-Pacific Islands

(1) In the Banks Islands, Qat was warned of the flood and built a canoe in which he survived.

(2) In Fiji, the flood was sent by Degei to drown the people who had killed his friend, the hawk Turukawa.

(3) In Hawaii, Nu'u survived in a ship that landed on a tall mountain.

(4) In the Society Islands, a fisherman's hook became entangled with the hair of a sleeping sea-god, Ruahaku, who was so angry that he sent the flood.

(5) Some say that the flood was caused by the rising of a sea-goddess from the depths of the ocean.

-Siberian

The Buriats say that the creator-god, Ulgan, warned Namu of the coming flood and he built an ark in which he survived.

-South American

(1) Advance warning of one of the floods was given by the llama.

(2) The Araucanians blame the two huge serpents known as Kaikai and Trentran for causing the flood when they demonstrated their powers by causing the waters to rise.

(3) The Arawaks blame the flood on Sigu who cut down the tree of knowledge allowing water to gush out to cause the flood.

(4) The land of the Chibcha Indians was flooded by the work-god Chibchacum, aided by Chia, and the god Bochica appeared as a rainbow to create a channel to the sea and bring out the sun to dry the land.

(5) The Inca god Viracocha caused a flood to destroy the first humans, after which he created a new and better race.

(6) The Karaya tribe say that the flood was sent by the demon Anatiwa but some of the tribe escaped when the water-hen, Saracura, brought soil which they used to raise the height of the hill Tupimare.

(7) The Quechua say that the only part of the world not covered by the flood was Mount Condorcoto. When the waters receded, five men were born from eggs that had survived the flood on the higher part of the mountain.

(8) The Tupari say that the flood was caused by the the first man, the giant Valedjad.

(9) In the Tupi story, Arikute and Tawenduaré quarrelled and the latter split the earth when he stamped on the ground, allowing water to come gushing out.

(10) Other versions say that the god Monan tried to destroy the earth with fire and the flood was caused when a magician, Irin Mage, brought about a heavy downpour that put out the flames but also flooded the earth.

–Taiwanese

The Taiwanese say that Peiroun was warned of the coming flood and was able to escape.

–Thai

The flood was sent by the sky-gods, the Thens, when the people refused to acknowledge the gods.

Flora Roman

[=Greek Chloris;=Hindu Kusumamodini] an Italian goddess of flowers and fruitfulness consort of Favonius, some say

She is said to have touched Juno with a magic herb so that she conceived Mars without the help of Jupiter.

Floralia Roman

a festival in honour of Flora held in April/May

Flordelis European

a maiden

She was travelling with her lover, Florismart, when he was challenged and defeated by Astolpho.

When Florismart was imprisoned in the Castle of Oblivion, she enlisted the sympathy of Angelica, who had escaped from the besieged city of Albracca to seek help, and Florismart and the other imprisoned knights were freed.

Flore (see Florie)

Florence<sup>1</sup> British

a Knight of the Round Table son of Gawain

He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravain and Mordred when they attempted to trap Lancelot and Guinevere in flagrante. All except Mordred were killed by Lancelot.

Florence<sup>2</sup> British

daughter of the king of Sorlois She was wooed by Arthur of Brittany.

Florestan European

a knight son of Perion and Elizena brother of Amadis and Galaor He and his brothers restored Briolania to the throne of Firm Island, overthrowing the tyrant who had usurped the kingdom. When they arrived on Firm Island, both Florestan and Galaor refused to try to pass through the Arch of True Lovers and, when they tried to enter the Forbidden Chamber, they were thrown back by unseen forces while Amadis was allowed to enter.

Florete French

daughter of the emperor of Constantinople wife of Floriant

Floriac European

a Gascon servant of a duke of Guienne

He and his master had been carried off by pirates and sold as slaves to a Barbary prince. His master converted to the Muslim faith and became a city governor and Floriac was allowed to live nearby as a Christian. He gave hospitality to Huon and Sherasmin on their journey to the court of the sultan, Gaudisso.

Floriant French

son of Elyadus foster-son of Morgan le Fay husband of Florete

When the emperor of Constantinople attacked Sicily, King Arthur went to the aid of the king, Elyadus. Floriant married the emperor's daughter, Florete.

Floriant et Florete French

a 13th c story of these two lovers

Florie<sup>1</sup> British

[Flore] a queen of Kanadic

She raised Ilinot, one of King Arthur's sons who died of grief when she rejected his love.

Florie<sup>2</sup> British

[Flore] niece of Joram

In some accounts, she was the wife of Gawain and mother of Wigalois.

Florie<sup>3</sup> British

[Flore] in some accounts, mother of Grimal by Evelake

Florie<sup>4</sup> European

sister of Corboran

In some accounts, she married the Christian crusader Godfrey de Bouillon who became king of Jerusalem.

Florinda Spanish

daughter of Juhan

She was raped by Roderick.

Floripas European

daughter of Balan

sister of Fierabras wife of Guy de Bourgogne

She protected the prisoners, including Oliver, held by her father until they were rescued by Charlemagne and fell in love with one of them, Guy de Bourgogne, whom she later married.

Floris European

[Floire]

a king of Hungary husband of Blanche fleur father of Bertha

The Saracen king of Spain captured a group of French pilgrims and one of the ladies in the group gave birth to a girl, Blanche fleur, on the same day that the king's consort gave birth to a boy, Floris. They grew up together but Floris was sent away to school and Blanche fleur was sold to a slave-trader.

Floris set out to rescue her and stayed with Darius, a bridgekeeper, in Babylon where Blanche fleur was imprisoned. He bribed his way into the tower and was reunited with his beloved but they were later found in bed together and condemned to death. Their obvious love for each other softened the emir's heart and they were allowed to marry and return to Spain.

Florisdelfa British

a sorceress

She was taught the magic arts by Merlin and is said to have killed herself out of envy of Isolde's beauty.

Florismart European

[Lord of the Sylvan Tower]

a Saracen knight who became one of Charlemagne's paladins

He was defeated by Astolpho, in single combat, who spared his life and they became friends.

He was imprisoned in the Castle of Oblivion but freed by Angelica, who had escaped from the besieged city of Albracca, when Flordelis, his lady-love, told Angelica of his plight.

When he heard of Roland's madness, he went in search of him and met Rodomont at the bridge leading to the chapel he had built to the memory of Isabella. They fought and Florismart was defeated but, to please Flordelis, Rodomont spared her lover's life, keeping him as a prisoner. Sent to Africa as a slave by Rodomont, he was released by Astolpho who was leading the Abyssinian forces at the siege of Biserta. When Agramant withdrew from France to defend his capital, Florismart, Roland and Oliver were chosen to do battle with Agramant, Sorbino and Grassado to settle the war. Florismart was killed in this encounter.

Floron

a demon

Flosi Norse

a leader of the Sigfussons
The Sigfussons and the Njalssons had carried on a feud after Thrain, a Sigfusson, was killed by Skarp-Hedin, one of Njal's sons. The feud culminated in an attack, led by Frosi, in which all the male Njalssons, except Kari, were killed and their house was burnt to the ground.

Flosshilde German

one of the 3 Rhine-daughters

Flower Aspect (see Blodeuedd)

Flower Face (see Blodeuedd)

Flower Feather (see Xochiquetzal)

Flower Festival (see Hanamatsuri)

Flower of Kings British

a name for King Arthur

Flower of Women (see Plur na mBan)

Flower Prince (see Xochipilli)

Flowerface (see Blodeuedd)

Flurent Norse

mother of Isolde in the Icelandic version of the Tristram story

Flute Dance North American

a ritual dance of the Hopi in honour of the sun-god

Flwdwr (see Ffrwdwr)

Flyers, The (see Wakinyan)

Flying Carpet Arab

[Green Carpet]
a huge carpet on which Solomon was said to be able to transport 2 lions and 2 armies

Flying Dutchman, The German

[Der Fliegende Hollander.Vanderdecker]
Frustrated by winds that prevented his ship from rounding the Cape of Good Hope, he swore to manage it even if it took forever. An evil spirit condemned him to keep this oath from which he would be released only when a good woman promised to be faithful unto death. He was allowed to land only once every seven years, retaining his youth while his crew grew grey and wrinkled as the centuries passed.

He gave some of his cargo of treasure to Laland, the captain of a Norwegian ship, and fell in love with his daughter, Senta. She would have married him but, seeing her with her young friend Erik, who also loved her, Vanderdecken put back to sea rather than expose her to the curse which dogged him. She threw herself from the top of a cliff and her suicide, proving her faithful unto death, lifted the curse of the Flying Dutchman whose ship sank beneath the waves.

Flying Head North American

a monster, in the lore of the Iroquois
This monster, in the form of a head with huge wings and sharp fangs, killed and ate all animals including those domesticated by the tribes. When it saw a squaw swallow some hot chestnuts, it thought to do the same but swallowed the red-hot stones of the fire and was killed.

Flying Horse<sup>1</sup> European

in a French story, an animal created by Merlin

flying horse<sup>2</sup> (see Arion. Hippogriff.Pegasus)

Fo<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Foh.O-fo.Fu-hsi]
a fire-god or sun-god
a Chinese version of the Buddha (see Hua-kuang)

Fo<sup>2</sup> Chinese

the elephant, an animal sacred in Buddhism

Fo-hsi Chinese

son of Mo-yeh
His mother, walking beside a river, found herself encircled by a rainbow. She dreamt that she was pregnant with a white elephant and, twelve years later, Fo-hsi was born.

Fo-mo Ta Ti Chinese a name for Kuan-ti as one who subdues demons

Fo Shou Chinese

[Buddha's Hand]
a citrus fruit, shaped like a hand with 2 fingers pointing upwards

Foam Woman North American

an ancestress of the Haida
She was said to have the power to project lightning from her eyes to repel the forces of evil and was envisaged as having many breasts at which she suckled the clan ancestors.

Foawr Manx

[=Irish Fomoire]
a race of giants: the Manx name for the Fomoire

Focalor (see Forcalor)

Focas (see Forcas)

Fochlam Irish

a charioteer to Innel
He and his master were killed when Innel fought Cuchulainn at the ford.

Fodhla (see Fohla)

Fodla (see Fohla)

Foeneus (see Oeneus)

Fog of the Path Pacific Islands

a warrior of Flight of the Chiefs
This warrior had the ability to conjure up fog to discomfit enemies in battle.

Fogall (see Forgall)

Foh (see Fo<sup>1</sup>)

fohat Chinese

the Chinese version of the Sanskrit daivi prakita

Fohla Irish

[Fod(h)la.Fotla]
one of 3 goddesses, with Banba and Eire, original rulers of Ireland an aspect of the Triple Goddess wife of Mac Cecht, king of Ireland
Some say that Fohla married one of the Sons of Tuirenn.

In some accounts, the name is used for Ireland.

Foich Irish

a charioteer to Err
He and his master were killed when Err fought Cuchulainn at the ford.

Foill Irish

son of Nechtan Scene brother of Fannell and Tuachell
He was a supernatural being but he was nevertheless killed by Cuchulainn.

Foland (see Volund)

Folkvang Norse

[Folkvangr]
the realm of Freya, the site of her palace Sessrymnir

Folkvangr (see Folkvang)

Follach Irish

father of Tigernmas

Follaman Irish

son of Conor mac Nessa
He was killed when fighting alongside Cuchulainn against the forces of Connaught.

Follower North American

a creator and culture-hero of the Pueblo tribes
twin brother of Preceder (see Twins<sup>2</sup>)

Foltor Irish

[Faldabra]
the finest tracker in Ireland

He was in the ship with Finn and Faruach when they followed Gilla Dacar and rescued the men he had carried off.

Fomhair Scottish

[Famhair.Fomhairean:=Irish Fomhoire] mountain giants, controllers of fate gods of death

Fomhoire (see Fomhoire)

Fomhoireans (see Fomhoire)

Fomhoire Irish

[Domnu's Gods.Fomhoire(ans).Fomoiri.
Fomorians. Fomoiri.Formori(i).Formors.
Lochlanners.'sea giants':=Manx Foawr]
a one-legged, one-armed race of demons living under the sea deities of the Fir Bolg

These beings, some of whom had animals heads, had three rows of teeth and were said to be the descendants of Ham, son of Noah. They were defeated by the Partholians at the Battle of Magh nIotha and banished to the Hebrides and were in continual conflict with the later Danaans.

They once stole the Dagda's harp which flew from the wall where it had been hung, killed those who stole it and put the others to sleep with its music.

They fought one or, in some accounts, two major battles with the Danaans at Moytura and were finally defeated when Balor's evil eye was knocked out by Lugh's slingshot and all the Fomhoire soldiers died at the sight of it. (see also Fathach)

Fomoiri (see Fomhoire)

Fomorians (see Fomhoire)

Fongaside South American

a servant of Naymlap

Fons Roman

[Fontus] a god of springs
son of Faunus and Juturna

Fons Castalius (see Castalia<sup>1</sup>)

Fontarabia European

[Fuenterrabia]
the site of Charlemagne's final battle
It was said that the Emperor and all his knights fell to the Saracens at Fontarabia. Another account says that Charlemagne was killed in this battle but came back to life and rallied his troops, leading them to victory.

Fontinalia Roman

a festival in honour of the god Fons, which involves the dressing of fountains and springs, held on October 13th

Fontus (see Fons)

foo (see hoo)

Fool of Barr Uisce Irish

a giant

He was said to have killed Fergus mac Roth by shooting him with holly pricks.

Fool of the Forest (see Moroie Mor)

Footprints of Buddha Buddhist

[=Cambodian Prah bat] stones said to bear the imprints of the Buddha's feet

Reproductions carved from stone bear various religious symbols such as the swastika, the lotus and the fish. The originals were said to be caused by the weight of the Buddha's knowledge which was such that rocks softened where he trod. It is said that the marks on the soles of the Buddha's feet were caused by the tears of sinful women who wept at his feet. One such was known as Amrapati.

One such footprint is to be found on the mountain in Ceylon known as Adam's Peak. This sacred footprint (the Sripada) is regarded as the Buddha's last point of contact with the earth.

Foraii (see Morax)

Forax (see Morax)

Forbay (see Furbaidhe)

Forbidden Chamber European

a room on Firm Island

This structure was built by Apollidon to test the purity of lovers who tried to enter. In a hundred years, none had managed to enter. When Amadis and his friends came to Firm Island, only Amadis could enter, the others being thrown back by unseen forces.

Forbidden Island, The British

an island defended by the knight Grey-steel

Forbidden Mountain European

the site of the castle, home of Archalaus

Forbidden Path (see Rua-tapu)

Forcalor

[Focalor]
a demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to have been a sea-demon causing shipwreck and is depicted either as a winged human or as a man astride a griffin.

Forcas

[Focas]
a demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

Fordicidia Roman

a festival in honour of Tellus held on April 15th at which a cow and a calf were sacrificed

Forest of Dooros Irish

the wood in which grew the quicken tree guarded by the giant, Sharvan

Forgall Irish

[Fogall.Forgel]
a poet

He fell into a dispute with Mongan and demanded as compensation to sleep with Mongan's wife, Breothigheam. The warrior Cailte arrived with proof that Mongan was right just in time to save the lady's honour.

Forgall Manach Irish

[Fogall.Forgel]
lord of Lusca
a chieftain, known as 'the Wily'
father of Emer and Fiall

He refused to let his daughter Emer marry Cuchulainn until he had trained as a warrior. When this was done, Forgall went back on his promise and still refused and was killed by Cuchulainn.

In another version, he was still alive at the time of Cuchulainn's last battle and begged him not to go.

Forgel (see Forgall)

Formali Norse

a story from the Younger Edda

Formenus Irish

a Christian king of Thrace

He built a tower in the Alps and when Daithi, on one of his many expeditions overseas, knocked the tower down, the Irish leader was killed by a thunderbolt.

Formori (see Fomhoire)

Formorii (see Fomhoire)

Formors (see Fomhoire)

Fornacalia Roman

an ancient festival in honour of Fornax or Vulcanus, deities of furnaces or ovens

Fornaldarsaga Norse

a collection of Icelandic legends

Fornax Roman

a guardian goddess of ovens and baking an aspect of Vesta

Forneus

a demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He appears either as a sea-monster or as a man and is said to have great knowledge of the arts and sciences.

Fornjot (see Ymir)

Fornjotnr (see Ymir)

Fors Italian

[Fors Fortuna:=Greek Tyche:
=Roman Fortuna]
a goddess of chance

Fors Fortuna (see Fors)

Forsete (see Forseti)

Forseti Norse

[Forsete.Fosite]

the god of justice and truth
son of Balder and Nanna

His gold and silver palace, Glitnir, held the throne on which he sat to dispense laws and settle disputes.

Fort of Carousal (see Caer Feddwid)

Fort of Glass (see Caer Wydyr)

Fortress of Glass (see Caer Wydyr)

Fortress of Marvels British

the building where the Lady of the Castle was imprisoned

When Percival came to her aid and killed the hags of Gloucester who had set a trap for him, the Lady of the Castle disappeared from the mortal world.

(see also Castle of Wonders)

Fortriu Scottish

a Pict

one of the 7 children of Cruithne

When Cruithne divided Scotland
between his seven children, Fortriu was given Strathearn.

Fortuna Roman

[Primagenia:=Greek Tyche:=Italian Fors (Fortuna)]

a goddess of chance or fate

a fertility goddess

She was said to have acquired as one of her attributes the horn of Achelous broken off by Heracles when they fought.

She is usually depicted as standing on a ball, a globe or a wheel, sometimes blindfolded.

(see also Felicitas)

Fortuna Virginensis Roman

the goddess Fortuna as guardian of newly-married women

Fortuna Virilis Roman

the goddess Fortuna acting to preserve the beauty of women so that they retained the favour of their husbands

Fortunatae Insulae

(see Fortunate Islands)

Fortunate Fields

(see Fortunate Islands)

Fortunate Islands<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Blessed Islands.Islands of the Blessed.

(Three) Isles of the Genii. San Hsien

Shan.Shen-t'ao.Three Islands of the Blest]

the home of fairies and immortals

The fairies are said to eat gemstones collected from the coastline and retain their immortality by drinking from the fountain of life. The immortals live on the sacred fungus which grows on these islands which are called Fang-chang, P'eng-lai and Ying-chou. It is said that a large fleet was sent to look for these islands in the 2nd C BC but failed in the attempt.

Another story says that these islands originally floated in the eastern sea but were later anchored by huge tortoises at the behest of the Celestial Emperor.

In some accounts, there are five islands in this group.

Fortunate Islands<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Blessed Islands.Fortunatae Insulae.

Fortunate Islands.Islands of the Blessed.Isle(s) of the Blest]

the home of the souls who have attained Elysium 3 times

Some identify these islands with Elysium, others as a separate place.

(see also Elysium)

Fortunate Islands<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Blessed Islands,Islands of the Blessed]

an earthly paradise somewhere to the west of Ireland

Fortunate Isle (see Avalon)

Fortunatus German

a mediaeval hero

He was the owner of a magical cap that granted his every wish and a never-empty purse.

Fortune British

a girl at a spinning-wheel

It is said that the fall of King Arthur was predicted in his dream in which he was tied to Fortune's wheel and smashed to pieces.

Fosite (see Forseti)

Fothad Airglech

(see Fothadh Airgtheach)

Fothadh Airgtheach Irish

[Fothad Airglech]

son of Mac Nia and Fuinche

brother of Fothadh Cairptheach and

Fothadh Canainne

He was regarded as one of a triune
deity with his two brothers. He killed Cairptheach and was himself killed by Cailte.

Fothadh Cairptheach Irish

son of Mac Nia and Fuinche

brother of Fothadh Airgtheach and

Fothadh Canainne

He was regarded as one of a triune
deity with his two brothers.

Fothadh Canainne Irish

son of Mac Nia and Fuinche

brother of Fothadh Airgtheach and

Fothadh Cairptheach

half-brother of Cuirreach Life

father of Smirnat

He was regarded as one of a triune
deity with his two brothers.

He was often in conflict with Finn mac Cool who had killed his half-brother and, when Finn invited him to a feast to make peace, he said he would drink only in the presence of the heads of the dead. Finn killed Fothadh's sister, Teite, and her husband to provide the heads, so reopening the feud between them.

He had an affair with the wife of Ailill Flann Beag with the result that a battle ensued between their forces in which Fothadh was killed. His decapitated head was said to have recited a poem to the woman he loved.

In some accounts he was loved by Cailleach Bheur.

Fothin (see Odin)

Fotla<sup>1</sup> Irish

a warrior in the Fianna

He was with Finn and his companions at the Hostel of the Quicken Trees.
With Dermot, he defended the ford that led to the hostel against successive waves of attackers.

Fotla<sup>2</sup> Scottish

a Pict

one of the 7 children of Cruithne

When Cruithne divided Scotland
between his seven children, Fotla was given Atholl.

Fotla<sup>3</sup> (see Fohla)

Foulmouth European

a servant of the demon, Ashtaroth

He and Ashtaroth entered the horses of Rinaldo and Ricciardetto in Egypt and flew with their riders to Spain, putting them down in the midst of the Battle of Roncesvalles.

Fountain of the Truth of Love British

a fountain made by Merlin

This fountain was guarded by lions which, so it was said, left unharmed only the pure-hearted.

Fountain of Youth British

a fountain in the Terrestrial Paradise

a fountain in Bimini, a mythical island, which restored the youth of those who drank from it

fountains (see sacred springs)

Four-angled Music (see Haithne)

Four Astrological Ages

in astrology, 4 ages are identified with the 4 seasons

The Golden Age, the age of the three Fates, fire, moisture, chaos and spring, to which the gate is Aries; the Silver Age, the age of the three Harpies, air, heat, conflict and summer, the gate to which is Cancer; the Bronze Age, the age of the three Furies, earth, dryness, death and autumn, the gate to which is Libra; the Iron Age, the age of the three Graces, water, cold, resurrection and winter, the gate to which is Capricorn.

