court

Arsa Syrian

[=Arab Rusa]

a goddess of fate

Arsaces Persian

a divine ancestor of the Persians

Arsacids Persian

a dynasty said to be descended from Arsaces

Arsan Duolai Siberian

the Yakut god of the underworld

He is said to have a mouth in his forehead and eyes in his temples.

Arsaphes Egyptian

[Harsaphes:=Greek Heracles]

the Greek name for Hershef

Arsay Mesopotamian

a Canaanite underworld-goddess daughter of Baal

Arsenothetys Greek

a name of Dionysus as 'womanly man'

Arsile (see Arcile)

Arsinoe Greek

[Alphesiboea]
daughter of Phegeus
wife of Alcmaeon

When Alcmaeon deceived and abandoned her, Arsinoe's brothers killed him. She blamed her father so he locked her in a chest and sent her off as a slave to Agapenor, king of Nemea or Tegea.

In some stories she, rather than Coronis, is the mother of Asclepius by Apollo; in other versions, Arsinoe becomes Alphesiboea.

(see also Alphesiboea)

Arsippe Greek

daughter of Minyas
sister of Alcithoe and Leucippe
With her sisters Alcithoe and Leucippe, she tore apart and ate Leucippe's young son Hippasus in a fit of madness induced by Dionysus, who was upset when they refused to join his revels.

Hermes changed all three sisters into bats or birds.

Arsippus Greek

father of Asclepius by Arsinoe, some say

Arsnuphis Egyptian

the Greek name for Dedwen

Arson-Duolai Siberian

the ruler of the Abasy, in the lore of the Yakuts

Arсу Arabian

[Ruda(in)]=Syrian Monominos] an androgynous deity, the deified evening star brother of Azizos

Art Aoinfhear Irish

[Art Enfer. 'bear']
a high-king of Ireland
son of Conn Ceadchathach
brother of Connla, Crionna and Saba husband of Delbchaem and Eachtach father of Cormac mac Airt by Achtan
In some accounts Art was protected by two angels that always hovered over him.

His father, Conn, took the goddess Becuma to live with him and she put a spell on Art. He rescued Delbchaem from the tower in the Land of Wonder where she had been imprisoned by her parents, took her home to Ireland and married her. He then expelled Becuma from Tara having beaten her in a game of chess to decide which of them should leave.

On his way to battle with Lugaid mac Con, he stayed with Olc Acha and slept with his daughter, Achtan.

He left his ring, robes and sword with her to keep in trust for their son. He was killed in the ensuing Battle of Magh Mucramha.

In some accounts his wife is Maev and in others he is regarded as the son of King Arthur.

An alternative story has his wife as Eachtach and Cormac mac Airt was their legitimate son.

Art Enfer (see Art Aoinfhear)

Arta (see Asha Vahishta.Rita)

Arta Viraf Persian

a sage who visited the Otherworld and returned safely

Artaios (see Artaius)

Artaius Celtic

[Artaios:=Roman Mercury]
a pastoral-god and bear-god in Gaul

Artavazd Armenian

an evil man
son of Artaxias

He was cursed by his dead father and died shortly afterwards. It is said that he lies chained under a mountain and will destroy the world if he escapes.

Artaxias Armenian

a king
father of Artavazd

He cursed his son from the grave because he had complained at the lavishness of his father's funeral. As a result, Artavazd died shortly afterwards.

Artegal (see Arthgallo)

Artégall (see Arthgallo)

Artemedos Greek

a saint, the Christian version of Artemis

Artemis Greek

[Agrotera.Aph(a)ea.Arcadia.Bear goddess. Brauronia.Britomart(is).Carmenta.Carnasia. Crane(a).Cynthia.Delia.Dictynna.Elate. Irina.Kalliste.Korythalia.Lady of Wild Things.Locheia.Mistress of Animals. Mistress of Griffins.Orth(r)ia.Phoebe. Phyllis.Phosporos.Polyboea.Potnia.Theron. Selene.Taurica.Tauropolos.Trivia.Upis. White Goddess:=Irish Garbh Ogh:=Roman Diana:=Syrian Atargatis:=Thracian Bendis] a virgin-goddess of childbirth, fertility, hunting, the moon, youth: one of the Olympians daughter of Zeus by Leto
twin sister of Apollo

As a child she chased and captured four golden-horned stags and harnessed them to her chariot. A fifth animal escaped and featured in later stories as the Ceryneian Hind.

She could be Selene in the sky, Hecate in the underworld and Artemis the huntress on earth, where she carried a silver bow made by the Cyclopes.

During the battle of the Giants with the gods, she killed the giant Gration.

As Selene she fell in love with the shepherd Endymion, but, as a virgin-goddess, she could not yield to her passion and contented herself with hiding him in a cave on Mount Matmus where she alone could visit him every night and kiss his eternally sleeping lips.

She changed Actaeon to a stag when she caught him watching her as she bathed, but another version says that Actaeon was dressed in the skin of a stag when he approached the goddess. In one version, Actaeon was torn to pieces by his own hounds.

She changed Callisto into a bear when the nymph was seduced by Zeus. She avenged the death of Ameinius by causing Narcissus to fall in love with his own reflection.

At the behest of Leto, she slew the seven daughters of Niobe, and Apollo slew the seven sons, because Niobe had boasted that she was greater than Leto and should be worshipped in her place.

She shot and killed Orion in the mistaken belief that he had raped her priestess Opis, or from jealousy of Eos who was also in love with him, or by shooting at a floating target in the sea, which she did not realise was Orion's head.

She was said to be able to assume the form of any animal or tree. On one occasion she took the form of a fish to escape the unwelcome attentions of Alpheus.

In some accounts she was the mother of the Amazons by Ares, in others she is Ilythia. Some versions show her with three heads, a form of Hecate.

Her animal was the deer and her tree the cypress. (see also Euronyme<sup>6</sup>)

Artemis Brauronia Greek

a name of Artemis as 'bear-goddess'

Artemis Calliste (see Callisto)

Artemis Caryatis Greek

[Carmenta.Phyllis.White Goddess]

the goddess Artemis worshipped as a tree-goddess in Laconia

In some accounts she is identified with Phyllis and Carmenta.

Artemis Ephesia Greek

[=Roman Diana of Ephesus]

an aspect of Artemis as an orgiastic-goddess
This was the Artemis encountered by St Paul at Ephesus.

Artemis Meleagua Greek
a name for Artemis as a goddess of disease, especially leprosy

Artemis Orthia Greek
the Dorian goddess Orthia identified with Artemis

Artemis Tauria Greek Artemis as the goddess to whom were sacrificed all sailors cast ashore in Tauris

She rescued Iphigenia, who was about to be sacrificed by Agamemnon, and carried her off to Tauris where she became a priestess of Aphrodite and carried out the same rites of sacrificing strangers.

Artemisia Buddhist
a good luck symbol, one of the 8
precious things

Artemision, The Greek
the temple of Artemis at Ephesus

Artemomarus Roman
a name for Belinus as 'owner of a great horse'

Artgualchar (see Arthgallo)

Arthapratismvrit Buddhist
a goddess of logic

Arthegal (see Arthgallo)

Arthegall (see Arthgallo)

Arthgallo British [Art(h)egal(l).Artgualchar]

a king of Britain
brother of Elidure
He was deposed by rebellion and the throne was taken by his brother Elidure. Later, his brother found him living in poverty and, pretending to be ill, passed the crown back to Arthgallo.
In some accounts he was the Earl of Warwick and a Knight of the Round Table while others say he was a son of Cador who married Britomart.

In Spencer's The Faerie Queene, he is the embodiment of justice who rescued Irena from Grantorto.

Arthur and Merlin British a 13th c poem of Arthurian legends of unknown authorship

Arthur<sup>1</sup> British [Artos.Flower of Kings.Riothamus.

The Wart.Zitus]
king of Britain
son of Uther Pendragon and Igraine brother of Blasine, Belisent and Hermisent brother of Gormant, Igraine and Urganda, in some accounts

husband of Guinevere
father of Adeluf, Amr, Arthur, Borre, Ellen, Gwydre, Gyneth, Huncamunca, Ilinot, Llacheu, Loholt, Melora, Morgan the Black, Patrick the Red and Rowland
father of Mordred, some say

The ancestry of Arthur and Igraine is variously portrayed by early authors
but the usual version says that Uther gained access to Igraine, the wife of Gorlois, in the form of Gorlois, thanks to the magic of Merlin, and fathered
the infant Arthur (and in some stories, a daughter, Anna) on Igraine. Another version says that the baby was brought in by the sea and found by Merlin and Bleys.

Some say he spent his boyhood with Ector, his foster-father and father of Kay, not knowing who his real father was; others say that he was reared by the magician Merlin.

At the assembly to decide on a successor to Uther Pendragon, his feat of pulling the sword from the stone (and in some versions, an anvil) in which it was set, marked him as the future king of Britain. This sword, which some say was Excalibur, had been set in place by Merlin. When it later broke in combat, Merlin promised another and better sword.

Arthur became king at the age of fifteen but the barons took advantage of Uther's death and Arthur's youth to carve up the kingdom amongst themselves. When he was older, he tried to subdue the barons but lacked the necessary forces. He sent Ulfius and Brastias to the Continent where they enlisted the help of King Bors of Gaul and King Ban of Benwick (Bayonne) who brought an army of 10,000 to reinforce Arthur's 20,000 men and together they defeated the 50,000 men of the North in the bloody Battle of Bedgrayne. Arthur became a great warrior, reputedly killing 470 (or 960) Saxons at the Battle of Mount Badon. He took his army to help King Leodegrance against King Royns and fell in love with Guinevere, the daughter of Leodegrance. He killed the giant Retho in single combat on Mount Snowdon. Retho had sewn the beards of all those he had killed into his cloak; Arthur used Retho's beard to make his own cloak. In a joust with Pellimore, Arthur was defeated and his life was saved only by the intervention of Merlin, who put Pellimore into a trance. Arthur's sword was broken in this encounter and it was then, in some stories, that Merlin provided Excalibur as a replacement. They rowed into the middle of a lake where a hand, clutching the sword Excalibur, rose out of the water. While Arthur wore the scabbard he could never lose blood, no matter how badly he was wounded. The sword itself was said to be capable of remarkable feats.

Having defeated the Saxons, Scots and Picts, he conquered Ireland, Iceland, Norway and Denmark. When the Roman emperor demanded taxes, he led an army into Brittany. Here he killed the giant of Mont St Michel who had carried off Helen, daughter of his friend Hoel, king of Brittany. He then marched on Rome, defeated their army and killed their leader, Lucius. In some accounts he returned to Britain and was not troubled further by the Romans. In other accounts he conquered Rome itself, killed Frolo in single combat, forced Leo to abdicate and was himself crowned as emperor.
He left Kay in charge of Anjou and Bedivere in charge of Normandy. He dug up the buried head of Bran, relying on his own ability to protect the kingdom rather than on the superstitious belief in the power of a long-dead king. He was said also to have dug up the head of Adam near Jerusalem.

He once made a journey to Annwfn,
the underworld, to get a magic cauldron. This story is told by Taliesin in the poem The Spoils of Annwfn.

He was once entrapped by the sorceress Annowre, and only the timely intervention of Lancelot saved him from death at her hands. A similar story is told of Camille. In some Spanish accounts he was imprisoned by the king of Constantinople, who released him when Arthur's sister, Urganda, intervened.

Merlin told Arthur that a child born on May Day would cause his death, so Arthur ordered that all the children born on that day should be put into a boat and cast adrift. The ship was wrecked in a storm and the only one to survive was Mordred, the boy fathered by Arthur with his sister, Morgause.

He married Guinevere but she loved Lancelot and was unfaithful to her husband, although they were later reconciled. At his wedding feast, the proceedings were interrupted by a white stag, which was chased into the hall by a white bitch and a pack of black hounds. One of his knights seized the bitch and rode away with it. A lady rode in and complained that he had stolen her bitch and a knight then rode in and dragged the woman away. Arthur sent Gawain to find the stag, Torre to find the knight who had taken the bitch and Pellimore to find the lady and the knight who had taken her off.

Once when he was hunting with Urien and Accolan, they saw a ship on a lake come into the shore and they went aboard. They were bewitched by Morgan le Fay; Urien found himself back with his wife, Accolan on the edge of a deep void and Arthur in prison. He was duped into fighting with Accolan who was using the sword Excalibur, which had been stolen by Morgan and given to Accolan as part of her plan to destroy Arthur, kill Urien and marry Accolan who would take over the king's throne. After a great fight, Arthur felled Accolan, reclaimed his own sword and forgave his opponent, who died of his wounds a few days later (see also Damas.Ontzlake).

Shortly after his return to Camelot, a damsel arrived with a jewelled mantle, a gift to Arthur from Morgan. On the advice of Nimue Arthur told the girl to try it on. She did so reluctantly and dropped dead, shrivelled to a cinder. While the king was recovering from his wounds, Morgan tried once again to steal Excalibur but got away only with the magic scabbard, which she threw into a lake. Arthur and Outlake pursued her but she and her men escaped when she turned them all into stones until their pursuers had given up the chase.

He helped Culhwch to meet the conditions laid down by the giant Ysbaddaden before he would allow his daughter, Olwen, to marry Culhwch. During this quest, Arthur killed the Black Witch with his knife Carnwennan.

On one occasion, Melwas, the king of Summer Land, abducted Guinevere but Arthur invaded the country and forced the king to release her.

When Agravain and Mordred told the king of his wife's affair with Lancelot Arthur said that he would believe them only when they could produce proof. Mordred caught the two lovers together in her room and told the king who condemned Guinevere to the stake, ordering Gawain to carry out the execution. Gawain refused but his younger brothers, Gaheris and Gareth, obeyed. They were both killed by Lancelot when he rode in and rescued the queen, carrying her off to Joyous Gard. Arthur raised an army to assault the castle and a fierce battle ended only when the Pope intervened to order that Guinevere be handed back to her husband. Lancelot returned to his home in Brittany, taking many of his followers, but Arthur's army of 60,000 men invaded France and laid siege to Bayonne where Lancelot had his court. The king would have accepted a truce with Lancelot but Gawain, who hated Lancelot because he had killed his two brothers when rescuing Guinevere, pressed Arthur to continue the war. News that Mordred, who had been left in charge of the country during the king's absence, had usurped the throne caused Arthur to break off the engagement and hurry back to Britain.

After several battles in which many thousands were killed on each side, Arthur met Mordred in single combat during the Battle of Camlan and killed him but was himself badly wounded in the fight. Lucan and Bedivere moved him to a nearby chapel but Lucan died from his wounds soon after. The king ordered Bedivere to throw Excalibur into the lake, which he did only after twice disobeying the king's orders. A hand came out of the water to receive the sword and carry it down into the depths. Bedivere then carried Arthur to the edge of the lake and placed him in the boat that was waiting to receive the king and carry him to Avalon. The king sailed off, attended by Morgan le Fay, the Queen of Northgales, the Queen of the Waste Land and, in some stories, Nimue.

Some say that he still lives, renewing his youth by visiting the Holy Grail; some say he is sleeping on the mountain Y-Wyddea or in a cave awaiting recall when Britain is in need of him. The site of the cave is variously given as Alderley Edge, Cadbury, Craig-y-Dinas, Mount Etna, Ogof Lanciau Eryri, Ogo'r Dinas,

Richmond Castle and Sewingshields. A dolmen in Trebuerden in Brittany is said to be the king's tomb. Others maintain that he was turned into a bird such as a raven. His soul is said to be housed in a glass castle or, in some stories, embodied in the cough, the puffin or the raven.

In the Welsh version, Arthur was killed by arrows in Snowdonia while pursuing the forces he had defeated at the Battle of Tregalen. His killer was said to be Eda Elyn Mawr.

In Continental lore, Arthur went to Fairyland after his death. When Oberon handed the kingdom to Huon, Arthur, who had expected to receive the throne, objected. Oberon threatened to turn him into a werewolf, whereupon Arthur accepted the position. Other stories say that Arthur was in love with Oberon's daughter, Gloriana. In some accounts he is equated with Charlemagne.

(see also Artos)

Arthur<sup>2</sup>

Irish

son of Arthur, king of Britain
He went to Ireland in search of adventure, taking twenty-eight warriors with him. They stole Finn mac Cool's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, and took them to Scotland. A party of Fianna warriors under Goll mac Morna surprised them in camp at night and killed all twenty-eight men and took Arthur prisoner. Arthur became a loyal follower of Finn.

Arthur<sup>3</sup>

English

a play by the English playwright R. L. Binyon, published in 1923

Arthur and Gorgalon

British

a work, written in Latin, about Arthur's encounters with a werewolf

Arthur and King Cornwall

British

a 16th c poem about the king and the sorcerer

Arthur of Brittany

British

a hero who sued for the hand of Florence

He was said to be descended from Lancelot.

Arthur of Dalriada

Irish

son of King Aodan of Dalriada

In some accounts he is regarded as the original King Arthur.

Arthur the Little

British

a son of King Arthur

One of the illegitimate sons of the king and one of the knights involved in the Grail Quest.

Arthuret (see Battle of Arthuret)

Arthuriad

the corpus of literature devoted to Arthurian legends

Arthuriana British

items relating to King Arthur and the legends that surround him

Arthur's Bosom British

the Otherworld as a place of rest for dead heroes

Arthur's Cave British

a cave on the island of Anglesey
The king was said to have hidden some of his treasure, guarded by a monster, in this cave, during his war with Ireland.

Arthur's Men British

a force of soldiers loyal to King Arthur

Arthur's O'on British

a small Roman temple near Falkirk said to have been used by King Arthur

Arthur's Quoit<sup>1</sup> British

[Carreg Coetan Arthur]
a cromlech in Wales incorporating a stone or quoit said to have been thrown by King Arthur

Arthur's Quoit<sup>2</sup> British

[Lligwy Cromlech]
a cromlech in Anglesey incorporating a stone or quoit said to have been thrown by King Arthur

Arthur's Stone<sup>1</sup> British

a megalith in Wales
This stone is said to have appeared when King Arthur, en route to the Battle of Camlan, found a pebble in his boot and threw it out. Some say that the ghostly figure of the king emerges from under this stone when the moon is full.

Arthur's Stone<sup>2</sup> British

a boulder in Hertfordshire
Some say that this was the stone from which the young Arthur drew the sword that established his right to the throne. Others say that it marks the site of the grave of a king; some say of King Arthur himself.

Arthur's Table<sup>1</sup> British

[Bwrrd Arthur]
a rock in Wales
This rock bears depressions said to represent the twenty-four knights of King Arthur's court.

Arthur's Table<sup>2</sup> British

a barrow in Wales

Arthur's Tor British

a fortification in Durham
This earthwork, like Arthur's Cave, is said to contain some of the king's treasure, guarded in this case by the ghosts of some of his knights.

Arthur's Wain (see Great Bear)

Artinis Mesopotamian

a sun-god of the pre-Armenian Urartians

Artio Celtic

[=Greek Artemis Brauronia]
a Gaulish fertility-goddess, and bear-goddess consort of Esus

Artofilaus British

a knight killed by Fergus Artofilaus was the nephew of a king who besieged Galiene's castle in Lothian. He was killed when Fergus came to her rescue.

Artorius Celtic

[=Greek Mercury]
a Gaulish god

Artos British

[The Bear]
a British god

He became the sky-god Arcturus, returning occasionally to earth in human shape to mate with mortal women. On one such visit, he was incarnate as King Arthur.

Artur Irish

son of Nemed
He was the leader of the Nemedians in the battle with the Formoire at Cramh Ros.

aru East Indian

in the lore of New Guinea tribes, the soul of a dead man or the shadow of a living one

Aru Aru Pacific Islands

a man who introduced the yam
Knowing nothing of menstruation, he accused his wife of infidelity when she started a period; when she said that it was caused by the moon, he set out to kill the moon-god, Papare. Papare explained that every woman on earth was his 'wife' and gave Aru Aru a yam to take back to his people.

arucharis African

the unicorn of Ethiopia

arugo Pacific Islands

the soul, in the lore of the Papuans
After death, the soul goes to Hiyoyoa, under the sea, where it is employed in the gardens of the lord of the underworld, Tumudurere.

Arulu Mesopotamian

the Babylonian underworld
In some stories the underworld is known as Cuthah.

Aruna<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Rumar.Rumra.=Greek Eos.=Roman Aurora]
god of the dawn, driver of Surya's chariot son of Kasyapa and Vinata

brother of Garuda

one of the Adityas

He was said to have no feet because his mother broke the egg he was born in before he was fully formed.

Aruna<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

a Hittite sea-god
son of Kamrusepa

Arunaua (see Viracocha)

Arundel British

Bevis' horse, given to him by Ermyn

Arundhati Hindu

the deified morning star
wife of Vashishtha

Arunkulta Australian

an evil spirit of the Aborigines

Aruni Hindu

a man who gave away all his possessions, including his son

Aruns (see Arruns)

Arupa loka Buddhist

one of the 3 regions of the universe, the world of spirit home of arhats and buddhas
(see also Triloka)

Aruru Mesopotamian

[Mami]
a Babylonian mother-goddess
a manifestation of Sarpanitu
a name of Ninhursaga as 'protector of the womb'

sister of Enlil

mother and wife of Lil

She created the strong man Enkidu from clay and spittle as a companion for Gilgamesh.

Arusha<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a god of the rising sun

Arusha<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a red stallion of the sun-god

Arushi Hindu

a red mare of the sun-god

Arusyak Armenian

a love-goddess
consort of Vahagn

(see also Anahit.Astlik)

Arvakr (see Arvakur)

Arvakur Norse

[Aarvak.Arvakr.Arvar]
a horse drawing the chariot of the sun-god
(see also Alsvid)

Arval Brethren (see Arval Brothers)

Arval Brothers Roman

[Arval Brethren.Frateres Arvales] priests of field-gods sons of Acca Laurentia, some say
These twelve priests celebrated the fertility of the earth, particularly that of the corn-goddess, Dea Dia.

In later years, their duty was to pray for the emperor and his family.

- Arvar (see Arvakur)
- Arvernus Celtic
a Gallic tribal god: king of the Arverni
- Arviragus British
a king of Britain
son of Cymbeline
brother of Guiderius husband of Genvissa
father of Marius
He took the throne when his brother was killed. In some accounts he gave to Joseph of Arimathea the land on which he settled when he came to Britain.
Some identify him with King Arthur or Caractacus.
- Arwyli British
a warrior at Arthur's court
son of Gwyddawg
He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.
- Arya (see Devi.Durga)
- Arya Achalanatha (see Fudo-myo)
- Arya-Tara Buddhist
[Tara.Vasya-Tara]
a goddess, a form of Tara consort of Amoghasiddhi
- Aryajangulitara Buddhist
a form of White Tara
- Aryaman Hindu
[Aryman. 'comrade']
one of the yaman
an early sun-god
one of the (3) Adityas
brother of Mitra and Varuna
He was later assimilated with Surya.
- Aryanaka Hindu
a treatise discussing the nature of the gods
- Aryman (see Aryaman)
- Arzang Persian
[Arzend]
a demon
Arzang captured the King Kay Kaus and blinded him. Rustem rescued the king, restored his eyesight with a medicine made from the heart he had cut out of another demon and killed Arzang.
In some accounts this demon was female, Diw-e-Safid, the White Demon.
- Arzend (see Arzang)
- As<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a fertility-god of the deserts
- As<sup>2</sup> (see Aesir)
- As-im-babbar (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)
- Asa<sup>1</sup> African [Mulungu.Mumbi.Mwatuangi]
supreme god of the Akamba
- Asa<sup>2</sup> (see Aesir.Odin)
- Asa-ase African [=Dahomey Saghata.=South America Gros Mama.=Yoruba Obalwaye]
- an Ashanti earth deity
(see also Asase Efua.Asase Yaa)
- Asa-bridge (see Bifrost)
- Asabru Norse
[Asbru]
the rainbow (see also Bifrost)
- Asad Arabian
the Zodiacal sign Leo
- Asag Mesopotamian
[Asarluhi.=Akkadian Asakku]
a Sumerian demon causing illness
This demon was overcome by Ninurta.
- Asagao Japanese
a blind maiden
She fell in love with Komagawa and when her parents tried to make her marry a man she did not love, she ran away. She looked for Komagawa and, failing to find him, cried so much that she became blind. She earned a living by singing in a tea-house and here Komagawa found her again. The owner of the tea-house committed suicide so that his liver could be used to cure Asagao's blindness. With her sight restored, Asagao searched again for Komagawa. She finally found him and they were married.
- asagive West Indian a dance saluting the gods of voodoo
- Asaheim (see Asgard)
- Asai<sup>1</sup> East Indian
the Dayak god of pioneers
He can chop down trees with his sharp shins.
- Asai<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
a Sumerian god
a name of Marduk connecting him with irrigation brother of Negun (see also Asaru)
- Asakku Mesopotamian [=Sumerian Asag]
a primeval dragon
One of Tiamat's Eleven Mighty Helpers
- Asal<sup>1</sup> Irish
son of Conn, the high-king
In the version of the story of Eochaid Yellowmouth, which describes Eochaid as Conn's uncle, it was Asal who killed Eochaid.
- Asal<sup>2</sup> (see Easal)
- Asalluha Mesopotamian [Asariluchi] a Sumerian messenger-god
son of Enki
- Asama<sup>1</sup> Japanese
a sacred mountain, Mount Fuji (see also Sengen)
- Asama<sup>2</sup> (see Sengen)
- Asamanfo African
[sing=Osaman]
- the Akan spirits of the dead
- Asamang African
the Akan land of the dead
- Asan-sagan-Tengeri Mongolian
a thunder-god
- Asani Hindu
['lightning']
one of 8 forms of Agni
- Asaph Persian
a mythical keeper of the forests
- Asapura (see Asapura)
- Asapuri (see Asapura)
- Asapura Hindu
[Asapura.Asapuri]
an earth-goddess
- Asar<sup>1</sup> Arabian [Asir]
an equestrian-god
- Asar<sup>2</sup> Egyptian [Asari.Asir]
an early name for Osiris
- Asar<sup>3</sup> (see Asaru)
- Asar-Hap (see Serapis)
- Asar-Hapi (see Serapis)
- Asaradel
an angel, one of the 7 Ischin who taught men the motions of the moon
- Asari<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian [Usire]
a Syrian god of agriculture, a form of Marduk (see also Asai<sup>2</sup>)
- Asari<sup>2</sup> (see Osiris)
- Asariluchi (see Asar<sup>2</sup>)
- Asarluhi (see Asag)
- Asartaiti Egyptian
a name of Osiris as 'he who is swathed'
- Asaru Mesopotamian
[Asar(u)alim]
a name of Marduk connecting him with irrigation (see also Asai<sup>2</sup>)
- Asarualim (see Asaru)
- Asaruludu Mesopotamian
a name of Marduk connecting him with magic
- Asase (see Mama)
- Asase Efua African [Asa'ase.=Ashanti Asase Yaa]
a fertility-goddess of the Fanti goddess of the dead
- Asase Yaa African [Asa'ase.=Fanti Asase Efua]
a fertility-goddess of the Akan goddess of the dead
In some accounts this is Earth Thursday, a day sacred to the goddess, on which no work on the land is permitted.
- Asbjornsen, Peter Christen
(1812-1885) Norwegian
an author who wrote on folklore and comparative mythology

Asbolus Greek

a dog of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon the hunter watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Asbolus, tore him to pieces.

Asbru *(see Asabru)Ascalabus Greek

son of Misme
When Demeter was looking for her daughter, Core, who had been abducted by Hades, Misme gave her water to drink. Ascalabus mocked Demeter for the way in which she gulped the water so the goddess threw the water at him and he turned into a lizard. (see also Abas)

Ascalaphus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Askalaphos]
son of Ares and Astyoche
brother of Ialmenus

He was one of the Argonauts and later, with his brother, led the Minoan forces helping the Greeks at Troy, where he was killed by Deiphobus.

Ascalaphus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Askalaphos]
gardener to Hades
son of Acheron and Gorgyra or Orphne
It was he who claimed that Core had eaten the seeds of a pomegranate during her stay in the underworld as Persephone, which prevented her complete return to the upper regions. For his treachery, Core or Demeter turned him into an owl.

In some accounts Demeter placed him under a huge rock in Hades and, when Heracles later removed the rock, she turned Ascalaphus into an owl.

Ascalon<sup>1</sup> British

[Ascalun]
the kingdom ruled by Vergulaht

Ascalon<sup>2</sup> *(see Ascalon)Ascalun *(see Ascalon<sup>1</sup>)Ascanius Greek

[Askaneios.Ilus.Iulus]
son of Aeneas and Creusa or Lavinia
father of Silvius

He escaped at the fall of Troy with his father and grandfather and was taken to Italy. He shot a pet stag of the Latins, who then waged war on the Trojans who were trying to establish a new settlement. In some accounts he defeated Mezentius in single combat. He later became king of Alba Longa.

Ascapard *(see Ascapart)Ascapart British

[Ascapard]
a giant
He was said to be nine metres (30ft)

tall but was defeated by Bevis and became that knight's servant. Others say that he was killed by Bevis.

Ascaroth
a demon of informers and spiesAschil British

a king of Denmark
He is said to have fought at Camlan, some say for King Arthur, others for Mordred.

Asclepia Greek

[Asklepia]
temples dedicated to the deified Asclepius

Asclepiadae Greek

[Asklepiadae]
the descendants of Asclepius
These constituted a caste of priests who pass down their medical knowledge through the generations.

Asclepiodotus British

a king of Britain
He was overthrown by Coel who died soon afterwards.

Asclepius *(see Asclepius)Asclepius Greek

[Aiglaer.Aisklepios.Asclepios.Asklepios P(a)eon.Paeon.Paion:=Canaanite Eshmun:=Egyptian Imhotep:=Roman (A)esculapius]
a god of healing
one of the Argonauts
son of Apollo and Arsinoe or Coronis or of Arsippus and Arsinoe husband of Epione

father of Aceso, Hygeia, Iaso, Machaon, Ocyrrhoe, Panacea and Podaleirius

Apollo had seduced Coronis but she preferred a mortal lover, so Apollo killed her but saved her unborn child, Ischys, and gave him to Chiron to be reared. In other accounts the child was abandoned on Mount Myrtium, found by a shepherd, Aristhamas, who called him Aiglaer, and suckled by goats. He tried to bring Hippolytus (in some versions, Glaucus) back to life in Hades but Zeus killed him with a thunderbolt. Some say that when Apollo then killed the Cyclopes who made the thunderbolts for Zeus, the god relented and restored Asclepius to life.

Some say that he was able to bring the dead back to life by using blood from the right side of the Medusa slain by Hercules; blood from her left side killed those to whom it was administered.

His animal is the snake and he appears in the heavens as Ophiuchus.

Asculon *(see Askalon)Asdar *(see Ishtar)Asdeev Persian

a white dragon defeated by Rustem

Asegeir Norse

12 wise elders of the Frisians

Asieliel

a demon of the West

Asenath Egyptian

the Egyptian name for Athena

Asera *(see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)Aserah *(see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)Aserat *(see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)Aserdus Mesopotamian

[=Canaanite Asertu]
a Hittite fertility-goddess

Aseroth
a demon said to take possession of humansAsertu Mesopotamian

[=Hittite Aserdus:=Syrian Atirat]

a Canaanite fertility-goddess
wife of Elkinirsa

Aset *(see Isis)Asfandarmad *(see Armaithi)Asfandujar *(see Isfandiari)Asgard Norse

[Asheim.Asgard(h)r.Asgarth:=Greek Olympia]
city of the gods in Godheim home of the gods, the Aesir heaven
the site of Valhalla

In some accounts Asgard comprised twelve separate regions, each ruled by one of the twelve original gods, the Aesir.

Asgardhr *(see Asgard)Asgardr *(see Asgard)Asgardreia *(see Asgardsreid)Asgardreid *(see Asgardsreid)Asgardsreid Norse

[Asgardreia.Asgardreid.Wild Hunt]
the Norse version of the Wild Hunt, led by Frigga or Odin

Asgarth *(see Asgard)Asgaya Gigagei North American

[Red Man.Red Woman]
an androgynous thunder-god and healing spirit of the Cherokee

Ash<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[god of the Land of Tehennu]
a deity with the heads of a lion, a snake and a vulture

Ash<sup>2</sup> (see also Ask)

ash<sup>3</sup> [Fraxina.Fraxinella]
a tree once believed to have magical powers

This tree was said to have the power to avert evil spirits and disease.

In Norse mythology, this tree was the source of the first man. The huge tree known as Yggdrasil, which was believed to support the earth, was an ash tree.

In Greek stories, the ash was said to have sprung from the blood of Uranus when he was castrated by Cronus.

Ash Boys North American
spirits of the Pueblo tribes

(see also Ashes Man)

Ash-im-babbar (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)

Ash-pate (see Assipattle)

Asha (see Asha Vahishta)

Asha Vahishta Persian

[Ardabahisht.Arta.Asha.'best truth'.
Urdu-bihisht]

one of the Amesha Spentas

one of the Yazatas

an aspect of Ahura Mazda, 'truth'

This being was in control of fire and was opposed to the demon Indra.

Ashanmer (see Ashushu-Namir)

Ashdar (see Ishtar)

Asherah<sup>1</sup> Canaanite

[Asera(h).Aserat.Asherat(ian).Ashirat.

Atherat.Athira(t).Elat.Ilat.Lady of Byblos.Queen of the Sea:=Phoenician

Astarte]

a Canaanite mother-goddess and sea-goddess

mother of the gods

wife of El

mother of Ashtar and Shachar

In some accounts she is Anat as 'Lady of the Sea'.

Some accounts distinguish between Asherah, a Ugaritic mother-goddess who was the mother and wife of Baal, and Asherah, a Canaanite mother-goddess. Others regard Athira as a separate deity.

Asherah<sup>2</sup> Syrian

a goddess

consort of Amurru

Asherat (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Asheratian (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Ashes Man North American

a spirit of the Pueblo tribes

(see also Ash Boys)

Ashet (see Amenti)

Ashi<sup>1</sup> Persian

a beneficent deity

daughter of Amaitis

Ashi<sup>2</sup> Roman

a goddess of recompense and, later,

of morality

Ashi-nadzuchi Japanese

an earth-god

husband of Te-nadzuchi

father of Inada-hime

Ashiakle African

goddess of wealth of the Gan tribe

daughter of Nai

Ashiku (see Ashuku)

Ashila African

[Ishila]

a supreme god of the Kambari people of Nigeria

Ashima<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

a Sumerian version of the sea

goddess Amathaounta

Ashima<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

a god of the people of Hamath

Ashima<sup>3</sup> (see Seimia)

Ashimbabbar (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)

ashipu Mesopotamian

a class of Babylonian priests

Their function was to protect people from witches.

Ashira Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Ashirat (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Ashiwanni North American

rain priests of the Zuni

This group is made up of fourteen rain priests (Ashiwi) and two others, plus one priestess.

(see also Shiwanna.Shiwanni)

Ashiwi<sup>1</sup> North American

the 14 rain priests of the Zuni

Ashiwi<sup>2</sup> North American

the primitive ancestors of the Zuni

These people, web-fingered and web-toed, with long tails and covered with moss, emerged from beneath the earth. The gods removed their non-human features and they became the ancestors of the tribe.

Ashmadai (see Asmodeus)

Ashmedai (see Asmodeus)

Ashmodel

a demon; destroyer of God

Ashmun (see Eshmun)

Ashnan Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess of the harvest daughter of Enlil

Asho-Zushta Persian

the owl

This bird is said to drive away demons

by reciting from the Avesta.

Ashoka Buddhist

[Asoka]

(270-230 bc)

an emperor of India who became a Buddhist

father of Mahendra, Mahinda

and Sanghamita

He was regarded as the reincarnation of a poor boy who, having no possessions,

offered a pile of dust to the Buddha, which was accepted. He became a prolific builder of shrines to the Buddha and a proselytiser of the new religion.

ashrapa (see dakinis<sup>2</sup>)

Ashtar (see Athar<sup>2</sup>)

Ashtareth (see Anat.Ashtoreth.

Astarte)

Ashtaroth<sup>1</sup> European

a spirit

In the Charlemagne stories, he was summoned by the magician Malagigi to bring the paladins Ricciardetto and Rinaldo to the pass at Roncesvalles.

He and his servant, Foul-mouth,

entered the horses of the two paladins,

who were then in Egypt, and flew with their riders to Spain, putting them down in the midst of the Battle of Roncesvalles.

Ashtaroth<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

the plural form of Ashtoreth

This name is used as a collective name for minor Canaanite goddesses.

Ashtaroth<sup>3</sup>

a demon of sloth: in black magic, one of the Ministers of the Treasury

Ashtaroth<sup>4</sup>

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

Ashtart (see Astarte)

Ashtoreth Mesopotamian

[Ashtareth.Ashtaroth.Astoreth:plur=

Ashtaroth:=Babylonian Ishtar:=Egyptian

Hathor:=Greek Astarte:=Phoenician

Astarte]

a Semitic love-goddess

In some accounts she is envisaged as a horned goddess.

Ashuku Japanese

[Ashiku.Tenkuraion:=Buddhist Akshobhya:

=Hindu Vishnu:=Sanskrit Divya-dundu]

one of the 5 Dhyani Buddhas

one of the 5 bodhisattvas of Mahayana Buddhism, in

some accounts

Ashur Mesopotamian

[Ashir.Ashshur.Ashurachu.Ashuraku.

Asshur.As(s)ur.Nisroch.S(h)ar:=

Babylonian Marduk]

the Assyrian supreme god, god of war

consort of Ashuritu and Ishtar

He was envisaged with the head and wings of an eagle or with the faces of a bull, an eagle, a lion and a man.

Ashura<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[Asura]

god of the land of punishment, Ashura

Ashura<sup>2</sup> Japanese

[Asura]

the land of punishment ruled

by Ashura

- Ashura<sup>3</sup> Japanese [Asura]
evil spirits
These spirits are said to be the spirits of those killed in battle.
- Ashurachu (see Ashur)
Ashuraku (see Ashur)
Ashuritu Mesopotamian
[Beltu]
a consort of Ashur
- Ashushu-Namir Mesopotamian
[Ashanmer.Ashushunamir.
Asushunamir.Asu-su-namir.
Uddushu-namir]
a messenger of the gods
This being (two bisexual beings or a sexless creature, the eunuch Asnamir) was created by El to act as a messenger when the gods demanded the release of Ishtar from the underworld goddess Allatu (Ereshkigal). She put a curse on him, causing him to live in darkness and live on rubbish.
(see also Nadrushi-Namur)
- Ashushunamir (see Ashushu-Namir)
ashvameda Hindu
horse sacrifice
In some cases, horses were sacrificed to ensure the birth of a son.
- Ashvamukhi Hindu
a form of yakshi with the body of a woman and the head of a horse
- Ashvapati Hindu
a king
father of Savitri
- Ashvathaman Hindu
[Ashvathaman]
son of Drona and Kripa
His father, a general of the Kauravas, died at the hand of the Pandava leader, Dhrishtadyмна, when he was told that Asvathaman was dead. His son, very much alive, set out to avenge his father and found himself fighting Shiva. He immolated himself but, inspired by the god, attacked the Pandava camp, killing every soldier in it, including Dhrishtadyмна.
He killed Uttara's son, Parikshit, while he was still in utero so that he was born dead. Krishna restored the boy to life and cursed Ashvathaman who fled but was captured by Arjuna.
- Ashvatthaman (see Ashvathaman)
Ashvins (see Aswins)
Ashwins (see Aswins)
Asi Hindu
a sword
This weapon was created for the protection of the gods by the sacrifice of Brahma. It was given first to Rudra
- but later passed to Vishnu, Marice, and Vasaava and finally to Maru.
- Asia<sup>1</sup> African [Asia Bussu]
an earth-goddess in Guinea
mother of Pan
- Asia<sup>2</sup> Inuit a goddess of weather
- Asia<sup>3</sup> Greek
a nymph, one of the Oceanids
mother of Atlas, Epimetheus and Prometheus by Iapetus
In some accounts, Clymene appears in place of Asia.
- Asia Bussu (see Asia<sup>1</sup>)
Asiani Asian [Asii.Wusuns]
a legendary race living in central Asia
- Asiel
[Asiriell]
a spirit, ruler of Aquarius
In other versions, the ruler of Aquarius is Gambiel.
- Asii (see Asiani)
Asima
a demon said to take possession of humans
- Asimbabbar (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)
Asin South American
a culture hero of the Chaco tribe
He is said to have created bees and palm trees and is described as a bald warrior with a fat stomach.
- Asinari
ass worshippers
- Asinor
ruler of one of the 7 supposed firmaments
- Asipala Jain
gods of the underworld
These beings torture the wicked dead, slashing them with knives.
- asipatra Hindu
a bird of Yamapura
These birds have knife-sharp claws and wings like swords.
- Asipatravana Hindu
one of the realms of hell
This realm is reserved for the punishment of heretics.
- Asir (see Aesir.Asir<sup>1,2</sup>)
Asira Arabian
a local god
- Asiras Hindu
a mythical race of headless beings
- Asiriell (see Asiel)
Asis<sup>1</sup> African
a sun-god of the Pokot brother of Tororut
- Asis<sup>2</sup> African
the creator-god of the Nandi tribe
- asisi East Indian [atiti]
in Papuan lore, an immaterial entity
This entity is regarded as a kind of reflection or substitute for a human or an animal, separate from the soul.
(see also sovaï)
- Asisia African
a supreme god of the Dorobo people of Kenya
- Asita Buddhist
[Ajita:=Chinese A-shih-to.A-tzu-ta.Mi-lo-fo.Mi-lo Fo.etc (see Mi-lo-fo)=Tibetan Ma-p'am-pa.M-phem-pa]
one of the Eighteen Lohan
In some accounts he is regarded as an incarnation of Maitreya. Some say that he was the uncle of Naradatta.
He is depicted with long eyebrows, sitting on a rock and clasping one knee.
- Asius<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Digmas
brother of Hecuba
He was a Trojan soldier at the siege of Troy where he was killed by Idomenus.
- Asius<sup>2</sup> Greek
a king of Percote
son of Hyrtacus and Arisba
He fought for the Trojans against the Greeks and was killed at the battle of Troy.
- Ask Norse
[Ash.Askr]
the first man, made by Odin from an ash tree husband of Embla
- Askalaphos (see Ascalaphus)
Askalon British [Ascalon.Asculon]
the sword of St George
- Askaneios (see Ascanius)
Askefruel British
forest nymphs said to be able to cure disease
- Askher (see Aeschere)
Asklepia (see Asclepia)
Asklepiadae (see Asclepiadae)
Asklepios (see Asclepius) Aslan British
a lion representing the principle of good in the works of C. S. Lewis
- Askr (see Ask)
Asland Scottish
a Scottish king
He refused to allow Estmere to marry his daughter but, when the young hero saved him and his daughter from a Spanish prince, he relented and sanctioned the marriage.

- Aslaug Norse
[Aslog. 'crow'.Krake]
a queen of Denmark daughter of Sigurd and Brunhild wife of Ragnar Lodbrok mother of Biorn, Hvitsek, Ivar, Rogenwald and Sigurd
One version of the story of Sigurd and Brunhild says that they married and had a daughter called Aslaug who was reared by Brunhild's father. When he was exiled, the father took the child with him to Norway hidden inside a harp, which was broken open by a peasant couple who killed the old man. They made a slave of the girl, who they called Krake.
Ragnar Lodbrok, king of the Danes, came ashore near the hut where they lived and proposed to marry her. She agreed but deferred the wedding for a year to test his love. At the end of that time they were married and they had four children, Biorn, Hvitserk, Ivar and Rogenwald. When Ragnar was advised to put her aside in favour of a princess, Aslaug produced proof that she herself was high-born. She later gave birth to Sigurd the Snake-Eyed.
In some accounts her sons were Ingvdr and Ubbe. (see also Heimer)
- Aslesia Hindu
[Aslesas]
a goddess of misfortune
daughter of Daksa
wife of Candra
- Aslesas (see Aslesia)
- Aslo Norse
a horse of the sun-god
- Aslog (see Aslaug)
- Asman Persian
a sky-god assisting Kshathra Varya
- Asmara East Indian
a cycle of plays based on the legends of Java
- Asmara Dewa Malay
[Yatim Mustafa.Yatim Nustapa]
a prince
His step-brother sent him into exile and he met the king of the cobras who gave him a magic jewel that he used to cure Indra Puspa, the daughter of a neighbouring king, who was dying from snake bite. He married the princess and, when he succeeded to her father's throne, he took an army to recover his own kingdom.
- Asmeday (see Asmodeus)
- Asmegir Norse
spirits in Hel
- Asmodaeus (see Asmodeus)
- Asmodai (see Asmodeus)
- Asmoday (see Asmodeus)
- Asmodel
an astral spirit of the constellation Taurus
- Asmodeus
[Achedemai.Ashmadai.Ashmedai.Asmeday. Asmodaeus.Asmodai.Asmoday.Demon Prince.Devil on Two Sticks.Limping Devil.Prince of Demons.Sidonay.Sydonay: =Persian Aeshma]
an evil spirit, the spirit of lust or vengeance
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
- Asmund Norse
a friend of Asvitus
The two friends vowed to die together and when Asvitus died, Asmund was buried alive with him. When the grave was opened, Amund appeared bleeding – he had been attacked by his friend's spirit.
- Asnami Mesopotamian
a eunuch
In one version of the story of Ishtar's visit to the underworld, this being was created by Ea to rescue her. (see also Ashushu-Namir)
- Asnan Mesopotamian
[=Sumerian Emmer]
an early goddess of vegetation daughter of Enki
- Aso Egyptian
a queen of Ethiopia
She was one of the people who conspired with Set to kill Osiris.
- asogwe African
a rattle used by the chief priests of Dahomey to call up the gods
- Asoka (see Ashoka)
- Asokakanta Buddhist
a form of Marici
Normally depicted as gold-coloured and riding a pig, she is sometimes white and standing on the moon and a lotus.
- Asokottamasri Tibetan
a Buddhist god of medicine
- Asoom Jan Tanushi Arabian [Taranushi]
the first jinn created by God
- Asopos (see Asopus)
- Asopus Greek
[Asopos]
a river-god
son of Poseidon or Oceanus and Tethys husband of Metope
father of Aegina, Euboea, Evadne, Ismenus, Pelagon and many others
He was struck by a thunderbolt by Zeus who abducted Aegina.
- Aspalis Mesopotamian
[=Greek Artemis]
a Semitic goddess of hunting
She is said to have hanged herself and her body then disappeared.
- Aspandijar (see Isfandiyar)
- Asphalios Greek
a title of Poseidon as 'preventer of earthquakes'
- asphodel Greek
a plant associated with the dead, said to grow in Hades
- Asphodel Fields Greek (Asphodel Meadows)
the home in Tartarus of those departed who are neither good nor bad
- Asphodel Meadows (see Asphodel Fields)
- aspidomancy
a form of divination calling up demons
- Aspirates
minor deities
- Asprian European [Osborn]
a giant
He was one of the party that accompanied Berchther and Rother to Constantinople.
- Asrat Mesopotamian [Asratum]
a Canaanite fertility-goddess
- Asratum (see Asrat)
- Ass<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a form of Ra eaten by a huge serpent
- Ass<sup>2</sup> (see Aesir)
- Ass god Roman
a deity connected with the feast of Saturnalia
- Ass of Silenus Greek
the animal carrying the drink that conferred eternal youth on those who drank it
- Assa Irish
the original name of Nessa
- Assaluha (see Marduk)
- Assara Mazas Mesopotamian
[=Persian Ahura Mazda:=Hindu Rudra.Varuna]
an Assyrian sun-god
- Assarac Mesopotamian
an Assyrian deity
- Assaracus Greek
a king of Dardania
son of Tros and Callirrhoe brother of Ganymede and Ilus
father of Capys
He helped Brutus when he was captured by Pandarus and led the Trojan exiles out of Greece to settle in Britain.

Asselm European

a provost of Coblenz
He betrayed the details of the departure of Elias and Beatrix for their new home in Bouillon so that the Saxons were able to lay an ambush in which Galien, leader of the escort, was killed.

Asses Media West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Asshur *(see Ashur)Assipattle Scottish

[Ash-pate]
the seventh son of a seventh son

He was an idle day dreamer who made good his promise of great deeds.

When the Stoorworm was ravaging the country, he went out in his little boat to fight it. When the monster swallowed him, Assipattle cut open its liver and pushed in the burning peats that he had brought with him. The beast regurgitated Assipattle and its teeth fell out and became the Orkney Islands and its dead body formed Iceland. For his valour, Assipattle received the hand of the Princess Gemdelovely.

Asslake British

son of Heroud
His father had been away for a long time, searching for Rainburn who had been kidnapped and sold to Argus, an African king, so Asslake set out to look for his father. He took up position in a pass in the Alps and challenged allcomers, seeking information. In this way, he found himself fighting Rainburn who was on his way home, having been reunited with Heroud. All three joined forces and returned to England.

Associated Gods North American

[Companion Gods]
4 gods of the Sioux

These four are given as Falling Star, Moon, Great Thunderbird and Wind. All are aspects of Wakan Tanka.

Assoros Mesopotamian

[Assorus]
an alternative version of Ansar consort of Kissare
father of Anos, Aos and Illillos

Assorus *(see Assoros)Assur *(see Ashur)Assura *(see Asura)Assurne British

a river said to divide Logres from Surluse

Assysla British

in Scandinavian lore, the island on which King Arthur died
(see also Avalon)

Ast *(see Isis)Astabhuja-Kurnkulla

a form of Kurnkulla shown as red with Sarus

Astabi Mesopotamian

[Astabis]
a Hittite war-god

Astabis *(see Astabi)Astacus Greek

a Theban
father of Amphidocus, Asmarus, Leades and Melanippus

Astakarna *(see Brahma)Astamataras *(see Matrikas)Astamore British

a Knight of the Round Table
He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravaïn and Mordred when they attempted to seize Lancelot after finding him in bed with Guinevere. All except Mordred were killed by Lancelot.

Astar<sup>1</sup> African

[=Arab Athar]
a sky-god or sky-goddess of Ethiopia

Astar<sup>2</sup> *(see Athar<sup>2</sup>.Ishtar)Astarat *(see Astarte)Astarot *(see Ashtaroth.Astarte)Astaroth *(see Ashtaroth)Astaroth<sup>2</sup> *(see Astarte)Astarte<sup>1</sup> Phoenician [Ashtart.Ashtareth.Ashtaroth.Astarat.

Astarot(h).Astoreth.Athirat.Athtar(a)t.
Dea Syria.Great Mother.Kades.
Kedesh(et).Queen of Heaven.Queen of Love.Syrian Goddess:=Armenian Anahit:=Babylonian Ishtar:=Canaanite Asherah:=Greek Aphrodite:=North African Dido.Tanit(h):=Phrygian Cybele:=Semitic Ashtoreth:=Sumerian Nanna]
a Phoenician fertility-goddess goddess of shepherds
the Greek name for Ashtaroth consort of El consort and mother of Baal
She was adopted by the Egyptians as the daughter of Ptah or Ra and became a consort of Seth. In this role she is depicted naked on horseback.

In Arabia, Astarte became the god Athar and the goddess Sams.

She is sometimes depicted as a cow or as a woman with a cow's head, or identified with Ilat or Ishtar.

Astarte<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

a queen
wife of Malacander

Astasian demons

aerial demons
These beings, ruled by Geradiel, are said to impart secrets to humans.

Asten Egyptian

an ancient god assimilated with Thoth

Asteria<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Asterie. 'starry'] daughter of Coeus and Phoebe sister of Leto wife of Perses
mother of Hecate

To escape the clutches of Zeus when he pursued her, she changed into a quail and plunged into the sea. She then became an island of the same name, later to become known as Delos. Her sister, Leto, later came to Delos to give birth to the twins, Apollo and Artemis.

In some accounts she is the same as Astraea.

Asteria<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of the 50 daughters of Danaus
wife of Chaetus

Asteria<sup>3</sup> *(see Sterope)Asterie *(see Asteria)Asterion<sup>1</sup> Greek

a river-god or sea-god

Asterion<sup>2</sup> *(see Asterius<sup>1</sup>.Minotaur<sup>1</sup>)Asterius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Asterion]
son of Cometes
one of the Argonauts

Asterius<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Asterion]
king of Crete
son of Tectamus husband of Europa
father of Crete

Europa had been carried off by Zeus, in the form of a bull. Her three children from that union, Minos, Rhadamanthys and Sarpedon, were adopted by Asterius when he married their mother. As a reward, Zeus gave him the huge bronze figure, Talos, made by Hephaestus, which acted as guardian of Crete.

Asterius<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Asterion]
a giant son of Anax

Asterius<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Asterion]
a name for the Minotaur, in some accounts (see also Asterius<sup>5</sup>)

Asterius<sup>5</sup> Greek

[Asterion]
son of Minos

He was killed by Theseus when he went to Crete to kill the Minotaur.
(see also Asterius<sup>4</sup>)

Asterodes Greek

wife of Aetes

Asterodia<sup>1</sup> Greek
a name for Selene as queen of the heavens

Asterodia<sup>2</sup> (see Chromia)

Asterope (see Sterope)

Asteropia Greek

daughter of Deion and Diomedes
sister of Actor, Aenetus, Cephalus
and Phylacus

Astidameia (see Astydamia)

Astidamia (see Astydamia)

Astika Hindu

a Brahman

Janomejaya set a trap for the nagas of Takshaka and many perished when they fell into the fire. Astika intervened to save some of them.

astiya Basque

witches

Astlabor (see Esclabor)

Astlik Armenian

a sky-goddess (see also Arusyak)

wife of Vahagn

Asto-vidatu (see Asto-vidhotu)

Asto-vidhotu Persian

[Asto-vidatu]

a plague demon

He was later elevated to the role of god of death.

Astolat British

[Shalott=Italian Scalliotta.Scalot]

the home of Elaine the White

In Arthurian stories this town has been identified with Guildford.

Astolfo (see Astolpho)

Astolpho European

[Astolfo]

an English duke

son of Otho

He was the first knight to fight with Argalia at the great tournament organised by Charlemagne and was unhorsed. He acquired Argalia's magic lance when the latter was fighting Ferrau and with it defeated all-comers at the tournament. He went in search of Rinaldo, who disappeared after the tournament and defeated the knight Florismart, who was travelling with his lady-love, Flordelis. Astolpho spared his life and they became friends.

At the Castle of Oblivion, Astolpho refused the drink offered by the damsel on the bridge but Florismart was taken prisoner.

At Albracca, he killed many of the besieging Tartars but was then captured by the relieving forces of Sacripant. He was later caught in the spell of the enchantress Alcina who, tiring of him as she tired of all her lovers, turned him into a myrtle tree.

In this form he was found by Rogero who, having successfully destroyed Alcina's power with the help of Melissa, returned him to his normal shape. Astolpho then went to the home of Logestilla, who gave him a magic book that would tell him all he would ever need to know and a horn that he could use in times of peril.
Here he recovered the horse
Rabican, originally owned by Argalia, from Rogero.

He returned to France but was lured
by Atlantes to a castle where the book Logestilla had given him told him how to proceed and the horn dispersed the many apparitions that attacked him.
Here he found and released
Bradamante, Florismart, Gradasso, Rogero, Roland and many others. He also found the hippogriff and, leaving his own horse and the magic lance with Bradamante, flew off.

He landed in Abyssinia and was entertained by the blind king Senapus, driving off the Harpies that were harrying the king and sealing them into the cave in which they took refuge. In some accounts this incident involved Prester John, king of Nubia.
Astolpho rode the hippogriff to the top of a mountain and found the earthly paradise, meeting Elijah, Enoch and St John who took him to the moon where he was given the bottle that contained the missing senses of Roland, which he had lost in his period of madness. He was also given a plant with which he cured the king's blindness. As a reward he was given a huge army with which to help Charlemagne in his battles with the Saracens. Capturing the desert wind in a bag so that they could cross the desert in safety, he made horses for his troops from fragments of rock. Finally they reached Biserta where they laid siege to Agramant's forces in that city.
They were joined by some of the knights taken prisoner by Rodomont and sent to Africa. Roland then appeared, still in his period of madness. He was restrained and Astolpho restored him to sanity with the bottle given to him by St John.

After the submission of the Africans following the combat between Agramant, Gradasso and Sobrino on one side and Florismart, Oliver and Roland on the other, Astolpho flew on the hippogriff to Marseilles where he turned the flying horse loose. He rejoined Rinaldo, Roland and the others who had arrived there after their visit to the hermit, who cured the wounds of Oliver and Sobrino.

After the end of the war, Astolpho went with Oliver and Roland to collect the tribute exacted by Charlemagne from the Spanish King Marsilius. He was the first to charge when the Spaniards trapped their small force in the pass at Roncesvalles, killing Arlotto of Soria. Astolpho was killed later in the battle.

Astoreth (see Ashtoreth)

Astraea Greek

[Asteria.Astrea]

goddess of equity, justice, purity

daughter of Zeus by Themis

She became the constellation Virgo and in some accounts was equated with Dike. (see also Asteria<sup>1</sup>)

Astraeus Greek

a Titan

son of Crius by Eurybia

brother of Pallas and Perses

husband of Eos, some say

In some stories he was the father, by Eos, of the four winds, Argestes, Boreas, Notus and Zephyr.

astragalomancy

divination by the casting of knucklebones

astral body

the spirit body, opposite of the physical body

astral spirits

the spirits of the stars

astral world

in some accounts, the second lowest of 7 worlds

This is the realm to which the astral body is said to go after it leaves the physical body.

Astrea (see Astraea)

Astrid Norse

a woman of Njal's household

She was trapped when Flosi's men surrounded the house but, with the other women and children, was given safe passage before the house was burnt to the ground.

Astrild Norse

[=Greek Eros]

a god of love

astrology

divination from the planets or the Zodiac

astromancy

divination from the stars

Astronoe Mesopotamian

a Canaanite goddess of love
She is said to have emasculated Eshmun.

Astuanax (see Astyanax)

Astvat-Ereta (see Saoshyant)

Astvat-Eveta (see Saoshyant)

Astyages<sup>1</sup> Greek

a supporter of Agenor
He was one of those who interrupted the wedding of Perseus and Andromeda. He was turned to stone by sight of the Medusa mask.

Astyages<sup>2</sup> Persian

a king of Media
It was prophesied that he would die at the hand of a descendant; this prophecy was fulfilled when he was killed by his grandson, Cyrus.

Astyanax Greek

[Astuanax.Scamandrius.Skamandrios]
son of Hector and Andromache
He was thrown to his death from the walls of Troy by Pyrrhus, or killed by Odysseus when the city was overrun by the Greeks. Others say he was taken prisoner by the Greeks and later returned to Troy.

In the Charlemagne stories, Astyanax was said to have survived and founded the state of Messina in Sicily.

Astydamia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Astidam(e)ia]
daughter of Cretheus or Pelops

In some stories she is the mother of Tlepolemus by Heracles. Others say that she was the wife of Acastus and mother of Laodamia, Sterope and Sthene. In this latter role, she accused Peleus, who had come to her husband's court to be purified of murder, of rape. In the ensuing fight, Peleus killed Astydamia and, some say, Acastus.

(see also Astyoche)

Astydamia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Astidam(e)ia]
daughter of Pelops and Hippodamia wife of Alcaeus

mother of Amphitryon and Anaxo

Astydamia<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Astidam(e)ia.Deidameia] daughter of Amyntor and Cleobule sister of Phoenix

Heracles asked Amyntor for his daughter's hand and when he refused, Heracles seduced her, fathering a son, Ctessipus.

Astydamia<sup>4</sup> (see Astyoche<sup>1</sup>)

Astygia Greek

daughter of Hypseus and Creusa, in some accounts
sister of Cyrene and Themisto

Astymedusa (see Euryganeia)

Astynome Greek

wife of Hipponous mother of Capaneus

Astyoche (see Astyoche)

Astyoche<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Astyd(e)ia.Astyoche]
a nymph
daughter of King Phylas wife of Iphiclus

She was captured by Heracles and given to Iphiclus as his wife. Some say she was the mother of Tlepolemus by Heracles.

In some accounts she is referred to as Astydamia.

Astyoche<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Astyoche]
a name for Loadice wife of Telephus

Astyoche<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Astyoche]
daughter of Actor
mother by Ares of Ascalaphus and Ialmenus

Astyoche<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Astyoche]
daughter of Simoeis wife of Erichthonius mother of Tros

Astypalaea Greek

daughter of Agenor or Phoenix

In some accounts she was the mother of Ancaeus and Eurypylos by Poseidon.

Asu-su-Namir (see Ashushu-Namir)

Asuang Pacific Islands

in the Philippines, a demon said to attack pregnant women at the moment of delivery, swallowing the new-born child

Asuha-No-Kami Japanese

a Shinto god of courtyards

asuman (see suman)

Asuniti Hindu

a goddess of longevity

Asur (see Ashur)

Asura Hindu

[Ahura:Tibetan Ha-ma-yin]
demon: titan

Originally supreme deities, Asuras were later demon spirits opposing the minor gods (the Suras) and living on Mount Sumeru in four towns known as Deep, Golden, Shining and Star Tassel. In some accounts they live in a magnificent house, Patala.

In some accounts they were born from the groin of Brahma while others say that they were the sons of Kasyapa.

Alternatively, the Asuras were early Indian tribes who were overcome by the invading Aryans, regarded in some accounts as giants who fought the gods. Some versions say that the Asuras include the Daityas, Danavas, Das, Raskshasas and Svarbhānu.

Asurakumara Jain

a weather-god
one of the 10 Bhavanavasi

Asuraloka Hindu

the realm of the demi-gods

Asuri Hindu

a disciple of Kapila

Asushunamir (see Ashushu-Namir)

Asuyu Hindu

a demon
He was opposed by Varahi, one of the Matrikas.

Asvagosa (see Asvasgosha)

Asvasgosha Buddhist

[Asvagosa:=Chinese Ma Ming]
a 1st c poet and teacher
one of the Eighteen Lohan, in some accounts

It was said that some horses sent to disrupt one of his teaching sessions, stayed to listen to his words and wept at the sound of his voice.

He wrote Buddhacarita, a life of the Buddha.

He is depicted seated on a rock and accompanied by a dragon.

asvamedha Hindu

[aswanmedha]
a horse sacrifice

A horse selected for sacrifice was allowed to roam at will for a year and was then sacrificed to Prajapati. The strength and speed of the dead animal were said to pass to the king.

Asvamukha Buddhist

the Buddhist version of Ma Mien

Asvara (see Vata<sup>3</sup>)

Asvasena Jain

son of Mahipala
father of Parsva(natha)

asvath Hindu

[asvotha]
a fig tree, the tree of Brhaspati
the tree of life

Asvayujau Hindu

[Asvini.Asvinyau]
a goddess of fortune
daughter of Daksha
wife of Candra

Asvid Norse

a man who made runes for the giants

Asvinau (see Aswins)

Asvini (see Asvayujau)

Asvins (see Aswins)

Asvinyau (see Asvayujau)

Asvitus Norse
a friend of Asmund

The two friends vowed to die together and when Asvitus died, Asmund was buried alive with him. When the grave was opened, Asmund emerged bleeding – he had been attacked by the spirit of the dead Asvitus.

asvotha (see asvath)

aswamedha (see aswamedha)

Aswatama East Indian
son of Durna and Wilotama

Aswiculapa Hindu
a deity who restores health and life
He is regarded as the leader of all horses.

Aswins Hindu

[Acvins.Ahans.Ashwins.As(h)vins.Asvinau.
Divine Physicians.=Greek Dioscuri]

the twins Dasra and Nasatya messengers of the dawn

twain sons of Dyaus and Prithivi, Shiva and Sanjna or Vivasvat and Saranyu

They were born when their parents mated in the form of horses and were noted horsemen, riding in front of the dawn chariot of Aruna or Ushas.

In some accounts they are equated with the Ribhus.

(see also Harits.Naonghaithya)

Asynge (see Asynjur)

Asynja (see Asynjur)

Asynjor (see Asynjur)

Asynjur Norse

[Asynjor:sing=Asynge.Asynja]

the 24 early goddesses of Asgard

The list might have included all or any of the following: Bida, Bil, Eir, Erda, Fimila, Fiorgyn, Freya, Frigga, Frimmla, Fulla, Gefjon, Gerda, Gna, Hnoss, Nanna, Saga, Sif, Sigyn and Skadi.

In some versions they are attendants of Freya and Frigga.

Asyriel

a demon

Asz Baltic

a Lithuanian sky-god

Ata<sup>1</sup> Japanese

a legendary warrior-maid

She was said to command the left wing of her husband's army in a rebellion.

Ata<sup>2</sup> (see Ate<sup>2</sup>)

Ataa Naa Nyongmo African

[Nyongmo]

a creator-god of the Gan

Atabei (see Attabeira)

Atabey (see Attabeira)

Atabyrius<sup>1</sup> Greek

a shape-changing god

son of Euronyme

son of Athamas, some say

The Greek version of the god worshipped in the form of a golden calf by the Israelites.

Atacrou West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Ataecina Spanish

[=Roman Proserpina]

an underworld-goddess

Ataensic North American

[Ataentsic.Athensic.Sky Woman: =Seneca Eagentci]

the first woman in the lore of the Iroquois

sky-goddess and earth-goddess

mother of the twins Hahgwehdaetgah

and Hahgwehdiyu, the Doyadano

mother of a daughter, Breath of Wind

She is said to have fallen from heaven and her body was used by her sons to build the world.

In some accounts the twins were the children of Breath of Wind and it was her body that they used to build the world.

A different story says that when she was ill, her father dug up a tree. A young man, angry at the loss of the tree, pushed her into the hole from which it had been dug and she fell through to earth. Her fall was broken by the birds, which formed a type of firefighter's blanket to save her. Some birds dived into the primaeval waters and brought up mud, which, plastered on the back of a turtle, formed dry land on which Ataensic could live. She produced a daughter who, in time, bore twins known as Djuskaha and Othagwenda.

Ataentsic (see Ataensic)

Atago-gongen Japanese

[Atago-sam]

a Buddhist god of fire

In some accounts he is equated with Kazu-tsuchi or with Susanowa.

Atago-sama (see Atago-gongen)

Ataguchu South American

[Ataguju]

an Inca creator-god

He told Apocatequil and Piguerao how to escape from the Cave of Refuge.

Ataguju (see Ataguchu)

Atahocan North American

a creator-god of the Montagnais tribes

Atai African

['fate']

a goddess of the Efik

wife of Abassi

Ataintjina Australian

a rain-maker god of the Aborigines

He is said to make rain by throwing a young man into the sea, where he is swallowed by a huge snake. Two days later the man is disgorged and, carrying some of the snake's scales, ascends into the sky where he hangs head down, his hair forming rain. The scales are thrown to earth as thunder and lightning; Ataintjina joins the man in the sky, as the rainbow. The rain stops and, after a period of drought, Ataintjina starts the whole cycle again.

Atak Canaanite

a god

son of El

He was killed by Anat.

Atala<sup>1</sup> East Indian

a supreme deity in Borneo

Atala<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of the 7 realms of Patala

Atalanga African

a creator being of the Efer

He eloped with the daughter of Sa and they had seven boys and seven girls, some black, some white, who spoke different languages.

Atalanta<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Atalante]

daughter of Iasius by Clymene

wife of Melanion

mother of Parthenopaeus by Ares or

Meleager, some say

Abandoned by her parents when she was born, Atalanta was raised by a she-bear and grew up as a very fleet-footed maiden.

She joined the hunt for the Calydonian boar and shot and killed the centaurs Hylaeus and Rhoecus when they tried to rape her. She wounded the boar so that Meleager was able to get close and kill it. Meleager insisted that she be given the pelt of the boar, a gesture which brought much trouble on his own head.

She would marry only the man who could beat her in a foot-race, killing all who tried and failed. Melanion eventually beat her by dropping golden apples, given to him by Aphrodite, in her path, which delayed her as she stopped to pick them up.

Some say that she sailed with the Argonauts, the only woman in the crew.

She and her husband were changed into lions or leopards by Zeus for defiling his precinct or, in some versions, by Aphrodite for failing to give thanks to the goddess.

Some say that after giving birth to Parthenopaeus, her son by Artes, she was taken up to Olympus.

In the Boeotian version, Hippomenes takes the place of Melanion.

Atalanta<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Atalante]

daughter of Schoeneus

wife of Hippomenes

This is the Boeotian (rather than the Arcadian) girl, of whom the same story of a contest involving golden apples is told.

Atalante (see Atalanta)

Ataliel

a moon demon

At'am Russian

a Mordvin thunder-god

Atamalqualiztli Central American

an Aztec festival in honour of the gods

During the ceremony, held once every eight years, all the people dressed as animals or birds and imitated their ways. At the end of the ceremony, all jumped into a lake filled with snakes and frogs, attempting to catch one of the reptiles in their mouths and eating them alive.

Atanua Pacific Islands

[=Tahitian Fa'ahotu]

a goddess of the dawn in the Marquesas

wife of Atea

She and her husband created many other deities.

Ataokoloinona African

son of Ndriananahary

In the lore of Madagascar, he was sent down from the sky by his father to see if the earth was suitable as a home for man. Unable to bear the heat, he burrowed into the ground and has not been seen since.

Atar<sup>1</sup> Persian

[Adar.Adhur.Atarsh.Atesh.]

a fire-god

son of Ahura Mazda

one of the Yazatas

His father sent him to stop the dragon Azhi Dahak from persecuting mankind. After a long struggle, Atar chained the dragon to a mountain where he will remain until the final renewal of the world.

In some accounts he is one of the Amesha Spentas.

(see also Thraetona.Verethragna)

Atar<sup>2</sup> (see Atargatis)

Atar<sup>3</sup> (see Athar<sup>2</sup>)

Atar<sup>4</sup> (see Atri)

Atarapa Pacific Islands

a Polynesian goddess of the dawn

the first being to be created daughter of Haronga

Atarate (see Atargatis)

Atargate (see Atargatis)

Atargatis Syrian

[Atar.Atar(g)ate.Atagatis Derketo.

Atergatis.Atharate.Attar.Dea Syria.

Dercetis.Derceto.Syrian Goddess]

a mother-goddess and goddess of vegetation, originally known as Derceto

consort of Aun orHadad

mother of Semiramis by Oannes

She was born in the form of an egg, floating in the Euphrates, which was pushed ashore by a fish.

In one story she fell into the sea and was changed into a fish; her daughter was changed into a dove.

As Atargatis Derketo she was a fish-goddess, half woman, half fish.

In some accounts she is equated with Anat.

Atarahasis (see Atrahasis)

Atarsamain Arabian

the deified morning star

(see also Alilat<sup>1</sup>)

Atarsh (see Atar<sup>1</sup>)

Atash Bahram Persian

a fire temple

This, the seventh creation of Ahura Mazda, is regarded as representing cosmic fire.

Atatarho North American

a warrior hero of the Iroquois

He was regarded as a magician and was clothed with live snakes.

Ate<sup>1</sup> British

a deformed hag in Spenser's The

Faerie Queene

Ate<sup>2</sup> Greek

goddess of mischief

daughter of Ares or Zeus

In some accounts she is Eris, in others the daughter of Ares and Eris.

(see also Eris)

Ate<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian

[At(h)eh.At(t)a.Great Mother]

a creation-goddess

mother of Athar

Atea Pacific Islands

[Atea Rangî.Avatea.Kane.'light'. 'sky'.

'space'.Vatea.=Hawaiian Wakea:

=Marquesas Atanua;=Society Islands

Tè Tumuj]

a name of Rangî

a Tahitian sky-god

a moon-god in the Hervey Islands

son of Vari-ma-te-Takere husband of Fa'ahotu

father of Tahu, Tuamoto and Ro'o

father of Tane, some say

Atea, 'sky', was made by Ta'aroa from one half of the cosmic egg. Fa'ahotu, 'earth', was made from the other half.

Because his wife produced no milk, his first children died so they exchanged sexes and Atea suckled his subsequent offspring. He was killed by a thunderbolt wielded by Tuamoto.

In some accounts he is amalgamated with Rangî as Atea-Rangî, in others he was the husband of Atanua and they had a child, Tu-Moa.

Some say that he was moulded from the formless void by Vahine Nautahu.

One story says that he and Tangaroa argued as to which of them was father of Papa's first-born son. She cut the child in half and gave half to each. Atea threw his half into the heavens where it became the sun. Later, Tangaroa did the same with his half, which became the moon.

He is depicted as having a body of which the left side is that of a fish, the right side human.

In the Hervey Islands they envisage the universe as a coconut within which Atea occupies the highest part, Thinland, above his brother, Tinirau.

Atea Rangî (see Atea)

Ateatsan (see Atse Estsan)

Ateatsine (see Atse Estsan)

Ateh (see Ate<sup>2</sup>)

Aten Egyptian

[Adon.Aton.Eton]

the sun-god

The sun-disc Aten was worshipped as the state religion under Ahkenaton in place, temporarily, of Amon-Ra.

Atenociticus Celtic

a local god in the north of England

Atepomarus Celtic

[=Greek Apollo]

a Gaulish deity envisaged as the owner of many horses

Atergatis (see Atargatis)

Atesh (see Atar<sup>1</sup>)

Atesha-ga Persian

a place of fire

A site near the Caspian Sea where flames rise out of the bitumen-impregnated soil, used as a place of pilgrimage by fire worshippers.

Atet Egyptian

[Ma(a)u.Mersekhnnet]

a mother-goddess

She was worshipped in the form of the cat-goddess, Maau. (see also Bast)

Atete African

a fertility-goddess of Ethiopia

Ath Liag Fionn Irish
a ford

Finn mac Cool threw into the ford a stone on the end of a magical gold chain. It was prophesied that the stone would be found on a day precisely seven years before the end of the world.

Ath Nuchair Irish
a ford

The site of the ambush where Conall Cearnach (or Cet) lodged a magical stone (a 'brain-ball') from his sling in Cormac's head.

Athairne (see Aithirne)

Athamas Greek

king of Boeotia

son of Aeolus and Enarete

brother of Salmeoneus and Sisyphus husband of Nephele or Themisto and Ino

He married Nephele, the woman Zeus had created in the likeness of Hera from cloud material to deceive Ixion. They had three children, Helle, Leucon and Phrixus. He was also the father of Learchus and Melicertes by Ino, whom he seduced and then married. Others say that Ino was his first wife. In other accounts Themisto was his first wife and mother of Helle, Leucon and Phrixus.

He was preparing to sacrifice his son Phrixus to lift the scourge of famine when Heracles (or Hermes) arrived on a flying ram and stayed his hand. Both Phrixus and Helle were carried off on the golden-fleeced ram Chrysomallon.

He and Ino reared the infant Dionysus and when Hera discovered the child's whereabouts she drove Athamas mad so that he killed his son, Learchus, with an arrow, mistaking him for a stag. His wife, Ino, and his other son, Melicertes, escaped his sword only by jumping into the sea.

He was banished from his kingdom. After much wandering, he founded a new city and started a new life with Themisto.

In one version Ino was also driven mad by Hera and wandered the countryside, but returned after Athamas had married Themisto, who was then sent away. She plotted to kill Themisto's children but her own children were killed instead. It was the death of her sons that sent Athamas mad and caused him to kill Learchus.

Athana (see Athena)

Athanaton
a leader of the demons of the East

Athar<sup>1</sup> Arabian

[=Ethiopian Astar]

in some accounts, a name for Astarte

as a male deity

In this version Astarte became the male deity Athar and the female Sams.

Athar<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[As(h)tar.Atht(h)ar.At(t)ar:=Egyptian

Abimiliki:=Semitic Attar]

a Canaanite god of irrigation son of El and Asherah

son of Ate, some say

He was appointed to Baal's throne when Baal was killed by Mot but deposed when Baal was restored to life by Anat. Athar later ruled in the underworld.

Atharate (see Atargatis)

Atharna Irish

a king

When his son was murdered, he pronounced a curse on the killers; as a result, all the crops and cattle in Leinster died.

Atharva Veda (see Atharvaveda)

Atharvan<sup>1</sup> Hindu

one of the 7 Rishis

father of Dadhicha

He is said to be the author of one of the Vedas.

Atharvan<sup>2</sup> Persian

a fire priest

Atharvaveda Hindu

[Athar(va) Veda]

one of the 4 Vedas, a collection of some 6,000 spells and rites of exorcism

Athē (see Ate<sup>2</sup>)

Athēna Greek

[Agoraia.Agraulos.Aithuia.Akria.Alea.

Apaturia.Areia.Athana.Athenaia.Athēnaie

Athēna.Atthis.Bulia.Chalciocēcus.

Chalinitis.Chalkioikes.Curotrophus

Damasippus.Ergane.Glaupokis Gorgopa.

Gorgopis.Hephaestia.Hephaistia.Hippia.

Homa.Hygeia.Koryphasia.Mechanitis.

Nike(phoros Athēna).Ophthalmitis.

Optiletis Oxyderces.Pallas (Athēna).

Parthenos.Phratria.Polias.Pronoia.

Tritogeneia:=Egyptian Isis.Neith.Sais.

Thoueris:=Etruscan Menrfa.Menrva:

=Hindu Ushas:=Persian Anahita:=Roman

Appiades.Minerva]

virgin-goddess of agriculture, cities, handicrafts, war and wisdom

one of the Olympians daughter of Zeus, Pallas, Hephaestus

or Poseidon

mother of Apollo and Lychnus by

Hephaestus, some say

Zeus had seduced Metis and swallowed her and her unborn child. When he later developed a headache, Hephaestus, or in some versions Prometheus, split his skull open with an axe and out sprang Athena, fully developed and armed.

Another version says that she was the daughter of Poseidon, born in Lake Tritonis in Lybia, or of the giant Pallas, whom she killed when he tried to rape her.

She became patron of Athens by winning a competition against Poseidon. Whereas he produced only salt water (or the horse), she invented the more useful olive tree.

During the battle of the Giants with the gods she fought alongside the male deities and killed the giants Enceladus and Pallas.

It was Athena who gave Perseus the bright shield that he used when killing the Medusa.

When Paris awarded the golden apple to Aphrodite at the wedding of Peleus and Thetis, she and Hera, the other losing contestant, became her enemies and supported the Greeks against the Trojans during the Trojan War.

She is said to have invented the flute, the bridle and several tools. Her own flute, which later was acquired by Marsyas, was said to play itself.

When Teiresias saw her bathing, she struck him blind but gave him inner sight in compensation.

She is depicted wearing a helmet and carrying a shield and spear. Her birds were the cock and the owl (or crane), her tree the olive and her animal the serpent.

Athēna Acria Greek

['topmost'] (see Athena Coryphasia)

Athēna Boarmia Greek

['ox-yoker']

a name for Athena in Boeotia

Athēna Chalciocēcus Greek

[Goddess of the Brazen House]

a name for Athena in Sparta

Athēna Coryphasia Greek

[Athēna Acria. 'head']

a name for Athena referring to her birth from the head of Zeus

Athēna Chalinitis Greek

['bridler']

a name for Athena as a goddess of war-horses (see also Athena

Damasippus.Athēna Hippia)

Athena Damasippus Greek [horse-tamer]

a name for Athena as a goddess of war-horses (see also Athena Chalinitis.Athena Hippia)

Athena Hippia Greek
a name for Athena as a goddess of war-horses (see also Athena Chalinitis.Athena Damasippus)

Athena Hygeia Greek
a name for Athena as a goddess of health (see also Hygeia)

Athena Mechanitis Greek
a name for Athena as the inventor of mechanical devices

Athena Parthenos Greek
a name for Athena as a virgin-goddess

Athena Polias Greek
a name for Athena as a goddess of the state

Athena Promachus Greek
a name for Athena as the goddess who leads in battle

Athena Pronaia Greek [Athena Pronoia]
a name for Athena at Delphi

Athena Pronoia (see Athena Pronaia)

Athena Tritogenis Greek
a name for Athena as the nymph of Lake Trotonis

Athenaeum Greek
a temple of Athena

Athenaia<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Athenaie]
a name for Athena as patron of the city of Athens (see also Polias)

Athenaia<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Athenaie]
festivals in honour of Athena

Athenaie (see Athenaia)

Athene (see Athena)

Athensic (see Ataensic)

Atherat (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Athi Hindu

a name for Brahma in Myanmar

Athira (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Athirat (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Athityarat Thai [Aditya-Raja]
a king

He built a shrine to Buddha on the spot where, according to a white raven, a sacred object was buried. When the building was finished, a bowl of fruit rose out of the earth.

Athlis Norse
a king of Sweden

He owned the torc Sviagris and the boar-helmet Hildiswn.

Athor Egyptian
an early goddess

In some accounts she and Kneph were engendered by the supreme god Amon and were the parents of Isis and Osiris.

In some accounts she is the same as Hathor.

Athra (see Aethra)

Athrwys British
a king of Glenvisig son of Meurig

In some accounts he is equated with King Arthur.

Athtar (see Athar)

Athtarat (see Anat.Astarte)

Athtart (see Anat.Astarte)

Aththar (see Athar<sup>2</sup>)

Athyr (see Hathor)

Athwya Persian

a primaeva hero

He is said to be the second man to make haoma.

Ati New Zealand

a Maori chief

It is said that he married the spirit he caught in his fishing net.

Ati Dagné West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Aticandika Hindu

one of 9 forms of Durga

Atira<sup>1</sup> North American

[H'uraru. 'mother']

a Pawnee earth-goddess: the earth

wife of Atius Tirawa

mother of Hativa

Atirat Mesopotamian

[=Canaanite Asertu]

a Syrian goddess of lasciviousness (see also Asherah)

Atisa Buddhist

[Jobo-Atisa]

an 11th c disciple who brought

Buddhism to Tibet, later deified

atiti (see asisi)

Atius (see Shakuru)

Atius-Tirawa North American

[Great Spirit.Heavenly Arch.

Tirawa(-Atius)]

the creator-god of the Pawnee husband of Atira

father of Hativa

He is said to have made the sun and the moon and sent storm spirits to Bright Star. These spirits raised a storm and when it ceased the earth was covered with water, wiping out the race of giants. The four guardian-gods struck the water and the earth rose out of the depths. Tirawa then caused Bright Star to mate with Great Star to produce offspring who later produced the first human, Closed Man, whose welfare was watched over by Tirawa. Tirawa placed a buffalo to hold up the earth. This animal loses one of its hairs every year and it is said that the world will come to an end when the last hair falls.

ativahika Hindu

the body that migrates after death:
the universal body of the single reality

Atl<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Atonatiuh.Chalchiutonatiuh]

a creator-god of the Aztecs

He represents the fourth of the five ages of the world, each of which lasts for 105,456 years. At the end of this period came the flood and all humans were turned into fish.

In another version, the first age of the Aztec creation cycle was called Atonatiuh.

Atl<sup>2</sup> Central American

the ninth of the 20 days of the Aztec month

Symbolising East and water, the day was governed by Xiuhtecutli.

atl<sup>3</sup> Central American

water, in Aztec lore

Atla Norse

a giantess

She was one of the nine wave-maidens said to have simultaneously given birth to Heimdall, fathered by Odin.

Atlacamani Central American

an Aztec deity causing storms at sea

a version of Chalchihuitlicue

Atlahua Central American

an Aztec god of fishermen and lakes

Atlanteans Greek

a race of people said to know the secrets of nature

Atlantes European

a magician

foster-father of Rogero

He was convinced that Rogero would be killed if he entered the outside world, so he did all he could to keep him in seclusion. When Rogero joined the invasion of France under Agramant, Atlantes intervened several times to keep him safe. On one occasion, he built a castle in the Pyrenees, carrying off Rogero with many other knights and damsels for company, keeping them in luxury in the castle. At other times he entrapped Rogero and his friends in other enchanted palaces.

Atlantides<sup>1</sup> Greek
the descendants of Atlas including Hermes and the Pleiades

Atlantides<sup>2</sup> (see Hesperides)

Atlantida European

[Atlantide]
the Basque story of the creation

Atlantide (see Atlantida)

Atlantide, L' French
the French name for Atlantis

Atlantis European

[=French L'Atlantide]
a supposed lost continent

Refugees from this continent, which was said to have disappeared beneath the sea, are reputed to have settled in Spain. Some say it was situated to the west of the entrance to the Mediterranean. Other suggested sites are in South America and the Pacific Ocean. Some say that this island was originally the realm of the Titan, Atlas, others that it was the original home of Igraine, mother of Arthur, and Merlin. (see also Mu<sup>3</sup>)

Atlas Greek

['bearer'. Hyas.=Hurrian Upelluri]
a Titan

son of Iapetus and Clymene or Asia

son of Uranus and Gaea, some say brother of Epimetheus, Menoetius and Prometheus

husband of Pleione

father of Calypso, Dione, the Hesperides, the Hyades, Hyas and the Pleiades

by Aethra

He was the leader of the Titans in their war with the gods and when they lost he was condemned by Zeus forever to carry the sky (or, in some accounts, the world) on his shoulders.

He helped Heracles in his fourth Labour, to get the golden apples from Hera's garden.

He was turned to stone when Perseus displayed the severed head of Medusa when Atlas refused him hospitality on his flight back from his attack on the Gorgons.

Some accounts have Atlas as the ruler of Atlantis, which was inundated by the sea when the gods became alarmed at the degenerate behaviour of the island's inhabitants.

Atlatoran Central American

an Aztec goddess wife of Tezcatlipoca

Atlaua Central American

an Aztec water-god

Atlé<sup>1</sup> Norse

a Berserker

When Frithiof landed in the Orkneys, Atlé fought him with swords and in wrestling. Frithiof defeated him but spared his life.

Atle<sup>2</sup> (see Atli<sup>1</sup>)

Atli<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Atle.Attila.Etzel]

king of the Huns

son of Budli

brother of Brunhild husband of Gudrun

father of Eitel and Erp

Some say that Atli is Attila, the 5th C leader of the Huns. In the Nibelungenlied he is called Etzel.

When Brunhild died in the flames of Sigurd's funeral pyre, Atli demanded compensation from her husband Gunnar, who offered him his widowed sister, Gudrun, as a wife. She detested Atli but she was given a potion that made her agree to marry him; they had two sons, Eitel and Erp.

Atli coveted the treasures of the Niblungs and planned to kill them in order to lay his hands on it, so he sent his servant, Knefrud, to invite them to his court. Despite a warning from Gudrun and others, Gunnar accepted but took the precaution of burying the gold in the bed of the Rhine where it was guarded by the three Rhine-maidens. Atli ambushed the party at his palace and killed all of them except Gunnar and Hogni who, having killed Knefrud amongst others, were captured and tortured. Atli had Hogni's heart cut out and shown to Gunnar but he still refused to reveal the hiding place of the gold even when he was thrown into a snake pit where he was bitten to death.

At the banquet after the battle, Gudrun killed her young sons and served their hearts and blood to Atli and his guests. She then killed her husband, either with Sigurd's sword or, in another story, by burning down the palace and all in it, including herself.

(see also Etzel)

Atli<sup>2</sup> Norse

a name of Thor as 'grandfather'

Atma (see Atman)

Atman Buddhist

[Atma:=Pali Atta]

ultimate reality: the divine element in man's make-up: the soul

Atmu (see Atum)

Atnatu Australian

a self-created god of the Aborigines

He expelled his sons from his home in the sky when they became disobedient and sent them to earth with two bullroarers, which became men. He then created the alchera.

Atokwatje Australian

demi-gods living in the clouds and controlling rain

Atoja South American

a mountain home of the rain spirits (see Father Atoja)

Aton (see Aten)

Atonatiuh (see Atl<sup>1</sup>)

Atonga Pacific Islands

a Samoan hero

This half-human spirit is regarded as the inventor of the canoe, having built one during the course of one night for the chieftain Alutanga Nuku.

Atotaho (see Atotarho)

Atotarho North American

[Atotaho]

a medicine man of the Iroquois

He had snakes for hair and it is said that he could kill merely by his angry glance. He killed the wife and daughter of Hiawatha but later joined him in uniting the five tribes of the Confederacy.

Hiawatha placed the sacred deer antlers on Atotarho's head and the snakes fell off, dead.

Atra-chasis (see Atrahasis)

Atraharsis (see Atrahasis)

Atrahasis Mesopotamian

[Amahasis.Atrahasis.Atra-hasis.

Atrah(ars)is.Atramhasis.Hasis-Atra.

Superwise:=Sumerian Ziusudra:=Syrian

Ut(a)napishtim.Utnapishtil]

a king of Shurupak

the Babylonian Noah

son of Ubar-Tutu, some say

Warned by Enki, he survived the flood sent by Enlil in his ship Preserver of Life, saving also his wife, animals, plants and seeds. He was granted immortality by Ea or Enlil.

Some accounts refer to two people of this name – one, the survivor of the Sumerian flood, the other said to be the father of Utnapishtim, the survivor of the Babylonian version.

(see also Ziusudra)

Atrahis (see Atrahasis)

Atraiomem West Indian

a monster in the form of a fish

When Kalinago was killed by his sons, his spirit entered this monster which chased the killers who became the ancestors of the people in the various islands to which they fled.

Atramhasis (see Atrahasis)

Atreidae (see Atridae)

Atreus Greek

king of Mycenae
son of Pelops and Hippodamia
brother of Thyestes husband of Aerope, Cleolla and Pelopia father of Agamemnon, Menelaus and Pleisthenes

In some accounts his first wife was Cleolla by whom he was the father of Pleisthenes. In that version Aerope was first married to Pleisthenes and later married Atreus. Others say that Cleolla was the wife of Pleisthenes.

Atreus was involved in a dispute with Thyestes over the throne of Mycenae. He had stuffed the fleece of a golden-horned lamb made by Goat-Pan or Hermes, which became acknowledged as a symbol of the right to the throne. He was tricked by Thyestes into killing his own son, Pleisthenes. His second wife Aerope was infatuated with Thyestes and gave him the lamb. He assumed the throne but soon abdicated when Zeus reversed the motions of the sun as a warning. Atreus took over again as King and banished Thyestes. When he discovered his wife's treachery he invited his brother back to Mycenae and killed and boiled the pieces of Thyestes' sons, Aglaus, Callileon and Orchomenus (and, in some stories, the twins Pleisthenes and Tantalus), serving them to his brother as a meal.

After executing Aerope he married Pelopia, not realising that she was a daughter of Thyestes who had raped her and left her with child. The infant, Aegisthus, was abandoned but rescued by shepherds, suckled by a goat then recovered by Atreus who thought he was his own son. When Aegisthus was seven years old Atreus ordered him to kill Thyestes, whom he had imprisoned, but Thyestes disarmed the boy and, recognising the sword he held, knew that the boy was his own son. Thyestes then reversed the order and this time there was no mistake; the boy killed Atreus and Thyestes was left in control of Mycenae.

Atri Hindu

[Atar. 'the eater']
one of the Seven Rishis husband of Anasuya father of Durvasas
father of Soma, some say

His function was to ensure that the sun did not fall from the sky

Atridae Greek

[Atreidae]
the brothers Agamemnon and Menelaus sons of Atreus

Atridr Norse

a name of Odin as 'rider in the sky'

Atrivswamitra Hindu

[=Etruscan Culsu=Roman Morta]
the 7 rishis

Atropos Greek

one of the 3 Fates, the one who cuts
the thread of life

Atse Etsan North American

[Atsetsan]
the first woman in the lore of
the Navaho
consort of Atse Hastin

The first man and his wife were created by the gods from two corn seeds. When the couple taught the rudimentary beings existing at that time how to form communities, the water-monster Tieholtodi caused a flood and drowned these people. The two humans escaped through a hole in the sky made by a hawk and came into the fifth world. Here they created the present world; when it was completed, they both vanished. The five pairs of twins that they produced mated with the Kisani to populate the earth. (see also Naestan)

Atse Hastin North American

[Atseatsine Atsehastin]
the first man in the lore of
the Navaho
consort of Atse Etsan

The first man and his wife were created by the gods from two corn seeds. When the couple taught the rudimentary beings existing at that time how to form communities, the water-monster Tieholtodi caused a flood and drowned these people. The two humans escaped through a hole in the sky made by a hawk and came into the fifth world. Here they created the present world; when it was completed, they both vanished. The five pairs of twins that they produced mated with the Kisani to populate the earth.

Atseastine (see Atse Hastin)

Atseatsan (see Atse Etsan)

Atseatsine (see Atse Etsan)

Atseestan (see Atse Etsan)

Atsehastin (see Atse Hastin)

Atta<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

the Pali version of the Sanskrit Atman

Atta<sup>2</sup> (see Ate<sup>2</sup>)

Attabeira West Indian

[Atabei.Atabay.Guacarapita.Guimazea.
Iella.Mamona.Mother of Waters]
the supreme goddess and water goddess of the Taino tribe mother of Guamaonocon

Attaconi

a race of people said to live beyond the Himalayas

Attahen (see Attajen)

Attajen North American

[Attahen]

a semi-divine being: the first man

In the lore of some of the Californian tribes, he was the first man created by Chinigchinich, while others say that it was he who appeared after the death of Ouiot and gave his children the powers of medicine men.

(see also Chinigchinich)

Attar<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Dhu-Samani=Canaanite Athar]

a Semitic god of the morning star and rain-god (see also Atter)

Attar<sup>2</sup> (see Atargatis)

Attart (see Anat)

Atter Mesopotamian

a Semitic war-god (see also Attar<sup>1</sup>)

Atthis Greek

an aspect of Athena daughter of Craneus and Pedias sister of Cranea
mother of Erichthonius by Hephaestus,
some say

Her father, the king of Athens, called his kingdom Attica in her honour.

Attic Boy (see Cephalus)

Attic Hercules Greek

a name for Theseus

Attila Norse

[Azzilo.Ezzila]

leader of the Huns

husband of Ildico

He found the magic sword of Cheru and used it to conquer much of the known world. He finally married Ildico, whose father he had killed, and she used the sword to kill Attila, so avenging her father.

In Thidrekssaga, his wife is known as Erka; in the story of Walther she is Ospirin. (see also Atli<sup>1</sup>.Ettel)

Attis Phrygian

[Atys.Bagairos.(Zeus) Pap(p)as:=Greek

Adonis:=Sumerian Tammuz]

a Phrygian god of shepherds and vegetation

son of Agdistis or Calaus, in

some accounts

In some stories he is the son of Cybele, in others her lover. Some say he is the son of Nana.

In another version he is the son (or the male half) of Agdistis, whose blood, when he was castrated, produced a tree from which a young girl, Nana, picked the fruit. When she dropped the fruit into her lap she became pregnant, producing Attis. The infant was abandoned and reared by a goat. When he grew up, Cybele (or, in some accounts, Agdistis) fell in love with him. When he deserted her for a nymph, Sagaritis, the goddess drove him mad so that he castrated himself and died, but was restored to life and reunited with Cybele. In some accounts she turned Attis into a pine tree.

Some say that Attis fathered a child on Cybele and her father killed both Attis and the baby. Cybele restored Attis to life. Another version has Agdistis breaking in on the wedding celebrations of Attis and Sagaritis with the result that Attis castrated himself and his bride died from self-inflicted wounds.

Some say that the castration was not self-inflicted but resulted from an attack by a wild boar.

He was associated with the planet Jupiter.

Atu Pacific Islands
in the lore of Samoa, Atu was the first man

Other stories say that the first man was Tele or Tutu.

Atua Pacific Islands
[Atua-noto-whare.Huku-mai-tore.
Hururu.Nuku-mai-tore.Otua:=Hawaiian Akua]
a Polynesian spirit in control of natural forces

These beings are said to be able to fly and, like birds, live in trees.

Atua Fafine Pacific Islands
a creator being

With Atua I Raropuka he dragged the island of Tikopia from the bottom of the ocean. Together they produced five gods.

Atua I Kafika Pacific Islands
supreme god of Tikopia

Atua I Raropuka Pacific Islands
a creator being

With Atua Fafine he dragged the island of Tikopia from the bottom of the ocean.

Atua-noto-whare (see Atua)

Atum Egyptian
[At(u)mu.Bull of the Ennead.Iusau.
Neb-er-djei.Shed.Tem(u).T(h)am.
T(h)om.T(h)um.Tm(u)]
king of gods, an early sun-god consort of Nebhet-Hotep
father of Shu and Tefnut

He was either a son of Nun or a self-created god who brought light to the primaevial universe and, as Iusau, a bisexual being, created his son Shu and his daughter Tefnut. Others say that he appeared out of the primordial chaos as a serpent, created by the four frogs and four snakes that existed in the primordial waters.

He was later assimilated with Ra as Ra-Atum and is depicted as a black bull, Mnevis, or as a snake.

(see also Khepra.Ra.Ra-Atum)

Atum-Ra (see Ra-Atum)

Atumu (see Atum)

Atunis Roman
the Etruscan version of Adonis

Atutuahī (see Autahi)

Atys<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Croesus

He was accidentally killed by Adrastus during a hunt. Adrastus killed himself in grief.

Atys<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Lydia
father of Tyrrhenus

Atys<sup>3</sup> (see Attis)

Au-Aa Semitic
a deity

Au Co Vietnamese
wife of a Chinese warlord

Her husband conquered Vietnam but Lac Long Quan came out of the sea and captured her, forcing the invaders to leave.

Auahi-Turoa<sup>1</sup> Australian
a culture hero of the Aborigines

He is said to have given fire to mankind. (see also Auahi-Turoa<sup>2</sup>)

Auahi-Turoa<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
a Polynesian fire-god

son of Tama Nui-Te-Ra

husband of Mahuika

father of Koiti, Konui, Koroa, Manawa and Mapere

His father sent him to earth to bring fire to mankind. He married Mahuika, who bore him five sons.

(see also Auahi-Turoa<sup>1</sup>)

Aube British
a forest

On the edge of this forest, Percival and Galahad temporarily parted company in their quest for the Holy Grail.

Auberijn European

[Auborijn of Mondiser.Aubry]
a man escorting one of Charlemagne's wives into exile

When Charlemagne discovered his wife Sibilla in bed with a dwarf, he banished her from France and appointed Auberijn to escort her to the frontier. They were attacked by Macharijs, who lusted after Sibilla. Auberijn was killed but Sibilla escaped the attacker's clutches and was sheltered by a farmer, Baroquel. Auberijn's dog, sometimes known as Dragon, conveyed to Charlemagne the news of his master's death and the identity of the killer and later attacked and defeated Mahcarijs. This tale is retold as the tale of Aubry's dog.

Auberon (see Oberon)

Aubert European

a duke of Normandy
father of Robert

Auborijn of Mondiser (see Auberijn)

Aubry (see Auberijn)

Aubry's dog French

[Dog of Montargis.Dragon]

a dog named Dragon who exposed his master's murderer

Richard of Macaire killed Aubry of Montdidier in 1371 and the dog snarled at him and attacked him whenever it saw him. It finally killed Richard who, dying, confessed to the murder. (see also Auberijn)

Auchimalgen South American

a sun-goddess in Chile

Auchthon Phoenician

[Epigeus;=Greek Uranus]

a sky-god

an early name for Ouranos

Aud Norse

[Audr]

son of Naglfari and Nott

Auda Norse

a feminine form of Aud

Aude European

daughter of Regnier

sister of Oliver

She was betrothed to Roland who had to leave to fight in Spain before they could get married. When he was killed at Roncesvalles, she died of grief.

A similar story is told of Hildegarde. (see Aldabella.Hildegunde<sup>4</sup>)

Audhumbla Norse

[Aud(h)umla.Authumla.'nourisher']

the primaevial cow

This cow, whose milk nourished the giant Ymir, was formed from vapour condensing into frost. As she licked the salt in the ice, Buri emerged, fully formed. He was the progenitor of Bor, the father of Odin.

Audhumla (see Audhumbla)

Audoïn German

a king of Lombardy

father of Alboïn

Audr (see Aud)

Audrien (see Aldroen)

Audumla (see Audhumbra)

Aue, Hartmann von German
(c.1170–1215)

a writer whose works include Erec
and Iwain

Auexotl South American

one of the leaders of the Aztecs when they left their homeland Aztlan

Auf Egyptian

[Af.A(u)f-Ra]

the sun-god Ra

Every day Ra journeyed across the sky in a boat, opposed by Apep. At the end of the day he became Auf, a mummy, and returned via the underworld to his starting point, ready for the next trip.

auf
the child of an elf

Auf-Ra (see Auf)

Aufaniae Celtic

a group of Continental mother-goddesses

Auge Greek

[Augia]

a priestess of Athena daughter of Aleus and Neaera wife of Teuthras

mother of Telephus by

Heracles

She was seduced by Heracles and bore him a son, Telephus. As a result, her father handed her to Nauplius for sale overseas. He sold her to Teuthras or set her adrift in a chest which beached at Mysia where she became the property of Teuthras whom she later married. Telephus was abandoned as a baby but later found his mother and they were reunited.

Augeas Greek

[Aug(e)ias]

king of Elis

son of Helios or Phorbas

and Naupiadame

father of Agamede, Agasthenes

and Phyleus

In some versions he was the son of Poseidon. He owned huge herds of sheep and cattle, which, being immune to disease, multiplied exceedingly. It was his stables that Heracles cleansed as his fifth Labour. He had agreed to pay Heracles one-tenth of the value of his herds but reneged on his promise. He was killed by Heracles who had returned to exact his revenge.

Augeia Norse

[Augeyja]

a giantess

She was one of the nine wave-maidens
said to have given birth simultaneously
to Heimdall, fathered by Odin.

Augeias (see Augeas)

Augelmir (see Ymir)

augerine North American

a fabulous animal

This animal is said to live in irrigation ditches and bores holes in the sides to let the water out.

Augeyja (see Augeia)

Augia (see Auge)

Augias (see Augeas)

Augne-Baugauven Persian

a god of fire

augur Roman

[auspex]

one who made prophecies from the flight of birds

augury

[auspice.auspicy]

divination from the flight of birds

(see also ornithomancy)

Augusel British

[Arawn.Auguselus]

a king of Scotland

brother of Urien, some say

When King Arthur defeated the Saxons he restored to Augusel the lands the invaders had taken from him.
Augusel fought with Arthur on his expeditions against the Romans on the Continent, but was later killed by Mordred.

In some accounts he is regarded as the mortal form of the underworld god Arawn.

Auguselus (see Augusel)

August Female (see Izanami)

August Male (see Izanagi)

August of Jade (see Yü Huang)

August Personage of Jade

(see Yü Huang)

Augusta<sup>1</sup> Roman

a name for the goddess Epona, used by the Romans

Augusta<sup>2</sup> (see Justitia)

Augustin European

an adviser to Charlemagne

This was the name taken by one member of the Pleiad.

Auharmazd (see Ahura Mazda)

auki South American

a mountain spirit in Peru

These spirits can be invoked by a brujo or a sorcerer to heal the sick.
They are said to live in secret houses in the heart of the mountains. Their servants are the condor and the vicuna;
the cat Ccoa is their more fearsome servant.

Aula Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian maiden

wife of Eleio

When she died, her spirit was followed by the magician Eleio, to a tower where she disappeared. Eleio used his powers to evoke the spirit again and to reinstall it in the body of the dead girl he found inside the tower. Restored to life, Aula married Eleio.

Aulanerk Inuit

a sea-god

His function was to warm the sea, so melting the ice, to give safe passage to sailors.

Auld Hornie Scottish

the Scots version of Old Hornie,

the Devil

Aulis Vibenna (see Aulus Vibenna)

Aulne German

a devil

Aulom (see Ailill Olom)

Aulus Vibenna Roman

[Aulis Vivenna.Olus Vibenna]

an Etruscan leader

brother of Caeles Vibenna

He and his brother captured the seer Cacus and made him disclose his secrets.

aum (see Om<sup>1</sup>)

Aun<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[Eun.On.Un.=Greek Heliopolis]

a sacred city, seat of sun worship

Aun<sup>2</sup> Phoenician

[An.On]

a fish-god

husband of Derceto(Atargatis)

Auna Inuit

the spirit of the north wind

Aunf (see Unneffer)

aunga Pacific Islands

part of the soul

The islanders say that the soul is in two parts, the aunga (good), which dies, and the adaro (bad), which remains in the form of a ghost.

Aunt Nancy

name for Anansi in parts of North America, South America and the West Indies

Aunyaina South American

a demon of the Tupari people

This being was said to be like a human but with tusks like a boar. It ate children and was killed when it fell from a tree where it had driven them.
Another version of his death says that the people climbed a creeper into the sky to escape from his tyranny. When he tried to follow, the parrot (that Aunyaina had tried to kill for laughing at him) chewed through the creeper and the monster crashed to the ground and was killed. Some say that lizards and alligators grew from parts of the demon's dead body.

aura<sup>1</sup>

an emanation of the human body

Those claiming supernatural power say that this material can be seen in the right circumstances. Some say that it assumes various colours, each of which is related to a specific quality or feeling.

Aura<sup>2</sup>

Greek

a nymph of the air

Aura<sup>3</sup>

Phoenician

daughter of Omichle and Pothos
the primaevial physical force of the universe

sister of Aer

She mated with Aer to produce Otos.

(see also Aer<sup>1</sup>)

Auraka

Pacific Islands

a Polynesian god of death

Auramazda

(see Ahura Mazda)

Aurboda

(see Angrbode)

aurea virga

Roman

a rod, the caduceus given by Mercury to Apollo

Aurelius Ambrosius

British

[Ambrosius Aurelianus:=Welsh Emrys]

a king of Britain

son of Constantine

brother of Constans and Uther

When his brother, King Constans, was killed by Vortigern's soldiers, he and his brother, Uther, fled to the court of King Boudicius of Brittany to escape from Vortigern, but returned later to kill him by burning him in his castle. In another story they reappeared as the dragons buried on Mount Erith by Lud and released when Vortigern uncovered the cavern where they were buried. They flew to France, returning in mortal form at the head of an army to recapture the kingdom. They burned down the tower that Vortigern had built on Mount Erith and he was killed. Renwein, Vortigern's wife, avenged his death when she provided her servant Ambion with a phial of poison, which he administered, saying it was a cure for the illness from which Aurelius was suffering at the time. Other stories relate that Vortigern's son, Paschent, who had fled to Hibernia, returned with an army provided by the chieftain Gilloman who was angry because Merlin had stolen the stones of the Giants' Ring. While Uther was fighting Paschent, a Saxon soldier, Eopa, tricked his way into the presence of Aurelius, who was ill in bed, and poisoned him.

In some accounts Aurelius was the son of Constans and was also called Uther. His brothers in that version were Moines and Pendragon. Others equate him with King Arthur.

Aurentil

(see Orvandil)

Aurgiafa

Norse

[Eyrgjafa]

a giantess

She was one of the nine wave-maidens said simultaneously to have given birth to Heimdall, fathered by Odin.

Auriaria

Pacific Islands

a giant chieftain of the Gilbert Islands husband of the goddess Nei Tituabine

Aurora

Roman

[Mater Matuta:=Greek Eos]

a goddess of the dawn

Aurora Borealis

[Northern Lights]

coloured lights appearing in the sky
in high northern latitudes

Baltic

(1) In Estonian tales, the lights occur when a celestial war or wedding is taking place and are caused by light reflected from the sumptuous trappings of the sleighs and the horses that draw them.

(2) Finnish lore attributes the lights to the souls of the dead.

(3) Lappish lore attributes the lights to the spirits of those killed in war or murdered.

Greece and Rome

In classical times, the lights were generally regarded as natural phenomena but some said that they portended some fateful event.

Norse

The lights were said to be sunlight reflected from the shields of the Valkyries.

North America

(1) The Inuit say that the lights are the dance of the dead.

(2) In the lore of the Iroquois, the supreme spirit made the maiden Awenhai pregnant, but she came to believe that she had been seduced by Fire Dragon or Aurora Borealis so he pushed all three of them out through the hole in the sky that appeared when he tore up the Onodja Tree.

(3) The Kwakiutl also say that the lights are the spirits of the dead, but add that they can portend death in the family of the deceased.

(4) In the lore of the Makan, the lights are the fires of a small race in the sky cooking their meat.

(5) The Manadan say that the lights occur when medicine men boil their enemies in big pots.

(6) The Tlingit say that the lights are the spirits of the dead playing together in the sky.

Russia

The Chukchi regard this area of the heavens as the home of those who died a violent death.

Siberia

The Ostyak say the lights are the fires lit by the fish-god Teman' gryem to guide travellers.

Aurva<sup>1</sup>

Hindu

a rishi

(see also Aurva<sup>2</sup>)

Aurva<sup>2</sup>

Hindu

a volcanic eruption

The rishi, Aurva, created from his thigh this huge conflagration, which would have destroyed the world if Brahma had not intervened to direct it out into the ocean.

Aurvandil

(see Orvandil)

Aurvandill

(see Orvandil)

Aurvaspos

Persian

the man to whom Kay Khusraw handed his throne when he disappeared into the mountains

Aus

Mesopotamian

an early Babylonian god

father of Bel by Dauce

Auseklis

(see Auskelis)

Ausera

Baltic

a Lithuanian goddess of the dawn

Ausiul

an angel, ruler of the sign Aquarius

Auskelis

Baltic

[Auseklis:=Lithuanian Ausrine]

a Latvian fertility-god, attendant on the sky-god

Auson

Greek

son of Odysseus by Calypso or Circe, or of Artas by Calypso

Ausones

Greek

descendants of Auson

Ausonia

Greek

an early name for Italy

auspex

(see augur)

auspice

(see augury)

auspicy

(see augury)

Ausrine

Baltic

[=Latvian Auskelis]

a Lithuanian fertility-god

In some accounts, Ausrine was the Morning Star with whom the moon god Meness had an affair.

Aust (see Isis)

Austatikco-Pauligaur Persian
a group of 8 demons guarding the world

Auster Roman
[=Greek Notus]
the south west wind personified

Austri Norse
one of the 4 dwarfs supporting the sky (East)

Autahi Pacific Islands
[Atutuahi]
the star Canopus as god of the heavens

Autak Persian [Udai-Vatak]
a half-human demon
mother of Azhi Dahak

Auteb Egyptian
[Autyeb]
the personification of joy (female)

Autesion Greek
a king of Thebes
son of Tisamenus
father of Argia and Theras

Author
[Great Tor]
a deity: creator of the universe

Authumla (see Audhumbla)

Autolukos (see Autolykus)

Autolykus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Autolukos.Autolykos.Master Thief] son of Hermes and Chione
husband of Amphithea
father of Anticleia
A thief who could change the animals he stole into new forms. He stole some cattle from Sisyphus, who seduced his daughter Anticleia in revenge.

Autolykus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Autolukos.Autolykos]
a follower of Heracles
son of Deimachus
brother of Deileon and Phlogius
He and his brothers helped Heracles on his ninth Labour and later joined the Argonauts.

Autolykos (see Autolykus)

automatic writing
writing written without the conscious participation of the writer
Such writing is often produced during a spiritualist seance and is said to be the work of a guiding spirit who wishes to convey a message to the living.

Automedon Greek
a charioteer of Achilles son of Diore
He killed the Trojan Aretus to avenge the death of Patroclus and, after the death of Achilles, followed his son Pyrrhus.

Autonoe Greek
daughter of Cadmus and Harmonia sister of Agave and Ino wife of Aristaeus
mother of Actaeon and Macris
Driven mad by Dionysus, she and her sisters pulled Pentheus to pieces. (see also Agave)

Autonomous Greek
a hero of Delphi
He and Phylacus helped to save the city from the invading Persians.

Autrimpas European
a Prussian sea-god

Autumn-snake charm (see ch'iu-she)

Autyeb (see Auteb)

Auuenau Australian
Aboriginal storm spirits
These beings are described as thin and hairy with tails and bones hanging from various parts of their bodies.

auwa Australian sacred places of the Aborigines

Auwyn Welsh
father of Pwyll

Auxe Greek [Auxo. 'grower']
in some accounts, she is one of the Graces, in others, one of the Horae

Auxesis Greek
a minor fertility-goddess

Auxo (see Auxe)

Auzar North American
in some accounts, wife of Tacu and mother of Chinigchinich

ava Russian [mother:=Cheremis awa]
a tutelary spirit of the Mordvins
These spirits have their own sphere of influence – Kov-ava protects the moon; mastor-ava, the earth; kud-ava the home; tol-ava, fire; varm-ava, wind; ved-ava, water; vir-ava, the woodlands.

Avadana Buddhist
collections of tales about various Buddhist heroes

Avagddu Welsh
[Afgddu.Afgaddu.Avagdu]
son of Tegid Voel and Ceridwen
brother of Creirwy and Morvran
He was very ugly, so Ceridwen prepared a magic brew to make him very wise as compensation. In the event, her plans went astray and it was the boy Gwion who became the wise man Taliesin.
In some accounts Avagddu is merely a nickname for Morvran.

Avagdu (see Avagddu)

Avaiyo North American
a spirit of the Tewa tribe

This being is said to cause floods.

Avaiiki (see Hawaiiki)

Aval Buddhist
a Chinese goddess of mercy

Avalambana (see Festival of the Hungry Ghosts)

avali (see omuli)

Avallach (see Ynys Avallach.Avalloc<sup>1</sup>)

Avallo (see Avalon)

Avalloc<sup>1</sup> Welsh
[Afallach.Avallach.Avalloch.Avallon.
Avilion:=British Evelake]
a ruler of Avalon son of Beli Mawr
In Welsh lore he was the father of Modron. In other accounts he was Evelake.

Avalloc<sup>2</sup> (see Ynys Avallach)

Avalloch (see Ynys.Avallach.Avalloc<sup>1</sup>)

Avallon (see Avalloc<sup>1</sup>)

Avalokita (see Avolokiteshvara)

Avalokiteshvara Buddhist [Amoghapasa.Avalokita.Avalokitesvara.
Bhagavan.Khasaparna.Namasangiti.Natha.
Padmapani:=Cambodian (Simhanara)
Lokesvara:=Chinese Kuan Yin:=Hindu
Vishnu:=Japanese Kwanzai.Kwannon.
Sannayaka:=Tibetan Chen-re-zi.Chenresi.
Sadaksari (Lokesvara):sPyan-ras-gzigs]
god of mercy
one of the 5 Dhyani-bodhisattvas of Mahayana Buddhism son of Amitabha
consort of Pandara or Tara
He is regarded as a bodhisattva who is reincarnated in each new Dalai Lama.
In Tibet, he is the supreme national god and can assume any form, such as a cloud, a figure with 1,000 arms and eleven heads, and various animals. To help his charitable works he was given 1,000 hands. He produced a monkey, which mated with an ogress to produce a race of hairy beings. These mated with the forest monkeys and when Avalokiteshvara gave them food they lost their hair and tails and became human beings.
He delayed his own release from the cycle of death and rebirth to help others achieve enlightenment. Having brought release to all, he set off to return to paradise. When he chanced to look back and saw that men had reverted to their former sinful ways, he broke into a million pieces from which arose the version with eleven heads and 1,000 arms. The goddess Tara was born from the tears he shed.
He is regarded as a manifestation of Amitabha who generated him from a beam of light issuing from his own eye.

As Padmapani, he created the world and Brahma, Indra, Lakshmi and Sarasvati, from various parts of his own body.

He is represented as a handsome youth holding in his left hand a lotus blossom. He was later identified with the Chinese goddess of mercy Kuan Yin.

In some accounts he is identified with Shiva, in others he occupies one of the two thrones in Amitabha's heaven (Mahasthama has the other).

Avalokitesvara (see Avalokiteshvara)

Avalon<sup>1</sup> British

[Apple Island.Avalo.Avalun.Avilion.

Fortunate Isle.Island of Apples.Island of Blessed Souls.Isle of Glass.Isle of Souls.Ovelon:=Irish Ablach:=Swedish Assysla:=Welsh Ynys Avallach]

the spirit world: an earthly paradise This was the home of Morgan le Fay and the site of the forge operated by fairies, in which Excalibur is said to have been made.

On his death, King Arthur was placed on a boat and taken to Avalon where, some say, he was healed of his wounds and survives to this day, awaiting some future call to save Britain.

Another story makes this an island in the far West, concealed from view by a wall of spray, where the giants kept the golden apples that they had stolen from the gods. Some say it was ruled by Morgan le Fay, leader of nine fairy queens. (see also Assysla.

Glastonbury.Otherworld)

Avalon<sup>2</sup> European

in Carolingian legend, this was the island home of Morgan le Fay

In the story of Ogier the Dane, he was transported to Avalon where he still sleeps. Some accounts say that both Oberon and Ogier held their courts in Avalon.

Avalun (see Avalon)

Avalux Central American

a god of the Quiche Indians

Avanc (see Addanc)

Avaon Welsh

a name used for Gadeon, in some Welsh accounts

avatar<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[avatara.awatar(a). 'descent']

the highest grade of Buddhist monk in Tibet

avatar<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[avatara.awatar(a). 'descent']

an incarnation of a god:

supreme glorification

avatara (see avatar)

Avatea (see Atea)

Ave (see Awe)

Ave-aitu Pacific Islands

the Tahitian sorcerer-god

The leader of the forces of the war-god, he was depicted as a meteor, the 'tailed god'.

Avenable British

a maiden who disguised herself as a youth

Calling herself Grisandole, she introduced Merlin to the court of Julius Caesar and was said to have married the emperor.

Avenger (see Marduk)

Avenger's Sword European

a Danish story of a sword that can operate alone

This weapon is said to be able to kill its owner's enemies of its own accord, but may turn on its owner.

Several swords fall within this category including Tyrting, the sword of Angantyr in Norse myth and the sword of Tethra in Irish myth.

Aventinus Roman

a son of Heracles and Rhea

He fought with Turnus against Aeneas.

Avernal Roman

a fiend: inhabitant of the underworld

Averne (see Avernus<sup>1</sup>)

Avernus<sup>1</sup> Celtic

a tribal god in Gaul

Avernus<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Averne.Lake Avernus]

hell or the entrance to it

Averruncus Roman

a minor god whose function was to avert evil

a version of Robigus

Avesta Persian

[Zend(-Avesta)]

sacred writings: the Zoroastrian bible

These writings are in three parts: the Vendidad (myths and laws), the Visperad (litanies) and the Yasna (liturgies). In some accounts, there are four parts, the fourth one being the Yashts (hymns to the angels and heroes).

There were originally twenty-one books in three groups: the dikat, the gatha and the hatak-mansurik. The Zend is a commentary on the Avesta.

Aveta Celtic

a Gallic goddess of birth

Avezuha Romanian

a demones

Avfruvva (see Akkruva)

Avichey (see Avichi)

Avichi Cambodian

[Avichey:=Buddhist Avici]

the Cambodian version of Avici

Avichimat Hindu

one of the realms of hell

This region is reserved for the punishment of liars who are continually thrown down from a great height.

Avici Buddhist

[Avichey:=Cambodian Avichi]

the lowest of the 7 realms of hell,

reserved for those who mock the Buddha

Advidya Hindu

the primal cause of all things

Avilion (see Avalloc<sup>1</sup>.Avalon)

Avilix South American

a Mayan deity who was turned to stone by the light of the sun

Avino European

a knight of Charlemagne

He fought with Oliver and Roland at Roncesvalles.

Avo (see Orvandil)

Avo Akore East Indian

the third person in the lore of the

Elema people of Papua

This person, born from a turtle's egg, turned into a coconut palm.

Avolio European

a knight of Charlemagne

He fought with Oliver and Roland at Roncesvalles.

Avon Dia Irish

[Abhainn Dea]

a length of the River Dee

When Cuchulainn and Ferdia fought one another in the river, this length held back the water on each side so as not to interfere with the duel.

Avrikiti African

the god of fishermen of the Fon

Avritra Hindu

the serpent of drought

Avya South American

the sun and moon, in the lore of the

Cubeo tribe in Colombia

Avya is the man who, as the sun, walks across the sky giving light, by which the people can work by day, and less light when he becomes the moon, to allow people to sleep. When he dies, during an eclipse, his demise is blamed on an evil shaman who, if he can be identified, is put to death.

awa<sup>1</sup> Russian

[mother:=Mordvin av]

a tutelary spirit of the Cheremis

These spirits have their own sphere of influence: kelse-awa protects the sun; mardez-awa, the wind; melande-awa, the earth; teleze-awa, the moon; tul-awa, fire; and wut-awa, water.

Awa<sup>2</sup> (see Awagi)

Awabi (see Great Awabi)

Awagi Japanese

[Awa.Awaji:=Pacific Islands Hawaiki]

an island, home of souls

This was the second of the islands of Japan created when Izanagi and Izanami dipped a spear into the primordial ocean.

Awanaisa (see Gro Mama)

son of Eblis

awatar (see avatar)

awatara (see avatar)

Awe British

[Ave]

the chief god: the sun

Awenhai North American

an Iroquois maiden

The deity who made her pregnant thought she had been seduced by somebody else and threw her down from the sky. She was saved from drowning in the primordial ocean by Great Turtle and lived on land newly formed by the muskrat. Her daughter later became the mother of Oterongtongnia and Tawiskaron, in some accounts.

Awenyddion Welsh

bards who uttered cryptic prophecies when in a trance-like state

Awha New Zealand

a Maori storm-god

Awhiowhio Australian

[=Pacific Islands Ara Tiotio]

an Aboriginal god of whirlwinds

Awitelin Tsita (see Awitelin Tsta)

Awitelin Tsta North American

[(Awitelin) Tsita]

the four-wombed earth mother of the Zuni

mother of Poshaiyankaya by

Apoyan Tachi

She was formed from the splitting of the early hermaphrodite deity Awonawilona into two separate sexes, Awitelin Tsta and Apoyan Tachi, or by Shiwandra from saliva.

Awl Boy North American

a culture hero of the Tewa tribe

He was born when his people were migrating and was left to fend for himself. The boy grew rapidly and set out to find his people. In an empty house, Awl called to him from the road and the boy, now Awl Boy, took Awl with him and was henceforth very lucky. He finally located his tribe and restored their fortunes by his skill as a hunter, eventually being made chief of the tribe.

An alternative story has Corn Mother calling from the roof and telling the boy to place her and Awl in a covered basket. Next morning the boy found new deerskin clothes waiting for him and he set off with the basket to find his people.

awl-elbow witches North American witches with awls or knives set in their elbows, in the lore of some Algonquian tribes

Awl Man North American

a tutelary spirit of the Pueblo, the awl personified

Awonawilona North American

[All-Container]

creator-god of the Zuni people

This primaevial deity was conceived as combining both sexes, splitting to form the goddess Awitelin Tsta and the god Apoyan Tachi.

He spread a layer of green scum on the waters remaining after the flood and from this the land developed. He made mankind by throwing pieces of his skin into the primordial ocean.

Other versions say that he made animals and men in four huge caves. One of the men, Poshaiyangkyo, crawled out and persuaded the god to allow all the others to follow.

In some accounts he became the sun.

awulia (see ayana)

Awun Chinese

a Taiwanese god of destruction

Axaiaatzin Central American

a king of Mexico

father of Chachiuhnenetzi

axe

an edged tool or weapon, significant in many cultures (see axinomancy)

Axe Age

one of the 4 ages referred to in the Eddas

Axe-Eye (see Toi-mata)

axe-handle hound North American

a fabulous animal

Axierus Greek

[Akieros]

one of the 2 female Cabeiri

daughter of Axiocersus

In some accounts, a name for the Dioscuri regarded as four.

Axine Greek

[Axinus.Unfriendly Sea]

the Black Sea (see also Euxine)

axinomancy

divination from the motions of agate on a hot axe

Axinus (see Axine)

Axiocerca Greek

[Axiokersa]

one of the 2 female Cabeiri

daughter of Axiocercus

Axiocersus Greek

[Axiokersos]

one of the Cabeiri

father of Axierus, Axiocerca and

Cadmilus, some say

Axioche Greek

a nymph

Axiokersa (see Axiocerca)

Axiokersos (see Axiocercus)

Axion<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Phegeus

brother of Arsinoe and Temenus

His sister, Arsinoe, married Alcmaeon.

When Alcmaeon abandoned her, Axion, his brother and father, killed him.

Axion<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Priam and Hecuba

He was killed by Eurypylos at the siege of Troy.

axe tree

a tree, such as Yggrasil, regarded as forming the centre of rotation of the earth (or the universe)

Axo-Mama South American

the Peruvian goddess of the potato harvest

Aya<sup>1</sup> European

sister of Charlemagne

wife of Aymon

mother of Alardo, Bradamante,

Ricciardetto, Ricardo and Rinaldo

In some accounts Aymon's wife is Beatrice.

Aya<sup>2</sup> Japanese

[Princess Aya]

a princess who fell in love with the spirit of the peony

Aya was due to marry the son of Lord Ako but fell in love with a mysterious samurai and pined away for love of him. Her father set a trap for this handsome stranger and had Magi Hiogo wait in the peony bushes at night. The retainer captured the samurai but was overcome by a mysterious scent and fainted. When he came to, he found that he was grasping a peony. The princess placed this bloom in a vase by her bedside and immediately she became better but, when she married Lord Ako's son, the peony died.

Aya<sup>3</sup> (see Aa<sup>1</sup>)

Ayaba African
goddess of the hearth among the Fon sister of Loko

Ayacua South American
in the lore of the Lule tribes, a grub

This mountain grub was said to wield
a bow that fired stone-tipped arrows, which caused illness.

Ayagba African
a Nigerian tribal chief father of Enekepe

When Ayagba's tribe was being defeated in battle, Enekepe allowed herself to be buried alive, a sacrifice that saved her people.

Ayakasikone Japanese ['terrible face'] a Shinto goddess
consort of Omodaru

These two deities were produced from one of the branches of the primordial god Umashiashikabihikoji.

Ayame Japanese
a lady at the imperial court

She was given as wife to Yorimasa when he killed the sky monster that had been harassing the emperor.

Ayamur Mesopotamian
[Driver]
a mace of Baal

This weapon was one of the two maces
(the other was Yagrush) made by Kothar for Baal for his fight with Yam.

ayana African [awulia]

guardian spirits in Ethiopia

Ayanagosha Hindu
husband of Radha

Ayar Auca (see Ayar Ayca)

Ayar Ayca South American

[Ayar Auca.Ayar Saucó]

an Inca ancestral hero

son of Inti

He became a field-god when sent by Inti, with his brothers and sisters, to settle on earth.

(see also Children of the Sun)

Ayar Cachi South American

[Ayar Cachi Asauca.Topa Ayar Cachi]

an Inca ancestral hero

son of Inti

He was sealed in a cave by his jealous brothers when sent by Inti, with his brothers and sisters, to settle on earth.

(see also Children of the Sun)

Ayar Cachi Asauca (see Ayar Cachi)

Ayar Manco South American

[Manco Capac]

an Inca ancestral hero

son of Inti

He is regarded as the founder of the Incas. Looking for a place where they might settle, he and his brothers and sisters explored the area near Cuzco.
When Ayar Oco turned to stone or was pushed over a precipice by Ayar Manco, Ayar Cachi was sealed into a cave and Ayar Ayca became a field-god. He seized the city and married his sister Mama Ocllo, starting the Inca dynasty.

In another version, only Ayar Manco and Mama Ocllo were involved, sent by Inti to establish civilization. They were carrying a staff or a wedge of gold and settled where it sank into the ground.

In some versions Ayar Manco became a stone, which was revered by the Incas. (see also Children of the Sun.Manco Capac)

Ayar Oco South American

[Ayar Ucho.Huana Cauri]

son of Inti

He turned into stone when sent by Inti, with his brothers and sisters, to settle on earth.

Other versions say that his brother,
Ayar Manco, killed him by pushing him over a precipice. In some versions he is called Huana Cauri.

(see also Children of the Sun.Pinahua)

Ayar Saucó (see Ayar Ayca)

Ayar Ucho (see Ayar Oco)

Ayglin British

an uncle of Andrivete

He seized the throne of Andrivete's father and tried to force her into marriage with an unacceptable husband, so she ran off and married Kay. Ayglin's subjects soon rebelled and Andrivete regained her rightful inheritance.

Ayida African

wife of Dan Hwedo (see also Aida)

Ayin (see Ain)

Ayil

a demon of Sagittarius

Ayiyan (see Ayiyanayaka)

Ayiyanayaka Hindu

[Ayiyan]

god of fields and woods in Ceylon

Ayllu South America

in the lore of the Incas, the souls of the descendants of the pacarina

Aym (see Aini)

Aymeri European

son of Hernant

father of Guillaume

Aymeric European

the eldest son of Rinaldo

Aymon European

[Amon:=Dutch Amijn]

a duke

son of Duolinn

husband of Aya or Beatrice

father of Alardo, Bradamante, Guichard, Ricciardetto, Ricardo and Rinaldo

He went to war with Charlemagne who had killed his relative, Hug, and,
with the help of his steed, Bayard, defeated the Emperor's forces but later made peace and married Charlemagne's sister, Aya.

In Orlando Furioso, Aymon's wife is Constantia and their son is Guido.

aymuray South American

a Chechua harvest song

Aypeos (see Ipos)

Ayperos (see Ipos)

Ayporus (see Ipos)

Ayres (see Aries<sup>2</sup>)

Ayu Hindu

son of Pururavas and Urvashi

ayudha-purusha Hindu

a person used by a demon or a deity as a weapon in battle: a weapon regarded as having its own spiritual being

Ayurvasita Buddhist

one of the 12 Paramita goddesses

Ayus Hindu

father of Nahusha

Aywell British

a Celtic guardian-god of the north of England

consort of Mm

Ayyanar Hindu

a local god

He was said to control the veeran.

Ayyappan Hindu

a god of growth

Az<sup>1</sup> Persian

the female principle of greed

At the final battle, this demon will be defeated and confined eternally to hell.

Az<sup>2</sup>

a Manichaeian female demon

Azaca Si (see Azacca)

Azacca West Indian

[Azaca Si.Azaka.Mambo Zacca]

a Haitian god of agriculture

brother of Ghede

Azadeh Persian

a slave girl

On a hunting trip with Bahram, she challenged him to demonstrate his skill as an archer, which he did by shooting
a pellet, grazing the ear of an antelope.
When the animal raised a hoof to scratch the ear, Bahram fired an arrow pinning the hoof to the ear. Azedah then accused the archer of being Ahriman himself whereupon he knocked her to the ground and trampled her to death under his camel's hoofs.

Azag Bau Mesopotamian

wife of Sargon

Azaka (see Azacca)

Azaradel

a demon

This being is said to have come to earth and explained the motions of the moon.

Azariel

a moon demon

Azazel British

a standard-bearer for Satan in Milton's Paradise Lost

Azdahah Mesopotamian

a dragon of darkness

husband of Tigranuki

When Azdahah set out to kill his wife's brother, Tigranes, Tigranuki warned Tigranes. Azdahah killed his wife for her treachery and Tigranes killed Azdahah in revenge.

Aze Japanese

wife of Nase

This couple were said to be so devoted to each other that when threatened with separation, they chose instead to become pine trees.

azeman South American

a blood-sucking demon appearing as a bat by night, a woman by day

Such a being can be frustrated by placing a broom across the doorway or by scattering seeds or grain on the floor. In the latter case, the azeman feels compelled to collect and cart away every single grain. If she cannot finish the job before daylight returns, she leaves empty-handed or is perhaps caught in the act of counting the grains and can be killed.

Azeruel

a moon demon

Azeuph

a demon

Azhdak (see Azhi Dahak)

Azhi Dahak Persian

[Azhdak.Azhi Dahaka.Bevarash.

Dahak(i).Dahhak.Dhaki.Ezhdeha.

Vishap(a).Zah(h)ak.Zuhak]

a 3-headed demon of destruction

son of Angra Mainyu and Autak

consort of Druj

A demon created by Ahriman, in one story, he was overcome, by Atar and chained to Mountain Demavand. In another story it was Thraetona who first stabbed him, allowing frogs and lizards to pour out of his chest, and then chained him.

In one story he replaced Yima as king and ruled for 1,000 years.

It is said that at the end of the world, he will break loose and kill much of mankind before being killed by the resuscitated Keresaspa. (see also Zahak)

Azhi Dahaka (see Azhi Dahak)

Azibeel

a demon

Azi Persian

a demon preying on beautiful women

Azidahaka (see Azhi Dahak)

Aziel

a moon demon

azima African

a Swahili charm or incantation

Azimu African

king of Ethiopia

brother of Hakim

azizan African

[=Ashanti mmoatia:=Brazilian sacco:

=Nigerian ijimere:=Surinam apuku]

benevolent forest spirits

in Dahomey

Azizos Arabian

[Azuzu]

the deified morning star in Syria

brother of Arsu (see also Monominos)

Aztlan Central American

[Craneland.Place of the Reeds]

the original home of the Aztecs

Azume Japanese

a Shinto goddess of the damned

Azure Dragon (see Ch'ing Lung)

Azuzu (see Azizos)

Azzilo (see Attila)

B

- B Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity, referred to as god B; perhaps Kukulcan or the rain-god, Chac
This deity is depicted with a nose somewhat like that of a tapir. He can walk on water and wields a fiery torch. Rather than Chac, some say he represents Kukulcan or Quetzalcoatl.
- Ba<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
[Pa]
a god manifest in the form of a pharaoh
- ba<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
[pa]
the soul, one of the 5 elements comprising the complete person
The ba is depicted as a bird with a human head that flies between this life and the afterlife.
- Ba<sup>3</sup> (see Khnum)
- ba-bird Egyptian
the representation of the ba in the form of a human-headed bird
- Ba-Du'c Chua (see Duc Ba)
- Ba Ja Mongolian
a general who became an official in the heavenly bureaucracy
- Ba-Maguje African
a Hausa spirit which causes thirst leading to drunkenness
- Ba Neb Djedet (see Banaded)
- Ba Neb Tettu (see Banaded)
- Ba-Pef Egyptian
an underworld god
- Ba-Toye African
a Hausa spirit causing destructive fires
- Baabal
a demon
- Baal<sup>1</sup> Canaanite
[Aleyan.Al'eyn.Al(y)iyin.Baal-Dagon. (Baal-) Zebul.Bael(l).Bel. Eshmun.'lord'. Thunderer:=Egyptian Set:=Greek Cronus: =Phoenician Melkarth:=Sumerian Adad or Enlil]
a fertility-god, god of storms son of Dagan or El twin brother of Mot
husband and brother of Anat husband of Arisya, Baalat, Padriya and Talliya, some say father of the Baalim, Pidray, the Sasuratum and Talay
He fought a battle with Yam for control of the earth and killed the serpent Lotan. He lived in a huge palace called Sapan, which had a hole in the floor through which he watered the earth. When he died, Anat fought and killed Mot, god of the underworld, and ground him under a millstone. Baal was later restored to life and the throne.
In some accounts he is equated with Moloch.
He is depicted as a warrior wearing a horned helmet and standing on a wave top.
- Baal<sup>2</sup>
a demon, duke of hell
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
- Baal<sup>3</sup>
['lord':plur=Baalim]
a false god: a generic name for a god
In black magic, one of the Ministers, commander of the infernal armies.
- Baal-Addir Phoenician
the god of Byblos
a name of Baal as 'powerful'
- Baal-Berith<sup>1</sup>
[Balberith]
a demon of blasphemy, secretary in hell (see also Berith)
- Baal-Berith<sup>2</sup> Canaanite
[Balberith]
a god of contracts
- Baal-Biq'ah Phoenician
a weather-god
titular deity of Baalbek
- Baal-Brathy Phoenician
a local mountain-god
- Baal-Dagon (see Baal)
- Baal-Eret Maharlet Mesopotamian
an Ugaritic fertility-god, god of wells
- Baal-Gad Hebrew
a goat-king
Dionysus as the ancestor of the tribe of Gad
- Baal-Hadad Canaanite
[Baal-Haddad.Baal-Hadhed.Baal-Rammon. 'crasher']
a name for Baal as a storm-god (see also Adad)
- Baal-Haddad (see Baal-Hadad)
- Baal-Hadhed (see Baal-Hadad)

Baal-Hammon Phoenician
[=Roman Frugifer]
Baal as a fertility-god at Carthage
(see also Bebellahamon)

Baal-Hermon Phoenician
a mountain-god

Baal-Karmelos Canaanite
an oracular god of Mount Carmel

Baal-Lebanon Semitic
a storm-god

Baal-Malage Phoenician
a local god

Baal-Marqod Mesopotamian
[=Greek Balmarkos:=Phoenician Balmarcodes]
a Syrian god of healing

Baal-Melkart Phoenician
a god of Tyre and later of Carthage

Baal-Peor Mesopotamian
[Beelpoor.(Bel-)Peor.Belphegor]
a Moabite god or demon (see also Balphegor.Belphegor)

Baal-Qarnain Phoenician
a Punic god
a name for Baal-Hammon as a horned
god

Baal-Rammon Mesopotamian
a name of Baal-Hadad as 'thunderer'

Baal-Samen (see Baal-Samin)

Baal-Samin Phoenician
[Baal-Samem.Baal-Sham(a)in.Baal-
Shamayin:=Greek Zeus:=Roman Caelus]
a god of rain, ships and storms
He was defeated by the hero Aram.

Baal-Sapan Phoenician [=Canaanite Baal-Sapon]
an Ugarit mountain-god consort of Pidray
father of Tly

Baal-Sapon (see Baal-Sapan)

Baal-Shamain (see Baal-Samin)

Baal-Shamayim (see Baal-Samin)

Baal-Tamar Phoenician
lord of the tree of life (the palm)

Baal Tyre Mesopotamian [=Greek Heracles]
a Tyrian sun-god

Baal-Zebul Canaanite
[Zebul:=Biblical Beelzebub]
a name of Baal as 'prince'
He was later downgraded to become the demon Beelzebub. (see Beelzebub)

Baal-Zephon<sup>1</sup> Canaanite
a name of Baal in the form of a white bull-god, 'ruler of the north'

Baal-Zephon<sup>2</sup>
a demon, captain of the guard in hell

Baalat<sup>1</sup> Canaanite
[Baalath]

a generic name for a goddess

Baalat<sup>2</sup> Canaanite
[Baalath.Baalti.Belet.Belti:=Egyptian Baelthi]
a fertility-goddess
wife of Baal

Baal assumed her duties as Baal-Hadad.

Baalath (see Baal.Ninlil)

Baalbek Mesopotamian
the city of the Jinn
This city was built on the orders of Jinn bin Jann. (see also Chilminar)

Baalim Mesopotamian
a group of 7 storm-gods sons or aspects of Baal

Baalism
worship of Baal

Baalite
a worshipper of Baal

Baalphegor
(see Baal-Peor.Belphegor)

Baalsamame (see Balshameme)

Baalti (see Baalat)

Baalteis Zapuna Canaanite
a mother-goddess

Baalzebub (see Beelzebub)

Baatsi African
the first man in the lore of the Efe
To please his wife he picked the for-bidden tahu fruit and God punished them by decreeing that all future generations should die.

Baau Phoenician
[Bau:=Sumerian Baba]
a goddess
wife of Kolpia
mother of Aion and Protoponos

In some accounts she was worshipped as a heifer. (see also Niritu)

Bab-ed-Din Persian
'the Gate of Righteousness', a name of Mirza Ali Mohammed

Baba Mesopotamian [Bau.Great Mother.Gula.Ma(-Bellone).
Nintu:=Phoenician Baau:=Semitic Ishtar]
a Sumerian fertility-goddess, a beneficent version of Tiamat daughter of An wife of Ningursu or Ninib, some say mother of Gangir (see also Gula)

Baba-Iaga (see Baba-Yaga)

Baba-Jaga (see Baba-Yaga)

Baba Tomor (see Tmor)

Baba-Yaga Russian [Baba-Iaga.Baba-Jaga(-Baba).Jendzibaba.
Jendzyna. Jezenky.Jezi-Baba. Jezinky] an ogress or witch
a goddess of death
She had teeth and breasts of stone and was said to steal children, having first turned them to stone merely by looking at them, and then, having returned them to normal, cooking and eating them. She moved around in a mortar by using the pestle as a propelling pole. Her home was a hut that had the legs of a chicken on which, some say, it moved about, and which was enclosed within a fence made of bones.

In the Czech version these beings had the face of a woman, the body of a sow and the legs of a horse. They lived in caves and put out the eyes of any humans they caught.

Babak Persian
father of Ardashir

babalawo (see babalorisha)

babalorisha African [babalawo:female=iyalorisha:=Brazilian pai de santo:=Dahomey bokonon]
a diviner or a priest of the Yoruba god Vorunmila

Babbar<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
[=Semitic Samas]
an Akkadian sun-god

Babbar<sup>2</sup> (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)

Babe North American
a huge ox
This animal was the companion of Paul Bunyan, hero of a modern American myth. It was white at birth but turned blue during a particular winter when blue snow fell.

Babe could eat bales of hay, including the baling wire, and was said to be very fond of hot-cakes. He was so heavy that his hooves sank into solid rock and lakes formed in his hoofprints. He was reputed to have pulled a river (or a road) straight, scooped out Puget Sound by hauling a glacier and pulled dry oil wells out of the ground.

Babe caused his own death by swallowing a batch of hot-cakes – including the stove. Some say that the Black Hills were piled up over his grave.

Babel
an angel of the second heaven,
controlling the South and Wednesday

Babhru-Vahana Hindu
son of Arjuna and Chitrangada
He inadvertently killed his father, Arjuna, and would have committed suicide if his stepmother, Ulupi, had not given the young man a magic gemstone which restored his father to life.

Babi Egyptian
[=Greek Bapho]
a violent god of sexual prowess

It is said that his penis acted in some cases as the bolt on the door of heaven and in others as the mast of the ferry boat of the underworld.

He is depicted as a baboon with an erect penis.

Babican European

a prince or king of Hyrcania
He was attacked by a lion that killed his horse as he was travelling to the court of the sultan, Gaudisso, to marry the princess Clarimunda. Huon rescued him by killing the lion, but Babican repaid him by stealing his horse to continue his journey. Huon followed him to the court and decapitated him.

Babieca Spanish

[Bavieca]
the horse of El Cid

Babinga African

king of the Mandwa tribe
second husband of Nyavirezi
father of Ryangombe

Babo (see Baubo)

baboi (see night witches)

Bacab Central American

a rain-god
son of Itzamna and Ix Chel

He was killed at birth and rose three days later into the sky where he became a rain-god.

Bacabab (see Bacabs)

Bacabs Central American

[Bacabab:=Aztec Tlaloc]
4 giant Mayan deities sons of Itzamna and Ix Chel

These four brothers supported the world, one at each corner, and controlled the winds. They are listed as Kan Tzicnal (north, white), Hobnil (east, red), Hozanek (south, yellow), and Zac Cimi (west, black).

Another list gives Mulac (north, white), Kan (east, yellow), Cauac (south, red) and Ix (west, black), while others give Kan (south, yellow), Chac (east, red), Zac (north, white) and Ed (west, black).

In some accounts, they are the same as the Balam. (see also Acantum. Balam<sup>1</sup>.Pauhtun)

Bacam Central American

[Pacaw]
a Mayan sorcerer

He and Xulu arranged for the resurrection of Hunapu and Ixbalanque in Xibalba after they had been killed on a pyre.

Bacax Roman

a local god in North Africa

bacchae (see bacchantes)

Bacchae, The Greek

a play by Euripides
The play tells the story of Pentheus, torn to pieces by the frenzied followers of Dionysus.

bacchanal Roman

a follower of Bacchus
a priest(ess) of Bacchus
a song, etc. dedicated to Bacchus (see also bacchante)

Bacchanalia Roman

[Bacchanals]
orgiastic festivals in honour of Bacchus

Bacchanals (see Bacchanalia)

bacchant Roman

[plur=bacchoi]
a devotee of Bacchus a priest of Bacchus

bacchantes Roman

[bacchae.bacchanals.clodones.Lenae:
=Greek Bassareae. Bassarid(e)s.maeonad(e)s. mainades.Mimallones.Thyiades] wild female devotees of Bacchus priestesses of Bacchus

The male equivalents are the Corybantes.

baccharis

a herb used in magic rites

Bacche Greek

a nymph of Mount Nysa
She helped to rear the infant Dionysus and was placed in the sky as one of the Hyades by a grateful Zeus.

Bacchoi (see bacchant)

Bacchus<sup>1</sup> Portuguese

an evil spirit in The Lusians

Bacchus<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Bakchos.Evan.Lakchos.Psilas]
a name for Dionysus in the Roman pantheon

In one story, Bacchus allowed his lions to attack a maiden simply because he was upset when she failed to offer him the worship to which he thought he was entitled. He immediately regretted his action and turned the girl into pure crystal. He then poured wine over the crystal, which took on the colour of the wine and became what we now know as amethyst. (see also Liber)

Bach Bychan (see Bychan)

Bach-ho (see Pai Hu)

Bach-ma Chinese

[Ma-vien.White Horse]
a Chinese despot

He conquered Indo-China and was deified as a guardian-god, superseding Cao-bien.

Bachanael

an angel of the first heaven,
controlling the west and Monday

Bachiel (see Barchiel)

bachlach Irish

a phantom
One of the most famous bachlachs is the one involved in the beheading contest at Briccium's feast.

(see also bananchs.bocanachs)

Bachué South American

[Furachogue]
a mother-goddess and fertility-goddess of the Chibcha Indians
She emerged from Lake Iguague as a snake, produced a baby son, mated with her son to produce the human race and then they both resumed their shape as snakes and returned to the lake.

Bachrach Irish

a poet of Leinster
In some accounts it was he, not Cathbad, who brought the news of Christ's death to Conor mac Nessa.

Baciel (see Barchiel)

bacis<sup>1</sup> Greek

a class of inspired prophets

Bacis<sup>2</sup> (see Buchis)

Backbone of Osiris Egyptian

the axis on which the earth (or the universe) rotates (see also axle tree)

bacularia

a witch who rides on a broomstick

Bad Persian

a storm jinn

Bad Dog Village Buddhist

a part of hell

Here the good are allowed to pass, while the evil ones are torn to pieces by dogs.

badang Malay

a ghost of the forest

Badarayana Hindu

a sage

He wrote the Brahma Sutras.

Badb<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Badhb(h).Bav.Bodh.Bodhbh:=Gaulish

Bodua.Cathubodua]

a goddess of war

an aspect of Morrigan or Nemain
daughter of Ernmas wife or granddaughter of Neit

She was one of a trinity of names (Ana, Badb and Macha) known as the Fate Trinity and regarded as aspects of Morrigan. The list is sometimes Badb, Macha, Nemain. She often appeared in the form of a crow or raven.

(see also Morrigan)

badb<sup>2</sup> Irish

[badhb(h)]

a local name for a banshee

Badb Catha Irish

a name of Badb in the form of a crow

Badé West Indian

[Gbadé]
a Haitian voodoo spirit (see also Gbadé)

Badebec European

wife of Gargantua
mother of Pantagruel

She died at the birth of her son at which time she also delivered seven camels, nine dromedaries, many mules and loaded wagons and various foodstuffs.

Bademagus (see Bagdemagus)badger<sup>1</sup> Japanese

this animal is said to be a man-eater
and to possess supernatural powers

Badger<sup>2</sup> North American

a hero of the Shoshone Indians

He saved Dove and her children by luring the monster Dzoavits into a hole in the ground and then sealing the entrance with a boulder.

Badger Prey God North American

one of the 6 Prey Gods guarding the home of Poshaiyangkyo

He is responsible for the area to the south.

Badhamair Irish

a woman captured by Finn mac Cool
She was beheaded by the warrior Cuirreach Life who was then killed and decapitated by Finn.

Badhb (see Badb)Badhbh (see Badb)badi<sup>1</sup> Malay

an evil spirit said to have sprung from the blood of Adam

Some say that these spirits live in cats, but can insert themselves into corpses, which then become terrifying ghosts.

Badí<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Vadi.Wada:=Anglo-Saxon Wade]

a giant
son of Vilcinus by Watchilt
father of Egil, Slagfinn and Volund

badi<sup>3</sup> East Indian

[=Thai khwan]
in Indonesia, the soul which, they say, can leave the body and return

Badi Mata Hindu

a mother-goddess
One of seven goddesses who came to be thought of as attacking young children.

Badiat-Coldare

(see Desert of Monsters)

Badiatealгим (see Desert of Demons)Badimo African

in the lore of the Tswana, the only ones able to communicate with the god Modimo

Badiol

a demon

Badiu Zamar Malay

son of Amir Hamza
He accompanied his father on many of his remarkable adventures.

Badjak Serbian

an oak tree burned as part of a Slava ceremony

badjang (see bajang)badjican West Indian

an assistant to a hougan

Badon (see Battle of Mount Badon)Badoura (see Badr al-Budur)Badr al-Budur Arabian

[Badoura.Bear-el-Budur.Buddur al-Buddoor]

a sultan's daughter or Chinese princess wife of Aladdin

Baduh Mesopotamian

a Semitic messenger spirit

Baduhenna German

a storm-goddess

Bael (see Baal)Baeldaez (see Baldaeg)Baell (see Baal)Baelthi Egyptian

the Egyptian name for Baalat

baetyl Greek

[baetulus.betylus]

a magical or holy stone (meteorite)

Originally a meteorite which, because of its celestial origin, was revered. Later, a representation of a deity or a place where a deity resided.

baetylus (see baetyl)Bag Korean

a police marshal

He followed a young girl back to her house and, when he entered, found her and all her family dead. He dug a large grave and buried all the bodies together. Later, the spirit of the girl came to him with information that enabled him to arrest a thief. Thereafter, she came frequently, giving him information, and he quickly acquired a great reputation as a policeman, eventually becoming a marshal of police.

Bag-Mashtu Persian

[Bag-Mazda:=Urantian Khaldu]

a sky-god, predecessor of Ahura Mazda

Baga Persian

a name for god

Bagadjimbiri Australian

creator-gods of the Aborigines

These two brothers came up out of the earth in the form of dingos, mated a toadstool with a fungus to produce humans and gave the gift of reproduction to the first people. The brothers grew into giants as high as the sky, but were killed in a dispute with the cat-man, Ngariman, and his tribe. The earth-goddess, Dilga, drowned the killers with a flood of milk from her breasts, restoring the brothers to life at the same time. When they finally died they turned into water snakes.

Bagala Hindu

a goddess
a sakti of Shiva

Bagarios (see Attis)Bagaspati Pacific Islands

[=Hindu Brhaspati]
a woodland-god of Bali

Bagba African

a spirit controlling rain and winds

Bagdemagus British

[Ba(u)demagu(s).Bra(g)demagus]

a Knight of the Round Table

a king of Gore

brother of Tarsan

father of Meliagaunt

He resented it when Torre, a younger knight, was elected to the Round Table in preference to himself and rode away from Camelot in search of adventure. He found Merlin imprisoned in the rock by Nimue but could do nothing to help him.

When his son abducted Guinevere, he intervened to save her from rape.

He was later made a member of the Round Table and set out from Camelot with the other knights on the Grail Quest. He found a white shield beside an altar in a chapel and took it although it carried a warning that it was intended for the True Prince, an epithet for Galahad. He was challenged by a knight in white armour and found that he could not lift the shield to defend himself. He was unhorsed and badly wounded in the thigh. As a result he had to give up the quest and returned to Camelot with Owain who tended to him.

He was later killed by Gawain.

Baghist (see Bagisht)Bagini Australian

a female monster, half human,
half animal

These beings are said to rape their male victims.

Bagisht Afghan

[Baghist.Opkulu]

the Kafir-god of floods and prosperity
son of Disani

He was born in the river when his mother was raped by a demon in the form of a ram. He was decapitated by his mother.

Bagistane Persian [Behistoon]
a sacred rock peak

Baglis
a demon of measures

Bagos Papparos Pbrygian
a sky-god

Bagota British
a giantess
wife of Brunor
mother of Galahaut

Bagputys Baltic
[Bangputis]
a Lithuanian sea-god

Bagvarti Armenian
a tutelary-goddess wife of Haldi

bagwyn British [=British yale]
a Welsh monster, part antelope, part horse

Bahana North American [White Brother]
a progenitor of the Hopi Indians

Bahet Egyptian
abundance personified

Bahloo Australian
a moon-god
Bahloo was originally Mulandi, a happy man, who when he died was taken up to heaven by Baime and became the moon. He was responsible for making girl babies.
(see also Bu-maya-mul)

Bahman<sup>1</sup> Persian [Long-arm]
son of Isfandiyar
He killed the hero Rustem who had earlier killed Bahman's father.

Bahman<sup>2</sup> (see Vohu Manah)

baho North American
a prayer stick of the Hopi

bahr geist German
a spirit: banshee

Bahram Persian
[=Pahlavi Vahram]
a god of victory, god of Mars and god of travellers (see also Vahagn)

Bahram fire Persian [Berezisavanh] sacred fire
One of the five types of sacred fire, Bahram fire is composed of sixteen kinds of fire and is kept alight with sandalwood each day. The other four types are Spenishta, Urvazishta, Vazishta and Vohu Fryana.

Bahram Gur Persian [Bahramgor]
foster son of the king of Hira
He was given a number of slave girls,

one of whom, Azadeh, went hunting with him. When she asked him to demonstrate his skill as an archer, he fired a pellet which grazed the ear of an antelope. When the animal raised a hoof to scratch its ear, Bahram fired an arrow that pinned the hoof to the animal's ear. Azadeh then accused him of being Ahriman himself, whereupon he knocked her to the ground and trampled her to death beneath his camel's hooves.

Bahram Yasht Persian

a fabulous bird of fire
This bird's feathers were used to repel demons. Zoroaster brushed his body with them to make himself invulnerable.

Bahramgor (see Bahram Gur)

Bahu Hindu

a king
father of Sachi

Bahubali (see Gommateshvara)

Bahucaraji Indian

a goddess whose devotees practised castration

Bahuri (see Manibhadra<sup>1</sup>)

Bahusodara Buddhist

a goddess
mother of Syama

Baiaime (see Baime)

Baidrama North American

[Vaybrama]
a god of the Taino tribe, giver of strength

Baile Irish

a prince of Ulster
He fell in love with Aillinn, a daughter of the king of Leinster, a traditional enemy of Ulster. They arranged to meet but when Baile arrived at the meeting place a stranger told him that Aillinn was dead, whereupon Baile died of grief. The same stranger then told Aillinn that her lover was dead, and she died broken-hearted. Their story was carved into branches of the yew tree and apple tree that grew on their graves, and these branches, when placed together, became inseparable.

Baime Australian

[Baiaime.B'iame.Birral.Bunjil.Daramulun. Martummere.Ngurunderi.Nurrundere] sky-god of the Aborigines husband of Birrahgnooloo and Cunnebeillee

In some versions he is the father of Daramulun. Some say that the sky is supported on large crystals resting on Biame's shoulders. Baime is normally asleep. When he woke on one occasion he turned over, and in doing so caused the flood. It is said that when he next awakes he will destroy the world.

(see also Ngurunderi.Pundjel)

Baingan Indian

a princess
It was said that she was born from an egg-plant. A local queen, jealous of the girl's beauty, tried to find Baingan's life-token so that she could kill her, but succeeded only in killing her own seven sons. She eventually discovered that the life-token was a necklace enclosed in a box inside a bee inside a fish and was able to recover it, so that Baingan died. The king found her body in the forest, where it had been placed by the old couple who had reared her, and he watched over it every day. To his amazement, it remained as fresh and lovely as ever. Some time later the king found a baby boy beside the body and this child told him that Baingan was alive at night, when the queen took off the necklace, but dead while the necklace was worn by day. The young boy eventually recovered the necklace and Baingan was fully restored to life. The evil queen died and was buried in a pit full of serpents while the king married Baingan.

Bairawi Pacific Islands

[Ambu Dewi.Batari.=Hindu Durga.Kali]
a goddess of death in Bali and Java an aspect of Dewi wife of Siwa

Bairre (see Barra)

Baishu Japanese

[Hanagaki Baishu]
a young poet
When he found a poem written by a maiden he prayed to Benten to help him find her. As he left the shrine he met the maiden and married her. Later he was invited to meet a man who said that, in a dream, Benten had described Baishu to him and said that he should marry the man's daughter who, it turned out, was the same as the woman he had already married, except that she was the soul of his new wife.

Baites, Ann British

a witch of Morpeth
She is said to have been able to turn herself into a bee, a cat, a greyhound or a hare.

Baitulos<sup>1</sup> Phoenician

the home of God

Baitulos<sup>2</sup> Phoenician

son of Ouranos and Gea

Baiyuhibi Pacific Islands

an Indonesian deity of clouds and fog
He caused rain to fall for thirty days and used the water to form mountains and valleys.

bajang Malay

[badjang]

an evil spirit appearing in the form of a polecat

This spirit can be evoked when the proper incantations are recited over the spot where a still-born child has been buried. If the bajang mews, another child will die.

Some say that the bajang takes the form of a polecat and can be kept as a sort of family pet, fed on milk and eggs, and can be sent to bring illness and disaster to others.

Bajanai Siberian

a Yakut forest spirit

He often leads travellers astray and sometimes appears in the form of an animal.

Bajardo *(see Bayard)baka West Indian

in Haitian voodoo lore, a zombie turned into an animal

Bakasura Hindu

one of the demons, in the form of a huge raven, sent by Kansa to kill the infant Krishna

bakemono Japanese

evil spirits with long hair but no feet

Included in this term are the Kappa,
Mono-no-ke, Oni, Tengu and Yama-uba

Bakchos *(see Bacchus)Bake Pacific Islands

[Inangi-l-Bake]

an Indonesian ogress

Bake-Jizo Japanese

a statue of Jizo placed at crossroads

Bakh *(see Buchis)Bakha *(see Buchis)Bakhe *(see Buchis)Bakhos *(see Bacchus.Dionysus)Bakhu *(see Baku)Bakoa Pacific Islands

a demi-god

an ancestor of the Gilbert Islanders husband of Nei Nguiriki

father of Taburimai and Teanoi

Their first offspring were the fish.

Their son Taburimai was a man, but Teanoi was a shark.

Bakongo *(see Manikongo)Bakothal *(see Tuchaipai.Yokomatis)Bakou *(see Baku)bakru South American

evil little people, made by magic, half flesh and blood, half wooden

baktun Central American

in Mayan calculations, a period of 144,000 days, about 400 years

Baku Japanese

[Bakhu.Bakou.Eater of Dreams]

a supernatural being

This being was envisaged as a horse with the face of a lion and the feet of a tiger. In some versions it had a trunk like an elephant. It was said that it could be invoked to eat bad dreams, so averting ill fortune for the dreamer.

Bakula<sup>1</sup> *(see Nakula)bakula<sup>2</sup> *(see mukulu)Bala<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Balaparamita]

one of the 12 Paramita goddesses,
power personified

Bala<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a mother-goddess

Bala<sup>3</sup> Jain

one of 24 messenger-goddesses

Bala-Ram *(see Balarama)Bala-Rama *(see Balarama)Bala-Sakti Indian

a Tamil goddess

Balabhadra Hindu

a god

brother of Jagannath and Subhadra

Baladeva Jain

a name for Balarama in Jainism

Baladewa Pacific Islands

a name for Balarama in the Pacific

brother of Kresna and Subadra

Baladu Nuhasi *(see Copper City)Balagan Siberian

a Yakut spirit, guardian of the home

Balaha Buddhist

the winged white horse of Avalokiteshvara

Balahadra *(see Balarama)balai *(see night witches)Balakrishna Hindu

[Balakrsna]

the god Krishna in the form of a child

Balakrsna *(see Balakrishna)Balam<sup>1</sup> Central American

4 Mayan guardian deities

They protect the individual from danger, one standing at each corner of a settlement. Their names are listed under Bacabs. (see also Bacabs)

Balam<sup>2</sup> Buddhist

a goddess of healing

Balam<sup>3</sup>

[Balan]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This being is said to have one human and two animal heads and can foretell

the future. In some versions, he is depicted as a bull or as a naked man riding a bear and carrying a hawk.

Balam Agab Central American

['night jaguar'.Tiger of the Night]

in Mayan lore, one of the first 4 men

brother of Balam Quitze, Iqi Balam

and Mahucutah

He and his brothers were created from maize flour and broth brewed by Xmucané. Each had his own guardian spirit, Avilux being allocated to Balam Agab. The gods created a woman for each of the brothers and they produced children, who became the ancestors of the tribes when their parents returned to their original home in paradise.

Balam Bacham Malay

the bridge leading from this world to Belet, the home of the dead

Balam Quitze Central American['smiling jaguar'.Tiger with the Sweet Smile]

in Mayan lore, one of the first 4 men

brother of Balam Agab, Iqi Balam

and Mahucutah

husband of Caha-Paluma

He and his brothers were created from maize-flour and broth brewed by Xmucané. Each had his own guardian spirit, Tohil being allocated to Balam Quitze.

Balan<sup>1</sup> British

a Knight of the Round Table

brother of Balin

Out of favour with King Arthur, Balan
and his brother rode to Castle Terribil, which was besieged by Royns, hoping to kill Royns and regain the king's favour. They captured Royns and handed him over to the warders at Camelot and subsequently helped the king in his battles with Nero, the brother of Royns.

In a later adventure he was appointed by the lady of a castle to defend an island nearby against all-comers. One of these turned out to be his brother Balin and they fought each other to the death, realizing only when they raised their visors at the end that they had fulfilled the prophecy that the second sword acquired by Balin would be used to kill his best friend. (see also Balan<sup>2</sup>)

Balan<sup>2</sup> European

a giant Saracen, king of Spain

father of Fierabras and Floripaz

He and his son captured Rome and killed the Pope. Charlemagne came to the rescue, but the Saracens, taking with them the holy relics, escaped to Spain, hotly pursued by the Franks. Fierabras met Oliver in single combat and when defeated became a Christian. Balan refused to convert and was put to death.

In some accounts, he is the same as Balan, brother of Balin.

Balan<sup>3</sup>
a demon, a prince of hell

He is depicted naked astride a bear.

Balan<sup>4</sup> (see Balam<sup>2</sup>)

Balance (see Libra)

Balancho Tibetan

[Balang Cho]
one of the Five Lands

This realm was the home of giants who lived for over 500 years, herding cattle.

Balandara (see Balandhara)

Balandhara Hindu

[Balandara]
a princess
mother of Sarvaga by Bhima

Balang Cho (see Balancho)

Balaparamita (see Bala<sup>1</sup>)

Balar (see Balor)

Balarama Hindu

[Balahadra.Halayudha.Langali.Madhupriya: =Jain Baladeva:=Tamil Samkarsana.
Silappadikaram:=Pacific Baladewa] son of Vasudeva and Devaki half brother of Krishna consort of Revati
father of Nisatha and Ulmuka
father of Shanu, some say

He was said to have been born from a white hair of Vishnu, and his half brother Krishna from a black hair placed in the womb of Devaki and later transferred to the womb of Rohini. As a young man he killed many giants and monsters, including the demon Dhenuka and the huge ape Dvidiva.

In the war between the Pandavas and the Kauravas, Balarama demanded that Duryodhana release Samba, whom he had imprisoned, and backed his demand by demolishing the city walls with his mighty plough.

He helped Krishna in his fight with Kansa, using his favourite weapon, a ploughshare.

Those who hold that Krishna was a god in his own right rather than an avatar of Vishnu say that Balarama was the seventh or eighth incarnation. Others say he was an incarnation of Ananta, the world-serpent, and that he was killed in a drunken brawl. Some say that he was not drunk but full of water that flowed out of his body, leaving just the skin. Some say that Ananta appeared from his mouth and flew away. In some accounts he is an incarnation of Vishnu.

His symbols are a club called Saunanda, the pestle Musala and his plough Hala, the ploughshare of which he used as a weapon.

Balatchko Serbian

a warrior with 3 heads

When the tsar and his train were leaving Leyden, having won the hand of the king's daughter, Roksanda, the king sent this great hero to bring his daughter back. Despite the flames from one of the warrior's heads and the icy blasts from another, Milosh killed Balatchko and cut off all his heads.

Balay

an angel of the first heaven,
controlling the north and Monday

Balberith (see Baal-Berith)

Balbuaidh (see Bhalbuaidh)

Balbhuaidh (see Bhalbuaidh)

Balbog (see Bylebog)

Baldaeg Anglo-Saxon

[Baeldeg.Baldeg]
the Anglo-Saxon version of Balder

Baldeg (see Baeldeg)

Balder<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Bald(u)r:'lord'Paltar.P(h)ol:=Anglo-Saxon Bal(a)daeg:=Greek Achilles]
god of day, light, tears son of Odin and Frigga brother of Hermod(r), Hoder, Thor husband of Nanna
father of Forseti

Balder was the best loved of all the gods and when he dreamed of some great danger to himself, his mother extracted an oath from all things that they would never cause him harm. But she had overlooked the humble mistletoe. Loki, always out to cause trouble, persuaded the blind Hoder to throw a branch of mistletoe at his brother, which killed him. Nanna died of grief and their bodies were placed side by side on his funeral pyre. Odin leaned over the dead body of his son and whispered in his ear: 'Rebirth', reminding Balder that he was to be reborn into a new world after Ragnarok.

Other versions say that he was killed by the magic sword, Mistelteinn, when fighting a duel with Hoder for the favours of Nanna.

Hermod rode to Niflheim on Sleipnir to ask for the release of Balder; Hela would have returned him to life if all the world had wept for him, but one giantess, Thok, who some say was Loki in disguise, refused to shed a tear for him and he was kept in the underworld. He sent Odin's ring, Draupnir, which had been placed on his funeral pyre, back to Odin with Hermod.

In some versions it was Hnoss, the young daughter of Freya, who dreamed of Balder's death and Odin rode to Niflheim to find out from the prophetess, Volva, whether the dream would come true.

An alternative story makes Balder a harsh character and Hoder the virtuous one. (see also Bildr)

Balder<sup>2</sup> Norse

in some accounts, Odin's horse

Balder's Dream (see Vegtamskvida)

Balder's Stead (see Braidablik)

Baldershage Norse

a grove sacred to Balder

Baldr (see Balder)

Baldrs Drauma (see Vegtamskvida)

Baldulf British

a Saxon leader
brother of Colgrin

He fought alongside his brother in several battles against King Arthur and was killed at the Battle of Mount Badon.

Baldur (see Balder)

Baldwin<sup>1</sup> British

[Boudin] brother of King Mark husband of Anglides
father of Alisander

He was murdered by his own brother.

Baldwin<sup>2</sup> European

one of Charlemagne's paladins
son of Gano

He was with Roland at Roncesvalles and, disclaiming his treacherous father, fought bravely until killed by the Saracens.

Baldwin<sup>3</sup> European

[Baudouinet]
son of Ogier and Belicene

He was presented at Charlemagne's court at an early age and became a companion to the emperor's son, Charlot. The latter lost his temper when Baldwin was winning a game of chess and struck the boy over the head with the chess board, killing him outright.

In other accounts, Renaut killed Bertelai and Charlot killed Alardo in this fashion.

Baldwin<sup>4</sup> European
duke of Bologna
brother of Godfrey of Bouillon
He succeeded his brother as king of Jerusalem in Jerusalem Delivered.

Baldwin<sup>5</sup> (see Bidwini)

Bale Fe'e Pacific Islands
an undersea palace, home of Fe'e, the Samoan war-god

Bale Kenchur East Indian
a mortuary in Java

It is said that the living may receive messages from the dead in such places.

balepa Pacific Islands
in the lore of New Britain, the body of someone newly dead flying in the air on a mat

Baleygr Norse
a name of Odin as 'he of the flaming eyes'

Bali<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Baly.Mahabali]
a demon-god, king of Sutala, part of the underworld
one of the Daityas
son of Hiranyakashipu, Prahlada or Virochana husband of Vindhyaivali
father of Bana and Putana

He acquired so much power he might have ousted the god Indra. Vishnu, as his fifth avatar, the dwarf Vamana, asked the king for three paces of land. He then grew so enormous that he covered the world in two paces, leaving Bali only the underworld, Patala.

Bali<sup>2</sup> (see Balin<sup>2</sup>)

balian Indonesian
a medium

Such people claim to be able to communicate with spirits and to protect property by the use of charms.

Balidet
a demon acting as a minister of Amaimon

Balin<sup>1</sup> British

[Balin of Northumberland.Balin the Savage.Knight of Two Swords]
a Knight of the Round Table
brother of Balan

He had killed a cousin in a fair fight and had been unjustly imprisoned.

He was the only knight at Arthur's court who could draw the sword that was brought by a damsel from Lyle, the Lady of Avalon. It had been her lover's sword and the Lady of Lyle had put a spell on it. The maiden, Colombe, warned him that he would use it to kill his best friend but he kept it and became the Knight of the Two Swords.

He was then accused by the Lady of the Lake of killing her brother. He recognised her as the witch who had brought about the death of his mother and he cut off her head with the sword. Banished from the court, he sent the witch's head to his relatives and set out to find adventure. He was overtaken by Launceor who was intent on avenging the death of the Lady of the Lake and acquiring the magic sword, but Balin killed him in single combat. The damsel, Colombe, then arrived on the scene and killed herself by falling on her lover's sword.

Riding on, he met his brother Balan. They planned to ride to Castle Terribil and kill Lord Royns who was besieging the castle, hoping thereby to regain the king's favour. They ambushed Royns and took him as their prisoner to Camelot, handing him over to the warders.

The brothers helped Arthur in his subsequent battles with Nero, brother of Royns, and King Lot. When Harleus was killed by the invisible knight Garlon, Balin escorted the dead knight's lady in pursuit of his quest. She was attacked by a group of men when they arrived at a castle but Balin drove them off. They said they needed the blood of a virgin to save the life of the lady of the castle, so the girl gave them some of her blood, but it failed to cure the sick woman. This story is similar to that of Dindrane.

Balin attended a tournament arranged by King Pelham and, when challenged by the invisible knight Garlon (who was Pelham's brother), cut off his head. Pelham then attacked Balin with a battle-axe and broke his sword. In searching for another weapon, Balin came to a room in which lay the perfectly preserved body of an old man with a strange spear. He seized the spear and killed or wounded Pelham, whereupon the castle was destroyed, killing most of those inside.

Merlin told Balin that the body was that of Joseph of Arimathea and the spear was the one used by the centurion Longinus to pierce Christ's side at the Crucifixion. This spear and the Holy Grail had been brought to Britain by Joseph, an ancestor of Pelham. Balin's journeying then brought him to a castle where he was lavishly entertained until the lady of the castle said he must joust with the knight who guarded the nearby island. He crossed to the island by boat and fought the knight in red armour who rode out to challenge him. They fought so fiercely and each wounded the other so severely that they both died, but, before they expired, Balin discovered that the knight in red armour was his own brother, Balan. The prophecy of the sword had been fulfilled.

Balin<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Bali.Valin]
son of Indra
half brother of Sugriva husband of Dara

He was said to have been born from his half brother's hair.

He challenged the demon Ravana to a contest and tied him in the coils of his long hair, parading him round the country to show off the captive demon.

He also challenged his half brother Sugriva for his throne and used his magic power of reducing the strength of any opponent merely by looking at him. Rama was helping Sugriva and he grew stronger as Sugriva grew weaker until he finally burst out of hiding and killed Balin.

Balin of Northumberland (see Balin<sup>1</sup>)

Balin the Savage (see Balin<sup>1</sup>)

Balinus Greek
a scholar

It is said that he excavated under the state of Hirmis in Hermopolis and came upon Hirmis himself sitting holding a tablet on which he had written his great work. Balinus received this tablet and gave it to Aristotle, the great philosopher.

Balios Greek

[Balius]
a horse given by Poseidon or Zeus to Peleus

This animal, fathered by Zephyr on Podarge, was later the chariot-horse of Achilles at Troy. (see also Xanthus)

Balisarda (see Balisardo)

Balisardo European [Balisarda.Belisardo]
the sword of Rogero made by Falerina

Balitok Pacific Islands

a man who decapitated the god Montinig

After the attack, it is said the god's severed head continued to chew betel nut and mocked his assailants.

Baliu Pacific Islands

a god who controls the human life span

Balios (see Balios)

Balkin
an evil spirit serving the demon Luridan

Balkis
[Balqis.Belkis.Bilkis.Bilqis]
a queen of Sheba

The Abyssinians claim that Balkis married King Solomon and they had a son, Menelik, from whom the royal family descended.

ball seirc Irish
the love-spot on Dermot's forehead

ball-tailed cat North American
a fabulous animal

Ballad of the High One (see Havamal)

Ballamora (see Pellimore)

Ballisaugon
an evil demon, patron of thieves

Balma Irish
wife of Lara

She and her husband, together with Fintan, were survivors of the flood.

Balmarcodes Phoenician
[=Syrian Hadad]
a deity, lord of the dance

Balmarkos Greek
the Greek name for Baal-Marqod

Balmik Hindu
[Rishi Balmik.Valmik(i)] (2nd/3rd c BC)

a religious writer, said to be the author of the Sanskrit Ramayana.

In some accounts, he is equated with Lal Beg. (see also Tulsi Das)

Balmung (see Gram)

baloi African sorcerers in Zambia

baloma East Indian
the spirit of a dead relative in Papua New Guinea

Balon Zacab Central American
a Mayan rain-god, a form of Chac

Balongahoya (see Palongwhoya)

Baloo Australian
an Aboriginal moon-god in New South Wales

Men were once immortal but when two of them refused to carry Baloo's dogs (or snakes) across a river, he took away man's immortality.

Balor
[Balar.Bolur]
the one-eyed Fomoiré god of the underworld

son of Buarainech or Dot husband of Ceithlenn or Dana father of Ethlinn and Bres
grandfather of Lugh

He lost one eye from poison administered by the druids when he saw their secret rituals. His remaining eye had the power to kill by a mere glance. It was said that it required four men to raise his eyelid.

In some accounts he had one eye in the middle of his forehead. This eye had seven lids and the heat from the eye progressively increased as each lid was raised until, finally, it could set the countryside on fire. Others said it could turn animals or men into stone.

A prophecy said that Balor would be killed by his grandson so he locked his daughter Ethlinn in a tower, Tur Bhalair, so that she could not be touched by any man. Cian gained access to her by disguising himself as a woman and seduced her. The child of this union, Lugh, was thrown into the sea on Balor's orders, but was rescued by the sea-god Manannan.

He once stole the magic cow, Glas Gabnach, from Gobhniu who retrieved it by subterfuge. Some say that Balor invaded Ireland to recover the cow and the second Battle of Moytura ensued and here Lugh killed Balor with his spear or with a magic stone, Tathlum, flung from his sling into his grandfather's eye. (see also Bile<sup>1</sup>)

Balor's Hill (see Hill of Aisneach)

Balphegor Mesopotamian
an Assyrian god (see also Baal-Peor)

Balsamem (see Balshameme)

Balshameme Semitic
[Baalsamame.Balsamem.Balshamin.Balshim]
a thunder-god

(see Balshameme)

Balshim (see Balshameme)

Baltazo
a demon said to have taken possession of a girl in 1566

Balthi (see Belet-ili)

Baltis Mesopotamian
a local Arabian goddess, the planet Venus personified

balubaale African [balubare] nature spirits of the Baganda

balubare (see balubaale)

Balujen Pacific Islands

a deity in the Philippines son of Kadaklan and Agemem brother of Adam

Balugante European
a sub-king in Spain

He was in charge of the third of the three armies hidden in ambush at Roncesvalles.

Balungwana African
sky-people to the Baronga

These are said to be tiny people, who are attendant upon the supreme god, Mulungu or Tilo.

Baly (see Bali)

Bamapana Australian
an Aboriginal trickster hero who delighted in causing trouble

Bambang Kalingga East Indian
a prince
husband of Nilawata
father of Sakri

He killed a serpent who was, in reality, the spirit of the mother of Nilawata who then married him.

Bambi (see Nzambi)

Bamboo Princess Malay
a princess who lived inside a bamboo cane

She was discovered by Khatib when he split open a bamboo cane and they both disappeared. Although they cannot be seen, they both still live and their help can be invoked and they will do anything they are asked to do.

Bamum Australian
the name of the dreamtime used in Arnhem Land

The ancestral spirits, known as the Wongan, lived during this period. (see also alchera)

Ban British

king of Benwick brother of Bors husband of Elaine father of Lancelot

In some accounts, his wife was Sabe and they had a daughter, Liban. Italian stories call his wife Constance. He had an affair with the wife of Agravadin, fathering Ector de Maris.

He and his brother brought an army to Britain to help King Arthur in his battles with the rebellious barons.

In one account, he left his castle in the hands of his steward and left for Britain to seek help from King Arthur in his battles with Claudas, taking his family with him. He died of grief when the steward surrendered the castle without a fight. His brother Bors died of grief on hearing of Ban's death.

ban nighechain British

[nigheag na h-àth]
the Scottish version of the Grey Washer by the Ford

(see Washer by the Ford)

Bana Hindu

[Vairochi] a storm-demon with 1,000 arms son of Bali
father of Usha

He captured Aniruddha as a husband for Usha but the boy's grandfather, Krishna, rescued him and allowed Bana to live after cutting off all his arms.

Banaded Egyptian

[Ba Neb Djedet. Ba Neb Tettu. Bandeddetet.

Baneb-Ded. Banebdjedet. Banebtettu.

Binded:=Greek (Ram of) Mendes]

a ram-god, ruler of the sky

consort of Hatmehyt

father of Harpakhrad

This deity was believed to be an incarnation of Osiris. He was part of the Mendean Triad with Harpakhrad and Hatmehyt.

bananachs Irish

evil spirits accompanying Morrigan

(see also bachlach. bocanachs)

Banaspati (see kala<sup>2</sup>)

Banba Irish

[Banbha]

a fertility-goddess

an aspect of the Triple Goddess

wife of mac Cool

One of three goddesses, with Eire and Fohla, original rulers of Ireland. In some accounts she, not Cessair, led the first invasion of Ireland.

Some say that she married one of the sons of Turenn.

Banbha (see Banba)

Banblai Irish

father of Buic

Bandara Hindu

a group of minor gods in Ceylon

Bandeddetet (see Banaded)

bandicoot Australian

the Aborigines say that the bandicoot was the owner of fire until it was stolen by the hawk or the pigeon

Baneb-Ded (see Banaded)

Banebdjedet (see Banaded)

Banebtettu (see Banaded)

Banfile (see Brigit<sup>1</sup>)

Banga African

a water-god of the Ngbandi

He is said to have created the white races.

Bangar East Indian

son of Timbehes

brother of Lean and Sisianlik

This family is regarded in New Guinea as the ancestor of the tribes.

Bangma Hindu

a bird that proclaimed oracles

Bangon British

a king of Avalon, in some accounts

Bangputis (see Bagputys)

Banin British

a Knight of the Round Table

godson of King Ban

bankita (see nkita)

Banko Japanese

an admiral of the Chinese fleet

He was entrusted with the task of taking to Japan the three treasures given by the emperor Koso to his wife Kohaku Jo.

Banks' Horse (see Marocco)

Bannik Russian

a household spirit, a type of Domovik

Some accounts describe the bannik as an evil spirit in bath houses. He is depicted as an old man with a large head.

Banoi Pacific Islands

the land of dead in the New Hebrides

(see also Abokas)

Banon British

father of Isgawyn

Banovitch Serbian

[Banovitch Strahinya]

a hero

His wife was abducted by the Turk Vlah-Ali, but Banovitch killed him after a tremendous fight and rescued her.

Banschi Irish

queen of the elves (see also banshee)

banshee Irish

[badhb(h). banshie. bansith. bean si(dhe).

benshee. si-b(h)ean:=Scottish caoineag:

=Welsh cyhyreath]

a wailing spirit foretelling doom

a female fairy

Banshees are rarely seen, but are said to look like old women with long white hair.

(see also Banschi.si-bhean)

banshie (see banshee)

bansith (see banshee)

Banu Hilal Arabian

[Sons of Hilal]

a book about the exploits of various heroes, including the warrior Abu Zayd

Banw British

a young boar, in Welsh lore, offspring

of Twrch Trwyth

banyan Hindu

the sacred fig tree

bao<sup>1</sup> African [loho]

a board used by Swahili diviners

bao<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

in New Caledonia, a stone said to contain the soul of a dead person

Some small animal captured by a priest during a vigil at the side of a corpse is plunged into a river or stream, from which the priest then produces a stone in which the soul is petrified.