Four Astrological Quarters

in astrology the celestial hemisphere is divided into 4 quarters with associated attributes

In the north region, equated with spring, where chaos marries light, the rulers are Ahura Mazda, Brahman, Cronus, Horus, Jehovah and Saturn; in the south region, equated with autumn, uninhabited and useless, the rulers are Ahriman, Hades, Pluto, Satan, Set and Shiva; in the east region, equated with summer, where matter is formed, the rulers are the Holy Spirit, Jupiter, Mithras, Vishnu, Osiris and Zeus; in the west region, equated with winter, where man achieves happiness, the rulers are Apollo, Horus the Younger, Jesus, and Krishna.

Four Auspicious Animals Chinese

[Ssu Ling]
animals which guard the 4 cardinal points, Ssu Fang

These are the dragon (Ch'ing Lung), the phoenix (Feng), the tortoise (Kuei Shen) and the unicorn (Ch'i-lin).

In some accounts, the white tiger (Pai Hu) appears in place of the unicorn.

Four Books Chinese

4 of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon

These are listed as Chung Yung, Lun Yü, Meng-tzu and Ta Hsiieb. The other five are known as the Five Classics.

Four Branches of the Mabinogion (see Mabinogion)

Four Celestial Kings (see Four Diamond Kings)

Four-cornered Castle (see Caer Pedryvan.Castle Carbonek)

Four Deva Kings (see Four Diamond Kings)

Four Diamond Kings Chinese

[Four Celestial Kings.(Four) Deva Kings.(Four) Heavenly Kings:T'ien-wang:=Hindu Lokapalas:=Japanese Shi Tenno]

the rulers of the 4 realms of the Buddhist paradise and guardians of Buddhist shrines

These deities are given as the Land-bearer (Mo-li Ch'ing), who guards the east; the Far-gazer (Mo-li Hai) who guards the west; the Well-Famed (Mo-li Shou) who guards the north and the Lord of Growth (Mo-li Hung) who looks after the south.

The Taoist version lists these deities as Chao, Li, Man and Wen.

Four Dragon Kings Chinese

the rulers of the 4 seas

These kings were known as Jang Lung, Lung Wang, Pai Lung and Chin Lung.

Alternative names sometimes used are Ao Ch'in, Ao Jun, Ao Kuang, and Ao Shun or Kuang-jun, Kuang-she, Kuang-te and Lung Wang.

Four Earthquake (see Fifth Sun)

Four Ends of the Earth (see Gucumatz)

Four Heavenly Kings (see Four Diamond Kings)

Four Hundred Rabbits (see Centzon Totochtin)

Four Hundred Southerners (see Centzon Huitznahua)

Four Independent Native Tales (see Mabinogion)

Four Ix Central American

the fourth day of the 20 days of the Mayan creation cycle

On this day heaven and earth were finished. (see also Ix<sup>2</sup>)

Four Kings Buddhist

[Caturmaharajas:=Hindu Dikpalas]
the rulers of the 4 quarters of the world

These deities are given as Dhartarashtra (east), Vaisravan (north), Virudhaka (south) and Virupaksha (west). (see also Dikpalas)

Four Kings of Hell Chinese

assistants to Yen Wang in the underworld

In some accounts there were ten (or, some say, fourteen) of them. (see also Ten Yama Kings)

Four-legged (see Buffalo<sup>3</sup>)

Four-legs (see Buffalo<sup>3</sup>)

Four Man-Ik Central American

the seventeenth of the 20 days of the Mayan creation cycle

On this day the spirit of man entered heaven. (see also Man-Ik)

Four Ocelot (see First Sun)

Four Rain (see Third Sun)

Four Saints Chinese

[Ssu-hsien]
4 disciples of Confucius

These are listed as Meng-tzu (Mencius), Cheng-tzu, Confucius' grandson Tzu-szu, and his favourite, Yen-tzu.

Four Signs Buddhist

the signs given by the gods to Buddha to guide his search for enlightenment

These signs were a detached monk, an old man, a sick man and a dead man.

Four Sons of Aymon

(see Sons of Aymon)

Four Sons of Horus

(see Sons of Horus)

Four Spiritually Endowed Animals Chinese

in some lists these are the same as the Four Auspicious Animals; in others, the tiger appears

Four Supplements (see Ssu Fu)

Four Water (see Fourth Sun)

Four Wind (see Second Sun)

Four Winds North American

one of the 4 Kindred Gods of the Sioux

Fourfold-Containing Mother Earth (see Awitelin Tsta)

Fournival, Richard de French

a 13th c writer, author of Bestiari

d'Amour

Fourth Sun Central American

[Ecatonatiuh.Four Water.Sun of Earth.Sun of Water]

the fourth age of the Aztec creation cycle

The Third Sun ended after 364 years when fire destroyed the earth. Then Chalchiuhtlicue took over as ruler of the Fourth Sun which lasted for 312 years before the world was inundated by a flood from which only Nata and Nena escaped.

The next period was the Fifth sun which is the present age.

Another version calls the period of the Fourth Sun the Sun of Earth or the Sun of Water and says that it was during this period that fishes were made. (see also sun<sup>1</sup>)

fox

this animal appears in myths of many countries, often as a trickster or shape-changer

(1) In Chinese stories, the fox is a shape-changer that becomes a wizard when it reaches the age of 100 years. At the age of 1,000, the animal goes to heaven as the Celestial Fox which has nine tails and serves as a means of transport for the celestial spirits.

(2) In the European classic, Reynard the Fox, the leading character gets into all sorts of scrapes but manages to escape his just desserts.

(3) In Japan the fox is the embodiment of Inari as Spirit of Rain. Others say that the fox, Ktsune, carries messages for Inari.

(4) In North America, Brer Fox is another trickster who becomes involved in many escapades.

Fox Woman Siberian

wife of Eme'mqut

She rejected the advances of a man living as a lodger in their house and when he remarked on her foxy odour she ran away.

In another story, she was abducted but Eme'mqut rescued her from the underworld.

Fraananger Norse
a stream

When Loki changed himself into a salmon to escape the vengeance of the other gods, he hid on the bottom of this stream.

Fraech (see Fraoch)Fragarach (see Freagarthach)Fralar (see Fialar)Framnas Norse
the home of Thorsten and IngeborgFrance, Marie de French
a 12th c poetess, author of *Chevrefeuille and LanvalFranchise Tristan (see Isle of Servage)Francus British son of Histon

In some accounts he is regarded as the ancestor of the French.

Frangrasyan (see Afrasiyab.Rustem)Fraoch Irish

[Fraech.Froech]

a warrior-hero

son of Idath and Befind

He fell in love with Findbhair but he could not afford the bride-price. Her parents, Maev and Ailill, tried to bring about his death by persuading him to swim in a lake inhabited by a monster. He escaped and killed the monster with the help of Findbhair whose parents then consented to the marriage.

When his wife and three children and all his cattle were captured by raiders, he and Conall Cearnach pursued them and rescued the hostages and the cattle from, some say, a castle in the Alps.

Another story says that he challenged Cuchulainn to single combat to win Findbhair's hand and was killed.

Another version has Treabhlan in place of Findbhair and she, tricked by Midir into believing that Fraoch was dead, died of a broken heart.

Yet another version has it that Maev herself was in love with Fraoch and sent him to his death with the water-monster out of jealousy.

Frashgerd (see Frashkart)Frashegird (see Frashkart)Frasiyav (see Afrasiyab)Frashkart Persian

[Frashgird.Frashgerd.Frashokereti]

the final renewal after the destruction of the world by fire

At this time, all the dead will be restored to life by Saoshyant.

Frashokereti (see Frashkart)Frastrada (see Fastrade)Frafteretto

a demon of the dance

Fratres Arvali (see Arval Brothers)Frau Berchta (see Bertha<sup>3</sup>)Frau Bertha German

a fairy

Frau Gode German

[Frau Wode]

a name for Frigga in Germany

Frau Holle (see Frigga.Holda)Frau Hutt German

a woman in the Tyrol who was turned into a rock for wasting food

Frau Saelde German

lady luck

Frau Seld German

a spirit

She is said to have appeared as a princess at Etzel's court when threatened by Wunderer.

Frau Selga German

a wild maiden of the Tyrol

Frau Venus (see Holda)Frau Welt German

a supernatural mistress

In some accounts, this being is equated with the Devil.

Frau Wode (see Frau Gode)Fraughan Sunday (see Lugnasad)fravahar (see fravashi)fravashi Persian

[frav(ah)ar.feroher.ferouer]

a guardian spirit: an ancestral spirit

These beings are infinite in number and rank below the izedi.

Frazer, James George Scottish (1854–1941)

author of The Golden Bough, a study of magic and comparative religion

Fravacarin Russian

a primaevial being

offspring of Siyanak and Nashak

consort of Fravak

ancestress of the Arabs and Iranians

Fravak Russian

a primaevial being

offspring of Siyanak and Nashak

consort of Fravacarin

parent of Tazh and Tazhak

Fraxinella (see ash<sup>3</sup>)Fraxinus (see ash<sup>3</sup>)Frea German

the name for Frigga used by the Lombards

consort of Woden (see also Freya)

Freagarthach Irish

[Fragarach.The Answerer]

the sword of Lugh or Manannan

Freawaru Norse

daughter of Hrothgar and Wealthew

sister of Rori

wife of Ingeld

Frederick<sup>1</sup> British

a Frisian king who supported Mordred

Frederick<sup>2</sup> German

duke of Telramund

husband of Ortrud

guardian of Elsa and Gottfried

He coveted the dukedom of Brabant to which Gottfried was heir and plotted with his wife to gain power. When Ortrud changed Gottfried into a swan, Frederick accused Elsa of having murdered her brother. Lohengrin arrived on a swan, defeated Frederick in single combat and rescued Elsa whom he married. When Frederick tried to kill Lohengrin in the bridal chamber, Lohengrin killed him.

Freeshooter (see Der Freischutz)Freia (see Freya)Freir (see Freya)Freischutz (see Der Freischutz)Freke (see Freki)Freki Norse

[Freke]

one of the wolves of Odin, 'greedy'

The other was known as Geri.

Frey Norse

[Freir.Freyr.Fricco.Fridleef.Frikka.

Ing.Ingumar-Frey. 'lord'.

Veraldargod:=German Fro:=Lapp

Verelden-Olmei:=Swedish

Ingvi-Frey.Lytir.Sviagodh]

the god of earth, fertility, peace,

rain, sunlight

son of Niord and Nerthus or Skadi

twin brother of Freya husband of Gerda or Freya husband of Beyla, some say

father of Fiolnir

He was born in Vanaheim but moved to Asgard as a hostage when peace was made between the Vanir and the Aesir and was given the realm of Alfheim, home of the Light Elves.

He was also given the ship, Skidbladnir, a marvellous sword which could fight unaided, the golden-bristled boar, Gullinbursti which, with another boar, Slidrugtanni, drew his chariot and a horse, Blodighofi, which could carry him over water and through fire. His home was called Upsala.

He fell in love with the giantess, Gerda, but despaired of winning her so his servant, Skirnir, wooed her on behalf of his master in return for the magic sword. He met Gerda nine days later in the grove, Buri, and they were married. When her brother Beli attacked Frey, now without his sword, he defended himself with a stag's horn and killed Beli. At Ragnarok, he was killed by Surtur. (see also Frodi)

Freya Norse

[Freia.Freyia.Freyja.Fri(a).

Frija.Gefn.Goda.Gollveig

Gondul.Horn.'lady'.Mardal.Mardel(l).

Mardoll.Menglad.Menglod.

Mengloth.Moertholl.Odsmaer.

Syr.Thrung.Valfreyja. Van(a)bride.Vanadis.

White Goddess:=German Frigga.Ostara:

=Saxon Eastre:=Swedish Skialf]

goddess of beauty, fertility, love, magic and youth

daughter of Niord and Nerthus or Skadi

twin sister of Frey

wife of Frey or Odur wife of Odin, some say

mother of Gersemi and Hnoss

She was born in Vanaheim but moved to Asgard as a hostage when peace was made between the Vanir and the Aesir. She was given the realm of Folkvang, including the hall Sessrymnir. The Valkyries collected many of the dead from the battlefields but Freya claimed half of them as her own and carried them to Folkvang while the others went to Valhalla. She was also given the beautiful necklace, Brisingamen, made by the dwarfs and wore it always. In addition, she had the magic falcon-garb, Valhamr, which enabled the wearer to fly and her own chariot which was drawn by two cats.

She was said to take the form of a she-goat at night and sometimes rode the golden-bristled boar, Hildeswm.

Her necklace was once stolen by Loki who assumed the form of a flea to get into her bed as she slept but he was detected by Heimdall who, after a struggle in which they both assumed several forms, retrieved the necklace and returned it to Freya.

When Ottar appealed to her for help in tracing his ancestry, she turned him into a boar and rode on his back to the home of Hyndla, the sorceress, who not only traced his forebears but gave him a magic drink that ensured he remembered what he had learned.

When her husband, Odur, left her, she wandered the earth in search of him and the tears she shed sank into the earth and became gold. She eventually found him and they were happily reunited. Many of her names are those she acquired during her wanderings.

In some accounts she is assimilated with Frigga, others say she was married to Frey, Odin and perhaps others. Loki accused her of having affairs with all the gods.

In one story, she was kidnapped by Belé who took her to Jotunheim, hoping to marry her to one of his three sons but she rejected all of them.

In German stories she is identified with Frigga.

She is depicted as wearing armour over a flowing gown and bearing a shield and spear. Her creatures are the cat, the cuckoo and the swallow.

(see also Menglod)

Freyfaxi Norse

the horse of Frey

Freygerda Norse

a Danish maiden

wife of Fridleef

mother of Frodi

She married the Danish king, Fridleef, who had rescued her from a dragon.

Freyia (see Freya)

Freyja (see Freya)

Freyr (see Frey)

Fri (see Freya.Frigga)

Fria (see Freya.Frigga)

Friagabi Celtic

one of the 4 Alaisiagae

Friagne

an angel of the fifth heaven,

governing the east

Friar Bacon British

a 13th c alchemist

This monk was said to have made a bronze head which could speak and make prophecies.

Friar Rush

[Bruder Rausch]

a strolling spirit leading monks astray

Some accounts equate him with the Devil.

Fricco Norse

[Frikka]

a name of Frey as 'love' in Sweden

Fricka (see Frigga)

Frid Norse

a maid-servant attendant on Freya

Fridila Norse

a guardian of Freya's necklace,

Brisingamen

Fridjof (see Frithiof)

Fridleef Norse

[Fridleif.Frithleif]

a king of Denmark

husband of Freygerda

father of Frodi

He rescued the maiden Freygerda from a dragon and married her. He is regarded as a later incarnation of Frey as ruler of Denmark.

Fridleif (see Fridleef)

Fridlevus Norse

father of Olave

He asked the Norns to tell him his son's future. Two said that he would be handsome and generous, the third that he would be parsimonious.

Fridthiof (see Frithiof)

Friendly Sea (see Euxine)

Frig Norse

the Anglo-Saxon name for Frigga

Friga (see Frigga)

Frige (see Frigga)

Frigg (see Frigga)

Frigga Norse

[Fri(a).Frige.Frigg.Fricka.Friga:

=Anglo-Saxon Frig:=German Bertha.

(Frau) Gode.(Frau) Holle.(Frau) Wode.

Frija.Holda.Huda.Huld(r)a.Nerthus.

Ostara.Vrou-Elde:=Lombard Frea:

=Saxon Eastre]

goddess of fertility, sky, wisdom

daughter of Hrimnir and Fiorgyn

or Erda

daughter of Odin and Erda, some say sister of Fulla, some say wife of Fiorgyn, some say

second wife of Odin, some say mother of Balder, Hermod, Hoder and mother of Tyr, some say

foster-mother of Agnar

She had her own palace, known as Fensalir, and her train of attendants included Eir, Frimla, Fulla her favourite, Gefjon, Gna, Hlin, Lofn, Snotra, Sin, Vara, Viofn and Vor.

When Balder told of the dreams that foretold danger to his life, Frigga extracted a promise from all things that they would not harm her son. She overlooked the mistletoe and a branch of this, thrown by his blind brother Hoder at the instigation of Loki, killed Balder.

She once stole some gold from a statue of Odin and had the dwarfs make it into a necklace. Odin could not make the dwarfs reveal the name of the thief so he tried to make the statue speak by using his knowledge of the mystic runes. This idea was thwarted by a dwarf who broke the statue to pieces.

In German stories she is identified with Freya.

She is depicted as wearing heron plumes and carrying a bunch of keys at her belt.

Frija Norse

a German name for Frigga (see also Freya)

Frikka (see Fricco)

Frimla Norse

a virgin goddess, attendant on Frigga
one of the Asynjur

Some say she is the same as Fimila.

Frimost

[Nambroth]
a demon associated with Tuesday

Frimoutel (see Frimutel)

Frimutel

[Frimoutel] son of Titurel and Richaude brother of Richaude father of Amfortas father of Herzeloyde, Repanse and Trevrezent, in some accounts

When his father grew old and weak, he handed responsibility for the Holy Grail to Frimutel.

Fritele Norse

a nephew of Ermenrich
brother of Imbreke

These two brothers were hanged by the king, Ermenrich, when Sibich told the king that they lusted after the queen, Swanhild.

Frithiof Norse

[Fridjof.Fridthiof]
son of Thorsten and Ingeborg
Although a commoner, Frithiof, as a child, played with Ingeborg, daughter of Belé, the king of Sogn. Both children were in the care of the tutor Hilding. Frithiof fell in love with Ingeborg and at the enthronement of her brothers, Helge and Halfdan as joint-kings on the death of Belé, he pledged his loyalty to them and asked for the hand of their sister. Helge rejected his suit and insulted him by offering him work in the palace.

When their kingdom was invaded by Sigmund Ring, a suitor for Ingeborg's hand, Halfdan sought Frithiof's help to repel the invaders and, when he refused, they signed a treaty with Sigmund Ring under which they promised a yearly tribute and the hand of Ingeborg. Frithiof met Ingeborg in the temple of Hoder and gave her the armlet made by Volund as a love-token but they broke the sacred laws by speaking within that holy precinct. He offered to free the kings from their obligations to Sigmund Ring if they would allow him to marry Ingeborg but, because they had spoken in the temple, Helge once again refused and passed a stern sentence on Frithiof.

Angantyr, king of Orkney, had for many years paid a tribute to Belé but stopped the payment when the old king died. Helge ordered Frithiof to go to Orkney and demand the unpaid tribute. He set sail with his friend Biorn in the ship Ellida but Helge, with the witches Ham and Heid, caused a tremendous storm that almost wrecked the ship. Frithiof spotted the witches riding on a whale and Biorn steered the ship so that it ran them down, killing both witches and the whale. When they landed in Orkney, Frithiof was challenged to a duel by Atlé, one of Angantyr's Berserkers and spared his life after defeating him in combat. When Frithiof asked for the unpaid tribute, Angantyr said that he owed Helge nothing but he gave the money to Frithiof as a gift to the son of his old friend Thorsten.

When Frithiof returned he found his home, Framnas, burned to the ground by Helge and Ingeborg married to Sigmund Ring. At the court he flung the bag of coins in Helge's face, knocking him to the ground. He then saw the armlet he had given to Ingeborg on the arm of a statue of Balder and, trying to pull it off, overturned the statue which was burned in the altar fire.

He left his native land and lived as a pirate, returning after three years to the court of Sigmund Ring disguised and wearing the skin of a bear. Only Ingeborg recognised him but he was welcomed by the king and given hospitality over the winter. In the spring, Sigmund, now very old, was left behind with Frithiof during a hunt. Frithiof resisted the chance to kill him but the old king died soon afterwards.

In some stories, Frithiof married Ingeborg at last and lived in Hordaland where they had two sons, Gungthiof and Hunthiof. In another version, he was haunted by his sacrilege and returned to the temple of Balder when he received a vision that his fault could be expiated by building a fine temple to the god, which he then did. During its construction, Helge was killed and at its completion Halfdan arrived and made a pact of friendship with Frithiof, finally giving him Ingeborg's hand in marriage.

Frithiof owned a sword known as Angurvadel.

Frithiofsaga Norse

the 14th c Icelandic story of Frithiof and his exploits

Frithleif (see Fridleef)

Friuch Irish

[Find Bennach.Finnb(h)e(a)nach.
Finnebenach.Whitehorn]

a swineherd to Ochall

He constantly fought with Rucht, swineherd to Bodb, both frequently changing shape. Finally, in the form of worms, they were both swallowed by cows and reborn as the two bulls, Whitehorn and the Brown Bull of Cooley.

Some say that Friuch served Bodb and Rucht served Ochall.

(see also Whitehorn)

Friuja (see Fro)

Fro German

[Friuja]
an early Teutonic god, predecessor of Odin
a name of Frey in Germany

Frobach Persian

[Frobagh.Frobak]
a sacred fire
one of the yazatas, fire personified

This fire, together with Burzhin Mitro and Gushasp, protected the country.

Frobagh (see Frobach)

Frobak (see Frobach)

Frocin British

a dwarf at the court of King Mark
He betrayed the fact that the king had horse's ears and was decapitated for so doing.

Froda (see Frodi)

Frode (see Frodi)

Frodi' Norse

[Froda.Frode.Frothe.Frothi]
an aspect of Frey, some say king of Denmark
son of Fridleef and Freygerda

He was given a pair of magic grindstones and bought the giantesses Fenia and Menia as slaves to work them to produce gold. He worked them so hard that they started to grind out instead Viking warriors who killed the Danes. Their leader, Mysinger, killed Frodi and took the women and the grindstones aboard his own ship and ordered the women to grind salt.

Some versions say that Frodi was killed at the court of Swerting, a Saxon king, others that he was king of the Heathorbards and was killed in battle with the Danes under Hrodgar.

Frodi<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Frode.Peace Frodi]

in some accounts, a name of Frey in Denmark where he was once taken prisoner by Beli, the storm-giant.

Froech (see Fraoch)

frog<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a small amphibian with webbed feet and no tail which features in some mythologies

(1) In Hindu law, the Rig Veda asserts that the world rests on the back of a Great Frog.

(2) In New Zealand, the Maoris regard the frog as a water-god.

(3) In North America, the Navaho frog-spirit was involved with Bear, Snake and Turtle in a plan to capture two maidens from an undersea village. The plan went awry and the two girls were killed. Frog and Turtle were lucky to escape with their lives but Bear and Snake fared better. This pair captured two girls who were overcome by the smoke from the kidnappers' pipes which made Bear and Snake appear as handsome warriors with whom the girls mated.

(4) A Siberian legend says that a frog, lying on its back, supports the world and the sacred mountain, Sambur, emerged from the frog's navel.

Frollo British

[Follo.Prollo]

a Roman ruler of Gaul

father of Samaliel

He was killed in single combat with King Arthur during the king's campaigns on the Continent. In some accounts, he was said to be German.

Fromondin European

son of Fromont

The feud between his father and Garin de Loherain was carried on between Fromondin and Garin's son, Gerbert, until Fromondin gave up the world and retreated to a monastery. The feud was revived when Gerbert produced a goblet made from the skull of Fromondin's father, Fromont. He planned to kill Gerbert but Gerbert was forewarned and it was Fromondin who was killed.

Fromont European

brother of Guillaume de Monclin

father of Fromondin

He was raised alongside Garin at Pepin's court but they quarrelled when Garin proposed to marry Blanchefleur to become heir to the throne of Maurienne which Fromont had expected to receive. So started a never-ending feud between Lorraine and Bordeaux.

Front European

a French saint

He (or Veran) is said to have defeated the man-eating monster, Coulobre.

Frontino European

the horse of Rogero

Frost Giants Norse

[Hrim-thurs; plur=Hrimthursar.

Hrimthursen]

the beings that formed when the fiery clouds from Muspelheim condensed over the ice of Niflheim

The principal Frost Giants were Beli, Kari, Thiassi and his daughter Skadi, and Thrym with his four children Drifta, Frosti, Jokul and Snoer.

Frost Maidens Norse

the girls that formed when the fiery clouds from Muspelheim condensed over the ice of Niflheim

Frosti<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Frostre.Frostri]

a dwarf

one of the Lovar

Frosti<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Frostre.Frostri]

a Frost Giant

god of frosts

son of Thrym

brother of Drifta, Jokul and Snoer

He led the Frost Giants in their battle with the gods.

Frostre (see Frosti)

Frostri (see Frosti)

Frothe (see Frodi<sup>1</sup>)

Frothi (see Frodi<sup>1</sup>)

Frugifer Roman

a name for Baal-Hammon

as 'fruit-bearer'

Frum, John Pacific Islands

the revered figure of the devotees of the cargo cult

He is said to be a reincarnation of the early Melanesian god, Karaperamun.

Frute German

a warrior at Hettel's court

He, with Horant and Wat, abducted Hilde who married Hettel.

Fruwa Norse

a goddess

sister of Volla

This deity cured Balder's lame horse by magic.

Fu African

in the lore of the Bambara, the primordial void which produced the 2 forces, Dya and Gla

Fu-fei Chinese

a river goddess

wife of Ho Po

In some accounts, she later married the archer, I.

Fu-hsi<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Adam of China.Gourd Boy]

one of the Three Sovereigns son of Hua-hsü

brother and consort of Nü Kua

father of Mi Fei

It was said that he was produced when his mother was impregnated by the wind after a gestation period of twelve years.

He was a serpent-bodied being having a human head with four faces, representing the yin principle, and credited with the introduction of fishing, silk-worm breeding, etc. and the invention of the trigrams of the I Ching. He also invented the Eight Diagrams from marks he saw on the back of a unicorn which rose out of a river beside which he was contemplating.

In the story of the Flood, Fu-hsi (Gourd Boy) and his sister Nü Kua (Gourd Girl) were the sole survivors, floating in a gourd from a tree grown from the tooth of the thunder-god whom they had freed from a trap set by their father. He mated with his sister but they produced only an unformed lump of flesh. Fu-hsi cut this into pieces and scattered it over the earth to produce mankind.

Some say that he and his sister retired to heaven, others that he remained on earth and became the first emperor in the 20th c BC, originating the idea of marriage.

In later stories, they were said to be man and wife and were depicted as human with a fish's tail or a serpent's tail.

He runs the Ministry of Healing with Huang Ti and Shen Nung.

Fu-hsi<sup>2</sup> (see Fo<sup>1</sup>)

Fu Hsing Chinese

[Fu Shen.Star of Happiness.Yang Ch'eng.Yang-hsi-chi] a god of happiness
one of the Fu Lu Shou

He was the mortal Yang Ch'eng, an adviser to a 6th C emperor, who achieved immortality and became one of the Three Gods of Happiness.

In other accounts he was an 8th C general, Kuo Tzu-i.

Fu-lin Chinese

a mythical land of diamonds

Fu Lo Shou (see Fu Lu Shou)

Fu Lu Shou Chinese

[Fu Lo Shou.Fu Shou Lu.San Hsing.
Three Gods of Happiness.Three Stars]
3 mortals who attained immortality
by good works

These deities are Fu-hsing, the god of happiness, Lu-hsing, the god of good fortune, and Shou Shen, the god of longevity.

Fu Pao Chinese

mother of Huang Ti

It was said that she had a miraculous conception and carried the child in her womb for twenty-four months.

Fu-sang Chinese a Taoist paradise where the inhabitants are immortal

A river in this paradise makes pregnant those women who bathe in it.

In some stories it is the giant mulberry tree, home of the Ten Suns, from which the sun rises each day. This fabulous tree is guarded by a dragon.

Fu Shen (see Fu Hsing)

Fu Shou Lu (see Fu Lu Shou)

Fu-tai-shih Chinese

[=Japanese Warai-botoke]

guardian of the sacred scriptures

He is referred to as the Laughing Buddha.

(see also Maitreya)

Fuamhnach (see Fuamnach)

Fuamnach Irish

[Fuamhnach]

wife of Midir

When Midir took another wife, Etain, Fuamnach turned her into a butterfly (or a fly in some versions) and caused a high wind to blow her away.

She was killed by Midir or by Angus Og who cut off her head and took it back to his palace.

fuath Scottish

a malevolent spirit

These spirits were regarded as the parents of brollachans.

Fuchi Japanese

a Shinto fire-goddess or sun-goddess

Fuda-hegashi Japanese

an evil charm: a ghost

Fudo Japanese

[Fudo-myoo]

a Buddhist god of fire and wisdom

He was said to be very ugly and nobody was allowed to look at him. Those who did, including his priest Yenoko, were blinded.

(see also Fudo-myoo.Konkana)

Fudo-ki (see Fudoki)

Fudo-myoo Japanese

[Arya Achalanatha.Jitoku:=Buddhist Acala: =Shinto Ebisu]

a Buddhist god of fire and wisdom

He is regarded as an incarnation of Dainichi and is depicted with a background of flames, sometimes seated, sometimes standing and holding a sword.

In some accounts, a statue of Fudo-myoo was carried to a part of a country where a rebellion was in progress. The uprising was quelled but all efforts to return the statue to its original site failed. The emperor ordered that a temple be built round it.

In some accounts, Fudo-myoo is equated with the ugly god, Fudo.

(see also Gozanze-myoo)

Fudoki Japanese

a book of sacred records and some local myths

Fue Pacific Islands

a Samoan god

son of Tagaloa

Fuenterrabia (see Fontarabia)

Fufluns Italian

[Phuphlans:=Greek Dionysus]

an Etruscan wine-god

Fugen Japanese

[=Buddhist Samantabhadra:=Taoist P'u

Hsien:=Tibetan Kuntu bXan Po]

one of the 5 Buddhas of Mahayana Buddhism

the final Buddha

He is depicted as seated on a white, six-tusked elephant, sometimes holding a lotus blossom. Earlier images show him seated on a lotus holding a sword and a bell; some show twenty arms.

Fuji Japanese

a god of Mount Fuji

When he refused to entertain the god Mioya, the angry god caused snow and ice to fall on the mountain which, ever since, has been snow-capped.

Fuji-hime (see Sengen)

Fuji San (see Mount Fuji)

Fujin Japanese

[Futen.Ryobu]

a Shinto god of the winds

He is depicted wearing a leopard-skin and carrying a bag which contains the winds.

Fujiyama (see Mount Fuji)

Fukaotsu Japanese

a guardian god

Both he and Soko were derived from Kongorikishi.

Fukurokujin (see Fukurokuju)

Fukorokuju Japanese

[Fukurokuju.Fukurokujin.Jiu.

Jukurokujin: =Chinese Shou Shen]

a Shinto god of long life, luck, and wisdom

one of the 7 deities of fortune, the

Shichi Fukujin

He is said to be the deification of a Chinese hermit and is often depicted accompanied by a crane.

(see also Jurojin.Totosaku)

Fuku-joju Japanese

a Japanese name for Amogasiddhi

Fuku-kensaku Japanese

a form of Kwannon

In this form, the goddess is depicted with two, four or six arms, seated on a lotus, and is sometimes shown with three faces each of which has three eyes.

Fukuro Japanese

an owl which became a monk

He fell in love with the bullfinch, Uso-Dori, sending her love-letters in the care of the great-tit, Shiju-Gara, changing into a monk when the eagle, Uye-Minu, killed his beloved.

Fukurokuju (see Fukorokuju)

Fukusuki Japanese

an image of a male with a big head

used as a household talisman of good fortune

Fulgans Roman

[Fulgar]

a name of Jupiter as 'lightning-wielder'

Fulgar (see Fulgans)

Fulgentius British

a king of Britain

an ancestor of Lot, in some accounts

fulgur Roman

the thunderbolt of Jupiter

Fulgurator (see Jupiter)

Fulguriator Roman

a priest whose function was to interpret the meaning of thunderbolts

Fulla Norse

[Vol(a).Volla:=Danish Habonde:

=German Abundia:=Roman Abundantia]

the goddess of abundance sister and favourite attendant of Frigga
one of the Asynjur
Her duties were to safeguard the jewel-box and help Frigga with her toilet. When Hermod rode to Niflheim to ask for the release of Balder, the dead Nanna sent her magic ring back with him for Fulla.

Fumu African
a monkey

Woto, a king of the Bushongo, discovered palm wine when he saw Fumu licking it.

Funa-yurei Japanese [Funa-urei]
a ghost of one who died by drowning

Funa-urei (see Funa-yurei)

Funadama Japanese
a female boat-spirit, guardian of fishermen

Funafeng (see Funfeng)

Fundin Norse
one of the dwarfs

Funeral Mountain North American

Terrashot

a fabulous animal

Funfeng Norse
[Fimafeng.Funafeng]

a servant of the sea-god Aegir

He was serving at the feast given by Aegir for the other gods when Loki turned up uninvited. Jealous of Funfeng's skill and the praise it evoked, Loki killed the servant. His job was taken by Elde.

Funzi (see Mfuzi)

Furbaidhe Irish [Findbaidhe.Forbay]

son of Conor mac Nessa and Clothra

In some accounts, his mother was Eithne, another sister of Maev. It was said that he was delivered at the death of his mother by cutting him free with a sword.

He killed his aunt, Maev queen of Connaught, by shooting a piece of hard cheese from his sling, so avenging the death of his mother at the hands of Maev, her own sister.

Furcas

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is depicted as an old man astride a pale horse and is said to teach many alchemical and scientific subjects.

Furfur

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to be able to cause thunderstorms and may appear in the form of a deer with wings and the tail of a snake.

furiae<sup>1</sup>

[seminatrices malorum]

the seventh order of demons, ruled by Abaddon

Furiae<sup>2</sup> (see Dirae.Furies)

Furies Greek

[Ara(e).Benignant Ones.Erin(n)yes.

Erunnys.Erinues.Eumenides.

Kindly Ones.Maniai.Solemn Ones:

=Norse Waelcyrge:=Roman Dirae. Furiae]

daughters of Uranus and Gaea or of Acheron or Tartarus and Nyx

Alecto, Megaera and Tisiphone were born from the blood of Uranus falling on Earth when he was castrated by Cronus.

Others say they were the daughters of Nyx or of Hades and Persephone.

In some stories they had dogs' heads and bats' wings and writhing snakes for hair. They lived in Tartarus and judged complaints of insolence etc. In other versions they are of grave demeanour, dressed as huntresses, and carry scourges, sickles and torches.

In anger at the acquittal of Orestes for the murder of Aegisthus and Clytemnestra – one of them had acted as public prosecutor at the trial – they harried Orestes wherever he went and threatened to blight Athens with their blood. Athene pacified them by giving them a home in a grotto and guaranteeing that they would be worshipped by the people of Athens.
The three who took up this offer were thereafter known as the Solemn Ones,
the Benignant Ones or Eumenides.

(see also Eumenides.Semnai Theai)

Fuin mac Cumhal

(see Finn mac Cool)

Furina (see Furrina)

Furion European

a giant

nephew of Archalaus

son of Arcabone

brother of Argantes and Matroco

He was killed by Esplandian when the young knight came to the castle of Archalaus on the Forbidden Mountain to rescue the old king, Lisuarte.

Furo-no-Yashiro Japanese

a shrine dedicated to a magical sword

Furor Norse

a name of Odin as god of war,

'strengtheners of men'

furoshu Japanese

a wine that confers eternal youth on the drinker

Furrina

Roman

[Furina]

a minor goddess

Some identify her with the Furies, others as a spirit of darkness.

Furrinalia Roman

a festival in honour of Furrina, July 25th

Fursa Irish

a saint

son of Fintan

In a vision, he was guarded by three angels but was burnt on his shoulders and face by the fires of evil. He preached for some time in Ireland, carrying the faith thence to England and to Europe. He swapped his own ailments for those of his friend Maighniu, receiving a reptile which lived in Fura's stomach and gave him a voracious appetite.

Fusberta European

the sword of Rinaldo

(see also Flamberge)

Futen

(see Fujin)

Futo-Tama

Japanese

a Shinto ancestral god

futomani (see bokusen)

Futsu-Nushi Japanese

[Futsunushi]

a Shinto war-god, god of fire and lightning

He and Takemikadzuchi were sent by Amaterasu to depose the earth-god
Okuni-nushi so that her grandson,
Ninigi, could take over the throne.

Futsunushi (see Futsu-Nushi)

Fuwch Frech Welsh

the Welsh version of the magic cow Glas Gabnach

Fyfnnon Fasor British

a spring at Arthur's Stone in Wales

fylfot (see swastika)

fylgia (see fylgie)

fylgie Norse

[fylgia.fylgja:plur=fylgjur]

the guardian spirit which watches over each individual: the soul:

a person's double

As the double or soul, the fylgie is envisaged as some form of animal; as a tutelary spirit it may appear in a dream to give warning or advice. They ride on wolves using a bridle made of snakes.

It is said that the fylgie passes from father to son through the generations.

fylgia (see fylgie)

Fylgukona Norse

[Hamingja]

a female guardian spirit which appears before death

G

G Central American

a Mayan deity of uncertain identity, referred to as god G: perhaps Ah Kin or Kukulcan

This deity is generally regarded as a sun-god or god of death.

Ga Boi Irish
Dermot's light spear

Ga Bolga (see Gae Bolg)

Ga Derg Irish
[Gai Dearn]

Dermot's heavy war-spear

It was said that this weapon had once belonged to Manannan.

Ga-gaah North American
a divine crow

According to the Iroquois, the crow brought the gift of magic to mankind. He is said also to have brought the gift of corn and for this service he is welcome to take his share of the produce of the cornfield.

Ga-gorib African [Gama.Goub]

a monster figure of the Hottentots
He was said to make a practice of throwing people into a pit. He was killed by Heitsi-eibib in the same way.

Another version puts the deity Tsunigoab or the trickster, Jackal, in place of Heitsi-eibib.

In some accounts, the same as Gaunab.

Ga Mater (see Ge Metre)

Ga-oh North American

[Gaoh]

a wind-giant of the Iroquois

He controlled the four winds Da-jo-ji, Ne-a-go, O-yan and Ya-o-ga.

Ga-Ur Mesopotamian

[=Greek Euechoros]

a Sumerian fertility god

a king

Gaap

[Goap.Tap]

a demon

one of the Cardinal demons

(west)

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to induce love or hate and has the power to make invisible any sorcerer who invokes him.

Gabalglie Irish

a blind seer

Maev and Ailill consulted him about the Debility of the Ultonians before their attack on Ulster.

Gaban British

[=Irish Gobhniu]

a smith

He made Gawain's sword. In some accounts he is equated with Goibhniu.

Gabbara European

a giant

Gabble Rackets

(see Gabriel's Hounds)

Gabble Ratchets

(see Gabriel's Hounds)

Gabeta

(see Gabija)

Gabhran British

[Gabhraim]

a king of Scotland

husband of Ingheanach

When his wife gave birth to twin boys, he exchanged one of them for one of the twin girls born at the same time to Feidhilm, the wife of Eochu. He called the boy Aodan.

Gabieta (see Gabija)

Gabija Baltic

[Gabieta]

a Lithuanian fire-goddess

gabiloen German

a dragon-like monster

Gabhraim (see Gabhran)

Gabjauja Baltic

a Lithuanian corn-goddess

Gabjaujis Baltic

a Lithuanian fire-god

Gabriel

a demon

an angel of the fifth heaven

associated with the east

In some accounts, he controls wealth.

Gabriel's Hounds British

[Gabble Rackets.Gabble Ratchets.

Gabriel's Ratchets]

the English version of the

Welsh Hounds of Hell

In some versions they are said to be geese, plovers or swans or, alternatively, the souls of those who died young and unbaptised. They sweep noisily across the heavens looking for souls.

(see also Wild Hunt)

Gabriel's Ratchets

(see Gabriel's Hounds)

Gabungga African

in the lore of the Baganda, the official who escorted the king to meet the god Mukasa at the blood-drinking ceremony

Gad Semitic

a god of good fortune in Canaan and Phoenicia

gada Hindu

a club: a mace: the weapon of Bhima and Vishnu (see also khitaka)

Gadacurriel British

an Irish chieftain

He was one of the 100 warriors fighting for the king, Cildadan, against 100 knights of the British king, Lisuarte.

Gaddifer Celtic

a king of Scotland
grandfather of Gallafer brother of Betis

When his brother was given the throne of Britain by Alexander, he became king of Scotland but, when the Romans conquered Britain, he and his brother retired to the Isle of Life.

Gadelius (see Gaedheal Glas)Gadeon Welsh

[Avaon] son of Eudaf
brother of Cynan and Elen

He and his brother helped their sister and her husband, Maccsen, recapture Rome and were rewarded with the land of Armorica where they established the Breton race.

(see also Conan Meriodac)

Gadhi Hindu

son of Kushamba
father of Viswamitra

He was regarded as an incarnation of Indra.

Gadjisa North American

[Bushy-Heads.Husk-faced Dancers]
Iroquois shamans who assist the Hadiganso Shano

Gadway Welsh

son of Geraint

Gae (see Geb)Gae Bolg Irish

[Ga(e) Bolga.Gae Bulg.Gael Bolg.
Gai Bolga]

a weapon thrown with the foot
This 'belly spear' was said to open into thirty points after entering the body of an opponent and was used to great effect by Cuchulainn.

Some say that this weapon was made from the bones of a sea-monster which had been found dead on the shore after losing a battle with another of its kind. It was given to Cuchulainn by Aifa, the mother of his son, Connla.

Gae Bolga (see Gae Bolg)Gae Bulg (see Gae Bolg)Gaea Greek

[All-mother.Earth(-mother).Gaia.Ge.

Mother-earth.Titania:=Hindu Prithivi:

=Phoenician Gea:=Roman Tellus.Terra]

mother and wife of Uranus mother by Uranus of the 12 Titans, the Hecatonchires, the Cyclopes, the

Giants, Oceanus, Pontus and Tethys

In some versions Gaea was born of Chaos, sister of Erebus and Nyx.

She was also the mother of Erichthonius by Hephaestus who accidentally fertilised her when attempting to rape Athena and of the Furies when the blood of the castrated Uranus fell on her.

In her anger when the Giants were slaughtered in their revolt against the gods she mated with Tartarus to produce the huge monster Typhon.

Gaea was the original founder of the oracle at Delphi which passed via Themis and then Phoebe to Apollo.

(see also Titala)

Gaea Caecilia (see Caecilia)Gaedheal Glas Irish

[Gadelius.Gael.Goidel]

a supposed ancestor of the Irish

son of Niul and Scota

He is described as the grandson of Fenius, a man who was present at the building of the Tower of Babel, and the grandfather of Sru. He was bitten by a serpent and was saved from an agonising death when Moses touched him with his rod.

He was said to have brought the Stone of Destiny, formerly Jacob's Pillow, from Egypt to Ireland.

Gael (see Gadheal)Gael Bolg (see Gae Bolg)Gag Noz

[Boat of the Night]

an empty boat which appears in Finistere, said to portend death

Gaga Mesopotamian

a counsellor of Ansar

Gaganaganja Buddhist

a bodhisattva

gagates

a mythical gemstone

This stone, said to be found in Lycia in russet and black forms, was originally said to have the power to repel snakes. Later, it was reputed to drive away demons, prevent dropsy or loose teeth and cure constipation or indigestion. Some say that it could burn in water.

Gagavitz Central American

a Guatemalan warrior serving the hawk-god, Tiuh Tiuh

He and another warrior, Zactecauh, were drowned by the incoming tide when they fell asleep on the shore.

gagites (see eagle stones)Gagosa (see Hadiganso Shano)Gagurath (see Gangrad)Gaharet (see Gaheris)Gahariet (see Gaheris)Gahe North American

[Mountain People:=Apache Hactcin:

=Lipan Apache Hactci:=Havaho Hactce:

=Pueblo Katchina:=White Mountain

Apache Ga'n]

supernatural beings of the Chiricahua

Apache, living inside mountains

These beings are said to be able to cure the sick, give sight to the blind and even restore missing limbs. The five chief Gahe are associated with both colour and direction: the Great Black Gahe (east), the Great Blue Gahe (south), the Great White Gahe (north) and the Great Yellow Gahe (west). The most powerful one of the five is known as Grey One.