(see also panyao)

Baoisce Irish

father of Ealtan

An ancestor of Finn mac Cool.

bapfumu African

diviners of the Banyarwanda

Bapho Greek

a name for Set or Babi

Baphomet

the supposed idol of the Knights Templar

a goat revered by witches

Baptae (see Baptes)

Baptes Greek

[Baptae]

priests of Cotytto

Baqiya Arabian

a name for Jirjis as 'the survivor'

Baquicie West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Bar Lgura Mesopotamian

a Semitic demon

Bara Mesopotamian

[Baragulla.]

a Babylonian oracular-god

son of Ea

Baragulla (see Bara)

son of Ea (see Abu Zayd)

a demon

Barashnum Persian

a ceremony to expel demons that lasts for 9 days

Barastaer (see Barastar)

Barastar Russian

[Barastaer. Berastis]

an Ossetian god of the underworld

Barastis (see Barastar)

Barat (see Bharata)

Barataria European

an island city in Don Quixote

Sancho Panza was made governor of this city but was allowed to eat nothing.

Baraton British

in Arthurian lore, a king of Russia

Baratra (see Batara Guru)

Baratron

an evil demon

He is depicted as a sorcerer in priestly robes.

Barbariccia European

[Barbiger]

a demon in Dante's Inferno

Barbarossa German

the 12th c emperor Frederick I

He is said to be sleeping in a cave awaiting a recall to save his country. Some say he is seated at a table in the cave, and when his beard, which still grows, is long enough to go three times round the table he will wake up.

Barbarot

an angel of the second heaven,
controlling the East and Wednesday

Barbas (see Barbason.Marbas)

Barbason British

a demon in Shakespeare

In some accounts he is the same as Marbas.

Barbatos

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as the leader of a band of hunters and can foretell the future.

Barbazel

a demon of the planet Mars

barbegazi European mountain spirits of the Alps

They sleep through the summer but emerge in the winter to help climbers.

Barbiel

a demon of the sign Scorpio,

the scorpion (see also Sartziel)

Barbiger British

the English verion of Barbariccia

Barbil

a demon

Barbmo-akka Baltic

[Loddis-edne]

in Lapp lore, an old woman who causes

the birds to return in the spring

Barchiel

[Bac(h)iel]

a demon ruling the sign Pisces,

the fish (see also Vacabiel)

Barcus

a demon

Bardha Baltic

in Albania, whitish spirits who live

under the earth

bardo Buddhist

in Tibet, the state between death and rebirth

Bardo Thodol' Buddhist

[Tibetan Book of the Dead]

a work that gives instructions on how the dying can pass through death and rebirth while still remaining conscious

Bardol Thodol' Tibetan

a group of Buddhist goddesses

This group is made up of four Doorkeepers, eight Htamenmas, eight Kerimas and twenty-eight Wang-chug-mas.

Bareddoyats Russian

a god of ships

baresark (see berserkers)

Bardney British

[=Welsh Ynys Enlli]

an island off the coast of Wales

This is the island where Merlin, with nine attendants, is said to sleep with the Thirteen Treasures of Britain.

baresman (see barsom)

bargaist British

[barghaist.barg(h)est.barg(u)est.barquest.

padfoot.Shrikey.Trash]

a goblin in dog-like or bear-like form

This spectral beast, which makes a splashing sound as it walks, is said to be unable to cross water and is regarded as an omen of death in the north of England. (see also gytrash)

Bargas

a demon

bargest (see bargaist)

barghaist (see bargaist)

barghest (see bargaist)

Barginiel

a demon of the hours of the day

barquest (see bargaist)

Bari (see Buri<sup>2</sup>)

bariaua Pacific Islands

in Melanesia, harmless spirits living in tree trunks

Bariel

a demon of the hours of the day

Barinthus British

[Navigator]

a sea-god

He was the pilot of the boat that carried King Arthur to Avalon.

Baris Mesopotamian

the place where, according to the Babylonian story, the Ark landed

when the flood subsided

barker

a person who has been possessed by a dog-spirit

bark Egyptian

[barque]

the boat of the gods

bark shrine Egyptian

a part of a temple in which models of the gods' boats were kept

Barkaial (see Barkayal)

Barkayal

[Barkaial]

one of the 7 Ischin

He passed on knowledge of astronomy to human beings.

Barku

[Barqu]

a demon who was said to know the secret of the transmutation of base metals into gold

Barley King

a vegetation deity

This deity is ritually castrated and killed at the end of the harvest.

Barma

a demon

He was said to be able to change the form of sorcerers and to transport them wherever they wished to go.

Barman

an evil demon said to take possession of humans

Barmecide's Feasts Arabian

in The Arabian Nights, a meal at which the beggar Schacabac is offered empty plates instead of the promised meal

Barmiel

a demon of surrender in war

Baron

a demon

Baron Cimetière (see Baron Samedi)

Baron la Croix (see Baron Samedi)

Baron Miuisit (see Miuisit)

Baron Piquant (see Baron Samedi)

Baron Samedi West Indian

[(Baron) Cimetière.(Baron) la Croix.(Baron)

Piquant.(Baron) Saturday]

a god of death and guardian of tombs

(see also Ghede)

Baron Saturday (see Baron Samedi)

Barong Pacific Islands

a lion king, a good spirit opposed by Rangda

Baroquel European

a farmer

He sheltered Sibilla when she fled to escape the clutches of Macherijs and escorted her on her journey to her home in Constantinople.

barozi African

sorcerers of the Banyarwanda

Barqu (see Barku)

barque (see bark)

barquest (see bargaist)

Barra Irish

[Bairre.Barrhind.Barry.Finbar.Findbhair(e).

Fionnbharra.Loan]

a saint, patron saint of Cork

son of Amergin

His father slept with a slave girl and

King Tigernmas ordered their death.

The child, still in the womb, spoke to the king who then changed his mind.

The child, a boy called Loan, was raised by monks who called him

Fionnbharra. He founded many monasteries and schools and was said to have raised the wife of a king from the dead. It was said that during a confession he placed his hand in the hand of God, and thereafter his hand glowed with a holy brilliance. At his death the sun stood still for three days.

Barrhind (see Barra)

Barri (see Buri<sup>2</sup>)

Barrow of Death French

a white-shrouded wheelbarrow

The sound of this barrow, led by a skeleton, is said, in Brittany, to portend death.

Barrow-wight Norse
the ghost of a dead person, said to live in a barrow

Barruc (see Berroc)

baru
a magician: an occultist

Barry (see Barra)

Barsamin Armenian
a sky-god, god of weather

barsem (see barsom)

baresman (see barsom)
barsom Persian [baresman.barsem.barseman]
a charm

This device, used to ward off demons, was originally made of twigs but is now a bundle of metal rods, five to thirty-three in number. It must never be kept in a house where a dog or person has died and must never be pointed towards the north, where demons are said to live.

Others accounts describe barsom as the grasses that are spread on the ground before a sacrifice.

barstukai Baltic [partstukai]
Lithuanian spirits of the underworld who helped with the harvest

Baruc<sup>1</sup> British
a caliph

When Gahauret travelled to the East, he served at the court of this ruler of Baghdad.

Baruc<sup>2</sup> British
a knight of King Arthur's court

Baruch Irish
a warrior of the Red Branch

He was one of the group that met Deirdre and Naisi on their return from Scotland and was a party to their betrayal.

Baruchas
a demon who passes on secret knowledge

Basa-Andre Basque
a wild creature
wife of Basa-Jaun

In some accounts she is a sorceress who, combing her long hair in the entrance to her cave, lures men to their death, while in others she is a witch.

Basa-Jaun Basque
[Basajau.Basso-Jaun.=French Homme de Bouc]
a wild creature
husband of Basa-Andre

In some accounts, he is a mischievous wood sprite, faun or forest-god, in others an ogre.

Basagante European
a giant
son of Famongomadan

He and his father captured a number of knights and maidens, including Leonoretta, daughter of the king, Lisuarte, but they met Amadis of the road and he killed the giants and freed their prisoners.

Basajaun (see Basa-Jaun)

Basalus Greek [Passalus]
son of Oceanus and Thea
twin brother of Acmon

He and Acmon were known as the Cercopes, deceitful gnomes who could assume many shapes. They stole weapons from Heracles who later captured them both and carried them over his shoulder, tied head down to his large club. He and his brother were said to have been changed into monkeys by Zeus.

Basamum Arabian
a god of healing

Basanti Hindu
a goddess of healing
one of the 6 sisters of Shitala

(see Shitala)
Basarids (see Bassarids)

Bascna Irish
leader of one of the clans in the Fianna under Finn mac Cool

Bash Tchelik Serbian
a warrior

He abducted the wife of a prince who, after many adventures, found her. She had discovered that Bash Tchelik's tremendous strength lay in a bird living in the heart of a fox. With the help of the dragon, the eagle and the falcon who had married his three sisters, the prince killed the fox and the bird in its heart so that Bash Tchelik died and the prince was able to recover his wife.

Basileus (see Zeus)
basilisk European
a fabulous monster, part cockatrice, part dragon, which could kill with its eyes or its breath

In some accounts the basilisk is equated with the cockatrice; others refer to it as the king of the serpents. Some say that it was hatched from an egg laid by a cockerel and incubated by a toad.

It is depicted as about a foot long with a white mark or golden cross on its head and with its tail in its mouth.

Basin European
a thief

In some accounts, it was Basin with whom Charlemagne, as Magnus, went out to steal.

basir East Indian
a Dayak priest and sorcerer

These men often dress in the clothes of women.

basitondo (see sitondo)

Basmu Mesopotamian
a chaos-viper, one of the Eleven Mighty Helpers of Tiamat

Bassareae (see Bassarids)

Bassareus Greek
a name of Dionysus reflecting the wearing of a fox skin (bassaris)

Bassarides (see Bassarids)

Bassarids Greek [Basarids.Bassareae.Bassarides]
a name for bacchantes reflecting the wearing of a fox skin (bassaris)

Basso-Jaun (see Basa-Jaun)

Bassosennin Japanese
a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-bushu

Bast Egyptian
[Ailuros.Bastet.Bubastis.LittleCat.Ma(a)u.Mew.Pasht.Sakhmet.Shesmetet.Ubastet.Ubasti.=Greek Artemis]

a cat-headed or lion-headed fertility-goddess and fire-goddess consort of Ra mother of Mihos

mother of Bubastis, some say

In some versions she is the daughter of Ra, in others she is merged with the lion-headed goddess Sakhmet or with Isis. In some accounts she is Bubastis after the city that was the centre of her influence, in others Bubastis was her son.

In her cat-headed form she was known as Pasht. (see also Atet)

Bastet (see Bast)

Basudewa Pacific Islands
the name for Vasudeva in the Pacific

Basuki Pacific Islands
[Ses(h)ja(naga)=Hindu Vasuki]
in the lore of Bali, a serpent of the underworld: the serpent on which Wisnu rests

Bat<sup>1</sup> Egyptian [Bata]

a cow-goddess, goddess of fertility
This being is sometimes depicted as a bull.

Bat<sup>2</sup> North American [Old Woman Bat]

an old man (or woman) in American Indian lore
In some tales Bat, although old and very small, rescues a deity or human hero stranded on some high summit, often using a basket suspended from one thread of a spider's web.

Bat Horin (see Bath Chorin)

Bata<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a shepherd
brother of Anpu

He lived with his elder brother and his wife and served both of them almost as a servant. When his sister-in-law tried to seduce him he rejected her advances, whereupon she accused him of rape. Anpu would have killed his brother but, warned by an ox, Bata fled, with his brother in hot pursuit. The gods caused a river full of crocodiles to appear between them and Bata made good his escape to the land of the acacias where his soul lived in the blossom of an acacia tree. Here the gods gave him a beautiful wife who, when the king heard of her beauty and sent her gifts, proved unfaithful, leaving Bata and going to Egypt to live in luxury. At the woman's request the king had the acacia tree cut down and Bata died, but his brother collected some of the seed, steeped it in water and Bata was reborn, becoming a bull. Again, to please the woman, the king had the bull slaughtered and when two drops of its blood fell near the city entrance gates, two huge trees sprang up overnight. Again Bata was alive in a tree and once more she tried to get rid of him by persuading the king to fell the trees. A small chip of wood from the feller's axe flew into her mouth and she swallowed it, becoming pregnant as a result. In due course the child, Bata again, succeeded his 'father' the king and made Anpu his heir. In his royal role he judged his faithless wife and condemned her to death. When he died, Anpu became king.

Bata<sup>2</sup> (see Bat)

Bataille Loquifer French
a French story of Renoart and Morgan le Fay

Batala<sup>1</sup> (see Batara Guru)

Batala<sup>2</sup> (see Obtala)

Batara Guru Malay
[Bat(h)ala.Baratra.Betara Guru.Bhat(t)ara. Guru.Indera. Venerable Teacher.Worshipful Master.=Pacific Islands Indera] a sky-god and creator-god
a name for Indra or Shiva in Java, Malaya, etc.

father of Boru Deak Parudjar
In Sumatra he is a creator-god whose daughter, Boru Deak, jumped into the primordial waters. Her father sent a bird with some soil to form the land and then a hero who defeated the underworld serpent, Naga Pahoda. This hero married Boru Deak and they produced the first mortal.

In Sulawesi he is regarded as the son of Guru ri Seleng who married his cousin Nyilitimo, and they became the ancestors of the tribes.

In some accounts, Boru Deak was the daughter of Ompu Tuhan, in others, Batara Guru is identified with Si Raya or with Mambang Tali Harus.

Batara Kala Pacific Islands

a creator-god and god of the underworld, in the lore of Bali
He was said to rule jointly with the goddess Setesuyara.

Batari Pacific Islands

a name applied to Bairawi, Durga and Kali

Batea<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Bat(e)ia]
daughter of Teucer
second wife of Dardanus
mother of Erichthonius and Ilus

Batea<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Bat(e)ia]
a nymph, one of the Naiads
mother of Hippocoon and Icarus by Oebalus, some say

Bateaia (see Batea)

Bath Chorin Mesopotamian

[Btat Horin]
a nocturnal evil spirit that brought diseases

Bathala

a name for Shiva in the Philippines (see also Batara Guru.Mahacabatar)

Bathillus Greek

a boy beloved of Polycrates

Bathin (see Bathym)

Bathym

[Bathin.Ma(r)thim]
a demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as a serpent-tailed man riding a horse and is said to be wise in the lore of herbs.

Batia (see Batea)

Bato Japanese

[Bato-Kwannon]
a name of Kwannon as 'horse-headed' and guardian of horses

The reference is not to the head of the goddess but to the horse's head set into her tiara.

Bato-Kwannon (see Bato)

Batraal

a demon

Batradz (see Batrodz)

Batrodz Russian

[Batradz]
a Sarmatian hero

The story of his death and the return of his sword to a lake closely follows the Arthurian legend which may have been its origin.

Battle-maidens (see Valkyries)

Battle of Achall Irish

a battle in which Tuathall overthrew the usurper Eilium and gained the throne of Ireland formerly held by his father, Fiachu

Battle of Achren (see Battle of Godeu)

Battle of Archamp European

a battle between the Franks, led by Tiébart de Bourges, and the Saracens, led by King Deramed

Battle of Archen (see Battle of Godeu)

Battle of Arderydd

(see Battle of Arthuret)

Battle of Ardferydd

(see Battle of Arthuret)

Battle of Arthuret British

[Battle of Ar(f)derydd]
a battle between Gwenddolau and his cousins Gwrgi and Peredur

This battle, the cause of which is not entirely clear, resulted in the death of Gwenddolau at the hand of Rhydderch.

It was at this battle that Merlin was driven mad by a vision.

Battle of Ath Cro Irish

a battle in which Conan Gulban and his brothers led an army that defeated the forces of Ulster

Battle of Bealach Eile Irish

a battle in which Cathal was defeated by the forces of Leinster

Battle of Bedwayne British

[Battle of Bedgraine.Battle of Bedgrayne]

the battle in which King Arthur, assisted by the armies brought from France by Ban and Bors, defeated the rebellious barons

Battle of Bile Teineadh Irish

the conflict between the sons of Milesius, over the distribution of land, in which Amergin was killed

Battle of Brunanburh British

the final battle between the Celts and the Anglo-Saxons where the Celts were defeated

Battle of Caledon Wood British

a battle in which King Arthur, helped by his friend Hoel, defeated the Saxons

Battle of CamlanBritish*

[Battle of Camluan]

the battle between King Arthur and Mordred; the final battle

In this battle, said to have been fought at Slaughterbridge on Bodmin Moor in AD580, Arthur killed Mordred, running him through with his spear, but the dying man inflicted a fatal wound on the king with his sword. Only Arthur, Bedivere and Lucan survived the battle. The dying king was carried off to Avalon and Lucan died of his wounds. Others say that Morvran, Sandda, St Derfel and St Petroc also survived.

Battle of Carn ChonaillIrish*

a battle in which the high-king, Dairmaid, defeated Guaire, king of Connaught, who had initiated many cattle-raids

Battle of Ceann AbhradhIrish*

a battle in which Eoghan defeated Lugaid mac Con who then fled to Scotland

Other stories say that it was fought between Neimheadh and the three sons of Conaire and that Ailill (Eoghan's father) and Lugaid supported opposing armies. In this version, Neimheadh had killed Conaire and married his widow. The three sons, all named Cairbre, attacked Munster and defeated Neimheadh who was killed by one of the three, Cairbre Musc.

Battle of Ceann BughaIrish*

a battle in which Raghallach defeated and killed Colman and took over the throne of Connaught

Battle of ClontarfIrish*

[Battle of Cluain Tairbh]

the battle in which the Irish, under Brian Boru, finally defeated the Norsemen

Battle of Cluain Tairbh(see Battle of Clontarf)Battle of Cnucha(see Battle of Knock)Battle of ComarIrish*

a battle in which Finn Eamhna, the 3 sons of the king, Eochaid Feidhleach, rebelled against their father's rule but were defeated and killed

Battle of CrionnaIrish*

a battle in which the high-king, Cormac mac Airt, helped by Tadhg, defeated Ulster

Battle of Cul DreimhneIrish*

[Cule Drebene]

a battle in which the high-king, Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill, was defeated by the forces of Connaught

Battle of Cule Drebene(see Battle of Cul Dreimhe)Battle of Dun BolgIrish*

a battle in which Brandubh defeated the Ui Neill clan when Aedh mac Ainmhireach tried to collect the boramha

Battle of ElenIrish*

a battle in which High-king Fergal was defeated by the forces of Leinster under their king, Muchadh mac Brain

Battle of Fionn's StrandIrish*

[Battle of Ventry.Cath Fiontra(ga)]

the battle in which Finn mac Cool defeated Daire Donn

Daire Donn, King of the World, led an invasion fleet to Ireland at the instigation of a member of the Fianna who betrayed the trust placed in him by Finn mac Cool. The invaders were engaged by Conn Crithir, who was guarding the beach. He sent Taistealach to warn Finn who led the Fianna in a fierce fight that ended when all the invaders were killed. Daire himself was killed and decapitated by Finn, and Daire's son Connmaol was killed by Goll mac Morna. This battle took place at Ventry in the south-west of Ireland.

A similar story is told of the battle that took place at the ford below the Quicken Trees Hostel on the River Shannon. In this case, the King of the World was Sinsar and the heroic defenders were Innsa and Fiachna. Here too the invaders were all killed, Sinsar falling to Oscar, Finn's grandson.

An earlier version had Art and Eoghan as sentries on the shore and they led a small force against a large invading army led by the two Norse kings, Conus and Connmaol. When Finn arrived with reinforcements, he found both Art and Eoghan wounded but alive – all the rest were dead.

Battle of FochairdIrish*

a battle in which Cormac mac Airt regained the throne from which he had been expelled by Fiachu Araidhe

Battle of GabhraIrish*

[Battle of Gavra.Battle of Gowra]

the conflict in which the Fianna were destroyed

The battle was provoked by the high-king, Cairbre Lifeachear, who was killed in the fight by Oscar, the Fianna leader.

Battle of GarachIrish*

the last battle of the Cattle Raid of Cooley when the Ultonians defeated the forces of Maeve and Ailill

Battle of Gavra(see Battle of Gabhra)Battle of GodeuBritish*

[Battle of Achren.Battle of Archen.Battle of the Trees.Cad Godeu.Cath Godeu]

a battle fought by forces led by

Amaethon and Gwydion against the forces of Arawn, in Welsh lore

The battle was fought to recover the lapwing, the whelp and the white roebuck that Amaethon had stolen from Arawn's kingdom. It was won by the forces of Amaethon when Gwydion correctly guessed the name of Bran, who fought on the side of Arawn.

In this battle, Gwydion used his magic to turn the grasses and trees into warriors to take on the monsters and serpents fighting on behalf of Arawn.

Battle of Gowra(see Battle of Gabhra)Battle of KnockIrish*

[Battle of Cnucha]

the battle in which Cumail (Cool), Finn's father, fought Conn Ceadchathach and was killed by Goll mac Morna just a few hours after Finn was born

Battle of Lake RegillusRoman*

a battle in which the Romans, with the help of Castor and Pollux, defeated the Latins

Battle of LankaHindu*

the battle in which Rama defeated the demon Ravana and recovered his wife Sita

Battle of Leitir RuibheIrish*

a battle in which Eochaid Feidhleach defeated the king, Fachtna Fathach, and took the throne of Ireland, losing two of his sons in the fighting

Battle of Magh AghaIrish*

a battle between the high-king Conn, and Cathaoir Mor, king of Leinster, who was defeated and killed

Battle of Magh an ChaircheIrish*

a battle in which Daithi defeated Fearadhach Fionn and conquered Scotland

Battle of Magh MucramhaIrish*

the battle in which Lugaid mac Con defeated Ailill Olom and Art and took the throne of Ireland

Battle of Magh nIothaIrish*

the battle in which Partholan and his followers defeated the Fomoiré when they settled in Ireland

Battle of Magh RathaIrish*

a battle in which the forces of Congall Caoch and Domhnall Breac were defeated by the high-king, Diarmaid mac Aodha

Battle of Maighe Lena

(see Battle of Moylena)

Battle of Mount Badon British
(c. 490–517)

a great victory by King Arthur over the Saxons

The king was reputed to have killed over 900 Saxons in this battle.

Battle of Moylena Irish

[Battle of Maighe Lena.Cath Maighe Lena]

a battle in which High-king Conn defeated Eoghan Mor

Battle of Paris British

a battle in which King Arthur, supported by Hoel, defeated the Romans under Frollo

Battle of Richborough British

a battle between the forces of King Arthur and those of Mordred

This was the first of three battles with Mordred and it took place on Arthur's return from his campaigns on the Continent.

Battle of Roncesvalles European (778)

a battle between the Franks and the Moors

The rearguard of Charlemagne's army, withdrawing from Spain after an expedition to punish the king, Marsilius, who had earlier invaded France, was ambushed in the pass at Roncesvalles. Roland, in charge of the force, put up a desperate struggle against overwhelming odds, refusing to sound his horn to summon help until the very last moment. The main force under Charlemagne arrived too late to save Roland and his little band, but the sun stopped its journey across the heavens to allow the Franks to avenge their comrades, routing the Moors.

In an alternative version, Charlemagne had exacted an annual tribute from Marsilius as his price for withdrawing from Spain and the force under Roland was sent to collect the tribute, only to be ambushed by three armies as they left Spain.

Some 100,000 Moors and 20,000 Franks were killed in the battle which resulted from the treachery of Gano who, out of jealousy of Roland, betrayed the emperor to Marsilius.

Battle of Tailltinn Irish

[Battle of Tailtiu]

a battle between the Milesians and the Danaans

It is said that the three kings and queens of the Danaans died in this battle, which resulted in the defeat of the Danaans.

Battle of Tailtiu

(see Battle of Tailltinn)

Battle of Ten Thousand Spirits Chinese

a celestial battle

This conflict, in which many deities and immortals were killed, was the celestial equivalent of the terrestrial Battle of Mu.

Battle of the Trees

(see Battle of Godeu)

Battle of Tregalen British

a site in Wales said to be the site of King Arthur's last battle

In this Welsh version of the king's death he was shot with arrows while pursuing his defeated enemy.

Battle of Ventry

(see Battle of Fionn's Strand)

Battles of Damhchluain Irish

battles between the brothers Brian and Fiachna for supremacy in Connaught

The first battle was won by Brian, the second by Daithi who rallied his father's army and rescued him from Brian.

Battles of Mag Tuired

(see Battles of Moytura)

Battles of Magh Tuireadh

(see Battles of Moytura)

Battles of Maighe Tuired

(see Battles of Moytura)

Battles of Moytura Irish

[Battles of Mag Tuired.Battles of Magh Tuireadh.Battles of Maighe Tuired.Cath Maighe Tuired]

the battles in which the Danaans gained supremacy in Ireland, defeating the Fir Bolg and the Fomoir

The first of these battles took place when the Danaans arrived in Ireland and defeated the Fir Bolg, the second when Bres raised an army of Fomoir and attacked the Danaans and was defeated.

Other accounts refer only to battles between the Danaans and the Fomoir.

Battus<sup>1</sup> Greek

an old man in Arcadia

He betrayed the fact that Hermes had stolen some of Apollo's cattle and was turned into (touch)stone by Hermes.

Battus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Aristoteles]

son of Polymnestus and Phronime

His real name was Aristoteles but he was called Battus because he stammered. He went to Delphi with Grinnus, king of Thera, who was told by the oracle to build a new city in Libya. Pleading that he was too old, Grinnus placed the duty on Battus. After a number of false starts he built the city, became its king and, in shouting at a lion, lost his stammer.

Batu Herem Malay

a stone pillar said to support the sky

It is believed that this pillar passes through the sky and a separate part, the Lambong, is balanced on top of Batu Herem. From the top of the Lambong a cord, weighted at the bottom with a stone, runs to each of the four corners of the earth.

Bau (see Baau.Baba)

Bau Gula Mesopotamian

a name for Ishtar as a creator-goddess

Baubo<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Babo.Iambe]

daughter of Celeus and Metaneira, some say

In some accounts she was a maid servant in the house of Celeus.

Baubo amused the sorrowing Demeter, who was temporarily employed as wet nurse to the young son of Celeus, by dancing with her belly exposed. In this context she is sometimes referred to as Iambe, but others make Iambe a separate person.

Some versions describe Baubo as a female head attached to a pair of legs, including a vulva, with no intervening body. (see also Iambe)

Baubo<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

a Syrian mother-goddess

Baucis Greek

wife of Philemon

She and her husband were the only ones who showed hospitality to Zeus and Hermes when they travelled as poor wayfarers. While their inhospitable neighbours perished in a flood, they were rewarded by having their hovel transformed into a magnificent dwelling, which they kept as a temple to the gods. In old age they were still together and the gods changed them into a lime tree and an oak tree, both growing from one trunk.

Baudemagu (see Bagdemagus)

Baudemagus (see Bagdemagus)

Baudhillie Celtic

one of the 4 Alaisiagae

Baudouinet (see Baldwin<sup>3</sup>)

Baudris European

a magician brother of Oriande

He taught the art of magic to the young Maugris who had been rescued by Oriande when the Saracens attacked the castle of the child's parents.

Baudwin British

[Bawdewyn (of Bretagne)]

a knight of King Arthur's court
a surgeon and constable of Britain
When Lancelot was wounded in a tournament, Baudwin gave him shelter and nursed him. In later life he became a hermit.

Bauge (see Baugi)

Baugi Norse

[Bauge]

a giant

brother of Suttung

Suttung had been given the three containers of the magic brew, the Mead of Inspiration, made by the dwarfs Fialar and Galar from the blood of the sage Kvasir, whom they had killed. It was then hidden in the centre of a mountain and guarded by his daughter Gunlod. Odin, disguised as a mortal, Bolwerk, enlisted the aid of Baugi to get the magic brew. He sharpened the scythes of Baugi's workmen who, quarrelling over possession of his magic whetstone, killed themselves. Odin completed their work of harvest and Baugi discharged his debt to Odin by helping him. Using a magic auger Rati, he bored a small hole through the side of the mountain through which Odin, in the form of a snake, was able to slide into Gunlod's cave.

Baumbur Norse

one of the dwarfs

Bav (see Badb<sup>1</sup>.Bave)

Bave Irish

[Bav]

daughter of Calatin

In some stories she assumed the guise of Niam, daughter of Celtchair, in an attempt to lure Cuchulainn to his death.

Bavieca (see Babieca)

Bawai African

the supreme god of the Chawai people of Nigeria

Bawdewyn (see Baudwin)

Baxbakualanuchsiwae North American

[Baxbakwalanuxsiwae.Cannibal

Mother]

in the lore of the tribes of the north-west, a guardian spirit

The Aurora Borealis and the Milky Way were regarded as the smoke from this deity's camp fire in the Arctic. He was regarded as a cannibal, variously described as male or female.

(see also Tsonqua)

Baxbakwalanuxsiwae

(see Baxbakualanuchsiwae)

Bayamanaco West Indian

grandfather of Deminan

When Deminan made his grandfather angry, the old man spat on his back. The spittle became the hallucigenic drug cohoba, used by shamans.

bayang Pacific Islands

the soul regarded as the breath of life

Bayard European

[Bajardo.Bayardo.Bayart]

the horse of Rinaldo

This horse was originally owned by Amadis of Gaul but later ran wild. When Rinaldo and Isolier tried to capture the horse it killed the Saracen, but was subdued by Rinaldo.

After many adventures the horse came finally into the hands of Gradasso, who fought Rinaldo for possession. The magician Malagigi caused the horse to bolt into the woods but Gradasso recovered it and took it back to his own country. When later Roland killed Gradasso, he took over Bayard who was eventually returned to Rinaldo. When his master fell out of favour with the emperor, the army of Charlemagne besieged Rinaldo's castle and virtually starved the occupants into submission. As a condition of forgiveness Charlemagne required Rinaldo to give the horse to his son Charlot. This evil prince tried three times to drown the horse; twice it struggled out of the water but, on the third occasion, when he could not see his master, he sank to the bottom and died. Other versions say that Charlot had been killed by Rinaldo, who fled to Montalban and it was Charlemagne who had the horse drowned in the Seine.

In some accounts this horse was called Bayardo (Bajardo) and Bayard (Bayart) was a horse given by Charlemagne to the four sons of Aymon (of whom Rinaldo was one), which could adjust its size to carry up to four riders and which had the power of speech. In this version the horse had passed from Amadis to the magician Malagigi, who gave it to Renault (Rinaldo) who gave it to Charlemagne who, in turn, gave it to Aymon.

Yet another story says that the horse belonged to Aymon who had received it from the magician Malagigi, who had brought it originally from hell. When Satan stole it, Malagigi tricked him and got it back for Aymon who gave it to his son Rinaldo; when he thought he was about to die. Some say that Bayard still lives in the Ardennes.

Bayardo (see Bayard)

Bayard's Leap European

a series of 3 stones about 30 yards apart

When a demon frightened Bayard, who was being ridden by Rinaldo, the horse jumped the huge gaps from one stone to the next and carried his rider to safety.

Bayart (see Bayard)

baykok North American

an evil spirit of the Chippewa

appearing as a fiery-eyed skeleton

bazimu African spirits of the dead of the Banyarwanda

Bazo (see Bossu)

Bazon Mainnain (see Bossu)

bCan (see bTsan)

bDe-mchog Buddhist

the Tibetan version of Samvara

bDud Tibetan

forest-dwelling demons

These beings, armed with axes, were early precursors of the human race. Next came the Srin.

bDug-spos-ma (see Dhupa)

bDul Nygal Tibetan

king of the demons

Be Chasti (see Metal Old Man)

Be Chuma (see Becuma)

Be Find (see Befind)

Be Neit Irish

a name for Morrigan

Be-je (see Gobaka)

Bead-Spitter North American

a character who can spit beads,

appearing in many American Indian stories

In one such story, two girls who were seeking Bead-Spitter were deceived by Rabbit who raped one of them and ran off leaving behind some beads that he had stolen. They later met Turkey-Killer who tested the girls' virginity with a sieve and water and married the one who was still a virgin. One day, when Turkey-Killer was away from home, a monster killed his wife, but when Turkey-Killer cut open her abdomen he rescued their unborn child. The placenta, which was thrown into the bushes, grew into a boy, Throw-Away, who grew up with his brother. They proved to be a great nuisance to everybody and eventually killed their own father who then became a crow.

Beaemot

a demon said to take possession of humans

Beag mac De (see Bec mac De)

Beag mac Death (see Bec mac De)

Beagan Irish
an ascetic

He is said to have restored Breasal to life after High-king Diarmaid, his father, had drowned him for stealing a cow from a nun.

Beagfhola (see Bec Fola)

Beal<sup>1</sup> British
a supreme deity: a fire-god

Beal<sup>2</sup> (see Berith)

Bealchu Irish [Bealcu]
a warrior of Connaught

He found Conall Cearnach lying wounded, near the ford where he had killed Cet, and took him to his home. He planned to wait until Conall was well and then kill him, so he arranged for his three sons to murder Conall in his bed. Conall forced Bealchu to occupy the bed so that the sons killed their father and Conall killed them.

Bealcu (see Bealchu)

Beale Isoud (see Isolde<sup>2</sup>)

Bealphares
a demon, a duke of hell

Bealtaine (see Beltane)

Bealtuinn (see Beltane)

Bean North American
daughter of Eithinoha sister of Onatah and Squash

Bean-curd Gods Chinese
the 3 deities of bean-curd makers and sellers

These beings are given as Chiao Kuan, Huai-nan-tzu and Kuan Ti.

bean nighe (see Washer by the Ford)

bean-si (see banshee.si-bean)

bean sidhe (see banshee.si-bean)

Bean Ghulbhan (see Ben Bulben)

Beann Ghulbhan (see Ben Bulben)

bear<sup>1</sup> European
the animal of Dietrich von Bern

bear<sup>2</sup> Greek the animal of Artemis

bear<sup>3</sup> Japanese a mountain-god of the Ainu

bear<sup>4</sup> Norse
the animal of Thor

Bear<sup>5</sup> North American
in the lore of the Tlingit, he was killed by Yetl the raven

Bear<sup>6</sup> North American
a Navaho bear spirit

He was involved with Frog, Snake and Turtle in a plan to capture two maidens from an underwater village. The plan went awry; the two girls were killed and Frog and Turtle were lucky to escape with their lives, but Bear and Snake fared better. This pair captured two girls who were overcome by the smoke from the kidnappers' pipes, which made Bear and Snake appear as braves with whom the girls mated.

Bear<sup>7</sup> (see Yā-o-ga)

Bear Goddess (see Artemis)

Bear Prey God North American
one of the 6 Prey Gods guarding the home of Poshaiyangkyo

He is responsible for the area to the west.

Bear, The (see Artos)

Bearach (see Berach)

Bearchan<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Fear Da Leithe]
an Irish saint

Although he was born in Ireland he spent much of his time in Scotland. He prophesied the coming of a great leader, who turned out to be Aedh Eangach. He had a vision that he would die in the presence of three kings. When they came to his house, they placed a vat over him for protection but they were lulled to sleep by the music of a cowherd and, when they woke up, they found only the saint's bones under the vat.

Bearchan<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Mobhi]
a saint

a mentor of Columba

Bearded Demon, The

a demon said to know the secret of the transmutation of metals

Beare Irish
a Spanish princess, wife of Eoghan Mor

She married Eoghan when he was exiled by Conn.

Bearrach Irish
a wife of Finn mac Cool, some say

Bear's Ear European
a Caucasian hero of superhuman strength

A monster demanded the sacrifice of a young maiden every year, otherwise he held back the flow of a river. When the daughter of the king of the underworld was due to be sacrificed, Bear's Ear turned up just in time to kill the monster and save her. The grateful king offered Bear's Ear the hand of his daughter in marriage, but the hero declined the honour, preferring to return to the upper world.

Bearskin Woman North American
an Algonquian maiden sister of Okinai and Sinopa

She married a bear and when he was killed she temporarily took the form of a bear and killed her parents and relatives. Only her sister Sinopa and her brothers escaped. When the brothers returned from hunting, Bearskin Woman tried to kill them all, but one of them, Okinai, saved them all by shooting arrows into the air, each one carrying one of the orphans into the heavens where they became stars in the Great Bear constellation.

(see also Rhipisunt)

Beast Glatissant (see Questing Beast)

Beast of Canteraine French
a French count who was said to have changed into a werewolf

Beast of Greed (see T'ao-t'ieh)

Beast of Havette French
an evil spirit who drowned children

Beatitude
a name of one of the Aeons

Beatrice<sup>1</sup> British wife of Carduino

She was turned into an animal by a wizard but was rescued by Carduino, who killed the sorcerer, restored Beatrice to her human form with a kiss and married her.

Beatrice<sup>2</sup> European
sister of Charlemagne
wife of Aymon, some say mother of Alardo, Guichard, Ricciardetto, Ricardo and Rinaldo.

In some accounts, Aymon's wife is Aya.

Beatrix<sup>1</sup> European
wife of Oriant
mother of Elias and Oriant

When she gave birth to septuplets her mother-in-law, Matabrune, gave the children to her own servant, Marcon, with orders that they be killed. They survived, but six of them turned into swans when the silver necklets that had been round their necks at birth were removed.

In later years, Oriant, persuaded by Matabrune, ordered that Beatrix be burnt at the stake but she was saved by the seventh child, Elias the Swan Knight, who had Matabrune burnt in her place.

Beatrix<sup>2</sup> European
daughter of the duchess of Bouillon wife of Elias mother of Oda

She married Elias when he saved her mother from the usurper, Reinier.

Beaumains (see Fair Hands)

Beaurepaire British
the home of Blanchefleur, mother of Percival

Beauté British
a maid of Guinevere

She rejected Gawain in favour of his squire, Gliglois.

Beautiful Pilgrim
(see Alice la Beale Pellerin)

Beautiful Water (see Choima)

Beauty Chant North American
the story of Glipsa

Beav (see Vali<sup>2</sup>)

Beaver<sup>1</sup> North American

a spirit who brought light to the earth
The earth was originally dark because Snoqalm, the moon-god of the tribes of the North-West, kept the sun in a box. When the spider wove a rope that linked earth and sky, Beaver climbed up and stole the sun, which he placed in the heavens to light the earth.

Beaver<sup>2</sup> North American
in Algonquian lore, one of the 4 animals that survived the flood

After the flood, Beaver, Mink and Otter all died in an attempt to find soil from which Manabusch could recreate the world, and it was left to Muskrat to succeed.

Beaw Anglo-Saxon [Beow]

a fertility-god

Bebellahamon Arabian

a god of the northern region of Arabia
In some accounts he is the same as Baal-Hammon

Bebhionn Irish [Vivionn]

a giantess from Maidon's Land daughter of Treon

She was promised in marriage to Aedh, who killed her when she refused to marry him. Finn mac Cool, to whom she had gone for help, chased Aedh but he escaped in a ship.

Bebo Irish
queen of the fairies
wife of Iubdan

She and her husband fell into a bowl of porridge when they went to Ulster and were captured by the king, Fergus mac Leda. She had an affair with the king who released them both only when Iubdan gave Fergus his magic shoes.

Bebon Greek

an associate of the Egyptian god Set or, some say, Set himself

Bec Irish
a female warrior

Bec Fola Irish

[Beagfhola.Becfola]
wife of Diarmaid mac Aodha Slaine
She tried to seduce Criomthann, Diarmaid's son, but en route to an assignation with him met a handsome hero who took her off to an island in the Otherworld. He said his name was Flann and he was fighting with relatives for possession of the island. When she returned home, it seemed that no time had passed. A year later Flann appeared again and Bec Fola went with him and was never seen again.

Bec mac De Irish

[Beag mac De.BeamacDeath.Becc mac De]
a druid

He foretold the killing of High-king Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill.

Becc mac De (see Bec mac De)

Becfola (see Bec Fola)

Bechard

a demon associated with tempests and Friday

Bechuille Irish

a Danaan witch

She, together with Ai, Cridhinbheal and Lugh Laebach, defeated the sons of Carman and captured their mother.

(see also Becuma)

Becuma Irish

[Be Chuma]
an enchantress
wife of Labraid

She was banished from the home of the gods on Tir Tairnigiri for having an affair with Gaiar. She later lived at Tara with Conn Ceadchathach. She found the magic wand of Cu Roi and gave it to Art, Conn's son, and told him to find a girl called Delbchaem. When Art returned with this woman, they expelled Becuma from Tara.

She may be the same as Bechuille.

Beda Norse

one of the Asynjur (see also Bede)

Bedawang Pacific Islands

a cosmic turtle

This animal, on which the earth rests, was engendered by the serpent Antaboga. On his back are two snakes and the black stone that covers the underworld.

bedcat North American

a fabulous monster

Bedd Arthur British

a supposed site of King Arthur's grave in Dyfed

Bedd Branwen British

a site on Anglesey, Wales said to be the grave of Branwen, sister of Bran

Bedd Taliesin British

a supposed site of Taliesin's grave in Dyfed, Wales

Beddgelert British

[Beth Gelert]

a village in Wales, site of the grave of the hound, Gelert

Bede Celtic

one of the 4 Aliasiagae (see also Beda)

Bedegraine (see Battle of Bedwayne)

Bedevere (see Bedivere)

Bedevia<sup>1</sup> Serbian

the horse of a Moorish chieftain killed by Marko

Bedevia<sup>2</sup> Serbian

a mare given to Milosh by Ivan
the dam of Zdral

Bedevia<sup>3</sup> Serbian

the horse of Bogdan

Bedevia<sup>4</sup> Serbian

the horse of Balatchko

Bedgrayne (see Battle of Bedwayne)

Bedimo African

spirits of the Cameroon ancestors who own all the wild animals

Bedivere<sup>1</sup> British

[Bedevere.Bedver.Bedvyr.Bedwor.Bedwyr] grandfather of Bedivere father of Pedrawd

Bedivere<sup>2</sup> British

[Bedevere.Bedver.Belvoure.=WelshBedvyr.

Bedwor.Bedwyr. Llenleawc.Lleinawc]

a one-handed Knight of the Round Table

a personal attendant on the king

son of Pedrawd or of King Arthur brother of Lucan

father of Amhren and Ereuawg

In the story of Culhwch and Olwen he was one of the party of Arthur's men helping Culhwch in his quest.

When the king invaded and conquered much of the Continent he helped the king in his fight with the giant of Mont Saint-Michel and, when

Arthur returned to Britain, Bedivere was left in charge of Normandy. He and Lucan helped the wounded king

into the shelter of a chapel after the final battle with Mordred. Lucan soon died from wounds received in the battle. Arthur instructed Bedivere to throw Excalibur into the lake.

Bedivere coveted the sword and twice told the king he had done as instructed

when, in fact, he had hidden the sword under a tree. He finally obeyed the king's orders and threw the sword into the lake, where a hand came out of the water and took the sword beneath the surface. He then carried the king on his back to the edge of the water where a boat waited to carry Arthur to Avalon. He wandered for some time and finally came to a hermitage where the Bishop of Canterbury lived, and there in the chapel saw the tomb of the king. He gave up all his knightly pursuits and lived the rest of his life as a hermit.

In some accounts he was made Duke of Neustria and was killed in King Arthur's campaign against Rome.

Bedr el-Budur (see Badr al-Budur)

Bedreddin Hassan Persian
a prince

In The Arabian Nights, he was captured and became a cook.

Bedver (see Bedivere)

Bedvyr (see Bedwyr)

Bedwayne (see Battle of Bedwayne)

Bedwin (see Bidwini)

Bedwini (see Bidwini)

Bedwn (see Bidwini)

Bedwor (see Bedivere)

Bedwyr British

[Bedvyr]

the Welsh name of Bedivere

He was a companion of Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Bedy Greek

a Thracian river-god

bee

an insect living in colonies and producing honey:

(1) In Christian tradition, the bee represents the risen Christ.

(2) In Egypt, bees (Apis) are said to be the tears shed by Ra.

(3) European lore says that plants and animals will suffer if bees are used in barter and some go so far as to invite bees to the funeral of their deceased owner.

(4) The Germans regard the bee as a symbol of the sun.

(5) In Greece, the priestess at Delphi took the form of a bee.

(6) The Hindu god Krishna is sometimes envisaged as a bee hovering over Vishnu's head.

Bee-hunter (see Beowulf)

Beel-peor (see Baal-Peor)

Beelphegor (see Belphegor<sup>1</sup>)

Beelzeboul (see Beelzebub)

Beelzebub<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Baalzebub.Beelzeb(o)ul.Belzeboth.

Belzebud.God of the Dunghill.Lord of the Flies:=Canaanite Baal Zebul]

a Philistine deity, the personification of evil (see also Beelzebub)

Beelzebub<sup>2</sup>

a demon of pride and false gods

In black magic he is one of the Grand Dignitaries, Chief of the Infernal Empire.

Beelzebub Mesopotamian

[Beelzeboul.God of Heaven]

a Philistine god

This name was corrupted to become Beelzebub, said to mean God of the Dunghill and, hence, Lord of the Flies.

(see also Baal-Zebul)

Beetle<sup>1</sup>

a creator spirit of the Chaco Indians

He first made the world and then used the few grains left over to make the first humans.

Beetle<sup>2</sup> (see Ishits)

beetle<sup>3</sup>

an insect featured in many mythologies:

(1) The Egyptians believed that there was no female of the species and that reproduction occurred when a male beetle rolled a ball of ox dung from east to west and buried it for twenty-eight days. On the 29th day the beetle pushed the ball of dung into water and a new insect emerged.

(2) The Finns regard beetles as the souls of the dead and they are consulted by young girls wishing to know their marriage prospects.

(3) In Hebrew lore beetles reproduced themselves while walking backwards towards the west.

(4) In North America the Hopi carried beetles in battle, saying that they were helpful spirits who could cover their owner's tracks. The Zuni feed a beetle to one struck by lightning as an antidote. They also say that Coyote buried a beetle in the neutral land he marked off between tribes and that anybody who cultivated this land would go blind – like a beetle. (see also Ishits)

befana<sup>1</sup>

[beffana]

a witch

Befana<sup>2</sup>

European

[La Strega.La Vecchia]

a benevolent spirit in Italy

She was said to be too busy to go with the Magi when they travelled to Bethlehem and later got lost when she tried to find her own way there. Every year she looks in vain for the baby

Jesus but leaves presents at each house she visits.

An alternative version says that she was too busy to entertain the Magi who were on their way to Jerusalem but would do so on their return. In the event, they went home by a different route and she missed them. She looks out for them every year on Twelfth Night but never finds them.

beffana (see befana)

Befind<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Be Find]

a benevolent fairy who married a mortal

sister of Boann

wife of Idath

mother of Fraech

In some accounts she is the same as Etain, wife of Midir.

Befind<sup>2</sup> Irish

[=Roman Parcae]

a water sprite: one of a triad of fairies who are present at every child's birth

Beg East Indian

in New Guinea, a resting-place for the soul on its journey to Boigu, the land of the dead

Beg-Tse Tibetan

[Cam-srin:=Mongolian Begze Sunen]

a Buddhist and Lamaist war-god

one of 8 dharmapalas

Begdu San Chinese

a mountain range

It is said that this range of mountains was formed from the excreta of a giant, who having drunk sea water and eaten earth because he had devoured everything else became ill.

Begia Basque

one of the 3 universal principles

the light of the body (the eye)

The other two are known as Egia and Ekhia.

Beggvir (see Beyggvir)

Bego Tanutanu Pacific Islands

a Melanesian creator spirit

He was the younger of two brothers. The other was lazy and left it to Bego to form the landscape and make all the plants.

The flood was caused when his wife released the sea, which she had earlier impounded.

Begochiddy North American

the great god of the Navaho American Indians

Begoe Italian

[Bergoia.Beroe.Vecu.Vegoia:=

Roman Egeria]

an Etruscan goddess of prophecy

Begon European

brother of Garin le Loherain
On a trip to visit his brother he took time out to hunt a wild boar and was ambushed and killed by Fromant's men.

begu Pacific Islands

a ghost: a messenger of the gods

Begze Sunen Mongolian

[=Tibetan Beg-Tse:Cam-srin]

brother of Okin Trigri

He is said to wield a flaming sword with a scorpion handle. He and his sister live on a mountain that rises out of a sea of blood.

Behanzin African

a fish-god of the Fon

Beheader (see Sarkap)

Behedti Egyptian

a local god

He took the form of a falcon and is regarded as an aspect of Horus.

Behemoth

[=Persian Hadhayoth]

a demon, said to be a steward or a watchman in hell

Beher African

[Behr.Medr]

an Ethiopian or South Arabian earth-god

Behistoon (see Bagistane)

Behr (see Beher)

Behula Hindu

wife of Lakshmindra

Manasa, the snake-goddess, slipped into the bedroom on Behula's wedding night and killed her new husband, Lakshmindra, because his father, Chand, had always refused to worship her. Behula pleaded with the goddess, who restored Lakshmindra to life when Chand relented and offered to worship Manasa.

A different story refers to Behula as a model of devotion. In this story, her husband was killed by a snake bite and she accompanied his dead body on a raft, floating down the river, seeking the means of restoring her husband to life. With the help of Manasa she was able to achieve this end.

Beiffror European

[Broiefort]

the horse of Ogier the Dane

In some accounts Ogier acquired this horse early in his career in battle with the Saracens.

When Ogier was imprisoned by Charlemagne, Beiffror was claimed by the Abbot of St Faron. When the horse bolted and threw the abbot, he gave it to his workmen to pull stones being used in the building of a new chapel.

Beiffror was reunited with his master when Charlemagne released Ogier to take up a challenge from Bruhier, the Sultan of Arabia. A mis-directed sword stroke from the Saracen killed Beiffror.

beisac Cambodian

the souls of those who have died as a result of violence

These beings are said to return and demand food from the living, who leave food out in the bushes. Those who neglect this duty have all kinds of evil visited upon them.

Beiuda Irish

daughter of Amhlaoihb, a king of Scandinavia

She promised to marry Congall Clairingleach only if he would bring to her three wonderful things – a helmet, a yoke and some birds – from a far country. He procured all these items but then refused her offer of marriage.

Bekassir Afghan

a Kafir idol

Bekotshide (see Thehanoia)

Bel<sup>1</sup> Arabian

[Bol]

a supreme god in Palmyra

Bel<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[Belus.Mul-ge]

a Babylonian earth-god and

fertility-god

son of Ea and Damkina

husband of Belit

Bel<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian

a name of Enlil as 'lord'

Bel<sup>4</sup> Mesopotamian

[Bel-Marduk.Bel-Merodach.Belos]

a name of Marduk as 'lord'

Bel<sup>5</sup> Mesopotamian

a Chaldean supreme god, a form of Baal

Bel<sup>6</sup> (see Beli<sup>1</sup>.Belinus)

Bel-Enlil Mesopotamian

a war-god

a name of Marduk as 'lord and ruler'

consort of Beltis

father of Nergal (see also Enlil)

Bel-fire Celtic

a fire lit on a hilltop at the festival of Beltane

Bel Inconnu, Le (see Gingalin)

Bel-Marduk (see Bel<sup>3</sup>)

Bel-Matai Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk (the last of his 50 names) as 'lord'

Bel-Merodach (see Bel<sup>3</sup>)

Bel-Peor (see Baal-Peor)

bela East Indian

an Indonesian tree spirit

bela kampong Malay

an animal ceremony to appease

the spirits and avert illness and misfortune

Belacane British

[Belcane]

a queen of Zazamanc

wife of Gahmuret

mother of Feirefiz

Belagog British

[Beliagog]

a giant said to have guarded King

Arthur's castle

In some accounts Belagog lived in Brittany and was defeated by Tristram, who forced him to build a palace decorated with scenes of Cornwall.

Belah

a demon

Belataiakkis Mesopotamian

a Hittite deity

Belatucadros British

[=Roman Mars]

a war-god

Belaye<sup>1</sup> German

second wife of Lohengrin

Belaye<sup>2</sup> (see Belé)

Belbogh Slav

a god of light

Belcane (see Belacane)

Beldegg Norse

a king of West Saxony

son of Odin

Belé<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Belaye]

son of the king of Sogn

son of Skate, some say

brother of Ingeborg

father of Halfdan, Helgé and Ingeborg

Jokul conquered the kingdom, killed the king and exiled Belé. Thorsten married Belé's sister, Ingeborg, and found Belé, restoring him to the throne. He joined Thorsten and Angantyr in many sea raids and accompanied Thorsten on the expedition to Bretland when they recovered the magic armlet made by Volund and stolen by the pirate Soté, who had buried himself alive with the treasure.

When he and Thorsten died they were interred in barrows within sight of each other.

Bele<sup>2</sup>

a demon said to take possession of people

Belelah (see Luridan)
Belenos (see Belinus)
Belenus (see Belinus)
Beleobus (see Bleoberis)
Belerong (see Kidul)
Belesent (see Belisent)
Belet' Malay

the home of the dead
 To reach Belet, the soul must cross the bridge Balan Bacham escorted by Mempes. Under the Mapik tree, the previous inhabitants turn the newly arrived soul into a kemoit by breaking its arms and legs and turning its eyes inwards. Thereafter, the soul lives happily on the fruit of the Mapik tree while those who did not qualify to reach Belet watch enviously from afar.

Belet' (see Baalat)
Belet-Ili Mesopotamian
 [Belet-Itani.Belit-illi]
 a Babylonian mother-goddess
 a name of Nintu as 'lady of the gods'

In some accounts she was the mother of Ninurta.

Belet-Itani (see Belet-Ili.Makh)
Belet-Seri Mesopotamian

[Beletseri.Belit-S(h)eri:=Sumerian Geshinanna) a Babylonian goddess, scribe of the underworld the Akkadian name for Geshinanna daughter of Ea and Damkina sister of Tammuz

Some say that she is the same as Khidimme-azaga. In some accounts she, not Ishtar, goes to the underworld to rescue Tammuz. Others identify her with Nina.

Beleth
 [Bileth.Byleth]
 a demon king
 one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
 He is depicted as riding a pale horse and accompanied by musicians.

(see also Bileth')

Beletseri (see Belet-Seri) Beli' British

[Bel.Beli Mawr.Heli.'light':=Celtic Belinus: =Irish Bile]
 god of light
 a king of Britain
 son of Manogan and Ana husband of Don
 father of Aranrhod, Amaethon, Caswallawn, Gilvaethwy, Govannon, Gwydion, Llefelys, Lludd, Nynniaw, Peibaw and Penardun

In some accounts he was the brother of Cunobelinus and father of Avalloc.

Beli' Norse

a Frost Giant
 god of storms
 son of Kari
 son of Ymir, some say son or brother of Gymer
 brother of Gerda, Thiassi and Thrym
 When his sister Gerda married Frey, Beli tried to kill him. Frey had given his sword to Skirnir who had wooed Gerda on Frey's behalf. He used a stag's horn (or his fist) to defend himself and kill Beli.

In some accounts he abducted Freya hoping to force her to marry one of his three sons, known as Grep, but she refused all of them.

Beli Mawr (see Beli')
Beliagog (see Belagog)

Belial
 [Beliar]
 a demon of sodomy, arrogance or trickery
 a fallen angel
 one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
 The name is also used to refer to the underworld, She'ol, or to the Devil.

In black magic he is regarded as an ambassador to Turkey.

beliam (see halak)
Beliar (see Belial)

Belias
 a demon prince
Belicene European

[Bellisande] wife of Ogier the Dane
 mother of Baldwin

In some accounts she was the daughter of the governor of a prison in which Ogier was held as hostage for his father's continued subservience to Charlemagne.

Belide British [=Italian Bellicies] daughter of Faramond
 sister of Clodion

She fell in love with Tristram and died of a broken heart when he failed to return her affection.

Belides Greek

the descendants of Belus
Belili Mesopotamian

[Geshinanna.Gestin-Ana.White Goddess]
 the Sumerian moon-goddess, goddess of love, the underworld,
 trees, wells and springs
 sister and wife of Dumuzi
 She helped Dumuzi when he changed into a gazelle in an attempt to escape his fate in the underworld.

Belin' Celtic

a Gaulish god of light and crops consort of Belishma
 He was envisaged as a ram.
 (see also Belinus)

Belin' British

an ancestor of King Arthur Belinant British

father of Dodinel by Eglante Belinda British

daughter of King Hoel
 When Tristram came to her father's court to escape the threat of his step-mother, Belinda's sister, she fell in love with him. When he rejected her she tried to poison him or, in some accounts, killed herself and sent him the dog, Houdain.

Belinette British

daughter of Gwengasoain
 In one version of the story of Yder he fell in love with Belinette but could marry her only when her father was dead. When Gawain killed the giant, Yder killed the bear that had protected him and claimed Belinette as his bride.

belinomancy [belomancy]
 divination from arrows

Arrows shot by a number of archers each carried a label on which a prophecy was written. The prophecy attached to the arrow that travelled furthest was accepted.

Belinus British

[Artepomaros.Bel.Belenos.Belenus:Belinus.
 Lord of Therapy: =Irish Bilé:=Roman Apollo:=Shakespeare Cymbeline:=Welsh Beli Mawr]

a king of Britain
 a humanised version of Beli or Belin, the Celtic god of light and crops son of Dunvallo Molmutius and Tonwenna son of Minocan, some say brother of Brennius

His brother, Brennius, married the daughter of the king of Norway and sailed for Britain with an army intent on taking over all the kingdom. The Danish king captured the bride en route, and they both fell into the hands of Belinus when they were forced to land in Britain. Brennius was defeated and fled to Gaul. When Brennius made a further attempt to invade Britain with an army from Gaul, their mother made the brothers patch up their quarrel and together they conquered Gaul and sacked Rome.

Belisama British
a British river-goddess or lake-goddess a Celtic name for Minerva

(see also Belishma.Belisima)

Belisande (see Belisent<sup>3</sup>)

Belisardo (see Balisardo)

Belisent<sup>1</sup> British

[Belesent.Bellicent]

wife of Nanteris or, some say, of Lot
In some accounts she was the daughter of Hoel and Igraine, sister of Blasine and Hermisent: in others she is the same as Morgause. (see also Morgause)

Belisent<sup>2</sup> European

[Belesent.Bellicent]

sister of Pepin the Short wife of Alexander

mother of Orson and Valentine

Belisent<sup>3</sup> European

[Belesent.Belisance.Bellicent]

daughter of Charlemagne wife of Otuel

Belishma Celtic

[Belisma]

a priestess of lakes and rivers consort on earth of Belin

(see also Belisama.Belisima)

Belisima Irish

a name given to Brigit

(see also Belisama.Belishma)

Belisma (see Belishma)

Belit Mesopotamian

[Bel(i)tis.Beltu.Bilat]

a name for Baalat or Ninhursaga as 'ladyship'

a female aspect of Bel consort of Ashur, Baal, Enlil

or Marduk

(see also Salpanitu)

Belit-illi (see Belet-ili)

Belit-Seri (see Belet-Seri)

Belit-Sheri (see Belet-Seri)

Belitis (see Belit)

Bell-bird brothers Australian culture-heroes of the Aborigines of Central Australia

Bella Pennu (see Boora Pennu)

Bellangere (see Bellengerus)

Bellengerus le Beuse British

[Bellangere]

a Knight of the Round Table
earl of Laundes

son of Alisander and Alice la Beale Pellerin

In some accounts he killed Andred and was killed by King Mark. Some say that he killed Mark as well as Andred.

Bellerophon Greek

[Bellerophontes.Deophontes.Hipponous.

Leophontes]

a prince of Corinth son of Glaucus or Poseidon and Eurynome

brother of Deliaides

husband of Philonoe or Eurymede

father of Hippolochus, Isander

and Laodamia

His original name was Hipponous; he was called Bellerophon after he killed Bellerus in an accident. Others say it was his own brother, Deliaides, who was killed. He fled to Tiryns where the king, Proetus, purified him of murder, and Anteia, the king's wife, accused him of attempting rape when he rejected her advances. Neither Proetus nor his father-in-law, Iobates, to whom Bellerophon was sent, wished to kill a guest so Iobates asked Bellerophon to destroy the monster Chimaera, hoping he would be killed in the attempt.

The prophet Polyidus advised him to capture Pegasus, the winged horse, for the attempt and Athene gave him a golden bridle that made this possible.
Riding on Pegasus over the monster he killed it by shooting his arrows into it or, in another version, forcing lead into its mouth which, melting in its hot breath, choked it to death.

Iobates sent him off to fight the Solymi and then the Amazons and he was again the victor in each case, so Iobates allowed him to marry his daughter, Philonoe.

In some accounts he avenged himself on Anteia by taking her for a ride on Pegasus and pushing her off when they were flying at a great height.

He foolishly tried to ride up to Olympus but was thrown either because Pegasus was not prepared to attempt the journey or because Zeus sent a gadfly to sting Pegasus. In either case, he fell into a thorny bush and was blinded or lamed, ending his days wandering the earth.

Bellerophontes (see Bellerophon)

Bellerus<sup>1</sup> British

a Cornish giant (Milton)

Bellerus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a Corinthian noble killed by Bellerophon
In some accounts the man whom Bellerophon killed was Deliaides, his own brother. In other stories, Bellerus was a monster, a demon of winter.

Belleus British

[Bellieus]

a Knight of the Round Table

He found Lancelot asleep in his bed and mistook him for his lover.

Lancelot reacted violently and wounded his unwelcome paramour.

A different version says that Lancelot was sleeping with the wife of Belleus who challenged Lancelot to a duel.

Bellicent (see Belisent.Morgause)

Bellicies British

the Italian version of Belide

Bellido (see Dolfos)

Bellieus (see Belleus)

Bellin European

the ram in Reynard the Fox

Belinus (see Belinus)

Bellisande (see Belicene)

Bellola (see Bellona)

Bellona<sup>1</sup> Roman

[Bellola.Duellona.Nerio:=Anatolian Ma:

=Greek Enyo]

an Italic goddess of war

daughter, sister or wife of Mars

She drove the chariot of the war
god Mars. (see also Nerio)

Bellona<sup>2</sup> Roman

a war-goddess

sister of Mars

This deity, originally the Anatolian war goddess Ma, was brought to Rome from the East. Her black-clad priests mutilated themselves and then drank their own blood. Her festival was originally on 3 June but was later merged with that of the Italic Bellona on 24 March.

Bellosvesos Celtic

a leader of the Celts who invaded Italy and took Rome

Belly Blin (see Billy Blin)

Bellyn European

the ram in Reynard the Fox

belomancy (see belinomancy)

Belorong (see Kidul)

Belos Mesopotamian

an alternative version of Bel-Marduk son of Aos and Dauke (see also Bel<sup>3</sup>)

Belphegor<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Baalphegor.Beelphegor]

a misanthropic demon

This being was originally a Moabite
god. He was sent from hell to see if there really was happiness in marriage between humans and came to the conclusion that there was not.

He is said to appear sometimes as an attractive woman, sometimes as a nude devil with horns. (see also Balphegor)

Belphegor<sup>2</sup>

a demon of inquisitiveness

He is depicted with horns and a hairy skin.

In black magic he is ambassador to France.

Belphegor<sup>3</sup> (see Baal Peor)

Belpheobe British

a goddess of the hunt in The Faerie Queene

daughter of Chrysogone
sister of Amoret

Belskirnir (see Bilskirnir)

Beltaine (see Beltane)

Beltan (see Beltane)

Beltane Celtic

[Baltern.Be(a)ltaine.Bealtuinn.Beltan.
Beltene.Beltine.Cets(h)amain.Day of Beltaine.Laa Boaldyn.Samradh:=Welsh Calan Mai]

a festival held on 1 May

This feast in honour of Belinus, or in some accounts, Partholan, is said to commemorate the arrival of the Milesians in Ireland. During this festival every wren that could be caught was killed because, it was said, a wicked siren who lured men to death in the sea had taken the form of this little bird.

Beltane cakes Celtic

round cakes made of barley or oatmeal

These cakes were used for drawing lots and the person who ended up with the black bit (previously marked with charcoal) was the sacrificial victim, the Beltane Carline.

In Scotland pieces of the cake were thrown over the shoulder with pleas to various spirits to protect such things as the owner's cattle. Sometimes the cakes were rolled down a slope; any that broke portended misfortune for the owner.

Beltane Carline Celtic

the person chosen as the sacrificial victim by receiving the black bit of the Beltane Cake

Beltenbras (see Beltenbros)

Beltenbros European

[Beltenbras.Fair Forlorn]
the name given to Amadis by Andalod when Amadis refused to reveal his real name

Beltene<sup>1</sup> Irish

a god of death

Beltene<sup>2</sup> (see Beltane)

Beltern (see Beltane)

Belti (see Baalat)

Beltia (see Beltiya)

Beltine (see Beltane)

Beltis (see Belit)

Beltiya Mesopotamian

[Beltia]
a name for Sarpanitu

consort of Marduk
Beltu (see Ashuritu.Belit)

Belun Russian

a spirit that guides lost travellers

Belus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Poseidon by Libya

twin brother of Agenor

brother of Lelex

husband of Anchinoe

father of the twins Aegyptus

and Danaos and of Cepheus and Phineus

In some accounts Belus seduced his own daughter, Myrrha, to beget Adonis. Others say that this was Cinyras or Theias.

Belus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Tyre

father of Dido

In some accounts Dido's father is Mutto.

Belus<sup>3</sup> (see Bel<sup>1</sup>)

Belvoure (see Bedivere)

Belzeboth (see Beelzebub)

Belzebud (see Beelzebub)

Belzecue British

the English name for Malacoda

Ben Central American

the thirteenth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the continued ascent from the nether world

(see also Three Ben)

Ben Bulben Irish

[Beann Ghulb(h)an.Benbulben.Bulban.

G(h)ulb(h)an]

a mountain in Sligo

It was here that Finn mac Cool, on a hunting trip, found his son Oisín and where Dermot met his death, killed by the boar that had been charged to kill him.

In some accounts Ben Bulben is used as the name for the owner of the boar or for the animal itself, but the 'owner' is usually regarded as Roc, who turned his dead son into the boar.

(see also Roc<sup>2</sup>)

Ben Dagon Phoenician

son of Dagan

Ben Edar Irish

the site of Aidin's grave: a sacred graveyard of royalty

Ben nefilin Hebrew

a demon causing epilepsy

Ben-Varrey British

a Manx mermaid

This being is said to lure sailors to their death but sometimes warns them of danger.

Benani Mesopotamian

husband of Melili

father of 6,000 bird-faced men and bird-bodied warriors

benben stone Egyptian

the golden obelisk on which Ra, as the Benu-bird, perched

Benbulben (see Ben Bulben)

Bendigeid Vran (see Bran)

Bendigeidfran (see Bran)

Bendigert Bran (see Bran)

Bendis Greek

[=Greek Artemis]

a Thracian mother-goddess, goddess of the chase

Bendith y Mamau (see Tylwith Teg)

benemmerinnen Hebrew

witches who steal new-born babies

Beng

a gypsy name for the Devil

Bengodi European

a mythical paradise

Benignant Ones (see Furies)

Benkei Japanese

a giant hero

son of a tengu

He was trained as a priest but was a great warrior who challenged all-comers, with a view to collecting 1,000 swords. When Yoshitsune challenged him, Benkei was, for the first time, defeated when the smaller man avoided all his blows. He became the lifelong friend and servant of Yoshitsune and together they defeated the evil Taira clan. When on a voyage with Yoshitsune, the ghosts of the dead Taira rose from the sea and assailed them, he warded them off with a prayer.

In another story, he stole the bell of Miidera for his own monastery, but every time it was struck it spoke saying that it wanted to go back to Miidera. Finally, exasperated by the bell's repeated pleas, Benkei returned it to its proper home. Some accounts say that the bell-stealer and the warrior-priest are two separate characters.

Bennien British

a herdsman of Caradoc

Bennu<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Benu]

a Babylonian plague deity

bennu<sup>2</sup> (see bennu-bird)

bennu-bird Egyptian

[ben(n)u.benu-bird]

a form of Ra-Atum at dawn

In this form the deity was a yellow wag-tail or a golden heron-headed hawk, which was regarded as the first living being.

Benoic (see Benwick)

Benois (see Benwick)

benshee (see banshee)

Bensozia
a mediaeval she-devil
(see also Bensozia)

Bentei Srei Cambodian
[=Hindu Shakti]
the name for Shakti, the female aspect of Shiva

Benten Japanese
[Benten-San.Benzai-ten.Queen of Love: =Hindu Sarasvati]
a sea-goddess, goddess of music,
speech and wealth
one of 7 Shinto deities of good fortune known as the Shichi Fukujin

In one story she descended to earth and married a dragon king, persuading him to give up his wicked habit of eating young children.

Another story tells how she helped the young poet Baishu, who had found a poem written by a maiden and had fallen in love with her without having met her. He prayed to Benten who arranged that he should meet the girl as he left the shrine. It later turned out that this girl was, in fact, the soul of the maiden whom he later met and married.

Some of her statues show her with snakes while others show her as having eight arms, six of which are raised with hands holding various objects, such as a bow and arrow, the other two being folded in prayer. She is sometimes depicted playing a kind of flute known as a biwa.

Benten-san (see Benten)

Benthescyyme Greek
daughter of Poseidon and Amphitrite
Poseidon gave her the infant Eumolpus to rear when the sea-god rescued him from the sea.

Bentrash Egyptian
a princess

Her sister had married a king of Egypt, so when Bentrash fell ill her father appealed to the king for help. He sent his chief scribe who found that she was possessed of an evil spirit, which he failed to exorcise. The king then persuaded the god Khons to sent an image of himself to visit the princess and this was successful in restoring the girl to health.

Benu (see Benu.Ra-Atum)

benu-bird (see benu-bird)

Benwick British [Benoic.Benois.Benwyk]
the supposed home of King Ban and Lancelot in Brittany

Some writers identify the town with Bayonne, Beaune, Bourges or even Saumur.

Benwig British
a young boar, in Welsh lore offspring of Twrch Trwyth

Benwyk (see Benwick)

Benzai-ten (see Benten)

Bensozia European
a Basque mother-goddess
(see also Bensozia)

Beoan<sup>1</sup> Irish
a monk

He was sailing to Rome when he met the mermaid Li Ban, and arranged to meet her a year later.

Beoan<sup>2</sup> Irish
a travelling carpenter
husband of Darerca
father of St Ciaran of Cluainn

Beoil Irish
a servant of Partholan

He is said to have built the first house in Ireland. (see also Brea)

Beor Biblical
a heathen prophet father of Balaam

Beotac (see Beothach)

Beothach Irish [Beotac]
son of Iarbanel or, some say, of Nemed
father of Iboth and Ibcán

He is generally regarded as a grandson of Nemed, one of three who split Ireland between them after the defeat of the Fomoiré.

When the Nemedians were driven from Ireland he led his group to the northern islands of Greece, and their descendants later returned to Ireland as the Danaans.

Beow (see Beaw)

Beowolf (see Beowulf)

Beowulf Norse
[Bee-hunter.Beowolf]
a warrior prince
son of Ergtheow

nephew of Hygelac, king of Geatland
He and his friend Breca swam, fully clothed in mail armour, across the sea from Denmark to Geatland for a dare.

When the monster Grendel made raids on Heorot, the palace of the Danish king Hrodgar, Beowulf volunteered to try to kill the monster. It ate his companion Hondscio, and since it was invulnerable to weapons Beowulf tackled it with his bare hands when he trapped the monster on its next attack. Unable to break Beowulf's grip, Grendel pulled away leaving one of its arms behind and later died from the wound. The monster's mother carried off Hrodgar's retainer Aeschere, and when she emerged to avenge Grendel's death Beowulf dived into the lake with the sword Hrunding which proved useless against her. He snatched up a huge sword that the monster had acquired earlier and used it to cut off her head and also that of Grendel.

After this triumph, Beowulf was handsomely rewarded with, amongst other things, the necklace Brisingamen which is normally said to be the necklace of Freya. In some versions he became king of Denmark; in others, he returned to Geatland where he acquired land and set up his own kingdom. When his uncle Hygelac, king of Geatland, was killed, Beowulf raised the king's son to be the next ruler, but when he too was killed Beowulf himself took the throne.

In old age he killed a dragon, the Firedrake, which lived beneath a burial mound guarding a hoard of treasure, and which was ravaging the countryside. He was mortally wounded, but before he died he gave his armour and weapons to the youth Wiglaf, the only one of his retainers to have stood with him in the fight with the dragon.

(see also Nagelring)

Beowulf Anglo-Saxon
an epic poem of over 3,000 lines
describing the exploits of Beowulf

Ber<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
a name of Ninib as 'lord of wild boars'

Ber<sup>2</sup> (see Mer)

Bera (see Cailleach Bheur.Scota)

Bera Pennu Indian
a goddess of vegetation in Bengal

Berach Irish [Bearach]
an Irish saint

As a boy he was raised by the monk Daigh mac Cairill. He was said to have returned to life a woman and her son who had fallen into a wheat mill; the boy's father gave him land for a monastery. He later established other monasteries and performed miracles such as raising warriors from the dead and turning a bog into a lake to drown an invading army.

Beralku Australian [Bralgu]
in the lore of the Aborigines, the island of the dead

Berbalang Pacific Islands

a monster in the Philippines

These monsters are human in appearance but are slit-eyed and have wings. They live on human flesh, but can be warded off by carrying a coconut pearl.

Berbis

a demon

Berbyce Greek

one of the 50 daughters of Danaus

In some accounts she was one of the three daughters who did not kill their husbands on their wedding night. The others were Antymone and Hypermnestra.

Ber celak *(see Green Knight<sup>1</sup>)Bercht *(see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)Berchta *(see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)Berchten German

[Perchten]

the followers of Berchta

These beings are said to be seen rushing through the sky on Twelfth Night.

Berchennacht German

[Perchennacht]

Twelfth Night

On this night Berchta and her followers are said to be seen rushing through the sky.

Berchther European

[Berchtung]

a duke at Rother's court

father of 12 sons including Hache and Herbrand

He sent a delegation to the court of the emperor, Constantine, to sue for the hand of his daughter, Oda, on behalf of Rother. On arrival at the court they were all thrown into prison, and when Rother went to search for them Berchther went with him.

Berchtung *(see Berchther)Berclak de Hautdesert

(see Green Knight<sup>1</sup>)

Berecynthia *(see Berecynthia)Berecynthia Celtic

[Berecynthia]

a Gaulish goddess

She was regarded as the Continental version of Cybele or Ops.

Berecynthia Hero Greek

a name of Midas

Berejya Persian

a guardian spirit

He sends the bird Camrosh to help Iranians attacked by outsiders.

Berenice Roman

[Berenike.Berenise.Bernice]

a queen of Egypt

She sacrificed her beautiful hair on the altar of the gods to ensure the safe return from the wars of her soldier husband, Ptolemy. The hair disappeared from the shrine but appeared in the sky as a constellation.

Berenike *(see Berenice)Berenise *(see Berenice)Berezisvanh *(see Bahram-fire)Bergbui Norse

[Bergrisir. 'mountain dwelling'] hill giants (see also Bergrisir)

Bergelmer *(see Bergelmir)Bergelmi *(see Bergelmir)Bergelmir Norse

[Bergelmer.Bergelmi.Farbauti]

a giant

son of Thrudgelmir and progenitor of the race of Frost Giants

He and his wife were the only ones to survive the rush of blood from the body of Ymir when he was killed by Odin and his brothers, and they lived to start a new race of giants. In some stories he is Farbauti, father of Loki by Laufeia or Nal. In some accounts he was the son of Ymir rather than his grandson.

Berggeist German

a mountain spirit

Bergjarl Norse

[Lord of the Mountain]

a hill giant

Bergrisir Norse

[Bergbui.Bergjarl]

hill giants (see also Bergbui)

bergsmiedlein *(see Dwarfs)Bergthora

wife of Njal

mother of Grim, Helga, Helgi, Skarp-Hedin and Thorgerd

She and her family were trapped by the forces led by Flosi who, in furtherance of a long-running feud, burnt the house to the ground. She and her husband chose to lie on their bed, with their young grandson Thord between them, and quietly wait to be overcome by the flames, rather than the face the mob outside.

Bergthorskroll Norse

the house of the Njalsson's, burnt to the ground by Flosi and his men

Berith

[Beal.Bofi.Bolfry]

a demon of alchemy

a duke of hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted astride a red horse and is said to foretell the future.

(see also Baal-Berith)

Berkaial

a demon

Berkta *(see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)Berlic European

a mischievous spirit in Switzerland

Berling Norse

a dwarf

He was one of the four dwarfs that Freya was said to have slept with to get the necklace Brisingamen.

Berlinghieri European

a knight of Charlemagne

He was with Roland at Roncesvalles and was killed there.

Bermoothes British

an enchanted island, said to be the home of devils and witches

Bernard of Astolat British

an impoverished earl

father of Elaine and Lavaine

He provided accommodation for Lancelot when he attended a major tournament. His daughter died of unrequited love for Lancelot. Her brother, Lavaine, went back to Camelot with him.

Bernardo del Carpio Spanish

a Spanish hero

He was said to have defeated Roland in single combat at Roncesvalles.

Bergoia *(see Begoe)Berne Celtic

a moon-goddess

Berng Spanish

[=Irish Bran:=Majorcan Verng]

a Catalan god

Bernice *(see Berenice)Bernlake *(see Green Knight<sup>1</sup>)Beroe<sup>1</sup> Greek

a nurse of Semele

When Semele became the lover of Zeus, Hera appeared in the guise of Beroe and persuaded Semele to demand that he prove that he was who he claimed to be. She did, and died for her temerity.

Beroe<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Adonis and Aphrodite,

some say

sister of Golgus and Priapus

Beroe and Golgus were said to be mortal while Priapus was immortal.

Beroe<sup>3</sup> *(see Begoe)Beroul French

a 12th c writer, author of The

Romance of Tristan

Berouth Phoenician

[Beouth]

an early mother-goddess

consort of Elioun

mother of Ouranus and Gaea

Berrant le Apres (see Aguyans)

Berroc (Anglo-Saxon)

[Barruc]
the sacred oak tree

Bersa (Irish)

husband of Mair

berserkers (Norse)

[baresark.berserkir]
inspired warriors

Inspired by Odin to battle frenzy, these warriors, though unarmed and naked, could perform amazing feats of strength and courage. It was said that they could take on the shape of bears or wolves, and in battle were invulnerable to fire and steel.

berserkir (see berserkers)

Bersules (British)

a knight at King Mark's court

He set out with Mark and Amant to kill Tristram but was himself killed by Mark when he refused to be party to murder.

Berte (European)

sister of Elissent

She and her sister, daughters of the Empress of Constantinople, were due to marry Charles Martel and his vassal, Girart de Roussillon. Charles fell in love with Elissent and married her, giving Berte to Girart.

Berte aux Grands Pieds (see Bertha<sup>1</sup>)

Bertelai (see Bertholet)

Bertha<sup>1</sup> (European)

[Berte aux Grands Pieds.Berthe au Grand Pied] daughter of Floris and Blanchfleur
wife of Pepin I

mother of Charlemagne

Her old nurse, Margiste, imprisoned Bertha and arranged that her own daughter, Aliste, should take Bertha's place and become Pepin's queen. The warders ordered to kill her allowed Bertha to escape and she took refuge with Symon, Pepin's cowherd, and his wife Constance. When Bertha's mother, Blanchfleur, exposed the false queen years later, Bertha was finally given her rightful position as queen.

The name Berte aux Grands Pieds is said to refer to the fact that she had big feet; in some accounts she was Berthe au Grand Pied because she had a club foot. (see also Bertha<sup>3</sup>)

Bertha<sup>2</sup> (European)

sister of Charlemagne

wife of Milon

mother of Roland

She married Milon secretly and he soon abandoned her, leaving her in poverty in a cave to bring up Roland. She was later pardoned by the emperor for her deceit and was restored to his favour.

Some versions say that Charlemagne fathered Roland on his own sister Bertha, and then married her off to Milon.

Bertha<sup>3</sup> (German)

[Bercht(a).Berkta.Brecht(a).Bride of the Sun.Percht(a).Precht.White Lady] a German name for Frigga or Holda guardian of the souls of the unborn or of those not baptised

She is depicted as having one large flat foot caused by her use of the spinning wheel. (see also Bertha<sup>1</sup>)

Berthe au Grand Pied (see Bertha<sup>1</sup>)

Bertholet (European)

[Bertelai.Bertolais]

a name for Charlot, in some accounts

Bertholai (British)

a friend and accomplice of the

False Guinevere

Bertilak (see Green Knight<sup>1</sup>)

Bertolais (see Bertholet)

Bertoldo (European)

husband of Sophia

He and Sophia appear as the parents of Rinaldo in Jerusalem Delivered.

Bertrane (European)

sister of Alane and Guillaume

Beruth (see Berouth)

Bes (Egyptian)

[Aha.Sepd.Septu]

the god of childbirth, children, dance, family, household, mirth and music husband of Tauret

He is normally depicted as dwarfish, bandy-legged and ugly, but in his role as Sepd, a god of war, he is given a handsome body and the face of a lion.

Beset (see Tauret)

Besla (see Bestla)

Bestiaire d'Amour (French)

a bestiary written by Richard de Fournival

bestiary

a mediaeval book of animals both real and mythical

Bestla (Norse)

[Besla.Betlla]

a giantess

daughter or sister of Bolthor

wife of Bor

mother of Hoenir, Odin, Ve and Vili

In some versions she is the daughter of Ymir, twin of Mimir, the wife of Thor and the mother of Odin and Loki.

Betara Guru (see Batara Guru)

Beth Gelert (see Beddelert)

Beth Saggil (Mesopotamian)

the Babylonian palace of the gods

Bethage

a demon said to take possession of humans

Bethel (Mesopotamian)

a local Phoenician god

Bethides (British)

son of Perceforest

husband of Circe

His wife brought the Romans to Britain and, when they conquered the country, his father gave up the throne and retired to the Isle of Life.

Bethor

one of the 7 Olympic Spirits,
ruler of the planet Jupiter

Bethseda

a pool or spring in Jerusalem said to have miraculous healing powers

Bethuel

a moon demon

Betis (British)

[Perceforest]

a king of England

brother of Gaddifer

He was given the throne by Alexander the Great who, some say, had conquered the whole of Britain. He killed the magician Darmart, and was thereafter known as Perceforest.

Betlla (see Bestla)

betylus (see baetyl)

Beund (see Beuno)

Beuno (British)

[Beund]

a 6th c Welsh abbot and saint

son of Bugi and Preferren

He was said to be descended from Anna, sister of King Arthur.

Beuve (European)

brother of Aymon

father of Maugis and Vivien

When Beuve failed to support Charlemagne in his battles with the Saxons, the king sent his son, Lohier, to threaten reprisals. Beuve killed Lohier and the king sent his army to subdue his vassal who then submitted but was treacherously murdered.

Bevarash (see Azhi Dahak)

Bevis of Southampton (British)

a knight of King Arthur's court

son of Guy

husband of Josian

He was reared by his uncle, Saber, when his mother killed his father, remarried and wanted to be rid of the boy. He was later sold as a slave and given to the Armenian king, Ermyan, whose daughter Josian fell in love with the young Briton. Ermyn gave him a horse, Arundel, and a sword, Morglay. He killed a huge boar and the dragon of Colein and defeated Brandamond of Damascus. When he was captured and held in prison he killed the two huge snakes that were introduced into his cell, and escaped and eloped with Josian who became a Christian and married him. It was said that he killed two lions with a single blow and defeated the giant Ascapart, who became his servant. On his return to Britain, his lands and titles were restored to him.

Beygawa Pacific Islands
wife of Tomwaya

Her husband was so devoted to her that when she died he visited her in Vabusi, home of the spirits of the dead.

Beyggvir Norse
[Beggvir.Byggvir]

a barley-god: mill refuse personified a servant of Frey husband of Beyla

He was envisaged as a miniature being speaking into Frey's ear.

Beyla Norse
a minor goddess, attendant on Frey manure personified wife of Beyggvir

In some accounts she married Frey; in others Beyla is masculine.

bezoar
a stony lump sometimes found in the intestines or stomachs of various ruminants and other animals

These stones are supposed to have magical powers or medicinal power as an antidote to poison.

(1) In parts of Europe the stone was used as a cure for toothache.

(2) The Chinese wear rings incorporating this stone, which when sucked acts as a cure for poison.

(3) Some North American tribes grind the stones to powder and use this to strengthen their eyesight.

(4) In Mongolia, the stone is used by shamans to bring rain.

(5) In the Pacific Islands, it is said to be found in coconuts and, again, is used as an antidote for poison.

Bhachakra Indian
the Indian Zodiac

Bhadra<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [=Tibetan bZan-po.Zen-po]
in some accounts, one of the Arhats

Bhadra<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a goddess, prosperity personified daughter of Soma wife of Utatheya

She was abducted by Varuna but he was forced to return her when, in response to Utatheya's plea, the goddess Sarasvati dried up all the rivers.

Bhadra<sup>3</sup> Japanese
the Buddhist concept of divine compassion

Bhadra Vira Hindu
a name for Shiva used by the Maratha
In this form he is depicted riding the bull Nandi. (see also Virabhadra)

Bhadracharu Hindu
son of Krishna and Rukmini

Bhadrajina Jain
the last of the tirthankaras

Bhadrakali (see Durga.Kali.
Mahadevi.Parvati)

Bhadrakalpa Buddhist
the present era

Bhadrasva Hindu
one of the 4 island-continent
mentioned in the Mahabharata
(see also Dvipa)

Bhaga Hindu
[Bhagasavitar. 'good luck'. 'wealth']
a sun-god: a god of good fortune
a form of Surya as the giver of wealth
one of the 6 Adityas
husband of Siddhi

He was blinded by Shiva as Virabhadra.
Bhagasavitar (see Bhaga)

bhagat Indian
exorcists, priests and sorcerers

Bhagavad (see Bhagavan)

Bhagavad Gita Hindu
[Bhagavadgita.Song of God.Song of the (Blessed) Lord]

the sacred writings of Vishnavism an epic poem in the Mahabharata
This poem records Krishna's talks with Arjuna before the battle between the Pandavi and Kaurava families.

Bhagavan<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [Bhagavat]
a name for the Buddha

Bhagavan<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Bhagavad.Bhagavant.Bhagavat(a).Bhagvan. Bhagwan. 'lord']

a name of Avalokiteshvara, Krishna and other deities as 'exalted one'
a title for a guru regarded as a deity

Bhagavan<sup>3</sup> Indian [Bhagavad.Bhagavant.Bhagavat(a).Bhagvan. Bhagwan. 'lord']
a creator-god

Bhagavant (see Bhagavan)

Bhagavat (see Bhagavan)

Bhagavata (see Bhagavan)

Bhagavata-Purana Hindu
[Shrimad-Bhagavata]

an epic scripture of the Advaita-Vedanta school, in some 10,000 verses, composed by Vopadeva

Bhagavati<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a name for Devi, Kali, Parvati and Uma

Bhagavati<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the capital of the underworld, Patala, home of the Nagas

Bhagiratha Hindu
a sage
grandson of Anshumat

He arranged for the flow of the Ganges, which had been diverted to heaven, to be returned to earth in seven streams.

Bhagvan (see Bhagavan.Bhagwan)

Bhagwan<sup>1</sup> Indian [Andate.Parmeson]
the supreme god of the Bhil in central India

He was self-created and created all the other gods.

Bhagwan<sup>2</sup> (see Bhagavan)

Bhainsasura Hindu
a modern form of Mahisha
This monster is said to trample the corn, but can be propitiated by worship or by the sacrifice of a pig.

Bhairava<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Bhutesvara.Bhuteswara]
a name of Shiva as 'the devourer' and haunter of the graveyards
(see also Bhairava<sup>2</sup>)

Bhairava<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Bhairon.Ksetrapala.Mahakala.Shankara. Shankara]

a terrible aspect of Shiva
He was born from the blood of Shiva. Bhairava had eight manifestations as Asitanga, Kapala, Kala(ratri), Krodha, Rudra, Ruru, Shankara and Unmatta.

He is depicted as having as many as five heads and ten arms and is usually naked with a snake and skulls suspended round his neck. Some of his hands hold a drum, a noose and a trident.

(see also Bhairava<sup>1</sup>)

Bhairavi Hindu
an aspect of Devi as a terrible deity

Bhairon Hindu
a local god later indentified with Bhairava

Bhaironath Hindu
a law officer of Shiva who controls both gods and men

Bhaisajya (see Bhaishajya)

Bhaisajyaguru (see Bhaishajya)

Bhaishajya Tibetan [Bhaisajya(guru).Man-la.=Chinese Yao-

shih.Yao-shih-to.Yao-shih-wang-fo.etc (see Yao-shih.):=Japanese Yakushi]
a Buddhist physician-god
one of the sMan-bla
one of the 5 Dhyani Buddhas
He was the ruler of the eastern Pure Land. (see also Gozu Tenno)

Bhalbhuaidh Irish [Balb(h)uaid(h)]
the Irish name for Gawain

Bhallika Buddhist
one of the maidens who fed the Buddha sugar cane when he broke his fast (see also Trapusha)

Bharada Pacific Islands
an ascetic saint
A witch, Tjalon Arang, under the auspices of Durga, caused many people to die of fever. Bharada, instructed by Siwa, read the witch's book of spells and then killed her, merely by telling her that Durga and Siwa willed it.

Bharadvaja Hindu
[Bharadvaja]
one of the 7 Rishis
son of Bhraspati
father of Drona
He lived the span of three normal lives and became an immortal. He is said to have composed most of the hymns of the Vedas. When Vishnu interrupted him at prayer he threw water over the god leaving a permanent mark (vatsa) on his breast.

Bharadwaja (see Bharadvaja)

Bharani Hindu [Apabharanis]
a goddess of misfortune
daughter of Daksa
wife of Candra

Bharat Mata Hindu
a mother-goddess

Bharata<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Barat.Bharatha.Bharati]=Thai Phroo]
son of Dasa-ratha and Kaikeyi half brother of Lakshmana, Rama and Shatrughna husband of Madavi
Another son of Dasa-ratha by Kausalya was Rama, the seventh incarnation of Vishnu. Rama should have inherited Dasa-ratha's throne, but Kaikeyi made the king leave it to Bharata and exile Rama for fourteen years. Bharata refused the throne but acted as regent while Rama was in exile.

Bharata<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Barat.Bharatha.Bharati]
the realm fought over by the Kaurava

and Pandava families

Bharata<sup>3</sup> Hindu
[Barat.Bharatha.Bharati]
an early king of Bharata

Bharata<sup>4</sup> Hindu
[Barat.Bharatha.Bharati]
an ancestor of the Kauravas and Pandavas son of Dushyanta and Shakuntala

Bharata<sup>5</sup> Hindu
[Barat.Bharatha.Bhartai]
a hermit
He saved a faun from drowning and allowed his fondness for the animal to interrupt his devotion to god. As punishment, he was born as a deer in his next incarnation.

Bharata<sup>6</sup> Jain
[Barat.Bharatha.Bharati]
son of Rishaba
brother of Gommatesvara
He fought his brother for supremacy and lost but was handed the kingdom by Gommatesvara, who went into the forest to do penance. Bharata erected a huge statue to commemorate his brother's feat of standing for one whole year while plants grew over him.

Bharata-Guru (see Batara Guru)

Bharatas Hindu
the Kauravas and Pandavas, descendants of Bharata

Bharatayuda East Indian [Bratayuda]
the Javanese version of the Mahabharata

Bharatha (see Bharata)

Bharati<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a goddess of sacrifices
an aspect of Sarasvati

Bharati<sup>2</sup> (see Bharata)

Bhargavas (see Brighus)

Bharunda Hindu
a bird said to carry off dead bodies

Bhatara Guru (see Batara Guru)

Bhattara Guru (see Batara Guru)

Bhava<sup>1</sup> Hindu
life-producing power (see also Bhavani<sup>2</sup>)

Bhava<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[existent]
one of the 8 forms of Agni (see also Rudra.Shiva)

Bhavacakramudra Buddhist
the wheel of life

Bhavaja Hindu
a name for Kama as god of love

Bhavanavasi Jain
10 young-looking deities
These are listed as Agnikumara, Asura-kumara, Dikkumara, Dvipakumara, Nagakumara, Stanitakumara, Suparna-kumara, Udadhikumara, Vayukumara and Vidyutkumara.

Bhavani<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Bhowani]
an aspect of Kali or Parvati
In this role she is portrayed as a demon with a necklace of skulls, her tongue hanging down to her chin and pendulous breasts.

Bhavani<sup>2</sup> Hindu
life-producing power (see also Bhava<sup>1</sup>)

Bhavani<sup>3</sup> Hindu
in Nepal, a wife of Shiva
In some accounts she is the same as Vajravara

Bhavishya (see Shiva)

Bhechad-jagaru (see Yakushi)

Bheki<sup>1</sup> Hindu
the sun on the horizon

Bheki<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a maiden who married a king
She married the king on condition that he would never show her a drop of water as this would cause her death.

Bherava Pacific Islands
[Maha Bherava:=Hindu Bhairava]
an aspect of Buddha or Siwa

bhikkhu Buddhist [bhikshu:female = bhikkuni]
a mendicant monk

bhikkuni Buddhist a female bhikku

Bhikshana Tibetan
a Lamaist sorcerer

bhikshu (see bhikkhu)

Bhima<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [Bhimadevi]
a goddess attendant on Buddhakapala

Bhima<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Bhimasena.Jihma-yodhin.Vrikodara: =Javanese Bima]
a giant warrior prince, hero of the Mahabharata son of Vayu and Kunti
one of the 5 Pandava brothers
husband of Hidimba
father of Damayanti
father of Ghatotkacha by Hidimba
father of Sarvaga by Balandhara
On a journey to find the magic lotus, which restores health and vigour, he met Hanuman and from him learned the history of the universe. He killed the yakshas which guarded the lotus and drank the healing waters of the lake.
In one account he killed Purochana by setting fire to his house, because he had learned that Purochana planned to burn down the Pandava's palace. He also killed the demons Hidimba and Vaka and many others.

Two men, Jayadratha and Kitchaka, tried to rape Draupadi, and Bhima gave them both a beating, making the former work as a slave of the Pandavas. Bhima later saved Draupadi from death at the stake.

In the Mahabharata he was poisoned and thrown into the river by his cousin, Duryodhana, one of the Kaurava brothers, but the water snakes revived him and gave him tremendous physical strength, which he used to great effect in the battle with the Kauravas. One of those he killed was Duhsasana and he drank the dead man's blood.

In the final episode Duryodhana, the sole surviving Kaurava, fought Bhima in single combat and was defeated. During the fight Bhima used an unfair blow that broke his opponent's thigh. Thereafter, he was called Jihma-yodhin, the unfair fighter.

Bhima, and all the Pandavas except Yudhishtira, died on the journey to Mount Meru.

Bhima<sup>3</sup> Hindu
a name for Rudra or Shiva as 'terrible' consort of Sarga
father of Durga

Bhimadevi
(see Bhima<sup>1</sup>.Devi.Kali.Uma)

Bhimasena (see Bhima<sup>2</sup>)

Bhishma Hindu
[Bhisma.Gangeya.Nadija]
a prince
son of Shantanu and Ganga

When his father wished to get married again, to the young Satyawati, Bhishma renounced his claim to the throne and remained celibate, so that any son of the new marriage could inherit the kingdom.

He taught both the Kauravas and the Pandavas the arts of war and fought on the side of the Kauravas in their epic battle with the Pandavas.

He could be killed only with his consent and this he gave when the Pandavas pleaded with him to give up fighting for evil men and demons. Sadly, his former friend, Arjuna, shot him with many arrows and he died of his wounds after fifty-eight days.

Bhishmaka Hindu
[Bhismaka]
a king
father of Rukmini

Bhisma (see Bhishma)

Bhismaka (see Bhishmaka)

Bhogavati Hindu
the capital city of the Nagas

Bhowani (see Bhavani)

Bhramari Hindu
a name for Devi, Kali or Uma as 'bee'

Bhrighus (see Brighus)

Bhrigu (see Brighu)

Bhrigu (see Brighu)

Bhrihadratha Hindu
a king
father of Jarasandha

His two wives each gave birth to half a baby. Both were abandoned in the forest where they were found by the demoness Jara. She joined them into one boy and handed him over to his father, who refrained from killing her when he realised that she had saved his son.

Bhrkuti Tara Tibetan [Janguli.Vajratara.Yellow Tara]
an aspect of Amitabha depicted with 4 hands and frowning

She is regarded as an incarnation of Syamatara and was one of the wives of Song-tsen Ganp-po.
(see also Syamatara)

Bhu Hindu

a primordial goddess
She existed on the bottom of the primaevial ocean and was raised to the surface by Brahma to become the lotus.

Bhudevi (see Bhumidevi)

bhumi<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
a group of 12 deities These beings represent the spiritual stages through which a bodhisattva must pass.

Bhumi<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the earth (see also Bhur-Loka)

Bhumi Devata Indian
a goddess of vegetation

Bhumidevi Hindu
[Bhudevi.Mahi.Pusti.Vasudhara.Zami-Mata]

a fertility-goddess
a wife of Vishnu
mother of Naraka

In some accounts, a name for Dharti Mata.

She was rescued from the sea by Vahara.

Bhumiya Hindu
[Kletrpal]
an early fertility-god or goddess
an aspect of Vishnu

In some places Bhumiya is worshipped as a snake; in others, the first man to die in any new village is deified as Bhumiya.

bhur Hindu

a word said to have been uttered by Prajapati which caused the creation of the earth (see also Bhur-Loka)

Bhur-Loka Hindu
one of the 7 realms of the universe,
the earth (see also Bhumi<sup>2</sup>)

Bhuranyu Hindu
a fire-god

bhut (see bhuta)

bhuta Indian [bhut]
an evil spirit; an incubus

These beings, which are the offspring of demons and ghosts, are said to cast no shadow. They live in forests or graveyards, eat human flesh and can take any shape.

Some say that they are the sons of Krodha, others that they are the spirits of those who died as children or of men who died from accident, capital punishment or suicide.

(see also bonga.curin)

Bhuta-Natha Hindu
a name for Shiva as 'lord of the bhutas'

Bhuta-Nayaki Hindu
a name for Devi, Kali or Uma as 'leader of demons'

bhutaganas Hindu
ganas devoted to Shiva

Bhudamara Buddhist
a three-eyed-god of demons

He is depicted as black with four arms and is decorated with eight snakes and five skulls.

Bhutamata Hindu
a terrible aspect of Parvati

Bhutesvara (see Bhairava<sup>1</sup>)

Bhuteswara (see Bhairava<sup>1</sup>)

Bhuvana Hindu
father of Vishvakarma by Yogasiddha

Bhuvaneshvari Hindu
one of the 10 mahavidyas

bhuvar Hindu
a word said to have been uttered by Prajapati, which caused the creation of the heavenly bodies

(see also Bhuvar-Loka)

Bhuvar-Loka Hindu
one of the 7 realms of the universe
the home of the sages in the sky

Bi-har (see Bihar)

Bi-Hyong Korean
a boy with magical powers

He was born to Do-Wha as the result of a visit to her in a dream by the dead king, Zin-Zi, and was adopted by the new king, Zin-Pyong. He became leader of the goblins who lived on the far side of the river and at the king's request had them build a bridge over the river.

Bia<sup>1</sup> African

a river-god
son of the supreme god of the Akan
brother of Tano

He was to receive the fertile areas and Tano was to receive the desert lands, but Tano disguised himself as Bia and was given the fertile land.

Bia<sup>2</sup> Greek

the god of force
son of Pallas and Styx
brother of Cratus, Nike and Zelus

He and his brother Cratus were given the task of chaining Prometheus to the rock.

Biadice Greek

[Biddice] wife of Cetheus

She fell in love with her nephew Phrixus and when he rejected her advances she accused him of rape.

B'iame (see Baime)

Biarki (see Bodvar)

Bias<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Amythaon and Idomene or Melanippe
brother of Melampus husband of Pero
father of Talaus by Pero
father of Anaxibia by Iphianassa

He was in love with Pero and when her father demanded the cattle of Phylacus as the bride-price, his brother Melampus obtained them for him. When she died Bias married Iphianassa, one of the daughters of Proetus, who had been driven to madness by Melampus.

Bias<sup>2</sup> Greek

father of Areius
He was killed by his nephew, Pylas, king of Megara.

Bias<sup>3</sup> Greek

a 6th c BC Ionian
one of the Seven Sages

Biausdous British

son of Gawain
husband of Biautei

His prize for being able to remove the sword Honorée from its scabbard was the hand of Biautei. He defeated Ermaleus in combat and sent him to King Arthur as a prisoner.

Biautei British

a princess
wife of Biausdous

She was given to Biausdous as his wife

when he managed to remove the sword Honorée from its scabbard.

Biblinði Norse

a name for Odin as 'drinker'

bibliomancy

divination from random openings of a book: ascertaining guilt by weighing suspected sorcerers against the weight of the Bible

(see also rhapsodomancy.sortes)

Bibliotheca Greek

[Bibliotheka]

a book of myths by Apollodorus

Bibliotheka (see Bibliotheca)

Bibung European

a dwarf

He was the protector of the ice-queen, Virginal. When she was seized by the magician, Ortgis, he went to Dietrich for help.

Bicorn French

[Bicorne.Bycorne]

a monster in the form of a beast that eats good husbands

Bicorne (see Bicorn)

Bida African

the dragon guarding Wagadoo

This new city sprang up in the desert when Prince Lagarre beat the royal drum, Tabele. The dragon gave Lagarre access to the city, of which the young prince became the king, on condition that he delivered a young maiden to the dragon each year. After each such sacrifice Bida flew over the city disgorging gold, which paved all the streets. After many years of such sacrifices Mamadi, the lover of the maiden due to be sacrificed that year, killed Bida and cut off his head, which flew off to the Gold Coast.

bidadari East Indian

a Javanese nymph

It is said that these beings sometimes marry mortals. (see also vidyadhari)

Bidasari Malay

an epic poem telling the story of Mengindera

Bidda African

a Hausa spirit causing stiffness

Biddice (see Biadice)

Bidhgoe (see Ea-Anu)

Bidiel (see Bydiel)

Biducht Persian

[=Greek Aphrodite]

a love-goddess

Bidwini British

[Baldwin.Bedwin(i).Bedwn]

a bishop at King Arthur's court

Biega-olmai Baltic

a Lapp wind-god

Biel African

an Ethiopian spirit

Bielbog (see Bylebog)

Bierlam African

a word for god in Cameroon

Biersal German

a kobold of the cellar

If he is appeased by a daily jug of beer, this spirit of the cellar will clear all the bottles and jugs.

Biflinði Norse

a name for Odin as 'one who brandishes a spear'

This name is a reference to his magic spear Gungnir.

Bifrons

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This demon takes the form of a monster that can change shape on command. It is said to impart knowledge of magic herbs and of astrology.

Bifrost Norse

[Asa-bridge.As(a)bru.Bilrost.The Milky Way.Vindhjalsbrú]

the rainbow bridge leading from Asgard to Midgard

This bridge, built of air, fire and water, was guarded by Heimdall whose palace, Himinbiorg, was built on top of the bridge. Thor was not allowed to use the bridge – his tread was too heavy for its frail construction. It was broken down by the onrushing forces from Muspelheim at Ragnarok.

Big Dipper (see Great Bear)

Big Donag MacManus Irish

a man who outwitted Cailleach Bheur

The hag would challenge young men to a reaping contest and killed them when she won – as she invariably did. Big Donag MacManus spotted that her success was due to a chafer in the handle of her reaping hook. By pulling off the handle and releasing the chafer he escaped the fate of so many others.

Big Eater North American

a man who married a ghost woman

Big Eater found a woman digging clams and persuaded her to come and live with him. After a while she got tired of him and set off in a canoe to find a younger man. Big Eater chased her in his other canoe and eventually overtook her. She thereupon pulled a hair from her head, turned it into a lance and, throwing at her pursuer, killed him.

Big Grandfather (see Raven<sup>2,3</sup>)

Big Hag Irish

a female water monster slain by Finn mac Cool

Big Owl North American

a monster of the Apache American Indians who eat human beings

In some accounts, he was a son of the Sun and was killed by his own brother.

Big Raven *(see Quikinna'qu)Big Snake North American

a spirit of the Pueblo tribes

Big Star *(see Sontso)Big Water Man North American

a spirit of the Pueblo tribes

This spirit can be invoked to combat disease. He is said to cause landslides when he moves and is envisaged as having yellow eyes and a large mouth in a spiny body.

Bigeh Egyptian

an island in the Nile where Hapi lived

Bigfoot North American

[Gilyuk.Omah.Sasquatch.Susquatch.Toki-Mussi]

a supposed monster in the Rocky Mountains

Biggaroo Australian

in the lore of the Aborigines, a huge snake

Bigirhush Mesopotamian

[Shuzianna]

an Akkadian god of the primitive ocean

Bigirimana African

a name of Imana as 'he who owns all things'

Bihar Tibetan

[Bi-har.Pe-har.Pehar.Pekar.Pelear. Tin-le-gyal-po]

a Buddhist-Lamaist god

one of the Mahapancharajas, King of Deeds

He is depicted with six eyes in each of his three heads and with six arms. He rides a white lion or a red tiger.

(see also Nach-un.Yon-tan-rgyal-po)

bija-mantra Hindu

a mantra used in Tantric ritual

Each mantra, which has but one syllable, represents a deity.

bijadhari *(see vidyadhari)Bika Daikoku Japanese

a form of Daikoku as a priest bearing a sword and a mallet

Bikki Norse

a counsellor at the Danish court

He accused Broder, son of King Iarmerik, of having seduced Svanhild, the intended bride of his father, the part played by Sibich in the story of Ermenrich.

Bikshu Buddhist

[Biksu]

the 4 'apostles' of Buddhism

The names of these men, the original apostles of Buddha, are given as Kun Dadhana, Kashyapa, Pindola and Rahula.

Biksu *(see Bikshu)Bil Norse

a goddess of the waning moon

one of the Asynjur

daughter of Ivald and Greip

sister of Hiuki

She and Hiuki were captured by the moon-god Mani when they were carrying song-mead from the well Byrgyr in the bucket Saegyr, and thereafter always accompanied him.

Bilalang Malay

[Pa Bilialang]

a grasshopper featured in folk tales

Bilat *(see Belit)Bilberry Sunday *(see Lugnasad)Bildjiwuaraju *(see Djanggawuls)Bildr Norse

another version of Balder

In this version, he is a rival of Hromund for the hand of Svanhit. Hromund killed both Bildr and Voli (Vali) with the magic sword Mistilteinn.

Bile<sup>1</sup> Irish

[=British Belinus:=Welsh Beli]

a god of death

in some accounts, the first man

son of Broeghan or Ith brother of Milesius

In some versions he is the husband of Dana, in others the father of Milesius. Some say that he was one of those drowned when the Danaans caused the storm that wrecked many of the ships of the invading Milesians.

He conducts the souls of the dead to the Otherworld. Some say that he is the same as Balor.

bile<sup>2</sup> Irish

sacred trees

Bile-panny *(see Vodni-panny)Bilet *(see Bileth<sup>1</sup>)Bileth<sup>1</sup>

[Bilet]

a demon

a minister of Arcan, some say

Bileth<sup>2</sup> *(see Beleth)Bileya *(see Bilegyr)Bilegyr Norse

[Bileya]

a name of Odin as 'the shifty-eyed one'

Bilik Indian

[Buluga.Pulaga. 'spider']

a thunder-god of the Andaman Islands husband or brother of Tarai

This deity is said to control the north-east monsoon while Tarai controls that from the south-west.

Biliku Hindu

the female counterpart of Bilik

Bilindi Ceylonese

[Veda Yaka]

a hunter

brother of Kanda Yake

He was killed by his own brother when the latter flew into a rage. The spirits of both men are invoked by hunters.

Biljari Australian

[Eaglehawk]

a culture hero of the Aborigines

Biljari and Wagu laid down rules for marriage to avoid incest. Both became birds as a result of tricks played on each other, Bijari becoming an eagle.

Billdat North American

a fabulous animal

Billicen North American

a god of things as they should be

Billing Norse

an elf, guardian of the West

king of the Ruthenes

father of Rinda

Billow-maidens *(see Wave-maidens)Billy Blin British

[Belly Blin.Billy Blind.Blind Barlow]

a household spirit

Billy Blind *(see Billy Blin)Bilmesschneider *(see Bilwis)bilocation

[duplication]

the ability to appear in 2 different locations at the same time

This alleged power is reported of several saints.

Biloko African

[sing=Eloko]

in Zaire, a race of hairless dwarfs

spirits of the dead

These spirits are said to wear leaves and live in hollow trees. Grass grows on their bodies and they can stretch their mouths so as to admit a human body. They can put a spell on humans by ringing the bell they all carry.

Bilrost *(see Bifrost)Bil's Way *(see Irmin's Way)Bilskirner *(see Bilskirnir)Bilskirnir Norse

[Belskirnir.Bilskirner.Storm-serene]

the palace of Thor situated in his realm, Thrudheim

Bilu Burmese

a cannibal ogre

This being is said to cast no shadow.

Bilwis German

[Bilmesschneider.Pilwiz]

an evil spirit

This being is said to devastate crops with a sickle attached to his big toe.

Bima East Indian

[Bratasena.Werkudara]
the Javanese version of Bhima husband of Nagagini

Bimbasara Buddhist

a king
husband of Vaidehi
father of Ajatasatru

He offered the Buddha the use of his bamboo park for the accommodation of his disciples.

Bimbo Japanese

a peasant
He found the Thunder Child, Raitaro, and raised him.

Bimbo-Gami Japanese

[Bimbogami]
a god of poverty

It is said that he can be banished from a house if the fire is blown on through a bamboo tube which, when it cracks from the heat, is thrown away.

His presence is announced by the clicking of death-watch beetles which act as his servants.

Bimbogami (see Bimbo-Gami)

Bimini British

[Boicua]
a mythical island, site of a fountain of eternal youth

This island is said to be located in the Bahamas.

Binatel West Indian

one of the 2 Zemis
a primaeval being, precursor of the gods (see also Morobo)

Binaye Ahani North American

twin members of the Anaye, in the lore of the Navaho

These beings, born without limbs, but with lethal glances, were killed by Nayenezgani and his brother.

The twin heroes were protected from the lightning that sprang from the eyes of these monsters by their supernatural status. Nayenezgani threw salt on the fire which caused an explosion which made the monsters blind and helpless, so that the twins were easily able to despatch them with their knives, taking their scalps as proof of victory.

Binbeal Australian

the rainbow, in the lore of the Aborigines son of Pundjel

Bincigi African

a seer in Senegal
father of Marain Jagu

He was killed by the tyrant king Garakhe for daring to speak on behalf of the oppressed people. His son, Marain Jagu, killed the seven sons of Garakhe and, after learning the art of the sorcerer, killed Garakhe as well.

Bind Serbian

an Illyrian god

Binded (see Banaded)

Bindinoor Australian

son of Walleyneup and Dorinop

When he was wounded his father, though the supreme god, could not heal him and he died. As a result his father decreed that man should thereafter lose his immortality.

Binego African

an evil spirit
son of Ryangombe
father of Ruganzu

His father's spirit kingdom, Mandwa, had been seized by Mpumuti Muchini. He found the usurper playing a board game with his father and told his father the winning moves. Muchini objected to this and Binego killed him. He married a lion-woman and they had a son, Ruganzu.

Bingacho (see Gario)

Binon Serou African

the seventh of the 8 ancestors of the Dogon

He turned himself into a snake to eat Lebe, the eighth ancestor, regurgitating a number of stones that took the shape of a body.

Bintu African

a heavenly antelope

Its skull was fashioned into the first hoe by a smith-god who brought it to earth to teach men the arts of agriculture.

Binyon, R. L. British

(1869-1943)
an English poet, author of Arthur, Madness of Merlin, The Sirens, et al.

binza African

[ira avure]
a Zande witch doctor

Binzuku Japanese

[Binzuru Harada.O-binzuru:= Pindola the Bharadvaja: = Chinese Pin-tu-lo]
one of the 16 Rakans

He was a mortal, the first disciple of the Buddha, who had miraculous healing powers and was deified.

Binzuru Harada (see Binzuku)

Biographies of the Gods Chinese

[Shen Hsien Chuan]
a book of ancient legends written by Ko Hung

Bion Greek

a 1st c poet
He wrote Lament for Adonis

Biorn<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Bjorn]
a friend of Frithiof son of Kol
brother of Harek
He steered the magic dragon-ship on the voyage to Orkney.

He is said to have had a tooth several feet long, blue in colour, with which he could kill his enemies.

Biorn<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Bjorn]
son of Ragnar Lodbrok and Aslaug
brother of Hvitserk, Ivar, Rogenwald and Sigurd

Biorno-Hoder (see Hoder)

Biort (see Bjort)

Bir (see Mer<sup>1</sup>)

Bir Badr (see Raja Kidar)

Bird of Doom Hindu

a bird sent by Yama to warn someone that his time on earth was ended

Bird of God (see Bird of Paradise)

Bird of Joy (see magpie<sup>2</sup>)

Bird of Paradise

[Bird of God.Bird of the Nile]

a mythical bird of the East

This bird was said to have very colourful plumage but had neither feet nor wings. It would hang from the branch of a tree by its tail feathers.

Bird of the Gods

a name for the hummingbird

Bird of the Nile (see Bird of Paradise)

birds

birds in various forms feature in many mythologies

(1) In Australia the Aborigines regard birds as their original gods.

(2) The Buddhists say that Garuda, half man, half eagle, is the transport of the gods.

(3) Celtic lore regards birds as the souls of the dead.

(4) In the East Indies, the islanders of New Britain say that a bird and a stone, offspring of the sun and the moon, became the progenitors of the human race when the bird turned into a woman and the stone into a man.

(5) The Finns, like the Celts, regard birds as the souls of the dead.

(6) In Persia birds were regarded as the transmitters of wisdom.

(7) In the Pacific Islands, birds are referred to in stories where they act as messengers for the gods, appear as deities who lay eggs from which islands emerge and are sent to locate dry land after the flood.

(8) In Siberia the thunder-god can be a bird and a raven is sent to assess the size of the expanding world. They also talk of the bucu, a bird said to help the shaman when he travels the world.

(9) The Sumerians say that the dead in the underworld take the form of birds.

(10) A universal story tells of a bird sitting in the tree of life near a pool in which lives a monster (a fish, serpent, dragon or toad) which holds back the waters. This bird often battles with the monster to release the waters.

(see also animals.phoenix.sacred birds.simurgh)

Bird's Way Baltic

in Lithuanian lore, the Milky Way along which the dead are said to travel to Dausos

Birdu Mesopotamian

a Babylonian goddess of the underworld husband of Manungal

Birgit (see Brigit)

Birhuturre Mesopotamian

a messenger for Gilgamesh

Birkabeen (see Birkabegn)

Birkabegn Danish

[Birkabeen]
a king of Denmark
father of Havelock

Birog Irish

a druidess

She accompanied Cian when he dressed as a woman to gain access to the imprisoned Ethlinn.

Birqu (see Mer<sup>1</sup>)

Birrahgnooloo Australian

one of the 2 wives of Baime, in Aboriginal lore

This deity, Baime's favourite wife, has the power to send floods.

Birral Australian

an Aboriginal culture hero

In some accounts he is the same as Baime.

Birren Irish

wife of Bith
mother of Cessair

She was one of the party of fifty women and three men, led by Cessair, who first settled Ireland. She was killed in the Flood, as were most of the original party.

Birth of Arthur British

a 14th c work dealing with King Arthur's kin

Birth of Merlin British

a 17th c play about the Arthurian wizard

Birth of the Gods (see Theogony)

Birth Pangs of Ulster (see Debility of the Ultonians)

birthbrick Egyptian

the emblem of Meskhenit

Birthday of Lord Rama (see Ramanavami)

Birushana<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a huge statue of the Buddha,
worshipped by the Kegou sect

Birushana<sup>2</sup> (see Dainichi)

Bisagit East Indian

a smallpox-god in Borneo

He gave Kinharangan the soil from which the creator-god made the earth. Some say that he imposed a condition that he should have half the people made by Kinharangan, an objective he achieves by causing a smallpox epidemic every forty years.

Bisaltes Greek

a king of Thrace
father of Theophane

Bisan Malay

the spirit of camphor

This female spirit is envisaged in the form of a cicada.

Bishamon Japanese

[Bishamon-tenno.Tamon:=Chinese To Wen:=Taoist Mo-li Shou:=Hindu Kubera.Vaishravana]

a Shinto god of war and wealth

one of 7 deities of good fortune, the Shichi Fukujin

brother of Kishijot

He is depicted in full armour with a spear in his hand.

Bishamon-tenno Japanese

[Bishamonten.Tamon]

Bishamon as guardian of the north

one of the 4 Shi Tenno

In some accounts he is one of the twenty-eight Nijuhachi-bushu.

Bishamonten (see Bishamon-tenno)

Bishop Adolf German

a 10th c bishop of Mains

Stories similar to that related of Bishop Hatto are told of this bishop.

(see Bishop Hatto)

Bishop Baldwin (see Bidwini)

Bishop Bidwini (see Bidwini)

Bishop Brice British

the cleric who officiated at the midnight mass when the Sword in the Stone appeared

Bishop Conrad British

a cleric who accused Merlin of heresy
The wizard was acquitted when he came to trial.

Bishop Hatto German

a miserly 10th c archbishop of Mains
He had some of his poor parishioners buried alive, describing them as rats when they asked for food. Their souls, in the form of rats, drove him into the Rhine where he sheltered in a stone tower. The rats ate through the walls and devoured the terrified bishop.

An alternative story says that he shut the peasants in a barn and burnt the building to the ground. In this version, mice take the place of rats.

(see also Bishop Adolf.Bishop Widerolf)

Bishop of the Butterfly British

[Peter de Roches]

a 13th c bishop of Winchester

He was said to have found King Arthur still alive and had a meal with him. As proof he could, at will, close his hand and produce a butterfly when he opened it again, a power given to him, he said, by the king.

Bishop Tegner Norse

author of the Frithiof saga, the story of the adventures of Frithiof

Bishop Widerolf German

a 12th c bishop of Cologne

Stories similar to that related of Bishop Hatto are told of this bishop.

(see Bishop Hatto)

Bissat Russian

a Tartar hero

Like Odysseus, Bissat was said to have burnt out the eye of a one-eyed giant.

Biston Roman

a son of Mars

bisimbi (see kisimbi)

bitabok African

in the Sudan, a name for a bat, a witch or a spirit

Bith Irish

son of Noah, some say husband of Birren

father of Cessair

He was not allowed a place in his father's Ark and his daughter advised him to build an idol. The idol told him to build a ship of his own to escape the coming flood. He did so and embarked with fifty women and two other men (Fintan and Ladra), sailing for seven years, finally landing in Ireland as the first settlers. He, like most of the party, was killed in the flood. Of the three men only Fintan survived.

Bithia Scythian

a witch reputed to be able to kill with a look

Bitol (see E Alom)

Biton Greek

son of Cydippe
brother of Cleobis

When their mother expressed a wish to see the wonderful statue of Hera, Biton and his brother yoked themselves to a cart and pulled her all the way to Argos. Tired from the effort, he was given permanent rest by Hera – he was transported to the Elysian Fields.

Bitru (see Sytry)

Bitsitsi North American

a Zuni musician and jester to the sun-god

When the Corn Maidens disappeared, the twin gods Kowwituma and Watusii asked Bitsitsi to find them.

Bitter Man North American

death personified in American Indian lore

Bivar, Rodrigo Diaz de Spanish

the 11th c hero known in literature as El Cid

Bivor Norse

one of the dwarfs

Biwa Japanese

a lake, home of a dragon-king

Bjara (see Para<sup>1</sup>)

Bjarni Norse

a rich landowner husband of Rannweig
son of Helgi

When his head groom, Thord, was killed by Thorstein after an argument about the result of a horse fight, Bjarni sent two of his retainers, Thorhall and Thorvald, to exact vengeance. Thorstein killed both of them and sent them back to Bjarni tied on to a horse. Goaded by his wife, Bjarni set out himself to kill Thorstein but, great fighter though he was, he met his match. They fought each other to a standstill and became friends, with Thorstein becoming Bjarni's loyal servant.

Another version says that Helgi's father was killed by his own brother-in-law, Geitir, and Helgi set out to avenge his death, which he did by killing Geitir. Geitir's son, Thorkell, tried to exact revenge on Bjarni. They fought and both were seriously wounded but they recovered, became reconciled and remained lifelong friends.

Bjelbog (see Bylebog)

Bjerkfolk (see Dwarfs)

Bjorn (see Biorn)

Bjorno-Hoder (see Hoder)

Bjort (see Biort)

Bkha (see Buchis)

bKur-dmam-rgyalmo Tibetan consort of dBangpo-rygabzhin mother of Dongrub, Donldan

and Donyod

Blaenor (see Blamor de Ganis)

Black Annis British

[Agnes(s).Annis.Cat Anna.The Blue Hag: =Danish Yngona.=Irish Ana]

a witch of Leicester: a wind hag

She was reputed to eat children and stretch their skins on a tree to dry. Some say that she was descended from the Irish goddess, Dana, others that she was blue.

Black Arcan<sup>1</sup> Irish

in some accounts, the druid Finegas

Black Arcan<sup>2</sup> (see Arca Dubh)

Black Arky (see Arca Dubh)

black art (see magic.necromancy)

Black Bear<sup>1</sup> North American

a Slavey American Indian sky spirit

When the animals sent a representative of each species to ask why the world was dark and full of snow, Black Bear told them that bags hanging from his lodge contained the cold, the rain and the wind but would not say what the fourth bag held. When Black Bear went out, the animals threw the fourth bag back to earth where it split open and out came the sun, the moon and the stars. The sun lit up the world and its heat soon melted the snow, so the animals returned to earth. En route, many suffered accidents that left them permanently in the form in which we now find them – the bison with the hump, the moose with a flat nose and so on.

Black Bear<sup>2</sup> North American

[Wacabe]

a guardian spirit of the Osage

Black Bear Spirit Chinese

a demon who took the robe of Hsüan

Tsang on his journey to India

Black Body North American

a Navaho god

He was one of four gods encountered by the tribe during their ascent from under the earth into the upper world. He, with Blue Body, Atse Estan and Atse Hastin, shaped the Navaho territory on four mountains on which they placed pairs of guardian-gods.

Black Book (see Clavicles of Solomon)

Black Book of Carmarthen British

[Llyfr du Caertyddin]

a 12th c Welsh book of poems on Arthurian themes

Black Bull of Norway British

a knight who was changed into the form of a bull by magic

Black Crag British

the home of the Black Knight defeated by Fergus

Black Crow (see Kangi Sapa)

Black Demeter Greek

a form of Demeter at Phigalia

In this form she was depicted as having the head of a horse and was said to have mated with Poseidon, both in the form of horses.

Black Dog

a goblin hound

Black Dragon Japanese

this beast, ruler of the north, is the symbol of courage

Black Dwarf British

a malignant gnome in Scotland

Black Elves (see Dwarfs)

Black God<sup>1</sup> (see Hashje Shohini)

Black God<sup>2</sup> (see Chernobog)

Black Hactcin North American

a leader of supernatural beings, in the lore of the Apache

He created animals and man and lives in the underworld. He gave Holy Boy the moon, which he placed in the heavens. He is identified with darkness and the East.

Black Hand British

a ghostly hand that appeared in the Perilous Chapel

Whenever a knight entered this chapel, the Black Hand appeared from the altar under which Espinogres had buried his mother Queen Brangemore, whom he killed. Any knight struck by the hand was killed and a marble tombstone appeared, bearing his name, in the adjoining Perilous Cemetery. This state of affairs continued until the Black Hand was struck by either Gawain or Percival.

(see also Black Knight<sup>2</sup>)

Black Knight<sup>1</sup> British

son of Tom a'Lincoln and Anglitora grandson of King Arthur

Anglitora left Tom when she found out that he was a bastard and, when he followed, she killed him. The Black Knight avenged his father by killing Anglitora. He later joined forces with his half brother, the Faerie Knight, and they both came to Britain.

Black Knight<sup>2</sup> British
a knight killed by the Knight of the Lantern

Black Knight<sup>3</sup> British
a knight defeated by Percival
This knight killed many others near the Perilous Chapel in Cornwall before he was himself killed by Percival. (see also Black Hand)

Black Knight<sup>4</sup> British
a knight defeated by Fergus

Black Knight<sup>5</sup> (see Knight of the Fountain.Percard)

Black Lord (see Hastsezini)
Black Mahakala (see Kalamahakala)
black magic [goetia.goety]
magic involving the Devil

This term embraces such practices as macumba, voodoo, sorcery and witchcraft and generally implies manipulation of the forces of evil. (see also necromancy)

Black Mass
a sacrilegious rite involving the Devil

Black Misery Tibetan
a primordial essence

The two things first existing were Black Misery (black light) and Radiance (white light), which combined to form the cosmic egg. Black Misery produced all the evil things in the world, and Radiance produced the good things.

Black of Sainglenn Irish [BlackSainglenn.Black.Saingliu.
DubhSa(inglainn.Dubsainglenn.
Dubsainglu]

a horse of Cuchulainn
This was one of the two horses born at the same time as Cuchulainn. The other was Grey of Macha. Another version says that this horse was born in the Black Lake of Sainglenn and returned there on the death of his master.

Black One, The (see Devi.Kala.Kali<sup>1</sup>) Black Oppressor, The British
a black warrior with one eye, in Welsh lore

He lost one eye when fighting the Black Worm of the Barrow in an unsuccessful attempt to seize the magic stone in the worm's tail. He was killed by Peredur.

Black River Pacific Islands
a river at the entrance to the underworld, Gimokodan Souls bathe in this river to eradicate all memories of their earthly life before passing into Gimokodan.

Black Sainglenn
(see Black of Sainglenn)

Black Saingliu
(see Black of Sainglenn)

Black Saladin British
the horse of Guy of Warwick

Black Servant (see Dubhgiolla)

Black Sow Norse
death and evil personified

Black Stone Pacific Islands
the cover of the underworld in the lore of Bali

This stone is carried on the back of Bedawang, the cosmic turtle that supports the world.

Black Stone of Arddu British a haunted stone in Snowdonia
It is said that anyone spending a night under this stone will become an inspired poet or will go mad.

Black Swan North American
wife of a son of Coyote
She was cast out of the camp with her children when Coyote sent her husband into the sky so that he could have Tern, another of his son's wives.

When this son returned and found out how badly Black Swan had been treated, he killed all those in the camp.

Black Tamanous North American
a cannibal spirit of the tribes of the north-west coastal area

Black Tengu Mongolian
an aspect of Tengu as a malevolent bringer of disease

Black Tezcatlipoca (see Titlachuan)

Black Tortoise (see tortoise<sup>2</sup>)

Black Venus Mesopotamian
a goddess
wife of Samael

Black Virgins Egyptian
images of Isis taken over by the Christian religion

Black Warrior (see tortoise<sup>1</sup>)

Black Witch, The British [Gorddu.Hag of Hell.Orddu]
daughter of The White Witch, Orwen, in Welsh lore

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get her blood in his quest for Olwen's hand. She was killed by King Arthur who threw his knife Carnwennan, cutting her in half. Her blood was collected by Cadw.

Black Worm of the Barrow British a huge worm or serpent living in the Mound of Mourning in Wales

This monster held a stone in its tail which could produce gold for whoever owned it. The mound was protected by 300 knights, each of whom wanted the stone. When the Black Oppressor tried to steal the stone, the worm blinded him in one eye. Peredur killed the worm and gave the stone to his helper, Edlym.

Blackbird of Cilgwri British [Ousel of Cilgwri.Ouzel of Cilgwri]
a bird of great knowledge, in Welsh lore
This ancient bird was consulted by Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen. It led him to the Red Stag.

Bladder North American
one of the 5 (or 8) great spirits created by Earth-maker

Bladder Festival Inuit
a winter festival of the Inuit of Alaska
The Inuit inflate the bladders of animals they have killed and put them under the ice, so returning their souls for use in future animals.

Bladud British [Bladudus]
a king of Britain
an ancestor of King Arthur
son of Hudibras husband of Alaron
father of Lear

Working as a swineherd, he is believed to have infected the pigs with his own skin disease (said to be leprosy) but he noticed that they were cured after wallowing in a marsh. He cured himself in the same way and constructed baths, or a temple to Sulis, on the site (at Bath, in some accounts) to cure others. He rejected the traditional god and worshipped the underworld witch, Sul. Experimenting with the black arts, he died when he fell from the sky while flying over New Troy on wings of his own invention.

Bladudus (see Bladud)

Blaes British
one of the Twenty-Four Knights of King Arthur's Court

Blai Irish
a rich noble of Ulster

He had been put under a geis to sleep with any woman who came alone to his house, so he slept with Brigh, wife of Celtchair, who killed him in revenge as Blai sat playing chess with the king, Conor mac Nessa.

Blai Dearg (see Saba<sup>1</sup>)

Blai Dheirg (see Saba<sup>1</sup>)

Blain Norse
a giant

In an alternative account of the creation of the dwarfs, they were made from the flesh of Blain and Brimir, rather than that of Ymir.

Blaise British

[Bleys]
a magician and holy man

He is said to have been an Italian hermit who instructed Merlin in the black arts. It was he who baptised Merlin as soon as he was born, son of Satan and a virgin, to prevent Satan from using the child for his own evil purposes.

Blake, William British (1757–1827)

an English poet and mystic

He wrote a number of works on religious and demonic themes, including The Four Zoas, The Book of Thel and The Marriage of Heaven and Hell.

Blamor de Ganis British

[Blaanor.Blamore]
a Knight of the Round Table
a duke of Limousin
son of Lancelot, some say
brother of Bleoberis

He and his brother accused King Anguish of killing a relative. Tristram repaid the king's earlier kindness by taking up his defence, and defeated Blamor in single combat but spared his life and they became friends. After the death of Arthur, he joined Lancelot, Bedivere and other knights in a hermitage. When Lancelot died, Blamor and Bleoberis went off to the Holy Land and fought the Turks.

Blamore *(see Blamor)Blanad *(see Blathnat)Blanaid *(see Blathnat)Blanard British a giantessBlancardin *(see Blanchardin)Blanchard<sup>1</sup> British the horse of Launfal

This horse was given to Launfal by the fairy Trianor.

Blanchard<sup>2</sup> European a horse of CharlemagneBlanchardin European [Blancardin]

a sub-king in Spain

He was sent by Marsilius with an advance party carrying gifts to Roland and Oliver as part of the trap plotted by Gano. He then took over one of the three armies hidden in ambush at Roncevalles.

Blanchefleur *(see Blanchefleur)Blanchefleur<sup>1</sup> British [Blanchefl(e)or]

a mistress of Percival

Clamadeus besieged her castle hoping to force her into marriage. Percival killed him in single combat and became her lover. In some accounts, she was the sister of Percival.

(see also Dindrane)

Blanchefleur<sup>2</sup> British

[Blanchefl(e)or]

a sister of King Mark, some say wife of Meliad, some say

She is said to have eloped with Meliad or Rivalin and became the mother of Tristram, dying of heartbreak when her husband died. Others say that she was given to Rivalin as a wife when he helped King Mark in his battles with the Scots. (see also Elizabeth)

Blanchefleur<sup>3</sup> European

[Blanchefl(e)or]

wife of Floris mother of Bertha

In one account the Saracen king of Spain captured a group of pilgrims. One of the ladies in the group gave birth to a girl, who was christened Blanchefleur, on the same day that the king's consort gave birth to a boy called Floris. They were raised together but Floris was sent away to school and Blanchefleur was sold to a slave dealer. Floris set out to rescue her and stayed with Darius, a bridgekeeper, in Babylon where Blanchefleur was imprisoned. Floris bribed his way into the prison tower and was reunited with his beloved. When they were discovered in bed together they were both sentenced to death, but their obvious love for each other softened the emir's heart and they were allowed to marry and return to Spain where their daughter Bertha was born. When she grew up, Bertha was due to wed the Frankish king, Pepin I, but her old nurse, Margiste, substituted her own daughter, Aliste, and she became queen. Some years later Blanchefleur travelled to France and exposed the deception and her daughter was then able to resume her rightful place as queen.

Blanchefleur<sup>4</sup> European

[Blanchefl(e)or]

daughter of Thierry

She was betrothed to Garin le Loherain when he helped her father in his battles with the Saracens but Pepin, having agreed to the marriage, changed his mind and kept her for himself.

Blanchefleur<sup>5</sup> European

[Blanchefl(e)or]

a wife of Charlemagne in some accounts (see also Sibilla)

Blandiman British

manservant of Belisent, wife of Nanter

Blanid *(see Blathnat)Blasine British

[Elaine]

the daughter of Hoel and Igraine,
some say

sister of Belisent and Hermisent

In some accounts she is the wife of Nanter; in others she is the same as Elaine, half sister of King Arthur.

Blasius Russian

the later, Christianised, name for Vlas

Blatant Beast British

a fiendish beast

offspring of Cerberus and Chimaera or of Echidna

This 100-tongued beast was hunted by Pelleas and captured by Calidore who carried it off to fairyland. It later escaped.

Blathmhac Irish

a joint-king of Ireland

brother of Diarmaid mac Aodha Slaine
He and his brother sheltered Cano when he came to Ireland to escape from Aodan, who had killed Cano's father, Gartnam.

In one story he expelled St Mochuda and his followers from their monastery. He contracted gout when a monk, afflicted with the ailment, accidentally touched the king's foot with his own.

In some accounts, he was the father of Conall and Dunchadh.

Blathnaid *(see Blathnat)Blathnad *(see Blathnat)Blathnat Irish

[Blana(i).d.Blanid.Blathine.Blathnad:=Welsh Blodeuwedd]

daughter of Mend

wife of King Curoi

mother of Lugaid

She had been carried off from a raid in Scotland and forcibly married by Curoi, king of Munster. She betrayed the secret of her husband's soul to her lover Cuchulainn. Nobody could find the entrance to the king's castle so she poured milk into a stream to guide Cuchulainn, who killed Curoi and carried her off. One of her husband's servants, the bard Fer Cherdne, seized her as she left, jumping over a cliff and killing both Blathnat and himself.

In some accounts she was a woman of the Otherworld, and the daughter of Midir.

Bleddyn (see Bleiddwn)

Bledhericus (see Bleheris)

Bledlochtana Irish

monsters called up by the Dagda to help the Danaans at the first Battle of Moytura

Bleeding Lance (see Holy Lance)

Bleheris British

[Bledhericus]

a Welsh bard noted for his knowledge of the story of Tristram and Isolde

Bleiddwn British

[Bleddyn]

son of Gwydion and Gilfaethwy as wolves, in Welsh lore

For the rape of Goewen, Math condemned the brothers Gwydion and Gilfaethwy to spend a year as wolves. Their offspring was turned into a boy by Math and called Bleiddwn.

(see also Hwychdwn.Haydn)

Blemmyae (see Blemmyes)

Blemmyes African

[Blemmyae]

a headless race of Ethiopia

Their 'facial' features (eyes, nose, etc.) appeared on their chests.

Blenzibly Norse

mother of Tristram in the Icelandic story Tristan and Isolde

Her first lover, Plegrus, was killed by Kalegras who became her second lover and father of Tristram.

Bleoberis de Ganis British

[Beleobus]

a Knight of the Round Table

a duke of Poitiers

son of Lancelot, some say

brother of Blamor

He and his brother accused King Anguish of killing a relative. Tristram repaid the king's earlier kindness by taking up his defence, and defeated Blamor in single combat but spared his life and they became friends.

After the death of Arthur he joined Lancelot, Bedivere and other knights in a hermitage. When Lancelot died, Bleoberis and Blamor went off to the Holy Land and fought the Turks.

Blessed Islands

(see Fortunate Islands)

Blessed Land (see Sukhavati)

Blessing Way North American

a Navaho religious ceremony to cure sickness

Bleys (see Blaise)

Bliant British

a knight

brother of Selivant

He fought Lancelot when the latter stumbled on his pavilion during his period of madness and was defeated. When he recognised who his opponent was, he took him to his home at Castle Blank and looked after him for over a year.

Blid Norse

a handmaiden of Freya

Blihos-Blikeris British

a maiden

This girl, a descendant of the maidens raped by Amangons and his knights, told King Arthur the story of their ordeal 1,000 years before, which had resulted in the country becoming a wasteland.

Blind Barlow (see Billy Blin)

Blind Old Man

(see Tuchaipai.Yokomatis)

Bliocadran British

a knight

husband of Acheflour

father of Percival in some

French stories

He was killed fighting in a tournament.

Blissful Isle North American

in the lore of some American Indian tribes, the land of the dead

Blockberg (see Brocken)

Blodelin Norse

[Bloedel]

brother of Etzel

When Gunther's party were being entertained at Etzel's court, the king's wife, Krimhild, persuaded Blodelin to murder them.

Blodenwedd (see Blodeuedd)

Blodeuedd British

[Blodenwedd.Blodeuedd.Flower Aspect.

Flower Face.Flowerface.Twyll

Huan.=Irish Blathnat]

a non-human, in Welsh lore

A 'woman' created by the magic of Math and Gwydion as a wife for Llew, who had been raised by Gwydion and who was prevented by a curse, placed on him by his mother, from marrying a mortal woman. She had a lover Gronw Pebyr, and they planned to kill Llew. When the plan failed, Gwydion turned Blodeuedd into an owl.

(see also Olwen)

Blodeuwedd (see Blodeuedd)

Blodighofi Norse

[Blodug-hofi]

Frey's horse

Blodug-hofi (see Blodighofi)

Bloedel (see Blodelin)

Bloie British

[Eglante.Lady Melyhalt.Lady of Malehaut]

wife of Danain

mother of Dodinel

mother of Calinan by Guiron

In some accounts she is referred to as Eglante. She was carried off by Danain.

Blonde Esmerée

(see Lady of Sinadun)

Blood (see Xquiq)

Blood-bag shooting

a ceremony involving the ritual shooting of a deity

Blood Clot North American

a Ute culture hero

He was reared by an old hunter who had found the blood clot from which the boy emerged. He grew very quickly and killed larger and larger animals as he grew bigger, finally killing a buffalo. He then left his foster father and travelled to another village where he married a daughter of the chief. One day he borrowed an arrow from the chief and called up a huge storm. When the wind abated, a dead buffalo was found outside each tent in the village. His life in the village ended when his wife uttered the forbidden word 'calf' – Blood Clot then turned into the buffalo he really was.

(see also Rabbit Boy)

Blood Crescent (see Cenn Cruiach)

Bloodied Old Woman

(see Cahubaba)

Bloody-bones

a hobgoblin

Blossom Princess (see Sengen)

Blower, The (see Ha')

Bluchbard British

a bard on the boat that took Arthur to Avalon

Blue Body North American

a Navaho god

He was one of the four gods encountered by the tribe during their ascent from under the earth into the upper world. He and Black Body, helped by Atse Estan and Atse Hastin, shaped the Navaho territory with seven holy mountains.

Blue Cloud Chinese

the magic sword of Mo-li Ch'ing

Blue Corn Ear Maiden North American

a Hopi Maiden

She quarrelled with Yellow Corn Ear Maiden and used magic to turn her into a coyote. The animal was captured and taken to a spider-woman who restored her to her former self, giving her a magic cup. When Blue Corn Ear Maiden drank from this cup, she was turned into a snake.

Blue Corn Maiden North American

the eldest of the 10 Zuni Corn Maidens
Blue Dragon<sup>1</sup> Japanese

this beast, guardian of the East, is a symbol of scholarship

Blue Dragon<sup>2</sup> (see Ch'ing Lung)

Blue-eyed Brahmin
(see Bodhidharma)

Blue-eyed Maiden (see Minerva)

Blue Hag, The (see Black Annis)

Blue Hawk North American
an Apache warrior

His best friend Red Hawk bet that he could seduce Blue Hawk's wife. He failed but managed to persuade Blue Hawk that he had succeeded. The angry husband locked his wife in a chest and threw it into the river. As a result, her father, the chief of the tribe, had him imprisoned in a hole dug in the earth. Rescued by a fisherman, Blue Hawk's wife dressed as a man and joined a war-party, killing all the enemy with magic and was then restored to her husband. Red Hawk and an old woman who had helped him were torn apart by wild horses.

Blue Jay<sup>1</sup> African
a man of the Ila tribe

In one account he took as a second wife the daughter of a god who warned Blue Jay never to let her eat meat from a large animal. His jealous first wife gave her some zebra meat and she died. When the god was told what had happened, he took both his daughter and Blue Jay up to heaven. Halfway there, the god threw Blue Jay to earth and killed him.

Blue Jay<sup>2</sup> North American
a culture hero and trickster-god
brother of Ioi

In the lore of the Mohawk, the bird who scared off the demon Tawiskaron. He also separated the Siamese twins born to Aqua-Xena-Xenas and his wife.

The Chinook say that he exhumed the body of the daughter of a chief and took her to the land of the Supernatural People where she was restored to life and married Blue Jay. When her father demanded Blue Jay's hair as compensation, he changed into a bird and flew off. His wife died a second death and his sister Ioi was claimed by the dead. When he found Ioi she was surrounded by piles of bones, which then became human beings again. Blue Jay turned them back into bones and mixed them all up so that they all had mismatched parts when they next materialised.

In another story, Ioi gave him five buckets of water with which to put out the prairie fires. He was badly burned and died.

Another story says that while in the land of the Supernatural People he accepted a challenge to a diving contest and won by the trick of coming up several times to draw breath under a mat of reeds while his opponent tried to outlast him on only one lungful. In another contest, climbing a pinnacle of ice, he again cheated and won by using his wings to fly upwards, but when a whale-catching contest was arranged Blue Jay fell into the sea and was drowned.

Blue Knight British
one of the knights defeated by Gareth when he rode to the assistance of the lady Lyonesse

Blue Lake (see Chipapunta)

Blue Lotus East Indian
a sky-goddess in Bali

Her spirit is said to possess the frenzied temple dancers who then acquire the power to drive out sickness and evil.

Blue Mountains North American
in the lore of the Navaho, southern celestial mountains, origin of the dawn

Blue Rain Hill (see Mount Fuji)

Blue Tara Buddhist [Nila Tara]

a shakti of Akshobya (see also Ekajata)

Blue Tengu Siberian
an aspect of Tengu as the spirit of fruitfulness

Blue Tezcatlipoca Central American
one of the 4 aspects of Tezcatlipoca
In this role, he was Tlaloc, god of rain, guardian of the South.

Some say he was Huitzilopochtli.

Blue Throat (see Nilakantha)

Blue Thunderbird
(see White Thunderbird)

Blue World North American
one of the 4 worlds which the Navaho passed through before emerging into the upper world

This land was the home of the Swallow People. The Navaho reached it as they fled upwards from the Red World to escape the flood that was sent to punish their adultery. Here, too, they committed the same offence and were compelled to leave the Blue World.

bluebottle East Indian

in the lore of Java, an insect that may be an ancestor

It is said that bluebottles lead the spirits of the dead to the underworld.

Blunderboar (see Blunderbore)

Blunderbore British [Blunderboar]

a giant
brother of Cormoran

When he was frustrated in an attempt to kill Jack the Giant Killer he cut his own throat and died.

Blutgang Norse
the sword of Heime

This weapon was given to Heime by his father, Studas.

Bn-Ym (see Khoser-et-Hasis)

Bne-aleim (see Ischin)

Bne Seraphim
[Mne Seraphim]
a demon of the planet Venus

Bo African
a guardian-god of the Ewe people

Bo Fionn (see Boann)

bo-san (see bonze)

bo-tree Buddhist [bodhi tree.bodhidruma]

a form of fig tree: the tree of Buddha Buddha is said to have received enlightenment while meditating under a bo-tree. The original tree was burnt by King Asoka but it was miraculously restored. When his queen had it cut down again, another miracle restored it once again. The tree is said to shed its leaves and develop a new set on the anniversary of the day on which Buddha attained the state of nirvana.

bo-zu (see bonze)

Boahje-naste Baltic
[=Latvian Bohinavlle]

in Finland, the North Star regarded as the axis around which the heavens rotate

It is said that the world will come to an end when the archer Arcturus shoots down this star.

Boale African
wife of Likinda

mother of Nsongo

Nsongo was her husband's mother. On the day she was born, Boale's baby was born. She was Nsongo reborn.

Boaliri Australian
one of the Wawalag sisters

Boanan (see Boann)

Boand (see Boann)

Boann Irish

[Bo Fionn.Boand.Boan(n)an.Boind.Boinn.
Buan-ann.Buana. Buanu]

a water-goddess, goddess of the Boyne queen of Ireland mother of Angus mac Og by the Dagda mother of Brian, luchar and lucharba,
 some say
 sister of Be Find

In some stories she was the wife of Elcmar and was seduced by the Dagda while her husband was away from home. Some say she was the sister of Bodb Dearg or his mother by the Dagda, others that she had an affair with Uaithne, harpist of the Dagda, and they had three sons known as Gentrade, Goltrade and Suantrade.

In other accounts she was the wife of the water-god Nechtan, who owned a magic well of knowledge known as the Well of Segais. She defied the rules by walking round the well, which then flooded over and drowned her. Some say she escaped and the waters ran off to form the river Boyne.

Boannan (see Boann)

boanthropy

the supposed ability to turn oneself into a cow or a bull

boar

a fierce animal of the pig family, featured in many stories worldwide
 (1) In China the boar is said to carry the sun for part of its journey across the heavens and is regarded as guardian of the north-west quadrant.

(2) Several boars feature in Greek myths, notably the Calydonian boar, which was hunted down and slain by a group of heroes and heroines. The Erymanthian boar is another; it was hunted and captured by Heracles as his fourth Labour.

(3) In Hinduism the boar is a source of cosmic power and appears as Vahara, the third avatar of Vishnu, and as the incarnation of various other deities, including Prajapati who, with his hundred arms, raised the earth. Another version says that the black boar Enusha raised the earth on its tusks.
 (4) Irish stories include the death of Dermot, slain by the boars that had earlier been charged to kill him.

A boar owned by Brigit, daughter of the Dagda, was known as Orc (or Torc) Triath or Treithirne and is the equivalent of the Welsh Twrch Trwyth.

(5) In Japan the boar was said to protect from snakes and was used as a sacrifice to the god Mi-Toshi.

(6) In Malaysia a boar may be a man in disguise.

(7) In Mesopotamian myths the boar is regarded as a messenger of the gods and is called Papsukal or Nin-shach. It became an accursed beast after killing Tammuz.

(8) Norse myths include the story of Ottar who, in the form of a boar, was a lover of Freya who owned and rode a golden boar called Hildswm, and of her husband Frey who owned the golden boar, Gullinbursti, made by the dwarfs. In Valhalla the boar Saehrimnir was slain every day to provide food for the slain warriors, but was restored after each meal ready to provide the next. Slidrugtanni was a boar which drew Frey's chariot alongside Gullinbursti.

(9) Persian mythology regards the boar as an incarnation of the god Verethragna and as the animal of Mithra.

(10) In Syria the boar was regarded as a sacred animal.

(11) In Welsh stories the quest of Culhwch involved the pursuit of the huge boar Twrch Trwyth, a king who had been turned into a boar for his sins. He had a litter of young boars, among them Banw, Benwig, Gwys, Llwydawg and Twrch Llawin. Also featuring in Culhwch's quest is the chief boar, Ysgithyrwyn, the tusk of which was required for shaving the giant Ysbadadden.

Boar of the Sky (see Rudra)

Boare (see Borre)

Boat of Manannan
 (see Ocean-sweeper)

Boat of the Night (see Gag Noz)

Boat of the Soul Chinese a vehicle used to carry deceased emperors (see also Chariot of the Soul)

Bobbi-bobbi Australian a spirit snake of the Aborigines
 He is said to have created the boomerang from one of his ribs.

bocan (see bocanachs)

bocanachs Irish [bocan.bocanachs:=Scottish bodachs]
 evil spirits accompanying Morrigan (see also bachlach,bananachs)

boccanachs (see bocanachs)

Bochica South American [Sua.Sugunsua.Xu(h)e.Zuhé]

a culture hero of the Chibcha Indians a sun-god, some say husband of Chia, some say

He was a mortal who taught his tribe the arts of agriculture, construction, etc., who after his death became a god. When the land was flooded by Chia or Chibchacum, he manifested himself in the rainbow, formed a channel to divert the waters into the sea and, appearing as the sun-god Zuhé, dried the land.

Some say that when he left the world he carried the sky on his shoulders; others say that he punished Chibchacum for sending the flood, forcing him to carry this burden.

(see also Chimizapagua.Nemquetcha)

Bochna Irish

[Bochra.Mochna.Mochra]
 mother of Fintan by Labraid

Bochor East Indian an assassin

He stabbed the king of Java in the back but the king, protected by divine power, was unharmed and Bochor begged his forgiveness.

Bochra (see Bochna)

bocor West Indian [bokor]
 a voodoo sorcerer of Haiti

Bod-Baal Mesopotamian
 an attendant of Baal

bodach British [=Irish bocanach]
 a Scottish goblin

This malevolent spirit takes the form of an old man who frightens children at night and steals naughty ones.

bodach glas British a form of Scottish goblin that causes the death of any human who happens to see it

Bodb (see Badb)

Bodb Dearg Irish [Bodb the Red.(Bodh) Derg.Bor(ve).Bov Dearg]

a Danaan king of Munster son of the Dagda and Boann, some say father of Aedh, Conchenn, Daireann, Mesca, Saba and Uirne

foster father of Alva, Aobh and Aoife
 Some say he was the brother of Boann and the Dagda and found the identity of the girl Caer Ibormeith, loved by Angus. He became leader of the Danaans when the Dagda resigned following the defeat by the Milesians. Mider objected to this arrangement and enlisted the Fianna to fight on his side against the new leader.

He had three foster daughters, Alva, Aobh and Aoife. Aobh married Lir and gave him four children but died in childbirth. He then married Aoife who turned her stepchildren into swans. When Bodb Dearg learned of this, he turned Aoife into a flying demon. Some say that he was the father of Alva, Aobh and Aoife, rather than their foster father.

In some accounts, he is regarded as a rather violent aspect of Donn Dumhach. (see also Children of Lir)

boddhisattva (see bodhisattva)

boddisattva (see bodhisattva)

Boden Norse

[Bodn]

a container

This was one of the three vessels into which the dwarfs Fialar and Galar drained the blood of the sage Kvasir, whom they had killed to obtain his knowledge, from which they brewed the magic drink that endowed all who drank it with the power of poetry and music.

Bodh Derg (see Bodb Dearg)

Bodh Gaya (see Buddh Gaya)

Bodhbh (see Badb)

Bodhbhcha Irish

brother of Ugaine Mor

He killed his brother Ugaine and took the throne of Ireland, but was himself killed by Ugaine's son, Loaghaire, a few days later.

bodhi tree (see bo tree)

Bodhidharma Buddhist

[Blue-eyed Brahmin:=]Japanese Daruma:

=Chinese Ta-mo]

a 6th c Indian sage

He settled in China where he was known as Ta-mo, and established Ch'an Tsang, the Inner Light school of Buddhism. In Japan he was known as Daruma. He was so incensed at falling asleep after nine years' meditation that he is said to have cut off his eyelids, which became tea plants. He also lost his legs as a result of this long meditation and is depicted as a legless, lidless being, sometimes swathed in cobwebs, sometimes standing on the waves of the sea.

bodhidruma (see bo tree)

bodhisat (see bodhisattva)

bodhisatta (see bodhisattva)

bodhisattva Buddhist

[bodd(h)isattva.bodhisat(ta).Buddha of Compassion:=Chinese p'u-sa:=

Japanese bosatsu]

a future Buddha: one who helps others to enlightenment even at the expense of delaying his own entry to nirvana

The names of these beings are given as Akshobhya, Amitabha, Amogasiddhi, Avalokiteshvara, Maitreya, Padmapani, Ratnapani, Ratnasambhava, Samantabhadra, Vajrapani and Vishvapani.

Bodhmall (see Bodhmall)

Bodhmall Irish

[Bodhmall]

a druidess

daughter of Tadhg mac Nuadhet

sister of Cumail

wife of Fiacaill Fi

She sheltered Murna, the wife of her brother, and the baby Finn, when Murna's angry father threatened to kill them.

In some accounts she was the sister of Murna.

Bodilis French

a fountain of virginity in Brittany

Bodn (see Boden)

Bodua Celtic

[=Irish Badb]

a war-goddess

Bodvar European

[Biarki.Bothvar. 'little bear']

a Danish warrior who could become a bear whenever he wished

In a story that parallels that of Beowulf he kills a monster, which was ravaging the country of Hrolf Kraki.

Bodvild (see Bodwild)

Bodwild Norse

[Bodvild]

daughter of Nidud

When she took a ring for repair to Volund, who had been captured and enslaved by her father, he put her into a trance with a drug, and having seduced her and killed her brothers flew off on wings he had made himself.

Boe (see Vali')

Boedromia Greek

a festival commemorating the victory of Xuthus over Eumolpus in the battle between Athens and Eleusis

Boel

ruler of one of the 7 supposed firmaments

Boeotus Greek

son of Poseidon by Melanippe

twin brother of Aeolus

He and his brother Aeolus were abandoned as babies, suckled by cows and sheltered by shepherds who later gave them to Theano. When she had two sons of her own by her husband Metapontus, she incited them to kill the foundlings but Poseidon intervened and killed the other two. The brothers returned to the shepherds who had sheltered them and Poseidon told them that their real mother, who had been blinded by her father, Aeolus, when they were born, had been imprisoned by her father. They killed him, their grandfather, and freed Melanippe who later married Metapontus after Theano killed herself.

Bofi (see Berith)

Bog Slav

[Bug]

a generic name for God

Bogaass Norse

a name for Uller as a bow-god

bogatiri (see bogatyr)

bogatyr Russian

[plur=bogatiri]

a legendary hero or demi-god

In a final battle with the gods the bogatiri were defeated, banished to the mountains and turned to stone.

Bogdan Serbian

[Bogdan the Bully]

a fierce knight

He attacked Marko, Milosh and Relya as they rode through his vineyards and captured both of Marko's friends. Marko captured all twelve of Bogdan's supporters so they exchanged prisoners and parted on good terms.

Bogdo Lama Mongolian

the third senior Buddhist monk, leader of the movement in Mongolia

Bogen German

son of Hugdietrich and Hildburg

brother of Waxmuth and Wolfdietrich

bogey

[bogy.bogle]

a goblin

boggard

[boggart.boggle.buggane]

a goblin or ghost

boggart (see boggard)

Boggelmann (see Bumann)

boggle (see boggard)

bogle (see bogey)

bogy (see bogey)

Bohinaville Baltic

[Nail of the North:=Finnish Boahje-naste]

the name used in Latvia for the North Star

This star is regarded as the support round which the heavens revolve.

Bohort (see Bors)

Boi' Celtic

[Bui.Na(a)s]

a goddess, queen of the fairies

wife of Lugh

It was said that she renewed her youth every time she grew old.

Boi<sup>2</sup> Celtic the name of the Hag of Beara (see Cailleach Bheur)

Boiardo, Matteo Maria Italian (1434–1494)

a Count of Scandia

He was an Italian poet who wrote stories of Charlemagne's paladins, including the poem Orlando Inamorata.

Boicua (see Bimini)

Boigu East Indian

the land of the dead in the lore of
New Guinea

This happy land is said to be an island reached by the soul on an underwater road, calling at Beg en route.

Boilce Irish

a satirist
wife of Luightheach mother of Conall Corc

Boind (see Boann)

Boinn (see Boann)

Boio Greek

a Delphic priestess

She is credited with a work describing the transformation of humans into birds.

Bois l'en Dingué West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Bokali African

a spirit which led Ilankaka into Lonkundo's trap

Bokero African

[Kinjikitire Ngwale]
a Tanzanian sorcerer

He distributed a liquid given to him by the snake-god Koleo, and those who drank it were safe from bullets, which would soften to mud before they struck.

boko West Indian

a sorcerer

These sorcerers are said to be able to steal the faculties of a living person and turn him or her into a zombie. When the victim, who appears dead, is buried, the boko retrieves the body, restores some of its animation and uses it as a slave. (see also bokonon)

bokonon African

[=Yoruba babalawo]
priests of the Ifa cult in Dahomey

(see also boko)

bokor (see bocor)

bokusen Japanese

divination

Various forms of divination are practised including futomani, which involves reading the cracks that appear in the shoulder blades of deer when heated; o-mikuyi, which involves drawing lots; o-bisha, archery; mikayu-ura, using bamboo rods dipped in boiling rice and abusame, archery on horseback.

bokwus North American

in the lore of the tribes of the North-West, a spirit of the forest, which pushes unsuspecting fishermen into the river

Bol (see Bel<sup>1</sup>)

Boleslav European

brother of Wenceslas

He killed his brother and had the martyr's bones interred in Prague.

Boldogasszony Hungarian

[Kisboldogasszony.Nagyboldogasszony]
the goddess of women and children

Bolfriana German

[Lady of Drachenfels]

a widow

wife of Wittich

She and her nine daughters were imprisoned by the giant Grim. Dietrich came to her rescue and killed both Grim and his brother, Fasolt. She later married Wittich.

Bolfry (see Berith)

Bolgbhain Irish

in some accounts, mother of Conall Corc

Bolla Balkan

[Bullar]

an Albanian demon in the form of a serpent

These demons open their eyes once a year and then eat any humans they see. After twelve years they become Kushedras.

Bolodjoré West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Bolon Dzacab (see Bolon Zacab)

Bolon Ti Ku Central American

[Bolontiku]

one of a group of 9 Mayan deities

In some accounts, this group captured another group, the Oxlahun Ti Ku. Others talk of Bolon Ti Ku as a god of the underworld.

Bolon Zacab Central American

[Bolon Dzacab]

a Mayan guardian deity

Bolontiku (see Bolon Ti Ku)

Bolster British

a giant

His step was said to span six miles. He attempted to rape St Agnes.

Bolthor Norse

[Bolthorn]

a Frost Giant

father or brother of Bestla

father of Mimir, some say

Bolthorn (see Bolthor)

Bolur (see Balor)

Bolwerk (see Bolwerk)

Bolverkin (see Bolwerk)

Bolverkr (see Bolwerk)

Bolwerk Norse

[Bolverk(r).Bolverkin. 'deceiver']

the name used by Odin when he enlisted Baugi's help to gain access to Gunlod's cave

bomala Pacific Islands

a taboo

Bomazi African

a deity regarded as the founder hero of the Bushongo

father of Moelo and Woto

He is said to have married an old woman who produced a child, a girl whom he later married.

Bombay Kamayan Hindu

a local goddess of disease

Bommatsuri (see Festival of the Dead)

bomoh (see bomor)

bomor Malay

[bomoh]

a medicine man

This type of sorcerer specialises in curing the sick by exorcising evil spirits. (see also pawang)

Bon<sup>1</sup> Tibetan

a form of shamanistic nature

worship, the pre-Buddhist religion of Tibet

Bon<sup>2</sup> (see Festival of the Dead)

Bon-e (see Festival of the Dead)

Bob-matsuri (see Festival of the Dead)

Bon Odori Japanese

a dance performed at the Festival of the Dead

Bon Po Tibetan

Buddhists priests still practising shamanistic magic

Bon-Ten-O Japanese

the god Brahma on whose head stands the Buddha

Bona Capia Roman

a goddess of plenty

Bona Dea Roman

[Good Goddess:=Phrygian Cybele]

daughter, sister or wife of Faunus

An obscure virgin-goddess worshipped only by women and associated with snakes. In some accounts she is identified with Fauna, Maia or Ops. Her father raped her, taking the form of a serpent. Her festival was held in December.

Bonacon

[Bonnacon]

a monster, part bull, part horse, with long curved horns

It was said that this animal's excrement was deadly and was used in defence.

Bonchor African

a creator-god of the Berbers of Tunisia

Bondoro (see Mondoro)

bone-pointing Australia

an Aboriginal ritual in which a bone pointed at an accused person causes his or her death

Boneddyr Arwr British

a Welsh manuscript tracing the genealogy of King Arthur

bonga Indian

a malevolent spirit of place in Bengal. All people become bongas when they die, except young children and women who die in childbirth. These become bhutas and curins respectively.

Bongabong East Indian

a supreme god in Indonesia

bonito maiden Pacific Islands

a maiden who lives with the bonito

These beautiful maidens give the shaman some areca nut while he is asleep, warning him that the bonito are due to appear. The first fish to be caught is dedicated to the maidens and is eaten by the shaman. These beings are invoked by fishermen who have lost their prized fishing-hooks.

Bonmatsuri (see Festival of the Dead)

Bonnacon (see Bonacon)

bonnes dames French

the fairies of the coast of Brittany

Bonoham

a demon

Bonsu Malay

a camphor gatherer

He slept while the other workmen collected camphor, and after they left found a princess bathing in a stream. He lived with her for some time and she gave him a basket of camphor which she combed out of her hair. The king ordered him to disclose the secret of his success as a camphor hunter, so he was forced to recite the magic formula the princess had taught him. She immediately turned into a cicada and flew off. Bonsu set off to follow her and disappeared into the jungle, never to be seen again.

Bonto Russian

wife of Onto (see also Shaka-pas)

bonze Japanese

[bo-san.bo-zu.bonzu]

a Buddhist priest

bonzu (see bonze)

boobrie British

a fabulous bird said to live in Scottish lakes and salt wells

Boodh (see Buddha)

Boodha (see Buddha)

Book of Am Duat Egyptian

[Am Duat]

the story of Ra's nightly journey through the underworld

The story deals with each of the twelve hours from the god's death at sunset to his rebirth at sunrise. Each hour is associated with some animal (baboon, snake, etc.) or with some god.

(see also Book of Gates)

Book of Ancient Matters (see Kojiki)

Book of Apophis Egyptian

a collection of rites to ward off the snake-god

Book of Armagh Irish

a book of Irish myths

Book of Arthur British

a 15th c work by Malory, dealing with the story of Lancelot and Guinevere

Book of Ballymote Irish

a book of legends including the exploits of Conn of the Hundred Battles and the story of Niall and the ugly woman

Book of Caverns Egyptian

pictures and text showing Ra's journey through the 6 caverns of the underworld, found on some royal tombs

Book of Changes

(see Chong Yok.I Ching)

Book of Conquests

(see Book of Invasions)

Book of Counsel (see Popul Vuh)

Book of Destinies

(see Tablets of Destiny)

Book of Documents (see Shu Ching)

Book of Durrow Irish

a book of legends

Book of Fermoy Irish

a 5th c book of myth and legend

Book of Gates Egyptian

a story of Ra's journey through the underworld including charms and spells required to ensure safe passage through 12 gates guarded by Apophis

(see also Book of Am-Duat)

Book of Gates Egyptian

a collection of spells

Book of Heroes (see Heldenbuch)

Book of History (see Shu Ching)

Book of Invasions Irish

[Book of Conquests.Leabhar Gab(h)ala (Eireann).Lebor Gabala]

a record of the successive waves of early settlers and their gods

(see also Invasion Myths)

Book of Kings (see Shah Name)

Book of Lecan (see Yellow Book)

Book of Leinster Irish

[Lebor Laigen]

a 13th c book of legends including the Cattle Raid of Cooley and the story of the Sons of Usna

Book of Mencius (see Meng-tzu)

Book of Monsters

a 7th or 8th c book describing, inter alia, the fish woman or mermaid, written by Aldheim

Book of Mountains and Seas

(see Shan Hai Ching)

Book of Odes (see Shih Ching)

Book of Poetry (see Shih Ching)

Book of Rites (see Li Ching)

Book of Rituals (see Li Ching)

Book of Shadows

(see Gospel of the Witches)

Book of Sound Counsel

(see Hitopadesha)

Book of Spirits<sup>1</sup>

a 19th c treatise on spiritualism

Book of Spirits<sup>2</sup> (see Chilam Balam)

Book of Taliesin British

a collection of 12 heroic stories by the Welsh bard and wizard, Taliesin

Book of the Calendar (see Tonalamatl)

Book of the Dead Egyptian

[Chapters of Port em Hru.The Coming Forth of the Day]

the written records placed with the dead to help them on their journey

The original records were said to have been translated by Thoth.

(see also Book of Thoth)

Book of the Dean of Lismore Irish

a collection of the stories told to St

Patrick by Oisín

Book of the Dun Cow Irish

[Leabhar na hUidhre.Lebor na hUidre]

a book of legends

This book includes the stories of Connla and the woman from the Otherworld, Maeldun, Briccú's Feast, the Cattle Raid of Cooley and Etain Eachraidhe.

Book of the Golden Lotus

(see Padma-Purana)

Book of the Tiger Priests

(see Chilam Balam)

Book of the Underworld Egyptian

a set of funerary texts describing the various parts of the underworld and Ra's passage during the night

Book of Thel British

an 18th c book, by the English author William Blake, telling the story of Thel, daughter of Mne Seraphim

Book of Thoth Egyptian

a manuscript containing the wisdom of Thoth

The manuscript was enclosed in boxes made successively of gold, silver, ivory, ebony, bronze and finally iron. This was thrown into the Nile and the finder would acquire great knowledge.

In some accounts it is equated with the Book of the Dead.

Book of Written Leaves

(see Popol Vuh)

Books of Tages

(see Twelve Books of Tages)

Boora Pennu

Indian

[Bella Pennu]

a god of light

He created Tari Pennu as his wife and fathered the other gods on her.

Boora la

Australian

a benevolent creator spirit of the Aborigines

Bootes

(see Philomelus)

Booyan

Slav

the Otherworld

This home of the souls of the dead and of those yet to be born, as well as of plants awaiting spring, is envisaged as an island where all is light and happiness.

bope

South American

evil spirits said to attack the dead

Bor<sup>1</sup>

Norse

[Borr]

son of Buri the first god

husband of Bestla

father of Nerthus, Hoenir, Odin, Ve and Vili

father of Loki, some say

Bor<sup>2</sup>

(see Bodb Dearg)

Boracus

Greek

a name of Zeus as 'ruler of the north'

Borachiel

a spirit of fruitfulness

boraimhe

(see boramha)

Boralim

a demon of the south

boramha

Irish

[boraimhe]

an annual tribute of cattle

Eochaid mac Eachach, king of Leinster, married one daughter of Tuathal, pretended she had died and then married the other. Both of them, Dairne and Fithir, died of shame when they found out what had happened. Their father waged war on Eochaid, killed him and exacted an annual tribute, the boramha.

Boraro

South American

forest spirits of the Tukano Indians

These beings are said to have no knee joints and have feet that point to the rear.

Boras

a demon

borax

Roman

a stone, an antidote to poison, believed to be carried in its head by a toad

Borba

Irish

son of Sinsar

At the Quicken Trees Hostel he led a force trying to cross the ford to reach the hostel after three other attempts had failed. By this time, Dermot had freed Finn and his companions who had been trapped in the hostel, and the men of the Fianna routed Borba's force. Borba himself was killed by Goll mac Morna.

Bore Bore

(see Borebore)

Boreadae

(see Boreades)

Boreades

Greek

[Boreadae]

the twins Calais and Zetes, the descendants of Boreas

Boreas

Greek

[Aparctias.Boreias:=Roman Aquilo]

god of the north wind

son of Aeolus, Astraeus or Strymon

by Eos

husband of Oreithyia

father of Chione, Cleopatra, H(a)emus and the twins Calais and Zetes

Failing to get the consent of her father Erechtheus to marry Orithyia, Boreas carried her off and married her.

It is said that disguised as a stallion he mated with twelve of the mares of Erichthonius (or Poseidon) to produce twelve fillies that could run over the waves.

When Pan fell in love with the nymph Pitis, Boreas became jealous and threw her to her death from a cliff. She was turned into a pine tree.

Boreas is usually depicted with wings and a beard, blowing a conch shell.

Boreasmoi

Greek

Athenian festivals in honour of Boreas

Borebore

African

[Bore Bore]

a name of Nyame as 'creator'

a name of Onyankopon

Boreias

(see Boreas)

Borenticha

African

a god in Ethiopia

Boreyne

a monster, part lion, part eagle

Borghild

Norse

wife of Sigmund

mother of Hamond and Helgi

Sinfliotli, Sigmund's son by Signy, killed her brother in a quarrel so she,

at the third attempt, killed Sinfliotli with poison, whereupon Sigmund put her aside and married Hiordis.

Bori<sup>1</sup>

African

an evil spirit of the Hausa that can take possession of humans: a witches' society: communal dances by those possessed by spirits

Each spirit is said to be the cause of a particular disease and the witch doctor invokes the appropriate bori to cure the patient.

Bori<sup>2</sup>

(see Buri<sup>1</sup>)

Borjigin

(see Chinggis Khan)

Bormanus

(see Bormo)

Bormo

Celtic

[Bormanus.Borvo]

the Gaulish god of warm springs

son of Sirona

consort of Damona

Bormus

Greek

a mortal loved and carried off by a nymph

boroka

Pacific Islands

in the lore of the Philippines, a four-legged, winged witch who eats children

Boron, Robert de

French

a 13th c writer, author of Joseph d'Arimathie

Borr

(see Bor<sup>1</sup>)

Borre

British

[Boare]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of King Arthur by Lyonors

In some accounts, he is the same as Loholt. (see also Llacheu.Loholt)

Borromée

West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

It is said that this spirit was originally a Christian saint.

Bors<sup>1</sup>

British

[Bohort.Bors de Ganis.Bors de Gannes.

Bors de Gaunes]

king of Gaul

brother of Ban

husband of Evaine

father of Bors and Lionel

He and his brother took an army to Britain to help Arthur in his fight with the rebellious barons. He died of grief when he was told of the death of his brother.

Bors<sup>2</sup>

British

[Bohort.Bors de Ganis.Bors de Gannes.

Bors de Gaunes]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Bors and Evaine

brother of Lionel nephew of Lancelot

father of Elyan

Bors, Lionel and Lancelot, were raised by the Lady of the Lake.

Bors defeated Lord Bromel who, having been rejected by Elaine who loved Lancelot, was looking for Lancelot to challenge him to a fight.

At the castle of Corbin (Castle Carbonek) he passed a night of strange adventure. A spectral spear pierced his shoulder and arrows flying out of the darkness gave him further wounds. He fought and killed a lion and watched as a leopard fought with a dragon that spat out a hundred small dragons that tore the older one to shreds. An old man sang about the journey of Joseph of Arimathea to Britain. A silver sword hanging over his head blinded him with its radiance, and he was told by a disembodied voice to leave. Next day he rode to Camelot and told Lancelot what had happened. A similar story is told of both Gawain and Lancelot.

Later, when Lancelot went mad and disappeared from Camelot, he rode out with Ector and Lionel to search for him.

He joined the other knights in the quest for the Holy Grail and came to a tower where the owner, a lovely maiden, daughter of King Love, begged him to help her fight a giant, Priadan. He resisted all her attempts to seduce him and defeated the giant when he arrived next morning. He then encountered two men beating his brother, Lionel, and a girl being attacked by a dwarf. By the time he had saved the girl and freed himself from her embraces, Lionel was dead. The girl's relatives took him to a castle and treated him royally and, when he again resisted her attempts to seduce him, the tower and all its occupants disappeared. Next day, at Castle Tubele, he found his brother alive and so angry at being deserted by Bors that he challenged him to single combat. He was saved from death at his brother's hands by the intervention of Colgrevaunce, and then both Lionel and Colgrevaunce were struck dead by a thunderbolt. Both turned out to be wraiths conjured up by the forces of evil.

Other versions say that Lionel killed Colgrevaunce and would have killed Bors as well but was struck by a thunderbolt before he could do so.

Bors then came to an abbey on the shore where a voice told him to go to sea. He boarded a ship covered with white samite, which immediately set off at speed. On board he met Percival and later they were joined by Galahad. They came across an abandoned ship and went aboard. Here they found a marvellous sword, which Galahad retained, and then returned to their own ship which carried them to the Castle of Carteloise. Here a woman lay sick who could be cured only by the blood of a virgin. Percival's sister Dindrane gave blood but died as a result. At her own request Percival placed her dead body in a boat and cast it adrift. Bors rode with Galahad and Percival to the Castle of Carbonek, home of the Maimed King, where they were vouchsafed a sight of the Holy Grail. They took the Grail and the Holy Lance by ship to Sarras where they found the boat bearing the body of Percival's sister, which they buried. All three were imprisoned by the king, Estorause, but he released them and asked their pardon when he was dying. Galahad became king but died about a year later, and the Grail and the Lance disappeared forever. Percival entered a hermitage and Bors stayed with him until Percival too died, about a year after Galahad.

After burying Percival alongside his sister and Galahad, Bors returned to Camelot where the story of his adventures was relayed to Lancelot and Arthur who ordered it all to be recorded for posterity. After the death of Arthur, Bors joined Lancelot, Bedivere and other knights in a hermitage and when Lancelot died he went to live in the Holy Land and fought the Turks.

Bors<sup>3</sup> British
in some accounts, a name for Emrys, Merlin or Myrddin as a sun-god

Boruk Afghan
a Kafir idol

Borus Greek
son of Perieris
husband of Polydora

Borve (see Bodb Dearg)

Borvo (see Bormo)

Boru Deak Parudjar Pacific Islands
daughter of Batara Guru

When she jumped from heaven into the primitive waters, her father sent a bird with some soil to make dry land. She married a hero, also sent by her father to kill the underworld serpent Naga Padoha, and they produced the first mortals.

Borysthenes Greek
a king of Tauris
father of Thoas

bosatsu Japanese
a bodhisattva: an epithet applied to Buddhist saints

Bosherton British
a village in Wales

The lake here is said to be the one from which Excalibur appeared and from which King Arthur was taken on his final journey to Avalon.

Boshingtoi Siberian
a god of blacksmiths

He and his nine sons are said to have used the North Star as a hitching post for their horses.

Boso British
a governor of Oxford

He accompanied King Arthur on his Continental campaigns.

Bossu West Indian [Bazo.Bazon-Mainnain.Bosu(-Cessé).
Kadia-Bosu]
in Haitian voodoo lore, a leader of demons

Bossu is envisaged as a huge being with horns, leading the bodyguard of Ghede.

Bosu (see Bossu)

Bosu-Cessé (see Bossu)

Bota Hi East Indian
in Indonesia, a wild woman of the mountains

She was found by Wata Rian who made her drunk and then cut off her body hair to discover that she was a woman. She later married him.

botanomancy
divination using plants or their leaves
In some cases prophecies were written on leaves, and those left after the wind had blown the others away were accepted and acted on.

Other versions involved interpreting the crackling of leaves when burnt or when squeezed in the hands.

Bothvar (see Bodvar)

Botis
[Otis]
a demon, duke or president of hell
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This being may appear as a loathsome serpent or as a human being with horns.

Botoque South American

a culture hero of the Kayapo people
He was adopted by a jaguar who taught him hunting skills, but he killed the jaguar's wife and stole both fire and the bow and arrow, which he then gave to his people.

botrad European

a Swedish sacred tree

Usually an elm or a lime, the botrad is planted in front of a dwelling and houses the guardian spirit to whom prayers are addressed. Women expecting a baby embraced the bole of the tree to ensure an easy and safe delivery.

Botrager

a monster, a lion with a helmet

bottle-imp

[spirit imp]

an imp contained in a bottle

Bottomless Pit *(see Hell)Bouchis *(see Buchis)Boudic *(see Budicius)Boudicius *(see Budicius)Boudin *(see Baldwin<sup>1</sup>)Bouki West Indian

[Uncle Bouki]

a character in Haitian stories, frequently the dupe of the spider, Annancy

Boulaïos Greek

a name for Zeus as god of assemblies

Bouphonia Greek

[Buphonia]

an Athenian sacrificial rite in which an ox was killed (see sopatrus)

Bous *(see Vali<sup>1</sup>)Bousetta African

an Algerian prince

He was born with six fingers. He and his brothers were enticed into a castle by female ghouls who carried off his brothers while they slept, but Bousetta was kept awake by his horse and so escaped.

Bouto *(see Edjo.Wadjet)Bouyan Slav

[Buyan.Byelun]

an island paradise

This was the home of the king of snakes and of the priestess Zarya. It contained a river with healing waters that sprang from under the sacred stone, Alatuir.

In some versions Bouyan was the undersea home of the dead.

Bov Dearg *(see Bodb Dearg)Bow of Victory *(see Dhanus)Bow Priests North American

in the lore of the Zuni, warriors acting as guardians of the war-gods

Bow Spirit *(see Chang Hsien)Bowa Tibetan

demons said to dance round the spirits of the dead

Bowels of Earth *(see Gucumatz)Bowels of Heaven *(see Gucumatz)Bower of Bliss<sup>1</sup> British

in The Faerie Queene, the home of Acrasia

Bower of Bliss<sup>2</sup> European

the enchanted garden of Armida

bowyer god *(see archer god)Boy and the Mantle, The British

a poem telling the story of Caradoc and Guimer

Boy-God *(see Phrom-Kuman)boyg Norse

an ogre: animistic force

Boyhood Deeds of Fionn, The Irish

a 12th c book dealing with the wisdom and exploits of Finn mac Cool as a youth

bozaloshtsh German

a Wendish messenger of death

This female spirit, a form of banshee, is said to wait outside the house of one about to die.

bozu Japanese

a priest

B'Rabby West Indian

the name for Brer Rabbit in the Bahamas

Braciaca Celtic

a Gaulish goddess of drink

Bracon Irish

a Danaan warrior

grandfather of Finn mac Cool,

some say

Bradamante European

[Bra(d)mante]

a warrior maid

daughter of Aymon and Beatrice sister of Alardo, Guichard, Ricardo,

Ricciardetto and Rinaldo

wife of Rogero

She found herself in battle with Rodomont when he invaded France, but Rogero separated them. She travelled on with Rogero and they were attacked by a group of knights. They defeated their attackers but she was wounded. When she was challenged by Sacripant she engaged him in single combat, defeated him and rode off leaving him on foot.

She had fallen in love with Rogero and set out to find him. She was persuaded by Pinabel to go to the rescue of his fiancée, who had been abducted by an enchanter on a winged horse. This was Atlantes riding a hippogriff. When Pinabel discovered that Bradamante was a member of a family that had long feuded with his own, he abandoned her in a cave from which she could not escape. She was taken from there to the tomb of Merlin by the priestess Melissa and was given instructions on how to find her love. She then met the dwarf Brunello and took his magic ring, travelling next to the castle in the Pyrenees where Atlantes was holding Rogero prisoner. Her ring enabled her to overcome the magic of Atlantes and she bound him in chains and freed Rogero and the other prisoners. Rogero tried to ride the hippogriff but could not control it and was carried off.

Bradamante was sent to govern Marseilles and Melissa appeared to tell her that Rogero had once again been captured by Atlantes. She set off to rescue him but, deceived by the magician who conjured up an illusion of Rogero, she too was captured. Astolpho, protected by the book and horn he had been given by Logestilla, rescued her with Rogero and the other captives.

Rogero decided to embrace Christianity so that he could marry Bradamante, but was wounded in a fight with Mandricardo to settle the ownership of the sword Durindana. When he was late in arriving for their planned wedding Bradamante went in search of him. En route she met Flordelis who persuaded her to rescue Florismart from the hands of Rodomont. She met him on the bridge and, with the aid of Astolpho's magic lance, defeated Rodomont who then gave up his defence of the bridge and released all his prisoners, including Florismart and Oliver.

At the end of the war between Charlemagne and Agramant, she hoped to marry Rogero, now a Christian, but her parents wanted her to marry Leo, son of the emperor Constantine. She persuaded Charlemagne to decree that she should marry only the man who could defeat her in single combat. Leo, in return for releasing Rogero from prison, had exacted a promise from him that he would fight Bradamante in the guise of Leo. He won the contest and departed in despair, but when Leo heard of his distress he gave up his claim to her hand and Bradamante finally married Rogero.

Brademagus (see Bagdemagus)

Bradmanapati Hindu
 father of Agni, in some accounts

Bradmanante (see Bradamante)

Brag British
 a spirit sometimes seen as a horse
 This animal lures people to ride on its back and then tips them off into a pond.