Gaheris British

[Eries.Garhar(i)et.Guerrehet]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Lot and Morgause

brother of Agravain, Gareth

and Gawain

husband of Lynette

He found his mother in bed with Lamerock and killed her. With the help of his brothers, Agravain and Gawain, he killed Lamerock as well.

He was one of the knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot.

He refused to be a party to the plan by Agravain and Mordred to betray Lancelot's secret affair with Guinevere to King Arthur and, when the queen was exposed and condemned to be burnt at the stake, he reluctantly obeyed the king's command to supervise the execution after his elder brother, Gawain, had refused. He went unarmed and was not recognised by Lancelot when he rode to the queen's rescue. Both Gaheris and his brother Gareth, who had also been ordered to attend, as well as many other knights, were killed by Lancelot when he charged into the crowd and carried Guinevere off to safety.

Gahmuret British
husband of Belcane and Herzeloide father of Feirefiz and Percival

While serving Baruc in Persia, he rescued Belcane and married her. Their son, Feirefiz, turned out to be part black, part white. Later, he returned to Britain and married Herzeloide who bore their son, Percival. When he went back to help Baruc, he was killed in battle.

Gahonga North American
one of the 3 tribes of Jogah

These dwarf beings are said by the Iroquois to live in rocky areas and in rivers.

Gai Bolga (see Gae Bolg)

Gai Dearg (see Ga Derg)

Gaia (see Gaea)

Gaia Caecilia (see Caecilia)

Gaiar Irish
son of Manannan and Fand

He had an affair with the goddess Becuma for which she was banished from the home of the gods on Tir Tairnigiri.

Gaible Irish
son of Nuada

He stole a bunch of twigs which Ainge had collected and scattered them to the winds. The forests of Ireland sprang up where the twigs fell.

Gaibthe (see Goibhniu)

Gaiko Serbian
a noble
brother of Uglesha and Vukashin
father of Yovo

He and his brothers were building a fortress at Scutari and were warned by a veela that it would never stand unless the infant twins, Stoyan and Stoyana, were buried underneath the walls. When these children could not be found, Gaiko's wife was immured in the walls but Rado, the builder, left a small opening through which she could continue to breast-feed her infant son, Yovo.

Gailiana Irish
a troop of Leinster warriors serving in Maev's army

Gaileion (see Galioin)

Gaileon (see Galioin)

Gailioin (see Galioin)

Gailion (see Galioin)

Gainji East Indian

[Originator]
a creator-deity in Papua: the time when he ruled

Gaius Caesar (see Caligula)

gaja-simha Cambodian
a monster in the form of an elephant/lion (see also makara<sup>1</sup>)

Gajadevi Hindu
an image of Lakshmi

In this version, the goddess is seen being bathed by two white elephants.

Gajanana Hindu

a name for Ganesha as 'elephant-face'

Gajavahana Hindu

a Tamil form of the war-god Skanda

Gajomartan (see Gayomart)

gaki Japanese
a malevolent spirit of the dead:
a ghost

These beings creep into the bodies of mortals to take nourishment from the food ingested by their hosts since they have no digestive organs of their own. As a result, the gakis put on weight while their hosts become thinner.
(see preta<sup>1</sup>)

Gakido Japanese

[Circle of Penance.Demon Road]
purgatory: ghosts appearing at the Festival of the Dead

Gal Bapsi Hindu
a penitential god of the Tamils

Gala-wan-tengeri Mongolian

a Buriat fire-god
a god of lightning
(see also Galai-khan.Gali-edzin)

Galaad (see Galahad)

Galacella (see Galaciella)

Galachin British

[Galeschin] son of Nanters and Belisent or Morgause

He was said to have been made Duke of Clarence for helping King Arthur in his battles with the Saxons.

Galaciella European

[Galacella]
a Saracen maiden wife of Rogero
mother of Marphisa and Rogero

She secretly married the knight Rogero and became a Christian. Her father, the Sultan of Africa, exiled them and cast their infant children adrift in a boat.

Galafre European

a king of Tunis
When Esclaramonde was shipwrecked near his palace, she was given to Galafre but rejected his advances. Huon and Sherasmin came to her rescue, killed Galafre and freed both Esclaramonde and her servant, Fatima.

(see also Gaudisio)

Galafron European

[Galaphron]
king of Cathay
father of Angelica and Argalia

Galagandreiz British
a father-in-law of Lancelot
in the German version of the Lancelot stories

Galahad<sup>1</sup> British

[Galaad]
the original name of Lancelot

Galahad<sup>2</sup> British

[Galaad.Galahad of Galefort.Hoelice]
a king of Wales
son of Joseph of Arimathea
As king of Wales he was known as Hocelice.

Galahad<sup>3</sup> British

[Galaad.The Desired Knight.The Perfect Knight.The True Prince.=Welsh Gwal(c)hafed.Gwal(c)haved]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Lancelot and Elaine

In some French stories, his mother was Amite or Perevida.

Dame Brisen, a sorceress and maidservant of Elaine, deceived Lancelot into sleeping with Elaine in the belief that he was sleeping with his true love, Guinevere. The result of this union was Galahad.

He was reared by monks and, at the age of fifteen, was knighted by his father and taken to King Arthur's court where he assumed his ordained place at the Round Table. As the only knight pure enough to see the Holy Grail, he was able to sit in the Perilous Seat, the chair reserved for such a knight at the Round Table, without being swallowed up. A large red boulder appeared, floating in the river, and fixed immovably in it was a fine sword. After Gawain and Percival had tried unsuccessfully to pull it from the stone, Galahad withdrew it easily and put it in the empty scabbard he wore. The Grail appeared in the hall that night and, having fed the assembled knights, disappeared. All the knights present, led by Gawain, vowed to devote their lives to the search for this sacred chalice.

Each knight took his own route and Galahad's led him to a chapel where he found the wounded Bagdemagus tended by Owain. A white shield hung behind the altar and the hermit said that it was reserved for the best knight; any other trying to use it would come to harm. Bagdemagus had taken it and ridden off, only to be unhorsed and wounded by a knight in white armour who sent the shield back for Galahad. This knight told Galahad that the shield had been given by Joseph of Arimathea to a converted knight, King Evelake, before the battle with his cousin, the Saracen king, Tholomer. In that fight, a figure on a cross was seen on the shield and a man who had lost a hand in the battle was made whole when he touched the cross. The shield came to Britain with Joseph and Evelake and Joseph (or Josephus, his son), on his deathbed, emblazoned a red cross on the shield with his own blood and told Evelake to leave it with Nascien the hermit who would guard it until it was claimed by Galahad.

Taking the shield, Galahad rode on, taking with him Meliad whom he knighted. They parted at a fork in the road and Galahad, encountering a group of knights attacking Percival, routed them. He went on to further adventures, in one of which he routed the seven brothers who had been holding many young women captive in the Castle of Maidens, and was eventually led by a maiden, who turned out to be Percival's sister, Dindrane, to a ship where he found Percival and Bors already aboard. Sailing off, they found another ship and, seeing that it was deserted, boarded it. On a silk bed lay a marvellous sword, one that had been used by Varlan to kill Lambor. It was said that the ship and the sword had originally been made by King Solomon. The sword was called the Sword of Strange Girdles and its scabbard, Mover of Blood. In some accounts, this vessel was Solomon's ship and the sword was David's. Galahad took the sword and scabbard and they returned to their own ship which carried them to Castle Carteloise. Here they found a woman dying who could be cured only by the blood of a virgin and Dindrane died as a result of giving her blood to help the sick woman.

In one version, following the adventure at the Castle of Maidens, he came to a monastery where Evelake lay wounded and, cradling the sick man in his arms, cured him of his wounds so that he was able to die happy. This version says that he then met Percival and Bors and they rode to Carbonek where they were welcomed and feasted by King Pelles and celebrated mass with Josephus who had come to Britain with Evelake 400 years before. Some say that Christ himself appeared at this celebration. The sins that had caused Pelles to be wounded were washed away by blood from the Holy Lance and he spent the rest of his life in a monastery.

Another version says that it was Galahad's sister who led him to the boat where Percival and Bors were waiting and that it was she who died giving blood to save the sick lady. This version has it that, at their first landfall, they were assailed by wraiths and goblins in a castle on a hill which disappeared when they routed their attackers.

In another version, they found the wounded Pelles at Carbonek and here the Holy Grail appeared on a silver altar with a spear that dripped blood. On the instructions of a voice from heaven, Galahad anointed Pelles with this blood and his wounds were healed and he died happy.

Then Galahad and his two companions took sail for Sarras in the Holy Land, taking with them the silver altar and the Holy Grail and Spear. There they found a ship bearing the body of Percival's sister which they buried. The king, Estorause, threw all three of them in prison but asked their pardon when on his deathbed. Galahad was crowned king in his place but he died about a year later while taking Mass with Josephus and was carried up to heaven by a host of angels. The Holy Grail and The Holy Spear disappeared for ever.

In the Welsh version he was Gwalchaved, son of Lot and Gwyar, and by some equated with Gwalchmei who was Gawain.

Galahad's Fount British

a natural hot spring

When Galahad put his hand into the water, all the heat disappeared and the bubbling ceased.

Galahalt European

[Galeotto.Gallehault]

a knight in Dante's Inferno

It was he who brought Lancelot and Guinevere together. (see also Galahaut)

Galahantine British

a Knight of the Round Table

After the death of King Arthur, he joined Lancelot, Bedivere and the others in a hermitage.

Galahaut the Haut Prince British

[Galehaut.Galehot.Gallehant.Galohalt]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Brunor and Bagota

He helped King Bagdemagus organise a tournament to which they invited Lancelot in the hope of killing him. Instead, Mark sent Tristram disguised as Lancelot, hoping that he would be killed. In the event, Tristram, although wounded, won the tournament.

In some accounts, he was defeated by Lancelot but became such a devoted friend that, when he believed that Lancelot had been killed, he fasted to death. (see also Galahalt)

Galai-khan Mongolian

[=Buriat Gali-edzin]

a fire-god

Galan Mai (see Calan Mai)

Galand French

[=German Wieland:=Norse Volund]

the name for the smith, Wayland, in French stories

Galanthias<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Proetus and Antea

For some slight to a deity, she and her two sisters were driven mad. Their father gave Melampus and Bias a large part of his kingdom when the former undertook to restore their sanity. Two were cured but Iphinoe was dead by the time Melampus located them.

Galanthias<sup>2</sup> (see Galanthis)

Galanthis Greek

[Galanthias.Galenthias.Galinthias]

a friend or maid-servant of Alcmene

Hera tried to prevent the birth of Heracles and, when Galanthis cried out that the birth had taken place, she turned the servant into a weasel or, in other accounts, a cat or a lizard.

Galaor European

a knight

son of Perion and Elizena

brother of Amadis and Florestan

He was kidnapped by Gandalac while still a young boy and raised alongside Gandalac's own sons. In later life he was reunited with his real brothers, Amadis and Florestan.

These three restored Briolania to the throne of Firm Island by overthrowing the tyrant who had usurped the kingdom. Both he and Florestan refused to attempt to pass through the Arch of True Lovers and they were prevented from entering the Forbidden Chamber by unseen forces which hurled them back. Only Amadis was able to enter the room.

Galapas British
a giant

He was the leader of the giants fighting for the Romans in Brittany. During the battle with Lucius, King Arthur killed Galapas and the other giants by attacking them from the rear and cutting their leg tendons so that they fell and could easily be killed.

Galaphron (see Galafiron)

Galar Norse
[Galarr]
a dwarf

He and Fialar made a magic brew from the blood of the sage Kvasir whom they had killed. They also killed the giant Gilling and his wife. Suttung, Gilling's brother (or son, in some versions), seized the two dwarfs and would have killed them had they not saved themselves by giving the angry giant the magic brew.

Galarr (see Galar)

Galaru (see Galeru)

Galas Greek
[Galates]

son of Polyphemus and Galatea, in some accounts

Galata Greek

a princess of France mother of Corineus by Heracles,
some say

Heracles paused on his journey bringing Geryon's cattle to Mycenae and fathered the ancestors of the Gauls on Galata.

Galatea<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Galateia.'milk-white']
a sea nymph, one of the Nereids
daughter of Nereus and Doris

She was loved by Polyphemus but she just laughed at him, preferring Acis who was killed by the jealous Cyclops, crushed by a huge stone. She turned the corpse of Acis into a stream. Some say that she wept so much at the loss of Acis that she turned into a fountain.

In another story, Acis is not mentioned and Galatea married Polyphemus, beguiled by his music-making, and bore a son, Galas.

Galatea<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Galateia.'milk-white']
wife of Pygmalion
mother of Paphos

A statue carved by Pygmalion was brought to life by Aphrodite and became Pygmalion's wife.

Another version says that Pygmalion was already married to Cynisca who became jealous of Galatea who then returned to her former state as a block of marble.

Galatea<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Galateia.'milk-white'] wife of Lamprus
mother of Leucippus

Her husband ordered her to kill the child she was expecting if it should be a girl. When a girl was born, Galatea dressed the child as a boy and reared it as such. (see also Leucippus<sup>3</sup>)

Galateia (see Galatea)

Galates (see Galas)

Galathe Greek
a horse of Hector

Galdel
a demon: an angel of the fifth heaven, governing the south

Galdragon Scottish
a sorceress: a witch

Galed (see Bran Galed)

Galegantis<sup>1</sup> British
grandfather of Lancelot, in some accounts

Galegantis<sup>2</sup> British
a knight at King Arthur's court

Galahaut (see Galahaut)

Galihodin (see Galihodin)

Galehot (see Galahaut)

Galcion (see Galioin)

Galeon (see Galioin)

Galeotto (see Galahaut)

Galenthias (see Galanthias)

Galentivet British
brother of Griflet

Galeron (see Galleron)

Galeru Australian [Galaru.Kaluru]

a name for the Rainbow Snake

Gales British
a Knight of the Round Table
husband of Philosophine

father of Percival, some say

Galeschin (see Galachin)

Galeus Greek ['lizard'] son of Apollo and Themisto

Galgagramr Norse [Galgavaldyr]

a name of Odin as 'gallows-lord'

Galgavaldyr (see Galgagramr)

Gali-edzin Mongolian

a Buriat fire-god
(see also Gala-wan-tengeri.Galai-khan)

Galian<sup>1</sup> British
son of Owain in some accounts

Galian<sup>2</sup> Irish
an old name for Leinster

Galien European
nephew of the Emperor Otto

He was in charge of the troop escorting the newly-married Elias and Beatrix to Bouillon and was killed when they were ambushed by Saxons.

Galiene British
wife of Fergus

She fell in love with Fergus when he called at Castle Lidel, the home of her uncle where she was a guest, but Fergus rejected her love, only to regret it later. She returned to her home in Lothian where she came under siege from another king. Fergus came to her rescue without disclosing his identity and later won her as a wife when he was champion at a great tournament organised by King Arthur.

Galihodin British

[Galehodin]
a Knight of the Round Table
duke of Sentoge
brother of Lancelot

He went with Lancelot when the latter left King Arthur's court.

After the death of King Arthur, he joined Lancelot, Bedivere and the others in a hermitage.

Galihud British

a Knight of the Round Table
After the death of King Arthur, he joined Lancelot, Bedivere and the others in a hermitage.

Galinthias (see Galanthias)

Galinthis (see Galanthias)

Galioin Irish

[Gaile(i)on.Gailio(i)n.Gal(e)ion.Galeon] early invaders, a branch of the Fir Bolg (see Fir Gailean)

Galion (see Galioin)

Galiot Irish
an early invader (see also Galioin)

Galipande (see werewolf)

Gall British
son of Dysgyfawd

He was said to have killed the magical birds of Gwenddolau.

Galla<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Alu.Gall(o)u.Mulla:]=Greek Gello:

=Hebrew Gelou.Gilou]

a group of Babylonian

underworld gods

Originally a demon, offspring of a devil and a mortal woman, these beings preyed on flocks. Later they were demons which ate flesh and drank blood.

An alternative version described a ghostly ox which attacked homes and roamed at night causing nightmares.

Galla<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
a Sumerian demon

Gallafer British
grandson of Gaddifer

He became a Christian and converted his father and Perceforest who were still living in the Isle of Life.

Gallehant (see Galahaut)

Gallehault (see Galahalt)

Galleron British [Galeron]

a Scottish Knight of the Round Table
a king of Galloway

He fought Gawain for the ownership of land given by King Arthur to Gawain who yielded to Galleron on the condition that he paid for a million masses to be said for the soul of Guinevere's mother.

In another version, they wounded each other so badly that they took weeks to recover. Then Gawain handed over the land to Galleron and joined the Round Table.

He fought Palamedes and was defeated, saved from death only by the intervention of Tristram.

He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravaïn and Mordred when they attempted to seize Lancelot in Guinevere's room. All except Mordred were killed by Lancelot.

galli (see galloi)

Gallicenae European
the 9 virgin priestesses serving the oracle of the Gauls

Galligantus British
a giant killed by Jack the Giant Killer

galloi Phrygian [galli:=Greek Corybantes]

celebrants of the cult of Cybele

These devotees emasculated themselves and slashed their bodies with knives.

Gallou (see Galla.werewolf)

Gallu (see Galla)

Gallus (see Khrut)

Galoholt (see Galahaut)

Galon (see Khrut)

Galun'lati North American
in the lore of the Cherokee, the end of the earth

Galvagin British
an early name for Gawain

Galvanes British
a knight

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Galvariun British
a knight of King Arthur, mentioned in some Italian stories

Galyen European
son of Oliver

Oliver accompanied Charlemagne on a trip to Jerusalem and married the daughter of the king, Huges, returning to France before his son, Galyen, was born. Galyen later joined his father at Roncesvalles just in time to see him die of his wounds. He helped Charlemagne to wreak vengeance on the Moors who had ambushed Roland and his troop.

He later returned to Jerusalem where he became king.

Galynde British
a Knight of the Round Table

He was one of the many knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot.

Galzuut Mongolian
one of the 11 sons of Khori Tumed and a swan-maiden

Gama (see Ga-gorib)

Gama, Antonio Central American
a 19th c Spanish monk who recorded much Aztec lore

Gama-Sennin (see Kosensei)

Gamag Nara Korean
one of the various heavens, a land of near-darkness

In an attempt to get light for his gloomy kingdom, the king sends out the Fire Dogs to capture the sun or the moon but they always fail in the attempt. When they bite the sun or the moon it causes an eclipse.

Gambantein Norse
the staff of Hermod

Gambiel
a spirit, ruler of Aquarius
(see also Tzakmaquel)

Gamelia Greek
a name for Hera as the goddess of marriage

Gamelios Greek
a name of Zeus as the god of marriage

Gamigin
[Gamygyn]
a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
He is said to be able to raise the souls of the dead and is depicted riding a donkey or a pony.

Gamr (see Garm)

Gamygyn (see Gamigin)

Ga'n<sup>1</sup> (see Mountain Spirits)

Gan<sup>2</sup> (see Gano)

Gan-Ceanach (see Gan-Ceann)

Gan-Ceann Irish
[Gan-Ceanach.Love-talker]
a headless fairy or spirit who woos maidens and then disappears

Gana<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a servant of the gods: a lesser deity or dwarf demon attendant on Parvati and Shiva

The Ganas, ruled by Ganesha or Nandi, were in nine groups – the Abhasvaras, Adityas, Anilas, Maharijikas, Rudras, Sadhyas, Tushitas, Vasus and Visvedevas.

Gana<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a sacred text or prayer

Gana-Nayaki Hindu
a name for Devi, Kali and Uma as leader of the Ganas

Ganadhara Jain
a leading disciple

Ganapati<sup>1</sup> Buddhist a Buddhist derivation from Ganesha (see also Kwagiden)

Ganapati<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a name for Ganesha as ruler of the Ganas

Ganapatihridaya Buddhist
the sakti of Ganapati

Ganapatya Hindu
a member of a sect worshipping Ganesha

Ganaskidi North American
a harvest-god of the Navaho

He is envisaged as a bighorn sheep.

In some accounts there are many supernatural beings of this name.

Ganda Tara Buddhist
a minor goddess

Gandalac British
a knight

father of Bramandil and Gavus
foster-father of Galaor

He kidnapped the boy Galaor and reared him alongside his own sons.

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Gandales British
a Scottish knight
father of Gandalin

He rescued the infant Amadis of Gaul from the sea and reared him alongside his own son.

Gandalfr Norse
one of the dwarfs

Gandalin European son of Gandales

foster-brother and squire of Amadis
He was with Amadis on Firm Island when Amadis received the letter terminating his relationship with the jealous Oriana. Amadis left his companions, seeking death, and, against his master's orders, Gandalin followed him. When Amadis eluded him, he returned to Britain with Durin and told Oriana what had happened.

Gandari East Indian

the Javanese version of Gandhari wife of Drestarata mother of the Korawas

Gandarewa Persian

[Gandarwa.Kundrav]
a sea-monster

This monster, the guardian of haoma, was said to be able to swallow twelve men at once. It was killed by Keresaspa after a fight which lasted nine days and nights.

In some accounts, this beast had golden heels and was so big that its body was in the sea while its head was in the sky.

Gandarwa (see Gandarewa)

Gandavaha (see Gandhavaha)

Gandayah North American

one of the 3 tribes of Jogah

These dwarf beings cultivate the earth to ensure that it remains fertile, in the lore of the Iroquois.

Gandha Buddhist

[=Tibetan Dri-chah-ma]
a Buddhist-Lamaist goddess
one of the mataras

She is depicted as green in colour and sometimes with four arms.

Gandhari<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[=Javanese Gandari] daughter of Subala
wife of Dhartarashtra
mother of the Kauravas and Duhsala

The sage, Vyasa, granted her wish for 100 sons. Her pregnancy produced a lump of flesh which Vyasa cut into 101 pieces, sealing each in a jar. In due course, the girl Duhsala and 100 boys were born.

Gandhari<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a small-pox goddess

Gandhari<sup>3</sup> Jain

a goddess of learning
one of the sasanadevatās

Gandharva<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a celestial archer

He was given the divine drink, soma, for safe-keeping but Agni, in the form of a hawk, seized it. (see also Krsanu)

Gandharva<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of a group of fertility spirits offspring of Brahma or Kashyapa

These beings, who live in the sky, are said to be skilled in medicine and have power over women.

Their description varies from shaggy half man, half animal, to beautiful singers and musicians.

Some accounts equate them with the Greek Centaurs.

(see also Gandharva<sup>3,4</sup>)

Gandharva<sup>3</sup> Hindu

one of a race of hill people referred to in the Mahabharata

Gandharva<sup>4</sup> Hindu

[=Cambodian Khanda]
one of the singers and dancers
providing entertainment in Svarga, Indra's heaven: fertility spirits

It was said that these 6,333 minor deities could assume any shape they wished. One of their main functions was to prepare soma for the gods to drink. The chief Gandharva was Chitratha.

Gandharva-Loka

(see Gandharvanagara)

Gandharvanagara Hindu

[Gandharva-Loka.Gandharvapura]
the home of the Gandharvas

Gandharvapura

(see Gandharvanagara)

Gandhavaha Hindu

[Gandavaha] a name of Vayu as 'perfume-bearer'

Gandin British

in some accounts, a grandfather of Percival

gandiva Hindu

the bow of Arjuna, previously owned by Chandra

Gandolin European

a companion of Durin

He accompanied Durin on his return to Britain after delivering Oriana's cruel letter to Amadis.

Gandreid Norse

[Gandrieid]
a name for the Wild Hunt

It was said that any field over which the Gandreid passed would bear increased crops.

Gandrieid (see Gandreid)

Gandwy British

a porter at King Arthur's court
father of Cadyreith

Ganegwa's North American

an Iroquois dance used to cure diseases

Ganelon (see Gano)

Ganeq North American

an Iroquois dance in honour of the god Haweniyō

Ganesa (see Ganesha)

Ganesh (see Ganesha)

Ganesha

Hindu

[Ekadanta.Gajanana.Ganapati.

Ganesa.Ganesh.Genesh.

Hastimukha.Lambodara.Lord of

Obstacles.(Maha-)Ganapati:

=Buddhist Vighnantaka.Vigneshava:

=Greek Hermes:=Japanese Shoten]

the elephant-headed god of art, foresight, good fortune and scribes ruler of the Ganas

son of Shiva and Parvati

brother of Karttikeya

brother of Subrahmanya, some say husband of Buddhi, Riddhi and Siddhi

He is said by some to have been produced by Parvati from flaking skin or from bath-oil.

His mother asked him to guard her door while she bathed and when he tried to deny entry to Shiva his father chopped off his head. To pacify Parvati, he replaced it with the first thing to hand – the head of an elephant.

In another version, the god Shani was asked to look after the baby and his fiery glance burned off Ganesha's head which Parvati or Vishnu replaced with an elephant's head.

One of his tusks was knocked out by Rama when he tried to keep him from the sleeping Shiva.

Another account says that his stomach split open when he fell off the mouse (or rat) he was riding. He hastily put back all the sweet things that had fallen out and tied a snake round his waist like a belt. This episode made the watching moon laugh and this angered Ganesha so much that he pulled out one of his tusks and threw it at the moon.

Other versions say that he pulled out the tusk and used it as a pen to write down the alphabet dictated by Vyasa.

He is depicted as a red or yellow fat-bellied man holding a club, a discus, a shell and a water-lily in his four hands and is sometimes shown riding on a rat. (see also Heramba)

Ganesha-Chaturthi Hindu

a festival in honour of Ganesha, held at the end of August

Ganesha-Gita Hindu

[Ganesha's Song]
a poem of over 400 stanzas in praise of Ganesha

Ganesha's Song (see Ganesha-Gita)

Gang Gam-Czan Korean

a marshal of the Korean army

A man lost in the mountains spent three days with a maiden who gave him shelter in her cottage. Some years later, she appeared with a small boy and handed him over to the father. The fox-woman (for that is what she was) then disappeared. The boy, Gang Gam-Czan became famous as a soldier and judge who banished tigers, and caused frogs to stop croaking, rivers to stop roaring and mosquitoes to stop biting.

Ganga<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Ganga Mai]
the Milky Way
a river-goddess of the Ganges goddess of health and plenty daughter of Himavan and Mena sister of Uma
wife of Vishnu, born from the toe of Vishnu consort of Shiva and Varuna, some say mother of Jalandha mother of Karttikeya by Agni
mother of Bhishma by Santanu Originally the wife of Vishnu, she was later given to Shiva. In the Mahabharata she is referred to as the wife of Santanu while others say that she married Agni. In the story in which she is the wife of Santanu, she married him on condition that he would never reproach her. She had the strange habit of drowning each of their children at birth and finally Santanu passed a mild remark that this was somewhat unusual. At that point, Ganga disappeared for ever.

She is depicted riding the water-monster, Makara. (see also Ganges)

Ganga<sup>2</sup> West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Ganga-dhara Hindu

a name of Shiva as 'upholder of the Ganges'

On one occasion the waters of the Ganges were diverted to heaven and the earth suffered a drought. The seer Bhagiratha negotiated for its return and Shiva allowed it to fall over him, slowed down by his beard to reduce the force of its impact on earth.

Ganga-ja Hindu

a name for Karttikeya as 'born from
the Ganges'

Gang Mai (see Ganga<sup>1</sup>)

gangan West Indian

a low-ranking Haitian shaman

Gangan Sama (see Tokugawa<sup>1</sup>)

Ganges Hindu

one of the sacred rivers, personified as a goddess, flowing from the toe of Vishnu (see also Ganga<sup>1</sup>)

Gangeya (see Bhishma)

Gangir Mesopotamian

[Hegir-nuna]
a Sumerian goddess
daughter of Baba

Gangita Hindu

one of the yakshas

Gangla (see Gangler)

Gangler<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Gangla.Gangleri]
gatekeeper of Odin's palace
He related the Norse myths to Gylfi, king of Sweden, when the king visited Odin's palace.

Another version has Gangler as king of Sweden in place of Gylfi.

(see also Gylfi)

Gangler<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Gangla.Gangleri]
a name used by Odin as a traveller

Gangleri (see Gangler)

Gangrad Norse

[Gagnrath.Gangrath.Wanderer]
the name used by Odin, disguised as a wanderer, in his contest of wits with Vafthruthnir

(see also Vak.Wayfarer)

Gangrath (see Gangrad)

Ganieda British

[=Welsh Gwendydd]
twin sister of Merlin wife of Rhydderch, some say

The name given to Merlin's twin sister in the Italian version of the wizard's life. She is the wife of Rhydderch in some accounts and is sometimes equated with Languoreth.

Ganindo Pacific Islands

a warrior-hero of the Solomon Islands
When he was killed in battle, his companions cut off his head which was thereafter used as an oracle.

Ganis Baltic

a Lappish forest-spirit

This being takes the form of a beautiful maiden with a long tail who mates with mortals.

Ganki Mongolian

one of the burkhan

Gann Irish

son of Dela
leader of the invading Fir Bolg
He and his brother Sengann shared the province of Munster.

Gano European

[Danilo.Gan.Ganelon.Namilo]
a count of Mayence
one of Charlemagne's paladins
father of Baldwin

Out of jealousy of Roland, he became a traitor, writing to Marsilius, the king of Spain, urging him to invade France,

and plotting the death of Roland.

After the defeat of the African and Spanish forces, he persuaded the Emperor to send him as ambassador to the court of Spain. He arranged a trap for Roland when the Spanish met the advance party of the French army at the border to hand over the tribute exactd by Charlemagne, and when the trap was sprung at Roncesvalles, Gano was in camp with the main body of Charlemagne's forces. The sound of Roland's horn alerted the Emperor who realised that he had been betrayed
by Gano who was then imprisoned.
When Charlemagne saw the shambles at Roncesvalles, where he arrived too late to save his paladins, he had Gano hung, drawn and quartered.

In other versions, the ambush at Roncesvalles trapped the rearguard of Charlemagne's army as it withdrew from Spain and, in this version, Gano was torn apart by wild horses.

ganta Hindu

a bell, one of the weapons of Durga

Ganv-devata (see Dih)

Ganv-devi (see Dih)

Ganumedes (see Ganymede)

Ganyklos Baltic

[=Czech Veles;=Russian Vlas(sy):

=Slav Volos]

a Lithuanian god of domestic animals

Ganymeda (see Hebe)

Ganymede Greek

[Ganumedes.Ganymedes:

=Roman Catamitus]

the god of rain

son of King Tros and Callirhoe

brother of Assaræus and Ilus

A Trojan prince who was carried away by Zeus in the form of an eagle (or by Eos who handed the boy over to Zeus) and who became cup-bearer to the gods after Hebe. Zeus gave Tros two (or six) immortal horses, or, in some stories, a golden vine, in compensation for the loss of his son.

In some stories, he was the son of Laomedon.

In Crete, Minos replaced Zeus.

Ganymedes (see Ganymede)

ganza

a mythical wild goose

Ganzir Mesopotamian

the palace of Ereshkigal

Gaoh (see Ga-oh)

Gaoine Irish

[Mac Lughach]

a warrior of the Fianna

son of Lugaid

In some accounts, his father was Lugaid Lagha, in others Lugaid becomes a daughter of Finn mac Cool who is Goaine's mother by her own brother, Daire Dearg.

Gaokerena Persian
[The White Haoma.The White Hom]
a tree on which grew the fruit of immortality

From the fruit of this tree, which grew in the sea Vourokasha, was pressed the divine drink, Haoma. It grows on Mount Alburz.

(see also Haoma)

Gaonim
a good demon

gaot side (see sidhe gaoite)

Gapn Canaanite
a vine-god
a messenger of Baal

Gar-ma (see Nrtya) Garadh mac Morna Irish
brother of Goll and Conan

As the oldest man in a Fianna party, he was left in charge of the women while the others went hunting. Angered by their taunts, he locked all the women in a tower and burnt them to death.

Garadh of the Black Knee Irish father of Manissa

Garadie German
a count

He was an enemy of Sigeband and captured that king's son, Hagen. The youth threw most of the crew overboard and forced Garadie to take him to his father's court from which he had long been absent.

Garach (see Battle of Garach) Garakhe African

a tyrant-king of Senegal
He killed the seer Bincigi for daring to speak up for the oppressed people but was himself killed by Bincigi's son, Marain Jagu, who also killed Garakhe's seven sons.

Garamas<sup>1</sup> African
the first man, in the lore of a nomadic tribe of the Sahara, the Garamantes

Garamas<sup>2</sup> (see Amphithemis)

Garang<sup>1</sup> African
the first man in the lore of the Dinka husband of Abuk

They lived in a small pot on one grain of corn per day but grew bigger when the pot was opened.

Garang<sup>2</sup> (see Rang)

Garanus (see Recaranus)

Garanwy Welsh

[Garanwyn]
a warrior at King Arthur's court

son of Kay
brother of Celamon

Garanwyn (see Garanwy)

Garb (see Garbh)

Garbh<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Garb]
husband of Lot father of Goll

Garbh<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Garb]
a fierce fighter
He refused to allow anyone to pass through his territory but was killed when he tried to stop Cuchulainn.

Another version describes him as a Scandinavian who came to demand tribute and was killed by Cuchulainn after seven days of continuous fighting. This is a variation of the story of Goll mac Carbada.

Garbh Ogh Irish

a deity in the form of a giantess
Her priests were said to castrate themselves in ecstatic fervour.

Garbhadhatu Buddhist

the world of forms

garbhagrha Hindu

a small chamber at the centre of a temple

Garbh Ogh Irish

[=Greek Artemis]
a giantess, a huntress

She ran a pack of twenty deer-hounds and rode in a chariot drawn by elks.

Garcelos British

an ancestor of King Arthur, in some accounts
son of Joshua

In some accounts, he is equated with Castellors.

Garcia Spanish

[Don Garcia]
son of Ferdinand brother of Alfonso, Elvira, Sancho and Urraca

On his father's death, he was given the province of Galicia. Not satisfied with this, he seized Zamora from his sister, Urraca. Sancho sent an army under El Cid to help Urraca and both Garcia and his brother Alfonso, who was helping him, were captured. He died in prison.

garde West Indian

[guard]
a Haitian magic charm

This charm is said to protect the wearer from evil, as opposed to the wanga which brings ill-fortune.

Other, more specific protective devices, are the arret and the drogue.

Garde Joyeuse British

[Dolorous Gard,Joyeux Gard.

Joyous Gard]
the estate given to Lancelot by King Arthur

Guinevere lived here for a time with Lancelot and, after she returned to King Arthur, he called it Dolorous Gard.

Garden of Delight African

the Swahili paradise

Garden of the Hesperides Greek

the walled garden of Hera

The tree that bore golden apples was planted in this garden and it was tended by the Hesperides and guarded by the serpent Ladon. Heracles came here to obtain some of the golden apples as his eleventh Labour.

Gardrofa Norse

a horse, dam of Gna's horse Hofvarpnir

Gardsvor Scandinavian

a guardian spirit of the household
This being is envisaged as a small man who, some say, is the incarnation of the soul of an ancestor.

Garel British

a knight of King Arthur's court
husband of Laudame

When Ecunaver prepared to attack King Arthur, Garel invaded his kingdom of Kanedic and conquered it.

Garel von dem blubenden Tal

European

a 13th c poem about Garel, written in German

Garelant (see werewolf)

Gareng East Indian

son of Semar
brother of Petruk

Gareth British

[Beaumains.Fair Hands.Handy]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Lot and Morgause
brother of Agravain, Gaheris
and Gawain

husband of Lynette or Lyonesse

In some accounts, he refused to identify himself as Gawain's brother until he had earned a knighthood by his own efforts and was referred to as The Young Unknown. In this respect, the story is similar to that of Gingalin, Gareth's son, The Fair Unknown.

When he first joined Arthur's court with Agravain, Gaheris and Gawain he took the job of a scullion, earning the nickname Beaumains or Fair Hands.

A maiden, Lynette came to King Arthur's court seeking help for her sister, Lyonesse, who was being harassed by the Red Knight. Gareth took up the cause, defeated the Black Knight, the Blue Knight, the Green Knight and, finally, the Red Knight and married Lyonesse. In some accounts, he married Lynette.

He was one of the knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot.

He refused to be a party to the plan by Agravain and Mordred to betray Lancelot's secret affair with Guinevere to King Arthur and, when the queen was exposed and condemned to be burnt at the stake, he reluctantly obeyed the king's command to supervise the execution after his elder brother, Gawain, had refused. He went unarmed and was not recognised by Lancelot when he rode to the queen's rescue. Both Gareth and his brother Gaheris who had also been ordered to attend, as well as many other knights, were killed by Lancelot when he charged into the crowd and carried Guinevere off to safety.

Gareth and Lynette British
a poem by Tennyson

Gargamelle British
a giantess
wife of Grandgousier
mother of Gargantua

It was said that Merlin created this being from Guinevere's nail-clippings and whales' bones.

Gargantua British [Gurgiant Brabtruc]
a giant

son of Grandousier and Gargamelle
husband of Badebec
father of Pantagruel

He is said to have been created by Merlin. He served King Arthur and on one of his journeys he met and killed the monster, Leviathan.

Another story says that he was born from the ear of his mother, Gargamelle. Even as a boy he had an enormous appetite and it needed the milk from 17,913 cows to keep him fed. Fully grown, he needed a comb 300 yards long to comb his hair and he once ate five pilgrims as a snack.

Gargittios (see Gargittios)
Gargittos Greek

[Gargittios]
one of the dogs of Geryon killed by Heracles (see also Orthrus)

Gargouille French
a dragon living in the River Seine

It was said that this monster was killed by St Romanus in the seventh century.

Garhaptya Hindu
one of the 3 forms of sacred fire, the fire of Agni (see also fire)

Gari (see Geri)
Garide Siberian

the eagle form of the sky-god Otshirvani
The sky-god adopted this form to kill the huge serpent, Losy, which he seized in his claws and dashed against a mountain.

Garin European
brother of Guillaume
father of Vivien

He was captured by the Saracens but released when his seven-year-old son, Vivien, was handed over in exchange.

(see also Guarinos)

Garin de Loherqain European brother of Began

He was raised at Pepin's court and later fought against the Saracens at Maurienne where he proposed to marry Blanchefleur, the king's daughter. He quarrelled with his friend Fromont, who had been reared with him and who had expected to inherit the throne, and struck him, beginning a long-running feud. In fact, Pepin, having given consent for the marriage, changed his mind and kept Blanchefleur for himself.

Garin was killed in one of the many battles with Fromont's forces.

Garin de Monglane European father of Girart de Vienne great grandfather of Guillaume

Garain de St Omer European a knight who travelled with Huon on his journey to Baghdad

Garinter French
a king of Brittany
father of Elizena grandfather of Amadis

Gario Japanese
[Bingacho.Karobinga.Kasobinga]
a name for Garuda in Japan

Garland Sunday (see Lugnasad)
Garlin British

a king of Galore
In some accounts he was the father of Gotegrim and Guinevere.

Garlon British
a knight who could make himself invisible

brother of King Pelham
He killed Harleus and Peryne who set out to avenge him. When he challenged Balin at a tournament arranged by Pelham, Balin cut off his head.

Garm<sup>1</sup> European
the dog owned by Hrolf Kraki

This animal was said to have killed a magic boar sent to kill Garm's master.

Garm<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Gamr.Garme.Garmr.Gurm]

Hel's guard-dog
This animal was killed by Tyr in the battle of Ragnarok. Others say that it killed Tyr but was killed by Thor.

Garmangabi German [Garmangabis]
a goddess of good fortune

Garmangabis (see Garmangabi)
Garme (see Garm<sup>2</sup>)

Garman (see Irish)
son of Gias

He abducted the goddess Mesca and seduced her.

Garmna Irish
wife of Ercol

Garmr (see Garm<sup>2</sup>)
Garnish of the Mountain British

a knight
He found his lady-love in the arms of another man and killed them both.
Then, distraught at what he had done,
he killed himself.

Garo Nmana Persian [Garotman]

a paradise, home of the faithful dead
Garotman (see Garo Nmana)

Garselit Welsh
chief huntsman of Ireland

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get the help of Garselit in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Garshasp (see Keresaspa)
Gartnam (see Gartnan)

Gartnan mac Aodha Irish [Gartnam]

a king of Scotland
father of Cano

He became king of Scotland after a dispute with Aodan who then became his enemy. Aodan led an uprising, killed Gartnan and found the barrel of gold that the king had buried in the sand of the seashore.

Garuda<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
the three-headed mount of Vajrapani

Garuda<sup>2</sup> Hindu [Devourer.Garutmant.Gerda.Jatayu.

Suparna.Taraswinin=Cambodian

Reachea-Sey:=Japanese Bingacho.

Gario.Karobinga.Kasobinga:

=Tibetan Kyung-Gai in Go-can:

=Thai Khрут]

a demigod, part man, part eagle

the bird of Vishnu, sun-bird

son of Kasyapa and Vinata

brother of Aruna

father of Sampati

He was said to devour evil men and carried Vishnu on his daily journey across the sky. In some accounts, he appears as an incarnation of Agni.

He protected the peak of Mount Sumeru from the first attempt by Vayu to break it off but, when Garuda was away, Vayu tried again and snapped off the mountain top which fell into the sea as Sri Lanka.

Vinata was imprisoned in the underworld by her sister, Kudra, mother of snakes, who demanded amrita as ransom. Garuda placed the drink in some grass that had sharp blades so that, when the snakes licked it, they split their tongues. The amrita was recovered by Indra only after a great struggle.

A different account says that, when Garuda stole the soma, which he intended to deliver to Indra, the archer Krsanu shot at him and dislodged one or two of his feathers. A similar story is told of Gayatri.

Another version says that the ransom demanded was the moon itself to light the underworld. Garuda stole the moon but the other gods seized it and rescued Vinata.

Garuda was made immortal and Vishnu travelled on his back.

In one incarnation, as Jatayu, he helped Rama in his search for Sita when she was abducted.

An alternative version of his origins says that he was hatched from an egg at the beginning of time. He is depicted as half man, half bird, with red wings, a golden body and a white human face. The wind caused by the flapping of his wings was strong enough to stop the rotation of the earth.

Garuda Putih Buddhist

[Celestial Eagle]

a white eagle

It is said that the Buddha comes to earth once a year, transported by this celestial bird.

Garudi Hindu

a female bird of prey, a manifestation of Shiva

Garutmant (see Garuda)

Garwen British

a mistress of King Arthur daughter of Henin

Garwy British

father of Indeg

Gary German

a follower of Gunther

He conveyed Gunther's invitation to Siegfried and Krimhild to visit his court.

Garym Welsh

a witch

Gashan-ki Mesopotamian

a name for Damkina as 'lady of the earth' (see also Ninki)

Gasozein British

a man who claimed to have married Guinevere

When Guinevere was given the chance to leave King Arthur for Gasozein, she refused. This upset Gotegrim who believed Gasozein's story and he abducted his sister and proposed to kill her. Gasozein rescued her from her brother's hands but Gawain saved her and Gasozein confessed that he had been lying.

Gassire African

son of Nganamba

He learned the song of the birds and bought a lyre which, when drenched with the blood of his sons killed in battle, sang the epic song, the Dausi.

Gast Rhyhmi Welsh

[Rhyhmi]

a bitch

The offspring of this hound made up the pack used in the hunting of the boar Trwch Trwyth. Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get two whelps of this animal as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen. Tringad was able to tell King Arthur where to find these animals.