Braga Raedur Norse
 [Conversations of Bragi]
 one of the stories in the Younger Edda
 In this tale, Bragi tells Aegir many stories of the gods.

Bragaful Norse
 a toast to Bragi

Bragaman Norse
 a skald, honouring Bragi

Bragas British
 an earl of Bealm
 father of Winlayne

Bragawoman Norse
 a female skald, honouring Bragi

Bragdemagus (see Bagdemagus)

Brage (see Bragi)

Bragi Norse
 [Brage]
 god of poetry and music son of Odin and Gunlod husband of Idun
 Gunlod was guarding the three containers full of the blood of Svasir in a cave in the middle of a mountain. Odin got access to her with the help of Baugi who bored a hole that Odin, in the form of a snake, slipped through. Odin then resumed his god-like form and stayed with Gunlod for several days, fathering Bragi.
 At his birth, the dwarfs gave Bragi a golden harp and set him afloat in a boat, which carried him out of the subterranean darkness, whereupon he began to sing and play the harp. Landing, he walked through the woods and met Idun whom he married and they went off to Valhalla where he became the god of poetry and music. He receives fallen heroes in Valhalla and is depicted with long white hair and beard and carries his golden harp.

Bragi's Apples Norse
 fruit which had the power to cure illness
 It was said that as soon as one of these magic apples was eaten another appeared to replace it.

Brahier (see Bruhier)

brahm (see brahman<sup>1</sup>)

Brahma<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
 one of the 8 dharmapalas

Brahma<sup>2</sup> Hindu
 [Abjaja.Abjayoni.Absolute.Ananta. Astakarna.Brahman.Dhatar. Dhatri. Grandfather.hamsa.Hiranyagarbha.Ishvara. Kala.Kamalasana.Mahadeva.Narayana. Padma-Nabha.Pitamaha.Prajapati. Purusha.Svayambhu(va).Vaivarta.Varaha. Vishvakarma.=Buddhist Janardana. Vairocana.=Cambodian Prah Phrom: =Japanese Bon-Ten-O.Dainichi: =Thai Phrom] a four-headed creator-god Brahman personified husband of Sarasvati
 father of Adharma, Aditi, Daksha, Priyavrata, Sandhya and Shataruga father of the Prajapatis
 Brahma, with Shiva and Vishnu, formed the group known as the Trimurti.
 In some stories he was born from Vishnu's navel, in others he was asleep in the lotus floating on the primitive waters until he awoke and created the universe, while other stories say that he was self-created from the primaeval waters or from Hiranya-garbha. In the Ramayana he is a boar that lifted the earth on its tusks, while others say that he mated in the form of a stag with Rohita as a doe to produce all the animals.
 It is said that Brahma was born with only one head but grew the others so that he could behold the beauty of Sarasvati from all sides. Some say that Sarasvati was born from Brahma's body and mated with him to produce the first man, Manu. An alternative story credits him with a daughter, Satarupa, on whom he had incestuous designs and grew the four heads so that he could admire her. Some versions say that he had five heads, one of which was cut off by Shiva when he was disrespectful. Yet another version asserts that Brahma split himself into two, the male Purusha and the female Satarupa.
 In some stories his consort is Vach, although some say that she was the daughter on whom he incestuously fathered the human race. Others say that his consort was Gayatri.
 Some say that Brahma will live for 1,000 divine years, at the end of which he will die and the universe will vanish. After a period of 100 divine years Brahma will reappear and a new universe will be created. In this system one divine year equals 3,110,400 million human years.

He is depicted as having four hands, holding an alms bowl, a sceptre, a bow and the Rig Veda. His transport is the swan or goose (hamsa).

Brahma<sup>2</sup> East Indian [Bromo]
 the Javanese volcano-god

brahma<sup>4</sup> (see brahman<sup>1</sup>)

Brahma-deva Hindu
 a name for Narada, born again as the son of Brahma by one of Daksha's daughters

brahma-loka Hindu
 the realm of brahman: perfection: the ideal existence (see also Satya-Loka)

Brahma Prajapati Hindu
 in some accounts a later name for Matsya

Brahma Sutras Hindu
 the sacred text of the Vedanta school, written by Badarayana

Brahma-yuga (see krita-yuga)

Brahmachari (see brahmin)

brahman<sup>1</sup> Hindu [brahm.brahma]
 the primordial essence: the absolute: cosmic unity: soul of the universe: the active creative force

Brahman<sup>2</sup> (see Brahma<sup>2</sup>)

Brahman<sup>3</sup> (see brahmin)

Brabmana Hindu
 a commentary or gloss on one of the Vedas

Brabmanas Hindu
 ritual texts supplementing the Rig Veda

Brahmanaspati (see Brhaspati)

Brahmanda Hindu
 the egg of Brahma from which all world history is generated

Brahmani Hindu
 a mother-goddess
 one of the 8 matrikas
 one of 9 navasaktis
 She was opposed to the demon Mada.

Brahmapura Hindu
 the city of Brahma on Mount Meru: heaven

Brahmavati Buddhist wife of Brahmavay or Subramanya mother of Maitreya
 The future Buddha, Maitreya, will be born from Brahmavati's right side after a pregnancy lasting ten months.

Brahmayas Buddhist
 husband of Brahmavati
 father of Maitreya, some say

Brahmi Hindu
 a name of Sarasvati as a consort of Brahma

brahminHindu*

[brahman]

a member of the highest caste

A brahmin may or may not be a priest but studies the teachings of the Vedas, going through four stages of life: Brahmachari, as a student; Grihastha, as a married householder or teacher; Vanaprastha, as a hermit; and Sannyasi, as a religious mendicant.

brain-ballIrish*

the missile that killed Conor mac Nessa. This missile had been made from a mixture of lime and the crushed brains of Mac Da Tho (or in some accounts of Meas Geaghra) by Conalll Cearnach. Cet, or in some stories Conall, flung this stone from his sling, striking Conor in the forehead, from where it could not be dislodged. Seven years later it exploded, killing Conor.

Braites (see Dionysus)BralbralAustralian*

an assistant of Djanggawul

When Bralgah and Dinewan had a quarrel, Balgah tossed one of the emu's eggs into the sky where it became the sun.

BralgahAustralian*

a companion of the emu, Dinewan

Bralgu (see Beralku)BramandilBritish*

a knight
son of Gandalac
brother of Gavus

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against the 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Bramante (see Bradamante)BramimondeEuropean*

wife of Marsilius

When her husband died after the fall of Saragossa to the Franks, she returned to France with the victors and became a Christian.

Bran<sup>1</sup>British*

[Bendigeid Vran. Bendigeidfran. Bendigert

Bran. Bran of Gore. Bran of Gower. Bran of Gwales. Bran the Blessed. Brandegore.

(Ogyr) Vran. Urien: = Roman Saturn:

= Spanish Berg. Verng]

a giant-god

king of Britain

son of Llyr and Iweriadd or Penardun

brother of Branwen and Manawydan

half-brother of Efnisien and Nisien

In some accounts his father is variously given as Glifieu, Gruddieu, Ynawg or Ywerit.

When Bran agreed that his sister Branwen should marry Matholwch, king of Ireland, his crazy half-brother Efnisien maimed the Irish king's horses. Bran gave Matholwch a magic Cauldron of Rebirth, capable of restoring the dead to life, in compensation. Later his sister was made to work as a drudge and she sent him a message with a starling, whereupon Bran invaded Ireland, wading the Irish sea while his army went by ship. The Irish king abdicated without a fight in favour of Gwern, his son. When Efnisien killed Gwern by pushing him into the fire, fighting broke out again and all the Irish, except five pregnant women, and all except seven of the British were killed. Bran was wounded and died soon after. Branwen died of grief at his loss. His head was struck off, as he had instructed, and was taken back to Britain to be buried many years later at the White Mount (the Tower of London) to protect the kingdom. In the years before it was buried the head ate and spoke as it had done when Bran was alive.

The seven survivors of the battle were Gluneu, Grudye, Heilyn, Manawydan, Pryderi, Taliesin and Ynawg.

During Bran's absence from Britain, the country was conquered by Caswallawn. Years later, King Arthur, saying that the kingdom should depend for its defence on him rather than on some buried relic, dug up the head.

The story of Bran's invasion of Ireland is similar to the story of King Arthur's expedition to the underworld, Annwn; here too, there were just seven survivors.

In later years, Bran was known as Urien.

Bran<sup>2</sup>Irish*

[Bran mac Feabhail. Brandan]

a hero voyager

son of Febal

He picked a branch of apple blossom and carried it to his hall where a mysterious woman told him about a marvellous island across the sea. She then took the branch and disappeared. Bran followed with three boats, each with a crew of nine men. Manannan the sea-god confirmed the story of the island, Emain Ablach, so they rowed on. At the Island of Joy one of the crewmen stayed behind while Bran and the rest went on to the Island of Women, where they stayed for about a year. One of his crew, Neachtan, became homesick so they returned to Ireland but when the sailor jumped ashore he immediately crumbled to dust – they had been away for centuries and nobody recognised Bran or his men so they put to sea again and no more was heard of them.

Bran<sup>3</sup>Irish*

a hound of Finn

Finn's sister (or in other accounts his sister-in-law or aunt) was Uirne and she was to be married to Iollann. When she became pregnant Iollann's jealous mistress, a druidess, put a spell on Uirne, turning her into a bitch, with the result that her children, Sceolan and Bran, were born as hounds.

In other accounts Uirne was restored to her former self by Lugaid Lagha, whom she married, and the pups were born to them at the same time as human triplets. When Angus Og said the hounds could never kill any of his swine, Finn set both dogs to work and they killed all the herd of 100, including the famous black boar.

In some versions Bran was originally owned by a giant who stole children. When Finn killed the giant and rescued the children he also took the giant's bitch and her two whelps. Finn kept the brindled one, Bran, and the other, called Sceolan, was left with the father of some of the stolen children who had sought Finn's help. On one occasion, both Bran and Sceolan were stolen by Arthur, a son of British King Arthur, who had come to Ireland with twenty-eight warriors to seek adventure. Nine Fianna warriors followed them when they continued their journey to Scotland and killed all of them, taking Arthur prisoner and recovering the hounds. Finn accidentally struck Bran with a leash and the hound was so upset at this harsh treatment that it ran away and drowned itself in a lake. Other stories say that Finn himself killed the hound to save a fawn that he had run down.

Bran<sup>4</sup>Norse*

the dog of Frithiof

Bran<sup>5</sup>(see* Brandiles)Bran GaledBritish*

[Brangaled. Galed]

the Welsh owner of the drinking horn that provided whichever drink the owner required (see also Gawlgawd)

Bran mac Feabhail (see Bran<sup>2</sup>)Bran of Gore (see Bran<sup>1</sup>. Brandegore)

Bran of Gower(see Bran<sup>1</sup>.Brandegore)Bran of Gwales (see Bran<sup>1</sup>)Bran the Blessed (see Bran<sup>1</sup>)Branchidae Greek

[Brankidae.Didyma]

a town in Asia Minor, site of an oracle of Apollo

Branchus Greek

son of Smicrus by the daughter of Patron

Brandamond British

[Brandamond of Damascus]

a Saracen knight

He was killed by Bevis.

Brandan (see Bran<sup>2</sup>.Brendan)Brandegore British

[Bran of Gore.Bran of Gower.Bran of Gwales.Brandegoris.Brandegorus]

king of Stranggore

Bran as the king who brought an army of 5,000 to fight King Arthur in the rebellion of the eleven rulers.

Brandegoris (see Brandegore)Brandegorus (see Brandegore)Brandel (see Brandiles)Brandeles (see Brandiles)Brandell (see Brandiles)Brandiles British

[Bran(deles).Brandel(l)]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Gilbert

He was one of the many knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until he was released by Lancelot.

In some accounts he is identified with Brian des Iles.

Brandon (see Brendan)Brandubh<sup>1</sup> Irish

a king of Leinster

son of Eochu and Feidhilm

brother of Aodan

He was one of a pair of twin boys born to Feidhilm, and their father, Eochu, exchanged Brandubh's brother for one of the twin girls born at the same time to Ingheanach, wife of Gabhrían.

He took Dubh Lacha, the wife of Mongan, who had offered the king whatever he might wish as a gift. Mongan got her back only by using magic to transform an old woman into a lovely young girl and then substituting her for his wife.

When Aedh's son, Cumascach, demanded the right to sleep with the king's wife, Brandubh locked him in a house and set it on fire. He was persuaded to allow the satirist, Glasdamh, to come out but Cumascach escaped in his place, only to be killed by one of Brandubh's soldiers. Aedh attacked the province with a large army to avenge his son's death.

In some accounts he fought and killed Aedh, high-king of Ireland, at the Battle of Dun Bolg, when Aedh tried to collect the annual tribute, the boramha, although others say that it was one of his men, Ron Cerr, who killed Aedh.

In later years, his brother, Aodan, invaded Leinster but Feidhilm, recognizing her second son, persuaded him to make peace with Brandubh. It was said that Brandubh was killed by Saran and returned to life by St Maodhog so that he might receive the last rites. Brandubh had no wish to return to this world and died after being shriven.

brandubh<sup>2</sup> Irish

a board game

This game features in various stories of gods and heroes.

Branfil British

a knight

brother of Bruneo

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Brangaene (see Branwen)Brangaine (see Branwen)Brangaled (see Bran Galed)Brangemore British

in some accounts, a queen of Cornwall mother of Epinogres

She was killed by her own son who buried her body under the altar in the Perilous Chapel, which she had built.

(see also Black Hand)

Brangien (see Branwen)Brangu Australian

in Aboriginal lore, the island of the dead

Brangwain (see Branwen)Brangwaine (see Branwen)Brangwine (see Branwen)Brankidae (see Branchidae)Branstock Norse

the oak tree growing in the centre of the Volsungs' palace

At the wedding of Siggeir and Sygny, Odin plunged the magic sword Gram into the trunk of the oak, a gift to whoever could pull it out again.

Branwen<sup>1</sup> British

[Brangaene.Brangaine.Brangien.

Brangwain(e).Brangwine.Brengwain.

Bronwen]

a giantess

a love-goddess

daughter of Llyr and Iweriadd

sister of Bran and Manawydan wife of Matholwch

mother of Gwern

She married the king of Ireland, but out of smouldering resentment caused by the maiming of the horses of Matholwch's entourage by her crazy half-brother Efnisien, she was badly treated and sent a message with a starling to her brother Bran who invaded with an army to rescue her. Matholwch surrendered without a fight but Efnisien pushed the king's son, Gwern, into the fire and killed him. In the fight that ensued most of the participants on both sides were killed. Bran was mortally wounded and died soon afterwards and Branwen died of grief at the loss of both her brother and her son.

Branwen<sup>2</sup> British

[Brangaene.Brangaine.Brangien.

Brangwain(e).Brangwine.Brengwain.

Bronwen]

an attendant on Isolde

She was sent with Isolde, when Tristram came to Ireland, to escort Isolde to marry Mark of Cornwall and she carried the love potion to ensure a successful marriage. Instead, it was drunk by Isolde and Tristram who fell hopelessly in love.

In some accounts Branwen slept with Mark on the night of his wedding with Isolde, deceiving him into thinking Isolde was still a virgin. Isolde then tried to kill her and keep the secret but failed. Branwen later had an affair with Kaherdin. She was said to have married Gourvernail who became king of Lyonesse.

Branwen, Daughter of Llyr British

[Branwen ferch Llyr]

the Welsh story of Branwen and her brother Bran in the *MabinogionBranwen ferch Llyr

(see Branwen, Daughter of Llyr)

Bras-de-fer British

a chamberlain of the Antichrist

In the battle between the forces of good and evil, King Arthur fought on the side of heaven, Bras-de-fer for hell.

Brastias British

a knight of King Mark's court

Ulfiás impersonated Brastias when helping Uther to get access to Igraine. He went with Ulfiás to the Continent to enlist the help of King Bors and King Ban on behalf of Arthur in his battles with the rebellious barons.

Brastias later became a hermit and gave shelter to Lancelot when he was banished from the court by Guinevere.

Bratasena (see Bima)

Bratayuda (see Bharatayuda)

Brauronia (see Artemis Brauronia)

Brave West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit

Brave Woman (see Makhta)

Brazen Head
a mythical talking head, made of brass, which appears in various legends

One such head, which was said to tell enquirers whatever they needed to know, was kept in the castle of the giant Ferragus. Another spoke only to utter the three statements 'Time is', 'Time was' and 'Time's past' before falling and breaking into pieces.

Brazen Horse British
the horse of Cambuscan

This magic animal had a pin in one ear, which when turned allowed it to accept instructions to carry the rider wherever he wished to go.

(see also Wooden Horse<sup>1</sup>)

Brea Irish
a servant of Partholan

He is said to have introduced cooking into Ireland. (see also Beoil)

Breanainn (see Brendan)

Breaninn (see Brendan)

Breas<sup>1</sup> Irish [Bress]

one of the Finn Eamhna son of Eochaid Feidhleach
and Cloithfhinn
brother of Clothra, Lothar, Maev
and Nar

Breas<sup>2</sup> (see Bres<sup>1</sup>)

Breasal<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Breasil]
son of Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill

When a nun accused Breasal of stealing her cow, his father drowned him, but regretting his action sought help from Beagan who restored Breasal to life.

Breasal<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Breasil]
son of Fionnachta

He and his father, the high-king, were killed by relatives seeking the throne for themselves.

Breasal<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Breasil]
a high-king of Ireland
son of Rudraighe

Breasal<sup>4</sup> Irish
[Breasil]
a King of the World

He lived on the island called Hy-Brasil.

Breasal Bealach Irish [Breasal Beoil]
a king of Leinster

He refused to pay the boramha tribute to the high-king, Cairbre Lifeachair, and defeated him when he tried to obtain it by force.

Breasal Beoil (see Breasal Bealach)

Breasil (see Breasal)

Breasel's Island (see Hy-Brasil)

Breath of Love
[Magic Breath]
the ability of demons to make women fall in love with them, merely by breathing on them

Breath of Set Egyptian
a hot south wind from the desert

Breath of Wind North American [Gusts of Wind.Windbreath] daughter of the first woman, Ataensic
mother of loskeha and Tawiscara

In some accounts the twins Ioskeha and Tawiscara fought each other while still in the womb, with the result that their mother died in childbirth.

Breathmaker (see Hisagitaimisi)

Breca European [Breka]
a friend of Beowulf

He and Beowulf swam in full chain mail across the sea from Denmark to Geatland for a dare.

Brèche de Roland European
a large cleft in the Pyrenees, said to have been made by Roland when he struck the mountain with his sword, Durindana

Brecht (see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)

Brechta (see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)

Bredbeddle British
a knight of King Arthur's court

He accompanied King Arthur and Gawain when they went to King Mark's court in Cornwall for the trial of Isolde.

Brede (see Bredi)

Bredi Norse [Brede]
a hunter

Sigi, jealous of Bredi's skill as a hunter, killed him and buried his body under a snowdrift.

Breg (see Breg)

Bregan (see Breoghan)

Bregia Irish
a giant

Bregon (see Breoghan)

Bregouin (see Mount Agned)

Breguoin (see Mount Agned)

Breguoin (see Mount Agned)

Breidablik Norse [Balder's Stead.Breithablik.Broadblik.
Peace Stead]
the palace of Balder

Breit Hut Norse
a name for Odin, referring to the broad hats that he often wore (see also Sidhottr)

Breithablik (see Breidablik)

Breka (see Breca)

Brek'yirihunuade African
a name of Nyame as 'all knowing'

Brendan Irish
[Brandan.Brandon.Brean(a)inn.Brendanus]
(c. 489–583)
a saint, patron of seafarers
son of Findlugh

Before his birth, his mother dreamed that her breasts were full of gold, explained by Earc and Beag mac Deas portending future wonders. The boy was handed over to St Ide, a nun, as foster mother and later became a priest under Earc. Among other miracles, he turned into an otter the man who stole his cattle, tamed lions and vanquished monsters.

Inspired by a vision, he sailed off to find the Land of Promise, taking nine (or fourteen) companions in a hide-covered boat on a voyage that lasted seven years. Once, they landed on the back of a huge whale, taking it to be an island; and later, directed by a bird which could speak, they saw the Island of Smiths where the giant inhabitants drove them off with burning missiles. They saw a pillar reaching to the sky and a small island where Paul, a hermit, was kept alive by fish brought by an otter.

Other places they visited were the Island of Sheep, an island where they found three choirs, and another covered with grapes. Some of the places recur in the story of the voyage of Maeldun. They came at last to the Land of Promise where they were told that they had been chosen for the voyage so that they might see some of God's handiwork.

Brendan's Island
(see Island of the Blessed)

Brendanus (see Brendan)

Breg Irish
[Breg]
one of the 3 names for the

Dagda's wife
She was alternatively known as Meabel or Meng.

Brenghwain (see Branwen)

Brennius British

[=Gaulish Brennos]
son of Dunvallo Molmutius and Tonwenna
brother of Belinus

He was a sub-king under Belinus after the death of their father, but he planned to take over the whole realm so he married the daughter of the king of Norway and sailed for Britain with an army. His bride was captured en route by the Danish king, and both were taken by Belinus when their ship was forced ashore in Britain. When Brennius landed he was defeated and fled to Gaul and the princess was taken to Denmark by the Danish king.

He later made another attempt to take the kingdom with an army from Gaul, but at the behest of their mother Tonwenna the brothers finally made peace and together they conquered Gaul and sacked Rome.

He is regarded as a mortal form of the god Bran.

Brennos (see Brennus)

Brennus Celtic

[Brennos:=British Brennius]
a Gaulish name for Bran

Breoghan Irish

[Bregan.Bregon]
an ancestor of the Irish father of Bile and Ith

He led his people from Scythia to conquer Spain. His grandson, Milesius, led them to Ireland.

Brer Fox North American

a trickster in many stories of the American Indian tribes

The Apache say that he stole fire from the fireflies and gave it to the tribes.

Brer Rabbit North American

[=Bahamas B'Rabby]
a trickster in American folklore
This being is said to be derived from the African trickster, Hare, brought to America by slaves.

(see also Compair Lapin)

Bres<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Breas.Bress.Eochaid.Eochu Bres.Eochu.
Gormac]
a vegetation-god and sun-god king of the Danaans son of Elatha and Eri husband of Brigit or Taltiu father of Ruadan

He was the son of a Fomoiré father and Danaan mother and was expected to bring lasting peace to these two warring tribes. He became the leader of the Danaans after Nuada lost his hand, and was later replaced when he proved inadequate. He went off and raised a army of Fomoiré soldiers under Balor and Inneach and fought the Danaans at the second Battle of Moytura where he was defeated. He was allowed to live when he undertook to teach the Danaans all he knew about agriculture.

In some accounts he then went to live with his father in the North. Some say that he was killed at Moytura, others that he was poisoned by Lugh who made filthy water look like milk, or that he was killed by Lugh in single combat.

Bres<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Bress]
a Danaan soldier

He was an emissary who tried to negotiate a settlement with the Fir Bolg before the first Battle of Moytura. He was unsuccessful, and was killed in that battle.

Bres<sup>3</sup> (see Breas<sup>1</sup>)

Bress (see Bres)

Breta Sogur British

a Scandinavian story that asserts that King Arthur died on Assysla and was buried at Canterbury

Brethren, The East Indian

culture heroes of New Guinea

Bretton Lay European

a form of verse narrative of the exploits of Celtic heroes

Bretwalda British

a name of Aelle as 'ruler of Britain'

Breunis British

a knight at King Arthur's court

He became an enemy of the king and was killed by Gareth.

Breunor British

[Breunor the Black.Bruno le Noir.La Cote Male Tailée]
brother of Daniel and Dinadan husband of Maladisant

He insisted on wearing a badly fitting coat until he had avenged his father. He was made lord of Pendragon Castle.

Breuce (see Bruce)

Bhrhaspati Hindu

[Brahmanaspati.Brihaspati.Dhis(h)ana.
Ganapati.Great Father.Jyeshtharaja.
Purohita.Sadasapati.Vrihaspati:=Bali Bagaspati]
a sky-god, chaplain of the gods and lord of prayer
the planet Jupiter as a god son of Angiras husband of Tara father of Kaca

father of Agni, some say

In some accounts his parents were Dyaus and Prithivi, while others say that he was created by Tvashtri. His wife was abducted by Chandra (Soma) and bore a child, Budha. Brahma had to intervene to prevent a war between them and Bhrhaspati reared Budha as his own son.

He is depicted with 100 wings, horns and seven mouths, and carries a bow and an axe. His chariot, drawn by eight horses, is known as Nitighosha.

Some equate him with Vrihaspati; others regard them as separate deities.

Bri Irish

daughter of Midir

She died of a broken heart when her father rejected Liath as a suitor for his daughter's hand.

Bri Leith Irish

the home of Midir

Brian<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Brion.Bryan]
son of Turenn and Brigit or Dana brother of Iuchar and Iucharba

His family feuded with the family of Cian and Brian, and his brothers Iuchar and Iucharba, killed Cian, the father of Lugh, who had adopted the form of a pig to avoid them. Some say that Lugh killed him, others that he had the brothers condemned by the high-king to carry out seven (or eight) difficult tasks for Lugh.

(see Sons of Turenn)

Brian<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Brion.Bryan(t)]
brother of Fiachra

He went to war with his brother but was defeated when Conal Gulban, his nephew, (or Daithi in some accounts) brought an army which subdued the whole of Connaught and installed Daithi as king. Brian was killed in this conflict.

Brian Boru Irish

[Bryan Boru]
(926-1014)
a high-king of Ireland
son of Cinnéide
brother of Mathghamhain husband of Gormlaith father of Donnchadh, Murchadh
and Saba

One story says that by showing kindness to a starving woman he learned the password of an adjoining Norse fort and was able to gain access with a party of his men and slaughter the garrison. When the Norsemen stationed one soldier in every house, he organised a simultaneous rising whereby each household killed its unwelcome guest.

Despite being warned of his fate by Aoibheall, Brian led the Irish to victory over the Vikings at the Battle of Clontarf but he was killed there by the Dane, Brodir. His eldest son Murthadh also died in this battle.

(see also Dubhlainn)

Brian des Iles British

[Bryan of the Isles]

a seneschal of King Arthur

Originally an enemy of the king, he was defeated in battle and became the king's seneschal. In some accounts he is identified as Brandiles.

Brian of the Forest British

[Bryan of the Forest]

brother of Sorlus of the Forest

He fought his brother to decide which of them should chase the white stag that had interrupted Arthur's wedding feast. Gawain, who had been given this task by the king, stopped the fight and sent them to submit themselves to the king.

Brian Rua British

[Bryan Rua]

a seer

He was rewarded with the gift of prophecy for his generosity in paying the rent of a poor widow. He owned a small mirror that reflected things due to happen in the future and that helped him to locate buried treasure.

Briant British

king of the Red Isle

father of Tristoise

His daughter was born after his death and cast adrift at sea. She survived to marry Ydor.

Briaraeus Greek

[Aeg(a)eon.Briareos.Briareus]

a hurricane-god

one of the Hundred-handed Ones

son of Uranus or Pontus and Gaea brother of Cottus and Gyges husband of Cymopoleia

Briareus<sup>1</sup> British

a Welsh warrior said to be standing guard over the sleeping Merlin on

Bardsey Island

Briareus<sup>2</sup> (see Briareus)

Briareos (see Briareus)

Bricciu Irish

[Bricne.Bricriu (Nemthenga)]

a storm-god

a lord of Ulster

a satirist

son of Carbad

He was a troublemaker and his most renowned exploit is told in the story of Bricciu's Feast.

Bricciu's Feast Irish

a feast arranged by the satirist Bricciu. He put on a feast at which he provoked an argument between Cuchulainn, Conall Cearnach and Loaghaire Buadhach over the carving of the roast. To decide who was the greater champion they were tested by Curoi, in the form of a giant, and by Maev who put wildcats in their room. In each case Cuchulainn was the winner, but the other two refused to accept this verdict. A third test, by Curoi as a bachlach or phantom, settled the matter in favour of Cuchulainn. He challenged all three to a beheading match. All three beheaded the bachlach, who picked up his severed head and jumped into a lake. Next day, fully restored, he claimed his part of the wager and Cuchulainn put his head on the block awaiting the axe. The bachlach spared his life in admiration for his bravery. Some versions say that Muinremuir was also involved in the beheading match.

In some accounts Bricciu, a troublemaker, stirred up trouble and conjured up a demon called The Terrible who was involved in the beheading match. Others tell very much the same story about Dubhthach Daol Uladh and Uath.

Bricciu judged the fight between the Brown Bull of Cooley and Whitehorn and was trampled to death under their hooves.

Bricc (see Bishop Brice)

Briccne Irish

[Bricne]

a monk

He told the young Maeldun about the men who had murdered Maeldun's father.

Brickus British

son of Mazadan and Terdelaschoye

father of Uther

In some accounts he was the grandfather of King Arthur.

Bricne (see Bricciu.Briccne)

Bricriu (see Bricciu)

Brid (see Brigit)

Bride<sup>1</sup> German

a queen of Jerusalem

wife of Orendal

Bride<sup>2</sup> (see Brigit)

Bride of Helgi (see Thorgerd<sup>2</sup>)

Bride of the Sun (see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)

Bridei British

a king of the Picts

son of Maelgwn

Bridge of Gold European

a bridge over the Rhine

It is said that Charlemagne passes over this bridge to bless the crops.

Bridge of Heaven Japanese

a bridge leading from Mount

Takachihi up to heaven

Bridge of Pain (see K'u-ch'u ch'iao)

Bridge of the Decider (see Chinvat Bridge)

Bridge Perilous (see Perilous Bridge)

Bridget (see Brigit)

Brieseis (see Brieseis)

Brig (see Brigit)

Brigadore British

the horse of Guyon in The

Faerie Queene

Briganda Celtic

[Briganti.Brigantu.Brigindo]

the Gaulish name for Brigit

Briganta British

[The High One.Briganti(a)=-Irish Brigit:

=Roman Dea Caelistis]

a war-goddess or water-goddess of the Brigante tribe

Briganti (see Briganta)

Brigantia (see Briganta)

Brigantu (see Briganta)

Briggida (see Brigit)

Brigh Irish

wife of Celtchair

She slept with the rich Ulsterman, Blai, and when Celtchair found out he killed Blai as he sat playing chess with Conor mac Nessa.

Brighe Irish

daughter of Orca mac Carrthain

In some accounts, she was the mother of Aedh Allan.

Brigid<sup>1</sup> Irish

wife of Seanchas Torpeist

Brigid<sup>2</sup> (see Brigit)

Bright Greek

one of the horses drawing the sky

chariot of Eos

Bright One, The (see Lugh)

Bright Star North American

a Pawnee goddess, the planet Venus

as the morning star

She was given the task by Tirawa of forming the earth and creating the people to live there. She mated with Great Star to produce the first woman who mated with the first man to populate the earth. She gave the first man, known as Closed Man, four varieties of corn for use by the tribes.

Brighu Hindu
[Br(i)ghu.Prajapati]
a sage
one of the Seven Rishis
son of Brahma or Manu father of Chyavana by Puloma father of Lakshmi by Khyati and of Shukra, some say

He seized Puloma, the wife of a demon, fathering Chyavana on her, and, when Agni told the demon who the abductor was, Brighu cursed the god with an insatiable appetite.

In an attempt to ascertain which of the three major deities was most worthy of veneration, Brighu visited each in turn and was less than respectful to all of them. Bramha only scolded him, Shiva would have burnt him to a cinder but he saved himself with an abject apology and Vishnu, whom he kicked to wake him up, merely enquired whether the sage had hurt his foot and massaged it. As a result, Brighu advised people to worship Vishnu.

When Shiva lost his temper at being excluded from a sacrifice by Daksha, he attacked many of those present, including Brighu who had his beard pulled off.

Helped by Matarisvan, Brighu overcame the demon Makha.

He is credited with the discovery of fire in some accounts.

Brighus Hindu
[Bhargavas.Bhrighus]
storm-gods and gods of fire
sons of Brighu

These deities controlled the lightning bolts and acted as messengers for the gods. Some say that they were the children of the sage Brighu, others that they were descended from Agni, the god of fire.

In some accounts, these beings were Vedic priests who invented the rite of sacrifice.

Brigid (see Brigit)

Brigando (see Briganda)

Brigit<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Banfile.Belisima.Birgit.Brid(e).Bridget.
Brig(gida).Brig(h)id:=British Brigant(i)a: =Gaulish Briganda.Brigantu.Brigindo] goddess of cattle, fertility and fire, healing, poetry and smiths daughter of the Dagda and Dana or Boann

mother of Ruadan by Bres

In some accounts she was the wife of the Dagda, in others his daughter, while others say that she was the wife of Turenn and mother of his three sons, Brian, Iuchar and Iucharba. Some say she owned two oxen, Fea and Feimhean, and a boar, Treithirne.

In some accounts there were three Brigit, sister-goddesses, who others regard as a single person. In other accounts she was Dana.

Brigit<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Birgit.Brid(e).Bridget.Brig(gida).Brig(h)id.
Mary of the Gaels.Mary of the Irish] a saint, the Christian version of the goddess Brigit

daughter of Dubhthach and Broicseach
In some accounts Broicseach was Dubhthach's slave and the young Brigit was sold to a druid who reared her.

In one story she knocked out one of her eyes to make herself unattractive to suitors but later restored her own sight.

In another she diverted the attention of soldiers, enabling the Virgin Mary and Jesus to escape capture.

She is said to have turned the horse's ears of Labraid, king of Leinster back to normal human ears.

Her feast day is 1 February.

Brigit<sup>3</sup> Irish
one of the 2 pillars (the other is Patrick) said to support the island

Brigitte (see Mama Brigitte)

Brigliodoro European
Roland's horse

Brihaspati (see Brhaspati)

Brilliant Water (see Cakixa)

Brimer<sup>1</sup> Norse
the heavenly hall of the giants
in Okolnur

Brimer<sup>2</sup> (see Brimir)

Brimesent British
in some accounts, wife of Urien

Brimir Norse
[Brimer]
a giant

In an alternative account of the creation of the dwarfs, they were made from the flesh of Blain and Brimir rather than that of Ymir.

Brimo Greek
a goddess incarnate in the priestess officiating at the Eleusinian mysteries of Demeter

Brimos Greek
a holy child carried by Brimo

Brine British
an ancestor of King Arthur

Briolania European
a princess

Her father's realm, Firm Island, had been usurped by a tyrant but Amadis and his brothers rode to her aid and restored her to her rightful position.

Brion (see Brian)

Briotan Maol (see Britan)

Brisane (see Brisen)

Brisaya Hindu
a moon-goddess

She represented the power of darkness and was overcome by the solar hero Aharyu.

Briseida Greek
a Trojan maiden

In some early versions of the Troilus and Cressida story she is the maiden loved by Troilus. Her father Chalcas defected to the Greeks and when she was escorted by Diomedes to join her father, he fell in love with her.

(see also Briseis)

Briseis Greek

[Briseis.Hippodamia]

a Trojan maiden

daughter of Brises

wife of Mynes

She was captured at the siege of Troy and handed to Achilles as a prize. Agamemnon had been given the girl Chryseis but was persuaded to release her, demanding Briseis in her place. This precipitated the quarrel between these two Greek heroes.

(see also Briseida)

Brisen British

[Brisane.Brisin.Dame Brisen]

an attendant on Elaine

an enchantress

She put a spell on Lancelot that deluded him into thinking that he was sleeping with his true love, Guinevere, when in fact it was with Elaine. Later, she played the same trick on Lancelot, who was driven mad.

Brises Greek

[Briseus]

a Trojan priest

father of Briseis

Briseus (see Brises)

Brisin (see Brisen)

Brising necklace (see Brisingamen)

Brisingamen Norse

[Brising necklace.Brosingamene.

Sviagris(s)]

a beautiful necklace made by the dwarfs and given to Freya

In some stories Freya gave herself to four of the dwarfs, Alfrigg, Berling, Dvalin and Grerr, as payment for the necklace. It was once stolen by Loki in the form of a flea, but he was spotted by Heimdall and was forced to return it after the two of them had fought in many different guises. She lent it to Thor when he dressed as a bride for Thrym in place of Freya.

In the story of Beowulf, he received this necklace from Wealtheow, Queen of Denmark, as a gift when he killed Grendel and the monster's mother.

Brit (see Brutus)

Britan (Irish)

[Briotan Maol]

a chief of the Nemedians

son of Fergus Leathdhearg

son of Nemed, in some accounts

After the defeat of the Nemedians by the Fomoiré under Morca, the thirty survivors left Ireland and those led by Britan and Fergus Leathdhearg landed in Britain.

Britannia (British)

[Britannias:=Roman Minerva]

the tutelary-goddess of Britain

Britannias (see Britannia)

Britomart' (British)

[Knight of the Ebon Spear]

a warrior maiden

daughter of Retho and wife of Arthgallo, in some accounts

Some say that she killed Radigund.

Britomart' (see Artemis.Britomartis)

Britomartis (Greek)

[Aphaea.Aphaia.Britomart.Dictynna.

Diktunna. 'sweet maid']

a Cretan nymph

daughter of Zeus and Carne

Pursued by Minos, she jumped from a cliff into the sea and was rescued by Artemis or, in some versions, turned into a fish. In some versions, she was caught in the nets of the local fishermen and became known as Dictynna. Later she fled to Aegina where she was known as Aphaea.

In other accounts, Britomartis is a name of Artemis used in Crete.

Brittia (British)

a depiction of Britain as a mythical island

This island was divided into two parts by a wall. To the west, the air was too poisonous for men to exist there.

Britto (British)

son of Histon

In some accounts he is regarded as the ancestor of the British race.

(see also Brutus)

Brizo (Greek)

a moon-goddess of Delos

She was regarded as the patron of sailors and was worshipped by women.

Broadb (Irish)

brother of Angus Og

Braoadblink (see Breidablik)

Brobarz (British)

the realm of Condwiramur

Brocaid mac Brice (Irish)

[Broccardinae]

father of Aige

Broccardinae (see Brocaid mac Bride)

Broceliande (British)

a forest in Brittany

This forest is regarded as the home of Merlin and the scene of many Carolingian and Arthurian stories, including Owain's defeat of the Knight of the Fountain.

It was in this forest that Nimue entangled Merlin in a thorn bush or an oak tree.

Brochmael (British)

[Brochmail.(Prince) Brochwell.(Prince)

Brockwell]

a king of Powys, Wales

son of Eliseg

father of Cadell

He was so impressed by the relationship that Melangell had established with the animals and birds that he gave her land on which she established a convent.

Brochmail (see Brochmael)

Brochwell (see Brochmael)

Brock (Norse)

[Brok]

a dwarf

brother of Sindri

He made a wager with Loki that his brother, Sindri, was a better craftsman than Dvalin who was making a replacement for the golden hair of Sif that Loki had stolen, the loser to forfeit his head. Sindri made the golden-bristled boar Gullingbursti, the magic ring Draupnir and the hammer Mjolnir, while Dvalin made the unerring spear Gungnir, the magic ship Skidbladnir and the golden hair for Sif. When the gods declared Brock the winner, instead of decapitating Loki he sewed his lips together.

Brocken (German)

[Blocksberg.Bructerus]

the highest peak in the Harz range

This mountain is regarded as the place where witches always foregather on Walpurgis Night.

Brockwell (see Brochmael)

Brod (Irish)

a servant of Conor mac Nessa

He was in the force that his master led to attack Sin at the house of Gearg.

Broder (Norse)

a Danish prince

son of Iarmerik

His story is the story of Randwer in a Danish setting.

A counsellor named Bikki accused the young prince of seducing the queen, so Iarmerik had her trampled to death by horses. Broder would have been killed as well, but his father spared him since he was his only heir.

(see also Randwer)

Brodir (Irish)

a soldier said to have killed Brian Boru at the Battle of Clontarf

Brogan (Irish)

a scribe who recorded the exploits of

Finn mac Cool and the Fianna as related to St Patrick by Cailte or Oisín

Broicseach (Irish)

mother of St Brigit by Dubhthach

Broiefort (see Beiffror)

Brok (see Brock)

Broken War Club (North American)

a Metis hunter

brother of Smoking Mountain

Broken War Club and his brother, Smoking Mountain, met a very hairy but very strong person called Little Man and together they went looking for adventure. One day Broken War Club stayed in the lodge they had found to do the cooking and the other pair went hunting. When they returned, Broken War Club was still moaning from a beating he had received from a tiny dwarf. The same thing happened next day to Smoking Mountain. Little Man stayed home the next day and killed the ugly dwarf who came out from a deep hole. They lowered first Broken War Club and then Smoking Mountain into the hole in a kettle on a rope; they were scared by the noises they heard so Little Man went down. He was attacked successively by monsters with two, then three and finally four heads and killed all three of them. He rescued three girls the monsters had kept locked up and sent them up in the kettle together with much plunder from the monsters' home. When it was Little Man's turn to go up, Broken War Club cut the rope and they left him to die but he managed to climb out. For helping them to settle an argument, a wasp, a worm and a woodpecker each gave him the power to assume their shape. He soon overtook the fleeing men and killed Broken War Club, sent Smoking Mountain packing and kept the girls and the treasure for himself.

brollachan British an evil spirit in Scotland

These beings were said to have only a mouth and eyes and took the form of whatever they rested on. They were thought to be the offspring of fuaths.

Bromel la Pleche British

[Lord Bromel]
a knight of King Arthur's court
a suitor of Elaine

He offered to marry Elaine and raise the son she had borne to Lancelot but she preferred to remain true to her lover. He then vowed to kill Lancelot, but Bors challenged him on behalf of Lancelot and defeated him.

Bromie Greek

a nymph of Mount Nyas
She helped to rear the infant Dionysus and was placed in the heavens as one of the Hyades by a grateful Zeus.

Bromios Greek

[Bromius]
a thunder-god or 'roarer'
a name of Dionysus as 'boisterous'

Bromius *(see Bromios)Bromo *(see Brahma<sup>3</sup>)Bron *(see Hebron)Bron-Troghain Irish

[Brontroghain]
a festival in honour of Trograin, superseded by Lugnasad

Bronllavyn British

the knife of Osla
This knife was so big that it could be used to form a bridge over a river.

Brons *(see Hebron)Bronte<sup>1</sup> Greek

horse of the sun-god Helios

Bronte<sup>2</sup> *(see Brontes)Brontes Greek [Bronte. 'thunder'] one of the 3 original Cyclops, a blacksmith

son of Uranus and Gaea

Brontroghain *(see Bron Troghain)Bronwen *(see Branwen)Broom Goddess *(see San Chou Niang)Brosingamene *(see Brisingamen)Broteas Greek

son of Tantalus and Euryanassa or Dione Broteas was a hunter. When he refused to do honour to Artemis she drove him mad and, thinking he could not be burned by fire, he immolated himself.

Broth of Oblivion *(see Mi Hung Tang)Broth of the Sabbat

a witches' brew
This concoction, made on the day of a sabbat, was said to include the flesh of dead children and people who had been hanged, as well as frogs and all sorts of magical herbs and powders.

brother *(see huaca)Brown European

[Bruin]
the bear in Reynard the Fox

He was sent to summon Reynard to the court of the king, Nobel, but was tricked into looking for honey in a tree trunk and was trapped.

Brown Bull of Cooley Irish

[Brown Bull of Quelgny.Dark One of Cooley.Donn (Cuailnge).Dubh Cuailnge] a famous bull of Ulster

Friuch and Rucht changed shape many times in a long-running feud and, in the form of worms, were swallowed by two cows, being reborn as the bulls Whitehorn and Donn.

Queen Maev of Connaught owned Whitehorn and wanted Donn, the Brown Bull of Cooley, as well, so she and her husband Ailell invaded Ulster to seize it. Macha, the war-goddess, had put a spell on the warriors of Ulster and only Cuchulainn was able to defend his county. The bull was taken by Ailell's army and taken to Connaught where it fought with Whitehorn and killed it, carrying its body back to Ulster. In the course of the battle, Bricciu, who had been asked to judge the battle, was trampled to death. In one account Donn fell dead soon after, in another it died when it charged a rock, mistaking it for another bull.

Brown Bull of Quelgny *(see Brown Bull of Cooley)Brown Eber *(see Eber Donn)Brown Mouse Irish

a hound that ravaged Ulster Celtchair killed this animal, as the second of the tasks imposed as penance for killing Blai, by putting his hand down the hound's throat and tearing its heart out.

brownie<sup>1</sup> German

[=Swedish tomte]
a guardian spirit living in the forest

brownie British

a domestic fairy or goblin in Scotland
These benevolent beings attach themselves to a household and help with the housework. They should not be rewarded; if they are, they may take offence and become boggards.

Bruant British

a knight
He stole a diadem that had once belonged to Mariole, grandmother of Torec. Torec defeated Bruant in combat and learned that the diadem was now held by Miraude, whom Torec later married.

Bruce British

[Breuse san Pitie.Bruce the Pitiless] a robber baron

He seized Isolde and would have carried her off for ransom but Tristram rescued her and killed Bruce.

Bructerus *(see Brocken)Bruder Rausch *(see Friar Rush)Brug Ma Tibetan

[aBruguma.Aralgho Goa] daughter of Ma-Bajan

When she first met Gesar he played a trick on her, wrapping a newborn foal in a blanket and pretending that she had given birth to it.

In another account, she was abducted by King Hor but was rescued by Gesar, whom she married.

Brugh *(see Palace of the Boyne)Brug na Boinne *(see Palace of the Boyne)Bruhier European

[Brahier] a sultan of Arabia

He invaded France, at the time when Ogier was in prison for insulting the Emperor, and marched on Paris. When he challenged Charlemagne to single combat, Ogier agreed to take on the duel if the Emperor would hand over his son Charlot whom Ogier wished to punish for having killed his son Baldwin. In the fight with Ogier, Bruhier used a magic lotion which healed wounds and restored severed limbs as soon as it was applied but he was, nevertheless, killed by Ogier who took his horse Marchevallée to replace his own, which had been killed.

Bruigh na Boinne *(see Palace of the Boyne)Bruighean Caortbuin Irish

[The Fairy Palace of the Quicken Trees] the story of the entrapment of Finn mac Cool and his men at the Quicken Trees Hostel

(see Quicken Trees Hostel)

Bruin *(see Brown)brujo South American

a healer among the Quecha
These people are said to be able to cure the sick by invoking the auki.

Brulan *(see Varlan)Brulens *(see Varlan)Brumart British

a nephew of Claudas
He was killed when he sat in the Perilous Seat of the Round Table.

Brun Norse
a counsellor of Harald, said by some to be Odin in disguise

Brun de Morois British a French knight

In French stories he kidnapped Guinevere but was killed by Durmart.

Brunello European
a dwarf

When Agramant needed the magic ring of Angelica to free Rogero from the evil influence of his foster father, the magician Atlantes, Brunello went to Albracca when it was under siege by Agrican, slipped into Angelica's room and stole her ring. As reward Agramant made him king of Tingitana.

Bruneo British
a knight
brother of Branfil

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan. He was also one of the few knights ever to pass through the Arch of True Lovers.

Brunhild Norse
[Bruhilda.Brunhilde.Brynchild(r).Victory-wafer]

chief of the Valkyrie daughter of Budli or, some say, of Odin sister of Atli and Baenkild mother of Siegfried by Gunther, in some accounts mother of Aslaug by Sigurd, in some accounts

She was the daughter either of Odin or of a mortal king, raised to be a Valkyrie. She was ordered by Odin to ensure that the hunter, some say Hialmgunnar, who had abducted Siegmund's lover won the duel with Siegmund, but she disobeyed his order and Odin had to intervene. He punished her by putting her into a long, deep sleep in a castle surrounded by fire that only the bravest hero would attempt to break through. Some say that she was so punished for rejecting Odin's amorous advances.

Sigurd rode through the flames to claim her but then left her. In some stories she married Sigurd and they had a daughter, Aslaug, but the more usual story says that Sigurd left her after a while to seek further adventures. He became a friend of Gunnar, king of the Niblung, who wanted Brunhild as a wife but was unable to face the wall of flame. Sigurd, this time in the guise of Gunnar, rode through the flames once more and wooed Brunhild for Gunnar.

When she married Gunnar, she realised how she had been deceived and was very bitter. She quarrelled with Sigurd's wife, Gudrun, Gunnar's sister, and tried to persuade Gunnar to kill Sigurd. He refused but his younger brother Guttorn speared Sigurd in the back and killed him. Brunhild, who still loved Sigurd, died with him. In some versions she stabbed herself and was burned on the same pyre as Sigurd; in others she rode her horse through the flames of his pyre and immolated herself. As she rode into the flames of the funeral pyre, she threw the Ring of Power into the Rhine. The Rhine-daughters rose to claim it and a huge wave swept Brunhild and the funeral pyre into oblivion.

The Nibelungenlied has Brunhild as a queen of Iceland, who would marry only the man who could defeat her in a trial of strength. She was promised to Siegfried but he put on the Helmet of Invisibility and defeated her in a contest. Gunther (Gunnar) claimed that he was the invisible victor and married her. At the same time, Siegfried married Gunther's sister Krimhild, and later the young couple visited Gunther and Brunhild at their court where the two ladies had a furious quarrel. Hagen plotted to avenge the insult to Brunhild and induced Gunther to ask for Siegfried's help to repel an alleged invasion. Hagen then took advantage of Siegfried's visit to kill him.

(see also Siegdriifa)

Brunhilda (see Brunhild)

Brunhilde (see Brunhild)

Brunissen British

[Brunnisend]

wife of Jaufré

Bruno le Noir (see Breunor)

Brunor British

a knight of Uther's court

husband of Bagota

father of Galahaut

Brunnisend (see Brunissen)

Brut<sup>1</sup> British

a 12th c history, written by Layamon, which includes some Arthurian lore

(see also Roman de Brut)

Brut<sup>2</sup> (see Brutus)

Brut d'Angleterre (see Roman de Brut)

Brutan (see Varlan)

Brute (see Brutus)

Brute Division Buddhist

one of the 3 sections of the lower half of the Wheel of the Law

Bruto British

a hero of an Italian story

He came to King Arthur's court and was given a hawk, two hounds and a scroll as a present for his lover.

Bruto di Brettagne British

an Italian story of Bruto's visit to King Arthur's court

Brutus<sup>1</sup> British

[Brit(to).Brut(e)]

leader of a band of Trojans

king of Britain

son of Silvius

great-grandson of Aeneas husband of Imogen

father of Albanact, Camber and Locrin

It was prophesied that he would kill both his parents and establish a great kingdom. His mother died after three days in labour when he was born. When Brutus was fifteen he shot and killed his father in a hunting accident and was exiled to Greece.

There he led the Trojan slaves of King Pandrasus in a revolt, capturing the king who gave him his daughter Imogen as a wife, and ships and supplies so that the Trojans could sail west. He then led the Trojans across the sea to Gaul where they met Corineus, a son of Heracles, leader of the descendants of the Trojans who had been led there by Antenor after the fall of Troy. Some of his men stayed in Gaul but Brutus and Corineus led the others north to Britain where they conquered the native race of giants, capturing Gog and Magog, and Brutus became king of Britain.

In some accounts, he is the same as Britto.

Brutus<sup>2</sup> Roman

founder of the Republic

son of Tarquinia

father of Tiberius and Titus

When consulted by Brutus, Arruns and Titus, the Delphic oracle said that the first to kiss his mother would become ruler of Rome. Brutus pretended to trip over and kissed mother earth. When Lucretia killed herself after being raped by Sextus, Brutus swore to expel the Tarquins and set up a republic. His own sons, Tiberius and Titus, were accused of plotting to restore the deposed Tarquins and were tried and convicted. Brutus watched as they were flogged and executed. When Tarquinius Superbus attacked Rome, Arruns and Brutus met in single combat and each killed the other.

Bruxae<sup>1</sup> European

[Xorginae]

Portuguese vampires in the form of bird women

Bruxae<sup>2</sup>

[Xorginae]

demons who deluded old women into believing that they could fly

In some versions Bruxae are the old women themselves, said to be under the spell of the Devil rather than demons.

Bryant British

[Bryant the Faithless]

He killed Estonne and was himself killed by Estonne's son Passeleon.

Bryan (see Brian)

Bryant (see Brian)

Brychan British

an early king of Britain

father of Nefyn

He was said to have fathered about six saints, including St Glwady.

Bryn Gwyn British

the Welsh name for the White Mount

Bryn Myrrdin (see Merlin's Hill)

Brynchild (see Brunchild)

Brynchildr (see Brunchild)

bStan-ma (see Tan-ma)

bStan-rgyal (see Tsan-rgyal)

bTsan Tibetan

[bCan]

demons of the air

These beings are said to ride red horses and use bows and arrows to kill lone travellers.

bTsan-po Tibetan

the king, regarded as the ruler of the bTsan

Bu Pacific Islands

in Melanesian lore, the female demon Metakorab

Bu-maya-mui Australian

a deity responsible for making baby boys (see also Bahloo)

Bua-Taranga Pacific Islands

in the lore of Samoa, mother of Maui

She was said to have a secret access to the underworld where she kept the oven in which she cooked her food, the first person to do so.

Buadza African

[Olila]

a wind-god of West Africa

Buala (see Puteri Bualu)

Buan<sup>1</sup> Irish

wife of Meas Geaghra

She fell dead when she saw the body of her husband who had been killed and beheaded by Conal Cearnach.

Buan<sup>2</sup> Irish

daughter of Samera

She fell as she leapt on to the chariot of Cuchulainn, whom she loved, and died as a result of striking her head on a rock.

Buan-ann (see Boann)

Buana (see Boann)

Buanu Celtic

the Gaulish version of Buana

Buarainech Irish

a cow-faced-god

father of Balor, some say

buata Pacific Islands

a monster of the New Hebrides

This beast, which has the power of speech, is said to resemble a boar and to eat human beings.

bubak Bobemian

[=German Bumann]

a goblin

Bubastis Egyptian

a name for the goddess Bast son of Bast, some say (see Bast)

Bubona Roman

goddess of cattle

Bubuli West Indian

a woman who survived the flood

A snake captured by her people said that they would all die in a flood. Bubuli fled to another island with her children while all the others, who had scoffed at the snake's prediction, perished when the sea overwhelmed their island.

bubwayaita Pacific Islands

a plant which erases all memories

This herb is given to the dead in paradise so that they forget their lives on earth.

Bucaphi

a demon of witches

Bucar European

a Spanish king of Morocco

He led an attack on El Cid at Valencia but his army fled in terror when the embalmed body of the hero appeared at the head of his forces, riding Babieca and flourishing his sword Tizona.

bucca British

a wind spirit, spirit of the tin mines

in Cornwall (see also knocker)

bucentaur

[bull-man]

a human-headed bull figure such as the minotaur

Bucephalus Greek

the horse of Alexander the Great

It was said that Alexander was able to tame this horse because he, and he alone, realised that the horse was frightened by its own shadow and led the animal towards the sun so that it could no longer see a shadow.

Buchat Irish

a cattleman of Tara husband of Odras

Bucheum Egyptian

the burial ground of the Buchis bulls

Buchis Egyptian

[Bacis.B(a)kha.Bakhe.Bouchis.Bukhe]

a bull-god

a manifestation of Menthu

The southern counterpart of Apis and regarded as the physical manifestation of Osiris and Ra.

Buckeye Bush North American

a spirit, in the lore of the coastal tribes of the south-west

He, together with Fire Drill and Shooting Star, is said to have set on fire the first world created by Olelbis.

Bucon

a demon of hatred

Bucu Siberian

[Koori:=Buriat Khubilgan]

in the lore of the Golde tribe, a mythical bird

This bird is said to assist a shaman when he journeys to the otherworld.

Buda Irish

a wise man

In the story of the testing of Conall Cearnach, Cuchulainn and Loaghaire Buadhach to find the greatest champion, Buda appears in some accounts as one of the judges.

Budarjim

a demon

Budasheer Egyptian

an ancient king

father of Adim

When Budasheer died, his spirit lived on in a magnificent palace where it gave advice to his son, the new king.

Buddh (see Buddha)

Buddh Gaya Indian

[Bodh Gaya]

a sacred site in Bihar

This is the place where it is said Buddha received enlightenment.

Buddha<sup>1</sup> Indian

[Aditya-Bandhu.Amitayas.Amitayus.

Bhagavan.Bhagavat. Boodh(a). Budh.

Dharmaketu.Gautama.Gong(e)n. Gotama.

Jina.Mahakapi. Mahaparinirvanamurti.

Narayana.Navasvaraja. (Prince)

Sidda(r)ta. Sammassambuddha.Shaka

Muni. S(h)akya(muni).S(h)akyasinha.

Sidd(h)artha.Siddhattha. Sugata.

Tathagata. Vessantara. Vipassin: = Chinese Fo: = Japanese Butsu (da). Shotoku.

Shotoku: = Tibetan Sangyas. Tshangs-pa] (c. 563–479 BC)

a Hindu prince who became known as the Buddha, 'the enlightened one'

son of King Shuddhodhara and Queen Maya

husband of Yasodhara

father of Rahula

He was said to have been born painlessly from his mother's right side, already a youth endowed with the gift of speech. His wife, his horse Kanthaka, his charioteer Chandaka, his disciple Ananda and the bo-tree all appeared at the moment of his birth. Lotus plants grew from his every footprint. When he was born he bore thirty-two primary and eighty secondary marks including such things as a circle of hair between his eyebrows and an elephant, lotus, swastika, horse, etc. Some say that he was born eleven times as a deer.

His mother died seven days after his birth and he was raised by an aunt, Mahapajapati. He saw the four signs (a decrepit man, a sick man, a dead man and a monk) that he had been told would manifest themselves when he was to become a Buddha, and troubled by the sight of the suffering in the world, he fled from the luxurious palace his father had built for him and took up the life of a wandering ascetic as Gautama, but this did not bring about the enlightenment he was seeking. This came only after a 28-day (or five-week) period of meditation under the bo tree. Here he was assaulted by the demon Mara who threatened him with devils and tempted him with his seductive daughters, all to no avail. In this period all his previous lives were shown to him, and when a violent tempest arose he was sheltered by the huge body of Muchalinda.

He won the hand of Yasodhara by defeating his cousin, Devadatta in contests of skill and strength. As a result, Devadatta became his enemy and made a number of attempts to kill him.

As the 'enlightened one', he could have entered Nirvana at once but chose instead to preach, founding an order and a religion. He went up to the Tavatimsa heaven for several months to instruct his mother in his new laws.

He passed his enlightened vision to the nagas, the sacred serpents, because he found that it frightened most humans. After preaching for forty-five years he gave up all desire for life and entered Nirvana. His funeral pyre was self-ignited and the residue of his body was a heap of pearls.

Some say that his soul underwent 550 transmutations.

In Hindu tradition, he was the ninth incarnation of Vishnu and had many other incarnations, including one as a hare who offered his body to Sakka as he had no other food to offer.

In a Japanese account the Buddha found a dragon in a ravine who uttered several of the basic truths of Buddhism and demanded human flesh before revealing the final truth. The Buddha offered his own body and as he jumped into the dragon's mouth it turned into the sacred lotus.

In some accounts he died as a result of eating boar flesh.

There is more than one Buddha; a fresh one appears on earth whenever some special need arises. In the Mahayana version of Buddhism there are said to be some 300,000,000 Buddhas. (see also Shakyamuni)

Buddha<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Buddha-avatara]

the ninth incarnation of Vishnu, active in the present age

Buddha<sup>3</sup> (see Pusa<sup>1</sup>)

Buddha-avatara (see Buddha<sup>2</sup>)

Buddha Day (see Wesak)

Buddha-dharma Buddhist

the law of Buddha

Buddha Flood (see Hotoke-umi)

Buddha-Kshetra (see Pure Land)

Buddha-land (see Pure Land)

Buddha-locana (see Locana)

Buddha-nature (see Tathagata)

Buddha of Compassion

(see Bodhisattva)

Buddha of Infinite Light

(see Amida. Amitayas)

Buddha-sasana Buddhist

the Buddha's message

Buddha-vacana Buddhist

the word of the Buddha

Buddhabodhiprabhavasita Buddhist

a goddess, one of the 12

Paramita goddesses

Buddhacarita Buddhist

a 1st c story of the life of the Buddha

written by Asvagosha

Buddhadakini Buddhist

a female Buddha; an air-goddess

Buddhaghosa Buddhist

a 5th c sage

He is credited with the compilation of the Theravada.

Buddhakapala Buddhist

an aspect of Aksobhya or Heruka who has Citrasena as sakti

Buddhalocana (see Locana)

Buddhapada Buddhist

[Buddha's Foot]

the realm of Mahadeva in

the Otherworld

This realm, reached by the road heading west from the crossroads guarded by Dvarakala, is reserved for the generous.

Buddha's Foot (see Buddhapada)

Buddha's Hand (see Fo Shou)

Buddhasakti Buddhist

the consort of a Buddha

Buddhas of Contemplation

(see Dhyani Buddhas)

Buddhas of Meditation

(see Dhyani Buddhas)

buddhi<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[mahan.mahat]

the feminine form of buddha: a form of existence from which all other forms derive

Buddhi<sup>2</sup> Hindu

['intelligence']

a minor goddess

consort of Ganesha as Maha-Ganapati

Buddhi<sup>3</sup> Jain

a minor goddess

Buddhist cross

the swastika

Buddhist Messiah (see Miroku)

Buddir al-Buddoor

(see Badr al-Buddur)

Buder

a demon

Budha<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a sky-god, personification of Mercury

Budha<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a sky-god, personification of Mercury

son of Chandra and Tara consort of Ila, in some accounts

father of Pururavas

Tara was the wife of Brhispati carried off by Chandra. The child he fathered on her was Budha who was reared by Brhispati as his own. Some say that Brhispati was Budha's real father.

Budic (see Budicius)

Budicius<sup>1</sup> British

[Boudic(ius). Budic]

a king of Brittany

husband of Anna or Ermine, some say

He is said to have raised Ambrosius and Uther when they were sent to his court to escape from Vortigern, who had killed their brother Constans.

- Budicius<sup>2</sup> British [Boudic(ius).Budic]
a king of Brittany
husband of Anna, sister of King Arthur father of Hoel
- Budiman Malay
a king
father of Lela Muda and Naga Mas
He had a bird, Indera Bayu, as prime minister.
- Budli Norse
father of Atli, some say
- Bue Pacific Islands
a hero of the Gilbert Islanders Born when the sun impregnated a woman, he attacked his father to obtain knowledge, which he passed on to humans, of how to build boats, houses, etc.
- Buer
a demon, wise in the art of medicine
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
This being is depicted as having the body of a lion carried on five goat-like legs and feet. Others say that he appears as a starfish.
- Bufar
a demon
- buffalo<sup>1</sup> East Indian the Dayaks regard this animal as their ancestor
- buffalo<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the transport of Chamunda
- Buffalo<sup>3</sup> North American [Four-legged.Four-legs]
one of the 4 Kindred Gods of the Sioux
- Buffalo<sup>4</sup> North American
in the lore of the American Indian tribes, a race of people with horns
By striking a knot in a cottonwood tree, these people released the humans who lived underground beneath the tree and hunted them like animals,
killing them and eating their flesh.
Cut-Nose, the first to emerge, managed to escape and returned safely to the tree. Another young man who escaped married Buffalo Girl, one of the Buffalo race. They made bows and arrows and left them by the tree so that, when the Buffalo people next knocked on the tree, the humans emerged and, seizing the weapons, killed their persecutors who then turned into real buffaloes.
The children of Buffalo Girl and her husband became the ancestors of the Arikara. (see also Buffalo Girl)
- Buffalo Girl North American
a maiden of a horned race of cannibals
who married a human
- She and her husband made bows and arrows and left them near the cottonwood tree under which humans lived. When they emerged, the humans seized the weapons and used them to kill the Buffalo people who then turned into real buffaloes. The descendants of this couple became the Arikara tribe.
- bug<sup>1</sup>
a bogey: a goblin
- bug<sup>2</sup> British [bwg] a Welsh ghost
- Bug<sup>3</sup> (see Bog)
- Buga Siberian
the creator-god of the Tungus
He made humans by mixing earth, fire and iron with water.
- bugaboo
a bogey
- Bugan Pacific Islands
sister and wife of Wigan
In the lore of the Philippines, she and her brother were the sole survivors of the flood.
- bugbear
a bogey or boggart that eats children a goblin bear
- Buge African
son of Mbega
- buggane British
a Manx water spirit
This being is said to appear either as a horse or a calf. (see also boggard)
- Bugi British
husband of Preferren father of Beuno
- Bugid Y Aiba West Indian
a war-god of Haiti
- Bugimamua African
in the lore of Uganda, a place where heaven and earth meet
- buhuitihu West Indian
a medicine man: a priest of the Taino
- Bui (see Boi<sup>1</sup>)
- Buic Irish
a warrior of Connaught
son of Banblai
In the raid to seize the Brown Bull of Cooley, it was he, in some versions, who found the bull. Others say it was found by Natchrantal. He was killed by Cuchulainn.
- Buichet Irish
a foster mother to 6 children who had been turned into pigs (see also Derbrenn)
- Buile Suibne Irish
the 8th c story of the madness of Suibne after he insulted St Ronan
- Buinne (see Buino the Red)
- Buino the Red Irish [Buinne the Ruthless] son of Fergus mac Roth
brother of Iollan
He betrayed his brother and friends to Conor when they arrived back at Emain Macha after escorting Deidre and Naisa from Scotland. He was given a large tract of land for his treachery but it turned completely barren overnight.
- Bujaforte European
a young knight
He was forced to fight for Marsilius at Roncesvalles and was killed in that battle.
- Bujang East Indian
the first man
He was a cultural hero, said to have been born near Mecca, who led the Iban people to Borneo
- Bujang Sembelih Malay
a demon said to cut the throats of human beings
- bujangga<sup>1</sup> Malay
a monster in the form of a huge demon with wings: a very wise spirit
- bujangga<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
angels
These beings can take the form of giant mortals and perform feats such as moving mountains.
- Bujuruktsi Russian
a Tartar god of fate
- Buk African
[Daughter of Fireflies. Leopard of the Night]
a river-goddess of the Sudanese
In some accounts, Buk is a god of fishing.
- Bukchunh Mongolian
one of the burkhan
- Bukhe (see Buchis)
- Bukit Kaca Malay
a glass mountain reaching to the sky
- Bukit Peraja Malay
the mountain to which Khatib and the Bamboo Princess went when they disappeared.
- Bukura e dheut Balkan
a benevolent fairy
She lives in a castle which is guarded by many wonderful creatures and has contact with the underworld.
- Bukuri i qiellit Balkan the name for god
This deity was originally one of the three gods of sky, ocean and underworld.
- Bula Australian
a god of the Aborigines

Bulaing Australian

a creator-goddess of the Karadjeri tribe

Bulanda African

sister of Nkongolo

twin sister of Mateba

Her brother King Nkongolo allowed a visiting prince, Mbidi Kiluwe, to sleep with both his sisters. Bulanda produced a boy, Kalala Ilunga, who became a culture hero, and Mateba gave birth to twins.

Bulban (see Ben Bulben)

Bulia Greek

a name for Athena as goddess of the council of Athens

bull

a male bovine animal typifying strength, fecundity, stupidity, which plays a role in many mythologies

(1) In some Asian stories the bull was said to have dug into the primordial earth and brought up water.

(2) The Assyrians revered the bull as a beneficent winged protector.

(3) In Buddhism Yama is said to stand on a bull.

(4) The Canaanites gave the name 'bull' to the gods El and Latipan.

(5) In China the ox is regarded as one of the animals that carry the sun through the twelve houses of the Zodiac and as a symbol of spring.

(6) In Egypt the bulls Apis, Buchis and Mnevis were revered as gods; the north wind was depicted in the form of a bull.

(7) In Greek stories Zeus appeared in the form of a bull to carry off Europa, and he sent the white Cretan Bull to give the islanders a sign that Minos was to be their king. This animal later appeared as the Marathonian Bull captured by Heracles and subsequently killed by Theseus. The bull was also regarded as an incarnation of Dionysus.

(8) Hebrew tradition depicts the bull as a source of fruitfulness and also envisages the sun-god in bovine form. It was used as a sacrificial animal.

(9) Irish mythology regards bulls as reincarnated deities. One of the finest stories is of the Brown Bull of Cooley and the bull Whitehorn.

(10) Japanese lore says that the bull broke the primaeval egg from which all else came. It is the second animal of the Zodiac and a symbol of Zen Buddhism.

(11) The Norse regarded the bull as sacred to the supreme god Odin.

(12) In Persia the bull represented the rain-god. The primaeval bull, Geush-Urvan, was killed by Angra Mainya or Mithra while the bull Hadhayosh was said to carry people across the primordial waters.

(13) The Romans regarded the bull as sacred to Neptune.

(14) The Siberian version has the bull standing on a stone (fish or crab) in the ocean and holding up the world on its horns. Should the horns ever break, the world will come to an end.

(15) In the Zodiac the bull appears as the second sign, Taurus.

Bull-by-himself North American

a Blackfoot culture hero

He befriended some beavers, four of whom turned into humans and taught him the secrets of planting and harvesting tobacco.

Bull Feast (see Tarbhfhéis)

bull-man (see bucentaur)

bull marine

a monster, part bull, part fish

Bull-Minos (see Minotaur<sup>2</sup>)

Bull of Heaven Mesopotamian

[Great Bull of Heaven]

the manifestation of the destructive power of Nergal or Gugulanna

This fearsome animal was killed by Gilgamesh with the help of Enkidu.

Bull of Meroe (see Mnevis)

Bull of the Ennead Egyptian

a name of Atum as a bull

Bullan (see Bolla)

bullbeggar

a hobgoblin

Bullkater European

[Tom-Cat]

a Silesian field-spirit

This spirit is said to possess the reapers. (see also field spirit)

Bulotu Pacific Islands

paradise, the home of the dead, in the lore of Tonga

Bulu Pacific Islands

the Fijian land of the dead

Buluc Chabtan Central American

a Mayan war-god

Bulugu<sup>1</sup> Australian

a water-snake man

lover of Gulanundoidj

Bulugu<sup>2</sup> (see Bilik)

Bulwer-Lytton, Edward British

(1803–1873)

an English poet

He wrote the epic narrative poem King Arthur.

Bumann German

[Boggelmann:=Bohemian bubak]

a bogey or goblin

bumba<sup>1</sup> African

an amulet of the Bushmen

Bumba<sup>2</sup> (see Ma Bumba.Nzambi)

Bumba-loa West Indian

a group of Haitian voodoo spirits based on the Bushongo creator-god, Bumba (Nzambi)

Bumugi Pacific Islands

one of the 8 Spitters (see Spitter<sup>4</sup>)

Bun-Gil (see Pundgel)

Bundabisbn Persian

writings about the creation and its purpose

These myths were said to have been revealed by Ahura Mazda directly to Zoroaster.

Bundu African

a Mende ancestral mask used in initiation rites

Bune

a demon, a duke of hell

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This being is said to have three heads, those of a dog, a griffin and a man.

bungisngis Pacific Islands

a monster of the Philippines

This monster takes the form of a giant of tremendous strength who has a very large upper lip and carries a club. He also eats human beings.

Buniels

a demon

Buninka Mongolian

a demon

Bunjel (see Pundjel)

Bunjil (see Pundjel)

Bunu East Indian

son of Tunggal Garaing and

Puteri Bualu

brother of Sangen and Sangiang

He was one of the sons of the first human couple and became the first hunter.

Bunyan, Paul North American

a giant lumberjack

This legendary hero is said to have created the Grand Canyon with his axe. His constant companion was the blue ox, Babe.

bunyip Australian

a man-eating swamp monster: the source of evil in Aboriginal lore

Buoka South American

a culture hero in Venezuela

brother of Wahari

Wahari cut off his brother's over-long penis, but the village girls still slept with him. The blood from his mutilated organ entered their bodies and afterwards appeared as their menses.

buor-kut Siberian
the earth-soul, one of the 3 parts of the soul (kut), in the lore of the Yakuts

Buphonia (see Boughponia)

Bur (see Buri<sup>1</sup>)

Burd Ellen (see Ellen)

Bure (see Buri<sup>1</sup>)

Buri<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Bori.Bure.Bur(im).Burri]

the first god, father of the gods
father of Bor

Buri was created when the primaeval cow Audhumbla licked the salt in the ice or, in some versions, stones.

Buri<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Bar(r)i.Burri]

the site of the grove where Frey and Gerda first met and married

Buriash Persian

[Burijash.Buriyas]

a storm-god or war-god of the Kassites

Buriel

a demon

Burijash (see Buriash)

Buriyas (see Buriash)

Burim (see Buri<sup>1</sup>)

Buriswara East Indian

a Javanese prince

He was in love with Subadra and pledged his soul to Durga in return for power over his beloved who, in some accounts, became the wife of Arjuna.

Burju Alamas African

[City of Death.Tower of Diamonds]

a building made of diamonds erected at the top of the Gleaming Mountain

The floor of this building was polished crystal, which looked like a pool. Intruders diving into the 'pool' killed themselves.

burkhan<sup>1</sup> Mongolian

gods of the Gold tribe

Burkhan<sup>2</sup> Siberian

[Burkhan-Bakshi]

a supreme deity

He ordered the construction of a ship to save all the species (except the mammoth) from the impending flood.

When the devil Shitkur, in the form of a mouse, tried to gnaw through the ship's timbers, Burkhan created a cat to scare the mouse away.

Burkhan-Bakshi (see Burkhan)

Burletta British

in the Italian version of the Arthurian legends, an abductor

He made off with Pulzella Gaia but she was rescued by Lancelot.

Burning Lands (see Phlegra)

Burnunta-sa Mesopotamian

a Babylonian god

son of Ea

Burotu Pacific Islands

the Fijian paradise

Burr Woman North American

a monster in the form of an old woman

In many stories this hag gets on a hero's back and cannot be dislodged.

Burri (see Buri)

Burry Duggur Boola Afghan

the Kafir hell

Burry Le Boola Afghan

the Kafir paradise

burtnicks Baltic

a Latvian magician

This type uses his magic for benevolent ends, as opposed to the evil burvis.

Burung Une East Indian

a Dayak god of agriculture

brother of Amei Awi

These two were the progenitors of the human race. Amei Awi also created some of the animals from pieces of bark. Having done their creative work, the two brothers disappeared into the ground.

burvis Baltic

a Latvian magician

This type uses his powers for evil purposes.

Burzhin Persian

genii, members of the yazata

Burzhin Mitro Russian

a sacred fire

This fire, together with Frobach and Gushasp, protected the country.

bush soul African [upkong]

the soul of a human inhabiting a wild animal

It is held that the human whose soul is in an animal will experience the same fate as that animal.

A chief may have more than one bush soul. Such souls can be handed down or may be bought; in the latter case, they may be used to harm an enemy.

Bushel (see Great Bear)

Bushy-Heads (see Gadjisa)

Bushyanasta Persian

[Bushy(n)asta]

a demon of lethargy: a druj

Bushyasta (see Bushyanasta)

Bushynasta (see Bushyanasta)

Busi-urt Baltic

[Rice Mother]

the Finnish spirit of the cornfields

Busiris Greek

king of Egypt

son of Poseidon by Lysianassa

father of Amphidamas

In some accounts he killed all foreigners in sacrifice to Zeus, and he sacrificed his nephew, Phrasius, to avert drought. When he tried to kill Heracles as a further sacrifice, Heracles killed him.

Busitane British

an enchanter in Spenser's The

Faerie Queene

Buso East Indian

demons in Mindanao

These fearsome, one-eyed beings, long-bodied and flat-nosed, are said to live in trees and to dig up corpses which they eat, tearing the flesh with their two long, pointed teeth.

(see also Tagamaling.Tigbanua)

Bussumarus Roman

[=Roman Jupiter]

a Celtic god known on the Continent

buta Pacific Islands

[buta cakil]

an evil demon in Indonesian lore

A version of a buta which has hooked teeth is called a buta cakil.

buta cakil (see buta)

Butator

a demon, expert in calculation

Butes<sup>1</sup> Greek

one of the Argonauts

son of Pandion, Poseidon or Teleon by

Zeuxippe

twin brother of Erechtheus

brother of Philomena and Procne

father of Hippodamia and Eryx

by Aphrodite

He was the only one to jump overboard when the song of the Sirens was heard but he was rescued by Aphrodite who made him her lover.

Butes<sup>2</sup> Greek

a bee-master

son of Boreas

He was exiled for plotting to overthrow his half-brother, Lycurgus, and became a pirate of Naxos. When he raped Coronis, Dionysus drove Butes mad and he jumped to his death in a well.

Butifar Egyptian

a vizier

husband of Zuleikha

He married a princess much younger than himself and one of the slaves that he bought for her turned out to be the man she had frequently dreamt about.

Buto<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[Bouto]
an ox-headed king

He was ruler of the stars and descended to earth en route to the realm of the sea dragon to find a wife for himself. Kotan, a king of India, refused him shelter so, on his return from the sea dragon's realm with a new wife, he waged war on Kotan and killed him, cutting his body into five pieces.

In some accounts he is regarded as an aspect of Susanowa.

Buto<sup>2</sup> (see Edjo.Wadjet)

Butsu Japanese

[Butsuda]
the Buddha

Butsuda (see Butsu)

butsudan Japanese

a family altar containing a list of ancestors, etc.

Butsuda Japanese

Buddhism, 'the way of Buddha'

Butsugaku Japanese

the Buddhist doctrines

butten Buddhist

sacred scriptures

Buttercat European

[=Finnish Para:=Lappish Smieragatto]
a Swedish spirit in the form of a cat that brings its owner butter, cream and milk

butterfly

a flying insect with large, beautifully coloured wings

(1) In the Baltic region a grey butterfly is said to be the soul of a dead person or of one sleeping.

(2) In China, the butterfly (hu tieh) represents married happiness and longevity.

(3) East Indian lore says that the soul of a sleeping person is held by a butterfly.

(4) The Japanese say that butterflies carry human souls and are represented as tiny fairies.

(5) In Mexico butterflies are regarded as souls of dead people.

(6) In North America, Algonquin lore regards the butterfly as creator of the south wind.

(7) Scottish lore has the butterfly in the role of a fire-god (Teine-de).

(8) In Siberia it is said that witches can take the form of a butterfly.

Buyan (see Bouyan)

Buzur-Kurgala Mesopotamian

the sailor appointed to be captain of Utnapishtim's ark

bwbach Welsh

[plur=bwbachod]
a household spirit or brownie

It is said that these beings attack teetotallers.

bwbachod (see bwbach)

bwci Welsh

[plur=bwciod]
a bugbear: a ghost

bwciod (see bwci)

Bwebweso Pacific Islands

the Melanesian afterworld (see also underworld)

bwete African

a spirit said to cause a specific disease

bwg (see bug<sup>2</sup>)

Bwlch British

a warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Cilydd or Cleddyf

brother of Cyfwlch and Syfwlch husband of Hwyrddyddwg

father of Lleuched

He was one of the men Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get to help in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth, part of his quest for the hand of Olwen. His horse was Call, his dog was Glas and he had a maid servant named Drwg.

Bwlch-y-Groes British

a pass in Snowdonia, said to be the home of Retho

Bwlch-y-Saethu British

a pass in Snowdonia

It was here, according to Welsh stories, that King Arthur was killed after the Battle of Tregalen.

Bwrrd Arthur (see Arthur's Table)

Byamee Australian

a creator-god of the Aborigines of the North

Byams-pa Buddhist

[Chem-pa]
the Tibetan name for Maitreya

Byanor British

a man who was given a sword formerly owned by King Arthur

Byat-Ta Burmese

a wind spirit
father of Shwe Pyin Nyi-nuang brother of Byat-Twe

Byat-Twe Burmese

brother of Byat-Ta
(see also Shwe Pyin Nyi-Nuang)

Bybassus Greek

a goatherd of Asia Minor
He rescued Podaleirius when his ship was wrecked on the coast of Asia Minor.

Byblis Greek

a water-nymph
daughter of Miletus and Cyanea
twin sister of Caunus

When she fell in love with her twin brother, he left home. She searched for him in vain and was finally turned into a spring.

Bychan British

[Bach Bychan]
a servant of Trystan in the Welsh version

He accompanied his master when he eloped with Esyllt.

Bycorne (see Bicorn)

Bydiel

[Bidiel]
a demon of secrets

Byelobog (see Bylebog)

Byelun<sup>1</sup> Russian

a god, the Russian version of Bylebog

Byelun<sup>2</sup> (see Bouyan)

byess Serbian

demons

Byggvir (see Beyggvir)

Bylebog Slav

[Balbog.Bielbog.Bjelbog.Byelobog.The White God:=Norse Balder:=Russian Byelun]

a sun-god
the force of good opposing Chernobog

Byleist Norse

son of Farbauti and Laufeia brother of Loki, some say

Byleth (see Beleth)

Byrger (see Byrgir)

Byrgir Norse

[Byrger]
a well that contained song-mead (see also Bil.Hiuki)

Byrr (see Thiassi)

C

C Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity,
referred to as god C: perhaps Ek, Kukulcan or Xanak

In some instances this deity is depicted with a halo of rays and planetary signs, leading some to identify him as a god of the Pole Star.

Ca-peen North American
a young Pueblo husband of Willow Flower

His wife died young but he later found her in a house outside the town. He stayed with her but recoiled from the stench of her rotting body and ran away. To escape, he allowed a medicine man to shoot him into the sky, where he was still followed by Willow Flower. (see also Deer Hunter)

Caacrinolaas
[Casimolar.Coassimolar.Glacia Labolas.
Glasya Labolas.Glasyalabolas]
a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
He is envisaged as a winged dog and is said to teach science, make humans invisible and initiate murder.

Caan (see Kaan)
caapi South American

a drug, said to have supernatural powers, used by shamans

Cab an Dosain Irish
a man from the Otherworld
He took Conan Maol to his home where he became involved in weird exploits.

Cabal British [Cafall.Cavall]
King Arthur's dog

In some accounts this hound took part in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth or Ysgithyrwyn.

Cabal's Cairn British [Carn Cabal]
in Welsh lore, a pile of stones; one bears a paw-print said to have been made by King Arthur's dog, Cabal

It is said that, if moved, the imprinted stone returns overnight to its original position.

Cabardiacensis Celtic
a goddess of art and industry

Cabariel
a demon

Cabeiri Greek
[Cabiri.Kab(e)iroi]
mystic blacksmiths, fertility-gods of Lemnos, etc.

Originally Phrygian deities, they were said to number seven (corresponding with the sun, planets, etc.) sons of Kettu and brothers of Eshmun, who survived the flood and were taken into the Greek pantheon where, in some accounts, they appeared as two dwarfs who were descended from Hephaestus
and who saved shipwrecked sailors.
Some say they were sons of Uranus or Zeus by Calliope; others say they were sons of Proteus.

Other versions say that there were four – Axiocercus and his son Cadmilus, and two females known as Axieros and Axiocerca, while some say that Cadmilus was the son of Cabeiros.

Some stories say that they acted as servants of Persephone, others identified them with the Dioscuri. In the Roman pantheon, they are sometimes identified with the Penates.

Cabeiros Greek
the chief of the Cabeiri, some say father of Cadmilus, some say

Cabiel
a moon demon

Cabiri (see Cabeiri)

Cabraca Central American

[Cabracan.Cabraka(n)] a Mayan earthquake-god
son of Vucub-Caquix and Chimalmatl
brother of Zipacna

He was strong enough to shatter mountains and threatened to overturn the earth, so the twins Hunapu and Ixbalanque killed him by giving him poisoned food.

Cabracan (see Cabraca)

Cabraka (see Cabraca)

Cabrakan (see Cabraca)

cabyll-ushtey British

the Manx version of the kelpie (see also glaistyn.tarroo-ushtey)

Caca Greek

a fire-goddess daughter of Hephaestus and Medusa
sister of Cacus

In some stories it was she who, falling in love with Heracles, told him where to find Cacus and the cattle he had stolen from Heracles.

Cacamwri British [Cacmwri]
a servant of King Arthur brother of Hygwydd

He was (nearly) drowned in the Severn in the struggle to capture Twrch Trwyth.

Cacce-haldde Baltic
[=Finnish Vedenhaltija]
a Lappish water spirit
(see also Cacce-olmai)

Cacce-jielle (see Cacce-haldde.Kul.)

Cacce-olmai Baltic
a Lapp water spirit: god of fishing (see also Cacce-haldde)

Cachimana South American [Cachimé]
a supreme deity of the tribes of the Orinoco basin

Cachimé (see Cachimana)

Cacia (see Kakia)

Cacibagiagua West Indian
a cave

The men of the Taino were originally confined to this cave and one other, called Amaiaua.

Cacoch Central American [Kacoch]
a Mayan creator-god

He created the water lily and from this sprang all the other deities.

Other accounts have him as a messenger for Hachacyum.

Cacmwri (see Cacamwri)
cacodaemon [cacodemon]
an evil spirit

cacodemon (see cacodaemon)

Cactus cat North American
a fabulous animal

Cactus Tree Worship African
worship of various forms of cactus

It is believed by some tribes that such trees have souls and that their ancestors came from them.

Cacus<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Caecius.Kaki(o)s.Master Thief]
a fire-god
a fire-breathing three-headed giant brother of Caca
son of Hephaestus and Medusa

He is said to have stolen some of Geryon's cattle from Heracles. He was then was killed by Heracles in a cave on Mount Aventine after his sister, Caca, had told Heracles where to find him.

He was said to have a body like a huge spider, though Dante referred to him as a centaur.

Cacus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Caecius.Kaki(o)s] a handsome youth and prophet
He was killed by Heracles for some unknown reason.

Cacus<sup>3</sup> Roman
a prophet
He was captured by Caeles Vibenna and his brother Aulus, who forced him to reveal his secrets.

Cacy taperere South American [Sasy-perere]
a supernatural dwarf, in the lore of some Brazilian tribes

This being is depicted with one leg, fiery eyes and wearing a red cap.

Cad Godeu (see Battle of Godeu)
cada Chinese a symbol of Buddhist and Taoist deities in the form of a club

Cadair British
a magical car or chariot

This wonderful means of transport would carry whoever rode in it wherever they wished to go. It was owned by Morgan Mwynfawr, though some say by Morgan le Fay, and became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

Cadair Idris British [Cader Idris]
a mountain in Wales, said to be the home of the giant Idris

Cadbury British
a site in Somerset where, some say, King Arthur and his men lie sleeping Other suggested sites for the sleeping king and his men are at Alderley Edge, Craig-y-Dinas, Mount Etna, Ogo'r Dinas, Richmond and Sewingshields.

Some suggest that Cadbury was the site of Camelot.

Cadell British
a king of Powys
father of Concenn

Cader Idris (see Cadair Idris)
Cadmean Vixen (see Cadmeian Vixen)
Cadmeian Vixen Greek

[Cadmean Vixen.Teumessian Vixen]
an animal sent to ravage Thebes
This animal, sent by Dionysus or Hera, could not be caught by any other animal. When Amphitryon undertook to catch it he used Laelaps, the dog of Cephalus, which always caught any animal it chased. This impossible position was resolved when Zeus turned both animals to stone.

Cadmilus Greek
[Cas milos.Kadmilos]
one of the Cabeiri
son of Axiocercus or Cabeiros

Cadmus Greek [Kadmos]
a sun-god
king of Thebes
son of Agenor and Telephassa
brother of Cilix, Europa and Phoenix husband of Harmonia
father of Agave, Autonoe, Illyrius, Ino, Polydorus and Semele

He was said to have founded Thebes and introduced the alphabet.

When his sister Europa was abducted by Zeus in the form of a bull, Cadmus spent some time searching for her but he gave up the search on the advice of the Delphic Oracle and built a city, Thebes, on the site where the cow he was told to follow stopped for rest.

He killed the serpent guarding the Castalian spring and sowed its teeth to produce a crop of Sown Men who fought amongst themselves till only five, the Sparti, were left alive and they became servants of Cadmus, helping him to build the city of Thebes. He was condemned by Athena to serve as a slave to Ares for eight years for killing the serpent.

In later years he conquered Illyria and fathered a son whom he called Illyrius. Some say that he was given the throne by Agave who had killed her husband, King Lycotherses.

At the end of his life he was changed by Ares into a black serpent and sent to the Islands of the Blessed together with Harmonia, who was similarly changed.

Cadoc British [Saint Cadoc]
a knight of King Arthur
son of Gwynnlym and Gwladys

He sheltered the killers (or killer, Ligessac) of three of King Arthur's men and paid the king 100 cattle in compensation for his crime. The animals all turned into ferns as they were crossing a ford.

Cadog British
one of the original Twenty-Four Knights of King Arthur's Court

Cador<sup>1</sup> British
a king of Northumberland
father of Andrivete

Cador<sup>2</sup> British

[Cadw(r).Cadwy.Cawder]
king of Cornwall after Gorlois
a Knight of the Round Table
one of the Knights of Battle father of Constantine and, in some accounts, of Arthgallo

His duty was to dress and arm King Arthur before battle.

He saved his friend Caradoc, who was dying from the effects of a blood-sucking snake attached to his arm by the magician Eliaures, by putting his sister in a vat of milk and Caradoc in a vat of sour wine. This induced the snake to try to cross from one vat to the other, giving Cador the chance to kill it with his sword.

Caduceptor Roman

a name for Mercury as 'owner of the caduceus'

caduceus Roman

[=Greek kerykeion]
the Latin name for the wand of Mercury (Hermes)

This symbol is in the form of a rod with wings and entwined serpents and has the power of reconciliation. The serpents were originally white ribbons.
The wand was given to Hermes by Apollo in exchange for the sevenstringed lyre that the youth had made from the shell of a tortoise.

Other versions make a distinction between the caduceus used as a herald's staff and the magic wand with wings, serpents, etc.

(see also aurea virga.virga medicinus)

Cadw<sup>1</sup> British

[Cadw of Pictland.Cadw of Prydein]
a Welsh chieftain

He was the only man allowed to shave the giant Ysbaddaden, and he cut the tusk from the boar, Ysgithyrwyn, for the giant to be shaved with. In some accounts this story is confused with that of Caw of Caledonia. Later in the story of Culhwch and Olwen, he collected the blood of the Black Witch killed by King Arthur. Both the tusk and the blood were items that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get in his quest for the hand of Olwen. At the end of the quest, he shaved Ysbaddaden to the bone and cut off his ears. (see also Caw)

Cadw<sup>2</sup> (see Cador<sup>2</sup>)Cadwaladr British

[Cadwallader]
a king of Gwynedd, Wales
son of Cadwallon

Cadwallader (see Cadwaladr)Cadwallo (see Cadwallon)Cadwallon British

[Cadwallo.Catwallaun]
a king of Gwynedd, Wales
father of Cadwaladr

His people believed that he would return from death to lead them to victory over the Anglo-Saxons.

Cadwgawn British

a soldier of Madawg
son of Iddon
father of Heilyn Goch

He was with Rhonabwy at the cottage
of Heilyn Goch, in Wales.

Cadwr (see Cador<sup>2</sup>)Cadwy (see Cador<sup>2</sup>)Cadyreith British

[Cadyrnth]
one of King Arthur's chamberlains
son of Gandwyr

Cadyrnth (see Cadyreith)Cae Hir British

[Kae Hir]
a lover of Golwg, in Welsh lore

He fought on the side of Trystan against the forces of March, husband of Esyllt who had eloped with Trystan.

Caecilia Roman

[Gaea Caecilia.Gaia Caecilia. Tanaquil] wife of Tarquinius Priscus

She was an Etruscan sorceress who, when her husband Lucumo became king of Rome, was called Tanaquil.

Caecinus Greek

a river-god

Caecius (see Caecus<sup>1,2</sup>)Caeculus Roman founder of Praeneste

He was born when a spark from the fire flew into his mother's lap, and hence claimed to be the son of Vulcan.
To prove his claim he invoked the help of the god, who caused a wall of flame to appear all round his newly founded city. He helped Turnus against Aeneas.

Caedmon British

a 7th c poet

He was a gifted musician who was said to have been given his talent in a dream.

Cael<sup>1</sup> Irish

a warrior killed at the Battle of Fionn's Strand

Cael<sup>2</sup>
an angel, ruler of the sign CancerCaeles Vibenna Roman

a leader of the Etruscans brother of Aulus Vibenna

He was captured by the Romans but rescued by Mastarna. He and his brother captured the seer Cacus and forced him to reveal his secrets.

Caelestis Roman

[Juno Caelestis:=Carthaginian Tanit:
= Greek Aphrodite]
a moon-goddess

Juno as the 'guardian of Carthage'.

Caelia British

a fairy queen
mother of the Faerie Knight by Tom a'Lincoln

Caelus Roman

[Coelus:=Greek Uranus:=Phoenician Baal-Samin]
the sky personified
consort of Tellus

Caena-maergha Persian

[=Hebrew Ziz]
a monstrous evil bird

Caeneus (see Caenus)Caenis (see Caenus)Caenus Greek

[Ca(e)neus.Caenis.Kaineus]
a nymph
daughter of Elatus
mother of Coronus

She was a nymph, Caenis, who persuaded Poseidon, who had raped
her, to change her into a man, Caenus, and in this form she sailed with the Argonauts and joined the hunt for the Calydonian boar. He was killed in a battle with the Centaurs at the wedding of Perithous and Hippodamia.
It was said that he was hammered into the ground by the Centaurs because he was invulnerable to weapons. His soul became a yellow-winged bird, which soared into the heavens or, in some accounts, reached the underworld, where it became female once again.

Caer Aranrhod British

the home of Aranrhod

In some accounts this palace was in Anglesey, Wales, in others it was submerged by the sea in Carmarthen Bay.

In an alternative reading, the home of lost souls, purgatory, the Corona Borealis.

Caer Bedoin British

a sacred fire kept continually alight, in Welsh lore

Caer Colur British

Caer Feddwidd in Wales, as Gloomy Castle

Caer Dathu British

in Welsh lore, the court of Math or, some say, the home of Gwyddion

- Caer Feddwid British
[Caer Colur.Caer Feddwid.Caer Golud.Caer Ochren.Caer Redryvan.Caer Rigor.Caer Sid(d).Caer Vandwy.Caer Vedwyn.Castle Perilous.Kingly Castle. King's Castle.Revolving Castle:=Irish Sid] the Welsh name for the Otherworld, Annwnfn, as 'The Court of Carousal' or 'The Court of Intoxication'
(see also Castle of Wonders)
- Caer Feddwid (see Caer Feddwid)
- Caer Gai British
the place where, in some Welsh accounts, King Arthur was raised
- Caer Golud British
Caer Feddwid in Wales, as Castle of Rides
- Caer Gwydion British
the Milky Way, regarded as the tracks left in the sky by Gwydion, in Welsh lore
- Caer Iborneith Irish
daughter of Ethal Anubhail Angus Og fell in love with her and asked her father for her hand in marriage. He could not help because she lived as a swan on a lake, Loch Beal Dragan, with 150 other swans. Angus turned himself into a swan to be with her and later they flew to the Palace of the Boyne and lived together.
- Caer Leon British
[Caer Llion.Caerleon.City of the Legion] the site of King Arthur's court, in Wales (see also Carduel)
- Caer Llion (see Caer Leon)
- Caer Llud British
[Caer L(l)undein.Lludd's Fort.Lwndrys] an early Welsh name for London
- Caer Llundein (see Caer Llud)
- Caer Llyw British
[Caer Loyw] the prison in Wales, in which Mabon was held Mabon was required to help Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen and was rescued from imprisonment by some of King Arthur's men. In some accounts it equates with the Otherworld.
- Caer Llyw, Witches of (see Witches)
- Caer Loyw (see Caer Llyw)
- Caer Lundein (see Caer Llud)
- Caer Ochren British
Caer Feddwid in Wales, as 'Castle of Shelving Side'
- Caer Pedryvan British
Caer Feddwid in Wales, as 'Four-cornered Castle' (see also Castle Carbonek)
- Caer Rigor British
Caer Feddwid, Wales, as 'Kingly Castle'
- Caer Siddi (see Caer Feddwid)
- Caer Sidi (see Caer Feddwid)
- Caer Vandwy British
Caer Feddwid in Wales, as 'Castle-on-High'
- Caer Vedwyd British
Caer Feddwid in Wales, as 'Castle of Revelry' or 'Castle of Perfect Ones'
- Caer Wydr (see Caer Wydyr)
- Caer Wydyr British
[Caer Feddwid.Caer Wydr.Fort(ress) of Glass.Glass Castle] in Welsh lore, a name for the Otherworld envisaged as a glass castle
- Caerleon (see Caer Leon)
- Caesarean birth
the delivery of a child by surgical incision
It is said that Julius Caesar was delivered by this procedure and that any child so delivered will be physically strong and will have the power of finding hidden treasure and seeing spirits.
- Caesars South American
a fabled city in Chile
This was said to be a city of gold, which will remain invisible until the end of the world.
- Caf (see Mount Qaf)
- Cafall' British
the horse of Syfwlch, in Welsh lore
- Cafall' (see Cabal)
- cafre Pacific Islands
[kafar.pugot.pugut] a monster of the Philippines
This beast is described as black, boar-like and walking on its hind legs. It is capable of appearing as a cat or a dog or even without a head.
- Cagliostro, Alexandro di Italian (1743–1795)
a Sicilian alchemist
He is said to have practised Satanism and invoked the spirits of the famous dead who took meals with him.
- Cagn (see I Kaggen.Kaang)
- Cagnazzo Italian
[Harrowhound] a demon in Dante's Inferno
- Cahair Mor Irish
a king
an ancestor of Finn mac Cool
- Cahor
a demon of deception
- Cahubaba West Indian
[Bloodied Old Woman] mother of 4 sons who stole Yaya's gourd
- Cai (see Kai.Kay)
- Caibell Irish
a king of the Otherworld
He and Etar fought a battle with the suitors for the hand of their two beautiful daughters. Caibell and both the suitors were killed.
- Caibre (see Cairbre)
- Caicai South American
a serpent deity of the Araucanians
Caicai caused the flood to wipe out all living things but Tenten raised the mountains and saved some of the people and animals.
In some accounts Caicai was the peak on which the survivors assembled when Guecubo caused a flood, and the mountains were raised by Guenu-Pillan.
- Caicias Greek
[=Roman Voltumnus] a wind from the north-east quarter
- Caicher Irish
a druid who prophesied that the Milesians would conquer Ireland
- Caier Irish
a king of Connaught
He adopted Neidhe mac Adhna as his son but the boy later satirised the king, who resigned when blisters appeared on his face. Neidhe took the throne for a while but then repented and offered the throne back to Caier. Caier died on the spot and a fragment of the stone slab on which he stood flew up and killed Neidhe.
- Caillidcheannq (see Caladin)
- Caillidin (see Calatin)
- Cailitin (see Calatin)
- Caillagh ny Groomag British [Old Gloomy Woman:=Irish Cailleach Bheur] a Manx mountain-goddess
She controls changes in the weather and is sometimes seen as a giant bird carrying sticks for the fire.
- Cailleac (see Cailleach)
- Cailleach Celtic
[Cailleac.Calliach.Carlin.Granny.Old Wife. Mala Lith] a wind demon: a hag
In some versions Cailleach is a field spirit, embodied in the last sheaf of corn at harvest time.
- Cailleach Beara (see Cailleach Bheur)
- Cailleach Bhearra (see Cailleach Bheur)
- Cailleach Bheur Celtic
[Bera.Boi.Cailleach Beara.Cailleach Bui.Cailleach Mov.Cailleach Bhearra. Caillech Bherri.Digdi.Dirri.Hag of Beara.Old Woman (of Beara).Old Woman of Dingle:=Manx Caillagh ny

Groamagh:=Scottish Muilearteach)
a mother-goddess

In Ireland she was envisaged as a triune goddess with Cailleach Bolus and Cailleach Corca Duibhne, but in other accounts is known as Cailleach Bui, wife of Lugh (see also Boi.Scota')

She lived on an island, Inis Boi, where she reared the boy Corc Duibhne and taught him the art of magic. She was the owner of a bull, Tarbh Conraidh, which was turned into a rock by Corc when it swam across a river after a cow.

In one story she challenged all-comers to a reaping contest and when she won, as she always did, she cut off her opponent's legs with her scythe. It was said that her phenomenal work-rate was due to a chafer in the handle of her reaping hook and Big Donag MacManus saved himself when he pulled off the handle, releasing the chafer which ran away.

In Scotland she was regarded as a creator-goddess, a hag with only one eye, which was set in the centre of her forehead. She carried a huge basket of the materials needed for making the earth and the hills; the Hebrides are said to be made from rocks which fell from her basket. When her son ran off with a maiden she tried to separate them by raising great storms, but when she raised one that threatened all life on earth, her son hit back and sent her packing. This ability to raise storms was an attribute of the alternative form of Cailleach Bheur as a water spirit (see Muilearteach).

Others say that she was the goddess of winter who was turned to stone at Beltane, 30 April, and reborn every Samhain, 31 October.

Cailleach Bolus Irish
one aspect of a triune goddess with Cailleach Bheur and Cailleach Corca Duibhne

Cailleach Bui (see Cailleach Bheur)
Cailleach Corca Duibhne Irish
one aspect of a triune goddess with Cailleach Bheur and Cailleach Bolus

Cailleach Mov (see Cailleach Bheur)
Cailleach Bherri (see Cailleach Bheur)
Caillich (see Cailleach)
Caillin Irish
a saint

He was fostered by Fintan and educated in Rome. On his return to Ireland he established a monastery at Fenagh, where he caused the local king, Feargna, to sink into the earth and his druids to turn into stones when they opposed him. When Feargna's ugly son Aedh Dubh helped him, the saint made him handsome.

Cailte Irish
[Caoilte mac Rona(i)n.Keelta mac Ronan.Thin Man:=Welsh Sgilti]
a warrior poet of the Fianna son of Crunncu nephew of Finn mac Cool

In some accounts he came from the realm of the dead and was credited with many fabulous feats of running. It was said that he could run faster than the March wind.

He is said to have killed Lugh in battle and he also slew Fothadh Airttheach. When Mongan's wife was forfeit to Forgall, in an argument about the place where Fothadh had been killed, Cailte arrived just in time to prove Mongan right and save his wife's honour.

He was one of the party of nine, led by Goll mac Morna, which recovered Finn's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, when they were stolen by Arthur.

When Grania demanded that Finn should get for her a male and female of each of the species of animal in Ireland, it was Cailte who rounded them up and drove them to Tara. In some accounts Cailte later gave these animals to Cormac as ransom for Finn, who was held captive by Cormac.

He was with Finn mac Cool and the party of the Fianna trapped in the Quicken Trees Hostel and later with the party that trapped Dermot and Grania in the Wood of Two Tents.

In another story he is said to have collected sand, from all the shores of Ireland, each day and taken it to the king 'quicker than a woman can change her mind'.

Some say that when his friend Oisín went off with Niam, Caite entered a sidhe and was never seen again while others say that he travelled south and met St Patrick, to whom he related the history of the Fianna.

Caim
a demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
This demon, which appears in the form of a thrush, can teach any language, including the language of the birds.

Caimin Irish
a saint

As a result of ill-treatment by Guaire, he fasted against the king. Guaire made amends by a wish that filled the saint's chapel with treasure, which he distributed to the poor.

Caina European
the first zone of the ninth circle of Dante's hell

This zone is reserved for those who have betrayed their own kin.

Caince Irish
a Fianna warrior
brother of Raighne

He was one of the party of nine, led by Goll mac Murna, which recovered Finn mac Cool's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, when they were stolen by Arthur.

Cainneach Irish
[Cainnech.Canice.Kenneth.Kenny]
(c. 525–600)
a saint
son of Laidheach

He started life as a cowherd but was later ordained as a priest. When Colman Beag carried off a nun, the saint appeared in a fiery chariot and Colman surrendered and repented.

In one story he saved the king of Osraige when he was trapped in a burning castle, and in another saved a boy, Dalua, who was being speared by a group of Leinstermen.

He was said to have restored a dead girl to life after she and her mother were trapped in the snow. He also had power over animals, banishing from his cell the mice that gnawed his shoes and telling the birds to be silent on the Sabbath.

Cainnech (see Cainneach)
Cain's Hunt (see Wild Hunt)
Caintigern (see Cantigern)
Caintigerna (see Cantigern)
Caipora South American

a huge evil spirit of the Amazon
American Indian tribes

Caipre (see Cairbre)
Caipre mac Eataine
(see Cairbre mac Eadoine)

Cairbre<sup>1</sup> Irish [Cairbe.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.Coirbre.
Coirpre]

a warrior of the Fianna
Foolishly, he slept with a woman who, at that time, was Finn mac Cool's lover. He killed the jester Domhna, who gave him away to Finn, and was himself killed by Finn.

Cairbre<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.Coirbre.
Coirpre]

son of Ailill and Maev

He was one of seven sons all known as Maine.

Cairbre<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre. Coirbre.
Coirpre]

son of Lugaid Luaighne
father of Deadhadh and Duach

Cairbre<sup>4</sup> Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.
Coirbre.Coirpre]

son of Niall
brother of Conall Gulban, Eanna, Eoghan and Laoghaire

Cairbre Caitcheann Irish [Caire.Caipre.Cairbre.Catutchen.

Cairbri.Carpre.Cathead.Coirbre. Coirpre] a usurper
father of Morann

He had his son, Morann, thrown into the sea as a baby but the boy was rescued and reared by Maon the smith, who later sold the child back to his father.

He and two others, Buan and Monad, proposed a feast to which they invited all the local chieftains and nobles, whom they then killed, and Cairbre took over the throne of Tara.

He was said to have the ears of a cat.
Cairbre Catutchen

(see Cairbre Caitcheann)

Cairbre Cluitheachar Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.
Coirbre.Coirpre]

son of Cu Chorb
brother of Cormac Lusc, Meas Corb and Nia Corb

Cairbre Crom Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.
Coirbre.Coirpre]

a king of Meath

Cairbre Lifeachair Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.
Coirbre.Coirpre.Liffechair]

a high-king of Ireland
son of Cormac mac Airt and Eithne brother of Ailb(h)e and Grania father of Fiachu and Sgeimh Solais

As a child he was given to Manannan together with his sister and mother, but all were later returned to Tara.

He tried to collect the boramha from Leinster but was defeated by Breasal and Finn mac Cool.

To destroy the power of the Fianna, he provoked a conflict and was killed at the Battle of Gabhra by Oscar, their leader, who was wounded and later died.

Cairbre mac Eadoine Irish

[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Caipre mac Etaine.Carpre.Coirbre.Coirpre]

bard of the Danaans

son of Ogma and Eadaoin

To avenge a slight by Bres he composed a biting satire that caused the king's face to come out in blotches, one of the reasons why he abdicated in favour of the restored Nuada.

Cairbre Musc Irish
[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre.
Coirbre.Caipre]

one of the 3 sons of Conaire and Sarait, all known as Cairbre

brother of Duibhind

When Neimheadh killed their father, the three brothers attacked Munster with the help of their uncle Art. They defeated Neimheadh, who was killed by Cairbre Musc.

He was said to have fathered twin boys, one of whom was Corc Duibhne, on his own sister, Duibhind.

Cairbre Nia Fear Irish

[Caire.Caipre.Cairbri.Carpre. Coirbre.
Cairpre.Niaper]

a king of Tara

father of Earc

He was killed by Cuchulainn in a battle with the forces of Ulster, led by Conor mac Nessa.

Cairbri (see Cairbre)

Caireall (see Cairell.Carell)

Caireann (see Carenn)

Cairell Irish

[Caireall]

son of Finn mac Cool

He was killed by Goll mac Morna when he denied Goll the champion's portion at a feast.

Caireann (see Carenn)

Cairenn (see Carenn)

Cairima (see Salm)

Cairneach Irish

[=British Carranog]

a cleric

He travelled with his cousin Muirchertach when he returned to Ireland from Scotland.

Cairpre (see Cairbre)

Cairpre Niaper (see Cairbre Nia Fear)

Cairus (see Kairos)

Cais Mesopotamian

an early Semitic god

Caissa Greek

a minor goddess

Caistus Greek

son of Achilles by Penthesilea, in some accounts

Cait Sith British

[=Irish Cath Sith]

a Scottish witch or fairy in the form of a cat

Caitbreim Conghail Clairingnigh Irish

a story in which it is asserted that

King Arthur was the father of Art Aoinfheoar

Caitlin Og Irish
daughter of a wise woman

When Cliona carried off Sean mac Semais, who had fallen dead at their engagement party, Caitlin recited poetry outside Cliona's dwelling and demanded a large dowry, thereby securing his release.

caitya (see stupa)

Calixa Central American

[Brilliant Water.Water of Parrots]

a woman created by the gods as a wife for Iqi Balam

cakra (see chakra)

Cakrasamvara (see Chakrasamvara)

Cakravartin (see Chakavartin)

Cakresvari Jain

a goddess of learning, a messenger-goddess

one of 12 vidyadevi

one of 24 Sasanadevatas

Cakulha-Hurukan Central American

[Lightning]

an assistant to Hurukan, the wind-god

Cala-Paluma Central American

[Falling Water]

a woman created by the gods as a wife

for Balam Quitze

calabtun Central American

a period in the Mayan time scale of some 160,000 years

Caladbolg Irish

[=Welsh Caledfwlch]

a sword used by various heroes,

including Cuchulainn

(see also Caladcholg)

Caladcholg Irish

the sword of Fergus mac Roth

(see also Caladbolg)

Caladfwlch (see Caladcholg.Caledfwlch)

Caladin Irish

[(Cruaidin) Cailidcheann]

the sword of Cuchulainn

caladrius

a white bird said to be able to cure the sick by taking the illness upon itself

Caladviolch (see Caledfwlch)

Calainos European

a Saracen

The maiden Calainos wanted to marry agreed to his proposal on condition that he brought her the heads of Oliver, Rinaldo and Roland. He was soon defeated by Roland.

Calais Greek [Kalais]

son of Boreas and Oreithya brother of Chione and Cleopatra twin brother of Zetes
one of the Argonauts

These twins, who had wings, sailed with the Argonauts and chased off the Harpies harassing King Phineus when the Argo called en route to Colchis. It had been decreed that they must catch whatever they pursued and, because they failed to catch the Harpies, they died.

Other accounts say that their sister Cleopatra had been imprisoned by her husband, Phineus. Calais and his brother Zetes freed Cleopatra and put her sons on the throne of Salmydessus in place of Phineus.

In some accounts, both the brothers were killed by Heracles because they persuaded the Argonauts to sail on without him while he was searching for Hylas.

Calakomanas North American
2 corn-goddesses of the Pueblo tribes

Calan Awst British [Gwyl Awst]
the Welsh version of Lugnasad

Calan Gaef British
[Nos Galan-Gaef=Irish Samain Feis]
the Welsh version of Samhain, the Celtic festival of the New Year

Calan Mai British [Galan Mai]
the Welsh version of Beltane, the Celtic spring festival

Calatin Irish [Cailidin.Cailitin.Calatine]
a Fomoiré druid

All the members of his clan had either one hand or one foot, and the women could change their shape.

He was sent by Maev to put a spell on Cuchulainn during the Cattle Raid of Cooley and to harass the forces of Ulster. He sent his twenty-seven sons and a nephew, all looking exactly like Calatin, to attack Cuchulainn but he, with the help of Fiacha mac Fir Feibhe, killed them all. He sent three one-eyed witch-daughters to harass Cuchulainn in the final battle, and when he was killed Conal Cearnach cut off the heads of all three.

In some accounts he, rather than Lugaid, threw the spear that killed Cuchulainn.

Calatine (see Calatin)
Calaus Phrygian

father of Attis, some say

Calcabrina European [Hacklespin]
a demon in Dante's Inferno

Calchas Greek [Kalchas.Kalkhas]
a prophet and a priest of Apollo at Aulis son of Thestor

He decreed that Iphigenia should be sacrificed to ensure favourable winds for the expedition to Troy to recover Helen.

He was with the Greeks at the siege of Troy and afterwards entered into a contest of prophecy with Mopsus. When he lost, he died of grief.

In one version of the story of Troilus and Cressida, the author makes Calchas a Trojan, father of Cressida, who defects to the Greeks.

In other accounts he died of laughter when he was told that he would not live to enjoy the wine from his vineyard.

Cale<sup>1</sup> Greek [Kale]
one of the Graces, in some accounts

Cale<sup>2</sup> Greek [Neraida]
daughter of Alexander the Great

She drank the water from a stream that gave her immortality, and was exiled by her father who was jealous. Thereafter she was known as Neraida.

Caleburn (see Caledfwlch)
Caledfwlch British

[Caladfwlch.Caladviolch.Caleburn.
Caledfwlch.Caliburn(ius)=-Irish Caladbolg]
the Welsh name for King Arthur's sword, Excalibur

Caledon Wood British [Calydon Wood.Celidon Wood.
Celyddon Wood.Kelyddon Wood]
the site of one of King Arthur's battles

This forest area may be in southern Scotland or near Lincoln.

Caledvwllch (see Caledfwlch) Caliban British

son of a demon and a witch in Shakespeare's The Tempest

Caliburn (see Caledfwlch)

Caliburnius (see Caledfwlch)

Caliburnus (see Caledfwlch)

Calico Bag Monk

(see Pu Tai Ho-shang)

Calico Bag Zen Master

(see Pu Tai Ho-shang)

Calidore British [Callidore]

a knight at King Arthur's court
In Spenser's The Faerie Queene, he captured the Blatant Beast and carried it off to fairyland from where it later escaped.

Caligorant European
an Egyptian giant in Orlando Furioso

Caligula Roman [Gaius Caesar]
emperor of Rome
son of Germanicus and Agrippina
brother of Drusilla

He was said to have had incestuous relations with his sister and deified her when she died.

Calin British
a Frisian king

Calinin British
son of Guiron by Bloie

Call British
the horse of Bwlch, in Welsh lore

Calli Central American
the third of the 20 days in the Aztec month

Symbolising west and the temple, the day was governed by Tepeyollotl.

callicantzari (see satyr<sup>2</sup>)
Callidice Greek

Queen of Thesprotia
Odysseus travelled to Thesprotia after returning from his wanderings and married Callidice, fathering Polypoetes. When she died, Odysseus returned to Penelope and left his son as king of Thesprotia.

Callidore (see Calidore)
Callileon Greek

son of Thyestes
brother of Aglaos and Orchomenus
He and his brothers were killed by their uncle, Atreus, cut up, boiled and served up as a meal to their own father.

Calling God (see Hashje-Oyan)
Calliope<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kalliope]
one of the 9 Muses: epic poetry daughter of Zeus and Mnemosyne mother of Orpheus by Oeagrus or Apollo

mother of Linus by Apollo
She judged the dispute between Aphrodite and Persephone for the favours of Adonis, allocating each one a third of each year.

Calliope<sup>2</sup> Greek
one of the 9 daughters of Pierus (see Pierides<sup>1</sup>)

Callipolis Greek
one of the party hunting the Calydonian boar

He took the news to Alcathous that his son had been killed in the hunt. Alcathous struck him with a piece of firewood and killed him.

Callipyges (see Kallipyges)

Callirhoe (see Callirrhoe)

Callirrhoe<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Callirhoe.Kallir(r)hoe]
a nymph, one of the Oceanids
daughter of Oceanus
wife of Chrysaor
mother of Geryon

Some say Callirrhoe and Chrysaor were the parents of Echidna.

Callirrhoe<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Callirhoe. Kallir(r)hoe]
daughter of Achelous
wife of Alcmaeon

mother of Acarnan and Amphoterus
When Alcmaeon was murdered by Phegeus and his sons, Zeus answered her prayers that her sons might become men in one day. They avenged their father, killing Phegeus and his sons.

Callirrhoe<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Callirhoe. Kallir(r)hoe] daughter of Scamander wife of Tros
mother of Assaracus, Ganymede and Ilus

Callirrhoe<sup>4</sup> Greek
[Callirhoe. Kallir(r)hoe]
a Calydonian maiden

She was loved in vain by Coresus, who when ordered to sacrifice Callirrhoe to Dionysus stabbed himself instead. Callirrhoe was so overcome with remorse that she also stabbed herself to death.

Callirrhoe<sup>5</sup> Greek [Callirhoe.Callithyia. Kallir(r)hoe] an early name for Io

Calliste Greek
an island

This island was said to have grown from a clod of earth dropped into the sea by Euphemus. It was later known as Thera.

Callisto Greek [Artemis.Calliste.Kallisto]
a nymph
daughter of Lycaon and Nonaeris

mother of Arcas by Zeus Zeus, having seduced Callisto, changed her into a bear to deceive Hera who, jealous as usual, had the bear hunted by the hounds of Artemis. Another version says that Hera herself changed Callisto into a bear. Zeus placed her in the heavens as the Great Bear and her son Arcas as the Little Bear. Some say that she was hunted and killed by Arcas.

Callithyia (see Callirrhoe<sup>5</sup>)

callitric African

an Ethiopian bearded man-goat

Callone Greek

beauty personified

Calluntaria Greek

a festival in honour of Athena during which statues of the goddess were washed and adorned

(see also Plynteria)

Calogrenant (see Colgrevaunce)

Caloian (see Kalojan)

calpa (see kalpa<sup>1</sup>)

Calpait Irish

a druid
brother of Maol

He and his brother were tutors to Ethne and Fedelma, the daughters of Laoghaire mac Grimthann.

Calpe Greek

one of the Pillars of Hercules, the present-day Rock of Gibraltar

In some accounts this rock and Abyla, opposite, were originally one mountain. Hercules tore the rock into two pieces and placed them in their present positions. (see Abyla)

Calpurnius Irish

a deacon
father of Patrick by Concess, some say

calumet North American

a sacred pipe, smoked as a sign of friendship
the ceremony of smoking the peace-pipe, Hobowakan

When some of the northern tribes planned to attack the Delaware tribe, a bird sent by the Great Spirit told them to smoke the pipe of peace with their enemies and swear eternal friendship.

Calus (see Talos<sup>1</sup>)

Calybe Greek

a nymph

Calyce Greek

daughter of Aeolus and Enarete
mother of Endymion by Acthius mother of Cynus by Poseidon

Calydon<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Aetolus
brother of Pleuron

Calydon<sup>2</sup> (see Caledon Wood)

Calydonian boar Greek

[Kalydonian Boar]
a wild boar

This huge animal was sent by Artemis to ravage Calydon as punishment when King Oeneus overlooked a sacrifice due to her. It was killed by Meleager who was one of a large party of hunters, and its skin was presented to Atalanta who had first wounded it.

Calygreyhound

a monster in the form of a horned cat

Calypso Greek

[Kalupso.Kalypso]
a sea-goddess, goddess of silence
one of the Oceanids daughter of Atlas, Neleus or Oceanus

mother of Nausinous and Nausithous by Odysseus, some say mother of Auson by Atlas or Odysseus, some say

She sometimes acted as messenger of the gods. She saved Odysseus when his ship, homeward bound from the siege of Troy, was wrecked on her island, Ogygia, and kept him virtually captive for seven years until the gods made her release him to continue his homeward journey.

When his son Telemachus came to Ogygia in search of his father, Calypso tried unsuccessfully to keep him as her lover.

Cam-srin Tibetan

[=Hindu Karttikeya:=Sanskrit Beg-Tse]
a Buddhist god of war

Cama (see Kama<sup>1</sup>)

Camaalis British

a king said, in some accounts, to be the eponym of Camelot

Camal British

a suitor for the hand of Hermondine
He was killed by Meliador who eventually married Hermondine.

Camalo German

a soldier at Gunther's court

He was one of the party sent to kill Walther and Hildegard but was himself killed by Walther.

Camalotz (see Camazotz)

Camaralzaman Persian

a prince in the Arabian Nights story of The Adventures of Prince Camaralzaman and Badoura

Camaxtli Central American

[Mixcoatl-Camaxtli.Yoamaxtli]

an Aztec war-god
son of Tonacatecuhtli and Tonacacihuatl, some say brother of Huitzilopochtli, Quetzalcoatl and Tezcatlipoca

father of Quetzalcoatl, some say
He is regarded by some as an aspect of Xipetotec.

(see also Mixcoatl-Camaxtli, Tezcatlipoca)

Camaysar

a demon

Camazotz<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Camalotz.Camulatz.Zotz(ilaha

Chimalman).Death Bat]

a Mayan bat-god in Xibalba

He used his claws to cut off the head of Hunapu, but the hero was restored to life by a tortoise and Camazotz was defeated.

Camazotz<sup>2</sup> Central American

[Camalotz.Camulatz]

a huge bird

In one of their early attempts to create human beings, the Mayan gods Tēpeu and Gucamatz carved them from wood. When they proved unsuccessful, they sent four huge birds to destroy their creation. The others were known as Cotzbalam, Tecumbalam and Xecotcovach.

Cambaeth (see Kimbay)

Cambalo British

the Chaucerian version of Cambel

Cambano Hindu

one of the 9 nathas

Cambel British

[Cambalo]

son of Cambuscan and Elfeta

brother of Algarsife and Canace

In Spenser's The Faerie Queene, he was the owner of a magic ring that could heal wounds.

Cambenoyt (see Castle Carbonek)

Camber British

[Kamber]

king of Cambria

son of Brutus

brother of Albanact and Loctrinus

On the death of their father, he and his brothers Albanact and Loctrinus shared the kingdom and ruled peacefully. When Humbert invaded from Germany and killed Albanact, Camber joined forces with Loctrinus to defeat the invaders.

cambion

[campion]

a child born of a liaison between an incubus or a succubus and a human

Cambria British

the old name for Wales

Cambuscan British

king of Sarras

owner of the Brazen Horse

husband of Elfeta

father of Algarsife, Cambalo and Canace
He could direct the horse by moving a wooden pin in one of the animal's ears.

He owned a mirror, sent by the King of Arabia, which gave him warning of any ill fortune.

Cambyses Greek

a king of Persia

He was at war with Egypt. Because the king of Egypt had offended Polycrates, the tyrant sent a fleet to help Cambyses, but the men deserted and went to Greece where they helped Sparta against their own ruler.

Cambyses slew the bull Apis and went mad as a result.

Cameira Greek

daughter of Danae

Cameirus Greek

[Camirus]

son of Helius and Rhodes

son of Cercaphus, some say brother of Ialysus and Lindus

Cameliard British

[Camylarde.Carmalide]

in Welsh lore, the kingdom ruled

by Leodegrance

This was the home of Guinevere before her marriage to King Arthur.

camelopardel

a monster giraffe with horns

Camelot British

the site of King Arthur's court

It has been variously identified as Cadbury Castle, Caerleon, Camelford, Greenan Castle and Winchester. The castle, which held the Round Table, was destroyed by Mark after the death of King Arthur.

Some say it was named after the early king, Camaalis.

Camenae Roman

[Kamenae]

water nymphs

These deities, led by Carmenta, were originally the Roman goddesses of good health, springs and wells, who could foretell the future and were identified with the Greek Muses.

Camilla Roman

a Volscian princess daughter of Metabus

It was said that she could run on growing corn without bending it, or on water without wetting her feet.

Her father, fleeing from the troops of his own country, tied the baby Camilla to his spear and threw her across the River Amasenus and then swam across to retrieve her.

She joined the Latins and Rutulians

in the fight against the Trojans in Italy under Aeneas, and was killed by Arruns.

Camille<sup>1</sup> British

a sorceress

She fell in love with King Arthur and captured him, together with Galahaut, Gawain and Lancelot. She released Lancelot when he went mad, but he was cured by Nimue and rescued the other three. When she lost Arthur, Camille killed herself.

A similar story is told of Annowre.

Camille<sup>2</sup> British

daughter of Orcant

wife of Petrus

She met Petrus when he went to Orkney to convert the inhabitants, and married him.

Camillus (see Hermes)

Camirus (see Cameirus)

Camise Roman

wife of Janus

mother of Tiberius

Other versions give Jana as the wife of Janus.

Camlan (see Battle of Camlan)

Camluan (see Battle of Camlan)

Camp chipmunk North American

a fabulous animal

Campaspe Greek

a concubine of Alexander the Great

She was given to Apelles who fell in love with her when he was sculpting her likeness.

Campe Greek

[Kampe]

a female guardian in Tartarus

She was killed by Zeus when he released the Cyclopes and the hundred-handed giants, though others say that she had disappeared when Zeus arrived on the scene.

Campeador Spanish

['champion']

a title of El Cid

Campestres Roman

Celtic guardian spirits of military matters

campion (see cambion)

Campus Martius Roman

[Field of Mars]

the training ground, near Rome,

for young soldiers, devotees of Mars

Camrosh Persian

a fabulous bird

This bird collects the seeds that fall from the goakerena tree and takes them to Tistrya, who mixes them with the rain that falls on the earth. If Iranians are attacked by outsiders, Camosh, sent by Berejya, saves them by picking up the attackers like seed.

Camthann Irish
a king of Fresen

He raided Ireland and carried off Li Ban, wife of Tadhg mac Cein, and his two brothers, Airnealach and Eoghan. He was killed by Tadhg who conquered Fresen and rescued his family.

Camu South American

[=Arawak Kamu:=Carib

Tamu:=Paraguayan Zume]

a culture hero of the Arovac Indians

Camuel
a benevolent demon, a king of the east

Camulatz (see Camazotz)

Camulodunum British

the fort of the war-god Camulos

Some accounts identify the site as Colchester.

Camulos<sup>1</sup> British

[Camulus.Cole:=Roman Mars]

a war-god

Camulos<sup>2</sup> Irish

[=Roman Mars]

a war-god

a king of the Danaans

Some say that he is the same as Cumail, father of Finn mac Cool and Coel, king of Britain.

Camulus (see Camulos<sup>1</sup>)

Camunda Hindu

[Chamunda.Krsodari.Yami]

a three-eyed goddess, a form of Durga

one of the astamataras

one of the saptamataras

She was opposed by the demon Paisunya and killed the demons Camda and Munda. She is depicted as standing on an owl, a lion and a corpse wearing the skin of an elephant.

Camylarde (see Cameliard)

Can (see Kan<sup>1,2,3</sup>)

Can Nü (see Ts'an Nü)

Can Tzicnal
(see Kan Tzicnal.Mulac)

can-wakan North American

in the lore of the Sioux, a sacred tree

Canace<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of Cambuscan and Elfeta

sister of Algarsife and Cambel

wife of Triamond

Canace<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Canache]

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Canace, tore him to pieces.

Canace<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Canache]

daughter of Aeolus and Enarete

sister of Macareus

In some stories she is the mother, by Poseidon, of Triopas and the twin giants Ephialtes and Otus; in others she is the mother of Issa by her own brother, Macareus.

Some say that she was killed by her father, others that she died by her own hand as a result of her incest.

Canacee (see Canace<sup>1</sup>)

Canache (see Canace<sup>2,3</sup>)

Canainaut Siberian

a goddess

daughter of Quikinna'qu and

Miti

Canair Irish

a holy woman

By walking on top of the sea to Scatterry Island she was able to persuade St Seanan to allow women to join his community.

Canan British

father of Lac

brother of Dirac

Canathus Greek

a spring

Hera renewed her virginity once a year by bathing in this spring.

cancer<sup>1</sup> Chaldaean

[Gate of Men]

the entrance through which, it was said, men first came to earth

(see also Capricorn<sup>1</sup>)

Cancer<sup>2</sup> Greek

[crab]

a huge crab

When Heracles fought the Hydra, Hera sent this creature to help the monster. It snapped at Heracles' heels and paid with its life. The crab was placed in the heavens as the Crab constellation.

Cancer<sup>3</sup>

[=Arab Saratan]

the fourth sign of the Zodiac, the crab

Canda<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Candanayika.Candarupa.Candavati.

Chanda.Chandi(ka)]

a name for Devi as the killer of Mahisha

an aspect of Kali (see also Mahadevi.

Mahishasuramardini)

Canda<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Chanda]

a demon killed by Camunda

Candace Greek

the name of several legendary queens of Ethiopia

Candaces British

a king of Lyonesse

son of Apollo by Gloriande

Candali Tibetan

a Buddhist-Lamaist goddess

one of 8 gauris

Candamaharosana (see Candarosana)

Candamius Roman

a sky-god in Spain

Candanayika (see Canda<sup>1</sup>)

Candaon (see Orion)

Candarosana Buddhist

[Candamaharosana]

an unruly god

a form of Akshobhya

He is depicted with tusks set in a wide mouth, and with a squint. He wears a tiger skin and holds a white snake.

Some accounts equate him with Acala.

Candarupa (see Canda<sup>1</sup>)

Candaules Greek

a king of Lydia

When he forced his wife to appear naked in front of Gyges, he was killed by Gyges at the behest of the king's wife, who then married Gyges.

Candavati (see Canda<sup>1</sup>)

Candelifera Roman

a goddess of birth

Candesvara<sup>1</sup> Hindu

an aspect of Shiva

Candesvara<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a former cowherd, attendant on Shiva

Candesvari Buddhist

a minor goddess

She is depicted as standing on a corpse.

Candika (see Narasinh)

Candogra Hindu

a form of Durga

one of the 9 navadurgas

Candra<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a moon-god

candra<sup>2</sup> Hindu

in Tantric lore, a part of the body that produces the nectar of immortal life

candra<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a cup used to contain soma at sacrificial ceremonies

Candra<sup>4</sup> (see Chandra.Cunda)

Candramas (see Chandra)

Candramus (see Chandra)

Candraskhara Hindu

a form of Shiva

Canek Central American

a Chichen king

He fell in love with a princess and when she married another led his army against his rival and carried off his loved one. Fearing the greater power of his rival, he and most of his people left the country.

Canens Roman

[Canentes.Salacia.Venilia]
a river nymph
daughter of Janus by Venilia

She was betrothed to Picus but lost him when the nymph Circe fell in love with him. He rejected Circe's advances so she turned him into a woodpecker. Canens died of grief, only her voice surviving as in the story of Echo.

In some accounts she is called Venilia, in others she is the same as Salacia.

Canentes (see Canens)

Canephorae Greek

[Kanephorai]
young maidens taking part in the festival of Panathenea

They carried on their heads the sacred baskets containing materials for sacrifice. They sometimes appeared in other festivals.

Caeneus (see Caeneus)

Cang (see Kaang)

Canhastyr British

[Hundredhands]
in Welsh lore, owner of the dog collar that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get as part of his quest for Olwen's hand

Caince (see Cainneach)

Canicuba South American

in Columbian lore, evil personified

Canidia Roman

a witch who cast spells using wax dolls

Canis Minor (see Maera)

Cankilikkaruppan Indian

a local god of the Tamils

cannabis Hindu

a plant regarded as sacred since it was brought by Shiva

cannered noz French

spirits in Brittany, said to wash their clothes in the rivers at night

Cannibal Mother North American

a man-eating monster

This demon appears in the lore of several tribes and is known as Baxbakualanuchsiwae or Tsonqua.

Cannibals African

shape-changing non-humans who eat human flesh

It is said that some of these beings have long thumb-nails with which they cut off pieces of flesh, others have an extra mouth on the end of a tail. In some cases they appear as handsome youths who lure girls away from their homes and then eat their victims.

Cano Irish

a king of Ulster

He was killed by Conall Gulban who, with his brothers, led a force from Connaught at the Battle of Ath Cro.

Cano mac Gartnain Irish

son of Gartnain, king of Scotland

When his father was killed by Aodan, Cano escaped to Ireland where he was sheltered by the joint-kings Diarmaid and Blathmac, or some say by Marcan, and became a friend of King Iollann. He later returned to Ireland with an army to avenge the death of Iollann who had been murdered.

He fell in love with Cred, an Irish princess, the wife of Marcan, and when he returned to Scotland he left with her a stone that held his life. Several attempts to meet Cred were thwarted by her stepson Colcu; when he arranged to meet her at a loch he was late and Cred, in her anxiety, dropped the stone, which shattered. He died a few days later.

Canobie Dick British

horse dealer

He is reputed to have seen the knights of King Arthur sleeping in a cave, awaiting their recall.

canoe gods Pacific Islands

wooden figures of deities such as

Taria Niu carried in canoes to bring good luck

Canola Irish

wife of the man who invented the Irish harp

She ran away from her husband who later found her on the shore near the skeleton of a whale. He used the whale's sinews as the strings of the harp, and he and Canola were reconciled.

Canopic Jar (see Canopus<sup>2</sup>)

Canopus<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Shou Shen]

the star in Argo, regarded as the god of longevity

He is sometimes depicted as riding on a stag and may carry the fruit of the P'an-t'ao tree. (see also Shou Shen)

Canopus<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

[Canopic Jar]

a large vase with a lid shaped like a human head, used to store the organs and entrails of the dead when embalmed

The liver was protected by Amset, the lungs by Hapy, the stomach by Tuamutef and the intestines by Qebsehsenuf.

Canopus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Kanopas]

pilot of Menelaus' ship

He was said to have been worshipped in the form of a large jar with a swollen body.

canopy Chinese

one of the Eight Precious Things, representing the lungs of the Buddha

Canor British

a king of Cornwall

As a result of help given by the Irish king, Gonosor, during the reign of Canor, Cornwall was required to pay an annual tribute to Ireland until Tristram killed Morholt.

Canthus Greek

one of the Argonauts

During the enforced stay in Libya he and Eribotes were killed by Caphaurus, a shepherd, when they tried to steal some of his flock.

Cantigern Irish

[Caintigern(a).Caointighearn]

wife of Fiachna mac Lurgan

In some accounts she was the mother of Mongan hy Manannan.

When she was poisoned by one of her maids, St Congall returned her to life.

Cantre'r Gwaelod British

[Gwaelod.Lowland Cantref.Lowland

Hundred.MaesGwynnod:=French Ker-Is]

the Welsh name for a lost island,

perhaps the island of Lyonesse

Cantulkiku Central American

a Mayan deity

Having caused the sky to fall at the time of the flood, Cantulkiku sent Kanzibyui down to earth to put it back in order and make it fit for men to live in.

Cao-bien Annamese

a general deified as a guardian-god after his death

Cao Dai Vietnamese

the supreme deity

Caoilte (see Cailte)

Caoimhghin<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Coemgen.Kevin]

a saint

It was said that, when he was baptised, twelve angels hovered over his head. One angel told him to become a priest, and he lived the life of an ascetic, starving almost to death. When a cow licked his feet its milk yield increased enormously and the grateful farmer gave the saint food and helped him to build a monastery at Glendalough.

Because the larks roused the workers too early, the saint ordained that they should never sing near Glendalough.

Caomhghin<sup>2</sup> Irish [Coemgen. Kevin]
husband of Mis

Caoince Irish
son of Finn mac Cool

Caoinchomhrac Irish
a bishop

A stranger told the bishop that the piglet he had just roasted was the stranger's son who had been a monk. Thereafter, the bishop made many visits to the home of the stranger who lived in an underground monastery.

caoineag British [=Welsh cyhyreath]
the Scottish version of the Irish banshee

Caioith Irish
an ancient god

Caointighearn (see Cantigern)

Caol Irish
a pupil of Finn mac Cool

The last Norse survivor of the Battle of Fionn's Strand tried to escape by sea but Caol pursued him and they both drowned as they fought in the water.

Caol an Iarainn Irish
a great runner from overseas

He challenged the Fianna to a race for the control of all Ireland. A clumsy churl persuaded Finn mac Cool that he was the only man capable of defeating Caol. He not only beat him but when Caol threatened him with a sword, knocked off his head and replaced it facing backwards. The churl turned out to be Manannan.

Caolcharna Irish
husband of Lasair
father of St Feichin

Caomhall Irish
wife of Caomhluigh mother of Caoimhghin

Caomhluigh Irish
husband of Caomhall
father of Caoimhghin

Caon Irish
daughter of Finn mac Cool

caorthann Irish
the rowan or quicken tree, said to have magical properties

Cap of Hades
(see Helmet of Invisibility)

Cap of Invisibility (see Tarnkappe)

capa Buddhist a bow used in rites designed to ward off evil spirits (see also sara)

Capac South American
a Peruvian hero or sun-god
Capac was the leader of a force of Chimu that conquered the territory previously ruled by Fempellec.

Capac Raymi South American
a feast in honour of Pachacamac held at the summer solstice

Capac Situa South American [Coya Raymi. Moon Feast]
a festival held in September to celebrate the onset of the rainy season

capacocha South American
among the Aztecs, a (symbolic) child sacrifice

Capalu French
[Chapalu. Demon Cat of Losanne]
the French name for Palug's Cat
In this version it was King Arthur, not the beast, who was killed after fighting in a swamp. It was said that the beast then came to Britain and became king.

Capaneus Greek [Kapaneus]
one of the Seven against Thebes
son of Hipponous and Astynome husband of Evadne
father of Sthenelus

He was the first man to scale the walls in the attack on Thebes, where he faced Polyphontes at the Electrion Gate, and was struck dead by a thunderbolt hurled by Zeus. When Capaneus challenged the god, not even Zeus could prevent him from entering Thebes. His wife flung herself on his funeral pyre and died with him.

In some accounts, he was resurrected by Asclepius.

Cape Taenarum Greek
[Cape Taenarus. Taenarum]
the site of one entrance to the underworld

Ca'peen (see Ca-peen)

Capella (see Iku<sup>2</sup>)

Capelthwaite British
in English lore, a being said to appear in the form of any quadruped, often a large black dog

Capet, Hugh European
a king of France
He was ruling France when Ogier returned after his long stay in Morgana's palace.

Capetus Roman
a king of Alba Longa
father of Tiberinus, some say

Caphaurus Greek
a shepherd

son of Tritonis by Amphithemis
brother of Nausamon

When the Argonauts were forced ashore in Libya, Caphaurus caught Canthus and Eribotes trying to steal some of his flock and killed them. The Argonauts killed him to avenge their death.

Capheira Greek
a nymph, one of the Oceanids

Capita (see Minerva)

Capitol Roman
the temple of Jupiter

Capitolinus (see Manlius)

capnomancy
divination from (patterns in) smoke

Capricorn<sup>1</sup> Chaldaean
[Gate of the Gods]
the entrance through which souls were said to reach heaven (see also Cancer<sup>1</sup>)

Capricorn<sup>2</sup> Greek
a goat

Some say that Amalthea, the goat that suckled Zeus as a child, was placed in the sky as the constellation Capricorn. Others say that Capricorn was Pan.

Capricorn<sup>3</sup>
[=Arab Jadi]
the tenth sign of the Zodiac, the goat

Capricorn<sup>4</sup> (see Pan)

Capritona (see Juno<sup>1</sup>)

Capta (see Minerva)

Captiel
an astral spirit

captromancy
divination using mirrors

Caput Draconis (see Lo-hou)

Capys<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Assaracus husband of Themiste

father of Anchises

Capys<sup>2</sup> Greek
a friend of Aeneas

He advised the Trojans not to take the Wooden Horse into the city but to destroy it. He went to Italy with the band of Trojans under Aeneas and is regarded as the founder of Capua.

Capys<sup>3</sup> Roman
a king of Alba Longa

Capys, Prophecy of (see Prophecy of Capys)

Car<sup>1</sup> Greek a king of Megara
son of Phoroneus and Cerdo

Car<sup>2</sup> Roman
a god

Some say he invented the art of augury.

Carabia (see Decarabia)

Caractacus<sup>1</sup> British

[Caradoc.Caratacus]

a king of Britain

son of Cunobelius

brother of Togodumnas

father of Claudia, some say

He led a rebellion against the Romans, was captured and sent to Rome. He is sometimes equated with Caradoc, son of Bran.

Caractacus<sup>2</sup> (see Caradoc<sup>1</sup>)

Caraculianambo European

a giant in the story of Don Quixote

Caradawc (see Caradoc<sup>1</sup>)

Caradawg (see Caradoc<sup>1</sup>)

Caradoc<sup>1</sup> British

[Cara(c)tacus.Cradoc.Kradoc.=Welsh

C(a)radawc.C(a)radawg.Karadawc.

K(a)radoc]

son of Bran

father of Eudaf

He owned a herd of 21,000 cattle. He was left in charge of Britain when Bran went off to Ireland to rescue his sister, Branwen. Caswallawn took advantage of the king's absence to stage a coup. Caradoc died of shock and Caswallawn took over as king.

Some say that he was killed by Griffith who then took the throne.

In some accounts he is equated with Caractacus, a tribal king who, some say, was the same as Arviragus or King Arthur.

Caradoc<sup>2</sup> British

king of Vannes

husband of Ysenne

His wife had an affair with the wizard Eliaures and bore him a son, also Caradoc. In revenge, he put a spell on Eliaures causing him to mate with a bitch, a mare and a sow.

Caradoc Briefbras British

[Caradoc Vreichvras]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Eliaures by Ysenne

brother of Meuric, some say husband of Guimer

He did not know who his father was until he went to King Arthur's court to be knighted. There, an unknown knight challenged the assembly to a beheading contest, which only Caradoc would accept. He decapitated the stranger who replaced his head and left. At the return match, a year later, the stranger spared Caradoc and revealed himself as his father, Eliaures.

Later a witch persuaded Eliaures, who was a magician, to cause a snake to attach itself to Caradoc's arm, sucking his blood. His friend Cador saved his life by putting his sister Guimer in a vat of milk and Caradoc in a vat of sour wine. This induced the snake to cross from one vat to the other, giving Cador the chance to kill it with his sword. Caradoc later married Guimer.

In some accounts, he was the son of Llyr Marini, husband of Tegau Eurfon and father by her of a son called Meuric.

Caradoc of Llancarfan British

a 12th c Welsh writer of legends

Caradoc Vreichvras (see Caradoc Briefbras)

Carados<sup>1</sup> British

[Cerdic]

a sub-king under King Arthur

He was one of the rulers who rebelled against the king.

In some accounts he is equated with Cerdic.

Carados<sup>2</sup> British

[Carados of the Dolorous Tower]

a knight of King Arthur

brother of Turkin

He had captured Gawain, but Lancelot killed Carados and freed his friend. As a result, his brother Turkin came to hate all the Knights of the Round Table.

Carados of the Dolorous Tower

(see Carados<sup>2</sup>)

Caragabi South American

a Choco culture hero in Colombia

It was said that he was born from Tatzizete's spittle. Having made the sun, the moon and the stars and the ancestors of the tribe, he turned some men into animals and returned to the sky. In much of his work he was opposed by Tutruica.

He is expected to return after the earth has been destroyed by fire.

Caraheu (see Carahue)

Carahue European

[Caraheu]

a king of Mauritania

He overthrew Charlemagne in the battle outside Rome but was himself unhorsed by Ogier. He challenged the young Dane to single combat and his cousin, Sadon, challenged Charlot, Charlemagne's son. Charlot arrived with a troop of his followers and attacked the other three. Ogier and the two Saracens routed their attackers and became friends.

When Ogier was kept in prison by the renegade Danish king, Dannemont, Carahue, in protest, surrendered himself to Charlemagne. When the Saracens signed a truce, he and Ogier were restored to their respective forces. Later, when he learned that Ogier had been imprisoned by Charlemagne, he raised an army to free him. When he arrived on the scene, Ogier had already been set free to help Charlemagne against the invading forces of Bruhier so Carahue attacked the invaders and routed them. When Guyon arrived later, the two armies united and, together with a French force under Ogier, invaded the Saracen lands.

Caraman Serbian

a greyhound owned by Banovitch

Carana Buddhist

the footprint of a Buddha

Carancho South American

a hero of the Choco Indians, sometimes identified as a hawk

Carannog British

[Carantac(us).Carantoc.=Irish Cairneach]

a Welsh saint

He banished a huge serpent, which King Arthur had for some time tried to exterminate, when the king returned the floating altar that Carannog had lost.

In some accounts, the king had this altar made into the Round Table.

Carantac (see Carannog)

Carantacus (see Carannog)

Carantoc (see Carannog)

Caratacus (see Caractacus.Caradoc<sup>1</sup>)

Carbad Irish

father of Briccú

Carbad Searrdha Irish

the war chariot of Cuchulainn

Carberry Irish

a druid

Having been inhospitably received by Bres during his period as ruler, Carberry satirised the king so severely that his face broke out in boils and he abdicated in favour of Nuada.

Carbonek (see Castle Carbonek)

Carbuncle<sup>1</sup> South American

a monster in Paraguay

This monster was said to have a mirror on its head.

carbuncle<sup>2</sup>

a form of garnet

This semi-precious stone, red in colour, was said by Arabs to protect warriors in battle.

Greek lore said that the stone could protect children from drowning.

Other stories affirm its potency in protecting the wearer from plague or poison.

Carcika Buddhist
a goddess

Cardea Roman [Cardo]
a two-headed goddess of door hinges and family life

a huntress, mother of Proca by Janus
In some versions she protects children, in others she adopts the form of a bird or animal to kill them.

She lured Janus into a cave and tried to run away but he saw her with his other face and caught her. She was given the power to repel demons and bore a son, Proca. This story is also told of the nymph Carna. Some identify her with Eurynome, others with Artemis, Carna, Carnea or Rhea.
(see also Carna)

Cardeuil (see Carduel)

cardinal demons

demons said to rule various quarters of the world

In some cases they are called emperors, kings or princes, sometimes merely rulers, and the list of names varies from one source to another. Some names in these lists are Amaymon (east or south), Caspiel (south), Corson (south), Dimoriel (north), Egyn (north), Gaap (west), Luridan (north), Paymon (west), Uricus (east) and Zinimar (north).

Other variations are Agimon, Egin or Egin, Oriens or Orion, and Pagimon.

Carduel British [Cardeuil]

a castle of King Arthur: Carlisle in some accounts (see also Caer Leon)

Carduino British
a knight of King Arthur's court
son of Dondinello
husband of Beatrice

He was sent by King Arthur to help Beatrice and her subjects, all of whom had been turned into animals by a sorcerer. Carduino killed the sorcerer, restored Beatrice to human form with a kiss and married her.

Carell Irish
[Caireall]

father of Tuan mac Carell

Carenn Irish
[Caire(a)nn]

the first wife of Eochaid Muigl, mother of Niall

In some accounts she was Eochaid's concubine and was forced to do menial work for his wife, Mongfhinn.

Caretyne
a monster in the form of a bull with flames coming out of its mouth

Cari South American
a legendary Bolivian leader before the rule of the Incas

Cariado British
a knight of King Mark's court

He was in love with Isolde and it was he who told her of Tristram's marriage to Isolde White Hands.

Cariadwen (see Ceridwen)

Caridwen (see Ceridwen)

Cariociecus European [=Roman Mars]
a Spanish war-god

He was later assimilated by Mars.

Carl of Carlisle<sup>1</sup> British
a giant

a Knight of the Round Table
He kept a bear, a boar, a bull and a lion as pets. When Gawain, Kay and Bishop Baldwin were entertained at his castle, he challenged them to throw a spear at him, sleep with his wife and cut off his head. Gawain accepted and when he decapitated Carl the giant was released from an earlier enchantment and was restored to his former size as a normal human, while his pets became ordinary household pets.

Carl of Carlisle<sup>2</sup> British
a 16th c story of Carl and Gawain

Carle (see Charlemagne)

Carlin British [‘old woman’]
a name for the cailleach in Scotland

Carloman<sup>1</sup> European
(d. 574)

son of Charles Martel

brother of Pepin the Short

Carloman<sup>2</sup> European

son of Pepin the Short brother of Charlemagne

Carmac Irish

an ancestor of Brigit

son of Carruin

father of Cis

Carmalide (see Cameliard)

Carman Irish

a noble lady of the Fir Bolg

She was held as a prisoner when the Danaans defeated her people, as surety that her sons would never return to fight the Danaans.

Carmanor Greek

a king of Crete

Carme Greek

a Cretan woman

mother of Britomartis

She was taken as a slave and became the nurse of Scylla.

Carmenta Roman

[Carmentes.Carmentia.Carmentis]

a water-goddess, goddess of childbirth leader of the Camenae

mother of Evander by Hermes

In some accounts she is identified as Artemis Caryatis, in others there are two Carmentas known as Postverta and Prorsa.

Some say that she was an early Italian goddess of prophecy, known in some parts as Nicostrate.

Carmentes (see Carmenta)

Carmentia (see Carmenta)

Carmentis (see Carmenta)

Carmentalia Roman

a festival in honour of Carmenta, held in January

Carmilban Baltic

a phantom ship

The legend surrounding this mysterious vessel is similar to the story of The Flying Dutchman.

(see also Klaboterman)

Carn Arthur British

a cairn in Dyfed

It is said that the topmost stone of this cairn was thrown by King Arthur from several miles away.

Carn Cabal (see Cabal's Cairn)

Carna Roman

[Carnea]

a goddess of good health

She was originally an underworld goddess, keeper of the keys.

In some stories Carna takes the place of Cardea in her encounter with Janus.

Her festival is celebrated on 1 June.

Carnabon Greek

a king of Thrace

When he killed one of the serpents that drew the chariot of Triptolemus, Demeter intervened to replace the serpent and to place Carnabon in the heavens as the constellation Ophiuchus.

Carnasia (see Cranaea)

Carnea<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Karnea]

a festival in honour of Apollo as the ram-god, held in August/September

The name is said to derive from Karnos, an ancient god assimilated by Apollo.

Carnea<sup>2</sup> (see Carna)

Carnedd Arthur British

a cairn under which the Welsh say King Arthur lies buried

(see also Cist Arthur)

Carneios (see Apollo Carneios)carnelian

[cornelian.sardius]

red chalcedony, a semi-precious stone formerly called sardius

(1) This is said by the Arabs to prevent loose teeth and preserve the wearer from envy.

(2) In Australia it is used by the Aborigines as a charm preventing disease and to ensure good hunting.

(3) In Egypt it was worn to bring serenity and maintain dignity.

(4) The Greeks said it would bring good fortune if worn on the first day of the week.

(5) In Persia the stone was buried with the dead owner.

(6) Roman lore said that the stone could protect the state from natural disasters.

Carnesiel

a demon of the East

Carnivean (see Carnivenn)Carnivenn

[Carnivean]

a demon of obscenity

Carnwennan

[Carnwennan]

King Arthur's dagger

Carolhaise

a city of Cameliard

Carolus Augustus

Charlemagne as emperor of the Romans

Carolus Magnus (see Charlemagne)Carousal, Fort of (see Caer Feddwid)Carousal of Aegir (see Aegisdrekka)carp

a sacred fish, revered as a symbol of youth and strength

Carpata

one of the 9 nathas

Carpathan Wizard

(see Proteus)

Carpō

[Karpō]

a goddess of fruit and summer

one of the Horae, in some accounts

Carpos

(see Carpus)

Carppe

(see Cairbre)

Carpus

[Carpus.Karpōs]

a harvest-god

son of Zephyrus by Chloris

His function was to assist the fruit to ripen.

Carras

British

a brother of Recess
brother of Claudas

Carreau

a demon, lack of pity personified

Carrefour

West Indian

[Carrefow.Mait'(re) Carrefour]

a Haitian god of the night

brother of Ghede

He operated at night to open the gate that allowed spirits to take possession of humans.

Carrefow

(see Carrefour)

Carreg Coetan Arthur

(see Arthur's Quoit)

Carridwen

(see Ceridwen)

Carrier of Death

Hindu

one of the 5 arrows carried by Kama

Carruin

Irish

an ancestor of Brigit

father of Carmac

Cartadaque

British

an Irish chieftain

He was one of the 100 chieftains fighting for the Irish king, Cildadan, against 100 knights of the British king, Lisuarte.

Carthach<sup>1</sup>

Irish

husband of Sochla

father of Molua

Carthach<sup>2</sup>

(see Mochuda)

Cartimandua

British

a queen of the Brigantes, a northern tribe

She was said to have been pro-Roman and betrayed Caractacus to the Romans.

cartomancy

divination from playing cards

Caruincho

South American

a fire-god

Caruyucha Huayallo (see Huallallo)Carvara

Hindu

[Sarvara]

a guard at the gates of the Otherworld

Carvilia (see Queen of the Wastelands)Carwennan

(see Carnwennan)

Caryatis

(see Caryatides)

Caryatid

(see Caryatides)

Caryatides

Greek

[sing=Caryatid.Karyatis]

priestesses of Artemis Caryatis

The name is variously said to refer to the small town of Carya or to Carytas, father of the girls.

The name is also used to refer to carved columns in the form of draped female figures.

Caryatids

(see Caryatis)

Carytas

(see Caryatides)

Casbellaun

(see Caswallawn)

Cascorach

Irish

a Danaan minstrel

Cash Tree

Chinese

a mythical tree that produces cash and ingots of precious metal

Casimolar

(see Caacrinolaas)

Casmilos

(see Cadmilus)

Caspiel

a demon king of the south, one of the cardinal demons

Cassandra<sup>1</sup>

Greek

[Alexandra.Kassandra]

a princess of Troy, a prophetic

daughter of Priam and Hecuba

twin sister of Helenus

She had been given the gift of prophecy by Apollo but when she rejected his love he decreed that her prophecies would never be believed, even when true.

Another story says that both she and Helenus were given prophetic powers from being licked on the ears by serpents when they were young children.

She advised the Trojans not to take the wooden horse left by the Greeks into the city but as usual she was ignored.

At the fall of Troy she was raped by Ajax the Less at the altar of Athena's temple. She was given to Agamemnon as a prize of war and bore him two sons, Pelops and Teledamus. She returned with Agamemnon to Greece where she foretold bloodshed, and was ignored as usual. She was killed by Clytemnestra and her lover Aegisthus, together with Agamemnon and her children. After her death she was deified.

Cassandra<sup>2</sup>

(see Philonoe)

Cassé Brisé

West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Cassibellaunus

(see Cassivellaunus)

Cassiepeia

(see Cassiopeia)

Cassim Baba

(see Kassim)

Cassiope

(see Cassiopeia)

Cassiopeia

Greek

[Cassiepeia.Cassiope]

a goddess of night

queen of Ethiopia

wife of Cepheus

mother of Andromeda

She boasted that her daughter Andromeda was more beautiful than any goddess and was punished by a sea serpent that devoured her people. Andromeda was offered as a propitiary sacrifice, chained to a rock in the sea. She was rescued by Perseus who was returning with the severed head of Medusa, and he turned Cassiopeia and Cepheus to stone by displaying it.

She and her husband were placed in the heavens by Poseidon.

Cassivellaunus British

[Cassibellaunus:=Welsh Caswallawn]

a king of Britain

brother of Lud and Nennius

He succeeded to the throne on the death of his father, or in some stories killed the acting king, Caradoc, and usurped the throne of Britain when Bran was in Ireland rescuing his sister, Branwen, from Matholwch. He later defended the country from the invading Romans.

Castalia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Castaly.Fons Castalius]

a spring at Delphi, sacred to Apollo and the Muses

Castalia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Castaly]

a nymph

daughter of Achelous

Castaly (see Castalia)

Castalides (see Muses)

Castellors British

son of Aminabad

father of Manael

In some accounts he was an ancestor of King Arthur.

casting lots

a form of divination by drawing at random from a set of objects

Castle-an-Dinas British

a Cornish hill-fort regarded by some as the site of Camelot

Castle Blank British

[White Castle]

the home of Bliant and Selivant

It was here that Lancelot was sheltered during his period of madness.

Castle Bliant British

the island home given to Lancelot and Elaine by her father, King Pelles

Castle Carbonek British

[Caer Pedryvan.Cambenoit.Corbenic.

Corbin.Corby.Grail Castle]

the home of King Pelles

This castle, said to be invisible to sinners, was built by Evelake and Josephus when they came to Britain bringing the Holy Grail, which was then housed in the castle.

In some stories Carbonek was in France, in others the castle was in England but called Corbin or Corby. It was here that Lancelot was accorded a sight of the Holy Grail but was struck down and lay unconscious for many days.

Castle Carcelois

(see Castle Carteloise)

Castle Carteloise British

[Castle Carcelois]

a castle in Scotland

Here a lady lay ill with a sickness that could be cured only by the blood of a virgin. Galahad and his companions on the Grail quest arrived there with Percival's sister who died as a result of giving blood to save the lady.

Castle Case British

the castle in which Lancelot was tricked into sleeping with Elaine in the belief that he was sharing

Guinevere's bed

Castle Chariot

(see Chateau de la Charette)

Castle Damelioc (see Castle Dore)

Castle Dangerous British

the home of the lady Lyonesse

Castle Dore British

[Castle Damelioc]

the home of King Mark of Cornwall

Castle Dunostre British

the castle in which the Shield

Beautiful was held

In European stories this was the home of the giant Angoulaffre who was killed by Huon.

Castle Eden British

a village in county Durham

It is said that this was once the site of one of King Arthur's residences and was later haunted by his knights in the form of hens.

Castle Key British

an earthen fortification in Shropshire

said to have been constructed by Kay

Castle Lidel British

the castle where Fergus first met Galiene

Castle Muter Norse

the home of Nitger

Dietrich was imprisoned in this castle until he was rescued by forces led by Hildebrand.

Castle Nigamous British

the home of the sorceress Hellawes

Castle of Aranrhod British

purgatory, in Welsh lore

The high-born awaited resurrection in the castle while the rest of the dead wandered through its cheerless grounds.

Castle of Gort British

a castle to which Percival went in his search for Galahad during the quest for the Holy Grail

Castle of Hutton British

the home of Bercilak, the Green Knight

Castle of Light<sup>1</sup> African

[Kursuri ya Nuru]

an Eastern paradise reached only by the righteous carried in a ship with a devout captain

In one story, Habbat-ar-Rumani, who was blind, found seven doves, one of which also was blind. Another dove found a magic herb that restored their sight and they all lived together in the Castle of Light.

Castle of Light<sup>2</sup> Persian

[Koh-i-Noor.Mountain of Light]

the site where the devout may reach the divine presence

Castle of Light<sup>3</sup> (see Palace of Light)

Castle of Maidens British

[Castle of Mount Agned.Castle of Virgins]

a castle of Duke Lianour

Seven brothers killed the duke and took over the castle. To frustrate a prophecy that a maiden would cause their downfall, they took prisoner every woman who came near the castle. Galahad routed the brothers and freed the maidens.

In some accounts it was originally known as the Castle of Mount Agned and was founded by Ebracus. Others say that it was one of the homes of Morgan le Fay.

Castle of Mount Agned British in some accounts the original name of the Castle of Maidens

Castle of Oblivion European

a castle in which Rogero and other knights were imprisoned

Travellers reaching the bridge near the castle were offered a drink by a damsel. The drink rendered them bereft of memory.

Castle of Oeth and Anoeth British

a prison in the underworld from which Goreu rescued King

Arthur who had been imprisoned

by Manawyddan

Castle of Pendragon British

a prison from which Goreu rescued

King Arthur

Castle of Perfect Ones

(see Caer Vedwyd)

Castle of Pesme Aventure British

a castle controlled by two demons

The demons kept captive some 300 women, forcing them to weave cloth, until Owain arrived on the scene, killed the demons and freed their captives.

Castle of Revelty (see Caer Vedwyd)

Castle of Riches (see Caer Golud)

Castle of Shelving Side

(see Caer Ochrem)

Castle of the Rock

British

the home of the Lady of the Rock Edward and Hugh had seized all the lady's property except this castle and would have taken that also had not Ewain intervened, killing Edward and forcing Hugh to restore all her property.

Castle of Tubele

British

the site of the fight between Bors and his brother Lionel

Castle of Virgins

(see Castle of Maidens)

Castle of Wonders

British

[Chastel Marte.Fortress of Marvels] a version of Caer Feddwid, in Welsh lore the home of Peredur's uncle It was here that Peredur saw the Holy Grail. It is the equivalent of the Fortress of Marvels in the story of Percival.

Castle of Ysbidinongl

British

in Welsh lore, the home of a black man He was laying waste to the adjoining countryside and was killed by Peredur.

Castle-on-High

(see Caer Vandwy)

Castle Perilous

(see Caer Feddwid)

Castle Rougemont

British

the home of Talac
Castle Rushden British
[Castle Rushen] a site on the Isle of Man where the giants killed by Merlin are said to be buried

Castle Rushen

(see Castle Rushden)

Castle Terribil

British

[Dunheved Castle] in Arthurian lore, a grim castle besieged by Royns In other accounts this was the castle in which Uther besieged Gorlois when he invaded Cornwall to seduce Igraine.

Castor<sup>1</sup>

British

a knight at the court of King Pelles a nephew of Pelles

Castor<sup>2</sup>

Greek

[Kastor:=Polynesian Pipiri] patron of bards and sailors son of Leda by Zeus or Tyndareus brother of Helen and Polydeuces father of Anogon by Hilaeria Zeus visited Leda in the form of a swan and there are various versions of the parentage of her children, of whom Castor was one and the twin of Polydeuces.

He was a member of the party hunting the Calydonian boar, sailed with the Argonauts and taught Heracles fencing and tactics.

When his sister Helen was abducted by Peirithous and Theseus, he and his brother raised an army to invade Aphidnae where she was kept and recovered her.

In a dispute over some stolen cattle or as the result of the abduction of Phoebe and Hilaeria by Castor and his brother, he was waiting in ambush in a hollow tree when he was killed by a spear thrown by Idas. After his death, he and Polydeuces spent alternate periods on Olympus and in Hades so that they could always be together.

He was deified by Zeus and set in the heavens with Polydeuces as the Twins, Castor and Pollux.

Castores

Roman

the Roman name for the Dioscuri

Castris

British

a king of Wales His first wife, Herseloyde, later married Gahmuret and, in some accounts, bore Percival.

Castur

Italian

the Etruscan version of Castor brother of Pultuce

Castor and Pollux later merged with the Tindaridae.

Casujoiah

an angel, ruler of the sign Capricorn

Caswallan

(see Caswallawn)

Caswallawn

British

[Casbellaun.Caswallan.Caswallon] the Welsh name for Cassivellaunus son of Beli brother of Llefelys, Lludd and Nynian husband of Fflur

He is said to have conquered Britain while Bran was away in Ireland.

Caswallon

(see Caswallawn)

cat<sup>1</sup>

a small domesticated feline featured in many mythologies (1) In China (where it is called mae) the cat is said to ward off evil spirits.

(2) In Egypt the cat was sacred to Bast (a cat-goddess) and to Isis. Anybody who killed a cat was condemned to death.

(3) In Europe a black cat is regarded as the familiar of witches and the Devil and was revered by the 13th c Stadinghien heretics. One story says that a cat can suck the breath from a sleeping child, causing it to die.

(4) In France the cat is regarded as a corn spirit.

(5) Hindu stories have the cat as the steed ridden by the goddess Shastri.

(6) The Japanese regard the cat as an animal with supernatural powers that can control the dead.

(7) The Malaysians say that an evil spirit, which can take possession of humans, lives in the cat.

(8) In Norse mythology, the cat is regarded as a form of the Midgard Serpent, Iormungandr.

Cat<sup>2</sup>

Scottish

a Pictish ruler son of Cruithne When Cruithne divided Scotland between his seven children, Cat was given Caithness.

Cat Anna

(see Black Annis)

Cat-eye

(see Gwiawn)

Cat of Losanne

British

a demon cat killed by King Arthur

Cataclothes

Greek

spinners of fate (see also Moirae)

Catair Curoi

(see Teamhair Luachra)

Catamitus

Roman

the Latin name for Ganymede

Catcitempulz

South American

a sacred mountain of the Aztecs It was here that Xipe Totec called on the people to repent.

Catequil

South American

an Inca thunder-god It was said that this god could turn himself into a bolt of lightning and, by entering a woman as she made love to her husband, engender twins.

catfish

Japanese

a huge fish said to cause earthquakes

Cath Fionntra

Irish

[Cath Fionntraga] the story of the Battle of Fionn's Strand

Cath Fionntraga

(see Cath Fionntra)

Cath Almaine

Irish

a 10th c story of the battle in which Fergal mac Maolduin was killed

Cath Godeu

(see Battle of Godeu)

Cath Maighe Lena

(see Battle of Moylena)

Cath Maighe Lena

Irish

a 13th c tale of the exploits of Eoghan Mor and the Battle of Moylena

Cath Maighe Tuired

Irish

an 11th c story of the Battles of Moytura (see Palug's Cat)

- Cath Sith Irish [=Scottish Cait Sith]
a fairy cat
- Catha Italian
an Etruscan sun deity
- Cathair Chon Roi
(see Teamhair Luachra)
- Cathair Mor (see Cathaoir Mor)
- Cathal Irish
son of Rogallach and Muireann
In the story that says that his father was killed by Maolbhrighde, it was Cathal who slew his father's killer.
- Cathal mac Aodha Irish
a king of Munster
In some accounts it was he, rather than Cathal mac Fionghuine, who married Mor Mumhan.
- Cathal mac Fionghuine Irish
a king of Ulster
husband of Mor Mumhan, some say
He was in love with Liogach who often sent him apples and sweets. Her brother had a spell put on these gifts with the result that he was possessed by the Hunger-beast, which caused him to have an insatiable appetite, until it was tricked into leaving by the scholar Anera.
- Cathaoir Mor Irish [Cathair Mor]
a king of Leinster
father of Criomhthán Cas
In some accounts he was, for some time, king of all Ireland. He was killed by Luaighne at the Battle of Magh Agha between the forces of Cathaoir and those of Conn Ceadchathach.
- Catharsius Greek
a name of Apollo in his role as 'purifier'
- Cathba (see Cathbad)
- Cathbad Irish [Cathba.Cathbhadh]
a warrior druid husband of Maga
father of Dectera, Elva and Finchoom
He was said to have killed the twelve tutors of Nessa, wife of Fachtna, and later saw her bathing in a pool. He had an affair with her, fathering a son, Conor mac Nessa, to whom he later acted as personal druid.
In some accounts he told the king some news which so angered him that the brainball lodged in his forehead exploded and killed him.
He was said also to have foretold the troubles of Deirdre and the fame of Cuchulainn to whom he was a tutor.
- Cathbhadh (see Cathbad)
- Cathead (see Cairbre Caitcheann)
- Cathena North American [Old Woman of the West.Quakuinahaba] a virgin mother-goddess of the Mojave sister of Ku-yu
- Catherine West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit
This spirit is said to be derived from St Catherine.
- Cathlionn (see Ceithlenn)
- Cathluan Irish
a king of the Picts
He was driven from Ireland by Eremon and took over Scotland.
- Cathubodba (see Cathubodua)
- Cathubodua Celtic [Cathubodba.Cauth Bodua:=Irish Badb]
a war-goddess in Gaul: war fury
- Catigern British
son of Vortigern
- Catoplebas African
an Abyssinian monster
Any person who looks into the eyes of this sluggish beast falls dead on the spot.
- catoptromancy
divination by mirrors
- Catreus Greek
a king of Crete
son of Minos and Pasiphae
father of Aerope, Altha(e)menes, Apemosyne and Clymene Hoping to forestall the prophecy that one of his children would cause his death, he sold two of his daughters as slaves, but Nauplius, who was charged with selling them, gave Aerope to Atreus and married Clymene himself.
His other daughter, Apemosyne, and his son, Athamenes, went to Rhodes. When in old age he tried to find his son, the Rhodians mistook his ship for a pirate vessel and Althamenes unwittingly killed his father.
- cat's eye
a semi-precious stone
This stone is said to give protection from the evil eye.
- Cattle Raid of Cooley Irish [Cuailnge.Quelgny]
the invasion of Ulster by Ailill and Maev to capture the Brown Bull of Cooley (see also Brown Bull)
- Caturmaharajas (see Four Kings)
- Caturmasya Hindu
a festival held to mark the start of the 3 seasons
- Caturmurti Hindu
a form of Vishnu with 4 faces a combination of Vishnu with Brahma, Shiva and Surya
- Catwallaun (see Cadwallon)
- Catwampus
a mythical animal
- Caucac<sup>1</sup> Central American
a Mayan god
one of the 4 Bacabs
He supports the southern corner of the world (red). (see also Hozanek)
- Caucac<sup>2</sup> Central American
the nineteenth of the 20 ages of man, in Mayan lore
This is the time when man's divine nature appears. (see also Nine Cauac)
- Caucasus Greek
a sacred mountain
It was here that Prometheus was chained and repeatedly attacked by an eagle.
- Cauda Draconis (see Chi-tu)
- Cauga (see Erem Cauca)
- Caulang British
a giant
This man, said to have been fifteen feet tall, was killed by King Arthur in the battle with the forces of Royns.
- Cauld-lad
a spirit that moves household items such as furniture, during the night
- Cauldron of Dagda (see Undry)
- Cauldron of Inspiration (see Amen)
- Cauldron of Rebirth British
the magic cauldron given by Bran to Matholwch
This vessel restored slain warriors to life but left them without speech.
- Caurus Greek
son of Miletus and Cyanea
twin brother of Byblis
He left home when he discovered that his sister had fallen in love with him. She searched the land for him but, failing to find him, was turned into a spring by the nymphs of Caria.
- Cauri Tibetan
a Buddhist-Lamaist goddess
one of 8 gauris
- Caurus (see Corus)
- Causub
a demon of snake charming
- Caut Persian
[Cautes]
a torch bearer
He and Cautopat represent the rising and setting sun.
- Cautes (see Caut)
- Cauth Bodua (see Cathubodua)
- Cautha Italian
[Cath.Usil]
an Etruscan sun-god

Cautopat Persian

[Cautopathes]

He and Caut represent the rising and setting sun.

Cautopathes (see Cautopat)Cavall British

in some accounts a horse of

King Arthur (see also Cabal)

Cave of Cruachan Irish

[Cruachan.Gate of Hell]

an entrance to the Otherworld

A bird with three heads lived in this cave and ravaged Ireland until it was killed by Amergin. He and his men also killed the red birds that lived here, birds which had also ravaged the country.

Cave of Refuge (see Pacari)Cavern of Seven Chambers(see Chicomoztoc)Cavershall British

a Staffordshire castle, one of the places said to have been the site of King Arthur's court

Cavillaca (see Cavillea)Cavillea South American

[Cavillaca]

a beautiful maiden

She rejected the love of the god Coniraya who magically produced a son by her when she ate the fruit of a tree that sprouted in the god's footsteps. In some accounts she is described as a goddess. She and her son were changed into rocks.

Caw British

[Caw of Caledonia.Kaw]

father of Cywyllog, Gildas and Hueil

In one story of the quest of Culhwch for the hand of Olwen, Caw secured a tusk of Trwch Trwyth and used it to shave Ysbaddaden. In other accounts Trwch Trwyth was not killed but escaped into the sea, and it was the tusk of Ysgithyrwn, got by Cadw, that was used to shave the giant.

In some accounts he is regarded as a saint.

Cawder (see Cador<sup>2</sup>)Cay<sup>1</sup> Central American

a Mayan prince

son of Kan

brother of Aac, Coh, Moo and Niete

Cay<sup>2</sup> Central American

a Mayan high priest

Caym

a ruler of hell

He is depicted as something of a dandy with the head and wings of a black-bird.

C'balu (see Gwalu)CC

light deities, celestial twins

Ccoa South American

in the lore of the Quecha, a fearsome cat, servant of the aukis

This beast is envisaged as a grey cat with a striped body and a large head. Its eyes are said to glow and hail shoots from its ears. Some say that it controls hail and thunder and uses this power to ruin crops and even to kill human beings.

Ce Scottish

a Pict

son of Cruithne

When Cruithne divided the kingdom between his seven children, Ce was given Marn and Buchan.

Ce Acatl Central American

[Ce Actl Topiltzin.Quetzalcoat]

a creator-god of the Aztec

son of Mixcoatl and Chimalmatl

When his father was murdered, he fled for his life. He later came back, killed his father's murderers and adopted the name of Quetzalcoatl, the god to whom he became high priest.

Ce Actl Topiltzin (see Ce Acatl)Ceacinus Greek

a god of the river of that name

father of Euthymus

Ceact Irish

a goddess of healing

Ceadach Irish

a prince who joined the Fianna

He fought with Dubh when a girl they both wanted chose Ceadach; they both died in the fight. The girl copied the action of birds she had seen revive a dead companion and restored Ceadach to life. (see also Ceatach)

Ceallach (see Cellach)Cealtchair (see Celtchair)Ceannai Fionn Irish

a sailor

He sailed with Cluasach, hoping to find the end of the sea but lost his friend when Cluasach entered an underworld realm while trying to free the anchor from the sea bed.

Cearas Irish

[Crom-Eocha.R(u)ad]

a fire-god

Cearball O Dalaigh Irish

a poet

While he was tending his master's cattle, a bull from heaven mated with one of the herd and the milk from this cow gave Cearball magical powers.

In Scotland he fell in love with Fearbhlaid. When her father, the king, put him in prison, she helped him to escape. Her father later arranged for her to be told that Cearball was dead, and she died of grief. When Cearball learned this, he too died.

A similar story is told about Cearball and Eleanor, who eloped with him. Some say they went overseas and when Cearball was killed in an accident Eleanor died of a broken heart.

Cearmaid Irish

a son of the Dagda, in some accounts

He was killed by Lugh when he attempted to seduce Lugh's wife. His father put his body in a boat and set off to find some means of restoring him to life. He met three men who had a magic club and borrowed it. He killed all three with one end of the club and restored his son to life with the other.

In some versions the three sons of Cearmaid avenged their father by killing Lugh.

Cearnait Irish

daughter of a Pictish king

When she was captured in a raid on Scotland and brought to Ireland, Cormac mac Airt fell in love with her and made her his mistress.

Ccartan Irish

a smith

He refused passage in his boat to Ailill Fionn who was under attack by Fergus mac Aoth so Ailill killed him with a slingshot to the head.

In an alternative story, in which Donall Dualbhui takes the place of Ailill, Ccartan was a giant and drowned when Donall's slingshot holed his boat.

ceasg British

in Scottish lore, a mermaid who will grant 3 wishes

Ceat Irish

son of Ailill and Maev

He was one of seven sons, all known as Maine.

Ceat mac Maghach (see Cet)Ceatach Irish

a warrior

The maiden he had seized disappeared and he found himself fighting with her three brothers against enemies who were mysteriously restored to life each night; then against a king and finally against a huge cat. This beast killed Ceatach but was killed in the fight, whereupon the maiden reappeared and restored Ceatach to life with the same magic potion that had restored his earlier foes. (see also Ceadach)

Cebha Irish

[Keva]

daughter of Finn mac Cool
wife of Goll mac Morna

She was given to Goll when he killed the sorceress, Irnan.

Cebren Greek

a river-god of Troy
father of Oenone

Cebriones Greek

the charioteer for Hector
an illegitimate son of Priam

He was killed by Patroclus at the siege of Troy.

Cecrops<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kecrops.Kekrops]

the first (or second) king of Athens a serpent king in the form of a man-dragon

son of Hephaestus and Gaia, some say husband of Aglauros father of Aglauros, Erysichthon, Herse and Pandrosos

He is said to have introduced marriage, burial of the dead and writing. (see also Cecrops<sup>2</sup>)

Cecrops<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Kecrops.Kekrops]

a king of Athens
son of Erechtheus and Praxithea brother of Creusa, Orithyia and Procris husband of Metiadusa
father of Pandion

He was expelled by Pandorus and Metion when Xuthus chose him to succeed Erechtheus as king.

In some accounts, there was only one king of this name.

Cedalion Greek

[Kedalion]

a workman under Hephaestus

He was given to the blind Orion as guide to the home of Helios, where Orion was cured of his blindness.

Cedar of the End African

[Tree of the End:=Muslim Sidral al-Muntaha]

in the lore of the Swahili, a tree created by god

Each leaf of the tree, each of which is large enough for an angel to kneel on, is an individual's life bearing his name. When a leaf falls to the ground, the angel of death finds the owner and informs him that his time is up.

ceffyn dwr British

the Welsh version of the water horse

Cei (see Kai.Kay)

Ceirim (see Se-irrim)

Ceithearn (see Cethern)

Ceithearnach Irish

a man from the Otherworld

He dressed in striped trousers and appeared and disappeared at will. In one story he mended the broken leg of a noble on his promise to give up his churlish ways. In another, he performed a sort of Indian rope-trick in which he made a hare, a dog, a boy and a girl climb into the clouds on a silken thread. When they descended, the magician cut off the boy's head and replaced it facing to the rear, but later put it back in its proper position.

In some accounts, he is regarded as a manifestation of Manannan.

Ceithern (see Cethern)

Ceitherne (see Cethern)

Ceithinn (see Cethe)

Ceithleann (see Ceithleann)

Ceithleann Irish

[Ceithleann.Cathlionn]

wife of Balor

mother of Ethlinn and Bres

She met the Dagda in single combat during the second Battle of Moytura and inflicted a wound from which he died many years later.

Celaene (see Calaeno)

Celaeno<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Calaene.Celeno.'dark'.Kelaino]

a nymph, one of the Pleiades

In some accounts she was the mother of Lycus and Nycteus by Poseidon.

Celaeno<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Calaene.Celeno.'dark'.Kelaino]

one of the Harpies

Celamon British

[Celemon.Kelemon]

daughter of Kay

sister of Garanwy and Gronosis

Celemon (see Celamon)

Celeno (see Celaeno)

Celer Roman

a lieutenant of Romulus

In some accounts it was Celer, not Romulus, who killed Remus for jumping over the wall of the new city.

celery Greek

the victor's crown at the Nemean games

celestial

one living in heaven

Celestial Archer (see I+)

Celestial Bird (see T'ien-ju)

Celestial Bravery (see T'ien-ying)

Celestial Buddhas (see Dhyani-buddhas)

Celestial Charger (see Ma-wang)

Celestial City

a name for heaven in Bunyan's

Pilgrim's Progress

Celestial Cow (see Mehet-Weret)

Celestial Cowherd (see Ch'ien Niu)

Celestial Creature (see T'ien-ch'in)

Celestial Deities (see Adityas)

Celestial Dog (see Heavenly Dog Star)

Celestial Dragon Japanese

one of the 4 Dragon Kings who guards the mansions of the gods

Celestial Eagle (see Garuda (Putih))

Celestial Emperor (see Shang Ti)

Celestial Feather Robe
(see Feather Robe)

Celestial Fox Chinese

a fox that reaches the age of 1,000 years

When a fox reaches the age of 1,000 years, it is admitted to heaven as the Celestial Fox, which has nine tails and serves as transport for spirits.

Celestial Hawk East Indian

a huge primordial bird

In the lore of the Dayaks this bird was created in the first of the three epochs of creation.

Celestial Heart (see T'ien-hsin)

Celestial Minor (see T'ien-ch'ung)

Celestial Official (see T'ien-jen)

Celestial Pillar (see T'ien-chu<sup>1</sup>)

Celestial Prince (see Liu)

Celestial Sail (see T'ien-p'eng)

Celestial Stag

in China and Japan, the sun, regarded as a dragon

Celestial Support (see T'ien-fu)

Celestial Twins

opposing forces of good and evil, light and darkness, etc.

These forces are often personified in the form of twins such as Castor and Pollux.

Celeus Greek

[Keleos]

king of Eleusis

first priest of Demeter at Eleusis

husband of Metaneira

father of Abas, Demophoön, Eubuleus,

Eumolpus, lambe and Triptolemus

He employed, an old woman, Deo, as wet nurse to Demophoön, who turned out to be Demeter in disguise. She taught Celeus the Eleusinian mysteries.

Celia West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from

St Celia

Celidoine British

[Celydoine]

son of Nascien

He is said to have been an ancestor of Galahad.

Celidon Wood (see Caledon Wood)

Cell-y-Dewiniaid

(see Grove of Magicians)

Cellach<sup>1</sup>Irish*

[Ceallach]

a bishop

king of Connaught

son of Eoghan Beal

brother of Muireadhach

He was a monk at the time of his father's death but left the monastery to assume the kingship. He was deposed by Guaire and eventually fled to an island with four young monks. Guaire bribed the young clerics to kill Ceallach, and when Muireadhach came to visit him he found his brother's corpse.

Cellach<sup>2</sup>Irish*

[Ceallach]

son of Cormac mac Airt

He was killed by Angus, chief of the Desi sept, for abducting a girl of that clan.

Cellach<sup>3</sup>Irish*

[Ceallach]

son of Maol Cobha

He was present at the Battle of Magh Rath and killed Conan Rod who had joined forces with Congall Caoch.