Gaste Forest British

the kingdom of Pellimore

gastromancy

divination with large glasses or from stomach noises

Gate of Dreams

2 gates, one of horn, one of ivory, at the entrance to the land of dreams

It is said that dreams passing through the gate made of horn will come true, others will not.

Gate of Hell (see Cave of Cruachan)

Gate of Way Egyptian

the entrance to the Western Desert

Gate of Men (see Cancer<sup>1</sup>)

Gate of the Gods (see Capricorn<sup>1</sup>)

gatha<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a verse or a set of verses produced by a person in a state of enlightenment

gatha<sup>2</sup> Persian

[gasam]

part of the Avesta

This part of the Avesta deals with moral and spiritual doctrines. The other two parts were the datik and the hatak-mansarik.

gati Hindu

the 6 paths or conditions of existence

These six states are listed as Asura, region of demi-gods Deva, region of gods Nara, region of man Naraka, hell Preta, region of tortured souls Tiryak, region of beasts.

Gatumdu (see Gatumdug)

Gatumdug Mesopotamian

[Gatumdu.Gatundu]

a Sumerian fertility goddess daughter of An

Gatundu (see Gatumdug)

Gatutkaca Japanese

a warrior

son of Bima and Arimbi

He owned a magic coat that enabled him to fly.

Gaudisse (see Gaudisso)

Gaudisso European

[Gaudisse]

a Sultan

father of Clarimunda

Huon was required by Charlemagne to bring to him the sultan's beard and some of his teeth. Gaudisso was killed on the orders of the caliph, Agrapard, and, with the help of Sherasmin, Huon was able to acquire these trophies.

(see also Galafre)

Gaueko European

a Basque god of darkness

This deity sometimes appears in the form of a cow or as a gust of wind.

Gauna African

[Gawa(ma)]

the leader of the spirits of the dead in the Bushman culture

Gaunab African

the Hottentot god of darkness

He wounded Tsunigoab in a fight for supremacy but lost the struggle and was banished. (see also Ga-gorib)

Gauri<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a terrible goddess, one of 8

Gauri<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Yellow Devi]

the goddess Devi as 'the brilliant'

or 'yellow'

a name for Kali on her tiger

a sakti of Mahesvara

Gauri<sup>3</sup> Hindu
a name of Parvati as a corn-goddess or as 'golden'

When Shiva objected to Parvati's dark skin, Rahura changed her into Gauri, the Yellow Devi.

(see also Gauri<sup>5</sup>)

Gauri<sup>4</sup> Hindu
a name for Varuni as 'brilliant' or 'yellow'

Gauri<sup>5</sup> Jain
[Uma]

a messenger-goddess
one of the sasanadevatas
one of the vidyadevis

She was created by Brahma as a wife for Rudra in some accounts, while others say that Sati was reborn as Parvati and, when Shiva took exception to her dark skin, Brahma changed her into the yellow-skinned Gauri.

An alternative story says that it was Gauri, humiliated when Rudra was not invited to a feast, who died in a sacrificial fire to become Sati.

(see also Gauri<sup>3</sup>)

Gauri-Tara Buddhist
a minor goddess

Gauriel British
a warrior in a German story

His wife left him but promised to return if he could capture three of King Arthur's knights. This he did and later spent some time at the king's court.

Gautama<sup>1</sup> Indian [Gautama Siddhartha:=Pali Gotama]
(c 563-479 BC)

a prince in north India who became the Buddha (see also Buddha)

Gautama<sup>2</sup> (see Gotama<sup>2</sup>)

Gautier European
a count

He served Roland and died with him at Roncesvalles.

Gauvain British [Ga(u)wain.Gayain]
the French name for Gawain

Gauvaine (see Gawain)

Gauvain (see Gauvain)

Gava-griva Hindu
[=Japanese Buto]
a deity

Gavain (see Gawain)

Gavida Irish [Gavidjeen Go]
a dwarf smith-god

He is said to have flown to Spain to steal the moon-cow Glas Gabnach. Some accounts equate him with Goibhniu.

Gavidjeen Go (see Gavida)

Gavra (see Battle of Gabhra)

Gavus British

a knight
son of Gandalac
brother of Bramandil

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Gawa (see Gauna)

Gawai East Indian

a festival of the Iban tribe in Borneo to which they invite ancestors and gods

Gawain British

[Galvagin.Gavain.Gauvain(e).

Gawan.Gawayne.Gwrfan.Knight of the Goddess.The Red Knight:=Dutch

Walwain.Walewein.Walwanus:

=French Gauvain.Gauvain.Gayain:

=Irish Balb(u)aidh.Bhalbhuaidh:

=Latin Walga(i)nus:=Scottish Uallabh:

=Welsh Gwalchgwyn.

Gwalchmai.Gwalchmei]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Lot and Morgause

son of King Arthur and Morgause, some say brother of Agravaing, Gaheris, Gareth,

Itonje and Soredamor

nephew of King Arthur

husband of Amurfine, Florie,

Orgelleuse, Ragnell or Ysabele

father of Florence, Gingalin, Lovel

and Wigalois

In some accounts his mother is Anna and Welsh stories have Gwyar as his father or mother while others say that he was the son of Gorlois and Igraine. Some say he was cast adrift in a boat as a baby, rescued by a fisherman and baptised by another Gawain known as the Brown. In this version he was said to have travelled on the Continent where he was knighted by the Pope.

In the more usual version he was knighted by King Arthur and, en route with his brothers to King Arthur's court to be made knights, they routed a band of robbers who had looted London during the king's absence at his wedding feast and killed the giants Chaos and Sanagran.

When he was knighted by the king, Gawain was jealous of Pellimore, who was given an honoured place at the Round Table, and planned to kill him because Pellimore had killed Gawain's father, Lot, in battle. When he met Evadeam, who had been turned into a dwarf by a sorcerer, Evadeam regained his normal stature while Gawain became a dwarf but he also regained his normal size later.

At Arthur's wedding feast, a white stag ran into the hall and Gawain was sent to find the stag which had been chased by a white bitch and a pack of black hounds. He rode off with Gaheris and found two knights, Brian and Sorlus, fighting to decide which of them should chase the stag which had just run past. Gawain stopped them from fighting and made them ride to Arthur's court and submit themselves to the king. He and Gaheris caught up with the stag as it swam across a stream but Gawain was challenged by a knight, Alardine, and killed him in single combat before resuming the chase which led to a castle. Here he caught and killed the stag but was attacked by another knight, owner of the stag. Gawain defeated him and was about to strike off his head when a lady ran in and, flinging herself on the fallen loser, intercepted Gawain's sword stroke and was killed. He spared the beaten knight, Blamire, and sent him also to Arthur's court. Four knights then set on the two brothers and Gawain was wounded in the arm by an arrow. They were saved by four ladies who begged for their lives and were allowed to return to court with the head of the white stag. Gawain was forced to carry the headless body of the lady he had killed in front of him on his horse.

To honour a pledge made by the king, he married the ugly old crone, Ragnell, who then reverted to her proper form of a beautiful young woman. They had a son, Gingalin, who came to Arthur's court unaware that the knight who taught him all the knightly arts was his father.

As a result of Morgan's attempt on his life, the king felt unable to trust her son, Owain, and banished him from the court. Gawain opted to go with him and they rode off together to seek adventure. Their first encounter was with Morholt and they watched him unhorse two knights in quick succession. He then challenged the two newcomers and toppled and wounded Owain. Gawain put up much stronger resistance and they fought an honourable draw. All three then became friends and travelled on together. At a cross-roads, they met three women who offered to lead them to adventure and Gawain chose the youngest of the three. They came to a clearing where they saw Pelleas unhorse ten knights in succession but yielded without a struggle when the defeated men tied him under his horse and carried him off. Another knight and an ugly dwarf then appeared with a damsel who chose the dwarf and rode off. When another knight appeared and challenged Gawain, the first knight rode off with Gawain's young girl companion. The knight and Gawain fought a draw and the knight told Gawain the story of Pelleas and his hopeless love for Ettard. Gawain tried to help Pelleas by telling Ettard that he was dead, hoping she would realise how much he had meant to her but instead he seduced Ettard. He returned to the cross-roads where he met Owain and Marholt and they all three rode back to Camelot where they were made welcome by the king.

He was one of the many knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot.

In one story, he helped Gromer conquer the Isle of Man and made Gromer its king. He then beheaded Gromer to break the spell which had turned Gromer into a Turk. In another adventure, he helped Carl of Carlisle to regain his normal shape by beheading him, so breaking a spell which had turned him into a giant.

In King Arthur's campaigns against Rome, he was sent to take a message to Lucius, the Roman commander. When Quintilian, a nephew of Lucius, made an insulting remark about Britain, Gawain decapitated him with his sword. A similar story is told about Gayus.

He joined the other knights on the Grail Quest and, after many fruitless weeks, met Ector who was equally frustrated. They rode on together and were soon challenged by a knight who Gawain ran through with his spear. To his dismay, the knight turned out to be his friend Owain who died soon after they had taken him to a nearby monastery. Another version says that Gawain was involved in another fight in which he was severely wounded by Galahad and it was a month before he was well enough to return to Camelot having given up the quest. Yet another story says that Ector and Gawain arrived at a small chapel where they fell asleep in the pews and dreamed. Gawain dreamed about a great herd of bulls. A voice told them that they were not fit for the Grail quest so they went to Nascien the hermit, who interpreted their dreams and confirmed what the voice had said with the result that they gave up the quest and returned to Camelot.

In some accounts, he fell in love with Orgelleuse and fought many battles on her behalf. She promised to marry him if he would fight her enemy, Gramoflanz. Gawain provoked the knight by taking a twig from a tree near to his castle and they agreed to meet eight days later outside Klingsor's castle, Schastel Marveil. At this castle, he slept on a bed that moved of its own accord and was assailed by a shower of arrows and spears which left him unharmed. He fought a fierce lion and killed it; this turned out to be Klingsor in the form of a lion and his death broke the spell he had placed on Gawain. A similar story is told of Bors at Castle Carbonek. When Gawain fought Gramoflanz he was defeated but his conqueror, who turned out to be Percival, spared his life when Gawain's sister, Honje, pleaded for him. It was said that he married Orgelleuse shortly afterwards.

He refused to be a party to the plan by Agravain and Mordred to trap Lancelot and Guinevere together and was with King Arthur on a hunting trip when Mordred brought the king proof of Guinevere's secret affair with Lancelot. Gawain was ordered by the king to put the queen to death at the stake. He refused but his younger brothers, Gaheris and Gareth, felt bound to obey their king's command. Lancelot, riding to the queen's rescue as she was led to the stake, killed Gaheris, Gareth and many others. Bitter at this loss, Gawain became Lancelot's sworn enemy and was in the forefront of the battle when the king besieged Joyous Garde where Lancelot was installed with Guinevere and many of his friends from Brittany. This conflict ended on the orders of the Pope and the queen was returned to her husband. Although Arthur and Lancelot swore a truce, Gawain was unforgiving and, at his urging, the king took his army to the continent to further attack Lancelot who had returned to his home in Brittany. Once again Gawain was in the thick of the battle and when they reached Benwick, Lancelot's capital, challenged Lancelot to single combat. Gawain owned a magic belt which made him invulnerable and increased his strength until midday, after which his strength returned to normal. They fought each other on two successive days and Lancelot, waiting until Gawain's strength ebbed after midday, on each occasion dented his opponent's helmet with a tremendous sword blow that knocked Gawain senseless to the ground. Arthur was called back to England when Mordred usurped his throne and the wounded Gawain was brought back with the returning forces. He tried to take up the battle when he reached Dover but the effort proved too much and he died. He was buried at Dover Castle. On his deathbed he wrote a letter of forgiveness to Lancelot.

In a French story, Gawain survived Arthur and became king of Britain.

A German story tells how Joram came to Arthur's court and offered the queen a magic girdle. When, on Gawain's advice she rejected it, Joram defeated Gawain in a duel and Gawain is forced to return with Joram to his magic kingdom where he married Joram's niece, Florie, fathering Wigalois. When he returned to the court, he forgot to bring the girdle with him and was never able to return to Joram's realm.

In an Irish story, Gawain (as Bhalbhaidh) helped the son of the king of India, who had been turned into a dog, to regain his human form.

In the Welsh version he was Gwalchmai, son of Gwyar and Lot, and by some equated with Llew Llaw Gyffes.

(see also Green Knight.Gwalchmai)

Gawain the Brown British the knight who, in some accounts, baptised Gawain when he was rescued from the sea as a baby

Gawama (see Gauna)

Gawan (see Gawain)

Gawayne (see Gawain)

Gawl (see Gwawl)

Gawlgawd Welsh

[Gwlgawd]

owner of a famous drinking horn

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get this horn as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen.

(see also Bran Galed)

Gawter British
a knight of King Arthur's court

He was one of the knights overcome by Lancelot when he was posing as Kay.

Gaya Hindu
one of the Asuras

He acquired great merit by devotion to Vishnu and everybody who touched him went to heaven so that soon the world was empty of humans.

Gaya Maretan (see Gayomart)

Gaya-psetra Hindu
a place in which all sins are washed away

Gayain (see Gauvain)

Gayal Indian
a ghost of a man who had no sons preying on the sons of others

Gayatari (see Gayatri)

Gayatri<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Gayatari]
a milkmaid who became consort of Brahma

She is regarded as a personification of a hymn to the sun from the Rig Veda which is taught at initiation ceremonies.

Some say that she became the second wife of Brahma who found his first wife lazy and not interested in intellectual matters. (see also Gayatri<sup>2</sup>)

Gayatri<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Gayatari]
daughter of Suparni
sister of Jagati and Trishubb

In some accounts, she took the form of a bird (a hawk or eagle) and brought the divine soma from heaven after her mother and two sisters had tried and failed.

Some equate her with Gayatri, second wife of Brahma.

Gayatri Japa Hindu
a festival in honour of Gayatri
a prayer repeated each day by Brahmins

Gayo Marta (see Gayomart)

Gayomard (see Gayomart)

Gayomart Persian [Gajomartan.Gaya Maretan.
Gayo Marta.Gayomard]
a primaevial man created from the sweat of Ahura Mazda father of Siyamak

He is said to have lived for 3,000 years in spirit form as Gayomart before appearing in the flesh as Gaya Maretan. He was poisoned by Ahriman, at the behest of Jeh the whore, at the age of thirty, but his seed generated the predecessors of the human race, Mashye and Mashyane. From his body came all the elements.

Gayomart was envisaged as a tall, white, radiant being who fought the forces of darkness.

Gayus British
a cousin of the Emperor of Rome

When King Arthur sent Bors, Bedivere, Lionel and Gawain to parley with Lucius, Gayus mocked them and called them braggers. Gawain struck off his head with a sword-stroke.

A similar story was told of Quintilian.

Gazbayas Mesopotamian

a Hittite god
gazereum North American
a fabulous animal

Gaziel
a demon guarding underground treasures
(see also Anarazel.Fecor)

Gbadé<sup>1</sup> African
a young thunder-god in Dahomey
He is said to use lightning as a weapon with which he kills wrongdoers. The possessions of a man so killed are scattered by the roadside and anybody who touches them will be killed in the same way.

Gbadé<sup>2</sup> (see Badé)

Gbalu (see Gwalu)

Gbeni African
the supreme spirit of the Mende
gbo African

a magic charm of the Fon
Some charms are beneficent, others malignant and there are many varieties of each category. Some of these are referred to in entries for akonda, akpou, alimagba, didi, nguneme, nudida and yegbagia.

Gborogboro African
an ancestor of the Lugbara

Ge (see Gaea)

Ge-lug-pa Tibetan [Ka-dam-pa]
a Buddhist sect worshipping Vajradhara, founded by Atisa

Ge Rouge (see Erzulie)

Ge Metre Greek
[Earth Mother.Ga Mater.Gemeter]
a name from which, some say, the name Demeter is derived

Gea<sup>1</sup> Phoenician [=Greek Gaea]
an earth-goddess

consort of Ouranos

She and Ouranos were hatched from the primordial egg produced by Chousorus.

Gea<sup>2</sup> (see Geb)

gealach Irish ['brightness']
the moon

The proper name for the moon was taboo so euphemisms such as 'gealach' were used. (see also esca.luan.re)

geanncanae Irish
a malicious type of fairy

In some accounts, they are equated with leprechauns.

Gearg Irish
father of Fearbh

When Sin came to seek the hand of Fearbh, Conor mac Nessa attacked the house and Gearg and Sin were both killed despite the efforts of Sin's mother, Maev, to save them.

Gearoid Iarla Irish [Gerald the Earl]
a Norman who became Earl of Desmond

He was born as the result of the seduction of the goddess, Aine, by Maurice who discovered her bathing in a lake. Aine handed the child to Maurice, warning him not to be surprised if the child did exceptional things. When Gearoid jumped into a bottle and then out again, his father expressed his astonishment, whereupon Gearoid changed into a goose or swan and flew away.

Other stories say that he became Earl of Desmond on the death of his father but later mysteriously disappeared. One version of this story says that he enjoined his wife to be silent when he allowed her to witness some of the magic he could perform but, seeing him change shape, she cried out and the palace, with all its occupants, sank to the bottom of a lake.

Some say he still lives under the water of Lough Gur, awaiting a call to return to help his descendants in their hour of need. In other versions, he lives in a cavern with an army of sleeping knights. Some say that he returns at midsummer every seven years and rides round the lake on a white horse.

geas (see geis)

geasa (see geis)

Geb<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
[Gae.Gea.Great Cackler.Great Chatterer.

Keb.Nile Goose.Qeb(eb).Qebk.Seb:

=Greek Cronus]

an earth-god, god of healing
son of Shu and Tefnut
twin brother and husband of Nut father of Horus, Isis, Nephthys,

Osiris, Set

Geb and Nut were locked together at birth and Shu forced them apart so that Geb formed the earth and Nut formed the sky.

He ruled the kingdom after Shu, living for 1,773 years. The uraeus gave him a fever of which he was cured by Ra. When he abdicated he split the kingdom, giving the north to Horus and the south to Set, and became one of the attendants in Ra's boat. His laugh was thought to be the cause of earthquakes.

Other versions make him the son of Ra and the brother of Shu.

He is depicted as a goose or as a man with a goose on his head.

Gebann Irish

father of Cliona

Gebelzeizis (see Gebelzeizis)

Gebelzeizis Thracian

[Gebelzeizis] a god of thunderstorms

Gebiel

a demon of the air

gecko Pacific Islands

some tribes regard this small reptile as an ancestral spirit

Gedé Segoro Kidul (see Kidul)

Gediel

a demon of the south-west

Gedobonai

a demon of the air

Geduluh (see Chesed)

Geesis North American

in the lore of the Ojibway, the sun

The first people on earth were an old woman and her daughter. The latter was impregnated by Geesis, the sun, and gave birth to twin boys, Stone Boy and Wene-boozhoo.

Gefjon (see Gefjon)

Gefjun (see Gefjon)

Gefjon Norse

[Gefjon.Gefjun.Gefjun.Gefin]
a goddess of agriculture and fertility, attendant on Frigga

one of the Asynjur

daughter of Odin

wife of Skiold

Her function was to receive the unmarried dead.

It is said that she bore four sons to one of the giants.

When, in response to a request for a piece of land that she could call her own, Gylfi offered all she could encompass by ploughing for twenty-four hours, she turned her four sons into oxen and set about the task. The area that they enclosed by a furrow they then cut out and dragged to the sea where it became Zealand. The hollow left in the king's land flooded to form the lake, Logrum.

Gefjun (see Gefjon)

Gefn (see Freya.Gefjon)

Gegeneis (see giants-Greek)

Geh Egyptian

a god created, with Gerhit, by Thoth

Gehenna Hebrew

hell or hell-fire

It was said that this valley near Jerusalem was the site of sacrifices to Moloch and hence became associated with hell. Others say that an entrance to the afterworld was to be found in this valley.

Geide Irish

a legendary king

His reign was a period of great friendship and peace.

Geignudr Norse

a name of Odin as 'he who dangles'

This title refers to the nine days he spent hanging from the tree Yggdrail.

Geimredh Irish

an Irish version of the Samhain festival

Geirgreann Irish

mother of Seanan

Geirmund Norse

a kinsman of Flosi

He arrived on the scene just after Flosi and his men had burned down the house of Njal, killing all inside. He was able to tell Flosi that Kari had escaped from the burning house and would be looking for revenge.

Geirrod' Norse

[Geirrodr.Geirrothr.Geruthus]

son of King Hrauding

brother of Agnar

foster-son of Odin

Cast ashore on an island with his brother Agnar, he was taught the manly arts by the disguised Odin who was living there at that time. When they returned home, Geirrod left his brother in the boat at the mercy of the sea.

Later, he inherited his father's throne and, when Odin came in disguise to test his hospitality, he had the god tied to a stake between two fires. When, after eight days of torture, Odin cast off his bonds and appeared in his full glory, Geirrod was so startled that he tripped over and fell on his sword. In some stories, this was a deliberate suicide. Odin elevated Agnar, the only one to bring him a drink during his ordeal, to the throne.

Geirrodr' Norse

[Geirrodr.Geirrothr.Geruthus]

a giant

father of Gialp and Greip

He captured Loki who, disguised in Freya's falcon-garb, had perched on his house, and released him only when he promised to bring Thor, unarmed, to visit the giant. After unsuccessful attempts by his daughters to kill Thor, Geirrodr threw a red-hot metal wedge at him. Thor caught it and flung it back at the giant, killing him and turning him to a stone.

In some accounts, he built the wall round Asgard.

Geirrodr (see Geirrodr)

Geirrothr (see Geirrodr)

geis Irish

[geas:plur=geasa]

a personal obligation or bond laid on an individual which he violated at the risk of great misfortune or death

geist German

an inspiring spirit

Geitir Norse

[Geitnir]

brother-in-law of Helgi

father of Thorkef

In one story, Geitir was killed by Helgi but in others they fought but became firm friends.