CelliwigBritish*

[Celliwith]

in some Welsh accounts, the site of

King Arthur's court

Celliwith

(see Celliwig)

CelmisGreek*

one of the Dactyls, in some accounts

CeltchairIrish*

[Cealtchair.Celtchar.Keltcha(i)r]

a hero of Ulster

one of the champions of the Red Branch

son of Uthechair

husband of Brigh

father of Niam

In a battle with Connaught, a spear thrown by Cet pierced his leg and his testicles, leaving him impotent.

As punishment for killing Blai, who had slept with Celtchair's wife, he was required to rid the country of three scourges.

The first was a warrior from Munster whose tough skin defied any attempt to kill him with a sword. Celtchair's daughter, Niam, seduced this man, Conganachas, who revealed to her the secret of how he could be killed. Celtchair waited until he was asleep and then killed him by driving nails into his feet and legs.

The second task involved killing the wild dog, known as the Brown Mouse, which he did by thrusting his hand down the animal's throat and tearing its heart out. Three whelps of this animal were taken by Mac Da Tho, Culann and Celtchair. The last of these, called Daolchu, started to ravage the country in Celtchair's absence and his master killed him with a spear thrust, so completing his three tasks. Celtchair was himself killed when a drop of the dog's poisonous blood touched his flesh.

Celtchar

(see Celtchair)

CeltinaCeltic*

mother of Celtus by Hercules

CeltusCeltic*

son of Hercules by Celtina

He is regarded as the progenitor of the Celts.

Celydoine

(see Celidoine)

Celyddon

(see Caledon Wood)

CemanahuacCentral American*

in the lore of the Aztecs, the newly-formed earth

In this version the earth was said to have been made from the body of the sea monster Cipactli

cemis

(see zemis)

cempohualliCentral American*

a 20-day period in the Aztec calendar

CenchosIrish*

a Fomoir warrior

CenchreisGreek*

wife of Cinyras, some say

CeneuBritish*

an ancestor of Merlin

son of Coel Godebog

father of Mor

CenferchynBritish*

[Kenverchyn]

in Welsh lore, the warrior who gave

Owain 300 ravens that ensured victory whenever he was in battle

CenkalaniammalIndian*

a Tamil goddess of the rice fields

Cenn CruiachIrish*

[Blood Crescent.Crom Cruach.Cromm

Cru(i)ach.Lord of the Mound]

a deity to whom first born children were sacrificed

He was later known as Cromm Cruiach and his image, made of gold and silver, was worshipped by the Milesians. It was overcome by St Patrick and sank into the earth.

(see Cenn Dubh)

Cenn DubhIrish*

[Crom(m) Dub(h)]

a man who gave a bullock to

St Patrick

He was converted to Christianity when the saint proved that the note of thanks he had sent for the gift of the bullock weighed more than the animal itself.

In some accounts he was said to have introduced night and day and the seasons of the year. Some say he was the same as Cenn Cruiach.

Cenn FinnIrish*

a harper

He accompanied Eber Finn when he took the southern half of the country.

cenoteCentral American*

a sacred well

Centaur<sup>1</sup>Greek*

[Hippocentaur.Kentaur(os):plur=Kentauroi]

part man, part horse

These beings were fathered by Ixion on Nephele or by his son, Centaurus, on the Magnesians mares or, some say, on Ino or Nephele. Others say that they arose from the sperm spilled by Zeus lusting for Aphrodite.

They were permanently in conflict with the Lapiths, who were known as horse tamers, after the incident when Eurytion tried to rape Hippodamia at her wedding to Peirithous.

They are sometimes depicted pulling the chariot of Dionysus.

Centaur<sup>2</sup>

(see Sagittarius)

centauro-triton

[ichthyocentaur.ichthyotaurus]

a triton with the forelegs and hoofs of a horse as well as the usual human body and fish's tail

CentauromachyGreek*

the long-running war between the Centaurs and the Lapiths

CentaurusGreek*

son of Ixion or Apollo and Nephele

brother of Lapithus

It was he who fathered the Centaurs on the Magnesians mares or Ino or Nephele. Some say that Ixion was the father by Nephele.

CenteocihuatlCentral American*

an Aztec maize-goddess

Centéotl

(see Cinteotl)

Centimani

(see Hundred-handed Ones)

Central Land of the Reed Plains

(see Idzumo)

Central Yellow Old Ruler

(see Chung-yang)

Centzon HuitznahuaCentral American*

[Centzonhuitznahua.Four Hundred

Southerners]

the 400 children of Coatlicue besides

Coyolxauhqui and Huitzilopochtli Coyolxauhqui and the 100 sons planned to kill their mother, but Huitzilopochtli was born fully armed, killed his sister and some of his brothers and routed the remainder.

Centzon Mixixcoa Central American
400 Aztec sky-gods

In some accounts these deities are equated with the Centzon Huitznahua.

Centzon Totochtin Central American [Four Hundred Rabbits]

a group of Aztec gods of intoxication
The gods of intoxication were worshipped as rabbits, the number of which indicated the degree of drunkenness. Complete drunkenness was represented by 400 rabbits.

Some of these pulque gods were Cohuatzincaatl, Ome Tochtli, Papaztac, Patecatl, Quatlapanqui, Teatlahuiani, Tepoxtecatl and Tequehmecauiana.

They were depicted with faces painted in red and black, wearing the yaca-metztl, a crescent-shaped nose ornament, long earrings and carrying a shield.

Centzonhuitznaua
(see Centzon Huitznahua)

ceo side Irish
a mist caused by the fairies to lead people astray

ceol side Irish fairy music that lures people to the Otherworld

Ceos (see Coeus)

Cephalonia

[The Lost Island]
a mysterious island that could be found only by chance even by those who had once been there

Cephalus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Attic Boy.Kephalos]
son of Deion and Diomedes
brother of Actor, Aenetus, Asterpeia
and Phylacus
husband of Clymene and Procris father of Iphichus by Clymene, some say He was carried away by Eos but remained faithful to his wife Procris.
When he was returned to her, he accidentally killed her in a hunting accident with the unerring spear she had given him when they were married. Some say that the spear (and a dog) had been given to Procris by Minos or Artemis.

The dog was Laelaps, which never failed to catch any animal it chased.
Cephalus allowed Amphitryon to use the dog in the hunt for the Cadmeian

Vixen, and helped him in his fight with the Taphians.

An alternative story says that Procris left him and went to Crete where Minos seduced her. She cured him of an infection brought on by Pasiphae. When she returned home, she brought the unerring spear given to her by Minos.

After the death of Procris, Cephalus went to Caphallenia and married Clymene who bore him a son, Iphichus. Others say that Iphichus was her son by Phylacus.

Cephalus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Hermes and Herse father of Phaeton by Eos, some say
In some versions he is confused with Cephalus, son of Deion and Diomedes.

Cepheus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kephous]
king of Ethiopia
son of Belus and Anchinoo brother of Phineus husband of Cassiopeia
father of Andromeda

He chained his daughter to a rock in the sea to propitiate the sea monster that was devouring his people and avenging an insult to the gods when his wife boasted that Andromeda was more beautiful than any goddess.
When a fight ensued over the hand of Andromeda, Perseus, who had rescued her, produced the head of the Medusa and turned Cepheus and the others present into stone.

He and his wife were placed in the heavens by Poseidon.

Cepheus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Kepheus]
king of Tegea
son of Aleus and Neaera brother of Amphidamos, Auge
and Lycurgus
father of Echemus and Sterope

He was one of the Argonauts and also a member of the party hunting the Calydonian boar.

He helped Heracles in the fight in which they killed Hippocoon and his twelve sons, but Cepheus and seventeen of his twenty sons died in the battle.

Cephissus (see Cephisus)

Cephisus Greek

[Cephissus.Kephisos]
a river-god in Delphi
father of Narcissus by Leirioppe

Ceralia (see Cerealia)

Cerastes<sup>1</sup> Central America

a sacred snake, the horned viper

Cerastes<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

a sacred snake, the horned viper

Cerastes<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Kerastes]
a name for Zeus as a horned deity

Ceraunos (see Cernunnos)

ceraunoscropy

divination from the sound of thunder

Cerberus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Cerebus.Kerberos.Kereberus]
the dog guarding the gates to Hades
offspring of Typhon and Echidna

This monster, which had three heads (lion, lynx and sow) and the tail of a dragon, dripped saliva from its jaws and where this fell to the ground the poisonous aconite grew. Earlier stories give him as many as fifty or a hundred heads.

The dead were given a honey cake to give to Cerberus when they arrived at the gates of Hades to ensure that they were allowed to enter unmolested.

Hercules captured the monster and carried it back to Mycenae as his twelfth and final Labour. It was later returned to Hades.

Cerberus<sup>2</sup> (see Naberius)

Cercaphus Greek

son of Helius and Rhode

Some say that he was the father, rather than the brother, of Camirus, Italysus and Lindus.

Cercios Greek

[Kerkios]
a charioteer for Castor and Polydeuces

Cercopes Greek

[Kerkopes]
sons of Oceanus by Theia
The twin gnomes Acmon and Passalus who stole weapons from Hercules and were changed into monkeys (or stone)
by Zeus.

In some accounts a race of gnomes.

Cercyon Greek

[Kerkuon]
a king of Eleusis
son of Hephaestus or Poseidon son of Agamedes, some say father of Alope

His daughter bore a son, Hippothous, by Poseidon, and he abandoned the child, who was found by shepherds who brought it to Cercyon. He then killed his daughter and abandoned the child once again, only for her to be found and reared by the same shepherds.

He specialised in killing travellers
by crushing them in a bear-hug.

When he tried it on Theseus he was lifted and smashed to the ground and instantly killed.

Cerdic British

[Carados]

a Saxon leader fighting against King Arthur father of Cynric

Some say he was one of the British kings who rebelled against Arthur, others that he was the son of the king. In some accounts he was equated with King Carados.

Cerdo Greek

wife of Phoroneus

Cerealia Roman

[Ceralia]

a festival in honour of Ceres held on 19 April (see also Ludi Cerialis)

Cerebus (see Cerberus.Naberius)

Ceres Roman

[=Greek Demeter]

goddess of agriculture and corn

daughter of Saturn and Ops

a consort of Jupiter

mother of Proserpina

Ceres Africana African

[Ceres Punica]

a goddess of agriculture in North Africa

Ceres Punica (see Ceres Africana)

Ceridwen British

[Cari(a)dwen.Carridwen.Cerridwen.

Keridwen.Keridwin.Old White Sow.

White Sow Goddess]

grain-goddess and goddess of inspiration

a lake-dwelling witch

daughter of Ogyrvan, some say wife of Tegid Voel

mother of Avagddu, Creirwy

and Morvran

She boiled a magic brew called greal, made from six herbs, for a year and a day, in a magic cauldron called Amen to produce just three drops, which would endow anybody who drank them with supernatural knowledge. This brew was intended for her ugly son, Avagddu, but the drops splashed on to the thumb of Gwion, the boy employed to watch the pot, and, in sucking his thumb, he acquired the wisdom intended for Avagddu. Ceridwen chased Gwion, both taking various forms, until he finally became a grain of corn which she, in the form of a hen, quickly swallowed. When the boy turned back into human form, she found herself pregnant and gave birth to Gwion. She threw him into the sea, whence he was rescued by Elphin who called him Taliesin.

In some accounts Morvran is a handsome youth, in others he is the ugly son and Avagddu is merely his nickname. (see also Hen Wen)

Cerimon Greek

a physician

He found the dead body of Thiassa, wife of Perides, and restored her to life.

Cermait Irish

a name of Ogma as 'honey-mouth'

Cerna Irish

an evil beast

Cerne Abbas Giant British

a huge figure cut into a chalk hillside in Dorset

The giant it represents is said to have been a Danish giant who was killed by the local people when he was asleep. It has also been interpreted as portraying Cernunnos. Others say it represents the Dagda or Hercules.

Cernobog (see Chernobog)

Cernunnos Celtic

[Ceraunos.The Horned One]

a Gaulish stag-god, a fertility god

He is depicted as a human with stag's antlers, sometimes holding a ram-headed snake and a torc.

ceromancy

divination from hot wax dropping into water

Cerridwen (see Ceridwen)

Cerrig Marchogian British

[Stones of Arthur's Knights]

a group of standing stones in Wales

These stones are said to represent the knights who helped Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Cerrig Meibion Arthur British

[Ty-newydd]

2 standing stones in Wales

These two stones are said to represent the sons of King Arthur who were killed in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Cerunitis (see Ceryneian Hind)

Cerur Greek

a horse of Adrastus

Cervantes, Miguel de Spanish

(1547–1616)

author of Don Quixote

Ceryces (see Ceryx)

Cerynean Hind (see Ceryneian Hind)

Ceryneian Hind Greek

[Arcadian Hind.Cerunitis.Cerynean

Hind.Ceryneian Stag.Cerynitian

Hind.Cerynitis.Keryneian Hind.

Maenalian Hind]

a golden-headed stag

This animal, with golden horns and bronze hooves, was the one that escaped when Artemis captured four others to draw her chariot. It was captured by Hercules as his third Labour.

Some say that this beast was the Pleiad, Taygete, in the form of a hind.

Ceryneian Stag (see Ceryneian Hind)

Cerynes Greek

son of Helenus

He was killed by Deiphontes.

Cerynitian Hind (see Ceryneian Hind)

Cerynitis (see Ceryneian Hind)

Ceryx Greek

[Ceryces]

son of Eumolpus or Hermes by Herse

ces noidhen (see Debility)

ces noindhen (see Debility)

Cesair (see Cessair)

Cesara (see Cessair)

Cessair<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Cesair.Cesara.Kesair.Magof]

leader of the first settlers

a granddaughter of Noah daughter of Bith and Birren daughter of Japhet, some say

wife of Fintan

She led a group of fifty women and three men (her father, brother and husband) who settled in Ireland just before the Flood to escape the deluge because, it was said, there was no room for them in her grandfather's ark. The men were Bith, her father and a son of Noah, Fintan and Ladra, the pilot of the ship. She married Fintan and they had a son Lara but she and most of the original party were killed in the flood. Others say that she died of grief when Fintan left, unable to cope with all fifty women when Bith and Ladra died. Fintan survived in the form of a salmon.

When Tadhg mac Cein arrived in the Otherworld on his journey to rescue his family from the hands of Camthann, she entertained them for a whole year, which seemed like a single day.

Cessair<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Cesair.Cesara.Kesair]

a princess of Gaul

wife of Ugaine Mor

mother of Covac and Laoghaire Lorc

Cessarn Irish

a bard at the court of Conn,

the high-king

Cestrinus Greek

son of Helenus and Andromache

Cestus Greek

Aphrodite's magic girdle made by Hephaestus

- Cet' Irish
[Ceat mac Maghach.Ket]
a warrior of Connaught
son of Maga
brother of Anluan
At various times, he defeated and wounded the best of Ulster's warriors, including Celtchair, but at Mac Da Tho's feast he was outfaced by Conall Cearnach who claimed the right to carve the boar.
He was said to have cut off a hand of Angus' father and was challenged by Angus to single combat to avenge the injury.
In the battle between Ulster and Connaught, he made many raids into Ulster, including one in which he seized the 'brain-ball' made by Conall Cearnach and that was kept at Emain Macha. He used this ball in his sling to wound the king, Conor mac Nessa, who later died from its effect. He then killed the king's son, Cormac Cond Longes, during the siege of the hostel of Da Coga, as Cormac was en route to take the throne of Ulster on the death of his father. In other versions, it was Conall who killed Conor mac Nessa with a slingshot.
When on another raid he killed about thirty Ulstermen and made off with their heads. Conall Cearnach followed him and they met in single combat at a ford. Conall was badly wounded but killed Cet.
- Cet<sup>2</sup> (see Cethe)
- Cetern (see Cathern)
- Ceterni South American
in Peruvian lore, the wife of Naymlap
- Cethe Irish
[Ceithinn.Cet]
son of Dian Cecht
brother of Cian and Cu
- Cethern Irish
[Ceithearn mac Fiontan.Ceithern(e) mac Fionntan.Cetern.Cethren]
a warrior of Ulster
one of the 12 champions of the Red Branch
son of Fintan
While Cuchulainn was recovering from the wounds he received in his epic fight with Ferdia, Cethern emulated the wounded hero by single-handed attacks on the forces of Ailill and Maev. After wreaking havoc amongst these forces, he was killed when several regiments attacked him at the same time.
In later accounts he was a tutor of
- Finn mac Cool and once, accompanied by Finn, went to a fairy mound to woo a maiden of the Otherworld.
- Cethlioni (see Ceithlenn)
- Cethor
husband of Eri
His wife had an affair with Elatha who fathered Bres on her.
- Cethren (see Cethern)
- Cethrwm British
a priest at King Arthur's court
- Ceto Greek
[Keto]
a female sea monster daughter of Nereus and Doris or Pontus and Gaia sister and consort of Phorcys mother of the Gorgons and the Graiae mother of Echidna and Ladon,
some say
- Cetsamain (see Beltane)
- Cetshamain (see Beltane)
- Cetus Greek
a male sea monster
This monster was about to devour Andromeda, chained to a rock, but was killed or turned to stone by Perseus.
- Ceucy South American
a culture heroine
In the early days, when women ruled, Ceucy was cutting branches when sap splashed on her breast. As a result she gave birth to a boy, Jurupari. She was later killed by the followers of Jurupari.
- ceugant British infinity
In Welsh lore, this is conceived as the outermost of the three rings that make up the cosmos.
- Cexohite (see Cinteotl)
- Ceyon (see Seyon)
- Ceyx Greek
[Keux]
a king of Trachis
son of Phosporos
brother of Daedalion husband of Alcyone
father of Hippasus
On a voyage to consult the oracle he was shipwrecked and drowned. His heart-broken wife, persuaded by Morpheus that Ceyx was really dead, tried to die in like fashion by throwing herself off the headland. When her husband's lifeless body floated towards the shore she threw herself into the sea. They were both changed into kingfishers by the gods who took pity on their love for each other.
Some say that Ceyx became a gull, Alcyone the kingfisher.
- Cezalcouatl (see Kukulcan)
- Cghene African
a creator-god of the Isoko tribe of West Africa
- Chaabu Aramaic
a virgin mother-goddess
mother of Dusura
- Chaac (see Chac)
- Chaban Central American
the seventeenth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, when all traces of burning disappear (see also Seven Chaban)
- Chac Central American
[Ah Hoya.Ah Tzenul.Balon Zacab.
Chaac.Hopop Caan.Xib Chac:=Aztec Tlaloc.Tezcatlipoca:=Mixtec Tzahui:= Totonac Tajin:=Zapotec Cojico]
the Mayan god of fertility and rain
Chac is sometimes manifest as one of the Bacabs, four gods, one at each corner of the world.
In later versions there were many Chacs, minor rain-gods under Chac himself. These were later downgraded to little men with beards, living in the sixth heaven, who were said to cause shooting stars when they tossed away their cigarette butts. They are said also to cause rain when they ride on horseback through the heavens, sprinkling water as they go.
Chac is depicted as having large curved fangs and a tapir-like nose.
(see also B)
- Chac Mool<sup>1</sup> Central American
a priest attendant on Chac
In some accounts he is the same as the god Chac.
- chac mool<sup>2</sup> Central American
a carved stone figure of a deity in a reclining posture
- Chac-u-Uayebab Central American
a deity, guardian of the eastern gates
- Chac Uayab Xox Central American
a Mayan fish-god
He is said to eat the bodies of sailors drowned at sea.
- Chacha-puma South American [Lion-man]
a monster in the form of a man with the head of a lion
This being is often depicted holding a club in one hand and a human head in the other.
- Chachihnenetzin Central American
a Mexican princess wife of Nezahualpilli
She earned her title of 'the queen with 100 lovers' by sleeping with any young man who took her fancy. She then had the lover killed and buried and a statue made, which she kept in her room, which eventually became quite crowded. Three only were allowed to live – at least for a while. When her activities were discovered, her husband staged a large trial at which she was condemned. The queen, the three surviving lovers and several thousand others who had helped her were all garrotted.

Chacomat North American
a creator-god of the tribes
of California

Chacopa North American
a creator-god of the tribes
of California

Chacopee North American [White Feather]
a Sioux giant-killer

His tribe had been killed by six giants and he was destined to become 'White Feather, the avenger'. The Man of Wood gave him a pipe, the smoke from which turned into pigeons, an invisible vine and a white feather.

He ran a race against five of the giants, on consecutive days, and won by tripping his opponent with his vine and killing him as the loser. The sixth giant took the form of a maiden to deceive Chacopee and turned him into a dog, taking the white feather and wearing it in his hair. When the giant married a chief's daughter, her sister took the dog. At a meeting of her tribe to decide who was the real owner of the white feather, Chacopee alone could produce flocks of pigeons when he smoked the pipe, so proving his right. He then resumed his human shape while the giant was turned into a dog and killed.

Chada Hindu
one of the yakshas

Chadakiel
a demon, ruler of the sign Libra
(see also Zuriel)

Chadanta Buddhist
a bodhisattva who appeared in the form of a white elephant

This being had two wives, one of whom became a human and married a king. She then instructed her hunters to find and kill her former mate, recognisable by his six tusks. He was caught by Sunottara who failed to cut out the tusks because they were so hard. Chadanta died when he cut out his own tusks and his former wife died when she heard of his death.

Chaetus Greek
one of the 50 sons of Aegyptus husband of Asteria

Chagan-Shukutu Siberian
a deity helping the creator
god Otshirvani

Chahura North American
a Pawnee water spirit

Chaipa-komat (see Tuchaipai)

Chair of Forgetfulness Greek
a seat in the underworld

Souls newly arrived in the underworld were seated in this chair to make them forget all about their earlier existence.

Theseus and Peirithous were trapped in the chair and although Heracles managed to rescue Theseus, Peirithous was doomed forever.

Chair of Taliesin British

[Kadeir Taliesin]
the chair claimed by Taliesin as chief bard of Wales

Chaitanya Hindu
(1484–1527)
an ascetic religious reformer

He was a mortal who was abandoned as a baby, later deified as a mendicant god and regarded by some as an incarnation of Vishnu.

Chak-dor-den-pa Tibetan
the second of the celestial bodhisattvas

Chak-dor-u-isa-rya Buddhist [P'yag-rdor-au-tsa-rya]
the Tibetan name for Acarya-Vajrapani

Chakdor Buddhist
the god of Yiddak, the Tibetan land of hunger and thirst

Chakekenapok North American
brother of Chibiabos, Manabozho and Wabasso

He killed his own mother and was himself killed by Manabozho who scattered pieces of his body, which turned into stones.

chakra Hindu
[cakra:=Tibetan k-or-lo]

a wheel: a sun-symbol: a fiery disc
This wheel, with six or eight spokes, was said to represent the mind of the creator and the passing of time. It was used as a weapon by Vishnu who received it as a gift from Shiva, or by Krishna who had it from Agni. It was also one of the weapons of Durga.

Chakra-Varti Hindu
ruler of the universe

Such a being is marked with a moon that shines from his chest or his forehead and is armed with the wheel (chakra) of Vishnu.

Chakra-Varti (see Chakravartin)

Chakrasamvara Buddhist sublime happiness personified

chakravala Buddhist
the universe envisaged as a circular enclosure

Below the world as we know it lie thirteen hells; above it, there are twenty-six heavens.

Chakravartin Buddhist [Chakra-Varti]

a name for Maitreya, the future
Buddha, as 'emperor of the world'

Chakravartiraja Hindu
[=Chinese Chuan Lun.Chuan-lun Wang]
the ruler of the underworld

Chakshusha Hindu
son of Tvashtri

He was regarded as the sixth incarnation of Manu.

Chakumat (see Tuchaipai)

Chakwena giantess North American in the lore of the Kores, a monster who kept her heart inside a rattle made from a gourd

The sun lord, Ma-sewi, found out where this monster kept her heart and so was able to kill her.

Chalcea Greek
a festival in honour of Hephaestus

In some accounts it is a festival of smiths in honour of Athena.

Chalchihuid (see Chalchitzli)

Chalchihuitlatonal Central American
an Aztec water-god

Chalchihuitlicue Central American [Acuecuyotl.Aiauh.Apoconalotl.
Atlacamani.Altcanals. Chalchitlicue.

Chalchitlicue.Emerald Lady.Goddess of the Jade Petticoat.Jade Skirt.Lady of the Emerald Robe.Xixiquipilihui]

an Aztec water-goddess and goddess of marriage

sister and wife of Tlaloc
mother or sister of the Tlalocs

In some accounts, her consort is referred to as Tlacotehcutil.

She ruled during the Fourth Sun period and was the originator of a flood from which the only humans to escape were those who turned themselves into fishes.

She is said to have invented the rainbow as a bridge to heaven.

She is sometimes depicted in the form of a frog, a snake or a river, but generally as a woman with a yellow face, wearing a blue coronet with green feathers, and a necklace of precious stones, carrying a water plant and vase with a cross on it.

(see also Altcanals)

Chalchihuitonatiuh (see Atl<sup>1</sup>)
Chalchihuitotolin Central American
 [Chalchiutotolin]
 the Aztec god of penitence, an aspect of Tezcatlipoca
Chachihuitzli (see Chalchiutzli)
Chalchiutlicue (see Chalchihuitlicue)
Chalchiutotolin
 (see Chalchihuitotolin)
Chalchiutonatiuh (see Atl<sup>1</sup>) Chalchiutzli Central American
 a name for Chimalmatl after she was placed in the heavens
Chalciopē<sup>1</sup> Greek
 a dawn-goddess, in some accounts daughter of Aetes and Asteroda or Idyia sister of Medea and Apsyrtus wife of Phrixus
 mother of Argeus, Cytisorus, Melanion and Phrontis
Chalciopē<sup>2</sup> Greek
 daughter of Rhexenor second wife of Aegeus
Chalcitlicue (see Chalchihuitlicue)
Chalcodon Greek
 king of the Abantes
 son of Abas
 father of Elphenor by Imenarete
 He was killed by Amphitryon when he attacked Thebes.
Chalcoiecus (see Athena)
Chalcomedusa Greek
 wife of Aroisis
 mother of Laertes, in some accounts
Chalcon Greek
 one of the Telchines, a coppersmith
Chalinitis (see Athena)
Chalkioikes (see Athena)
Chalkydri Slav
 flying demons
 These huge purple beasts are said to have the head of a crocodile and, some say, twelve wings.
Chalmecaciatl Central American
 a paradise for dead children
 A tree growing in this place provided milk to nourish the inhabitants. In some accounts it was the home of Tlaloc and was called Tlalocan.
Chalmecatecuhtli (see Chalmecatl)
Chalmecatl Central American [Chalmecatecuhtli]
 an Aztec god of the underworld
Chamalkan South American
 a chief god of the Cakchiquel tribe, envisaged as a bat
chaman (see shaman)
Chambara-Ntama (see Kanyarundi) Chameleon<sup>1</sup> African
 the animal that discovered man

Chameleon found a man and a woman in his fish trap and, not recognising this new species, showed them to the god Mukungu, who decreed that they should be allowed to live and be placed on earth. The people, at that time immortal, multiplied and the gods, who then lived on earth, retreated to the heavens, giving Chameleon a message to take to the people – they would die but return to life. They gave the lizard a different message – men would die and not return. Lizard arrived first with his message and so men became mortal.

chameleon<sup>2</sup> Greek
 the personification of air

Chamer Central American
 the Mayan god of death
 He is depicted as a white-robed skeleton with a scythe.

Chamiabak Central American
 in Mayan lore, one of the rulers of Xibalba

Chamiaholom Central American
 in Mayan lore, one of the rulers of Xibalba

Chamo
 a demon said to take possession of humans

Chamos<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
 a Moabite god

Chamos<sup>2</sup>
 a demon of flattery
 In black magic he was Chamberlain of the Royal Household.

champak Buddhist
 the magnolia tree

This tree is sacred to the Buddha.

Champaka Tibetan
 a Lamaist sorcerer

Champeyya Buddhist
 a nagaraja
 an incarnation of Buddha consort of Sumana

He was captured by a Brahmin snake-charmer and made to perform tricks. Sumana told the story to the king who had her consort freed. Champeyya then entered a flower and emerged as a handsome young man.

Champeyya-Jataka Buddhist
 the story of Champeyya and Sumana

Chamunda (see Camunda)

Chan<sup>1</sup> Chinese a monster in the form of a huge clam

Chan<sup>2</sup> Central American
 a race of serpents in Yucutan, ancestors of human beings

ch'an-ch'u Chinese a three-legged, toad-like creature,

said to live on the moon

This animal is regarded as a form of Heng O.

Chan Shao (see White Crane Youth)

Ch'an-shih (see I-hsing)

Chanaan British
 a follower of Joseph of Arimathea

He killed his twelve brothers. Next day, their swords were found erect like a hedge of steel round their graves. Lancelot came across the site on his way back to Camelot after giving up the Grail Quest.

Chanakya (see Kautilya)

Chancellor Cloud (see Un-sa)

Chancellor Rain (see U-sa)

Chanchu South American
 a war-god of the Yuracare tribe

Chand Hindu
 a merchant
 father of Lakshmindra

He refused to worship the snake goddess Manasa and she turned herself into a lovely maiden and married him, after which she reverted to her snake form and proceeded to ruin his livelihood, biting six of his sons and killing them. When his other son, Lakshmindra, married Behula, Chand built a steel house to keep them safe from Manasa but she slipped into the house on the wedding night and killed Lakshmindra. She restored him to life only when Chand finally agreed to worship her.

Chanda (see Canda)

Chandaka Buddhist [Channa.Chhandaka]

the Buddha's charioteer, born at the same moment as the Buddha

Chandala Hindu
 a slave master, a manifestation of Dharma

He bought the pious king Harischandra as a slave and treated him harshly but finally revealed himself as Dharma and released the king.

Chandi<sup>1</sup> Hindu
 a name for Devi as 'fierce'

(see Mahadevi)

Chandi<sup>2</sup> (see Canda<sup>1</sup>)

Chandika (see Canda<sup>1</sup>)

Chandipath (see Devi-Mahatmya)

Chandipatha (see Devi-Mahatmya)

Chando Hindu
 a bull that guarded the son of Chandragupta.

Chandra Hindu
 [Candramas.Candra(mus).Indu.Soma]
 a four-armed moon-god, the sacred drink Soma personified

one of the Vasus
one of the Dikpalas
king of the Brahmins brother of Aditya, Agni, Ushas and Vayu consort of the 27 daughters of Daksha

He was said to have been the fifth thing to emerge at the Churning of the Ocean.

As a Dikpala, he was responsible for guarding the north-eastern region.

In one account he abducted Tara, the wife of Brhaspati, and fathered a son, Budha, on her. The ensuing battle between the gods and the demons led by Chandra was settled when Brahma intervened and Brhaspati's wife was restored to him.

His three-wheeled chariot is drawn by ten white horses. His other transport was a white antelope.

(see also Candra<sup>1</sup>.Soma<sup>2</sup>)

Chandra-Kanta Hindu

[Indu-Mani]
a moonstone, said to be formed when the light of the moon falls on clear water

Chandra-Kirana Pacific Islands

[Golden Moon]
a princess
wife of Panji

She required Panji to prove himself by slaying many giants and demons before she would marry him. She and Panji are regarded as incarnations of Dewi Sri and Siwa.

Chandra-vamsa Hindu

descendants of Chandra
These included the Pauravas and the Yadavas.

Chandragupta Hindu

a legendary child
When his father was killed by a chief, the young boy was placed in a vase to hide him from the killer. The vase was guarded by the bull Chando, and the boy was raised by a herdsman. He is regarded as the young sun, saved from the darkness.

Chandraketu Hindu

son of Lakshmana and Urmita
brother of Angada

Chandraprabha Jain

[Lord of the Moon]
the eighth tirthankara

He is depicted with five faces representing the phases of the moon.

chane (see chaneque)

chaneko (see chaneque)

chaneque Central American

[chane(ko)]

one of a race of dwarf-like supernatural beings

Some say that these beings cause illness by stealing a person's soul. Others regard them as guardians of game, who need to be propitiated before a hunt.

Chang<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Man.Wan]
a deity
father of Fat and Tan, the Chinese Twins
His influence in any enterprise is said to be unlucky.

Chang<sup>2</sup> Chinese

the original name of Kuan Ti

Chang Ch'ien Chinese

a magician

Chang Fei Chinese

[Fan K'uei]
a war-god

He is regarded as the ruler of the dark months of the year and is depicted as having a bearded black face and staring eyes.

In some areas he is regarded as the patron of builders.

Some say that Chang Fei is a meat seller who became immortalised as the god of butchers. In this version, he is envisaged as some eight feet tall with the head of a panther.

Ch'ang Hao Chinese

[Snake King]
a shape-changing being overcome in the Battle of Mu

Chang Heng Chinese

son of Chang Tao-ling father of Chang Lu

Chang-hko Burmese

in Kachin lore, a woman who survived the flood

sister of Pawpaw Nan-chaung
She (and in some versions her brother) survived the flood, throwing a cockerel and a needle out of their boat each day until, on the ninth day, the cock crowed and the needle was heard striking bottom, showing that the waters were receding. They were taken in by some rats living in a cave, and later Chang-hko bore a child to one of them. A female rat cut the child into pieces and scattered them at the junction of nine roads. The distraught mother ran to the junction and men sprang up from all the roads, men who repopulated the world.

Chang Hsi (see Heng Hsi)

Chang Hsien<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Bow Spirit.Chang Yüan-hsiao.Immortal Chang]

a protector-god of children father of Chien T'an

He is said to have been a mortal, king of Szechuan province, deified after his death at the hands of the Sung emperor.

In some accounts he appeared to the emperor in the form of an archer; in others he was Chang Yüan-hsiao who bought a crossbow that could end epidemics from a man with two pairs of eyes.

Some stories refer to him as the God of Emoluments, in place of Lu Hsing; in others he is the same as Chang Kuo-Lao.

He is depicted with a white beard, and holding a bow and arrows, accompanied by a small boy.

Chang Hsien<sup>2</sup> (see I<sup>4</sup>)

Chang Kuei-fang Chinese

a general
He committed suicide and became a star spirit.

Chang Kuo-lao Chinese a 7th-8th c itinerant ascetic

one of the Eight Immortals

He was said to have the power to make himself invisible. He travelled riding backwards on a white mule, which he could fold up and put in his pocket, restoring it to its normal form by sprinkling it with water.

He was called to the emperor's court but dropped dead en route, only to be restored to life.

When his identity as a white bat was disclosed by Fa-shan, the latter dropped dead but was restored to life when Chang Kuo-lao sprinkled the body with water.

In some accounts, he is equated with Chang Hsien.

Chang Lu Chinese

[Prince Celestial Master]
grandson of Chang Tao-ling

Chang Lung Chinese

a 7th c magistrate

He became a dragon and, with the help of his nine sons, killed another dragon and took over his temple.

Ch'ang O (see Heng O)

Chang Shao Chinese

a man who tried to kill the Old Man of the South Pole

Chang Shao used hot sand, the immortal only his fan, but Chang Shao was defeated and killed by the jade club of the White Crane Youth.

Chang Shao-p'ing Chinese

the original name of Tung-fang

Shuo

Ch'ang-sheng-t'u Ti Chinese

[God of the Place of Long Life]
a god of the household husband of Jui-ch'ing-fu-jen

He is responsible for the register of births and deaths of the family.

Chang Tao-ling Chinese

[Chang T'ien-shih. Chang Tsao-wang.
Chen-jen. Rice Thief]
(35-157)

a Taoist immortal, founder of a magical form of Taoism

a god of the afterlife father of Chang Heng

He is said to have become immortal by conquering five poisonous animals (centipede, scorpion, snake, spider and toad) and drinking the elixir that he brewed from their venom when he was already over sixty years old, and he ascended to heaven at the age of 123.

He made exorbitant charges for advising people how to cure illness while immersed in a lake, and he became known as the Rice Thief. It was said that he could divide himself into parts so as to be present in several places at the same time. On one occasion, he stretched his arms to some thirty feet to rescue a disciple stranded on a ledge on a cliff face.

He was said to control all the Taoist demons and spirits and owned a sword that could kill demons thousands of miles away. He is depicted riding a tiger.

Chang T'ien-shih

(see Chang Tao-ling)

Chang Ting-tzu

(see Pu T'ai Ho-shang)

Chang Tsai Chinese

one of the disciples of Confucius
allowed to sacrifice at the Temple of Confucius

Chang Tsao-wang

(see Chang Tao-ling. Tsao Chün)

Chang Tung-ch'ang Chinese

god of the city Kuei-lin (Guilin)

He was originally a 17th c officer in the army of the emperor.

Chang Ya-tzu Chinese

the original name of Wen Ch'ang Ti Chun, in some accounts

Chang Yüan-hsiao (see Chang Hsien)Chang Yüeh Chinese

an 8th c writer

Changing Woman North American

a female deity of the Apache and Navaho

the moon

wife of the sun

mother of Child-of-the-Water and Killer-of-Enemies

She was said to be able to change from woman to baby to old woman at will.

In some accounts, she is the same as Turquoise Woman, while others say that both Estantlehi (Turquoise Woman) and Yol kai Estsan (White Shell Woman) were created by Changing Woman from flakes of dry skin from under her breasts.

Chanicuba South American

in the lore of the tribes of Colombia,
the personification of evil

Channa (see Chandaka)chanson de geste French

a narrative poem telling the story of a hero and his exploits

Chanson de Roland European

[Song of Roland]
an 11th c epic poem

This poem relates the exploits of Roland, the warrior hero of the Franks, and his gallantry at Roncevalles. The original work was gradually added to over the centuries until it numbered over 40,000 lines.

Chant of Hyndla (see Hyndlu-Ljod)Chantecler (see Chanticleer)Chanticleer European

[Chantier]
the cock in Reynard the Fox

Chantico<sup>1</sup> Central American

an Aztec goddess of the hearth and volcanoes (see also Chantico<sup>2</sup>)

Chantico<sup>2</sup> South American

an Inca goddess of the household
She was said to be made of gold and wore a crown of poisonous cactus.
(see also Chantico<sup>1</sup>)

Chanun Burmese

offspring of Hkrip Hkrawp and Sik Sawp

consort of Woi-shun
parent of Ngawn-wa-Magam

Chanun and Woi-shun are regarded as the creators of all things and as ancestors of the human race.

Chanura Hindu

a huge wrestler
Kansa employed this wrestler to kill Krishna but it was the wrestler who was killed by the god.

Chao Chinese

a Taoist deity
one of the Four Diamond Kings

He is depicted as holding two swords.

ch'ao ching Chinese

dragons of lion-like appearance

ch'ao feng Chinese a dragon said to love danger

Chao Kung-ming Chinese

[Ts'ai Shen (Yeh)]
brother of the 3 sisters known as the Keng San Ku-niang

He was a 12th c hermit who fought in the Battle of Mu where he rode a black tiger and killed many of the enemy with exploding pearls. He was killed in the battle, together with his sisters, and was made a god of wealth.

(see also Pi Kan)

Chao-pao Shih-che Chinese

a minor deity
assistant to the God of Riches

Chao-pao T'ien-tsun Chinese

a minor deity
assistant to the God of Riches

Chao San Niang Chinese

goddess of wigmakers

Originally the wife of a scholar, Chao San Niang suffered great hardship living on chaff while her husband was away from home. When her parents died she had to shave her head and sell her hair to pay for the funeral. She managed to save enough hair to make a wig in which she greeted her husband on his return, and was later immortalised as the goddess of wig-makers.

Chao Yen Chinese

a young man whose life was extended Chao Yen was due to die before the age of twenty but, advised by Kuan Lo, he approached two men seated under a tree playing draughts and gave them meat and wine. One of them altered the date on the young man's official document so that the figure nineteen became ninety. The men were the gods of the North and South Poles.

Chaob Central American

the 4 Mayan wind-gods

One god controls the winds from each of the cardinal points. It is said that they will eventually cause storms that will destroy the world.

The east wind is controlled by Hunaunic, the west wind by Chikinkuh.

chaomancy

divination by aerial apparitions

Chaonia (see Dodona)Chaonian bird Greek

a name for the dove as 'bearer of the oracles of Dodona'

Chaonian food Greek

acorns or, some say, beech mast

Chaos<sup>1</sup> British

a giant

When Gawain and his brothers were en route to King Arthur's court to be made knights they were attacked by a band of mercenary Saxons and giants, including Chaos and Sanagran, who had just raided London while Arthur was absent at his wedding feast. The brothers routed their attackers and recovered the looted treasure. Chaos was killed by Gawain.

Chaos<sup>2</sup> Greek
a primordial being

This being is regarded as the progenitor of the deities Eros, Erebus, Gaea, Nyx and Tartarus.

Chaos<sup>3</sup> Phoenician
a primaeva creator deity consort of Aer progenitor of Kolpia and Pothos

Chaos<sup>4</sup>
a disordered state
Many mythologies envisage a pre-existing state from which the ordered universe appeared, and deify the primordial creative power as Chaos.
(see Creation)

Chaos<sup>5</sup> (see Hun-tun)

Chaos Goose (see Nile Goose)

Chaos Mother (see Tiamat)

Chapalu (see Capalu)

Chapters of Pert Em Rhu
(see Book of the Dead)

Chapultepec Central American
an Aztec sacred mountain, home of kings

Charaka Hindu
a Vedic scholar
He recorded all the medical knowledge passed on to him by Agnivesha.

He is regarded by some as an incarnation of Ananta.

Charaxus Greek
brother of Sappho
On one of his voyages to Egypt, carrying wine for trade, he ransomed the young slave girl Rhodopsis and married her.

Chareya North American
[Great Man.Old Man Above.One Above]
the supreme deity of the Cahroc tribe
(see also Gudratrigakwitl)

Chariclo<sup>1</sup> Greek
one of the Naiads wife of Chiron

Chariclo<sup>2</sup> Greek
a nymph
mother of Teiresias by Evers

Charidotēs Greek
a name for Hermes as god of fertility, flocks and herds

Charilaus Greek
a king of Sparta

son of Polydectes
When Polydectes died, he left his wife pregnant. She offered to kill her child when it was born and to share the throne with Lycurgus, brother of Polydectes. Lycurgus pretended to agree but, instead, protected the boy, Charilaus, and proclaimed him king.

chariot
a two-wheeled vehicle for personal transport, usually horse-drawn, appearing in many mythologies as the transport of the gods

In Greek and Roman stories, chariots of the gods were drawn by various animals and birds:

Aides-horses
Amphitrite-dolphins
Aphrodite-doves, sparrows or swans
Apollo-horses
Ares-horses or wolves
Artemis-deer
Athene-owls
Bacchus (see below Dionysus)
Ceres-serpents
Cronus-elephants
Cybele-lions
Demeter-serpents
Dionysus-leopards, lynx or tigers
Galatea-dolphins Helios-horses
Hephaetus-dogs
Hera-peacocks
Hermes-lizards, rams or storks
Jupiter (see below Zeus)
Luna-horses
Medea-dragons
Oceanus-whales
Pan-goats
Phoebus-horses
Pluto-horses
Poseidon-dolphins or sea horses
Venus (see Aphrodite above)
Zeus-eagles

In Norse myths, Frey's chariot was drawn by boars, Freya's by cocks, that of Thor by goats.

Chariot of the Soul Chinese a vehicle used to carry the deceased emperor (see also Boat of the Soul)

Charis Greek [plur=Charites]
goddess of all things gracious
Originally said to be the consort of Hephaestus, later one of the three Graces (Charites).

(see also Aglaia<sup>1</sup>.Graces)

Charites (see Graces)

Charitesia Greek

a festival in honour of the Charites

Charities (see Graces)

Charlemagne European

(c. 742–814)
[Carle.Carolus Augustus.Carolus Magnus.Charlemain.Charles I.Charles the Great.David.Magnus] king of the Franks
Emperor of the West
son of Pepin the Short and Bertha brother of Bertha, Carloman and Pepin father of Belisent, Charlot, Louis, Melisenda and Pepin

He was a real-life king, variously said to have been born in 742 or 747, described as eight feet (some say twenty feet) tall, whose exploits form the basis of many legends. He fought over fifty battles against Lombards, Moors (called Saracens in the stories) and Saxons in defence of Christianity. His personal companions were known as paladins or peers.

In some accounts he had nine wives: these were Adalinda, Desiderata, Fastrade, Gersuinde, Hildegarde, Himiltrude, Luitgarde, Maltegarde and Regina. Some say that his second wife was Hermangarde, daughter of Desiderius.

In one story he omitted to confess certain of his sins at mass and a tablet setting out his transgressions appeared in front of the ministrant, whereupon the emperor admitted his fault and was given absolution.

On another occasion he dreamed that an angel instructed him to steal something from one of his ministers. En route, he was challenged by the highwayman Elbegast, and defeated him but spared his life. Elbegast helped the king, as he then was, to enter the minister's house where he overheard a plot to kill him. Armed with a trinket he had taken from the minister's bedroom he was able to expose the plotters, but nevertheless forgave them. Elbegast became one of the king's devoted followers. Charlemagne himself was crowned as Holy Roman Emperor. Soon after his investiture he fathered a son, Roland, on Bertha, his own sister, whom he then married off to Milon who assumed that the baby, born seven months later, was his own.

Another version of this story says that he went on a stealing expedition with a thief called Basin, adopting the name of Magnus, which became a favourite byname of the emperor.

The Saxon king Widukund led a revolt against the rule of Charlemagne but his army was defeated and the king was killed or, some say, captured, tried and imprisoned, dying soon afterwards in captivity. At about this time, Charlemagne saw a knight being drawn along in a boat on the Rhine by a swan. This man, the Swan Knight, became a member of the emperor's court and, in some accounts, married his sister.

Charlemagne's kingdom was attacked by Marsilius, king of Spain and Agramant, Emperor of Africa, but he defeated them with the help of his paladins. When many of these, including his nephew Roland, were killed at the battle of Roncesvalles, he hanged not only the Spanish king but also Gano, a member of his own court who had betrayed him.

When he received a request for help from Pope Leo, he took an army into Italy to repel the Saracens besieging Rome or, in some accounts, the rebellious Romans. The invaders were forced to withdraw and the Pope was re-established. In the battle, Charlemagne's horse was killed and he would have died had not Ogier intervened to save him.

When Charlot killed Ogier's young son, Baldwin, Ogier, in an attack on Charlot, accidentally knocked a cup of wine into the Emperor's face. Ogier fled but was later captured and imprisoned. When Bruhier, Sultan of Arabia, attacked Paris and challenged Charlemagne, the emperor agreed to hand over Charlot for punishment if Ogier would take up the challenge of Bruhier. Another story says that Charlemagne had a sister called Alif who was seduced by a courtier, Milon, and imprisoned by her husband, King Hugon, until, after seven years, she was rescued by her son, Landres. Charlemagne restored Alif to her proper position and incarcerated Milon in the same dungeon, which was filled with snakes and toads.

It is said that Charlemagne was 200 years old when he died. He lies asleep, awaiting recall to defend Christendom against the Antichrist although some believe that he returns each year, crossing the Bridge of Gold over the Rhine, to bless the crops.

In some accounts he is equated with King Arthur.

Charlemagne's Pleaid European

[Pleaid]

a group of scholars brought together by the emperor, Charlemagne

Each member of this élite circle took the name of some famous figure from history and Charlemagne was known as David.

Among the group were Adelard (known as Augustine), Alcuin (Albinus), Angilbert (Homer) and Riculfe (Damatas).

Charlemain (see Charlemagne)

Charles I (see Charlemagne)

Charles Martel (see Martel)

Charles the Great (see Charlemagne)

Charles' Wain (see Great Bear)

Charlot European

[Berthelot.Karlot]

son of Charlemagne

brother of Louis and Pepin

He was with his father's army in Italy, where they had gone at the request of the Pope to repel the Saracen invaders, when he was challenged to combat by Sadon, whose cousin, Carahue, challenged Ogier. He arrived with a troop of his followers and attacked the other three, but Ogier and the two Saracens fought together and routed their attackers.

In an attack of rage he killed Baldwin, son of Ogier the Dane, merely because the youth was beating him in a game of chess. Ogier would have killed him but a servant intervened, with the result that the furious Dane knocked a cup of wine into the Emperor's face. Ogier fled the court but was later captured and imprisoned. When Charlemagne needed a champion to take up the challenge thrown down by Bruhier, Sultan of Arabia, the Emperor asked Ogier to help. He agreed provided that he could punish Charlot for the murder of his son. When Charlot was led before Ogier, the warrior forced his son's killer to his knees, raised his sword over his head but then relented and spared Charlot's life.

He plotted with Amaury to kill the brothers Girard and Huon of Bordeaux so that he could take over their lands and laid an ambush for the two young men when they came to present themselves at Charlemagne's court. He wounded Girard but was himself killed by Huon.

Another version says that he challenged Alardo to a chess match and struck him with the chessboard when Alardo won. Rinaldo (Renaud) killed Charlot in revenge.

charm (see amulet.talisman)

Charon Greek

[Kharon:=East Indies Tempon

Telon:=Egyptian Turnface:=Etruscan

Charun:=Mesopotamian Arad Ea]

the ferryman of Hades

son of Erebus and Nyx

He conveys the dead over the River Acheron (and/or Styx) to Hades but will carry only those with the fare of one obol placed on their lips. Those without the fare have to wait 100 years, but are then carried across free of charge.

Charon's toll Greek

the obol placed on the lips of the dead

to pay for their ferry journey across the river to Hades

Charops Greek

father of Oeagrus, in some accounts

He helped the god Dionysus who then passed on details of the rites of his orgies, details which were handed on to Oeagrus and then to Orpheus.

Charos Greek

[plur=Charontes]

an ancient god or angel of death

This being is said to arrive on horseback to carry off the dead.

Charontes (see Charos)

Charpati Tibetan

a Lamaist sorcerer and alchemist

When he taught Nagarjuna the secret of transmutation of base metals into gold, he was rewarded with a pair of magic shoes that gave him the power of flight.

Charumati Hindu

daughter of Krishna and Rukmini

Charun Roman

[=Greek Charon]

an Etruscan god of death

He was said to accompany Mars in battle and to finish off the dying with a blow from his hammer.

Charvi (see Yakshi<sup>2</sup>)

Charvaka Hindu

a rakshasa

He appears in the Mahabharata as an imposter who was killed by the Brahmins.

Charybdis Greek

[Kharubdis]

a sea nymph

daughter of Poseidon and Gaea

This was a monster under a rock, the 'sea swallower', a whirlpool set opposite the rock Scylla, which swallowed and regurgitated the sea three times each day.

Some say that she was originally a maiden who was thrown into the sea by Zeus for robbing Hercules.

Chasca South American
an Inca goddess of the dawn

Chasca Coyllur South American
an Inca god, guardian of young girls

Chaser (see Yagrush)

Chasse Artur Anglo-Saxon
the Anglo-Saxon version of the Wild Hunt

Chastel Marte (see Castle of Wonders)

Chastiefol British
a sword of King Arthur

chataka
a mystic bird that drinks only rainwater

Chateau de la Charette British
[Castle Chariot]

the home of the queen of Sorestan Lancelot was once imprisoned in this house and was required to choose, as a lover, one of four fairy queens.

Chatloup
a monster, part wolf, cat and goat

Chattrosnisa Buddhist
a sky-god

Chatura (see Khepra)

Chaus British
a squire of King Arthur

son of Owain the Bastard
He dreamt that he rode to a chapel in a forest and found there the body of a dead knight. He took one of the golden candlesticks from the chapel and left. He then met an armed man who called Chaus a thief and stabbed him in the thigh with his knife. The pain caused Chaus to wake up and he found a knife in his side, a golden candlestick in his hand and he died soon afterwards.

Chautron (see Gudrun)

Chayula Buddhist
one of the 6 regions shown on the second ring of the Tibetan Wheel of Life, the Sipa Khorlo

This is the celestial region, home of the god and the site of Indra's palace.

Chax (see Shax)

Chaya (see Chhaya)

Chaya Bulan Malay [Moonshade]
a princess

She was the owner of the magical bird Indera Bayu.

Cheape (see Cheop)

Chebel Yax Central American
a goddess of weaving

Chediaetros Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon the hunter watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Chediaetros, tore him to pieces.

Cheeroonar Australian
a monster with the body of a man and the head of a dog

This being, which had arms so long that they trailed on the floor as he walked, hunted and killed humans for food, accompanied by his wife and a pack of six huge dogs. All of them were killed by tribesmen he had preyed on when they sought the help of the Winjarning Brothers.

cheirognomy
[ch(e)iromancy.chirognomy.palmistry] divination from lines on the hands

cheiromancy (see cheirognomy)

Cheiron (see Chiron)

Chekel Waneng Pati (see Panji)

chela<sup>1</sup> Buddhist a religious novice

chela<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a novice instructed by a guru

Cheldric British
a Saxon leader killed by Cador

Cheleb
a devil who works evil in the day (see also Deber)

Chelinde British
wife of Sador
mother of Apollo

When she and her husband became separated she, thinking him dead, remarried. Sador reappeared on the scene in later years and was killed by his son Apollo who did not recognise him.

Chelone Greek
a nymph

For ridiculing Zeus and Hera at their wedding, Hermes turned Chelone into a turtle.

Chembe (see Nzambe)

Chemin West Indian a Carib sky-god

Chem-pa (see Byams-pa)

Chemor
a demon

Chemos British
Milton's name for Chemosh

Chemosh Mesopotamian
[Chemos.Kemos(h)]=Babylonian Samas]
a Moabite war-god and thunder-god

Chemosit (see Nandi Bear)

Chen<sup>1</sup> Chinese
the family name of Pi-hsia Yüan-chun

Chen<sup>2</sup> Chinese
one of the Eight Diagrams – thunder, dragon

Ch'en Chi (see Ha<sup>1</sup>)

Ch'en Kuang-ju (see Tripitaka)

Chen Jen Chinese
perfect beings, a title given to both Chang Tao-ling and Hsien Hsiu and to Ma Ku, the female hermit

Chen-re-zi (see sPyan-ras-gzigs)

Chen Shen Chinese
son of Tou Shen
brother of Ma Shen, P'an Shen and Sha Shen

He helps his mother in dealing with cases of smallpox.

Chen Tsung Chinese
an emperor

He claimed that a deity, Yü Huang, advised him in dreams. Yü Huang was later incorporated into Shang Ti.

Ch'eng-huang Chinese [Shui Jung]

administrator and protector of humans
god of walls and moats

He protected mankind from Yen-wang, king of the dead, and acted as a preliminary judge on the souls of the dead.

Cheng-i Chinese
one of the disciples of Confucius
allowed to sacrifice in the Temple of Confucius

Cheng Lun (see Hang)

Ch'eng T'ang Chinese [T'ang]
an emperor

A tortoise brought him a message from the gods that he should take the throne after Chieh Kuei, a cruel despot. The hills overflowed with silver during his reign.

Cheng-tzu Chinese a disciple of Confucius
one of the Four Saints

Cheng Wu Chinese
[Hsüan T'ien Shang-ti.Pei-chi-chen-chun] guardian of the north

He is said to have slit open his own body, removing five vital organs which turned into ravaging animals, while the knife turned into a youth and the scabbard into a maiden.

Cheng Wu later changed the wild animals into musical instruments.

Some say that he was a reincarnation of Yüan Shih.
(see also Cheng-wu Sheng-kun.Huan Ti)

Cheng-wu Sheng-kun Chinese a name for Huan Ti as a triumphant warrior (see also Cheng Wu)

chenoo North American

huge stone giants

These giants are constantly fighting amongst themselves but if they are observed by humans they petrify once again.

In some accounts they could be tamed and manipulated by medicine men.

(see also Stone Giants)

Chenresi (see sPyan-ras-gzigs)

Chensit (see Khensit)

Chentechtai Greek

the Greek version of Khenti-cheti

Chenti-cheti (see Khenti-cheti)

Chenti-inti (see Khenti-inti)

Chenti Amentiu (see Khenti Amentiu)

Chenuke South American

to the Ona tribe of Tierra del Fuego,
the personification of evil

This spirit was finally defeated by the hero Kwanyip.

Cheop Egyptian

[Cheape.Chepe(ra)]

an early sun-god

Chepe (see Cheop)

Chepera (see Cheop.Khepra)

Chepra (see Khepra)

Chera Greek

a name for Hera as 'widow'

Chernava Russian

daughter of a sea-god

wife of Sadko

Chernobog Slav

[Black God.Cernobob.Czarnobog.

Czernibog.Zcernoboch.Zernebock]

the force of evil opposing Bylebog

cherry<sup>1</sup> Greek

the tree of Apollo

cherry<sup>2</sup> Japanese

a tree that is believed to have an individual spirit

Cherry Tree Pond Japanese

the home of Genko when he became a dragon

Cherti (see Kherty)

Cheru Norse

[Er.Heru:=Saxon Saxsnot]

a war-god identified with Heimdall or Tyr

He owned a marvellous sword made by the dwarfs who had made Gungnir, the spear of Odin. When this sword was stolen, the Norns foretold that whoever held it would conquer the world but would be killed by it. It was given to Vitellius, a Roman prefect who was made emperor, but stolen by a soldier who used it to kill Vitellius. In old age he buried the sword, which was found by Attila who conquered the known world and died by the sword at the hands of his wife Ildico, who thus avenged the killing of her father. The sword was said to have passed to the Duke of Alva and finally to the archangel Michael.

cherub

[kerub:plur=cherubim:=Arab karubi:=

Assyrian khrebu:=Hebrew k'rubh]

a four-part beast (eagle, lion, man, ox), the wheel of the gods' chariot of fire, armed guardians of paradise

A cherub is envisaged as blue or golden, in the form of a man with a four-fold head standing on wheels.

cherubim (see cherub)

Cherufe South American

in Araucanian lore, a monster that lives in volcanoes and eats

human beings

Chesok (see Hanullim)

Cheun Central American

the eleventh of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the torture of burning

(see also One Cheun)

Chevalier Mal Fet, Le British

[Sinner Lord]

the name used by Lancelot after his period of madness when he lived with Elaine at Castle Bliant

Chevasche

a sorceress said to suck babies' blood

Chevrefeuille French

a 12th c poem of Arthurian lore

written by Marie de France

Chhalla South American

a libation to the gods among the Aymara of Bolivia

Chhandaka (see Chandaka)

Chhaya Hindu

[Chaya.'shadow'.Shaya]

an attendant of Sanjna

mother of Savarni and Shani

When Sanjna found the brightness of Surya too intense, she left him and sent him Chhaya, her attendant (or, some say, her sister) as a mistress. She bore him three children.

Chi<sup>1</sup> Chinese

a Taoist god of agriculture

In some accounts Chi is an ancient deity, patron of thieves

(see also Sung Chiang)

chi<sup>2</sup> Chinese

a dead devil

ch'i<sup>3</sup> Chinese

breath, which developed in the Tai

Shih period: the Immortal Principle

ch'i<sup>4</sup> Chinese

the male unicorn (see also ch'i-lin)

Ch'i<sup>5</sup> Chinese

son of Yü

He rode up to heaven on two dragons and returned with the gift of music for all mankind.

ch'i<sup>6</sup> Chinese

the passive principle, opposed to li

Ch'i and li combined to give Yin and Yang.

Chi Chac Chob (see Ah Kin)

Ch'i-chiang Chinese

the Great Bear constellation

Ch'i-fu-shen Chinese

the Seven Gods of Happiness

These deities were absorbed into the Japanese pantheon as the Shichi Fukojin.

Chi I (see Chu I)

Chi Kung Chinese

[Li Hsiu-yüan.Tao Chi]

a 12th c monk

one of the Eighteen Lohan, in

some accounts

son of Li Mou-ch'un

He was somewhat eccentric and was often known as the Mad Healer, using magic to cure sickness, etc.

(see also Ch'ih Kung)

Ch'i-ku (see Keng San Ku-niang)

Ch'i-ku-niang Chinese

[Miss Seventh]

a goddess

daughter of the Jade Emperor

She is said to bring visions of their future husbands to young maidens.

ch'i-lin Chinese

[ch'i.Chinese Unicorn.dragon-

horse.horse-dragon. kylin.lin.lu.piao.poh:

=Japanese kirin:=Tibetan serou]

a monster, part deer, part fox, with a single horn: a unicorn

one of the Four Precious Animals

chief of the hairy animals

ruler of the west and autumn

This animal was the symbol of Kao-yao, judge in the underworld. It was said to have appeared out of the Yellow

River at the birth of Confucius, but has never been seen since man became corrupt. It is said to display five colours

(black, blue, red, white and yellow) and has a voice that sounds like chiming bells. In some accounts it has a scaly body and two backward-curving horns and may live up to 1,000 years.

As a dragon-horse, it is described as a water spirit that can walk on water.

Others regard it as a white tiger. The male is ch'i, the female lin.

Chi Lung Wang Chinese

the dragon king of fire engines

The help of Chi Lung Wang is sought

when fire engines are in action.

Ch'i Po Chinese

an assistant of Huang-ti

Chi-Rho

a sacred symbol

Chi-sheng Hsien-shih Chinese

[Perfectly Holy Ancient Master]

the final title given to Confucius

Chi Tao (see Han Chung-li)

Ch'i-ti Chinese

[Red Lord]

a sky-god responsible for the south

Chi-tu Chinese

[Cauda Draconis.Dragon's Tail:=Hindu Ketu]

the southern node at the intersection of the orbits of the moon and earth

In astrology Chi-tu and the opposite node, Lo-hou, are said to be the site of invisible planets, the homes of the gods.

Chi-wara African

a fertility-god of the Bambara

This deity is envisaged as an antelope.

ch'i-wen Chinese

dragons said to swallow evil

Chi Yü Chinese

a demon

He fought with Huang Ti and was defeated. He was envisaged as a man with a copper head with four eyes, the feet of an ox and six hands.

Chia South American

[Chie.Huitaca.Hunthaca]

a moon-goddess and goddess of drunkenness of the Chibcha Indians wife of Bochica or Nemquetcha

In some stories she sent the floods that devastated the land and was thereafter confined to the night sky as the moon-goddess, in others the floods were the work of Chibchacum. Some accounts say that she was turned into an owl or the moon by Bochica or Nemquetcha.

Chia-hsi-na (see Na-ka-hsi-na)

Chia-li-chia Chinese

the Chinese version of Kalika

chia yen (see elephant<sup>1</sup>)

Chiang Chinese

wife of Chou Wang

mother of T'ai Sui

The evil concubine Ta Chi persuaded Chou Wang to kill Chiang by throwing her from a tall building, and to abandon his infant son, T'ai Sui.

Chiang Lu Shang (see Chiang Tzu-ya)

Chiang Shih Chinese

a devoted son

He and his wife devoted their lives to looking after his old mother. He was rewarded when a spring erupted near his home from which he caught two fish every day.

Chiang T'ai Kung

(see Chiang Tzu-ya)

Chiang Tzu-ya Chinese

[Chiang Lu Shang.Chiang T'ai Kung.

T'ai Kung Wang]

a general, deified as a god of fishermen

After the Battle of Mu, he visited Yüan-shih in the Jade Palace and received a list of ways to achieve immortality from the Old Man of the South Pole. On his way home he met Shen Kung-pao who pitted his magic against that of Chiang Tzu-ya, hoping to win the list. Shen cut off his own head and made it float in the air and won the contest, but the Old Man of the South Pole sent the White Crane Youth to intervene. He would have carried off the airborne head but Chiang Tzu-ya asked him not to and Shen's head was restored to his body.

Chiang Yüan Chinese

mother of Hou-t'u

She became pregnant when she inadvertently stepped on the toe of a god and, when her son was born, tried three times to abandon him. He was rescued each time by animals, birds and woodcutters and Chiang Yüan finally accepted him as her own.

chiao Chinese

one of the 3 main types of dragon

This beast is said to live in mountain bogs.

Chiao Kuan Chinese

an official of the celestial Ministry of

Time, responsible for the night hours

He is regarded as one of the three bean-curd gods. The others are Huai-nan-tzu and Kuan Ti.

Chia-t'ang Chinese a shrine used for ancestor-worship

Chibchacum (see Chibchacum)

Chibchacum South American

[Chibchacum.Chicchechum]

the god of agricultural work of the Chibcha Indians

He sent a flood in some stories; in others it was the work of Chia, wife of Bochica.

In some accounts, like Atlas, he supports the earth.

Chibiabos North American

[Chipiabos.Chipiapoos:=Abnaki Malsum:=

Iroquois Tawiscara:=Menomine Moqwaol]

brother of Chakekenapok, Nanabozho and Wabasso

He was seized by the Underwater Panthers who killed him but Nanabozho revived him and made him ruler of the underworld.

(see also White Hare)

Chibiliax (see Ix Chel)

Chibinda Ilunga African

a prince of the Luba people

He married Lueji, Queen of the Lunda people, and took her place as ruler. She proved to be infertile and so she gave Chibinda another woman as a wife.

Chibirias (see Ix Chel)

Chiburi Japanese

one of the Michi-no-Kami, 3 guardians of boundaries and roads

Chicchan (see Chicchan)

Chicchan<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Chiccan]

Mayan rain-gods

These four deities, envisaged as giant reptiles, live in deep lakes, one at each cardinal point. They cause clouds to form from which other gods cause rain to fall.

Chicchan<sup>2</sup> Central American

[Chiccan]

the fifth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the collecting together of one's experiences

(see also Two Chicchan)

Chicchechum (see Chibchacum)

Chichak Pacific Islands

the lizard, said by some to be the spirit of ancestors

Chichen Itza (see Itzamna)

Chichevache European

a monster, in the form of a cow, who ate only good women and hence was very thin

chichic South American

a huaca placed in a maize field to protect the crop

Chichinguane African

in the lore of Mozambique, a girl who lived in a fish

When she was trapped in a river, the fish Chipfalamfula took her into his mouth for safety and she lived in his belly until she was old enough to marry. Then she returned to dry land where she was attacked by ogres. The big fish stopped the river long enough for her to cross over its dry bed and then restarted the flow and drowned her attackers. She met a prince who fell in love with her and married her.

Chickaban South America

a festival in honour of Kukulcan held at the end of October

Chicol Irish

son of Goll and Lot

Chicomecoatl (see Chicomecohuatl)

Chicomecohuatl Central American

[Chicomecoatl.Seven-Serpent. Seven Snakes.Xilonen]

an Aztec maize-goddess, a manifestation of Coatlicue or Tonacacihuatl some say consort of Cinteotl

Chicomexochtli Central American

[Seven Flowers]

an Aztec god, patron of painters

In some accounts he is equated with Tonacatecuhtli.

Chicomoztoc Central American

[Cavern of Seven Chambers:=Quiche Tulkan-Zuiva]

the refuge from which the Aztec people emerged

Chiconahui Central American

an Aztec goddess of the hearth

Chiconahui*Itzcuintli-Chanctico Central American

an Aztec god, patron of lapidaries

Chiconahuihecatl Central American

an Aztec creator-god

Chicuna Central American

a god of Panama

Chicuauhmictlan Central American

[Chicuauhmictlan.Ciconauhmicltlan]

the last of the 9 regions of the Aztec underworld, Mictlan

Some say that the soul must spend four years in the other regions of Mictlan before reaching this final resting place.

Chicunauhapan Central American

one of the 9 rivers of the Aztec underworld, Mictlan

When a man died, his dog was killed and buried with him. This animal was said to carry his master's soul across the rivers of the underworld.

Chicunauhmicltlan

(see Chicuauhmictlan)

Chie (see Chia)Chief Child of the Root

North American

a spirit of the Coeur d'Alene tribe who later became the moon

Chief d'Oire European

the home of Parthonopeus and Melior

Chief Thunderbird (see Kenuem)Chieh-lan Shen Chinese a god of place

Chieh Lin Chinese

[Yüeh Lao]

a god of marriage

He is regarded as the old man of the moon.

Ch'ieh-po-ka (see Gobaka)Ch'ien<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Yao Wang]

a tree that grows on the moon

This tree is said to produce leaves that make immortal all those who eat them.

Ch'ien<sup>2</sup> Chinese

one of the Eight Diagrams, representing heaven, sky, horse

ch'ien<sup>3</sup> (see chim)Chien-chan Chinese a tutor of Pao-kung Ch'an-shih

Chien Lao Chinese

a Buddhist earth-goddess

Ch'ien-li Yen (see Kao Ming)Ch'ien Niu Chinese

[Aquila.Celestial Cowherd.Niu Lang.Ox

Boy.Tung Yung:=Japanese Hikoboshi]

a cowherd, the star Altair

husband of Chih Nü

When these two stars visited earth and married, they became so infatuated with each other that they no longer did any work when they returned to heaven.

They were punished by the king or queen of heaven who caused them to be separated by a river, the Milky Way, allowed to meet only once a year. Magpies took pity on their plight and formed themselves into a bridge over which Chih Nü was able to cross.

In another story, the Ox Boy is Tung Yung. (see also Hikoboshi.Tung Yung)

Chien-shih Chinese

[=Japanese Chinju]

guardian deities of a locality

Chien T'an Chinese

son of Chang Hsien

chigbe African

magic power in the lore of the Nupe

Chih Chinese

the final development of creation

when form (T'ien-li) and breath

(Ch'i) came together to form substance (Chih)

Ch'ih Ching-te Chinese

[Yü Ch'ih Ching-te]

a door-god

He was a general who, with his friend Ch'in Shu-pao, stayed awake all night to guard the emperor's door against demons.

Ch'ih Ching-tzu Chinese

the personification of fire

Ch'ih Kung (see Chi Kung.Pao-chih)Ch'ih Kuo Chinese

[=Hindu Dhartarashtra:=Japanese

Jikoku:=Taoist Mo-li Ch'ing]

a Buddhist guardian spirit of the east and spring

Chih Nü Chinese

[Heavenly Weaving Girl.Lyra.Weaving

Lady.Weaving Maid(en):=Japanese

Tanabata]

a spinning-maid, the star Vega

wife of Ch'ien Niu

When these two stars visited earth and married, they became so infatuated with each other that they no longer did any work when they returned to heaven.

They were punished by the king or queen of heaven who caused them to be separated by a river, the Milky Way, allowed to meet only once a year. Magpies took pity on their plight and formed themselves into a bridge over which Chih Nü was able to cross.

In another story, she married Tung Yung who had bound himself to service in return for a loan to pay for his father's funeral. She released him from this obligation by weaving 300 bales of cloth in one month. She then returned to her home in the heavens but sent Tung Yung two baby sons.

(see also Tanabata)

Chih Sung-tzu Chinese

a rain-god

He was an attendant on Shen Nung and watered the earth when it was parched by the wind his master generated. He was made an immortal and became a rain-god but was one of those who helped Feng Po in his rebellion against Huang Ti and was defeated and demoted to the status of water sprinkler.

Ch'ih Wen Chinese

a water dragon

Chih Yü Chinese

a war-god

son of Shen Nung

He was a monster, half man, half bull, who rebelled against the rule of Huang-ti, helped by Chi Sung-tzu and Feng Po, but was defeated.

He was said to have seventy-two (or eighty) brothers and all of them had heads made of bronze and ate pebbles or dust.

He is said to have invented weapons of war when he collected the metal that spewed out when a mountain burst asunder. He is depicted as having the head of an ox made of metal.

Chikha (see Cihuacoatl)Chihuatetel (see Chihuateteo)Chikanga African [Chunda.Kikanga.Little Guinea-fowl.

Little Doctor]

a famous diviner

He was originally known as Chunda. It was claimed that he died and was born again as Chikanga, with a mission to eliminate sorcery. He was said to cure sickness and to cleanse the sorcerers who had caused it.

Chikara African
a sky-god of the Korekore tribe
father of Nosenga

Chikha Tibetan [Chikha Bardo]
a period of after death transition (see also Bardo)

Chikinkuh Central American
the Mayan god of the West wind, one of the 4 Chaob deities

Chikisani Japanese
an Ainu earth-goddess or goddess of elm trees
mother of Pon Okikurumi
by Okikurumi

Chikura Hindu
a general
He was the leader of the forces of Mahisha in his battle with Mahadevi and was killed by her club.

Chilam Balam Central American [Book of Spirits. Book of the Tiger Priests.
Chilam Balam]
a book of Mayan religion and philosophy

Chilam Balam (see Chilam Balam)
chilanse Central American diviners of the Aztec

Chilchi North American
a benevolent spirit of the Zuni
one of the Katchina

Child-Flower (see Sengen)

Child in the Harvest Basket
(see Liknites)

Child Medicine Woman
(see Sand Altar Woman)

Child of the River (see Kappa)

Child of the Sea (see Amadis of Gaul)

Child of the Sun (see Amadis of Gaul)

Child of the Water North American a culture hero of the Apache and Navaho tribes
son of Changing Woman
brother of Killer of Enemies

He and his brother killed monsters and all mankind's enemies. He was able to get close enough to monsters to be able to kill them by wearing a cloak of invisibility given to him by Lizard.
One of the monsters he killed was a giant, a huge being covered with four layers of rock.

(see also Monster Slayer<sup>1,2</sup>)

child spirits Pacific Islands
the spirits of babies

These spirits are said to resemble tiny babies and represent the real child even before it is conceived. They live in the seas and come ashore attached to floating debris. Some girls believe that they can become pregnant by swimming in the waters where the child spirits live.

Child-stealing Devil
(see Heavenly Dog)

Child Water Woman
(see Sand Altar Woman)

Childe Roland British
a ballad telling the story of Roland and his sister Ellen

Childe Roland (see Roland<sup>1</sup>)

Children of Calatin Irish
children of the Fomoiré druid, Calatin
They helped the forces of Maev in her battles with Ulster by conjuring up phantom battalions to harass Cuchulainn and his men.

Children of Dana (see Danaans)

Children of Domnu Irish descendants of the goddess Domnu
These people are regarded as representing the powers of evil opposing the Children of Dana who represent the powers of goodness.

Children of Don (see Danaans)

Children of Heracles (see Heracleidae)

Children of Lir Irish
the boys Aedh, Conn and Fiachra, and the girl Fionuala

These four were the children of Lir by his first wife, Aobh. After her death he married her sister Aoife who resolved to kill the children and turned them into swans, condemned to spend three successive periods, each of 300 years, on a lake, the sea-passage between Ireland and Scotland and the Atlantic Ocean. They survived the ordeal and returned at the end of their sentence to find their father. They were sheltered by a Christian hermit, Mo-Caemoc, until they were seized by Lairgnen, king of Connaught, as a present for his bride Deoca. Then their feathers fell off and they appeared as old, wrinkled humans who, after a hurried baptism by the hermit, died and were buried in one grave.

Children of the Light (see Danaans)

Children of the Sun South American ancestors of the Incas sons and daughter of Inti

In the beginning, men were confined to the underworld and emerged from the cave Pacari, which had three exits.
The Inca royalty emerged, wonderfully garbed, from the central opening, the common people from the other two.

Various names are given for the royal personages, children of the sun-god, Inti. Some say there were four men (Ayar Manco, Pachocamac, Viracocha and one other) and four females, though some give the four men as Ayar Ayca, Ayar Cachi, Ayar Manco and Ayar Oco. Others name these eight as the brothers Cusco Huanca, Huana Cauri, Manco Capac
and Topa Ayar Cachi with their sisters Cori Ocllo, Ipa Huaco, Mama Coya and Topa Huaco. In some versions there are but three males (Ayar Cachi Asauca, Ayar Manco and Ayar Ucho) and three females (Mama Coya, Mama Huaco and Mama Rahua).

There are equally varied accounts of what happened to these people, but at least one of them was turned into stone and another was sealed in a cave. The chief character, Ayar Manco, is said to have founded the capital city of Cuzco and married his sister, Mama Ocllo, founding the Inca royal dynasty.

Another story refers to Apocatequil and Piguero emerging from the Cave of Refuge.

(see also Tahuantín-Suyu-Kapac)

Chilon Greek
one of the Seven Sages

Chilube African [Chiruwi. Sikulokobuzuka]
a forest monster

He is said to be made partly of wax and has an animal's leg. Any man who wrestles with him and loses, dies.

In some accounts they are described as half-bodied with one eye, ear, arm and leg.

chim Chinese

[Cantonese:= ch'ien] bamboo rods used in divination and communicating with the dead

Chimaera<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Chimaira. Chimera. Khimaira. 'she-goat'] a fire-breathing monster, part lion, part goat, with a serpent's tail
offspring of Typhon and Echidna
mother of the Nemean Lion and Sphinx, some say

This monster was killed by Bellerophon riding Pegasus.

chimaera<sup>2</sup> (see gorgoneion)

Chimaira (see Chimaera)

Chimalman (see Chimalmatl)

Chimalmat (see Chimalmatl)

Chimalmatl Central American

[Chimalman. Chimalmat.]

wife of Vucub-Caquix

mother of Cabraca and Zipacna mother of Ce Acatl, some say

Chimborazo Central American
 a sacred volcano in Mexico

Chiminagagué (see Chimizipagua)

Chimizapagua South American [Chiminigagué] a Chibcha deity

In some accounts he is the same as Bochica who some equate with Nemquetcha.

In other stories Chiminagagué is a creator who sent light through the universe on the backs of birds, though some say this name refers to the container in which light came to earth and was distributed by birds, while Chimizapagua was but a messenger for Chiminagagué.

(see also Bochica.Nemquetcha)

Chimmeken German
 one of the kobolds

Chin Central American
 a Mayan god of lust

Chin Chia Chinese
 [Gentleman in Golden Armour]
 a patron of literature, said to punish wicked scholars

Chin Ch'iao-chi Chinese
 the original name of Ti-ts'ang

Chin-Grelin (see werewolf)

Chin Ching Chinese a magic mirror
 Those looking in this mirror could see into their own bodies and determine the cause of their illness.

Chin-kang Chinese [Vajra]
 part of the name Chin-kang-li-shih referring to Guhyaka, the yaksha with the open mouth (see also Hang.Li-shih)

Chin-kang-li-shih
 (see Vajrapanibalin)

Chin-kang-tsang Chinese
 a bodhisattva

Chin-kuang Chinese [Ch'in-kuang Wang]
 ruler of the first of the 10 Taoist hells
 He controls the length of a person's life and punishes according to one's actions on earth.

Ch'in-kuang Wang Chinese (see Chin-kuang)

Chin-kuang Tung Chinese
 a priest
 He appeared in a dream to the wife of Li Ching and, shortly afterwards, she gave birth to a baby boy, Li No-cha, who was born wearing the priest's trousers and bracelet.

Chin-k'uei Chinese
 an early Taoist supreme god

Chin Lun Chinese
 the Buddhist golden Wheel of Victory

Chin-lung (see Hsieh Hsiü)

Chin Lung Chinese
 one of the Four Dragon Kings

Chin Ma-ho Chia-yeh
 (see Ma-ho Chia-yeh)

Chin Men Chinese
 [Golden Door]
 the entrance to the palace of Yüan Shih on Jade Mountain

Chin Mu (see Hsi Wang Mu)

Ch'in-shih Huang-ti (see Huang Ti)

Ch'in Shu-p'o Chinese
 a door-god
 He was a general who, with his friend Ch'ih Ching-t'e, stayed awake all night to guard the emperor's door from demons.

Chin Ti-ts'ang (see Ti-ts'ang)

Chinaweji (see Chinawezi)

Chinawezi African [Chinaweji]
 a primaeval serpent
 wife of Nkubal
 mother of Konde and Nawezi
 She ruled the land and sea while her husband ruled the sky.

Chineke African
 a name of Chuku as 'creator'

Chinese Twins Chinese
 Fat and Tan, the sons of Chang

Chinese unicorn (see ch'i-lin)

Ching Chinese
 the inhabitants of the mythical land Hsiao-jen Kuo

Ching-chih Chinese son of Ts'ao Pin
 brother of Ts'ao Kuo-chiu

Ching-chou Chinese a city-god

Ching Ch'uan Chinese
 one of the household gods
 a young boy, guardian of the well

Ch'ing Fu (see Han Hsiang-tzu)

Ching Lin (see Mei Lan)

Ch'ing Ming Chinese
 [Festival of Pure Brightness]
 a spring festival during which offerings are made to the dead

Ch'ing Te Chinese [Ch'ing Ti]
 an emperor of China husband of Pao Yüeh
 father of Yü Huang
 After Ch'ing Te and his wife had prayed for a son, his wife dreamt that she saw Lao Chun bringing a boy towards her and was found to be pregnant when she woke in the morning.

Ch'ing Ti (see Ch'ing Te)

Ch'ing-ti Chinese [Green Lord]
 a sky-god, responsible for the east

Ching-t'u Chinese
 the Chinese version of the Pure Land

Ching Wo Chinese
 [Lady of the Star Tse Wei.Yü Yin] twentieth daughter of Tung Wang Kung and Hsi Wang Mu

Ching Yang Chinese a dragon king

Chinggis Khan Mongol
 [King of the World]
 a general
 Originally known as Tumujin, he was proclaimed ruler by a shaman who announced that he would rule by divine right.
 On his death his soul was said to merge with his own royal standard (the tuk) and acted as guardian of his soldiers under the name of Borjigin.

Chinigchinich North American [Chinnigchinich.Kwawar.Ouiamot]
 a supreme deity of the tribes of California
 He created the first man, Ouiot.
 At the funeral of Ouiot, Coyote snatched a piece of the body and ran off. Some of the skin fell on the ground and here Chinigchinich appeared to the medicine-men and gave them supernatural powers for the benefit of the men he then created from clay. These beings replaced the earlier race created by Ouiot, all of whom Chinigchinich turned into animals, birds and plants.
 In another version, he was the son of Tacu and Auzar and was sometimes known as Ouiamot.
 (see also Attajen)

Chinju Japanese
 [=Chinese Chien-shin]
 a Shinto deity, guardian of a specific locality or building

Chinnamasta Hindu
 [Chinnamastaka.Viraratri]
 a goddess of self-sacrifice
 a form of Durga
 one of 10 mahavidyas
 She is depicted as a headless deity, sometimes carrying her head, from the mouth of which pours the blood from the severed head.

Chinnamastaka (see Chinnamasta)

Chinnigchinich (see Chinigchinich)

- chinoi Malay
the spirit said to possess a halak during a trance
- Chinta-mani Hindu
[Divine Jewel.Divya-ratna]
a precious stone, made by Brahma, from which all knowledge could be obtained
Other accounts say that this stone was one of the objects that emerged at the Churning of the Ocean; others say that it was Indra's thunderbolt.
It is variously described as an eight-faceted stone that emits a light brighter than daylight, or as a snake-stone (the jewel in the head of a naga) which can be hidden only by throwing cow dung at it. (see also Kaustubha.mani')
- Chinu Japanese
a lover of the Maiden of Unai
He and Mubara, who was his identical counterpart, both loved the Maiden of Unai, and when she threw herself into the river because she could not choose between the two, both men jumped in after her and all three perished together. Weapons were placed in Mubara's tomb but none in Chinu's. Chinu later borrowed the sword of a traveller and killed the spirit of Mubara, claiming the maiden for himself.
- Chinun Way Shun Burmese
[Wakyat-wa]
the original nat
a creator of the Kachin
He was said to exist before the world was formed and created the other nats. He then made a pumpkin and called on the newly created nats to add to it. Chiton added legs, Mu gave it eyes and, eventually, they created the first human, Shingwara, who refashioned the earth after the flood.
Chinun is also known as Ka, the spirit of the earth.
- Chinvat Bridge Persian
[Bridge of the Decider.Chinvat Peretu.Chinvat Puhl.Cinvat.Cinvato PeretuPul Chinavad. Pul Chinavar]
the bridge leading from the top of Mount Alburz into heaven
The souls of the dead had to cross this bridge, which appeared wide for the good but impossibly narrow for the bad.
In earlier times it was regarded as a river that souls had to cross to reach the land of the dead.
- Chinvat Peretu (see Chinvat Bridge)
- Chinvat Puhl Persian
the Pahlavi name for the Chinvat Bridge
- Chione<sup>1</sup> Greek [Khione]
daughter of Boreas and Oreithyia
sister of Calais, Cleopatra and Zetes mother of Eumolpus by Poseidon She threw her son into the sea.
- Chione<sup>2</sup> Greek [Khione]
daughter of Daedalion mother of Autolycus by Hermes mother of Philammon by Apollo
When she was rash enough to compare her beauty with that of Artemis, the goddess shot and killed her. Her father threw himself from Mount Parnassus in his grief and was transformed into a falcon by Apollo.
- Chionides (see Eumolpus)
- Chipactonal Central American
one of the 4 sages of the Aztec migration
He and Oxomoco, Tlaltecuin and Xochicahuaca were said to have invented the Aztec calendar. (see also Cipactonal)
- Chipapunta North American
a lake
This lake is regarded by some Pueblo tribes as the place from which their ancestors emerged.
- Chipfalamfala African
in Mozambique, a huge fish said to have stopped the flow of a river (see Chichinguane)
- Chipi-Cakulha Central American [Lightning-flash]
an assistant to Hurukan, the wind-god of the Maya
- Chipiabos (see Chibiabos)
- Chipiapoos (see Chibiabos)
- Chipiripa South American
a rain-god in Costa Rica
- chirognomy (see cheiromancy)
- chiromancy (see cheiromancy)
- Chiron<sup>1</sup> Greek [Cheiron.Kheiron.Kiron.Philyrides]
the king of the Centaurs son of Cronus and Philyra husband of Chariclo
father of Endeis and Euppe
His parentage was different from that of the other Centaurs, as was his disposition. He was physically like them because Cronus had adopted the form of a horse when fathering him on Philyra, but he was a wise Centaur who cared for and tutored a number of Greek heroes including Achilles, Asclepius Heracles and Jason.
He was inadvertently shot by Heracles, whose poisoned arrows were invariably fatal to mortals. An alternative story says that when Pholus entertained Heracles in his cave and they were attacked by other centaurs, one of them, Elatus, was wounded by one of the poisoned arrows fired by Heracles and Chiron was accidentally wounded in the knee when he withdrew this arrow. Chiron, not a mortal, could not die though suffering great agony. Later on Prometheus assumed the burden of immortality to allow Chiron to die, when he was placed in the heavens as Centaurus.
He is sometimes depicted as having human rather than equine forelegs.
- Chiron<sup>2</sup> European keeper of the lake of boiling blood (Dante)
- Chiruwi (see Chilube)
- Chitimukul African
the founder-king of the Bemba people
He and his two brothers were responsible for the death of many people when a tower they were building collapsed. They fled from their father's wrath and founded a kingdom of their own.
- Chiton Burmese
one of the first nats, created by Chinun Way Shun
- Chitra-ratha (see Chitratha)
- Chitragupta Hindu
the recorder of souls in the underworld
- Chitralekha Hindu
an artist
He painted a portrait of Aniruddha, the man with whom Usha had fallen in love in a dream.
- Chitrangada Hindu
mother of Babhru-Varana by Arjuna
- Chitratha Hindu
[Chitra-ratha]
a king of the minor deities known as Gandharvas
- Chiu-kung T'ai I (see T'ai I)
- Chiu-mo-lo-to Chinese
the Chinese name for Kumarajiva
- ch'iu-she Chinese [Autumn-snake charm]
a charm used to drive away illness
This charm takes the form of a coiled snake with a human head, made of paper.
Other such charms for specific diseases are the Spring-snake charm, the Summer-snake charm, the Winter-snake charm and variously numbered coloured-snake charms and headed-snake charms.

Chiu-shou Chinese
one of the immortals
He was a lion who took human form.

Chiucoatl (see Cinteotl)

Chiu-hua Shan Chinese a sacred mountain, a site of pilgrimage

Chiuke African
a creator-god and sky-god of the Ibo

Chiun Hebrew
[Kiun.Ro(m)phan]
an early goddess of abundance

Ch'ung Hsiao Chinese
one of the 3 Keng San Ku-niang sister of Chao Kung-ming and Pi Hsiao
During the Battle of Mu, she threw her golden scissors at Lao-tzu but failed to harm him. She then fought with swords but was killed when Pai-ho T'ung-tzu threw a jade club at her.

Chiuta African [Mulengi.Mwenco.Wamtatakuya]
the supreme-god and rain-god of the Tumbuka

Chivim Central American
one of a serpent race

chixu North American
a ghost, in the lore of the Pawnees

Chiyo Japanese
a maiden killed by Shokuro Shokuro knew that the thunder-god ate navels so he killed Chiyo, cut out her navel and flew it on a kite to attract Raiden, whom he had undertaken to catch. Raiden restored the girl's life and took her into the heavens. She later forgave her murderer.

Chiyodo Japanese
the only child of Heitaro and Higo

chlamys Greek
the cloak of Zeus

chlevnik Russian [chlvnik]
a spirit inhabiting cowsheds, a type of domovik

Chlodomer British
a king of Orleans
In some accounts he was killed in battle against King Arthur.

Chloe<sup>1</sup> Greek
a name of Demeter as 'green'

Chloe<sup>2</sup> Greek
a shepherdess in love with Daphnis

Chloia Greek
a spring festival in honour of Demeter as Chloe

Chloris<sup>1</sup> Greek
wife of Ampyx
mother of Mopsus by Ampyx or Apollo

Chloris<sup>2</sup> Greek
[=Japanese Kusumamodini: =Roman Flora]
a nymph of the meadows

daughter of Amphion and Niobe
mother of Carpus
She was pursued by Zephyrus and married him.

Chloris<sup>3</sup> Greek
daughter of Amphion and Niobe
wife of Neleus
mother of Pero
The only daughter of Niobe to survive when Apollo and Artemis killed her other children. She bore twelve sons, including Chromius, Nestor and Periclymenus and one daughter, Pero.

Chlvnik (see Chlevnik)

Chnas (see Agenor<sup>1</sup>)

Chnemu (see Khnum<sup>1</sup>)

Chnoubis Egyptian
[=Gnostic Chnuphis]
a god in the form of a fabulous animal, part lion, part serpent

Chnoumis (see Khnum<sup>1</sup>)

Chnum (see Khnum<sup>1</sup>)

Chnumu (see Khnum<sup>1</sup>)

Chnuphis Gnostic
[=Egyptian Chnoubis]
a fabulous beast in the form of a serpent with the head and mane of a lion and a corona of 7 or 12 rays

cho-i Australian
in the lore of the Queensland tribes, part of a baby's soul
It is said that the cho-i remains in the placenta, from which Anjea makes another baby.

ch'o-je Tibetan [ch'o-kyon]
a group of sorcerers regarded as incarnations of fiends

ch'o-kyon (see ch'o-je)

cho-pen Buddhist [=Tibetan cod-pan]
a form of prayer-flag: good luck (see also da-cha)

Choephorae (see Libation Bearers)

Choephoroi (see Libation Bearers)

Choere (see Marpessa)

chohile (see mlungu)

Choima Central American
[Beautiful Water]
a woman created by the gods as a wife for Balam Agab

Chokanipok North American son of Kabun
brother of Michabo
He was killed by Michabo who scattered the entrails, which became vines.

Chokoro Japanese
a sennin who had a magic horse

Chol (see Col<sup>1</sup>)

Cholula Central America
an Aztec pyramid

This structure was built so tall that it almost reached the heavens; a precious stone dropped from the sky and destroyed it.

chomchaengi British [chomjangi] diviners, in Wales

Chomiel
a demon serving Demoriel

chomjangi (see chomchaengi)

Chonchonyi South American
a vampire demon, in the lore of the Araucanian people
This demon was said to consist of a human head with huge fangs, and ears which served as wings.

Chong Yok Korean
[Book of Changes.Zu-Yog]
the Korean version of Yih-King

Chonguita Pacific Islands
a monkey girl
wife of Pedro
When she married the Filipino prince, Pedro, she changed into a beautiful woman.

Ch'onje (see Hanullim)

Chons (see Khons)

Chontamenti (see Khenti Amentiu)

Chonti-amentiu (see Khenti Amentiu)

Chonyid Bardo Tibetan
a 14-day transitional after-death period during which visions occur (see also Bardo Thodol)

Chopstick Korean
a midget son of Taro
husband of Uriko
He was born when his mother, following instructions given to her in a dream, placed a chopstick in a bowl of rice near the fire. Although only about one foot tall, he routed a gang who had kidnapped three maidens, and he married one of them, Uriko. When he prayed to a river-goddess he grew to normal size.

Choque Suso South American wife of Paricaca

Choreia Greek
an animal maenad

Chormusta Tengri (see Qormusta Tengri)

Chors Slav
[Chers.Chros.Khors]
a Balkan sun-god

chorten Tibetan [mch'od-r-ten]
a funeral monument
Such monuments are erected over the graves of lamas, saints, etc. and models are sold as amulets.

Chos-rgyal Phyi-sgrub Tibetan [=Sanskrit Yama]
a god of the dead

Chos-Skyon Tibetan
[Ch-chung.Cho-chyong. Thun-gyi-gyal-po] one of the 5 Mahapancharajas king of magic

He is depicted with one head and two arms and rides a white elephant or a yellow lion.

(see also hPrin-las-gyi-rgyal-po)

Chosen Women (see Acclas)

Chosii Japanese

the home of the dead

Chosrow (see Kay Khushraw)

Chota Panthaka Buddhist

[Pantha the Younger.=Chinese Chu-ch'a Pan-t'o-chia]

one of the Eighteen Lohan
brother of Panthaka the Elder

As a young man he was quite backward but became very wise and acquired the ability to fly and to take any shape he wished.

He is depicted holding a fan and leaning on a dead tree.

Chou Hsin<sup>1</sup> (see Chou Wang)

Chou Hsin<sup>2</sup> Chinese

a god of the city of Hangchow

He was originally a 15th C mandarin.

Chou Hsing Lao Tou Tzu
(see Hua Lin)

Chou I Chinese

son of Wen Wang, in some accounts

(see also Chu I)

Chou Li Chinese

part of the Li Chang

Ch'ou Ssu-t'e Chinese
a monk

He claimed to have been taught magic by Wang, the celestial porter.

Chou Teng Chinese

an official of the celestial Ministry of Time, responsible for overseeing the day

Chou Tsang Chinese attendant and sword-bearer to Kuan, god of war

Chou Wang Chinese

[Chou Hsin]
a god of sodomy
father of Yin Chiao and T'ai Sui

He was originally an 11th C BC emperor of extraordinary cruelty. He was killed in the Battle of Mu, against Wu Wang, and was deified. His concubine was T'a Chi, an extremely wicked woman.

Chou Yang Chinese
one of the 6 deities of the celestial Ministry of Fire

He was originally a legendary emperor who, it was said, taught the art of forging metals and making fire.

chough British

the bird in which King Arthur's soul is said to reside

Other accounts substitute the puffin or the raven.

Chousoros (see Chousoros)

Chousorus Phoenician

[Chousoros]

son of Oulomus

He engendered the primaeval egg from which came Ouranos and Gea.

Chramm British

the leader of a revolt against Clothair in which he was killed

Chrétien de Troyes French

a 12th c writer

He retold the Arthurian legends introducing the idea of courtly love and the story of the Holy Grail.

Some of his works are Cligés, Erec and Enide, Le Chevalier de Charette (the story of Lancelot as Knight of the Cart), Le Chevalier du Lion (about Owain, as Knight of the Lion), Le Conte de Graal (Percival on the Grail Quest) and Perceval.

Chrichinbel (see Cridhinbheal)

Crichinphel (see Cridhinbheal)

Chriemhild (see Krimhild)

chrisoletus

a stone said to have the power to repel demons (see also chrysolite)

Christian Theseus (see Roland<sup>2</sup>)

Chroin Irish

[Maol Chroin]

a young monk

When Cellach was deposed by Guaire and fled to an island, Chroin and three other young monks went with him. They later accepted a bribe from Guaire and killed Cellach. The dead man's brother, Muireadhach, found the body, and when he caught the murderers he had them put to death.

Chromia Greek

[Asterodia]

daughter of Itonus

wife of Endymion, in some accounts (see also Selene)

Chromius Greek

son of Neleus and Chloris
brother of Nestor and Periclymenus

Chronicle of Glastonbury British

a 14th c history of the town written in Latin by John of Glastonbury

Chronos Greek

['time']

one of 2 primaeval deities present at the beginning of the world

(see Adrastea<sup>2</sup>.Corus)

Chros (see Chros)

Chruinnaght British

a Druidic gathering in the Isle of Man

Chrus (see Corus<sup>2</sup>)

Chrysanthemum Boy (see Kiku-jido)

Chrysanthis Greek

a nymph

Chrysaor<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Poseidon by Medusa husband of Callirrhoë

father of Geryon

father of Echidna, some say

He was a warrior who sprang from the corpse of Medusa, when she was decapitated by Perseus, at the same time as the flying horse Pegasus.

Chrysaor<sup>2</sup> British

the sword of Arthgallo

Chryse<sup>1</sup> Greek

first wife of Dardanus

She was given the Palladium by Athena and she gave it to Dardanus as part of her dowry.

Chryse<sup>2</sup> Greek

a nymph

Chryseis Greek

[Cressida.Khruseis]

daughter of Chryses

mother of Chryses

When she was captured at Troy, she was given as a prize to Agamemnon. Her father pleaded for her release but Agamemnon refused until a plague descended on the Greek army. He then demanded the girl Briseis, who had been awarded to Achilles, so starting a quarrel that led to Achilles refusing to fight.

In some accounts she bore a son, Chryses, to Agamemnon but said the boy's father was Apollo.

(see also Cressida)

Chryses<sup>1</sup> Greek

a priest of Apollo at Troy

son of Minos

father of Chryseis

Chryses<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Chryseis by Agamemnon

Chrysesis was given as a prize to Agamemnon at the siege of Troy, but when a plague descended on the Greek forces he returned her to her father, Chryses. She maintained that the son she bore was the son of Apollo.

Chrysippus (see Chrysippus)

Chrysippus Greek

[Chrysippos.Khrusippos]

son of Pelops and a nymph

He was abducted by Laius, king of Thebes, who was in thrall to the boy's beauty. He was rescued by Pelops and either killed himself or was killed by his jealous half-brothers, Atreus and Thyestes.

Chrysogone British
mother of Belphoebe and Amoret, in English lore

chrysolite
a stone said to have the power to ward off demons and fevers (see also chrisoletus)

Chrysomallon Greek [Chrysomallus]
the ram with the golden fleece
This animal was fathered by Poseidon, in the form of a ram, on Theophane, in the form of a ewe, and later rescued Phrixus and his sister Helle from being sacrificed. It carried Phrixus to safety but Helle fell into the sea and died. Phrixus sacrificed the ram to the gods when he reached safety and its fleece was hung on a tree in Colchis from where it was later retrieved by Jason and the Argonauts.

Chrysomallus (see Chrysomallon)

Chryson Greek
daughter of Erechtheus and Praxitha
sister of Chthonia

Chrysor Phoenician [Diamichius]

a sea-god: the first sailor
He is said to have invented fishing tackle.

Chrysothemis Greek
daughter of Agamemnon
and Clytemnestra

sister of Electra, Iphigenia and Orestes
Some say that because she took the side of Aegisthus and Clytemnestra she was killed by Orestes when he avenged the death of his father. Others say that she escaped the slaughter and married Staphylus, king of Delos.

Chthon Greek
an earth-goddess

Chthonia Greek
daughter of Erechtheus and Praxitha
sister of Chryson

Chthonian deities (see Chthonoi)

Chthonic deities (see Chthonoi)

Chthonius<sup>1</sup> Greek
one of the 5 surviving Sown Men father of Lycus and Nycteus

Chthonius<sup>2</sup> Greek
a name for Hermes as 'leader of the dead'

Chthonoi Greek [Chthonian deities.Chthonic deities] earth-gods: gods of the underworld

Chthonophyle Greek
daughter of Sicyon
mother of Polybus by Hermes

Chu (see Ju-i)

Chu-ch'a Pan-t'o-chia Chinese
[Chu-ch'a Pan-t'o-ka]
the Chinese version of Chota Panthaka

Chu-ch'a Pan-t'o-ka
(see Chu-ch'a Pan-t'o-chia)

Ch'u-ch'i Chinese [Lu Pan]
brother of Huang Ta-hsien

His younger brother, Huang Ta-hsien, disappeared with his flock and it was forty years before he was found, living as a hermit in a cave surrounded by large blocks of white stone, which suddenly reverted to their original form as Huang Ta-hsien's sheep.

Ch'u-ch'i became a hermit and was known as Lu Pan.

Ch'u-chiang Chinese

the second of the Ten Yama Kings ruler of the second Taoist hell
This is the realm of ice reserved for thieves and murderers.

Chu Ch'ieh (see Feng<sup>1</sup>)

Chu Hsieh Yüan Chinese

the celestial Ministry of Exorcism
This ministry has seven chief ministers known as Great Heavenly Princes.
The chief of these is Chung K'uei.

Chu I Chinese
[Chu Yi.Crimson Gown.Mr Redcoat.Red Coat]

a patron of literature
one of the 4 attendants on Wen
Ch'ang Ti Chun

He was a scholar who married a celestial being who took him up to heaven where his function was to help those taking examinations to pass, but he found that he preferred to continue his study of the classics and returned to earth. He is depicted as an old man with a long beard. (see also Chou I)

Chu-jung Chinese
a fire-god
father of Kung Kung

He was sent by Huang-ti to kill K'un when he stole some of the magic Swelling Earth and defeated his own son when he tried to depose him.

Chu-ngu Vietnamese
the spirit of the original owner of land in Annam

These spirits must be propitiated by subsequent owners of the land.

Chu-nha Vietnamese
a guardian spirit of the house in Annam

This spirit is said to reside in a lime jug.

Chu Pa-chieh Chinese [Pig Fairy.Pigsy]
a pig-like god

He controlled movement in the Milky Way, which was regarded as a river, but was banished to earth as a pig when he upset the Jade Emperor after getting drunk. He became a devotee of Buddha when he met the goddess Kuan Yin. He went to India with Hsüan Tsang when he made the long journey to bring the Buddhist scriptures to China.

Chu-pao P'en Chinese a magic bowl

This vessel, owned by Yüan-tan, could produce gold as required.

Chu Ping Chen Chinese
a deity

commander of the celestial army

Chu Tien<sup>1</sup> Chinese
a red sparrow
spirit of the south

Chu Tien<sup>2</sup> Chinese
the Buddhist gods taken into the Chinese Pantheon from India

Chu-ti Ho-shang Chinese [Te-hui]
the Chinese name for Gonamati

Chu Ts'ang Shen Chinese
a deity
guardian of the celestial treasury

Chu U Buddhist
in Japan, the state between death and rebirth

Ch'ü Yüan Chinese
a poet who committed suicide and was deified

Chuai Japanese
an emperor
husband of Jingo

He was killed by the gods when he failed to believe his wife who said that she had been instructed by the gods to invade Korea. After his death, Jingo successfully invaded that country.

Chuan Hou (see T'ien Hou)

Chuan Hsü Chinese
one of the Five Emperors father of Chung and Li

The world was in a chaotic state when he came to the throne as the second of the Five Emperors and he set about putting matters right, giving Chung authority over the celestial realm and Li over mortals.

In some accounts he is equated with Shun, the fifth emperor, while in others Chung and Li are his grandsons.

Chuan Lun Chinese

[Chuan-lun Wang;=Hindu Chakravartiraja]
the last of the Ten Yama Kings ruler of the tenth Taoist hell

In this hell, those due for reincarnation pass over a bridge and are conducted by the Spirit of the Wind to the Tower of Forgetfulness where they are given a drink which makes them forget their previous life.

Chuan-lun Wang (see Chuan Lun)

Chuang Chou (see Chuang-tzu)

Chuang Kung Chinese

[Lord of the Bed]

a god of the bed
husband of Chuang Mu

He and his wife keep watch over what happens in bed to protect the interests of children.

Chuang Mu Chinese

[Chuang P'o.Lady of the Bed] a goddess of the bed wife of Chuang Kung

She and her husband keep watch over what happens in bed to protect the interests of children.

Chuang P'o (see Chuang Mu)

Chuang Sheng (see Chuang-tzu)

Chuang-tzu Chinese

[Chuang Chou.Chuang Sheng]
(350-275 BC)

a Taoist leader and follower of Lao-tzu

It was said that he had been a butterfly in a former existence. After he died, his widow agreed to marry Wang-su who, when they visited her dead husband's grave, turned into Chuang-tzu, who after setting his house on fire, became an itinerant. In the course of his wanderings he met the Phoenix Empress, the Mother of Heaven, Hsüan Nü, Hsi Wang Mu and Shang Ti who gave him the planet Jupiter as his home.

Chudo-yudo Slav

a giant snake-god

Ch'ui-niu Chinese a music dragon

Chui Tatic Chites Vaneg

Central American

a Mayan creator-god

Chujo Hime Japanese

a Buddhist nun, expert in embroidery, regarded as an incarnation of Kwannon

Chuku African

[Chineke.Chukuru.Chukwu]
the supreme god of the Ibo father or husband of Ale

Chukuru (see Chuku)

Chukwa Hindu

the tortoise supporting the elephant, Maka-padma, which supports the earth

Chukwu (see Chuku)

Chulan Malay

a king of Siam
father of Onang Kiu

He was defeated by Sulana who then married Onang Kiu.

Chulavete Central American

a Mexican deity, the morning star personified

Chumong Korean

son of Yuhwa

He was born from an egg produced by Yuhwa who had been raped by Hemosu, who claimed to be the son of a god. He grew very quickly and became a skilled archer, but his progress aroused envy among others at the king's court, where he had been raised, so he fled with three friends, Hyobbu, Mari and Zoi, to set up his own kingdom. The fishes built a bridge to allow them to cross a river and so escape their pursuers. They were met by three wise men, Muggo, Mugol and Zesa, who helped Chumong set up his new realm. He later took the name Ko.

Ch'un-ch'iu Chinese

[Spring and Autumn Annals]

one of the Five Classics the fourth of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon, dealing with historical events

Chun T'i Chinese

[Mother of the Ladle.T'ien Hou.Tou Mu: =Buddhist Kuan Yin:=Hindu Maritchi]
a goddess of light

wife of Tou Fu

mother of 9 sons known as Human Kings (Jen Wang)

She was said to have been a mortal abness, who had a growth like a pig's ear on her neck.

As a goddess she is envisaged with three faces, one the face of a pig, and eight arms, and is said to live in a palace on the Pole Star.

As Tou Mu, her nine sons (Jen Wang) were the first mortal rulers.

(see also Tou Mu)

Chun T'ou-p'o-han Chinese

the Chinese version of Kun Dadhana

Chunda<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a goddess

a manifestation of Kwannon

She is depicted with a smiling face and four or sixteen arms.

(see also Jundeï Kwannon)

Chunda<sup>2</sup> (see Chikanga)

Chung Chinese

son (or grandson) of Chuan Hsü brother of Li

When his father (or grandfather) came to the throne, he put Chung in charge of the celestial realm to restore order.

Chung Chiu Chinese

a festival of the moon, during which its reflection is captured in a basin of water

Chung K'uei Chinese

[K'uei Hsing.Recorder of Hell.Wen Ti:

=Japanese Shoki]

a god of the afterlife and examinations, attendant on Wen Ch'ang Ti Chun

a giant exorcist

one of the Great Heavenly Princes

He was a mortal who killed himself when not awarded the first place that he had earned in an examination, the Emperor refusing to hand him his certificate because he was so ugly. He became an itinerant demon, losing the chance of reincarnation but protecting others from such demons.

In another version he threw himself into the sea and was saved from drowning by a sea dragon who took him to heaven where he became one of the stars in the Great Bear constellation, and was made the god of literature as Wen Ti.

He is depicted wearing one shoe and tearing out a demon's eye.

Other accounts make him an attendant on Wen Ch'ang, in which role he is depicted as a small demon holding a ladle.

Chung Li Chinese

a fire-god, in some accounts
son of the emperor, Chuan

This deified mortal is regarded as the ruler of the south and is sometimes depicted as an animal with a man's face that has three eyes.

Chung-li Ch'üan (see Han Chung-li)

Chung Lin (see Mei Lan)

Chung-liu (see Chung-lu)

Chung-lu Chinese

[Chung-liu]

one of the household gods, guardian of the eaves

Chung Wang Chinese

father of Kuan Yin

Chung-yang Chinese

[Central Yellow Old Ruler]

a Taoist god revered by the T'aip'ing school

brother of T'ai-Shan

Chung-yung Chinese

[Doctrine of the Mean]
one of the Four Books the eighth of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon, dealing with philosophy

Chunsu (see Khons)

Chunuhluk Inuit

a stalk of grass that, by wishing,
became a man

This being later changed into a wolverine.

Chur<sup>1</sup> Persian

an archangel
a quadrant of the sun's disc

Chur<sup>2</sup> (see Rod)

churchi tuboh Malay

[masokjaw]
a rite of initiation and purification
for adolescents

This ceremony involves such things as head shaving, tooth filing and appeasement of tribal deities.

churel Hindu

the evil spirit of a woman who died
giving birth to a child

It is said to spread disease and to suck
the life out of young men.

A churel has no mouth and its feet point towards the rear.

churi Buddhist

a knife used in rituals to cut out evil

churinga Australian

[tjuringa]
sacred tablets of the Aborigines

Each tablet contains the soul of a dead person awaiting reincarnation. When a suitable mother appears, the soul leaves the tablet, follows the woman home and is reborn.

In some cases a hole is drilled through a churinga through which a string is passed, enabling it to be used as a bullroarer.

Churl (see Karl)

Churn (see Iddawg)

Churning of the Ocean Hindu

[Churning of the Sea of Milk]
the making of amrita

The gods and demons coiled the World Serpent, Ananta or Vasuki, round Mount Mandara and, by pulling on each end for 1,000 years, caused the Churning of the Ocean. This operation brought up fourteen things that had been lost by the early Vedic tribes in the flood. These were:

- Airavata, Indra's elephant
- Amrita, the drink of the gods
- Chandra (Soma), the moon-god
- Dhanvantari, the Divine Doctor

Dhanus, the magic bow
Kaustubha, Vishnu's ruby
Lakshmi, the goddess of beauty
Parijata, the tree of knowledge
Rambha, a nymph
Sankha, the horn of victory
Surabhi, the cow of plenty Uccaihsravas, the magic horse
Varuni (Sura), the goddess of wine
Visha, poison

In other accounts a pair of earrings, given by Indra to his mother Adita, were recovered; Kamadhenu is referred to in place of Surabhi; the Apasaras emerged;
the jewel, Chinta-mani (an alternative to Kaustubha, perhaps) was produced.

Churning of the Sea of Milk
(see Churning of the Ocean)

Churoquilla (see Pariacaca)

Chusor (see Kothar)

Chutrun (see Gudrun)

Chutsain North American

an evil spirit of the Athapascan tribes, death personified

Chuvash Russian

[=Finnish Kaba]
a spirit of fate

Chwimbian (see Chwimleian)

Chwimleian British

[Chwimbian]
a Welsh flower-maiden

In some accounts she is equated with Gwendolena.

Chyavana Hindu

a sage
son of Bhrigu and Puloma husband of Sukanya

He was born as his mother ran to escape a demon, possibly the real husband of Puloma who had been seized by Bhrigu.

As a result of ascetic practices he became very emaciated, but won the hand of the beautiful princess Sukanya who, when he grew old, tricked the Aswins into giving him renewed youth.

Indra tried to kill the sage for this episode but Chyavana created Mada, a monster so large that it swallowed not only Indra but the mountain he had brought, under which he had proposed to bury the sage. To gain his release, Indra granted the Aswins immortality.

Ciabhan Irish

[Keevan]
a mortal loved by a goddess

Cliona, the goddess of love, fell in love with Ciabhan and they fled from Tír Táinigiri to Cork to escape Manannan.
Her sisters, Aiofe and Etain, with Eolus and Lodan, eloped at the same time. When Ciabhan left her to go hunting, the sea-god caused a wave to carry the girls back to the Otherworld or, in some accounts, to drown the three girls and, some say, their lovers as well.

Cian<sup>1</sup> British

[Kian]
a bard who travelled on the boat to Avalon with the body of King Arthur

Cian<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Cian of Munster.Kian]
a sun-god
son of Maolmhuaidh
father of Tadhg

When his father was killed in battle with Brian Boru, Cian sued for peace and married Brian's daughter, Saba.

He fell in love with a woman of the Otherworld who was living with O
Cronagain, but she rejected him.
When he struck her she changed into a mare, kicked Cian, breaking his leg, and galloped off. His leg was healed a year later by the Vagrant Youth who claimed to be his nephew.

Cian<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Cian mac Cainte.Kian.Mackin(e)ly]
son of Dian Cecht
brother of Cethe, Cu, Goibhniu
and Samhain

father of Lugh by Ethlinn

His magic cow Glas Gabnach, which gave unlimited supplies of milk, was stolen by Balor. In revenge, Cian, disguised as a woman, gained access to Balor's daughter Ethlinn, who had been locked up in a tower by her father, and seduced her. He also seduced the twelve women guarding her. Ethlinn bore three sons at one birth: two were drowned on the orders of Balor; their third son, Lugh, killed his grandfather as had been predicted.

Cian's family had feuded for years with the family of Turenn and he was killed by the three sons of Turenn who stoned him to death after he had turned himself into a pig, or a lapdog, to escape their attention.

Another account says that Cian was an evil druid who turned children into hares and then, in the form of a hound, chased them. In this story he was turned into a boar when the sons of Turenn struck him with a stick.

Ciaran of Cluain Irish

[Kieran]
son of Beoan and Darerca

As a young man he restored to life a dead horse. When he entered a monastery he took with him a cow that provided enough milk for all the community. Once, when a wayward husband denied adultery before the saint, the man's head fell off, but he stayed with Ciaran in the monastery for many years.

He caused golden hair to grow on the bald head of Maireann when she appealed for help in his name and performed many other miracles before dying at the age of thirty-three.

Ciaran of Saighir Irish

[Kieran]
a saint
son of Lughna and Liadin

He built his monastery with the aid of a number of wild animals that, when the building was complete, turned into monks.

Cib Central American

the sixteenth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the achievement of enlightenment (see also Six Cib)

Cibaciba Pacific Islands

an entrance to the land of the dead in the lore of Fiji (see also Drakulu)

cibas West Indian

sacred white shells used to make necklaces

Cibi West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Cibola Central American

7 legendary cities of the Aztecs
The Aztecs say they originated from the seven cities of Cibola, which may well be another version of the seven chambers of Chicomoztoc.

Cichol Gricenchos Irish

[Cicol the Footless]
son of Goll

He was the leader of the Fomoire at the time of the invasion by Partholan.

Cicol the Footless
(see Cichol Gricenchos)

Ciconauhmicltan
(see Chicauhmicltan)

Cid (see El Cid)

cieromancy
divination by drawing lots

Cigfa British

[Kicva.Kigva]
daughter of Gwyn Gohoyw wife of Pryderi

cigouaves West Indian

an evil spirit that castrates men as they sleep

Cihuacoatl Central American

[Ciuacoatl.Ciuateotl.Ilamatecuhtli.Serpent Woman.Snake Woman.Temazcalteci.
Teteoinnan.Tona(n)tzin]

an Aztec mother-goddess, goddess of childbirth
an aspect of Tonantzin
mother of Mixcoatl

She is described as a snake-woman and sometimes divided herself into separate divinities such as Coatlicue, Ilamatecuhtli, Itzpapalotl, Temazcalteci and Tonantzin.

In some aspects, she was a malevolent being, preaching doom, but in a more beneficent role she is credited with the invention of the hoe.

She is depicted with a face half red,
half black, and wearing a feathered headdress.

Cihuacoatl-Quilaztli Central American

an Aztec creator-goddess
an aspect of Cihuacoatl

She made human beings from bones ground to powder and mixed with the blood of the gods.

Cihuapipiltin (see Cihuateteo)

Cihuateteo (see Cihuateteo)

Cihuateteo Central American

[Chihuatetel.Ci(h)uapipiltin.Ci(h)uateteo.

Honoured Women]
spirits of women who died in childbirth in Aztec lore

These spirits are said to live in Tamoanchan and in some accounts are equated with the Tzitzimime.

It is said that they can appear in the form either of women or of eagles.

They were depicted with white faces with golden eyebrows and arms whitened with tizatl.

(see also La Lleroma)

Cil Coed British

[Kilcoed]
father of the Welsh magician Llwyd

Cildadan Irish

a king of Ireland
brother of Abies

His brother had been killed by Amadis and he sought revenge. He challenged Lisuarte, king of Britain, and they agreed to settle the matter by allowing 100 knights from each side to fight one another. Cildadan's forces were routed by the British, led by Amadis, and fled back to Ireland.

Cileus Roman

an Etruscan deity

Cilgwri, Ousel of (see Blackbird of Cilgwri)

Cilicia Greek

the sky

Cilix Greek

king of Cilicia
son of Agenor and Telephassa

brother of Cadmus, Europa
and Phoenix

When his sister Europa was carried off by Zeus in the form of a bull, he and his brothers went in search of her. He settled in and became king of Cilicia, a country named after him.

Cillus Greek
driver of the chariot given by Poseidon to Pelops

Cilydd British

[Kil(wydd)
son of Cyleddon

husband of Goleuddydd
father of Culhwch by Goleuddydd

In Welsh lore, when his wife died he promised not to remarry until a double-headed briar grew on her grave. He later married the widow of King Doged, who laid a charge on Culhwch that he should marry none but Olwen.

Cilydd Cyfwlch British

[Kil(wydd)
father of Bwlch, Cyfwlch and Syfwlch,
in some accounts

(see Cleddyf Cyfwlch)

Cilydd Hundred-holds British

[Kil(wydd)
owner of a strong chain, in Welsh lore

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get this chain to hold the collar of the hounds to be used in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth as part of the quest for the hand of Olwen.

Cimbaeth (see Kimbay)

Cimbaoth (see Kimbay)

Cimbeline (see Cunobelinus)

Cimeries

a demon, a marquis of hell
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted astride a black horse and is said to teach literature.

Cimetièrre (see Baron Samedi)

Cimi Central American

the sixth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore – death

(see also Three Cimi)

Cimiacinus Celtic

a god of travellers

Cimmerians Greek

[Cimmerii.Kimmerians.Kimmeroi]

the inhabitants of the far bank of Ocean who lived in perpetual darkness

Cimmerii (see Cimmerians)

cin Turkish

[cinni]
a spirit which can cause madness
and illness

These spirits, which cause epilepsy in children, are normally invisible but they can materialise whenever and in whatever form they choose. They live in old ruins, trees, refuse tips and various other places.

Cin-an-ev North American

[Cin-au-av]

a culture hero of the Ute tribe: a wolf-trickster

Cin-au-av (see Cin-an-ev)

Cincinnatus Roman

a 5th c legendary hero

He was a humble farmer who raised a conscript army, defeated the Aquei, freed the army they had trapped and returned home all in the space of fifteen days.

Cinei'nen Siberian

wife of Kere'tkun

Cingris Egyptian

a pharaoh

father of Scota

His daughter married the Irish sage Niul.

Cinnabar Classic (see Tan Ching)

Cinnéide Irish

a chieftain

father of Brian Boru

cinni (see cin)

Cintamani Buddhist

a pearl said to have the power to grant wishes

This jewel is carried on the back of the horse of the west wind.

Cinteatl (see Cintéotl)

Cintéotl Central American

[Centéotl.Chiucoatl.Cinteatl:=Mayan

Yum Caax]

the Aztec maize-god

son of Tezcatlipoca and Tlazoteotl husband of Xochiquetzal

father of Xochipilli, some say

This god often appeared in female form. (see also Tonacajohua)

Cinvat (see Chinvat Bridge)

Cinvato Peretu (see Chinvat Bridge)

Cinxia Roman

a goddess of marriage, later assimilated into Juno

Cinyrades Greek

priests of Aphrodite

Cinyras<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kinyras]

a king of Cyprus

a priest of Aphrodite

son of Paphos

son of Apollo, Sandoes or Theias,

some say

husband of Cenchreis or Metharme

father of Adonis, Mydalia and Myrrha

Some say he was married to Paphos

while others say that she was his mother and Metharme was his wife.

Aphrodite caused his daughter Myrrha to sleep with Cinyras, producing Adonis. The goddess then turned Myrrha into a myrtle tree. In some stories, Myrrha is Smyrna, in others her father is Belus or Theias.

In some accounts he killed himself when he realised he had committed incest.

Cinyras<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Kinyras]

a smith-god of Cyprus originally worshipped in Syria

Ciombaoth (see Kimbay)

Cipactli<sup>1</sup> Central American

an Aztec goddess in the form of a huge crocodile or fish

When she emerged from the primaevael waters she fought Tezcatlipoca. He broke off her lower jaw and she bit off his left foot. The earth, Cemanahuac, was formed from her body.

Cipactli<sup>2</sup> Central American

the first of the 20 days of the

Aztec month

Symbolising the east and the water snake, the day is governed by Tonacatecuhtli.

Cipactli<sup>3</sup> (see Cipactonal)

Cipactonal Central American

the first woman who, with Oxomoco

the first man, was created by Piltzintecuhtli

In other accounts he and the woman Xumio were created by Hometeuli.

(see also Chipactonal)

Cipapu North American

in the lore of the Acoma, the place where la'tiku and Nao'tsiti were born underground

Cir Irish

a poet

He accompanied Eremon when he took the northern half of the country.

Cirape North American

a young coyote, in the lore of the

Crow Indians

brother of Coyote

He helped his more famous brother in the creation of the world.

Circe<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aeaea.'hawk'.Kirke]

a goddess or sorceress

daughter of Helius and Perse

sister of Aetes and Pasiphae

mother of Agrius, Latinus and Telegonus by Odysseus

mother of Comus by Bacchus, some say

She killed her husband and was exiled to the island of Aeaea. She fell in love with the fisherman Glaucus, but he preferred the nymph Scylla. Circe then changed Scylla into a monster.

She turned all men who approached her into animals. Some of the crew of Odysseus' ship were turned into pigs but she fell in love with Odysseus himself and returned his men to their former selves. Some say that her three sons were fathered by Odysseus, although the parentage of Latinus is disputed.

When Picus rejected her love, she turned him into a woodpecker.

She purified Jason and Medea of the murder of Apsyrtus.

Circe<sup>2</sup> British

a sorceress

wife of Bethides

She was said to have been instrumental in bringing in the Romans who destroyed the Franc Palais and conquered Britain.

Circe's grass Greek

the plant (mandrake) which, it is said, Circe used to change men into animals

Circius Roman

[=Greek Thracius]

a wind from the north-west quarter

Circle of Penance (see Gakido)

Circle of the Sun

a megalith consisting of 5 stones with a central altar

Cirech Scottish

a Pict

son of Cruithne

When his father divided the kingdom between his seven children, Cirech was given Angus and Mearns.

Cirein Croin British

a Scottish monster in the form of a huge sea serpent

It was said that this huge beast could eat seven whales for one meal.

Ciriato European

[Ciriatio.Guttlehog]

a devil with tusks in Dante's Inferno

Ciriatto (see Ciriato)

Cirieli (see Kirieli)

Ciris (see Scylla)

Cirrho (see Delphi)

Cis Irish

an ancestor of Brigit

son of Carmac

father of Cear

Cissa British

son of Aelle

brother of Cymen and Wlencing

Cisseta Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon the hunter watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Cisseta, tore him to pieces.

Cisseus Greek

[Kisseus]

a king of Thrace

father of Hecuba and Theano, some say

Cissos (see Dionysus)

Cist Arthur British

a burial chamber in Wales, said to be the grave of King Arthur

(see also Carnedd Arthur)

Cittapati Buddhist

[Cittipati:=Tibetan Dur-krod-bdag-po]

a demon of the graveyard, in the form of a skeleton which dances on corpses

They are said to carry a wand topped with a skull and are usually found in the company of Yama.

Cisthene Greek

the home of the Gorgons

Cit Bolon Tum Central American

a Mayan god of medicine

(see also Ahau Chamahez)

Cit Chac Cob Central American

a Mayan war-god

He is depicted as a puma.

Citalicue (see Citlalnicue)

Citaltonac (see Citlaltonac)

Citallinicue (see Citlalnicue)

Citaltonac (see Citlaltonac)

Citatli South American

the moon in Aztec lore

Citche Manitou (see Gitchi Manitou)

Cithaeron (see Alalcomeneus)

Cithaeronian lion Greek

[Thespian lion]

a lion killed by Heracles, at the age of 18

Heracles wore the skin thereafter as a cloak, but some say that this was the pelt of the Nemean lion.

In some versions, the Cithaeronian Lion was killed by Alcathous, the Nemean Lion by Heracles.

Citipati (see Citapati)

Citaltonac (see Citlaltonac)

Citalicue (see Citlalnicue)

Citlalnicue Central American

[Citalicue.Citallinicue.Citalicue]

another name for Omecihuatl

In this role, her consort was Citlaltonac or Tonacacihuatl.

Citaltonac Central American

[Citallatonac.Citaltonac.Citalatonac]

another name for Ometecuhtli

In this role, his consort was Citlalnicue.

In some accounts, this is a name for Quetzalcoatl as 'morning' or for Tonacacihuatl as 'star-skirted'.

Citli Central American

the hare: a bowman

When he lost a wager he threw an arrow at the sun, which the sun-god threw back at him and hit him on the head.

Citoc Raymi South American

a 9-day festival, held in June

This period followed the winter solstice and celebrated the increasing length of the days and the sun's power. It was marked by sacrifices of llamas, maize, etc.

Citra Hindu

a goddess of misfortune

daughter of Daksha

wife of Candra

Citrugupta Hindu

a spy for Dharma in his role as 'judge of souls'

Citrasena Buddhist

the female aspect of Buddhakapala

Cittavasita Buddhist

a goddess

one of 12 Paramita goddesses

City Dionysia Greek

[Great Dionysia]

a spring festival in honour of Dionysus

City of Brass Persian

a city said to have been built by Alexander the Great

City of Death (see Burju Alamasi)

City of Lanterns

a realm said to exist beyond the zodiac

City of Legions

(see City of the Legion)

City of Mists North American

home of Poshaiyangkyo

City of Souls British

a place haunted by spirits that, in some accounts, was visited by Lancelot

City of the Caesars South American

a fabulous city in Chile

This city is built from solid gold and the inhabitants live for ever in the greatest comfort and never leave. Those who come upon it by chance never remember what they have seen. It is said that the city will become visible when the world comes to an end.

City of the Dead by Accident

(see Wang-ssu Ch'eng)

City of the Legion British

[City of Legions]

the site of one of King Arthur's many battles

It is variously identified as Caerleon, Castleford or Chester.

City of the Three Kings European

the name given to Cologne as the supposed site of the graves of the magi

Ciuacoatl (see Cihuacoatl)

ciuapiltin (see Cihuateteo)

Ciuateotl (see Cihuacoatl)

ciuateteo (see cihuateteo)

Civavakkiyar Hindu

[Shivavakya]

a 9th c poet

His poems, of which there are over 500, speak against such things as the concept of rebirth, the caste system, etc. and preach reverence for Shiva.

Cizin Central American

a Mayan god of death

He is said to burn the souls of the dead in Metnal. In some accounts he is equated with Ah Puch.

He is depicted as fleshless in parts, painted black and yellow.

Claidhimh Soluis Irish

[Sword of Light]

the sword of Lugh

Claimer of Prayer (see Moneneque)

clairaudience

the supposed power of hearing

the paranormal

Claire British

sister of Sagamore

She was attacked by two giants but saved by Gingalin.

clairvoyance

the supposed power of seeing the paranormal: visionary power

Clamadeus British

a king in love with Blancheffleur

In an attempt to win her love, Clamadeus besieged the home of Blancheffleur but was killed in single combat by Percival.

In another version he was defeated by Percival who sent him to submit to King Arthur.

Claretie European

daughter of Huon and Clarimunda

Clarette British

wife of the Knight of the Sleeve

This hero of a Dutch story won Clarette as a wife in a tournament arranged by King Arthur.

Clarice<sup>1</sup> European

an English princess

Some say that she was given in marriage to Ogier as a reward for slaying a Saracen giant.

Clarice<sup>2</sup> European

[Clarissa]

sister of Yon

Her brother gave her hand in marriage to Rinaldo as a reward for military services.

In some stories, she is Clarissa, a

Saracen princess and daughter of Ivo, who gave her to Rinaldo as a wife.

Clarice<sup>3</sup> (see Claris<sup>2</sup>)

Clarimunda European

[Amanda.Esclairmond.Esclar(a)monde. Rezia]

daughter of the Sultan Gaudisso wife of Huon

mother of Claretie

She was betrothed to Babican who was killed by Huon. When Huon was imprisoned by her father, she supplied him with food and planned his escape with Sherasmin. When her father was killed on the orders of the Caliph, she went to France with Huon, became a Christian, taking the name Amanda, and married him.

Oberon gave the land of Faerie to Huon, but King Arthur, who went there when he died, disputed Huon's right to inherit because Huon's wife was a mortal. Morgan le Fay took Clarimunda (in this story, Esclairmonde) to the fountain of youth where she bathed and became a fairy.

Clarine German

wife of Pant and mother of Lancelot

in a German version of the Lancelot stories

Clarion British

a Saxon king

In some accounts, he owned the horse Gringolet, which he lost to Gawain.

Claris<sup>1</sup> British

a Knight of the Round Table

husband of Lidoine

He rescued his friend Laris from the hands of Tallas.

Claris<sup>2</sup> European

a friend of Blanchefleur

She was imprisoned with Blanchefleur in Babylon and, when the emir freed Blanchefleur to marry Floris, the emir married Claris.

Claris and Laris French

a 13th c story of these two friends and companions-in-arms (see Laris)

Clarissa European

a princess of Tarasconia daughter of Ivo

wife of Rinaldo

Clarissant British

[Clarisse]

daughter of Lot and Morgause

wife of Guiromelant

mother of Guigenor

Clarisse (see Clarissant)

Clarivau British

a king of Northumberland

He was one of the leaders of the rebellion put down by King Arthur at the Battle of Bedgrayne.

Clarrus of Cleremont British

a Knight of the Round Table

After the death of King Arthur he joined Bedivere, Lancelot and other knights in a hermitage.

Clas Merdin (see Clas Myrddin)

Clas Myrddin British

[Clas Merdin.Merlin's Enclosure.Merlin's Precinct.Myrddin's Precinct]

a Welsh name for Britain

Clashing Rocks

(see Planctae.Symplegades)

Claud British

[King of the Desert Land]

a Gaulish giant

brother of Carras

father of Claudin

He was hired by a group of rebellious chieftains to lead their forces against Bors and Ban. These kings took their armies to Britain to help King Arthur in his battles with the barons on his promise to help them against Claudas. Arthur kept his promise, defeated Claudas and took over his lands.

Claudia Rufina British

daughter of Caractacus, some say

Claudia Quinta Roman

a girl who moved a ship

Claudia had been unjustly accused of being unchaste. When a ship ran aground in the Tiber she released it by gently pulling on the tow rope, so proving her innocence.

Claudin British

son of Claudas

He was one of the nine knights who joined Bors, Galahad and Percival at Castle Carbonek and saw the Holy Grail.

Clavicles of Solomon

[Black Book]

a collection of magic formulae

The collection was compiled, it is said, by King Solomon.

Clavigero Central American

an 18th c priest who wrote extensively on Aztec history and mythology

Clavigo Spanish

a wooden horse in Don Quixote

Clavileno (see Wooden Horse)

Clay Mother North American

a tutelary spirit of the Pueblo tribes

This spirit gave her flesh (clay) to the potters so that they could make utensils for her people.

Cleanthes Greek

[Kleanthes]

a 3rd c BC writer

Author of Hymn to Zeus, he is said to have starved himself to death.

Clear Sky North American

first wife of Kulshan

She quarrelled with her husband's second wife, Fair Maiden, and left to set up her own house far to the south. She was later turned into the mountain now known as Mount Rainer.

Cleddyf Cyfwlch British

son of Cleddyf Dyfwlch

father of Bwlch, Cyfwlch and Syfwlch, some say (see also Cilydd Cyfwlch)

Cleddyf Dyfwlch British

father of Cleddyf Cyfwlch

cledomancy

divination from the involuntary

actions and utterances of humans

Cleena (see Cliona)

Clegis British

a Knight of the Round Table

Cleite Greek

[Clite]

daughter of Merops

wife of King Cyzicus

When her husband was killed by the Argonauts she hanged herself.

Clelia (see Cloelia)

Clementia Roman

a guardian-goddess of the citizen

Cleo Greek

[Kleo]

a woman whose pregnancy lasted for 5 years

She sought help from Asclepius, who allowed her to sleep in his sacred chamber. When she woke and left the room, her son was born.

Cleobis Greek

[Kleobis]

son of Cydippe

brother of Biton

When their mother expressed a wish to see the wonderful statue of Hera, Cleobis and his brother yoked themselves to a cart and pulled her all the way to Argos. Tired from the effort, he was given permanent rest by Hera – he was transported to the Elysian Fields.

Cleobule Greek

[Theobule]

daughter of Aeolus

wife of Amytor

mother of Phoenix

mother of Myrtilus by Hermes, some say When Amyntor took a mistress she induced Phoenix to sleep with the girl.

In some accounts she is called Theobule.

Cleobulus Greek

one of the Seven Sages

Cleobuta (see Cleopatra<sup>1</sup>)

Cleocharia Greek
a nymph, one of the Naiads

Cleodaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Heracles by Malis
brother of Alcaeus

Cleodaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Hyllus by Iole

Cleodalis British
the general leading the forces of King Ryance against Leodogrance

Cleolla Greek
daughter of Dias
wife of Pleisthenes, some say

Cleonaean lion (see Nemean lion)

Cleopatra<sup>1</sup> Greek [Cleobuta]
daughter of Boreas and Oreithyia
sister of Calais, Chione and Zetes first wife of Phineus Phineus threw her into prison and took another wife, Idaeus, but her brothers Calais and Zetes freed her and put her children on the throne of Salmydessus in place of Phineus. Her sons later joined the Argonauts and gave the throne to Cleopatra.

Cleopatra<sup>2</sup> Greek [Alcyone]
a goddess of twilight daughter of Idas and Marpessa wife of Meleager
She hanged herself when Meleager
was killed.

Cleothena Greek
daughter of Pandareus and Hermothoe
sister of Aedon and Merope
She was one of the daughters who were carried off by the Harpies as slaves for the Furies.

Cleriadus British
a king of Britain
husband of Meliadice

Clerimond European niece of the Green Knight sister of Ferragus wife of Valentine

Clérmeil West Indian [Difficile Clérmeil]
a Haitian voodoo spirit
He is said to be all-powerful and when upset causes rivers to overflow.

Clérmézine West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit

cleromancy
divination by lot, such as falling dice

Cleta Greek
in some accounts, one of the Graces

Cletine Irish
the spear of Cuchulainn
(see also Duaibhseach<sup>2</sup>)

Cliach Irish
a minstrel
He sued for the hand of Bodb's daughter, Conchenn, but was rejected and died of fright when a dragon came up out of the earth.

Clidna (see Cliona)

Clidnu (see Cliona)

Cligés<sup>1</sup> French [Clygés]
son of Alexander and Soredamor
He fell in love with Fenice, wife of his uncle Alis, and went to King Arthur's court to avoid conflict. When Alis died, he married Fenice.

Cligés<sup>2</sup> French
a 12th c story of the exploits of Cligés,
written by Chrétien de Troyes

Climbing the Hills (see Teng Kao)

Clinschor (see Klingsor)

Clio Greek
[Klieo]
one of the 9 Muses, heroic poetry and history
When she laughed at Aphrodite for loving the mortal, Adonis, the goddess caused her to fall in love with Pierus, by whom, in some stories, she bore Hyacinthus.

Clidna (see Cliona)

Clidhna (see Cliona)

Cliona<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Cleena.Clidna.Clidnu.Clid(h)na]
daughter of Gebann
sister of Aoife and Etain
sister of Aoiheall, some say She fell in love with Ciabhan and they fled from Tir Tairnigiri to Cork to escape Manannan. Her sisters Aoife and Etain eloped with Eolus and Lodan at the same time. When Ciabhan left her to go hunting, the sea-god sent a huge wave that carried the girls back to the Otherworld or, in some versions, drowned not only the girls but their lovers as well.
In another version she fell in love with Angus Og, but was drowned en route to see him by the treachery of her companion in the boat.
Some say that both she and her sister were in love with the same man, the chieftain O Caoimh, and she turned Aoiheall into a cat. She then married the chieftain, who later abandoned her when he found out what she had done. She carried off Sean mac Semais at his engagement party, but when Caitlin Og demanded a dowry she released him.
(see also Cliona<sup>2</sup>)

Cliona<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Cleena.Clidna.Clidnu.Clid(h)na]
a fairy queen of Munster
In some accounts she is the same as Cliona, daughter of Gebann.

Clite (see Cleite)

Cliton Celtic
sister of Morgan le Fay

Clitonymus Greek
son of Amphidamas
He was accidentally killed by Patroclus in an argument over a dice game.

Clitus Greek
son of Mantius
He was a very handsome youth who was carried off by Eos.

Cloacina Roman
goddess of sewers
a name for Venus as 'purifier'

Cloak of Invisibility German
a magic cloak owned by Siegfried, which rendered the wearer invisible

Clodion British
son of Faramon
brother of Belide
He was killed in combat by Tristram.

clodones (see Bacchantes)

Cloelia Roman [Clelia]
a maiden
She was handed over to Lars Porsenna as one of the hostages when the Romans and Etruscans agreed a truce.
She persuaded her guards to let the captives bathe in the river and they all swam back to Rome.

Cloithfhionn Irish
wife of Eochaid Feidhleach mother of Clothra, Conall Anghlonnach, the Finn Eamhna and Maev
She fell out with her husband over a game of chess and left him, taking their triplet sons, Breas, Lothar and Nar, with her.

Clonia Greek
a nymph
wife of Hyrieus
mother of Nycteus, some say

Clootie British [Old Clootie]
a Scottish name for Satan

Cloridan European
a Saracen soldier
He and Medoro crept out of their camp at night to retrieve the body of their leader, Dardinel, killed in battle by Rinaldo. They entered the Christian camp and killed several men in revenge and then started back carrying the body.
They were overtaken by a troop led by Zerbino, and Cloridan was killed.

- Closed Man North American
the first man, in the lore of the Pawnees
a son of Sakuru and Pah
He was given sacred bundles that contained all the varieties of grain.
- Closer of the Day (see Seker)
- Clota (see Clud)
- Cloten British
king of Cornwall
father of Dunvallo Molmutius
- Clothair British
a king of the Franks
- Clotho Greek [Klotho(n)] one of the 3 Fates, the spinner of the thread of life
- Clothra Irish [Clothru]
a queen of Connaught daughter of Eochaid Feidhleach
and Clíothfhionn
sister of Eithne, the Finn Eamhna, Maev and Mughain
mother of Cormac Cond Longes, Furbaidhe and Lugaid Riabhdearg
She drowned her own sister, Eithne,
and on the eve of the Battle of Comar, in which they were killed, slept with her triplet brothers. The body of her son Lugaid was divided into three sections by red stripes reflecting his triple parentage.
In some accounts she slept with Lugaid and bore a son, Criomhthann Nia Nair.
She was one of four sisters said to have married Cormac mac Nessa.
In some accounts, she was killed by her sister, Maev, who was killed by Furbaidhe to avenge the death of his mother.
- Clothru (see Clothra)
- Cloud (see Kokumthana.Valahaka)
- Cloud-carrier North American
an Algonquian youth
He was taken into the heavens by the Star-maiden, Nemissa, and married her. Despite the pleasures of the land of the Star-people, he came to long for his own country and was allowed to return on the condition that he did not marry one of his own kind. He soon forgot this condition and married an earthly maiden but she died a few days later. When he married again he disappeared from the earth, called by Nemissa, and never returned.
- Cloud-gatherer Greek
a name for Zeus
- Cloud Palace Chinese
the home of the Taoist god Tung-wang-kung
- Cloud-people (see Shiwana)
- Cloud Serpent (see Mixcoatl)
- Clouds (see Tlalocs)
- Clovis British
a Frankish king
ancestor of Guiron
- Cluasach O Failbhe Irish
a sailor
He set out with Ceannai Fionn in the hope of finding the end of the sea.
When the ship's anchor was held fast on the sea bottom, Cluasach dived to release it but instead entered a magical city below the waves, where he stayed with a beautiful maiden and was seen no more.
- club<sup>1</sup> Greek
the weapon of Heracles
- club<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the weapon of Yama
- Club-bearer (see Periphetes)
- Club-tailed glyptodont North American
a fabulous animal
- Clud<sup>1</sup> British [Clota.Cud]
a goddess of the Clyde
- Clud<sup>2</sup> British [Clwyd.Cud]
mother of Gwawl
- Cluitheachair Irish
son of Cu Chorb
- cluracan (see cluricane)
- clurican (see cluricane)
- cluricane Irish [cluracan.clurican.cluricaune]
a spirit or elf
This being, looking like a very old man, lives in the wine cellar taking care of the beer, etc. It is said to know the location of hidden treasures.
(see also leprechaun)
- Cluricaune (see Cluricane)
- Clusivius Roman
a name of Janus as 'closer of gates'
- Clust British [Klust]
a Welsh gatekeeper at King Arthur's court
son of Clustfeinydd
It was said that he could hear an ant moving fifty miles away. He was one of those who accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.
- Clustfeinad (see Clustfeinydd)
- Clustfeinydd British [Clustfeinad]
father of Clust
- Clutarius British
father of Maelgwn
- Clwyd (see Clud<sup>2</sup>)
- clurican (see cluricane)
- Clydno British
a Welsh warrior at King Arthur's court
father of Cynon
- Clydno Eiddyn British
the Welsh owner of a halter, one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain
collected by Merlin
Any horse that the owner of the halter wished for could be found in this halter.
- Clygés (see Cligés)
- Clymene<sup>1</sup> Greek
['famous'.Klumene]
daughter of Catreus
sister of Aerope, Apemosyne and Athamenes wife of Nauplius
mother of Nausimedon, Oeax and Palamedes
In some accounts she and Aerope were sold as slaves by their father, but Nauplius, in charge of the sale, gave Aerope to Atreus, or Pleisthenes, and married Clymene himself.
- Clymene<sup>2</sup> Greek
['famous'.Klumene]
a Mysian nymph
mother of Atalanta by Iasius (see also Clymene<sup>3</sup>)
- Clymene<sup>3</sup> Greek
['famous'.Klumene]
daughter of Minyas
wife of Phylacus
second wife of Cephalus mother of Alcimedon and Iphiclus by Phylacus
mother of Atalanta by Iasius, some say mother of Iphiclus by Cephalus,
some say
In some accounts she married Cephalus after the death of his first wife, Procris, and they had a son, Iphiclus.
- Clymene<sup>4</sup> Greek
['famous'.Klumene]
a river nymph
daughter of Ocean and Tethys wife of Iapetus wife of Merops, some say mother of Atlas, Epimetheus, Menoetius and Prometheus
by Iapetus
mother of Phaeton and the Heliades by Helios, some say
In some stories Clymene was the mother of Phaeton, who sent him to see his absent real father, the sun-god Helios, to confirm that he was the son of a god.

In other stories she was Phaeton's sister and when he was killed driving his father's sun-chariot, Clymene and her sister Prote were changed into poplar trees as they grieved for him on the banks of the River Po.

In some accounts Asia appears in place of Clymene, in others Clymene is given as the wife of Prometheus.

(see also Rhode)

Clymene<sup>5</sup> Greek

['famous'.Klumenē]

a companion of Helen

When Helen was carried off to Troy by Paris, Clymene went with her.

Clymene<sup>6</sup> (see Pyrrha)

Clymenus<sup>1</sup> Greek

['famous'.Klymenos.Klymenos]

a king of Argos

father of Harpalyce

He had an incestuous love for his daughter, so when she married Alastor he seized her as she left with her husband, and kept her for himself. She killed her younger brother (or, some say, her own child by Clymenus) and served his flesh to her father at a banquet.

In some accounts she was turned into an owl at her own request, in others Clymenus killed both his daughter and himself.

A similar story is told of Epopeus and Nyctymene.

(see also Epopeus.Nyctymene)

Clymenus<sup>2</sup> Greek

['famous'.Klymenos.Klymenos]

a king of Orchomenus

grandson of Phrixus

father of Erginus

He was killed by a stone thrown by Perieres. His son Erginus swore vengeance on the Thebans.

Clymenus<sup>3</sup> Greek

['famous'.Klymenos.Klymenos]

a name of Hades as 'famous'

Clymenus<sup>4</sup> Greek

['famous'.Klymenos.Klymenos]

a name for Phaeton as the son of

Clymene and Helius

Clytonymus (see Clytonymus)

Clytaemestra (see Clytemnestra)

Clytemnestra Greek

[Clytaemestra.Klutaimnestra.Klytaimnestra]

a dawn-goddess

daughter of Tyndareus or Zeus and Leda wife of Agamemnon mother of Chrysothemis, Electra,

Iphigenia and Orestes

mother of Amphiarus by Oides

mother of Aletes by Aegisthus, some say

In some versions she is Leda's daughter by Zeus who, in the form of a swan, seduced Leda.

She was originally the wife of Tantalus, king of Pisa, but when Agamemnon defeated him he took over his wife Clytemnestra who, as a daughter of Tyndareus, was sometimes referred to as Tyndaris.

While Agamemnon was away at Troy, she was seduced by Aegisthus who was seeking further revenge for the murder of his brother, Tantalus. When Agamemnon returned bringing with him Cassandra and the twin boys she had borne to him, the two lovers killed all four of them. Agamemnon was trapped in the bath where Aegisthus attacked him with a sword and Clytemnestra cut off his head. When Orestes later returned to avenge his father's death, he killed Aegisthus and cut off Clytemnestra's head.

Another version of the story says that she killed Agamemnon to avenge the death of their daughter Iphigenia, who he had sacrificed to ensure a safe passage to attack Troy.

Clytia (see Clytie)

Clytie Greek

[Clytia]

a sea nymph

a maiden who fell in love with the sun-god, Apollo or Helius

daughter of Oceanus

When the god rejected her, she pined away, always watching him, and changed after nine days into a sunflower (heliotrope).

Clytis Greek

son of Eurytus

Clytius<sup>1</sup> Greek

['renowned'] son of Laomedon

brother of Priam

Clytius<sup>2</sup> Greek

['renowned']

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

He was killed in the battle between the giants and the gods by Hecate who burnt him to death with torches.

Clytius<sup>3</sup> Greek

['renowned']

a king of Oechalia

son of Eurytus

He was one of the Argonauts and was killed in Colchis by Aetes.

Clytoneus Greek

a king of Nauplia

father of Nauplius

Clytonymus Greek

[Clysonymus]

son of Amphidamus

This youth was accidentally killed by Patroclus.

Cmok (see Zmek)

Cnaeris Marcus (see Corialanus<sup>1</sup>)

Cnoc Miodhchaoin Irish

the hill of Miodhchaoin (Mochaen) on which nobody was allowed to shout

Cnossia Greek

a nymph

Cnossius (see Idomenus)

Cnu Dearoil Irish

a servant of Finn mac Cool

He was a dwarf, less than two feet tall, found by Finn outside a fairy mound.

Cnucha (see Battle of Knock)

Cnuphis (see Kneph)

co-hon Vietnamese

in Annamese lore, the souls of those who died as a result of violence

It is said that these spirits live in the shade of trees and attack travellers at night. They can be propitiated with offerings of paper, shoes, rice, etc.

Co-walker British

in Scottish lore, a companion who haunts a man like his own shadow:

a doppelganger

Coart European

[=Dutch Cuwaert]

the hare in Reynard the Fox

(see also Lampe)

Coassimolar (see Caacrinolaas)

Coatepec Central American

the home of Coatlicue

Coatl Central American

the fifth of the 20 days of the

Aztec month

Symbolising the East and the snake, the day is governed by Chalchiuhtlicue.

Coatlantona Central American

[Serpent Skirt]

a name for Coatlicue as 'Robe

of Serpents'

Coatlucue Central American

[Chicomecohuatl.Coatlantona.Ilamatecuhtli.

I(t)zpalotl.Robe of Serpents.Serpent

Skirt.Tlazolteotl.Tona(n)tzin]

the Aztec earth-goddess, moon-

goddess, mother-goddess,

earth serpent

an aspect of Tonantzin

the female aspect of Ometeotl wife of Mixcoatl

mother of Coyolxauhqui,

Huitzilopochtli, Quetzalcoatl, Xolotl

and 400 others

She was impregnated with a ball of down or feathers that fell on to her lap. Her 400 (or 4,000) children planned to kill her to prevent the birth but her son, Huitzilopochtli (or Quetzalcoatl), was born fully armed and killed many of the rebellious children.

Another version of this story tells of a widow, La, who is similarly made pregnant and saved by her son, Huitzilopochtli.

In some stories she is the consort of Tlaltecuhltli.

She is represented as a terrible deity with snakes round her waist, human hearts as a necklace and with claws on hands and feet. She ate the dead.

Coatrischie West Indian

a Taino storm-goddess

This being, together with Guatauva, acted as an assistant to Guabancex.

Coba Irish

a Milesian

son of Milesius

He was said to have introduced the art of trapping and died when he was caught in one of his own traps.

Cobhthach Coel (see Covac)

Cobthach Coel (see Covac)

coblyn British

[plur=coblynau:=Cornish knocker]

a Welsh spirit of the mines who helps miners to locate coal, etc.

coblynau (see coblyn)

cobra<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

the animal sacred to Wadjet: part of the uraeus

cobra<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a snake said to carry a precious jewel in its head

This stone, the gemala, is said to shine at night and has the power to make any man who owns it victorious in battle. Some say that it can be used to cure a snake bite.

Coca-Mama South American

a Peruvian goddess of the coca plant.

Cocalus Greek

king of Sicily

He sheltered Daedalus when he escaped from the Cretan labyrinth of King Minos. When Minos came to his court in search of Daedalus he was killed; in some versions in the fighting that ensued when Cocalus refused to hand over Daedalus, in others when Daedalus (or a priestess of Cocalus) poured scalding water over Minos as he lay in his bath.

Cocao

[Cochab]

a demon associated with the planet

Mercury and Wednesday

(see also Cochabiel)

Cochab (see Cocao)

Cochabiel Hebrew

a Cabalistic spirit of Mercury

Cochar Cruife Irish

a lover of Uathach

When Cuchulainn accidentally broke Uathach's finger, Cochar challenged him to single combat and was killed.

Cochimetl Central American

[Cocochimetl]

a god of trade, patron of merchants

Cocidius British

a god of the hunt

In some accounts he is equated with Segomo or Silvan. (see also Segomo)

Cocijo Central American

[=Aztec Tlaloc.Tezcatlipoca.Tzahui:

=Mayan Chac:=Totonac Tajin]

a Zapotec rain-god

cock

[gallus]

the male of the fowl, a bird domesticated in many countries, in many cases regarded as sacred

(1) In the bestiaries the only bird to be castrated.

(2) In China the cock is called kung-ch'i and is regarded as a divine bird that carries the sun through part of the zodiac. Some say it could become a human being while others say that it drives away ghosts when it crows at dawn. A picture of a cock pasted on a coffin is said to drive away demons.

(3) In Germany the bird is regarded as a weather prophet.

(4) In Greek lore the cock is the bird of Apollo and Athena. It was sacrificed to Asclepius in recognition of recovery from illness.

(5) In Japan the cock is known as tokoyo-na-ganaki-dori and is said to prepare the heart for worship.

(6) The Norse regard the cock as a guardian. In the realm of Midgard, Gullinkambi lived on the tree Yggdrasil. In Valhalla, Fialar's duty was to waken the warriors for the final battle.

(7) The Romans consulted the cock as an augury, particularly on the weather.

(8) An old Scottish custom involved the sacrifice of a cock as a cure for epilepsy.

Cockaigne European

[Cockayne:=German Schlaraffenland]

a paradisaical land of wealth where the buildings were made of pastry and sugar

cockatrice

a winged monster, part cock, part serpent

This beast was produced from a cockerel's egg, hatched by a snake or toad. In some accounts it was equated with the basilisk.

Cockayne (see Cockaigne)

Cockspur (see Zipacna)

Cocles (see Horatius<sup>1</sup>)

coco macaque West Indian

a stick that walks by itself

In Haiti they say that such a stick can be sent off on its own to do errands and can also be used to attack enemies. Any person struck by such a stick soon dies.

Cocao South American

a cat-god of Peru

It was said that this deity, depicted as a cat, continuously produced streams of hail from its eyes.

Cocochimetl (see Cochimetl)

Cocoloon (see Kukulcan)

Cocomama South American

an Inca spirit controlling the growth of the cocoa plant

Cocoyomes Mexican

the first people, ancestors of the Tarahumare tribe

These beings, cannibals who lived in caves, were scorched to death by the sun for their wickedness. A few escaped but were later killed by the Tarahumare.

Cocquecigrues

[Cocquecigrues.Cocquecigrues]

imaginary animals

Cocquecigrues (see Cocquecigrues)

Cocquecugruis (see Cocquecigrues)

Cocytus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kokutos.Kokyotos]

a river in Hades

This river was said to be composed of the salty tears of the dead who wander in Hades for 100 years if they have not got the fare of one obol required by Charon to ferry them across the Acheron or Styx.

Cocytus<sup>2</sup> Greek

father of Minthe by Peitho

cod-pan (see cho-pen)

Codal Irish

foster father of the young Eire

Codex Borbonius Central American

a book of Aztec legends

Codex Borgia Central American

the Aztec calendar

This book also describes the Aztec gods and their exploits.

Codex Cortesianus Central American
a source of Mayan legends and culture

Codex Cospiano Central American
a source of Aztec myths

Codex Dresden (see Dresden Codex)

Codex Fejervary-Mayer Central American
the document setting out the relationship of the Aztec gods to the calendar

Codex Huamantla Central American
a source of Aztec myths

Codex Magliabecché Central American
a source of Aztec myths

Codex Regius (see Elder Edda)

Codex Vindobonsis Central American [Vienna Codex]
a source of Aztec myths

Codex Zoncha-Nuttall Central American
a book of Mixtec myths and genealogies

Codrus Greek [Kodros]
the last king of Athens son of Melanthis
father of Medon

Some say he was an early king of Athens, some the last king. He attained the throne by killing the previous king, Xanthus.

It was prophesied that the Dorians would conquer Attica if the king was spared, so Codrus entered their camp and died fighting. The Dorians gave up the fight and withdrew. Since no man felt worthy to follow such a king,
the royal position was abolished.

Coel<sup>1</sup> British [(Old) King Cole]
a duke of Colchester
a king of Britain
father of Helena

He was said to have overthrown the king, Asclepiodotus, and died a month later. In some accounts he derives from Camulos and is the husband of Stradawl and father of Grawl. Some say that he was an ancestor of King Arthur. (see also Coel<sup>2</sup>)

Coel<sup>2</sup> British husband of Stradawl
father of Grawl

In some Welsh accounts he is the same as King Coel of Britain.

Coel Godebog British
an ancestor of Merlin
father of Ceneu

Coelus (see Caelus)

Coem South American
a survivor of the flood in the lore of the Tupi

He was one of four people who escaped by hiding in caves or climbing trees; the others were Hermitten, Krimen and Tupan.

Coemgen (see Caoimhghin)

Coeranus Greek
son of Abas
brother of Lysimache

Coetan Arthur British
a barrow in Wales where, it is said,
King Arthur lies buried

Coeus Greek [Ceos.Koeos]
one of the Titans
son of Uranus and Gaea
brother and husband of Phoebe father of Asteria and Leto

Coeviaca South American
a culture hero of the Xingu of Brazil
He is regarded as the man who brought fire from the gods.

Cogaz African
son of Kaang and Coti, in Bushman lore
He descended to earth and taught mankind how to dig for roots.

Coh Central American
a leopard
a Mayan prince
son of Kan
brother of Aac, Cay, Moo and Nieta

When Moo rejected Aac and married Coh there was bad blood between the brothers, leading to war, and Coh was killed by his brother who renewed his suit for the widowed queen. When she rejected him once again, he made war on her, and when her forces were defeated she fled the country.

cohoba West Indian a drug used in religious rites, said by some to induce the power of prophecy

Cohuacom Central American
a holy mountain, home of the gods

Cohuatzincatl Central American
a god of intoxication
one of the Centzon Totochtin

Coil Croda Irish [Hundred-slayer]
a warrior of the Fianna

He was one of Finn mac Cool's men carried off by Gilla Dacar, and in the party of nine, led by Goll mac Morna, which recovered Finn's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, when they were stolen by Arthur.

Coiling Dragon Chinese
a water dragon

Coinchend Irish
a warrior woman
wife of Morgan
mother of Delbchaem

Her husband, king of the Land of Wonder, had locked their daughter in a tower to frustrate a prophecy that said that her mother would die when Delbchaem married. Art rescued Delbchaem, killed both Coinchend and Morgan, and married their daughter.

Coir Anmann Irish
a story of the exploits of Connla, son of Cuchulainn

Coirbre (see Cairbre)

Coirpre (see Cairbre)

Coirpre Liffechair
(see Cairbre Lifeachair)

Col<sup>1</sup> African [Chol]
a Sudanese rain-god

Col<sup>2</sup> (see Cumail)

Colada Spanish

a sword of El Cid

Colanthes Egyptian
[Kolanthes]

a god envisaged as a youth

Colbrand Danish
[Colbronde.Coldbrand]

a giant killed by Guy of Warwick

Colbronde (see Colbrand)

Colcannon Night North American
the name for Hallow'een in Canada

Colchian Dragon Greek
the dragon that guarded the Golden Fleece at Colchis

Colcu Irish
step-son of Cred

Cred fell in love with Cano, a Scottish prince, and Colcu was jealous. He prevented the lovers from keeping an assignment by Lake Cred.

Cold<sup>1</sup> Baltic
son of Louhi, in Finnish lore

Cold<sup>2</sup> North American one of the 4 anaye left alive after the storm sent by Estanatlehi

Cold Food Festival
(see Festival of Tombs)

Cold Space (see Matao-Anu)

Cold Space Creeping On (see Whakatoro-Anu)

Coldbrand (see Colbrand)

Cole (see Camulos.Coel)

Coel Cab Central American
a Mayan earth-goddess

Colga Irish
[Colga(n) of the Hard Weapons]

a king of Lochlan

father of Midac

He led an army to conquer Ireland but only Midac survived the battle with the Fianna. Colga was killed by Oscar, in some accounts.

Colgan (see Colga)

Colgrevan (see Colgrevaunce)

Colgrevaunce (see Colgrevaunce)

Colgrevaunce of Gore British

[Calogrenant.Colgrevan(ce)]

a Knight of the Round Table

At Castle Tübele he intervened to save Bors who was about to be killed by his brother Lionel.

He was one of the twelve knights who helped to trap Lancelot and Guinevere. He was first through the door into the bedroom and was killed with a footstool by the unarmed Lancelot who took his sword and armour, killing all except Mordred.

In one story, he was killed by Lionel, in others he tells the story of the Knight of the Fountain that, in Welsh stories, is attributed to Cynon.

Colgrin British

a Saxon leader

brother of Baldulf

After several defeats at the hand of King Arthur, he returned to the Continent. He later made further attacks on Britain and was killed at the Battle of Badon.

Colhuatepec Central American

the cave from which the ancestors of the Aztecs were said to have emerged

Colhuatzincatl Central American

['winged one']

an Aztec god, one of the Centzon

Totochtin

Colinia Central American

a volcano revered as a holy mountain

Coll (see Cumaill)

Coll ap Collfrewr British

a Welsh swineherd and magician

He attended the magical sow Hen Wen.

Colla<sup>1</sup> Irish

father of Dallan

Colla<sup>2</sup> South American

an Inca king

In one story of the origins of the Incas, the land was divided into four parts when the waters of the flood subsided. Colla took the south; the other parts were taken by Manco Capac, Pinahua and Tocay.

In some accounts he is the same as Ayar Ayca.

Colla Fochra Irish

[Conlae]

brother of Colla Meann and Colla Ilais

He and his brothers killed High-king Fiachu who was their uncle.

Colla Ilais Irish

[Conlae]

brother of Colla Fochra and Colla Meann

He and his brothers killed High-king Fiachu who was their uncle.

Colla Meann Irish

[Conlae]

brother of Colla Fochra and Colla Ilais
He and his brothers killed High-king Fiachu, who was their uncle, and fled to Scotland when the king's son, Muireadhach, returned from an expedition at the head of an army. They were later forgiven by Muireadhach and, with an army from Connaught, conquered most of Ireland.

collahualla South American

[collahuaya.kollawalla]

itinerant medicine men in Bolivia

These people are said to cure diseases using herbal remedies.

collahuaya (see collahualla)

Collari South American

an ancestress of the Q'ero people of Peru consort of Inkari

She and her mate, Inkari, were created by the Apus to repopulate the country when Raol killed the existing people with the heat of the sun.

Collasiri South American

medicine men of the Aymara people

They claim to diagnose illness by divination using animal entrails, and to cure illness by transferring it to some animal or object.

Collatinus (see Tarquinius Collatinus)

Collection of Written Leaves

(see Popul Vuh)

Collen (see Tollen)

Colloquy of the Old Men Irish

[Accalam na Senorec.Agallamh na

Seanorach.]

a 12th c story of the exploits of the Fianna

This writing takes the form of conversations between Cailte, Oisín and St Patrick, during which the two warriors pass on the history of the Fianna.

Colm Cille (see Columba)

Colman Irish

a king of Connaught

father of Guaire

He was killed at the Battle of Cenn Bugha by Ragallach, who then took over the throne.

Colman Beag Irish

a king of Meath

He abducted a nun and held her captive on an island. St Cainneach appeared in a fiery chariot, which so frightened Colman that he returned the nun and repented.

Colman mac Duach Irish

a saint

While he and a follower were fasting, King Guaire, who was feasting, wished that he could share his good fortune with somebody less fortunate. His plate of food was carried by angels and set down before the two starving clerics. The king later gave them a herd of cattle.

Colmcille (see Columba)

Colombe British

a maiden

She took a lover who was killed by her brother to wipe out the dishonour. She took her lover's sword to Lyle, the Lady of Avalon, who put a spell on it so that it could be used by the purest knight, who would use it to kill the one he loved best. It was claimed by Balin. When she followed him and saw that he had already killed the Lady of the Lake and Lanceor, she killed herself by falling on her lover's sword.

Colop U Uichkin Central American

a Mayan sky-god

Colopation

a demon said to throw open prisons

Colossus of Rhodes Greek

a huge statue of Apollo

The statue was said to stand near (some say astride) the harbour of the seaport of Rhodes and was destroyed by an earthquake.

colours

the 3 sacred colours are black, red and white

Black is the colour of mourning, the dead and gods of the earth. Red symbolising blood, flesh and organs, is the colour of fertility. White is the colour of festivities and of sacrificial offerings. In Argos it was the colour of mourning, and still is in some countries.

Colptha Irish

son of Milesius and Scota

colt-pixy

a mischievous fairy

Colum<sup>1</sup> Irish

a smith-god of the Danaans

Colum<sup>2</sup> (see Columba)

Columba Irish

[Colm Cille.Colmcille.Colum.

Criomhthann]

(521–597)

a saint and missionary

son of Feidlimidh

brother of Oran

He set up a monastery on Iona and sent out missions to convert the Picts. His story is found in the Vitae Columbae written by Adhamnan in the 7th century.

An angel always hovered over his head and, in one account, he sent an angel to catch a monk, who had fallen from a tower, before he hit the ground.

A monster in Loch Ness swam off at his command as it was about to attack one of his monks, Lugne. When a magician caused the wind to blow against his ship, it sailed on against the wind. It was said that the gates of Inverness opened of their own volition when he made the sign of the cross.

When the ruler of Tory Island offered him as much land as his cloak could cover, Columba caused the cloak to cover the whole island.

He was cured of his somewhat haughty manner when Christ himself appeared as a beggar and caused the dough given to him by the saint to sprout corn.

He died on Iona, but it was said that his body was miraculously transported to Ireland and re-interred beside St Brigit and St Patrick. His feast-day is 9 June.

Comaetho' Greek
a priestess of Artemis

She and Melanippus made love in the temple of Artemis and the outraged goddess brought about a famine which ended only when the two lovers were sacrificed.

Comaetho<sup>2</sup> Greek
daughter of Pterelaus

Her father had a single gold hair in his head which ensured his safety and that of his kingdom of Taphia. She fell in love with Amphitryon when he invaded the kingdom and she pulled out the golden hair so that her father died and Amphitryon was victorious. When Amphitryon rejected her love, she killed herself for her treachery to her father. Some say that she was killed by Amphitryon.

Coman Irish
wife of Mochta mother of Moninne

Comatas Greek
a goatherd

Having seen the Muses dance in the moonlight he became a worshipper and sacrificed one of his master's goats, for which he was locked in a box. The Muses kept him alive by sending bees with food, whereupon his master, realising that the Muses were protecting the boy, released him.

Combalus Syrian
a fertility-god

He is said to have rejected the love of the earth-goddess and castrated himself.

Combaoth (see Kimbay)
Come-at-a-body North American
a fabulous animal

Cometes<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Tisamenus
father of Asterius

Cometes<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Sthelenus
He seduced Aegialeia, wife of Diomedes, while the latter was fighting at Troy.

Comgan Irish
[Comhd(h)an.Mac Da Chearda]
a jester and poet
son of Maolochtraigh and Mughain

At times wise, at times foolish, he was said to be able to walk on water or to sleep beneath it.

His father's second wife fell in love with him but he rejected her and she persuaded a druid to cause Comgan to become ill and lose all his hair. When he gave all his possessions to Odhran and went into the forest, his step-brother, Cumaine, found him and took him to his hermitage.

At the court of Guaire, king of Connaught, he supported the boast of Mac Telene that Munster was superior to Connaught by reciting poetry. When the king's horses were stolen he allowed the robbers to escape.

When he met Conall Clogach, the high-king's jester, they became friends and undertook a journey round Connaught during which they managed to set fire to the town of Roscommon. When he quarrelled with Conall, Comgan settled in a hermitage and spent the rest of his life there.

Comghall (see Congall)

Comhal (see Cumail)

Comhdan (see Comgan)

Comhdhan (see Comgan)

Coming Forth by Day
(see Book of the Dead)

Coming of the Gods
(see Teotleco Festival)

Comizahual South American
a flying tigress in Honduras
This being was said to be a sorceress and the mother of three sons who became the ancestors of the race.

Commentarios Réales de los Incas
South American

a book of Inca history and myths written by Garsilaso de la Vega

Commodus Roman [Hercules Secundus]
a 2nd c Roman emperor

He declared himself a god (Hercules the Second) and required his subjects to worship him.

Common Mother South American
the supreme deity of some native Indian tribes

compa South American
a huaca placed near an irrigation canal to protect it

Compair Bouki North American
[Comrade Bouki:=West Indies (Uncle) Bouki]
the name for Bouki in the Southern States

Compair Lapin North American [Comrade Rabbit]
the name for Brer Rabbit in the Southern States

Companion Gods (see Associated Gods)

Companions of the Day
Central American
13 Aztec deities, each responsible for one hour of the day

Companions of the Night
Central American
9 Aztec deities, each responsible for one hour of the night

comparative mythology
the study of mythologies to elucidate differences and common ground

Compassionate Canaanite
a name and attribute of El

Compitalis Roman
a festival of the cross-roads

Comrade Bouki (see Compair Bouki)

Comrade Rabbit (see Compair Lapin)

Comus<sup>1</sup> British
a pagan god
son of Bacchus and Circe

This deity, invented by Milton, transformed travellers by changing their faces into those of animals.

Comus<sup>2</sup> British
a poem written by John Milton
This work tells the story of Comus, son of Bacchus and Circe.

Comus<sup>3</sup> Greek [Komos]
a god of mirth
son of Bacchus and Circe, some say

Comus<sup>4</sup> Roman a god of drunken revelry

Comyra Greek
a festival of Q're at which young men cut off their forelocks and dedicated them to the god

Con' South American
a boneless creator-god
son of Inti
brother of Pachacamac
He could raise mountains and he created a race of people who so annoyed him that he turned their fruitful land into desert. He was superseded by Pachacamac who turned the people made by Con into monkeys.

Con<sup>2</sup> (see Pariacaca)

Con-Inti Central American
an aspect of Inti as 'son of the sun'

Con Ion Vietnamese
spirits of Annamese children who died at birth

To ward off these spirits a dog is killed and buried under the bed of a woman in childbirth.

Con ma dan Vietnamese spirits of those who died of smallpox

It is said that these spirits cause the disease.

Con Ticci Viracocha (see Viracocha)

Con tinh Vietnamese

spirits of Annamese girls who died young
These spirits are said to live in trees, robbing passers-by of their souls or driving them mad.

Con tram nu'o'c Vietnamese in Annamese lore, a water buffalo

It is said that any person holding a hair of this animal can walk across a river without getting wet.

Conaing Irish
a king of Ireland

He was king of the northern half of the country and killed Lugaid Lamhdhearg who had usurped the throne of the southern half after killing Eochaid Uaircheas.

Conaire Caomh (see Conary Mor)

Conaire mac Mogha Lamha
(see Conary mac Mogha Lamha)

Conaire Messbuachalla
(see Conary Mor)

Conaire Mor (see Conary Mor)

Conal (see Conall)

Conall<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Conal]

one of the sons of a high-king

In some accounts he and Dunchadh were the sons of Blathmhac, in others there were three sons (the other was Maelodhar) and their father was Diarmaid who was joint-king with Blathmhac. All three sons were killed when they were set upon by Maelodran who drove them into a mill pond and, by starting the mill, had them crushed to death by the water wheel.

Conall<sup>2</sup> (see Connla)

Conall Anghlonnach Irish

[Conal]

a warrior of Ulster

son of Eochaid Feidhleach

and Cliothfhionn

Conall Cearnach Irish

[Coinall Cearnac.Conal(l) of the Victories]

a warrior of Ulster

one of the 12 champions of the Red Branch

son of Finchoom and Amergin, foster

brother of Cuchulainn

husband of Fiebh, Lendar or Niam

His neck was damaged when he was a baby when Cet placed his foot on his neck, but was prevented from breaking it by his mother. As a result, Conall grew up with a crooked walk.

In a contest with Loaghaire Buadhach, Winner of Battles, and Cuchulainn for the title of Champion of All Ireland, he and Loaghaire ran from the wildcats put in the room with them, while Cuchulainn faced them with his sword. They were also tested by Ercol who attacked them first with witches and then fought them himself, losing only to Cuchulainn. In a beheading contest with a giant, all three decapitated the giant but only Cuchulainn was prepared to offer his own neck to the axe.

He helped Fraoch rescue his family and cattle when they were carried off by raiders. In some accounts, they rescued the hostages from a castle in the Alps that was guarded by a huge snake, destroying the building in the process of rescue. He fought alongside Conary at the siege of the hostel of Da Derga. In some versions it was he who brought a drink to the thirsty king but found him already dead and decapitated. He gave the head a drink and it thanked him for fetching the water. In other stories it was the giant Mac Cecht who brought the drink.

At Mac Da Tho's feast he outfaced Cet for the right to carve the famous boar when he produced from his bag the still-bloody head of Anluan of Connaught, Cet's brother, whom Conall had killed in combat.

When Conor mac Nessa reneged on his promise of safe conduct given to Naisi and Deirdre, he was in the party attacking the hostel at Emain Macha. When he learned of Conor's treachery he killed Conor's son Fiachra.

His two brothers had been killed by Meas Geaghra, king of Leinster, and Conall took his revenge. He killed Meas in single combat, fighting with one hand tied behind his back, because his opponent had only one arm, and killed him. Buan, the king's wife, fell dead when she saw her husband's body. Conall then crushed the dead king's brain and mixed it with lime to make a missile called a brain-ball. He fired this from his sling and it struck Conor mac Nessa in the forehead, from where it could not be removed. It exploded seven years later and killed Conor. In other stories Conall deposited the ball at Emain Macha from where it was stolen by Cet. Some say that it was Mac Da Tho's brain that was used in this way.

In some accounts he was one of the Ulstermen who were exiled to Connaught and fought for Maev and Ailill against their own countrymen in the Cattle Raid of Cooley, while others say that he fought for Ulster in support of Conor mac Nessa, father of his wife Feibh. After a raid led by Cet, Conall followed the raiders and killed Cet in single combat at a ford. He was wounded and cared for by Bealchu who wanted to get him well again just so that he could kill him. A plan to kill Conall in bed misfired and Conall forced Bealchu to occupy the bed so that Bealchu was killed by his own three sons. Conall then killed all three of them.

Some say that Conall was the sole survivor of the battle at Da Derga's hostel.

It was said that Conall never allowed a day to pass without killing a man from Connaught and that he slept with that man's decapitated head under his pillow.

When Cuchulainn was killed by Lugaid, Conall killed him and then sought out and killed Cunlaid, Erc and Fergus and the three witch-daughters of Calatin. In some accounts Conall then went to the court of Maev, where Maev, jealous of her husband's affair with another woman, persuaded Conall to kill Ailill. The king's angry subjects then killed Conall.

In other stories he was killed by Connla, the son of Cuchulainn, when they met in single combat when Connla arrived by boat to search for his father whom he had never seen.

Conall Cearnach
(see Connal Cearnach)

Conall Clogach Irish
[Conal]

a jester at the court of high-king Domhnall. He had incited a mob to stone St Columba and was cursed by the saint so that he became a fool.

When he met Comgan, jester of Munster, they became friends and with him undertook a journey round Connaught during which they managed to set fire to the town of Roscommon.

Domhnall had a message brought to the court that Conall had been killed by wolves, at which the fool wept for himself until one of the men at the court seized Conall and pretended that he had saved him and brought him back to the court.

He was killed by Congall Caoch at the Battle of Magh Rotha.

Conall Corc Irish

[Conal(l) mac Luigthig.Corc mac Laire]
a king of Munster
son of Luightheach and Boilce or Bolgbhain

He was fostered by Feidhilm and was given the nickname Corc mac Laire when his ear was singed in a magic ceremony. He was later adopted by Criomhthann, whose wife told her husband that Conall had tried to seduce her. Criomhthann exiled him to Scotland, sending a message to the Pictish king to kill the young man. Conall survived because Gruibne, who had earlier been freed from captivity by Conall, changed the coded message so that King Fearadhach gave his daughter to Conall as wife. He later returned to Munster and became king.

Conall Dearg Irish

[Conal]
husband of Aobhfhinn
father of Enda

Conall Gulban Irish

[Conal]
son of Niall
brother of Cairbre, Eanna, Eoghan and Laoghaire grandfather of Feidhlimidh

He was fostered with his uncle, Fiachra, who sent him to be tutored by Muireadhach Meann. When Muireadhach was killed in battle with Ulster, Conall and his kin defeated Ulster at the Battle of Ath Cro and killed Cana, king of Ulster.

After conquest of Ulster, his uncles, Brian and Fiachra, went to war against each other and Connall took an army to defeat Brian, subdue Connaught and install Daithi as king.

Some say that Conall became high-king of Ireland but handed the throne to his brother, Laoghaire.

In one story he carried off Eithne, daughter of the king of Leinster, but Macaomh Mor, who had been sent to look for her, found Conall asleep and took her for himself. Conall sailed as far as Scandinavia in search of the pair, killing hundreds of warriors sent against him by the king, whose daughter, Doireann, fell in love with him. She sent a warrior named Amhas to kill him when he failed to return her love. Conall defeated Amhas and later another warrior, Kidire, attacked the king but was defeated by Conall. This man said that he had met Macaomh and Eithne and so Conall, accompanied by Amhas, Kidire and the druid Dunadhach, set off to find them. A prince, Iollann, joined them after Conall defeated him in single combat. They found the fugitives in Syria and Conall defeated Macaomh but spared his life, going to Caledonia to send a princess for Macaomh in place of Eithne. He killed the witch who, by her magic, revived every night the 500 Caledonians he killed each day, and seized the princess. In the meantime, Eithne had been captured by the king of Greece so Conall had another battle to fight and defeated the Greeks. He later helped his brothers Eoghan and Laoghaire to defeat the Turks who had attacked the German empire.

Conall was killed in a fight with raiders who had stolen some horses from Tara.

Conall mac Luigthig

(see Conall Corc)

Conall mac Suibhne Irish

[Conal]
son of Suibhne mac Colmain
He killed Aedh Slaine who had killed Conall's father.

Conall of the Victories

(see Conall Cearnach)

Conan<sup>1</sup> Irish

a son of the Dagda
He was killed when he tried to seduce the maiden Cealg.

Conan<sup>2</sup> Irish

husband of Darerca
He was said to be an ancestor of King Arthur.

Conan Cinn Sleibhe Irish

[Conand.Conann]
a noble of the Otherworld

father of Findearbh

Conan mac an Leith Luchra Irish

[Conand.Conann]
husband of Finnine

He treated his wife so badly that her brother, Feardhomhain, intervened and killed him, dying himself in the fight.

Conan mac Febar Irish

[Conand.Conann]
a chief of the Fomoiré at the time of the invasion by the Nemedians

He was killed by Fergus Leathdhaerg when the Nemedians attacked his glass castle on Tory Island.

Conan mac Lia Irish

[Conand.Conann]
son of Lia

His father, Lia, was killed by Finn mac Cool, and Conan spent several years in conflict with the Fianna as a result. Later he swore loyalty to Finn and served him for thirty years.

He was one of the soldiers who disappeared when Gilla Dacar and his horse plunged into the sea.

Conan mac Morna Irish

[Conan Mael.Conan Maol.Conan the Bald.Conand.Conann]
a warrior in the Fianna
brother of Goll and Garadh

In some versions he got stuck to a chair or the floor of the Quicken Trees Hostel, where Finn mac Cool and some of the Fianna were trapped by Midac. He escaped by tearing himself free, leaving the skin of his buttocks behind. His friends covered him with a black sheep's fleece, which grew permanently in place of the missing skin.

He went to the house of Cab an Dosain in the Otherworld where he was involved in a number of strange situations until he was rescued by Finn mac Cool.

When challenged by Liagan, he tricked his opponent into looking behind and then cut off his head.

Conan Mael (see Conan mac Morna)

Conan Maol (see Conan mac Morna)

Conan Meriadoc British

[Conand.Conann]
a king of Brittany
son of Gerenton

In those stories where Elen is the daughter of Octavius, Conan and Maccsen fought for the hand of Elen. Maccsen married her but left her when he joined forces with Conan to conquer Armorica. Conan became king and called the country Brittany.

Some say that he was an ancestor of King Arthur. (see also Cynan<sup>2</sup>)

Conan of the Grey Rushes Irish

[Conand.Conann]

a warrior of the Fianna

He was one of the party that trapped Dermot and Grania in the Wood of Two Tents.

Conan Rod Irish

[Conand.Conann]

son of a British king

He proved his identity by showing a ring and a grain of gold embedded in his shoulder. He joined forces with Congall Caoch in his fight with Domhnall mac Aodha. He was killed by Cellach at the Battle of Magh Ratha.

Conan the Bald

(see Conan mac Morna)

Conand (see Conan)

Conann (see Conan)

Conan's Tower (see Glass Castle)

Conapa (see Thunupa)

Conaran Irish

father of Irnan

He sent Irnan and her two sisters to punish Finn mac Cool for hunting deer, which he claimed to own. Goll killed two of them and captured or killed Irnan.

Conary mac Mogha Irish

[Conaire mac Mogha Lamha]

a king of Munster

husband of Sarait

father of Cairbre and Duibhind

When he was deposed by Eoghan he went to the high-king for help. Conn gave him his daughter as wife and an army that defeated Eoghan in battle.

In some accounts he had three sons, all called Cairbre. He succeeded to the throne of Ireland after his father-in-law, Conn Ceadchathach. Conary was succeeded by Art when he was killed by Neimheidh mac Sraibhghind.

Conary Mor Irish

[Conaire Caomh.Conaire Messbuachalla.

Conaire Mor]

a high-king of Ireland

son of Nemglan and Messbuachalla

His mother was seduced by a Danaan youth who came to her in the form of a bird. She married Eterskel, king of Ireland, and her illegitimate son, Conary, was reared, with three foster brothers, by a noble, Desa. When Eterskel died, Conary was made king, fulfilling the prophecy of a diviner. His foster brothers were a source of trouble and were eventually banished by Conary. They joined Ingcel, son of the king of Britain, in sea-raiding and invaded Ireland. They trapped Conary at the hostel of Da Derga and killed him and most of his men. The giant Mac Cecht went in search of water for the king who was thirsty but when he got back the hostel had fallen and Conary was dead. His head had been cut off but, when Mac Cecht gave it a drink, it spoke and thanked him for the water.

In some versions it was Conall Cearnach, not Mac Cecht, who brought the drink for Conary.

In another account his parents were Eochaid Airemh and Eochaid's daughter, the girl he chose from fifty presented by Midir, who had abducted his real wife, Etain, thinking that she was Etain.

Concenn British

[Cyngen]

a king of Powys, Wales

son of Cadell

Concess Irish

in some accounts, mother of Patrick by Calpurnius

Concheanann Irish

a friend of Berach

When Cu Allaidh tried to put a curse on Berach, Concheanann killed him.

Concheann (see Corchend)

Conchend (see Conchenn)

Conchenn Irish

[Conchend]

daughter of Bodb Dearg

She was courted by Cliach but her father refused to sanction the marriage.

Conchobar<sup>1</sup> Irish

son of King Arthur

In Irish lore he was killed by Eochaid, son of Ailill and Maev.

Conchobar<sup>2</sup> (see Conor mac Nessa)

Conchobhar (see Conor mac Nessa)

Conchubar (see Conor mac Nessa)

Conchubhar Abhradhrua Irish

a king of Leinster

Concordia Roman

[=Greek Aphrodite.Homonoia]

a goddess of civic agreement, one of the 5 Appiades

Cond (see Conn)

Condatis Celtic

a river-god in Gaul

Condery Irish

a warrior of Ulster

a messenger for Cuchulainn

Cuchulainn sent him to meet the young man who arrived by boat, asking for Cuchulainn. The youth, who was Cuchulainn's son, Connla, refused to give his name.

Condor South American

an Inca creator deity

Condorcoto (see Mount Condorcoto)

Conduiramour (see Condwiramur)

Condwiramis (see Condwiramur)

Condwiramur British

[Conduiramour.Condwiramis.

Condwiramurs]

a queen of Brobarz

wife of Peredur

mother of Aribadale, Kardiez

and Lohenergrain

In some stories of Peredur (or Percival) she married the knight of the Grail and bore his son, Lohenergrain.

Condwiramurs (see Condwiramur)

Confession Buddhas Buddhist

a type of Buddha of which there are said to be 35

When depicted, these beings are usually shown bare-headed.

Confucius Chinese

[Chi-sheng Hsien-shi.Kung Ch'iu.Kung-fu-tzu.Master Kong]

(551–479 BC)

a philosopher who was deified

He was the founder of what became the state religion, Confucianism. It was said that a unicorn appeared at his birth. This animal appeared again as a portent of his approaching death and was killed by peasants.

His tomb is said to be supported in space by four deities.

Conga West Indian

a class of voodoo deities in Haiti

Congall<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Comghall.Conghal]

a man who rescued Muirgen, the woman who had changed into a salmon

Congall<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Comghall.Conghal]

a high-king of Ireland

father-in-law of Fergal

He was told that his daughter, who was a nun, was having an affair with Fergal, and he nearly caught them in bed together. When he came to believe that his daughter was innocent, he drowned the informer.

Congall<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Comghall.Conghal]

foster brother of Mael Fothartaig

Mael was unjustly accused of raping his father's second wife and was killed by Aodan on the orders of Mael's father, Ronan, king of Leinster, despite Congall's efforts to save him. When he protested at the murder of his friend, he was himself killed by Aodan.

Congall<sup>4</sup> Irish

[Comghall.Conghal]

a saint and missionary

It was he who found the abandoned child Molua, and raised him.

He established a monastery at Bangor where he performed a number of miracles. He joined St Columba at Iona and went with him and Cainneach to convert the Picts. At the palace of the Pictish king, Brude, Congall caused the gate to open, Columba did the same with the doors, and when Brude raised his arm against them, Cainneach withered his hand.

One of his miracles involved saving the life of Cantigern who had been poisoned by a maid.

Congall Caoch Irish

[Comghall.Conghal Caoch.Conghal

Claon]

a king of Ulster

a foster son of Domhnall mac Aodha

He was said to have lost one eye through a bee sting or when he was struck by a chess piece thrown by Suibhne Meann when the latter was killed by Congall Caoch.

He fell out with High-king Domhnall mac Aodha when he ate one of the eggs served at a great feast given at Tara. He fled to Scotland where he enlisted the support of the king of Dalriada. While he was seeking support for his return to Ireland, he met Conan Rod, the son of a British king, who joined forces with Congall. They returned to Ireland with a large army but were defeated at the Battle of Magh Rath. He killed Conall Clogach in this battle but was himself slain.

Congall Clairingneach Irish

[Comghall.Conghal]

a king of Ireland

When Lugaid Luaighne divided Ulster into two parts, he gave one to Congall, the other to Fergus mac Leda. Later the king, persuaded by his daughter who fell in love with Fergus, gave him the whole province and Congall, in anger, killed Lugaid's son, Criomhthann. He went to Scotland to avoid further conflict but returned and, with the help of Fergus mac Roth, defeated the forces of Fergus mac Leda and then challenged Lugaid himself. He killed the king and took the throne of Ireland.

Another story tells of Congall's adventures overseas. He was said to be betrothed to Taise, daughter of Donn, king of the Otherworld, and killed another king, Nabgodon, who tried to seize Taise for himself. He next went to Scandinavia, where Beiuda, daughter of King Amhldoibh, said she would marry him only if he could bring her some special birds, a wonderful helmet and yoke from far countries. He defeated the Amazon, Muirn, who guarded these treasures and returned with them to Scandinavia, and finally to Ireland where he was later killed by Duach.

Congall Claon (see Congall Caoch)

Conganchas Irish

[Conganchneas]

a warrior of Ulster

brother of Curoi

husband of Niam

He was laying waste to much of Ulster and Celtchair was ordered to kill him as the first of three tasks imposed on him for killing Blai. His skin was so tough that he was invulnerable to a spear or sword. Celtchair gave him his daughter, Niam, in marriage and she discovered his secret so that Celtchair was able to kill him by driving nails into his legs and feet.

Conganchneas (see Conganchas)

Conghal (see Congall)

Coniraya South American

[=Inca Viracocha]

creator-god of the Huarochiri Indians

He was said to have wandered all over the earth in search of a mate, and everywhere he went plants and animals appeared. The goddess Cavillea became pregnant when she ate the fruit of a tree that had sprouted in Coniraya's footsteps. When she ran away he went in search of her and her baby, but they had both been turned into rocks. He then called at the home of Urpi-huachac and found that she was not at home. He slept with one of her two daughters but the other changed into a pigeon and flew away.

Some say that he gave Huayna-Capac a box which filled the world with light when it was opened.

conjuraction

the raising of demons or spirits of the dead: black magic conjureman West Indian

a practitioner of black magic

Conla (see Connla)

Conlac (see Colla)

Conle (see Connla)

Conlai (see Connla)

Conlaih (see Connla)

Conlai's Well (see Well of Segais)

Conlaoch (see Connla)

Connmhaol Irish

son of Daire Donn

He and Conus led a large force of Norsemen invading Ireland but they were all killed by a small force of the Fianna under Eoghan.

In another version of this battle, the invading force was led by Daire Donn and Connmhaol. He was killed by Goll mac Morna.

(see Battle of Fionn's Strand)

Conn<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Cond.Conn Ceadchathach.Conn

Cetchathach.Conn of the Hundred

Battles.Conn the Hundred Fighter]

a high-king of Ireland

son of Crear, some say brother of Eochaid Yellowmouth

husband of Eithne

father of Art, Asal, Connla, Crionna

and Saba

In some accounts Angus, king of Munster, who had been deposed by Eoghan Mor, enlisted Conn's help to regain his throne. Eoghan won several battles against the attacking forces and compelled Conn to divide the country into two, with Conn retaining the north.

Another version says that two deposed kings, Conaire mac Mogha Lamha and Macnia, asked for Conn's help and he defeated Eoghan who went into exile. When Eoghan returned at the head of a Spanish army, Conn was defeated and shared Ireland with the victor.

He is said to have discovered the Lia Fail, the Stone of Fal.

In one story he had a vision in which he found himself in a wonderful land in front of Lugh, who told him the name of future kings. In another version a maiden from the Otherworld tried to lure his son, Connla, to Mag Mell, and later succeeded.

When his wife Eithne died, he took Becuma, a woman expelled from the Otherworld, to live with him at Tara. This brought famine on the land and Conn was told that he should sacrifice the son of a sinless couple to lift the curse. He sailed to the Land of Wonders and returned with Segda but was persuaded to kill a cow instead of the youth.

His brother, Eochaid Yellowmouth, was the cause of much trouble and, when he went to Ulster, Conn sent men to watch him. Instead they killed Eochaid. Tiobraide, king of Ulster, avenged his death when he took some of his warriors, dressed as women, to Tara where they killed the high-king.

Conn<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Cond]

son of Mochaen

brother of Aedh and Corca

He, his father and his two brothers were all killed by the Sons of Turenn when the latter attacked Mochaen's hill and raised a shout to satisfy part of the penalty imposed on them for the murder of Cian.

Conn<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Cond]

son of Lir by his first wife, Aobh

(see Children of Lir)

Conn Ceadchathach (see Conn<sup>1</sup>)

Conn Cetchathach (see Conn<sup>1</sup>)

Conn Cuithir Irish

[Cond Cuithir]

a warrior in the Fianna

He was posted to guard the beach at Ventry where the forces of Daire Donn landed and engaged them fiercely until the Fianna, led by Finn mac Cool, came to his relief and defeated the invaders

Conn of the Hundred Battles

(see Conn<sup>1</sup>)

Conn the Hundred Fighter

(see Conn<sup>1</sup>)

Connadh Bruidhe Irish

father of Laoghaire Buadhach

Connidas Greek

a tutor of Theseus

Connla<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Connall.Conla.Conlai(h).Conlaoch.

Conle]

son of Conn Ceadchathach

brother of Art and Crionna

A woman, visible only to him, tried to induce him to go with her to the Otherworld. She was driven off by a druid, but threw an apple to Connla which never grew smaller no matter how often he ate from it. When she returned he went off with her in a glass coracle and they were never seen again.

Connla<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Connall.Conla.Conlai(h).Conlaoch.Conle]

son of Cuchulainn and Princess Aifa

He had never known his father when he landed in Ulster and his mother had laid a geis on him to tell nobody his name. Conor's men tried unsuccessfully to drive him away. They sent Connall Cearnach against him but he too was defeated, forcing Cuchulainn to challenge the newcomer. Some say that Connall was killed in this encounter, others say that he was killed much later by men of Connaught after he killed their king, Ailill. When Connla met his father, they fought in single combat and Cuchulainn won only by using the Gae Bolg, a weapon of which Connla knew nothing. Cuchulainn realised that Connla was his son only when he saw the ring on the dead youth's finger.

In one story, a woman from the Land of the Living threw Connla an apple in an effort to entice him to go with her. He ignored the offer but the apple provided all the nourishment he needed for a month.

Connla<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Connall.Conla.Conlai(h).Conlaoch]

a relative of Fiachu Muilleathan

He suffered from leprosy and had been told that only by bathing in the blood of a king could he be cured, so he arranged to go swimming with Fiachu, king of Munster, and stabbed him as they swam together.

Connla<sup>4</sup> Irish

[Connall.Conla.Conlai(h).Conlaoch]

a giant

husband of Achtland

Connla's Well (see Well of Segais)

Connlead Irish

a bishop

He was thrown to the wolves, on the orders of Brigit, for disobedience.

Conon British

father of Emmeline in Dryden's opera

King Arthur

Conor (see Anera)

Conor mac Nessa Irish

[Conchob(h)ar mac Neasa.Conchubar]

a sky-god

king of Ulster

son of Fachtna and Nessa

husband of Maev and Eithne

brother of Deictera and Fewidhilom

father of Cormac, Cuscraidh,

Diarmaid, Feibh, Fiachra, Folloman

and Furbaidhe

father of the prophetess Fedelma,

some say

He was born, some say, on the same day as Jesus, with a worm in each hand, then fell into a river from which he was saved by Cathbad.

He was reared as Fachtna's son but was in fact the son of Cathbad who had had an affair with Nessa.

When her husband died, Nessa married Fergus mac Roth on condition that he would allow Conor to rule in his place for one year. At the end of that period Conor refused to give up the throne and Fergus went into exile in Connaught.

His first wife was Maev. When she left him and married Ailill, Conor married her sister, Eithne. Some say that he later married her two other sisters, Clothra and Mughain. Others say that he fathered Cuchulainn on his sister, Deictera.

When Deirdre, daughter of Felim, was born it was prophesied that she would bring trouble to Ulster, and only the intervention of Conor saved her from being put to death. He put her in the charge of a nurse, Lavarcham, until she became old enough to become his wife. She fell in love with Naisi and he, with the help of his brothers Ardan and Ailé, carried her off to Scotland. In later years Conor granted them all safe conduct to return to Ireland but he broke his word and had them all killed, except Deirdre and Buino who had betrayed them. Conor forced Deirdre to live with him but she hated him and killed herself by throwing herself from a chariot and smashing her head against the rocks when he proposed to give her to Eoghan mac Durthacht. Cathbad prophesied that because of this treachery none of Conor's descendants would inherit the throne of Ulster, a prophecy that proved to be correct.

He was killed by the brain-ball fired from a sling by Cet or Conall, dying then or, some say, years later when the ball exploded on the day that Christ was crucified.

Conqueror North American

a mythical being who helped

Kodoyanpe in his fight with Coyote

Conquest of the Fairy Mound

(see De Gabail int Sida)

Conrad (see Bishop Conrad)

Consentes Roman

the Roman version of Pan (see Pan)

Consentes Dii Roman

[Consentes Di.Dei Consentes]

the 12 major deities in the Roman pantheon, 6 male, 6 female

These deities acted as advisers to Jupiter and are sometimes listed as Apollo, Jupiter, Mars, Mercury, Neptune and Vulcanus with Ceres, Diana, Juno, Minerva, Venus and Vesta.

Constance British

wife of Ban
mother of Lancelot

This is the Italian version of Lancelot's parentage.

Constans British

[Moine(s).Ivoine]
a monk
king of Britain
son of Constantine and Ivoire
brother of Aurelius Ambrosius and Uther

He recanted his vows to become king of Britain when his father was killed by Vortigern. He ruled for but a short time, controlled by Vortigern, before Vortigern killed him and took the throne for himself.

Constantia European

wife of Aymon, in some accounts mother of Guido

Constantine<sup>1</sup> British

[Constantinus:=Welsh Custennin]
a Roman
king of Britain
husband of Ivoire
brother of Aldroen
father of Aurelius Ambrosius, Constans and Uther

His brother sent him at the head of an army to take over Britain and drive off the many invaders. Some say this was after the death of King Arthur, others that it was after the death of Coll, who had wrested the throne from Asclepiodotus and, in this version, he married Coll's sister, Helena. He was murdered in his own garden by Vortigern who put Constans on the throne.

Welsh stories have Kynmôr as his father while others make him the son of King Solomon or of Maccsen and Elen.

Constantine<sup>2</sup> British

[Constantinus]
a 6th c king of Britain son of Cador

The sons of Mordred led a revolt against Constantine but he suppressed it and killed the leaders.

Constantine<sup>3</sup> European

[Constantinus]
emperor of Greece at the time of Charlemagne father of Leo

Constantine<sup>4</sup> European

[Constantinus]
an emperor of the east
father of Oda

He had a habit of decapitating the suitors of his daughter. When a delegation came to seek her hand, on behalf of Rother, king of the Lombards, he threw them all into prison.

Constantine<sup>5</sup> Greek

a man who came back from the dead
brother of Arete

Their mother agreed to allow Arete to marry a foreigner only when Constantine promised to bring her back whenever her mother wished. When plague killed all her nine sons, the mother longed to have her daughter back so Constantine rose from the grave, rode to the foreign land and brought Arete back as he had promised.

Constantine's Cross British

a vision said to have been seen by Constantine

The vision took the form of a cross in the sky bearing the words In hoc vinces. He had this motto inscribed on the shields of his soldiers who defeated the Romans when they met at Saxa Rubra.

Constantinus (see Constantine)

Constantius

one of the Seven Sleepers

Consualia Roman

festivals in honour of Consus held on 19 or 21 August and 15 December

Consus Roman

an ancient god of good counsel, corn and sowing, secrets and the underworld, consort of Ops, some say He was later regarded as the god of good advice or of secret counsels and became Neptunus Equester.

Consuvius Roman

a name for Janus as 'the guardian of the beginning of human life'

Conte de Graal, Le French

[Le Conte del Graal.Perceval]
an early Grail story by Chrétien de Troyes

Conte del Grail, Le (see Conte de Graal)

Contici South American

an Inca thunder-god

Conticsi-viracocha South American

a pre-existing creator spirit of the Incas

Contrebis British

a local god of the northern counties

control

a spirit alleged to direct a medium during a seance

Conus Irish

a leader of the Norsemen

He and Connhaol led a large force of Norsemen invading Ireland but they were all killed by a small force of the Fianna led by Art and Eoghan.

In another version of this battle, the invading force was led by Daire Donn and his son Connhaol

(see Battle of Fionn's Strand)

Convector Roman

a god of grain and granaries

Conversations of Bragi

(see Braga Raedur)

Cool (see Cumail)

Copacahuana South American

an idol

This was one of the two idols worshipped by the Incas, representing the spirit of Lake Titicaca. The other was known as Copacati.

Copacati<sup>1</sup> Central American

an Inca lake goddess, the spirit of Lake Titicaca

Copacati<sup>2</sup> South American

[Serpent-Stone]

an idol

This was one of the two idols, worshipped by the Incas, representing the spirit of Lake Titicaca. The other was known as Copacahuana.

Copal Central American

a prince

He was captured by the Aztecs and sacrificed on an altar. Years later a tree grew from a crevice in the altar and here landed a huge eagle with a serpent grasped in its talons. The priest who saw the bird dived into the lake and met the rain-god Tlaloc, who told the priest to found the city of Mexico on the site.

Coph (see Koph)

a mythical African king husband of Penelophon

Copbur in da muccida

(see Two Swineherds)

Coppe European

a hen in Reynard the Fox

This bird was killed by Reynard.

Copper City African

[Baladu Nuhasi]

a fabulous city

This city was said to have been built by Solomon. Others say it was built on a rock called Jabal Lamma by the Dahari, offspring of Sakhar, a jinnee. Another version says that it was built on the rock Jabal Saa by Japhet, the son of Noah.

The city was protected by a brass horseman that could face any invading forces and that spurted fire from its raised spear.

Copper Dragon (see Sunset Serpent)

Copper Python (see Yurlungur)

Copper Woman North American
the first and only human

The tribes of the North-west tell of a woman alone in the world longing for a companion. On the instruction of a spirit, she collected her tears and fluid from her nose (and, some say, her menstrual blood) in a shell. This became a strange being, part crab part man, who put an end to Copper Woman's loneliness. (see also Delarhons)

Copreus Greek

the herald for Eurystheus

son of Pelops

father of Periphetes

He killed Iphitus and fled to Mycenae where Eurystheus purified him.

Eurystheus was the king for whom Heracles performed the Twelve Labours. He was so frightened of Heracles that he employed Copreus as a go-between to relay his instructions.

Coqi-Ilya (see Ilyapa)

coquecigrues (see cocqigrues)

Coquena South American

a guardian spirit of the vicuna

He is envisaged as a little man dressed all in white.

Cora (see Core.Mama Cora)

coral

a coloured, rocklike deposit of marine animals, used as a gemstone

This substance is often regarded as having the power to protect the wearer from harm and, if carved into the shape of a serpent, it will guard against venomous bites.

(1) In China coral, called shang-hu, is said to confer longevity on the wearer.

(2) The Egyptians scattered coral over the fields to ensure good harvests.

(3) The Gauls used coral as a talisman to protect their warriors.

(4) In Greece coral was said to have been formed from the blood of Medusa.

(5) In India coral is used to protect the dead from evil spirits.

(6) The Italians say that coral is effective in countering the evil eye.

(7) Russians give coral bracelets to new babies as a form of protection.

Coran Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His own hounds, including Coran, tore him to pieces.

Coraniaid (see Coranieid)

Coranian (see Coranieid)

Coranieid British

[Coraniaid.Coranian]

one of a mysterious race of dwarf beings

It was said that these people could hear every sound at great distances.

They constituted one of the three plagues that Lludd dealt with on the advice of Llefelys; the others were the scream of a dragon and the giant who stole food from the king's court.

(see also corrigan)

Corb Irish

a god of the Fomoire

Corb Cliach Irish

a warrior of Ulster

When he heard that Orlam, son of Maev of Connaught, had come to Ulster to collect cattle to feed Maev's army from Dartaid, he attacked her house and killed both Dartaid and most of Orlam's men.

Corb Gaillne Irish

a warrior of Connaught

He was one of the party that trapped Cormac Cond Longes in the hostel of Da Coga, and either he or Cet killed Cormac.

Corban Irish

a chieftain on Inishmore

He objected when Enda came to the island to set up a monastery but agreed after seeing the saint drive the chieftain's horses over the tops of the waves to the adjoining islands.

Corbant European

[Corbout]

a rook in Reynard the Fox

mate of Sharpbeck

He complained to the king that Reynard had killed and eaten his wife, Sharpbeck.

Corbenic (see Castle Carbonek)

Corbin (see Castle Carbonek)

Corbon European

son of Renoart and Morgan le Fay

Corboran European

a Saracen king of Jerusalem

brother of Florie

father of Cornumorant

Corbout (see Corbant)

Corby (see Castle Carbonek)

Corc Duibhne Irish

son of Cairbre Musc and Duibhind

He was one of twin boys incestuously born to Cairbre and his sister. He was given to a druid, who with his wife Cailleach Bheur raised the boy and taught him magic.

Corc mac Laire (see Conall Corc)

Corca Irish

son of Mochaen

brother of Aedh and Conn

He, his father and his two brothers were all killed by the Sons of Turenn when the latter attacked Mochaen's hill and raised a shout to satisfy part of the penalty imposed on them for the murder of Cian.

Corcyrá Greek

daughter of Asopus and Metope

She was carried off to Cyprus by Poseidon.

Cordeil (see Cordelia)

Cordeilla (see Cordelia)

Cordelia British

[Cordeilla.Cordelie.Cordula]

daughter of King Lear

sister of Goneril and Regan

Her two sisters, each of whom received half of their father's kingdom, drove Lear mad and only Cordelia succoured him. She raised an army to depose her sisters but was killed in the attempt.

In some accounts Cordelia is regarded as the mortal equivalent of Creiddylad.

Cordelie (see Cordelia)

Cordula (see Cordelia)

Core Greek

[Cora.Corinna.Corinne.Ko(u)re.Kora.

Kore.Persephone. Persephassa.

Pherepatta. Phersephatta. Polyboea.

The Maiden. The Mistress. 'virgin':

=Persian Anahita.= Roman Libera.

Proserpina.Proserpine]

a vegetation goddess who became queen of the underworld

mother of Corybas, some say

In some stories Persephone is the daughter of Zeus by Rhea, both as serpents. Then Zeus mated with Core to produce Dionysus. In other stories she is the daughter of Zeus by the nymph Styx, and in others Styx is the wife of Hades. Yet another version says that she resulted from the coupling of Poseidon and Demeter, both as horses, but the more usual story is that Core was the daughter of Zeus and Demeter, his own sister.

Core was abducted and taken to the underworld by Hades. Demeter learned where her missing daughter was to be found from the burbling of the nymph Arethusa who, in the form of a spring, had passed through the underworld en route to Sicily and had seen Core at the side of Hades.

When Demeter blighted the earth to secure her daughter's release, Zeus ordered that she should be returned, provided that she had not eaten any of the food of the dead. Core said she had eaten nothing, but Ascalaphus, a gardener in Hades, said he had seen her eating the seeds of the pomegranate. She was condemned to spend a quarter (or half, in some versions) of each year with Hades as Persephone.

As Persephone she was put in charge of the infant Dionysus when Hera reassembled him after he had been torn to pieces by the Titans, and she raised the infant Adonis who was put in her care by Aphrodite and made him her lover.

She is depicted as Persephone, holding a torch and a pomegranate.

She took over the functions of Arethusa, the nymph who told Demeter about her daughter's abduction, and was then referred to as Core-Arethusa. (see also Despoena)

Coresus Greek

a priest of Dionysus

The girl he loved, Callirrhoe, rejected him and Dionysus inflicted a madness on the people of Calydon that could be lifted only if the girl were sacrificed. Coresus, charged with the sacrificial rite, stabbed himself rather than the girl. She was so stricken with remorse that she stabbed herself to death.

Cori Oclo (see Mama Oclo)

Corin (see Corineus)

Corineus British

[Corin]
son of Heracles by Galatea, some say father of Gwendolen

He had been fathered on a local girl, Galata, by Heracles when Heracles was on his way to Geryon's kingdom to seize his cattle, though some say that Corineus was an exiled Trojan.

He was the leader of the Trojans said to be the descendants of those led to Gaul by Antenor. When the descendants of another band of Trojans, who had settled in Greece, now led by Brutus, landed in Gaul en route to Britain, he joined them and sailed north. In Britain he set traps for the native race of giants and killed all he caught. When he finally killed the two-headed Gogmagog by throwing him over a cliff, the remaining giants gave up the fight. Corineus became king of Cornwall.

Corinna (see Core)

Corinne (see Core)

Corinthus Greek

son of Marathon
brother of Sicyon

His father shared his kingdom of Sicyon between his two sons. Corinthus usurped the throne of Corinth and died without heirs, which enabled Medea to take over as ruler with Jason. It was later suggested that she had poisoned Corinthus.

Coriolanus<sup>1</sup> Roman

[Cnaeris Marcius]
a legendary soldier and consul son of Volumnia or Veturia husband of Vergilia or Volumnia

He captured the town of Corioli, taking its name as Coriolanus. As a consul he became tyrannical and was exiled, joining with his former enemies, the Volscians, in an assault on Rome, which was aborted by the pleas of his mother, wife and children. In some accounts the Volsci then killed him.

Some regard him as an early god of the Volscians.

Coriolanus<sup>2</sup> English

a play written by Shakespeare

Cormac<sup>1</sup> Irish

a king of Leinster
husband of Milla
father of St Aban

Cormac<sup>2</sup> Irish

king of Ulster
son of Conor mac Nessa
husband of Etain Oig

They had no sons and Cormac gave orders for their baby daughter to be killed. Instead, the servants gave her to the cowherd of Eterskel, the high-king. This girl, Mess Buachalla, later married Eterskel.

(see also Cormac Cond Longes)

Cormac Cas Irish

king of Munster
son of Ailill Olom
husband of Samhair

Cormac Cond Longes Irish

[Cormac Conn Loingean.Cormac Connloges] son of Conor mac Nessa and Clothra
husband of Niam

In some accounts he joined Fergus who, disgusted with his father's murder of Naisi and his brothers, to whom he had promised safe conduct, joined forces with Maev of Connaught and fought on her side in the Cattle Raid of Cooley.

He married Niam after the death of her first husband, Conganchas, who was killed by her father. He also had an affair with Sceanb whose jealous husband, Craftiny, had Cormac killed. Others say that he was offered the throne of Ulster when his father died but was killed at the hostel of Da Coga, en route to Tara, by Cet or Corb Gaillne. (see also Cormac<sup>2</sup>)

Cormac Conn Loingean

(see Cormac Cond Longes)

Cormac Connloges

(see Cormac Cond Longes)

Cormac Lusc Irish

son of Cu Chorb
brother of Cairbre Cluitheachair, Meas Corb and Nia Corb

Cormac mac Airt Irish

[Cormac ua Cuinn]
a high-king of Ireland and a sage son of Art and Achtan father of Ailb(h)e, Cairbre, Ce(a)llach and Grania

He was born when his father, Art, en route to the Battle of Mucramha where he was killed, slept with Achtan, the daughter of a druid. The child was taken and suckled by a wolf until he was found by Lughne who took him back to his mother.

He was later fostered with Art's foster-father, Fiachna Casan, and, at the age of thirty, he set out to recover the throne of Ireland which had been taken by Lugaid mac Con, the man who had killed Cormac's father at Magh Mucramha. Lugaid handed over the throne without a fight.

Eochu Gunnat, king of Ulster, defeated Cormac in battle and captured Tara, but Cormac later gathered his forces and reversed the defeat.

Other accounts say that he was the son of Art and his legal wife, Eachhach, born as she drove a chariot to seek the protection after Art was killed. Some say that he was married to Maev, others that he married Eithne, daughter of Cathaoir Mor.

He was the owner of a magic cup that broke if three lies were uttered, and became whole again if three true things were said. He also had a silver branch that bore three golden apples and that made music to soothe the sick. Both were gifts from Manannan, who had stolen his wife and children, and vanished when Cormac died.

His son, Cellach, was speared by Angus for abducting a girl of his, Desi sept. In withdrawing the spear, Angus knocked out one of Cormac's eyes. This defect made him unsuitable to be king and he handed over the throne to his son, Cairbre Lifeachear. He died soon afterwards when the druid Maelcen caused a fish bone to stick in the king's throat at a great feast given by the noble, Spealan. After his death, his soul spoke from some rushes to St Patrick who then baptised him so that, finally, he could go to heaven.

Cormac mac Cuilennan Irish
a 10th c writer of Irish legends

Cormac mac Dubhthach Irish
son of Dubhthach

He was sent with his father and Fergus to escort Naisi and Deirdre back from Scotland, whence they had eloped. When Conor mac Nessa broke his promise of safe conduct and had Naisi and his brothers killed, the three of them attacked Emain Macha and killed 300 of the garrison. They then joined forces with Queen Maeve of Connaught and fought on her side in the Cattle Raid of Cooley.

Cormac ua Cuinn
(see Cormac mac Airt)

Cormilan (see Cormoran)

Cormoran British [Cormilan.Gourmaillon]
a giant
brother of Blunderbore

He was lord of St Michael's Mount. One version has it that he was killed by Jack the Giant Killer, who lured the giant into a deep pit and then cut off his head, which he presented to King Arthur. Others say that he was killed by King Arthur.

In some accounts the name Gourmaillon is applied to both Cormoran and Gogmagog.

Cormorant North American
a demi-god

The tribes of the north-west say that Yetl killed Bear and then cut out Cormorant's tongue so that he could not tell anybody what he had seen.

Cormorant People North American
underwater spirits, in the lore of the tribes of the north-west

Gunarhnesengyet came across these people, who were blind, when he dived to the sea bed to look for his wife who had been abducted by the killer whale, Gunarh. He cut open their eyes so that they could see and they showed their gratitude by showing him where his wife was being held.

Corn (see Onatah)

Corn Bran Galed
(see Horn of Bran Galed)

Corn Girl North American
a Navaho deity

She was placed by the creators Atse Estsan and Atse Hastin on top of Mount Taylor together with Turquoise Boy.

Corn Maidens
(see Ten Corn Maidens)

Corn Mother North American [Corn Woman]

a goddess of vegetation
She released maize that was planted by animals to produce the human race.

Other versions say that she made corn dishes from bodily sores scraped off and boiled in a pot, or told the tribes how to plant such scrapings to produce corn. Some say that corn grew when the tribes killed her and buried her body.

The Cherokee version of this deity is called Selu.

corn mummy Egyptian
a funerary object, in the form of a figure made from soil and corn seeds, in a small sarcophagus

Corn spirit North American
a vegetation-god (see also field spirit)

Corn Woman (see Corn Mother)

corna
a magic word used to avert evil

Cornbaby British [Ivy Girl.Kernababy.Kirnababy]
a figure fashioned from straw, based on the Greek Core, used in harvest ceremonies

cornelian (see carnelian)

Cornu Copiae (see cornucopia)

Cornubas British
a Welsh earl in Arthurian lore

cornucopia
[Cornu Copiae.Horn of Plenty]
a horn always full of food and drink
Either the horn of the goat Amalthea, who fed the infant Zeus, or the horn broken by Heracles from the head of Achelous, who had taken the form of a bull to fight Heracles for the hand of Deianeira.

Cornumoran European
son of Corboran

When it was prophesied that the Christians would take the Holy Land, Cornumoran travelled to the Continent to spy out the strength of the Christian forces. Godfrey, aware of his intentions, deceived the Saracen by parading the same troops time after time in front of the astounded interloper.

Corobius Greek
a dye merchant

He guided the party led by Battus to Plataea en route to Libya.

Coroebus Greek
son of Mygdon

He was a suitor for the hand of Cassandra. He fought on the side of the Trojans against the Greeks at Troy, where he was killed.

coronal (see crown)

Coronation Stone
(see Stone of Destiny)

Coroni Greek
2 offspring of the Coronides

The sisters Metioche and Menippe sacrificed themselves to avert a famine. Two youths, the Coroni, were said to have risen from the ashes of the sisters' funeral pyre.

Coronides Greek
daughters of Orion and Side

Their names were Metioche and Menippe. An oracle decreed that the sacrifice of two virgins was required to lift the famine that had descended on Orchomenus, so the two sisters killed themselves using the shuttles from their looms. They were placed in the heavens as comets.

In some accounts two youths, known as the Coroni, rose from the ashes of their funeral pyre.

Coronis<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Aegla.Koronis]

a nymph of Thessaly daughter of Phlegyas mother of Asclepius by Apollo

Apollo seduced Coronis but she preferred a mortal lover, Ischys. For this insult to the god, which was reported by the crow or raven, Apollo killed her or had her killed by Artemis. He saved the infant Asclepius and gave it to Chiron to rear. The raven, formerly white, Apollo made black for bringing bad news.

Another version says that she bore the baby in secret and abandoned it on a mountain where it was rescued by the goatherd Aresthanas.

In some accounts she is called Aegla.

Coronis<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Koronis]

a priestess of Dionysus Butes, raiding Drius, raped Coronis. Dionysus drove him mad and he jumped into a well and was drowned.

- Coronis<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Koronis]
daughter of Phoroneus
She was changed by Athena into a crow to deliver her from the clutches of Poseidon.
- Coronis<sup>4</sup> Greek
[Koronis]
one of the Hyades, some say
- Coronus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Koronus]
king of Sicyon
son of Apollo
- Coronus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Koronus]
a Lapith king of Thessaly son of Poseidon and Caenis father of Anaxirrhoe and Leontius
He was one of the Argonauts and was killed by Hercules.
- Coronus<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Koronus]
son of Sisyphus, in some accounts brother of Holiartus
- Coroticus Irish
a man turned into a fox by St Patrick
- corpan side Irish [siodbgrad]
a changeling brought by the fairies
- Corpre (see Cairbre)
- Corra Irish
[O'Corra]
a legendary Irish voyager preceding Brendan and Maeldun
- Corrchend Irish
[Concheann]
the man who killed Aedh Caomh when he tried to seduce Corrchend's wife
The Dagda forced the killer to carry his victim's corpse until he found a stone slab big enough to be used as a cover for the grave.
- corrigan French [korrigan(ed)]
a fairy in Brittany, said to steal children
Some say that they were former druids while others describe the corrigan as a dwarf, about two feet tall, who can assume the form of a horse or a goat at will.
They dress in white veils and their breath is said to be fatal to human beings. (see also Coranicid.kerrighed)
- Corroboree Australian
a festival dance of the Aborigines
- Corrouge European
the sword of Otuel
- Cors Hundred-claws British
owner of a famous leash Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to obtain this leash as part of his quest for
the hand of Olwen.
- Corsolt European
a giant defeated by Guillaume
d'Orange
- Corson
one of the cardinal demons (south)
- Corsuble European [Corsubles] a Saracen commander
father of Gloriande
He was leading the force besieging
Rome when, at the request of the Pope, Charlemagne brought his army to repel the invaders. He was killed in battle by Charlemagne.
- Corsubles (see Corsuble)
- Cortana European [Courtain.Cur(e)tana]
a sword of Ogier the Dane
When Charlemagne knighted several of his warriors and presented them with swords, the sword for Ogier was replaced by Morgana with a marvellous sword, Cortana, made by Munifican from the same steel as Joyeuse and Durindana.
In some accounts it was once owned by Tristram, while others say that it was won by Ogier in battle with the Saracens.
- Cortina Greek
a snakeskin cover for the tripod used by the Delphi oracle
the tripod (or cauldron) of Apollo
- Corunetes (see Periphetes)
- Corus<sup>1</sup> Greek
a name for Iacchus, the male version of Core, his sister
- Corus<sup>2</sup> Roman [Caurus.Chrus:=Greek Iapyx]
the north-west wind
son of Aeolus and Eos, some say
- Corvus, Marcus Roman
a military tribune
He fought a giant in single combat and was helped by a raven that flew into the face of his opponent.
- Corybantes Greek
[Korubantos.Korybantes:=Phrygian Galloi]
demi-gods or nymphs of Crete
descendants of Corybas, some say Attendants of Cybele indulging in uninhibited dancing. In some accounts they are equated with the Curetes.
Alternatively, they are described as priests of Rhea, confusing them with the Curetes.
They are regarded as the male equivalent of the Bacchantes.
- Corybas Greek
son of Iasion by Cybele, some say
In some accounts he was the son of Core by an unknown father and the ancestor of the Corybantes; in others
he was the father of Ida.
- Corycia Greek
a nymph of Mount Parnassus
- Corycian cave Greek
the cave on Mount Parnassus where Typhon hid the sinews he had cut from the body of Zeus during their fight
- Corycian nymphs (see Muses)
- Corycides (see Muses)
- Corydon Greek
a shepherd
lover of Alexis
- Corynetes (see Periphetes)
- Corythus Greek
son of Paris and Oenone
He was killed by his own father when Helen, whom Paris had abducted, fell in love with Corythus.
- Corytus Greek
father of Dardanus and Iasion
by Electra
Some say that the real father of Dardanus was Zeus.
- coscinomancy
divination using a sieve and shears
In this ceremony the points of the shears were stuck into the sieve, which was held on the fingers of two supporters.
After a verse from the Bible had been read, the sieve rotated when the name of the guilty person was pronounced.
- Cosmic Egg
[Mundane Egg.Ophic Egg]
in many mythologies, the primordial egg from which the world was hatched
The Egyptian version says that the egg was laid by the Nile Goose.
- Cosmic Giant Jain
a supernatural being
- Cosmic Man (see Purusha)
- Cosmic Mountain Japanese
the home of the Sennin
This mountain is said to be supported by a tortoise.
- Cotaa South American
a benevolent spirit of the Mocobi tribe
- Cothulin Druth Irish
a device which, when placed on the head, enabled humans to live under water
- cothurnus Greek
high-heeled boots as worn by Dionysus

Coti African
wife of Kaang
mother of Cogaz and Gewi

Cotopaxi South American
a volcano regarded as a sacred mountain

Cotsipamapot North American
a creator-goddess of the Shoshone
She is envisaged as an old woman and is said to have caused the tribes to speak different languages.

Cottontail North American
a trickster-god of the tribes of the Great Basin
He is equivalent to Rabbit or Great Hare in other tribal myths. He was said to have stolen the sun to bring light to his people.

Cottus Greek [Cottys.Kottos]
one of the Hundred-handed Ones
son of Uranus and Gaea
brother of Briareus and Gyges

Cottys (see Cottus)

Cotys (see Cotytto)

Cotyto (see Cotytto)

Cotyttia Greek
nocturnal orgies by the devotees of Cotytto

Cotytto Greek
[Cotys.Cotyto.Kotutto.Kotys.Kotyttio]
a Thracian goddess of lewdness

Cotzbalam Central American
a huge bird in the lore of the Maya
In one of their early attempts to create humans, the gods Tepeu and Gucamatz carved them from wood. When these beings proved un-successful the gods sent four huge birds to destroy them. The others were known as Camazotz, Tecumbalam and Xecotcovach.

Coudel British [Crudel]
a king of Northgales
He imprisoned Josephus and some of his followers but Evelake brought an army to their rescue and Coudel was killed in the ensuing battle.

cougar fish North American
a fabulous fish

Coule Irish
a prince
He became enchanted with a beautiful maiden and sailed off with her to the Land of the Living.

coulin Irish
the music of the fairies

Coulobre French
[Ropotou.Wicked Spirit]
a man-eating dragon
This beast is said to have been defeated by St Front or St Veran.

Count Dracula (see Dracula)

Count Eldol (see Eldol)

Count of the Dragons Chinese a giant who destroyed two of the islands of P'eng-lai

Count of the River (see Ho Po)

Count of the Winds (see Feng Po)

Countess of Achievements Welsh
a lady with 300 suitors, in Welsh lore
She had a retinue of 300 warriors and only a knight who could overcome all of them could win her hand. Peredur achieved this feat but she loved his attendant, Edlym, and married him.

Counts of Carrion Spanish
[Princes of Carrion]
2 princes
These two young princes married the daughters of El Cid and so ill-treated them that their father demanded redress. The princes and their uncle were defeated in single combat by three champions appointed by El Cid, and banished.

Courechouse French
the sword of King Ban

Course British
the ship of Stormaleng

Court of Carousal (see Caer Feddwid)

Court of Intoxication (see Caer Feddwid)

Courtain (see Cortana)

Courtois (see Courtoys)

Courtoys European [Courtois]
a dog in Reynard the Fox

Covac Irish
[Cob(h)thach Coel]
king of Bregia
son of King Ugaine and Cessair
brother of Laoghaire Lorc
He pretended to be ill and when his brother came to visit him he stabbed him and Laoghaire's son Ailill, killing them both and taking Laoghaire's kingdom of Leinster. He forced Ailill's young son, Labraid Loiseach, to swallow parts of the hearts of his father and grandfather, as a result of which the boy lost the power of speech and was thereafter known as Maon.
He was killed by Labraid who returned when he reached manhood to avenge his father and grandfather. Covac and his supporters were lured into an iron chamber and roasted to death when fires were lit all round it.

Covella (see Juno<sup>1</sup>)

Coventina British
a river-goddess of the northern counties

cow<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the animal sacred to Hathor, Nut and Isis

cow<sup>2</sup> Greek the animal sacred to Hera

cow<sup>3</sup> Hindu
a sacred animal

cow<sup>4</sup> Irish an animal sacred to Brigit and Columba

Cow of the Smith (see Glas Gabnach)

cowroid Egyptian
an amulet made in the form of a cowrie shell

Coxcox Central American [Teocipactli.Tezpi]
an Aztec deity
In some accounts he was the husband of Xochiquetzal. Their children were born without voices but were given the power of speech, each in a different language, by a dove.

Coya Raymi (see Capac Situa)

Coyo Mama (see Mama Coyo)

Coyolxauhqui Central American
an Aztec moon-goddess, goddess of the hearth daughter of Coatlicue
She either goaded her 400 brothers into killing their mother or, some say, was about to warn her mother that her other children planned to kill her, when Huitzilopochtli was born fully formed and fully armed. He killed many of the rebellious children, including Coyolxauhqui whose head he cut off and threw into the heavens where it became the moon.

Coyote<sup>1</sup> North American
[Eno.Eyacque.Ital(a)pas.Koyote.Mahih-Nah-Tlehey.Olle.Sedit. Shunk-Manitou] a trickster-god of the Maidu American Indians
a messenger of the gods
brother of Wild Cat
Some tribes say that he was created from a mist. He helped Kodoyampe make the world fit for men and then made humans from wooden images. The two creators later quarrelled and fought for a long time before Coyote finally won.
To punish a giant who had eaten children, he tricked the giant into believing that he could break a leg and then mend it. The giant agreed that Coyote could perform the same trick on his leg, whereupon Coyote smashed his leg with a rock and left the giant helpless.
At the funeral of Ouiot, he snatched a piece of flesh from the corpse and fled. Thereafter, he was known as Eno (the thief) instead of Eyacque.

He once gave his blanket to the magic rock, Iya, but snatched it back as soon as he began to feel the cold. The rock chased him, knocked him down and flattened him by rolling right over him.

Another story tells how he went to the Spirit World to rescue his sister who had died. There he killed the frog who held the moon-lantern and dressed himself in the frog's skin. He doused the lamp and was able to capture all the spirits and put them in a sack, but he grew tired of their weight and released them, so death still persists.

Yet another story tells how Coyote married a woman with teeth in her vagina with which she had killed many lovers. He broke the teeth off with a metal chisel and was safe. Her father tried several times to kill his son-in-law but was unsuccessful. Coyote carved the wooden image of a whale and threw it into the water when he was in a canoe with his father-in-law. The model turned into a killer whale which snatched the girl's father from the canoe and ate him.

His ability as a shape-changer is illustrated in a story in which to save himself after falling into a river he changed into a board, which was swept down the river to a dam where a woman retrieved it to use as a serving dish. She was startled when the salmon she placed on the board quickly disappeared, eaten by Coyote, and she threw the board into the fire. Coyote then changed into a baby, which the woman saved and reared as her own. When he grew older, he broke down the dam to allow salmon to go upriver to the home of his own people, but brought a plague of insects on them when he opened four boxes in the woman's barn which she had told him never to touch.

Another story relates how when he was starving Woodtick brought him some deer meat. He went to live with her and she kept him well supplied with meat by calling the deer to her tent, where she pierced the ears of two and let the others return to the wild. Coyote thought he could do this himself so he killed (or, some say, expelled) Woodtick. When he tried to do what she had done he failed and all the meat he had turned into deer and ran off, so that Coyote was soon starving again.

His own son was killed by a snake bite but did not return to life as expected when immersed in a lake. Some say that Coyote killed himself so that he might roam free as a spirit.

In the lore of the Utes, he was the brother of Sunawavi.

Coyote<sup>2</sup> North American

[Eno.Eyacque.Ital(a)pas.Koyote.Mahih-Nah-Tlehey.Olle.Sedit. Shunk-Manitou] a trickster-god of the Navaho

The Navaho and a few other tribes maintain that they sprang from the excrement of Coyote whereas all other tribes descended from the union of Coyote and a louse.

Coyote and Badger met the Navaho during their ascent from the underworld. He seized two of the children of the monster, Tlieholtsodi, and the monster caused a flood which forced the Navaho to abandon the world they were living in at the time and go up, through a hole made by Badger, into the upper world.

Coyote<sup>3</sup> (see First Man.Olle.Sedit)

Coyotl inaual Central American
a god of the Amanteca people

Cozaana Central American
a creator deity of the Zapotecs

This being, of indeterminate sex, is said to have created the world and all the animals while the fishes and humans were created by Hiuichaana.

Cozbi
a demon taking possession of humans

Cozcaapa Central American

[Water of Precious Stones] the fountain into which, in some stories, Quetzalcoatl threw his treasures when he left Tollan to return to Tlapallan

Cozcaquauhli Central American
the sixteenth of the 20 days of the Mayan month

Symbolising the south and the vulture, the day was governed by Itzpapaloth.

crab<sup>1</sup> Australian

in the lore of the Aborigines he argued with the crow about the best way to die and the crow's method turned out best

Crab<sup>2</sup> (see Cancer)

Cradawg (see Caradoc)

Cradelmass (see Cradilment)

Cradelment (see Cradilment)

Cradilment British

[Cradelmass.Cradelment]

a king of Northgales

He was one of the leaders of the rebellion put down by King Arthur at the Battle of Bedgrayne, where he was killed.

Cradoc (see Caradoc)

Craebderg (see Craebruad)

Craebruad Irish

[Craebderg.Red Branch.Ruddy Brach] one of the homes of the king of Ulster

Craftine (see Craftiny)

Craftiny Irish

[Cra(i)ftine.Cravetheen]

a harper to Scoriath, king of Feramor. He was sent to France by Moriath to convey her love for Labraid Loiseach.

His harp had been made from the tree that had been told the secret that Labraid had the ears of a horse or an ass, and it gave away this secret when it was played.

In another account he was married to Sceanb and when she had an affair with Cormac Cond Longes, Craftiny had him killed.

Cragus Greek

[=Greek Zeus]

a Lycian god

Craiftine (see Craftiny)

Craig-y-Dinas British

a site in Wales of a cave where, some say, King Arthur and his knights lie sleeping

Other sites suggested are at Alderley Edge, Cadbury, Mount Etna, Ogof Lanciau Eryri, Ogo'r Dinas, Richmond Castle and Sewingshields.

Crambis Greek

in some accounts, son of Phineus and Cleopatra brother of Oryithus

When Idaeia, second wife of Phineus, accused the brothers of rape, their father blinded them.

In other accounts they are referred to as Polydectes and Polydorus.

Cranae<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Crane]

daughter of Cranaus and Pedias

sister of Atthis

wife of Amphictyon

She and her husband deposed her father and took over the throne of Athens.

Cranae<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Crane]

a name of Diana (Artemis)

Cranaea Greek

[Carnasia:=Roman Cranae]

a name of Artemis as 'stony'

- Craenaum Greek
a grove dedicated to Craenea
- Craenaus Greek
a king of Athens
husband of Pediae
father of Atthis and Cranea
He is said to have ruled after Cecrops, springing from the soil, and it was during his reign that Deucalion's flood was said to have occurred. He was deposed by Amphictyon who had married Cranea.
- crane<sup>1</sup> Chinese a sacred bird
This bird is regarded as a messenger of the gods and is said to carry the souls of the dead to the Western Paradise. It lives for a long time and gives up eating (but not drinking) after 600 years.
- crane<sup>2</sup> (see vaka<sup>1</sup>)
- Crane<sup>3</sup> (see Craena<sup>1</sup>)
- Crane Bag, The (see Treasure Bag)
- Crane Dance Greek
a dance to commemorate the serpentine passages of the Labyrinth
This dance was introduced in Athens by the survivors of the ordeal in the Labyrinth when Theseus killed the Minotaur.
- Crane Land (see Aztlan)
- Cranes of Ibycus
the birds that hovered over the theatre to identify the killers of Ibycus
- Crann Bethadh Irish
the Tree of Life
- Crann Buidhe Irish
the spear of Dermot O'Dyna
- Crantor Greek [Krantor]
an armour-bearer to Peleus
He was killed by Demoleon.
- Craosa (see Sraosha)
- Crateis Greek
mother of Scylla by Phorcus,
some say
- Cratos (see Cratus)
- Cratus Greek
[Cratos.Kratos]
god of strength
son of Pallas and Styx
brother of Bia, Nike and Zelus
He and his brother Bia were given the task of chaining Prometheus to the rock.
- Cravethen (see Craftiny)
- Crear Irish
son of Cis
father of Conn
- Crearwy (see Creirwy)

creation

each culture has its own version of the creation of the universe, some more than one

-African

(1) In the beginning it was always warm and bright. The creator put the bat in charge of darkness but he allowed it to escape. Earth originally was linked to heaven, in some stories by a tree, in others by a spider's web.

(2) The Abulayia say that Wele first made heaven, which he propped up on posts. When he made the sun and moon they fought until Wele separated them into day and night. He next created the features of the atmosphere and then the earth, followed by man and animals. All this was done in six days.

(3) The Bakongo say that Nzambi created the first man and woman, Ndosimau and the Prohibition Breaker, whose children were mortal because they failed to obey his instructions not to bury those that died. In another version, he created an androgynous being, Mahungu, in the form of a tree with two heads. When Mahungu tried to embrace a tree called Muti Mpungu, Mahungu was split into male, Lumbu, and female, Muzita.

(4) The Bakuba say that there was only water, ruled by the White Giant, Mbombo. From his stomach he brought up the sun, moon and stars and, later, men and women and all the other things in the world.

(5) The Bambara say that the creation principle, Pemba, came to earth as a seed and became a tree from which came a female being with which he mated to create all the other things on earth.

(6) The Bushmen say the world was created by a god in the form of a mantis.

(7) The Dogon say that the god Amma made the sun and moon from clay pots bound with wire, black people from sunlight and white people from moonlight. He made the earth from clay and fertilised it to produce, first, two half-human beings called Nummo, and again to make all the other things.

(8) The Fon say that the androgynous deity Mawu-Lisa created the world from the primeval chaos and then made plants, animals and mankind from clay and water. On day two the world was made a fit home for man, who was given the power of understanding and his physical senses on the third day. On the fourth and final day of creation man was given knowledge of the skills he needed in order to advance.

Another version says that the primordial goddess, Nana Buluku, created the earth and then retired, leaving the world to her children Mawu and Lisa.

In some accounts, the first created thing was the python, Dan Ayido Hwedo, from whose excrement Mawu made the mountains.

(9) The Kono say that one creator-god, Alatangana, was living above the primeval waters and another, Sa, living in the waters. The first god made solid land and ran off with Sa's daughter, producing seven black and seven white children, ancestors of the human races.

(10) The Mande say that god created seeds and planted them in the corners of the world. From them came Pemba and Faro, his twin, who became a fish, part of which became the trees, the remainder producing a new Faro who came down from heaven in a ship with eight others. Faro made the Niger, containing seed for future generations from his own body.

(11) The Nandi say that the god Asis created first the world order, Kiet, and then the sky and the earth, some of which he took to make man and woman.

(12) The Swahili say that a self-created god first made light and then used that light to make souls. Next he made the sky, the Canopy or Arishi; the throne Kurusi on which he sits in judgement; the Luah, the tablet on which all events are recorded by the angel Kalamu; the Trumpet of the Last Day; Paradise; hell; and, beneath the throne, the Lotus Tree of the End, on each leaf of which is recorded an individual life which ends when that leaf falls. Then he made the sun, moon, stars and the earth, together with all the things in it. A great cock in heaven announces each new day. The earth itself is saucer shaped and is supported on the four horns of a bull or cow standing on the back of a fish swimming in an unfathomable ocean.

(13) The Yoruba say that, in the beginning Olorun ruled the sky and Olokun his brother ruled the primitive waters. Olorun sent his son, Obatala, to place a huge sphere in the sea and when this broke into the various land masses he sent his daughter Oduduwa to sow seeds.

Another version says that the earth was created by Orishanla or Olorun who scattered soil on the marshy terrain, and a hen and a pigeon scattered the soil about to form dry land.

(14) The Zulu say that the Great One appeared out of the earth with the moon and sun, which he placed in the sky, and then created not only the black people but the whites as well. He sent Unwaba, the chameleon, to tell mankind that they would never die, and later sent Intulo, the lizard, to tell them the opposite. The lizard ran faster than the chameleon and delivered its message first so that all races are now mortal.

—Australian

(1) The stories of the Aborigines start with the Dreamtime, the alchera, a period of indeterminate length, when the earth already existed but was unformed and unpopulated. Various beings, some human, some spirits, slept in or under the earth in this period and later woke, performed their preordained duties and returned whence they had come. Stories vary from tribe to tribe but it is commonly held that these ancestral beings created men by singing, and when they returned to their original home, left behind songlines which form a means of communication between the Aborigines.

(2) One such being was the kangaroo-man, Minawara, who appeared with his brother Multultu when the primordial waters subsided and together they created all living things.

(3) Another pair of beings, the lizard-men, known as Wati-kutjara, awoke to create rocks, plants and animals. Strangely enough the story implies that humans already existed because they found the moon spirit, Kidilli, chasing a group of women. They killed Kidilli who became the moon. The women became the Pleiades and the twins, Wati-kutjara, became Gemini.

(4) Two other beings, the Bagadjimbiri, rose from the earth in the form of dingos, and mated a toadstool with a fungus to produce the first humans. The brothers were killed by the cat-man, Ngariman, but were restored by the goddess Dilga. When they finally died, they became water snakes.

(5) A different story says that the woman Imberombera mated with Wuraka. She immediately gave birth to all living things and her consort gave them names.

(6) Some say that the earth was shaped by the rain-spirits, the Wandjina, who later caused the flood.

(7) One story has three beings, known as the Djanggawuls, arriving from the island of the dead and creating plant life and shaping the earth with magic rods known as rangga.

(8) In the South-east of the country they tell of Ngurunderi, a creator spirit who caught a large cod, at that time a land animal. He cut it into pieces, gave them names and threw them into the sea where they became the first fish.

(9) In the Bathurst and Melville islands to the north of Australia, the blind ancestral heroine, Mudungkala, emerged from the earth with three children who became the ancestors of the islanders.

—Basque

A huge, seven-headed serpent under the earth moved, throwing up the Pyrenees and then opened its jaws to pour out fire which cleansed the world and from which the Basque people emerged.

—Buddhist

The authors and mechanism of creation are not addressed but the structure of the universe is given as consisting of several distinct regions, each occupied by a different class of being or existence. In ascending order they are Kama Loka (desires), Rupa Loka (material form) and Arupa Loka (spirit). The Tibetans envisage a further layer occupied by the Dhyani-buddhas, the highest part of which is the home of Adi Buddha. Nirmanarati the home of the gods of creation, Paranirmita-Vasavartin the home of Mara, Trayastrinska the home of Indra, and Tushita the home of the bodhisattvas are four of the six parts of Kama Loka; the other parts are occupied by the guardians of the four cardinal points and by Yama's realm, the kingdom of the dead. Below these come the realms of men, the Asuras, the animals, ghosts and, at the lowest level, several hells.

—Cambodian

(1) In the beginning there was a holy state of nothingness from which appeared the holy jewel, Prah Keo, from which arose the earth, Prah Thorni, and all that is in it. Man was created from the earth and woman from man's shadow.

(2) An alternative version says that everything arose from the original unformed, uncreated state known as Prah Prohm. There are three disc-shaped worlds, each some ten million miles in diameter and surrounded by enormously high mountains.

—Central American

(1) A monster with many mouths swam in the primaeval waters. The gods split the monster into two parts, making heaven and earth. The earth was supported by four crocodiles swimming in the primaeval waters. One ladder led from the centre up to heaven, another down to hell. The supreme god was on the top rung of the ladder to heaven. The lower ladder was the road to rebirth before which ordinary mortals stayed in the paradise of the rain-god, Tlaloc. For initiates, there was a higher heaven and an even higher one, the House of the Sun, for the fully enlightened who were rewarded with eternal life and happiness.

(2) Heaven was supported on four pillars. The Sun sprang first from Earth, then Air, Fire and Water and, in its fifth and present form, from all four elements combined.

(3) In Mayan lore, men were first created by the gods Gucumatz and Tepeu (or Hurakan) from soil. These proved to be unsatisfactory so the gods destroyed them and carved the next race from wood. These beings were attacked by their own tools, or a flock of huge birds, and turned into monkeys. Next a race of giants, led by Vucub-Caquix, was defeated by the twin gods Hanapu and Ixbalanqué and finally the present race evolved from maize planted by animals, or, in some versions, the gods used ground-up maize and broth to create four brothers, Balam Agab, Balam Quitzé, Iqi Balam and Mahucutah, together with their wives. When, after much travelling, the brothers witnessed the birth of the sun, bringing light to the darkness of the earth, they disappeared for ever.

Another Mayan story says that Month was created first. He then created the heavens and earth and all living things over a period of nineteen days, using the twentieth day as a day of rest to recover from his labours.

(4) The Guatemalan version of the Mayan creation story says that the gods Gucumatz and Tepeu caused the primordial waters to recede to allow dry land to appear and then made animals and men from moist soil.

(5) The Mixtec tell of two beings who appeared when the earth rose out of the primaeval waters. These were the deer-god, Puma-Snake, and his female counterpart, the deer-goddess, Jaguar-Snake. They placed a copper axe on edge for the sky to rest on and built a palace where they lived for hundreds of years, finally producing Wind-Nine-Snake and Wind-Nine-Cave, two sons to whom they gave the power to change into any bird or animal and to become invisible. These four became the progenitors of the human race, many of whom died in a flood, following which the creator-god formed heaven and earth and a new race of humans.

(6) The Zapotecs say that Cozaana created the world and all the animals, while the fishes and human beings were created by Huichaana.

–Chinese

(1) The universe was created by eight rulers – the Five Emperors and the Three Sovereigns.

(2) Chaos produced the world when pierced by lightning.

(3) Chaos, a cosmic egg, split to form yin and yang, Earth and Sky. In between was the first human, P'an-ku, who grew for 1,800 years, pushing the sky away from earth. All the physical features of the earth and sky were made from his body when he died. The earth was square with a sea on each side under the dome of the sky. The Milky Way, a heavenly river, discharged into the Eastern Sea in which floated the island paradises of P'eng-lai. Pillars supported the sky but these were broken by Chuan Hu to prevent confusion between gods and men. Chung then ruled heaven and Li ruled the earth. The sun passed from a hollow mulberry tree in the East to a jo tree in the west ten times daily in a chariot drawn by dragons. Nine of the suns were shot out of the sky by I.

(4) In the beginning there was only Wu-wu, nothingness, but this changed to Wu Chi, no limit, when Tao arrived on the scene. Hun T'un, chaos, then evolved giving rise to T'ai Chi, the Great Pole, which engendered T'ai I, the Great Change. This had two stages, T'ai Ch'u, the Great First, when Hsing (form) came into being, and T'ai Shih, the Great Beginning, when Ch'i (breath) appeared. Together, these two attributes formed T'ai Shu, the Great Primordial, which had substance (Chih).

(5) A modern version says that the universe was created by Pan-ku. One story says that he was hatched from an egg and pushed the two halves apart to form earth and sky. His left eye became the sun, his right eye the moon. Some say he made men from clay, others that they developed from fleas on his body. The effort took 18,000 years and he died from it, parts of his body forming mountain ranges. In another story, Pan-ku, a dwarf, chiselled the universe into its present shape for 18,000 years, growing some six feet every day as he worked.

–East Indian

(1) The Dayak say that the world lay in the mouth of Watersnake. Gold Mountain and Jewel Mountain clashed together to produce all the things that make up the world. In the first epoch came the sky and the rocks, then the land and hills and finally, in the third epoch, the Tree of Life.

Another Dayak story says that a spider came down a thread from heaven and wove a web to which adhered the things such as soil and trees that fell from heaven and made the earth. Later, two spirits descended from heaven to start the human race. They carved a loom and a sword from wood and these two objects produced two human heads which bred successively more complete beings until proper beings existed in the form of Amei Ami and Burung Une, gods of agriculture. They had children who became the ancestors of the tribes and Amei Ami made various birds and animals from bark.

(2) The Elema say that in the beginning there was only the primordial ocean in which a huge turtle swam endlessly. Finally, needing rest, it dug up mud from the bottom and formed dry land. Here it laid eggs from which emerged the first people and all the plants and animals.

(3) The Iban say that the primordial creators were Ara and Irik. They flew in the form of birds over the primitive waters from which they drew two eggs, out of which they made the world. Then they made men from the soil and gave them life.

(4) In Sumatra a primordial god mated with the cosmic blue chicken Manuk Manuk, which laid three eggs from which came three gods who respectively made the earth, the heavens and the underworld.

–Egyptian

(1) The universe consisted only of the primordial ocean, Nun, from which arose a fertile hill. The early sun-god, Atum, brought light to the world, separating earth from sky, which was supported on a pillar at each of the four corners of the earth. Nun created a son, Shu, and a daughter, Tefnut. Tefnut was lost for some time and when Nun found her the god's tears of pleasure became the first men. Shu and Tefnut produced Geb and Nut who produced Isis, Osiris, Nephthys and Set.

(2) Alternatively, the world was hatched from an egg laid by Geb as a goose, or by Thoth in the form of an ibis or from the lotus flower.

(3) The pairs Amon and Amaunet, Huh and Hauhet, Kuk and Kakuet, Nan and Naunet, swimming in the primitive waters, produced an egg from which light was born. Alternative pairs of deities were Heru and Hehut, Kekui and Kekuit, Qeh and Qerhit, created by Thoth.

(4) A lotus appeared, floating on the primitive waters, and opened to reveal the sun that created the world.

(5) Thoth, a self-created deity, spoke and his words became living things.

(6) Khnum, the potter-god, made the universe from mud taken from the Nile and shaped man from the same material on his wheel. In other versions Ptah was the creator, creating all things merely by uttering their names.

–Finnish

An eagle flying over the primitive waters seeking a nesting site landed on the knee of the sleeping magician, Vainamoinen, built a nest and laid an egg. When Vainamoinen moved, the egg fell out of the nest and broke. The shell became the sky and earth and the contents of the egg became the heavenly bodies.

Other accounts say that the bird was a teal and the eggs were laid on the knee of Ilmatar, Vainamoinen's mother.

–Greek

In general, the Greeks believed that the world pre-existed the gods who were created from a union of its parts.

(1) Chaos gave rise to the goddess Eurynome who produced the serpent Ophion in conjunction with the North Wind. The union of Ophion with Eurynome produced the universal egg from which everything else hatched.

(2) In the Homeric version all living things arose from the union of the stream Ocean with Tethys, and in the Ophic version the union of the three-headed goddess Night with the wind produced a silver world-egg from which sprang Eros who created the sky and the heavenly bodies. Night continued to rule until the coming of Uranus.

(3) In another story, Earth arose from Chaos and bore Uranus who thereupon fertilised Earth to produce the plants and animals of the world. Earth also produced the 100-handed giants, Briareus, Cottus and Gyges, the one-eyed Cyclopes and Arges, Brontes and Sterope, the original Titans.

(4) Yet another version says that from the void of Chaos there emerged Erebus (darkness), Gaea (earth) and Nyx (night). The union of Erebus and Nyx produced Hemera (day), Aethir (air) and many of the forces controlling human life, such as fate and fortune. Gaea produced a son, Uranus, whom she married to produce the early gods such as Cronus, the Titans, the Cyclops and the Hundred-handed Ones. Cronus castrated his father, usurped his throne and started the second divine dynasty. A variation of this story has Aether and Hemera producing a son, Eros, who helped in the creation of Gaea and Pontus and then created all the plants and animals, breathing life into the first humans, moulded from clay by Epimetheus and Prometheus.

–Hindu

(1) The early Vedic version says that Varuna was the creator of all things. Prithivi (earth) and Dyaus (heaven) begot Indra who fought the deities and took over as supreme god, rearranging the universe. There were three heavens: Indra's for major gods; Varuna's for minor gods; and Yama's for the less virtuous. The universal spirit was known as Brahman.

(2) In the Rig Veda, a primordial being, Purusha, was dismembered by the other gods who then built the universe from parts of his body.

(3) The universe is egg-shaped, with twenty-one zones. The first six, starting from the top, are heavenly realms, earth comes next and then seven lower worlds where the nagas live and, below these, seven hells. At the start of each kalpa, Vishnu is asleep on the coils of the cosmic snake, Ananta. Brahma emerges from the lotus growing from Vishnu's navel and makes the universe. Vishnu awakes to rule for a kalpa then sleeps again and the universe is merged with his body.

(4) Having slept in the lotus flower floating on the primitive waters, Brahma awoke and created the universe. He made some errors, which resulted in the demon rakshas and yakshas. There is a cycle of life, death and rebirth governed by Vishnu, who preserves life; Shiva, who destroys it; and Brahma the creator. The life cycle of the universe takes 100 years in the life of Brahma, each day of which (a kalpa) lasts for 4,320 million years. At the end of each cycle the universe is destroyed by drought, then flood, then fire. Men who merit it are released from the cycle of rebirth. At each re-creation of the universe, a golden lotus with 1,000 petals appears, floating on the primaevial waters. From this flower Brahma is born to create the world anew.

(5) In Malaya they say that Bahua Gura (Shiva) ruled over the primaevial ocean in which lay the serpent Naga Pahoda. The god's daughter jumped into the waters and he threw her some dust, from which she made land. He also sent a hero with a heavy block that he placed on the serpent's back, causing it to writhe about, twisting the land into mountains and valleys. The gods and the hero became the ancestors of the human race.

–Japanese

A primordial egg, formed from In and Yo, separated to form the heavens and earth, and then arose the Separate Heavenly Beings and the god Kuni-toto-tachi from whom descended Izanagi and Izanami. Others say that the first deity to emerge from the primordial chaos was Minaka-Nushi; he was followed by four other gods and, after seven generations, by Izanagi and Izanami. They dipped a spear in the primordial ocean and drops from this spear formed the islands to which Izanagi and Izanami descended from the Floating Bridge. The first island was called Onogoro. Izanami gave birth to seas and rivers, trees and herbs, and physical forces such as the wind. One of these forces, the god of fire, burnt his mother to death. His father cut off his head and sixteen more gods emerged, eight each from the blood and the body. Izanagi descended to the underworld to get his wife back but failed. To purify himself he bathed in a river, creating gods of good and evil, and then in the sea, creating sea-gods. Amaterasu was created from one eye, Tsuki-yomi from the other and Susanowa from his nose.

When Amaterasu ate Susanowa's broken sword she breathed out three more goddesses and he, eating her necklace, breathed out five more gods. These eight became the ancestors of the royal family.

–Jain

The Jains deny the concept of creation, holding that the universe has always existed.

–Korean

The world was created by Miruk who pushed heaven and earth apart, supporting the heavens on a copper pillar at each corner. Having made the sun, moon and stars and set them in the heavens, he set about improving the earth. With the help of a mouse he made fire and then made human beings. Holding a silver tray in one hand and a golden tray in the other, he prayed and the trays filled with insects that turned into humans, men in the golden tray, women in the silver tray. These people became the ancestors of the race. When the evil Sokka appeared, they fought many battles and Miruk finally became disenchanted by the spread of evil in the world and left it to its own devices.

–Mesopotamian

(1) The Akkadian version says that Abzu and Mother Tiamat, the primordial forces, created the gods of the heavens and earth, Lahmu and Lahamu. Their son Ea defeated Abzu and fathered Marduk. In the struggle between the primal forces and the gods, Marduk slaughtered Tiamat and Kingu, leaders of their forces, and seized the Tablets of Destiny. He made the earth and sky from the body of Tiamat and man from the blood of Kingu mixed with clay.

(2) One Babylonian version starts with primeval waters inhabited by hideous monsters and ruled by Thalath. Belus cut Thalath in half to make earth and sky and then had Kingu cut off his head, using the blood, mixed with earth, to make the sun, moon, planets and mankind.

(3) Another Babylonian version starts with two gods, Abzu and Tiamat, who engendered all the other gods down to Belus who created the world.

(4) In the Sumerian version Nammu, the primeval waters, created An and Ki, heaven and earth.

–New Zealand

(1) In the mythology of the Maori, day, night and space evolved from the primordial void, Te Kore, incorporating formless male and female beings. These produced Rangi and Papa, sky and earth. Tane-Mahuta came down from the highest of the ten heavens after creating the space between heaven and earth by forcibly separating Rangi and Papa, and brought all knowledge in three baskets. He fathered all the natural features of the earth and made a being from sand, on which he fathered the first humans.

(2) A cosmic egg was dropped into the primitive waters by a bird flying overhead and from this egg emerged man and animals and a canoe.

–Norse

In the beginning was a vast chasm known as Ginnungagap, with Niflheim, land of mists and darkness, to the north and Muspelheim, the land of fire, to the south. In the middle of Niflheim, a raging torrent, Hvergelmir, supplied the twelve rivers (Elivagar) that ran into the chasm and froze to ice, which condensed the mists rising from Muspelheim to form frost-maidens and giants. The gods Odin and his brothers Ve and Vili killed the first Frost Giant, Ymir, and built the world from his parts. They used his body for the earth, his blood for the seas, his skull for the sky, bones for mountains, hair for vegetation, brains for clouds and they built a wall round Midgard, the home of mankind, from his eyebrows. Sparks from Muspelheim became the stars and planets. The sky was held up by four dwarfs, Nordri, Sudri, Austri and Westri, and the whole universe was supported on the great ash tree Yggdrasil. Odin and his brothers formed a man and a woman from driftwood, or from trees, and breathed life into them.

–North American

(1) The Achomawi say that the world was created by a god who appeared out of a cloud and was assisted by Coyote.

(2) The Acoma say that two sisters, Ia'tik and Nao-tsiiti, were born under the earth. They were instructed by the spirit Tstitinako and emerged into the sunlight to begin their work of creating plants, animals and gods, using the baskets of basic materials given to them by their mentor. Nao-tsiiti was impregnated by the rainbow and one of the twin boys who resulted from this union mated with Ia'tik to become the progenitors of the tribe.

(3) According to the Algonquin, the good things of the earth were made by Gluskap, the evil ones by his brother Malsum. The earth-mother fell through a hole in the sky and fell into a lake carrying a tree that had magical soil round its roots. Some of this soil was saved by Toad and it grew to form first an island and then the whole earth. Turtles collected the lightning and made the sun and moon. The stars were formed from animals that crossed the rainbow bridge into heaven.

In another story the god Michabo followed some animals into a lake which then overflowed and inundated the earth. After both a raven and an otter had failed, the musk rat found some earth, from which the god re-created solid land. He then mated with the musk-rat and started the human race.

(4) The Arapaho say that Kici Manitou assembled all the birds and animals of the primaevial waters. The turtle told him where to find earth and the birds brought some back in their beaks. The god then dried the mud with his sacred pipe, so making the world.

(5) The Arikara say that humans came out of the ground. First came a race of giants, born to spiders, who perished in a flood; then a race sprouting from the seed of maize planted by animals.

(6) Some Californian tribes say that heaven mated with the earth to produce rocks and stones, then trees and grass, then animals and, finally, Ouiot, the first being.

Other versions say that the all-powerful Nocuma made the earth like a ball and made it steady with the black rock, Tosaut. When this was broken by the fishes, it exposed a large bladder that split open, spilling out the salt that made the seas salty. Nocuma then used soil to make the first man, Ejoni, and the first woman, Ae.

Other tribes say that Coyote and Kodoyanpe dropped from the heavens on to the primaevial waters in a canoe. Coyote then scattered sand on to the sea and created dry land.

(7) In the Cherokee version, animals existed in the sky but became overcrowded and sent the water beetle to look for some other place. The whole world was covered by water at that time but the water beetle brought up mud from the bottom and spread it out to form a huge land, which the spirit Someone Powerful suspended from the sky with rawhide ropes at each corner. A buzzard was sent down to test the muddy expanse and the flapping of his wings piled some of the mud into mountains. When the land was dry enough, the animals descended from their home in the sky. They pulled the sun down so that they had light and then found that they had to push it back a bit because it was so hot. Then Someone Powerful created plants and tress and, lastly, men and women. One day, it is said, the ropes will break and the earth will fall back into the ocean.

(8) The Cree say that the beavers flooded the earth but the trickster-god and Wolf covered the surface of the waters with moss and created a new world.

(9) In the lore of the Inuit, it is said that the earth fell from the sky but there was no light until the sun and moon mated. The girl (sun) ran off carrying a torch, which grew brighter as she reached the heavens, while the man's torch grew progressively weaker, ending up as the moon.

(10) The Hopi say that the two goddesses, the Huruing Wuhti, one in the East, one in the West, survived the flood and made man from drying mud left behind when the waters receded.

(11) The Iroquois say that the world was created by Hahgwehdiyu from the dead body of his mother, the sky-goddess Ataensic.

(12) The Maidu maintain that the world was made by Wonomi who also created mankind.

(13) The Muskogean say that the hill Nunne Chaha rose from the primordial waters and the god Esaugetuh Emissee fashioned men from clay and built a huge wall on which he set them to dry.

(14) The Navaho say that the four gods, Black Body, Blue Body, White Body and Yellow Body, placed two ears of corn between deerskin blankets and the Mirage People walked round them in a circle. The ears were turned into the first pair of humans.

Another version says that the first man, Atse Hastin, the first woman, Atse Estsan, and Coyote lived successively in four or five worlds, the last of which was destroyed by a flood. They found themselves on an island that grew as the waters subsided. They then created the sky and earth and all that is in it, and when it was complete they disappeared. The daughter of the first man and woman, known as Estanatlehi, produced from maize flour a man and woman, the founders of the eight tribes.

(15) The Omaha say that all living things were created by the power of Wakonda's thought and they descended to earth after first scouring the heavens for a suitable home. At that time, the earth was covered by the primordial ocean but Wakonda caused dry land to form for the living things to land on and inhabit.

(16) The Osage say that their ancestors lived in the sky and were sent to earth only to find it covered with water. The elk called up the winds, which blew until much of the water evaporated and then rolled in the mud so that the hairs from his body stuck in it. From these hairs grew all the plants on earth.

(17) The Pawnee say that Atius-Tirawa created the world. At first it resembled a bowl with the stars holding it in space and protecting it. He then caused the sun to mate with the moon and the morning star to mate with the evening star. The children of these unions were the progenitors of the human race. Coyote seized the sack of stars and tipped them out to form the Milky Way.

(18) The Pomo say that Marumda and his brother Kuksu created the world and tried unsuccessfully to destroy it, first with flood and then with fire, and had to be rescued from their own handiwork by Ragno.

(19) The Selish say that the sky, the earth and the underworld, created by Amotken, are supported by a huge central post. The first humans he made from five hairs from his own head.

(20) The Sia of New Mexico say that, in the beginning a spider wove a web and the god Sus'sistinnako used it as an instrument on which he played a tune while he sang. As he sang, humans appeared and set about populating the earth.

(21) The Sioux say that the first world was destroyed by fire and the second by flood. The creator spirit then came down and floated on the waters, bringing his pipe and pipe bag. He took a loon from the bag and asked it to bring up mud from the bottom. The loon, then the otter and then the beaver all failed in this task but the turtle succeeded. The creator used the mud to create dry land and then let all the animals out of his bag to spread over the earth. Having made men from coloured clay, the creator rested to prepare himself for the creation of a fourth world at some future time.

Another story says that the Sioux ancestors lived underground and reached the surface by climbing up the roots of the vine.

(22) According to the Snohomish, the god Dohkwibuhch made the sky so low that men bumped their heads on it until, with a concerted effort, they used long poles to push it into its present position. A few people who were inadvertently raised into the sky were turned into the Great Bear constellation.

(23) The Washo say that in the beginning there was a great upheaval that set the world on fire. The heat was so intense that the flames, which reached the heavens, melted the very stars, which then fell to earth. The fire was extinguished only when the deluge came. Men who tried to escape the flood by building a tall tower were turned to stone.

(24) In the lore of the Yakima, the world was originally covered by water. Whee-me-me-ow-ah, tired of living alone in the sky, dredged up mud from the bottom of the ocean and made land and mountains. He then made all the plants and animals and, finally, using more mud, made a man and a woman.

(25) In the lore of the Zuni, the green scum left behind by the receding floodwaters became earth and sky and the ancestors of the tribe emerged from the cave where they had sought refuge. In another version, men were born in a cave, which soon became overcrowded until the first man, Poshaiyangkyo, interceded with the sun and secured their release.

–Pacific Islands

(1) In the Gilbert Islands they say that Nareau made from sand Na Atibu and Nei Teukez who had many offspring, including Nareau the Second. He killed Na Atibu and used his body to build the world, using his right eye for the sun and his left for the moon, splitting the brain into pieces for the stars and using his flesh for the islands and his bones for trees. When this was done, a tree grew from the spine of the dead Na Atibu from which human beings grew.

(2) In Hawaii they say that the earth-mother Papa bore a gourd and her husband Wakea used it to make the world. The outer cover became the sky, the pulp made the heavenly bodies and the flesh became the land and sea, with the juice providing rain.

Another version says that Tangaroa created the world when, in the form of a bird, he laid an egg which, after floating on the primaevial waters, broke to form the earth and sky.

(3) Polynesians say that Tangaroa lived in the eternal darkness, Po, and from there he cast down rocks which became the islands. On them he planted the Peopling Vine from which sprang the human race.

Another story says that the creator-god, Lo, separated the primordial mass into earth, sea and sky and then created the sun, moon and stars.

(4) In Samoa they say that the sky-gods, Ilu and Mamoā, merged to form the sky and the sea-god, Tagaloa, created rocks to support it. Next they produced the children Po and Ao and these two mated to produce Rangima and Rangiuri. Tagaloa caused the rock, Papa Taoto, to rise from the sea bed for his son Tuli, a bird, to nest on. Two grubs emerged and grew into the first humans.

(5) The Tahitians say that Ta-aroa, a self-created being, hatched from the cosmic egg and used the shell to create the earth and sky. He then created everything that exists. Others say that he created the world inside the shell of a mussel while yet another version says that he used his own body to build the universe. Some claim that he pulled the islands up on a hook and line from the bottom of the ocean.

–Persian

(1) The mountain Mount Alburz grew till it reached the sky and the Chinvat bridge led from its top into heaven. A gateway led from the base into hell. The centre of the earth was Khwanirath and there were six Keshvars round it linked by the celestial ox, Srishok. The wind-god, Vayu, made the ocean round Mount Alburz from rain formed by Tishtrya who, in the form of a white horse, fought Apoasha the drought demon. The goddess Anahita purified the waters and the fire-god, Atar, fought with the destructive monster Azhi Dahak. The Gaokerena tree, the White Hom, provided the fruit of immortality.

(2) The Zoroastrian version proposes an earlier phase in which Ormazd and Ahriman were separated by a huge void. Ahriman retreated to hell leaving Ormazd to rule for 3,000 years after which he attacks and destroys the world. This alternation is repeated three times before the final end.

–Phoenician

In one version, the primordial god Aer mated with his sister Aura to produce Otos; in another, he mated with Chaos to produce Wind and Desire who produced a cosmic egg from which everything else emerged; in a third version he mated with Ether to produce Oulanos who produced the primaevial egg from which came Ouranos and Gea.

–Siberian

(1) The Samoyeds say that the god Num sent out birds to investigate the primitive waters and made the earth from the mud that one of the birds brought back in its beak.

(2) In the Tartar version, the god Ulgan banished the spirit of evil, Erlik, to the land of the dead. This spirit lived on land beneath the primaevial waters and when he brought a piece of it to the surface, Ulgan caused it to float on the water and grow to form a whole continent. In some versions the disc of the earth is supported by three fishes that, in moving, cause earthquakes. Ulgan also created men and went to heaven to bring down their spirits.

(3) The Voguls say that animals and fishes were sent down from the heavens by the sky-god Numitorem.

(4) According to the Yakuts the universe has always existed with a huge tree in the middle, the branches of which shelter seven heavens. Land was created by Yryn-ai-tojon, the supreme god, rather in the way attributed to Ulgan by the Tartars.

—South American

(1) The Arawak version says that Makonaima created the world and put his son Sigu in charge of the animals. Sigu chopped down a magic tree and planted its seed throughout the land until water emerging from the trunk of the tree flooded the earth. Sigu and many animals escaped hiding in a cave.

(2) The Barasano people say that the world was created by Romi Kumu, a female shaman. She made a griddle from clay and made three mountains on which it rested. When she lit a fire under the griddle the edifice collapsed, pushing the earth down to become the underworld while other griddles became earth and sky. She then opened the Water Door and flooded the earth and all inanimate objects turned into animals. A few survived by making a canoe that landed on a mountain top.

(3) The Chaco assert that the world and the first humans were made by a beetle.

(4) The Chamacoco say that men originally lived underground. Two climbed up a rope to the surface but then a dog gnawed through the rope so that the others had to climb a tree, which reached the sky, from where they fell to earth.

Another Chamacoco story says that men lived inside a huge hollow tree until one of their number split the tree open to let them out.

(5) The Chibcha say that the first thing to exist was light. This was brought to earth in a casket called Chiminagaga (though some say that this was the name of the deity who sent the light) and distributed by birds. The goddess Chia was turned into the moon (or, some say, an owl) as punishment for causing the flood, which few humans survived.

(6) In the lore of the Mbaya there are several versions of how men came to earth: emerging from a cave somewhere in the north; coming up out of the ground when released by a dog; being hatched from eggs laid on top of a mountain.

(7) The Matado version is that there were animals on the earth and women in the sky. Some women climbed down to earth on a rope and were unable to get back because a bird pecked through the rope, so they stayed on earth, mating with the animals to produce the tribes.

(8) The Tereño say that men lived in a deep crevasse until they were discovered and released by two supernatural beings who came across them when they were hunting on earth.

—West Indian

The Taino people say that the supreme spirit, Yaya, created the world, which has passed through five eras.

In the first era, Yaya killed his son and placed his bones in the ground. When the ground was broken, water flooded out and became the oceans. In the next stage, men were created and Guahayana led his people from a cave into the upper world. In the third stage women were created and, as a result, the fourth era in which the islands were populated, became possible. The original culture was destroyed in the final era by the arrival of the white man.

Creator of the Hoe Mesopotamian
a Sumerian epic

This story relates how Enki used a hoe to expose the heads of mankind buried in the earth before Ninhursaga gave them life.

Cred Irish

[Credh]
a princess daughter of Guaire
wife of Marcan

She was married to the elderly Marcan but fell in love with Cano who gave her a stone that held his life when he returned to his home in Scotland. A planned meeting by Lake Cred was frustrated by Cred's jealous stepson, Colcu, and in her anxiety Cred dropped the stone, which shattered. Cano died a few days later.

Credhne (see Credné)

Credné<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Cre(i)d(h)ne]
a Danaan smith-god
one of the Tri De Dana brother of Goibhniu and Luchta
He was a bronze worker and helped Goibhniu and Luchta fashion the weapons of the Danaans for their battles with the Fomoiré. He also helped Dian Cecht to make the silver hand (or arm) for Nuada.

Credné<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Cre(i)d(h)ne]
a warrior-maid of the Fianna
Her father had incestuous relations with her and, after she had given birth to three sons, she fled and joined the Fianna.

Creiddylad Welsh

[Creiddylad.Creudilad.Creudylad]
a Welsh goddess of spring, daughter of Lludd or Llyr

She was promised to Gwythyr but was carried off by Gwyn. They fought a pitched battle over her until King Arthur intervened. He decreed that the two should fight for the maiden each May Day until the end of time, the final winner to have her for his wife.

In some accounts she is equated with Cordelia. Some say that her father was Llyr, others that Gwyn was her brother.

Creidh (see Cred)

Creidhne (see Credné<sup>1</sup>)

Credne (see Credné<sup>1</sup>)

Creidylad (see Creiddylad)

Creirwy Welsh

[Crearwy]
in Welsh lore, the most beautiful girl in the world

daughter of Tegid Voel and Ceridwen sister of Avagddu and Morvran

Creisus Greek

son of Temenus
brother of Archelaus, Hyrnetho and Perdiccas

His sister, Hyrnetho, had married Deiphontes and when Temenus showed that he preferred his son-in-law to his own sons, they killed him. Creisus took over the throne of Argos and sent his brothers to persuade their sister to leave Deiphontes. She refused, and when they attempted to force her she was killed. Deiphontes was made king and expelled Creisus and his brothers.

Creneids Greek

water nymphs

Creon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kreon]

a king of Corinth

son of Lycatheus or Sisyphus

father of Glauce

He fostered Amphilocus and Tisiphone, the children of Alcmaeon, and his jealous wife sold them into slavery. He purified Jason and Medea of the murder of Apsyrtus, but was killed by Medea's magic when he tried to save his daughter, Glauce.

Creon<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Kreon]

a king of Thebes

son of Menoeceus

brother of Jocasta

husband of Enioche or Eurydice

father of Haemon, Megareus,

Menoeceus and Pyrrha

Acting as regent on the death of Laius, he gave the throne to Oedipus for ridding the city of the Sphinx and then expelled Oedipus after the scandal of his marriage to his own mother, Jocasta.

He was king at the time of the action involving the Seven against Thebes and refused to allow the Argive dead to be buried. When Antigone defied the order and buried her brother Polyneices, Creon ordered Haemon to bury her alive. In some stories Antigone was so buried but in others Haemon married her instead and she bore him a son.

He was killed by Theseus following the action resulting from Creon's refusal to allow the burial of the dead.

In another version he was killed by Lycus, who took the throne until he was killed by Heracles.

Creon<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Kreon]

a king of Thebes

father of Megara

He purified Amphitryon of the murder of Electryon.

Creontidas Greek

son of Heracles and Megara

Cresil

a demon of slovenliness

Cresphontes Greek

a king of Messenia

son of Aristomachus

brother of Aristodemus and Tenemus husband of Merope

father of Aepytus

He was killed in the rebellion when Polyphontes usurped the throne.

Cressid (see Cressida)

Cressida Greek

[Chryseis.Cressid.Criseyde]

a Trojan maiden

This is the name used for Chryseis in the romance of Troilus and Cressida where, confusingly, she is described as the daughter of Calchas.

She was exchanged for a captured Trojan soldier during the siege of Troy and fell in love with the Greek warrior, Diomedes. Her grieving Trojan lover, Troilus, rushed into battle and was killed by Achilles.

In an earlier version she is Briseida, daughter of Calchas who defected to the Greeks. She was escorted to join her father by Diomedes who fell in love with her. Eventually Diomedes abandoned her and she became a prostitute, begging for a living.

Cretan Bull Greek

[Marathonian Bull]

a white bull sent by Poseidon

This animal came out of the sea to Crete in response to a plea by Minos to Poseidon asking for a sign that would confirm his right to the Cretan throne. Minos should have sacrificed the bull to the sea-god but it was so beautiful that he kept it for himself and sacrificed a lesser animal. In anger, Poseidon arranged for the bull to mate with Pasiphae, the wife of Minos, to produce the monster known as the Minotaur. The bull later roamed wild throughout Crete and caused much damage until it was captured by Heracles as his seventh Labour and brought to Greece. It was released on the mainland and caused further havoc until it was finally killed by Theseus.

In some accounts, this is the same animal as the bull, a form of Zeus, which carried off Europa.

(see also Marathonian Bull)

Crete Greek

a nymph

mother of Pasiphae by Helius

or Hermes

Cretheus Greek

king of Iolcus

son of Aeolus and Enarete

brother of Salmooneus

husband of Tyro

father of Aeson, Amythaon, Hippolyta

and Pheres

When he discovered that his wife Tyro had borne the twins Neleus and Pelias to Poseidon he abandoned her.

In other accounts he married her, adopted the twins and fathered Aeson, Amythaon and Pheres.

Another version says that Sidero was the second wife of Salmooneus and hence Tyro's stepmother.

Creucy South American

mother of Jurupari

She was impregnated by the sun, using the sap of a tree, to produce Jurupari who transferred power from the women to the men. She was killed by her own son who now still seeks a wife for his father, the sun.

Creudilad (see Creiddylad)

Creudylad (see Creiddylad)

Creus (see Crius)

Creusa<sup>1</sup> Greek

a nymph, one of the Naiads

daughter of Erectheus and Praxithea

sister of Oreithyia and Procris wife of Xuthus

mother of Achaeus and Ion by Apollo

mother of Dorus by Xuthus

In one story Creusa was carried away by Apollo who fathered a son, Ion, on her. She abandoned the child in a cave. Later, she married Xuthus but they had no children of their own and went to Delphi to ask the oracle whether they could expect any. They found that the young priest serving in the temple there was Creusa's lost son and were reunited. She was later persuaded that Ion was an illegitimate son of Xuthus and tried to poison him, but Apollo intervened to save him. Ion would then have killed Creusa but the Pythia proved that he was Creusa's son and the rift was healed.

Other accounts say that Ion was the natural son of Xuthus and Creusa.

Creusa<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Priam and Hecuba

wife of Aeneas

mother of Ascanius

She was killed as she and her family were preparing to escape from the Greeks at the fall of Troy.

Creusa<sup>3</sup> Greek

a water nymph

wife of Hypseus or Peneus

mother of Cyrene, Daphne and Stilbe

by Peneus

mother of Hypseus, some say

Creusa<sup>4</sup> (see Glauce<sup>2</sup>)

Crichinbel (see Cridhinbheal)

Crichinphel (see Cridhinbheal)

cricket<sup>1</sup> East Indian
this insect is said to conduct the dead to the underworld

cricket<sup>2</sup> Japanese a sacred insect

cricket<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands
it is said that only when crickets were brought from heaven did the sun set,
caused by their singing

Cridenbel (see Cridhinbheal)

Cridhinbheal Irish [Cridenbel.Crichinbel.Crichinphel.
Crithinbel]

a satirist

He, together with Ai, Bechuille and Lugh Laebach, defeated the sons of Carman and took their mother prisoner.

He demanded of the Dagda the three best pieces of meat from each meal. The Dagda put gold coins in the meat, which killed the satirist when he swallowed it.

criminator [explorator] the eighth order of demons, spirits of calumny, ruled by Ashtaroth

Crimmal Irish
brother of Cumail
an uncle of Finn

Crimnisus (see Crinismus)

Crimson Gown (see Chu I)

Crimthann (see Criomthann)

Crinis Greek
a priest of Apollo

When this priest neglected his duties,
Apollo sent a plague of rats to harass him. Crinis quickly saw the error of his ways and Apollo killed all the rats with his bow and arrows.

Crinisus Greek [Crimnisus]
a Trojan noble who became a river-god father of Egesta
father of Acestes by Egesta

criobolium Greek [kriobolion]
the sacrifice of a ram in honour of Attis (see also taurobolium)

criocamp Mesopotamian [kriocamp]
a monster, half fish, half ram

Criomhthann<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Crimthann.Grimthann]
brother of Mongfhinn

In one account Mongfhinn arranged for her brother to take the throne
when her husband Eochaid Muigl died. When he was away, her four sons took over and shared the kingdom between themselves. On his return his sister tried to poison him but was forced to take some of the drink herself and they both died.

Criomhthann<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Crimthann.Grimthann]
son of Lugaid Lugaighne
brother of Finnabhair

When Criomhthann's father gave the whole of Ulster to Fergus mac Leda, Congall Clairingneach, who lost his share of the province, killed Criomhthann.

Criomhthann<sup>3</sup> (see Columba)

Criomhthann Cas Irish

[Crimthann.Grimthann]
a king of Connaught
son of Cathaoir Mor
father of Laoghaire

Criomhthann mac Fiodhaigh Irish

[Crimthann.Grimthann]
a king of Munster

He fostered his young cousin, Conall Corc, who was accused of rape by the queen. The king sent him to the court of Fearadhach, the king of the Picts, with a coded message asking him to kill Conall. The message was changed by Conall's friend Gruibne, and Fearadhach not only welcomed Conall but gave him his daughter's hand in marriage.

Criomhthann Nia Nair Irish

[Crimthann.Grimthann]
a king of Ireland
son of Lugaid Rhiabhdhearg by Clothra, his own mother

He spent several weeks with Nar, a woman of the Otherworld, and returned with many treasures.

In some accounts his grandfather was also called Nar and was one of the triplet brothers of Clothra who had slept with her, fathering Lugaid Rhiabhdhearg.

He was killed when he fell from his horse.

Criomhthann Sciathbheal Irish

[Crimthann.Grimthann]
a king of Leinster

Crionna Irish

son of Conn Ceadchathach
brother of Art and Connla
In some accounts both he and Connla were killed by jealous uncles.

Crius (see Crius)

Criophorus Greek

a name given to Heracles when he carried a ram 3 times round Tanagra to avert a plague.

criosphinx Greek

[kriosphinx]

a monster in the form of a ram-headed sphinx

Cristanabyl British

a lady who gave Peredur a magic stone that protected him from the Addanc

At a tournament in her honour, Peredur was the champion and he stayed with her for fourteen years.

Crisus Greek

son of Phocus and Antiope, some say

Crithis Greek

a nymph

Crithinbel (see Cridhinbheal)

crithomancy

divination using meal strewn over victims for sacrifice

Crius Greek

[Creus.Crius.Kreos.Krios]

one of the Titans

son of Uranus and Gaea

brother of Eurybia

father of Astraeus, Pallas and Perses by his sister, Eurybia

Croagh Patrick Irish

a holy mountain in Ireland

Crocale Greek

a nymph attendant on Artemis

Crochan Irish

a maid servant of Etain Eachraidhe

crocodile

an amphibian reptile, covered with bony plates, having powerful jaws

(1) Some African tribes regard this animal as an evil spirit, some as the home of their ancestors, others as a sacred animal not to be killed.

(2) Arabs regard the crocodile as having oracular properties.

(3) In the East Indies, some tribes say that these beasts house the spirits of ancestors. The Dayaks regard crocodiles as servants of the underworld-gods, the Jata.

(4) In Egypt the crocodile personifies divine reason and is worshipped as such. Some say that it recovered the body of Osiris from the Nile.

(5) Hebrew lore regards this animal as unclean.

(6) In Indonesia they say that men can change into crocodiles by reciting the appropriate formula.

(7) In Malaya it is said that people who fall into a river can become crocodiles, which have a compartment in their stomach to store clothes: a young crocodile that ventures into the forest may become a tiger.

(8) In Mexico the crocodile was venerated and not killed.

Crocus Greek
a youth

When the nymph Smilax rejected his love, the gods changed the youth into a flower of that name.

Crodhmara Scottish in Scottish lore, fairy cows

These animals are said to yield three times as much milk as normal cows.

Croesus Greek
a king of Lydia
son of Alyattes
father of Atys

This king, said to be the richest of all men, purified Adrastus of the murder of his own brother. At his death he was saved from his funeral pyre and carried off to the land of the Hyperboreans (or to Persia) by Apollo.

Crom Cruach (see Cenn Cruiach)

Crom Dubh (see Cenn Dubh)

Crom-Eocha (see Cearas)

Cromheach Celtic [Crominheach]
a huge eagle

This bird once carried a man on its back to explore the universe. In some accounts it had the power to restore dead heroes to life.

Cromhineach (see Cromheach)

Cromm Cruach (see Cenn Cruiach)

Cromm Cruiach (see Cenn Cruiach)

Cromm Dub (see Cenn Dubh)

Crommyonian sow Greek [Crommyan Sow.Crommyum Sow. Phaea]
a huge wild sow killed by Theseus

Crommyan Sow
(see Crommyonian Sow)

Crommyum Sow
(see Crommyonian Sow)

Cronia Greek
a festival in honour of Cronus, celebrated at harvest time

Cronidae Greek
the descendants of Cronus: the Olympian gods, specifically Hades, Poseidon and Zeus

Cronchu (see Crundchu)

Cronos (see Cronus)

Cronus Greek
[C(h)ronos.Kronos.Kronus:=Canaanite Baal.El:=Roman Saturn]
an early supreme god and fertility-god,
the youngest Titan
son of Uranus and Gaea
husband of Rhea, his sister
father of Demeter, Hades, Hera, Hestia, Poseidon, Zeus
father of Chiron by Philyra, some say

Cronus was the youngest of the Titans and led the revolt of the Titans against the elder gods. He castrated his father Uranus and took over his throne. He was warned that one of his children would dethrone him so he swallowed each one as it was born. Rhea managed to save Zeus by giving Cronus a large pebble wrapped in baby clothes to swallow. He was forced to regurgitate the stone and the children, who were unharmed, when Zeus served him an emetic drink. He was killed by his son, Zeus, in the war between the Titans and the younger gods or, in another account, became the ruler of the Isles of the Blessed.

He is sometimes depicted with three pairs of wings.

(see also Chronos.Zalmoxis)

Crop-eared Dog British [Alexander]
a dog with no ears or tail but capable of speech

He was really Alexander, son of the king of India. His father had taken a second wife, Libearn, who had turned the prince and his brothers into dogs so that her own son, Knight of the Lantern, would inherit the throne. King Arthur sent Gawain with the Crop-Eared Dog to capture the Knight of the Lantern who changed the dog back to his human form. He later became king of India.

In some accounts this dog killed the queen of the Idumeans.

Croquemitaine French
an evil sprite or ugly monster

Croton Greek
an old man in southern Italy

He entertained Heracles who was en route to Mycenae with Geryon's cattle. In a fight with the bandit Lacinus, who tried to steal the cattle, Heracles accidentally killed Croton.

Crotopus Greek
a king of Argos
father of Psamathe

In some stories his daughter had a son, Linus, by Apollo, who was abandoned as a baby and eaten by the king's dogs. Some say the boy was found and reared by shepherds. When Apollo sent a plague, Crotopus realised that the god was angered by the treatment of his son and propitiated the god by ordering a dirge to be sung every year in honour of the child.

Others say that he killed Psamathe as well. In other accounts Neleus is Psamathe's father and Linus has different parents.

Crotus Greek
son of Pan and Eupheme
He is identified as the bowman in the zodiac.

crow
a large black bird

(1) In the lore of the Aborigines, this bird demonstrated the best way to die by rolling its eyes and falling on its back. (see also Wagu)

(2) British stories about Branwen, the sister of Bran, say that she could appear in the form of a crow.

(3) In China a three-legged crow is said to live in the sun and sometimes comes to earth to collect herbs. A white-winged crow is regarded as an evil omen.

(4) In Greece the crow as regarded as the bird of Apollo and Athena.

It was originally white but was changed by Apollo for bringing bad news. In some versions it is the raven that is so treated.

(5) Hindu lore regards the crow as a messenger of death.

(6) In Irish myths the war-goddess Morrigan was said to appear in the form of a crow.

(7) In Japan the crow (called karaso) is thought of as a messenger of the gods.

(8) In Malaya the crow is regarded as the soul of a tiger.

(9) In North America this bird appears in many legends of the native tribes.

(see Ga-gaah.Hoh.Kahk)
(see also sacred birds)

Crowley, Aleister British
[Great Beast.Master Theiron]
(1875-1947)

a magician and demonologist
He wrote a number of books on magic including The Great Beast and The Book of the Law, and founded Astrum Argentinum, a cult of magic and prophecy.

crown [coronal]

crowns, the symbol of sovereigns, made of various materials, appear in many mythologies

Crowns associated with particular persons or deities include:

cypress	Thanatos
fennel	Faunus
fig	Melpomene.Pan
flowers	Flora

and fruit	Pomona
jewels	Virgin Mary
grapes	Bacchus.Dionysus.Vertumnus
ivy	Bacchus.Dionysus.Thalia
mulberry and olive	Mercury
laurel	Apollo.Calliope.Clio Hygeia.Melpomene
lilies	Juno
myrtle and roses	Erato
oak leaves	Hecate.Jupiter.Zeus
olives	Athene.Zeus
palm leaves	Muses
pearls	Polyhymnia
pine twigs	Cybele.Pan
poplar leaves	Faunus
poppies	Heracles
quince blossom	Juno
rays	Apollo.Aurora
roses	Asia.Virgin Mary
stars	Thor.Uranis.Virgin Mary
sweet marjoram	Hymenaeus
thorns	Jesus
vine leaves	Bona Dea.Bacchus
	Dionysus
water lilies	Faunus.Undine
wheat ears	Demeter.Vertumnus
wool and narcissi	Fates

Crown Dancers

(see Mountain Spirit Dancers)

Crown of Brahma (see Hoo Kwan)Crown of Treasures (see Hoo Kwan)Cruachan (see Cave of Cruachan)Cruaidin Cailidcheann (see Caladin)Crudel (see Coudel)Cruithne<sup>1</sup> Celtic

a Pictish warrior

the legendary progenitor of the Picts

father of Cat, Ce, Cirech, Fiobh, Fotla,

Fortriu and Moireabh

He settled in Scotland and divided the country between his seven children.

Cruithne<sup>2</sup> Irish

wife of Finn mac Cool, in

some accounts

Cruithneachan

a monk who taught St Columba when he was a boy

Crundchu Irish

[Cronnchu.Crunden.Crunn.Crunniuc.

Crunnius]

a wealthy farmer

son of Agnoman

father of Caitle

Macha mysteriously appeared in his fortress and became his mistress. He boasted that his hero could run faster than the king's horses and was forced to prove it.

Crunden (see Crundchu)Crunn (see Crundchu)Crunchu (see Crundchu)Crunniuc (see Crundchu)Crunnius (see Crundchu)Crusher (see Miolnir)cryptaesthesia

paranormal perception: clairvoyance

Crystabell British

daughter of Prinsamour lover of Eglamour

mother of Degrabel

She fell in love with the poor knight, Eglamour, and bore his son Degrabel.

This child was stolen by a griffin but was later reunited with both his parents.

crystal Japanese

some say that the Buddha, mounted on his elephant, is visible in a crystal

crystal-gazing (see scrying)crystallomancy

divination with transparent bodies

such as crystals (see also scrying)

Crystalribs North American

the name given to Stoneribs after his many adventures

Cteatus Greek

son of Actor and Molione

twin brother of Eurytus

He and his twin, to whom he was joined at the waist, were said to have been born in a silver egg and were referred to as the Moliones. Their real father was Poseidon. They were members of the party hunting the Calydonian boar and were employed as generals by Augeias, king of Elis, when Hercules attacked his kingdom. They were later killed by Heracles who ambushed them on the way to the Isthmian Games.

cteis Greek

[kteis:=Hindu Yoni]

the female genitalia

the earth

the passive principle

Ctessipus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Heracles and Astydamia or Deianeira

brother of Glenus, Hodites, Hyllus

and Macaria

Ctessipus<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of the unwanted suitors

of Penelope

He was killed, with all the other suitors by Odysseus when Odysseus returned from his wanderings.

Cu Irish

a minor sun-god

son of Dian Cecht

brother of Cethe, Cian, Goidhniu

and Samhain

Cu Allaidh Irish

son of Diarmaid the poet

When he tried to put a curse on Berach, who had been in dispute with Cu's father over the title to the site of a monastery, he was killed by Concheanann, a friend of Berach.

Cu Choingeilt (see Muireadhach)Cu Chorb

an ancestor of the kings of Leinster

father of Cairbre Cluitheachair,

Cormnac Lusc, Meas Corb and

Nia Corb

Cu Chulainn (see Cuchulainn)Cu Culann (see Cuchulainn)Cu Rauí (see Curoi)Cu Roi mac dairi (see Curoi)Cu Rui (see Curoi)Cu Sith Scottish

in Scottish lore, a fairy dog

This animal was said to be green and as big as an ox, but was rarely seen.

Cuailnge<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Quelgny]

the Irish version of Cooley

(see Brown Bull.Daire<sup>5</sup>)Cuailnge<sup>2</sup> (see Culann)Cualenn (see Culann)Cuall Welsh

a horse of Cyfwlch

Cualnge (see Culann)Cuare Irish

son of Scatha

brother of Uathach

cuarnadero Central American

a Mexican medicine man

Cuba<sup>1</sup> Arabian

an Omani god of children

cuba<sup>2</sup> North American

a fabulous animal in Connecticut

Cuba<sup>3</sup> Roman

a guardian goddess of infants in their cots

cubomancy

divination using dice

Cuchaviva South American

a rainbow-goddess, guardian of the fields and the sick

wife of Bochica or Sua

Cuchulain (see Cuchulainn)Cubulain of Muirtbemne Irish

legends of the hero Cuchulainn, translated by Lady Augusta Gregory

Cuchulainn Irish

[Cu Chulainn.Cu Culann.Cuc(h)ulainn.

Cuchullin.Hound of Ulster.Irish

Achilles.Sedanta.Setanta]

a warrior hero of Ulster

the greatest of the 12 Champions of the Red Branch

son of Lugh and Dectera

husband of Emer

His earthly father may have been

Conor mac Nessa, Dectera's brother, who, when she became pregnant, gave her to Sualtam, but his real father was Lugh who in the form of a mayfly flew into Dectera's mouth. Dectera gave her newborn son as a gift to Ulster and he was raised by her sister, Finchoom, alongside her own son, Conal. She called the boy, who had eyes with seven pupils, hands with seven fingers and feet with seven toes, Setanta. On a visit to Culann, a wealthy smith, the six-year old Setanta killed the huge guard dog of Culann, a whelp of the Brown Mouse, with his bare hands when it attacked him and then, to mollify the angry smith-god, acted as guard dog himself until another animal could be trained. From this time on he became Cuchulainn, the Hound of Culann, instead of Setanta, and swore never to eat the flesh of a dog. At the age of seven he defeated 150 princes of Conor's court and became a member of that court.

He fell in love with Emer, daughter of Forgall, but she spurned him until he had proved himself a great warrior. Conor equipped him with a chariot and weapons and sent him to Scotland to learn the arts of war from the warrior maid, Skatha. There he learned many feats of arms from Domhnall and more from Skatha. He fought alongside her against her sister, the princess Aifa, defeated her in combat and carried her off to Skatha's camp, forcing her to make peace with Skatha. He became her lover and left her a ring to be given to any son of their union, who should be called Connla. Other versions of the story say that he also took as mistress Uathach, daughter of Skatha.

When Connla, in later years, did seek out his father, they fought, neither knowing the other's identity, and Cuchulainn killed his own son using the Gae Bolg. It was only when he saw the ring on the dead youth's finger that he realised what he had done.

Cuchulainn's first exploit after his training by Skatha was to challenge the sons of Nechtan who had often raided Ulster and killed many men. He killed Foill with a sling shot and cut off his head and, having killed the other two sons, set fire to the castle. He then drove to Emain Macha, still in the grip of blood-lust and was returned to normal by a group of naked women, led by Mughain, the queen, who plunged him into tubs of cold water until his ardour left him. Other accounts say that this event took place many years earlier, when Cuchulainn was a young boy.

He then attacked Forgall's castle, killed him and his men and carried off Emer and much treasure, including a cauldron that produced gold and silver. Forgall's sister, Scenmed, raised the alarm and pursued them but Cuchulainn defeated her forces and killed her.

One story says that Emer once eloped with Tuir Gleasta, a prince of Norway, but Cuchulainn killed him and retrieved his wife.

In another story involving women, he was searching for two magical birds for Eithne, his mistress, or, some say, for his wife Emer, when he was attacked by Fand and Li Ban and put out of action for a whole year.

In a contest with Conall Cearnach and Laoghaire, Winner of Battles, for the title of Champion of All Ulster, both Conall and Laoghaire ran from the wildcats that had been put in their room, while Cuchulainn alone faced them with his sword. They were also tested by Ercol who attacked them with witches and then fought the three of them himself, losing only to Cuchulainn. In a beheading contest with the giant Uath, all three decapitated the giant but only Cuchulainn was prepared to offer his own neck to the axe. The giant intentionally missed his stroke and declared Cuchulainn the champion before disappearing into thin air. He was really Curoi, a magician king. A similar story is told of Bricciu.

In a contest with Bricciu he cut off the lord's head but Bricciu picked up the severed head and disappeared into a lake. Next day, fully restored, he claimed his part of the wager and Cuchulainn laid his head on the block awaiting the axe. Bricciu went through the motions of striking but spared Cuchulainn's life in admiration of his bravery.

In some accounts he received from Seanbheag, a man of the Otherworld, arms that ensured victory and clothes that protected him from fire and water.

He met and fought a huge German warrior, Goll mac Carbada, who had come to demand tribute, killing him in single combat, and dealt similarly with Gharb, a fierce fighter who refused to allow others to pass through his territory.

Another story says that Cuchulainn once met the goddess Badb, who took the form of a red-cloaked woman, driving a one-horse chariot. The horse was connected to the chariot by a pole that ran all the way through its body and was retained by a peg in the animal's forehead. Cuchulainn jumped on to the chariot which immediately disappeared.

He was once required to find the three sons of Daol Dearmaid who had mysteriously disappeared. He journeyed in a magic boat to an island where Achtland, their sister, led him to the place where her brothers were held captive by Eochaid Glas. Cuchulainn killed this warrior and rescued the three brothers. He also rescued the princess Gruadh who had been carried off by a giant, killing her captor in the process.

Maev coveted Cuchulainn's spear, Cletine, and sent a bard to ask him for it, knowing that one can never refuse a poet's request. Cuchulainn threw the spear at the bard, killing him. The force of the throw broke the spear and the parts fell into a stream.

He had an affair with Blathnat, wife of King Curoi, and cut off Curoi's head. When the sea-god Manannan quarrelled with his wife Fand, she and Cuchulainn had a month-long affair but he then went back to his wife Emer. Both were given magic drinks by the druids to make them forget the incident.

In another story Dearbhfhorgaill, the daughter of a king of Norway, came to him in the form of a swan. She returned to her natural shape but Cuchulainn rejected her and gave her to Lugaid Rhiabhdearg. When she was ill-treated by a group of women, Cuchulainn overturned a building, which killed over a hundred of them. Another version of this tale says that Dearbhfhorgaill was being handed over to the Fomoiré as a tribute but was saved by Cuchulainn. Having rescued her, he rejected her love and gave her to Lugaid, in this version the son of Curoi, who was later to kill him. Hurt by this slight, Dearbhfhorgaill turned into a bird, which Cuchulainn brought down with a sling shot. He sucked her wound to heal it when she resumed her normal shape and in so doing became her blood brother.

When Maev and Ailill sent an army against Ulster to seize the Brown Bull of Cooley, all the men of Ulster were afflicted by the Debility of the Ultonians, Macha's curse, and could not rouse themselves to defend their province, so Cuchulainn had to do the job himself until they recovered. He harried the enemy, killing hundreds of soldiers, some of whom fell dead at the mere sight of him in battle-fury. Several single combat fights were arranged at a ford, all won by Cuchulainn, including one against their champion Natchrantal. Despite his efforts the raiders seized the bull and drove it back to Connaught. He was then reluctantly engaged by Ferdia who fought with him for four days, with all kinds of weapons. Cuchulainn was badly wounded but killed his old friend with the Gae Bolg or, in some versions, ran him through with his sword. When he recovered he joined the Ulstermen who had by now joined the battle and the forces of Connaught were repelled.

When, after seven years of peace, Maev renewed her assault on Ulster, Cuchulainn ignored the pleas of his mother and his wife (and, in some stories, her father Forgall who had not been killed by Cuchulainn) and went once more to battle.

He and his father Sualtam defended Ulster, but three witches, the daughters of Calatin, deprived him of the invulnerability given by the magic belt he wore and he was mortally wounded by a spear thrown by Lugaid, son of Curoi. He tied himself to a pillar and prepared to fight on but when a crow settled on his shoulder, Lugaid came in close and cut off Cuchulainn's hand. In this way, he avenged the murder of his father Curoi. The hero's blood was drunk by an otter or, some say, by a raven. As his sword fell from his hand it cut off the hand of his killer. His enemies then cut off Cuchulainn's head and carried it off with his severed hand, burying them both at Tara.

Some say that Cuchulainn was killed by a spear thrown by one of the sons of Calatin, others that the spear had been made by Calatin's sons but was thrown by Lugaid. In another version,

Morrigan was opposing Cuchulainn in the battle because he had rejected her advances and it was she who attacked him in the form of a crow.

Cuchullin (see Cuchulainn)

Cuchullin Saga (Irish)

a book of Irish legends including the exploits of Cuchulainn and the story of the Sons of Usna, etc., written by Eleanor Hill

Cuchumaquiq (Central American)

one of the 13 rulers of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba

father of Xquiq

cucubuth (see lycanthropy)

Cuculain (see Cuchulainn)

Cuculatti (Celtic)

[Hooded Ones]
protective spirits

Cucullin<sup>1</sup> (Irish)

a Scottish giant

He crossed into Ireland via the Giant's Causeway to find Finn mac Cool. The Irish hero bit off the giant's middle finger, the source of all his strength, and the giant crumbled to dust.

Cucullin<sup>2</sup> (see Cuchulainn)

Cud (see Clud)

Cudoemus (Greek)

a deity, tumult personified

Cueravaperi (Central American)

a mother-goddess of the Tarasco tribe consort of Curicaberis

Cuero (South American)

a sea monster in the form of an octopus

This giant octopus is said to have a claw on the end of each tentacle and eyes all over its large ears.

Cuichi Supar (see Cuichu)

Cuichu (South American)

[Cuihi Supar]
an Inca rainbow-god

Cuill (see Cumaill)

Cuilleann (Irish)

a magician

When Finn mac Cool dived into a lake to retrieve a bracelet dropped by Cuilleann's daughter, he was transformed into an old man. Cuilleann gave Finn a magic drink that restored his youth but left his hair grey.

Cuimhne (Irish)

a hag

She changed herself into a beautiful woman and took the place of Dubh Lacha, wife of Mongan, who had been tricked into giving his wife to Brandubh. As soon as Dubh Lacha was returned to her husband, Cuimhne resumed her former shape.

Cuirreach Life (Irish)

a warrior of Leinster
half brother of Fothach Canainne

He beheaded Badhamair, a woman seized by Finn mac Cool, and was himself killed and decapitated by the angry Finn.

Cul Dreimhne
(see Battle of Cul Dreimhne)

Culain (see Culann)

Culainn (see Culann)

Culann (Irish)

[Cua(i)Inge.Cualeann.Culain(n).Cullan.
Cullen]

the Danaan smith-god

father of Aine and Milucra

He was regarded as Manannan in mortal form.

His ferocious guard-dog was killed by the youth Setanta who acted in place of the dog until another animal could be trained, so earning the name Cuchulainn, Hound of Culann.

Culdub (Irish)

[Culdubh]

a man from the Otherworld

He seized a pig that Finn mac Cool and his men were roasting and ran off with it. Finn pursued him and killed him with a spear-cast just as he was about to enter his Otherworld dwelling.

Another version says that Finn's thumb got caught in the doorway and, by sucking his thumb, he acquired the supernatural knowledge more usually attributed to the story on the Salmon of Knowledge.

Culdubh (see Culdub)

Cule Drebene
(see Battle of Cul Dreimhne)

Culhwch (Welsh)

[Kilhw(y)ch.Kulhwch.Pig-sty]

son of Cilydd and Goleuddydd

cousin of King Arthur

He was born when his mother went mad and ran into a field full of pigs. She then ran off, leaving the child to be found by a swineherd.

When Cilydd's first wife died he took the wife of King Doged and she charged Culhwch to marry none but Olwen the daughter of the chief giant, Ysbaddaden.

He enlisted the help of his cousin, King Arthur, by reciting the names and rank of all the 200 or more guests at Camelot and the king provided him with an escort of many talented warriors.

Ysbaddaden laid down thirty-nine conditions that Culhwch must fulfil before he would consent to his daughter's marriage, knowing from an old prophecy that when she married he would die. The tasks involved, amongst other things, clearing a thicket and ploughing the land; obtaining from many widely scattered sources a huge cauldron, a drinking horn and a wine cup, a never-empty hamper, a harp that could play itself, bottles that kept liquids warm and others that kept milk fresh, the blood of a witch, the tusk of a boar, the sword of Gwrnach the giant, and huntsmen, hounds and horses to hunt down the boar Twrch Trwyth and seize the comb, razor and shears carried between the huge animal's ears.

After many adventures, in which he was helped by the band of warriors provided by Arthur, all these objectives were achieved and Culhwch claimed Olwen as his bride. Her father was killed by Goreu, fulfilling the old prophecy, and Culhwch took over his lands.

Culwch and Olwen Welsh
a story, found in the Mabinogion, of the efforts of Culhwch to meet the conditions laid down by Ysbaddaden to win the hand of his daughter, Olwen

Cullan (see Culann)

Cullen (see Culann)

Culsu Roman

[=Greek Atropos:=Roman Morta]
an Etruscan underworld-goddess
She is said to stand at the entrance to the underworld, holding a pair of scissors with which she cuts the thread of life.

Cum Hau Central American
a Mayan god of death

Cumaeon Sibyl (see Sibyl of Cumae)

Cumail Irish

[Col(l).Comhal.Cool mac Tremnor.

Cuill.Cum(h)al.Cumhail]

a giant

chief of the Clan Bascna son of Trenmor

brother of Bodhmhall and Crimnall husband of Murna

father of Finn mac Cool

In some accounts he eloped with Murna when her druid father, Tadhg mac Nuadhat, opposed their marriage. Goll was sent after the fleeing couple and killed Cumail. Murna bore his son Demna, later known as Finn.

Some say he was killed in the Battle of Knock with the Clan Morna by Goll mac Morna, while others say that he was killed by his servant, Arca Dubh, using Cumail's own sword to kill him while he slept or using a spear to kill him while he was swimming.

(see also Camulos<sup>2</sup>)

Cumaine Fada (see Cumane)

Cumaine Fota (see Cumane)

Cumal (see Cumail)

Cumane Irish

[Cumaine Fada.Cumaine Fota]

a saint

son of Fiachna

His father, king of a Munster, who fathered Cumane on his own daughter, ordered that the child be killed but he was rescued and reared by an abbot. When he became a cleric he travelled the country preaching and eventually met and was reconciled with his father.

He once went to the court of Guaire, king of Connaught to support Mac Telene's boast that Munster was superior to Connaught, which he did by sitting on an egg without breaking it.

Cumascach Irish

son of Aedh mac Ainmhireach

He demanded the right, as the son of a high-king, to sleep with the wife of Brandubh, king of Leinster, who disguised himself as a cook, locked the doors of the house and set it on fire. Glasdamh, a satirist, persuaded Brandubh to allow him to escape but then allowed Cumascach to escape in his place. One of Brandubh's men killed Cumascach as he tried to leave Leinster and the Leinstermen defeated the army subsequently brought by the high-king to avenge his son's death.

Cumbaeth (see Kimbay)

Cumhal (see Cumail)

Cumhail (see Cumail)

Cumhau (see Ah Puch)

Cunawabi North American

[=Ute Sunawavi]

a trickster deity of the Paiute

brother of Tobats

He appeared on earth soon after it was formed by the female creator-goddess and married her daughter.

Cunda Tibetan

[Candra.Cunti]

a Buddhist goddess, literature deified

an aspect of Vairocana

Cundrie<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of Lot and Sangive

Cundrie<sup>2</sup> (see Kundry)

Cunedagius British

nephew of Cordelia

father of Rivallo

He and Marganus rebelled against the queen and imprisoned her. Cordelia killed herself in her cell. The two men shared the kingdom between them but Cunedagius killed Marganus and took over the whole of Britain.

Cunedda Welsh

the progenitor of the Welsh kings husband of Gwawl in some accounts

father of Gwen

He had eight sons. The eldest, Tybion, died before they settled in Wales and his place was taken by his son, Meirion.

In some accounts he is said to be an ancestor of King Arthur.

Cuni-Cuni South American

in the lore of the Guarani, the lake in which stood the island Paititi

Cuniali

a demon

Cunina Roman

a goddess of babies

Cunlaid Irish

a war lord

He was one of those killed by Conall Cearnach to avenge the death of Cuchulainn.

Cunem beillee Australian

one of the 2 wives of Baime

Cunnie Rabbit African

a trickster deity of the Temne

This deity is envisaged as a chevrotain rather than a rabbit.

cunning man

a wizard

cunning woman

a witch

Cunobeline (see Cunobelinus)

Cunobelinus British

[Cimbeline.Cunobeline.Cymbeline.

Kimbeline.Kymbeline.Kymbelinus]

a king of Britain

son of Tenuantius

father of Arviragus and Guiderius

He is identified as Shakespeare's Cymbeline and some say he was related to King Arthur.

He was taken hostage by the Romans and raised in Rome but he was later brought back to Britain and installed as king.

Cunomor (see Cunomorus)

Cunomorus British

[Cunomor.Quonomorius]

a king of Cornwall and Brittany

He was warned that he would be killed by his own son and so he killed his wives if they became pregnant. In one case he left matters too late and his wife Trepkina produced a son, Tremour. She died but was restored to life by Gildas. When she returned to the castle the walls fell in and killed her husband.

In other versions he was killed in battle during a rebellion of his people, or when fighting on the side of Chramm. In some accounts he is equated with King Mark.

(see also Mark<sup>1</sup>)

Cunon (see Cynon)

Cunti (see Cunda)

Cunwhat North American

son of Kindawuss
brother of Soogaot

Cup of Oblivion European

a goblet

A damsel on a bridge offered travellers a drink from her goblet. The drink rendered them unconscious and robbed them of their memory. They were then imprisoned in the Castle of Oblivion.

Cup of the Eagles

(see Quauhxicalli)

Cupay South American

[Supay]

an Inca god of death

He was said to seize new-born babies.

Cupid Roman

[Amor.Cupido.'desire':plur=Cupidones:

=Greek Eros]

god of love

son of Venus by Vulcan

son of Mercury or Jupiter, some say husband of Psyche

father of Volupta

He carried off the beautiful maiden Psyche and lived with her, coming to her only at night so that she could never see him. He left her when she violated this trust but eventually they were reconciled and Psyche was deified and accepted as Cupid's wife by the other deities. This story is often told with Eros substituted for Cupid.

In some accounts he was carried on the back of a fish to escape the monster Typhon, as was Venus. The pair of them, in the heavens, are represented by the constellation Pisces.

He is depicted as a winged god, carrying a bow, who fires arrows into the hearts of those he wishes to become lovers.

Cupido (see Cupid)

Cupidones (see Cupid)

Cupra Roman

an Etruscan fertility-goddess

Cur Irish

a warrior of Connaught

son of Daly

He was one of those who fought Cuchulainn in single combat during the Cattle Raid of Cooley and was killed when Cuchulainn threw an apple with such force that it penetrated his forehead and came out through the back of his head.

Curad-mir Irish

[Hero's Portion]

the best cut from the joint, given to the champion at a feast

Curche German

a Prussian fertility-god

Curcog Irish

a daughter of Manannan

Curetana (see Cortana)

Curetes Greek

[K(o)uretes]

attendant priests of Rhea

children of Poseidon and Thalassa,

some say

They guarded the infant Zeus in Crete and drowned his cries by clashing their shields, so that Cronus would not hear him. They were killed by Zeus for stealing his son, Epaphus, fathered on Io.

In some accounts they are equated with the Corybantes.

Curi-Coyllur South American

[Joyful Star]

daughter of Pachacutic lover of Ollanta

mother of Yma Sumac

His father, ruler of the Incas, refused to countenance a marriage to Ollanta but they defied his ban and lived together. She bore a daughter, Yma Sumac, and both she and the child were imprisoned in a convent. Ollanta was captured when he led a rebellion against Yupanqui, the Inca's son who took over when his father died, but the new ruler pardoned him, freed Curi-Coyllur and her daughter and blessed their union.

Curiatii Roman

3 heroes of Alba Longa

To settle the war between Rome and Alba, the triplet brothers known as the Curiatii met a similar set of triplets, the Horatii, fighting for Rome. They were each wounded but killed two of the Horatii and the third one ran off. They followed him and were killed one at a time.

Curicaberis Central American

[Surites]

a culture hero and earth-god of the Tarasco tribe

consort of Cueravaperi

He gave his people their laws and culture.

curin Indian

the spirit of a woman who died in childbirth and was not cremated

(see also bhuta.bouga)

curis

the axis of the earth

a phallus

a rod, spear, etc. used for stirring

at creation

Curnan Irish

a prince of Connaught

He accidentally killed a man in a hurling match and was put to death by High-king Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill.

Curoi Irish

[Cu R(a)ui.Cu Roi mac Dairi]

a sun-god and god of storms

a magician

king of Munster

son of Daire

brother of Congachas

husband of Blathnat

father of Lugaid

His fortress, Teamhair Luachra, was said to revolve when Curoi chanted, and its entrance could not be found after the sun had set. In other accounts the fortress was known as Cathair Chon Roi.

In the test to decide the Champion of All Ulster, he took the form of a giant and challenged Conall Cearnach, Laoghaire Buadhach and Cuchulainn to a beheading contest. All three beheaded him but only Cuchulainn was prepared to offer his own neck to the axe, so Curoi declared him the champion.

When Cuchulainn made a raid on the Otherworld, Curoi helped him for a share of the booty but Cuchulainn failed to keep his promise, so Curoi took all of it, including the maiden Blathnat, whom he married. He became an enemy of Cuchulainn and fought on the side of Maev and Ailill in the war between Connaught and Ulster.

His soul was concealed in an apple carried in the stomach of a salmon. Blathnat revealed the secret to Cuchulainn, who had become her lover, and he caught the salmon and retrieved the apple. Blathnat tied her husband to the bed posts by his hair and Cuchulainn cut the apple in half with Curoi's sword, which weakened the king. Cuchulainn then cut off the king's head. (see also Uath)

Curotrophus Greek
a name for Athena as 'protector of children'

Curselaine British
a Knight of the Round Table

He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravain and Mordred to trap Lancelot and Guinevere. All of them, except Mordred, were killed by Lancelot.

Curson

[Purson]
a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to know the past, the present and the future and is depicted with the face of a lion, riding astride a bear and holding a snake.

Curtana (see Cortana)

Curtius<sup>1</sup> Roman

[Marcus Curtius]
a Roman hero

An oracle had foretold his fate and when a chasm opened up in Rome, he jumped into it, fully armed and on horseback, to save his country.

Curtius<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Mettius Curtius]
a Sabine hero

In the war between Rome and the Sabines, he had some success in driving the Romans back but, fleeing from a counter-attack led by Romulus, his horse plunged into a pool and he barely managed to escape.

Curupira South American

[Korupira]

a demon in the lore of Brazil

This being is said to be the protector of animals and walks with upturned feet.

Curve of the Whale Tooth Pacific Islands

a famous warrior of Flight of the Chiefs

Cusco Huanca South American

one of the 4 sons of Inti, in some accounts (see Children of the Sun)

Cuscraidh Irish

[Cuscríd]

an Ulster warrior

son of Conor mac Nessa

He had a stammer as the result of a fight with Cet who wounded him in the throat. He was killed by Mac Eacht in one of the battles between Connaught and Ulster.

Cuscríd (see Cuscraidh)

Cusion

a demon

Custennin<sup>1</sup> Welsh

[Kusten(n)in.Kustenhin.Mustennin.

Wild Herdsman:=British Constantine]

a giant shepherd, in Welsh lore

son of Anlawdd, some say brother of Ysbaddaden

father of Erbin, Goreu and Igraine

It was said that he could burn a tree merely by breathing on it. He had been deprived of his rightful inheritance by his brother and worked as a shepherd. All of his twenty-four sons, except Goreu, had been killed by Ysbaddaden and he was therefore willing to help Culhwch in his quest to marry Olwen, which would result in the death of Ysbaddaden. His wife was an aunt of Culhwch.

Custennin<sup>2</sup> Welsh

[Kusten(n)in.Kustenhin]

the Welsh form of Constantine

Cut-nose North American

in the lore of the Arikara, the first human to emerge from the Cottonwood tree (see Buffalo<sup>4</sup>)

Cutchi (see Kottchi)

Cutha (see Cuthah)

Cuthah Mesopotamian

[Cutha:=Sumerian Kur]

the Akkadian underworld

cuti-citta Buddhist

death-consciousness: the last minutes of one's life

Cuwaert European

the name for Coart in Dutch versions of Reynard the Fox

Cwn Annwfn (see Hounds of Hell)

Cwm Mamau (see Hounds of Hell)

Cyane<sup>1</sup> Greek

a water nymph of Sicily

She witnessed the abduction of Core by Hades and tried to prevent it but failed. Grieving, she wasted away and was unable to tell Demeter, when she came looking for her daughter, what she had seen and heard. Demeter spotted Core's girdle floating in the pool and deduced the rest.

In another version, Cyane was a river which rose in fury to try to prevent the abduction.

(see also Arethusa)

Cyane<sup>2</sup> Greek

a nymph

daughter of Liparus

wife of Aeolus, some say

Cyanea Greek

wife of Miletus

mother of Byblis and Caunus

Cyanean Rocks

(see Planctae.Symplegades)

Cyanippus<sup>1</sup> Greek

one of the Epigoni

son of Adrastus and Ampithea

brother of Argia, Argialia, Aegialius

and Deipyla

Cyanippus<sup>2</sup> Greek

king of Argos

son of Aegialius

cynocephalus

a monster in the form of a dog-headed man

Cythus (see Eunomus)

Cyavana (see Chyavana)

Cybebe (see Cybele)

Cybele Phrygian

[Cybebe.Cybelle.Great Mother.

Kubele.Kybebe.Kybele. Lion-and-bee

Goddess.Meter Dindymene.White

Goddess:=Gaulish Berecynthia:=Greek

Demeter.Idaea. Idaean Mother.Rhea:

=Roman Bona Dea.Ceres. Magna

Mater.Maia.Mater Turrita.Ops:

=Sumerian Inanna:=Syrian Kubaba]

a Phrygian mother-goddess

an earth-goddess

Originally, she was said to be hermaphrodite (Agdistis), a being born from the earth where the sperm of Zeus fell. The gods castrated this being, which became the goddess Cybele, while the severed members grew into an almond tree, the fruit of which impregnated Nana to produce Attis. The boy was abandoned but saved by shepherds and grew up to become Cybele's lover. When Attis fell in love with a nymph, Sagaritis, Cybele drove him mad so that he castrated himself and died.

The Greeks say she was raped by Zeus and bore Agdistis.

In another version she was the daughter of Meion, king of Phrygia, and Dindymene, abandoned and suckled by leopards. In this version Meion killed Attis and the baby he had fathered on Cybele but Cybele restored Attis to life.

Others say that she married Iasion and bore a son, Corybas, while others say that she was the mother of Midas by Gordius.

Her cult was brought back to Greece by the men returning from the Trojan War and was later adopted by the Romans who instituted a festival in her honour at which self-castration took place. Later rites included bathing in the blood of sacrificed animals, the taurobolium. She is said to have intervened when

Aeneas was attacked by Turnus and prevented him from setting fire to the Trojan fleet by causing the ships to turn into nymphs. (see also Agdistis)

Cybele Magna Mater Roman
the goddess Cybele as 'great mother' in the Roman pantheon

Cybele (see Cybele)

Cychreus Greek
a king of Salamis
father of Glauce

Cyclopes (see Cyclops)

Cyclops<sup>1</sup> Greek [Kyklops. 'round-faced'. 'wheel-eyed':
plur=Cyclopes.Kyklopes]
a one-eyed giant offspring of Uranus and Gaea or of Poseidon and Amphitrite

The Cyclopes rebelled against Uranus and were banished to Tartarus but were released by Cronus when he overthrew Uranus. Cronus locked them up in Tartarus once again but Zeus freed them to help him in his battle with the older gods.

They provided Zeus with his favourite weapon, the thunderbolt, Hades with his helmet of invisibility and Poseidon with his trident, and they made a silver bow for Artemis. Other groups of Cyclopes built the walls of Tiryns and Mycenae. Working for their living they were called encheirogastes.

The first three Cyclopes, Arges, Brontes and Steropes, were killed by Apollo to avenge the killing of Asclepius and their spirits inhabit Etna.

Cyclops<sup>2</sup> Greek
in some accounts, a king of Thrace, ruler of the race of Cyclops

Cyclops<sup>3</sup> Greek
a play by Euripides

Cygnus<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Cygnus.Kuknos.Kyknos.Phaethon's Bird]
a musician king of Liguria
son of Sthelenus

He was a lover of Phaeton and, grieving at his death, was turned into a swan by Apollo.

Cygnus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Cygnus.Kuknos.Kyknos]
son of Apollo and Hyrie

When he was deserted by his lover Phyllius, he threw himself off a cliff. His mother then drowned herself in a lake. He was turned into a swan as also, in some accounts, was his mother.

Cygnus<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Cygnus.Kuknos.Kyknos]
son of Ares and Pelopia

He challenged allcomers to a chariot duel, cutting off the heads of the losers and using the skulls to build a temple to Ares. When he challenged Heracles he was defeated and killed.

Cygnus<sup>4</sup> Greek
[Cygnus.Kuknos.Kyknos]
king of Colonae
son of Poseidon and Calyce husband of Phylonome and Procleia father of Hemitheia and Tenes
by Procleia

His second wife, Phylonome, accused her stepson, Tenes, who was really the son of Apollo, of improper advances so Cygnus cast both him and his sister adrift in a chest. Cygnus killed his wife when he discovered that she had lied to him, and also Eumolpus who had supported her false testimony, and went to Tenedos where Tenes had landed and was now king. In some stories, Tenes cut the ropes of his father's boat when he tried to moor; in others they were reconciled and fought together at Troy where they were both killed by Achilles. Cygnus was choked to death as he could not be wounded by weapons. His father turned him into a swan.

Cydippe<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Kudippe]
a priestess of Hera
mother of Biton and Cleobis

Her two sons yoked themselves to a cart and pulled it all the way to Argos so that she might see the statue of Hera. As a reward, Hera gave the sons the gift of perfect rest – they were transported to the Elysian Fields.

Cydippe<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Kudippe]
wife of Acontius

She read aloud the undertaking to marry Acontius, which he had inscribed on an apple (or a quince) and was held to have given her promise.

Cyfwlch British
a Welsh warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Cilydd Cyfwlch brother of Bwlch and Syfwlch husband of Drwgddyddwg
father of Neued

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get the help of Cyfwlch, with his horse Cruall and hound Glesig, in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Cygnus (see Cygnus)
Cyhiraeth Welsh
a goddess of streams

Later she was demoted to the level of a spirit living near streams whose cries foretold impending death.

(see also Cyhyreath)
Cyhyreath Welsh

[=Scottish Caoineag]
the Welsh version of the Irish banshee (see also Cyhiraeth)

Cylarabes Greek
a king of Argos
son of Sthenelus

Cyleddon British [Kyleddon]
father of Cilydd grandfather of Culhwch

Cyledyr British
son of Nwython

In Welsh lore, he was one of those involved in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth and seized the shears from between the boar's ears when it was cornered in the Severn.

When Gwyn killed Nwython, he forced Cyledyr to eat his father's heart, as a result of which Cyledyr was driven mad.

Cyrell Llaufrodedd British
a knife

This druidic sacrificial knife was one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

Cyllaros Greek
a horse of Castor or Polydeuces

Cyllen<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Elatus and Laodice
brother of Aepytus, Pereus
and Stymphalus

Cyllen<sup>2</sup> (see Cyllenius)

Cyllene<sup>1</sup> Greek
a nymph
wife of Pelasgus

Cyllene<sup>2</sup> (see Mount Cyllene)

Cyllenius Greek
[Cyllen]

a name for Hermes taken from his birthplace, Mount Cyllene

Cylo Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Cylo, tore him to pieces.

Cyloptes Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Cyloptes, tore him to pieces.

Cymbeline (see Cunobelinus)

Cymen Saxon
son of Aelle
brother of Cissa and Wlencing

- Cymidei Cymeinfoll British [Kymidei.Kymideu Kymeinvoll] wife of Llasar Llaes Gyfnwid, in Welsh lore
They owned a magic cauldron that restored to life, but without the power of speech, warriors killed in battle. In Ireland, Cymidei gave birth every six weeks, each time producing a warrior armed ready for battle. Matholwch tried to kill them but they escaped to Britain. They gave the cauldron to Bran, in return for shelter, and Bran later gave it to Matholwch as compensation when Efnisien maimed many of his horses.
- Cymochles British
a very strong man in The Faerie Queene
- Cymodoce Greek
a nymph, one of the Nereids
- Cymopoleia Greek
wife of the giant Briaraeus
- Cymon (see Cynon)
- Cymon and Iphigenia English
a poem by Dryden
- Cynan<sup>1</sup> Welsh
father of Cynlas
- Cynan<sup>2</sup> Welsh
son of Eudaf
brother of Elen and Gadeon
In Welsh lore, he and Gadeon helped Elen when her husband Macsen recaptured Rome, and were given the land of Armorica where they established the Breton race.
(see also Conan Meriadoc)
- Cynan<sup>3</sup> Welsh
[Cynan Whiteshank]
a chief of Powys, Wales
father of Selyf
- Cynan Whiteshank (see Cynan<sup>3</sup>)
- cynanthropist (see lycanthrope)
- cynanthropy
the ability to turn oneself into a dog (see also lycanthropy)
- Cynddelig British [Cynddylig.Kynddelig.Kynddylig]
a guide at King Arthur's court
He was one of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.
- Cynddylig (see Cynddelig)
- Cynedyr British [Kynedyr]
a Welsh huntsman
son of Hetwn the Leper Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get the help of Cynedyr in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth. Only he could manage the hounds Aethlem and Aned.
- Cynfarch British [Cynvarch.Kynfarch.Kynvarch]
husband of Nefyn
father of Urien
- Cyngen (see Concenn)
- Cynisca Greek
wife of Pygmalion
In some accounts she was the wife of Pygmalion, who became jealous of Galatea, the woman Pygmalion had carved from marble. In this version Galatea returned to her former state as a block of marble.
- Cynlas British
a warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Cynan
He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.
- cynocephali
a mythical race of dog-headed humans said to live in India
- Cynon British [Cunon.Cymon.Kymon.Kynon]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Clydno Seeking adventure, he was entertained by twenty-four maidens at a castle and warned to look out for a black man with power over animals.
This man directed him to a fountain where he jousting with a knight garbed all in black, the Knight of the Fountain, and was unhorsed but lived to tell the tale.
In some versions the story of the Knight of the Fountain was told by Colgrevaunce.
- Cynosura Greek
one of the nymphs who nursed the infant Zeus
- Cynric British
son of Cerdic
- Cynthia Greek
a name of Artemis, referring to Mount Cynthus where she was born
- Cynthus Greek
a name of Apollo, referring to Mount Cynthus where he was born
- Cynvarch (see Cynfarch)
- Cynwrig Frychgoch Welsh
a soldier of Madawg
He was with Rhonabwy at the cottage
of Heilyn Goch.
- Cynwyl British [Cynwyl the Saint]
He was the owner of the horse
Hengroen and was one of three (or seven) to escape from the Battle of Camlan.
- Cyon British
one of the Twenty-Four Knights of King Arthur's court
- Cyparissus Greek [Kyparissos]
a youth loved by Apollo son of Telephus
When he accidentally killed Apollo's pet stag the young hunter died of grief.
Apollo changed him into a cypress tree. In another version he was so changed when he was fleeing to escape Apollo or Zephyr.
- cypress Greek
the tree of Pluto
- Cypria Greek
one of the poems in the Epic Cycle dealing with the story of Troy
- Cyprian (see Aphrodite.Paphian)
- Cypris Greek
[Kypriis] an epithet for Aphrodite, relating to Cyprus, her place of birth
- Cyprius Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon
watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Cyprius, tore him to pieces.
- Cypselus<sup>1</sup> Greek
a tyrant of Corinth
father of Periander
An oracle had foretold that he would be killed by the former rulers, the Bacchiadae, but he survived by hiding himself in a jar or chest.
- Cypselus<sup>2</sup> Greek
a king of Arcadia
father of Merope
He raised Aepytus, son of his daughter
Merope and her husband Cresphontes.
Polyphontes killed Cresphontes and took over the throne of Messenia.
When Aepytus grew up, Cypselus helped him to recover his father's kingdom.
- Cyranides Greek
a 4-volume work on the magical properties of various plants, stones,
etc.
- Cyrene<sup>1</sup> Greek
a water nymph
daughter of Hypseus by Creusa daughter of Peneus by Creusa,
some say
sister of Astyagia and Themisto mother of Aristaeus and Idmon
by Apollo
Apollo saw her fighting a lion bare-handed and carried her off to Africa where he fathered Aristaeus and Idmon on her.
Another story says that Eurypylus, king of Libya, offered his kingdom to anyone who would rid his country from the ravages of a lion. Cyrene killed the lion and founded the city named after her.

Cyrene<sup>2</sup> Greek
daughter of Oceanus and Tethys sister of Diana mother of Diomedes by Ares

Cyrus Persian
a king of Media

It was prophesied that his grandfather, Astyages, would die at the hand of a descendant, a prophecy which was fulfilled when Cyrus accidentally killed Astyages.

Cytherea (see Aphrodite)

Cytisorus Greek [Cytissorus]
son of Phrixus and Chalciope
brother of Argeus, Melanion, Phrontis

He and his three brothers were saved from the sea by the Argonauts after their own ship was wrecked.

Cytissorus (see Cytisorus)

Cywyllog British
daughter of Caw sister of Gildas and Hueil wife of Mordred

In some accounts she founded a church and became a nun when her husband was killed by King Arthur.

Cyzican games Greek games held annually to commemorate

Cyzicus who was inadvertently killed by the Argonauts

Cyzicus Greek
son of Aeneus and Aenete
king of the Doliones
husband of Cleite

He entertained the Argonauts en route to Colchis. When their ship was driven off course and they landed at night in another part of his kingdom, they were mistaken for pirates and attacked. In the battle he was killed and his wife, Cleite, went mad with grief and hanged herself.

Czarnobog (see Chernobog)

Czernibog (see Chernobog)

D

D Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity,
referred to as god D: perhaps Itzamna or Kukulcan

This deity is depicted as an old man and, in some cases, has a snail on his head. He is regarded as a moon god.

Da' Tibetan

[Dab-hla]
a guardian god

This deity sits on one's right shoulder and protects one from enemies.

He is envisaged as clad in golden armour, riding a white horse and holding a spear. From the deity's own shoulders spring a lion and a tiger. His constant companions are said to be a man-monkey, a black bear and a dog.

Da<sup>2</sup> (see Dan Ayido Hwedo)

Da Aido-Hwedo (see Dan Ayido Hwedo)

Da Bog (see Dabog)

da-cha Tibetan

[dar-lch'og]
a prayer flag used as a charm

These paper flags come in four varieties. The smallest, the lung-rta, bears the figure of a horse and is hung on the roof of the house; the cho-pen is long and narrow, bears text only and is planted on hill tops; the gyal-ksan dsemo bears text and the Eight Glorious Symbols and is said to bring power and wealth; the ghan-po stob-gyas are the largest and are fixed to the wall of the house as a charm to drive away demons or to cure sadness.

Da-chen-dsin (see sGra-dan-dsin)

Da Chich nAnnan Irish

[Paps of Anu]

a pair of breast-shaped hills in Kerry

They are said to be the home of the Danaans.

Da Choga (see Da Coga)

Da Coga Irish

[Da Choga]

owner of a hostel

It was at this hostel that Cormac Cond Longes was trapped by the forces of Connaught and killed by either Cet or Corb Gaillne.

Da Deara Irish

a jester at the court of Lugaid mac Con
When Lugaid was defeated at the Battle of Ceann Abhradh by the forces of Eoghan, Da Deara took the place of his master, whose double he was, and was killed.

Da Dearg (see Da Derga)

Da Derg (see Da Derga)

Da Derga Irish

[(Da) De(a)rg]

a lord of Leinster

Da Derga's Hostel Irish

the building where Conary Mor was besieged by his enemies and killed

Da-jo-ji North American

[Dajoji.Panther]

the west wind, in the lore of the Iroquois (see Ga-oh)

Da-lha (see dGra-lha)

Da-Meter (see Demeter.Ge Metre)

Da Tho Irish

father of Mac Da Tho

Daain (see Dain)

Daath (see Eloah Va-Daath)

Dab-hla (see Da<sup>1</sup>)

Dabage Pacific Islands

in the lore of Nauru Island, a tortoise

It is said that the spider deity, Areop-It-Eonin, was born from a boil on Dabage's body.

Dabiaba South American

a Colombian water-goddess

Dabieciba South American

a Colombian earth-goddess

Dabog Slav

[Da-Bog.Dadzbog.Dajdbog.Daybog.

Dazhbog.Giving god.(Xursu) Dazibogu:

=Russian Dazbog]

a sun god and god of justice

son of Svarog

brother of Svarozic

husband of Myesyats

father of 2 daughters, the Zorya

He rode across the sky every day in a chariot drawn by twelve white horses or three made of precious metals.

Some say that he was the progenitor of the Russian people.

Dabriol

an angel associated with the south and Monday

Dache

tree spirits of Ethiopia

African

Dactyli (see Dactyls)

Dactyls Greek

[Dactyli.Fingers of Ida.Idaeon Dactyls] beings created by Anchiale or Rhea as servants
for Cronus

In some accounts there were three (Acmon, Celmis and Damnameneus), in others there were five – Epimedes, Heracles, Idas, Jasius and Paeonius – said to have developed the art of ironwork. Others say that there were six males and five females; or thirty-two who cast spells and twenty who removed them; or a hundred.

Some say that they were created by Anchiale by grasping a handful of soil; others say that they appeared when Rhea dug her fingers into the earth. They lived below ground, mining precious metals, and are credited with the invention of poetic measures such as the dactyl.

In some accounts they are equated with the Curetes, in others they derive their title from Mount Ida or from Ida, their mother.

Some say that these devotees of Cybele were three in number – Acmon, Celenis and Damnameneus – and were the servants or sons of Adastrea.

dactylomancy

divination using finger rings

Dad (see Ded.Hadad)

Dada Zodji African

a deity in Dahomey, ruler of the earth
twin brother of Nyauhwe Ananu father of Suvinenge

Dadda (see Adad.Hadad)

Daddu (see Ded)

Dadhica Hindu

[Dadhyanh(a)]
a seer

son of Atharvan

He was taught much divine knowledge by Indra who made him promise never to reveal it. He nevertheless passed on the knowledge to the Aswins who, to foil Indra's threat of decapitation, cut off Dadhica's head and put a horse's head in its place. When the enraged god cut off the horse's head, the Aswins replaced the original.

Some say that his bones were used to make Indra's thunderbolt, the vajra.

Dadhikra Hindu

[Etasa.Tarksya]
a flying horse

In some accounts Dadhikra is described as a swan.

Dadhyanh (see Dadhica)

Dadhyanha (see Dadhica)

Dadimunda Buddhist

[Devata Bandara]
a god in Ceylon, attendant on Upulvan

Dadophori Persian

in Mithraism, the twins life and death

These divinities are depicted as a bull and a scorpion.

Dadu (see Adad.Hadad)

Dadzbog (see Dabog)

Daedala Greek

[Daidala]
a festival in honour of Hera

The festival involves a fire ceremony and a sacred marriage between Zeus and his bride.

Daedalion Greek

son of Phosphorus brother of Ceyx
father of Chione

When his daughter was killed by Artemis for her temerity in comparing her own beauty with that of the goddess, Daedalion threw himself from Mount Parnassus in his grief.
Apollo transformed him into a falcon.

Daedalus Greek

son of Eupalamus or Metion by Alcippe, Merope or Iphinoe
father of Icarus

An architect and master craftsman, he was banished from Athens for the murder of Talos, his gifted apprentice and the son of his sister Polycaste.

In Crete he constructed the model cow in which Pasiphae, the wife of Minos, was concealed when she mated with the white bull to produce the Minotaur. He then built the Labyrinth, the maze in which this monstrous creation was housed, and made magic thread, which he gave to Ariadne and which later made it possible for Theseus to find his way out of the maze after he had killed the Minotaur. Daedalus was locked up in this labyrinth by Minos for helping Pasiphae, but she helped him to escape with his son Icarus. They flew off on wings made by Daedalus from feathers and wax but Icarus, with the foolhardiness of youth, flew too near the sun, melting the wax in his wings.
When he fell into the sea and drowned it was Daedalus who retrieved the body. (In another version, Pasiphae released them and they left Crete in a boat using the sail that Daedalus had invented.)

He then flew on to Sicily where he was welcomed by the king, Cocalus.
When Minos came in search of him,
he recognised Daedalus when he solved the problem set by Minos, of passing a thread through a triton shell
by tempting an ant through the coils of the shell with honey. He killed Minos with scalding water when he was in the bath.

He is regarded as the inventor of the auger, the axe and the saw, and masts, sails and yards for ships.

Daedalia Greek

the various works of Daedalus

Daedalids Greek

the followers of Daedalus

Daeira (see Aphrodite)

Dael Duiled Irish

the chief bard of Ulster

daemon

a good spirit intermediate between man and god: a demon

(see also daimon.demon)

daemonomancy (see demonomancy)

Daena (see Dena)

Daenn Norse

one of the dwarfs

daerechlan Cambodian

spirits of the dead that have been reborn as animals or giants

daeva (see div)

Dag<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Dagh.'day']
god of daylight
son of Dellinger and Nott

Dag<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Dagh.'day']
one of the Hundingss
son of Hogni and brother of Sigrun,
some say

When Helgi and Sinfotli led an army to settle the feud between the Volsungss and the Hundingss, only Dag survived the battle. Having promised to end the feud, he treacherously threw Odin's spear, Gungnir, and killed Helgi.

Dag-she (see Drag-gshed)

dagaba (see stupa)

Dagan<sup>1</sup> Afghan

[Dagon.Deogan.Doghan]
the supreme god of the Kafir

Dagan<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[Dagon.Daguna.Oannes.Odacon]
a Babylonian fertility god consort of Salas, some say father of Baal

He is said to have invented the plough.

In some accounts he is equated with
Ea or envisaged as a fish.

Dagan<sup>3</sup> Phoenician

[Baal-Dagon. 'corn-lord'. Dagon. Daguna. Siton]

a corn god or fish god father of Ben Dagon

Dagan<sup>4</sup>

[Dagon]

a demon regarded as the baker of hell

Dagare

a deity invoked in white magic

Dagda

[Dagde. Daygide]

a wax figure used in the casting of spells

Dagda, The Irish

[Aed(h). Dagd(a)e Daire. Daghd(h)a. Daygide.

Draidecht. Dugal the Brown. (Eochaid)

Ollathair. Great Father. Great God.

Mighty One. Ruad Rof(h)essa. Ruadh

Ro-Fheasa. Ros Ruadh: =Gaulish Sucellos]

god of life and death, the 'good god'

chief of the Tuatha De Danann son of Eladu and Dana brother of Medar

brother of Lugh and Ogma, some say

father of Angus, Bodb, Brigit, Deara,

Mider and Ogma

His family connections are confused: in some versions Brigit is his mother, in others his wife; others say she was one of his three daughters, all of the same name. Where his wife is not Brigit she is a woman with three names, Breng, Meabel and Meng. Some versions have Boann as his wife but she is more often the wife of Elcmar – seduced by Dagda to produce Angus – or of Nechtan. In some versions Bodb Dearg is also a son by Boann. Some say Morrigan was his consort, some say that he seduced her to enlist her help in the battle to come, the second Battle of Moytura.

He owned a magical cauldron known as Undry, which was always full and used to satisfy his enormous appetite and which was also capable of restoring the dead to life. He owned a huge club that could kill nine men at one blow, but he could restore them to life with a touch of the other end of the weapon.

When the Fomoiré stole his harp he went to their hall and demanded its return. The harp flew from the wall where it had been hung, killed those who stole it and put the others to sleep with its music.

When the Danaans were defeated by the Milesians and went to live underground as fairies, Dagda handed over the leadership to his son, Bodb Dearg.

Dagdae Daire (see Dagda)

Dagde (see Dagda)

Daghda (see Dagda)

Daghdha (see Dagda)

dagoba (see stupa)

Dagon<sup>1</sup>

a demon said to take possession
of humans

Dagon<sup>2</sup> (see Dagan)

Dagonet British

[Daguenet]

a jester at King Arthur's court,

knighted by the king

In black magic he is a steward of the Royal Household.

Dagowe (see Dangbe)

Dagubal Australian

son of Wolaro

Dagué-Lissa West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from the African god Lissa

Daguenet (see Dagonet)

Dagun Afghan

a Kafir god

Daguna (see Dagan<sup>2,3</sup>)

dah-dar Tibetan

a divining arrow used by sorcerers

Dahak (see Azhi Dahak)

Dahaki (see Azhi Dahak)

Dahhak (see Azhi Dahak)

Daho European

a deity in the Pyrenees

In some accounts he was a war god.

Dahomain West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Dahut (see Ahes. Morgan<sup>3</sup>)

Dai Bosatsu (see Daibosatsu)

Dai Dalos Greek

a maker of wooden statues

It was said that the statues he made could walk and see.

Dai-guju Japanese

a special type of Shinto high priest

Dai-itoku Japanese

[Goemmason: =Buddhist Yamantaka]

a terrible manifestation of Amida or Monju

In this form the god has six heads, arms and legs and is depicted astride an ox surrounded by flames.

Daibenzaiten Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhacahi-Bushu

Daibonten Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhacahi-Bushu

Daibosatsu Japanese

[Dai Bosatsu]

a god of war

He was the Shinto god Hachiman, assimilated to the Buddhist pantheon.

Daibu African

father of Dama Hgile

Daibutsu Japanese

a huge statue of the Buddha

Daidala (see Daedala)

Daiera Greek

[Wise One of the Sea]

daughter of Oceanus

mother of Eleusis

She produced Eleusis either by virgin birth or by mating with Ogyges or Hermes. Some accounts equate her with Aphrodite or Calypso.

Daigh mac Cairill Irish

a monk

foster father of Berach

Daikoku Japanese

[Bika Daikoku. Daikoku Tea. Daikokusana.

Mahaka Daikoku. Makura Daikoku. Ojikara

Daikoku. Shinda Daikoku. Ta-no-kami.

Yasha Daikoku: =Hindu Mahakala. Shiva]

a Shinto god of farmers and wealth

one of the 7 Shichi Fukujin

father of Ebisu

He became so popular that the other gods plotted to get rid of him and sent the cunning Shiro, an oni, to deal with him. Shiro found Daikoku in a storehouse, but the god's faithful rat seized a bough of holly and drove Shiro away.

He carries a hammer from which, it is said, money falls out when he shakes it. As a god of agriculture he is merged with Ta-No-Kami.

He is depicted as a dark-skinned fat man sitting on two bales of rice or standing on the bales holding the Red Sun and his mallet.

In some accounts he is identified with Okuni-nushi or Ta-no-kami.

Daikoku Tea (see Daikoku)

Daikokusana

(see Daikoku. Okuninushi)

Daimoku Japanese

[Lotus Sutra: =Buddhist Saddharma-

pundarika]

the Japanese version of a book of parables attributed to the Buddha

daimon Greek

[plur=daimones: =Roman genius]

a guardian spirit: a god: supernatural power (see also daemon. demon)

daimones (see daimon)

daimonia

pagan idols or evil beasts

Dain<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Daain. Dainn]

one of the 4 stags of the gods

These animals grazed on the tree Yggdrasil and produced water for the rivers and honeydew for the earth.

Dain<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Daain.Dainn]
a rune maker
one of the dwarfs

Dainichi Japanese

[Birushana.Mahavairoc(h)ana:=Buddhist Vairocana: =Hindu Brahma]
the god of the True Word Buddhists
one of the 5 Dhyani Buddhas
one of the 5 Dhyani bodhisattvas, in
some accounts

He invests the whole of the universe. All other deities and demons are but manifestations of this being.

In some accounts he is equated with Fudo-myoo.

Dainn (see Dain)

Dainslef Norse

Hogni's sword, made by the dwarfs

Daire<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Dara]
father of Curoi and Lugaid Laighde
In some versions this is another name for Curoi.

Daire<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Dara]
in some accounts a name for the Dagda

Daire<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Dara]
son of Ailill and Maev

He was one of seven sons all known as Maine.

Daire<sup>4</sup> Irish

[Dara]
a king of the Picts
father of Ailleann by Rathlea

Daire<sup>5</sup> Irish

[Cuailnge.Dara]
king of Ulster
son of Fachtna

He was the owner of the Brown Bull of Cooley.

Daire Dearg Irish

[Dara Dearg]
a son of Finn mac Cool

In some accounts he was swallowed by a monster but escaped by cutting open its stomach.

Daire Donn Irish

[Dara Donn.King of the World]
father of Conmhaol and Mis

He led an invasion fleet that landed at Ventry and was defeated by the Fianna at the Battle of Fionn's Strand. He was killed and decapitated by Finn mac Cool. (see also Battle of Fionn's Strand.Sinsar)

Daire Greine Irish

the oak grove of the sun

Daire mac Deadhe Irish

[Dara mac Deadhe]
father of Fingel

It was prophesied that he would die if his daughter bore a son and, in due course, the prophecy came true.

Daireann Irish

daughter of Bodb Dearg
sister of Saba

She fell in love with Finn and when he rejected her she drove him mad with a magic potion.

Dairne Irish

daughter of Tuathal

When Eochaid, king of Leinster, caused the death of Dairne and her sister Fithir, both of whom he had married, their father, the high-king, killed Eochaid and exacted a tribute of cattle.

Daiseishi Japanese

a minor deity, companion of Amida

Daisho Kwangiden (see Shoten)

Daisho Kwangiten (see Shoten)

Daithi Irish

[Fearadhach.Nath I]
a king of Connaught
son of Fiachra
father of Ailill Molt

His father went to war with his own brother, Brian, for supremacy in Connaught, and was defeated at the Battle of Damhchluain where he was captured. In some accounts Daithi rallied his father's army and defeated Brian in a second battle. When Conall Gulban led an army against Ulster, Diathi fought alongside him and when Conall later subdued Connaught, he installed Daithi as king of that province.

It was said that he led many expeditions of conquest overseas, including the defeat of Fearadhach Fionn, king of Scotland, and finally met his death in Switzerland where, as punishment for demolishing a tower built by Formenus of Thrace, he was struck by a thunderbolt.

Daitlenn Irish

one of the dogs of Mael Fothartaig

This dog, and another called Doilin, accompanied Mael when he went to Scotland to avoid his new step-mother, Ethne.

Daityas Hindu

giants
sons of Kasyapa or Rudra and Diti

The Daityas were Titans who fought with the gods but were defeated and banished to the underworld, Patala, by the god Indra.

Some accounts describe them as ocean demons.

(see also Adityas.Asuras.Danavas)

daiva<sup>1</sup> Hindu

fate, the result of one's deeds in life

daiva<sup>2</sup> (see deva<sup>3</sup>)

daivi prakriti Hindu

[=Chinese fohat]
primordial light: the vital force inherent in the universe

Dajbog (see Dabog)

Dajdbog Dajdbog (see Dabog)

Dajoji (see Da-jo-ji)

Dakaki (see Mai-ja-chikki)

Dakini Buddhist

[Dakkini]
a lion-headed goddess in Tibet

Dakinis<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Dakinis.Walkers in the Sky]
female Buddhas: spirits of wisdom

dakinis<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[ashrapa.dakkinis]
female demons

Dakkini (see Dakini)

Dakkinis (see Dakinis<sup>1,2</sup>)

Daksa (see Daksha)

Daksha Hindu

['brilliant'.Daksa.Pracheta. Prajapati.'skill'] a sage, generator of gods
a sun god, one of the Adityas leader of the Prajapatis father of Devi, some say
son of Brahma
consort of Prasuti

He was born from the right thumb of Brahma and is said to be reborn in each generation. In his first appearance he had thousands of sons and twenty-four, twenty-six, twenty-seven, fifty or sixty daughters. One of these, Sati, married Shiva while the others became consorts of Dharma and Kashyapa. Others say that they all married Chandra as Soma.

He also acted as creator, under the supervision of Brahma, making all animals, demons, gods and minor gods.

When he forgot to include Shiva in a sacrifice, Shiva's wife Sati immolated herself and Shiva (as Virabhadra) wreaked havoc among the worshippers, cutting off Daksha's head which was then burnt. Shiva repented and Brahma (or in some stories, Shiva) revived Daksha, giving him the head of a goat or ram as a replacement. In some stories Rudra is quoted in place of Shiva.

In a later incarnation, as the son of Pracheta and Marisha, he had twenty-seven daughters, all of whom were consorts of the moon god, Chandra.

In some accounts he is the same as Prajapati; others regard him as both father and son of Aditi.

He is depicted as goat-headed.

(see also Ka<sup>3</sup>)

Dakshaja Hindu

a name for Devi as daughter of Daksha

dakshina<sup>1</sup> Hindu

an honorarium given to a priest who officiates at a sacrifice

Dakshina<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a divine cow, a manifestation of Lakshmi

mother of Yajna by Ruchi

Dakshina<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a name for Devi as 'right-handed'

Dakshina<sup>4</sup> (see Vishnu)

Dakshina-Murti Hindu

a name for Shiva as a teacher

Dakshinacharins Hindu

a 'right-handed' sect of Hindus who follow the teachings of the Vedas

(see also Vamacharins)

Dakshinagni Hindu

one of the 3 forms of sacred fire

(see also fire)

Dakuwanga Pacific Islands

a Fijian shark god

Dal Persian

a hero who fell in love with a girl he had never seen

Dal nAraidhe Irish

[Dal nAraidi]

a sept or kingdom

In some accounts, a sept in parts of Antrim, Down and Ulster. Others refer to a kingdom in the west of Scotland having this name.

(see also Dalriada)

Dal nAraidi (see Dal nAraidhe)

Dal Riada (see Dalriada)

Dal Riata (see Dalriada)

Dala Kadavara Ceylonese

an elephant goddess

This deity was later demoted to the level of a Buddhist demon, causing illness.

Dalai Lama Tibetan

[Grand Lama.Living Buddha]

the chief Buddhist monk

This man, the spiritual head of Tibetan Buddhists, is regarded as the incarnation of the bodhisattva, Padmapani. On the death of one leader a successor (a boy) is chosen by divination and becomes leader at the age of eight.

Daland Norse

a Norwegian sailor

He welcomed the Flying Dutchman to his home and gave him consent to marry his daughter Senta.

dalang East Indian

a director of a puppet theatre

He knows the mythology of Java and sings the hymns to the gods during a performance.

Dalbhyesvara Hindu

a deity superseding Indra in the Benares region

Dalhan

a man-eating jinn

This form of jinn was said to inhabit desert islands waiting for shipwrecked sailors whom they ate.

It may be depicted as a man riding a camel or an ostrich.

Dali Matei East Indian

the land of the spirits, ruled by

Laki Tenangan

Dall Irish

father of Felim mac Dall

Dallan Forgaill Irish

[Eochaid Eigeas]

a blind poet

son of Colla

He was sent by Aedh Fionn to obtain a famous shield from Aedh Duach and recited a satirical poem when that king refused to relinquish the shield. This was in conflict with the accepted code of the bards and he died a few days later.

Another story says that he was killed by pirates who cut off his head. The head was later recovered from the sea and replaced on his body where it remained attached and he was buried in one piece.

In some accounts he is equated with Eochaid Eigeas or Ollav Fola.

Dalny (see Dealgnaid)

Dalriada Irish

[Dal Riada.Dal Riata]

a sept or kingdom

In some accounts a sept in Antrim.

Others use the name for that part of Ireland.

Men from this sept or from this part of Ireland colonised the west of Scotland and this kingdom also was called Dalriada. (see also Dal nAraidhe)

Dalu Arab

the Zodiacal sign, Aquarius

Dalua Irish

a saint

As a boy he was seized by a group of Leinstermen who were about to use him for spear practice. Cainneach rescued him but the shock left him cross-eyed. He later established a monastery in County Clare.

Dam-c'an-rdo-rje-legs-pa Tibetan

[Dam-chen-dorje-le-pa-dor-le]

chief of the demons, overcome by Padmasambhara

Dam-chen-dorje-le-pa-dor-le

(see Dam-c'an-rdo-rje-legs-pa)

Dam-Kinu (see Damkina)

Dama Hindu

husband of Sumana

His father gave up his throne to become a forest hermit and Dama ruled in his place. When his father was killed by the demon Vapushmat, Dama went into the forest, killed the demon and rescued Sumana, who became his wife.

Dama Ghosha Hindu

a king

father of Shishupala

Dama Ngile<sup>1</sup> African

[Great Bull]

son of Daibu

He demanded the magic sword from the king, Sunjata, and it rose unbidden from the bottom of a huge pile of weapons. He became king of Jerre.

Dama Ngile<sup>2</sup> African

the sword of Gassire

Damael

[Damiel]

an angel associated with the east and Tuesday

Daman Irish

[Damhan]

a Fir Bolg

father of Ferdia, some say

Damar Wulan East Indian

a Javanese hero-prince

Damart British

a magician

He was killed by Betis who was thereafter known as Perceforest.

Damaru Hindu

a drum made from a skull: a symbol of Bhairava

Damas<sup>1</sup> British

brother of Ontzlake

He cheated his brother out of his inheritance, refused to fight to settle the dispute and imprisoned any knight who might have acted as Ontzlake's champion, forcing him to fight Ontzlake. King Arthur, caught in a magic trap by Morgan, offered to fight for Damas. Unwittingly, he fought Accolan who acted for Ontzlake and who was armed with Excalibur, which Morgan had earlier stolen from Arthur. Arthur, though wounded, won the fight, killed Accolan, and ordered Damas to give Ontzlake his proper share. (see also Accolan of Gaul)

Damas<sup>2</sup> (see Rimmon<sup>2</sup>)

Damasippus (see Athena)

Damasistratus Greek

a king of Plataea

He buried Laius after his death at the hand of Oedipus.

Damastes Greek

a name of Procrustes as 'tamer'

Damatar Roman

[=Greek Demeter]

an Italic corn goddess

Damater (see Demeter)

Damayanti Hindu

daughter of King Bhima

wife of Nala

mother of Indrasena and Indraseni

She fell in love with King Nala and they exchanged messages through a speaking flamingo. She chose her husband, despite the fact that he was flanked by four gods who took his form, recognising the gods by their unblinking eyes and the absence of perspiration.

The demon Kali caused Nala to become a compulsive gambler, losing his kingdom and leaving his wife.

She wandered far and wide, finally coming to the court of King Subahu where she became an attendant of king's daughter, Sunanda. She was found by Sudeva, a counsellor to her father King Bhima, and was reunited with her family. Another counsellor, Parnada, found Nala working as charioteer to King Rituparna, and husband and wife were reunited.

Damballah Wedo West Indian

[Agaone.Agaou Tonné.Agaou Wedo.

Agarou.Dan Houéza.Dumballah.Pié

Dumballa:=Dahomey Dan Ayido Hwedo: =Yoruba Oshunmare]

the serpent god of Haiti husband of Aida-Wedo

one of 3 husbands of Erzulie

This deity derives from the Fon snake god Dan Ayido Hwedo.

He and his wife appear as a rainbow of serpents.

Dambhodhava Hindu

[Dambodhava]

a king who attacked the sages Nara and Narayana

When Nara defeated his army by turning straw into deadly missiles, Dambhodhava sued for peace.

Dambodhava (see Dambhodhava)

Dame Blanche French

[White Lady]

a spirit said to be fond of horses

In some accounts she is equated with Melusine.

Dame Brisen (see Brisen)

Dame des Belles-Cousines French

a princess

She was loved by Jehan but gave her favours to an abbot while Jehan was campaigning in the East.

Dame du lac (see Lady of the Lake)

Dame Habonde (see Abundia)

Dame Partlet (see Partlet)

Dameon Greek

son of Phlius

He was killed when fighting for Heracles in his battles with Augeas.

Damgalnuna Mesopotamian

[Damgalnunna:=Babylonian Damkina]

a Sumerian mother goddess

a name of Ninhursaga as 'wife of the Great Prince'

Damgalnunna (see Damgalnuna)

Damhan (see Daman)

Damia Greek

[=Roman Fauna]

a minor fertility goddess or goddess of health, worshipped by women

Damiel (see Damael)

Damina Hindu

[Dimna]

a jackal featured in the Panchatantra
(see also Karataka)

Damkina Mesopotamian

[Dam-Kinu.Damku.Danke.Daukina.

Dav-Kina.Dawkina.Gashan-ki.Nin-ki.

Ninella:=Greek Dauce.Dauke:=Sumerian Damgalnuna]

a Babylonian earth-goddess

a name for Ninhursaga as wife of Ea daughter of Abzu and Tiamat daughter of Anu and Atu, some say consort of Ea or El mother of Marduk

mother of Bel, some say

Damku (see Damkina)

Damnameneus Greek

one of the Dactyls, in some accounts

Damocles Roman

[Damokles]

a 4th c courtier of Dionysius, king of Syracuse

He was seated at a feast with a sword, suspended by a single hair, hanging over his head to demonstrate the unpredictability of life.

Damodara Hindu

a name for Krishna whose foster-

mother had trussed him up in rope

for stealing butter

Damokles (see Damocles)

Damon Greek

a friend of Phintias

He stood as guarantor for Phintias who had been condemned to death by Dionysius, king of Syracuse. When Phintias surrendered himself for execution, the king, impressed by their loyalty, freed them both.

Damona Celtic

[Divine Cow]

a cattle goddess in Gaul

consort of Bormo

Damrukh Nara Persian

a demon

Damsel Ho (see Ho Hsien-gu)

Damsel of Denmark European

a friend of Oriana

When Oriana learned that Amadis had left his friends and gone off to seek death as a result of her cruel letter accusing him of being unfaithful, she repented and wrote another letter in which she asked his forgiveness. She entrusted this letter to the Damsel of Denmark and charged her to find Amadis and deliver the missive. She finally found him when her ship was wrecked on Poor Rock Island.

Damu<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

a name of Dumuzi as the god who controlled the sap in vegetation

Damu<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

a Babylonian beneficent goddess

She was said to restore her followers to good health.

Damura Pacific Islands

an Indonesian Cinderella

She befriended a crocodile who provided her with wonderful clothes for the king's ball. When she left at dawn, the prince found her sandal and proposed to marry her. Her step-mother threw Damura into the river but the crocodile saved her and she married the prince.

Dan Mesopotamian

an Assyrian sun god

Dan Ayido Hwedo African

[Aido Hwedo.Da.(Da) Aida Hwedo.

Rainbow Snake:=Haitian Damballah

Wedo:=Yoruba Oshunmare]

a divine python of the Fon

husband of Ayida

He was made by Mawu and carried him on his journeys when Mawu created the earth. The python's excreta was used to make the mountains. When the work was complete he coiled himself in the sea beneath the earth to support it. If he moves there is an earthquake. When he has eaten all the iron bars in the sea, he will start to eat himself, starting at the tail, and then the earth will fall into the sea from lack of support.

In some accounts, he has 3,500 coils above the earth and 3,500 below, holding it safe. One of his arched coils is seen as the rainbow.

(see also Damballah Wedo.Dangbe)

Dan-Gun (see Tan'gun)

Dan Huéza (see Damballah Wedo)

Dan Petro West Indian

[Dom Pedro.Don Pedro]

a Haitian tree-snake god

This deity is said to have been a slave, Don (or Don Pedro) who escaped and became a legendary hero.

(see also Petro)

Dan Yi West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Dana<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Danaparamita]

one of the 12 Paramita goddesses, charity

Dana<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Aine.Ana(n).Anu.Danand.Danann.

DanuIath n'Annan:=Welsh Don]

a supreme goddess and water goddess

mother of MacCecht, MacCuill

and MacGrene

mother of Brian, luchar and lucharba,

some say

mother of Ene and Nuada, some say

In some accounts she was the wife of Bile while some say she was the mother of the Dagda, others his daughter Brigit. Some accounts have her as the daughter of Delbaeth.

When her people, the Danaans, were defeated by the Milesians she found them homes underground.

Other accounts refer to her descendants as Feini and claim that they were the first settlers in Ireland.

In some versions, she (not Brigit) was the mother of the children of Turen and in others she became masculinised as Don or Donnus. In some accounts she is identified with Morrigan. Others say that she was an ancestor of Black Annis.

Danaans Irish

[Children of Dana.Children of Don.

Children of the Light.De Danann.

Divine People.Fairy Kind.Lordly

People.People of Dana.Proud Ones.

Tuatha de Danann.Tuatha Dea]

a legendary tribe of invaders

The Danaans were descendants of the earlier invaders led by Nemed. It was said that they came by sea to settle in Ireland and burnt their boats so that they could never leave.

They fought the Fir Bolg and won; in some accounts they expelled the Fir Bolg, in others they made peace and confined them to Connaught. Some say this was the first Battle of Moytura.

They were opposed by the indigenous Fomoiré and defeated them in the second Battle of Moytura. Some say that both the battles at Moytura were against the Fomoiré. When they were later overcome by the invading Milesians at the Battle of Tailtinn, they retreated to the underground world of the fairies.

They were said to have originated in Falias, Finias, Gorias and Murias, seats of knowledge and craftsmanship, and in some stories came to Ireland borne on a magic cloud. (see also Feini)

danace Greek

a coin placed in the mouth of the dead, a fee for the boatman Charon

Danae Greek

daughter of Acrisius and Aganippe

wife of Pilumnus

mother of Daunus by Pilumnus

mother of Perseus by Zeus

Acrisius had been warned that a son of Danae would kill him so he locked her in a chamber made of bronze. This did not prevent Zeus visiting her in the form of a shower of gold or golden rain to produce a son who was called Perseus. Her father put her and her son in a chest and cast them adrift in the sea, from where they were rescued by a fisherman, Dictys, on the island of Seriphos. When she later refused to marry Polydectes, brother of Dictys and the ruler of the island, he hounded her. Perseus found her hiding with Dictys and took her back to Greece.

In some accounts she later went to Italy and founded Ardea. One of her grandsons was Turnus, opponent of Aeneas.

Some say her mother was Eurydice.

Danaides (see Danaids)

Danaids Greek

[Danaides.Danaoi]

the 50 daughters of Danaus and Io

All these girls married the fifty sons of Aegyptus and each one killed her husband on their joint wedding night, except Hypermnestra who spared her husband, Lynceus. They were purified of the murders by Athena and Hermes but in Tartarus they were condemned forever to carry water in leaking cans or to fill their jars with water using sieves.

Some accounts say that Lynceus killed not only Danaus but all the Danaids except Hypermnestra to avenge the murder of his brothers.

In some versions, two other sisters, Amynone and Berbyce, also spared their husbands.

Danain British

a lord of Malehaut

He carried off Bloie who was the lover of his friend, Guiron.

Danair (see Lochlanners)

Danais (see Hippodamia<sup>2</sup>)

Danand (see Dana<sup>2</sup>)

Danann (see Dana<sup>2</sup>)

Danaoi (see Danaids)

Danaparamita (see Dana<sup>1</sup>)

Danatiya Mesopotamian

wife of King Daniel

Danaus Greek

king of Libya or Argos

son of Belus and Archinoe or of

Agenor and Telephassa

twin brother of Aegyptus

He was the father of fifty daughters, including Amynone, Asteria, Berbyce and Hypermnestra, and took them off to Greece to escape the murderous intentions of his brother Aegyptus. Here he became king of Argos in place of Gelanor and was attacked by the fifty sons of Aegyptus. He eventually agreed to allow them to marry his fifty daughters but armed the girls with a pin or dagger, with which all except Hypermnestra killed their husbands. The spared bridegroom, Lynceus, later killed Danaus and took over his throne.

Danavas Hindu

ocean demons

offspring of Kasyapa, Kanaka or Danu

and Puloma

They were described as giants who fought against the gods.

(see also Asuras.Daityas)

Dancing Vargaluska

(see Rumpelstiltskin)

dancing water

a magic liquid said to make women

young, beautiful and rich

danda Buddhist

a staff on which is mounted a skeleton or a vajra

Dandadhara Hindu

a name for Yama in his role as the one who puts into effect the judgements of Samavurti

Dandapani Buddhist mother of Yashodhara

Dando British
a Cornish priest who sold himself to the Devil for a drink (see Wild Hunt)

Dandoku (see Mount Dan-doku)

Dandomi East Indian
wife of Anggun Nan Tungga

Danel<sup>1</sup>
a demon

Danel<sup>2</sup> (see Daniel)

Dangbe<sup>1</sup> African [Dagowe]

a python spirit of the Fon
He is a version of Dan Ayido Hwedo representing serpent life in itself.

Dangbe<sup>2</sup> West Indian
[Dagowe]

a Haitian voodoo spirit
This spirit is the West Indian version of the python spirit imported from Africa.

Danh African
a snake god of Benin

Daniel<sup>1</sup> British brother of Breunor and Dinadan

In Italian stories he was one of the knights who spied on Lancelot and found him in bed with Guinevere.

Daniel<sup>2</sup> Canaanite [Danel.Dn'il]
a king
husband of Danatiya
father of Aqhat and Paghat

Danil Arab [Daniyal]
a prophet

He was put in prison but released when he interpreted the king's dream of a stone falling from heaven and smashing a golden-headed idol.

He was the author of Kitab Danil.

Danilo (see Gano)

Daniyal (see Danil)

Danke (see Damkina)

Dankrat German
a king of Burgundy

husband of Ute
father of Gernot, Giselher, Gunther and Krimhild

When he died, the throne went to Gunther. (see also Gibich)

Dankwart German
brother of Hagen

He accompanied Siegfried when he was invited to Gunther's court to help in the fight with the invading kings, Ludegar and Ludegast.

He also went with Gunther and the other nobles when they were invited to Etzel's court.

Dannemont European
a king of Denmark

He was deposed by Geoffroy. In exile, he joined the Saracens attacking Rome.

Dantalian
a demon, a duke of hell
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as having many faces, of both sexes, and holding a book. He is said to give instruction in the arts and sciences.

Dante, Alighieri European (1265–1321)
a poet, author of Divina Commedia (The Divine Comedy)

Danu<sup>1</sup> Hindu goddess of the waters and heaven
mother of Ahi
mother of the Danavas by Kasyapa, some say

Danu<sup>2</sup> (see Dana.Kabhanda)

Danwantari (see Dhanvantari)

daoine beaga Irish
a name for the fairies as 'little folk'

(see also aes sidhe)

daoine maite Irish
the fairies (see also aes sidhe)

daoine sidhe (see aes sidhe)

Daol Dearmaid Irish [Doel Dearmaid]

a warrior
father of Achtland
He had three sons but they were abducted by Eochaid Glas.