He and Helgi plotted to kill a merchant for his valuables but the merchant's partner, Thorleif, sent the dead man's possessions to his heirs. Helgi then employed a man named Ketill to kill Thorleif but the plan misfired when these two became friends. Geitir and Helgi each came to suspect that the other had stolen the merchant's fortune and, in the end, Geitir laid an ambush in which Helgi was killed.

Geitnir (see Geitir)

Gekka-O Japanese

a god of marriage

He binds the feet of lovers together with fine red silk thread.

geku Japanese

a shrine

Gelanor Greek

king of Argos

He resigned in favour of Danaus who fled from Libya to Greece with his fifty daughters.

Gelasinus Roman

a god of laughter

- gelatik Pacific Islands
the paddy-bird
In Indonesia, some tribes regard the paddy-birds as their ancestors.
- Gelder (see Hiuki)
- Gelert Welsh
a hound of Llewellyn
When his master found his baby son missing and the dog covered in blood, he killed Gelert thinking that he had killed the child. In fact, the boy was safe and lying beside the body of a wolf that Gelert had fought and killed to save his master's son.
- Gelfrat Norse
master of the ferryman killed by Hagen, who called himself Amelrich
- Gelgia Norse
[Gelja]
the fetter at the end of the rope, Gleipnir, with which Fenris was finally bound
- Gelial
a moon-demon
- Gelja (see Gelgia)
- Gello Greek [=Sumerian Gallu]
a female demon
- Gelonairos
a demon of the air
- gelong Tibetan
a Buddhist monk
- Gelonus Greek
son of Heracles
brother of Agathyrus and Scythes
On his way back to Greece after stealing Geryon's cattle, Heracles had his horses stolen by a snake-tailed woman (Echidna, some say) who returned his horses only when he slept with her. She bore him three sons, one of whom was Gelonus.
- Gelorwydd Welsh
[Gem of Baptism]
a warrior-hero
He was said to administer the last rites to dying warriors, using his own blood.
- Gelou (see Lilith<sup>2</sup>)
- Gelu European
a Romanian demon which steals children
- Gem-birth Buddha (see Hoshō)
- Gem Lea (see Gimli)
- Gem of Baptism (see Gelorwydd)
- gemala Pacific Islands
a precious stone said to be carried in the head of a cobra
- Gemdelovey Scottish
wife of Assipattle
Her father gave her in marriage to Assipattle as a reward for slaying the monstrous Stoorworm.
- Gemeter (see Ge Metre)
- Gemini'
[=Arab Jauza]
the third sign of the zodiac, the Twins
- Gemini<sup>2</sup> Greek
[The Twins:=Polynesian Hui Tarara]
Castor and Pollux placed in the sky as stars by Zeus
- Gemmagog European
a giant
son of Oromedon
- Gemmeous Hare (see hare<sup>3</sup>)
- Gemmeous Lasses Chinese
[Fairy Maids]
the 5 attendants on Hsi Wang Mu
- Gemori
[Gomory]
a female demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
This being is said to appear in the form of a lovely woman riding a camel and helps those seeking love.
- Gendawd Welsh
father of Gwyl
- Gendenwitha North American [Glendenwitha]
an Iroquois princess Sosondowah fell in love with her and, descending to earth, carried her up to heaven to the home of the goddess of the dawn who was so angry that she changed Gendenwitha into the morning star.
- Genea Phoenician
child of Protogonos and Aion sister and consort of Genos
- Genealogiae Roman [Fabulae]
a collection of myths by Hyginus
- Geneir British
a warrior of King Arthur
- Generon British
Vortigern's castle
- Genesh (see Ganesha)
- Genetaska North American
[The Peace Queen]
a Seneca virgin appointed by the Five Nations to settle disputes
Two braves, one of the Oneida, the other of the Onondaga, asked her to settle an argument over a deer which each claimed to have killed. Both fell in love with her and wanted to marry her but, bound by vows of chastity, she refused, even though she loved the Oneida brave. When winter came, he returned, pale and worn from longing and she assented to his proposal. The elders, feeling betrayed, refused to appoint another Peace Queen and the tribes went back to quarrelling.
- Genetrix (see Venus)
- Geneura (see Guinevere)
- Genevra (see Genevieve)
- Genflet British
a Knight of the Round Table
He was one of those who accompanied King Arthur to Cornwall for the trial of Isolde.
- Gengen Sama (see Tokugawa<sup>1</sup>)
- genie Arab [djinni.jinnnee.jinni:plur=(d)jinn.
genii.ginn]
a spirit made of fire capable of taking on any shape
- Geniel
a moon-demon
- Genievre (see Guinevere)
- Geniti Clinne Irish
demons of the air
(see also bananachs. bochanachs)
- genius Roman
[female=juno:plur=genii:=Greek daimon]
a guardian spirit of the individual man, often in the form of a winged youth
- genius Cuaillatus Roman [plur=genii Cuaillati]
an attendant (sometimes 3) on the Mother Goddess
- genius loci Roman
the guardian spirit of a place, often in the form of a serpent
- Genji Japanese
a legendary prince, hero of many tales
- Genko Japanese
a priest who became a dragon
When he died after a lifetime spent in meditation holding a single drop of water in his hand, Genko became a dragon living in Cherry Tree Pond where he sometimes answered the requests of those who brought offerings of rice.
- Gennewis British
the realm of King Pant
- Genno Japanese
a Buddhist priest
When he tried to rest on the Death-stone, a voice warned him that he could die if he touched it. It was the home of a fox-woman Hoji and she renounced her evil ways when Genno prayed for her.
- Genon
a spirit of fruitfulness
- Genos Phoenician
offspring of Protogonos and Aion brother and consort of Genea father of Flame, Fire and Light
- Geneveva Norse
wife of Siegfried in an opera of the same name by Schumann

Gentle Annie Scottish
an ugly hag, demon of the south-west wind

Gentle Rama (see Rama)

Gentleman in Golden Armour
(see Chin Chia)

Gentrade Irish
a harpist
son of Uaithne and Boann
brother of Goltrade and Suantrade

He and his brothers played music so sad that men died weeping as they listened.

Genvissa British
daughter of Claudius wife of Arviragus

Geoffrey (see Jufran)

Geoffrey of Monmouth British

a 12th c cleric and writer
He was said to be an arch-deacon of Llandaff, later bishop of St Asaph. His Historia Regum Britanniae lists details of all the British kings from the time of Christ. In it he deals with much of the Arthurian saga and, in Viti Merlini, he deals with the life of Merlin.

Geoffroy European [Godfrey]
a king of Denmark

father of Ogier by his first wife father of Guyon by his second wife
He failed to make the obligatory obsequance to the Emperor and, when Charlemagne threatened war, he sent Ogier to the court as hostage for his future good behaviour.

When his kingdom was invaded, he sought help from Charlemagne who sent an army, led by Ogier, which soon repelled the attacking forces. He died a natural death, not living long enough to celebrate the victory.

geomatry
earth-worship

geomantic demons
spirits associated with geomancy

geomancy
[=Chinese feng-shui]
divination from figures drawn in earth or sand. from patterns in the dust or from pebbles thrown on the ground

George British [=Arab Jirjis]
patron saint of England, Portugal and Slovenia

He is said to have killed a dragon in Lydda and had the power to impregnate barren women.

Georges West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from St George

Geradial
a spirit, ruler of the Astasian demons

Geraestus Greek
one of the Cyclopes

Geraint British [=French Erec:=Norse Erex: =Welsh Gereint]
a Knight of the Round Table
a prince of Devon (or Cornwall) son of Erbin
brother of Dywel and Ermid husband of Enid

In some accounts, Erbin is Geraint's son, not his father. Others say he was the brother of Gareth.

On a hunting trip, both he and Guinevere's maid were struck with a whip by a dwarf when Geraint enquired the name of the dwarf's master. He followed the knight and the dwarf to their castle and borrowed arms and armour from an old man, Yniol, who had lost his earldom to his nephew and was now in poor straits.
The knight was Ederm and Geraint fought him for the title of Knight of the Sparrowhawk, defeating him and forcing him to go to Guinevere and apologise for the injury to her maid.
When Geraint threatened force, the nephew handed back all he had taken from Yniol whose daughter, Enid, went to Arthur's court with Geraint and married him. They had caught a white stag on the hunting trip and the head of that animal was given to Enid.

When his father grew old, Geraint took over his dominions and ruled peacefully with Enid, giving up knightly pursuits in favour of dalliance. He came to believe that Enid despised him for his weakness so he set out on a quest to prove his strength and valour, forcing her to ride ahead of him in silence. He killed many knights and took their horses and armour and defeated Gwiffred Petit who became his friend. He also killed three giants, one of whom wounded him badly. He was taken care of by Limwris, but when this earl insulted Enid, Geraint killed him.
They moved on and were helped by Gwiffred Petit until Geraint was fully recovered. His final battle was with a knight in the valley of mists in the domain of Ywein and, having overcome him, and put an end to the enchanted games, he returned to his own lands and ruled happily again with Enid.

He was killed in battle, fighting for his king.

Geraint and Enid British a poem by Tennyson, one of the Idylls
of the King

Gerald the Earl (see Gearoid Iarla)

Gérart (see Girard<sup>1</sup>)

Geras Greek
old age personified
son of Nyx

Gerases (see Sherasmin)

Gerasmín (see Sherasmin)

Geraume (see Sherasmin)

Gerbert<sup>1</sup> British a 13th c writer who added to the works of Chrétien de Troyes

Gerbert<sup>2</sup> European son of Garin le Loherain

The feud between Garin and Fromont was carried on by their sons, Gerbert and Fromondin, until the latter retired to a monastery. When Gerbert produced a goblet made from the skull of Fromont, the hostilities resumed and Fromondin plotted to kill Gerbert when the latter came to visit the monastery. Gerbert was forewarned of the plot and it was Fromondin who was killed.

Gerd (see Gerda)

Gerda<sup>1</sup> Malay

the name used in Malaya for Garuda

Gerda<sup>2</sup> Norse [Gerd.Gerd(h)r.Gerdi.Gerth(r)]

a giantess
goddess of the underworld daughter of Gymir and Angerbode
one of the Asynjur, in some accounts

Frey fell in love with her but despaired of ever winning her. His servant, Skirnir, in return for Frey's magic sword, rode to Jotunheim and wooed her on behalf of Frey. She refused the offer of golden apples and even the ring, Draupnir, and was unmoved when Skirnir threatened her with his sword. He finally persuaded her by cutting runes which would have prevented any suitor from wooing her in the future. She met Frey at Buri nine days later and they married.

Gerdhr (see Gerda)

Gerdi (see Gerda)

Gerdr (see Gerda)

Gere (see Geri)

Gereinion
a spirit of fruitfulness

Gereint (see Geraint)

Geraint, son of Erbin Welsh
a story from the Mabinogion about Geraint and Enid

- Gerenton British
an ancestor of King Arthur father of Conan Meriadoc
- Gergasis Pacific Islands
a race of enormous Indonesian giants
- Gerhart Norse
a suitor for the hand of Liebgart
He claimed to have killed the dragons slain by Wolfdietrich who then produced the tongues of the dragons to refute Gerhart's claim.
- Gerhit Egyptian
a god created by Thoth
- Geri Norse
[Gari.Gere]
one of Odin's wolves – the ravenous
The other wolf was called Freki.
- Geriaume (see Sherasmin)
- Gerier European
a Frankish knight
one of Charlemagne's paladins
He was one of the first to be killed at Roncevalles when the second army of Saracens descended on Roland's force.
(see also Engeli.Gerin)
- Gerin European
a Frankish knight
one of Charlemagne's paladins
He was one of the first to be killed at Roncevalles when the second army of Saracens descended on Roland's force.
(see also Engelier.Gerier)
- Gerjis
a monster in the form of a man-eating tiger
This beast was killing so many animals that they plotted to kill him. They lured him into a pit on the pretext that the sky was about to fall and then buried him alive.
- Gerlind (see Gerlinda)
- Gerlinda German [Gerlind] wife of Ludwig, king of Normandy
mother of Hartmut and Ortrun Hartmut abducted Gudrun and, when she rejected his advances, handed her over to the care of his mother. Gerlinda treated the maiden very badly and, in revenge, when Gudrun was rescued by the force led by Herwig, Ortwin and Wat, Gerlinda was killed by Wat.
- Gerlois (see Gorlois)
- German Iliad German
a name for the Nibelungenleid
- Germanicus Roman
a Roman general
husband of Agrippina
father of Agrippina, Caligula and Drusilla
- Gernando (see Girnando)
- Gernot Norse
[GernoZ]
son of Dankrat and Ute
brother of Giselher, Gunther and Krimhild
In the fight at Etzel's court when Krimhild persuaded Etzel's brother, Blodelin, to kill Gunther and his party, Gernot killed Rudiger but was himself killed in the same duel.
- Gernoz (see Gernot)
- Geron
a spirit of fruitfulness
- Gerovit Baltic
[Gerovitus.Jarovit.Herovit]
a war-god in Pomerania
- Gerovitus (see Gerovit)
- Gerra Mesopotamian [=Sumerian Gibil]
a Babylonian fire-god
son of Aniu and Anunitu (see also Giru.Irro)
- Gersemi Norse
daughter of Odur and Freya
- Gersuinde European
in some accounts, one of the 9 wives
of Charlemagne
- Gerth (see Gerda)
- Gerthr (see Gerda)
- Gertrude (see Gerutha)
- Gerulf (see werewolf)
- Gerutha European [Gertrude] wife of Horvendil and Feng
mother of Amleth by Horvendil
When Feng killed Horvendil, his brother, and took the throne, Gerutha married him.
- Geruthus (see Geirrod)
- Geryon Greek
['crane'.Geryone(u)s] a cowherd-king of Tartessus in Spain son of Chrysaor and Callirrhoe brother of Echidna
father of Erytheia
He was said to be one of the giants who had fought with the Olympian gods. When they were defeated, Geryon fled to the West or, in some versions, to the Belearides, where he became king. He was a three-bodied monster whose cattle were taken by Heracles as his tenth Labour. He was killed by Heracles during this adventure.
He appears in Spenser's The Faerie Queene as the three-bodied giant, Geryones, slain by Prince Arthur.
- Geryones (see Geryon)
- Geryoneus (see Geryon)
- Gesar Tibetan
[Joro.Kesar]
a hero
husband of Brug-ma
He was said to be able to make himself invisible, a power he lost when he married. When Brug-ma was carried off by King Hor, Gesar rescued her and she became his wife.
In one adventure, he fought a giant and released the girl the giant had imprisoned in an iron cage, in another he travelled to China and married a princess.
Another account tells how, in the space of seven days, he killed many demons, some in the form of evil birds, others in the form of animals such as yaks, goats and horses.
(see also Gesar Khan)
- Gesar Khan Mongolian
a warrior-hero
It was said that he was born from an egg which emerged from his mother's head. He had three eyes, resembling the three eye-shaped marks on his birth-egg, but his mother was terrified by the implications and she plucked one of the eyes out of its socket.
He was sent from heaven to rid the world of evil. When he had accomplished his mission, he was purified on Margye Pongri and then taken up to heaven. He will return when evil becomes rampant again.
(see also Gesar)
- Gesar Saga Tibetan
[K(y)esar Saga]
the story, in 4 parts, of Gesar and his exploits
The first part of this work deals with the creation of the world.
- Geshinanna Mesopotamian
[Gestin-An(a).Lady of the Vine.Lady of the Wilderness.Nin Edin.Recorder of Heaven and Hell:
=Akkadian Belet-Seri]
a Sumerian wine-goddess
sister of Inanna or Dumuzi
When Inanna was released from the underworld on condition that she provide a substitute, she offered first her husband Dumuzi, and then Geshinanna who, with Dumuzi, spent alternate periods of six months in the underworld. (see also Belili)
- Gesnes British
a mariner
He was sent to Britain by Tristram, when he was dying, to bring back Isolde.

In other versions, Kaherdin was sent to fetch her.

Gest of Sir Gauvain British a 13th c poem about the exploits of Gawain

Gesta Danorum Danish
a book by Saxo Grammaticus dealing with myths, legends and religious rites

Gesta Regum Anglorum British
a 12th c history of Britain from AD 499 to 1120 in which stories of King Arthur appear

Gestin-Ana (see Geshtinanna)

Gestin-Anna (see Geshtinanna)

Gestu Mesopotamian
a Sumerian god of wisdom

It is said that he was killed by the other gods who used his blood to make men.

Gestumblindi Norse
a rich landowner

He was summoned to appear before the king, Heithrek, to answer a number of charges. The king would allow him to go free if he could pose a riddle that the king could not answer. Gestumblindi prayed to Odin for help. The god took on the guise of Gestumblindi and appeared at the court in his place. After failing to defeat the king with his riddles, he finally asked "What did Odin whisper to Balder on his funeral pyre?". Heithrek realised that he was dealing with a god and struck at him with his sword. Odin changed into a falcon and escaped with the loss of a few tail feathers.

Geus Tasan (see Geush Tāsan)

Geus Urvan (see Geush Urvan)

Geush Tasan Persian [Geus Tāsan]
a cattle-god

Geush Urvan Persian [Gesurvan.Geus Urvan.
Goshurun.Goshurvan]
a primaeval bull

This beast lived for 3,000 years and when it was killed by Angra Mainya or Mithra, plants and animals appeared from its corpse.

In other accounts, a guardian of cattle.

Gevar Norse
[Gewar]
a moon-god

Gew Persian
son of Gudarz

His father dreamt about the young Khusraw who was being reared in Afghanistan and, recognising him as a future king, sent Gew to bring him to Persia.

Gewar (see Gevar)

Gewi African
son of Kaang and Coti

He who descended to earth and taught the Bushmen how to dry roots.

Geyaguga North American
a moon-god of the Cherokee

Gguluddene African
a name of Katonda as 'gigantic'

Ghaddar Arab
son of Eblis
a jinnee who tortured men by eating their genitals

Ghaibhneann (see Goibhniu)

ghan-po slob-rgyas Tibetan
a form of prayer-flag (see also da-cha)

Ghanan (see Yum Caax)

Ghantakarana Hindu

a god of healing, attendant on Shitala

Ghantakarani Hindu

a minor goddess

Ghantapani Buddhist
an aspect of Vajrasattva

one of the dhyani-bodhisattvas

gharma Hindu

a sacrificial vessel

Ghasmari Buddhist

a terrible goddess

Ghasta British

a demon in a poem of the same name, written by Shelley, about the Wandering Jew

Ghatokacha Hindu

son of Bhima and Hidimbaa

Ghazir (see Mot)

Ghebers (see Guebres)

Ghede West Indian

the Haitian god of life and death brother of Azacca
husband of Mama Brigitte

Originally a god of love, he was later combined with Baron Samedi as the god of death. He acts as guardian of the cross-roads and guide to the home of the souls of the dead and is envisaged as a dandy in evening clothes with a cane and sun-glasses.
(see also Baron Samedi)

Ghentu Hindu

a minor god

Ghoibhneann (see Goibhniu)

ghol Persian

[=Arab ghul]

a ghoul

Gholsong Buddhist

one of the 6 regions shown on the Tibetan Wheel of Life, the Sipa Khorlo

This is the realm of animals, both terrestrial and aquatic.

ghool (see ghoul)

ghost

[phantom.shade.spectre.revenant]
an apparition: a spirit of the dead
These beings appear in mythologies world-wide and take countless forms, sometimes benevolent, sometimes evil.

Ghost-dances North American

19th c ritual dances of the Piute
Wodziwob claimed to have had a vision in which the ancestors of the tribe would one day return by train, the white people would be killed and the red man would seize their wealth. He had been taught the dances necessary to bring about this event and taught them to the Piutes.

Twenty years later, another prophet, Wovoka, revived the tradition which had been corrupted by the Sioux who believed that the dances could make them bullet-proof and would cause the death of the hated whites.

Ghost-land North American

[Spirit-land]
home of the spirits

Some of these spirits are said to lure away the lesser of the two souls inherent in each individual during illness.

ghost-shirt North American

an outer garment, embroidered with symbols such as buffalo and eagle, believed to protect the wearer from bullets

ghost-sickness North American

in the lore of the Navaho, illness, caused by a ghost, which can be fatal

Ghosts of Impermanence (see Wu-ch'ang Kuei)

ghoul

[ghool:=Arab ghul:=Persian ghol]
a demon preying on the dead: a fiend
ghoula (see ghul)

Ghugo Hindu
one of the 9 nathas

ghul Arab

[ghoula.ghulah:male=qutrub:
=Persian ghol]

a female jinnee, offspring of Iblis

They sometimes appeared to men in the desert and ate them.

It is said that they have hoofs and can change into any shape. Some are small enough to ride on hares, others ride on ostriches. Another desert type is known as the udar. Female types, living in the forest, may carry men off to their caves and seduce them. Males do the same thing with women. The offspring of such matings are fierce savages.

Ghuls that live in the Sahara are said to have the legs of an ostrich and only one eye.

In some accounts, the ghul is the male, and the female version is the ghoula, ghulah or si'la. Some female types are said to play the flute so that men hearing their music will dance themselves to death. (see also ghou)

ghulah (see ghul)

Ghulbhan (see Ben Bulben)

Giadrurvava West Indian

a servant of Guagugiana

He was sent out to find a particular herb that his master, Guagugiana, required but the rays of the sun turned him into a bird.

(see also Guagugiana)

Giaia West Indian

father of Giaiael

He killed his own son, Giaiael, who had tried to kill him and put the young man's bones in a calabash where they turned into fish. The water that ran from the calabash formed the first seas.

Giaiael (see Giaia)

Giall<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Giol(l).Gjol(l).Gyoli]

the river forming the boundary of Niflheim, one of the 12 rivers known as Elivagar

Giall<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Giol(l).Gjol(l).Gyoli]

the rock through which ran the rope

Gleipnir that bound Fenris for ever to the boulder Thvit

Giall<sup>3</sup> (see Lochlanners)

Gjallar Norse

[Gjallarhorn.Gjallar(horn)]

the horn of Heimdall

Gjallarbru Norse

[Gjallarbru]

a crystal bridge over the river Giall

This bridge was said to be hung from a single thread and was guarded by the skeleton-like Modgud.