Daolach Irish
a wife of Finn mac Cool, some say

Daolchu Irish
a dog of Celtchair

Celtchair had killed the Brown Mouse, a hound ravaging Ulster, and kept one of its whelps. It went wild during Celtchair's absence and he was forced to kill it. A drop of the animal's blood fell on Celtchair and killed him.

Daolghu Irish
the tallest man in the Fianna

Daolteangach (see Dubthach Daol.Uath)

Daonus Mesopotamian
[Daos]

a shepherd
He was regarded as a fertility deity, a version of Tammuz, and was said to have lived for 36,000 years and then disappeared.

Daos (see Daonus)

Daphne Greek ['laurel']

a nymph
a priestess of Mother-Earth

daughter of Amycus, Ladon or Peneus by Creusa sister of Cyrene, Hypseus and Stilbe, in some accounts

Leucippus disguised himself as a nymph to woo her, calling himself Oeno, but he was exposed and killed by the nymphs.

Apollo fell in love with her but she ran away at his approach, calling on her father, the river god Peneus, for help. Just as Apollo was about to overtake her she changed into a laurel tree, which became the tree sacred to Apollo. Some say that Gaea carried her to Crete as Pasiphæa, leaving the laurel in her place.

Daphnephoria Greek festivals in honour of Apollo celebrated every 9 years at Thebes

Daphnis<sup>1</sup> Greek
a shepherd of Sicily son of Hermes by a nymph half-brother of Pan

In some accounts Hermes was his lover rather than his father.

He is credited with the invention of bucolic verse. Aphrodite caused him to fall in love with the water nymph Nais, to whom he promised always to be faithful. When he proved unfaithful by preferring Xenia, a mortal lover, Nais blinded him. He later drowned and the water nymphs refused to go to his aid. Hermes then took him up to heaven.

In another version he resisted all Aphrodite's attempts to make him unfaithful and died rather than give way to her tempting. Others say that he died of longing for Xenia.

In another account, he loved Pimplea (or Thalia) who was abducted by pirates. When Daphnis found her, a slave at the court of Lityerses in Phrygia, he was challenged to a reaping contest by the king. Heracles took the place of Daphnis, won the contest, killed Lityerses and made Daphnis, who married Pimplea, king of Phrygia.

Daphnis<sup>2</sup> Greek
a goatherd in love with Chloe

In this version both Daphnis and Chloe were abandoned by their parents, in adjoining fields, and grew up to become ideal lovers. They were the prototypes for Paul and Virginia, the rustic couple reared in Mauritius, featured in a story of the same name by Bernadin de St Pierre.

- Daphnis and Chloe Greek
the story of a rustic couple, Paul and Virginia, written by Longus
- Daphoena Greek
a goddess worshipped by the maenads
- Dapie Pacific Islands
a moon goddess
sister of Siloo
Tuwale, the sun god, appeared in the guise of a beggar and asked for her hand in marriage. Her parents dressed a pig to look like Dapie and offered it in her place.
- Dapnael
ruler of one of the 7 supposed firmaments
- Dapple Spanish
the donkey ridden by Sancho Panza
- Dar al-Baqa Arab [House of Eternity]
heaven
- Dar al-Fana Arab [House of Passing]
the earth
- Dar al-Ghurut Arab [House of Illusion]
the earth
- Dar al-Huz Arab [House of Sadness]
this world as a vale of tears
- Dar al-Ibtala Arab [House of Temptation]
the earth
- Dar al-Surur Arab [House of Joy]
paradise
- dar-dar Tibetan
an arrow used in demon-worship
- dar-Ich'og (see da-cha)
- Dara<sup>1</sup> Irish [Dara of the Poems]
a druid of Cormac mac Airt
- Dara<sup>2</sup> (see Daire)
- Dara<sup>3</sup> Hindu [Tara] wife of Balin
- Darago Pacific Islands
wife of Mandarangan
- Daramulun Australian
[Thuremlin]
a culture hero of the Aborigines
son of Baime and Ngalalbal
A name for the sky god, Baime, used by the Aborigines of the east coast; others say that he was Baime's son. In some accounts he has only one leg.
- Darana Australian
a spirit of the Dreamtime
He could chant spells to bring rain to the desert. He killed two young men who had opened his bags of grubs and turned their bodies into stones, known as Duralu, which the tribes were instructed to protect since disaster would occur if the stones were damaged or broken.
He planted many trees in the wasteland. After the flood he climbed a mountain and rose into the sky where he remains as a guardian sky god, meeting the souls of the dead (tulugals) and caring for them. He also superintends the initiation rites of some tribes, pretending to cut the initiates into pieces and restoring them to life. He then knocks out one of the front teeth of each initiate.
- Darawigal Australian
the force of evil in the lore of the Aborigines
- Dardanus<sup>1</sup> Greek founder of the Trojans son of Zeus by Electra brother of Iasion
husband of Batea and Chryse
father of Ilus and Erichthonius
Some say that his earthly father was Corytus.
He married Chryse but left her when he fled to Samothrace after killing his brother, Iasion. Here he married Batea and succeeded to her father's throne.
In one version of the story of the flood he appears in place of Deucalion.
- Dardanus<sup>2</sup> Greek
a Scythian king
father of Idaeus
- Dardariel
a demon
- Dardinel European
a prince of Zumara
He met Rinaldo in single combat and was killed.
- Darerca<sup>1</sup> Irish sister of St Patrick and Tigridia wife of Conan
In some accounts she was said to have seventeen sons, in others she is regarded as an ancestor of King Arthur.
- Darerca<sup>2</sup> (see Moninne)
- Dares Phrygius Greek
a priest of Hephaestus at Troy
father of Idaeus and Phegeus
He is said to have written an early account of the fall of Troy.
- Darika Tibetan
a Lamaist sorcerer
He was said to be able to fly like a bird.
- Darius European
a bridgekeeper in Babylon
He befriended Floris and helped him to plan the rescue of Blanchefleur who was imprisoned in the emir's harem.
- Dark Druid, The (see Fear Doimche)
- Dark Gate, The British
the entrance to the underworld, Annwfn, in Welsh lore
- Dark Lord (see Huan-ti)
- Dark One of Cooley (see Brown Bull of Cooley)
- Dark One, The (see Donn Dumhach. Hymir. Krishna. Tawiscara)
- Dark Prison under the Stone British
one of the prisons from which Goreu rescued King Arthur
- Dark Youth (see Hsüan T'ung-tzu)
- Darkening Land (see Usunhi'yi)
- Darkness (see Erebus)
- Darma Pacific Islands
the Indonesian version of Dharma
He is reincarnated as Yudistira in the Mahabharata stories.
- Darma Rajah (see Dharma-Raja)
- Daronwy British
a thunder god and an oak god in Wales
- Darquiel
a demon associated with the south
and Monday
- Darrathray (see Deirdre)
- Dartaid Irish
daughter of Eochaid Beag
Her father was killed by bandits after promising to provide cattle to feed Maev's army. Maev's son, Orlam, who loved Dartaid, came to collect the herd but was attacked by Corb Cliach who killed Dartaid and most of Orlam's men.
- Darthray (see Deirdre)
- Darukavaitere South American [Stone Man]
son of Maiso
husband of Uarahiulu
father of Uzale
When his offspring turned out to be parrots and serpents, his mother intervened and caused Uarahiulu to bear the first Paressi Indian, a boy called Uzale.
- Daruma Japanese
[=Chinese Ta-mo:=Indian Bodhidharma] the founder of Zen Buddhism (see also Bodhidharma)
- Darunaratri (see Dhumavati)
- Darvi East Indian
a demon
This being saved the world from total destruction by fire when he caused rain to fall.
- Das Rheingold (see The Rhinegold)

das Hindu

[dasa.dasyu]

black demons who devoured men and gods: an aboriginal race conquered by Indra

dasa (see das.vrita)

Dasagras Hindu

seers

These beings helped Indra to recover the cloud-cattle after they had been stolen by Ahi.

Dasamuka East Indian

['ten-faced']

the Javanese version of the demon Ravana

He is also said to be reincarnated as Duryudana.

Dasan North American

a creator god of the Pomo Indians son of Makila

He and his father led a tribe of birds to bring civilisation to the Pomo from somewhere over the sea.

Dasara Hindu

a festival celebrating the destruction of Mahisha and the war between the Kauravas and the Pandavas, held in October

(see also Navaratri)

Dasarata East Indian

the Javanese version of Dasha-ratha

Dasaratha (see Dasha-ratha)

Dascylus<sup>1</sup> Greek

a king of Mariandyne father of Lycus

He presided at the winter games.

Dascylus<sup>2</sup> Greek

an oak deity king of Mariandyne son of Lycus

When the Argonauts called at Mariandyne, King Lycus sent his son Dascylus to guide them along the shore. He succeeded to the throne on the death of his father.

Dasha-Bhuja Hindu

a name for Devi and Durga as 'ten-armed'

Dasha-ratha Hindu

[Das(h)aratha.Dassaratha:=Javanese Dasarata]

king of Ayodhya

son of Aja and Indumati

husband of Kaikeyi, Kausalya and Su-Mitra

father of Bharata by Kaikeya

father of Lakshmana and Shatrughna

by Su-Mitra

father of Rama by Kausalya

He was childless and made the horse sacrifice, the asvamedha, to be granted children. Vishnu appeared with a vial of nectar and gave half to Kausalya and a quarter to each of the other wives, Kaikeyi and Su-Mitra, becoming incarnate in the form of four sons, Bharata, Lakshmana, Rama and Shatrughna.

In one story he was thrown out of heaven by Shani, but Jatayu caught him and saved him from death.

Dasharatha (see Dasha-ratha)

Dashyanta Hindu

father of Bharata

Dasi Hindu

a slave

Dasra Hindu

one of the Aswins

twin brother of Nasatya

In some accounts the twins were born from their mother's nose.

Dassaratha (see Dasha-ratha)

Dasse African

wife of Mantis

Dasura Arab

a mountain god

son of Alilat

dasyu<sup>1</sup> (see das)

Dasyu<sup>2</sup> (see Shambhara)

Datan Polish

a field god

Dathi Irish

a king of Ireland

He was said to have been killed by lightning while leading his army on the Continent.

datik Persian

part of the Avesta

This part of the Avesta dealt with the laws. The other two parts were the gatha and the hatak-mansarif.

Datilla Mesopotamian

the river of death in the Babylonian underworld

Datin Arab

a god of the northern tribes

Datis British

a king of Tuscany

He was killed by Gareth during King Arthur's assault on Rome.

Dattatreya Hindu

a sage

son of Anasuya

He was the offspring of three gods, Brahma, Shiva and Vishnu, who granted Anasuya's wish for three sons. The three were born immediately and, when hugged by her husband, Atri, melded into one body with three heads and six arms, master of the knowledge imparted by his divine fathers.

Another version regards him as a teacher of yoga who produced the tantras and was deified.

dat Pacific Islands

a shaman in the Philippines

Datu Jinn Hitam Malay

a demon, king of the black jinnees

datugad Irish

a magical power

Those who supposedly have this power always receive the best cards when playing card-games.

Dauce Mesopotamian

[Dauke]

the Greek form of Damkina consort of Aus

mother of Bel

Daugawa Baltic

the great water that flows back full of departed souls every evening

Daughter of Creation Baltic

a name for the Finnish goddess Ilmatar as 'Luonnotar'

Daughter of Fireflies (see Buk)

Daughter of the Air (see Ilmatar)

Daughter of the Foam

(see Puteri Tunjung Buih)

Daughter of the Sea

(see Marya Morevna)

Dauke (see Dauce)

Daukina (see Damkina)

Daunus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Lycaon

brother of lapyx and Peucetius

He and his brother, having conquered the southern part of Italy, shared it between themselves. (see also Daunas<sup>2</sup>)

Daunus<sup>2</sup> Roman

a king of the Rutulians

son of Pilumnus and Danae husband of Venilia

father of Juturna and Turnus

He owned an unbreakable sword, made by Vulcan, which he gave to Turnus.

In some accounts he is the same as Daunas, son of Lycaon.

Dausi African

an epic song

Gassire learned the song of the birds. He then bought a lyre that was drenched with the blood of his sons, killed in battle, which made it part of the family. The lyre then sang the Dausi.

Dausos Baltic

the Lithuanian kingdom of the dead

It was said to be situated in the sky behind a very tall and slippery hill.

Dav-kina (see Damkina)

Davalin (see Dvalin)

David<sup>1</sup> European

the name given to Charlemagne by his counsellors

David<sup>2</sup> British

[Aquaticus.Dewi Sant]
the patron saint of Wales

In some accounts he was an uncle of King Arthur, in others a grand nephew of, or second cousin to, the king.

David's Sword British

a sword said to have been owned by the King David of the Bible

This sword was wielded by Varlan when he killed Lambor.

(see Dolorous Stroke)

Davy Jones

a seaman's term for the devil or sea spirit

Davy Jones' locker

the sea, regarded as the grave of drowned seamen

Dawen Irish

a sacred cow in some accounts

Dawkina (see Damkina)

Dawn North American

an Iroquois goddess

When the hunter Sosondowah pursued his quarry into the heavens, the goddess captured him and installed him in the sky as a lookout man.

Dawn-girl (see Hine Titama)

Dawn Maiden (see Hine Titama)

day<sup>1</sup> South American

the Aztec and Mayan day had 20 or 22 hours

In the scheme of twenty-two hours, thirteen were daytime hours, nine at night. Each hour had its own deity, generally given as starting with Xiuhtecuhtli, followed by Tlaltecuhli, Chalchiuhtlicue, Tonatiuh, Tlalcoatl, Teoyoamaqui (or Mictlantecuhtli), Xochipilli-Cinteotl, Tlaloc, Quetzalcoatl, Tezcatlipoca, Mictlantecuhtli (or Chalme-catecuhtli), Tlahuixcalpantecuhtli and Ilamatecuhtli (or Citlalinicue) for the daylight hours, followed by Xiuhtecuhtli, Itzli, Pilzintecuhtli-Tonatiuh, Cinteotl, Mictlantecuhtli, Chalchiuhtlicue, Tlalcoatl, Tepeyollotl and Tlaloc for the night hours.

The Aztec month had twenty days. The names of these days were as follows:

Acatl	Miquiztli
Atl	Ocelotl
Calli	Ollin
Cipactli	Ozmatli
Coatl	Quauhtli
Cozcaquauhtli	Quiahiuhtl
Ehecatl	Quetzpallin
Itzcuintli	Tecpatl
Malinalli	Tochtli
Mazatl	Xochitl

Each day symbolised some animal or object and a particular compass point and was governed by a particular deity. These details are given under individual entries.

Day<sup>2</sup> (see Hemera)

Day of Beltane (see Beltane)

Day of Blood Greek

a festival in honour of Attis held on 24 March

Day of Brahma (see kalpa)

Day of Two Sunsets (see Ra Torua)

Daya Hindu

a goddess
a sakti of Acyuta

dayan Hindu

a witch

It is said that a woman who spends a year in a cave practising spells can acquire the power of taking life and, in some cases, restoring it.

dayan ka mantur Hindu

a spell recited by a dayan that can destroy life

Daybog (see Dabog)

Daygide (see Dagda)

dayong East Indian

a medicine man or medicine woman in Borneo

These people are said to be able to catch the soul of any person whose soul has left him to prevent it from leaving again by putting wristlets made of palm leaves on the patient.

If evil spirits become a nuisance, the dayong can entice them on to a raft with offerings of food and, by casting the raft adrift, rid the village of the problem.

Dayunsi North American

[Water Beetle]

a creator god of the Cherokee

He lived in the sea while all the other beings lived in the sky. Dayunsi brought up mud from the bottom of the sea, which when hung on ropes by the Powerful One dried to form the earth, which was then made available for the sky creatures.

Dazbog Russian

[Dazdbog:=Serbian Dabog]

a sun-god

Dazdbog (see Dabog)

Dazhbog (see Dabog)

Dazibog (see Dabog)

Dazimus Mesopotamian

a goddess

She was one of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to cure Enki of the eight afflictions after he had eaten the eight plants produced by Utti.

dBan-mgon Tibetan

[wang-gon]

the Buddhist lord of the night

dBangpo-rgyabzhin Tibetan

ruler of the gLing-chos heaven,

sTang-lha

consort of bKur-dman-rgyalmo

father of Dongrub, Donldan

and Donyod

dByar-gyi-rgyal-mo (see Grismadevi)

De-Ai Pacific Islands

in the lore of the Gilbert Islands, one of the first pair of humans

twin of De-Babou

De Animalibus

a book of mythical animals written by Isidore, a Spanish bishop

De-Babou Pacific Islands

in the lore of the Gilbert Islands, one

of the first pair of humans

twin of De-Ai

de Bras, Hugh British

[Hudibras]

a Knight of the Round Table

De Danann (see Danaans)

De Excidio Britanniae British

a 6th c story of the Celts, by Gildas. This work, strangely, refers to the Battle of Badon but fails to mention King Arthur.

De Gabail int Sida Irish

[Conquest of the Fairy Mound]

a manuscript relating to the allocation of the sidhe by the Dagda

De Hi No (see Heng<sup>1</sup>)

De-o-ha-ko North American

a female deity, guardian of bears

De Orbe Novo

a 15th c book of the mythology of the Americas, written by Peter Martyr

De Ortu Waluuanii British

[The Rise of Gawain]

a story, written in Latin, of the early life of Gawain

De Soto Hernando South American

a Spanish explorer

The Incas welcomed him as the reincarnated Viracocha.

Dea Irish

a war goddess

Dea Arduinna Celtic

[=Irish Flidhais]

a goddess of wild animals in Gaul

Dea Artio Celtic

a (bear) goddess in Gaul

Dea Caelistis Roman

[=British Briganta]

a goddess

Dea Dia Roman

[=Greek Demeter]

an ancient corn goddess

Dea Quartana Roman

a goddess of fever
daughter of Febris
sister of Dea Tertiana

Dea Syria (see Syrian Goddess)Dea Tertiana Roman

a goddess of fever
daughter of Febris
sister of Dea Quartana

Deac (see Deoca)Deadhadh Irish

son of Cairbre
brother of Duach

He quarrelled with his brother, who had him blinded.

Deae Matres (see Matres)Deaglan Irish

[Declan]

a Leinster saint

son of Earc mac Trein and Deithin

He was fostered with his uncle, Dobhran, and taught by the hermit Diomna until he went to Rome and was made a bishop. He entrusted a bell, which appeared as if from heaven, to his friend Runan who came back with him to Ireland in a ship that miraculously appeared. When Runan left the bell on a rock, the rock itself floated out to sea and led them to an island, which was given to them for a monastery. By striking the sea with his staff, Deaglan caused the sea to disappear, leaving his monastery attached to the mainland of Ireland.

He is said to have restored the dead to life, banished plagues and caused an enemy fleet to sink.

Dealbhchaomh (see Delbchaem)Dealbhaoth (see Tuireall)Dealgnaid Irish

[Dalny.De(a)lgnat.Dealnaidh.Delgnaid]

wife of Partholan

mother of Eber, Laighlinne

and Rudraidhe

She had an affair with Togda, a servant, while her husband was away. In a trial in which she was charged with adultery, she was acquitted, pleading that Partholan was to blame for leaving her alone.

In some accounts she was the wife of Sera, Partholan's father.

Dealgnat (see Dealgnaid)Dealnaidh (see Dealnaid)Deamial

an angel associated with the east and Monday

Dearbhfhorgaill Irish

[Derbhorgill.Devorgilla]

daughter of a king of Norway

She came to Cuchulainn in the form of a swan but then returned to her human form. Cuchulainn rejected her and gave her to Lugaid Riabhdhearg. When her husband was away, she was attacked and mutilated by a large group of jealous women.

Another version says that her father handed her to the Fomoiré in lieu of a tribute he was due to pay but she was rescued by Cuchulainn with whom she fell in love. He rejected her love and gave her to Lugaid, son of Curoi. Hurt by this slight, she changed into a bird that Cuchulainn brought down with a sling shot. He sucked her wound to heal it when she regained her human form and, in so doing, became her blood-brother.

Deardubha Irish

a woman acting as a messenger for the Fianna

Dearg (see Bodh Dearg.Da Derga)Dearg Druchtrach Irish

the horse of Conall Cearnach

Dearmid O'Dyna

(see Dermot O'Dyna)

Death Bat (see Comazatz<sup>1</sup>)Death Coach Irish

a ghostly carriage

This vehicle, driven by a headless coachman, is said to stop in front of any house where a death is imminent.

Death of Oenone British

a poem by Tennyson relating the story of Oenone and her suicide

Death of Jimmu Japanese

a Shinto festival, 3 April

Death Stone Japanese

a large rock

This rock became inhabited by the fox-woman, Jewel Maiden, until the evil spirit was exorcised by the priest Genno.

Debata East Indian

a word for god or for divine power in Sumatra

Deber

in some accounts, a devil who works evil at night (see also Cheleb)

Debestevs Baltic

[=Lettish Dievs=Lithuanian Dievas]
a Latvian sky god and fertility god

Debility of the Ultonians Irish

[Birth Pangs of Ulster.ces noi(n)dhen.
nainden.noinden]

an affliction of the men of Ulster

Macha had been forced to race against the king's horses even though she was pregnant, giving birth to twins after winning the race. She laid a curse on the men of Ulster so that, when they most needed their strength to fight, they became as weak as a woman at childbirth for five days and four nights.

Debon British

a Trojan hero

He was one of those who came to Britain after the fall of Troy and was given the area of Devon as his share of the kingdom.

Decair (see Gilla Dacar)Decar (see Gilla Dacar)Decarabia

[Carabia]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He may appear as a man or as a diagram (a star in a pentagram) and can impart knowledge of plants and stones.

Deceiving Gap (see Ginnungagap)Decelus Greek

a hero

When Theseus abducted Helen, Decelus told her brothers, Castor and Polydeuces, where she was hidden.

Dechtere (see Dectera)Dechtire (see Dectera)Decima (see Decuma)Declan (see Dealgan)Decluna (see Declunus)Declunus Italian

[Decluna]

a fertility deity

Dectera Irish

[Dec(h)tere.Dechtere.Deichtine]

a moon goddess

daughter of Cathbad and Maga

daughter or sister of Conan mac Nessa,
some say

wife of Sualtam mac Roth

mother of Cuchulainn

In some versions Lugh is said to have impregnated Dectera when he flew into her mouth in the form of a may fly and that she gave her son as a gift to Ulster. Another version says that a fly flew into her cup and, falling into a trance, she was transported to the Otherworld where she was seduced by Lugh. Others say that, on the night of her wedding, she and her fifty attendants were changed into birds by Lugh and carried off. When they later returned she persuaded her husband, an Ulster chieftain, to accept her son by Lugh as his own son. The boy, called Setanta, was later to be known as Cuchulainn.

In some accounts her own brother, Conor mac Nessa, was the father of Cuchulainn.

Dectere (see Dectera)

Decuma Roman

[Decima]
a goddess of birth
one of the 3 Parcae

Ded Egyptian

[Dad(du).Tat.Tet]
a symbol of Osiris

A figure in the shape of an upright with a crosspiece used as an amulet to ward off demons and to guarantee entry into paradise (see also Tet)

Dedad Irish

[Degad]
founder of a military order in Munster

Dede Korkut Turkish

a book of 12 stories about ancient heroes

Dedek European

[=Russian Deduska.Domovoy:=Slovenian Setek]
a Czech guardian deity

(see also Djadek)

Dedi Egyptian

a magician

He was said to eat 500 loaves and drink 100 jugs of beer each day and had the power to cut off the head of any living thing and then restore it.

Dedun (see Dedwen)

Deduska Domovoy Russian

[Diko:=Czech Dedek.Djadek]
a guardian deity of the household

Dedwen Egyptian

[Arsnuphis.Dedun:=Greek Tithonus]
a Nubian god of wealth

Dee Celtic

a war goddess

Deepavali Hindu

[Dewali.Di(pa)vali.Diwali.String of Lights] the festival of lamps in honour of Lakshmi and Vishnu, held in October or November

Some say that it honours Bali or Vishnu's defeat of Narakasura.

deer (see also stag)

a fleet-footed animal, usually with antlers

(1) Buddhists believe that the Buddha was born in the form of a deer.

(2) In China, the deer (lu) is a symbol of longevity and is said to be the only animal that can find the fungus that confers immortality. It turns blue when it is 1,000 years old, white at 1,500 and black at 2,000.
Any person eating the flesh of such a deer will live to the same age.

(3) The Greeks regarded the deer
as sacred to Aphrodite, Apollo,

Artemis, Athene and Hercules.

(4) In Irish lore Oisín was born to the mortal Saba who was then in the form of a deer and would himself have been a deer had she licked him at birth as a female deer would.

(5) In Japan the deer is associated with Jurojin, a god of longevity.

(6) In Mexico brown deer represent the god of the north and drought, white deer the god of the east and rain. (see also stag)

Deer Kachina Cloud North American

a horned god of the Hopi

Deerhead (see Haringamesi)

Deerhunter North American

husband of White Corn Maiden

This young Tewa was the finest hunter in his village and fell in love with White Corn Maiden, the prettiest and most talented girl of his tribe. They married and became inseparable, neglecting everything so that they could be together. When White Corn Maiden died soon afterwards, Deerhunter was inconsolable and wandered the plains seeking her spirit.
He found her, apparently unchanged,
and persuaded her to return with him.
Soon the smells and signs of death appeared and her husband was repelled, but she would not be parted from him and followed him wherever he went. Eventually a spirit in the form of a tall hunter with a huge bow appeared and told the couple that they had offended the gods by their behaviour. To ensure that they always remained together, he shot each of them into the heavens where they now appear as two stars, the smaller one forever following the other across the sky. (see also Ca-peen)

deev (see div<sup>2</sup>)

Degad (see Dedad)

Degei Pacific Islands

[Dengei]

a primeval serpent, in the lore of Fiji
father of Sweet-eyes

This serpent incubated the eggs laid by the hawk, Turukawa, and hatched the first humans, a boy and a girl. He then created crops for them to live on.

In the underworld he interrogates
the souls of the dead and allocates punishment.

Degmenus Greek

an archer of Elis

To settle the battle between the Aetolian forces of Oxylyus and the forces of Elis under King Dius, Degmenus was appointed to meet, in single combat, the Aetolian Pyraechmes who used a sling. Degmenus was defeated and the victory was awarded to Oxylyus who then became king of Elis.

Degrabel British

son of Prinsamour and Crystabell husband of Ardanata

He was stolen by a griffin when only a child and raised by a king of Israel.
Later in life he married, only to discover, just in time, that the woman
he had married was his own mother.
He later remarried, to Ardanata.

Dehuti (see Thoth)

Dei Consentes (see Consentes Dii)

Deianeira Greek

[Deianira.Dejanira]
daughter of Oeneus and Althaea second wife of Heracles mother of Glenus, Hodites, Hyllus
and Macaria

She was won by Heracles in a contest with Achelous, who took the form of a bull to fight for her hand.

When Nessus the Centaur tried to rape her and was shot by Heracles, she collected his semen and blood mixed with olive oil, in a jar to be used,
according to Nessus, as a love potion.
When she feared that she might lose Heracles to Iole, she smeared the mixture on the shirt she sent to him at Oechalia, so condemning him to an agonising death. When she found out what she had done she killed herself.

Deianira (see Deianeira)

Deichtine (see Dectera)

Deicoon Greek

son of Heracles and Megara

Deidameia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Deidamia]
daughter of Lycomedes mother of Neoptolemus (Pyrrhus)
by Achilles

Her father sheltered Achilles and dressed him as a girl, calling him Pyrrha, so that Achilles could avoid serving with the Greek forces at Troy where, it had been prophesied, he would be killed. Achilles seduced Deidameia and she bore him a son,
Neoptolemus, also known as Pyrrhus.

Deidameia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Deidamia]
daughter of Bellerophon and Philonoe wife of Evander
sister of Hippolochus and Isander mother of Sarpedon by Evander or Zeus

In some accounts she is referred to as Laodamia.

Deidameia<sup>3</sup>

(see Astydamia.Hippodamia<sup>2</sup>)

Deidamia (see Deidameia)

Deileon Greek

[Delion]

son of Deimachus

brother of Autolycus and Phlogius

He and his brothers helped Heracles in his ninth Labour and later joined the Argonauts.

Deimachus Greek

father of Autolycus, Deileon

and Phlogius

Deimne (see Demna)

Deimos (see Deimus)

Deimus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Deimos.'fear']

god of fear

son of Ares and Aphrodite

brother of Harmonia and Phobus

Deimus<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of the horses of Ares

(see also Phobos<sup>2</sup>)

Deimne (see Demna)

Deione Greek

a nymph

In some accounts she was the mother of Miletus by Apollo.

Deionides Greek

a name for Miletus as son of Deione

Deino Greek

[Dino.'terrible']

one of the Graiae

Deion<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Deioneus]

a king of Phodis

son of Aeolus and Enarete

husband of Diomede

father of Actor, Aenetus, Asteropeia,

Cephalus and Phylacus

Deion<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Deioneus]

son of Eurytus

husband of Perigune

Deioneus (see Deion)

Deipara Roman

[=Greek Theotikos]

mother of god: god-bearing

Deiphilus (see Thoas<sup>3</sup>)

Deiphobe (see Sibyl of Cumae)

Deiphobos (see Deiphobus)

Deiphobus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Deiphobos]

son of Priam and Hecuba

brother of Hector, Helenus and Paris

After the death of Paris, he quarrelled with Helenus over Helen, who had been abducted by Paris and when Helenus fled he forcibly married her.

She removed all the weapons from his house so that he was easily killed by Menelaus at the fall of Troy.

Deiphobus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Deiphobos]

son of Hippolytus

He purified Heracles of the murder of Iphitus.

Deiphontes Greek

son of Antimachus

husband of Hynetho

His wife's father, Temenus, favoured him over his own sons so they killed Temenus. One of them, Creisus, took over the throne of Argos, sending his brothers to persuade Hynetho to leave her husband. She refused and was killed when they tried to force her. Deiphontes was elected king and he expelled Creisus and his brothers.

Deipyra Greek

[Deipyle]

daughter of Adrastus and Amphithea

sister of Aegialius, Argia and Cyanippus

wife of Tydeus

mother of Diomedes

Deipyle (see Deipyra)

Deipylus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Polymestor and Ilione

Ilione's young brother (or nephew), Polydorus, was sent to stay at the court of Polymestor for safety during the siege of Troy. When Polymestor planned to kill the boy for the treasure that he had brought with him, Ilione substituted her own son, Deipylus, who was killed by his own father.

Deipylus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Tlepolemus and Polyxia

Deirdra (see Deirdre)

Deirdre<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Deirdra.De(i)rdrui:=Scottish Darrathray]

a dawn goddess

daughter of Felim mac Dall

When she cried out in her mother's womb it was foretold by Cathbad that she would wed a foreign king who would bring sorrow to Ireland, so High-King Conor reared her himself, with Lavarcham for nurse, with a view to making her his wife when she was old enough. She preferred a younger man and ran away with Naisi. The king gave them safe conduct to return but then had Naisi and his brothers killed by Eoghan mac Durthacht and he forcibly married Deirdre. She refused even to speak to him and after a year he gave her to Eoghan, whom she hated. She killed herself by throwing herself from a chariot and smashing her head against rocks. The tree that grew over her grave became entwined with the one that grew over Naisi's grave and they could never be separated.

A different version says that Deirdre threw herself into Naisi's grave, kissed his dead lips and died with him.

Deirdre<sup>2</sup> (see Ide)

Deirdre of the Sorrows Irish

a play by J. M. Synge dealing with the story of Deirdre and Naisi

Deirdriu (see Deirdre)

deiseal Irish

a right-hand circumnambulation

round a holy place

Such 'holy rounds' imitate the sun and are said to bring good luck or to ward off evil.

Deithin Irish

wife of Earc mac Trein

mother of Deaglan

Deity of the Field Paths Japanese

a giant

When Ninigi was sent to earth to restore order, this giant met him at a cross roads and thereafter acted as his guide. Ninigi gave him the dancing goddess, Uzume, as a reward for his help.

deive (see laumé)

Dejanira (see Deianeira)

Dekanawida North American

a chief of the Hurons or the Mohawks

It was prophesied that he would cause much trouble in later life so his mother dropped him through a hole in the ice when he was born. Three times she tried and each time she found him safe and sound next morning.

He grew to manhood in a few years, became an ally of Hiawatha and promulgated the laws of the confederacy of tribes.

Dekans Egyptian

war gods, 36 in number

These beings, usually depicted with the heads of animals, were later regarded as demons of sin and vice.

Dekla Baltic

the Latvian goddess of fate

sister of Karta and Laima

In some accounts these three sisters act as the Latvian Fates.

dekle (see devokji.diviji)

Del (see Devel)

Dela Irish

[Dele]

a Fir Bolg king of Leinster

father of Morca and Slaine

Delbaeth Irish
brother of the Dagda father of Dana, in some accounts
father of Lugh by Eire, some say

Delbchaem Irish [Dealbhchomh]
daughter of Morgan and Coinchend
Her father, King of the Land of Wonder, had locked Delbchaem in a tower to frustrate a prophecy that her mother would die when Delbchaem married. Art, son of Conn, rescued her, killed both her parents and took her back to Ireland where she became his wife.

Dele (see Dela)

Delgeeth (see Teelget)

Delgeth (see Teelget)

Delgnaid (see Dealgnaid)

Delgnat (see Dealgnaid)

Delia<sup>1</sup> Greek
a festival held every 5 years on the island of Delos in honour of Apollo

Delia<sup>2</sup> Greek
a name for Artemis referring to her place of birth, Delos

Delia<sup>3</sup> Greek
the ship in which Theseus travelled to Crete for his encounter with the Minotaur

Delia<sup>4</sup> Italian
[=Greek Artemis;=Roman Diana]
a Sabine goddess

Deliadés Greek
son of Glaucus by Eurynome or Eurymede
brother of Bellerophon
In some accounts he was killed accidentally by Bellerophon.

Delian Greek [Delius]
a name for Apollo referring to his birthplace, Delos

Deliel
a demon

Delight Makers (see Koshare)

Delion (see Deleion)

Delius (see Delian)

Delling (see Dellinger)

Dellinger Norse
[‘dawn’.Delling]
third husband of Nott
father of Dag
His realm was known as Heljar-ran.

Delos Greek
a small island
This island rose out of the sea when it was stirred up or when struck by Poseidon’s trident, and floated until it was anchored in the Aegean by Zeus.

Here, Leto gave birth to Apollo and Artemis, fathered by Zeus.

(see also Ortygia)

Delphi Greek

[Cirrha.Pytho]

the site of the oracle of Apollo

This site was originally the site of the oracle of Gaea, which was marked by the omphalos and was regarded as the centre of the world, being used as the site of the four-yearly Pythian games.

The oracular pronouncements were made by the Pythia, a priestess of Apollo who sat on a three-legged stool. Previously it had been the home of the serpent, Python, killed by the young Apollo.

Delphic Bee (see Pythia)

Delphic Oracle (see Pythia)

Delphic Sibyl (see Pythia)

Delphicia (see Pythia)

Delphin Greek

a minor god

Delphine Greek

[Delphyne]

a monster in the form of a serpent-

tailed dragon-woman

sister of Typhon

She was the guardian of the Corycian Cave where Typhon hid the sinews he cut from the body of Zeus when they fought.

In another story, until it was driven out by Apollo, the dragon was the originator of the revelations that inspired the Pythia to make her pronouncements.

Delphinia Greek

a festival in honour of Apollo, held annually at Athens in March

Delphinus (see Apollo)

Delphinos (see Delphinus)

Delphinosemos (see Odysseus)

Delphinus Greek

[Delphinos]

an intermediary for Poseidon

He was sent by Poseidon to plead his cause with Aphitrite. When she yielded and married him, Poseidon set Delphinus in the heavens as the Dolphin.

Delphyne (see Delphine)

Deluding of Gylfi (see Gylfa-ginning)

Deluge (see Flood)

dema-deities

demi-gods worshipped in early planter communities

Demaratus Roman

a Greek who emigrated to northern Italy

father of Lucumo

Demares (see Zeus Demaros)

Demaros (see Zeus Demaros)

Demas East Indian

early inhabitants of the earth

These beings, half man, half spirit, set the earth on fire. The fire was only extinguished when Darvi caused rain to fall.

Demeter Greek

[Achaiva.Amphictyonis.Black Demeter.

Chloe.Da-meter.Damater.Deo.Doso.

Epona.Erinys.Ga Metre.Ge Metre

Gemeter.Good Goddess. Grain Mother.

Hermione.Mother Da. Mother Earth.

Thesmorphorus.Three Eponae.White

Goddess:=Egyptian Isis: =Italic Damatar:

=Phrygian Cybele: =Roman Ceres.Dea Dia]

goddess of agriculture, corn and fertility

daughter of Cronus and Rhea or of

Uranus and Gaea

sister of Hades, Hera, Hestia, Poseidon and Zeus

wife of Iacchus, some say mother of Core (Persephone) and

Iacchus by Poseidon or Zeus

mother of Bootes and Plutus by Iasion

mother of Dionysus by Zeus, some say

It is said that as Black Demeter or Erinys, she and Poseidon coupled, both in the form of horses, to produce the nymph Despoena and Arion the winged horse. Some say that Core also came of this union or as the result of rape by Zeus.

She mated with Iasion in a ploughed field and produced Plutus. Her lover was killed by a thunderbolt hurled by Zeus.

In some accounts she produced a son, Acheron, without the help of a male.

She punished Erysichthon with everlasting hunger when he cut down a tree in her sacred grove. She changed the boy Stellio into a lizard when he made a joke about the speed at which she ate her food.

At the banquet where Tantalus served up his dismembered son Pelops she (or Thetis in some stories) ate the shoulder part and made a new one from ivory, which was built in when the boy was reassembled by the gods.

When her daughter Core was abducted by Hades she wandered the land, in the guise of an old woman, looking for her daughter. She was taken in by Celeus, king of Eleusis, and employed as Deo, a wet nurse to his new born son. To repay his kindness Demeter tried to make the infant immortal by plunging him into the fire but his frightened mother, Metaneira, snatched him away. In some stories the baby was Demophoon, in others he was Triptolemus: some say the baby died, others that it survived the ordeal. Abas, the eldest son of Celeus, made a foolish jest about Demeter's own son, Iacchus, and in a fit of temper she turned him into a lizard. She taught Celeus the Eleusinian mysteries and he became her first priest.

She eventually discovered what had happened to Core. In one version she was told by Triptolemus whose brothers had seen the abduction; in another she heard the truth in the burbling of the nymph Arethusa who had been turned into a stream and who had seen Core seated on a throne with Hades as she passed through the underworld en route to Sicily. Others say that Hecate, who had heard Core's cries, took Demeter to see Helios who, as sun god, had seen all that had occurred and told them what had happened to Core. Demeter now caused a blight to descend on the earth and refused to lift it until Zeus intervened to order Hades to release Core, who had been made queen of the underworld, as Persephone.

She is sometimes depicted as horse-headed. Her symbol is a sheaf.

Demeter Erinnus Greek

a name conferred on her by Poseidon who pursued and mated with her, both in the form of horses

Demeter Thesmophoros Greek

a name for Demeter as 'she who brings treasures'

Demeter's people Greek

[Demetreioi]
the dead

Demetia Celtic

a name for South Wales

Demetria Greek

a festival in honour of Demeter, held in Athens

Demetreioi (see Demeter's people)

Demetrus British

in some accounts, Merlin's grandfather

Demhne (see Demna)

Deminan West Indian

one of the 4 sons of Chubaba grandson of Bayamanaco

Demios Greek

god of dread

Demiourgos (see Demiurge)

Demitrius Serbian

brother of Stephan

Warned by a veela that he and his brother faced great danger, he deserted Stephan when the Turks attacked Belgrade and fled into the interior, leaving his brother to be captured.

Demiurge

[Demiourgos.Demiurgus]

a creator: a Gnostic god

son of Abattu

Demiurgus (see Demiurge)

Demna Irish

[De(i)mne.Demhne]

the name given to Finn mac Cool at birth

Demne (see Demna)

Democratia Greek

democracy personified

Demodocos (see Demodocus)

Demodocus Greek

[Demodocos]

a blind minstrel

He sang at the court of King Alcinoos when Odysseus was entertained there on his journey back to Greece.

Demogorgon

a mysterious deity of the underworld
the spirit king of the elves

King Arthur was said to have gone into the cave that was the home of the demogorgon on his way to Morgan's palace.

In The Faerie Queene, he is said to live in a deep ravine with the three Fates, but Ariosto has him living in the Himalayas.

Demoleon Greek

a centaur

He killed Crantor.

demon<sup>1</sup>

an evil pagan spirit: a devil

In some accounts, demons are said to have a life span of 680,000 years while others calculate it as only 9,720 years.

They are variously classified as:

- (1) armies (or hordes)
  - (2) demons from sexual intercourse
  - (3) demons attacking saints
  - (4) demons inducing women to attend Sabat
  - (5) demons of nightmare
  - (6) disguised demons
  - (7) fates
  - (8) familiars
  - (9) incubi and succubi
  - (10) poltergeists
- or as those of the:
- (1) atmosphere

(2) earth

(3) heavens

(4) night

(5) sea

(6) underground regions

or as:

(1) gnomes (of the underground regions)

(2) ondines or nymphs (of the seas)

(3) salamanders (of fire)

(4) sylphs (of the air)

Other lists deal with individual demons associated with various forms of temptation, including:

Ashtaroth (sloth)

Asmodeus (lust)

Baalberith (blasphemy)

Beelzebub (pride)

Belial (arrogance)

Carnivean (obscenity)

Carreau (lack of pity)

Cresil (slovenliness)

Juvant (reincarnation)

Leviathan (loss of faith)

Oillet (riches)

Olivier (cruelty)

Rosier (love)

Sonneillou (hate)

Verin (impatience)

Verrier (disobedience)

or ascribe various attributes:

Abaddon (evil war)

Ashtaroth (inquisitions)

Asmodeus (vengeance)

Beelzebub (false gods)

Belial (trickery)

Mammon (temptation)

Merizim (pestilence)

Pytho (falsehood)

Satan (sorcery)

In black magic, demons are classified in hierarchies:

(1) Grand Dignitaries or Princes

Baalberith, master of alliances

Beelzebub, supreme chief

Euronymous, prince of death

Leonard, grand master of the Sabbath

Moloch, ruler of the land of tears

Pluto, lord of fire

Proserpine ruler of evil spirits

Satan, leader of the opposition

(2) Ministers

Adrameleck, chancellor

Astaroth, treasurer

Leviathan, chief admiral

Nergal, head of secret police

(3) Ambassadors

Belial, in Turkey

Belphegor, in France

Hutgin, in Italy

Mamma, in England
 Martinet, in Switzerland
 Thamuz, in Spain
 (4) Judges
 Alastor, commissioner for public works
 Lucifer, chief justice
 (5) Royal Household
 Behemoth, steward
 Chamos, chamberlain
 Dagon, steward
 Melchom, paymaster
 Misroch, chief steward
 Mullin, valet
 Siccor-Benoth, chief eunuch
 Verdelet, master of the court
 (6) Master of Revels
 Antichrist, juggler
 Asmodeus, supervisor
 Kobal, stage manager
 Nybras, director

Generally, demons can appear in many different forms, in many different locations, usually during the hours of darkness; are born, grown, have children and die; intermarry with humans and have the same appetites and desires as humans. Most are harmful, some are benevolent to mankind.

Some traditions maintain that demons are born from the union of gods and mortals, others that they are sexless beings.

The number of such beings has been variously estimated as 44,435,556 and 133,306,668.

In Dante's Divine Comedy, in Inferno (Hell), there are demons employed in pushing barrators under the surface of boiling pitch. These twelve (with English names in brackets) are given as:
 Alichino (Hellkin)
 Barbariccia (Barbiger)
 Cagnazzo (Harrow-hound)
 Ciriato (Guttlehog)
 Draghignazza (Dragonel)
 Farfarello (Farfarel)
 Graffiacane (Grabbersnitch)
 Malacoda (Belzecue)
 Malebranche (Hellraker)
 Rubicante (Rubicant)
 Scarmiglione (Scaramallion)
 (see also daemon.daimon)

Demon<sup>2</sup> (see Algol)

Demon Cat of Losanne (see Capalu)

Demon Gate Barrier Buddhist
 the place in Hades where a wandering spirit may be attacked by demons who demand money

Demon of Midnight<sup>1</sup> Russian
 a female demon

She was said to appear at harvest time and break the reapers' arms and legs.

Demon of Midnight<sup>2</sup> (see Empusa)

Demon of the Eclipse
 (see Heavenly Dog Star)

demon points (see nodes)

Demon Prince (see Asmodeus)

Demon Road (see Gakido)

Demon Star (see Algol)

demonality (see demonism)

Demonassa<sup>1</sup> Greek

wife of Poeas
 mother of Philoctetes

Demonassa<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Amphiarus and Eriphyle wife of Thersander
 mother of Tisamenus

Demonassa<sup>3</sup> Greek

mother of Eurytion by Actor or Irus

demoness

a female evil spirit or devil

Demong East Indian

a warrior hero

son of Entingi

He was the leader of the Iban people in their settlement of Borneo. The stone boundary markers he erected are said to bleed if moved.

demoniac

one possessed by a devil

demoniacism

possession by a devil

demonianism

the belief that humans can be possessed by devils

demoniast

one who believes in or deals with demons (see also demonist.demonolater)

Demonice Greek

daughter of Agenor and Epicaste mother of Evander by Ares sister of Thestius

Some accounts regard her as the sister of Thestius, others as his mother by Ares. She was also the mother of Evenus by Ares.

demonifuge

a spell or charm said to ward off demons (see also stones)

demonism

[demonolater.demonality.demonomy] devil-worship

demonist

one who believes in or worships demons (see also demoniast.demonolater)

demonise

to portray as or turn into a devil

demonocracy

rule by devils: the power of devils

demonography

writing about demons

demonolater

one who worships devils

(see also demoniast.demonist)

demonolatre

(see demonism)

demonologist

one who makes a study of devils, etc.

demonology

the study of devils, etc.

demonomagy

the study of magic in relation to demons

demonomancy

divination by means of demons

Any form of divination can be said to be controlled by demons but this term is more appropriately used for those forms that actively invoke the presence of demons, such as conjuration and necromancy.

demonomania

a state in which one feels possessed by devils

demonomy

(see demonism)

demonopath

one who suffers from the belief that his actions are controlled by demons

demonopathy

illness, mental or physical, caused by the belief that one's actions are controlled by demons

demonry

influence by demons

Demon's Head

(see Algol)

the influence of evil spirits

Demophile

(see Sibyl of Cumae)

Demophon

(see Demophon)

Demphoon<sup>1</sup>

Greek

[Demophon]

son of Celeus and Metaneira

When Demeter who, as Deo, was temporarily employed as his wet nurse, tried to make the infant Demophon immortal by fire, it went wrong. In one story he died in the fire but in another his mother snatched him away and he survived. In other stories it is his brother Triptolemus who went through the ordeal.

Demphoon<sup>2</sup>

Greek

[Demophon]

king of Athens

son of Theseus and Phaedra

brother of Acamas

He survived the Trojan War and afterwards fell in love with Phyllis. When he left her to visit Athens she killed herself, believing that he would never return. She was turned into an almond tree. (see also Acamas<sup>2</sup>)

Demphoon<sup>3</sup> Greek [Demophon]
 king of Elaeus
 He instituted the annual sacrifice of a virgin to avert plague. When Mastusius objected, the king took Mastusius' daughter as the next victim. Mastusius killed the king's daughters in revenge and gave the king a cup of their blood to drink. Demphoon killed Mastusius by throwing him, together with the cup, into the sea.

Demoriel
 a demon, emperor of the north

Demos Greek
 the people, as the source of power, personified

Dena Persian
 [Daena]
 a goddess, religion personified
 daughter of Ahura Mazda

dendan Persian
 a sea monster in The Arabian Nights
 It was said that if this monster touched human flesh or even heard a human voice, it died.

denderah Egyptian
 the Egyptian version of the Zodiac

Dendrites Greek
 a name for Dionysus as a tree god

Dendritis Greek [Helena Dendritis]
 a tree goddess
 A name for Helen in Rhodes, reflecting the story that she was hanged from a tree.

dendrolatry (see tree worship)

Deng<sup>1</sup> African
 an ancestor god and storm god of the Dinka
 He can kill by lightning; those so killed are taken directly to heaven.

Deng<sup>2</sup> African
 a fertility god and rain god of the Nuer
 In some accounts he brings diseases.

Dengei (see Degei)

Dennitsa (see Zvezda Dennitsa)

Denw British
 daughter of Lot by Anna wife of Owain

Deo<sup>1</sup> Greek
 an ancient corn goddess
 She was later assimilated with Demeter, though in some accounts she is identified with Rhea. She is depicted with the head of a horse.

Deo<sup>2</sup> (see Demeter.Deo<sup>1</sup>)

Deoca Irish [Deac.Deoch]
 wife of Lairngen

She wanted the singing swans, the Children of Lir, as a wedding present so Lairngen seized them from Mo Caemoc, the hermit who had sheltered them.

Deoch (see Deoca)

Deogan (see Dagan<sup>1</sup>)

Deohako North American
 Iroquois plant spirits
 This is the name given to the three daughters of Earth Mother. Their individual names were Bear, Corn (Onatah) and Squash.

Deon (see Dôn)

Deophontes (see Bellerophon)

Deoraidh Irish
 [Maol Deoraidh]
 When Cellach was deposed by Guaire and fled to an island, Deoraidh and three other young monks went with him. They accepted a bribe from Guaire and killed Cellach. The dead man's brother, Muireadhach, found the body, and when he caught the murderers, he had them killed.

Deorgreine (see Der Greine.Niam<sup>1</sup>)

Depaki (see Dipaki)

Der Fliegende Hollander (see Flying Dutchman)

Der Freischutz German
 [The Freeshooter]
 a 19th c opera, written by Weber, based on the story of the marksman who made a pact with the Devil

Der Greine Irish [Deorgreine.Sun Tear]
 daughter of Fiachna mac Retach
 She and her mother were abducted by Goll mac Golb. Laoghaire mac Criomthann rescued them, killed Goll and married Der Greine.

Deramed European
 a Saracen king
 He was the leader of the forces fighting the Franks at the Battle of Archamp.

Derbhorgill (see Dearbhfhorgaill)

Derbrenn Irish
 a lover of Angus Og
 She became the foster-mother to six children who were turned into pigs by their real mother. They were later sent to Buichet. (see also Buichet)

Dercetis (see Atargatis)

Dercetius Roman
 a Spanish mountain god

Derceto (see Atargatis)

Dercynus Greek
 son of Poseidon
 He was killed by Heracles when he tried to steal some of Geryon's cattle that Heracles was driving on his tenth Labour.

Derdriu (see Deirdre)

Derfel British

a knight at King Arthur's court
 a Welsh saint

He is said to have fought at the Battle of Camlan and lived to found Llanderfel. His feast day is 5 April.

Derg (see Bodb Dearg.Da Derga)

Derg Corra Irish

a servant of Finn mac Cool

A woman carried off by Finn fell in love with Derg, who was promptly banished by his jealous master.

dergflaith Irish

a cup from which kings drank to mark their role as consort to Flaitheas

Dering mac Doba Irish

a seer
 son of Doba O'Bascna

He could close his eyes and see things happening at a distance and those yet to occur. He went with Oisín to seek the hand of Grania as Finn's third wife.

Derketo (see Atargatis)

Dermot O'Dyna Irish

[Dearnid O'Dyna.Diarmaid ua Duibhne. Diarmaid Donn.Diarmait.Diarmuid Na Duibhne]

a follower of Finn mac Cool son of Donn

father of Eachtach, some say

His mother had another son by Roc, the steward to Angus Og, and Donn killed the boy. His father magically changed the corpse into a huge boar with no ears or tail, and charged it to avenge the death of his son by killing Dermot who had been given to Angus to raise.

As a man, Dermot joined the Fianna and sailed with Finn in the search for their comrades who had disappeared when Gilla Dacar and his horse plunged into the sea. They stopped at an island with steep cliffs, which Dermot climbed to find a delightful land with no inhabitants. He took a drink from a well in the forest and found himself challenged by the Knight of the Well. They fought for two days (or three) and at the end of each day the knight jumped into the well. On the third (or fourth) day, Dermot grabbed him to prevent him doing the same again but they both fell into the well. Dermot found himself in fairyland, Tir fa Tonn, where his missing comrades had been taken by Gilla Dacar who was a prince of this land under the sea and whose name was Abharthach. He had lured Finn and his men to his country to help in his fight against his brother who had deprived the prince of his half-share of the kingdom.

He was one of the party of nine men, led by Goll mac Morna, that recovered Finn's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, when they were stolen by Arthur.

In the adventure of the Hostel of the Quicken Trees, Dermot led a small relief force, killing Midac who had trapped Finn and some of his men. He and Fotla then held the ford against the onslaught of the three kings of the Islands of the Torrent and killed them all. By sprinkling blood from the heads of these kings on the floor of the hostel, he was able to free Finn and his companions from the enchantment that had held them prisoners there. In the final attack, led by Borba, Dermot and Fotla held the fort until Finn and the others were sufficiently recovered to join the fight and repel the invaders.

In an earlier adventure, a maiden who claimed to be 'Youth' had placed an indelible love-spot, the ball-seirc, on his forehead which made him attractive to all women. At the wedding of Finn to Grania, the bride noticed the spot and asked what it signified. When the druid Dara told her, she drugged the drinks of the guests and eloped with Dermot. Finn and his Fianna hunted the couple all over the country and on one occasion surrounded the enclosure that Dermot had built in the Wood of Two Tents. Angus Og, his foster-father, flew to their aid and took Grania to safety in the Wood of Two Swallows. Dermot escaped by his own efforts and when he was reunited with Grania, they moved on to the Forest of Dooros, where they lived for some time. Grania developed a longing for the magic berries that grew on the quicken tree guarded by Sharvan. When this surly giant refused a request for some of the berries, Dermot killed him. They were then trapped in the quicken tree by Finn and the Fianna but once again Angus Og rescued Grania and took her to the Palace of the Boyne. Dermot again escaped and was joined by Oscar, Finn's grandson. Finn made a final effort to kill Dermot by enlisting the help of his foster-mother, a witch, but Dermot killed her as she rode on a millstone over his head. They were outlawed for seven (or sixteen) years but finally made peace with Finn. During the celebrations, Finn went hunting on Ben Bulben and raised a huge boar which turned out to be the one charged to kill Dermot. Dermot killed the boar, even as it disembowelled him, but not even the magic of Finn, who could restore the dying with a drink of water from his hands, could save him. Angus Og took the body to his palace and put a new soul into it each day, allowing it to revive for a few minutes to talk to Angus.

Some versions say that Dermot died when a bristle from the boar pierced his foot and that Finn, still seeking revenge for Dermot's elopement with Grania, refused him the drink which would have saved his life.

Derodydimus Greek
a two-headed monster

Dervaspā Persian
[Gosh]
a guardian deity of cattle

Dervonnae European
oak goddesses: mother goddesses

Desa Irish
a noble

He acted as foster-father to the young Canary, rearing him alongside his three great-grandsons.

Desana South American
[Master of Animals]

a deity responsible for all animals
Some of the Amazon tribes regard this deity as a shape-changer who sometimes takes the form of a squirrel.
(see also Jaguar)

descent (see avatar)

Desert of Demons Persian [Badiatealgim]

a part of the realm of Jinnestan

Desert of Monsters Persian
[Badiat-Coldare]

part of the realm of Jinnestan

Desired Knight British
a name for Galahad

Desiderata European
in some accounts, one of the 9 wives of Charlemagne

Desiderio (see Desiderius)

Desiderius European [Desiderio.Didier]
a king of Lombardy
father of Hermangarde
He led his army in support of Charlemagne when France was invaded by Agramont, Marsilius and Rodomont. He joined forces with the Hungarians, led by Ottachiero and Rinaldo, but they were defeated by the invading forces.

When Ogier fled from Charlemagne's court when his son was killed by Charlot, Desiderius gave him shelter and then the use of Castelfort.

Desiré British
a knight who was enchanted by a fairy

It is suggested that the fairy in this case, as in many others, was Morgan le Fay.

Desire (see Pothos')

Deso Korean
son of Kumwa

He persuaded his father to kill Chumong, the boy who had been hatched from an egg produced by Yuhwa, but she heard about the plot and Chumong escaped.

Despair British
a giant in Bunyan's The Pilgrim's Progress

Despoena Greek [Despoina.'lady'.The Mistress] daughter of Poseidon and Demeter

It was said that her parents mated in the form of horses.

In some accounts she is the same as Core (Persephone) as queen of the underworld.

She was envisaged as a mare-headed deity.

Despoina (see Despoena)

Despontes Greek
a king
husband of Arne

When his wife had an affair with Poseidon and bore the twin boys Aeolus and Boeotus, he blinded her, locked her in an underground cell and exposed the babies on a mountain. In other versions, Melanippe was the mother of the twins. (see also Melanippe)

Desportes West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Dessauli Indian
the spirit of the sal tree

Dessimir Serbian
a servant of Vukashin

When a veela warned Vukashin that the fortress that he and his brother were building at Scutari would never stand unless the infant twins, Stoyan and Stoyana, were buried under the walls, Dessimir was sent to look for the babies. He could not find them and the wife of Goiko, his master's brother, was immured in the walls instead.

Destroyer of the World

(see Ki-gulla)

Detors

British

in Arthurian lore, a king of Northumberland

Deucalion<sup>1</sup>

Greek

[Deukalion]
king of Phthia
son of Prometheus and Clymene, Pasiphae or Pronoia father of Amphictryon, Hellen and Idomeneus
husband of Pyrrha

He was forewarned by his father of the coming flood and saved himself and his wife Pyrrha. In some stories they stood on Mount Parnassus, which projected above flood level, but in others he built an ark and saved himself and his wife when Zeus caused the whole world to flood. They repopulated the world by throwing stones over their shoulders, each of which turned into a human being.

In other versions of the story, Dardanus and Ogyges appear in place of Deucalion and others have Clymene as Deucalion's wife.

Deucalion<sup>2</sup>

Greek

[Deukalion]
father of Orestheus

Deucalion<sup>3</sup>

Greek

[Deukalion]
a king of Crete
son of Minos and Pasiphae
father of Idomeneus and Molus

Deukalion

(see Deucalion)

Deumus

[Dumo]
a demon

This being is depicted as a man with four horns and the legs of a cockerel.

Deunysos

(see Dionysus)

deus

Roman

[=Greek Theos]
the Latin word for god

Deus Fides

(see Fidius)

deuterocopy

divination: second sight

dev

Armenian

a huge spirit

These beings are envisaged as having seven heads, but sometimes only one eye, and live in caves or forests. They can cause fainting and even insanity but can be warded off by cutting the air with a sword or stick.

deva<sup>1</sup>

Buddhist

[daeva]
a divine being: a goblin: a hero

deva<sup>2</sup>

Hindu

[daeva.devata:=Japanese 10:=Tibetan lha]
a god: a good spirit: a being above the level of animal or human (see also sura<sup>2</sup>)

Deva<sup>3</sup>

Hindu

[Daeva]
daughter of Nanda and Yasoda
She was substituted for the infant Krishna, so that he could escape the demon Kansa and she was taken up to heaven.

deva<sup>4</sup>

Hindu

one of the 6 gati, the realm of gods

deva<sup>5</sup>

Pacific Islands

in Bali, a spirit

deva<sup>6</sup>

(see div)

Deva-Deva

Indian

the Sanskrit version of Jawa-Jewa

Deva Kings (see Four Diamond Kings)

deva-loka

Buddhist

one of 26 spheres inhabited by devas

Deva-matri

Hindu

[Devamatri.Devamatar]
a name for Aditi as 'mother of gods'

devadasi

Hindu

dancers and prostitutes tending temple idols

Devadatta<sup>1</sup>

Buddhist

a cousin of the Buddha

He was originally a great friend of the Buddha but later became his bitter enemy. He contested with the Buddha for the hand of Yasodhara in a series of events that involved skill and strength, and was defeated. He usurped the Buddha's throne and made several attempts to kill him, all of which were unsuccessful.

He paid a group of warriors to kill his cousin but they were converted to peace when they heard their intended victim preaching.

He also had a huge catapult constructed and used it to throw a boulder at the Buddha, but was again frustrated when Vahjrapani hurled a thunderbolt that smashed the stone to smithereens.

On another occasion he put poison on his feet and tried to kill his cousin by scratching him with his toe nails.

When Devadatta tried to kill the Buddha, the earth opened, swallowing him and he was consigned to hell.

Devadatta<sup>2</sup>

Hindu

a conch shell used by Indra as a weapon

Devadeva

Hindu

an epithet of Vasudeva (see also Deva-Deva)

devak

Hindu

a guardian deity
Such a deity may be worshipped at marriage or when moving into a new house. Those who share the devak may not marry.

Devaka

Hindu

father of Devaki

Devaki

Hindu

a mother goddess
daughter of Devaka
sister of Kansa
a consort of Vasudeva
mother of Balarama and Krishna

Devaki had eight sons but six were killed by her brother, who believed that the eighth would kill him. Two were saved when Vishnu impregnated her with two hairs from his head and later transferred the unborn babies, Balarama to Rohini and Krishna to Yasoda, to be delivered at full term.

In some versions the black hair was from Vishnu's own head, the white one from Ananta. Others say that Krishna was born to Devaki and the exchange with Yasoda's child took place after, rather than before, his birth.

She died when she threw herself on the funeral pyre of Krishna.

She is regarded as a manifestation of Aditi.

devaloka

Jain

part of Kalpa, the uppermost region of the universe

Kalpa is divided into sixteen separate devalokas or heavens.

Devamatar

(see Deva-matri)

Devamatri

(see Deva-matri)

Devana

European

[=Polish Dziejwona:=Roman Diana:=Serbian Dilwica]
a Czech goddess of the chase

Devananda

Jain

a goddess
mother of Mahavira by Rishabhadata
On the orders of the god Sakra, the embryo of her son, later to be known as Mahavira, was transferred from her womb to that of Trishala.

Devaparvata

Hindu

a name for Mount Meru as 'mountain of the gods'

Devapura

(see Amaravati)

Devapurohita

Hindu

a sky god, the planet Jupiter

Devaputra

Buddhist

minor gods

Devasena Hindu
[Sena]
a goddess

In some accounts Inara rescued her from the demon Keshin and took her up to heaven where she married Agni and bore Karttikeya. Others say that she was the consort of Skanda, the alternative name for Karttikeya.

devata Hindu
[=Borneo jewata:=Cambodian tevoda:
=Indonesia dewi:=Java dewata: =Philippines divata:=Sumatra leibata]
a general name for a female deity: a nature spirit

(see also gramadevata.devi<sup>1</sup>)

Devata Bandara (see Dadimunda)

Devayana Hindu
the way of the gods: the route to unity with the brahman

(see also Pitriyana)

Devayani Hindu

daughter of Shukra

wife of Yayati

mother of Turvasu and Yadu

She fell in love with Kacha, cursed him when he rejected her and was cursed in return with the threat of marrying a man of low caste.

She quarrelled with Princess Sarnustha who threw Devayani down a well from which she was rescued by a king called Yayati, whom she married. Sarnustha was forced to work as a servant to Devayani but Yayati had an affair with her, fathering three sons. Devayani left her husband, who drew down her father's curse upon himself.

In another story the Aswins killed Kacha but Devayani persuaded her father to restore him to life. This was repeated several times until the demons burned Kacha's body and mixed his ashes with her father's wine. This time, Kacha was restored in her father's stomach from where he was delivered by a surgeon. Since he was now Devayani's 'brother', she could not marry him.

deve (see div<sup>2</sup>)

Devel
[Del]
a supreme god in the lore of the gypsies

Deverra Roman
a goddess of birth

She was one of three deities present at the birth of a baby to ward off any advance by Silvanus. While Deverra did the sweeping, Intercidona chopped wood and Pillumnus pounded grain.

devi<sup>1</sup> Hindu [devata]
a name for a goddess

Devi<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a name for Durga, Kali, Parvati and Uma

Devi<sup>3</sup> Hindu

[Ambika.Arya.Bhagavati.Bhairavi
Bhimadevi.Bhramari.Bhuta-Nayaki.Black
One.andi.Dakshaja.Dakshina.Dasha-Bhuja.
Divine Mother.Durga.Gana-Nayaki.
Gauri.Girija.Haima(va)ti.Ishani.Jagadgauri.
Jaganmata.Jaganmatri.Kali.Kamakhya.
Kamaks(h)i.Kanyakumari.Karna-Moti.
K(a)umari.Kotari.Mahadevi.Maha(maya).
Mahes(h)vari Mahis(h)asuramardini.
Parvati.Raktadanti.Rudrani.Sati.Shakti.
S(h)itala(mata).Simha-Rathi.Simha-Vahini.
Snow Queen.Supreme Goddess.Uma]

daughter of Himavan

wife of Shiva

mother of Kabandha, Kiemara

and Skanda

She is conceived as a personification of the primaeva essence, Brahman.

As Sati, she was Shiva's consort and as Parvati she was the reincarnation of Sati. She also appeared as Durga or Kali and is depicted as having four heads and four arms.

(see also Durga.Mahadevi)

Devi-Mahatmya Hindu

[Chandipath(a)]

a poem lauding the goddess Mahadevi

Devi-Seri (see Devi-Shri)

Devi-Shri Hindu

[Devi-S(e)ri:=East Indian Dewi Shri]

a name for Lakshmi as 'noble goddess'

Devi-Sri (see Devi-Shri)

Devika Hindu

wife of Yudhishtira

mother of Yaudheya

devil

an evil spirit

Some say that devils were originally angels. In one version they were expelled from heaven for a sin such as pride; others say that they deliberately engineered their fall from grace so that they might more effectively serve mankind.

Devil and his Dandy Dogs
(see Devil's Dandy Dogs)

Devil of Silver

a devil in the form of a dragon

A 19th C story says that this demon flew through the skies dropping pieces of silver as he went.

Devil on Two Sticks

[Limping Devil]

the name given to Asmodeus in a story in which he was knocked out of heaven during an argument with Pillardoc

Devil's Apple (see mandrake)

Devil's candle (see mandrake)

Devil's Dandy Dogs British

a version of the Wild Hunt

This phenomenon consists of a pack of fire-breathing hounds said to appear on stormy nights in the south-west of England, where they are led over the moors by the Devil himself.

(see also Wild Hunt)

Devil's Island (see Onigashima)

Devourgilla (see Deabhthorgaill)

Devourer (see Garuda)

devus

a name for a supreme deity

Dew-i-safid Persian

[The White Demon]

in some accounts, the demon who captured and blinded Kay Kaus

(see also Arzang)

Dewa Laksana Malay

a king

When he was under attack by Vishnu, he changed himself into a pomegranate. This fruit was eaten by Princess Seribunian, with the result that she gave birth to a daughter, Salindung Dalima.

Dewali (see Deepavali)

Dewanei Hindu

one of the consorts of Subrahmanya

Dewat (see Amenti<sup>2</sup>)

dewata East Indian

[=Borneo jewata:=Hindu devata:=Indonesia

devi:=Philippines divata:=Sumatra leibata]

a general name for a goddess in Java

dewi<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

[=Borneo jewata:=Hindu devata:=Indonesia

devi:=Java dewata:=Philippines divata:

=Sumatra leibata]

a general name for a goddess

in Indonesia

Dewi<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a name for Kali or Uma in Indonesia

Dewi Sant British

the Welsh name for David (see David<sup>2</sup>)

Dewi Seri (see Dewi Shri)

Dewi Shri East Indian

[Chandra Kirana.Dewi S(e)ri.Pratiwi.

Pratiwi:=Hindu Devi-Shri]

a Javanese earth-goddess and rice goddess

consort of Wisnu

She is regarded as an aspect of Lakshmi and, in some stories, is reincarnated as Sinta, Rukmini and Subadra.

Dewi Sri (see Dewi Shri)

dewmink North American

a fabulous animal in Connecticut

Dewartha (see Gwyddno Garanhirtan)

Dexamenus	Greek	Dhanvantari	Hindu	dharmachakra<sup>2</sup>	Hindu father of Mnesimache		[D(h)anwantari.Divine Doctor Kantatman. Sudhapani]		[=Buddhist Wheel of the Law]
father of Eurypylus, some say		physician to the gods		the wheel of destiny
His daughter, Mnesimache, was carried off by Eurytion, a Cretan, but Heracles, travelling home from his fifth Labour, arrived in time to kill him and save the maiden from rape.		He was the second thing to emerge from the water when the gods churned the ocean to make amrita. He is described as a black youth holding a cup of amrita. He was later a physician to the gods.		Dharmadhavaja	Buddhist
deyves	Baltic	In later traditions he is seen as an avatar of Vishnu.		the first Tashi Lama of Tibet stones as objects of veneration in Lithuania		Some accounts equate him with Pradyumna.		Dharmadhatuvagisvara	Buddhist
Dgah-bo	Buddhist	Dhanwantari ( see Dhanvantari)		[Manjughosha]
the Tibetan version of Nanda		Dhapura ( see Saubha <sup>2</sup> )		a four-headed god of law
dGra-lha	Tibetan	Dhara	Hindu	an aspect of Amitabha
[Da-lah]		one of Indra's 8 attendant gods (earth)		Dharmakara ( see Dharmakari)
king of the body		Dharana	Sikk	Dharmakari	Buddhist
one of the Mahapancharajas		a seven-headed snake		[Dharmakara]
He is depicted holding a whip and a tiger skin and bearing a lion or a tiger on his shoulders. He rides a blue or yellow horse.		He protected Parshva, the twenty-third tirthankara, from the demon Meghamalin.		a monk who resolved to become a Buddha
dGun-ayi-rgyal-mo	Tibetan	dharani<sup>1</sup>	Buddhist	He was said to be reincarnated as Amida or Amitabha or to have become Amitayas.
the Tibetan version of the Buddhist Hamantadevi		[dharini]		Dharmaketu ( see Buddha <sup>1</sup> )
Dhakhan	Australian	a group of 12 deities personifying religious texts		Dharmakirtisagaraghosa	Tibetan
the rainbow god of the Aborigines		Dharani<sup>2</sup>	Hindu	Dharmamegha	Buddhist
He is part fish, part man, and appears as the rainbow when he moves from one waterhole to another.		an earth-goddess		a goddess
Dhaki ( see Azhi Dahak)		consort of Parasurama		a Buddhist-Lamaist god of medicine
Dhammapada	Buddhist	a form of Lakshmi		one of the sMan-bla
sacred writings: the words of Buddha		dharani<sup>3</sup>		one of the 12 bhumis
Dhana-Pati	Hindu	a mantra in Buddhist and Hindu rituals		Dharmamanjughosha	Buddhist
[Dhanada]		Dharini<sup>1</sup>	Buddhist	one of the 4 Manjughosha
a name for Kubera as lord of wealth		a goddess of memory		an aspect of Manjushri as lord of speech
Dhanada<sup>1</sup>	Buddhist	dharini<sup>2</sup> ( see dharani <sup>1</sup> )		Dharmapala	Buddhist
an aspect of Amoghasiddhu		Dharma<sup>1</sup>	Hindu	[Eight Terrible Ones]
a form of Tara		[Chandala.Dharme]		one of the 8 'protectors of the truth'
Dhanada<sup>2</sup> ( see Dhana-Pati)		a Vedic god of justice, truth personified		These beings are depicted as giants with sharp fangs and three eyes, one of which is in the middle of the forehead and beams perfect knowledge to the unbelievers.
Dhanistha	Hindu	father of Yudhishtira. ( see also Jujaka)		They are listed as Beg-Tse, Hayagriva, Kubera, Mahakala, Sitabrahma, Sri, Yama and Yamataka.
[Sravistha]		Dharma<sup>2</sup>	Hindu	Dharmapratismvit	Buddhist
a goddess of misfortune		[Dharme:=Indonesian Darma]		a nature goddess daughter of Daksha		a sage who married 10 or 13 daughters of Daksha		one of the 4 pratismvits
wife of Candra ( see also sKui-rgyal-po)		judge of the dead		Dharmaraja ( see Dharma-Raja)
Dhanu<sup>1</sup>	Hindu	father of Yudhishtira		Dharmasastras ( see Dharmasastras)
one of the signs of the Zodiac,		He is regarded as an avatar of Vishnu.		Dharmasastras	Hindu
Sagittarius the bow ( see also Dhanus)		dharma-kaya	Buddhist	[Dharmasastras]
Dhanu<sup>2</sup>	Jain	the cosmic body of the Buddha, the body of the law: the Buddha as the personification of truth		religious writings dealing with creation, etc.
gods of the underworld		( see also Three Bodies Doctrine)		Dharmatrata	Chinese
These beings torture the wicked dead by jabbing them with arrows.		Dharma-Raja<sup>1</sup>	Buddhist	a 1st c writer
Dhanus	Hindu	[Dharma-Rajah]		one of the Eighteen Lohan, in some accounts
the Bow of Victory		a mortal who was deified		Dharmavasita	Buddhist
This weapon, the unerring bow of Vishnu, one of the precious objects of Hinduism, was the thirteenth object to be produced during the Churning of the Ocean. In some versions, Durga is depicted holding a bow.		Dharma-Raja<sup>2</sup>	Hindu	a goddess
( see also Dhanu <sup>1</sup> )		[Darma Rajah]		one of the 12 Paramita goddesses
		a name for Yama as 'lord of justice'		Dharme ( see Dharma)
		Dharma-Rajah ( see Dharma-Raja)		Dharmesh	Hindu
		Dharmachakra<sup>1</sup>	Buddhist	a deity sometimes identified with Surya
		a lord of speech		Dharmogata	Buddhist
		an aspect of Manjushri		a bodhisattva

Dhartarashthra<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[=Japanese Jikoku.=Tibetan Yue-khor-srung]

lord of the Gandharvas in the east
one of the 4 LokopalasDhartarashthra<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Dhr(ṭ)taras(h)tra:=Chinese Ch'ih Kuo:

=Japanese Jikoku:=Javanese Dresterata:

=Taoist Mo-li Ch'ing:=Tibetan Dri-za.

Yul-khor-srung]

a guardian spirit of the east

son of Vyasa and Ambika

husband of Gandhari

His father was said to be Vyasa, a very ugly man who did his duty to give a child to each of the widows of the two sons of Santanu, his half-brother, both of whom had died childless. Because one of the widows (Ambika) closed her eyes and the other (Ambalika) went pale when they slept with Vyasa, their sons, Dhartarashthra and Pandu, were born respectively blind and light skinned.

His 100 sons, the Kauravas, were in conflict with their five cousins, the Pandavas, and at the end of the war between them, Dhartarashthra was one of the few survivors. He became a hermit in the forest and perished in a forest fire.

Dharti Awwal (see Dharti Mata)Dharti Mai (see Dharti Mata)Dharti Mata Hindu

[Bhu(mi)devi].Dharti Awwal.Dharti Mai]

a mother goddess

consort of Thakur Deo

She is worshipped in the form of a pot or a pile of stones.

Some accounts equate her with Prithivi.

Dhartri Mai (see Dharti Mata)Dhatar (see Dhatri)Dhatr (see Dhatri)Dhatri Hindu

[Dhat(a)r]

a sun god

one of the Adityas

Brahma as 'organiser of the world'

He was a skilled craftsman who made the sun, moon and planets.

In some accounts he is the same as Prajapati.

Dhaul (see Dhol)Dhenuka Hindu

one of the demons sent by Kansa to kill Krishna

He attacked Balarama and Krishna, taking the form of a huge donkey, when they were picking fruit in his orchard. Balarama picked the demon up by his back legs and swung him round, killing him.

Dhisana (see Dhishana)Dhisani (see Dhishani)Dhishana Hindu

[Dhisana]

a name for Brhaspati as 'wise one'

Dhishani Hindu

[Dhisani]

a goddess of good fortune

Dhol Hindu

[Dhaul]

a white cow

This beast is said to support the world on its horns.

Dhrishtadyumna Hindu

the leader of the Pandava forces

brother of Draupadi

His father had been killed by the Kaurava general, Drona, so he tricked Drona into believing that his son, Ashvathaman, was dead and then killed him. Ashvathaman, very much alive, killed not only Dhrishtadyumna but many of his soldiers as well.

Dhritarashtra (see Dhartarashthra)Dhritarastra (see Dhartarashthra)Dhrtarastra (see Dhartarashthra)Dhrti Jain

a minor goddess

Dhruva Hindu

the Pole Star

son of Uttanapada and Suniti

brother of Uttama

one of 8 gods attendant

on Indra

He and his mother were expelled from his father's court at the behest of the king's younger wife and they lived in the forest until he was seven when he went in search of his father. This time he was expelled by his stepmother. Told that Narayana was more powerful than any king, Dhruva went up the mountain in search of that god, who appeared to him and put him in the heavens as the Pole Star.

In some accounts he was an avatar of Vishnu.

Dhu-Samani (see Attar)Dhu'l Karnain (see Zul-Qarnain)Dhu'l-Qarnayn (see Zul-Qarnain)Dhumavarna Hindu

a king of the sea serpents

He seized Yadu and took him to his undersea palace and married him to each of his five daughters.

Dhumavati Hindu

[Darunaratri]

a goddess

one of the 10 mahavidyas

Dhumorna Hindu

a goddess

a consort of Yama, some say

Dhumravati Hindu

a terrible goddess

Dhund Indian

[Dund.Dhundh]

a ghost

This spirit is said to have neither head nor hands nor feet, but rides a horse with a head tied on to the pommel. Anybody who answers the ghost's knock on the door will either go mad or die.

Dhundh (see Dhundh)Dhundia Jain

a sect that rejects image-worship

Dhundu Hindu

a demon

one of the Asuras

He burnt the saint Uttanka by igniting a pile of sand where the saint was sitting. The king, Kuvalayaswa, sent his 21,000 sons to avenge this crime but all of them, except three, died in the fire. The survivors killed the demon Dhundu.

Dhuni Hindu

a hostile Vedic wind spirit

Dhupa Tibetan

[bDug-spos-ma]

a Buddhist-Lamaist mother goddess

one of the astamataras

Dhupatara Buddhist

a minor goddess

Dhurjati Hindu

Shiva appearing covered in ashes

dhvaja Buddhist

a symbol of the breath of life: a victory banner

Dhvajagrakeyura Buddhist

a minor goddess

Dhvajonisa Buddhist

a minor deity, guardian of the south-west

Dhyana Buddhist

[Dhyanaparamita.Jhana]

one of the 12 Paramita goddesses,

meditation personified

Dhyanaloka Buddhist

one of the 10 Buddhist heavens

Dhyanaparamita (see Dhyana)Dhyanibodhisattva Buddhist

a future Buddha of Mahayana

Buddhism

There were originally five bodhisattvas, namely Avalokiteshvara, Ratnapani, Samantabhadra, Vajrapani, Vishvapani. Another list gives eight: Akasagarbha, Avalokiteshvara, Kshitigarbha, Mahasthamaprapta, Manjushri, Maitreya, Sarvanivaranavaskambhin and Trailokyavyago, with two others, Samantabhadra and Vajrapani, sometimes used as alternatives.

(see also Go-Chi Nyorai)

Dhyani Buddhas Buddhist

[Buddhas of Contemplation. Buddhas of Meditation. Five Celestial Buddhas. Five Wisdom Buddhas. Pancha-Tathagata: =Japanese Go-Chi Nyorai] spiritual Buddhas

There are five of these: Akshobhya, Amitabha, Amoghasiddhi, Ratnasambhava and Vairocana, or Bhaisajya, Dipamkara, Kasyapa, Maitreya and Sakyamuni, in some lists. Others include Tocho, Vajrasattva and Yakushi. All are manifestations of Adi-Buddha.

(see also Herukabuddhas.

Mnushibuddhas. Pancha-Tagatha)

Dhyani Buddhasakti Buddhist

a sakti of one of the 5 dhyani buddhas

Di Amomo African

a priest

In the lore of the Ashanti, he saw a burning stone in the forest that indicated the presence of a god, and became a priest of that deity.

Di-do (see Gri-bobg)

Di Indigetes Roman

heroes who were deified at death

Di Magni (see Penates)

Di Manes (see Manes)

Di Mauri Roman

the gods of the North African Moors

Di patrii Roman

ancestral gods: traditional gods

Di Penates (see Penates)

Di Superi Roman

[=Greek Uranian Deities]

gods of the sky

Dia Greek

daughter of Eioneus

wife of Ixion

mother of Peirithous

In some accounts Zeus was the real father of Peirithous.

Diable Tonnère West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit, a thunder demon

diablerie

[diablery]

sorcery: the black art

diablesse West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

These fearsome spirits arise from the death of virgins.

diabolos

a devil: in some accounts, a demon separate from Satan

Diakara Hindu

[Dina-kara]

a name of Surya as 'maker of the day'

Diakiasyne Greek

the Greek name for Nehmetaway

diakka

a group of unclean spirits

diam East Indian

[pengap]

a mythological story recited to invoke spirits

diamastigis Greek

ritual whipping

This rite was practised on young boys at the shrine of Artemis, as Orthia, in Sparta.

Diamichius (see Chryisor)

Diamond British

son of Agape

brother of Priamond and Triamond

Diamond Buddha Thai

a statue of the Buddha carved from a large diamond

This figure is said to have been carved by a mystery man from a single large stone that appeared when a pumpkin metamorphosed. (see also Sujata)

Diamond Jousts British

a series of tournaments organised by King Arthur

It was said that Arthur, as a young man in Lyonesse, had found the dead bodies of two kings who had killed each other and took the bejewelled crown that was lying beside them. The jewels from this crown were used as prizes for the champions of his tournaments. Lancelot won all the diamonds and gave them to Guinevere who, jealous at that time of Elaine, threw them into the river.

Diamond Kings

(see Four Diamond Kings)

Diamond Mace (see Ju-i)

Diamond Sow (see Dorje)

Dian (see Diana<sup>3</sup>)

Dian Ceacht (see Dian Ceacht)

Dian Cecht Irish

[Dian Ceacht. Dianchecht. Dianchech(t)]

god of medicine

son of the Dagda, some say

father of Airmid, Cethe, Cian, Etan

and Miach

grandfather of Lugh

He had a magic spring or well, Slane, in which he could restore wounded and dead warriors. He replaced the eye of the god Mider when it was knocked out, and it was he who made the silver hand for Nuada when his real hand was cut off in the first Battle of Moytura. He was said to have killed his son Miach, being jealous of his healing powers.

He killed Mechi, son of Morrigan, who had been born with three hearts, each containing a serpent. He killed two of these but the third escaped. It grew to an enormous size but was eventually killed by Dian Cecht.

Diana<sup>1</sup> British

[Dione]

in Arthurian lore, the mother of Dyonas who was the mother of Nimue

Diana<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Oceanus and Tethys

sister of Cyrene

Diana<sup>3</sup> Roman

[Albunea. Dian(e). Dione. Jana. Lucina:

=Czech Devana: =Greek Artemis: =Polish

Dziewona: =Serbian Dilwica]

goddess of birth, chastity, hunting,

light, moon, plebians and wild things

daughter of Jupiter and Latona

(see also Hecate<sup>3</sup>)

Diana of Ephesus Roman

[Artemis of Ephesus]

a tutelary goddess and fertility goddess

A many-breasted statue of the goddess is said to have fallen from heaven.

Diane (see Diana<sup>3</sup>)

Diancecht (see Dian Cecht)

Dianchech (see Dian Cecht)

Dianchecht (see Dian Cecht)

Diang African

a cow goddess of the Shilluk people consort of the first man, Omara mother of Okwa

Dianus (see Janus)

Diar (see Drotnar)

Diarmaid<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Diarmait. Diarmuid]

son of Conor mac Nessa

He was sent as an emissary to try to end the war in which Cuchulainn stood alone against the forces of Connaught, but was himself killed by those forces.

Diarmaid<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Diarmait. Diarmuid]

a poet

father of Cu Allaidh

He disputed the site of a monastery built by Berach. When he attempted to satirise the king, who had adjudicated in Berach's favour, the saint caused him to lose his powers as a poet and foretold his death.

Diarmaid<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Diarmait. Diarmuid]

son of Fergus Cearbail

Diarmaid* (see Dermot O'Dyna)

Diarmaid Donn (see Dermot O'Dyna)

Diarmaid mac Aodha Slaine Irish

[Diarmait.Diarmuid]
a high-king of Ireland
husband of Bec Fola
brother of Blathmhac

He and his brother, who were joint rulers, sheltered Cano when he came to Ireland to escape from Aodan, who had killed Gartnan, Cano's father. In some accounts he was father of Conall Dunchadh and Maolodhar.

His wife went to the Otherworld with Flann and he never saw her again.

Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill Irish

[Diarmait mac Cearbheoil.Diarmuid]
a high-king of Ireland
son of Fergus Cearbhaill
husband of Maireann and Mughain
father of Aedh Slaine and Breasel

He disputed the right to the throne with a cousin, Tuathal Maolgarbh, and the latter won, but a druid prophesied that Diarmaid would become king. One of Diarmaid's men, Maol Mor, killed Tuathal, but was himself killed. Diarmaid then took the throne. When he wanted to take over the land of Flann Fionna so that he could give it to St Ciaran for a monastery, he set Flann's house on fire and killed him.

He drowned his own son, Breasal, for stealing a cow but regretted the deed, and the hermit Beagan restored Breasal to life.

He was defeated by the forces of Connaught at the Battle of Cuil Dreimhe.

It had been forecast that his foster-son, Aedh Dubh, would be involved in his death, which would be due to drowning, burning and wounding. Aedh ran the king through with a spear and the king drowned in a vat of ale as he tried to escape the flames of a burning building.

Diarmaid ua Duibhne

(see Dermot O'Dyna)

Diarmait (see Dermot.Diarmuid)

Diarmuid (see Dermot.Diarmuid)

Diarsa Pacific Islands

a Balinese farmer
father of Wirachita Diarsa gambled away all his possessions but devotedly made offerings to Siwa who then appeared in the form of a beggar and was given hospitality by Diarsa and his wife. Next day, the beggar took their son Wirachita as a disciple and, appearing in his full glory, took the youth to heaven where he was made stronger than any mortal and returned to earth as a king. Siwa gave Diarsa a fighting-cock that defeated all comers and restored the fortunes of his owner, who also became a king.

Dias Greek

father of Cleolla

Diasbad British

a witch

Diasia Greek

rites honouring originally Meilichios, later Zeus

Diaus (see Dyaus)

Dibbara Mesopotamian

[Lubara]
in Babylonian lore, a destroying angel;
a plague demon

dibbuk (see dybbuk)

Dibobia African

a spider

In the lore of the Congo and Gabon, this spider, which was suspended between sea and sky, helped Mebega in the creation of the earth.

Dibtheach (see Aithirne)

Dice (see Dike)

Dictaeon Cave Greek

[Dicte.Dikte]
the site on Mount Dicte in Crete where Hera hid the infant Zeus

Dictaeus Greek

a name of Zeus referring to Mount Dicte where he was raised

Dicte (see Dictaeon Cave)

Dictyanna

Greek

[Dictyanna.Diktunna.Diktyinna.] a name for Artemis as a fish goddess
(see also Aphaea.Britomartis)

Dictys Greek

a fisherman
son of Magnes
brother of Polydectes

It was he who saved Danae and the infant Perseus from the sea when they were cast adrift in a chest by Acrisius. He was later made king of Seriphos by Perseus.

He, or another of the same name, was a sailor on the ship when Dionysus was imprisoned by the crew.

Dictys Cretensis Greek

a companion of Idomenus
He is said to have served at Troy and to have written an account of the siege.

Didaeon Greek

son of Eurytus, some say

Diderick (see Dietrich von Bern)

didi African

a magic charm or gbo

This charm contains a piece of lion skin and is said to protect the hunter from the lion, at the same time giving him the strength of that beast.

Didi<sup>2</sup> (see Diti)

Didi Thakrun Hindu

a local plague goddess

Didier (see Desiderius)

Didis Mahendera East Indian

in the lore of the Dayaks, a being with jewels for eyes

This being was said to have been created in the first of the three epochs of creation.

Dido Greek

['brave one'.Didon(e).Elissa]

a sorceress

founder and queen of Carthage

daughter of Belus or Mutto sister of Anna and Pygmalion wife of Sychaeus

Her real name was Elissa; she was called Dido after leaving Tyre.

Her husband was Sychaeus, the wealthy king of Tyre, (or, in some accounts, her uncle Acherbas) who was killed by her brother Pygmalion. She fled to Libya with much of her husband's wealth and there she bargained with the king, Iarbas, for a piece of land on which to build a new home, buying an area which could be covered by the hide of an ox. By cutting the hide into thin strips she was able to enclose a very substantial area. Within it, she built the city of Carthage.

When Aeneas and his crew landed in North Africa when their ship was blown off course, Dido fell in love with him and kept him in luxury. Eventually he forced himself and his crew to leave to seek their destiny in Italy, whereupon Dido immolated herself, though some say that it was her sister Anna who died on the pyre for love of Aeneas.

Another story says that Dido killed herself to escape marriage to the neighbouring king, Iarbas.

She became identified with Tanit, guardian of Carthage.

Didon (see Dido)

Didone (see Dido)

Didot Perceval British

[The Romance of Perceval]

a 13th c French story of Percival on the Grail Quest

Didyma (see Branchidae)

Die Walkurie (see Valkyrie, The)

Diego Laynez Spanish

[Don Diego]
father of El Cid

He was grossly insulted by Gomez. El Cid avenged the insult by killing Gomez.

Diejuste West Indian
a benevolent Haitian voodoo spirit

Diespiter (see Jupiter)

Dietelinde European
daughter of Rudiger and Gotelinde sister of Nudung

Dieter German
son of Hugdietrich and Ameline
brother of Dietmar and Ermenrich

Diether German [Thether]
brother of Dietrich

He was reared by Etzel and Helche. With Orfe and Schapfe, sons of Etzel, he accompanied his elder brother on his forays against Ermenrich. Left in the care of Elsan, the three boys were allowed to go riding and were killed by Wittich.

In Thidrekssaga he is known as Thether.

Dietlieb European [Dietliep, Thetleif]
a Danish knight
brother of Kunhild

He met Dietrich en route to Rome and they travelled together. Here he challenged the champion warrior Walter von Wasgenstein, and defeated him in a spear throwing contest. From Rome, accompanied by the minstrel Isung, he went to the court of Etzel who made him the ruler of one of his provinces.

When his sister, Kunhild, was carried off by Laurin, king of the dwarfs, he turned to Dietrich for help.

He helped Dietrich when Ermenrich invaded Bern and was the only man to escape an ambush laid by Ermenrich in which Hildebrand and several others were captured.

Dietliep (see Dietlieb)

Dietmar European
a king of Bern
son of Hugdietrich and Ameline
brother of Dieter and Ermenrich husband of Odilia
father of Diether and Dietrich von Bern
He conquered Verona and married the duke's daughter, Odilia.

Dietrich<sup>1</sup> European [=Norse Thor]
a Germanic thunder god
(see also Donar)

Dietrich<sup>2</sup> European
the name used by Rother when he went to Constantinople

Dietrich von Bern German [Theodoric, Thridrek] son of Dietmar and Odilia brother of Diether
husband of Herrat and Virginal

He was uncontrollable as a child, literally breathing fire, and was fostered by Hildebrand. Together they set out to kill the giant Grim who was ravaging the countryside. They forced the dwarf Elbegast to tell them where to find the giant and his wife, Hilde. Elbegast gave him the magic sword Nagelring and with this weapon Dietrich killed both the giant and his wife. He and Hildebrand shared the giant's treasure. Signenot, Grim's brother, captured Dietrich and Hildebrand but the latter managed to kill the giant. On this adventure Dietrich fell in love with Virginal, the ice queen. When he learned from Bibung that she had been seized by the magician Ortgis, he set out to rescue her. He and Hildebrand killed Ortgis and all his men – only the magician's son, Jambas, escaped and he besieged Jeraspunt, the castle where Virginal was held prisoner. Dietrich soon routed the besiegers, rescued Virginal and married her.

He defeated Heime who challenged him and who then became his devoted friend and follower, giving Dietrich the horse Falke, which never tired.

When challenged by Wittich, he first defeated him and then, when Wittich's magic sword was returned to him, was defeated by his challenger who became another devoted follower.

He fought the giant Ecke, and would have been defeated but was saved when his horse Falke broke its tether and trampled the giant to death.

At Drachenfels, where Ecke had imprisoned Bolfriana and her nine daughters, Dietrich met and defeated the giant's brother, Fasolt, who then joined Dietrich's forces.

On a journey to visit Ermenrich, he met Dietlieb the Dane who travelled with him to Rome and who later came to him for help when his sister, Kunhild, was abducted by Laurin. Dietrich helped in the rescue of Kunhild and acquired the dwarf's magic sword, belt and cap.

Accompanied by Hildebrand and a few selected warriors, he challenged and defeated the twelve knights of Krimhild to win a kiss and a rose garland.

When his father died, he became king and took a force to help Etzel who was under attack from Osantrix, ruler of Scandinavia. Some say that Virginal yearned for her home in the icy mountains and left Dietrich, who lived in the green countryside, and he then sent Herart to Britain to sue for the hand of Hilde, daughter of King Arthur, but she eloped with Herbart.

His uncle, Ermenrich, demanded tribute from Bern when Dietrich succeeded to the throne and, when the demand was rejected, led an army against Dietrich. He gave up his lands to ransom his friend Hildebrand and some of his followers who had been captured. They all then went to Etzel's court.

On one of his several attempts to win back his kingdom, he left Wittich in charge of a captured city but Wittich betrayed his trust and gave the city back to Ermenrich. On another such foray, Dietrich took along his youngest brother Diether and the two sons of Etzel, Orte and Scharpfe, leaving them in the care of Elsan while he rode into battle. The boys went riding and were killed by Wittich.

In some stories his kingdom was taken over not by Ermenrich but by Odoacer and was recovered only when Dietrich defeated Wenzelan in single combat.

Fighting a war for Etzel against Waldemar, he was besieged in a fortress but was rescued by Rudiger. They then killed Waldemar and took his son prisoner. When the prisoner later escaped, Dietrich, though wounded, pursued him and cut off his head, which he took back to Etzel's court where he married Herrat.

When he recovered his kingdom, he killed Sibich who had tried to usurp the throne of Ermenrich, and, marching to Rome, he was crowned as Theodoric, Emperor of the West.

Some say that Herrat died soon afterwards and that Dietrich married again, this time to Liebgart, widow of Ortnit.

In one story, he fought a long duel with the giant Wunderer and finally beheaded him.

Late in life he was hunting when he was told that a white stag had been sighted. He jumped on the nearest horse, a coal-black steed, and was carried off, never to be seen again. Some say that the horse was the Devil and that Dietrich now leads the Wild Hunt. (see also Thidrek)

Dietwart German
an ancestor of Dietrich von Bern
father of Sigheher

It was said that he had forty-four children of whom only one, Sigheher, survived. He lived for 400 years.

Dieva deli Baltic
the 2 (or 3, some say) sons of Dieva who mow the celestial meadows

Dievas Baltic
[=Latvian Debestevs:=Lettish Dievs]
a Lithuanian sky god and fertility god

Dievini Baltic
minor gods in Latvia, guardians of property

Dievs Baltic
[=Latvian Debestevs:Lithuanian Dievas]
a Lettish sky god and fertility god consort of Saule

Difficile Clérmeil (see Clérmeil)

Diffidence British wife of the giant, Despair, in Bunyan's
The Pilgrim's Progress

Dig-Gaja (see Dikpala)

Digambara<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a name of Kali as 'clad in air' (naked)
a name for Shiva, some say

digambara<sup>2</sup> Jain
a member of a Jain sect, the members of which go about naked

Digambara<sup>3</sup> Tibetan a Buddhist goddess
consort of Yogambara

Digawina Pacific Islands
a demones reputed to steal food

Digdi Irish [Dirri]
in some accounts, the name of Cailleach Bheur

Dih Indian
[Dihwar.Ganv-devata.Ganv-devi]
local gods in northern India

Dihwar (see Dih)

Diipoleia Greek
a festival at which an ox was slaughtered (see Bouphonia)

Diji West Indian
Haitian voodoo spirit

Dik Hindu
the universe which is said to be supported by the 8 dikpals

Dike Greek
[Dice:=Roman Augusta,Justitia]

the goddess of human justice
one of the Horae, in some accounts
daughter of Zeus

Dikkumara Jain
a rain god

one of the 10 Bhavanavasi

Dikkumari Hindu
6 celestial maidens assisting at important rites

Diko (see Deduska.Domovoy)

Dikpala Hindu
[Dig-Gaja.Loka Pala.Lokapala:=Cambodian Lukabal]

a guardian deity

Each of these eight deities guards one of the eight points of the compass in the form of, or with the help of, an elephant. They are listed as Agni (south-east), Indra (east), Kubera or Agni (north), Shiva or Soma (northeast), Surya (south-west), Vayu (northwest), Varuna (west) and Yama (south).

Another version lists Kubera (north), Virudhaka (south), Dhritarashtra (east)
and Virupaksha (west).

Other lists, giving the name of the elephants or the deities as elephants,
have Airavata, Anjana, Kumuda, Pundarika, Pushpadanta, Supratika Suryabhauma and Vamana.

(see also Four Kings)

Diksa (see Diksha)

Diksha Hindu
[Diksa]
a goddess

consort of Santana

mother of Ugra

Dikte (see Dictaeon Cave)

Diktunna (see Dictynna)

Diktyнна (see Dictynna)

Dil<sup>1</sup> Irish

daughter of Lugmannair

She eloped from the Isle of Falga with Tulchainde, taking with her her beloved oxen Fea and Feimhean which were carried across to Ireland by Morrigan's magic.

In other stories these oxen were owned by Brigit.

Dil<sup>2</sup> Irish

a blind druid

It was Dil who correctly prophesied the outcome of the Battle of Mucramha.

Dilga Australian

an earth-goddess of the Aborigines

When the Bagadjimbiri brothers were killed by Ngariman and his followers, she drowned the killers in the flood of milk from her breasts and revived the victims.

Dilipa Hindu

father of Dasha-ratha and Raghu

Dillus the Bearded British

[Dissull]

a mighty warrior, in Welsh lore

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get hairs from the beard of Dillus to make a leash for the hounds to be used in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth. Bedivere and Kay trapped Dillus and plucked his beard with wooden tweezers before killing him.

Dilmoun (see Dilmun)

Dilmun Mesopotamian

[Dilmoun]

the Sumerian home of paradise

inhabited by Enki and Ninhursaga

and of Tagtug and other heroes.

Dilwica Slav

[=Czech Devana:=Polish Dziewona:

=Roman Diana]

a Serbian goddess of the chase

Dimetor Greek

a name of Dionysus as

'twice mothered'

Dimme-kur (see Dimmea)

Dimna (see Damina)

Dimmea Mesopotamian

[Dimme-kur:=Assyrian Karibatu]

a Sumerian monster causing illness in child bearing

Dimoriél

one of the cardinal demons (north)

Dimsar Mesopotamian

[Enzak:=Babylonian Nebo]

an Akkadian god

In some accounts he is equated with Nusku.

Dimstípatis (see Zemepatis)

Dimtabba Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess

Din

a demon

Dina-kara (see Diakara)

Dinabutius British

a boy who mocked Merlin for not knowing who his father was

Dinadan British

a Knight of the Round Table

cousin of King Arthur

brother of Breunor and Daniel

He composed a lay that the harper Eliot sang before King Mark, accusing him of treason.

He was killed by Mordred and Agravain.

Dinas British

a Knight of the Round Table

a seneschal to King Mark

father of Nimue, in some accounts

He went with Lancelot when he took Guinevere to Garde Joyeuse. He later became duke of Anjou. Some say he became a king of Cornwall.

(see also Dyonas)

Dinas Dinnllev British

the home of Gwydion, in Wales

Dinas Emrys British

the site of Vortigern's tower on Mount Erith, Wales

In some accounts this was the site of a cave where Merlin stored his treasure.

Dindrane British

[Agrestizia.Blanchfleur]

sister of Percival

She was with Percival at the start of his quest for the Holy Grail but died when she volunteered to give her blood to save a dying queen.

In some accounts she is referred to as Blanchfleur.

This story is similar to an episode in the story of Balin.

Dindyme Greek

wife of Meion

In some accounts, she and Meion are the parents of Cybele.

(see also Meter Dindymene)

Dindymene (see Meter Dindymene)

Dindymus (see Meter Dindymene)

Dinewan Australian

the emu personified

It is said that the emu lost its wings as the result of a trick played on him by Gooblembubbon, the bustard.

Dinga<sup>1</sup> African

a king who passed his throne to his youngest son, Lagaire, because the others were too lazy to rule

Dinga<sup>2</sup> African

a Senegal sorcerer who instructed Marain Jagu in the magic arts

dingball North American

[dingmaul.plunkus]

a fabulous animal

Dingbell

a female version of the gremlin

(see also Ffinella)

dingir Mesopotamian

a collective name for the Sumerian gods

digmaul (see dingball)

Dings German

[Mars Thingsus]

the German name for Tyr

Dinkard Persian

a Zoroastrian text

In this work it is claimed that the Amesha Spentas came down to earth to support Zoroaster in his efforts to convert the king, Vishtaspa.

Dinnsenchas Irish

[The Lore of the Prominent Places]

a guide to Irish mythology in The Book of Leinster, largely about place names

Dino (see Deino)

Dinodig British

the realm of Llew and Blodeuedd, in Welsh lore

Dinos Greek

a horse of Diomedes

Dinsangma Tibetan

one of the 5 Long-Life Sisters

Dioid (see Idothea)

Dioltach (see Retaliator)

Diomed (see Diomedes)

Diomed<sup>1</sup> Greek

mother of Hyacinthus by Amyclas, in some accounts

Diomed<sup>2</sup> Greek

wife of Deion

mother of Actor, Aenetus, Asteropeia, Cephalus and Phylacus

Diomed<sup>3</sup> (see Diomedes)

Diomedes<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Diomed(e).Tydides]

king of Argos

son of Tydeus by Deipyla

husband of Aegialeia and Euipe

He was the leader of the Epigoni.

He fought bravely and well at Troy, wounding Aeneas and even Ares and Aphrodite. He and Odysseus entered the city by night, killing Dolon and Rhesus, and captured the image of Athena, known as the Palladium. He was one of those concealed in the wooden horse. He also exchanged armour with Glaucus, receiving a set made of gold, and rescued Nestor, whose horse had been killed.

In some accounts he was a lover of the Trojan girl, Chryseis (Cressida).

On his return from Troy, he discovered that his wife Aegialeia had been unfaithful with Cometes, so he went to Italy and married Euipe. With him went Abas, Acmon, Idas, Lycus, Nycteus and Rhexenor, all of whom, after the hero's death, were turned by Aphrodite into swans, which sprinkled water on his grave every day.

In some accounts he died naturally in old age while others say that he was murdered by Euipe's father, Darnas.

Diomedes<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Diomed(e)]

son of Aeson and Alcimede, later

called Jason (see Jason)

Diomedes<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Diomed(e)]

king of the Bistonians in Thrace

son of Ares and Cyrene or of Atlas and his daughter Asterië

He owned four flesh-eating horses and was eaten by them when Heracles seized them as his eighth Labour.

Diomna Irish

a hermit who taught St Deaglan

Dione<sup>1</sup> Greek

goddess of moisture

a name for Aphrodite, some say daughter of Oceanus and Tethys or of Uranus and Gaea

consort of Zeus at Dodona

mother of Aphrodite by Zeus, some say

In this version she is Semele, rescued from the underworld by Dionysus and deified by Zeus. Otherwise known as Thyone.

Dione<sup>2</sup> Greek

a Titaness

daughter of Atlas

wife of Tantalus, some say

mother of Broteas, Niobe and Pelops, some say

Dione<sup>3</sup> Greek

a nymph, one of the Oceanids or the Hyades, in some accounts

Dione<sup>4</sup> Roman

a name for Venus, some say mother of Venus by Jupiter, some say

Dione<sup>5</sup> (see also Diana<sup>1,3</sup>)

Diones (see Dyonas)

Dioneta<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of Lot and Gwyar

sister of Gawain and Mordred

In some accounts Gwyar is male.

Dioneta<sup>2</sup> British

daughter of Gorlois and Igraine

half-sister of King Arthur

Dionise British

a chatelaine

Gawain released her from a spell but rejected her offer of marriage.

Dionotus British

duke of Cornwall

He was reputed to have sent 11,000 noble ladies and 60,000 commoners to join the soldier-settlers in Armorica, but they were all drowned when storms scattered the fleet.

Dionus (see Janus)

Dionusia (see Dionysia)

Dionusius (see Dionysius)

Dionysia Greek

[Dionusia]

an annual wine festival in honour of the god Dionysus, held in May

There were five such festivals; Anthesteria, City Dionysia, Lenaea, Oscophoria and Rustic Dionysia.

Dionysius

one of the Seven Sleepers

Dionysos (see Dionysus)

Dionysus

Greek

[Anthios.Arsenothetys.Baal Gad.Bacchus.
Bakchos.Bakkhos.Bassareus.Braites.
Bromius.Cissus.Dendrites.Deunysos.
Dimetor.Dionysos.Dionusis.Diounsis.
Dithyrambos.Divine Child.Eleusis.
Eleutherios.Endendros.Enorches.Evius.
Iacchus.Iao.Impartial Giver.Isodaites.
Iyngies.Kissos.Kubebe.Lakchos.Laphystios.
Lenaeus.Liknites.Luseious.Luseus.Lusios
.Lyaeus.Merotrappes.Mystes.Night Sun.
Nyktelios.Omadios.Perikionios.Phytalmios.
Puripais.Sabazios.Sabazius.Sycites.Sykites.
Thyoneus.Zagreus.Zonnyos:=Arabian Dusura:=Egyptian Osiris:=Etruscan
Fuffluns:=Hindu Rudra:=Kenite
Salmaat:=Roman Bacchus.Liber]
god of vegetation and wine son of Zeus by Semele son of Zeus by Demeter, Io or Dione,
some say
son of Oceanus, some say son of Ogyges and Daëira, some say husband of Ariadne
father of Euanthes, Latronus, Oenopion, Staphylus, Tauropolis and Thoas by Ariadne father of Priapus by Aphrodite
father of Deianeira by Althaea

Some say that he was the son of Zeus, by Core or Demeter, but it is more often said that he was fathered on Semele by Zeus, who killed her before the child was born. The infant was saved by Hermes who planted him in Zeus' thigh from which, at full term, he became 'twice-born'. In another version, Zeus himself planted the infant in his own side. Other accounts say that Zeus, in the form of a serpent, fathered the boy on Persephone. He was reared by Athamas and Ino, but when Hera discovered the baby's whereabouts she drove Athamas mad. The infant was torn to pieces by the Titans, on the instructions of Hera, but Rhea rescued the pieces and reassembled them, restoring him to life to be reared by the nymphs of Mount Nysa
and tutored by Silenus.

One variation says that the Titans ate the body with the exception of the heart, which was rescued by Athena who gave it to Zeus. He swallowed the heart and immediately produced another Dionysus by Semele.

(see also Zagreus)

Another account says that he was born to Semele in the normal fashion but, when she claimed that Zeus was the father, Cadmus threw both Semele and the baby into the sea in a chest.
Semele died but Dionysus was rescued and reared by Ino.

In the war between the gods and the giants, he killed Eurystus with his thyrsus. Some say he was changed into a kid (or ram) by Hermes.

He is credited with the invention of wine and became its patron god.
During his life on earth he was accompanied by a band of satyrs and frenzied women, the Maenads. He drove mad the three daughters of Minyas (Arsippe, Alcithoe and Leucippe) when they declined his invitation to join his drunken revels.

He once led an army of Amazons in Egypt to defeat the Titans and restored King Ammon to the throne.
He is also said to have conquered India.

On one occasion he was captured by pirates but he turned himself into a lion and they all jumped overboard and were turned into dolphins. In another version the ship suddenly stopped and vines grew from the sea to envelop it, after which a group of his Maenads took over the ship and the bemused sailors jumped into the sea.

It was Dionysus who gave Midas the golden touch as a reward for the kindness shown to his old tutor, Silenus. He rescued Ariadne after she had been abandoned by Theseus on Naxos and married her. When, soon after, she died, he threw her wedding crown into the sky to become the constellation Corona, and Zeus, taking pity on him, made Ariadne immortal and restored her to Dionysus.

He descended on Tartarus to demand the release of Semele, the mother he had never seen, and took her up to Olympus.

Some accounts suggest that Orpheus was an incarnation of Dionysus.

He was depicted originally as a mature bearded man and later as a handsome young man crowned with leaves and carrying his emblem, the thyrsus. His chariot is shown being drawn by leopards or panthers.

Diore Greek

son of Amarynceus
father of Automedon

He was the leader of the forces from Elis fighting at Troy and was killed by Pierus of Thrace.

Dios (see Zeus)

Dioscuri

Greek

[Dioscouri.Dioskouroi:=Hindu Aswins:
=Roman Castores]
a name of Castor and Polydeuces as
'sons of a god'

In the Roman pantheon, as Castor and Pollux, they are sometimes identified with the Penates.

They are said to have led the Roman cavalry at the Battle of Regillus.

Dioscouri (see Dioscuri)

Dioskouroi (see Dioscuri)

Diotima Mantinice

Greek

a prophetess

She is said to have taught Socrates and prevented the spread of plague in Athens.

Diounsis

Phrygian

son of Zemelo

a Phrygian god transferred to the Greek pantheon as Dionysus

Diovis

(see Diovis-pater)

Diovis-pater

Roman

an early name for Jupiter

Di-pa-nam-sel

(see Sarvanivaranaviskambhin)

Dipa

Buddhist

[=Tibetan sNam-gsatma]

a goddess of light

one of the astamataras

Dipa Tara

Buddhist

a minor goddess of light

Dipaki

Hindu

[Depaki]

a name of Kama as 'the inflamer'

Dipamkara

(see Dipankara)

Dipankara

Buddhist

[Dipamkara.The Luminous:=Chinese
Jan-teng-fo]

the Buddha of the age before the present one: the first Buddha

He was born on a mystic island in the Ganges. (see also Vipassin)

Dipavali

(see Deepavali)

diphthera

Greek

the hide of the goat Amalthea

Zeus used this goatskin to record the fate of man.

Dipper, The

(see Great Bear)

dipsas

Greek

a mythical serpent

The bite of this serpent was said to cause intense thirst.

Dipti

Hindu

a minor goddess

Dir

Persian

a demon

- Dirac British
son of Canan
brother of Lac
- Dirachiel
a lunar demon
- Dirae Roman
the Roman version of the Furies
- Dirce Greek
queen of Thebes
wife of Lycus
Lycus had put aside his wife Antiope in favour of Dirce, and they imprisoned and ill-treated Antiope. Amphion and Zethus, sons of Antiope and Apollo, killed Lycus and Dirce. She was tied by her hair to the horns of a bull, which dragged her to her death. She was changed into a spring of the same name.
In some accounts Antiope is not the wife of Lycus but his niece, and he gave her to Dirce as a slave after rescuing her from Epopeus, who had abducted her.
- Dirghadevi Hindu
a consort of Nirrti
- Diriel
a demon, a duke serving Demoriël
- Dirivo East Indian
daughter of Adiri wife of Sido
She married Sido, the first man to die, and from their union came all the plants of the underworld, Adiri, where they lived.
- Dirona (see Sirona)
- Dirri (see Digdi)
- Dirt (see Dumok)
- Dis<sup>1</sup> British a god of the Druids, god of wealth in the underworld
- Dis<sup>2</sup> Roman [=Greek Pluto;=Roman Februs]
the Etruscan god of the dead: the underworld itself
- Dis<sup>3</sup> (see disir.Orcus)
- Dis Pater Roman
[Dispater.Divs.Donn.Wealthy Father: =Greek Hades]
a Celtic god of the underworld in Gaul (see also Orcus.Pluto<sup>3</sup>)
- Disa Hindu
a consort of Shiva as Bhima mother of Sarga
- disablot Norse
a sacrifice to the gods, Valkyries, etc.
- Disani Afghan [Disni.Dizeile]
supreme goddess of the Kafir, fertility goddess and goddess of death mother of Bagisht
- Her parentage is confused; in some accounts she was the daughter of Sudrem or of Indr by Nangi-Wutr, in others she was born from the right breast of Imra. Yet another version has her rising from a sacred lake.
She decapitated her son, who was the result of rape by a demon. (see also Nirmali)
- Disciplina Roman
a minor goddess
- Discordia Roman
[=Greek Eris]
the goddess of mischief
She was the owner of a ring that conferred invisibility on the wearer.
- Discourse of Rig (see Rigsthula)
- discus<sup>1</sup> Buddhist the weapon of Mara
- discus<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the weapon of Vishnu
- Disemboweller Inuit
a female demon
She was said to be the banished cousin of the moon goddess and attacked humans by night, sometimes killing them by causing them to laugh until their stomachs split open and their bowels fell out. (see disir)
- dises (see disir)
- disir Norse
[giptes.hagedises.(i)dises.idisi.sing=dis]
guardian goddesses, including the Norns and the Valkyries, attendant on Urda (see also talar-disir.spadisir.vala)
- dismal sauger North American
a fabulous animal (see also guyascutus)
- Dismiraye West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit
- Disni (see Disani)
- Dispater (see Dis Pater)
- Dissull (see Dillus)
- Distaff Greek
a poem by Erinna about the death of Baucis
- Distant Country (see Terre Foraine)
- Distinguished Name, The (see Mahucutah)
- Ditaolane (see Moshanyana)
- Ditas British
a king of Hungary
He supported the Romans in their battles on the Continent with King Arthur.
- Dithorba Irish
a prince of Ulster
brother of Aedh and Kimbay
He was due to share the throne with his brother, Kimbay, after the death of his elder brother, Aedh, but Aedh's daughter, Macha, killed him, married Kimbay and took the throne.
- In some accounts Macha is the sister of Dithorba and Kimbay, rather than their niece.
- dithyramb Greek a hymn to Bacchus
- Dithyrambos Greek
a name for Dionysus as 'twice-born'
- Diti Hindu
[Didi]
a goddess
daughter of Daksha
wife of Kashyapa or Rudra mother of Andhaka, the Daityas and the Maruts
Diti planned to have a son who would kill Indra, but just before her 100 year pregnancy came to an end, Indra flung one of his thunderbolts and split the embryo into pieces (seven, eleven, forty-nine or sixty), which became the Maruts. Her sons, the Daityas, were banished to the underworld by Indra.
Others say that Parvati persuaded Shiva to return the shattered embryo to life. (see also Aditi.Prisni)
- diu (see div)
- Diu Crône German
a 13th c poem about Gawain's quest for the Holy Grail, written by Turpin
- Diu-pater (see Jupiter)
- Diuran Irish
a poet
He was one of the men who sailed with Maeldun.
At the Island of Women, they stayed for three months. When they tried to leave, the queen threw a line to Maeldun and drew the boat back to the island. When this had happened several times, Diuran caught the line next time it was thrown. Finding himself unable to release it he cut off his hand so that they could escape.
- Dius Greek
a king of Elis
When Oxylyl invaded Elis, the two leaders agreed to settle the war by allowing Degmenus of Elis, armed with a bow, and Pyraechmes, armed with a sling, to meet in single combat. Pyraechmes won and Oxylyl became king of Elis in place of Dius.
- Dius Fidius (see Fidius)
- Diuturna (see Juturna)
- div<sup>1</sup> Persian [d(a)eva.deev.deve.diu.diwe]
an evil spirit: a jinnee
These beings serve the underworld god, Angra Mainyu, and are listed as Aeshma, Akam Manah, Indra, Naonhaithya and Saura.

div<sup>2</sup> Slav
 a deity (see also divitsa)
Divia Angerona (see Angerona)
Divali (see Deepavali)
Divalia (see Angerona)
Divaspati Hindu
 a name of Indra as 'he who rules the air'

divata Pacific Islands
 [=Borneo jewata:=Hindu devata: =Indonesian dewi:Java dewata:=Sumatra leibata]
 a general name for a deity in the Philippines

Dives<sup>1</sup> Greek
 a miserly rich man
 He refused to give even the crumbs
 from his table to the beggar Lazarus.
 He is usually depicted with a heavy bag
 of money and harassed by demons.

Dives<sup>2</sup> (see Dis Pater)
divi-te-zene (see divji devojke)

Divina Commedia European [Divine Comedy]
 a long poem by Dante, much concerned with heaven and hell

divination

[lot.mantology.sortilege] foretelling the future: locating hidden things using supernatural power

Cultures all over the world have their own versions, with various methods used by their own particular type of prophet, be he medicine man, shaman, witch
 doctor or just a plain charlatan.
 Some of the forms of divination and the objects on which the forecasts are made include:

aerial apparitions chaomancy agate on hot axe axinomancy air aeromancy animal droppings spatalomancy spatilomancy
 animals theriomancy.zoomancy
 appearance schematomancy arrows bel(in)omancy ashes ceneromancy.spodomancy tephramancy.tephromancy
 atmospheric phenomena
 aeromancy
 axe heads axinomancy
 Bible readings bibliomancy birds ornithomancy.ornithoscopy black art necromancy.nigromancy blood h(a)ematomancy blowing (out candles) pneumancy
 bones ossomancy.osteomancy books bibliomancy
 bran aleuromancy

brass vessels chalcomancy
 breast bones sternomancy
 bumps on the head phrenology burning:
 ass heads cephalomancy cephalomancy
 coals anthracomancy
 incense knissomancy.libanomancy
 straw sideromancy
 wax ceromancy
 candles lampadomancy
 cards cartomancy
 casting lots sortilege
 cat (jumping) ailuromancy
 cauls amniomancy
 cheese tyromancy
 Chinese book of diagrams I Ching clouds chaomancy
 cockerels alect oromancy
 alectr(y)omancy
 communication with the dead
 necromancy.nigromancy psychomancy.sciomancy contact with object psychometry copper vessels chalcomancy corn crithomancy.krithomancy counting matheomancy crystal ball astragalomancy cleromancy.crystal-gazing
 fortune telling.gastromancy scrying.spheromancy crystals crystalomancy
 cups scyphomancy
 demons demonomancy
 dice cubomancy
 divine inspiration theomancy dough crithomancy.krithomancy dreams oneiromancy oneiroscopy
 dripping blood driromancy
 dust amathomancy
 earth geomancy
 eggs oomancy
 elements stereomancy
 entrails of:
 animals extispicy
 haruspication.hieromancy
 dead humans anthropomancy evil spirits black art
 black magic.sorcery
 face metopomancy
 faeces scatomancy
 favourable times chronomancy
 feet pedomancy.podomancy figs sycomancy
 figures drawn in earth geomancy fingernails onimancy
 ony(cho)mancy
 finger rings dactyl(i)omancy
 fire (em)pyromancy
 fish ichthyomancy

flames (of torch) lampadomancy flight of birds augury.auspice ornithomancy
 flour aleuromancy
 flowers anthomancy
 footprint ichnomancy
 forehead metopomancy
 form schematomancy
 fountains pegomancy
 ghosts sciomancy
 grain crithomancy.krithomancy hands ch(e)irognomy
 ch(e)irognomy.palmistry
 handwriting graphomancy gratomancy
 heavens (o)uranomancy hopping of birds while feeding tripodium
 horses (neighing) hippomancy hot metal sideromancy human:
 disposition psychomancy
 entrails anthropomancy icons iconomancy
 idols idolomancy
 images idolomancy
 joining dots geomancy
 keys cl(e)idomancy
 kidneys nephomancy
 knives macharomancy
 knots in umbilical cord omphalomancy
 knucklebones astragalomancy
 lamps lampadomancy lychnomancy
 land forms geomancy
 large glasses gastromancy
 largest object macromancy laurel daphnomancy
 leaves phyllomancy
 letters of names onomancy
 lightning ceraunoscopy meteoromancy lines on:
 forehead metascopy
 hand ch(e)irognomy
 ch(e)irognomy.palmistry
 liver hepatoscopy logarithms logarith(m)omancy
 lot cleromancy.kleromancy lying behind waterfall on a hide taghairm
 marks on torso:
 breast sternomancy
 stomach gastromancy
 meal strewn over victims of sacrifice
 crithomancy
 mimicry sympathetic magic mirrors catoptromancy enoptromancy.katoptromancy
 moon selenomancy

motions of axe axinomancy
 movements of:
   animals theriomancy.zoomancy
   mice myomancy
 names onomancy
 natural forces magic.sorcery witchcraft
 navel omphalomaney
 no evil spirits white magic numbers arith(o)mancy.numerology nursing baby mazomancy
 objects:
   burnt in sacrifice empyromancy
   used in sacrifice hieromancy hieroscopy
 observation of animals zoomancy onions cromnyomancy oracles theomancy
 paper (rolling) papyromancy
 patterns in dust geomancy pebbles (tossed) pessomancy pendulum dowsing rhabdomancy
 physical contact psychometry planets astrology.astromancy horoscope plants botanomancy
 playing cards cartomancy
 pointed objects aichomancy raising of the dead anthropomancy random:
   lines of verse stichomancy
   opening of the bible, etc.
   bibliomancy.sortes
   samples of poetry
   rhapsodomancy reflections in the surface of:
   dishes lecanomancy
   oil elaeomancy
 rods rhabdomancy.xylomancy
 sacred things hieromancy
 salt (h)alomancy
 scraps dropped by feeding birds tripudium
 scriptures theomancy
 secret methods cryptomancy seeds in dung stercromancy shape of facial features physiognomy
 sharp objects aichomancy shells conchomancy shields aspidomancy
 shoulder blades scapulimancy scapulomancy
 shoulders of beasts armomancy sieve (and shears) coscinomancy koskinomancy
 sky (o)uranomancy
 sleep mecanomancy
 smallest object micromancy
 smoke capnomancy.kapnomancy

snakes ophiomancy soles of feet
   pedomancy.podomancy
 soul psychomancy
 spirits of the dead necromancy necyomancy.nigromancy sciomancy
 splits in burning shoulder-blades omoplatoscopy spots maculomancy springs pegomancy
 stars astrology.astromancy horoscope.sideromancy stomach noises gastromancy stones lithomancy
   drawn from vessel psephomancy
 strangers xenomancy swords macharomancy
 tea leaves foliomancy teeth odontomancy
 things:
   dug up oryctomancy
   seen over the shoulder retromancy thunder brontomancy thunderbolts ceraunomancy
 tongue hyomancy
 transparent bodies crystallomancy
 twigs dowsing.rhabdomancy
   xylomancy
 twitching spasmatomancy
 undisclosed methods cryptomancy urine urimancy.ur(in)omancy valentines cartomancy visions clairvoyance
 walking ambulomancy
   in a circle and falling from giddiness gyromancy
 watching animals zoomancy
 water hidromancy.hydromancy
   in basins lecanomancy
 wax dropping into water
   ceromancy
 weights zygomancy
 wheel tracks trochomancy
 wine (lees) oenomancy.oinomancy wooden rods rhabdomancy
   xylomancy
 word of god theomancy words logomancy
 writing cartomancy zodiac astrology.horoscope False divination is known as pseudomancy, foolish divination as moromancy. (see also bokusen)

divinator (see diviner)
divine
 foretell future events: locate hidden things using supernatural powers

Divine Archer (see I)
Divine Artificer (see Kothar)
Divine Child (see Dionysus)

Divine Comedy, The

(see Divina Commedia)

Divine Cow (see Damona)Divine Crisis Japanese

the episode when Amaterasu hid herself in a cave and refused to come out

Divine Doctor (see Dhanvantari)Divine Horse, The (see Epona)Divine Jewel (see Chinta-mani)

Divine Mother
(see Ambu Dewi.Devi.Matrona)

Divine People
(see Danaans.Supernatural People)

Divine Physicians (see Aswins)Divine Potter, The (see Khnum)Divine Wind (see Indera Bayu)Divine Yogi Hindu

a name of Shiva

Divine Youth (see Maponus)
diviner

[divinator]

one who foretells the future: one who locates hidden things using supernatural powers

divining rod

a rod or twig used by a diviner to locate things underground, water, etc.

divitsa Slav

a deity (see also div<sup>2</sup>)

divji devojke European [dekle.divi-te-zeni.divozenky.dziwozony.

dizwiye zeny]

in Slovenia, nymphs of the forests or the mountains

It is said that these 'wild women' can cause storms and may substitute their own ugly children for mortal infants.

divji moz European forest spirits of Slovenia

It is said that these beings are sometimes helpful to people but sometimes attack travellers and tickle them to death.

Divona British

goddess of the River Dee

(see also Divonia)

Divonia Celtic

a Gaulish fertility goddess

(see also Divona)

divozenky (see divji devojke)Divya-dundu Buddhist

the Sanskrit version of Tenkuraion, a name for Ashuku

Divya-ratna (see Chinta-mani)Diw-a-Safid (see Arzang)Diwa-Zib East Indian

a dema, lord of the head-hunters

Diwali (see Deepavali)Diwata Magbabaya Pacific Islands

a sky spirit in the Philippines

He is said to live in a house made of coins. Anybody who looks at him turns to water.

diwe (see divji devojke)

Diwrnach British

[Dyrnwch]

an Irishman

an overseer of Odgar

He was the owner of a famous cauldron that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen. When he refused to hand it over, King Arthur sent a force to seize it and Diwrnach was killed in the fight.

This cauldron became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

Dizeile (see Disani)

Djadek European

[=Russian deduska domovoy]

Czech ancestral spirits acting as guardians of the household

Djall Balkans

[Dreqi]

the devil in Albania

Djambu Boros East Indian

the Sumatran tree of life

Each leaf of this tree, which grows in the highest heaven, has a word written on it. Each soul (tondi) that leaves heaven for birth on earth, takes a leaf. The nature of the inscription determines the fortunes of that individual.

Djamy Arab

the magic sword of Antar

Djanbun Australian

the man who became the duck-billed platypus

His efforts to kindle a fire by blowing a fire-stick caused his mouth to enlarge. He jumped into the river and became the duck-billed platypus.

Djanggalawuls Australian

[Djungkao]

a trinity of Aboriginal deities parents of the Wawalog sisters

There were two sisters and a brother who came from Bralgu, the island of the dead, and created all forms of plants and animals and shaped the earth with their sacred sticks, known as rangga.

In some accounts Djanggalawul was male. Bildjiwuaraju and Miralaldu were male and female combined until Djanggalawul cut off their male genitalia.

Djao Thraya Thai

a goddess of the River Menam

Djata East Indian

[Putir.Tamphon]

a Dayak goddess in Borneo

She lives in the underworld, appearing in the form of a water snake, and is the ruler of the crocodiles.

Djebauti Egyptian

a local god in the form of a heron

This deity was later assimilated into Horus.

djed Egyptian

a tree trunk representing Osiris

a pillar representing the spine

of Osiris

a pillar with 3 or more cross-bars

Djeheuty (see Thoth)

Djehuti (see Thoth)

Djeneta North American

a giant, in the lore of the Chippewa people

Dji African

the rainbow-serpent in Dahomey

Djila'qons North American

a sea goddess of the Haida Indians

djin Slav

a giant

djinn (see jinnee)

Djinnestan (see Jinnestan)

djinni (see jinnee)

djok African

an ancestor spirit of the Alur

This spirit is said to appear in the form of a snake, a stone, etc.

Djunggun Australian

a culture hero of the Aborigines

He and Woodoy each married the other's daughter, but when Djunggun tried to keep his own daughter, Woodoy killed him. Both men were turned into night jars.

Djungkao (see Djanggalawuls)

Djuskaha North American

[Juskaha.Little Sprout.Sapling]

an Iroquois culture hero

twin brother of Othagwenda

These boys were born to a maiden, daughter of Ataensis, impregnated by the West Wind. Othagwenda was abandoned at birth, only to be rescued by his brother.

When they reached maturity they went their separate ways, making plants and animals, later meeting to compare their handiwork. Djuskaha made a number of improvements to things created by his brother, so that they were more beneficial to man, whereas Othagwenda spoiled much of his brother's work. As a result, they quarrelled and Othagwenda was killed. (see also Iokeha)

dMu Tibetan

demons (see also lha)

dMu-bDud Kam-Po Sa-Zan Tibetan

a Bon sky god

dMu-rgyal Tibetan

early ancestors of the race

These were the first beings to employ ritual and magic. They were followed by the 'dre.

Dmyal-wa Tibetan

the Tibetan version of the Hindu

hell, Naraka

Dn'il (see Daniel?)

Do' African

a fertility god and rain god of the Upper Volta

He is said to be incarnate in the butterfly.

Do<sup>2</sup> British a forester of Uther

son of Ares

father of Griflet and Lorete

Do-man Tibetan

a collection of mystic writings used as a charm

Do-Son Korean

a Buddhist priest

He predicted that Yi would become king of Korea and he was proved right

when a general of that name deposed the existing king.

Do-Wha Korean

mother of Bi-Hyong

The king, Zin-Zi, invited her to his court but, being married, she declined the offer. When her husband died, Zin-Zi visited her in a dream and stayed with her for several days. She later found herself pregnant, producing the boy Bi-Hyong, who turned out to have magical powers.

Doba O'Basca Irish

father of Dering

Dobaya Central American

a water goddess of the Darien people

dobbie

[dobie.dobby]

a brownie: a house elf

dobby (see dobbie)

Dobh Hebrew

the Great Bear constellation

Dobhrain Irish

uncle and foster father of Deaglan

dobie (see dobbie)

Doboos European

a Czech robber-king

He, like King Arthur and others, is said to lie sleeping, waiting for the call to help his country.

Dobrivoy Serbian

a servant of Theodore

Dobrynaya Nikitich (see Dobrynia)

Dobrynia Russian

[Dobrynaya Nikitich.Dobrynja Kititich]

a warrior

He was defeated by an Amazon who captured him and forced him to marry her. He left his new bride to fight a dragon and, when he failed to return, she married his brother. In some versions, the marriage was to be with his blood-brother Aljosa, and Dobrynja returned just in time to prevent it.

Some say that he was changed into a bull by the witch Marina, others that he was killed by a giantess.

Dobrynja Kikitich (see Dobrynja)

Doc Cu'oc Burmese

an Annamese good spirit
This spirit is said to be half-bodied with one leg and one arm, the hand of which holds an axe. Its function is to drive away evil spirits and to protect the individual from illness, etc.

Doche African

an ancient Ethiopian god

Dockalfar Norse

the dark elves who live underground in Svartalheim (see also dwarfs, elves)

Doctrine of the Mean
(see Chung-yung)

Doda Serbian

[Dodda, Dodola, Dudula]

a rain goddess

Dodda (see Doda)

Dodinas British

[Dodynas]

a Knight of the Round Table

Dodinel the Savage British

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Belinant and Eglante or Bloie

In some accounts he is equated with Percival.

dodo African

a Bushman demon or witch

Dodola (see Doda)

Dodona Greek

[Chaonia]

the oracle of Zeus: the land of the talking oak trees

The oracle was established when a pigeon, flying from Egypt, settled on a branch and ordered that an oracle be set up. The oracle was interpreted from the rustling of the leaves, the noise of a fountain or the cooing of doves.

The grove was attended by the Selli (priests) and the Peleiai (priestesses).

Dodonidae (see Nysaeon nymphs)

Dodonu Egyptian

[Doudoun]

a Nubian god of the Nile cataracts

(see also Khnum)

Dodynas (see Dodinas)

Doel Dearmaid (see Daol Dearmaid)

Doel Ulad

(see Dubhthach Daol Uladh)

Doeltenga

(see Dubhthach Daol Uladh)

dog

a canine, usually domesticated as a pet or trained for various tasks

This animal appears in many myths, some of which are mentioned below:

(1) An Australian Aboriginal story tells how the dog Marindi fought a primateval lizard and was killed. The dog's blood is said to make the rocks red.

(2) In Central America it is said that the dog Maya Pek controls the lightning.

(3) Chinese lore says that the huge celestial dog, T'ien Kou, in the form of a shooting star, is forever trying to swallow the sun.

(4) In Egypt the dog was sacred to Anubis. The funerary dog Khenti-Amentiu was king of the underworld.

(5) The Inuit people have a mythical eight-legged dog called Quiquern.

(6) In European lore the French have a story of Aubry's dog, an animal called Dragon, who harried and finally killed the man who had murdered his master.

Dogs appearing in Reynard the Fox are called Courtoys, Roonel and Wackerloo.

Gabriel's Hounds appear under several different names throughout Europe and are described as a pack of hounds racing through the sky led by any one of many famous figures such as King Arthur, Charlemagne and so on. It is often referred to as the Wild Hunt.

On the Isle of Man, Peel Castle is said to be haunted by the Mauthe Dog.

The Seven Sleepers, who slept in a cave for 200 years, were guarded by the dog Kratim (or Katmir).

(7) In Greek myths, the dog was sacred to Ares and Hermes. Another, Laelaps, was owned by Europa but later passed to Cephalus on his marriage to Procris. It was said to catch anything it chased but met its match in the Cadmaean Vixen, which could outrun any other animal. Zeus solved the dilemma by turning both animals to stone.

The hunter Actaeon had a large pack of dogs that tore him to pieces when he watched Artemis bathing.

Geryon, the twin-bodied giant killed by Heracles, had two dogs, Gargittos and Orthrus, which guarded his huge herds.

In Hades there was a dog called Laon. The three-headed dog, Cerberus, guarded the entrance.

Icarius owned a dog called Maera, which was originally the woman Hecuba who had turned herself into a bitch. When Icarius was killed by shepherds, Maera led Erigone to his grave.

Odysseus owned a dog called Argos that waited twenty years for his master to return, and having recognised him, died.

The giant hunter, Orion, had several dogs including Sirius, Archophonus and Ptoophagos.

(8) In Hindu lore the rain god Indra had a dog called Sharama, which he had created to find the cloud-cattle that had been stolen. When the bitch was bribed with milk by the thieves she reported failure and Indra was forced to undertake the search himself.

In the underworld, two four-eyed dogs, Sabala and Syama, guarded Kalichi, Yama's palace, and rounded up the souls of the dead for judgement.

(9) In Irish stories the warrior Celtchair owned a dog called Daolchu; Cuchulainn had Luath; Dermot O'Dyna, lover of Grania, owned a dog called Mac an Choill; Isolde was given the fairy dog Petiterieu by her lover, Tristram; Finn mac Cool had Adhnuall, Bran and Sceolan; Lugh, the sun god, had a dog called Fail Innis, which could turn water into wine, catch any animal it chased and win every fight it engaged in; Mac da Tho had a very famous dog called Ossar, and two kings fought a war to decide who should have it; Mail Fothartaig had Daitlenn and Doilin; Tristram had dogs called Houdain and Leon, in addition to the dog Petiterieu that he gave to Grania.

Celtchair killed a fierce dog called Brown Mouse that was ravaging the countryside, by putting his hand down the beast's throat and tearing its heart out.

(10) In Japan they tell of Shippeitaro, a dog that waited in a cage for the cat-monster, which demanded the annual tribute of a maiden which it ate, and held the monster while a knight killed it with his sword.

(11) In Norse mythology Frithiof had a dog called Bran; the goddess Hel had two dogs, Garm and Gurme, to guard her underworld kingdom.

(12) Coyote, who appears in so many North American Indian stories, had a dog called Rattlesnake.

(13) In the Pacific Islands they regard the dog Kimat as the controller of lightning. They say that the monster Ku takes the form of a huge dog but can assume the shape of a man at will. It changed into a handsome prince when it fell in love with a maiden, but when his suit was rejected by her father, he reverted to his canine form and killed and ate many of her father's kin.

(14) Scottish stories refer to the fairy dog, Cu Sith, said to be green in colour and as large as an ox.

(15) Welsh stories say that the two dogs Aethlem and Aned were engaged in the hunt for the huge boar Twrch Trwyth, and chased it into the sea. Another dog, Drudwyn, was the leader of the pack that was largely composed of the offspring of yet another dog, Gast Rymhi.

The king of the fairies, Gwynn ap Nudd, owned a dog called Dormath.

Llewellyn left his dog Gelert to guard his baby son and returned to find the baby missing and the dog spattered with blood. He killed the dog, thinking it had killed the child, only to discover the child alive and well beside the body of a wolf that Gelert had killed to protect the child.

Dog Den North American
the enclosure in which Hoita kept all the animals

Dog of Moko New Zealand
a monster in the form of a man-eating dog

Dog of Montargis (see Aubry's Dog)

dog of the shaman

a name for the jaguar

Dog People (see Adlet)

dogai Pacific Islands
Melanesian mischief-making female spirits

These beings are said to be very ugly with huge ears, one of which is used as a bed, the other as a covering blanket. They can turn themselves into such things as trees and rocks and are said sometimes to kill children. The queen of the dogai was Metakorab.

Dogaira Pacific Islands
a malevolent war god

Doged British
a king, in Welsh lore

Cilydd needed a new wife after Goleuddydd died and was advised to take the wife of Doged. Cilydd's men killed Doged and took his wife.

Dogedai Siberian [Toklok]
groom to the star god, Selbon

doggabi Korean
a goblin

Doghan (see Dagon<sup>1</sup>)

Dogheads Baltic
in Estonian lore, a race of beings, half man, half dog

These beings were said to be man-like on one side, dog-like on the other or like a man with a dog's head with one central eye. They killed and ate human beings.

Dogir African
Nubian spirits living in the Nile

They were said to have been humans who were changed into sprites by witches. Some of them still mate with or marry humans.

In other stories some are terrible monsters who eat humans while others live normal lives by day but become werewolves at night.

Dogoda Slav
god of the west wind

Dogs of Foh Chinese [=Japanese Dogs of Foo] statues of these dogs are set at the entrance to Buddhist temples

The dog on the east side is open-mouthed, the one on the west side has its mouth closed.

Dogs of Foo Japanese the Japanese version of the Chinese Dogs of Foh

Dogsheads Celtic
enemies of King Arthur

In some accounts, monsters, in others, human, perhaps Irish.

Dogumrik Afghan
a war god of the Kafir

Dohkwibuhch North American
the creator god of the Snohomish Indians

Doilin Irish
one of the dogs of Mael Fothartaig
This dog, together with another, called Daitlenn, accompanied Mael when he went to Scotland to avoid his new stepmother, Ethne.

Doireann Irish
a daughter of the king of Scandinavia
She fell in love with Conall Gulban who came to her father's court in search of Eithne. He failed to return her love so she sent a warrior, Amhas, to kill him. Conal defeated Amhas who became his devoted follower in the search.

Dokanikani Pacific Islands
a banana that grows in the Melanesian afterworld, Bwebweso

It is said that the spirits of some living people can visit Bwebweso and talk to the spirits of the dead, but if they eat the Dokanikani fruit they can never return to the land of the living.

Dokibatl North American
a trickster god of the Chinook

Dokkalfar Norse
the dark elves (see Dwarfs)

Dolar Durba Irish
a warrior with Daire Donn

He was engaged in single combat with one of the Fianna when he landed during the Norse invasion. Each killed the other after a day-long fight.

Doldavius British
a king of Gotland

He was one of the kings who, impressed by King Arthur's power, submitted to his sovereignty.

Dolfos Spanish
[Bellido.Vellido]
a soldier at Zamora

He crept out of the city at night, during the siege by the forces of Sancho, who was attempting to take the city from his sister, Urraca. He killed Sancho before returning safely to Zamora.

Dolghthrisir Norse
one of the dwarfs

Dolichenus Mesopotamian
a Syrian weather god
He is depicted as a bearded man standing on the back of a bull.

Dolius Greek
a servant of Odysseus
father of Melanthius and Melantho

He and his sons helped Odysseus regain power on his return from his wanderings after the fall of Troy, but Melanthius and Melanthis were killed for having helped the suitors of Penelope.

Doljang Hindu
a goddess

She is said to have stigmata on her hands and feet like those of Christ.

Dollalolla British
the name of King Arthur's wife in

Tragedy of Tragedies by Fielding

Dolma (see sGrol-ma)
Dolon Greek

a Trojan herald
son of Eumedes

He set out to spy on the Greeks on a promise that he would be given the horses of Achilles when the Greeks were defeated. He was caught and killed by Diomedes and Odysseus when they made a night raid on Troy.

Dolops Greek
son of Lamos

He was killed while fighting at Troy.

Dolorous Blow (see Dolorous Stroke)
Dolorous Gard British

the name Lancelot used for his castle, Garde Joyeuse, after he had returned Guinevere to her husband, King Arthur

Dolorous Mound British
the home in Wales of the Black Worm of the Barrow

Dolorous Stroke British [Dolorous Blow]
the cause of the Waste Lands

When this stroke was delivered, the country (Wales or, some say, the whole of Britain) was laid waste and the barrenness could be removed only by the Grail Quest. The blow that precipitated this state was either the stabbing of Pellam by Balin, who used the Sacred Spear, or the sword stroke with which Varlan killed Lambor.

dolphin
a marine animal featured in some stories

(1) In Greece the dolphin was sacred to Apollo.

This animal, said to have saved both Arion and Telemachus, is regarded as an emblem of Aphrodite and Poseidon and was ridden by the Nereids.

(2) In Mesopotamia the dolphin was the animal of Ea or Oannes.

(3) Some North American Indian tribes regard the dolphin as the incarnation of the Great Spirit.

(4) In Roman myths these animals are ridden by cupids and conduct the souls of the dead to the underworld.

(5) In South America some tribes believe that the dolphin can take on human form at night.

Dolya Russian [=Serbian Sreca]

a female deity who determines the fate of mortals at their birth

Dom Pedro (see Dan Petro)

Domania (see Domovikha)

Dombi Buddhist
a terrible goddess
one of the Gauri

Domdaniel
the undersea home of a sorcerer
an infernal cave
the supposed name of an evil spirit

Domhnall Irish
[Domnal]
father of Dornolla

He was a warrior who taught Cuchulainn in Scotland before Skatha.

Domhnall Breac Irish
[Domnal]
a king of Dalriada

He supported Congall Caoch in his quarrel with High-King Domhnall mac Aodha, who defeated Congall at the Battle of Magh Ratha.

Domhnall mac Aodha Irish [Domnal]

a high-king of Ireland
son of Aedh mac Ainmhireac brother of Maol Cobha
foster father of Congall Caoch

He quarrelled with his foster-son, Congall, the king of Ulster, who had earlier killed the high-king Suibhne Meann so that Domhnall could take the throne. Congall fled to Scotland but later returned with an army raised by Domhnall Breac, king of Dalriada. The armies met at the Battle of Magh Ratha where Congall was defeated and killed.

Domiduca Roman
a name for Juno as 'guardian goddess of babies when out of their parents' sight'

Dominae Roman
a Celtic river-goddess of the Loire

Dominator (see Quiot)

Domnal (see Domhnall)

Domnu Irish
a Fomoiré mother-goddess mother of Inneach

Domnu's gods (see Fomoiré)

Domovik Russian

[Domovoi.Domovoy.Korka-kuzo.Korka-murt.Majahaldas.Majas Gars.Majasgars.

Susetka:=Lithuanian Kaukas:=Polish

Iskrychi]

a male house spirit

a type of karlik

husband of Domovikha

He was expelled from heaven by Svarog and fell down a chimney. He is said to live near the fire or on the threshold of the house and to ensure prosperity. If not properly propitiated he may burn the house down.

He is envisaged as a grey-bearded old man.

(see also Bannik.Chlevnik.Dvinnik)

Domovikha Russian

[Domania.Kikimora.Mora]

a female house spirit

wife of Domovik

She is said to live in the cellar of the house and, if not properly propitiated wakens the children in the night to annoy the parents.

Some house spirits are even more vicious and suck the blood of sleeping children or suffocate them. It is said that these beings have two souls, the normal one and a second which can transfer itself to another body.

Domovoi (see Domovik)

Domovoy (see Domovik)

Dôn British

[Deon.Donnus.Mother of the Gods:=Irish Dana]

a Welsh mother goddess and sky goddess

daughter of Mathonwy

sister of Math wife of Beli

mother of Amaethon, Aranrhod,

Gilvaethwy, Govannon, Gwydion,

Nudd, Nyniaw, Peibiaw and Penardun

mother of Eneyd, some say

Some accounts say Don (Donnus) is a masculine version of Dana.

(see also Llys Dôn)

Don Alfonso (see Alfonso)

Don Diego (see Diego Laynez)

Don Garcia (see Garcia)

Don Gomez (see Gomez)

Don Pedro (see Dan Pétro)

Don Quixote<sup>1</sup> Spanish

[Knight of La Mancha.Knight of the Doleful Countenance]

a folk-hero

He imagined himself a knight errant and set out on his broken-down horse Rosinante, to seek adventure accompanied by his squire Sancho

Panza. He saw wayside inns as castles, flocks of sheep as armies on the march, and tilted at windmills, which he saw as giants. He was eventually restored to sanity.

His mistress is given as Dulcinea.

Don Quixote<sup>2</sup> Spanish
a book written by Cervantes relating the adventures of Don Quixote and Sancho Panza

Don Ramiro (see Ramiro)

Don Sancho (see Sancho)

Don-yo-dup-pa (see Amoghasiddhi)

Don-yo-sha-pa (see Amoghapasa)

Don-yod-grub-pa (see Amoghasiddhi)

Don-yod-shags-pa (see Amoghapasa)

Dona Elvira (see Elvira)

Dona Sul (see Sul<sup>2</sup>)

Dona Urraca (see Urraca)

Dona Ximena (see Ximena)

Donall Dualbhui Irish
husband of Muinchinn

In some versions of the story of Ailill Fionn, Donall takes the place of Ailill and Muinchinn appears in place of Flidhais. In this account Certan was a giant and he was drowned when Donall's sling shot holed his boat.

Some say that he was the father of Ailill.

Donar German
[Hercules Barbatus:=Anglo-Saxon Thunor:
=Norse Thor]
a thunder god (see also Dietrich<sup>1</sup>)

Donbittri Russian
an Ossetian god of waters and guardian of fishermen

Donchadh (see Donnchadh)

Dondinello British
father of Carduino

Donelan British
a knight at the court of King Mark
He was one of the trio of knights who spied on Tristram and Isolde and informed Mark of his wife's infidelity. He was killed by Tristram who was en route to yet another assignation with Isolde.

Dongo African
a storm god of the Songhai of Nigeria
He caused a flash of lightning when he threw his axe with the result that some men were killed. He revived them by spraying them with water from his mouth.

Dongrub Tibetan
the king of gling
son of dBangpo-rgyabzhin and
bKur-dman-rgyalmo
brother of Donldan and Donyod
He was said to have descended from the heaven, sTang-lha, to rule the land of humans, Bar-btsan.

Donldan Tibetan
son of dBangpo-rgyabzhin and
bKur-dman-rgyalmo
brother of Dongrub and Donyod

Donn<sup>1</sup> Irish
son of Milesius and Seang
He was drowned during the Milesian invasion of Ireland. In some accounts he is the same as Donn Dumhach.

Donn<sup>2</sup> Irish
in some accounts the swineherd who became Donn, the Brown Bull of Cooley

Donn<sup>3</sup> (see Dis Pater)
Donn Bo Irish
a warrior and musician at the court of Fergal

He was well known as a singer and when he was killed and beheaded in battle his head sang a lay in praise of Fergal, who had also been killed and beheaded. The victorious Leinstermen took the head back to the site of the battle and placed it on the body of Donn Bo, who was restored to life.

Donn Cuailnge
(see Brown Bull of Cooley)

Donn Duimhche
(see Donn Dumhach)

Donn Dumhach Irish
['brown'.Donn Dumhaighne.Donn Firinne.
Donn (na) Duimhche.The Dark One]
god of cattle, crops, the dead and shipwrecks king of the Otherworld
son of Mider
father of Taise

He was the ancestor of the Celtic races who lived on the island of Tech Duinn and gave instructions to the souls of the dead on how to reach the Otherworld.

He was often described as a phantom rider in the sky, and in one story, wanting his horse reshod, he pulled off the animal's leg and replaced it after the smith had fixed a new shoe.
(see also Duach<sup>1</sup>)

Donn Dumhaighne
(see Donn Dumhach)

Donn Firinne (see Donn Dumhach)

Donn na Duimhche
(see Donn Dumhach)

Donn O'Dyna Irish
father of Dermot
His wife had another son by Roc, and when Donn killed this child, Roc turned the corpse into a huge boar, Ben Bulben, and ordered it to avenge the death of his son, which it later did by killing Dermot.

Donn Tetscorach Irish
brother or, some say, son of Midir

Donncha Daoi Irish
husband of Mor Mumhan
His wife left him and she failed to find him when she later went in search of him.

Donnchadh Irish [Donchadh O'Briain]
son of Brian Boru
brother of Murchadh

He succeeded to the throne when his father was killed at the Battle of Clontarf.

When he was en route to another battle, a hag, washing heads and limbs of slain warriors, foretold that he would be killed and his army would be routed in the battle. She was proved right. (see Washer by the Ford)

Donnuir Irish
a scholar at the court of King Feidhlimidh

When the king was tricked out of his clothes and his horse by Saba, he sent Donnuir to seduce her.

Donnus Irish [Dón]
in some accounts, a masculinised version of Dana

Don's Court British
In Wales a name for the constellation Cassiopeia, home of the sky goddess

Dontso North American
a messenger-fly in the lore of the Navaho American Indians

Donyod Tibetan
son of dBangpo-rgyabzhin and
bKur-dman-rgyalmo
brother of Dongrub and Donldan

Doolin European
in some accounts, the father of Ogier

Doom of the Gods (see Ragnarok)

Doon Buidhe Celtic
a minstrel goddess

Doorkeepers Tibetan
a group of 4 Buddhist goddesses, part of the Bardo group

doppelganger German
a wraith: a spirit-double
If one sees one's own doppelganger it is a sign of ill fortune or death.

(see also co-walker)

Doquebuth North American
a survivor of the flood, in the lore of the Selish tribe

He rode out the flood in his canoe that, like Noah's Ark, held two of every species, plus five other humans.

The creator god told Doquebuth how to restart life on earth after the waters had subsided.

Dor Castle (see Dore Castle)

dor-le Tibetan

a Buddhist demon

Doralis European

a princess of Granada

She was the beloved of Rodomont but she ran off with Madricardo.

Dorceus Greek

a dog of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Dorceus, tore him to pieces.

Dord Fian Irish

the battle-cry of the Fianna

Dore Castle British

[Dor Castle]

a castle in Cornwall

An inscription in this castle seems to suggest that Tristram was the son of King Mark.

Dori Norse

one of the dwarfs

Dorin British

son of Claudas

He was killed when fighting Bors.

Dorinop Australian

wife of Walleyneup

mother of Bindinoor

Dorippa Greek

wife of Anius

mother of the Oenotropoe

In some accounts the wife of Anius is given as Dryope.

Doris Greek

a nymph, one of the Oceanids

a sea goddess

daughter of Oceanus and Tethys

sister and wife of Nereus

mother of Galatea, the Nereids including Amphitrite, and Thetis

Dorje' Tibetan

[Diamond Sow.Dorje Pahmo.Great

Goddess.rDo-rje:=Buddhist Marichi:

=Chinese Ju-i:=Japanese Nyo]

the thunderbolt, embodying the power of the law, personified

In some accounts she was the wife of the demon Tamjin. She took the form of a wild sow to destroy the Mongols.

dorje' (see rdo-rje)

Dorje Pahmo (see Dorje)

Dormath Welsh

a dog owned by Gwyn ap Nudd

Dorn Irish

a noblewoman

She was given to Fergus mac Leda in compensation for the death of Eochaid Yellowmouth, who had been killed while under Fergus' protection, by men sent by the high-king, Conn. She foolishly revealed the secret that Fergus had his mouth in the back of his head, so he killed her.

Dornar British

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Pellimore

brother of Driant

Dornolla Irish

a wind deity

daughter of Domhnall

She fell in love with Cuchulainn, who was training under her father, but was rejected. She then caused all the hero's companions to desert him and return to Ireland.

It is said that her feet and legs, from the knee downwards, were reversed.

Dorobo African

a pygmy

the first man, in the lore of

the Masai

Dorothiel

a demon

Dorr-karing European

[=Lapp Upsakka]

a Swedish door spirit

This spirit is said to live near the door of each room and blows out the candle of those who enter.

Dorradr Norse

a warrior

Before a battle he saw twelve Valkyries weaving, using human entrails.

Dorulos Greek

a centaur said to have been killed by Theseus

Dorus Greek

son of Hellen and Orseis

brother of Aeolus and Xuthus

In some accounts he is said to be the son of Xuthus and Creusa.

He is regarded as the ancestor of the Dorian branch of the Greek people.

Dosangma Tibetan

one of the 5 Long-Life Sisters

Doso (see Demeter)

Dosojin Japanese

[Sae-no-kami]

gods of roads and boundaries,

guardians of the village

Dosu West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Dot Irish

father of Balor, some say

Doubting Castle British

the home of the giant, Despair, in

Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress

Doudoun (see Dodonu.Khnum)

doul-kong Mesopotamian

['holy hill']

the home of the Sumerian gods

Dousares (see Dusara.Dusara)

dove Greek

a bird sacred to Aphrodite

(see also Chaonian bird)

Dove Goddess (see Aphrodite)

Dovinia (see Duibhne)

dowsing (see rhabdomancy)

Doyadano North American

the twin sons of Ataensic,

Hahgwehdaetgah and Hahgwehdiyu

Dozmary Pool British

a pool on Bodmin Moor

In some accounts this was the lake to which King Arthur's sword, Excalibur, was returned by Bedivere.

Dozoku-shin Japanese

Shinto guardian deities of the family

Dpe-dkar Tibetan

a god

dPan-idan Lhamo (see Sri<sup>3</sup>)

Dr Faustus (see Faust)

Dra Minyan Tibetan

one of the Five Lands

This realm was regarded as the home of the dead.

drac European

[draca:plur=dracae]

a demon of the Rhone

These beings lure people by sham treasures and then pull them to their death under the water. They are said to be visible to humans only if they rub snake fat into their eyes.

draca (see drac)

dracae (see drac)

Drachenfels Norse

the home of the dragon slain

by Siegfried

Draco Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Draco, tore him to pieces.

draconite Greek

a fabulous stone said to be found in the head of a dragon

Dracula European

[Count Dracula.Vlad the Impaler]

a mediaeval tyrant

It is said that when envoys of the Turkish Emperor refused to remove their turbans in his presence he had their headgear nailed to their heads.

His mercilessness seems to be the basis for his characterisation as the vampire Dracula, who drank the blood of young maidens.

Drag-gshed

Tibetan

[Dag-she.Drag-gshhed]
8 evil Lamaist gods led by Hayagriva

These deities are listed as:
Brahma (Tshangs-pa)
Hayagriva (rTa-mgrin)
Kubera (Rnam-thos-sras)
Lcham-Sring
Mahakala (Mgon-po)
Sri (Lah-Mo)
Yama (gShin-rje)
Yamantaka (gShin-rje gsed)

(see also Dharmapala)

Drag-gshhed

(see Drag-gshed)

Draghignazzo

European

[Dragonel]
a demon in Danté's Inferno

dragon¹

[drake.worm]
a fire-breathing monster, usually with wings

This beast appears in many forms in many mythologies. Some dragons have the power to become invisible. (1) In alchemy they were said to have different characteristics and could affect substances such as metals. For example, those with wings represented volatile materials.

Other dragons are described as having the body of a leopard and the feet of a bear; others as having two horns. Some were said to be able to heal their own wounds.

(2) In China, the dragon is a monster with a camel's head, fish scales, the hooves of a deer and clawed legs like a tiger.

This beast, which can be very small or enormous, is said to carry a jewel under its chin and may disgorge pearls.

Some say that it lives in the oceans during the winter months and ascends to the heavens in the spring.

In some versions, there are three main types, the lung (or long), the li and the chiao.

Other versions have it as a fierce winged beast that breathes fire, while some claim that it can expand or contract and change into any shape.

The ten dragons of Buddhism are reduced to four, one for each of the seas. These, the Dragon Kings, are Kuang-te (east), Kuang-li (south), Kuang-jun (west) and Kuang-she (north). An alternative listing gives Ao Kuang (east), Ao K'in (south), Ao Jun (west) and Ao Shun (north).

(see also Celestial Stag)

(3) In Greek stories the dragon was the animal of Bacchus.

It appears in various stories often as a guardian of treasure such as the Apples of the Hesperides sought by Heracles, and the Golden Fleece in the story of the Argonauts. In the story of Cadmus, he killed a dragon and sowed its teeth like seed, producing a crop of soldiers. Some of these teeth appear again in the story of the Argonauts, also producing soldiers from the earth.

(4) In Japan the dragon is a mythical beast thought to hatch from an egg after 3,000 years. The first 1,000 years were spent in the sea, the second in the mountains and the third in a village. The egg contained a tiny snake that, as soon as it was hatched, grew into a huge dragon which flew into the sky.

Five of the many dragons in Japanese lore are regarded as guardians of the various quarters of the world; the Black Dragon rules the north, the Red Dragon the south, the Blue Dragon the east and the White Dragon the west, while the Yellow Dragon rules the centre. (see also Celestial Stag)

Dragon²

(see Aubrey's dog)

Dragon-boat Festival

Chinese

[Tuan Yang.Tuan Wu]
a festival designed to propitiate the water spirits

Dragon Carp

Japanese

son of a dragon king
This fish succeeded in swimming past rapids, lived for 1,000 years and then went to heaven. It was once caught by a Korean fisherman but was returned to the sea when it asked for mercy.

dragon-horse

(see ch'i-lin)

Dragon King of Lake Biwa

Japanese

a dragon living in Lake Biwa
A monstrous centipede had taken all the dragon's children and grandchildren, so he sought the help of Hidesato who killed the centipede. The king rewarded him with a never-empty bag of rice, an endless roll of silk, a cauldron that cooked without fire and two bells.

Dragon King of the Sea (see Ryujin)

Dragon Kings

Japanese

rulers of the earth
There were said to be four such creatures, each responsible for one particular aspect and one of the oceans of the world. They were known as the Celestial Dragon, the Dragon of Hidden Treasure, the Earth Dragon and the Spiritual Dragon.

Dragon of Hidden Treasure

Japanese

one of the Four Dragon Kings
He was responsible for all the precious stones and metals hidden in the earth.

Dragon of Rhodes

a dragon living in a cave on the island of Rhodes

This dragon preyed on the countryside and killed several of the Knights of St John who set out to hunt it. It was finally killed by Theodore.

Dragon of the Lake

African

a monster who demanded the yearly sacrifice of a virgin

On one occasion, the only virgin available was the king's daughter Fatouma. A prince, Hammadi, killed the monster and married the princess.

Dragon of the Threshold

Chinese

[Guardian of the Threshold]
a dragon said to guard the entrance to hell

Dragon of the Waters

(see Ahi)

Dragon-man

Chinese

a being depicted as a human but with a dragon-like lower half

Dragon Slayer

(see Vasapaklal)

Dragonel

the English version of Draghignazzo

dragoness

a female dragon

dragonet

a small dragon

dragonfly

Japanese

this insect is thought to be the soul of a dead person

Dragonis

British

a knight
He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

dragonise

turn into a dragon

Dragon's Head

(see Lo-hou)

Dragon's Tail

(see Chi-tu)

Draidecht

Irish

a name for the Dagda as god of magic

draio

(see druid)

drake

(see dragon¹)

Drakulu

Pacific Islands

in the lore of Fiji, an entrance to the land of the dead (see also Cibaciba)

Drauga (see Druj)

draugr<sup>1</sup> Norse

the restless dead in a burial mound

Draugr<sup>2</sup> Norse

a water spirit

This being is said to foretell storms and shipwrecks, using a human voice.

Draupadi Hindu

[Krishnaa.Panchali]

a princess

daughter of Drupada

She was won by Arjuna in an archery contest and became the wife of all five of the Pandava brothers. The Kauravas claimed that the contest had been unfair, so Duryodhana played Yudhishtira at dice to settle the matter. The Kaurava leader won and took not only Draupadi but Yudhishtira's lands as well. Draupadi was treated as a slave by the Kauravas and then sent into exile, living for twelve years in the forest with her five husbands. A cousin, Jayadratha, who tried to seduce her, was beaten and robbed by the Pandavas. She later became a servant at the court, where a general named Kichaka tried to seduce her and was battered to death by Bhima. At the end of the period in exile, the war between the two families was fought. Draupadi went with the Pandavas who, after they had won, travelled to Mount Meru to purify themselves, but Draupadi died en route.

Draupner (see Draupnir)

Draupnir<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Draupner]

Odin's magic ring

This ring, which was able to multiply itself as required, was made by Sindri and presented to Odin by Brock. Odin placed it on Balder's funeral pyre, but it was returned to Odin when Hermod rode to Niflheim to ask for Balder's release.

In other versions Loki got it from Andvari as part of the treasure he handed over. It was returned to the Rhine by Brunhild when she immolated herself on Siegfried's funeral pyre.

(see also Andvaranaut.Ring of Power)

Draupnir<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Draupner]

one of the dwarfs

'dre Tibetan

early ancestors of the race

These people abandoned the great forests to live on bare mountain slopes.

Next came the Ma-sang,

Dream-fairy Norse

a name for night

Dream of Angus (see Aislinge Oenguso)

Dream of Macsen Wledig British

a story from the Mabinogian about Macsen's dream, which brought him to Britain

Dream of Rbonabwy British

a story from the Mabinogion relating a soldier's dream about King Arthur and his knights preparing for battle

Dream Palace Greek

part of the western ocean, origin of dreams

Prophetic dreams passed through a gate made of horn, deceptive ones through a gate made of ivory.

dreaming lines (see song lines)

Dreaming, The (see Alchera)

Dreamtime (see Alchera)

Drebkuls Baltic

[=Greek Poseidon]

a Lettish sea god

Dregnavnt (see Ahriman)

Dreibhriu Irish

a lover of Angus Og

daughter of Eochaid Feidhleach

Drem British

a Welsh gatekeeper at King

Arthur's palace

son of Dremhidydd

He was a noted seer who could tell what was happening anywhere in Britain.

Dremhidydd British

[Dremidydd]

father of Drem

Dremidydd (see Dremhidydd)

Drepane Greek

the sickle of Demeter

Dreqi (see Djall)

Dresden Codex Central American

a manuscript source of Mayan legend and culture

Dresterata Pacific Islands

[=Hindu Dhritarashtra]

a Javanese version of Dhartarashtra

son of Abiasa and Amika husband of Gandari

father of the Korawas

Dri-chab-ma Tibetan

the Tibetan name for Gandha

Dri-za Buddhist

the Tibetan name for Dhritarashtra

(Dhartarashtra) as 'King of the Gandhavas'

Driant British

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Pellimore

brother of Dornar

He was killed by Gawain.

Drifta Norse

a Frost Giantess

goddess of snowdrifts

daughter of Thrym

sister of Frosti, Jokul and Snoer

drilbu Tibetan

a prayer bell

The lamas use this bell to drive away evil spirits and attract good ones.

Drink-all African

a frog that can empty a lake by drinking its waters

Drip-hall Norse

a name for heaven

Dripping Water North American

[Waterfall]

a Pueblo deity

mother of the War Twins, Ahayuta

achi, fathered by the Sun

Driver (see Ayamur)

drogue West Indian

a Haitian magic charm

This charm is said to protect the wearer from major catastrophes such as war.

Other protective charms are the airet and the garde, all of them different from the wanga, which brings ill fortune.

droll (see troll)

Droma Norse

[Dromi]

a chain used to bind Fenris

This was the second chain used to bind the wolf to a rock and, like the first, Laeding, was not strong enough to hold him.

Dromas Greek

[Dromos]

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Dromas, tore him to pieces.

Dromi (see Droma)

Dromos (see Dromas)

Drona Hindu

[A(r)charya.'bucket']

a general

husband of Kripa

son of Bharadvaja

father of Ashvathaman

He was said to have been born in a bucket or pot.

He was told that his son, fighting for the Kauravas, had been killed and so allowed himself to die at the hand of the Pandava leader, Dhristadyumna. Ashvathaman, very much alive, sought revenge and killed not only his father's killer but many Pandava soldiers as well.

Drostan<sup>1</sup> Irish
a druid of the Picts
He advised the Leinster king, Criomhthann Sciathbheal, to sprinkle the battlefield with milk, whereupon all the wounded were healed.

Drostan<sup>2</sup> (see Drust)

Drotnat Norse [Diar]
a priest at the temple of Odin

drow (see trow)

dru (see dryad)

Druantia Celtic
[Queen of the Druids]
a Gaulish goddess of the Druids

drude German [plur=druden]
a female demon that attacks sleeping people

druden (see drude)

drudenfusz German
a charm used to ward off demons

Drudwas British
one of the Twenty-Four Knights of King Arthur's Court
son of Tryffin
He had arranged to meet King Arthur in single combat and sent his tame griffins ahead with orders to kill the first man to arrive at the scene of the combat. His sister, a paramour of the king, delayed Arthur's arrival and Drudwas was killed by his own griffins.

Drudwyn British
a hound, in Welsh stories
Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to obtain this animal to lead the pack of hounds to be used in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth.

Drug<sup>1</sup> Tibetan
a god

Drug<sup>2</sup> (see Druj)

Drugh Persian ['lie']
the force of disorder
(see also Druj.Durugh)

druks Hindu [druks] malevolent spirits

druí (see druid)

druid Celtic [draoi.drui.Fathi]
a magician-priest
The druids believed in the transmigration of souls and in an afterlife, using sacrifice as part of their rituals, which made use of mistletoe. It was said that they could cast spells that created illusions, cured sickness and laid curses on their enemies.

druid stone (see adderstone)

Druidan British
a dwarf
Gawain gave him his own mistress, Ydain, when he grew tired of her.

druidess Celtic
a female druid

druidism Celtic the doctrines and ceremonies of the Celtic priests involving the use of mistletoe and the sacrifice of bulls

druidry
paganism

Druid's Circle
a ring of standing stones such as Stonehenge

Druid's Egg
a magical egg said to be provided jointly by several serpents
It was said that the egg was kept riding in the air by the hissing of the serpents. Its sting was fatal but success in life was guaranteed to anybody who could catch it.

Druj Persian
['deceit'.Drug.Drauga.Durugh]
the place of torment: a name for Angra Mainya: a female demon of falsehood (see also Drugh)

Druj Nasu Persian
a corpse demon that takes possession of the dead in the form of a fly

drukhs (see druhs)

Drumalika Hindu
a demon
father of Kansa
He raped Pavanarekha to produce a child who would succeed to her husband's throne and finally become ruler of the world. Vishnu frustrated this plan by appearing as Krishna and killing the monstrous Kansa.

Druope (see Dryope)

Drupada Hindu
a king of Panchala
son of Prishata
father of Draupadi
His daughter had been pledged to Arjuna, but, when it seemed that Arjuna had been killed, Drupada organised an archery contest between the other suitors for her hand. It was won by a beggar who turned out to be Arjuna, who had merely been in hiding.

Drusian German
a magician
He abducted Sigeminne but her husband Wolfdietrich rescued her.

Drusilla Roman
daughter of Germanicus and Agrippina
sister of Caligula

She is said to have committed incest with Caligula who deified her on her death.

Drust<sup>1</sup> British [Drostan.Drust(r)an.Drustranus.Drystan] a Pictish king
son of Erp
He is reputed to have lived for a hundred years and to have fought a hundred battles.

Drust<sup>2</sup> (see Tristram)

Drustan (see Drust.Tristram)

Drustran (see Drust.Tristram)

Drustranus (see Drust.Tristram)

Drvaspa Persian
one of the Yazatas

Drwg British
maid servant of Bwlch and Hwyrddyddwg

Drwgddyddwg British
wife of Cyfwlch

dry (see dryad)

Dry Bed of the River of Souls Japanese a world to which the souls of dead children pass and where they are forced to work

dryad Greek [dru.dry:plur=dryades]
a tree nymph, originally of oak trees (see also hamadryad)

dryandra (see Parasol tree)

Dryas<sup>1</sup> Greek
father of Lycurgus

Dryas<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Lycurgus
father of Municus
He was killed with an axe by his father who, in his madness, mistook him for a vine.

Dryden, John British (1631-1700)
an English poet
Author of Cynon and Iphigenia. He also wrote the libretto for the opera King Arthur (music by Purcell), which has the king in love with a blind girl, Emmeline.

Drynog British
owner of a magic cauldron
This vessel, Pair Drynog, became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

Dryope<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Druope.Penelope]
daughter of Dryops or Eurytus wife of Andraemon
mother of Amphissus by Apollo
She was seduced by Apollo in the form of a tortoise, producing a son, Amphissus. In some accounts she is referred to as Penelope and is the mother of Pan by Hermes.

Some say that she and her fellow water nymphs carried off Hylas when he came ashore from the Argo to search for water.

When she picked a branch of a lotus tree, blood started to run – it was the nymph Lotis. Dryope was changed into a lotus tree or a poplar.

In another account she was carried off by her fellow nymphs. A poplar tree and a spring appeared on the same spot and she became a nymph of that spring.

Dryope<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Druope]

wife of Anius, in some accounts

mother of the Oenotropoe

(see also Dorippa)

Dryops Greek

son of Apollo or Spercheius

father of the nymph Dryope

Drystan (see Drust, Tristram)

Dsahadoldza North American

an earth god of the Navaho

Dsam-bha-la (see Jambhala)

Dsovean Armenian

a storm god

consort of Dsovinar

Dsovinar Armenian

consort of Dsovean

Du British

the horse of Moro Oerfeddawg, in

Welsh stories

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to obtain this horse for use in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

In some accounts, this animal was the horse of Gwynn ap Nudd.

Du-azaga Mesopotamian

the mound at Babylon on which the temple E-sagila was built du-urt Finnish

a corn spirit

Dua Egyptian

a god who acted as the king's personal valet

brother of Set, some say

Duach<sup>1</sup> Irish

['the dark']

king of the Land of the Dead

father of Taltiu

He was given charge of the young Lugh, after his instruction by Goban, until he reached manhood.

(see also Donn Dumhach)

Duach<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Dui]

son of Cairbre

brother of Deadhadh

He quarrelled with his brother and had him blinded. He later killed

Congal Clairingneach and took over the throne of Ireland.

Duaibhseach<sup>1</sup> Irish

wife of Muircheartach

Muircheartach was persuaded to put aside his wife in favour of the sorceress, Sin. When Sin brought about the death of her husband, Duaibhseach died of grief.

Duaibhseach<sup>2</sup> Irish

in some accounts, the great spear

of Cuchulainn (see also Cletine)

Duamutef (see Tuamutef)

Duat (see Amenti<sup>1</sup>)

Dub (see Dubh)

Dub Sanglainn (see Black of Sainglenn)

Dubglas British

[Duglas]

site of battles against the Saxons in Arthurian lore

Dubh<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Dub]

a druid at the court of Eochaid, king of Scotland

When Congall came to the court to seek help from Eochaid, Dubh advised him against the invasion of Ireland.

Dubh<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Dub]

a druidess

wife of Enna

She used her magic to drown the woman Aide, with whom Enna was having an affair. Enna, or the dead woman's servant, killed her in revenge. In some accounts, the roles are reversed and Dubh is the husband of Enna.

Dubh Cuailnge (see Brown Bull of Cooley)

Dubh Lacha Irish

[Dub Lacha.Ibhell]

daughter of Fiachna mac Deamhain

wife of Mongan

Her real father, in some accounts, was Manannan.

She was born on the same night as Mongan and they were betrothed as infants. When Brandubh, king of Leinster, tricked Mongan into giving him his wife, Mongan turned an old woman, Cuimhne, into a young girl and substituted her for Dubh Lacha.

Dubh Rois Irish

[Dub Rois]

a harper at the court of Feidhlimidh

mac Criomthann

With his music, he charmed Mis, who had gone mad after drinking the blood of her dead father, and then seduced her. She regained her looks and her reason and he married her. He was later killed by enemies of Munster.

Dubh Sainglainn (see Black of Sainglenn)

Dubhgiolla Irish

[Black Servant]

the talking shield of Aedh

Dubhlaing (see Dubhlainn)

Dubhlainn Irish

[Dub(h)laing]

lover of Aoibheall

In one account Aoibheall prophesied his death in a forthcoming battle, which would suggest that Dubhlainn is the same as Brian Boru.

(see also Brian Boru)

Dubhthach<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Duftach]

a druid

father of Brigit by Broicseach

Dubhthach<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Duftach]

a poet

He supported the efforts of St Patrick to spread Christianity and the saint blessed him, giving him the power to produce inspired poetry on religious themes.

Dubhthach Daol Uladh Irish

[Duftach Daolteangach.Dubhthach Doel

Ulad.Dubhthach Doeltanga]

a warrior of Ulster

father of Cormac mac Dubhthach

He was one of those trapped by the forces of Connaught at the hostel of Da Coga and only he, Amergin and Fiacha mac Fir Beibhe survived the battle.

He was one of the party sent by Conor mac Nessa to escort Deirdre and Naisi back from Scotland, where they had eloped. When Conor broke his promise of safe conduct and killed Naisi and his brothers, Dubhthach and his son, together with Fergus, attacked Emain Macha and killed 300 of the garrison. All three then joined forces with Maeve, Queen of Connaught.

He was a troublemaker and started the trouble at Briccui's feast, the meeting at which Cuchulainn took part in a beheading contest.

It was said that his tongue was black as a result of his bitter speech.

Dubhthach Doel Ulad

(see Dubhthach Daol Uladh)

Dubhthach Doeltanga

(see Dubhthach Daol Uladh)

Dubiaku African

a man who almost cheated death

A mother with eleven sons asked Death to take some of them because they ate so much. In the house of Death, they slept on mats, each with a child of Death, but Dubiaku kept awake, sent Death on an errand and escaped with his brothers. When Death returned, she ate her own children in mistake for the brothers. When they were followed Dubiaku lured Death into a tree and caused her to fall to the ground and be killed. She was revived inadvertently by Dubiaku and took up the chase again. Ten of the brothers escaped by swinging themselves across a river and Dubiaku turned himself into a stone to escape Death.

Dublaing (see Dubhlainn)

Dubric (see Dubricius)

Dubricius British

[Dubric.Dubuc.Dyfrig]

a 6th c Welsh bishop and saint

He is said to have crowned Arthur as king of Britain. In some accounts, he is identified with Merlin.

Dubsainglend

(see Black of Sainglenn)

Dubsainglu (see Black of Sainglenn)

Dubuc (see Dubricius)

Duc Ba Annamese

[Ba-Du'c Chua.Duc Thank Ba.Three Mothers]

a triad of female deities, the spirits of air, forests and water

Duc Thank Ba (see Duc Ba)

duca South American

in the lore of some Brazilian tribes, a large cat-like animal

ducii European

a term for incubi in some French demonologies

Duck Hawk (see Ai'kren)

Dudon European

a Danish knight imprisoned by Morgana and released by Roland

Dudu Mesopotamian

a Sumerian deity regarded as a scribe

Dudugera Pacific Islands

a Papuan leg-child

He was born from his mother's leg after a sea god, in the form of a fish or a dolphin, had rubbed against it. He was returned to the sea where his father seized him in his mouth. He became the sun and his heat killed nearly all the people until his mother threw lime or mud into the air to form protective clouds.

Dudula (see Doda)

Due Tristani Italian

a 16th c story about the children of Tristram and Isolde

Duellona (see Bellona)

duende European

a Spanish goblin or house spirit

duergar (see Dwarfs)

Duessa British

a witch in Spenser's The Faerie Queene

Dufthach (see Dubhthach)

Dufr Norse

one of the dwarfs

Dugal the Brown (see Dagda)

dugganawa (see kapurale)

Duglas (see Dubglas)

Dugnai Slav

a household spirit that causes dough to rise

Dugong Australian

sister of Moon

When she was bitten by leeches, she dived into the sea and became a dugong.

Dugum British

father of Mil the Black

Duhsaha Hindu

a wicked youth

He was killed when robbing a temple and was reborn as the evil King Sudurmukha who, in a later incarnation, was the god Kubera. (see Kubera<sup>2</sup>)

Duhsala Hindu

daughter of Dha and Gandhari wife of Jayadratha

Her one hundred brothers were known as the Kauravas.

Duhsasana Hindu

[Dushasana]

son of Dhartarashtra

one of the Kauravas

He abused Draupadai when she was made a slave of the Kauravas. When he was killed in the war with the Pandavas, Bhima drank his blood.

Dui (see Duach<sup>2</sup>)

Duibhdhriu Irish

an officer of the court of Cormac

mac Airt

He stole a sword from Socht and killed Socht's grandfather. It was proved that he was the killer and he was ordered to pay compensation to Socht.

Duibhind Irish

daughter of Conaire and Sarait

sister of Cairbre

One of her three brothers, Cairbre Musc, fathered on her twin boys, one of whom was Corc Duibhne.

Duibhne Irish

[Dovinia]

a goddess of Munster

Duillae Roman

Spanish fertility goddesses

Duke of Cornwall (see Gorlois)

Duke of Risa (see Rogero<sup>1</sup>)

Duke of the River (see Ho Po)

Duke of the South Border

a noble who hated King Arthur and all his men

This man claimed that Gawain had killed one of his sons and when Gawain arrived at his castle with Morholt and Owain, he challenged Morholt to fight him and his six sons all at once. Morholt unhorsed all seven – and then did it again for good measure. Morholt forced the duke to yield and sent him to the king's court to ask for mercy.

Duke of Thunder (see Lei Kung)

Duke of Tintagel (see Gorlois)

Duke of Wood (see Mu Kung)

dukkha Buddhist

world weariness: the burden of living

dukkeripen

fortune-telling

dukug Mesopotamian

the cosmic throne room of the Sumerian gods

dukun East Indian

a Javanese magician said to be able to cure disease

dukun sanah East Indian

a dukun who officiates at a ceremony to cure diseases of growing rice

du'l Halasa Arab

a god of the south-west region in pre-Islamic times

Dulachan Celtic

a headless elf or goblin

(see also Dhund)

Dulcinea European

a mistress of Don Quixote

Her real name was Aldonza Lorenzo.

Dulha Deo Hindu

a god of bridegrooms

Dumb Knight, The (see Peredur)

Dumballah (see Damballah Wedo)

Dume African

a Mali devil who controls the wokulus

Dumiatis Celtic

a mountain god in Gaul

Dumudin Pacific Islands

one of the 8 Spitters (see Spitter<sup>1</sup>)

Dumok Pacific Islands

[Dirt]

one of the 8 Spitters (see Spitter<sup>1</sup>)

Dumuzi Mesopotamian

[Amaushumgalanna.Ama-Usum-Gal-Ana.Damu.Dumuzida.Duuzu.Tammuz of the Abyss:=Babylonian Tammuz:=Greek Adonis]

the Sumerian god of fertility, flocks, grain, herds and god of the underworld son of Ninsuna

 son of Ea, some say brother of Belili
 consort of Inanna

When Inanna was released from the underworld where she had gone to challenge the authority there of her sister Erishkegal, she was required to provide a substitute. She nominated Dumuzi and Geshtin-anna and these two served alternate periods in the underworld. In an effort to escape this fate, he changed himself into a gazelle, helped by his sister, Belili.

Dumuzi-Abzu Mesopotamian
 [Dumuzi-apsu]
 a name of Tammuz as 'Tammuz of the Abyss'

Some accounts make this being an early Babylonian guardian goddess.

Dumuzi-apsu (see Dumuzi-Abzu)
Dumuzida (see Dumuzi)
Dumvallo (see Dunvallo)
dun Irish [rat(h)]=Welsh Dynas]
 a fort or fortified place

These buildings, the homes of kings or heroes, often possessed magic properties such as hidden traps and invisible entrances.

Dun Bhalair Irish
 the castle of Balor on Tory Island

Dun Cow British
 a cow with an inexhaustible supply of milk

When an old woman tried to fill a sieve with milk, the cow went wild and broke out of its pen. It was killed by Guy of Warwick.