Gjallarhorn (see Gjallar)

Gjallchadh Irish

a king of Ireland

father of Nuada

The young woman Gjallchadh married after the death of his first wife, accused Nuada of rape and he was sent into exile by Gjallchadh.

Gjalp Norse

[Giolp.Gjalp.Gjolp]

daughter of Geirrod by Ran, some say

sister of Greip

When Thor visited her father, Gjalp tried unsuccessfully to drown him by flooding a stream as he, Loki and Thialfi were crossing. Later, she and her sister Greip made another attempt on his life but Thor crushed them both to death under his chair where they were hidden.

She was one of the nine wave-maidens said simultaneously to have given birth to Heimdall, fathered by Odin.

Giamshid (see Jamshid)

Gian Ben Gian Arab

the king of the jinn

It was said that he was overthrown by Azazael. Some say that he built the pyramids.

Giant North American

[Raven the Giant]

a spirit of the Tshimshian

He owned a raven costume in which he could fly and used it to reach the heavens from where he stole the box that contained light, bringing it back to light the earth for the first time.

Giant-Eagle Siberian

[=North American Thunderbird]

a thunder-god

This deity is said to cause thunder when he flaps his wings and lightning when he flashes his eyes.

Giant Eye (see Isitoq)

giants

giants appear in most mythologies

-Biblical

These were the offspring of fallen angels and mortal women referred to in Genesis.

-Greek

(1) The Earthborn Giants, Gegeneis or Gigantes, the fourth race of monstrous beings, were originally twenty-four in number, half human, half serpent, who sprang from the blood of Uranus spattered on Earth (Gaea) when Cronus castrated his father, Uranus.

They were said to have six arms and, being made from earth, were virtually indestructible. If they were killed, their bodies merged with the ground and they were re-born. In some accounts, they had snakes for legs.

Led by Alcioneus, Eury-medon and Porphyriion, they rebelled against the gods after Zeus imprisoned the Titans in Tartarus but were defeated, largely by the efforts of Heracles, bred by Zeus as a defence against the expected rebellion.

Included in their number were Agrius, Aloeus, Clytius, Enceladus, Ephialtes, Eurytus, Gration, Hippolytus, Mimas, Otus, Pallas, Polybutes, Thoas and Tityus.

(2) The Hundred-handed Giants were Briareus, Cottus and Gyges, three sons of Uranus and Gaea. Their father confined them to the underworld from which they were released by Cronus who later sent them back there. They were later released by Zeus to help in his fight with the Titans and, after the victory of the gods, the giants were given the job of guarding those Titans who were imprisoned in the underworld.

-Norse

The generic name for the giants was Jotunn or Thurses. Their home was Jotunheim and they were the opponents of the gods, destined to win the final battle, Ragnarok.

The first giant was Ymir. Most of the original giants were killed in the torrent of blood that rushed from Ymir's body when he was killed by Odin, Ve and Vili. Only Bergelmir and his wife escaped this flood and they fled to the ends of the earth and started a new race of Giants.

The Frost Giants (or Ice Giants), the Hrimthursar, were formed when the fiery clouds of Muspelheim condensed in the icy air over Niflheim. The Fire Giants, the Muspel, lived in Muspelheim and were ruled by Surtur.

-North American

(1) The Inuits refer to a race of giants known as the Tornit.

(2) The Shawnee deity had four giant sons who could smell humans.

-South American

A race of giants came into Ecuador from the sea and bored a well in the rock. Then they killed the women and practised sodomy. For this, the gods destroyed them with lightning.

Giants' Causeway British

a natural formation of basalt columns running out into the sea from the north-east coast of Ireland

It was said that this causeway was built by giants to form a road across to Scotland. Others say that it was built by Finn mac Cool.

Giants' Dance (see Giants' Ring)

Giants' Ring British

[Giants' (Round) Dance]
a megalithic structure in Ireland

This structure was said to have been transported to Britain by Merlin and re-erected as Stonehenge.

Alternatively, Merlin transformed himself into a whirlwind to suck the stones from the ground where they stood on Mount Killauras so that Uther's workmen could transport them to Avebury.

Giants' Round Dance(see Giants' Ring)Gibbor Hebrew

[=Arab Al Jabbar]
a giant (see also Kesil.Nimrod)

Gibich German

[Gibicho]
a king of the Burgundians
father of Gunther

When Attila's hordes threatened to overrun his kingdom, Gibich surrendered without a fight and gave a tribute of gold and the young Hagen as a hostage since his own son, Gunther, was only a baby. (see also Dankrat)

Gibicho *(see Gibich)Gibil Mesopotamian

[=Babylonian Gerra.Gir(r)u.Nusku] a Sumerian fire-god and god of metal-workers
a messenger for Enlil

This name was later applied to Marduk.
(see also Nusku)

Gibini African

a plague-god of Uganda

Gid-kuzo Baltic

a Finnish god of the cattle-yard

Gid-murt Russian

[=Finnish Gid-kuzo]
a Votyak god of cattle-sheds

Gidim *(see Gigim)giddyfish North American

[gillygalloo.whiffenpoof.
whiffenpuff.whifflepoof(er)] a fabulous fish

Gidja Australian

one of the beings of the Dreamtime
He and Yalungur were creators of the world. Both were males and Gidja cut off Yalungur's penis, pushing a wooden figure he had carved into the wound. This figure was born as a human, an ancestor of the tribes. The other beings tried to kill Gidja for what he had done but he escaped to the moon.

Gidne *(see Ganis)Gidolin (see Gwyddolwyn)

Giel
an angel, ruler of the sign Gemini

Gieremund European

the she-wolf in Reynard the Fox
mate of Isengrim (see also Hersent)

Gigantes *(see giants-Greek)gigantomachia Greek

[gigantomachy]
the war in which the gods defeated the rebellious giants

Gigantomachia Greek

one of the poems in the Epic Cycle

gigantomachy *(see gigantomachia)Gigim Mesopotamian

[Gidim.=Akkadian Erimmu: =Hebrew Timi]
a Sumerian ghost: a spirit of the underworld

Gigniat Irish

a follower of Enda

Gihanga African

king of Rwanda
son of Kigwa

He is said to have invented the art of metal-working.

Gijigoutic North American

a supernatural being in Algonquin lore
These beings serve as messengers for Michabo.

Giko *(see Tokugawa<sup>2</sup>)Gikuyu African [Kikuyu]

an ancestor of Kikuyu people
son of Murungu
husband of Moombi

He and his wife had nine daughters who founded the nine clans.

Gil Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'exalted one'

Gil-Dal Korean

a goblin

On the recommendation of Bi-Hyong, the king, Zi-Pyong, appointed Gil-Dal to see justice done throughout the kingdom. He was adopted by the nobleman, Im-Zong, but later changed into a fox and ran away. Bi-Hyong had him killed for betraying the king's trust.

Gilan British

duke of Swales

He gave Tristram the fairy dog called Petitcrieu.

Other accounts say that the dog was owned by the giant, Urgan, who was killed by Tristram who wanted the dog as a present for Isolde.

Gilaneier *(see Gilanier)Gilanier British

[Gilaneier]
in a French account, the name of King Arthur's wife

Gilbert British

[Gilbert the Bastard]
a knight of King Arthur's court
father of Brandiles

In a fight with Gawain his left hand was cut off. He was killed in a fight with Meliot.

Gildas<sup>1</sup> British

[Gilda the Wise]
(c 500-570)
a saint
son of Caw

brother of Cywyllog and Hueil

He was a British writer who studied in Wales under St Illtyd and wrote De Excidio Britanniae.

In some accounts, he was a counsellor to King Arthur who had killed Hueil.

Gildas<sup>2</sup> *(see Tremeur)Gilded Man, The *(see El Dorado)Gilfaethwy Welsh

[Gilvaethwy.Gilvarthwy.Gilvathy]

son of Beli and Don

a deputy for Math, king of Gwynedd

He fell in love with Goewin who was permanently engaged in cradling the feet of Math. He could get access to her only when Math was called away to war so he and his brother Gwydion arranged for this to happen. They swapped some phantom horses for a herd of marvellous pigs coveted by Math but owned by Pryderi. When the latter discovered that he had been tricked he marched on Gwynedd. Math went off to battle giving Gilfaethwy the chance to seduce Goewin. Math punished Gilfaethwy and Gwydion by turning them successively into male and female deer, pigs and wolves in which form they produced offspring which Math then turned into handsome youths. In these forms, Gilfaethwy was the 'mother' of Hyddwn as a deer, Hychdwn as a pig and Bleiddwn as a wolf. Math eventually restored Gilfaethwy and Gwydion to human form.

Gilgames *(see Gilgamesh)Gilgamesh Mesopotamian

[Gilgames.Gilgamish.Gilgamos:

=Biblical Nimrod]

a giant, semi-divine Babylonian hero

king of Uruk

son of Lugalbanda and Ninsuna

Some say that his father was a demon who took the form of the king of Uruk. He was secretly abandoned as a baby but was saved from falling to earth by an eagle.

When Inanna's favourite tree was inhabited by a serpent, a Zu bird and the destructive Lilith, he killed the snake and drove off both Lilith and the bird. He overcame the giant Huwawa and rejected the love of Ishtar. When Ishtar arranged with Anu to send the Bull of Heaven to ravage the land, Gilgamesh killed it and cut it up. When his friend Enkidu who had helped him, was killed by the gods, he set out to achieve immortality. Advised by Siduri to consult the one mortal, Utnapishtim, who had been given immortality, he journeyed to the edge of the world, running the gauntlet of the scorpion-men, the jewelled trees, the women of pleasure and crossed the sea of death in a boat steered by Ursanapi.

He was told that immortality was a burden rather than a blessing but he did manage to get a piece of the plant that procured rejuvenation. He was taking it to Enkidu when it was stolen by a snake.

Another version of Enkidu's death arises from the story in which Gilgamesh and Inanna felled a tree and made a magic drum from its timber. When this drum was accidentally dropped into the underworld, Enkidu went down to retrieve it but was trapped.

(see also Izdubar)

Gilgamesh Epic Mesopotamian
[Epic of Gilgamesh]
the story of the adventures of Gilgamesh
the story of the flood

Gilgamish (see Gilgamesh)

Gilgamos (see Gilgamesh)

Gilierchins European
in Italian stories of Tristram, the name of Isolde's father, Hoel

Gilla Dacar Irish [Abarta.Ab(h)arthach.Gilla Decair.
Giolla Dacker.Giolla Dakar.
Giolla Deacair.Giolla Deca(i)r.
Hard Ghilli.Hard Gilly. Hard Servant]
a prince of the Otherworld son of Alchad

He appeared one day, with his broken-down mare, as a very ugly man and took service with Finn mac Cool. Other members of the Fianna mocked him and thirteen (or fourteen) of them climbed on to the back of his huge mare. Gilla ran off and plunged into the sea where the mare quickly followed with its load. Ligan Lumnina jumped into the sea after them and, grabbing the mare's tail, was carried off with the others. When Dermot fell into a well on the island where some of the Fianna were searching for the missing men, he met Abharthach, the prince of Tir fa Tonn, who had posed as Gilla Dacar. His brother had seized all the kingdom which should have been shared between them and Abharthach had lured Finn and his men to Tir fa Tonn to help him in his fight with his brother.

In another version, Finn, Foltor and Faruach chased him in a ship made by Faruach's magic and rescued the men.

Gilla Decair (see Gilla Dacar)

Gilla Stag-shank British
a warrior at King Arthur's court

He was famous as a leaper and was said to clear 300 acres at one jump. He was with the party that helped Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Gilling Norse

[Gillingr]

a giant

father or brother of Suttung

When he and his wife were murdered by the dwarfs Fialar and Galar, who had previously killed Kvasir and made a magic drink from his blood, Gilling's brother, Suttung, was prevented from killing them only by the promise to hand over the precious brew.

In some accounts, he had made the magic brew, the Mead of Inspiration, which was taken by the dwarfs when they killed him.

In some versions, Gilling is Suttung's father, not his brother.

Gillingr (see Gilling)

Gilloman British

[Gillomanius.Gillomar.Gilmaurius]

a king of Ireland

He was angered when Merlin used his magic to steal the stones of the Giant's Ring and was glad to join forces with Paschent, Vortigern's son, who was seeking to avenge the death of his father at the hand of Aurelius. He and Paschent led an army to invade Cambria but Uther met them in battle, defeated the invaders and killed both Paschent and Gilloman.

In some accounts, Gilloman and Gilmaurius are separate characters and the latter was king when King Arthur invaded and conquered Ireland after subduing his own land.

Gillomanius (see Gilloman)

Gillomar (see Gilloman)

gillygalloo (see giddyfish)

Gilmaurius (see Gilloman)

Gilma Mesopotamian
a name of Marduk as 'flame'

Gilmere British
a knight at King Arthur's court

He was one of the knights defeated by Lancelot when he was posing as Kay.

Gilou (see Lilith<sup>2</sup>)

Gils Norse

a horse of the gods

Giltine Baltic
a Lithuanian goddess of death

Gilvaethwy (see Gilfaethwy)

Gilvarthwy (see Gilfaethwy)

Gilvathy (see Gilfaethwy)

Gilyuk North American

[Tiko-Mussi]

a name for Bigfoot used by the tribes of the north-west

Gim Korean
a marshal in the Korean army

While Kim was away from home, attending the birthday party of the girl he was betrothed to, robbers killed his father, carried off his mother and pillaged their property. The young Kim vowed to get revenge and set out to find the robbers. After many adventures he acquired the art of magic and helped the king to defeat invading forces. He finally found his mother and married the sister of a friend who had been killed in one of his early adventures.

Gim Dog-Nyong Korean
a general in the Korean army

His grandfather had been killed by a wicked minister and his father prayed for twenty years to be granted a son who would exact revenge. This son was Gim Dog-Nyong and he had a magic sword which he used to kill the minister. He escaped punishment because the sword was able to transport him instantaneously some 250 miles from the minister's house to his own house so that it appeared impossible for him to be the killer.

Gim Hyon Korean
a man who loved a tiger-girl

He met a beautiful girl at a festival and fell in love with her. It turned out that she was really a tiger and it was decreed that a tiger who was loved by a man must die. She ensured Gim's happiness by arranging to appear in the form of a tiger and carrying off the king's daughter so that Gim could become a hero by killing the tiger and rescuing the princess. This all came about as the tiger-girl had planned and Gim married the princess.

Gimel Sin Mesopotamian
a Babylonian king who was deified

Gimle (see Gimli)

Gimli Norse

[Gem Lea.Gimle]

the highest palace in Asgard

This was the only palace to survive the conflagration that followed Ragnarok and it was to this heaven that the good gods who died in the battle went.

In an alternative version, Gimli (the Gem Lea) was the new Asgard which arose on the return of Balder after Ragnarok.

gimokod Pacific Islands
the soul

When a person dies, the soul bathes in the Black River at the entrance to the underworld in order to wash away all recollection of the former life.

Gimokodan Pacific Islands
the underworld, in the lore of the Philippine Islands

At the entrance to Gimokodan is the Black River in which souls bathe to eradicate all memories of human life. There is also a huge female with many breasts to succour the spirits of those who died young.

In Gimokodan itself, the spirit carries on much as it did on earth, but only during the hours of darkness. When daylight returns, each spirit makes a dish from leaves and is turned into a liquid in this dish until darkness returns.

(see also Maglawa)

Gin-sai (see Korean)

a fabulous bird

This bird is so evil that its mere shadow can poison food.

Gina Australian
in Aboriginal lore, the old man of the moon

Gindr African
the supreme god of the Lendu people of Zaire

Ginem Pacific Islands
a ceremony in the Philippines to thank the gods for success in battle

Ginevra<sup>1</sup> Italian
a bride trapped on her wedding-night. Playing a game, she inadvertently got locked in a chest. Her skeleton was found a year later.

Ginevra<sup>2</sup> (see Guinevere)

Gingalin British [Fair Unknown.Guinglain.Gyngalyn.
Handsome Mystery.Le Bel Inconnu.

Libeaus Desconus.Lybius Desconus

The Young Unknown]

son of Gawain and Ragnell

His mother never told him who his father was and when he went to Camelot he was taught the knightly arts by Gawain who did not recognise his son. He was sent on a quest to help a princess, the Lady of Sinadun, and en route he killed the giant Mawgin who was attacking another lady's castle. He rejected the love of the fairy, Pucelle, and at Sinadun he was challenged by the magicians Mabon and Yvan. He killed Mabon but Yvan vanished in time to save himself. A woman-faced snake then appeared and asked Gingalin to kiss her. When he complied, she changed into a beautiful maiden, Blonde Esmerée, whom he took back to Camelot and married.

In some accounts, he was one of the twelve knights with Mordred when they trapped Lancelot in Guinevere's chamber and was killed when Lancelot escaped.

gingko Japanese

[ginkho.icho]

a sacred tree: a tree of milk, guardian of nursing mothers

ginkho (see gingko)

Ginja (see Tenga)

ginn (see jinnee)

Ginnar Norse

a dwarf

one of the Lovar

Ginnistam (see Jinnestan)

Ginnungagap Norse

[Deceiving Gap.Yawning Gap]

the primaeval abyss between

Muspelheim and Niflheim that preceded creation

ginseng

a herb which, in the east, is said to contain the elixir of life

Giol (see Giall)

Gioll (see Giall)

Giolla Dacker (see Gilla Dacar)

Giolla Dakar (see Gilla Dacar)

Giolla Deacair (see Gilla Dacar)

Giolla Greine Irish

a semi-divine, daughter of a mortal and a sunbeam

When she was told of her parentage she committed suicide by jumping into Loch Greine.

Giolp (see Gialp)

Giomar (see Guiomar)

Giona mac Lugh Irish

a grandson of Finn

a leader of the Fianna

He was such a poor soldier that his men refused to serve under him. Finn took him in hand, taught him the arts of war and leadership and he became a famous champion.

Giontes British

nephew of King Lisuarte

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Giovava West Indian

in the lore of the Taino, a cave from which the sun and moon emerged

Giptes (see Disir)

Gir (see Irra)

Giraitis Baltic

a Lithuanian god of woodlands

son of Severin and Alice

Girard<sup>1</sup> European

[Gérart]

son of Sevinus and Aule

brother of Huon

He and his brother were ambushed by Charlot, son of Charlemagne, as they travelled to meet the Emperor. Girard was wounded or killed by Charlot who was killed by Huon.

Some say Charlot was killed by Rinaldo.

Girard<sup>2</sup> European

a knight

He appropriated Huon's lands while he was away in Africa and, when Huon returned with the trophies that Charlemagne had required him to get, Girard stole the chest they were carried in and claimed to have won them himself. Oberon intervened to prove that Huon had won them and Charlemagne had Girard hanged for his treachery.

Girart European

cousin of Vivien

When Vivien's small force was besieged by a huge army of Saracens, Girard broke through the enemy lines to bring help in the form of an army led by Guillaume, Vivien's uncle.

Girart de Roussillon European

a vassal of Charles Martel

The emperor of Constantinople, grateful to Charles and Girart for their help in defending Rome, gave them his two daughters as wives. Charles was to marry Berte but fell in love with her sister Elissentg and married her, giving Berte to Girart. In compensation, Girart was given his own kingdom. His evident success angered Charles who laid siege to his capital city of Roussillon which he captured when one of Girart's men turned traitor. Girart fled to Avignon, raised an army which recaptured Roussillon and was reconciled with Charles. Later, they quarrelled and Charles again captured Roussillon, forcing Girart and Berte to flee once more. For some twenty years, Girart worked as a charcoal-burner in the Ardennes and was finally reconciled with Charles with the help of Elissent.

Girart de Vienne European

a knight at Charlemagne's court son of Garin de Montglane brother of Hernaut husband of Guibourc

Charlemagne promised Girart the estates and wife of the Duke of Bourgogne but fell for the duchess and married her himself, giving Girart the city of Vienne as compensation. The grateful knight attempted to kiss the emperor's foot but his wife put her foot out of the bed they were lying in at the time and Girart kissed her foot instead of the king's. When he later learned of this insult, he took up arms against the king and war ensued. In this account, Roland and Oliver are said to have met in single combat and became firm friends when they fought a draw. When Girart captured Charlemagne, peace was declared and, soon afterwards, the king set out to repel the Saracen invaders of Spain.

Gird (see Grid)

Girdle of Hippolyta Greek
a love-girdle given by Hephaestus to Hippolyta

This girdle was seized by Heracles as his ninth Labour.

Girflet (see Griflet)

Girija' Hindu
a name for Vishnu as Narasinha

Girija<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a name for Devi, Kali and Uma as 'mountain-born' (see also Adrija)

Girisha Hindu

a name for Rudra as 'lord of the mountains'

Girle Guairle Irish

a fairy

She undertook a spinning task for a mortal on condition that the woman remembered her name. The woman forgot the fairy's name but overheard the fairy talking to herself and was able to greet her with her proper name so that the fairy was compelled to hand over the finished work.

Girlando European

[Gernando]
a knight killed in a duel with Rinaldo who then went into exile

Girra (see Irra)

Girru (see Giru)

Girtab Mesopotamian

[Stinger:=Hebrew Akrahb]
the Akkadian name for Scorpio

Girtablili (see Scorpion-man)

Giru Mesopotamian

[Girru:=Sumerian Gibil]
a Babylonian god, fire personified
son of Samas and Aa
brother of Kittu, Mesharu and Nusku
(see also Gerra.Irra)

Girunugal Mesopotamian

a name for Nergal as 'the mighty one'

Gisdhubar Mesopotamian

[=Greek Heracles]
a Chaldaean hero

He killed the tyrant Khumbala as one of the adventures related in the epic (in twelve volumes), each of which is connected with one of the signs of the Zodiac. The original work is attributed to Sin-liki-innini.

Giselher Norse

[Gisler]
son of