Dun Dealgan Irish
 the fortress-home of Cuchulainn in the Plain of Muirthemne

Dun Scaith Irish
 the realm of Midir: the underworld

In some accounts, an early name for the Isle of Man.

Dun Stallion British
 a horse of King Arthur

This animal was said to haunt Castle Eden.

Dunadd Irish
 the capital city of Dalriada, in west Scotland

Dunadhach Irish
 a druid

He was an adviser to the king of Scandinavia and cured the wounds that Conall Gulban suffered when he fought with the king's men. He later accompanied Conall in his search for Eithne.

Dunatis Celtic
 a Gaulish god of forts

Dunchadh<sup>1</sup> Irish
 one of the sons of a high-king

In some accounts he and Conall were the sons of Blathmac, in others there were three sons (the third was Maolodhar) and their father was Diarmaid, who was joint-king with Blathmac. All three of them were killed when they set upon Maolodran who drove them into a millpond and, by starting the mill, had them crushed to death by the water-wheel.

Dunchadh<sup>2</sup> Irish
 a warrior at the court of Domhnall mac Aodha

He led the king's forces in the Battle of Magh Ratha where they defeated the forces of Congall Caoch and Domhnall Breac but he was killed in the battle.

Dund (see Dhundh)
Dundagel (see Tintagel)
Dundra (see Alako)
Duneyr<sup>1</sup> Norse
 [Duneyrr]
 one of the 4 stags of the gods

These animals grazed on Yggdrasil, producing water for the rivers and honeydew for the earth.

Duneyr<sup>2</sup> Norse
 [Duneyrr]
 one of the dwarfs

Duneyrr (see Duneyr)
Dunga Mesopotamian
 a name for Ea as 'singer'

dungavenhooter North American
 a fabulous animal

Dungu African
 a god of the chase among the Buganda

Dunheved Castle (see Castle Terribil) Dunlaing Irish
 a friend of Murchadh

He left a life of pleasure in the Otherworld to help Murchadh at the Battle of Clontarf, where he fought bravely but was killed.

Dunvallo Molmutius British [Dumvallo]
 king of Cornwall after Cloten husband of Tonwenna son of Cloten
 father of Belinus and Brennius

He defeated the sub-kings of Britain and united the country under his rule.

Duolin European
 father of Aymon

Dup Shimati (see Tablets of Destiny)
Dupasahasuri Jain
 a man predicted to be the last monk

duplication (see bilocation)
duppy West Indian [jumby]
 a Caribbean spirit or ghost

These spirits can be invoked to attack one's enemy, but they can be warded off by a ring of tobacco seeds.

Dupshimati (see Tablets of Destiny)
Dur Persian
 a Kassite god of the underworld

Dur-krod-bdag-po Buddhist
 the Tibetan name for Citapati

Duralu Australian
 2 stones of destiny

These stones were made by Darana from the bodies of two young men he killed when they opened his sack of grubs. It was said that disaster would follow if the stones were damaged or broken.

Duranda (see Durindana)
Durandal (see Durindana)
Durandana (see Durindana) Durandarte European
 a knight killed at Roncesvalles

It was said that his squire, Guadiana, was so upset at his master's death that he turned into a river.

Durangama Buddhist
 a minor goddess
 one of the 12 bhumis

Durathor<sup>1</sup> Norse
 [Durathror]
 one of the 4 stags of the gods

These animals grazed on Yggdrasil, producing water for the rivers and honeydew for the earth.

Durathor<sup>2</sup> Norse
 [Durathror]
 one of the dwarfs

Durathror (see Durathor)
Durenda (see Durindana)
Durendala (see Durindana)
Durga<sup>1</sup> Hindu
 a demon killed by Devi (see Durga<sup>2</sup>)

Durga<sup>2</sup> Hindu
 [Agni- Durga.Aparajita.Arya.Aticanadika. Bhadrakali.Camunda.Candanayika. Candarupa.Candavati.Candogra. Chinnamasta(ka).Dasha-Bhuja.Devi. Durgha.Kali.Kapalini.Karali.Kaushita. Kirati.K(a)umari.Mahadevi.Mahamari. Mahisha-Mardini.Pinga.Pracanda. Pramuni.Raktadanti.Rudra(carcika). Rudrani.Shakti.Shas(h)(t)(h)i.Simha-Rathi. Simha-Vahini.Ugracangika.Uma.Yogini. =Java Ambu Dewi.=Pacific Islands Batari] an aspect of Devi, Kali or Parvati as 'the inaccessible'

The demon Durga had taken over nearly all the world, so the gods concentrated all their powers in the goddess Devi who went out to do battle on their behalf. The demon had millions of soldiers and elephants on his side but Devi defeated them with a thunderbolt and came face-to-face with Durga himself. After many shape changes the goddess finally killed Durga and took his name as her own.

In another story, this four, ten, eighteen or 100-armed goddess of strength, the destroyer, was a warrior maid who was born fully grown. She slew the monster water buffalo Mahisha, who had terrorised all the other gods, despite the fact that he changed successively into a lion, a giant, an elephant and a buffalo during the course of their battle.

In some accounts she is depicted as twelve-armed, each arm holding a weapon. These are given as an arrow (Tir), an axe (Parashu), a bow (Dhanus), a bell (Ganta), a club (Khitaka), a discus (Chakra), a goad (Ankas), a javelin (Satki), a noose (Pasha), a shield (Sipar), a sword (Khagda) and a trident (Trisula).

She is depicted as yellow skinned and riding a lion or a tiger.

Durga-Mabatmya Hindu
the story of the goddess Durga and her fight with the demon

Durga-puja (see Navaratri)

Durga-Tamas Hindu
a king

He was blind but his sight was restored when Agni rewarded him for his asceticism and devotion.

Durgandini Pacific Islands
a princess

wife of Palasara
mother of Abiasa

Durgha (see Durga)

Durin<sup>1</sup> European
a friend of Oriana

He travelled to Firm Island at Oriana's request to deliver her letter to Amadis, a letter in which she broke off their relationship.

He returned to Britain with Gandolin and told Oriana of the shattering effect that her letter had had on Amadis, who deserted his friends and left to seek death. She hastily repented, wrote another letter asking forgiveness and charged Durin to find Amadis.

Durin<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Durinn]

one of the dwarfs, the second to be created

Durindana European

[Duranda(l).Durandana.Durend(al)a.

Dyrumdali]
a sword of Roland

This sword, which could split a mountain, was said to have belonged originally to Hector, prince of Troy. Hector's armour had come down to Mandricardo and he claimed the sword, which had come into the possession of Roland when he killed Almontes. In another account Roland acquired the sword and his famous horn when he defeated the giant, Jutmundus. When Roland went mad he abandoned his armour and sword, which was then seized by Mandricardo who killed Zerbino in a fight for its possession.

Some say that Charlemagne or Malagigi gave Roland this sword, which had been made by the fairies.

It was said that the hilt contained a number of relics, such as a thread from the cloak of the Virgin Mary, a hair from the head of St Denis, a drop of blood from St Basil and one of St Peter's teeth.

It was also claimed by Gradasso. Its future was settled when King Agramont ordered a contest in which Roland represented both himself and Gradasso. He killed Mandricardo but the sword was awarded to Gradasso.

Other stories say that, when he was dying of his wounds after the Battle of Roncesvalles, Roland threw the sword into a stream, having failed to break it on a rock. (see also Jutmundus)

Durinn (see Durin<sup>2</sup>)

Durjaya Buddhist

a goddess attendant on Buddhakapala

Durmart British

a hero of a French story, Durmart le Gallois, telling of his love for Fenice

In one adventure he saved Queen Guinevere by killing Brun de Morois, who had kidnapped her when she was out riding.

Durmart le Gallois French

a 13th c French story of the hero
Durmart and his love for Fenice

Durna East Indian

a Brahmin
father of Aswatama by Wilotama
To carry this sage from India to Java, the heavenly nymph Wilotama assumed the form of a flying mare. He impregnated her on the journey and she bore a son, Aswatama.

Durthacht Irish
father of Eoghan

Durugh (see Drugh.Druj)

Durvasas Hindu

son of Atri and Anasuya an incarnation of Shiva as a sage
He placed a curse on Indra when the latter refused to accept a garland and prophesied the death of Krishna who forgot to wash the sage's feet.

It was he who gave Kunti the charm that enabled her to have children by any god of her choosing.

Duryodhana Hindu

[=Javanese Duryudana.Suyudana]

a warrior-prince
one of the 100 sons of Dhartarashtra
He was the leader of the Kauravas in their battle with the Pandavas. Having won the kingdom of Bharata by cheating at dice, he lost it, his army and his ninety-nine brothers in the battle. The five Pandava brothers found him hiding in a lake and offered to fight him. Bhima, the first to fight, smashed his thigh and he sent Ashvathaman to kill the Pandavas by night. Shiva took them out of harm's way and the would-be assassin was driven mad. He killed every soldier he could find, including five of Duryodhana's nephews. When he saw the severed heads of his nephews, brought back by Asvathaman, Duryodhana dropped dead on the spot.

Duryudana East Indian

[Suyudana]
the Javanese version of Duryodhana son of Drestarata

He was the eldest of the Korawas and regarded as an incarnation of Dasamuka.

Dus Celtic

[=German Scrat]
a hairy demon of the woods (see also dusius)

Dus-kyi Khor-lo Buddhist

the Tibetan version of Kalachakra

Dus-Sara (see Dusara)

Dusama Jain

the present age, a period of misery

Dusara Arab

[D(o)usares.Dus-Sara:=Greek Dionysus] a Nabataean wine god

son of Lat (see also Dusura)

Dusares (see Dusara.Dusura)

Dushasana (see Duhsasana)

Dushyanta Hindu

[=Javanese Dusianta] husband of Sakuntala
father of Bharata
He and his wife separated but were later reunited.

Dusianta East Indian

the Javanese version of Dushyanta

dusii (see dusius)

dusio (see dusius)

dusius Celtic

[dusio:plur=dusii]

an incubus (see also Dus)

Dussera Hindu

a festival held in the autumn

Dusura Mesopotamian

[D(o)usares]

a Nabataean sun god

son of Chaabu

He died and was reborn every year.

(see also Dusara)

Du'uzu (see Dumuzi.Tammuz)

Duzhi Afghan

a local Kafir god

Duzzakh Persian

purgatory

Here the soul could be plunged into flames to purge it of evil.

Dvaipayana (see Vyasa)

Dvalin<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Davalin.Dvalinn]

a dwarf

son of lvald and Greip

It was he who, at the request of Loki, fashioned the unerring spear Gungnir, the magic ship Skidbladnir and the golden hair to replace that stolen by Loki from the head of Sif.

He was one of the four dwarfs with whom Freya is said to have slept to obtain the necklace, Brisingamen, which the dwarfs had made.

Dvalin<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Davalin.Dvalinn]

one of the 4 stags of the gods

These animals grazed on Yggdrasil, producing water for the rivers and honeydew for the earth.

Dvalinn (see Dvalin)

dvapara Hindu

[dvaparayuga.dvapara]

the third or bronze age of the world

In this age, men live for 200 years, wickedness increases and men are afflicted by disasters and disease.

(see also yuga)

dvaparayuga (see dvapara)

Dvaraka Hindu

[Dwaravati.Dwraka]

a celestial palace

Krishna had this fortress built by Visvakarman to house the Yadavas out of the reach of the demon Kansa.

Another version describes it as a city built by Krishna on an island, which disappeared under the waves when he died.

Dvarakala Hindu

a keeper of the crossroads in Patala

The four roads lead to heaven or hell. To the north lies the realm of Kubera, home of the valiant dead; to the east, the realm of Indra where those who have achieved supernatural powers reside; to the west lies the home of the generous in the realm of Buddhapada; to the south, the road leads to the realm of Yama, god of death.

dvarapala Cambodian

ogres acting as doorkeepers

dvergar (see Dwarfs)

Dvipa Hindu

[Dwipa]

an island continent

Seven such continents, with Mount Meru in the middle, were envisaged, each surrounded by its own ocean. They were known as Jambu, Krauncha, Kusa, Plaksha, Pushkara, Saka and Salmala.

Only four continents are referred to in the Mababharata: Bhadravsa, Jambu, Ketumala and Uttara Kuru.

Dvipakumara Jain

a minor god

one of the 10 Bhavanavasi

Dvita Hindu

brother of Ekata and Trita

He and Ekata tried to kill Trita by pushing him down a well and placing a heavy cover on the well-top, but Trita burst through the cover and escaped.

Dvividā Hindu

a huge ape killed by the young Balarama

Dvorovoi Slav

a spirit of the farm yard

He is depicted as an old man with a grey beard and is covered with hair.

Dwales-doll Norse

a name for the sun used by the dwarfs

Dwarfs caught in the light of the sun were turned to stone unless they were protected by the Tarnkappe.

dwapara (see dvapara)

Dwaravati (see Dvaraka)

Dwarfs Norse

[bergsmiedlein.bjergfolk.Black Elves.

duergar.dvergar.erdeute.erdmannlein.

kleinevolk.unterirdisceje.unterjordiske.

Ni(e)l(e)lung.Huldrafolk.Svart-elfar.

Svartalfar.Svurtalfar]

beings created from the maggots that bred in the flesh of the dead Ymir

These beings were banished to their own realm, Svartalfheim, below the earth, where they extracted and hoarded precious metals and stones. If they were exposed to daylight they turned to stone unless they happened to be wearing the Tarnkappe. Their ruler was Volund.

They were said to have dark skins and green eyes and they wore long beards. Their short legs ended in crow's feet.

In some accounts they are the same as the elves; in others they are separate beings. (see also Elves)

Dwendi Pacific Islands

powerful gods of the Philippines

These deities are said to live in caves.

dwergmál Norse

the language of the dwarfs, heard as an echo in caves

Dwipa (see Dwipa)

Dwipayana (see Abiasa)

Dwjt (see Amenti<sup>1</sup>)

Dwraka (see Dvaraka)

Dwybach (see Dwyvach)

Dwyfach (see Dwyvach)

Dwyfan (see Dwyvan)

Dwyfach British

[Dwybach.Dwyfach]

wife of Dwyvan

In Welsh lore, she and her husband were the survivors of the flood caused by the Addanc. They escaped in the ark Nefyed Nav Nevion with many animals.

Some accounts say that Nefyed was the builder of the ark.

Dwyvan British

[Dwyfan]

the builder of the Ark, in Welsh lore

husband of Dwyvach

He and his wife built the ark Nefyed Nav Nevion and embarked many animals to escape the flood caused by the Addanc.

Some accounts say that Nefyed was the builder of the ark.

Dxui African

[Thixo.Tsui]

an ancestor of the Bushmen

He was first a flower, then a man, a tree, a man, a fly, water, a bird and a man again. When he died, he became a lizard.

Dya (see Fu.Gla)

Dyabial British

son of the Queen of the Waste Land cousin of Percival

Dyadya Russian

['uncle']

a name for Vorip-mort

Dyaus Hindu

[Diaus.Dyaus Pita(r).Dyaus Pitri.Dyaush

Pitir.Dyhu.Dyu-piter.'heaven':=Greek

Uranus.Zeus:=Roman Jupiter]

a creator god and sky god husband of Ida, Nistigri or Prithivi father of Indra, Parjanya and Surya father of Adityas, Agni, Aswins, Brhaspati, Maruts and Ushas,
 some say
 He was killed by his own son, Indra.
 In some accounts he is depicted as a black horse.
Dyaus Pita (see Dyaus)
Dyaus Pitar (see Dyaus)
Dyaus Pitri (see Dyaus)
Dyaush Pitir (see Dyaus)
Dyava-matar (see Prithivi)
Dyava-Prithivi Hindu
 Dyaus and Prithivi as one deity Between them, they created the other gods together with heaven and earth.
dyavo Serbian devils
dybbuk Hebrew [dibbuk]
 an evil spirit
 The dybbuk is said to be the soul of a person who has died with some unforgiven sin and seeks to inhabit the body of a human.
 This spirit could be exorcised; the victim could tell when it had left his body because a red spot and a cracked nail would appear on his big toe.
Dyfed British [Dyfed]
 the realm of Pwyll, Wales
 In some accounts a region above Annwfn.
Dyfrig (see Dubricius)
Dyhu (see Dyaus) Dyinyinga African
 the spirits of natural objects, in the lore of the Mende
Dylan<sup>1</sup> British
 [Dylan Eil Don.Dylan Eil Mor.Dylan Eil Ton.Endil.Mor.Son of the Waves]
 a Welsh sea god
 son of Gwydion and Aranrhod
 twin of Llew Llaw Gyffes
 He took to the sea and swam like a fish as soon as he was born. When he was killed by Govannon, his uncle, all the waves of the sea cried for him.
Dylan<sup>2</sup> (see Medraut)
Dylan Eil Don (see Dylan<sup>1</sup>)
Dylan Eil Mor (see Dylan<sup>1</sup>)
Dylan Eil Ton (see Dylan<sup>1</sup>)
Dymas<sup>1</sup> Greek
 a king of Phrygia
 father of Asius
 father of Hecuba, some say
Dymas<sup>2</sup> Greek
 founder of one of the Dorian tribes

son of Aegimius brother of Pamphylus Dynas British
 the Welsh version of the Irish dun Dyne Greek
 daughter of Evander
Dynevor Castle British
 a castle in Wales
 Some say this is where Merlin is buried.
Dyogo Serbian
 the horse of Banovitch Dyombi South American
 a deity of the black people of Surinam
Dyonas British [Diones] son or godson of the Greek goddess Diana father of Nimue, some say (see also Dinas)
Dyotana Hindu
 a name for Ushas as 'bringer of light' Dyq African
 in the lore of the Bambara, a primeval creative force which, with Gla, emerged from the empty void, Fu
Dyrnwch (see Diwrnach) Dyrnwyn British
 a magical sword, in Welsh lore
 This was one of the objects that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get in his quest for the hand of Olwen.
 In some versions it was the sword of Rhydderch from which flames appeared when it was drawn by anybody other than the owner. In other accounts it was the sword of Gwrnach.
 Some accounts include it as one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain
 collected by Merlin.
Dysaules Greek
 father of Eubuleus and Triptolemus,
 in some accounts
Dysgyfdawd British
 father of Gall Dysgyl a gren Rhydderch British
 a platter or crock, in Welsh lore
 This dish, owned by Rhydderch, was capable of producing any meat the owner desired and became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain
 collected by Merlin.
 In some accounts there were two items, described as a platter and a crock; some say they were owned by Rhygenydd.
Dysonomie Greek
 lawlessness personified daughter of Eris

Dyu<sup>1</sup> Hindu
 heaven
Dyu<sup>2</sup> Hindu
 one of the Vasas
Dyu-Piter Hindu
 a name for Dyaus as 'father of light'
Dyumani Hindu
 a celestial gem; the sun
Dyumatseni Hindu
 a blind king
 father of Satyavan
 His son married the princess Savitri but died within a year, as had been prophesied. Savitri followed him into the underworld and Yama rewarded her devotion by granting three wishes.
 One restored Dyumatseni to the throne from which he had been deposed, another restored his eyesight and the third restored his son to life.
Dyved (see Dyfed) Dywel British
 brother of Geraint and Ermid
Dzajaga Mongolian
 [Dzajaga-Tengri.Dzajan]
 a sky god
Dzajan (see Dzajaga)
dzalob Central American
 a race of 'offenders'
 In the mythology of the Maya, Hunab repopulated the earth three times after floods. The second race was the dzalob.
Dzamo Tibetan
 one of the Five Lands
 This was said to be the land of the living.
Dzarilaw North American
 a bear who married the maiden, Rhipisunt
 He fathered two sons on Rhipisunt but was killed by one of her brothers.
 (see also Bearskin Woman)
Dzelerhons North American [Copper Woman.Dzelerhons.Volcano Woman:=Tlingit Neegyauks]
 a frog princess of the Haida Indians wife of Kai'ti
 She arrived on the north-west coast with six canoe loads of her people and married the bear god Kai'ti.
Dzelerhons (see Dzelerhons)
Dzewana Slav
 [=Greek Artemis]
 a moon goddess
Dzhe Manitou North American
 a benevolent god of the Chippewa;
 a wood spirit
 brother of Kitshi Manitou
dzi-mawu African sky gods of the Hua people

Dziady Russian  [=Bulgarian Zадusnica]  a guardian spirit  This spirit is said to be that of a dead ancestor. Dziewona European  [=Czech Devana:=Roman Diana:=Serbian Dilwica]  a Polish goddess of the chase Dzivaguru<sup>1</sup> African  a mother-goddess of the  Korekore tribe  She disappeared when Nosenga drove her from her palace. Dzivaguru<sup>2</sup> African  a female aspect of Mwari as  ‘Great Pool’	dziwije zony (see dziwozony)  dziwozony European  [dziwije zony:=Slovenian divji devojke]  wild women of the Polish forests  They are very swift runners and sometimes attack men or seduce them. Dzoavits North American  a spirit ogre of the Shoshone Indians  He stole the two children of Dove and chased after them when their mother rescued them. He would have caught them but Badger dug two holes, hiding the fugitives in one and directing Dzoavits into the other, which he then sealed with a large boulder.  In some accounts they are referred to as stone giants.	Dzokhk Armenian  [Dzoxk]  the underworld  In this fiery abyss, souls wear iron shoes, have their mouths filled with vermin and are burnt with hot irons.  When they cross the bridge that leads to heaven, those heavy with sin cause the bridge to break and they are cast back into torment. Dzoxk (see Dzokhk)  Dzydzilelya Russian  [=Greeek Aphrodite]  a love goddess
--	--	--

E

E Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity,
known as god E; perhaps Yum Caax

This deity is depicted wearing maize ears as a headdress and is regarded as a maize-god such as Yum Caax.

E Alom Central American [Bitol]

a Mayan creator-goddess wife of E Quaholom mother of Gucumatx

E-anna Mesopotamian
the temple of Ishtar at Erech

E-babbar Mesopotamian
the sanctuary of Samas

E-engurra Mesopotamian
the temple of Ea

E-este Mesopotamian
the temple of Gula at Larak

E-kur Mesopotamian [Ekur]

the temple of Bel-Enlil at Nippur

E Quaholom Central American
a Mayan creator-god
husband of E Elom
father of Gucumatx

E-sagila Mesopotamian
[Temple of the High Head]
the temple of Bel-Marduk at Babylon

E-u Burmese
the first woman, made by Ea-pe consort of Thanai

Ea Mesopotamian
[Aa.Amma-ana-ki.Aos.Ea-Sarru.Dunga.
Engur.Enki.Enti.Hea.Hoa.Kuski-banda.

Lamha.ugal-ida(k).Lugalid.Mummu.
Nadimmud.Naqbu. Nidim(mud).Ninbuba.
Ninigkug.Nudim(mud).Nun-ura.Sa-kalama.Sassu-wunnu.Shar Apsi.=Greek Oannes.=Sumerian Enki]

a Babylonian sea-god, the primaeval ocean personified, god of wisdom son of Ansar and Kisar or of An brother of Enlil

husband of Damkina
father of Adapa, Khi-dimme-azaga,

Marduk, Mulu-kri, Nira and Silik
father of Bel and Ishtar, some say

He represented water and Enlil represented earth. Mixed together they produced humans.

He is credited with having instructed man in the arts of agriculture, magic, architecture, etc. and warned Atrahasis (Utnapishtim) of the impending flood.

He is depicted as half man, half fish,
with two heads or dressed in fish skins
or, in the role of creator-god, as a snake.
In some accounts, he is regarded as a manifestation of Ansar.

Ea-Anu Irish

wife of the fire-god Ain

Ea-bani (see Enkidu)

Ea-Oannes Mesopotamian

Ea as ruler of the demons and spirits of the sea

Ea-pe Burmese

the supreme deity of the Karen

He created the first man, Thanai and the first woman, E-u.

Ea-Sarapsi Mesopotamian
a Babylonian deity associated with Serapis, in some accounts

Ea-Sarru (see Ea)

Eabani (see Enkidu)

eac uisge Irish

[each uisge.=Scottish kelpie]
a malicious water-horse

each uisge (see eac uisge)

Eachtach Irish

daughter of Dermot and Grania,
some say

in some accounts, wife of Art and
mother of Cormac mac Airt

An alternative version of the birth of Cormac says that his mother was Eachtach who, when pregnant, dreamt that her head was cut off and a tree grew in its place. When her husband,
Art, was killed at the Battle of Magh Mucramha, she went to stay with her brother-in-law, Lughna (the Luighne of the alternative story of Achtan) but the baby was born en route.

The child was taken and suckled by a wolf but was later recovered and reared by Lughna.

(see also Achtan)

eachtra Irish

[eachtra:plur=e(a)chtra]

a story of (mythical) exploits, usually in the Otherworld

Eachtra an Amadan Mor Irish

a story of the exploits of the Great Fool

Eachtra an Mhadra Mhaoil Irish
the story of Alexander and his transformation into the Crop-eared Dog

Eachtra Mbelora agus Orlando Irish a 16th c story about the warrior-maid, Melora, daughter of King Arthur

Eachtra Nerai Irish
the story of Nera and the corpse

eachtraí (see eachtra)

Eacus European

an early Spanish god

Eadaín (see Eadaoin.Etain)

Eadaoin<sup>1</sup> Irish

[E(a)dain.Eda(e)in.E(o)da(o)in] a poetess

mother of Cairbre

She died from grief over the death of her son who died from sunstroke.

Eadaoin<sup>2</sup> Irish

[E(a)dain.Eda(e)in.E(o)da(o)in]

a woman of the Otherworld

When the armies of Conn and Eoghan Mor met near her home, she helped Eoghan by turning rocks into soldiers.

When Eoghan lost the battle, she saved him and the remains of his army, giving them ships in which they sailed to Spain.

Eadaoin<sup>3</sup> (see Etain)

Eadgils Norse

a king of Sweden

son of Othere

He and his brother rebelled against their father and fled to Heardred's court. Here, the elder brother killed Heardred and was himself killed by Wiglaf. Eadgils fled but later returned at the head of an army to avenge his brother. He was killed in the battle which followed.

Eadna (see Eire)

Eagentci North American

[Ancient-bodied.Old Woman]

the Seneca name for Ataensic

Eager Anglo-Saxon

[=Norse Aegir]

a sea-god

Eagir (see Aegir)

eagle

a large bird of prey

(1) In Babylonian lore, the eagle was a demon. When he ate all of the offspring of Mother Serpent, Samas condemned him to death. Mother Serpent hid inside a slaughtered ox and killed Eagle when he came to feed on the carcass.

A two-headed eagle was regarded as an attribute of Nergal.

(2) In Greek myths, the eagle was sacred to Zeus since it had brought nectar to nourish the infant god when he was hidden from Cronus.

(3) Hindu lore identifies the eagle with Garuda and Gayatri.

(4) The Japanese regard the eagle as representing Uye Minu, an aspect of the Buddha.

(5) Norse myths have the eagle as the guardian of Asgard. Odin himself often took the guise of an eagle and the eagle sitting in the world-tree, Yggdrasil, represented light and wisdom. The eagle Egder, generator of storms, will appear at Ragnarok.

(6) Some Indian tribes of North America say that this bird, which they call Master of Height, represents the Great Spirit of the Thunderbird.

(7) Persian lore regards the eagle as a form of the storm-god and as an emblem of the large Persian empire.

It was believed that the feathers of this great bird carried the prayers of the tribe up to heaven.

(8) The Romans regard this bird as an aspect of Jupiter.

(9) The Sumerians say that the eagle brought children into the world and took the souls of the dead out of it. It appears as the storm-bird, Zu.

Eagle of Gwern Abwy Welsh

[Eagle of Gwernabwy]

a bird of great age and great knowledge

This ancient bird was consulted by Culhwch in his quest to win the hand of Olwen. It led him to consult the Salmon of Llyn Llyw.

Eagle Prey God North American

one of the 6 Prey Gods guarding

the home of Poshaiyangkyo

He is responsible for the space above.

eagle stones

[aetites.gagites]

magical stones said to be found in eagles' nests

Eaglehawk (see Biljari)

Eagle's Ness (see Hronesness)

Ealada (see Elatha)

Ealadha (see Elatha)

Ealatha (see Elatha)

Ealchmar (see Elcmar)

eale African

an Ethiopian monster with swivelling horns, precursor of the yale

Ealtan Irish

an ancestor of Finn mac Cool

son of Baoiscne

father of Sualt

Ealur (see Sarpanitu)

Eamhnait Irish

mother of Moling

She had an affair with her sister's husband and fled when she realised that she was pregnant. She was trapped in the snow and gave birth to a boy, Moling, whose arrival was heralded by an angel and a dove from heaven.

Eanna<sup>1</sup> Irish

son of Niall

brother of Cairbre, Conall Gulban,

Eoghan and Laoghaire

Eanna<sup>2</sup> Irish

father of Sgathach

Eanna<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian

a temple in Uruk dedicated to Anu

and Ishtar

Eanna<sup>4</sup> (see Enda)

Eanna Cínsealach

a king of Leinster

father of Eochu

Eannatum Mesopotamian

a priest-king of Lagash

Ear (see Tiwaz.Tyr)

Earc<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Erc]

a bishop

He explained the meaning of the dream experienced by Brendan's mother before his birth.

Earc<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Erc]

king of Tara

son of Cairbre Nia Fear and Feidhilm

father of Fergus and Murtagh mac

Earc

He was installed as king when his father was killed by Cuchulainn. He was one of those attacking Cuchulainn at the end and flung the spear that wounded Grey of Macha. He was killed by Conal Cearnach to avenge Cuchulainn's death.

Earc<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Erc]

daughter of Loarn wife of Muireadhach

mother of Muircheartach

Eochu, king of Scotland, carried off Muireadhach from Ireland but the Irishman killed him and took Earc back to Ireland as his wife. When her husband was killed by a jealous rival, Earc restored him to life.

- Earc mac Trein Irish [Erc]
husband of Deithin
father of St Deaglan
- Eare East Indian
a witch in Papua New Guinea
- Earendel (see Orvandil)
- Earl Wind (see Pung-Beg)
- Earnaness (see Hronesness)
- Earrach (see Imbolc)
- Earth (see Gaea)
- Earth-bearer North American
in the lore of the Seneca, the turtle which carries the world on its back (see also oeh-da)
- Earth Diver North American
a diving-bird, the coot Birds flying over the primaevael ocean grew tired and needed somewhere to rest so Earth Diver went to the ocean floor and brought back mud from which Maheo built land on the back of a huge turtle.
This epithet is applied to various other animals and birds said to have brought up mud from the bottom.
- Earth Dragon Japanese
one of the Four Dragon Kings
He is responsible for the rivers.
- Earth Dumb (see Ti Mu)
- Earth-girl (see Hine-ahu-one)
- Earth-heaper (see Zipacna)
- Earth Initiate North American
the creator, in the lore of the Maidu
tribe
- Earth Lion Mesopotamian
a demon which, in the form of a snake, stole the plant of life from Gilgamesh
- Earth-maker<sup>1</sup> North American
a creator-god of the Pima tribe
father of Szeukha
He created the world which was later destroyed by the flood sent by his enemy, Great Eagle.
- Earth-maker<sup>2</sup> North American
the supreme deity of the Winnebago
He created five (or eight) great spirits, each responsible for a particular aspect of life, who rid the earth of giants and evil spirits.
He was opposed by the evil spirit Herecgunina.
- Earth-maker<sup>3</sup>
(see Kodo-yanpe.Pachacamac)
- Earth-monster Central American
a primaevael monster of the Aztecs
This female monster swam in the primordial ocean until Quetzalcoatl and Tezcatlipoca tore it to pieces to make the sky and the earth and all that is in it.
- Earth Mother<sup>1</sup> Greek
earth personified (see Gaea.Ge Metre)
- Earth Mother<sup>2</sup> North American [Mother Earth:=Iroquois Eithinisha]
the consort of Sky Father mother of Deohako, some say According to the Pueblo Indians she produced One Alone from her fourth womb.
- Earth Mother<sup>3</sup> (see Nerthus.Ti Mu)
- Earth-namer (see Kodo-yanpe)
- Earth Prison (see Ti-yü)
- Earth Thursday (see Asase Yaa)
- Earth-womb King (see Ti-ts'ang)
- Earthborn Giants (see giants, Greek)
- Earthly Paradise
a hypothetical country where all was perfect and death unknown
It is shown on some ancient maps as in China or as an island near India.
- Earthly Paradise, The English
a poem by William Morris relating the search for this beautiful country, including the stories of Bellerophon and Pegasus, Pygmalion, etc.
- earthquake
a shaking of the earth's surface resulting from underground movement
In classical mythology, earthquakes arise when the giants, buried under mountains by the gods, move their limbs.
(1) Indian law asserts that earthquakes are caused when the elephant, on whose head the world rests, moves.
(2) In Japan, the primaevael fish,
Namazu, which lives under the earth,
causes earthquakes when it moves.
(3) In Tibet, earthquakes are said to be caused when the frog, on whose back the world rests, moves.
- Earthshaker (see Poseidon)
- Easal Irish
[Asal.King of the Golden Pillars]
a king
He gave the sons of Turenn a herd of seven pigs which, slaughtered and eaten by day, were restored to life again by night. They had been required to get these pigs as one of the tasks set for them by Lugh.
(see also Pigs of Manannan)
- Easter Stones Saxon
altars dedicated to the goddess Eastre
- Eastern Paradise Chinese a heaven situated on the Isles of P'eng-lai
- Eastern Royal Duke
(see Tung Wang Kung)
- Eastern Tengu (see Black Tengu)
- Eastre Saxon
[Eostre.Oestra:=German Ostar:=Norse
Freya.Frigga]
a fertility-goddess and goddess of spring
She owned a hare in the moon which loved eggs and she was sometimes depicted as having the head of a hare.
- Eate European
a Basque fire-god and storm-god
It is said that he can be heard giving warnings of storms and fires.
- Eater of Dreams (see Baku)
- Eau East Indian
daughter of Maelere
sister of Havoia, wife of Kopu
- Eaumont (see Almontes)
- Eb Central American
the twelfth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the beginning of the ascent from the nether regions
(see also Two Eb)
- Eb Island Pacific Islands
in the lore of the Gilbert Islands, the final home of Wulleb
This island, west of the Gilberts, is said to be the place where birds go every year to have their feathers plucked.
- Ebech (see Ebeh)
- Ebeh Mesopotamian
[Ebech]
a Sumerian mountain-god
- Eber Donn Irish
[Brown Eber.Eibhear.Heber]
a leader of the Milesians
He was killed for his cruelty before reaching Ireland.
- Eber Finn Irish
[Eber Fionn.Eibhear.Fair Eber.Heber]
a leader of the Milesians
son of Milesius and Scota
brother of Amergin and Eremon After the defeat of the Danaans the sovereignty was decided by the druid Amergin who awarded the throne to Eremon for his lifetime, then to Eber
Finn. This was not acceptable so Eremon took the north of the island and Eber Finn the south. They soon fought for supremacy and Eber Finn was killed.
- Eber Fionn (see Eber Finn)
- Eber Scot Irish [Eibhear.Heber]
son of Sru
- Ebern (see Edern)
- Ebhla (see Elva)
- Ebissa Danish
son of Hengist
- Ebisu Japanese [=Buddhist Fudo]
a Shinto god of commerce, fishermen, good fortune and self-effacement,

one of the 7 Shichi Fukujin
son of Daikoku
He was originally the premature son of Izanagi and Izanami, born in the form of a jellyfish or leech, and known as Hiru-ko.
He is regarded as the patron of good workers and is depicted as a cheerful fat man holding a fishing rod and a fish.
Some say he was banished for some crime and lived for many years on an island where he spent most of his time fishing, laying his catch on the shore of the mainland as food for the locals. It was said that he could spend several days under water.
In some accounts he is identified with Hiru-ko, Koto-shiro-nushi or Ta-no-kami.
Ebla (see Elva)
ebo African herbalists of the Edo who brew potions used in divination and witchcraft ebony
a timber said to have magical properties
Ebracus<sup>1</sup> British [Ebrauc(us)]
a king of Britain
He was said to have had twenty wives and fifty children. He sent his thirty daughters to repopulate Italy where there were no Italian women left.
Ebracus<sup>2</sup> British [Ebrauc(us)]
the man who founded the Castle of Maidens
Ebrauc (see Ebracus)
Ebraucus (see Ebracus)
Ebutokpabi (see Oshowa)
Ecatonatiuh (see Fourth Sun)
Ecca (see Eibhliu)
Echauch (see Ek Chuah)
Echdae
husband of Aine, in some accounts
Echecles Greek
son of Actor husband of Polymele Echel British
a warrior at King Arthur's court
He was killed by the boar in the hunt for Twrch Trwth.
Echemus Greek
a king of Tegea
son of Cepheus
husband of Timadra
father of Laodocus
father of Evander, some say
His wife left him in favour of Phyleus.
He killed Hyllus in single combat.

Echenais (see Nais) Echetus Greek
a king of Epirus
He blinded his daughter and locked her in a dungeon.
Echid Irish
father of Nessa
Echidna Greek [Echidne.Echidna.'snake']
a monster in the form of a serpent-woman offspring of Tartarus and Gaea or of Chrysaor and Callirrhoe sister of Geryon
mother of Cerberus, the Chimaera, the Colchian dragon, the Harpies, the Hydra, Ladon, the Nemean Lion, Orthrus and, some say, the Sphinx,
by Typhon
Some say that Echidna and Ladon were the offspring, with the Graiae and the Gorgons, of Phorcys and Ceto. She was killed by Argus.
In one version of the story in which Heracles seized Geryon's cattle, the snake-woman with whom he slept was Echidna and she later bore three sons, Agathyrus, Gelonus and Scythes.
In some accounts, Echidna was the mother of the Blatant Beast.
Echidne (see Echidna)
Echihe Mongolian
one of the burkhan
Echion<sup>1</sup> Greek
one of the 5 surviving Sown Men born from serpent's teeth husband of Agave
father of Pentheus
Echion<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Hermes and Antianeira
twin brother of Erytus
He and his brother were members of the party hunting the Calydonian Boar and he sailed with the Argonauts as a herald.
Echnobas Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon
watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Echnobas, tore him to pieces.
Echo<sup>1</sup> Greek a nymph of Mount Helicon mother of Iambe and Lynx by Pan
She amused Hera with stories while Zeus entertained his concubines and was punished by the loss of her voice.
She could say nothing other than repeat the words uttered by others.
Rejected by Narcissus, she pined away leaving only her voice behind, still repeating what others say.

An alternative version says that Narcissus killed her accidentally,
piercing her with a lance.
Another version has it that when she rejected the advances of Pan he caused some shepherds to tear her to pieces, leaving only her voice; or he rendered her capable of repeating only what others said which so annoyed the shepherds that they dismembered her.
Echo<sup>2</sup> North American
a spirit of the Pueblo tribes
Echo<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands
a bodiless voice, the earliest voice in the universe
Echren (see Achren<sup>1</sup>)
echtra (see eachtra)
echtraí (see eachtra)
Echtraí Conli Irish
the story of Connla and the woman from the Otherworld Echtrae Cormaic Irish
the story of Cormac mac Airt and Manannan
echudan African
a sorcerer in Uganda
Ecke<sup>1</sup> European
a storm-demon in the Tyrol
Ecke<sup>2</sup> German [Ekka]
a giant
brother of Fasolt
He had imprisoned Bolfriana and her nine daughters and fought Dietrich who came to their rescue. He was killed when Dietrich's horse, Falke, broke its tether and trampled Ecke to death to save his master.
Eckesax German [Ekkisax.Uokesahs]
the sword of the giant, Ecke, which was taken by Dietrich when he killed the giant Eckeward German [Eckhardt]
a steward at the court of Siegmund and Krimhild
He accompanied the princess Krimhild when she travelled to her wedding with Etzel. (see also Eckhart) Eckhardt German
son of Hache
In some stories he is the same as Eckeward and in others he appears as a friend of Tannhauser.
In some accounts he is a figure appearing each Maundy Thursday to warn humans of the ghostly riders that appear on that night.

eclipse

the temporary obscuring of the sun by the moon or the moon by earth's shadow

Such events inevitably perplexed early, unsophisticated peoples who invented many stories to account for the phenomenon, many of them asserting that the heavenly body was being devoured by some huge animal.

–Armenia

It is said that the primaeval ox gave birth to two offspring which appear as dark bodies in the heavens, blotting out the sun or the moon.

–Baltic

The Letts say that the body being eclipsed is being devoured by some huge animal.

–Cambodia

The belief here is that a monster is devouring the heavenly body. Young girls are allowed out during this period to do homage to the monster.

–China

The Chinese say that the body being eclipsed is under attack from some huge celestial animal and kick up a great din to frighten it away.

–Egypt

During an eclipse, the king walked sunwise round the temple.

–Hindu

It is said that an eclipse of the sun is caused by Svarbanhu while an eclipse of the moon occurs when it is swallowed by the demon Rahu.

–Mexico

The Mexicans sacrificed humans (dwarfs and hunchbacks) to propitiate the spirits causing the eclipse.

–North America

(1) The Cherokee say that eclipses are caused when the moon (male) visits his wife, the sun.

(2) The Eskimos say that the sun and moon are brother and sister who have sexual intercourse during an eclipse.

(3) The Ojibway believe that the sun will be totally extinguished in an eclipse and shoot flaming arrows to keep it alight.

(4) The Tlingit believe much the same as the Cherokee except that they regard the moon as female and the sun as her husband.

(5) In the Yukon the women invert their cooking pots to avoid contamination by the unclean vapours thought to descend during an eclipse.

–Pacific Islands

The Tahitians regard the two heavenly bodies as male and female and say that an eclipse occurs when they are having sexual intercourse.

–Siberia

(1) The Buriats say that the sun or moon disappears when eaten by the monster Alka.

(2) The Tartars believe an eclipse is caused by a vampire which lives on a star.

–South America

(1) The Bakaira say that an eclipse is caused by a huge bird which obscures the moon with its wings.

(2) In Bolivia, Nicaragua and Peru they say that the body being obscured in an eclipse is being eaten by a huge jaguar and shoot arrows to drive the beast away.

(3) The Cavina say that the moon is being eaten by ants when it disappears during an eclipse.

(4) The Vilela believe much the same as the Bakaira but substitute a huge bat for the bird.

Eene Irish

in some accounts, son(s) of Dana

ectenic force

the force that enables one to move objects at a distance

This is the force said to be at work in levitation and psychokinesis.

ectoplasm

[ectosarc]

spirit-matter supposed to emanate from a spiritualist medium during a seance

Ector<sup>1</sup> British

[Antor.Ector of the Forest Sauvage.Extor.

Hector]

foster-father of King Arthur father of Kay

He raised Arthur alongside his own son, Kay, until Arthur was fifteen at which time he took them both to London and Arthur became king.

He was killed at the battle with the Romans outside Rouen where Arthur killed Lucius, the Roman general.

(see also Antor)

Ector<sup>2</sup> British

[Ector de Maris.Hector de Marys]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of King Ban by the wife of Agravadain

brother of Lancelot

He rescued Perse, whom he loved,

from the hands of Zelotes.

He was one of the many knights captured by Tarquin and later released by Lancelot.

He, with Bors and Lionel, searched for Lancelot when he went mad and disappeared from Camelot. Percival finally found him at Castle Bliant and persuaded him to return to the court.

Ector joined the other knights in the Grail quest and rode for some days with Gawain, finally reaching a deserted chapel where he fell asleep in a pew and dreamed that Lancelot was beaten and placed on a donkey and that he himself was turned away from a house where a wedding was in progress. A voice told them they were not fit for the Grail quest so they went to Nascien the hermit who interpreted the dreams and confirmed what the voice had told them.

After the death of King Arthur and Lancelot he went to live in the Holy Land where he fought the Turks.

ectosarc (see ectoplasm)

Ecus October (see Equus October)

Ecunaver British

a king of Kanedic

When he prepared to attack King Arthur, one of Arthur's knights, Garel, defeated him and conquered Kanedic.

Ed Central American

[Ek]

one of the Bacabs, in some accounts

Eda Elyn Mawr British

in some accounts, the man killed King Arthur at the Battle of Camlan

Eda Male African

idols of the Yoruba

These images, of male and female twins, are used in initiation ceremonies.

Edaein (see Eadaoin.Etain)

Edain<sup>1</sup> Irish

[=Gaulish Epona]

a Celtic horse-goddess

Edain<sup>2</sup> (see Eadaoin.Etain)

Edao Pacific Islands

a cultural hero

son of the first pair of humans,

Wulleb and Lejman

brother of Jemaliwut

He and his brother were born from a blood-blister on the leg of his father, Wulleb, when he fell to earth to escape death at the hand of Lanej and Lewoj, or from the leg of the god Loa.

He was sent by Wulleb to get a tortoise shell from Lijebage who made him a magician.

Edaein (see Eadaoin.Etain)

Edain (see Eadaoin.Etain)

Edam North American

in the lore of the Sioux, one of the 7 forms of mankind made by We-Ota-Wichasha

Edaoin (see Eadaoin.Etain)

Edar (see Etar)

Edda' Norse

['great grandmother'] wife of Ai
mother of Thrall

She bore Thrall by the god Heimdall when he visited the earth as Riger.

Edda' Norse

collections of myths, epic poems, etc. There are two major collections – the Elder Edda (the Poetic Edda) and the Younger Edda (the Prose Edda) – and a Christianised version of the Elder Edda.

Edeke African

a destructive god of the Teso people

Edern British

[Ebern.Edeyrn.Edryb.Edryn.Yder]
a warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Nudd

When Geraint first saw this knight he enquired of his servant, a dwarf, who he was. The dwarf struck him with his whip. Geraint avenged this insult when he met the knight in combat for the title of the Knight of the Sparrowhawk, which Edern had held for two years, and defeated him.

He was also the leader of the black troop in Rhonabwy's dream.

(see also Yder)

Edeyrn (see Edern)

Edgar British

a knight
husband of Loosepayne and Winlayne
He loved Winlayne, daughter of an earl, Bragas, but she rejected him, saying that he must prove himself the greatest champion before she would even consider his suit.

He set out to prove himself in a contest with Grey-steel, a fearsome knight who defended The Forbidden Island against allcomers and was defeated, returning home in dishonour and lacking one of his little fingers, cut off by Grey-steel as his customary humiliation of a defeated foe. Edgar's great friend, Grahame, hatched an elaborate plot whereby, when he managed to kill Grey-steel, the credit was given to Edgar. When Grahame was killed in battle, Edgar confessed all and Winlayne left him, retiring to a convent. Edgar, stricken by the loss, went off to fight the Saracens, hoping in vain to be killed.

When he returned, he found that Winlayne had died and found some comfort by marrying Loosepayne, widow of his greatest friend, Grahame.

Edji Mongolian

the first woman
consort of Torongi

Edjo Egyptian

[B(o)uto.Lady of Heaven.Per-U-Ajit.
Queen of Gods.Queen of Heaven.Uachit.
Uadjit.Uto:=Greek Leto]

a cobra-goddess of the Lower Kingdom
She is regarded as a goddess of the primordial darkness, later as a nurse of Bast and Horus.

She is represented by the uraeus worn in the headdress of the pharaoh and is associated with the udjat, Ra's third eye.

In some accounts, Edjo is the same as Wadjet.

(see also Wadjet)

Edlym Redsword Welsh

[Etlyn]
a companion of Peredur

He was scarlet in colour, wore red armour and rode a red horse.

He assisted Peredur in the adventure with the Black Worm of the Barrow when Peredur killed the worm and retrieved the magic stone which he gave to Edlym.

He married the Countess of Achievements.

Edmites (see Idumeans)

Edonus Greek

in some accounts, a son of Poseidon by Helle

Edor British

an ancestor of Lot

Edryb (see Edern)

Edrnb (see Edern)

Edshu (see Eshu)

Edusha Roman

a god of children

Edward British

a robber-baron
brother of Hugh

He and his brother had seized all the estates of the Lady of the Rock, leaving her only her castle. Owain fought them both at the same time, killing Edward and forcing Hugh to surrender.

Edznab Central American

the eighteenth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the final achievement of perfection (see also Eight Edznab)

Ee-A-O

an androgynous being, ruler of one of the 7 heavens
offspring of Yaldabaoth

Eecatl (see Ehecatl)

Eef Egyptian

[Ef]

a name for Khnum as a ram-headed representation of the sun.

Eemen Persian

a demon, one of the 8
Austatikco-Pauligaur

Eetion (see Eeton)

Eeton Greek

[Eetion]

king of Cilicia

father of Andromache

He and his seven sons were all killed by Achilles.

Eeyeekalduk Inuit

a god of healing

He was envisaged as an old man, so small that he lived in a pebble. He cured illness merely by looking at the patient, drawing the cause from the patient's eyes into his own. He could also transmit sickness from his own eyes to another's.

Ef (see Eef)

Efabbar Mesopotamian

the palace of Samas

Efé African

the first man in the lore of the Pygmies son of Matu

When he was born, his parents were swallowed by a monster but Efé killed it and saved them.

He spent some time in heaven acting as a hunter for the gods and returned to earth with three magic spears.

Efflam British

an Irish saint

He went to Brittany where he met a dragon. King Arthur tried to kill it but failed so the saint himself put the monster to flight.

Efflon Obassi African

a god of the Ekoi people

Efnisien British

[Efnissyen.Evnisien.Evnissyen]

son of Euroswydd and Penardun brother of Nisien

half brother of Bran, Branwen and Manawydan

Bran had agreed to give his sister Branwen in marriage to Matholwch, king of Ireland, who came on a visit to Bran's court. Efnisien, who was very unstable, was angry at not being consulted and mutilated the horses of the Irish contingent. They were given compensation and returned to Ireland, taking Branwen with them. Their resentment flared up again and Branwen was treated as a kitchen-maid until she got a message, via a starling, to Bran who brought an army to Ireland to rescue her. The Irish concealed warriors in leather bags to ambush Bran's men but Efnisien discovered them and squeezed them all to death. Matholwch agreed to hand over the throne to the boy Gwern but Efnisien caused further strife by throwing the boy into the fire and killing him. He was killed in the subsequent fighting or, in another version, killed himself by jumping into Matholwch's cauldron which split into pieces to prevent its further use to revivify soldiers killed in the battle.

Efnissyen (see Efnisien)

Efrac (see Efracw)

Efracw (see Efracw)

Efracw Welsb

[Efrac.Efracw.Efrog.Evfrac.Evraug.
Evrawc]

father of Peredur, in some accounts

Efrddf British

[Erfddf]

daughter of Cynfarch by Nefyn

twin sister of Urien

efreet (see afrit)

efrit (see afrit)

Efrog (see Efracw)

Egata (see Eate)

egbere African

in the lore of the Yoruba, small beings said to live in the forests

Egbo (see Ekpe)

Egder Norse

[Egdir]

a storm-eagle due to appear at Ragnarok

The noise of the howling wind comes from his harp.

Egeria Roman

[Aegeria]

one of the Camenae

goddess of childbirth and fountains

She married Numa Pompilius, second king of Rome, and when he died she was changed into a fountain by Diana.

In some accounts she is identified with Diana and typifies the wise adviser.

Egerius Greek

the original name of Tarquin Collatinus

Egesta Greek

[Segesta]

mother of Aestes by Criniseus

She was sent to Sicily to escape the sea-monster that was ravaging Troy.
There she met the river-god, Criniseus, and became the mother of Aestes who later became king of Sicily.

In some accounts she is described as a dew-nymph.

Egthor Norse

a watchman of the giants

Egia<sup>1</sup> Basque

one of the 3 universal principles, the light of the spirit

The other two principles are known as Begie and Ekhia.

Egia<sup>2</sup> Norse

a giantess

She was one of the nine Wave-maidens
said simultaneously to have given birth
to Heimdall, fathered by Odin.

Egibiel

a moon-demon

Egil<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Egill]

son of Badi and Vadi

brother of Slagfinn and Volund

When the swan-maidens Alvit, Olruns and Svanhvil came to earth to bathe they left their wings on the shore. Egil and his brothers seized the wings and kept the maidens as their wives for nine years before they recovered their wings and flew away. Egil searched for his wife in vain.

Egil<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Egill]

a peasant

father of Roskva, Thialfi and Uller

When he entertained Thor and Loki who were journeying to Jotunheim, he killed the only two goats he owned to feed them. Thor instructed him to place the bones inside the skins of the animals so that he could restore them to life but Thialfi broke one of the bones and sucked the marrow. The angry god would have killed them all but Egil placated him by giving him both of his children to act as the god's servants. The restored goat turned out to be lame.

In some accounts he is identified with Orvandil.

Egim (see Egin)

Egime Mesopotamian

sister and wife of Lil, some say

Egin (see Egin)

Eginhard European

[Einhard]

son-in-law and secretary to Charlemagne

It was he who recorded the famous exploits of the Emperor and his paladins.

Egis (see aegis)

Eglamour British

a poor knight

lover of Crystabel

father of Degrabel

Crystabel's father, Prinsamour, laid down three tasks that Eglamour must perform before he could marry Crystabel. These involved killing the giant, Marrock, then a wild boar and finally a dragon. Although he accomplished all these tasks, both he and Crystabel were banished because she had borne Eglamour's son. This boy was stolen by a griffin but was later reunited with his parents.

Eglante (see Bloie)

Eglimi Norse

[Eylime.Eylimil]

king of the Islands

father of Hiordis

father of Svava, some say

Egres Baltic

[Akras]

a Finnish fertility-god, protector of turnips

Egther (see Aegir)

Egungun African

among the Yoruba, carved images of ancestors and gods used in ceremonies: a cult of the dead

Egyn

[Egim.Egin]

one of the cardinal demons (north)

Egyptian Demon (see Vual)

Egyptian Sibyl Greek

a prophetess

Egyptus (see Aegyptus)

Ehangwen British

King Arthur's hall, built

by Glwyddyn

Ehat (see Ahat<sup>1</sup>)

Ehecatl<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Eecat]

an Aztec creator-god and wind-god

an aspect of Quetzalcoatl

He brought the girl Mayahuel from the underworld and mated with her to show mankind the secret of reproduction.

When the guardians of the underworld broke the branch of a tree which sprang up on the site where Ehecatl and Mayahuel mated, the maiden died. From her body grew a magical plant that produced a liquid which acted as a love potion.

He ruled over the second of the five ages of the world which ended when it was destroyed by storms and men turned into monkeys.

(see also Nahui Ehecatl)

Ehecatl<sup>2</sup> Central American
the second of the 20 days of the Aztec month

Symbolising wind and north, the day was governed by Tezcatlipoca.

Ehecatl-Quetzalcoatl Central American
an Aztec god

A merging of two gods, supporter of the western corner of the world, ruler of the ninth heaven. He is said to have killed the god Xolotl.

Ehet (see Ahat<sup>1</sup>)

ehi<sup>1</sup> African

an Edo spirit controlling an individual's destiny

He determines the individual's future in consultation with Osanobua before the person is born.

Ehi<sup>2</sup> (see Ihi)

Ehlaumel North American

[thunder:=Kato Nahaitco:=Sinkyone Kyoj]

a creator-god of some of the tribes in California

Ehlose African

a guardian spirit which warns the individual of danger

Ehoni (see Ejoni)

Eian British

an ancestor of Galahad
son of Nascien
father of Isaiah

Eibhear (see Eber)

Eibhir Irish

daughter of lunsar
mother of Oscar by Oisín

Eibhliu Irish

[Ecca] wife of Mairidh
mother of Eochaid mac Maireadha
She eloped with her son, Eochaid, on a horse provided by Angus Og. Where the horse stopped to urinate, a spring appeared and here they built a house. This spring later flooded the area and Eochaid and his family, except his daughter Li Ban, were drowned.

In some accounts, Midir, not Angus Og, provided the horse on which they eloped.

Eiddilig British

one of the Twenty-four Knights of King Arthur's Court

Eidirsceol (see Eterskel)

Eidoel British

son of Aer

He had been held in prison by Glini but was handed over to King Arthur to help in the search for Mabon who was needed by Culhwch to assist in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Another version describes Eidoel as a secret prison in Glini.

eidola (see eidolon)

eidolon

[plur=eidola]

a phantom: spirit apparition: soul

Eidothea (see Idothea)

Eidyia (see Idyia)

Eigeat Salach (see Eigit Salaigh)

Eight Ancestors African

gods of the Dogon, deified ancestors of the race

These beings were four pairs of twins born to the first man and woman created by Amma.

Eight Auspicious Signs

(see Eight Precious Things)

Eight Deer Central American

ruler of Tilantongo

When the man appointed as Nine Ollo, a priest of the sun-god, was sacrificed, his ashes were handed to Eight Deer who used them in ceremonial rites revering the sun-god.

Eight Diagrams Chinese

[Pa Kua]

a series of signs composed of straight lines

The lines employed in these diagrams, invented by Fu-hsi, are either continuous lines (Yang I) or broken lines (Yin I) representing the Yang (male) and Yin (female) principles. The signs, which are used in divination and as talismans guarding against demons, are listed, together with the elements and animals they represent, as follows:

1. Ch'ien – sky, heaven, horse
2. Chen – thunder, dragon
3. Li – fire, sun, heat, pheasant
4. K'an – lake, rain, moon, pig
5. Ken – mountains, dog
6. K'un – the earth, ox
7. Sun – wind, wood, fowl
8. Tui – sea, water, goat

Eight Edznab Central American

the eighth day of the 20 days of the Mayan creation cycle

On this day the first humans were created. (see also Etztnab)

Eight Fairies (see Eight Immortals)

Eight Glorious Symbols Tibetan

religious symbols in Tibet

These symbols, often seen on some types of prayer-flag, are listed as: Conch-shell trumpet, Golden fish, Lotus, Lucky diagram, Umbrella, Vase, Victorious banner and Wheel.

Eight Gods Chinese

the 8 forces revered as controllers of the universe

These entities are Earth, Moon, Seasons, Sky, Sun, War, Yang and Yin.

Eight Immortals Chinese

[Eight Fairies.Pa Hsien]

a group of mortals who became Taoist divinities

These personages are listed as:

1. Ts'ao Kuo-chiu
2. Lü Tung-pin
3. Li T'ieh-kuai
4. Han Chung-li
5. Han Hsiang-tzu
6. Chang Kuo-lao
7. Lan Ts'ai-ho
8. Ho Hsien-ku

Together they travelled to the undersea world in craft which they made simply by throwing anything they carried into the sea. They fought and defeated the Dragon-king of the Eastern Sea who had captured Lan Kai-ho.

Eight Imperial Deities Japanese

a group of Shinto tutelary deities, guardians of the royal household

These deities are given as Ikumusubi, Kamimusubi, Koto-shiro-nushi, Miketsu, Omiya, Takamimemusubi, Tamatsumusubi and Taramusubi.

Eight Ordinary Symbols

(see Eight Precious Things)

Eight Precious Things Chinese

[Eight Treasures.Pa Pao]

groups of Taoist symbols appearing as charms

There are several such groups, some of which are:

1. book, coin, leaf, lozenge, mirror, pearl, rhinoceros horn, stone chime – these are the Eight Ordinary Symbols.
2. castanets, drum, fan, flower-basket, flute, gourd, lotus, sword – these are the symbols of the Eight Immortals
3. gall-bladder, heart, intestines, kidney, liver, lungs, spleen, stomach – these are the Eight Precious Organs of Buddha
4. canopy, conch-shell, fish, fan, lotus, mystic knot, umbrella, wheel of the law – these are the Eight Auspicious Signs
5. artemisia leaf, cash, double lozenge (or two books), hollow lozenge, inverted V, pair of horns, pearl, solid lozenge

Eight Precious Organs of Buddha

(see Eight Precious Things)

Eight Terrible Ones

(see Dharmapala)

Eight ThundersJapanese* guardians of the underworld

They, together with the Eight Ugly Females, chased Izanagi from the underworld.

Eight Treasures

(see Eight Precious Things)

Eight Ugly FemalesJapanese*
female demons

They, together with the Eight Thunders, were sent to chase Izanagi from the underworld.

Eighteen LohanChinese*
[Ar(a)han.Ar(a)hat.Arhan.Worthies:

=Japanese Arakan.Rakan.=Tibetan

Gnas-brtan.Neten]

disciples of the Buddha

Each of these disciples is depicted in a distinctive pose with his own symbols. Sixteen of them, the arhats, were adopted from the Hindu tradition and two others were added by the Chinese themselves. There are a number of lists, some of them of purely Chinese and Tibetan origin.

The original sixteen are listed as:

1. Angida (Angaja)
2. Asita
3. Chota Panthaka
4. Gobaka
5. Kalika
6. Kanaka-vatsa
7. Nagasena
8. Nakula (Bakula.Vakula)
9. Nandimitra
10. Panthaka
11. Pindola
12. Pindola the Bharadvaja
13. Rahula
14. Tamra-Bhadra
15. Vajraputra (Fa-she-na-fu-to)
16. Vanavasa (Fa-no-p'o-ssu)

One of the other two is sometimes given as Ajita, though others equate Ajita with Asita. The other is given as Po-lo-to-she but this is said to be a form of Pindola the Bharadvaja. Other names sometimes given are Bhadra, Kanakabharadvaja and Upadhyaya.

An alternative Chinese list has only seven from the original Hindu tradition. This list is as follows:

1. Asvagosa
2. Feng-kan
3. Gonamati
4. Han-shan Tzu
5. Hui-tsang
6. Hui-yüan
7. Isvara

8. Kumarajiva
9. Mahakasyapa
10. Pu T'ai (Ho-shang)
11. Rahulata
12. Shen-tsan
13. Shih-te Tzu
14. Singhalaputra
15. Tao-t'ung
16. Tao-yüeh
17. Ts'ung-shen
18. Wu-k'o

Other names which sometimes appear include Chi Kung, Dharmatrata and Wu Ti.

Eighty Myriad GodsJapanese*
early deities

All these deities descended to the cave where Amaterasu once hid herself, in an effort to persuade her to come out and so restore the light of the sun.

Egill (see Egil)Eigin Celtic

a fertility goddess

wife of Sorrlóg

Eigit Salaigh Irish

[Eigeat Salach]

a blacksmith

father of Amergin

Eigyr Welsh

a Welsh form of Igraine

Eihovu East Indian

a lake in New Guinea from which Namora, the first woman, emerged

Eikinsjalldi Norse

a dwarf

one of the Lovar

Eikthyrner (see Eikthyrnir)Eikthyrnir Norse

[Eikthyrner]

a deer feeding on the branches of

Laerad

Water falling from the antlers fed thirty-six rivers, twelve going to the halls of the gods, twelve to the homes of mortals and twelve flowed to the underworld.

(see also Elivagar)

Eil (see Eir)Eileithyia (see Ilithyia)Eileithyiae (see Ilithyiae)Eilim mac Conrach Irish

a high-king of Ireland

He attained the throne by killing the previous king, Fiachu but Fiachu's son, Tuathal, raised an army and won back the throne in the Battle of Archall where Eilim was killed.

Eilithicia (see Ilithyia)Eilithua (see Ilithyia)Eilithyia (see Ilithyia)Eimhear (see Emer)eingsaung nat Burmese

a benevolent house-spirit

Einhard (see Eginhard)Einherjar Norse

[einherjar]

the souls of slain warriors

These, the warriors of Odin, are resident in Valhalla awaiting the final battle, Ragnarok.

Einherjar (see Einheriar)Einion Welsh

a shepherd

In some accounts, he married Olwen in the Otherworld, fathering Taliesin.

Einion and Olwen Welsh

the story in which Einion is said to have married Olwen

Einne (see Enda)Einmyria Norse

daughter of Loki and Glut sister of Eisa

Eioneus Greek

[Hesioneus]

king of Magnesia

father of Dia

He fell into a trap dug by Ixion and was killed when he visited Ixion to collect the bride-price for his daughter.

Eir Norse

[Eil.Eira.Eyra]

the goddess of healing, attendant on

Frigga

one of the Asynjur

Eira (see Eir)Eire Irish

[Ama.Anan.Anu.Aonach.Eirean.Eoghana.

Eirin.Eri(u).I(a)th.Momo.Mumham.

Nannan.Nanu.Ops.Sibhd.Tlachtga]

a fertility-goddess

an aspect of the Triple Goddess

wife of Mac Greine

mother of Lugh by Delbaeth, some say She, with Banba and Fohla, was one of the three goddesses regarded as the original rulers of Ireland.

When her husband and the other Danaan kings, Mac Cool and Mac Cecht, were killed by the invading Milesians, she and her sisters said they would give up their kingdoms if their names were given to the land. When they were refused, war broke out between them. Her name, however, did become the name for Ireland.

Some say she is the wife of Lug or of one of Turenn's sons. (see also Eri)

Eireamhoín (see Eremon)Eirean (see Eire)Eirene Greek

[Irene:=Roman Pax]

a goddess of peace

one of the Horae, some say daughter of Zeus and Themis

Eireneus

[Eirneus]

a demon associated with the destruction of idols

Eirikr (see Eric.Erik)

Eirin (see Eire.Eirinn)

Eirinn Irish

[Eirinn]

another version of Eire

Some stories have her as the mother of the Triple Goddess Banba, Eire and Fohla.

Eirneus (see Eireneus)

Eirnilus

a demon associated with fruit

Eiryng Wych British

a servant of King Arthur son of Peibyn

Eisa<sup>1</sup> Norse

daughter of Loki and Glut sister of Einmyria

Eisa<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a female bomor in Malaysia

She was said to have cured a woman who had been cursed, with the result that she spoke in foreign languages and her children died at birth.

Eiscir Riada Irish

[Eisgir Riada]

the boundary between north and south

This is the line that separated the two halves of Ireland when it was divided between Eber Finn and Eremon or Conn and Eoghan Mor.

Eisgir Riada (see Eiscir Riada)

Eisirt Irish

the bard to King Iubdan

He persuaded the king and his wife Bebo to go to Ulster where they were kept as a prisoner for a year. Eisirt led an assault by the tiny Faylinn warriors and Iubdan and his wife were released.

Eistibus

a demon of divination

Eistla Norse

one of the 9 Wave-maidens, in some accounts

Eisywed Welsb

daughter of Sylfwch and Llwyrdyddwg

Eitel Norse

son of Atli and Gudrun

brother of Erp

Eithinoha North American

a corn-goddess of the Iroquois mother of Deohako and Onatah

Like the Greek Demeter, she searched far and wide for her daughter, Onatah, who had been seized by a god of the underworld and the earth became barren until she found her.

(see also Deohako)

Eithliu

(see Ethlinn)

Eithne<sup>1</sup>

Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

daughter of Eochaid Feidhleach

sister of Clothra, Maev and Mughain wife of Conor

mother of Furbaidhe, some say

When Maev left her husband Conor and married Ailill, king of Connaught, her sister Eithne became Conor's second wife.

In some accounts, Clothra, her sister, was Furbaide's mother.

Eithne was said to have been drowned.

Some say that this Eithne is the same as Ethlinn, daughter of Balor.

Eithne<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

daughter of a king of Leinster

She was carried off by Conan Gulban but Macaomh took her from him while he slept. After many adventures, Conan found them in Syria and was reunited with Eithne. (see Eithne<sup>3</sup>)

Eithne<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

daughter of Cathaoir, king of Leinster wife of Cormac mac Airt

mother of Ailb(h)e and Cairbre

She was fostered with Buichead until she was seen by Cormac mac Airt who carried her off and married her. When Cormac had an affair with Cearnaid, Eithne made her a slave grinding corn. (see Eithne<sup>2</sup>)

Eithne<sup>4</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

wife of Conn Ceadchathach

Eithne<sup>5</sup> Irish

[Eithne Inghubhai.Ethne(a).Ethniu]

in some accounts, wife or mistress of Cuchulainn

Eithne<sup>6</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

the first wife of Ronan

Eithne<sup>7</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

daughter of Laoghaire mac

Criomhthann

sister of Fedelm

Eithne<sup>8</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

daughter of Roc

foster-daughter of Manannan

When she was insulted by a guest, she stopped eating and, for the rest of her life, lived on the milk of the marvellous cow of Manannan.

As a result of an attempted rape, she lost the Veil of Invisibility of the Danaans and was, thereafter, condemned to wander the earth, no longer immortal. She was later converted by St Patrick.

Eithne<sup>9</sup> Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

wife of Elcmar

mother of Angus Og by the Dagda

In some accounts, she was seduced by the Dagda who had sent her husband Elcmar off on a journey for nine months. Others say that the woman was Boann and her husband was Nuada.

Eithne<sup>10</sup> (see Etain.Ethlinn)

Eithne Imgheal Irish

[Ethne(a).Ethniu]

daughter of a king of Scotland

wife of Fiachu

When her husband was killed by the usurper, Eilim, she fled to her father's castle in Scotland where she gave birth to a son, Tuathal. She later returned with Tuathal at the head of an army and Tuathal reclaimed the throne.

Eithlinn (see Ethlinn)

Eithliu (see Ethlinn)

Eitumatupua Pacific Islands

a god of the Tonga Islanders husband of Ilaheva

father of Ahoaitu

He is said to have taken the mortal Ilaheva as his wife and, having fathered the boy Ahoaitu, returned to the sky. When he grew to manhood, Ahoaitu was reunited with his father but the heavenly sons of Eitumatupua were jealous and tore him to pieces. The father ordered them to regurgitate the pieces of their brother's body that they had eaten and he reassembled them and restored Ahoaitu to life, making him king of Tonga.

Eiturn British

[Iturna]

a Celtic god in Cumbria

Eji Ogbe African

king of the gods of the Yoruba

Ejoni North American

[Ehoni]

the first man in the lore of some

Californian tribes

He and Ae were made from soil by Nocuma and they mated to produce descendants who became the tribes of California.

Ek (see Ed)

Ek Ahau (see Ek Chuah)

Ek Chuah Central American

[Ah-kiiuc.Echauc.Ek Ahau.Ekahu.
Ekchuah]

the Mayan war-god and god of merchants and travellers

He is the black-eyed (or black-skinned) god who carried off the souls of warriors killed in battle.

Ek-u-Uayayab Central American

a Mayan deity, guardian of the western gates of the city

Ek Yakimtolsil North American

a name of Qamaits as 'fearless'

Eka-Pada Hindu

a member of a mythical race of one-footed beings

Ekadanta Hindu

a name for Ganesha as 'one-toothed', after the loss of one of his tusks

Ekadasarudra Hindu

a group of 11 forms of Rudra

Ekahau *(see Ek Chuah)Ekajata Buddhist

[Akajata.Mahacinatara:=Tibetan Ral-cgig-ma]

a goddess of good fortune

a form of Blue Tara

She is the ruler of the twelve furies known as Tan-ma and is depicted as having three eyes and sometimes twelve heads, bearing a sword, bow and arrows and a skull.

Ekako *(see Ekkekko)Ekanetra Hindu

one of the 8 vidyesvaras

Ekarudra Hindu

one of the 8 vidyesvaras

Ekashringa Buddhist

[One-horn]
a rishi

When rain made the path slippery,
causing him to fall and hurt his foot, Ekashringa used his powers to stop the rain falling, causing a drought. The king employed a courtesan to seduce the sage who then lost his supernatural powers. By dint of even greater asceticism, he later regained his powers.

Ekata Hindu

brother of Dvita and Trita

He and Dvita tried to kill Trita by pushing him down a well and placing a heavy cover on the well-top. Trita burst through the cover and escaped.

Ekchuah *(see Ek Chuah)Ekeko *(see Ekkekko)Ekerá African

the Ethiopian afterworld

Ekhi<sup>1</sup> *(see Ekhia)Ekhi<sup>2</sup> *(see Set)Ekhia European

[Ekhi]

a Basque god, the sun personified Originally, Ekhia was one of the three universal principles, the light of the world (the sun). The other two were known as Begia and Egia.

Ekhidna *(see Echidna)Ekibiogami Japanese

a god of pestilence

Ekimmu Mesopotamian

a restless Babylonian spirit

Since he could find no rest in the afterworld, he returned to the present one and attached himself to people he knew.

Ekka Norse

the name of Ecke in Thidrekssaga

Ekkekko South American

[Ekako.Ekeko.Eq'eq'o]

a god of good fortune in Bolivia and Peru

He was envisaged as a jovial fat man who carried a never-empty sack of small household goods such as pots and pans. Those rewarded with a gift from his sack became very rich.

Ekkisax Norse

the name of the sword Ekesax
in Thidrekssaga

In this version, the sword was owned by Ekka until it was won by Thidrek (Dietrich von Bern).

Ekko African

in Ethiopia, a spirit of the dead which can take possession of a mortal

Ekpe African

[Egbo]

an Igbo secret society practising fertility rites

Ekseri Siberian

one of the 2 aspects of the supreme being of the Evenk tribe

In this aspect, the creator acts as guardian of all animals and forests; in his other aspect, as Amaka, he looks after the interests of the people.

Ekundu *(see Likundu)Ekur *(see E-kur)Ekurra Mesopotamian

the Assyrian underworld

Ekutsihimmiyo North American

the Cheyenne name for the Milky Way regarded as a hanging road

El<sup>1</sup> Canaanite

[Al.Bull.Compassionate.El Betel.El Elyon.
El Olam.El Saddy.El(o)ah.Elyon.(Father)
Shunem.II(ah).Ilmuqah.Ilu.Latipan.
Malcander.Malcandros.Mlk-ab-Anm:
=Greek Cronus]

the supreme god of the Canaanites

son of El'eb in some versions husband of Asherah

father of Adad, Anobret.Atak, Keret and Mot

father of Baal, some say

He and Asherah are said to have over seventy children.

He is depicted as a bull or wearing the horns of a bull.

el<sup>2</sup> Celtic

an angel

El<sup>3</sup> Phoenician

god of Byblos

El Betel Canaanite

a Spanish hero

El Bugat Arabian

[Festival of Weeping Women]

a festival in honour of Adonis

At this festival, women wept and cut off their hair. Those who refused to cut off their hair had to offer themselves to strangers.

El Campeador *(see El Cid)El Cid Spanish

[(E) Campeador.Mio Cid.Rodrigo Bivar.

Rodrigo Diaz.Rodrigo Vivar.Ruy Diaz]

a Spanish hero

son of Diego Laynez

husband of Ximena

father of Elvira and Sul

When Gomez insulted his father, El Cid killed him. He then went to the court of King Ferdinand but his manner was so haughty that the king banished him. He raised a force of warriors and went off to fight the Moors and, in the first encounter, took five Moorish kings prisoner, forcing them to pay a tribute and foreswear hostilities as the price of their release.

In this fight he won the sword Tizona.

Soon after, he married Ximena, daughter of Gomez, the man he had killed, and the king gave them four cities as a wedding gift.

He was said to have seen a vision of St Lazarus and gave money for the establishment of a leper-house.

Ferdinand was in dispute with Ramiro of Aragon and appointed El Cid as his champion to meet Martin Gonzalez in combat to settle the matter.

In a later battle with the Moors, it was said that his army was led by St
James riding a white horse.

He was appointed as champion of Ferdinand to fight the Pope's champion when Ferdinand refused to submit to the Pope's authority, and was again victorious.

When Ferdinand died, El Cid served his son, Sancho. One of the sons, Garcia, seized the city of Zamora which had been given to his sister, Urraca, and she sought help from Sancho who sent an army under El Cid to her aid. Both El Cid and Garcia were captured by their opponents but El Cid broke his bonds and escaped, charging into the opposing forces and capturing Alfonso who was helping his brother Garcia.

Sancho then took over the realms of both Garcia and Alfonso. seized Toro from their sister Elvira and laid siege to Zamora. When El Cid failed to persuade Urraca to surrender, Sancho dismissed him but soon called him back to his service.

Sancho was killed during the siege and the throne passed to Alfonso who dismissed El Cid from his service. He went into exile with a small band of followers and waged war against the Moors, capturing two of their strongholds and winning another marvellous sword, Colada. His successes restored him to favour with Alfonso but they quarrelled again and El Cid took his followers to attack Castile, leaving the siege of Toledo, on which he had been engaged, to Alfonso. When Alimaymon died, the city of Toledo passed to his son, Yahia, and he broke the siege during El Cid's absence in Castile, whereupon Alfonso recalled El Cid who soon completed the capture of the city.

El Cid then became ruler of Valencia where he settled with his wife and daughters.

When his daughters were ill-treated by the Counts of Carrion whom they had married, El Cid demanded redress and appointed three knights to meet the two counts and their uncle in single combat.

The girls later married princes from Navarre and Aragon. Valencia was attacked by the Moors but El Cid drove them off. They returned some years later, under the leadership of Bucar, the king of Morocco, and El Cid prepared for further battles. He saw a vision of St Peter who told him he would die within thirty days but would defeat his enemies. On the thirtieth day, El Cid died and, in accordance with his instructions, his embalmed body, flourishing the sword Tizona, was strapped into the saddle of his horse, Babieca, and his men emerged from the city with El Cid in the van, driving off the Moors in terror.

His body was seated in state for ten years before it was buried.

El Dhubub Canaanite
a god

He was killed by Anat.

El Dorado South American
[The Gilded Man]
a city or country of fabulous wealth:
a priest-king of this city

The report that the king of this city was covered every day with powdered gold led many to go in fruitless search for the place.

Another version says that a new king was stripped and covered with gold before being sent out on a raft to an island in the lake, Guatavita. Here he stripped off the gold and threw it into the lake, returning then to the shore where he was accepted as king.

In some accounts, the name referred to a golden statue of the king.

El Gran Dios Central American
[‘the Great God’]
the Mayan version of the Christian god

El Gran Moxo South American [=Quecha Musu]
the ruler of the realm of Paititi, in the lore of Guarani people

El Hidr (see Khadir)

El Khadir (see Khadir)

El Khidi (see Khidi)

El Khidir (see Khadir)

El Khidr (see Khadir)

El Kidir (see Khadir)

El Kidr (see Khadir)

El-lal South American
a hero of the Patagonian Indians son of Nosjthej

He was hidden by Rat to save him from being eaten by his own father. As a man, he became lord of the earth by killing all the giants with his bow and arrow which he is said to have invented. He killed the giant-king, Goshy-e, by turning into a gadfly and poisoning him with his sting and then disappeared from the earth, leaving men to fend for themselves.

El of Gebal Mesopotamian
a Semitic deity

He is said to have four eyes, two in the front of his head and two in the back. Two eyes closed while he slept, the others remained open. He also had four wings, two of which rested while the other pair bore him aloft.

El Olam Canaanite

a name of El as ‘the everlasting one’

El Saddy Canaanite
[El Shaddar]

a name of El as mountain-god

El Shaddar (see El Saddy.Shaddai)

Eladu Irish

father of the Dagda

husband of Dana, some say

(see also Elatha)

elaemancy

divination from the reflections in the surface of oil

Elagabal (see Elagabalus)

Elagabalus<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Elagabal.Elegabalus:=Greek.Heliogabalos]

a Syrian mountain-god and sun-god

This deity was worshipped in the form of a conical black stone.

Elagabalus<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Elagabal.Elegabalus:=Greek.Heliogabalos]

a 3rd c priest of the god Elagabalus

He took the sacred black stone of the deity to Rome where he became emperor. He was killed with his minions and mother by the Praetorians to put an end to the debauchery of his four-year rule.

Elah (see El)

Elaine<sup>1</sup> British

[Elayne.Helen]

wife of King Ban

mother of Lancelot

sister of Evaine

Her husband's kingdom was attacked by Claudas and he left for Britain to seek help from King Arthur, taking his wife Elaine and the infant Lancelot with him. He died of grief when his steward, whom he had left in charge, surrendered to Claudas without a fight. When Lancelot was seized by the Lady of the Lake, Elaine retired to a nunnery.

An alternative story says that Elaine was pregnant when they left their castle and died in childbirth on the shores of a lake. Ban died of grief after wrapping the baby in a blanket. The Lady of the Lake heard the infant's cries and took it to her underwater home where she reared Lancelot until he reached manhood.

Elaine<sup>2</sup> British

[Elaine of Corbenic.Elaine sans Père.

Elayne the Fair]

daughter of King Pelles

mother of Galahad by Lancelot

Her father invited Lancelot to his castle in Carbonek in the hope that he would marry Elaine and produce

Galahad, the only knight worthy of the Holy Grail guarded by Pelles, whose arrival had been prophesied. When Lancelot rejected her advances, Pelles used a potion to deceive Lancelot into thinking that Elaine was Guinevere. Another version says she was trapped in a vat of boiling water by Morgan le Fay and rescued by Lancelot. Dame Brisen, a maid of Elaine, cast a spell on Lancelot who was induced to go to Castle Case to keep an assignation with Guinevere but unwittingly slept with Elaine, who later gave birth to Galahad.

At the great feast held to celebrate Arthur's return from his conquests on the Continent, Dame Brisen played the same trick on Lancelot, deceiving him into sharing Elaine's bed once again. Aghast at what he had done, he went mad, leapt from the window and roamed the countryside for two years living like an animal.

She found him again after his period of madness and, when he was restored to health, she lived with him for fifteen years in the castle on Joyous Isle given to them by her father, Pelles.

Elaine<sup>3</sup> British [Elaine le Blank.Elaine the White.Elayne.
(Fair) Maid of Astolat.Lady of Astolat.
Lady of Shallot.Lily Maid of Astolat] daughter of Bernard sister of Lavaine and Tirre

When Lancelot stayed at Bernard's castle en route for a major tournament, she fell in love with him and, although he wore her favour in the tournament, of which he was the anonymous champion, he refused her offer to become either her husband or her lover. She pined away and died of unrequited love and, on her instructions, her body was placed in a black-covered barge and steered by a boatman down to Westminster where it was found by King Arthur who ordered Lancelot to give the maid an honourable burial.

Elaine<sup>4</sup> British [Blasine.Elaine of Garlot.Elayne]
daughter of Gorlois and Igraine
sister of Morgan le Fay
half-sister of King Arthur wife of King Nanters of Garlot mother of Galachin

Elaine<sup>5</sup> British [Elaine le Blank.Elayne] daughter of Sir Bors
Her mother was the daughter of King Brandegoris who was seduced by Bors.

Elaine<sup>6</sup> British [Alyne.Elayne]
daughter of Pellimore by the Lady of Rule

She was travelling to Camelot with Myles, intending to be married there, when Myles was attacked from behind by Loraine le Sauvage who rode off leaving Myles very badly wounded. Pellimore, intent on a quest for King Arthur, failed to recognise her and ignored her pleas for help as he rode past. When Myles died of his wounds, she killed herself with his sword.

Elaine le Blank (see Elaine<sup>3,5</sup>)
Elaine of Corbenic (see Elaine<sup>2</sup>)
Elaine of Garlot (see Elaine<sup>4</sup>)
Elaine sans Père (see Elaine<sup>2</sup>)
Elaine the White (see Elaine<sup>3</sup>)

Elais Greek
daughter of Anius and Dorippa sister of Oeno and Spermo one of the Oenotropoe

Elare Greek
mother of Tityus by Zeus, some say

Elat (see Asherah<sup>1</sup>)

Elate Greek
a name of Artemis

Elath-Iahu Mesopotamian
a Kenite smith-god (see also Iahu)

Elatha Irish
[Ealad(h)a.Ealatha.El(a)than] a culture-god
king of the Fomoire
father of Bres

He landed from a silver boat and had an affair with Eri, wife of Cethor, fathering Bres and leaving with Eri a ring by which he would recognise his future son.

He was said to be the only beautiful member of the Fomoire.

In some accounts, he was the same as Eladu.

Elathan (see Elatha)

Elatus<sup>1</sup> Greek ['driver'] king of Cyllene son of Aras husband of Laodice, some say father of Aepytyus, Cyllen, Pereus and Stymphalus

Elatus<sup>2</sup> Greek ['driver']
a Lapith
father of Caenus and Polyphemus

Elatus<sup>3</sup> Greek
a Centaur
He was one of the Centaurs attacking Heracles and Pholus and was killed by one of Heracles' poisoned arrows.

Elatus<sup>4</sup> Greek
an ally of the Trojans
He was killed by Agamemnon during the siege of Troy.

Elatus<sup>5</sup> Greek
one of Penelope's unwanted suitors

Elayne (see Elaine)

Elb (see ElF)

Elba (see Elva)

Elbegast<sup>1</sup> European [Alberich]
a highwayman

He challenged Charlemagne who was on his way to steal something from his ministers, as he had been instructed to do in a dream. Elbegast was defeated but spared and helped the emperor in his burglarious enterprise, becoming one of his devoted followers.

Elbegast<sup>2</sup> (see Alberich.Andvari)

Elberic (see AlberichAndvari)

Elberich (see Alberich.Andvari)

Elbha (see Elva)

Elcmar Irish
[Ealchmar.Elcmha(i)r(e).Elcma(i)r(e).
Elkmar.Nuada]

husband of Eithne

In one version of the story of the birth of Angus Og, Elcmar is given the name Nuada and he is sent off for nine months on a journey by the Dagda who seduced his wife, now known as Eithne.

Elcmhair (see Elcmar)

Elcmhaire (see Elcmar)

Elcmhar (see Elcmar)

Elcmhare (see Elcmar)

Elcmare (see Elcmar)

Elcmair (see Elcmar)

Elcmaire (see Elcmar)

Elde Norse
[Elder.Eldir]

a servant of the sea-god, Aegir
He took over as doorkeeper when Funfeng was killed by Loki.

Elder (see Elde)

Elder Brother<sup>1</sup> North American
a hero of the Natchez tribe

He and Younger Brother were fishing when a huge fish surfaced. It was too big to catch on a line so Younger Brother jumped into the water, tied to a rope, and grabbed the fish in his arms. The fish escaped and swallowed its attacker, cutting his life-line. Only the kingfisher offered to help – he pecked so hard at the fish that it died and Elder Brother was able to cut it open and rescue what was left of his brother. All that was left was the head which could still talk.

When Elder Brother took Younger Brother's wife as his own, the head plotted to kill them but a bird warned them of the plan and they ran away, followed by the head rolling after them and yelling loudly. A mudwasp turned the woman into a man and the head chose the wrong one, taking the new 'man' to hunt. When they came to a river they swam across but the new man sang a chant which caused the head to be trapped for ever under water. 'He' then returned to her proper female form and, when she became pregnant, put her children inside a cane and carried it with her. She later released them and they became the ancestors of the tribe.

Elder Brother<sup>2</sup> North American

a culture-hero of the Pima
He and Younger Brother completed human beings by cutting an opening in the face so that they could eat and another in the back so that they could defecate and by separating their webbed fingers and toes and removing their horns and tails.

He is involved in many tales of creation and the destruction of evil in which he dies and is revived.

Elder Edda Norse

[Codex Regius. Poetic Edda]

the older of 2 major collections of myths, epic poems, etc., written in verse, and compiled by Saemund about 1090

The first part deals mainly with the gods. Information about the gods is given in Grimnismal (The Lay of Grimnir) and Vafþrútnismal (The Lay of Vafþrútnir) while the doom of the gods is dealt with in the Völuspá.

The second part deals with the Norse heroes whose stories are told in the poems Aegisdrekka (The Carousal of Aegir), Alvis-Mal (The Lay of Alviss), Fjöl Svinnsmal (The Lay of Fjöl), Grimismal (The Lay of Grimnir), The Magic Lay of Groa-Galdur, Harbards-Ljod (The Lay of Harbard), Havamal (Sayings of Odin), Hrafná Galdur Odins (The Spell of Odin's Raven), Hymiskvida (The Lay of Hymir), Hyndluljod (Hyndlu's Chant), Lokasenna (The Taunting of Loki), Rigstula (The Lay of Rig), Skirnismal (The Quest of Skirnir), Solar-Ljod (The Song of the Sun), Tbryms-Kvida (The Lay of Tbrym), Vegtama-Kvida (The Lay of Vegtam), the Volsung Cycle, Volundar-Kvida (The Lay of Volund).

Elder Gods (see Aesir.Titans)

Eldesh, The Pacific Islands

the ruler of Flight of the Chiefs

Eldhrimner (see Eldhrimnir)

Eldhrimnir Norse

[Eldhrimner]

the cauldron of the gods

This is the vessel in which the cook, Andhrimnir, prepared the meals for the warriors in Valhalla.

(see also Od-hroerir)

Eldir (see Elde)

Eldol British

[Count Eldol]

an ally of Ambrosius

In the battle against the invading Saxons, he killed their leader, Hengist.

Eldorado (see El Dorado)

Eleanor Irish

a lady in love with Cearbhall

She fell in love with the poet Cearbhall but her father would not sanction their marriage. Cearbhall used his magic to put to sleep all the guests at her wedding to another man and they eloped. Some say that they went overseas and that, when Cearbhall was killed in an accident, Eleanor died of grief.

A similar story is told of Cearbhall and Fearbhlaidh.

elecampane

a flower said to have sprung from the tears of Helen of Troy

In some versions, this plant was said to heal wounds and confer immortality.

Electra<sup>1</sup> Greek

['amber'.Elektra.Laodice]

daughter of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra

sister of Chrysothemis, Iphigenia and

Orestes

wife of Pylades

mother of Medon and Strophius

When her father was murdered by her mother and Aegisthus, her lover during Agamemnon's absence at the siege of Troy, Electra incited Orestes to kill them in revenge. She was condemned to death for her part in the affair.

In some accounts, she was originally called Laodice.

Electra<sup>2</sup> Greek

['amber'.Elektra]

daughter of Oceanus and Tethys

mother of the Harpies and Iris by

Thaumas in some versions

It is said of this Electra that her tears turned to drops of amber.

Electra<sup>3</sup> Greek

['amber'.Elektra]

one of the Pleiades

daughter of Atlas and Pleione

mother of Dardanus and Iasion by Zeus
Some say that she married Corythus.

In some accounts she is the invisible star in the constellation, having left because she could not bear to look down on the ruins of Troy. Others say that the missing star is Merope or Sterope. (see also Merope<sup>2</sup>)

Electra<sup>4</sup> Greek

['amber'.Elektra]

an attendant on Helen

Electra<sup>5</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides

Electryon Greek

king of Mycenae

son of Perseus and Andromeda

brother of Sthelenus

husband of Anaxo

father of Alcmena

His eight real sons (or six in some versions) were killed by cattle-raiders but Lycimnus, an illegitimate son by his concubine Midea, survived and avenged their deaths by conquering the raiders' lands.

Electryon was accidentally killed when a club thrown by Amphitryon rebounded off the horn of a cow and struck him.

eleda (see ori<sup>2</sup>)

Eledaa African

a name of Olodumare as 'creator'

Ele'ele Pacific Islands

the first woman, in the lore of Samoa wife of Fetu

elefo African

a magic bell used by Itonde to predict the future and foretell death

The sound of the bell is capable of killing humans.

Elegabalus (see Elagabalus)

Elegant North American

an Algonquin brave

When the maiden, Handsome, rejected his love, Elegant made a snowman, dressed it in the finest clothes and feathers and gave it life, calling it Moowis. The girl fell in love with Moowis and accompanied him when he left on a long journey. As the days grew warmer, Moowis melted in the sun and the girl was left with nothing but a heap of feathers.

Elegba (see Legba<sup>2</sup>)

Elegbara (see Legba<sup>2</sup>)

Elegeia Greek

a goddess of elegiac poetry, some say

Eleio Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian magician

husband of Aula

He was a kahuna, able to see spirits invisible to others and to restore the dead.

He followed a beautiful girl to a tower on a hilltop where she vanished. Inside the tower, he found the body of the girl. Eleio invoked the spirit to appear once more and then seized it, forcing it back into the body of the dead girl whose name was Aula. When she was restored to life, she married her saviour.

Elek South American
a demon of disease and storms in Argentina

Elektra (see Electra)

elemental

[elementary spirit]
a nature-spirit

These spirits are the guardians of the four elements, air, earth, fire and water. In some accounts, they are given identities, those of air being nenuphas, silvestres or sylphs; those of earth being gnomes or pygmies; those of fire being Aetneans, Aethnici, Rolamandri, Salamanders or Vulcans; those of water being nymphs or undines. Some say that elementals are the remains of humans.

elementalism

the doctrine that divinities are elemental powers: the worship of elemental spirits

elementaries

disembodied spirits, often malevolent

elementary spirit (see elemental)

elements

the basic elements of which the universe is made

(1) The Buddhist list of elements (with associated symbols and spheres of influence) has:

- air (crescent, east)
- earth (square, middle)
- ether (jewel of the lotus, west)
- fire (triangle, south)
- water (circle, north)

(2) The Chinese recognised five elements.

These are listed with their associated attributes:

- earth (yellow, centre)
- fire (heat, summer, south)
- metal (autumn, west)
- water (cold, winter, darkness, north)
- wood (spring, east)

(3) Mediaeval science recognised four elements – air, earth, fire and water. Other accounts assume a fifth element, the Quintessence, which is invisible but has the role of unifying the other four. All five were said to be ruled by elementals.

Modern science recognises over 100 elements, some of them man-made.

Elemii African
a name of Olodumare as ‘he who owns life’

Elen Welsh

[Elen Luyddog.Elen Lwddog.Elen
Lwyddawg.Helen-of-the-Hosts]

daughter of Eudaf sister of Cynan and Gadeon wife of Mascen
mother of Antonius, Cystennen, Demetus, Leo, Owain, Plebig and Sevira

She and her husband, a Roman, led an army to recapture Rome from a usurping emperor. After her husband’s death she returned to Wales, devoted her life to promoting Christian works, and her children became the progenitors of the royal dynasty.

In some accounts, she is the daughter of Octavius and Mascen left her to conquer Armorica and Rome and never returned.

In some accounts, Elen is the wife of Merlin and the same as Helena, daughter of Coel.

Eleos (see Misericordia)

elephant

the largest of the land animals with large ears and a long trunk

(1) In China, the elephant (chia yen) is a sacred animal and one of the Seven Treasures of Buddhism.
It is often regarded as a previous incarnation of the Buddha, it is sometimes said that a white elephant announced the Buddha’s birth. The elephant Hsiang is said to carry the sacred jewel of the law, and the rat, Hua-hu Tiao, when released from Mi-lo Shou’s bag, became a flying elephant.

(2) In Hindu tradition, this beast is the vehicle of Indra. In the Mababbarata, the elephant was the eleventh thing to be produced at the Churning of the Ocean.

Other versions of its origins say that the elephant was created from the shavings removed on a lathe from the body of Surya, by Vishvakarma, to reduce the sun-god’s overpowering brightness.

Yet another version says that Brahma sang over the two halves of an eggshell and Airavata, an elephant used by Indra as transport, emerged from the half-shell in the god’s right hand, followed by seven more, all males. Next came eight female elephants from the other half-shell. These sixteen elephants, which support the world at cardinal and intermediate points, were the ancestors of all elephants.

In the early days, they had wings and could fly but they lost this special ability when they disturbed the teaching of an ascetic who cursed them.

In some accounts, an elephant standing on the back of a tortoise supports the earth.

elephant-tiger Thai
a mythical animal, an elephant with a tiger’s head

Elephantine Triad Egyptian
the god Khnum and the goddesses Anuket and Sati

Elephenor Greek

leader of the Abantes at Troy
son of Chalcodon by lmenarete
He went into exile for the accidental killing of his grandfather, Abas.

In some accounts, he survived the Trojan war but others say that he was killed at Troy by Agenor.

Elergia British
a witch

In the Italian story, Tavola Ritonda, she trapped King Arthur in a prison but he was rescued by Lancelot or Tristram.

Eleuned (see Eluned)

Eleusinia Greek
a procession and games held every 2 years in honour of Demeter

Eleusinian mysteries Greek
the mysterious rites used at festivals in honour of Demeter

Eleusis<sup>1</sup> Greek
a corn-deity
son of Calypso by Ogyges or Hermes

Eleusis<sup>2</sup> Greek
a name for Dionysus taking over as corn-god

Eleuthea Greek [Eleuthyra]
a name for Ilithyia in Crete

Eleutherios Greek [‘liberator’]

an epithet of Dionysus, Eros and Zeus

Eleuthia (see Ilithyia)

Eleuthyra (see Eleuthea)

Eleven Imix Central American
the eleventh of the 20 days of the Mayan creation cycle

On this day stones and trees were created. (see also Imix)

Eleven Mighty Helpers Mesopotamian
the group of demons enlisted by

Tiamat to help her against Marduk
These beings, armed with thunderbolts and led by Kingu, included Fish Man, Goat Fish, Great Lion, Ravening Dog, Scorpion Man, Shining Snake, Storm
Winds and Viper.

elf<sup>1</sup> British [plur=elves]

a diminutive supernatural being; a malignant fairy (see also Elves)

Elf<sup>2</sup> British [Alf, Alv]
a king of Fairyland father of Elfin

Elf<sup>3</sup> Norse
[Elb]
a water-sprite

Elf<sup>4</sup> Norse
[Helferich, Helfrat, Hjalpret, Hjalpret]
king of the Vikings husband of Hiordis and Thora

He married Hiordis after the death of Sigmund and, when her son Sigurd was born, raised him as his own son.
He married Thora when Hiordis died.

elf-dance
a tune to which fairies dance

Any mortal playing the tune would be unable to stop until he died exhausted and those dancing to the music were obliged to continue until the music stopped.

elf-locks
tangled hair in the tail or mane of a horse

It is said that these tangled knots are made by the fairies who ride the horses during the night.

elf-shot
[=Irish poc side]

a prehistoric stone arrow-head
This artefact is said to have been used by the elves.

The name also refers to the illness caused by such a weapon.

Elfant British
a king of Fairyland

Elfar British
a king of Fairyland

He was said to have killed two giants.

Elferon
son of Elfideos brother of Oberon

Elfeta British
wife of Cambuscan mother of Algarsife, Canabel and Canace

Elffin (see Elfin.Elphin)

Elfham (see Alfheim)

Elfheim (see Alfheim)

Elfideos British
a king of Fairyland
father of Elferon

Elfiline British
a king of Fairyland

Elfin British [Elffin]

a king of Fairyland
son of Elf

Elfinan British
a king of Fairyland

Elfinell British
a king of Fairyland

Elfinor British
a king of Fairyland

Elfland British
in Scottish lore, the land of the fairies
to which Ellen was abducted

Eli British
one of King Arthur's chief huntsmen

Eli Adfer Welsh
father of Rheiddwn

Eliabel European [Eliabella]
in the Italian version of the Tristram and Isolde story, she is cousin of King Arthur and mother of Tristram
(see also Elizabeth)

Eliabella (see Eliabel)

Elias<sup>1</sup> European [Helias, Helyas]
the name taken by the Swan Knight
when he was baptised

Elias<sup>2</sup> Serbian
[Elijah, Thunderer]
a saint
brother of Oynyena Maria

It is said that the thunder-god, Peroon, was incarnate in the person of this saint who could control thunder and lightning.

Elias<sup>3</sup> (see Ylyas)

Eliaures British [Eliaures]
a wizard
father of Caradoc by Ysenne

He had an affair with Ysenne, wife of the king of Vannes, and fathered a son, Caradoc. He later caused a snake to be attached to Caradoc's arm, sucking his blood, a situation from which he was saved by his friend, Cador. Eliaures put a spell on the king, causing him to mate with a bitch, a mare and a sow, so that he could sleep with Ysenne.
When the king discovered the truth,
he put the same spell on Eliaures who fathered Guinalot on the bitch,

Lorigal on the mare and Tortain on the sow.

Eliaures (see Eliaures)

Eliazan (see Eliazar)

Eliazar British [Eliazan, Elyezer]
son of King Pelles

When Bors, Galahad and Percival
arrived at Castle Carbonek, Eliazar brought in the broken Grail Sword which was repaired by Galahad after Bors and Percival had tried to mend it and failed. (see also Eliezer)

Elibaal Phoenician
a god of Byblos

Elicius (see Jupiter)

Elidor British [Eliduros]
a monk

As a boy, he played truant from school and hid in the woods. He found a route to the underground world of the dwarfs. Passing through a narrow passage, he found himself in a land of miniature mortals and returned to visit them often. He played ball with the son of the king, using golden balls which might have been the golden apples of the gods. When he stole some of their gold they took it from him and he was never again able to find the way to their realm.

Elidure British
a king of Britain
brother of Arthgallo

He became king when his brother was deposed by rebellion. When he later found his brother in poverty, he pretended to be ill and gave the throne back to Arthgallo.

Elidurus (see Elidor)

Eliezer British
son of Evelake

brother of Grimal (see also Eliazar)

Elifri British [Elivri]
King Arthur's head groom

Eligor (see Abigor)

Elijah (see Elias<sup>2</sup>)

Elil Mesopotamian
a name for Enlil in Babylonian lore (see also Enlil)

elim Hebrew
the lower order of gods below the elohim: a demon

Elimiel Hebrew
the Intelligence governing the moon

Elinus British
a king of Scotland
husband of Pressina
father of Melior, Melisabde and Plantina

He married the fairy, Pressina, on condition that he never saw her in the lying-in chamber. When he broke his promise, she left him and returned to her home in Avalon. Melusine later shut up Elinus in a mountain and for this she was turned into a snake below her waist by her own mother.

Eliot British
a minstrel

He sang before King Mark a lay composed by Dinadan accusing Mark of treason.

Eliot, Thomas Stearns English
(1888–1965)
a poet

The Notes to his poem The Waste Land refer to its connection with the Grail legends.

Elioun Phoenician [=Greek Hypsistus]
an early god
consort of Berouth, some say father of Ouranus and Gea

Eliphamasai
a demon

Elis British
an uncle (or cousin) of King Arthur

Eliseg British
son of Guillauc
father of Brochmael

Elisena (see Elizena)

Elissa<sup>1</sup> Arabian
a goddess

Elissa<sup>2</sup> Greek
the name of Dido when living at Tyre

Elissent European [Aelis] sister of Berte wife of Charles Martel

She and her sister were due to marry Girart and Charles Martel but Charles preferred Elissent and took her as his wife, giving Berte to Girart.

In some accounts, she is referred to as Aelis.

Elivagar Norse
the 12 rivers of Nifflheim

These rivers, fed by water flowing from the antlers of the deer Eikthyrnir feeding on the branches of Laerad, are given as Fimbul, Fiorm, Giall, Gunthra, Hrith, Leiptur, Slid, Svaul, Sylgil, Thulr, Vith and Yigr.

Another account gives Vimur as one of the twelve while others say that the rivers were fed from the spring of Hvergelmir.

Elivri (see Elifri)

Elivlod British
son of Madawg

one of the Twenty-four Knights of King Arthur's Court

After his death, he appeared to King Arthur in the form of an eagle.

elixir of gold

[lapis philosophorum.philosopher's stone]
a fabled substance said to produce gold or to grant immortality

The transmutation of metals was said to be achieved by twelve separate processes, listed in order as:

Calcination
Dissolution
Separation Conjunction Purification
Congelation
Cibation
Sublimation
Fermentation
Exaltation
Multiplication
Projection

This substance was referred to as the philosopher's stone and, in some accounts, the true stone was carried in a bag by Deucalion but was lost when he and his wife Pyrrha threw stones over their shoulders to repopulate the earth. Others say that it was used by Noah to light the ark.

elixir of life

[spagyric food]
a liquor or powder, which would bestow eternal life, which the alchemists struggled in vain to produce

Elizabeth<sup>1</sup> British sister of King Mark wife of Meliad and mother of Tristram, in some accounts

When she was pregnant, her husband was captured by highwaymen or, some say, spirited away by an enchantress. She searched for him in the forest and died giving birth to Tristram.

(see also Blanchefleur<sup>2</sup>.Eliabel)

Elizabeth<sup>2</sup> German daughter of the king of Thuringia

She was loved by Tannhauser but he became infatuated with the witch of Venusberg. When he left the witch and returned to Elizabeth, he was rejected by his fellows and, to seek forgiveness, he made a pilgrimage to Rome. Elizabeth died of grief while he was away.

Elizena European [Elisena] daughter of Garinter wife of Perion
mother of Amadis, Florestan and Galaor

She bore Amadis secretly before she married and cast the boy adrift in a boat. She later married Perion and had two more children, Florestan and Galaor.

Eljon Mesopotamian
a Syrian deity

Elk Dog (see Pono-Kamita)

Elkmar (see Elcmar)

Elkunirsa Canaanite
a creator-god

consort of Asertu

Ella Norse
a king of Northumberland

His kingdom was invaded by Ragnar Lodbrok who was captured in the fighting. When he refused even to give his name, Ella had Ragnar thrown into a pit full of snakes. He was saved by the magic shirt his mother had made but Ella soon realised what was happening and had the shirt stripped from his prisoner. Ragnar soon died from snake-bites.

Ragnar's sons mounted another attack to avenge their father but Ella's forces destroyed most of the invaders. He accepted the surrender of the survivors and gave them land on which they built a fortress which, it is said, became the city of London. Ivar stayed on and gradually attracted the support of the people who eventually rose against the king who was captured and killed on a stone altar.

Some say that Ragnar's son carved an eagle on Ella's chest in revenge.

Ellaiyamman (see Ellaman)

Ellal<sup>1</sup> South American
a culture-hero in Patagonia

To save Ellal from being eaten by his father, a rat gave him shelter in his hole. He was once swallowed by a monster and escaped by changing himself into a fly and stinging the demon.

He is credited with the invention of the bow and arrow and, having instructed the tribes in the use of this weapon, flew to heaven on a swan.

Ellal<sup>2</sup> South American
in the lore of Patagonia, a spirit, evil personified

Ellaman Hindu [Ellaiyamman]

a Tamil goddess of boundaries
one of the navasaktis

Ellan Sheeant Irish [Ellan Vannin.Island of the Ocean God.
Mannin]
the Isle of Man

In those accounts that give Man as the island home of Manannan, it is said that he could make the island invisible to mortals with a wall of mist.

Ellan Vannin (see Ellan Sheeant)

Elle folk German

a race of tiny people living in mounds or in elder trees

These people are reputed to be the offspring of Adam and Lilith. The males look like little old men while the females appear as beautiful but hollow dancers.

Elle Woman European

[Hyldemoer]
a Danish elder-tree spirit

Ellel Mesopotamian

a Hittite creator-god

Ellen British

[Burd Ellen]
in Scottish lore, a daughter of King Arthur sister of Roland

She was carried off to Elfland by the fairies but rescued by her brother Roland who defeated the king of Elfland.

Ellerkonge Danish

[=German Erl-king.Erlkonig]
the alder-king who abducted children to the Otherworld

Elli Norse

['age']
a giant crone

She appeared as the old nurse of Utgard-Loki and defeated Thor in a wrestling match when the god journeyed to Jotunheim.

Ellida Norse

a magic dragon-ship
This vessel was given by Aegir to Viking in return for some service. It was stolen from him but later recovered by his eldest son, Thorsten, who used it for his voyages to Orkney.

Ellil<sup>1</sup> Canaanite

son of Keret

Ellil<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[=Sumerian Enlil]
a Hurrian god of floods and storms
In some accounts, Ellil is given as a Sumerian god, son of Anu.
(see also Elil.Kumarbi)

ellyll Welsh

[plur=ellyllon]
a small fairy or elf

In some accounts, ellyllon are fiends or ghosts, the souls of druids which are destined to roam the earth until the day of judgement.

ellyllon (see ellyll)

Ellylw Welsh

daughter of Neol
She was said to have lived for three generations.

Elma (see Embla)

Eloah (see El.Tipherath)

Eloai
a primeval being of the Gnostics, ruler of one of the 7 heavens
one of the 7 androgynous beings,
offspring of Yaldabaoth

Eloh (see Tipherath)

Eloko (see Biloko)

Elom Hebrew

[Erah.Eterah.Jahir.Jarah.Jerah.Terah:=Syrian Jarih]
the moon or moon-god (see also Yahweh)

Elomnia

a demon

Elpenor<sup>1</sup> Greek

a young sailor with Odysseus
He was one of those turned into swine by Circe but was restored by Odysseus. He fell into a drunken sleep on the battlements of Circe's palace and fell to his death.

Odysseus saw him again when he visited the underworld to consult Teiresias.

Elphenor<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Chalcodon and Imenarete
He sheltered the children of Theseus when they were removed from Athens during the disorders following the return of Theseus from Tartarus.

Elphin Welsh

[Elffin]
a prince
son of Gwyddno Garanhirtan

He and his father found the baby thrown into the sea by Ceridwen and raised him as Taliesin. He foolishly boasted that his wife was more virtuous than any woman of King Maelgwn's court and that he had the most skilful bard and he was imprisoned by Maelgwn, his uncle, until he could prove his assertions. Rhun was sent to test the virtue of Elphin's wife but she exchanged places with her maid. When Taliesin was brought to the court he put a spell on the other bards so that they could not sing properly while his own efforts unlocked the chains that bound Elphin and raised a storm that shook the castle.

Another version includes Elphin's horses which raced those of Maelgwn and won. They dug at the point where the winning rider threw down his cap and found a huge pot of gold.

In some accounts, this story has King Arthur instead of Maelgwn.

Elpis Greek

['hope']
a goddess
mother of PHEME

Elsa German

[Else]
a princess of Brabant sister of Gottfried wife of Lohengrin

Ortrud, wife of Frederick who was Elsa's foster-father, changed Gottfried into a swan and Elsa was accused by Frederick of having murdered her brother.

Lohengrin arrived on a swan, defeated Frederick in single combat and rescued her. She married him without knowing his name but, prompted by Ortrud, demanded to know who he was. Having satisfied her curiosity, he left her but, before leaving, he restored her brother to human form.

Elsan German

an elderly retainer of Dietrich von Bern Elsan was left in charge of Dietrich's youngest brother, Diether, and the two sons of Etzel, Orte and Sharpfe, when Dietrich rode into battle. He allowed the boys to go riding and they were all killed by the traitor, Wittich.

Else<sup>1</sup> Norse

a lover of Aager
Her dead lover spoke to her from his coffin, asking her to smile so that her tears would become roses instead of drops of blood.

Else<sup>2</sup> (see Elsa)

Elthan (see Elatha)

Elucidation British

a prologue to Le Conte de Graal

Eluned British

[Eleuned]
owner of a magic ring

This ring, Modrwy Eluned, conferred invisibility on the wearer and became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

Elusion (see Elysium)

Elva Irish

[Eb(h)la.El(b)h)a] daughter of Cathbad and Maga
wife of Usna
mother of Ardan, Ainalé and Naisi

Elves Norse

[Alf(ar).Alvor.Dockalfar.Huldrafolk]. kobolds:=Icelandic Huldu] beings created from the maggots

breeding in the flesh of the dead Ymir. The black elves were the dwarfs living in Svartalfheim, the light elves (Liosalfar) were the fairies living in Alfheim.

In some accounts they are the same as the Dwarfs; in others, they are separate beings. (see also Dwarfs)

Elves of Light North American fairies created by Glooskap, in the lore of the Algonquin

Elvidner Norse
[Elvidnir]

Niflheim or the hall of Hel in Niflheim

Elvidnir (see Elvidner)

Elvira Spanish
[Dona Elvira]
daughter of Ferdinand sister of Alfonso, Garcia, Sancho and Urraca

On her father's death, she was given the city of Toro which was later seized by her brother, Sancho.

Elvira Spanish
[Dona Elvira]
daughter of El Cid and Ximena
sister of Sul

She and her sister married the Counts of Carrion. When their husbands ill-treated them, El Cid demanded satisfaction. The girls later married the princes of Navarre and Aragon.

Elwe'kyen Siberian
[Notakavya.Wild Reindeer Buck]
the Koryak name for the Great Bear constellation, Usa Major Ursa Major

The Koryaks say that the creator obtained reindeer for his people from this constellation.

Elyadus British
a king of Sicily
father of Floriant

He was killed by his steward, Maragz.

Elyan British [Helain the White]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Bors

His mother was a daughter of Brandegore and he became Emperor of Constantinople.

Elyas British [Hermit King]
an uncle of Percival

Elyezer (see Eliazar)

Elymus Greek
a Sicilian

He was a friend of Aegistes and fought alongside him against the Greeks at Troy.

Elysian Fields (see Elysium)

Elysium Greek [Elusion.Elysian Fields.Fortunate Fields.

Fortunate Islands.Islands of the Blessed] a pleasant island, part of Tartarus: the home of the immortals

Originally the home of the gods, later the home of heroes, this paradise was variously said to lie in the western ocean, at the western edge of the world, somewhere suspended in the air, in the sun, in the underworld, in islands off the coast of Africa or somewhere in Italy.

Elyzabel British
cousin of Guinevere

When she was accused of spying and put in prison by Claudas, King Arthur went to war with Claudas and rescued her.

ema Japanese offerings to the gods in the form of horse pictures

emadloti African Swazi ancestors who can influence their descendants

Emain Abhlach (see Emain Ablach)

Emain Ablach Irish
[Em(h)ain Abhlach.Emain of the Apple Trees.Island of Apple Trees.Western Paradise:=British Avalon]

an earthly paradise ruled by Manannan which was sought by Bran on his voyage

Some accounts equate it with the Isle of Arran. (see also Ablach)

Emain Macha Irish [Emhain Mhacha]
a fortress-city, the seat of the kings of Ulster

Macha captured the five sons of Dirthorba when she killed their father and took the throne of Ulster, forcing them to build the walls of the city. This was the site of the episode in which fifty naked women cooled Cuchulainn's battle-lust with vats of cold water.

The site was called Emain Macha (twins of Macha) after the children born to Macha when she defeated the swiftest horses of the king in a race.

Emain of the Apple Trees (see Emain Ablach)

Emakong East Indian
in the lore of New Britain, a spirit which brings birds, crickets, fire and night from the underworld

emandwa African tribal spirits of the Ankore

Emathion Greek
son of Tithonius and Eos
brother of Memnon

In some accounts, he was king of Arabia or Egypt and was killed by Heracles when Emathion tried to prevent him from taking the Apples of the Hesperides on his eleventh Labour.

In other versions, the son of Tithonius and the king killed by Heracles are separate individuals.

Emayian African
a name of En-kai as 'he who blesses'

Embla Norse
[Elma.Emola]
the first woman, made by Odin from an elm tree consort of Ask

Embroider, The (see Iddawg)

Emei (see Mount Emei)

Emeli Hin African
a creator god of the Tuareg

Emelye (see Emily)

Eme'mqut Siberian
a Koryak spirit
son of Quikinna'qu and Miti husband of Fox Woman, some say

When his wife was abducted, he threw an arrow into the fire to open the road to the underworld. Here he found his wife and, when they returned to the upper world, he removed the arrow, so closing the road back.

In another story, his wife was Fox Woman and, when a lodger in their house remarked on her foxy odour, she ran away.

Emen (see Kekui)

Emenet (see Kekuit)

Emer Irish
[Eimhear] daughter of Forgall Manach
sister of Fial
wife of Cuchulainn

Forgall refused to allow his daughter to marry Cuchulainn until he had trained as a warrior. When he had completed his training, Cuchulainn raided Forgall's castle and burned it to the ground, killing Forgall and abducting Emer who became his wife.

One story relates how she eloped with a prince of Norway, Tuir Gleasta, but Cuchulainn tracked them down, killed the prince and rescued Emer.

She fell dead after delivering a lament at the hero's death.

emerald

a precious stone said to guard against evil spirits

Emerald Buddha Buddhist
a statue of the Buddha said to have been made by Nagasena using magical powers

Emerald Lady (see Chalchihuitlicue)
Emerald Tablet<sup>1</sup>

a book on the art of making gold
The alchemists say that this book was written by Hermes and, in some accounts, was found on Mount Hebron by Abraham's wife, Sarah.

Emerald Tablet<sup>2</sup> (see Luah)

Emes Mesopotamian
[Emesh]
a Sumerian god of vegetation

Emesh (see Emes)

Emeslam (see Aralu)

Emhain Ablach (see Emain Ablach)

Emhain Mhacha (see Emain Macha)

emi African in the lore of the Yoruba, one of the 3 spirits in each individual – the vital force of breath

Emily Greek [Emelye]
daughter or sister-in-law of Duke Theseus

sister of Ypolita
Both Arcite and Palamon were in love with her and fought a duel for her hand. Arcite won but, on his way to claim his prize, he fell from his horse and died. She later married Palamon.

Emisiwaddo South American
a goddess of the Arawak wife of Kururumany

emizimu African family spirits of the Ankoré

Emma<sup>1</sup> European wife of Otho
mother of Tancred

Emma<sup>2</sup> (see Emma-O)

Emma-ho (see Emma-O)

Emma-O Japanese
[Emma-ho.Emma-(Sama).Yemma(-dai-O)
Yemma-O:=Chinese Yen Wang:=Hindu Yama:=Pacific Yama-Raja]

a Buddhist god of death, lord of hell
He is the ruler of Yomi-tsu-kuni and has a magic mirror which detects sin but he judges men only.

(see also Emma-ten)

Emma-Sama (see Emma-O)

Emma-ten Japanese [Emmatan:=Buddhist Yamadeva]
an underworld deity associated with Emma-O

In some accounts he is the same as Emma-O.

Emmaten (see Emma-ten)

Emmei<sup>1</sup> Japanese
a 9th c sennin

He inherited the cloak of the famous Yoshō and lived to perform many wonderful deeds.

Emmei<sup>2</sup> Japanese
an aspect of Jizo

Emmeline British
a blind girl in the opera King Arthur daughter of Conon

She had been promised to King Arthur who rescued her when she was abducted by Oswald. Merlin restored her sight.

Emmer Mesopotamian
a Sumerian grain-goddess
(see also Asnan)

Emne Irish
a hero of the voyage to many strange places with Lochan and Silvester

Emola (see Embla)

Emolpus (see Eumolpus<sup>2</sup>)

Emoniel
a demon

Empedocles Greek
a 5th c philosopher of Sicily

He claimed to have become a god and entered the volcano, Etna, as proof. The volcano is said to have ejected one of his slippers.

Emperor Kuan (see Kuan Ti)

Emperor of the Centre (see Hun-tun)

Emperor of the Eastern Peak Chinese

head of a heavenly ministry
His ministry was said to comprise over seventy departments which judged animals and men, controlling the parts they played and the length of their various incarnations.

Emperor of the Northern Seas (see Hu)

Emperor of the Southern Seas (see Shu)

Empousa (see Empusa)

Empress of Heaven (see T'ien Hou)

Empress of the Sea Hindu
a name for Lakshmi as protector of fishermen

Empung Luminu'ut (see Luminu'ut)

Empusa<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Demon of Midnight.Empousa:plur =Empusae:=Hebrew Lilim]

a demon
daughter of Hecate

In some accounts these demons were said to have two legs, one made of brass, the other the leg of an ass, and could adopt many forms. Some say that they were composed of parts of a cow, a dog, a mule and a woman. Having taken the form of a woman, they would sleep with men, sapping their strength until they died, and then eating them. If they were verbally assailed, they fled.

The Lamia is one of the Empusae, in some accounts.

Empusa<sup>2</sup> Greek
a name for Hecate in some accounts

empusa<sup>3</sup>
a vampire or spectre

empyrean Greek
according to Ptolemy, the highest of the 5 heavens, home of the gods

empyromancy
divination from the behaviour of various things placed on a fire (see also pyromancy)

Emrys<sup>1</sup> Welsh
[Bors.Emrys Llalawc.Llallogan Vyrdin. Myrrdin]

a Welsh name for Merlin
In some accounts, a sun-god.

(see also Lailoken)

Emrys<sup>2</sup> (see Aurelius)

emuron African
a medicine-man in Uganda

Emusha Hindu
a black boar which raised the earth on its tusks

En Balkan
an Illyrian god later demoted to the status of a demon

En-kai African [Emayian.Kamba Engai.Ngai.Parsai]
supreme god and rain-god of the Masai

En mac Ethomian Irish
a poet at the court at Tara

En-Mersi (see Ningirsu)

En-no-ozuna Japanese [Gyoja]

a hermit
He was a magician who could even cause bridges to be built by his magic.

En-we-dur-an-ki Mesopotamian
a high-priest of Samas

En-zu (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)

Enalus Greek
a man saved from drowning by a dolphin

Enaratta (see Enarete)

Enarete Greek [Enaratta]

wife of Aeolus
mother of Alcyone, Athamas, Calyce, Canace, Cleobule, Cretheus, Deion, Macareus, Magnes, Pereires, Perimede, Peisidice, Salmoneus and Sisyphus

Enariae Roman
dog-priests

Enbarr (see Aonbharr)

Enbharr (see Aonbharr)

Enbilulu Mesopotamian
[Enkimdu:=Babylonian Ennugi]

the Sumerian god of canals and rivers

In some accounts, he is equated with Enkimdu.

Enceladus Greek ['buzzer']

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus

son of Tartarus, some say

He was killed by Athene during the battle between the Giants and the gods. She threw a rock which crushed him and he became the island of Sicily.

In another story it was Zeus who defeated him and chained him under Etna.

Enchantress Woman
(see Vahine Nautaha)

encheirogastes Greek

those Cyclops who worked for a living
Some of them built the walls of Mycenae, Tiryns, etc.

end of the world

each culture has its own version of how the world will end

–Hindu

At the end of the present cycle, Vishnu's tenth and final avatar, Kalki, will appear as a winged white horse. He will destroy evil in a final battle, preparing the world for the next cycle of existence.

–Norse

In the final battle, Ragnarok, the gods were destined to be defeated by the forces of evil led by Loki. After a winter of exceptional severity that lasted three years (seven in some accounts), known as the Fimbul winter, the Midgard serpent came out of the sea breathing out poisons and causing great floods; the wolves Hati, Managarm and Skoll finally swallowed the sun and the moon; Garm, Fenris and Loki broke their bonds; the dragon Nidhogg finally ate through the roots of Yggdrasil; the cockerels crew and Heimdall blew his horn to warn the gods that the end was approaching.

Loki's ship landed a force from Muspelheim and another ship brought the Frost Giants from the north. They were reinforced by Hel and Nidhogg and by Sutr and his sons who smashed the Bifrost bridge as they rode over it. In the ensuing battle on Vigrid plain the gods were defeated.

Odin was eaten by the wolf Fenris; Frey was killed by Sutr, Heimdall by Loki, Tyr by Garm, and Thor drowned in the poison of the Midgard serpent after he had killed it. Vidar, arriving late, put his one large foot on the bottom jaw of Fenris and, taking the top jaw in his hands, pulled the wolf apart. Sutr then set the world on fire with his flaming sword and the earth sank beneath the waves.

A man, Lif, and a woman, Lifthrasir, sheltering either under Yggdrasil or in the forest of Mimir survived ready to repopulate the world. The gods Vali and Vidar, as predicted, also survived as did Magni and Modi who recovered Thor's hammer from the ashes. Balder, reconciled with Hoder, rose again to rule a regenerated world.

–North American

(1) The Cheyenne say that the whole world is supported on a huge pole. A beaver is continuously gnawing at the bottom of the pole and, when he gnaws all the way through, the world will fall into an abyss and that will be the end.

(2) The Sioux envisage an old woman in a cave sewing porcupine quills into a blanket. When she gets up to stir the fire, her dog chews some of the quills so that the blanket never gets finished. If she ever does manage to complete her work, the world will come to an end.

–Persian

The early version says that the forces of good will overcome evil and the original cosmic god, Rapithwin or Saoshyant, will supervise the world's regeneration.

In the later, Zoroastrian, version the saviour Saoshyant will supervise the final triumph of good when all demons, except Ahriman and Az, who will be confined to hell, will be killed, men will be resurrected and reunited with their souls, the universe will revert to its original pure state and evil will be gone forever.

–South American

Many tribes say that the world will be destroyed by fire caused by demons, a spark from the sky, or by part of the moon (or even the sun) falling from the heavens.

Some blame the men of fire who, having been insulted by a bird, set the world ablaze in retaliation. Others say that the blaze will occur when one of the props under the earth is removed by the creator-god.

In the cold south of the country, they say that a bird will cause much snow to fall and, when the snow melts, the resulting flood will destroy the earth.

Enda Irish

[Eanna.Einne]

a saint

son of Aioibhfinn and Conall Dearg

brother of Fanchea

When he was given land for a monastery on the island of Inishmore and had no boat in which to reach it, he and his followers were transported there by a rock which floated. He drove the horses of Corban, the local chieftain, over the tops of the waves to convince him that he should accept Christianity.

Enda Semangko East Indian

a Papuan goddess: a powerful ghost

Endeis Greek

daughter of Sciron or of Chiron and Charido

wife of Aeacus

mother of Peleus and Telamon

Her sons killed Phocus who was the son of Aeacus by Psamathe and she aided and abetted them. They were banished by Aeacus.

Endelienta British

a saint

god-daughter of King Arthur

When her pet cow was killed, Arthur slew the Lord of Trenteny, the man who had killed it. Endelienta brought him back to life.

Endendros Greek

a name of Dionysus as 'the one in the tree'

Endil (see Dylan<sup>1</sup>)

endin Mesopotamian

desert, the symbol of the underworld

Endless One (see Ananta)

Endo Morito Japanese

a warrior

He planned with Kesa to kill her husband so that he could marry her himself, threatening to kill her family if she refused to help. She gave him access to her husband's room and Endo cut off the head of the sleeping figure who turned out to be Kesa wearing her husband's nightshirt. In penance, he became a monk.

Endouellicus Roman

a Portuguese god of healing

Endukugga Mesopotamian

[Enmul]

a Sumerian god of the underworld husband of Nindukugga

father of Enlil

Endumion (see Endymion)Endursaga Mesopotamian

[=Babylonian Isum]

a herald of the Sumerian gods

Endymion<sup>1</sup> English

a poem by Keats

Endymion<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Endumion]

a shepherd, king of Elis

son of Aethlius or Zeus by Calyce

son of Zeus by Protogenia, some say husband of Chromia, Hyperipne or Neis

father of Aetolus, Epeius and Paeon

Artemis, as Selene, the moon, caused him to sleep for ever, immortal, so that she could visit him every night and caress the beautiful youth, hiding him in a cave on Mount Latmus.

He is said to have had fifty sons (or, some say, daughters) by Selene and is regarded as the founder of the Olympic Games.

Enediel

a moon-demon

Eneene Pacific Islands

wife of Kura

In the lore of Mangara Island, Eneene slipped while gathering flowers and fell into the underworld. Her husband, with the help of his guardian spirit, went down to the underworld and rescued her.

Enekpe African

a Nigerian heroine

daughter of Ayagba

She allowed herself to be buried alive to save her people who were being defeated in battle.

energumenus (see possession)Eneuavc (see Eneuawg)Eneuawg British

[Eneuavc]

daughter of Bedivere

sister of Amren

Eneyd Welsh

son of Don, some say

Enfances Gauvain French

a 13th c poem about the exploits of Gauvain

enfield

a monster, part wolf, part fox,

part greyhound

Engai African

[=Masai En-kai]

the supreme god of the Kamba

Engelier European

a Gascon knight, one of Charlemagne's paladins

He was the first man to die when the second army of Saracens descended on Roland's forces at Roncesvalles.

(see also Gerin.Gerion)Enggang East Indian

a Sumatran prince husband of Rangkong

He shut his wife inside a tree while he was away but she was released by a servant, Sidin. When Enggang returned, he destroyed the palace where Rangkong had taken refuge and he was changed into a hornbill. Rangkong, who still loved her husband, changed herself into a hornbill to be with him. In this guise, she became Enggang Papan.

Enggang Papan East Indian

the name of Rangkong as a hornbill

(see also Enggang)Engidu (see Enkidu)Engisbiki Japanese

a 9th c multi-volume work on Shinto religion and mythology

Engres British

a king

brother of Isolde

In the Icelandic version of the Tristram story, he offered his sister in marriage to any man who killed a dragon.

Engur Mesopotamian

a name of Ea as 'god of the abyss' or

'lord of the Euphrates'

Engygeron British

a marshal of Clamadeus

He was with his master at the siege of Blanchefleur's castle and was defeated by Percival who sent both him and his master to King Arthur's court.

Enid British

[Enide.Ynid]

daughter of Yniol or Liconaus by Tarsenesyde

wife of Geraint or Erec

She was awarded the head of the white stag hunted and killed by King Arthur.

Enide (see Enid)Enigée (see Enygeus)Enigorio North American

an Iroquois creator-god

twin brother of Enigohatgea

Enigorio created the useful things such as trees and fertile land while his brother tried to make the land into deserts.

Enigohatgea North American

an Iroquois creator-god

twin brother of Enigorio

Enigorio created all the useful things such as trees and fertile land while his brother tried to make the land into deserts.

Enil European

a page of the Damsel of Denmark

He accompanied his mistress on her travels in search of Amadis.

Enim Hebrew

a race of cannibal giants

These beings are said to be the offspring of fallen angels and mortal women.

Enioche Greek

wife of Creon, in some accounts

Enipeus Greek

a river-god loved by Tyro

Poseidon, in the guise of Enipeus, seduced Tyro who bore him two sons, Neleus and Pelias.

Enki Mesopotamian

[Lugal-abzu(ak).Lugalid.Lugal-idak.

Nadim(mud).Nidim(mud).Nudim(mud):

=Babylonian Ea]

a Sumerian creator-god, water-god,

god of justice, magic, wisdom

a name for Ea as 'lord of the world'

son of An and Ki or of An and Nammu

husband of Ninhursaga as Damkina

father of Asalluha and Ninsikil

He was said to have risen from the waters of the Persian Gulf as a fish-god.

The gods created man from clay as servants and when they got tired of man and Enlil and sent a flood, Enki warned Zuisudra.

In one creation story he exposed the heads of buried mankind with his hoe before Ninhursaga gave them life.

In some accounts he fathered Ninsar on his own wife, Ninhursaga, then Ninurru on his daughter Ninsar and finally Uttu on his granddaughter Ninkurru. Others say that Uttu was his daughter by Ninhursaga and that he had a daughter, Nin-Imma, by Ninkurru.

He lived in Dilmun, the earthly paradise, with Ninhursaga until they quarrelled. The quarrel arose over his pursuit of his own daughters and an affair with Uttu the goddess of weaving. Ninhursaga recovered some of the semen from Uttu's body and grew eight plants from it. Enki foolishly ate the plants and became ill, recovering only when Ninhursaga placed him in her own body so that he was born again. In other versions, he gave birth to eight children to replace the plants he had eaten or Ninhursaga gave birth to eight deities, each of which cured one of the ailments that afflicted Enki after eating the plants.

It was Enki who warned Atrahasis of the coming flood, sent by Enlil, so enabling him to escape.

He fought with the dragon Kur when he abducted Erishkegal.

Enkidu Mesopotamian

[Ea-bani.Eabani.Engidu.Enkita]

a warrior

He was created by Aruru from clay and spittle as a friend for Gilgamesh and lived as a wild man until Gilgamesh tamed him by using a prostitute named Shamhat to seduce him and made him his companion in many adventures. He helped Gilgamesh to kill the giant Huwawa and the Bull of Heaven but was struck down with a fatal illness as a result. In an effort to save him, Gilgamesh sought immortality and got hold of a piece of the 'Never Grow Old' plant but it was stolen from him by a snake.

In another version, Enkidu was trapped in the underworld when he went down to retrieve a drum that Gilgamesh had accidentally dropped.

He is envisaged as having the legs and hoofs of a goat or as half man, half bull. (see also Enkimdu)

Enkimdu Mesopotamian

[Enbilulu]

a Sumerian god of farming

He was one of the suitors for the hand of Inanna who rejected him in favour of Dumuzi.

In some accounts he is equated with Enbilulu or Enkidu.

Enkita (see Enkidu)

Enlightener of Darkness Chinese

a monstrous dragon

This beast is reputed to be a thousand miles long and can change its colour at will. Opening its eyes brings light, closing them brings darkness. The wind is his breath which congeals into rain or, depending on the dragon's colour, gold, crystal or glass.

Enlil Mesopotamian

[Bel.Great Mountain.Illil(os).Ilu.Lord of the Storm.Narru.Nunammir.Old Bel. Rimm.Rimm.'windlord'.Zulummar:

=Babylonian Adad.Ea.Elil:=Hurrian

Ellil.Kumarbi]

the Sumerian god of air, earth, storms, wind

son of An and Ki, An and Nammu or

Ansar and Kissar

brother of Ea or Enki

brother of Aruru, some say consort of Ninlil

consort of Mylitta or Nintu, some say father of Ashnan, Nanna, Nergal,

Ninazu, Ninurta and Sin

In one story it is said that he mated with his mother to produce the human race; in another he was one of the gods who fashioned men from clay as their servants. He also created the demigods Emes and Enten. When the gods became angry at the noise men made, Enlil first sent a plague, then a drought, then a ban on reproduction and finally the flood that exterminated all the race except Zuisudra who had been warned by Enki.

He raped the grain goddess, Ninlil, and was sentenced to death. Ninlil followed him to the underworld where their son Nanna was born.

When Marduk came to power he blinded Enlil and killed his father, An.

He is said to have created the monster Labbu.

He is sometimes equated with Ramman and is depicted as part man, part fish or as part goat, part fish.

Enmenduranki (see Enmenduranna)

Enmenduranna Mesopotamian

[Enmenduranki:=Greek Euedorachos]

an antediluvian king

He is said to have founded the arts of divination, magic and medicine.

Enmesarra Mesopotamian

[Enmeshara.Enmesh(arr)a]

a Babylonian and Sumerian law-god

brother of Enten

In some accounts he was Nergal as ruler of the underworld, Aralu.

Enmesh (see Enmesarra)

Enmeshara (see Enmesarra)

Enmesharra (see Enmesarra)

Enmul (see Endukugga)

Enna Irish

husband of Dubh

His wife, a druidess, used her magic to drown the woman with whom Enna was having an affair. He, or a servant of the dead woman, killed Dubh with a slingshot in revenge.

In some accounts, the roles are reversed and Enna is the wife of Dubh.

Ennead Egyptian

[Great Company of Gods.Paut]

a group of 9 gods

The list varied from place to place: for Heliopolis it consisted of Atum, Geb, Isis, Nephthys, Nut, Osiris, Seth, Su and Tefnut.

Other names sometimes included are Hu, Horus, Khenti Amentiu, Ra, Saa and Wadjet.

Enninu Mesopotamian

a temple of Ningursu

Ennoia

consorts of Gnostic gods

Ennugi Mesopotamian

[Sabarragingimme:=Sumerian Enbilulu]

a Babylonian god of canals and rivers

ruler of the gods

Ennuki (see Annunaki)

Eno North American

a name of Coyote as 'thief'

Enochian call

a ritual used to conjure up spirits,

demons and elementals

Enochian demons

demons mentioned in the Book of

Enoch as fallen angels

enoki tree Japanese

a tree sacred to Kojin the god (or goddess) of cooking

Enoches (see Dionysius)

Enoshima Japanese

an island

This small island is said to have risen out of the sea to receive the goddess, Bente, when she descended to the earth from heaven.

Enosichthon Greek

[Enosigaos]

a title of Poseidon as 'earth-shaker'

Enosigaos (see Enosichthon)

Enshag Mesopotamian

[Inzak.Lord of Dilmun]

a god

son of Ninhursaga

He was one of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to cure the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten the eight plants produced by Uttu.

Enten Mesopotamian

a Sumerian fertility god, god of farmers

brother of Enmesarra

Entheos

indwelling divine power: inspiration

Enti Mesopotamian

a name of Ea as 'lord of life'

Entingi East Indian

father of Demong

entity

a disembodied spirit: a demon

Enu (see Papa)

Enu Pacific Islands

[Land of the Red Parrot Feathers]

the home of Tango

The Hervey Islanders envisaged the world as a coconut in which Atea lived on the top floor above Tinirau. Enu-Kura is the realm below Tinirau's home, Motu-tapu.

Enulap (see Anulap)

Enuma Elish Mesopotamian

['when on high']
the Akkadian story of creation

Enumclaw North American

the thunder-spirit of the tribes of the north-west
twin brother of Kapoonis

He learned the art of throwing fireballs like spears while his twin became adept at hurling huge boulders. To prevent them from doing much damage, the gods took them up to heaven and made Enumclaw lord of thunder and Kapoonis lord of lightning.

In some versions, their roles are reversed.

Enundu African

a plague-god of Uganda

Enurta (see Ninurta<sup>1</sup>)

Enushirgal Mesopotamian

the temple of the Sumerian moon-god in Ur

envoûtement

a form of sympathetic magic

This is the art of harming another person by making a (wax) model of that person and casting spells on it.

An image or model of the intended victim, made of wood or wax and incorporating hair or nail clippings from that person, has pins stuck into it while spells are recited over it. Alternatively, the image may be mutilated or thrown into a river. The victim should then fall ill or die.

Enyalios (see Ares)

Enygeus British

[Enigée]
sister of Joseph of Arimathea wife of Hebron mother of Alan and Joshua

Enyo Greek

['bellicose'.Enys:=Roman Bellona] goddess of war
one of the Graiae, some say mother of Ares, some say

Enys (see Enyo)

Enzak (see Dimsar)

Enzu (see Nanna<sup>1</sup>)

Eochaid<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]
a king of Dalriada

Congall Caoch came to him for help in his quarrel with Domhnall mac Aodha, the high-king of Ireland. As a friend of Domhnall, Eochaid refused to go himself but sent his four sons to join Congall's forces.

Eochaid<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochu.Bres.Eochy]
a name for Bres as 'beautiful boy'

Eochaid<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy.Maine Andai]
son of Aiillil and Maev

He was one of seven sons all known as Maine.

In one account, he killed Conchobhar, a son of King Arthur.

Eochaid<sup>4</sup> (see Eochu.Eremon)

Eochaid Airemh Irish

[Eochaidh.Aireamh.Eocho.Eochy]

a high-king of Ireland
brother of Aiillil Anghuba husband of Etain
father of Etain Oig

His brother Aiillil Anghuba became ill with longing when he saw the beautiful Etain. When Midir, the husband of Etain in a former incarnation, turned up at Eochaid's court they played chess together and Midir claimed the victor's prize of a kiss from Etain. Eochaid promised that this should be bestowed at a later meeting. When Midir arrived and found the palace surrounded by warriors he used his magic to appear before Eochaid, claim Etain and depart with her, rising like birds into the air, heading for Slievenamon, the mountain of the fairies.

When Eochaid learned from a druid that Etain was living in a fairy mound he stormed it with an army. Midir offered to surrender Etain but sent fifty maidens so like her that Eochaid could not tell which was really his wife. She gave him a sign and he reclaimed his queen. They later had a daughter called Etain Og.

Others say that the woman he chose from the fifty was his own daughter and that Canary Mor was a son of their union.

In some accounts, his brother was Eochaid Feidleach

Eochaid Allmuir Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]
chief of the Desi clan

He fought seven battles with Cormac mac Airt, finally losing and going into exile with the clan when Angus knocked out Cormac's eye with the butt of a spear.

In some accounts, he was killed by Mormhaol and Suigmhall.

Eochaid Armdhearg Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]
nephew of Camthann

He helped Tadhg to regain his wife and son who had been carried off by Camthann and, when Camthann was killed by Tadhg, he became king of Frosen.

Eochaid Beag Dearg Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]

a lord of the Danaans

He trapped fifteen of the Fianna, including Conan Maol, and these were later joined by Finn mac Cool and his son, Aedh Beag. Next day, they were all rescued by reinforcements of the Fianna.

Eochaid Beag mac Cairbre Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]

a sub-king

father of Dartaid

Returning from a visit to Maev, to whom he had promised to supply cattle to feed her army, he was set upon and killed by bandits. Maev's son, Orlam, later went to ask his daughter, Dartaid, whom he loved, for the cattle, and was attacked by Corb Cluach who killed Dartaid and most of Orlam's men.

Eochaid Bres (see Bres)

Eochaid Dala Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]

in some accounts, the third husband of Maev

Eochaid Eigeas Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]

a poet

In some accounts, he is the same as Dallan Forgaill or Ollav Fola.

Eochaid Feidhleach Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]

a king of Ireland
brother of Eochaid Airemh, some say husband of Clothfhionn father of Clothra, Conall Anghlonnach Dreibhriu and Maev

father of Breas, Lothar and Nar

He took the throne by defeating Fichtna Fathach at the Battle of Leitir Ruibhe.

When he quarrelled with his wife over a game of chess, she left him and went to Ulster taking with her their triplet sons, Breas, Lothar and Nar. These three, known as the Finn Eamhna, raised a force and attacked their father but were defeated. When Eochaid heard of their death in battle, he died of grief.

Eochaid Glas Irish

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochy]

a fierce warrior
brother of Eochaid Ronn,
some say

He abducted the three sons of Daol Dearmaid and was then killed by Cuchulainn who rescued the prisoners.

Eochaid mac EachachIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
a king of Leinster

He married one daughter of Tuathal, pretended she had died and married the other as well. Both died of shame when they found out what had happened. Their father waged war on Eochaid, killed him and exacted an annual tribute of cattle, the boramha.

Eochaid mac ErcIrish*

[Eochaid mac Eirc.Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
the last Fir Bolg king

father of Taltiu

In some accounts, Taltiu is his wife.

He was defeated by the Danaans at the first battle of Moytura.

Eochaid mac ErcaIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
a king of Leinster

He was attacked by the forces of Conn, the high-king, for refusing to pay the boramha, and defeated them. He then captured Tara and kept it for several years but he was eventually defeated by Conn and forced to pay the tribute.

Eochaid mac LuchtaIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy.Luian]
a king of Connaught or Munster

He had only one eye but was so generous that, when Aithirne demanded his one remaining eye, he gave it to him. Both his eyes were later replaced as if by a miracle. In some accounts, Fer Chedne replaces Aithirne.

Eochaid mac MaireadhaIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
son of Mairidh

brother of Mis and Ribh father of Airiu and Li Ban

He eloped with his father's wife, Eibhliu, on a horse provided by Angus Og. Where the horse stopped to urinate, a spring appeared and they built a house there. The spring later flooded the area and Eochaid and his family, except Li Ban, were drowned.

In some accounts, Midir supplied the horse on which they eloped.

Eochaid MuiglIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy.Mugmedon.Eochoy.Muigl.Eochoy.Muighmheadhon.Eochoy] husband of Carenn and Mongfhinn

father of Niall Noigiallach by Carenn
Niall, his son by Carenn, was abandoned by Mongfhinn, his second wife, but was rescued by the bard Torna Eices.

Eochaid MumhoIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
a king of Ireland

Eochaid OllathairIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
a name of the Dagda as 'All-father'

In some accounts, Eochaid was a king of the Fir Bolg who killed Bres in battle with the Danaans who then hid all the water in the land so that Eochaid died of thirst.

Eochaid Rond (see Eochaid Ronn)Eochaid RonnIrish*

[Eochaid Rond.Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
a sub-king in Connaught

brother of Eochaid Glas, some say father of Finchoom

When Cuchulainn was at Maev's court, Eochaid demanded that he discover what had happened to the three sons of Daol Dearmaid.

In other accounts, Finchoom was the daughter of Cathbad and Maga.

Eochaid SalbuidheIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
father of Nessa

Eochaid UaircheasIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
a king of Ireland

He was king of the southern half of Ireland and was killed by Lugaid Lamhdhearg who took his throne.

Eochaid YellowmouthIrish*

[Eochaidh.Eocho.Eochoy]
brother of Conn, the high-king

He was a source of trouble to Conn, who sent men to watch him when he went to Ulster. When these men killed him, the king of Ulster, Tiobraide, avenged his death by killing Conn.

Some say that he was Conn's uncle and was killed by Conn's son, Asal.

Eochaidh (see Eochaid)Eochu<sup>1</sup>Irish*

[Eochaid]
son of Eanna Cinsealach

Angered by the refusal of the poet, Laidcheann, to give him food, Eochu burnt his house down to the ground. The high-king, Niall, invaded Leinster and took Eochu captive but he managed to throw a stone which killed Laidcheann. He was then exiled to Scotland and killed Niall with an arrow when the king visited that country.

Eochu<sup>2</sup>Irish*

[Eochaid]
a king of Scotland

husband of Feidhilm
father of Aodan and Brandubh

He carried off Muireadhach from Ireland but the young man killed him and took Earc, daughter of Loarn, back to Ireland as his wife.

When his wife gave birth to twin boys, he exchanged one of them for one of the twin girls born at the same time to Ingheanach, wife of the king, Gabhran.

Eochu Bres (see Eochaid<sup>2</sup>)Eochu GunnatIrish*

[Eochaid Gunnat]
a king of Ulster

He deposed Cormac mac Airt and captured Tara. When Cormac returned with a regrouped army and recaptured the city, Eochu was killed by Lugaid, son of Lughna.

Eochu Mugmedon(see* Eochaid Muigl)Eoichu Muighmheadhon(see* Eochaid Muigl)Eochu Muigl (see Eochaid Muigl)Eochy (see Eochaid)Eodain (see Etain)Eodaoin (see Etain)Eogabal (see Eoghabal)Eogan (see Eoghan)Eoghabail (see Eoghabal)Eoghabal Irish

[Eogabal.Eoghabail.Eoghabhal.Owel]
a fertility-god

foster-son of Manannan

father of Aillen, Aine and

Fer Fidail

He and Aine appeared at Samhain on the hill where Ailill Olom was sleeping. Ailill raped Aine and Eoghabal was killed by Fearcheas mac Comain who was with Ailill at the time.

In some versions he is referred to as Owel.

Eoghabhal (see Eoghabal)Eoghan<sup>1</sup>Irish*

[Eogan.Owen]
son of Ailill Alom
father of Fiachu Muilleathan

He slept with Moncha on the eve of the Battle of Magh Mucramha in which he was killed and his son was born posthumously.

(see also Eoghan mac Ailealla)Eoghan<sup>2</sup>Irish*

[Eogan.Owen]
son of Niall
brother of Cairbre, Conall Gulban, Eanna and Loaghaire

Eoghan<sup>3</sup>Irish*

[Eogan.Owen]
brother of Airnealach and Tadhg mac Cein

He and his brother Airnealach and Tadhg's wife, Li Ban, were carried off by Camthann, king of Freson. Tadhg brought a force to invade Freson, killing Camthann and rescuing his family.

Eoghan<sup>4</sup> Irish
[Eogan.Owen]
a prince of Connaught

He was a pupil of Finn mac Cool and was left, with Art, to guard the shore in one version of the story of the Battle of Fionn's Strand.

Eoghan Beal Irish
[Eogan.Owen]
a king of Connaught

brother of Ailill Ionbhanna
father of Ceallach and Muireadhach
He was at war with the sons of Muircheartach of Ulster and was killed in battle. He gave orders that his body be buried in a standing position on the border of the province. This was done and it successfully defended Connaught until, in a massive raid, the Ulstermen dug up the body.

Eoghan Fial (see Eoghan Mor)

Eoghan Fithiseach (see Eoghan Mor)

Eoghan mac Ailealla Irish
[Eogan.Owen]
son of Ailill Alom

One story says that he quarrelled with Lugaid mac Con over which of them first discovered the musician, Fear Fi. In the ensuing battle of Cenn Abhraid (or Magh Mucramha) Lugaid was defeated and fled to Scotland.

Eoghan mac Durthacht Irish
[Eogan.Owen]
a warrior of Ulster
one of the champions of the Red Branch

In a fight with Cet he had one of his eyes knocked out.

Conor mac Ness reneged on his promise of safe-keeping when Deirdre and Naisi returned from Scotland and had Eoghan kill Naisi and his brothers, forcing Deirdre into marriage. She refused ever to smile again and so Conor gave her to Eoghan. She hated him so much that she killed herself.

In some accounts, Maine, not Eoghan, killed Naisi.

Eoghan Mor Irish
[Eog(h)an Fial.Eoghan Fithiceach.
Eoghan Taidleach.Mag Nuad(h)at.
Mogh Neid.Mug(h) Nuad(h)at.Owen]
a king of Munster
son (or, some say, father) of Mogh Neid and Sioda father of Ailill Alom

He deposed three kings in the southern half of the country and when one of them, Angus, enlisted the help of the high-king, Eoghan defeated Conn in battle and forced him to accept the division of the country into two. Eoghan took the southern half (Mug's Half).

Another version says that he was installed as king of Munster when his father deposed two kings, who, with the help of Conn, defeated Eoghan who then went into exile and married the Spanish princess, Beare. He later returned at the head of a Spanish army and forced Conn to share the country with him. The fight was later renewed, Conn was victorious and Eoghan was killed at the Battle of Moylena.

In some accounts, he came to Ireland at the time of an impending famine and built a huge underground store which he filled with food later given to the men of Ireland when the famine struck but, in return for this, he demanded the throne for his son.

He is said to have invented the wooden spade.

Eoghan Taidleach (see Eoghan Mor)

Eoghana (see Eire)

Eol Irish
a supernatural being
This being was said to be a supporter of Manannan and once fought Cuchulainn.

Eolgarg Irish
a king of Scandinavia

When Eolgarg was ill, Fiachna mac Maodain procured from an old woman the cow that was required to cure the king who later refused the woman any compensation. Fiachna invaded Scandinavia and, with the help of Manannan, defeated Eolgarg's forces.

Eolus<sup>1</sup> Irish
a mortal loved by a goddess

He, together with Ciabhan and Lodan, eloped from Tir Tairnigiri with Aoife, Cliona and Etain. Manannan sent a huge wave after them which drowned all six, or just the three girls, or, in some accounts, swept the girls back to the Otherworld.

Eolus<sup>2</sup> (see Aeolus)

eon (see aeon<sup>1</sup>)

Eone<sup>1</sup> Greek
one of the 50 daughters of Thespius

Eone<sup>2</sup> Irish
son or grandson of the Dagda

Eoos (see Eos)

Eopa British
a Saxon soldier

He landed in Cambria with the invading forces of Paschent and Gilloman and was sent to kill Aurelius to avenge the death of Vortigern, Paschent's father. He tricked his way into the court where Aurelius was lying ill and poisoned him.

Another story says that the poisoning was done by Ambion at the behest of Vortigern's widow, Renwein.

He was killed fighting in battle against Uther.

Eopuco (see Ah Puch)

Eorann Irish
wife of Suibne Geilt

Eos<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Eoos.Hemera.Hespera:=Egyptian Ahi:

=Hindu Aruna.Ushas:

=Roman Aurora.Mater Matuta]

goddess of the dawn

daughter of Hyperion and Thea or of Uranus and Nyx

sister of Helius and Selene wife of Aelus and Astraeus, some say wife of Tithonus

mother of Emathion and Memnon

by Tithonus

mother of Phaeton by Cephalus

In her journeys across the sky with her brother Helius, she was Hemera in the morning and Hespera in the evening.

She seduced Cephalus, Cleitus and Orion and abducted Ganymede. She asked Zeus to make Tithonus immortal but forgot to ask for eternal youth with the result that he grew old and shrivelled. In the end Eos changed him into a grasshopper.

In some accounts she is the wife of Aelus or Astraeus and mother, by him, of the winds Boreas, Eurus, Notus and Zephyrus.

Eos<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Eoos]

a horse of Aurora

Eosphorus (see Phosphorus)

Eostre (see Eastre)

Eototo North American
a kachina of the Pueblo tribes

Epact Egyptian

5 extra days added to the calendar year

Ra, angry with Nut, decreed that her children should not be born in any month so Thoth gambled with the moon and won a slight increase in the length of each day which added up to five extra days in which her children could be born.

Epadum Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk referring to his connection with irrigation

epalirai East Indian Papuan forest-spirits

Epaphos (see Epaphus)

Epaphus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Epaphos]
king of Egypt
son of Zeus by Io husband of Memphis
father of Libya and Lysianessa

He was stolen by the Curetes who were killed by Zeus for so doing.

In some accounts, he was identified with the bull-god, Apis.

Epaphus<sup>2</sup> (see Epopeus)

Epeios (see Epeius)

Epeius<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Epeios.Epeus]
a king of Elis
son of Endymion
husband of Anaxirrhoe
brother of Aetolus and Paeon

He became king after his father when he won a foot-race against his brothers.

Epeius<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Epeios.Epeus]
son of Panopeus
the builder of the Trojan horse

In some accounts, he was the water-carrier in the great household of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra.

Epet (see Tauret)

Epeus (see Epeius)

Ephestios Greek
a name for Zeus and guardian of the sanctuary

Ephialtes<sup>1</sup> Greek [Epiāl(t)es.'leaper']
a giant
son of Aloeus or Poseidon by Iphimedeia or Canace twin brother of Otus

He and his brother Otus were known as the Aloadae, sons of Aleous, but their real father was Poseidon. Unlike the other Giants, they were noble beings.

He and Otus imprisoned Ares to demonstrate their power and threatened to pile Pelion on Ossa to attack the Olympians but were persuaded by Poseidon not to try or were killed by Apollo or Heracles.

They planned to carry off Artemis but she knew what they were about to do and set a trap for them. She flew over the sea to Naxos where they followed. She then set a white hind in their path which they immediately set out to hunt. Each threw his javelin from opposite sides of the hind which then disappeared and each died from the other's throw. An alternative version says that, when they tried to abduct Artemis and Hera, Artemis ran between them. Each aimed a shot at her but she avoided the arrows and each brother inadvertently killed the other.

They were said to have been bound back to back and fastened to a column by snakes when they went to Tartarus.

In some accounts, he was one of the Earthborn Giants, son of Uranus and Gaea, and was killed during the battle of the giants with the gods when Apollo shot him in one eye and Heracles in the other.

(see also Ephialtes<sup>2</sup>)

Ephialtes<sup>2</sup> Greek [Epiāl(t)es.Hepiales.Hepialos.'leaper'] a demon seen in nightmares:
an incubus

In some accounts he is the same as Ephialtes, son of Aloeus.

Ephimedia (see Iphimedia)

Ephites Greek
the leader of the suitors for Penelope's hand

When Odysseus returned home and routed the men who were harassing Penelope, the aged Laertes joined the fight and killed Ephites.

Ephka Mesopotamian
a Syrian god

In some accounts Ephka is female.

Epiales (see Ephialtes)

Epialtes (see Ephialtes)

Epic Cycle Greek
the corpus of myths and legends used by writers as the basis for their plays, poems, and stories

Epic of Creation Mesopotamian
the Babylonian story of the struggle between Abzu and Tiamat with their son Ea

Epic of Gilgamesh (see Gilgamesh Epic)

Epicasta (see Epicaste.Jocasta)

Epicaste<sup>1</sup> Greek [Epicasta.Epikaste]
mother of Thestius by Agenor, some say

Epicaste<sup>2</sup> (see Jocasta)

Epidaurus<sup>1</sup> Greek
a city in Argolis, site of an oracle of Asclepius

Epidaurus<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Pelops and Hippodamia

Epigeus (see Auchthon)

Epigoni<sup>1</sup> Greek [Epigonoī.'the after-born']
the sons of the Seven against Thebes

They waged further war on the Thebans to avenge the death of their fathers and destroyed the city. They are listed as Alcmaeon, Aegialus, Amphiloachus, Diomedes, Euryalus, Promachus and Thersander.

Other names sometimes included are Polydorus, Sthenelus and Tlesimes.

Epigoni<sup>2</sup> Greek
one of the poems in the Epic Cycle dealing with the fall of Thebes

Epigonoī (see Epigoni)

Epikaste (see Epicaste.Jocasta)

epimacrus
a heraldic griffin

Epimelian nymphs Greek
nymphs of flocks and herds

Epimenides Greek
a 6th c BC Cretan poet

It was said that he fell asleep when looking for some sheep and slept for fifty-seven years. When he finally awoke, he found himself in possession of all wisdom. He was said to be 157 (or 299) years old when he died.

In some accounts, he is one of the Seven Sages in place of Periander.

Epimetheus Greek ['afterthought']

one of the Titans
son of Iapetus and Clymene or Asia

brother of Atlas and Prometheus husband of Pandora
father of Pyrrha

With his brother Prometheus he was given the task of creating men and fitting them for life on earth.

He fought with the gods against the Titans and rejected the beautiful Pandora when offered her hand by Zeus. He hastily changed his mind and married her when Prometheus was punished by Zeus.

In some stories, the ills that beset man were released by Pandora from a box given to her by the gods at her wedding; in others they came from a jar in which Prometheus had stored the things not used in the creation of man.

Epinogrus British
a Knight of the Round Table

son of the king of Northumberland
He was unhorsed by Dinadan in a joust and defeated by Lancelot at a tournament.

Epione Greek
wife of Asclepius

mother of Macaon and Podalirius

Epirus Greek
the site of Hades, far to the west

Epistrophus	Greek	They can be induced to enter human beings and can predict the future.	Eravan	Siamese
son of King Evenus			[=Hindu Erewan]
brother of Mynes			a sun-deity
He and his brother were killed by Achilles in the Trojan war.			This deity is depicted as an elephant with three heads.
Epistrophius	Greek	Equina	Roman	erawng mot krak	Burmese
son of Iphitus		a festival in honour of Mars		[wang un keng]
brother of Schedius		Equus October	Roman	tall, forked sticks planted in the ground
He and his brother Schedius led the Phocian contingent at Troy.		[Ecus October]		These sticks record the sacrifice of buffalo to the gods.
Epitragia	(see Aphrodite)	Er<sup>1</sup>	Armenian	Erbin	British
Epitymbidia	Greek	[Ara]		a king of Cornwall
a name of Aphrodite as 'one sitting on tombs'		a warrior who came back from the dead		son of Custennin
Epona<sup>1</sup>	Celtic	son of Armenak and Nvard		father (or son) of Geraint
[The Divine Horse.The Great Mare: =Greek Hippona:=Irish Edain: =Roman Augusta:=Welsh Rhiannon]		Er was killed in battle but his body did not decay and, after twelve days, he arose and resumed his former life.		Erc	(see Earc <sup>2</sup> )
a goddess of horses and horsemen in Gaul		During that time, he had visited all parts of the underworld and had seen how men's souls were judged.		Erchtag	(see Tiwaz.Tyr)
She was also worshipped in Rome where her festival was held on December 18th.		In some accounts, he was killed by the forces of Semiramis when he rejected her advances.		Ercildoune, Thomas of	British
She has a key which gives her access to the underworld and is often depicted half-naked, riding a horse.		Er<sup>2</sup>	(see Cheru.Heimdall.Tiwaz.Tyr)	a nobleman
Some have identified her with Rhiannon.		Eracles	European	He is said to be sleeping in a cave with his knights, awaiting a call to arms.
Epona<sup>2</sup>	Roman	a patriarch of Jerusalem		Ercol	Irish
[Three Eponae]		Godfrey de Bouillon, who had been made king of Jerusalem when the Christians captured the city in the First Crusade, upset this cleric by sending some holy relics to his mother, Ida. As a result, Eracles poisoned the king.		a warrior-magician
a name of Demeter as mare-goddess		Erah	(see Elom)	husband of Garmna
Epopheus<sup>1</sup>	Greek	Eraj	Persian	He was one of those who tested Conal Cearnach, Laoghaire Buadhach and Cuchulainn for the title of Champion of All Ulster and he attacked them first with witches. Only Cuchulainn stood his ground and cut them all to pieces.
a sailor on the ship when Dionysus was imprisoned by the crew		[Airya.Iraj]		Ercol then fought the three warriors, defeating Conal and Laoghaire but losing to Cuchulainn who became the champion.
Epopheus<sup>2</sup>	Greek	son of Thraetona by Ahaharnaz or Aranvaz		Erda	Norse
[Epaphus]		brother of Salm and Tur		[Fiorgyn(n).Iord.Jord(h)]
a king of Sicyon		His father divided his empire between his three sons, Eraj receiving Arabia.		a giantess
son of Poseidon or, some say, of Aloeus		Some accounts say that Salm and Tur killed their brother from jealousy.		an earth-goddess and goddess of wisdom
father of Nyctymene		Erakal	(see Nergal <sup>1</sup> )	daughter of Annar and Nott
He raped his own daughter who was then changed into an owl by Athene.		Erana	Greek	daughter of Odin, some say
Others says that he carried off Antiope when her first husband died.		[Arana.Urana]		first wife of Odin
Her father, Nycteus, pursued him and was killed but Lycus, brother of the dead man, killed Epopeus and rescued Antiope.		in some accounts, an earth-goddess		mother of Thor
A similar story is told of Clymenus and Harpalyce		Erannon	Irish	In some stories, she is the daughter of the giantess Fiorgyn and the mother of Frigga, in others she is Fiorgyn.
(see also Clymenus <sup>2</sup> .Harpalyce)		son of Milesius and Scota		In some accounts, she was one of the Asynjur.
epopt		When the Milesians invaded Ireland, he fell from the mast of a ship and was drowned.		Erdgeist	German
one introduced to the Eleusinian mysteries		Eranorannan	Canary Islands	an earth-spirit
Eptirmati	Norse	[=Tenerife Eranorannan]		Erditse	Basque
a story from the Younger Edda		a god of Hierro, protector of men		a mother-goddess
Epunamun	South American	Eranoranzan	Canary Islands	erdleute	(see Dwarfs)
[Guinechen.Guinemapun]		[=Hierro Eranorannan]		ermannlein	(see Dwarfs)
a supreme god or war-god of the Araucanian Indians		a god of Tenerife, protector of men		eré	African
Eq'eq'o	(see Ekkekko)	Erato<sup>1</sup>	Greek	in Yoruba lore, childlike beings which take over persons undergoing initiation
eqqo	African	one of the 9 Muses – lyric poetry		Erebos	(see Erebus)
Ethiopian spirits living in streams and rivers		Erato<sup>2</sup>	Greek	Erebus<sup>1</sup>	Greek
		a Nysaeon nymph, one of the Hyades		['darkness'.Erebus]
		wife of Arcas		the cavern between earth and hell

the darkest depths of the underworld:
hell

Erebus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[darkness'.Erebos]

son of Chaos

He dethroned Chaos and married his own mother or sister, Nyx, fathering Aether, Charon, Eris, Hemera, Hypnos, the Keres, Morpheus, Nemesis, Thanatos, Tyche and, in some versions, Gaea.

Erec<sup>1</sup> French

[=British Geraint:=Norse Erex]

son of Lac

brother of Brandiles and Jeschüté

The hero of the French Erec et Enide in which he plays the same role as Geraint.

In a Norse version, his father is called Ilax.

Erec<sup>2</sup> German

a version of the Erec and Enide story, written by Hartman von Aue

Erec et Enide French

a 12th c story of Geraint and Enid,
written by Chrétien de Troyes

Erechtheum Greek

[Erekthion]

a temple in Athens devoted to Erechtheus and others

Erechtheus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Erekththeus]

son of Dardanus and Batea

He was the owner of 3,000 mares.

Erechtheus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Erekththeus]

a king of Athens

son of Hephaestus and Gaea

Some accounts equate this king with Erichthonius, others regard him as separate and the grandfather of a later king of the same name.

Erechtheus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Erekththeus]

a king of Athens

son of Pandion or Teleon by Zeuxippe brother of Philomena and Procne and twin of Butes

husband of Praxithea

father of Cecrops II, Chthonia, Creusa,

Eupalamus, Metion, Orithyia,

Orneus, Otionia, Pandarus(?), Procris

and Protogonia

When Eumolpus invaded Athens, Erechtheus was told he must sacrifice one of his seven daughters, Otionia. Two of his other daughters, Pandora and Protogonia, sacrificed themselves and Erechtheus killed Eumolpus in revenge but was himself killed by Poseidon.

Other versions say that Chthonia was sacrificed and the other daughters killed themselves.

In some stories he is identified with Erichthonius the serpent-legged son of Hephaestus and Gaea.

Erechtheus<sup>4</sup> British

a play by Swinburne

Eredatfedhri Persian

the personification of virginity

She is in perpetual conflict with the harlot-demon, Jeh.

Erekthteion (see Erechtheum)

Erekththeus (see Erechtheus)

Erein (see Eri)

Erem Caua Indian

[Cauga.Ti-miku]

in the lore of the Andaman Islands,

evil spirits living in the forest

Eremon Irish

[Airem.Eireamhoín.Eochaid.Heremon]

a leader of the Milesians

son of Milesius and Scota

brother of Amergin and Eber Finn husband of Tea

After the defeat of the Danaans, in which Eremon killed one of the Danaan kings, Mac Cecht, the sovereignty of Ireland was decided by the druid Amergin who gave the throne to Eremon for his lifetime, then to Eber Finn. This was not accepted so Eremon took the north of the island and Eber Finn took the south. Eventually they fought for supremacy at the Battle of Bile Teineadh where Amergin and Eber Finn were killed.

Ereshkigal Mesopotamian

[Ereskigal.Erishkigal.Irkalla.Ninmug:

=Carthaginianian Allatu:=Semitic Allatum]

a Babylonian goddess of death and the underworld

sister of Inanna

sister of Ishtar, some say consort of Gugulanna or Nergal

mother of Ninazu

In some versions she started out as a sky-goddess but was abducted by the dragon Kur to the underworld. When Nergal came to the underworld at her command after she had slighted her attendant, Namtar, she saved herself from death at his hands only by sharing power with him. In other versions her consort is Gugulanna.

A different version says that she fell in love with Nergal when he came down from heaven with food and she threatened to raise all the dead unless Anu sent Nergal back as her husband. Namtar was sent to heaven as an envoy and Nergal hurriedly returned to the underworld and became the queen's consort.

In some accounts she is the same as Inanna.

Eresichthon (see Erysichthon)

Ereskigal (see Ereshkigal)

Ereuthalion Greek

a hero of Arcadia

He was killed by Nestor when they met in single combat.

Erewan Hindu

[=Siamese Erevan]

a three-headed elephant ridden

by Indra

Erewhon British

a mythical land, the setting for Samuel

Butler's novel of the same name

Erex Norse

the Norse version of Erec

Erex saga Norse

a Norse version of the story of Erec

and Enide

In this version, the hero's father is called Ilax.

Erdfff (see Efrdff)

Ergane Greek

Athena as the goddess of industry

Erge European

a Basque spirit said to kill men

Erginus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Poseidon

He sailed with the Argonauts and took over as helmsman when Tiphys died.

Erginus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of the Minyans

son of Clymenus

father of Agamedes and Trophonius

He avenged the killing of his father by defeating the Thebans and exacting a tribute of one hundred cattle for twenty years. When Heracles cut the noses off his heralds, he attacked Thebes but was defeated by Heracles who increased the tribute to 200 cattle.

Some say that he was killed by Heracles, others that he lived to old age, married a young wife and fathered two sons, Agamedes and Trophonius.

Ergodiel

a moon-demon

Erh Chiang

(see Hang Ha Erh Chiang)

Erh Lang Chinese

[Erh Long]

a god who is said to have saved Peking from flooding

He was said to be a famous hunter and killer of demons, taking many different shapes.

Erh-lang Chinese

[Yang Chien]
a name for Yang Chien as Second Lord of Quality

Erh Long (see Erh Lang)Eri<sup>1</sup> Armenian

a sun-god

Eri<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Eire.Erein.Eriu]
wife of Cethor
mother of Bres by Elatha
A Danaan woman who had an affair with Elatha, king of the Fomoir, producing Bres.

In some accounts, she is the same as Eire. (see also Eire)

Eri<sup>3</sup> Welsh

father of Greid

Eriboea<sup>1</sup> Greek

second wife of Aloeus
When the twins Ephialtes and Otus imprisoned Ares, it was Eriboea who told Hermes who then released the two giants.

Eriboea<sup>2</sup> (see Periboea)Eribotes Greek

a herald with the Argonauts
During the enforced stay in Libya, he and Canthus were killed by Capharus, a shepherd, when they tried to steal some of his flock.

Eric (see Erik.Svipdag)Erica Egyptian

the sacred tree which grew round the body of Osiris

Erichtho Roman

a sorceress
Soon after Virgil died, Erichtho sent him to the underworld to retrieve a soul.

Erichthonius<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of Athens
son of Hephaestus and Gaea
father of Pandion

It is said that he was accidentally fathered on Gaea by Hephaestus when he attempted to rape Athena but, in some accounts, he is the son of Atthis and husband of Praxitea.

He had snakes' tails for legs. He was adopted by Athene and nursed by Aglauros, Herse and Pandrosos, daughters of Cecrops, king of Athens. He is said to have invented the chariot to hide his serpent-like legs. He deposed Cranaus to take the throne of Athens and was set in the stars as the constellation Auriga and worshipped as a serpent when he died.

Some accounts identify him with Erechtheus.

Erichthonius<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Dardanus and Batea husband of Astyoche
father of Tros

He is said to have owned a herd of horses which numbered some two thousand.

Eridan Mesopotamian

in some accounts, a river (or rivers) of hell

Eridanos (see Eridanus)Eridanus Greek

[Eridanos]
a river-god

He was the god of a river not seen by mortals and into which Phaeton fell when Zeus struck him with a thunderbolt; said to be the Po.

In another version it was the river itself which was formed from the tears of the Heliades, sisters of Phaeton, at his death.

Eridu Mesopotamian

the Sumerian paradise, home of Zikum

Eries British

a knight of King Arthur's court
son of Lot

In some accounts, he is the same as Gaheris.

Erigone<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Aletis. 'spring-born']
a priestess of Artemis
daughter of Aegisthus
and Clytemnestra
sister of Aletes and Helen

Aegisthus became Clytemnestra's lover while her husband, Agamemnon, was fighting at Troy. Orestes, son of Agamemnon, killed her parents and was tried for murder. When he was acquitted at his second trial, Erigone hanged herself.

In some accounts, she was carried off by Artemis, whose priestess she became, to save her from the sword of Orestes; in others she became the second wife of Orestes and bore a son, Penthilus.

Erigone<sup>2</sup> Greek

a harvest-goddess daughter of Icarus

Her father was killed by shepherds who, drunk on the wine he gave them, thought he had bewitched them. Erigone was led to his grave by the dog, Maera, and hanged herself there.

Erik<sup>1</sup> German

[Eric.Erikr.Herrick]
a Norwegian youth

He was in love with Senta but she spurned him in favour of the Flying Dutchman.

Erik<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Eric.Erikr.Herrick]
son of Ragnar Lodbrok and Thora
brother of Agnar

Erik<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Eric the Victorious.Erikr.Herrick]
a king of Sweden

In a battle with Stybjorn, he swore to sacrifice himself to Odin if he were granted victory. The god appeared at his side and gave him a rod to cast over the opposing army. As a result, Stybjorn's men were rendered blind and then swallowed up by an avalanche.

Erikapaios (see Iao<sup>1</sup>)Erikr (see Erik)Eriilo (see Yarilo)Erim British

father of Henwas and Henbeddestyr

Erin (see Eire)Erin-bird Mesopotamian

a monstrous bird

This bird, which has a poisonous tooth, was regarded as a form of Zu.

Erinna Greek

a 3rd c BC poetess

She was the author of Distaff and died at the age of nineteen.

Erinnyes (see Furies)Erinnys (see Furies)Erinues (see Furies)Erinyes (see Furies)Erinys Greek

[Demeter Erinys]

goddess of wrath, a form of Demeter

She is said to be the mother of the horse Arion, by Poseidon.

Eriopis Greek

daughter of Jason and Medea

Eriphos Greek

a young goat into which Dionysus was changed to save him from Hera

Eriphule (see Eriphyle)Eriphyle Greek

[Eriphule]

daughter of Talau and Lysimache

daughter (or sister) of Adrastus, some say wife of Amphiarus

mother of Alcmaeon, Amphilochoch and Demonassa

Polyneices bribed her with the necklace of Harmonia to persuade Amphiarus to join the Seven Against Thebes. Amphiarus knew that he was fated to die and made his children swear to avenge his death and conquer Thebes. She later accepted a bribe from Thersander, who gave her Harmonia's wedding veil, to persuade Alcmaeon to join the Epigoni in their assault on Thebes. Alcmaeon led the Epigoni who conquered Thebes and then killed his own mother for her betrayal of her husband.

Erippe Greek
a princess
mother of Eurytus by Odysseus

Odysseus is said to have raped this daughter of a king of Epirus, fathering a son, Euryalus. When he grew up, Erippe sent her son to kill his father but, warned of his coming, Odysseus killed the youth.

Eris<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Ate: 'strife':=Roman Discordia]
the goddess of discord daughter of Zeus and Hera or Nyx sister of Ares

mother of Agea, Amphilogeai, Androktasiai, Ate, Dysnonia, Hyominai, Lethe, Limos, Logos, Machai, Neikos, Philotes, Phonci and Ponos

In some stories she is the daughter of Erebus and Nyx. Some say that Ate is Eris, others that Ate is the daughter of Zeus by Eris. Some say she was the consort of Ares and mother of Horcos.

She was thrown down to earth by Zeus in one of his angry moods. It was Eris who precipitated the Judgement of Paris and all that followed from it by throwing the golden apple, inscribed 'for the fairest', into a gathering of the deities at the wedding of Peleus and Thetis. (see also Ate)

Eris<sup>2</sup> Greek
goddess of fair competition, some say

Eriškigal (see Ereshkigal)

Erisichthon (see Erysichthon)

Erisvorsh Slavic
the god of tempests

Eriu (see Eire.Eri)<sup>1</sup>

Erka Norse
the name of Attila's wife
in Thidrekssaga

Erkilek Inuit
a god of the hunt

He is depicted with the head of a dog on a man's body.

Erkir Armenian [Armat.Perkunos]
an earth-goddess

Erl-king (see Erlkonig)

Erlan British
an ancestor of Lot

Erlanga Pacific Islands
[Erlangga]
(99–c 1050)
a prince revered as an incarnation of Vishnu in Bali (see also Airlanga)

Erlangga (see Airlanga.Erlanga)

Erlík Siberian
a Tartar god of evil

He was the precursor of man made by Ulgan from mud and was sent down to rule the underworld when he tried to make his own universe and seized some of the dolls which Ulgan used to turn into humans.

He killed the saviour, Maidere, who was sent to earth by Ulgan.

Erlík Khan Siberian [Irlík Khan]
a Buriat demon-hunter, ruler of the underworld

Erlkonig German [Erl-king:=Danish Ellerkinge] king of the elves

The alder-king who abducted children to the Otherworld. Some say that he is one of the leaders of the Wild Hunt.

Ermaleus British
son of Lot

He was defeated by Biausdous who sent him to King Arthur as a prisoner.

Ermalyn (see Eermeline)

Ermanaric (see Ermenrich)

Ermeline European [Ermalyn] a vixen
wife of Reynard the Fox

Erminia<sup>1</sup> British [Erminia]
the realm of Rouland
(see also Parmenie)

Erminia<sup>2</sup> European
In Jerusalem Delivered, Erminia fell in love with Tancred and became a warrior-maid to serve alongside him in the Christian forces.

Ermenerich (see Ermenrich)

Ermenrich Norse [Ermanaric.Ermenerich.Erminik.Ermrich.
Hermanric.Iarmerik.Jomunrek(k)]
a king of the Huns son of Hugdietrich or Ameline brother of Dieter and Dietmar father of Randwer

He proposed to marry Swanhild, the daughter of Sigurd and Gudrun, and sent his son, Randwer, and a servant, Sibich, to escort her to his palace. Sibich lied to the king saying that Randwer had seduced Swanhild on the journey. The angry king had his son hanged and Swanhild trampled to death by horses.

Gudrun ordered her three sons by Jonakur to avenge her daughter's death and they set off to find him. Hamdir and Sorli killed their younger brother, Erp, en route, deeming him to be too young to be helpful, and when they found the king they cut off his hands and feet. Only the intervention of Odin, in his usual disguise as an old man, prevented them from killing the king.

Some say that he was poisoned by Sibich, others that he was killed by Swanhild's brothers.

In another story, he hanged two nephews, Imbreke and Fritele, for allegedly having designs on the queen.

In a Danish version, he is Iarmerik who is due to marry Swanhild. A counsellor called Bikki accused her of adultery with Broder, the king's son, and Iarmerik had her trampled to death by horses but spared the life of his son because he was his only heir.

In Germanic stories, he was Emperor of the West and the brother of Dietmar, who, when Dietrich succeeded his father on the throne of Bern, demanded tribute from Dietrich. When this demand was rejected, Ermenrich invaded, capturing Hildebrand and several more of Dietrich's men. Ermenrich, by threatening to kill the captives, forced Dietrich to surrender and to leave his kingdom, taking a small band of friends and going to the court of Etzel.

Ermid British
brother of Dywel and Geraint

Ermin (see Irmin)

Ermine (see Anna)<sup>1</sup>

Erminia (see Ermenia)

Erminrik Norse
the name for Emenrich
in Thidrekssaga

Ermintrude European
wife of Rainouart

She was given as wife to the giant Rainouart as reward for his help in the battle against the Saracens in which he killed 3,000 men.

Ermyn British
a king of Armenia
father of Josian

He bought the young Bevis as a slave but treated him well, giving him the horse, Bevis, and the sword, Morglay, as well as his daughter Josian for a wife.

Ermrich (see Ermenrich)

Erna Norse
wife of Jarl
mother of Konur

She and Jarl are regarded as the founders of the class of nobles.

Ernmas Irish
father of Badb, Macha or Morrigan

Ernol British

a count living in Castle Curteloise
His three sons raped his only daughter and killed her when she tried to tell her father. They then wounded Ernol and locked him in a dungeon from which he was later released by Bors, Galahad and Percival. Having told them to seek the Maimed King, he died.

Ernutet (see Renenutet)

Ernutit (see Renenutet)

Eros Greek

[ˈdesire'.Eleutherios.Protagonos:plur

=Eroses:=Hindu Kama:=Roman

Amor.Cupid(o)]

the god of love

brother of Anteros

There are different accounts of his parentage. In some stories he is the son of Ares by Aphrodite, Cronus by Aphrodite, Hephaestus by Aphrodite, Hermes by Artemis, Uranus by Gaea, Zephyrus by Ino or Iris, or Zeus by Aphrodite. An earlier version makes him the son of Aether and Hemera who helped him create the world from chaos. In a variation, Erebus and Nyx produced a cosmic egg from which Eros was hatched.

In one story, he caused Dido to fall in love with Aeneas by taking the form of Ascanius and shooting Dido with one of his arrows.

He is depicted as a winged youth with a bow, sometimes blindfolded, shooting gold-tipped arrows into the hearts of those he wishes to become lovers. He sometimes used lead-tipped arrows to cause lovers to spurn those who loved them.

In later years, this deity became pluralised as the Erotes.

(see also Cupid.Erotes.Iao<sup>1</sup>)

Erosi African

Igbo spirits invoked to promote fertility and prosperity

Erotes Greek

[=Roman Amoretti]

worshippers of Eros: minor

love-gods (see also Eros)

Erp<sup>1</sup> British

[Erpr]

father of Drust

Erp<sup>2</sup> German

[Erpr]

son of Etzel and Helche

brother of Ortwin

He was killed in the battle between Dietrich and the invading army of Ermenrich. (see also Erp<sup>3</sup>)

Erp<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Erpr]

son of Atli and Gudrun

brother of Eitel

When Atli treacherously killed her brothers Gunnar and Hogni, Gudrun killed her son Erp and his brother Eitel and served their hearts and blood to Atli and his guests. (see also Erp<sup>2</sup>)

Erp<sup>4</sup> Norse

[Erpr]

son of Jonakur and Gudrun

In one version of the story of Atli and Gudrun, Gudrun survived an attempted suicide after killing her sons and husband and married Jonakur by whom she had three sons, Erp, Hamdir and Sorli. When her daughter, Swanhild, was killed by Ermenrich, Gudrun ordered her sons to avenge her death. They set off to find Ermenrich and the two elder brothers killed Erp en route, deeming him to be too young to be helpful.

Erpr (see Erp)

Erqigdlit (see Adlet)

Err Irish

a warrior of Connaught

Both he and his charioteer, Foich, were killed when they challenged Cuchulainn at the ford.

Erra (see Irra)

Erthal Welsh

a warrior-hero

Ertrael

a demon

Erua (see Sarpanitu)

Erucina (see Venus Erycina)

eruncha Australian

devils in the lore of the Aborigines

These beings, so it was said, could make a man into a medicine man or eat him instead.

Erusikhthon (see Erysichthon)

Erwand Armenian

a king

son of a dragon

He was said to be extremely ugly and could crumble rock by a mere glance from his evil eye.

Erycina (see Venus Erycina)

Erymanthian boar Greek

a huge wild boar

This animal was captured by Heracles as his fourth Labour.

Erypilus Greek

son of Eurystheus, killed by Heracles

Erysichthon Greek

[Aethon.Eresichthon.Erisichthon.

Erusikhthon]

king of Dolion

son of Triopas

brother of Iphimedia

father of Mestra

He was made to suffer perpetual hunger by Demeter for cutting trees in her sacred grove. Having sold all his possessions and his daughter for food, he finally ate himself.

Erythea (see Erytheia)

Erytheia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Erythea]

a nymph

She is often said to be one of the seven Hesperides.

Erytheia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Erythea]

daughter of Geryon

Erythraean Sibyl (see Sibyl of Cumae)

Erythroos Greek

a horse of the sun-god, Helios

Erythrus Greek

son of Rhadamanthus

Erytus Greek

son of Hermes by Antianeira

twin brother of Echion

He and his brother sailed with the Argonauts and also were members of the party hunting the Calydonian Boar.

Eryx Greek

a king in Sicily

son of Butes and Aphrodite

He challenged Heracles to a wrestling match and was killed.

Erzilie (see Erzulie)

Erzulia (see Erzulie)

Erzulie West Indian

[Erzilie.Erzulia.Ge-Rouge]

a Haitian goddess of love

She is represented as wearing three rings, one for each of her husbands Agwé, Damballah and Ogoun.

Erzulie-Ge-Rouge West Indian

a name of Erzulie lamenting the brevity of life and love

Es Siberian

a creator-god of the Ket people

He is said to have made mankind from clay, producing men with his right hand, women with his left.

Esagila Mesopotamian

the site in Babylon of Marduk's temple and annual resurrection

Esai Turkish

a name for god

Esara (see Isara)

Esaugetuh Emissee North American

[Master of Breath]

creator-god and wind-god of the Creek Indians

He made the Creek Indians from wet

clay when the flood subsided, drying them in the sun. Some swam away before they were properly baked and these became the white races. Those who stayed in the sun long enough became the brown races.

Esbern Norse

[Esbern Snare]
husband of Helva

Helva's father agreed that Esbern could marry his daughter only if he built a great church. He agreed and promised to give his eyes, heart and soul to the dwarf who undertook the work on his behalf. He would be freed of this penalty only if he could discover the name of the dwarf by the time the church was finished. Helva prayed to the gods and discovered that his name was Father Fine, so saving her lover's life.

Esbern Snare (see Esbern)

esca Irish

the moon

The proper name was taboo so euphemisms such as 'esca' were used.

(see also gealach.luan.re)

Escalibur (see Excalibur)

Escanor British

a knight of King Arthur's court

It was said of him, as of Gawain, that his strength increased until noon and then diminished. When he carried off a serving-maid from Arthur's court, Gawain killed him.

Escanor le Beau British

a knight

nephew of Escanor le Grand

In a French story, he fought an inconclusive duel with Gawain, after which they became friends.

Escanor le Grand British

a knight

uncle of Escanor le Beau

He is described in a French story as the son of a giant by a witch.

Eschenbach, Wolfram von German

a 13th c writer, composer of over 40,000 verses, who contributed to the Arthurian legends, including Parzival

Esclabor British

[Astlabor]

father of Palamedes

He was originally a Babylonian noble sent to Rome as a slave. There he saved the life of the emperor and was sent to Britain where he saved Pellimore's life.

Esclados (see Knight of the Fountain)

Esclairmond (see Esclaramonde)

Esclaramonde<sup>1</sup> European

[Amanda.Esclairmond]

an alternative name for Clarimunda

Esclaramonde<sup>2</sup> European

wife of Sergalant

She had an affair with Vivien, a captive at her husband's court, and they fled together when the king found out. She later married Vivien.

Escol British

a warrior of King Arthur

son of Aelens or Aelcus

Escorant (see Estorause)

Escorducarla British

a lady of Vallone

She fell in love with Merlin and planned to make him her prisoner. Instead, Merlin made her his captive.

Esculapius (see Asclepius)

Esden Egyptian

[Isden.Isten]

a name for Thoth in the form of a baboon

Ese (see Iris)

Esege-Malan-Tengeri Siberian

[=Mongol Qormusta Tengu:

=Yakut Tangaro]

a sky-god of the Buriat

Esenohebis Greek

a name for Isis

Eset (see Isis)

Eshmoun (see Eshmun)

Eshmun<sup>1</sup> Canaanite

[Ashmun.Eshmoun.Esmoun(os).Esmun:

=Greek Asclepius]

a god of medicine

son of Sydyk

brother of the Cabeiri

He was castrated by the goddess Astronoe.

In some accounts, a name of Baal.

Eshmun<sup>2</sup> (see Hey-tau)

Eshmun Astarte Phoenician

an androgynous deity

Eshtan Mesopotamian

[=Hittite Ishtanu]

a Hattic sun-god

Eshu African

[Edshu.Esu:=Fon Legba]

an angel-trickster, messenger-god and god of fate among the Yoruba

As an attendant on the creator-god, Fa, he was responsible for opening some of the god's eyes each morning.

He was a servant of Orisha but hated him so much that he rolled a huge rock on to his house, killing Orisha and splitting him into 401 pieces.

He was said to have persuaded the sun and the moon to swap functions on one occasion, causing great chaos.

He keeps a watchful eye on events and reports to Oloron, judging the actions of men.

Esias (see Esras)

Esicalibur (see Excalibur)

Eskander (see Al-Iskandar)

Esmun (see Eshmun)

esp (see extra-sensory perception)

Espinogee British

a knight

father of Partinal

He was killed by Goon Desert who was killed by Partinal using the Grail Sword to avenge his father's death.

(see also Espinogres)

Espinogres British

son of Brangemore, queen of Cornwall

He murdered his mother and buried her body under the altar in the Perilous Chapel. (see also Espinogee)

Esplandian European

son of Amadis and Oriana

father of Lisuarte

When Esplandian's grandfather, Lisuarte, was imprisoned by the enchanter, Archalaus, Urganda took Esplandian from Firm island in her magic boat, Green Serpent. He found himself on a rocky island where, with a marvellous sword he found embedded in a temple wall, he killed a huge dragon.

A dumb sailor took him by sea to another country where Archalaus lived in a castle on Forbidden Mountain. At the gate of the castle, Esplandian killed the giant Argantes and, inside, he fought and killed not only Archalaus but his nephews Furion and Matroco. Their mother, Arcabone, threw herself to her death from the castle walls and Lisuarte was freed.

esprit follet French

a goblin

Esras Irish

[Esias]

a wizard

He lived in Gorias and was one of the four wizards who instructed the Danaans in the magic arts. He also gave them the magic sword and spear later used by Lugh.

He may be the same as Esru.

Esru Irish

son of Gaedheal

father of Sru

(see also Esras)

Ess (see Etain Oig)

Essara Mesopotamian

a replica, made by Tiamat, of the Sumerian Abzu who was killed by the gods

Essaunien Persian [Shivven]
a demon, one of the Austatikco-Pauligaur

Essus (see Esus)

Essylt Welsh
[E(syl)lt]
a Welsh version of Isolde wife of March

In this version, she eloped with Trystan.

Estanatlehi North American
[Estsanatlehi.Goddess of Sunsetland Turquoise Woman]
earth-goddess and goddess of time of the Navaho
daughter of Naestan and Yadiylil sister of Yolkai Estsan wife of Tsohanoai mother of Nayenezgani and Tobadzistsini

She was created by the Yei from turquoise and found on a mountain by Tsohanoai. Hastehogan and Hasteyalti fed her on pollen so that she was fully matured in eighteen days. She produced from maize-flour a man and a woman to serve as the ancestors of each of the eight tribes and then became the goddess of Sunsetland.

In another version she made men and women from pieces of her own skin and became queen of the underworld or made Yolkai Estsan from flakes of dry skin from under her breasts.

She was said to rejuvenate herself
when she grew old.

Some say that she is the same as Changing Woman.

(see also Yolkai Estsan)

Estance (see Eustace)

Estar (see Ishtar)

Estas North American
a trickster-hero of the Athapascan
tribe

Estmere Scottish
a hero

He killed a prince who was threatening King Asland and won the king's daughter for his wife.

Estoire del Sainte Graal French
a 13th c story of the Holy Grail

Estonea-pesta North American [Lord of Cold Weather] controller of the north wind
and snow

He gave Sacred Otter the Snow-lodge and a magic pipe which protected him from the winter storms.

Estonne British [Lord of the Scottish Wilderness] a Scottish lord
father of Passaleon

He was killed by Bruyant the Faithless but his son avenged his death by killing Bruyant.

Estorausce British [Escorant]
king of Sarras

When Bors, Galahad and Percival
arrived in Sarras with the Holy Grail, he threw them in prison. On his deathbed, a year later, he asked their pardon and they were released, Galahad becoming king in his place.

Estrangot British [Ille Estrange]
the realm of King Vagor

Estregales French
the realm of Lac

Estreldis (see Estrildis)

Estrildis British [Estreldis]
a German girl, captured by Locrinus daughter of Humber
mother of Habren

Locrinus kept her as a mistress for seven years, fathering a girl named Habren or Sabra. Later, Locrinus deserted his wife Gwendolen in favour of Estrildis. Gwendolen avenged herself in a battle in which Locrinus was killed. She took over the throne of England and had both Estrildis and Habren thrown into the Severn.

Estsanatlehi (see Estanatlehi)

Esturmi European
a Frankish knight nephew of Tiébaut

He fought alongside his uncle against the Saracens at the Battle of Archamp.

Esu (see Eshu.Isis)

Esus Celtic
[Aesus.Essus.Hesus.Yesu]
a war-god or god of agriculture in Gaul consort of Artio

Humans offered in sacrifice to this deity were hung on trees.

Essylt (see Essylt)

Esylt (see Essylt)

Etain<sup>1</sup> Irish

[E(a)dain.Eadaoin.Eda(e)in.Eithne.
E(o)da(o)in.Ethne]
daughter of Dian Cecht wife of Ogma mother of Cairpe

Etain<sup>2</sup> Irish

[E(a)dain.Eadaoin.Eda(e)in.Eithne.
E(o)da(o)in.Ethne]
sister of Aoife and Cliona

She eloped from the Otherworld with her two sisters and Ciabhan, Eolus and Lodan. Manannan sent a huge wave after their boat which either drowned all six or just the three girls or, in some accounts, swept the girls back to the Otherworld.

Etain<sup>3</sup> Irish
[E(a)dain.Eadaoin.Eda(e)in.Eithne.
E(o)da(o)in.Ethne]

in some accounts, mother of Cormac
mac Airt by Art (see also Achtan)

Etain Eachraidhe Irish

[E(a)dain.Eadaoin.Eda(e)in.Echraidhe.
Eithne.E(o)da(o)in.Ethne] daughter of Ailill, king of Ulster wife of Midir and Eochaid Airemh or, some say, Eochaid Feidhleach

Midir put aside his first wife, Fuamnach, in favour of Etain. The discarded wife turned Etain into a fly or a butterfly and caused her to be buffeted by storms for many years.
Finally, Etain was blown into the palace of Etar, an Ulster chieftain, and fell into a cup from which Etar's wife drank. As a result, Etar's wife became pregnant and bore a child, the reincarnated Etain.

She married Eochaid Airemh but Midir, the husband of her earlier incarnation, carried her off to fairyland, both in the form of swans. Eochaid discovered where they were and stormed the fairy mound with his army, demanding the surrender of Etain.

Midir conjured up fifty copies of Etain and Eochaid chose the one he thought was the real one. She was, according to Midir, a daughter of the real Etain so that Eochaid was now married to his own daughter who bore him a girl, Etain Oig. Some say she also bore Canary Mor.

In some stories, she eloped with, or was carried off by, Angus Og. Others say that she is the same as Befind.

Etain Oig Irish

[E(a)dain.Eda(e)in.E(o)da(o)in.Ess.Ethne] daughter of Eochaid Airemh and Etain Eachraidhe wife of Cormac

mother of Mess Buachalla

When Eochaid chose from the fifty copies of Etain the one he thought was his wife, he in fact chose his own daughter and slept with her, fathering a daughter, Mess Buachalla.

Etan Irish

daughter of Rianganabair and Finnabair sister of Id and Laeg

Etana Mesopotamian

a Babylonian king of Kish
a demi-god

He was said to have flown to heaven on an eagle to establish his divine right to rule and to obtain a plant that would procure a son for him and his wife. In some stories, he fell to earth and was killed, in others the eagle was killed but he survived and had a son. Some say that he ruled for 1,500 years.

In some accounts he is regarded as the leader of the revolt that led to the construction of the Tower of Babel.

Etar<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Edar]

an Ulster chieftain

His wife drank from a cup into which Etain, in the form of a butterfly, had been blown. As a result she gave birth to the reincarnated Etain.

He and Caibell fought a battle with the suitors for the hand of their two beautiful daughters. Caibell and both suitors were killed.

Etar<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Edar]

a warrior

He died when the goddess Aine rejected his love.

Etarcomal Irish

a squire to Natchrantal

He challenged Cuchulainn to single combat during the Cattle Raid of Cooley. Cuchulainn, in mercy, gave him three chances to withdraw and finally killed him with a sword stroke that split him in half from top to bottom.

Etasa (see Dadhikra)

Etemenanki Mesopotamian

the great ziggurat in Babylon

Etemmu Mesopotamian

in Babylonian lore, the ghost of a dead person

eten

[ettin]

a giant

Eteocles<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Eteokles]

co-king of Thebes with Polyneices

son of Oedipus and Jocasta

brother of Antigone, Ismene and Polyneices

father of Laodamus

After the abdication of Oedipus, his two sons were cursed by their father for some slight; he prayed that each should kill the other. They agreed to rule in alternate years but Eteocles refused to yield at the end of his year and banished his brother Polyneices.

He was killed by Polyneices in single combat during the Argive attack on Thebes (the Seven against Thebes) and killed his brother in the same fight.

Eteocles<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Eteokles]

a king of Orchomenus

son of Andreus or Cephisus and Euipe

Eteoclus Greek

son of Iphis or Cephisus

In some accounts, he is included in the list of the Seven against Thebes and was killed by the Theban, Megareus, whom he faced at the Neistan Gate.

Some say that he is the same as Hippomedon.

Eteokles (see Eteocles)

Eterah (see Elom)

Eternal Dreamtime (see alchera)

Eternal Land (see Takama-ga-hara)

Eternal Tengri Siberian

an aspect of Tengri as god of fate

Eterscel (see Eterskel)

Eterscele (see Eterskel)

Eterskel Irish

[Eidirsceol.Eterscel(e)]

a high-king of Ireland

son of Fiachu Fear Mara

He took the girl Mess Buachalla as his wife but she had previously been visited by Nemglan, the bird-god, as a Danaan youth who arrived in the form of a bird. The son of this union was Conary Mor who was raised as the king's son but fostered with a noble, Desa.

Ethal Anubail Irish

[Ethal Anubal.Ethal Anubhail]

a Danaan ruler

father of Caer Ibormeith

Ethal Anubal (see Ethal Anubail)

Ethal Anubhail (see Ethal Anubail)

Ether<sup>1</sup> Phoenician

a primordial first principle

Together with the other principle, Aer, it produced Oulomos, a precursor of the gods.

Ether<sup>2</sup> (see Zeus)

Ethiopian Table Greek

[Table of the Sun]

fertility personified, providing for all

Ethiopians Greek

[Aethiopians]

the inhabitants of the lands to the south

Ethiops Greek

a horse of the sun-god

Ethlinn Irish

[Eithlinn.Eithliu.E(i)thne.Ethniu]

a moon-goddess

daughter of Balor and Ceithlenn or

Danu

mother of Lugh by Cian

Her father imprisoned her in a tower so that she could not produce the son prophesied to kill Balor. Cian got access to her by dressing as a woman and she bore him three sons at one birth. They were thrown into the sea on the orders of Balor but one of them, Lugh, was saved by Manannan and, in later years, fulfilled the prophecy by killing Balor.

Ethne (see Eithne.Etain.Ethlinn)

Ethnea (see Eithne)

Ethniu (see Eithne.Ethlinn)

Ethon<sup>1</sup> Greek

the eagle attacking Prometheus when he was chained to a rock

Ethon<sup>2</sup> Greek

a horse of Hector

Etienne West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit, derived from

St Stephen

Etimmu Mesopotamian

[Etinime:=Hebrew Timi:

=Sumerian Gigim]

an Akkadian ghost or spirit of the underworld

These beings are said to cause diseases.

Etlyn (see Edlym Redswor)

Etna<sup>1</sup> Greek

a nymph of Sicily

mother of the twin gods, Palici by

Hephaestus, in some accounts

Etna<sup>2</sup> (see Mount Etna)

Eton (see Aten)

Etrah Canaanite

the moon-god

He tried to take over the kingdom of Keret, king of Sidon, but was defeated.

Etsai (see Aatxe)

Ettard British

[Ettarde]

a damsel loved by Pelleas

She organised a great tournament at which 500 knights competed and the champion, Pelleas, fell hopelessly in love with her. She rejected his suit and was seduced by Gawain, whereupon the dejected Pelleas came near to death from unrequited love. He was saved by Nimue who, using her magic, made Ettard fall in love with Pelleas – too late. She also put a spell on Pelleas who now rejected the lady who had previously rejected him. In some versions, Pelleas married Nimue.

Ettarde (see Ettard)

ettin (see eten)

Etzalqualiztli Central American

a festival in honour of the rain-god, Tlaloc, held around the middle of May
On this occasion, the officiating priests dived into a lake, acting the part of frogs, animals associated with the rain-god.

Etzel German

[Atli.Attila]
the name for Atli in the Nibelungenlied
brother of Brodelin husband of Helche and Krimhild father of Porte and Scharpe
father of Ortlieb by Krimhild
When his first wife died, he married Krimhild whose first husband, Siegfried, had been killed by Hagen. He was later persuaded by Krimhild to invite Gunther and his nobles to the court where Krimhild plotted their death.

He died when Aldrian lured him into the cave where the Nibelung treasure was stored and then locked him in, leaving him to starve to death.

In some stories of Dietrich von Bern, he gave shelter to that hero when he ceded his kingdom to Ermenrich in exchange for Hildebrand and some others who had been captured.

In Thidrekssaga he is Attila and his wife is Erka.

Euaechine Greek

daughter of Megarius wife of Alcahous
She was given as a wife to Alcahous when he killed the Cithaeronian lion which had ravaged her father's kingdom.

Euaemon (see Euhaemon)Euander (see Evander)Euanthes Greek

son of Dionysus and Ariadne father of Maron

Euboea Greek

daughter of Asopus and Metope

Euboleus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Eubuleus]
a swineherd
son of Celeus and Metaneira or of Dysaules brother of Triptolemus

His swine were swallowed up in the chasm that opened up when Hades abducted Core and he was able to tell Demeter what had happened to her daughter.

Euboleus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Eubuleus]
a name for Hades as 'giver of good counsel'

Eubouteous (see Hades)Eubuleus (see Euboleus)Euchenor Greek

son of Polyeidus
He was with the Greeks at Troy where he was shot and killed by Paris.

Eudaf

[Evdaf]
a king of Britain
son of Caradoc
father of Cynan, Elen and Gadeon (see also Octavius)

Eude European

a king of Aquitaine
He led his forces to help Charlemagne against the invading Saracens led by Abd-el-Rahman

Eudes European

[Oede] brother of Sevinus
uncle of Huon

He was captured by pirates, sold as a slave to Gaudisso and embraced the Muslim faith. Huon met him when he travelled to Gaudisso's court.

Eudora Greek

one of the Hyades, in some accounts

Eudorus Greek

a captain of the Myrmidons at Troy son of Hermes by Polymele
His mother married Echeclus and he was reared by her father, Phylas.

Eudromos Greek

one of Actaeon's dogs
When Artemis discovered Actaeon watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Eudromos, tore him to pieces.

Euechoras (see Ga-Ur)Euedorachos (see Enmenduranna)Eugenius British

a king of Scotland
Some say, he captured Guinevere and held her prisoner.

Eugpamolak Manoba (see Manama)Eugubine Tablets (see Iguvine Tablets)Euhaemon Greek

[Euaemon.Evaemon]
father of Eurypylus, some say

euherism
the explanation of mythology from history with gods as men writ large

Euhemeros (see Euhemerus)Euhemerus Sicilian

[Euhemeros]
a philosopher of the 3rd c BC Author of Sacred Scripture, he maintained that gods were simply men who had accomplished great deeds and were rewarded by deification and that the deeds related in myths were actual historical events.

Euhippe (see Euiippe)Euiippe<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Euhippe.Evippe.Hippe.'mare']
daughter of Chiron
mother of Melanippe
She was seduced by Aeolus and was changed into a horse or put in the heavens by Artemis as the constellation Equus.

In some accounts Euiippe is called Melanippe.

Euios (see Evius)Euiippe<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Euhippe.Evippe.Hippe.'mare']
daughter of Daunus
wife of Diomedes

She became the second wife of Diomedes who had deserted his first wife, Aegile, for being unfaithful to him while he was fighting with the Greeks at Troy.

Euiippe<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Euhippe.Evippe.Hippe.'mare'] wife of Andreus
mother of Eteocles

Euiippe<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Euhippe.Evippe.Hippe.'mare']
wife of Pierus
mother of Oeagris and the Pierides

Euippus Greek

son of Thestius and Eurythemis

Eulalon (see Apollo)Eumaeus Greek

a swineherd
son of Ormenus

He had been sold as a slave to Laertes and served him and his son, Odysseus, all his life. When Odysseus returned home after his ten years of wandering following the fall of Troy, Eumaeus helped him to defeat the gang of suitors who were besieging Penelope.

Eumelus<sup>1</sup> Greek

a king of Pherae
son of Admetus and Alcestis brother of Hippasus husband of Iphthinoe

He led a contingent of his people to fight alongside the Greeks at Troy.

Eumelus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Patrae
father of Antheas

Eumenides<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Kindly Ones]
the Semnai Theai, later identified with the Furies (see Furies)

Eumenides<sup>2</sup> Greek

the third play of the trilogy by Aeschylus

This play deals with the punishment of Orestes for the murder of Aegisthus and Clytemnestra.

Eumolpidae Greek
descendants of Eumolpus priests of Demeter

Eumolpos (see Eumolpos)

Eumolpus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Chionides.Eumolpos] son of Poseidon by Chione father of Ceryx

His mother, ashamed of his illegitimacy, threw him into the sea. He was saved by Poseidon and reared by the sea-god's daughter, Benthesisyme. He later married one of Benthesisyme's daughters but, when he tried to rape another of her daughters, he was banished to Thrace. Here he was given a daughter of King Tegyrus as wife but was again banished when he plotted against Tegyrus. He next went to Eleusis and led the attack on Athens when the daughters of Erechtheus were sacrificed and he was himself killed.

(see also Eumolpus<sup>2</sup>)

Eumolpus<sup>2</sup> Greek [Emolpus]
a singer and flute-player

He supported Phylonome's assertion that her stepson, Tenes, had tried to rape her. She was killed by her husband, Cynus, when he discovered the truth.

In some accounts he is the same as Eumolpus, son of Poseidon and Chione.

Eunam (see Adamnan)

Euneos (see Euneus)

Euneus Greek [Euneos]
a king of Lemnos

son of Jason by Hypsipyle
twin brother of Thoas

He and his brother Thoas rescued his mother who had been sold as a slave to Lycurgus. He supplied the Greek army at Troy with wine.

Eunomia Greek
the goddess of spring and good government daughter of Zeus and Themis

one of the Horae, in some accounts

Eunomus Greek [Cyathus]
a cup-bearer to Oeneus
son of Architeles

He was accidentally killed when a young boy when Heracles boxed his ears for spilling wine.

Eupai South American
an Inca god of the underworld to whom children were sacrificed

Eupalamus Greek
son of Erechtheus
father of Daedalus, in some accounts

Eupeithes (see Eupithes)

Eupheme Greek
a nymph, nurse to the Muses
mother of Crotus by Pan

Euphemus Greek
one of the Argonauts
son of Poseidon and Europa

He was an excellent swimmer and it was said that he ran on water. When the Argo was stranded in Libya, Triton gave him a clod of earth which he later dropped into the sea. From this grew the island of Calliste, later Thera.

Euphorbos (see Euphorbus)

Euphorbus Greek [Euphorbos] a Trojan soldier
son of Panthous
brother of Hyperenor and Polydamas
He wounded Patroclus who was then killed by Hector and was himself killed by Menelaus.

Pythagoras asserted that he was a reincarnation of Euphorbus.

Euphorion Greek
son of Achilles and Helen

In some versions, Helen married Achilles after death and produced a son, Euphorion.

Euphrates (see Huddekel)

Euphrosine (see Euphrosyne)

Euphrosyne<sup>1</sup> Greek [Euphrosine]
one of the 3 Graces – mirth or good cheer
daughter of Zeus by Eurynome

Euphrosyne<sup>2</sup> (see Yevrossima)

Eupithes Greek [Eupeithes]
father of Antinous

He raided the Taphians who would have killed him had not Odysseus protected him. When Odysseus, in later years, killed Antinous, who had been one of the suitors harassing Penelope, Eupithes led a rebellion against Odysseus but was killed by Laertes.

Euraquilo Greek [Euroclydon]
the north-east wind personified

Euridice (see Eurydice)

Euripides Greek
(c. 484–407 BC)
a dramatist

He was the author of about fifty plays of which nineteen survive. Among them are Alcestitis, Andromache, The Bacchae, Cyclops, Electra, Hecuba, Helen, Heracles, Heracleidae, Hippolytus, Ion, Iphigenia at Aulis, Iphigenia in Tauris, The Maidens, Medea, Orestes, The Phoenicians, Pleiades, Rhesus, The Suppliants and The Trojan Women.

Some say that he was torn to pieces by the king's dogs.

Euroclydon (see Euroquilo)

Euronymous

a demon

In black magic, one of the Grand Dignitaries, the prince of death.

Europa Greek

[Europe]
daughter of Agenor and Telephassa sister of Cadmus, Cilix and Phoenix mother of Minos, Rhadamanthus and Sarpedon by Zeus mother of Aeacus by Zeus, some say
In some accounts, her father was Phoenix; others say that she was the mother of the Minotaur.

She was carried off to Crete by Zeus in the form of a handsome bull. Changing form to an eagle he ravished Europa who bore the three sons Minos, Rhadamanthus and Sarpedon. The god gave her the dog, Laelaps, a spear which never missed its mark and Talus, the bronze guardian of Crete. She later married Asterius, king of Crete, who adopted her three sons. After her death, she was deified.

(see also Iodama)

Europe<sup>1</sup> Greek
in some accounts, a moon-goddess daughter of Tityus
mother of Euphemus by Poseidon

Europe<sup>2</sup> (see Europa)

Europaeanus Greek

Minos as the son of Europa

European Sibyl
a mediaeval prophetes

Euros (see Eurus)

Eurosswyd (see Euroswydd)

Euroswydd Welsh

[Euroswydd] second husband of Penardun
father of Efnisien and Nisien

Eurotas Greek

a king of Laconia

son of Lelex

father of Sparte

Eurus Greek

[Ap(h)eliotos.Euros:=Roman Voltumnus]
the east (or south-east) wind son of Aeolus or Astraeus by Eos

Eurution (see Eurytion)

Euryale<sup>1</sup>	Greek	Eurybius	Greek	Euryganeia	Greek
[‘wide-springer’]		son of Eurystheus		[Astymedusa]
one of the 3 Gorgons		He was killed by Heracles.		daughter of Hyperphas daughter of Phorcus and Ceto		Euryclea	(see Eurycleia)	In some accounts, she was the second sister of Medusa and Stheno		Eurycleia	Greek	wife of Oedipus and she, rather than Euryale<sup>2</sup>	Greek	[Euryclea]		Jocasta, was the mother of his daughter of Minos and Pasiphae		nurse to Odysseus		children.
mother of Orion by Poseidon		When Odysseus finally returned home		Eurylochus	Greek
Euryalis	(see Euryalus)	after wandering the earth for ten years		a sailor with Odysseus
Euryalus<sup>1</sup>	Greek	after the fall of Troy he arrived disguised		He was the leader of the group of [Euryalis.Eurylus]		as a beggar. His old nurse recognised		sailors turned into swine by Circe a soldier with Aeneas		him by a scar on his leg. She was able to		when they landed on her island and
He and his friend Nisus were killed in		tell Odysseus which of the servants had		managed to escape to tell Odysseus an attempt to break through the lines		collaborated with the importunate		what had happened. He died in the of the Latins and Rutulians to take a		suitors of Penelope who had set up		shipwreck following the sacrilegious
message to Aeneas who was away		home in her palace and he killed these		slaughter of the cattle of Helius.
seeking help for his small band of		servants after killing the suitors.		Eurylus	(see Euryalus)
Trojans who were attempting to find a		Eurydamas	Greek	Eurymachus	Greek
new home in Italy. Instead of creeping		one of the Argonauts		one of the unwanted suitors quietly through the enemy lines, they		son of Actor or Irus by Demonassa		of Penelope killed a number of the enemy and the		Eurydice<sup>1</sup>	Greek	He was one of the suitors harassing
noise roused the other soldiers who		[Eurydice]		Penelope while Odysseus was away
surrounded the two Trojans and killed		a Thracian nymph, a dryad		from home and was killed by Odysseus
them.		wife of Orpheus		when he finally returned.
Euryalus<sup>2</sup>	Greek	She died when bitten by a snake as she		Eurymede	Greek
[Euryalis.Eurylus]		was running to escape an attempted		in some accounts, mother son of Mecisteus		rape by Aristaeus. Orpheus went down		of Bellerophon one of the Epigoni		to the underworld and charmed Hades		Eurymedon<sup>1</sup>	Greek
Euryalus<sup>3</sup>	Greek	into releasing her but, when Orpheus		son of Minos
[Euryalis.Eurylus]		broke the rules by looking back to		Eurymedon<sup>2</sup>	Greek
son of Odysseus and Eriippe		make sure she was following him,		a leader of the Earthborn Giants
He was born as the result of rape and,		Hades reclaimed her and she was lost		father of Prometheus, in when he grew up, his mother sent him		forever.		some stories to find his father and kill him. Warned		Eurydice<sup>2</sup>	Greek	He was killed by Dionysus in the battle of the youth’s arrival, Odysseus killed		[Eurydice]		between the gods and the giants.
him, not knowing who he was.		wife of Creon		Eurynome<sup>1</sup>	Greek
Another version says that		mother of Glauce, Haemon		[Altha(a)ea.Cardea.Queen of Odysseus sent the boy to Penelope		and Menoecus		the Circling Universe]
who later accused him of rape so		She stabbed herself to death from grief		an ancient goddess, produced from
Odysseus killed him.		at the death of Haemon.		Chaos
Euryanassa	Greek	Eurydice<sup>3</sup>	Greek	daughter of Oceanus and Tethys daughter of Pactolus		[Eurydice]		mother of Atrabyrius
wife of Tantalus, some say		daughter of Clymenus, some say		mother of the Graces by Zeus
mother of Broteas and Niobe		wife of Nestor, in some accounts		She created Ophion the serpent-god
mother of Pelops in some stories		Eurydice<sup>4</sup>		with the co-operation of the North
Eurybates	Greek	[Eurydice]		Wind and coupled with Ophion to a herald of Odysseus at Troy		daughter of Adrastus		produce all the things in the world.
He and Talthibius fetched the captive		wife of Ilus		She later banished Ophion to the Briseis from Achilles’ tent when she		mother of Laomedon and Themiste		underworld and then created the
was awarded to Odysseus in place of		Eurydice<sup>5</sup>	Greek	Titans and the first man, named Chryseis.		[Eurydice]		Pelasgus.
Eurybe	(see Eurybia)	daughter of Lacedemon		She rescued Hephaestus from the
Eurybia<sup>1</sup>	Greek	wife of Acrisius, in some accounts		sea when he fell, or was thrown by [Eurybe]		mother of Danae		Hera, from Mount Olympus.
a Titaness		Eurydice<sup>6</sup>	Greek	She is depicted in the form of a daughter of Pontus and Gaea		[Eurydice]		mermaid.
mother of Astaeus, Pallas and Perses by		one of the Danaids		Eurynome<sup>2</sup>	Greek
Crius		Eurydice<sup>7</sup>	Greek	daughter of Nisus
Eurybia<sup>2</sup>	Greek	[Eurydice]		wife of Glaucus
a Nereid		wife of Lycurgus		mother of Bellerophon by Poseidon,
daughter of Nereus		mother of Archemorus		some say

Eurynome <sup>3</sup>	Greek	Eurysaces	Greek	Eurytion <sup>4</sup>	Greek
wife of Orchamus		a king of Salamis		[Eurution.Eurythion]
mother of Leucothoe		son of Ajax and Tecmessa		a king of Phthia
Eurynome <sup>4</sup>	Greek	He was the son of Ajax by a concubine.		son of Actor or Irus by Demonassa
a name for Artemis in the form of a mermaid		Eurysthenes	Greek	brother of Eurydamus
Eurynomus		a co-king of Sparta		He was one of the Argonauts and a member of the party hunting the Calydonian Boar, when he was accidentally killed by Peleus.
[Prince of the Dead]		son of Aristodemus and Argia		Eurytus <sup>1</sup>	Greek
a demon of hell		twin brother of Procles		a king of Oechalia
He is depicted with fur like that of a fox all over his body and is said to devour the rotting corpses of the dead.		Eurystheus	Greek	son of Melanius
Euryonus	Greek	king of Argos		father of Clyteus, Deioneus, Iole, Iphitus and Toxeus father of Telemus		son of Sthenelus and Menippe		He offered the hand of his daughter Iole to any man who could beat him and his sons at archery. When Heracles won, he reneged on his undertaking. He was killed by Apollo for his temerity in challenging the god to a similar contest. Heracles killed his son Iphitus in a dispute over some stolen horses.
Eurypaessa	(see Thea)	brother of Alcinoe and Medusa		In some accounts he had earlier taught Heracles the art of archery.
Eurypassa	(see Thea)	husband of Nicippe		Eurytus <sup>2</sup>	Greek
Eurypilus	(see Eurypylus)	father of Admeta and Erypilus		son of Actor and Molione
Eurypylus <sup>1</sup>	Greek	His birth was accelerated by Hera so that he inherited the kingdom which should have fallen to Heracles.		twin brother of Cteatus
[Eurypilus]		He set the tasks for Heracles to perform as his Labours but was so scared of his bondsman that he hid in a large bronze jar when issuing his orders which were then relayed to Heracles by the king's herald, Copreus.		He and his twin, to whom he was joined at the waist, were said to have been born in a silver egg and were referred to as the Moliones. Their real father was Poseidon. They were employed as generals by Augeas, king of Elis, when Heracles attacked his kingdom and were later killed by Heracles who ambushed them en route to the Isthmian Games.
son of Euaemon or Dexamenus		When he later invaded Attica, he was killed by Hyllus or Iolaus, or captured and put to death on the orders of Alcmena. His head was buried in a pass on the road to Athens to protect the city.		Eurytus <sup>3</sup>	Greek
He was leading a troop fighting for the Greeks at Troy and was wounded in the fighting that occurred when the party inside the Wooden Horse, of which he was one, climbed out and started the final battle.		Euryte	Greek	one of the Earthborn Giants
After the war, he went mad when he looked on an image of Dionysus made by Hephaetus which he had found in a chest at Troy.		a nymph		son of Uranus and Gaea
Eurypylus <sup>2</sup>	Greek	mother of Oeneus by Portheus		He was killed by Dionysus in the war between the gods and the giants.
[Eurypilus]		Eurythemis	Greek	Eus-os	(see Iusas)
leader of the Mysian contingent fighting at Troy		wife of Thestius		Eusoph	Chaldaean
son of Telephus and Astyoche		mother of Althaea, Euippus, Eurypylus, Hypermnestra, Iphiclus, Leda, Plexippus and Toxeus		a sky-god
He killed Machaon and Nireus in the battle at Troy but was himself killed by Pyrrhus.		Eurythion	(see Eurytion)	Eustace <sup>1</sup>	British
Eurypylus <sup>3</sup>	Greek	Eurytion <sup>1</sup>	Greek	[Estance]
[Eurypilus]		a Centaur		a duke of Cambenet
a king of the Meropes on Cos		He attempted to rape Hippodamia at her wedding to Peirithous, starting a fight which led to the feud between the Centaurs and the Lapiths. He was killed by Heracles when he tried to carry off Mnesimache, daughter of King Dexamenus.		He was one of the leaders of the rebellion put down by King Arthur at the Battle of Bedgrayne.
son of Poseidon by Astypalea		Eurytion <sup>2</sup>	Greek	Eustace <sup>2</sup>	European
one of the Argonauts		[Eurution.Eurythion]		son of Ida
He was killed by Heracles whose fleet was driven to Cos by a storm sent by Hera after Heracles had sacked Troy. He mistook them for pirates in the dark of the night.		a herdsman		brother of Godfrey de Bouillon
Eurypylus <sup>4</sup>	Greek	son of Ares		Eut	(see Newt)
[Eurypilus]		He tended the herds of Geryon and was killed by Heracles when he seized the cattle as his tenth Labour.		Euterpe	Greek
a king of Libya		In some accounts, Eurytion was a seven-headed dragon.		one of the 9 Muses – music
son of Poseidon		Eurytion <sup>3</sup>	Greek	mother of Rhesus by Strymon, some say
Triton adopted the form of Eurypylus when he gave the clod of earth to Euphemus and told the stranded Argonauts how to get back to the sea. Some say that he dragged the Argo across the land to the sea.		[Eurution.Eurythion]		She is said by some to have invented the double flute.
Eurypylus <sup>5</sup>	Greek	brother of Pandareus
[Eurypilus]
son of Thestius and Eurythemis

Euthymus Greek
a famous boxer
son of Ceacinus

The ghost of Polites, who had been stoned to death for the rape of a maiden, had to be appeased by the yearly sacrifice of a young woman. Euthymus, in love with one girl chosen for sacrifice, drove the ghost into the sea and married the girl.

Euxine Greek [Euxinus.Friendly Sea]
the Black Sea (see also Axine)

Euxinus (see Euxine)

Evadeam British
a Knight of the Round Table

He was once turned into a dwarf by sorcery and when he met Gawain he regained his full stature but Gawain became a dwarf.

Evadne<sup>1</sup> Greek
daughter of Asopus
sister of Euboea and Aegina

Evadne<sup>2</sup> Greek
daughter of Iphis wife of Capaneus
mother of Sthenelus

Her husband was one of the Seven against Thebes who was killed in the fighting there. When his body was recovered after Theseus defeated the Thebans, she killed herself by jumping on to his funeral pyre.

Evadne<sup>3</sup> Greek
daughter of Pelias

Pelias had murdered the parents and young brother of Jason who, returning with the Golden Fleece, sought revenge. Medea bewitched Evadne and her sister Amphinome and they killed their father and dismembered him, believing they could rejuvenate him. The third sister, Alcestis, refused to take part. In some versions, Pelias was bewitched into trying to rejuvenate himself in the boiling cauldron.

After the death of Pelias, Acastus took the throne and banished Evadne from Iolcus.

Evadne<sup>4</sup> Greek
daughter of Poseidon by Pitane

She was reared by Aepytyus and, when she gave birth to Iamus, her son by Apollo, he reared the boy also.

Evaemon (see Euhaemon)

Evaine British wife of King Bors sister of Elaine mother of Bors and Lionel

When her husband died, she became a nun and her children were left in the care of Pharien.

Evaki South American
a goddess of the night, in the lore of some of the tribes of the Amazon basin

Evalach (see Evelake)

Evalak (see Evelake)

Evan<sup>1</sup> British
a Knight of the Round Table

He was one of the party which accompanied King Arthur to Cornwall for the trial of Isolde.

Evan<sup>2</sup> Roman in Etruscan lore, a female being, one of the Lasae

Evan<sup>3</sup> (see Bacchus)

Evander<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Euander]
a prince
son of Hermes by Carmenta or Themis father of Dyne, Pallas and Rome

He was banished from Greece for killing his father and went to Italy where he helped Aeneas in his fight with the Latins and Rutulians. Other stories say that he was in Italy before Aeneas and founded Rome.

In some accounts he is identified with Pan before moving to Italy. Others say he was the son of Echemus. In the Roman version his mother was Carmenta.

Evander<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Euander]
a king of Lycia
son of Sarpedon
husband of Deidamia

In some accounts, their son Sarpedon was the famous warrior at Troy rather than his grandfather, though some say that he was the son of Zeus by Deidamia.

Evdaf (see Eudaf)

Eve (see Aobh)

Evelake British

[Avalloc.Evalach.Evalak.Mordrain]
a king of Sarras
father of Eliezzer and Grimal

He was said to have been born in Gaul and was sent to Rome as a slave. He later went to Syria where he killed the son of a governor, fleeing to Babylon. He was made king of Sarras for helping Tholomer, the king of Babylon, with whom he later went to war.

He embraced Christianity and was baptised as Mordrain before his battle with the Saracen king and Joseph of Arimathea gave him a white shield on which, during battle, appeared the figure of Christ on the cross which routed the enemy. He and Joseph came to Britain and built the Castle of Carbonek which could be invisible to sinners. Joseph (or Josephus) on his death-bed emblazoned a red cross on the shield with his own blood, enjoining Evelake to give the shield to Nascien the hermit to guard until it was claimed by Galahad.

He is said to have lived for 300 or 400 years. (see also Avalloc)

Evening Sky North American
in the lore of the tribes of the north-west, daughter of Kumush

Evenus<sup>1</sup> Greek

a river-god in Sicily son of Ares by Demonic husband of Alcippe
father of Marpessa

He made suitors for the hand of Marpessa take part in a chariot-race with him and when he won, as he always did, he cut off their heads. When Idas abducted Marpessa, using the magic chariot of Poseidon, Evenus pursued the fleeing couple but, failing to catch them, he drowned himself in a river which thereafter was called Evenus.

Evenus<sup>2</sup> Greek
a king of Lyrnessus

Ever Breath
son of Selepus
father of Epistrophus and Mynes

Ever Breath (see Heng Hsi)

Ever Sublime (see Heng O)

Everes<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Everus]

son of Heracles by Parthenope

Everes<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Everus]

father of Teiresias by Chariclo

Evergreen Land Pacific Islands

[=Japanese Ryugu]

the site of the palace of the sea-god

Everus (see Everes)

Everything-maker (see Raweno)

Evgen British

an ancestor of King Arthur

father of Joshua

evil eye

[=Corsican ordin:=Italian jettatura.

malocchio:=Spanish mal de ojo]

the ability to cast a spell by looking at someone or something

Any spell caused by the owner of the evil eye can be removed only by them.

Evil One, The (see Ahriman)

Evippe (see Euipe)

Evius Greek

[Euios]
a name for Dionysus relating to the cries of his adherents

Evnisien (see Efnisien)

Evnissyen (see Efnisien)

evocation

a spell which induces the dead or the devil to appear

Evrain (see Yvan)

Evrac (see Efracw)

Eвраug (see Efracw)

Evracw (see Efracw)

Evua African

a sun-god in Guinea

Ewain (see Owain)

Ewayne (see Owain)

Ewt (see Newt)

Excalibar (see Excalibur)

Excalibr British

[Caladfwlch.Caladviolch.Caledfwlch.

Caleburn.Caliburn(ius).Escalibor.

Esecalibur.Excalibar.Hungry

One.Mirandoise]

King Arthur's sword

This marvellous weapon was said to have been created by Merlin. Some say it came to King Arthur from Avalon, others that it was a gift from Vivien,
Lady of the Lake.

In some accounts, the Sword in the Stone which Arthur pulled out, so demonstrating his right to the throne, was Excalibur and was engraved with that name on the blade. In other versions, that was a different sword and when it was broken in combat with an unnamed knight who had challenged Arthur, not knowing he was the king, Merlin took Arthur to a lake where an arm 'clothed in white samite' rose out of the water holding Excalibur which Arthur claimed and used until his death when it was returned by Bedivere to the lake where the hand rose to receive it and carry it below the surface of the water.

Yet another version says that Excalibur was made by Merlin and given to Uther Pendragon as a symbol of his office as king. When Uther objected to handing over the baby Arthur, as he had promised, Merlin blinded Uther, taking both the child and the sword.

While he was wearing the scabbard
he could never lose blood if wounded.

Some say that Excalibur was given to Arthur by Morgan le Fay; certainly she once stole it from Arthur and gave it to her lover, Accolon, in revenge for the execution of another of her lovers, but Arthur soon recovered it.

Exciter Hindu

one of the 5 arrows carried by Kama

exorcism

the rite used to expel spirits said to have taken possession of humans

Expeller (see Yagrush)

exploratores (see criminatoros)

extispicy (see haruspication)

Extor (see Ector)

extra-sensory perception

[esp.sixth sense]

alleged ability to perceive things outside the range of the normal senses.

Exylus Greek

a co-king of Elis with Agorius

Eyacque North American

a name for Coyote as 'sub-captain'

eye

the eye of a cockerel is said to guard against witchcraft; that of a newt guards against disease

Eye-juggler North American

a trickster

When he lost his eyes, he found others to take their place but they turned out to be made of pitch.

Eye of Atum (see Eye of Ra)

Eye of Horus<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[Udjat.Wedjat(-eye)]

the left eye of Horus

Horus lost this eye, which was the moon, in his battles with Set but it was restored by Hathor. As the wedjat (or wedjat-eye), it became the symbol of healing.

Eye of Horus<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

a name of Thoth as the moon, regarded as the weaker eye

(see also Eye of Horus<sup>1</sup>.Udjat)

Eye of Ra Egyptian

[Eye of Atum.Hathor-Sakhmet.Qedeshet]

a manifestation of the goddess

Hathor or Sakhmet when she was sent to punish mankind: the uraeus

(see also udjat)

Eyeh-asher-ehyeh Hebrew

a god

Eylime (see Eglimi)

Eylimi (see Eglimi)

Eyra (see Eir)

Eyrgjafa (see Aurgjafa)

Eystein Norse

a king of Sweden

Ragnar had wooed the daughter of Eystein but failed to divorce Aslaug in favour of the princess, so Eystein invaded Denmark. His forces were helped by an enchanted cow which caused great slaughter and Agnar and Erik, Ragnar's sons, were killed. When their brothers and the pirate, Hastings, joined Ragnar's forces, Ivar killed the cow with his magic, Eystein was killed and the invasion repelled.

Eyvin Kelda Norse

[Eyvindr Kelda]

a wizard who was drowned by

King Olaf

Eyvindr Kelda (see Eyvin Kelda)

Ezerinis Baltic

a Finnish lake-god

Ezhdeha Persian

a demon, a form of Azhi Dahak

Ezzelin European

a son of Satan in Dante's Inferno

Ezzila (see Attila)

F

F Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity known as god F: perhaps Nacon or Xipototec

This deity is depicted with black lines painted all over his body and face, which some interpret as wounds.

Fa<sup>1</sup> African [=Yoruba Ifa]

the Fon god of destiny
son of Minona, some say
He is said to have sixteen eyes and lives in a palm-tree in the sky. The messenger-god, Eshu, was responsible for opening some of Fa's eyes each morning.

Fa<sup>2</sup> African [Ifa]
an oracle or system of divination used by the Fon

Fa<sup>3</sup> (see Wu Wang)

Fa-na-p'o-ssu Chinese
the Chinese version of Vanavasa

Fa-shan Chinese a man who betrayed the secret of Chang Kuo-lao's identity

When he told the emperor that Chang Kuo-lao was really a white bat, he dropped down dead but was restored to life when the immortal sprinkled water on his face.

Fa-she-lo Fu-to-lo
(see Fa-she-na-fu-to)

Fa-she-na-fu-to Chinese [Fa-she-lo Fu-to-lo.Fashena-futo]
the Chinese version of Vajraputra

Fa'ahotu Pacific Islands
[Fakahotu]
an earth-goddess
wife of Atea

Fa'ahotu, the earth, was created from one half of the cosmic egg. Atea, the sky, was created from the other half.

In some accounts, she is the same as Papa.

Fa'atiu Pacific Islands
[=Hawaiian La'a Maomao:=New Zealand Raka Maomao] a Samoan wind-god

Fabas
a demon

fable
a fictitious story: a myth

Fables of Bidpai British
the English version of the Panchatantra

Fables de Pilpay French
the French version of the Panchatantra

Fabula (see Acca Larentia)
Fabulae (see Genealogiae)

Fabulinus Roman
god whose job it was to teach children to speak (see also Vagtanus)

Face of Glory Hindu
the face of Kirttimukha

This lion face, all that remained of the demon Kirttimukha, was revered as a symbol of wrath.

Fachtna Irish
[Fachtna the Giant.Fathach]
a poet-king of Ulster

son of Ros Ruadh and Maga husband of Nessa
father of Daire

He raised Conor as his own son but it was generally accepted that the boy was the result of an affair between the druid, Cathbad, and Nessa.

Fadir Norse
['father'] husband of Modir

Modir produced a son, Jarl, fathered by Heimdall when he visited earth in the guise of Riger.

Fadu (see Fati)
faerie

[faery]
a fairy: fairyland

Humans may enter this realm if they abstain from eating and drinking and carry something, such as a knife, made of iron. (see also fairy)

Faerie King, The British
a 17th c poem in which the story of Byanor appears

Faerie Knight, The British
son of Tom a'Lincoln by Caelia

After the death of Tom and Anglitora, he joined forces with his half-brother, the Black Knight, and they came to Britain.

Faerie Queene, The English
the 16th c allegorical poem by Spenser in which Arthur, not yet king, appears

faery (see faerie)

Faet Fiada (see Veil of Invisibility)

Fafaki-Tahi Pacific Islands

Samoa sailors, descendants of Kahomovailahi

These men were said to have inherited the ability to 'feel the sea' and correctly give the location of their boat at sea.

Fafne Irish
a bard

He composed a satire which caused the King Meilge to break out in blotches on his face.

Fafner (see Fafnir)

Fafnir Norse

[Fafner]

son of Hreidmar

brother of Otter and Regin

brother of Fasolt, in some accounts

Fafnir's father had received a hoard of gold and a magic ring from Loki as compensation when Loki killed Otter but he refused to share it with Fafnir and Regin. Fafnir then killed his father and seized all the treasure, turning himself into a dragon in Gnitaheld to guard it. Sigurd killed not only the dragon but also Regin who had persuaded him to do it and appropriated the treasure for himself.

In the Wagnerian version, Fafnir and his brother Fasolt, Frost Giants, built Valhalla for Odin but demanded Freya as payment. When they were given the Rhinegold as ransom, they fought over the treasure. Fafnir killed his brother and then used the Helmet of Invisibility to change himself into a dragon.

Fafnisbani Norse

a title given to Sigurd in his role as killer of Fafnir

Fagus European

a tree-god (beech) in the Pyrenees

Fail Inis<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Falinis]

an old name for Ireland

Fail Inis<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Falinis]

a hound

This animal was owned by the king of Ioruaidhe and was the same animal that the sons of Turenn were required to get as part of their punishment for the murder of Cian.

It was said to be able to catch any animal it chased, turn water into wine and win every fight it engaged in.

Failbe Fionn Irish

a king of Munster

He gave shelter to St Mochuda and his followers who had been expelled from their monastery.

Fair Eber (see Eber Finn)

Fair Forlorn (see Beltenbros)

Fair Hands British

[Beaumains.Handy]

a nickname for Gareth

Fair Maid of Astolat (see Elaine<sup>3</sup>)

Fair Maiden North American

second wife of Kulshan

She left her husband to visit her mother and was turned into an island as, also, was her new-born child.

Fair One (see Finn mac Cool)

Fair Unknown, The (see Gingalin)

Fair-wheel Norse

a name for the sun

Fair Wind Ears Chinese

an attendant on the Queen of Heaven

She was said to have extremely good hearing.

fairy

[faerie.fairy.fay.fey:=French fée;

=Italian fata]

a diminutive supernatural being

Some say that these immortal beings are the children of Adam and Lilith.

Fairy bridges Chinese

bridges over which the good dead were conducted across the Inevitable River in hell

Fairy Kind (see Danaans)

fairy loaves

fossil sea-urchins

It is said that these fossils are made by fairies.

Fairy Maids (see Gemmous Lasses)

fairy money

money found lying on the ground or hidden or given by fairies

In the former case, it was said that the money was put there by fairies; in the latter case, the money soon changes into something worthless such as dead leaves.

fairy mounds Irish

markers said to indicate the presence of the Divine People, the Danaans

Fairy Palace of the Quicken-trees
(see Bruighean Caorthéinn)

fairy rings

circles of grass darker in colour than that around it

It is said that these rings are caused by fairies which dance round the circle.

fairy sparks

phosphorescence from decaying matter

The glow from this source was said to be made by fairies to light their revels.

fairy stone

a lucky charm

This stone brings good fortune to its owner but, if it is touched by another person, it loses its effectiveness.

fairy wind

[=Irish sidhgeaite]

a sudden gust of wind said to be caused by fairies

Such gusts may occur to help the haymaking in the fields, to mark a death or to deter those digging for fairy gold.

fairyland

[faerie]

the imagined home of the fairies

In The Faerie Queene, it is the realm ruled by Oberon where Arthur, before he was made king, fell in love with the fairy queen, Golorian.

Faitaulanga Pacific Islands

a priest of Tagalao

He persuaded forty-two youths and seven maidens to offer themselves for sacrifice to lift a plague and they tried to escape the clutches of the god of death in seven canoes. After many adventures and disasters, the crew of each boat was depleted, the rowers dying or being killed one by one, until only one youth and one maiden were left in each boat. At this point, Tagalao relented and the survivors sailed safely to Samoa.

Faivarongo Pacific Islands

a god of mariners

son of Ariki Kafika Tuisifo

Fakahotu (see Fa'ahotu)

fakir Hindu

an Indian wonder-worker

faknik East Indian

in Papuan lore, a spirit living in rocks

near the sea, which causes storms

Fal (see Stone of Destiny)

Fal stone (see Stone of Destiny)

falcon-garb (see Valhamr)

Fale-o-le fe'e Pacific Islands

a stone temple said to have been built by Fe'e, a Samoan god of war

Falerina European

an enchantress

She owned an enchanted garden in which she imprisoned many knights, including Florismart and Ricardo. Roland gained entry after killing the dragon guarding the gate, tied her to a tree, took Balisardo, the magic sword she had made, and released her prisoners.

Falernus Italian

a peasant who entertained Liber
He was too poor to provide wine but the god filled his cups and caused the surrounding land to be covered by vines.

Falga (see Isle of Falga)

Falhofnir (see Fallow-hoof)

Falia (see Falias)

Falias Irish

[Falia]

one of the 4 cities cited as the origins of the Danaans

This city was ruled by Morfessa and it was from here that the Lia Fail is said to have come.

Falinis (see Fail Inis)

Falke European

a horse of Dietrich von Bern

This animal, said never to grow tired, was given to Dietrich by his follower, Heime.

Falling Eagle Mexican

a giant, in Aztec lore

He was one of four giants who supported the sky at the beginning of the Fifth Sun. He was regarded as the symbol of divine power on earth.

Falling Star<sup>1</sup> North American

one of the 4 Associated Gods of the Sioux

falling star<sup>2</sup> (see meteor)

Falling Water (see Cala-Paluma)

Fallow-hoof Norse

[Falhofnir]

a horse of the gods

False Face Society
(see Hadiganso Shano)

False Guinevere British

[Guinevere the False]

half-sister of Guinevere

She was the daughter of Leodegrance by another woman but Guinevere's physical double. She took the real Guinevere's place for over two years but finally admitted the deception.

Falseon European

a sub-king in Spain

He was in charge of the first of the three armies hidden in ambush at Roncesvalles and was killed by Roland.

Faltlabra (see Foltor)

Fama Roman

[=Greek Pheme]

the 100-tongued goddess of rumour

Famhair (see Fomhair)

familiar

[sending]

a spirit, often in the form of a cat, attending when called, usually by a witch

In Africa, Basuto witches have huge animals known as obe while the Zulu sorcerer uses an exhumed corpse which he revivifies in the form of an umkovu.

In Arabia, the magician's familiar is known as a tabi.

Australian sorcerers use a lizard
as a familiar.

In the Baltic countries, flies are used in this connection.

In the East Indies, a snake or crocodile is used as a sending or the sorcerer may cause slivers of bone,
etc. to fly through the air and embed themselves under a victim's skin (see labuni).

In ancient Hebrew lore the familiar was known as an ôb.

The Inuit medicine-men use an artificial seal, known as a tupilaq, as a familiar.

In Malaya, a sorcerer can kill by pointing his kris at a victim. As soon as the spell takes hold, blood will drip from the point of the knife. His familiar may be a badger or an owl.

In North America, some medicine-men stuff the skin of an owl and make it fly against the intended victim causing him to starve to death.

In the islands of the Pacific, sorcerers have familiars in the form of sea-snakes.

The Siberian shaman's familiar is known as a yekeela.

In other parts of the world, dogs,
hares or toads may act as familiars.

(see magistellus)

Famongomadan European

a giant

He and his son, Basagante, captured a number of knights and maidens, including Leonoretta, daughter of the king. They met Amadis who killed both giants and freed their prisoners.

Fan<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Phanes]

an ancient fire-god

Fan<sup>2</sup> (see Fand)

Fan K'uei (see Chang Fei)

Fan Li Chinese

a cunning Immortal

Fan-t'ao (see P'an-t'ao)

Fan Yin Chinese

a star, home of the god Yang Ching

Fanahan (see Fionnchu)

Fanchea Irish

sister of Enda

Fand Irish

[Fan(n).Pearl of Beauty]

daughter of Aedh Abrat

daughter of Flidhais, some say

sister of Angus mac Aedh and Li Ban

sister of Labraid Luathlam, some say wife of Manannan

mother of Gaiar and Segda

When she quarrelled with her husband, who left her, she was attacked by three Fomoiré. Her sister, Li Ban, induced Cuchulainn to rescue her and Fand had an affair with him, curing him of an illness by singing to him. When Emer heard about the affair, she tried to kill Fand and Manannan forced Fand to choose between himself and her lover. She opted to stay with Manannan.

Another version says that her brother, Labraid Luathlam, needed the help of Cuchulainn in a fight with three warriors and promised to give Fand to the great hero as his mistress in return for his help.

In some accounts, she and Li Ban incapacitated Cuchulainn for a whole year by attacking him with whips.

Fang-chang Chinese

one of the 3 Islands of the Blessed

(see Fortunate Islands<sup>3</sup>)

Fang Cheng-hsüeh (see She Wang)

Fang Hsiang Chinese

an official of the celestial Ministry of

Time who acts as a herald

Fang-ming Chinese a shining cube used in sacrificial rites

Fang Pi Chinese

an official of the celestial Ministry of

Time who acts as a guide

Fang-shih Chinese

an expert in feng-shui, the art of magic, divination, etc

Fann (see Fand)

Fannell Irish

son of Nechtan Scene

brother of Foill and Tuachell

He was a supernatural being who was killed by Cuchulainn.

fantine European benevolent Swiss fairies

fantom (see phantom)

Faobhair Irish

a son of Finn mac Cool

faquir (see fakir)

Far-Gazer (see Mo-li Hai)

Far-li-mas African

a story-teller

By custom, the king of Radofan was killed on a day decreed by the priests who read the stars. Sali, sister of the king, Akaf, induced Far-li-mas to tell such wonderful stories that the priests forgot about the stars and no date was ever fixed for her brother's death.

Fara Maka African

a hero in Mali husband of Nana Miriam

He attacked the monster hippopotamus Mali, which had eaten all his crops, with a spear but it ate him as well. His wife paralysed the beast with a magic spell. (see also Faran Maka)

Faraguvol Central American

an itinerant god of Haiti and Puerto Rico, a deified tree

Faramon French

[Faramond.Pharamond]
a king of France
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Marcomir
father of Belide and Clodion

He was said to have been a slave who, when freed, became king of France. He once entered King Arthur's court in disguise to spy on his enemy.

He fell in love with Rosamund.

Faramond (see Faramon)

Faran Maka African

a giant hero of the Songhai tribe
father of Wango and Weikare

When the water-spirit, Zin-Kibaru, caused the fish to eat Faran Maka's rice plants, he fought and killed the spirit and kept his magic guitar.

He is said to use his long beard to catch fish in the river and eats at least one hippopotamus each day.

He found a girl in a termite-hill and she bore him two children, Wango and Weikare.

(see also Fara Maka)

Farasi Bahari Arab

[=Egyptian Sabgarifiya: =Greek Hippocampus]
green horses said to live in the Indian Ocean

Horses bred from these stallions and normal mares can run forever without pause since, having no lungs, they are never short of breath.

(see also Farasul Bahri)

Farasul Bahri Malay

a sea-horse, said to be the mount of Salana (see also Farasi Bahari)

Farbauti Norse

[Firbauti]
a name of Bergelmir as father of Loki by Laufeia, in some stories
father of Byleist and Helblindi

In other accounts, Farbauti is the son of Lanferis.

Farfarel British

the English version of Farfarello

Farfarello European

[Farfarel]
the devil in Dante's Inferno

Faridun (see Thraetona)

Farma-Tyr Norse

a name of Odin as 'the protector of cargoes'

Faro<sup>1</sup> African

water-god of the Bambara
twin brother of Pemba

Both he and Pemba grew from seeds planted at the four corners of the earth.

He brought order out of the original chaos; created the seven heavens; killed Teliko, the spirit of the hot winds of the desert; produced the first human beings by impregnating himself and bearing twins and gave mankind the power of speech. He uprooted the tree-god, Pemba, when he was planted by the first woman, Musso-koroni.

(see also Faro<sup>2</sup>)

Faro<sup>2</sup> African

in the lore of the Mande, the brother of the first man (see also Faro<sup>1</sup>)

Farris

a demon of the hours of the day

Faruach Irish

a magician

He made the ship in which he, Foltor and Finn mac Cool chased Gilla Dacar and rescued the men he had carried off.

fascination

a charm which enabled the wearer to see things not visible to others

fascinum

a phallic amulet

Fascinus Roman

a fertility-god

Fashena-futo (see Fa-she-na-fu-to)

Fasold (see Fasolt)

Fasolt Norse

[Fasold]

a giant

brother of Fafnir, in some accounts

In the Wagner version, Fafnir and his brother Fasolt, Frost Giants, built Valhalla for Odin but demanded Freya as payment. When they were given the Rhinegold as ransom, they fought over the treasure. Fafnir killed his brother and then used the Helmet of Invisibility to change himself into a dragon.

In Germanic stories, as Fasold, he was the brother of Ecke and, when Dietrich rescued Bolfriana and her nine daughters who had been imprisoned by Ecke, he joined forces with Dietrich.

Fasti Roman

a story by Ovid including an account of the rape of Lucretia

Fasting Coyote (see Nezhualecoyot')

Fastnacht German

a festival in honour of the goddess Hertha

Fastnachtsbar German

a man dressed as a bear paraded in the Fastnacht festival

Fastrada (see Fastrade)

Fastrade European

[Fastrada]

in some accounts, one of the 9 wives of Charlemagne

Fastulus (see Faustulus)

Fat Chinese

a deity
son of Chang
twin brother of Tan

He is known as The Flasher.

fata<sup>1</sup> Italian

a fairy

Fata<sup>2</sup> (see Tria Fata)

Fata Alcina (see Alcina)

Fata Morgana<sup>1</sup> European

[Le Chateau de Morgan le Fée]

a mirage seen in the Straits of Messina This vision, a scene of architectural wonders, was seen by Roland in the garden of the enchantress, Falerina.

Some say that it represented a palace of Morgan le Fay.

Fata Morgana<sup>2</sup> European

a name of Morgan le Fay

Morgan was reputed to have another home in Sicily where she was known as Fata Morgana. The generation of a mirage to lure ships on to the rocks would be consistent with her role as a trouble-maker.

Fata Scribendi Roman

a goddess (or goddesses) who wrote out the fate of each child at birth

In some accounts, they are the same as the Fates.

Fatae Devones Roman

[Matronae Devones]
goddesses of the oak wood

Fate Trinity Irish

the trio Ana, Badb and Macha
as Morrigan

Fates (see Moirae.Norns.Parcae)

Fathach<sup>1</sup> Irish

a mythical giant (see also Fomoire)

Fathach<sup>2</sup> (see Fachtna)

Father Atoja South American

a rain-spirit of the Aymara

A magician collects several basins of water with frogs from Lake Titicaca and places them on top of the mountain, Atoja, praying to the spirits of that mountain, Father Atoja and Mother Atoja. When the sun has evaporated the water in the basins, the frogs croak loudly and the spirits then cause rain to fall.

Father Fine Norse
a dwarf

He built the church for Esbern in return for his eyes, heart and soul if Esbern failed to discover his name before the building was complete. Helva's prayers enabled her to discover the dwarf's name and save her lover.

Father Hu Chinese [Hu]

a sky-god

Father Mars (see Mars Marspite)

Father of Battle (see Odin)

Father of Mankind (see Latipan)

Father of the Forest (see Mezatevs)

Father of the Gods (see Latipan)

Father Shunem (see El<sup>1</sup>)

Father Sky (see Guamaonocon.
Sky Father)

Father Tiber (see Tiberinus)
fathi Irish

the Irish druids

Fati<sup>1</sup> Balkan [plur=Fatit.=Greek Moirae]

one of the 3 beings who determine the fate of a new-born child

In the plural (Faiti) they are also called Niren.

Fati<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
[Fadu]

the moon-god of the Society Islanders son of Roua and Taonoui

faticaria (see witchcraft)

Fatima<sup>1</sup> European
in some accounts, a servant of Clarimunda or Esclaramonde

Fatima<sup>2</sup> Persian
a female hermit

In The Arabian Nights she was killed by a sorcerer who, disguised in her clothes, entered Aladdin's home.

Fatouma African
a princess

She was saved by Hammadi as she was about to be devoured by the Dragon of the Lake and married her rescuer.

Fatu-tiri Pacific Islands
[Fatu-titi]

an ancestor of Tane-Mahuta

He gave Tane-Mahuta the thunderbolt as a weapon though, in some accounts, Fatu-tiri is the thunderbolt with which he killed Atea.

Fatu-titi (see Fatu-tiri)

Fatua (see Fauna)

Fatuclus Greek [Fatuus]

a name of Faunus as 'speaker'

Fatua (see Fauna)

Fatus Roman
a god of personal destiny

Fatuus (see Fatuclus)

faudeur French
an imp of wheat-stores in Brittany

Faula (see Acca Larentia.Fauna)

Faumea Pacific Islands
[=Hawaiian Haumea]

mother of Tu-nui-ka-rere and Turi-a-faumea by Tangaroa

In Tuamotu they say that she had eels in her vagina that killed men but she showed Tangaroa how to remove them and their union produced two children.

faun<sup>1</sup> Roman [=Greek satyr]

part man, part goat: a woodland spirit: a descendant of Faunus

Faun<sup>2</sup> (see Faunus)

Fauna Roman [Fatua.Faula.Maia.Maiesta.Oma:
=Greek Damia.Semele]

goddess of fertility, fields, herds daughter or sister and wife of Faunus wife of Jupiter or Vulcan, some say

In some accounts she is identified with Bona Dea, in others with Antigita.

Faunus<sup>1</sup> Roman
[Fatu(c)us.Faun.Incubo.In(n)uus.
Lupercus.Silvan:plur=Fauni:=Greek Pan]

a vegetation god, god of prophecy and shepherds son of Mars, Mercury or Picus father or consort and brother of Fauna

In some accounts, he was the son of Mars and a princess and was raised to become the god of the countryside.

Others make him the son of Mercury who killed strangers and offered them in sacrifice to his father who then gave him the hindquarters and hoofs of a goat in punishment. Some say he was the son of Picus. (see also Faunus<sup>2</sup>)

Faunus<sup>2</sup> Roman
a king of Italy

son of Hermes, some say father of Latinus

father of Acis, some say

He had the habit of killing all strangers and sacrificing them to his father, Hermes.

He was killed by Heracles (during his tenth Labour) and some say that it was Heracles who fathered Latinus, not Faunus.

His spirit was said to have warned Latinus not to allow his daughter, Lavinia, to marry any but a stranger who would soon arrive from over the sea. This turned out to be Aeneas.

In some accounts, he is the same as Faunus, the Italian god of vegetation.

Faust German
[(Dr) Faustus]

a man who sold his soul to the Devil in return for unlimited knowledge and youth

Faustulus Roman [Fastulus]

a royal herdsman husband of Acca Larentia

It was he or his wife who found the twins Romulus and Remus when they were cast adrift on the Tiber.

Faustus<sup>1</sup> British
son of Vortigern

Faustus<sup>2</sup> (see Faust)

Fauvel French
[Favel]

a centaur in a 14th c novel of the same name

Favel (see Fauvel)

Favonius Roman [=Greek Zephyr]

the west wind personified consort of Flora, some say

Fawn (see Ne-a-go)

fay (see fairy)

Faylinn Irish
[The Good Folk.The Little People.
Wee Folk]

fairies or leprechauns

This race of people, much smaller than dwarfs, was ruled by Lubdan and Bebo.

In some accounts, Iubdan's realm, rather than his people, is referred to as Faylinn.

Fe African
a god of the Ivory Coast

This deity is envisaged in the form of a mask.

Fea<sup>1</sup> Irish a war-goddess, an aspect of Morrigan

Fea<sup>2</sup>
a red ox

In some accounts, the two oxen, Fea and Feimhean, were owned by the goddess Brigit. Others say that they were owned by Dil.

Feabhail (see Febal)

Feadhach Irish
ruler of an island in the Otherworld father of Flann

Fear Baoth Irish
a warrior of Ulster

Maev offered him her daughter, Fi, if he would desert his friend Cuchulainn during the battles of the Cattle Raid of Cooley.

Fear Caille (see Alladhán)

Fear da Leithe (see Bearchán)

Fear Dea (see Ferdia)

Fear Dedh (see Ferdia)

Fear Deoda (see Ferdia)

Fear Diadh (see Ferdia)

Fear Diorche Irish

[The Dark Druid]

a druid who turned Saba into a deer when she rejected his advances

Fear Fi Irish

a musician

Lugaid mac Con went to war with Eoghan Mor when they argued about which of them had first discovered Fear Fi.

Fear Gortac Irish

a magical type of grass which causes insatiable hunger

Another version describes it as a hunger-demon in the form of a wrinkled old man.

Fear Logha Irish

a charioteer to Ailill and Maev

Fear-tai (see Fer-tai)

Fear-ti (see Fer-ti)

Fearadhach<sup>1</sup> Irish

a Pictish king

Criomhthann mac Fiodhaigh sent Conall Corc to the Scottish court with a coded note asking the king to kill the bearer, believing that the young man had tried to rape Criomhthann's wife. The message was changed by Gruibne, a friend whom Conall had earlier rescued from captivity, with the result that Fearadhach not only welcomed Conall but gave him his daughter's hand in marriage.

Fearadhach<sup>2</sup> (see Daithi)

Fearadhach Fionn Irish

a king of Scotland

He came to Ireland to take the throne on the death of Cairbre Caitcheann but was defeated by the forces of Connaught led by Daithi.

Fearbh Irish

daughter of Gearg

When Sin came to her father's house to seek the hand of Fearbh, Conor mac Nessa attacked the house and both Sin and her father were killed.

Fearbhlaidh Irish

daughter of a king of Scotland

She fell in love with the poet, Cearball, and when her father put him in prison, she helped him to escape. Her father later deceived her into believing that her lover was dead and she died of a broken heart.

A similar story is told of Cearball and Eleanor.

Fearcheas mac Comain Irish

[Ferchess]

a poet-seer at the court of Ailill Olom. He was with Ailill Olom, during a vigil at Samhain, when the latter raped Aine. Fearcheas killed her father, Eoghabal, and, at Ailill's instigation, Fearcheas killed Lugaid mac Con with a spear but Finn mac Cool tracked him down and killed him.

Feardhomhain Irish

a warrior of Leinster

brother of Fingheal or Finnne

He was said to have killed a monster living in a lake and, when Finn mac Cool told him of a dangerous wild boar, he hunted it down and killed it after it had killed his three hounds. In this story, his sister was called Fingheal. Another story says that his sister was Finnne and, when she was badly treated by her husband, Conan mac an Leith Luchra, Feardhomhain killed him but was himself killed in the fight.

Feargal (see Fergal)

Fearghal (see Fergal)

Fearghus (see Fergus)

Feargna Irish

a king

father of Aedh Dubh

When he opposed St Caillin, he was swallowed up by the earth.

In some accounts, his father was Suibhne, king of Dalriada.

Feargus (see Fergus)

Fearineus (see Phoroneus)

Fearn Irish

a son of Partholan

Feast of Age (see Feast of Goibhniu)

Feast of Anna Perenna Roman

a celebration, held on March 15th, of

Anna Perenna's deception, in the form of Minerva or Nerio, or the war-god, Ares

Feast of Bricciu (see Bricciu's Feast)

Feast of Goibhniu Irish

[Fle(a)d(h) Ghoibhnenn.Feast of Age.

Fled Gabnenn]

a feast in the underworld at which the smith-god gave his guests food and drink that made them immortal

This was one of three gifts from Manannan to the Danaans. The other two were the Veil of Invisibility (Faet Fiada) and the Pigs of Manannan.

Feast of Lanterns

(see Festival of the Dead. Lantern Festival)

Feast of Souls

a festival, held in November, in honour of the dead

feather North American

a sacred object to the Indians

Feather Cloak of Freya (see Valhamr)

Feather Man North American

a wind-spirit of the Pueblo tribes

Feather Robe Japanese

[Celestial Feather Robe]

a garment used by the moonfolk

They wrapped the moonmaiden, Kaguya, in this garment when they took her back to her home in the sky, to erase her memories of life on earth.

Feather Woman (see Soatsaki)

Feathered Serpent (see Quetzalcoat)

Feathered Staff (see Quetzalcoat)

Febal Irish

[Feabhail.Febhal]

father of Bran

Febhal (see Febal)

Febris Roman

[Quartana.Tertiana]

a goddess of fevers

mother of Dea Quartana and Dea

Tertiana

Februs Roman

[=Etruscan Dis=Greek Pluto]

the god of the dead

Fecor

a demon guarding underground

treasure (see also Anarazel.Gaziel)

Fedelm (see Fedelma.Feidhilm)

Fedelma Irish

[Fedelm.Fidelmá]

a prophetess

daughter of Laoghaire

mac Criomhthann

daughter of Conor mac Nessa,

some say

sister of Ethne

wife of Loaghaire Buadhach

She forewarned Maev that she would be defeated in the battle for the Brown Bull of Cooley.

Fedlimid (see Feidhlimidh.Felim)

Feeder (see Pan<sup>2</sup>)

Fe'e' Pacific Islands

a Polynesian war-god and god of the dead

one of the Aitu

He is said to have given birth to all the rocks and islands.

He is depicted as a giant cuttlefish encompassing the world with his tentacles. His undersea palace was known as Bale-Fe'e.

fé<sup>2</sup> French
a fairy

Feenenee North American
a maiden of the Tewa of New Mexico
When a drought came, the men of the tribe entered the kiva to pray and to fast but one of them drank the water of the lake. His body split open and flooded the kiva and all present were turned into frogs or water-birds. Feenenee was turned into a snake.

féerie French
fairyland

Fefana Pacific Islands
wife of Fevanga
mother of Kavaonau
When the god Loa visited them, they killed their baby daughter and served her at a meal, having no other food.
(see also kava<sup>1</sup>)

Fehuluni New Zealand
a sex-changing spirit

Fei (see Huang Fei-hu)

Fei-ch'ang Fang Chinese a famous magician who warned of an impending national disaster

fei-i Chinese a double-bodied flying snake with 4 wings and 6 legs

Fei Lien<sup>1</sup> (see Feng Po)

Fei Lien<sup>2</sup> (see Luan<sup>1</sup>)

Fei Luan (see Luan<sup>1</sup>)

Feibh Irish
in some accounts, daughter of Conor mac Nessa and wife of Conn Cearnach

Feichin Irish
a saint
son of Caolcharna and Lasair
It is said that a host of angels hovered over him and that he performed many miracles. When his friend Aodan was imprisoned, he rescued him by killing his jailer and then restoring him to life so that he was persuaded to release Aodan. He also achieved the release of prisoners of Ailill mac Dunlaing, king of Leinster, by causing an earthquake which shook the shackles from the prisoners. Here too, the king was killed and restored to life by Feichin.
He once carried a leper to the king's court at Tara to be cared for. It is said that this leper was Christ, who gave the saint his staff.

Feidhilm<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Fedelm]
wife of Eochu
mother of Aodan and Brandubh
When she gave birth to twin boys, Eochu exchanged one of them for one of the twin daughters born at the same time to Inghéanach, wife of Gabhran. She could identify the boy from a grain of gold which she had put in his shoulder and when, as a man, Aodan mac Gabhrain, he invaded Leinster, she prevailed upon him to make peace with Brandubh, his brother.

Feidhilm<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Fedelm.Lair Dhearg.Red Mare]
a sorceress
foster-mother of Conal Corc

Feidhilm<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Fedelm]
daughter of Fachtna and Nessa
sister of Conor mac Nessa
wife of Cairbre Nia Fear mother of Earc

Feidhlim Irish
son of Ailill and Maev
He was one of seven sons all known as Maine.

Feidhlimidh<sup>1</sup> Irish
[Fedlimid]
father of Conn Ceadchathach

Feidhlimidh<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Fedlimid]
grandson of Conall Gulban
father of Columba

Feidhlimidh<sup>3</sup> (see Felim mac Dall)

Feidhlimidh Cam O Baoill Irish
[Fedlimid]
a warrior of Donegal

His family feuded with the Mac Suibhne sept and, when he visited the house of Mac Suibhne, the latter tried to kill him. He got out of the house and, after a furious chase, escaped by sea.

Feidhlimidh mac Criomhthann Irish [Fedlimid]
a warrior-king of Munster
bishop of Cashel

In some versions, he is regarded as a saint. He once took shelter with the satirist, Gul, whose daughter Sadhbh tricked him out of his clothes and his horse. In revenge, he sent Dunnoir to seduce her.

He quarrelled with the high-king Niall Caille and was defeated by him at the Battle of Carman.

Feile Bhride (see Imbolc)

Feile Brighde (see Imbolc)

Feimhean Irish [Fernan.Ferneal]
a black ox

In some accounts, the two oxen, Fea and Feimhean, were owned by the goddess Brigit. Others say that they were owned by Dil.

Feimurgan (see Morgan le Fay)

Feini Irish
early settlers

While most accounts refer to the descendants as the Danaans, the fifth in the series of invaders of Ireland, others refer to her descendants as the Feini and regard them as the first settlers of that country. (see also Fianna)

Feinius Irish
father of Niul

Feinne (see Fianna)

Feinnidh Irish
a leader of a troop of the Fianna

Feirceirtne (see Fer Cherdne)

Feircheirdne (see Fer Cherdne)

Feirefiss (see Feirefiz)

Feirefiz British [Feirefiss]
son of Gahmuret and Belcane half-brother of Percival

He is said to have been parti-coloured as the result of having parents of different origins.

He met his half-brother in combat without realising their relationship but, when they were reconciled, he joined Percival in the Grail Quest.

At King Arthur's court, he met Repanse and, after converting to Christianity, married her, taking her to India where Repanse bore him a son who became the magician, Prester John.

Feis na Samhna Irish [Samain Feis]

an Irish name for Samhain

Feis Tigbe Chonain Irish
the story of Finn mac Cool's visit to the castle of Conan in the Otherworld

Felice British [Phelis]

daughter of the Earl of Warwick husband of Guy

When her husband failed to return from the Holy Land, she devoted her life to works of charity. When Guy finally returned, he left her in peace and built himself a hermitage. They were reunited when Guy was on his deathbed but Felice died of grief.

Felicitas Roman
the goddess of good luck

(see also Fortuna)

Felim mac Dall Irish [Fedlimid.Feidhlimidh.Phelim]

a harp-player at the court of Conor mac Nessa son of Dall
father of Deirdre

Felix<sup>1</sup> British father of Mark and Meliad, some say In some accounts he was the king of Cornwall and Lyonesse.

Felix<sup>2</sup> German
a monk

He stood listening to the song of the birds and later discovered that he had listened for 300 years which, to him,
had seemed like just a few minutes.

Felix<sup>3</sup> Roman a name for Venus as the bringer of good fortune

Femba (see Pemba)
femina saga (see saga<sup>3</sup>)

Feminee (see Femynye)

Fempellec South American
a pre-Inca king

He had the carved stone figure known as Llampallec moved from Chot.
When a demon in the guise of a lovely maiden seduced him and torrential rain ruined all the crops, the priests tied him up and hurled him into the sea from a cliff-top.

Femynye Greek [Feminee]
the realm of the Amazons

Fenda Maria African
a heroine of Angola

Vidiji Milanda had been bewitched and lay asleep on the bank of a river.
He could be wakened only by a maiden shedding eleven jugfuls of tears. Fenda Maria filled ten jugs and, having given one away to free a slave girl, got tired of weeping and asked the slave girl to fill the eleventh jug.
This she did and woke the sleeping prince who took her for his wife instead of Fenda Maria. The slave then took on the role of her mistress and the real Fenda Maria became her slave, now called Kamaria.

Later, the prince brought Kamaria presents she had asked for; a lamp which lit itself, a razor which sharpened itself, scissors which could cut unaided and a stone which told the truth. With the help of these objects she convinced the prince that she was the real Fenda Maria and they were married, burning the imposter in a barrel of tar.

Fene European
one of a race of Hungarian demons or their realm

Feng<sup>1</sup> Chinese [Chu-ch'ieh.Feng Huan(g).Vermilion Bird]
the Chinese version of the phoenix one of the Four Auspicious Animals

chief of the feathered animals ruler of the south and the summer season

This fabulous bird is described as being composed of parts of many other birds and the tail of a fish, although it is sometimes depicted as the Oriental pheasant. It is reputed to alight only on the wu t'ung tree and lives on the seeds of the bamboo.

Another version describes it as a scarlet or vermilion bird, one of four supporting the corners of the earth.

Feng<sup>2</sup> (see also Luan)
European

brother of Horvendil
He killed his brother, Horvendil, king of Jutland, married his widow, Gerutha, and took the throne. He was later killed by Horvendil's son, Amleth.

Feng<sup>3</sup> Norse
[Fiollnir.Fjollnir]
a name used by Odin when he was taken aboard ship by Sigurd who met the god walking on the sea

Feng Huan (see Feng<sup>1</sup>)

Feng Huang (see Feng<sup>1</sup>)

Feng I (see Shui Kuan)

Feng-kan Chinese
an 8th c giant
one of the Eighteen Lohan, some say

He was said to have been seven feet tall and rode a tiger, in which form he is generally depicted. In this respect, he is similar to Tamra Bhadra.

Feng Lin Chinese
a soldier-immortal

In the Battle of 10,000 Spirits, he was defeated by Li No-cha who used his magic bracelet.

Feng Po Chinese
[Count of the Winds.Fei Lien.Feng Shih]

a sky-god
son of Huang Ti
husband of Feng-p'o-p'o

This deity was in charge of the sack which contains the winds, hunger and drought.

He tried to overthrow his father and was defeated. He was banished to a mountain-top cave where he sent winds to cause trouble until I, the archer, shot a hole in his wind-bag.
Feng Po was wounded in the leg at the same time and was left with a permanent limp.

He is depicted as a white-bearded old man or as a dragon with the head of a deer or as having the body of a stag, a sparrow's head, the horns of a bull and a snake's tail.

Feng-p'o-p'o Chinese [Madame Wind]

a wind-goddess wife of Feng Po
She is said to ride a tiger in the sky.

Feng Shih (see Feng Po)
feng-shui Chinese a system of landscape magic or geomancy

This art is sometimes used to determine the orientation of graves or of houses and their contents so that they are in harmony with natural forces.

The principles of this technique were collected by Kung P'o (3rd-4th c).

Fenge (see Fenia)

Fenia Norse

[Fenge.Fenja]
a giantess
daughter of Greip, some say She and her sister Menia were bought as slaves by Frodi to work his magic grindstone, Grotte.

Fenian Cycle Irish

[Fianna Cycle.Finn Cycle.Fionn Cycle.
Ossianic Cycle]

a collection of stories relating the exploits of Finn mac Cool and his warriors, the Fianna

Fenians (see Fianna)

Fenice<sup>1</sup> French

[Fenise]
wife of Alis
When her husband died, she married his nephew, Cligés.

Fenice<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Fenise]
a queen of Ireland
In the French story, Durmart le Gallois, she was loved by Durmart.

Fenise (see Fenice)

Fenius (see Feniusa Farsa)

Feniusa Farsa Irish

[Fenius]

a Scythian king, ancestor of the Milesians

father of Niul
He was said to be a descendant of Japhet, Noah's son, and grandfather of Gaedheal. He helped to build the Tower of Babel and was the only man conversant with all the languages that emerged when the Tower was abandoned.

fenix (see phoenix<sup>1</sup>)

Fenja (see Fenia)

Fenoderee (see Fenodyree)

Fenodyree Manx

[Fenoderee]

a mythical hairy monster or brownie

Fenner (see Fenris)Fenrir (see Fenris)Fenris Norse

[Fenrer.Fenrir.Hrodvitnir]

a wolf

offspring of Loki and Angerbode

brother of Hel and lormungandr

Odin took the wolf to Asgard hoping to tame him but it grew to such size and strength that the gods tied him up for safety. They bound him first with the chain, Laeding, from which he broke free; then with a stronger chain, Droma, which he also broke; then with Gleipnir, a thin cord fashioned by the dwarfs which none could break, fixed with the fetter, Gelgia. Fenris allowed himself to be tied only if one of the gods would put a hand into his mouth as a surety. Tyr complied and when Fenris found himself unable to break free he bit off Tyr's right hand. When he opened his huge jaws and howled, the gods thrust a sword into his mouth causing an outflow of blood that formed the river Von.

Fenris remained tied through the rock Gioll to a large boulder called Thviti on the island of Lyngvi until the final battle of Ragnarok when he broke free and fought on Loki's side against the gods. It was foretold that he would kill Odin but he was killed by Vidar who, arriving late in the battle, put his one large foot on the wolf's lower jaw and, grasping his upper jaw in his bare hands, tore him apart.

Fensal (see Fensalir)Fensalir Norse

[Fensal.Fensalir]

the palace of Frigga

Fensalier (see Fensalir)Fer Chedne (see Fer Cherdne)Fer Cherdne<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Feirceirtne.Feircheirdne.Fer Chedne.

Fercherdne.Ferchertne]

a poet at the court of Lugaid, king of Leinster

He was said to have accompanied the king when he was banished from Ireland.

In some accounts, the three Fer Cherdne characters are all manifestations of the same person.

Fer Cherdne<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Feirceirtne.Feircheirdne.Fer Chedne.

Fercherdne.Ferchertne]

an Ulster poet

He received the robes and office of the chief-poet when Adna died but Adna's son, Neidhe, disputed his right to them. Fer Cherdne defeated him in a contest of verse and rhetoric and the younger man then conceded.

In some accounts, the three Fer Cherdne characters are all manifestations of the same person.

Fer Cherdne<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Feirceirtne.Feircheirdne.Fer Chedne.

Fercherdne.Ferchertne]

a poet, a retainer of Curoi

father of Aithirne

Some say that it was he, not Aithirne, who demanded and got Eochaid mac Luchta's one remaining eye.

When his master's wife, Blathnat, was being carried off by Cuchulainn, Fer Cherdne seized her and jumped with her from a high cliff, killing both Blathnat and himself.

In some accounts, the three Fer Cherdne characters are all manifestations of the same person.

Fer Dea (see Ferdia)Fer Dedh (see Ferdia)Fer Deoda (see Ferdia)Fer Diadh (see Ferdia)Fer Fedail (see Fer Fidail)Fer Fidail Irish

[Fer Fedail]

a druid of Manannan

son of Eoghabal

The god sent Fer Fidail, in the form of a woman, to procure the maiden Tuage but the druid slept with her for three days before returning to Tir Tairnigiri. The angry god drowned Tuage and killed the druid.

Fer Gruadh Irish

a druid

When Oscar killed Meargach in battle, the dead man's wife, Aille, persuaded the druid to capture Finn, Oscar's grandfather. When Finn was released, Oscar killed Fer Gruadh.

Fer-tai Irish

[Fear-tai]

father of Fer-ti

a warrior of the Fianna

son of Goll mac Morna

He was one of the party which trapped Dermot and Grania in the Wood of Two Tents.

He fought on the side of Cairbre in the Battle of Gabhra and when Finn mac Cool killed his son, Fer-ti, to avenge the death of Oscar at the hand of Cairbre, Fer-tai fought Finn in single combat and was killed.

Fer-ti Irish

[Fear-ti]

son of Fer-tai

At the Battle of Gabhra he was killed by Finn mac Cool. When Fer-tai, his father, tried to avenge his death, Finn killed him also.

Feralia Roman

the final festival of the dead, held in February

Ferbaeth Irish

a warrior of Connaught

He was one of those who fought with Cuchulainn in single combat during the Cattle Raid of Cooley and was killed.

Fercherdne (see Fer Cherdne)Ferchertne (see Fer Cherdne)Ferchess (see Fearcheas)Fercob Irish

a king of Munster

He and his men fought alongside Finn and the Fianna at the Battle of Gabhra.

Ferdia Irish

[Fe(a)r Dea.Fe(a)r Dedh.Fe(a)r Deoda.

Fe(a)r Diadh.Ferdia mac Daire]

son of Fergus mac Roth

foster-brother of Cuchulainn

In some accounts, he was the son of Damhan.

He trained with Cuchulainn under Skatha and became his friend. He later fought for Maev in the Cattle Raid of Cooley and, against his inclinations, was forced by Maev to fight Cuchulainn in single combat. They fought for four days until finally Cuchulainn killed his old friend with the Gae Bolg as they fought in the river where the waters were held back on each side. In other versions, Cuchulainn ran Ferdia through with his sword.

Ferdiad (see Ferdia)Ferdinand European

a king of Spain

father of Alfonso, Elvira, Garcia,

Sancho and Urraca

When El Cid came to his court, he banished him for his haughty manner but soon restored him to favour when El Cid started to win battles against the Moors.

He was in dispute with Ramiro of Aragon and appointed El Cid as his champion to settle the matter in single combat with Martin Gonzalez. In another dispute, when he refused to pay homage to the Pope, El Cid once again settled the matter in his favour by defeating the Pope's champion.

Ferdoman Irish
son of Bodb Deag

He was one of the party of nine, led by Gol mac Morna, which recovered Finn mac Cool's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, when they were stolen by Arthur.

Fergal mac Maolduin Irish [Fe(rg)(h)al]

a high-king of Ireland
father of Aedh Allan and Niall Frasach
He had an affair with a nun who was the daughter of Congall. When Congall entered her bedroom, she sat on top of Fergal and persuaded her father of her innocence. Rather than betray his presence, Fergal made no sound, even when a cat bit pieces out of his legs.

He attacked Leinster with a large army which included a young musician and poet, named Donn Bo, whom he had undertaken to keep safe. In a battle with the forces of Leinster, both the king and Donn Bo were killed and decapitated. Donn Bo's head sang so sadly at the celebration feast of the Leinstermen that they returned it to the site of the battle, placed it on his body and Donn was restored to life. The head of Fergal was given to Cathal mac Fionghuine, king of Munster, who washed and dressed it in finery at a feast where it spoke its thanks for the honour.

Fergar Irish
a companion of Conary Mor

Ferghus (see Fergus)

Fergna Irish [Fergne]
a physician

He advised Angus Og on how to locate Caer Iborneith.

Fergne (see Fergna)

Fergus<sup>1</sup> British
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
husband of Galiene
son of Soumilliot

He was a ploughboy whose imagination was fired by seeing King Arthur and his knights, and he wanted to become like them.

He borrowed his father's old armour and rode to the king's court, despatching a pair of robbers en route, and found himself the butt of Kay's ridicule. He was, nevertheless, made a knight and set out to kill the Black Knight to prove himself. He stayed overnight at Castle Lidell where the owner's niece, Galiene, fell in love with him. Fergus rejected her because he felt unworthy until he had achieved his aim. Having disposed of the Black Knight he returned to the castle, only to find that Galiene had left. He spent over a year searching for her and was then told that he could win her hand only by first winning the Shield Beautiful which was guarded by a dragon and a giantess in Castle Dunostre. Fergus killed both of these guardians and won the shield and then set off for Lothian where Galiene was under siege. On the road to Scotland, he killed the giant of Mount Dolerous, freed two ladies held in that giant's castle and acquired the marvellous horse, Arondiel. In Lothian, he killed Artofilaus, nephew of the king whose forces were besieging Galiene and sent the king himself as hostage to King Arthur's court. Arthur had, for some time, been searching for Fergus and, having found him, organised a great tournament at which Fergus was champion. As a reward, Fergus received Galiene as his wife and was made king of Lothian.

Fergus<sup>2</sup> British
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
a Knight of the Round Table
a Cornish earl

His lands were ravaged by the giant Taulurd until Morholt killed the giant.

Fergus<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
son of Eochaid Muigl and Mongfhinn
brother of Ailill, Brian and Fiachra
step-brother of Niall Noigiallach

Fergus<sup>4</sup> Irish [Fe(a)rg(h)us.Wise Lips]
a seer
son of Finn mac Cool

Fergus<sup>5</sup> Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
a monk

He caught the mermaid, Li Ban, in his net and argued over her future with Beoan.

Fergus<sup>6</sup> Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
son of Ailill and Maev

He was one of seven sons, all known as Maine.

Fergus Bearn Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
father of St Ruadan

Fergus Cearbhaill Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us Cearrbheoil] father of Diarmaid

Fergus Finvel Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us Fionbhail]
a counsellor to Finn mac Cool

Fergus Fionnliat Irish
a fertility-lord

A former wife of Iollan turned Urine, whom he proposed to marry, into a bitch and gave her to Fergus as a present. When she resumed her human form and returned to Iollan, Fergus gave her whelps to Finn mac Cool who called them Bran and Sceolan.

Fergus Foga Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
a king of Ulster

Some say that he is the same as Fergus mac Leda or Fergus mac Roth.

Fergus Leathdhearg Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
son of Nemed
father of Britan

He led the Nemedians on a raid on the Fomoire on Tory Island and killed their leader, Conan.

He was one of the few Nemedians to escape from Ireland and he and his son came to Britain where they became the ancestors of the British.

Fergus mac Earc Irish
[Fe(a)rg(h)us]
son of Earc
brother of Murtagh

He established the kingdom of Dal Riada. Having borrowed the Stone of Destiny from his brother for his own coronation, he never returned it to Ireland.

Fergus mac Leda Irish [Fe(a)rg(h)us mac Leide.Fergus mac Le(i)te]
a king of Ulster

Lugaid Luaighne divided Ulster into two parts, giving one to Fergus and one to Congall Clairingleach. Later, Fergus took all the province and Conall went to Scotland. On his return, Fergus mac Roth helped him to defeat Fergus mac Leda in battle.

He captured Iubdan, king of the Faylinn, and his wife Bebo when they fell into a bowl of porridge. He had an affair with Bebo and released her and her husband only when Iubdan handed over his magic shoes.

In one account, he was given the woman Dorn as compensation for the death of Eochaid Yellowmouth who had been killed by men sent by the high-king, Conn. He was also given the power by sea-sprites to swim under any water except Loch Rudhraighe.

When he ignored this ban, he was attacked by the monster, Muirdris, and fear caused his mouth to move to the back of his head. When Dorn revealed his secret, after a quarrel during which Fergus struck her, the king used the shoes given to him by Iubdan to protect himself when he went back to the lake and had a second fight with the monster. Although he managed to kill the beast, he was himself wounded and died.

In some accounts, he is the same as Fergus mac Roth or Fergus Foga while others say that Tiobraide was the king of Ulster at the time of Eochaid's murder.

Fergus mac Leide

(see Fergus mac Leda)

Fergus mac Leite

(see Fergus mac Leda)

Fergus mac Lete

(see Fergus mac Leda)

Fergus mac Rogh

(see Fergus mac Roth)

Fergus mac Roich

(see Fergus mac Roth)

Fergus mac Roigh

(see Fergus mac Roth)

Fergus mac Rosa

(see Fergus mac Roth)

Fergus mac Roth

Irish

[Fe(a)rg(h)us mac Ro(i)gh.Fearg(h)us mac Rioch.Fergus mac Roich.Fergus mac Rosa.Fergus mac Roth.Fergus mac Roy]

one of the champions of the Red Branch

king of Ulster

son of Ros Ruadh and Roch

half-brother of Fachtna husband of Flidhais and Nessa

father of Buino and Illus

father of Ferdia, some say

foster-father of Cuchulainn

He came to the throne on the death of Fachtna and married Fachtna's widow, Nessa, who stipulated that he must allow her son, Conor, to rule for one year. At the end of the year, Conor refused to relinquish the throne and banished Fergus to Connaught with Dubhthach and his son Cormac.

Some say that he fell in love with Flidhais, wife of Ailill Fionn, and attacked his rival's castle, killing Ailill and taking Flidhais for his wife. In this story, he was killed by a giant, the Fool of Barr Uisce, as he was driving his wife's great herd of cattle.

Another version of this story substitutes Muinchinn for Flidhais and Donal for Ailill and Fergus, worried in case his newly-acquired wife should betray him as she had betrayed Donal, drowned her.

Another story says that he was in the party that escorted Deirdre and the sons of Usna back from Scotland to Conor's court and after Conor's treachery he went into exile with Cormac and Dubhthach in Connaught.

As herald to Maev, he went to Ulster to try to persuade the king, Daire, to lend Maev the famous Brown Bull of Cooley for one year. Daire refused and Fergus later fought with Maev and Ailill against Ulster in the Cattle Raid of Cooley but refused to fight Cuchulainn, his friend and pupil, in single combat. He became Maev's lover and was killed by a spear thrown by Lugaid, a blind poet, when Ailill caught them bathing together in a pool.

He is said to be the author of the first account of the Cattle Raid of Cooley by virtue of a legend saying that the original story was lost and the poet, Seanchan, raised the dead Fergus who recited the whole story before going back to the grave.

In some accounts, he is the same as Fergus mac Leda.

Fergus mac Roy

(see Fergus mac Roth)

feri

(see peri)

Ferlee

Irish

a companion of Canary Mor

Fernan

(see Feimhean)

Fernea

(see Feimhean)

feroher

(see fravashi)

Feronia<sup>1</sup>

Roman

an Etruscan fertility-goddess and goddess of fire

Feronia<sup>2</sup>

Roman

the goddess of spring flowers

ferouer

(see fravashi)

Ferracute

(see Ferragus)

Ferragunze

British

a knight of King Arthur's court

husband of Verseria

King Arthur tested the tolerance of Ferragunze by arranging for him to find his wife in the arms of Gawain but even this did not make her husband jealous.

Ferragus

European

[Ferracute.Ferrakut]

a giant of Portugal

He fought and defeated all the greatest of Charlemagne's knights in single combat but was finally beaten and killed by Roland.

In some accounts, the Brazen Head was kept in his castle.

Ferrakut

(see Ferragus)

Ferrant d'Espagne

European

a horse of Oliver

Ferrau

European

a Saracen warrior

He fought Argalia in the lists and won but was denied the prize, the hand of Angelica. When she fled, Ferrau chased Argalia and killed him and was fighting Roland, who also wanted Angelica, when he was forced to break off the fight and return to Spain to help Marsilius.

Ferrec

(see Ferrex)

Ferrex

British

[Ferrec]

son of Gorboduc and Judon

He quarrelled with his brother Porrex over the inheritance of the throne of Britain and was killed by his brother who was then killed by their mother and her maids.

Ferrgend

Irish

father of Muinremuir

Ferrogan

Irish

a companion of Canary Mor

Fersefassa

(see Persephone)

Ferumbras

(see Fierabras)

Fescamp Abbey

British

[Perlesvaus]

the setting for some of the early

Grail stories

Fessonnia

Roman

a goddess helping the needy

Festival House

North American

an underwater hall

This building was used for holding the meeting of the spirits called by Hanging Han to curb the power of the whirlpool, Keagyhil Depguesk.

Festival of Fire

(see Holi)

Festival of Flowers

(see Hanamatsuri)

Festival of Mongfhin

(see Samhain)

Festival of Nine Nights

(see Navaratri)

Festival of Pure Brightness

(see Ch'ing Ming)

Festival of Seven Grasses

(see Nanakusa)

Festival of Tanabata

Japanese

[Festival of the Weaving Lady]

a festival held in honour of Tanabata, the Weaving Maiden

This festival occurs on the seventh day of the seventh month and celebrates the love-story of Tanabata and Hikoboshi.

Festival of the Dead

Japanese

[Bommatsuri.Bon-e.Bon(matsuri).Feast of Lanterns.O-bon.Obo.Urabon:=Chinese Festival of the Hungry Ghosts] a period, July 13th to 16th, when the spirits of the dead are said to return and wander in the country

When the ghosts of the dead appear, they are given food and the Bon Odori dance is performed. When the ghosts depart, sacred boats full of food, shoryobuni, are set afloat on the lakes and rivers to carry the ghosts and sustain them on their journey back to the Otherworld.

Festival of the Hungry Ghosts

Chinese

[Analambana.Yü Lan Hui:

=Japanese Festival of the Dead]

a festival at which ghosts of the dead are appeased

The gates of hell are opened to allow the spirits to return to earth for thirty days and they are given various offerings to prevent them from becoming evil spirits.

Festival of the Weaving Lady

(see Festival of Tanabata)

Festival of Tombs

Chinese

[Cold Food Festival]

a celebration of spring and worship of departed spirits

Festival of Wasa

[Laughing Festival of Wasa]

a festival held in October recalling the laughter of the gods

It is said that the gods met once a year to arrange love-matches for the people and, on one occasion, Miwa Daimyojin came on the wrong day, causing much laughter when the gods heard about it.

Festival of Weeping Women

(see El Bugat)

Festival of Wild Women

(see Lenaea)

Festus

Roman

a festival held in honour of Mercury, held on May 15th

fetch (see wraith)

fetch-candle

[fetch-light]

a supernatural light

A small, candle-like flame seen moving through the air at night, said to be an omen of forthcoming death. Some say that the flame goes out when the soul leaves the body.

fetch-light (see fetch-candle)

Feth Fiadha (see Veil of Invisibility)

fetich (see fetich)

fetiche (see fetich)

fetichism (see fetichism)

fetish

[fetich(e)]

something revered irrationally an object supposed to invoke the services of a spirit inside it

fetichism

[fetichism]

the belief in charms as bringers of good fortune

In some instances, where the fetich is perceived as being truly effective, it may be raised to the status of a deity.

Fetu Pacific Islands

a Samoan god of the sky at night consort of the first woman, Ele'ele

Fevanga Pacific Islands

consort of Fefana

father of Kavaonau

When the god Loa visited Fevanga and Fefana they killed their baby daughter and served her at a meal, having no other food to offer.

(see also kava')

fey (see fairy)

Fezion European

daughter of Savary

wife of Orson

Fflur Welsh

wife of Caswellawn

Ffrwdwr British

[Flwdwr]

an ancestress of King Arthur

She was said to have been abducted by Julius Caesar.

Fi Irish

daughter of Ailill and Maev

Maev promised Fi to the warrior Fear Baoth if he would desert his friend Cuchulainn during the battles in the Cattle Raid of Cooley.

Fiacail (see Fiacha)

Fiacail Fi (see Fiacha)

Fiacc Irish

a warrior of Ulster

This young hero is featured in some early versions of the Cattle Raid of Cooley in place of Cuchulainn.

Fiacha Irish

[Fiacail (Fi).Fiachu]

a warrior with the Ulster Fianna

He needed to wear weights round his neck to prevent him from running so fast.

He gave Finn the magic spear that induced battle-fury if the blade were laid on the bearer's forehead.

Fiacha mac Fir Feibhe Irish

[Fiacail.Fiachu]

in some accounts, son of Conall

Cearnach by Feibh

He was said to be one of the Ulstermen

exiled to Connaught and was one of only three who survived the battle at the hostel of Da Coga when Cormac Cond Longes was trapped by the forces of Connaught.

He helped Cuchulainn to kill the sons of Calatin.

Fiachad Irish

a king of Ireland said to have set up the Fianna

Fiachna<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Ficna]

son of Finn mac Cool

When Finn and his companions were trapped in the Quicken Trees Hostel by Midac, Fiachna and Innsa were told to hold the ford against the Norsemen supporting Midac. Innsa killed many of the first wave of attackers but was finally killed by their leader. Fiachna came upon him carrying Innsa's head and slew him. He reported Innsa's death to Finn and returned to the ford. He killed all but one of the second wave of attackers, led by Kiron. The third wave was led by Midac himself and all were killed by Fiachna. Midac was killed by a spear thrown by Dermot who led a party to the rescue but, with his dying effort, Midac killed Fiachna.

Another story says that he was swallowed by a dragon but cut himself free, releasing at the same time others who had been swallowed earlier.

Fiachna<sup>2</sup> Irish

king of a Munster sept

father of Cumane

He fathered Cumane on his own daughter and ordered that the baby be destroyed. The boy was raised by an abbot and was later reconciled with his father.

Fiachna Casan Irish

[Fiachra Casan]

foster-father of Art and Cormac mac Airt

brother of Findhmall

He and his brother fought with Tuathal and helped him reclaim his father's throne from the usurper, Eilim, who was defeated in the Battle of Archall.

In some accounts, he reared the young Cormac mac Airt when his father, Art, was killed at the Battle of Magh Mucramha. Others say that the boy was reared by Lughna.

Fiachna Lurgan Irish

[Fiachna mac Baetain.Fiachna

mac Baodain]

a warrior-king of Dalriada cousin of Fiachna mac Deamhain husband of Cantigern

He and Aedan mac Gabrain fought the Saxons in Scotland. While he was away, Manannan seduced his wife, threatening to allow her husband to die in battle if she refused him. She bore him a son named Mongan. With Manannan's help, the Saxons were defeated.

In another story, he was visiting Scandinavia and saved the life of Eolgarg, the king, by procuring from an old woman a cow needed to cure him. The king recovered but refused to pay the woman so Fiachna invaded Scandinavia and, with the help of Manannan, he defeated Eolgarg's forces. As reward, Manannan claimed the right to sleep with Cantigern, fathering Mongan.

Offered a choice between heaven and victory, he chose the former and was killed in his next battle with his cousin, Fiachna mac Deamhain.

Fiachna mac Baetain
(see Fiachna Lurgan)

Fiachna mac Baodain
(see Fiachna Lurgan)

Fiachna mac Dealbhaith Irish
a high-king of Ireland

Fiachna mac Deamhain Irish cousin of Fiachna Lurgan
father of Dubh Lacha

He and his cousin were continually in conflict and Fiachna Lurgan always won with the prayers of St Congall. Fiachna mac Deamhain forced the saint to pray for him as well with the result that he won the next battle and killed his cousin.

Fiachna mac Retach Irish
a man from the Otherworld
father of Der Greine

When Fiachna's wife and daughter were abducted by Goll, ruler of Mag Mell, he asked Laoghaire mac Criomhthann for help. Laoghaire took a force of fifty men, killed Goll, and rescued Fiachna's wife and his daughter, Der Greine, whom he married.

Fiachra<sup>1</sup> Irish [Fiachra]

son of Eochaid Muigl and Mongfhinn
brother of Ailill, Brian, Fergus and Niall father of Daithi

He went to war with his brother Brian for supremacy in Connaught and was defeated at the first Battle of Damnchluain where he was captured. At the second battle, his son Daithi defeated Brian, who was killed, and released his father. Fiachra was killed in a battle with Munster.

Fiachra<sup>2</sup> Irish
[Fiachtra]
a son of Lir by his first wife, Aobh
(see Children of Lir)

Fiachra<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Fiachtra]
son of Conor mac Nessa

He led the attack on the hostel at Emain Macha to kill the party that had escorted Deirdre and Naisa back from Scotland under safe conduct given by his father and was wounded by Illan. When Conall Cearnach, who saved Fiachra, was told by the mortally-wounded Illan of Conor's treachery, Conall killed Fiachra.

Fiachra Casan (see Fiachna Casan)
Fiachtra (see Fiachtra)

Fiachu<sup>1</sup> Irish
a high-king of Ireland
father of Tuathall Techtmar

He was killed by Eilim mac Conrach who took over the throne until he was killed by Tuathall who reclaimed the kingship.

Fiachu<sup>2</sup> (see Fiacha mac Fir Feibhe)
Fiachu Araidhe Irish

a king of Dalriada
He deposed Cormac mac Airt but the latter sought help from Fiachu Muilleathan, king of Munster, and with his help, soon regained the throne of Ireland, defeating Fiachu Araidhe at the Battle of Fochaird.

Fiachu Fear Mara Irish [Fiachu Fermara]
son of Angus Tuirmheach by his own daughter

father of Eterskel
He was cast adrift in a boat as a baby but rescued by a fisherman who reared him.

Fiachu Fermara (see Fiachu Fear Mara)
Fiachu Muilleathan Irish

a king of Munster
son of Eoghan and Moncha
His father slept with Moncha, daughter of a druid, on the eve of a battle in which he was killed. Moncha delayed the birth of her son, by sitting in the river until the day on which, according to her father, he would become king. As prophesied, he became king of Munster.

He helped Cormac mac Airt regain the throne from which he had been expelled by Fiachu Araidhe, defeating the latter at the Battle of Fochaid.

In another account, he refused to pay a tribute of cattle to Cormac who then attacked Munster. With the help of the druid, Mogh Ruith, who caused a conflagration to engulf Cormac's forces, Fiachu defeated the attackers at the Battle of Drom Damhgaire.

Another story says that he was swallowed by a dragon but cut himself free, releasing at the same time others who had been swallowed earlier.

A young relative, Connla, was told that he could be cured of his leprosy only by bathing in the blood of a king, so he arranged to go swimming with Fiachu and stabbed the king when they were together in the water.

Fiachu Sraibhthine Irish
a high-king of Ireland
father of Muireadhach

He was killed by the Colla brothers who fled to Scotland when an army appeared, headed by Muireadhach.

Fial Irish [Fiall]
sister of Emer
daughter of Forgall Manach

Fialar<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Fjalar.Fralar(r)]
a dwarf
one of the Lovar

He and Galar made the magic brew from the blood of Kvasir whom they had killed. They also killed the giant Gilling and his wife. Suttung, Gilling's brother (or son, in some accounts) seized the two dwarfs and would have killed them had they not saved themselves by giving the giant the magic brew.

Fialar<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Fjalar.Fralar(r)]
a red cockerel

This bird, perched on Valhalla, was there to give the gods advance warning of approaching doom. In some stories, he was perched above Eggther to warn the giants.

Fiall (see Fial)
fian Irish

a member of the Fianna

Fiana (see Fianna)

Fianchuive (see Finchory)

Fianna

[Fianna Eirinn.Feinne.Fenians.Fiana.
Finn's People.'warriors']
an élite military order, bodyguard of the king of Ulster

This order required that members passed stringent tests of skill and stamina and flourished under the leadership of Finn mac Cool. It was organised originally by Fiachald into 150 groups of twenty-seven men, each with its own leader.

They fought on the side of Midir in the war with the Danaan gods.

The high-king, Cairbre Lifeachear, became fearful of their power and broke it by defeating them at the Battle of Gabhra. The dead were consigned to hell but, in later years, when Oisín and Cailte met St Patrick, they were released by the saint's prayers. (see also Feini)

Fianna Cycle (see Fenian Cycle)

Fianna Eirinn (see Fianna)

fiannuigreacht Irish

a leader, or leading group, of the Fianna

ficheall (see fidchell)

Ficna (see Fiachna<sup>1</sup>)

fidchell Irish

[ficheall.fidhcheall:=Welsh gwyddbwyll]

a board-game like chess

This game, said to have been invented by Lugh, was played by gods as well as mortals.

Fidelma (see Fedelma)

Fides<sup>1</sup> Roman

a goddess, fidelity personified

She wore only a white veil.

Fides<sup>2</sup> (see Deus Fides)

Fides Publica (see Deus Fides)

fidhcheall (see fidchell)

Fidi Mukullu African

a creator-god in Zaire

Fidius Roman

[Deus (Publica) Fides.Dius Fidius:

=Greek Zeus Pistios:=Sabine Sancus]

a name for Jupiter as god of good faith and contracts

Field Norse

a name for the earth used by the gods

Field of Asphodels Greek

a part of the underworld where souls wait while their fate is determined

Field of Celestial Offerings Egyptian

a part of the underworld where the deeds of men were weighed

Field of God (see Sad-El)

Field of Happiness (see Mag Mell)

Field of Iarhu (see Field of Reeds)

Field of Iaru (see Field of Reeds)

Field of Mars (see Campus Martius)

Field of Offerings (see Field of Reeds)

Field of Reeds Egyptian

[Field of Iar(h)u.Field of Offerings. Khemetel]

part of the underworld where the dead gathered cereals

Field of Towers (see Moytura)

Field of Truth Greek

the home of the 3 judges Aeacus, Minos and Rhadamanthus in the underworld

Field of Zoan (see Sekhet-Tehant)

field spirit European

[corn-spirit]

a spirit of growing crops

This spirit is said to flee through the crop in front of the mowers as they cut swathes, finally being caught and bound in the last sheaf which is preserved until the planting of fresh seed in the spring.

Fielding, Henry English

(1707–1754)

a dramatist

He was the author of the farce Tragedy of Tragedies in which King Arthur's wife is called Dloalolla.

Fields of Peace (see Amenti<sup>1</sup>)

Fierabras European

[Ferumbras]

king of Alexandria

a prince of Spain

son of Balan

brother of Floripas

This huge Saracen warrior owned much of the Middle East and Russia. He took, from the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, Christ's crown of thorns and the embalming fluid which could cure illness and heal wounds.

Another version says that he and his father captured Rome, killing the pope and escaping after a battle with Charlemagne's forces, reaching Spain with a number of holy relics.

Charlemagne pursued the Saracen, and Fierabras (in this account, measuring fifteen feet tall) challenged Oliver and was defeated. He converted to Christianity but his father, who refused to convert, was put to death. Charlemagne gave half of Spain to Fierabras and the other half to Gui de Bourgogne.

Fierabras' balsam European

embalming fluid taken from Jerusalem

by Fierabras

Fiery God, The (see Tè Atua Wera)

Fiery Mary (see Oynyena Maria)

Fiery Mirror (see Tezcatlipoca)

Fifinella

a female version of the gremlin

This particular female was said to tickle aircraft crew just as they had lined up the plane for a bombing run.

Fifth Sun Central American

[Four Earthquake.Naollin.Nahui Ollin]

fifth age of the Aztec creation cycle

This is the present age ruled by the god Nanautzin.

The gods' first choice for the ruler was Tecciztecatl but, when it came to the final ceremony in which the chosen one is required to commit himself to the fire, he could not summon the necessary courage to do so. Instead, Nanautzin threw himself into the flames and became the sun while Tecciztecatl had to content himself with the moon.

It is said that this age will end in destruction by earthquake.

(see also sun<sup>1</sup>)

fig faun

a desert monster or demon said to live on figs

fig gesture

a gesture made to ward off evil

This gesture is made by poking the thumb out between the index and middle fingers of a closed fist.

fig tree

a tree with edible fruit full of seeds

In some accounts, the Biblical Tree of Knowledge was a fig tree.

Some say the bo-tree under which the Buddha meditated was a fig-tree.

In the Pacific Islands the fig-tree, called waringin, is a sacred tree, said to be the home of spirits.

Figol Irish

a druid

He was reputed to have reduced the strength of the Fomoiré and increased that of the Danaans at the second Battle of Moytura. In some versions he was said to have poured fire on the Fomoiré.

figona Pacific Islands

[hi'ona.higona:=Solomon Islands vigona]

a Melanesian spirit in the form of a female snake

Some of these beings inhabit rocks, pools and trees and never appear to humans. Others are said to take the form of stones. In some islands, a figona is the ghost of a dead person.

(see also adaro)

file (see fili<sup>2</sup>)

Fili<sup>1</sup> Norse

one of the dwarfs

fili<sup>2</sup> (see filid)

fili<sup>3</sup> Irish

[plur=filidh.file]

one of an ancient learned order of sorcerers

Filial Piety (see Twenty-four) filidh (see fili<sup>2</sup>) Filimenis French
 an emperor of Constantinople
 in the French version of the Arthurian legends
filla-ma-loo (see philamalo)
Filth-eater (see Tlaelquarni)
Fimafeng (see Funfeng)
Fimbul Norse
 a river in Niflheim, one of the 12
 rivers known as Elivagar
Fimbul Winter Norse
 [Fimbulvetr]
 the exceptionally severe weather, lasting 3 (some say 7) seasons,
 which preceded the end of the world and Ragnarok
Fimbultyr Norse
 a name for Odin as 'great helper'
Fimbulvetr (see Fimbul Winter)
Fimila Norse
 a goddess attendant on Frigga
 one of the Asynjur
 In some accounts she is the same as Frimla.
Fin<sup>1</sup> Manx
 the Manx name for Finn mac Cool
Fin<sup>2</sup> (see Fionnbharr)
Finbar (see Barra)
Finbeus
 a knight of King Arthur's court
 His mistress, a fairy, had given him a stone which made the holder wise, handsome and invincible. Guinevere borrowed the stone and wanted it for herself, so Gawain won it for her by fighting Finbeus.
Finbheara Irish [Finnbeara]
 king of the fairies in Munster
 (see also Fionnbharr)
Fincara (see Finchory)
Finchaem (see Finchoom)
Finchoem (see Finchoom)
Finchoom<sup>1</sup> Irish [Finchaem.Fin(d)choem.
 Findchoom. Fionnchaomh]
 daughter of Cathbad and Maga
 sister of Conor mac Nessa
 wife of Amergin mac Eigil Salaigh mother of Conall Ceranach
 She raised the infant Setanta, the boy who later became known as Cuchulainn, and in some accounts was the sister of Cet.
Finchoom<sup>2</sup> Irish
 [Finchaem.Findchoom.Fionnchaomh] daughter of Eochaid Ronn
 She was carried off by Cuchulainn whom she loved.

Finchory Irish [(Island of) Fianchuive.Fincara]
 the undersea home of the sea-nymphs
 One of the tasks set for the Sons of Turenn, as punishment for the murder of Cian, was to get the golden cooking-spit from the nymphs of Finchory.
Find<sup>1</sup> Irish [=Gaulish Vindonnus]
 a seer, the personification of wisdom
 He was said to have emerged, already mature, from the water and became a great seer who, as with Finn mac Cool, could summon up knowledge by sucking his thumb. (see also Find File)
Find<sup>2</sup> Irish
 a name for Lugh as 'fair' or 'blond'
Find<sup>3</sup> (see Finn mac Cool)
Find Bennach (see Whitehorn)
Find File Irish
 a king of Leinster
 son of Ros Ruadh
 brother of Cairbre Nia Fear
 In some accounts, his other brother is Ailill mac Mata and he is regarded as a later manifestation of the seer, Find.
Findabar (see Findbhair)
Findabair (see Findbhair)
Findbaidhe (see Furbaidhe)
Findbhair<sup>1</sup> Irish
 [Findaba(i)r.Fionnabhair]
 daughter Ailill and Maev
 She loved Fraoch but could not marry him because he could not provide the bride-price. Her parents, who had offered Findbhair to Ferdia (and, in some accounts, to Fear Baoth also, or any other warrior) if he would meet Cuchulainn in single combat, induced Fraoch to swim in a lake where a monster lurked. Findbhair helped him to kill the monster and her parents agreed to allow her to marry Fraoch.
 In later years, she and her three children were carried off by cattle-raiders but were rescued by Fraoch and Conall Cearnach.
 Another version says that Fraoch challenged Cuchulainn and when he was killed, Findbhair died of grief.
Findbhair<sup>2</sup> Irish
 [Findaba(i)r.Fionnabhair]
 daughter of Lugaid Luaighne
 She fell in love with Fergus mac Leda when he came to her father's court at Tara.
Findbhair<sup>3</sup> (see Barra)
Findbhaire (see Barra)
Findchoem (see Finchoom)
Findchoom (see Finchoom)

Findchu (see Fionnchu)
Findbharr (see Fionnbharr)
Findearbh Irish
 a maiden of the Otherworld
 daughter of Conan Cinn Sleibhne Finn mac Cool fell in love with her and a wedding was arranged. When Finn arrived for the ceremony, his party was attacked by the girl's former lover, Fionnbharr, and driven away.
Findhmall Irish
 brother of Fiachna Casan
 He and his brother fought alongside Tuathal to help him regain the throne of Ireland from the usurper, Eilim.
Findias (see Finias)
Findlugh Irish
 father of Fionnchu
 He slept with Iodhnait and fathered Fionnchu on her.
findrina Irish
 a mythical metal
Fine Weather Woman North American
 daughter of an Indian chief Digging on the sea-shore, she found a tiny baby under a cockleshell. She reared the child, who was called Sin, and he grew very quickly, later changing into a bird and ascending into the heavens as a sky-god. She could cause storms simply by loosening her robe.
Fineces (see Finegas)
Finegas Irish
 [Finn Eger.Fin(n)eces.Finnegas.
 (Nuada) Finneigeas]
 a druid and magician
 He renamed Demna as Finn, instructed him in the magic arts and caught the Salmon of Knowledge. He gave it to Finn to cook and when Finn sucked his thumb, which had burnt on the fish, he, not Finegas, received the supernatural knowledge. He then gave the salmon to Finn to eat.
 In some accounts, he is referred to as Black Arcan, a name also applied to a supposed killer of Finn mac Cool.
Fingal Scottish
 the Scottish name for Finn mac Cool
Fingel Irish [Finghile] daughter of Daire mac Deadha mother of Noidhiu
 It was foretold that, if she bore a son, her own father would die. She was made pregnant by Angus Og (or, in some accounts, by a sea-spirit) and gave birth to Noidhiu nine years later.
 Daire died at the same time.
 In some accounts, the father was Umhall.

Fingen (see Finghein)

finger amulets

luck charms made from human fingers

Finger Man (see Si Jari)

Fingers of Ida (see Dactyls)

Finghein<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Fingen]

a king of Munster

Finghein<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Fingen]

a surgeon to Conor mac Nessa

It was he who decided that it would not be safe to remove the brain-ball, fired at Conor by Cet, which had lodged in the king's forehead.

Finghein<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Fingen]

a man in touch with the Otherworld

A woman of the Otherworld, named Rothniamh, visited Finghein every year and told him what the future would bring. She correctly predicted the birth of Conn who would become high-king and unite all the provinces.

Finghile (see Fingel)

finjo African

a fetish, usually in the form of a calabash or a small pot, in which the individual's spirit is housed

Finias Irish

[Finias]

one of the 4 cities cited as the origin of the Danaans

Uscius, master of this city, gave the Danaans the marvellous sword of Nuada.

Finisher North American

a creator-god of the Shawnees

Finn<sup>1</sup> Irish

a warrior in the Fianna
son of Gloré

He was one of the party which trapped Dermot and Grania in the Wood of Two Tents.

Finn<sup>2</sup> Norse

an early sun-god

Finn Cycle (see Fenian Cycle)

Finn Eger (see Finegas)

Finn Eamhna Irish

the 3 sons of Eochaid Feidhleach and Cloithfhionn

Breas, Lothar and Nar, the brothers of Clothra

When Cloithfhionn left her husband, she took her triplet sons, Breas, Lothar and Nar, with her. They raised a force to depose Eochaid and attacked, despite being offered a share of the kingdom. They were defeated at the Battle of Comar, fleeing to Connaught where they were overtaken by pursuing warriors and killed. Their father died of grief when he heard of their death. It was said that the three slept with their sister, Clothra, on the eve of the battle, fathering Lugaid Riabhdhearg.

Finn Focwolding Danish

a clan-chief

husband of Hildeburh

He was at war with the clan led by his brother-in-law, Hraef, who was killed in battle. The new leader, Hengest, talked peace but treacherously killed Finn and took Hildeburh back to her own people.

Finn mac Cool Irish

[Demna.Fair One.Find.Finn mac Cumhal.

Fionn mac Cuma(il).Fionn mac

Cumhail.=Manx Fin.=Scottish Fingal:

=Welsh Gwion]

a warrior, leader of the Fianna

son of Cumail and Murna

In some accounts, his father is called Umhall (a variant of Cumail) and his brother was Tulcha while others say that, when he was born, he was thrown into the sea and emerged with an eel in each hand.

When Cumail was killed by Goll mac Morna, Cumail's wife, fearing for the life of his son, hid herself in the hills until the child, Demna, was born. She then handed him over to her sister (or sister-in-law) Murna and the warrior-maid Liath Luachra who reared the boy in the wild. When Goll heard of him, he set the Connaught Fianna to hunt the boy down and kill him. Demna fled and soon gathered a band of warriors and found the survivors of the Battle of Knock in which his father had been killed. He then sought out the druid Finegas who tutored him.

Finegas caught the Salmon of Knowledge and cooked it. When Finn accidentally touched the fish and sucked his thumb, he acquired supernatural knowledge and the power to change his shape. Thereafter, putting his thumb in his mouth enabled Finn to foretell the future and heal the sick.

Another version of how Finn acquired supernatural knowledge occurs in the story of Culdub.

He killed Lia, the treasurer of the Fianna and gave his bag of money to the survivors of the Battle of Knock, including his uncle Crimmal, and won the captaincy of the Fianna by killing the demon Aillen who set fire to the palace at Tara every year, killing it with the magic spear given to him by Fiacha.

While Finn was hunting in Scotland, the king of Dublin landed from his ship and asked for Finn's help. Two (or seven) of his children, on the night they were born, had been seized by a huge hand which came down the chimney. His wife was now at the point of birth once again and he was afraid that they would lose another child in the same way. Finn and some of his men sailed to the king's home and, when the hand appeared, one of them seized it and tore off the arm of the giant who nevertheless seized the baby with his other hand. They tracked the giant over the sea to his tower and rescued not only the baby but several children the giant had previously stolen and two young hounds. When the giant pursued them, one of the men shot him through the only vulnerable part of his body – a mole on his left hand – and killed him. As a reward, Finn claimed the brindle whelp which he called Bran, leaving the other, Sceolan with the grateful parents. Finn was later captured by Lochlanners who left him bound in a glen where Sceolan, now gone wild, roamed. By showing the hound the golden leash he used for Bran, Finn tamed the ravaging hound and, when he was rescued by the Fianna, took Sceolan with him.

On another occasion, a very ugly man called Gilla Dacar, who had a broken-down mare, took service with Finn but left when the Fianna mocked him. Some who had climbed on to the horse's back were unable to dismount and were carried off to sea. Finn searched for them and found an island where he and his men entered a cave, emerging into the land under the sea, Tir-fa-Tonn. Here they helped a prince, Abharthach, who had previously appeared as Gilla Dacar, to rout the forces of his brother who had deprived Abharthach of his half-share of the kingdom.

One day when hunting, he and his men captured a hind which they took back to their fortress and which then turned into the maiden Saba who had been changed into a hind by The Dark Druid whose love she had rejected. She married Finn and stayed with him until he was called away to fight the Northmen. While Finn was away, the druid appeared in the form of Finn and turned Saba back into a hind. Finn searched for Saba for years but never found her. He once followed a hind (who was really the girl Milucra in disguise) to an enchanted island. Here she turned Finn into an old, grey-haired man because she knew that he would never marry her and she wanted to ensure that he would never marry her sister, Aine, of whom she was jealous. He was restored to his youth by Aine who gave him a drink when the Fianna dug down into the fairy mound where she lived. He refused a drink which would have restored his fair hair and remained grey-haired for the rest of his life. Years later, in another hunt, Finn found Oisín, 'little fawn', his son by Saba.

Another version of how he became grey-haired says that he was inveigled into diving into a lake to retrieve a bracelet dropped by the daughter of Cuilleann and was transformed into an old man. Cuilleann gave him a drink which restored his youth but left him with grey hair.

He lived for some time with Ailbe, daughter of Cormac mac Airt, who had answered a set of riddles he put to her.

He was betrothed to Grania but, at the betrothal feast, she fell for the charms of Dermot and eloped with him. Although Finn and Dermot were later apparently reconciled, Finn never forgave Dermot and when Dermot was mortally wounded by the boar on Ben Bulben, Finn refused to give him the drink of water that would have saved his life. He later married Grania.

Other women in his life included a number of mortal women such as Ailbe, Berrach, Cruithne, Daolach, Lendebair, Luchar, Maighnis, Manissa, Scoithfhionn and Smirnat and some from the Otherworld, including Aine, Blai Dheirg (Saba) and Scathach. He fathered a number of children including sons Aedh Beag, Caoince, Daire Dearg, Fergus, Feobhar, Iollann, Oisín and Raighne and daughters Aoi, Caon, Grián, Lugaid and Samhair.

A woman named Mair fell in love with Finn and sent him some magical nuts which would have put him in her power had he eaten them. Finn merely buried them.

One of Finn's men, Cairbre, slept with a woman who was Finn's lover at that time and the jester, Lomhna, told Finn when he saw them together. Cairbre killed Lomhna and Finn followed the murderer to his cottage and killed him. When another of his women fell in love with his servant, Derg Colla, he sent him into exile. Another woman he seized was called Badhamair and when she was beheaded by Cuirreach Life, Finn killed him too. As a result, Finn came into conflict with Fodhaidh Canainne, Cuirreach's half-brother. Finn also tracked down and killed Fearchas who had slain Lugaid mac Con.

On one occasion, a being from the Otherworld made off with a pig that Finn and his men were roasting but Finn retrieved it when he followed this being, Culdubh, and killed him with a spear-cast.

It is said that Finn recruited magicians and warrior-maidens from all parts of the world to save Leinster from a flood by sucking up the waters.

He spared the life of Midac, son of Colga the king of Lochlan, who was the only survivor of the battle with the Fianna when Colga invaded Ireland, and he gave the young man land at the mouth of the Shannon. Years later, Midac brought an invasion force of his compatriots to Ireland and they trapped Finn and some of his men in the Hostel of the Quicken Trees where only the heroism of Fiachna, Innsa, Fotla and Dermot saved them from death.

In a Scottish story, the giant Cucullin crossed the Giant's Causeway to find and challenge Finn who bit off the giant's middle finger, the source of all his strength, whereupon he crumbled to dust. In this story, Finn's wife was called Oona.

He is said to have been 230 years old when he died and is reputed to have built the Giant's Causeway as stepping stones across to Scotland.

The accounts of his end vary considerably. One version says that he was killed by a man referred to as Black Arcan or by Aichleach during a rebellion among the Fianna. Another says that, in the Battle of Gabhra, the five sons of Uigreann, who had been killed by Finn, each threw a spear so that each could claim a part in his death. Some say he was drowned when he tried to jump across the River

Boyne and still others say that, like King Arthur, Finn is merely sleeping, waiting for a call to serve his country again. Others say that he was re-incarnated as Mongan.

(see also Noidhiu)

Finn mac Cumhail

(see Finn mac Cool)

Finnabair

Irish

wife of Rianganabair

mother of Etan, Id and Laeg

Finnbeanach (see Whitehorn)

Finnbeara (see Fionnbharr)

Finnbehenach (see Whitehorn)

Finnbehanach (see Whitehorn)

Finnbenach (see Whitehorn)

Finnebenach (see Whitehorn)

Finnbehanach (see Whitehorn)

Finnbheara (see Fionnbharr)

Finnbhenach (see Whitehorn)

Finneces (see Finegas)

Finnegas (see Finegas)

Finneigeas (see Finegas)

Finnen (see Finnian)

Fingheal Irish

sister of Feardomhain

When her brother was fighting a wild boar, she ran to help him but fell into a lake and was drowned.

(see also Finnine)

Finnian

Irish

[Finnen.Finnian of Moville]

a saint

When Mughain, who had been punished by god with barrenness, appealed to him for help, Finnian gave her holy water to drink and she produced first a lamb and then a fish. He then blessed Mughain herself and she bore Aedh Slaine.

He was told the history of Ireland by Tuan mac Carell.

Finnilene

Celtic

one of the 4 Alaisiagae

Finnine

Irish

sister of Feardomhain

wife of Conan mac an Leith Luchra

Conan treated her so badly that her brother, Feardomhain, killed him. In other stories, his sister was called Fingheal.

Finn's People (see Fianna)

Finntain (see Fintan)

Finola (see Fionuala)

Fintan<sup>1</sup>

Irish

[Finntain.Fionntan]

son of Labraid and Bochna

husband of Cessair

father of Lara

foster-father of St Caillin

He was one of the three men who came to Ireland with Cessair and fifty women and was the only one of the party to survive the flood which he did by taking shelter in a cave and changing himself into a salmon. He is said to have lived for thousands of years, acquiring great wisdom and may be regarded as a manifestation of the seer, Find. Others say that this fish is the same as the Salmon of Knowledge.

(see also Goll Easa Ruiadh.
Salmon of Knowledge)

Fintan<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Finntain.Fionntan]
a prince of Munster
father of Fursa

Fintan<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Finntain.Fionntan]
a warrior of Ulster
father of Cethern

Finuweigh Indonesian

a creator-god

Finvara (see Fionnbharr)

Finvarra (see Fionnbharr)

Fiobh Scottish

a Pict
one of the 7 children of Cruithne
When Cruithne divided Scotland between his seven children, Fiobh was given Fife.

Fiodach (see Idath)

Fiodhbhadhach Irish

the name used by Angus Og when he appeared to the poet Flann

fiofo South American

in the lore of the African population of Surinan, an insect

This insect is said to be generated when one feigns friendship for an enemy. It can cause sickness, real death or death of the soul. Those so killed can be revived by a sorcerer who divines the cause of resentment and removes it by the pura mofo ceremony.

Fiollnir<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Fiolnir.Fjólnir]
son of Frey and Freya or Gerda

Fiollnir<sup>2</sup> Norse

a name for Odin as a shape-changer

Fiollnir<sup>3</sup> (see Feng<sup>3</sup>)

Fiolnir (see Fiollnir)

Fiolsvid<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Fiolsvidr.Fjolsvidr]
a name of Odin as 'the wise one'

Fiolsvid<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Fiolsvidr.Fjolsvidr]
a giant

He guarded Menglod (Freya) when she was held captive until she was rescued by Svipdag.

Fiolsvidr (see Fiolsvid)

Fionan Cam Irish

son of Becnat

He was said to be the son of Becnat by a golden salmon with which she mated while swimming in a lake.

He was credited with the introduction into Ireland of wheat from Italy.

Fionguala (see Fionuala)

Fionn Cycle (see Fenian Cycle)

Fionn mac Cumail
(see Finn mac Cool)

Fionn mac Cumal
(see Finn mac Cool)

Fionnabhair (see Findbhair)

Fionnachta Irish

[Fionsneachta]
a high-king of Ireland
son of Dunchadh
father of Breasal

He befriended the young Adamnan
but they later fell out when Adamnan criticised the king for some foolish action.

He was tricked by St Moling into giving up the annual tribute, the boramha, that had been levied on Leinster for many years.

Fionnbharr Irish

[Fin.Findbhar.Finnbheara.Finvar(r)a] king of the Otherworld
husband of Oonagh

It is said that crops in Connaught flourished when his fairy hurley team defeated teams from other provinces and he once appeared to ride a racehorse, winning in fine style before disappearing into the fairy world
again.

He loved the Otherworld maiden, Findearbh, daughter of Conan who had promised her to Finn mac Cool, and raised an army which attacked and drove off Finn and his party when they arrived for the wedding ceremony.

He and his wife, both Danaans, became king and queen of the fairies,
deposing Mac Moineanta.

Fionnbharra (see Barra)

Fionnchaomh (see Finchoom)

Fionnchu Irish

[Fanahan.Findchu]
a warrior and saint
son of Findlugh and Iodhnait

He spoke while still in his mother's womb, causing several vats of ale to break open. He was later reputed to spend the night suspended from sickles, watching over a newly-dead person to ward off evil. He also used sickles to suspend himself for seven years to make himself pure enough to be received into heaven.

He took part in many battles, leading from the front and breathing out fire, if the opposing forces rejected his offers of peace.

Fionnghuala (see Fionuala)

Fionntan (see Fintan)

Fionnuala (see Fionuala)

Fionsneachta (see Fionnachta)

Fionuala Irish

[Finola.Fionguala.

Fionnghuala. Fionnuala]

daughter of Lir by his first wife, Aobh
(see Children of Lir)

Fiorgyn<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Fiorgynn.Fjorgyn(n)]
a giantess

mother of Erda and Thor, some say

In some versions, Fiorgyn was an early fertility goddess and mother of Frigga:
some equate her with Erda. In other accounts she was one of the Asynjur.

Fiorgyn<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Fiorgynn.Fjorgyn(n)]
a name for Odin as a thunder-god

Fiorgyn<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Fiorgynn.Fjorgyn(n)]
in some accounts, a husband of Frigga

Fiorgynn (see Fiorgyn)

Fiorm Norse

[Fjorm]
a river in Niflheim, one of the 12 rivers known as Elivagar

Fiorner Norse

[Fjorner]
a name used by Odin when he sang runes to Sigurd about his forthcoming battle with Lygni

Fiothal (see Fitheal)

Fir Bholg (see Fir Bolg)

Fir Bhuilg (see Fir Bolg)

Fir Bolg Irish

[Fir Bholg.Fir Bhuilg.Firbolg]
an early invading tribe

Descendants of the earlier invaders led by Nemed, in some stories they were said to have been defeated by the Danaans at the first Battle of Moytura and exiled. Other versions say that they made peace and lived in Connaught. Some say they came from Spain, others from Greece where, it was said, they were forced to carry soil, in leather sacks, from the fertile valleys to the rocky mountain tops. They rebelled, made boats from their leather bags and sailed to Ireland where they ruled for thirty-seven years, dividing the country into five parts.

There were three groups; the Fir

Bolg, Fir Domnan and Fir Gailean.

Fir Chlis Scottish

[Merry Dancers.Nimble Men]
the Aurora Borealis which was regarded as being made up of the souls of fallen angels

Fir Dea (see Fir Dhearg)

Fir Dhearg Irish

[Fir Dea.Red Men]
imps, the forerunners of the leprechauns

Fir Dhomhnann (see Fir Domnan)

Fir Domnan Irish

[Fir Dhomhnann.Fir Domnann]
a branch of the Fir Bolg

Fir Domnann (see Fir Domnan)

Fir Gailean Irish

[Ga(i)le(i)on.Ga(i)lio(i)n.Galieran.Galioin]
a branch of the Fir Bolg

Fir Sidh Irish

the inhabitants of the sidhe:
fairies

Firavitoba South American

a divine king of the Chibcha of Colombia

Firbauti (see Farbauti)

Firbolg (see Fir Bolg)

Firdaus (see Gardens of Paradise)

Firdausi Persian

[Firdaws]
the 10th c author of Shah Name

Firdausi (see Firdausi)

fire

fire plays a part in many mythologies, sometimes for the benefit of man, sometimes to destroy the world, sometimes to carry a soul to heaven

(1) In Celtic lore, the sacred fire of the Druids was known as Tan.

(2) In China it is said to typify summer, destroy metal and produce earth. It came into being when earth and sky separated.

(3) In the East Indies, the inhabitants of Woodlark Island say that a young man stole fire from the heavens and gave it to man, whereupon the angry deity split what remained into two parts and threw it into the sky, forming the sun and moon.

(4) The Greeks say that Prometheus stole fire from the heavens for the benefit of mankind and, for this crime, was chained to a rock for 30,000 years while a vulture pecked his liver, which was eaten by day, and restored by night.

(5) In Hindu lore, fire was used to control dragons and is regarded as sacred. There are three forms: Dakshinagni, the fire of the atmosphere, the fire of Vayu, associated with dead ancestors; Ahavaniya, the fire of the sky, the fire of Surya; Garhaptya, the fire of Agni, associated with mankind.

(6) In Japan, as in China, fire was produced when earth and sky separated and is regarded as a symbol of the phoenix.

(7) The Mexicans regard fire as a life-giving force and keep a fire burning for four days when a child is born to protect it from evil.

(8) Norse mythology says that the final battle between the forces of good and evil, the Battle of Ragnarok, ends with the world destroyed by fire started by the flaming sword of the giant Surtur.

(9) In the Pacific, fire is said to protect the living from onslaughts by the dead.

(10) Some North American Indian tribes keep a fire alive perpetually in the belief that, if the fire dies, the people will also perish.

(11) In Persian lore, fire is the purest element and is regarded as sacred. There are five forms of sacred fire: Bahram fire, composed of sixteen different types of fire and kept always alight with sandalwood; Spenishta, the most sacred fire, which burns in paradise; Urvazishta, fire caused by friction; Vazishta, the fire of lightning; Vohu Fryana, the fire producing the internal body heat of animals and men.

(12) The Phoenicians regarded fire as an element, offspring of primal beings Genos and Genea.

Fire Dogs Korean

animals living in Gamag Nara

The king of this realm sends out the Fire Dogs to capture the sun or the moon so that he can have light in his nearly dark country. They always fail but, when they bite the sun or the moon, they cause an eclipse.

Fire Dragon North American

a celestial spirit of the Iroquois

The supreme spirit made the maiden, Awenhai, pregnant but came to believe that she had been seduced by Fire Dragon or Aurora Borealis so he pushed all three of them out of the sky through the hole that appeared when he tore up the onodja tree.

Fire Drill North American

a spirit of the tribes of the south-west
It was said that he, Buckeye Bush and Shooting Star set on fire the first world created by Ollebis.

Fire Face (see Nikobo)

Fire Fade Japanese

[Fireshade.(Hiko-)hoho-demi.Ho-wori.

Hoori.Urashima.Yamasachi]

a Shinto deity

son of Ninigi and Sengen

brother of Fire Flash and Ho-no Susori husband of Toyo-Tama

father of Amasuhiko

He was an expert hunter who swapped roles with his brother, Fire Flash. He borrowed his brother's magic fishhook but lost it in the sea. When retrieving the fish-hook from the sea-bottom, he met Toyo-Tama, daughter of the Dragon-King of the Sea, Watatsumi, and married her. He was given the magic jewels which gave him control of the tides. His wife gave birth to a dragon but when he disobeyed her and saw the birth, she assumed the form of a sea-dragon and returned to her home in the sea, leaving the infant Amasuhiko who grew up to be the father of Jimmu Tenno, the first emperor.

(see also Urashima)

Fire Flash Japanese

[Fireshine.Ho-deri.Ho-no-susori.

Ho-suseri.Hoderi.Umisachi]

a Shinto deity

son of Ninigi and Sengen

brother of Fire Fade

He was an expert fisherman, owner of a magic fish-hook, who one day exchanged roles with his brother.

Fire Mocassins North American

a monster in tribal lore

This ogre wore mocassins which set alight everything they touched as he walked.

Fire of the Dragons

(see Zmayevska Vatra)

Fire Thunder (see Hono-ika-zuchi)

firedrake European

a fire-breathing dragon

These beasts lived in caves, usually guarding treasure. One such monster was killed by Beowulf but inflicted wounds on the hero from which he died.

firefly Japanese

small nocturnal insects which glow in the dark

In Japan, these insects are regarded as the souls of the dead.

In the Pacific, the Balinese believe that leyaks can turn into fireflies.

Fireshade (see Fire Fade)

Fireshine (see Fire Flash)

Firm Island European

the home of Apollidon and Grimanesa

It was here that Apollidon built the Arch of True Lovers and the Forbidden Chamber to test the purity of lovers who might enter.

firmemed (see nemed<sup>2</sup>)

First Ancestor Australian

the creator of the Dieri aborigines

He first created tiny black lizards but, when he found that they could not stand properly, he cut off their tails and they became human beings, ancestors of the tribe.

First Creator North American

a deity of the Mandan tribe

He created the mountains, trees, streams and some animals while Lone Man created the flat lands.

first humans

most cultures have stories of the first human beings and how they came into existence

-African

(1) The Abaluyia say the first couple were Mwambu and Sela who lived in a house on stilts.

(2) In Angola they say that the first man was Nambalisita, created by the god Kalunga.

(3) The Bakongo say that the first man, made by Nzambi, was Ndosimau who married the woman Breaker of Prohibitions or, in another version, the androgynous Mahunga was split by the tree, Muti Mpurgu, into a man, Lumbu, and a woman, Musita.

Another version says that Nzambi created a being called Muntu Walunga, with male and female faces, in the form of a palm tree.

(4) The Bakuba say Kihanga was created by Imana and descended from heaven. His skin was black and white. The first woman, Nchienge, produced a son, Woto, and a daughter, Labama, who married.

(5) The Bambara say that Pemba the wood-spirit created a woman, Musso-koroni, who produced animals and humans.

(6) The Banyarwanda say the first man was Kazikamunti.

(7) In Botswana the first man is known as Tauetona.

(8) The Buganda say that the first man was Kintu, forerunner of the Dinka.

(9) The first man in the lore of the Burundi was Kihanga, made by Imana.

(10) The Bushongo say the first man was called Woto.

(11) The first man of the Dinka was Garang and the first woman was Abuk. (see also (7) above)

(12) The Dogon say the first human, made by Amma, was Amma-Serou.

(13) The Efe say that Baatsi was made from the earth by god who also made a woman. She developed a pre-natal craving for the forbidden fruit nahu, and Baatsi picked it for her. As punishment, god took away their immortality.

(14) In Liberia they regard Gonzuole as the first woman.

(15) In Madagascar they claim the first man was Andrianbah-omanana and the first woman was Andriamahilala.

(16) For the Makoni, the first man was Mwuetsi for whom was made a girl, Massassi, who bore the grass, trees, etc. and a woman, Morango, who bore animals, birds and human children.

(17) The Mande say that Faro and Pemba were twins generated from seeds planted by the gods at the four corners of the earth. Faro's body was cut up and the pieces scattered to become trees.

(18) The Masai say the first human was a pygmy named Dorobo.

(19) The Orandonga called the first man Amangundu.

(20) In Potomozini or Vere.

(21) The Shilluk say that the first man was Omara.

(22) In Uganda they say that the first woman was Nambi.

(23) The Yoruba say that Oreluere was the first of sixteen men made by Olodumare.

(24) In Zaire they say the first man was Mokele.

-Australian

The first men of the Aborigines were the rangga. The Dieri tribe say that the creator-god known as First Ancestor created tiny black lizards and, when he found that they could not stand properly, he cut off their tails and they became the first humans.

-Balkan

In Slovenia it is said that, when god was making the world from a grain of sand, a drop of his sweat fell on to the sand and from this mixture human beings were created.

-Burmese

(1) The first man, Thanoi, and the first woman, E-u, were created by the supreme god Ea-pe.

(2) The creator-spirit, Hkun Hsang Long, created the first couple, Ta-hsek-khi and Ya-hsek-khi, who were born in the form of tadpoles living in the lake Nawng Hkeo. After eating the gourd, they mated and the creator renamed them as Ta-hsang-kahsi (Yatawn).

(3) Some believe that men were descended from tadpoles.

-Central American

(1) The Aztecs say that Cipactonal and Oxomoco were the first couple, created by Pilzintecuhtli. Other accounts say that Xolatl retrieved bones from the underworld and produced the first man and woman from ground-up bones mixed with the blood of the gods.

(2) The Mayas say the gods created four brothers, Balam Agab, Balam Quitzé, Iqi Balam and Mahucutah, from whom the human race descended.

-Chinese

The first man was Pan-ku; or he modelled mankind from clay; or they developed from fleas on Pan-ku's body; or they were the children of Fu-hsi and his wife Nü-kua; or Nü-kua made men from clay.

-East Indian

(1) In the Admiralty Islands, the primordial being known as Hi-asa cut her finger and collected the blood in a shell. Two eggs formed from the blood and the first man and woman emerged from the eggs.

(2) In Borneo the first man was Bujang.

(3) The Dayaks say that the first two beings were Amei Awi and Buning Une, gods of agriculture, who had twelve children, eight of whom became the ancestors of the tribes while the other four became the phases of the moon.

An alternative version says that the first man was Tunggal Garing and the first woman was Puteri Bualu.

(4) In the Moluccas the first two men were known as Maapita and Masora. In another story the first human was Patinaya Nei who took the form of banana-tree, the fruit of which produced further humans.

(see also (12) below)

(5) In New Guinea the first woman was Namora. She swallowed a fish and produced a son, Maruka Akore. These two mated to produce the tribes.

(6) In the New Hebrides they say that the first woman was Jujumishanta and that the first man was Morfonu who was made from her body.

(7) On Nias the first man was called Sihai.

(8) Some Papuans say that the maggots that bred in the body of a dead female wallaby became the first humans. Another Papuan story says that a huge turtle swimming in the primordial waters laid eggs from which emerged the first man, Kerema Apo, and the first woman, Ivi Apo. Next came Avo Akore and Ohare Akore who became coconut trees. (9) In Sulawesi, the first two beings were the brothers Sangkuruwira and Guru ri Seleng. Their children, Batara Guru and Nyilitimo, came to earth to produce ancestors of the people. Another story says that the sun-god, Ilai, and the earth-goddess, Indara, made humans by breathing life into stones.

Yet another version says that the first human being was the woman, Lumimu'ut, born from a stone. Her son, Toar, produced when she was made pregnant by the wind, mated with her to produce the people and their gods.

(10) It is said that the first man stole the feathers of one of a flight of cassowaries which had taken off their feathers to bathe when they appeared as women. He kept the woman and mated with her to produce the forerunners of the human race.

(11) The creator-god, Mahatala, carved a stick into the shape of male and female human figures.

When he threw it down, it broke into male and female halves. He was Tunggal Garing and she was Puteri Bualu. Her menstrual blood produced all the demons in the world but, following instructions from Mahatala, they were able to procreate properly and produced many children, ancestors of the tribes.

(12) Some tribes believe that the first humans emerged from trees or came from the fruit of a tree which became the god Lowalangi.

(see also (4) above)

(13) Other tribes say that the first man was Turer who now acts as the guide for souls on their journey from Beg to Boigu.

(14) Still other tribes say that man came from larvae and worms living in the soil.

–Egyptian

The first men were formed from the tears of the god Ra-Atum. Some say that all men (except black people) were born from the eyes of Horus.

–Greek

(1) The Argive story says that Phoroneus was the first man and his daughter Niobe was the first woman.

(2) The first man was Pelagus. The first woman was Pandora, created by Zeus as a gift for Prometheus, or in some stories for Epimetheus, who rejected her.

(3) Men were created by the gods, first the golden race like gods whose spirits lived on; then the silver race, less intelligent, whose spirits did not live on; then the brass race who were very violent and killed themselves; then the heroes who had great adventures and departed to the Islands of the Blessed and finally the iron race, the present race, who will get steadily worse until the gods destroy them.

(4) The first man, created by Prometheus, was Phaenon who became the planet Jupiter. The other humans created by Prometheus grew so wicked that Zeus destroyed them in a flood. Only Deucalion, son of Prometheus, and his wife Pyrrha escaped, warned of the coming disaster by his father. They were told to throw the bones of their mother behind them. They interpreted this to mean stones and did what they were told. From the stones came the Stone People from whom the present races are descended.

–Hindu

In the early Vedic scheme of things, the first male being was Purusha from whose body the world was made; the first couple were Manu and Parsu.

In the later Hindu version, the first man was Yama and the first woman was Yami, born of Vivasvat, the rising sun.

Others say the first man was Nara who acted as Vishnu's bow-carrier.

–Indian

In the Andaman Islands they say that the first man, Juptu, was born inside a bamboo cane and that he made himself a wife from clay.

–Mesopotamian

(1) The Akkadians regard Adapa as the first man. He was made from clay by the god Ea and was consequently half-human, half-divine.

(2) The Babylonians said that the first humans were made from the blood of Kingu.

(3) The Sumerian version has it that the first man was made from clay by Nimmah.

–Mongolian

The first man in Altaic lore was Torongai and his mate was Edji.

–New Zealand

(1) The god Tane made Hine-ahuone from sand and fathered Tiki, the first man, and the Dawn Maiden.

(2) The first woman was Papanau-moku and the first man was Wakea.

(3) Another Maori story has Marikoriko as the first woman, created by Arohirohi.

–Norse

The first man was Ask, made from an ash tree; the first woman was Embla, made from an elm tree.

–North American

(1) The Acoma say that the first man was Tiamuni.

(2) Some Californian tribes say that Ejoni and Ae, created from the soil by Nocuma, were the first couple. Others say that the first man was Uoiot. In some accounts, humans were made from flakes of the creator's skin.

(3) The Cherokee say that the first man was Kanati and his wife was Selu.

(4) The Chinook tell a story in which Too-hux cut open a whale and out flew the raven, Hahness. The giantess Quooots-hooi ate the raven's eggs from which the first humans appeared.

(5) The Fox say that the first man was Mama'sa'a.

(6) The Hopi say that Sky Father and Earth Mother produced One Alone, the progenitor of mankind. Another story says that the god Kloskurbeh created two beings, one from his breath and the other from one of his tears. These two mated to produce the first humans.

(7) The Huchnom say that the first humans were made from sticks of wood.

(8) The Kato say that the first man was Nagaitco.

(9) The Keres say the first man was Pashayani.

(10) The Maidu say that the first man was Kuksu and the first woman, Laidamlulum-Kule. They were given the power to rejuvenate themselves by immersion in water.

(11) The Mandan say that the first man was Numokh Mukana.

(12) The Navaho say that First Man and First Woman produced a daughter, Estantlehi, who created the progenitors of the tribes from maize-flour or ears of corn. In another version, she produced humans from pieces of her own skin.

Another version says that the first man, Aste Hastin, mated with the first woman, Aste Estsan, who produced five sets of twins who became the ancestors of the Navaho.

(13) The Papago say that the first man was Montezuma who later proclaimed himself all-powerful.

(14) The Pawnee say that Bright Star mated with Great Star to produce the first woman while Sakuru and Pah produced the first male, Closed Man. The man and woman mated to populate the earth.

(15) The Pueblo Indians call the first men the Koshare, made from the skin of a goddess. The first man was Poseyemu.

(16) The Shawnee version has it that men were created from ashes, clay and beads.

(17) Sia lore says that two sisters, created by Sussistinnako, were the first humans and the ancestresses of the Indian tribes. Nowutset was the progenitor of the other human races.

The Tagua of New Mexico call the first man Puspuyama.

(18) The Sioux say that the first man was We-Ota-Wichusa (Rabbit Boy) who was born from a tear shed by the sun. He mated with First Woman, created by the Great Spirit, to produce the forerunners of the tribes.

(19) The Zuni Indians envisage a dual-sex deity, Awonawilona, who formed the sun which mated with the sea which consolidated and split into earth and sky, Awitelin Tsta and Apoyan Tachi. These produced the first humans, the first man being Poshaiyangkyo. These first beings were said to have several animal features, including webbed feet.

—Pacific Islands

(1) On Fiji, the hawk Turukawa laid two eggs which were incubated by the primaeval serpent, Degei, and hatched a human boy and girl who started the human race. The first woman was called Vitu.

(2) In the Gilbert Islands the creator-god, Nareau, made the first couple, Debabou and De-ai.

(3) In Hawaii the first man was Kumu-honua, made from mud by Kane, and the first woman was Lalo-honua.

Another version says Wakea was the first man and his wife was Papananau-moku while yet another says that Tiki was the first man and Iowahine the first woman, both created by Tane.

(4) In the Marshall Islands they say that the first man, Wulleb, and his female consort, Limdunanji, were born from the leg of the god Loa. Another story says that Wulleb and Lejman, two worms, in a shell, became the first couple.

(5) In Melanesia, the god Hasibwari came down to earth and made the first woman from clay and the first man from one of her ribs.

(6) In Micronesian lore the first woman was La'i-La'i.

(7) In New Britain, the first man was To-Kabinana who was formed from the earth and the blood of the creator-god. His brother, To-Karvuvu, was formed next. To-Kabinana found a mate when a woman emerged from a tree which he had felled.

(8) In the Philippines, the Tagalog account says that men emerged when bamboo canes cast ashore from the sea were split open by birds.

(9) The Polynesians have a story that Matuenga or, some say, Tane, created Tiki, the first man, who mated with Hina.

(10) Samoans say that the first man was Atu and the first woman was Ele'ele, the consort of the god Fetu.

Another account says that the first man was Tele or Tutu and the first woman was Ila, Tonga or Upolu, while others say that the first couple grew from a pair of grubs.

(11) In Tahiti they say that the god Ta-aroa made a man from red clay and later put him to sleep, took a bone from the man's body and, with it, made a woman.

(12) In Tonga, the first man was Kohai.

(see also Tiki')

—Persian

(1) The primaeval man, Gayomart or Gaya Martan, was poisoned by Ahriman. From his seed came Mashye and Mashyane, the first couple, who were in the form of plants with fifteen leaves from which came ten races. They ate their own offspring until Ormazd made them unpalatable.

(2) Another version has Yima and Yimeh as the first mortals. Some say that men were made from the body of the cow, Ur-Kuh, killed by Yima.

(3) Another story says that the first mortal couple were Tazh and Tazhak.

—Siberian

(1) The Buriats say that the first man was Erlik, created by Ulgan.

(2) The Chukchee people say that the first human was Ku'urkil.

(3) The Koryak say that the first man was Quikinna'qu.

(4) The first couple of the Tungus were Khadau and Mamaldi.

–South American

(1) The first men were killed in a flood after the animals and their tools revolted. The sun re-emerged after five days and hatched five eggs from which emerged five falcons who became men.

(2) Another story says that an early race was made by Con, the boneless man, but they were turned into monkeys by Pachacamac who made a new race.

(3) The Arawak say that the first woman was the stone-woman, Maiso.

(4) The Castunawa say that, when the giants who inhabited the earth were killed in the flood, their bodies rotted in the sun and men emerged from the maggots that appeared on the corpses.

Another story says that men grew from seeds planted in the earth.

(5) The Chaco say that the first men were made of stone, the second race of wood and the final race from clay.

(6) The Chamacoco say that men come out of trees when they are split open.

(7) The Incas were said to have issued forth from a cave, Pacari, which had three exits. Eight ancestors of the royal family, four male, four female, emerged from the central exit, the common people from the other two.

Another story says that the god Inti sent his son and daughter, Manco Capac and Mama Occlo, down to earth to teach mankind.

Another version says that Viracocha made the first men but they were unsatisfactory so he turned them all into stone and made a new race.

Pachacamac, the Inca creator-god made the first man and woman but he overlooked the fact that they would need food. The man died but the woman bore a son to the sun-god. Pachacamac then produced fruit and vegetables from the body of this boy whom he killed.

Another Peruvian story says that men emerged from eggs produced by the sun-god. The status of the person was determined by the type of egg (gold, silver or copper) he came from. Other accounts say that the eggs were produced by a huge bird.

Yet another version says that the first man was Guamansuri, father of the twins Apocatequil and Piguerao.

(8) The Mbaya say that men were dug up from the earth by a dog which had picked up their scent or, in another version, hatched from eggs laid on top of a mountain by a huge bird.

(9) In the lore of the Paressi tribe, the first man was Uazale, son of the stone-woman, Maiso.

(10) The Quiche Indians say that the first men, made from mud, were too weak to stand and had no mind; a second race, made of wood, were totally self-centred and were destroyed by the animals and tools; the third and final race was made from clay.

Another story says that the first man was Hurakan, created by Gucamatz and Qubanil.

(11) The Taulipang say that the first men were made from wax but they melted in the heat of the sun so the culture-hero who made them tried again and made men from clay.

(12) The Terero say that the first men emerged from a hole in the earth.

(13) In Tierra del Fuego some say that the first man was Keros who made sexual organs from peat. These mated to produce the forerunners of the people.

(14) In the lore of the Tupari of the Amazon region, the first man was Valedjad, a giant born from a rock.

(15) The Warrau say the first humans descended from the sky.

(16) The Yaruro (and others) say that the first humans came up from an underground world.

–Taiwanese

The early Formosans said that men emerged from a rock when it split open.

–West Indian

The first man was Louquo who came down from the sky.

First Made Man North American
one of the early humans in the lore of the Tewa pueblo tribe

It appears that men existed before the earth dried out from the primordial ocean, living in two caves, the bright home of Summer Mother and the gloomy abode of Winter Mother. These beings sent First Made Man to the surface from time to time to see the state of the world and he continually reported that it was not fit for humans. Finally he went up again and was attacked by various animals but his wounds healed and the animals gave him symbols to take back to his people. He led his people up from the cave of Summer Mother and settled them in the plains and then brought up those from the cave of Winter Mother and settled them along the shore-lines. He then went off to live among the animals where he was made Hunt Chief. (see also Poseyemu)

First Man North American

a name used by Coyote in his dispute with Lone Man

First of the Westerners

(see Khenti-Amentiu)

First Real Boy North American

in the lore of the Metis tribe, a boy who once snared the sun

(see also Little Brother)

First Sun Central American

[Four Ocelot.Sun of Jaguar.

Sun of Water]

the first of the 5 ages of the Aztec creation cycle

In this first era, the world was populated by giants who lived on acorns and were ruled by Tezcatlipoca. His reign lasted for 676 years and at the end of that time he was killed by Quetzalcoatl and became a jaguar who killed the giants.

Another version, called the Sun of Water, says that animals and man existed in total darkness. The animals ate the men and the world was overwhelmed by a flood from which only two humans escaped to continue life.

(see also sun')

First Time Egyptian

the beginning of the world

Fisaga Pacific Islands

the soft sea breeze

fish

[ichthys]

fish are sacred in some cultures, in others they play an active role in myths

(1) Some African tribes regard fish as the embodiment of departed souls.

(2) In China the fish is regarded as a symbol of regeneration.

(3) In the East Indies, the fish Maivia Kiviva grew tired of swimming and came ashore, became a two-legged being and produced two sons who became the ancestors of the tribes of New Guinea.

(4) In Egypt, where several types of fish are sacred, a talisman in the shape of a fish was said to bring good fortune. As an emblem of Osiris, it signified rebirth; as an emblem of Set it signified evil.

(5) Hindu mythology tells of ten avatars of Vishnu, the first of which was in the form of a fish known as Matsya, in which form he towed the boat of Manu to safety when the flood came.

(6) In parts of India, as in China, the fish is regarded as a symbol of regeneration.

In the far north, some tribes throw fish-bones back into the sea in the belief that they will become fish for the next season.

(7) In Persian lore, the fish Mah supports the universe.

Fish-man Mesopotamian

one of the Eleven Mighty Helpers, created by Tiamat (see Kilili)

fish-god

a god in the form of a fish

Fish-knight

British

a monster fish

This monster, which looked like a knight on horseback, was killed by King Arthur who then released the Lady of Fair Hair. This fairy, who had been held captive by the Fish-knight, became the king's lover.

Fisher King

British

[Fisher King.Grail Keeper.Grail King.King Pêcheur.Le Roi Mehaigne. Le Roi Pêcheur Maimed King. Parlan.Pellam.Rich Fisher. SinnerKing.Wounded King] the keeper of the Holy Grail brother of Goon Desert husband of La Veve Dame, some say

In some accounts a distinction is made between the Fisher King who was said to be Pelles and the Maimed King, variously known as Parlan, Pelham, Pell(e)am, Pellean or Pelleham. The alternative name, Le Roi Pêcheur, is capable of two translations giving Fisher King or Sinner King. Others say his name was Bron, a friend of Joseph of Arimathea while others identify him with Joseph. Some Grail stories refer to him as Amfortas.

A common feature is that he somehow became wounded, usually in the thigh(s).

Some accounts say the wound was caused by the Sacred Spear or by Balin or by the fragments of the sword which killed Goon Desert; some say it was punishment for drawing the Sword of Strange Girdles.

It was said that, because of this wound, his only occupation was fishing - hence his title. (see also Alan<sup>1</sup>.

Amfortas.Pelles.Rich Fisher)

Fisherman King (see Fisher King)

fishes (see Pisces)

Fith Norse

a dwarf
one of the Lovar

Fitheal Irish

[Fiothal]
a judge
father of Socht and Flaithri

He decided that Cormac mac Airt should have Socht's sword which had once been used to kill Cormac's grandfather, Conn.

Fithir Irish

daughter of Tuathal

When Eochaid, king of Leinster, caused the death of Fithir and her sister Dairne, both of whom he had married, their father, the high-king, killed Eochaid and exacted a tribute of cattle.

Five Ages Greek

the intervals in the development of the human race

The first age, the Age of Gold, was one of revelry and happiness, free of disease and old age. Next came the Age of Silver in which men became arrogant and were destroyed by Zeus for neglecting the gods of Olympus. In the Age of Bronze which followed, men discovered metals, became brutal and killed each other in war. The fourth age was the Age of Heroes, those born of the union of gods and humans, characterised by the classical heroes of Greek myths. The final period is the Age of Iron where men must work and where evil opposes good.

Five Brothers North American

in the lore of the Snohomish, 5 seal hunters

One of these five brothers tricked the others into following a wooden seal into the far northern seas where they got lost, finally landing in a place inhabited by very strange dwarfs. When these people were attacked by ducks and cranes, the four brothers drove the birds off and revived the dwarfs who had been shot with feather-darts discharged by the birds. On their way home, the brothers changed into killer whales for the long sea journey and then, having exacted vengeance on their brother, became whales again and swam out to sea.

Five Buddhas Chinese

deities in the Chinese pantheon based on the Five Emperors

Five Celestial Buddhas

(see Dhyani Buddhas)

Five Classics Chinese

5 of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon

These works are listed as Ch'un-ch'iu, I Ching, Li Ching, Shih Ching and Shu Ching. The other four in the canon are known as the Four Books.

Five Demons Chinese

[Five Devils.Five Plague Spirits] plague demons causing sickness These demons caused such problems when they were sent down to earth by the Jade Emperor that they were banished to the underworld on the orders of Chang Tao-ling. He allowed them to return later and the emperor gave them symbols of office - a fan for the demon causing colds, a fire-basket for the one causing fevers, a wolf-stick for the bringer of toothache, a band of iron for the one who causes headaches and a water-jug for the one who causes sweating.

Another version says that, when they came to earth, they became scholars but were reduced to playing as itinerant musicians when they were robbed. The emperor then used them to test the magic powers of T'ien-shih and they were killed. When their spirits tormented him, T'ien-shih restored them to life and gave each of them the power to cause a particular ailment.

Five Devils (see Five Demons)

Five Elements (see elements<sup>2</sup>)

Five Emperors Chinese

creator-gods

These were Chuan Hsü, Huang Ti, K'u, Shun and Yao and they, with the Three Sovereigns, created the universe.

Five Falcons South American

the Peruvian hero Paricaca and his 4 brothers

Five Flower (see Macuilxochiti)

Five Great Gods (see Mahapancaraja)

Five Great Kings (see Mahapancaraja)

Five Holy Mountains (see Wu Yüeh)

Five Lamat Central American

the eighteenth of the 20 days of the Mayan creation cycle

On this day the sea-lake was created.

(see also Lamat)

Five Lands Tibetan

the countries making up the universe

The centre was occupied by Rirab Lhunapo, a mountain, which extended some 3,000 miles above and below the earth's surface. The surrounding lands, floating in the primordial ocean, were Balancho, Dra Minyah, Dzamo and Lo Phag.

Five Lords Chinese

sky-gods

Each of these deities was responsible for a particular part of the heavens and they are given as Ch'i, Ch'ing Ti, Huan Ti, Huang Ti and Po Ti.

Five Men Central American

the fifth day of the 20 days of the

Mayan creation cycle

On this day life forms (but not humans) were created. (see also Men)

Five Plague Spirits (see Five Demons)

Five Sacrificial Beasts Chinese

these are the dog, the fowl, the goat, the pig and the ox

Five Separate Heavenly Deities

(see Separate Heavenly Deities)

Five Sisters North American

in the lore of the tribes of British Columbia, primordial beings

These daughters of the creator-god, the Old One, were created from hairs from his beard. Three of them became earth, sea and sky, the others became the progenitors of the human race.

Five Sisters of Long Life Tibetan

sister-goddesses of the Himalayas

(see Sisters of Long Life.

Miyolangsangma. Tashi Tseringma)

Five Suns Central American

the intervals in the development of the world, in Aztec myths

The first period, which lasted for 676 years, was ruled by Tezcatlipoca who was superseded by Quetzalcoatl who ruled the Second Sun. The Third Sun was the period of Tlaloc's rule which ended when the earth was destroyed by fire. The fourth period, ruled by Chalchihuitlicue, ended with a world-wide flood. The present Sun, the Fifth, ruled by Nanautzin, will end when the world is destroyed by earthquakes.

Five Tales (see Khamseh)

Five Wisdom Buddhas

(see Dhyanibuddhas)

Fjalarr (see Fialar)

Fjalarr (see Fialar)

Fjol Svinnsmal Norse

a dramatic poem in the Elder Edda

Fjollnir (see Feng.Fiollnir)

Fjolsvidr (see Fiolsvidr)

Fjolsvidr (see Fiolsvidr)

Fjolvinnsmal Norse

a poem in the Elder Edda

Fjorgyn (see Fiorgyn)

Fjorgynn (see Fiorgyn)

Fjorm (see Fiorm)

Flaga Norse

a wicked fairy

flail Egyptian

the symbol of Seker

Flaitheas Irish

[Flatheas.Flathius]

a goddess of sovereignty

consort of the high-king of Ireland

In the guise of an ugly old woman, she demanded to be kissed. Only Niall was prepared to oblige, whereupon she turned into a beautiful young girl, the very embodiment of sovereignty.

Flaithri Irish

son of Flithead

He was the tutor of the son of the high-king, Cormac, and, as a test, told the queen that he had killed the boy. She betrayed his secret to the king and Flaithri would have been executed had he not produced the boy alive and well.

Flamberge European

[Floberge]

a sword of Charlemagne and Rinaldo

In some accounts the sword belonged to Aymon who when he was dying, gave it to Rinaldo. (see also Fusberta)

Flame Phoenician

offspring of Genos and Genea

Flame God Australian

a deity who devoured humans

A race of winged men, the Keen Keings, captured humans and threw them into a hole in the cave where the fire-god lived.

flamen Roman

[plur=flamines]

a priest

There were originally three flamines, one dedicated to each of the gods Jupiter, Mars and Quirinus. In later years, there were twelve or fifteen. All were lifetime appointments.

flamen Cerialia Roman

a priest of Ceres

flamen Dialis Roman

a priest of Jupiter

flamen Florialis Roman

a priest of Flora

flamen Furrinalis Roman

a priest of Furrina

flamen Martialis Roman

a priest of Mars

flamen Pomonatis Roman

a priest of Pomona

flamen Portumnatis Roman

a priest of Portumnus

flamen Quirinalis Roman

a priest of Quirinus

flamen Vulcanatis Roman

a priest of Vulcanus

flamines (see flamen)

Flaming Teeth Pacific Islands

a giant of Fiji

This huge giant was killed by a band of youths who extracted the teeth which were like flaming logs. As a result, the islanders had fire for the first time.

flaminica Roman

the wife of a flamen

flaminica Dialis Roman

wife of the flamen Dialis who helped her husband in his priestly duties

flaminium Roman

the office of a flamen

Flann Irish

a man from the Otherworld

He and his brother were constantly fighting other relatives for possession of an island which had belonged to their grandfather, Feadhach. He met Bec Fola and took her to this island but later returned her to her husband. A year later, wounded from the fighting, he re-appeared on the scene and Bec Fola went with him, never to be seen again.

Flann Aidhne Irish

[Flann mac Lonain]

a chief poet

He was once given a bullock to feed himself and his starving companions by a giant who demanded compensation. Flann recited a poem which satisfied the giant who called himself Fiodhbhadhach but was really Angus Og.

Flann mac Lonain (see Flann Aidhne)

Flannan Irish

a saint

son of Toidhealbhadh

It was said that, on his journey to Rome to be consecrated, he was carried by a floating rock. He performed many miracles and caused any meat stolen to putrefy before the thieves could eat it and turned to stone those who sought to satirise him.

Flasher, The (see Fat)

Flatey Book Norse

a 14th c document which includes

Hyndlu-Ljod and the abridged

Voluspa

Flatheas (see Flaitheas)

Flathius (see Flaitheas)

Flauros

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This being, depicted as a leopard, is said to have the power to destroy enemies of the sorcerer by fire.

Flea-footed (see Piqu-Chaqui)

Fleadh (see Fled)

Fleberdigibet

a demon of the dance

(see also Flibbertigibbet)

Fled Aise (see Feast of Age)

Fled Bricend Irish

[Fleadh Bricend.Fledd Bricenn]

the story of Bricciu's feast

Fled Goibnenn (see Feast of Goibhniu)

Fledd Bricenn (see Fled Bricend)

Flesh North American

a supernatural being of the Winebago

twin brother of Stump

Their mother was killed by an ogre before they were born and they were rescued from her body and raised by their father who later left them.

They killed many monsters, including the one who had killed their mother, but when they killed a beaver, one of the animals said to support the world, the supreme god, Earthmaker, intervened to stop their activities.

Flibbertigibbet<sup>1</sup> British

a demon in King Lear

(see also Fleberdigibet)

flibbertigibbet<sup>2</sup> British

a fiend of mowing

flibbertigibbet<sup>3</sup> North American

a fabulous animal

Flidais (see Flidhais)

Flidass (see Flidhais)

Flidhais Irish

[Flidais.Flidass.Fliodhais:=Gaulish

Dea Arduinna]

a goddess of wild animals, a huntress goddess

mother of Fand and Li Ban, some say

In some accounts, she was the wife of a king called Adhamain to whom she bore a son, Nia Seaghamain. Others say that she was the wife of Fergus mac Roth who had taken her from Ailill Fionn who was killed when Fergus attacked his castle. In some versions, Flidhais is referred to as Muinchinn and Ailill as Donal Dualbhiu.

She owned the marvellous cow, Maol, that could provide milk for hundreds at one milking.

Flight of the Chiefs<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

an ancient kingdom in Fiji during the golden age of that island

This kingdom, in which people could talk to the spirits of their ancestors, was ruled by The Eldest.

Flight of the Chiefs<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a collection of tales of Fijian lore

by B. H. Quain

These stories were largely composed by Velema who is said to have heard them from his predecessors or by direct communication with deceased ancestors.

Flint<sup>1</sup> North American

son of Nokomis

He is said to have stolen from his own mother a dish of blood from which Wabus emerged.

Flint<sup>2</sup> North American

brother of Manabozho

He was one of quadruplets and he killed their mother at birth. He was killed by Manabozho when they grew up.

Flint<sup>3</sup> (see Othagwenda)

Flint Boys North American

tutinary deities of the Pueblo tribes,

flint personified

These spirits gave freely of themselves so that the people could fashion tools and weapons.

Flint Man North American

a monster, in the lore of the Apache

This monster, one of many killed by Killer-of-Enemies, took the form of a huge rock.

Fliodhais (see Flidhais)

flitterick North American

a fabulous animal

Floating Sky Pacific Islands

in the lore of Bali, a region of heaven

Floberge (see Flamberge)

Floire (see Floris)

Follo (see Frollo)

Flood

[Deluge]

many cultures have myths relating to one or more inundations, referred to as the Flood or the Deluge, sent to eliminate the human race,

usually with an advance warning to enable a few to survive to repopulate the world

—Australian

The rain-spirits of the Aborigines, known as the Wandjina, were so disgusted with the behaviour of the first humans that they vomited, producing a flood that wiped out the entire race. Thereafter, they set about creating a new race and taught them how to behave properly.

—Central American

(1) In the lore of the Aztecs, the god Titlacahuan warned Nata and his wife Nena of the impending deluge which ended the Fourth Sun. They built a dug-out canoe and survived on one ear of maize.

Another version has the flood occurring at the end of the First Sun when people became fish.

(2) The Mayan floods, caused by Hunab, put an end to various phases of the creation cycle and, in one story, caused the sky to collapse. Kanziyui raised the sky to its normal position and supported it on trees.

(3) Some Mexican tribes say that the flood was sent by the god Hokomata. After it had subsided, Pukeheh, the daughter of Hokomata's brother Tochopa, mated with the gods Sunshaft and Waterfall to repopulate the earth.

—Chinese

(1) The thunder god trapped by their father gave Nü-kua and her brother Fu-hsi a tooth when they set him free. From this grew a tree which produced a gourd in which the children survived the ensuing flood. They mated but produced only an unformed lump of flesh. Fu-hsi cut this into pieces and scattered them over the earth to produce mankind.

(2) The flood was caused when Kung Kung pulled down the pillars supporting the sky. Alternatively, he tore a hole in the sky when he tried to commit suicide by banging his head against the heavenly bamboo.

—Egyptian

When Ra tired of man's muttering against him, he sent Hathor-Sekhmet to kill them. He then brewed corn beer, flooding the country. The goddess got drunk and forgot what she was about.

—Greek

Prometheus warned his son, Deucalion, that Zeus was about to send a flood so Deucalion built an ark and survived with his wife Pyrrha.

-Hindu

A god, Vishnu, appearing as a small fish found in his washing water, warned Manu of the coming flood. It outgrew successively a bowl, a tank and a lake and had to be put in the sea. Manu built a boat and the fish towed him to safety on Mount Himavat when the flood came. The gods granted him a wife and they became the progenitors of the present human race.

-Irish

Cessair was Noah's grand-daughter but even she was refused a place in the Ark. She sailed for Ireland where she landed with fifty women and three men, the only survivors. Most of them later perished in the flood.

-Korean

When the flood came, a huge bay tree, which had fathered a son on a heavenly being, was toppled but his son was saved by riding over the waves on the floating tree. He rescued a swarm of ants and another of mosquitoes and also a young boy. They all landed on a mountain where they found the only other survivors, an old woman with two daughters. The four young people were able to repopulate the earth.

-Lithuanian

It is not made clear what caused the flood but there are various stories about what happened after the flood had come.

In one version, Pramzimas threw a nutshell into the waters. The shell became a boat and one man and one woman survived in this boat to restart the human race.

In another version, all the animals and humans gathered on the top of a mountain and Pramzimas sent a boat in which they sailed away, leaving behind only one elderly couple. This pair, instructed by Pramzimas, jumped nine times. On each occasion, a young couple appeared and these became the progenitors of a new race.

-Mesopotamian

(1) Ea warned Atrahasis who survived in the ship Preserver of Life. In another version, Ea warned Utnapishtim.

(2) Enki warned king Ziusudra of the flood being sent by Enlil, enabling him to survive.

-New Zealand

The Maoris say that the flood resulted from the efforts of the rain-gods to douse the fire which started when Maui stole fire from Mahuika.

Another story says that Tawhaki stamped on the floor of heaven, releasing the waters through the cracks his action caused.

-North American

(1) Some Algonquian tribes say that the spirits of the underworld, the anamaqiu, caused a flood when Manabush killed two of their number. Manabush managed to escape by climbing a tree which, by magic, he caused to grow much higher. Otter, Beaver and Mink died in an attempt to find dry land but Muskrat finally found a small piece of soil from which Manabush re-created the world.

(2) The Caddo say that four monstrous children, each with four arms and legs, stood back to back in a square and grew until they fused together and reached the sky. A man planted a rod which also reached the sky and was told to take his wife and a pair of each of the animals on earth into a reed when the flood came. The monsters fell into the waters and were drowned and when the waters subsided, those inside the reed emerged to repopulate the earth.

(3) The Inuit say that only they existed before the flood. After the waters had receded the first white people appeared, fathered on one of their girls by a dog.

(4) In the lore of the Papago, only Montezuma, the first man, and Coyote, the trickster, survived the flood in boats they had made. After the waters receded, Great Mystery repopulated the earth.

(5) The Pima say that the flood was sent by Great Eagle and that only Szeuka survived.

(6) A Sioux story says that the flood was sent by Unktehi, a water-monster. One girl was rescued by the eagle Wanbhee Galeshka who took her up to his nest on a high peak. They mated and produced twins, a boy and a girl, who became the progenitors of a new tribe.

(7) The Skagit of the west coast say that the flood covered the world leaving only the tops of Mount Baker and Mount Rainier exposed. Two people in a canoe managed to escape and repopulated the world.

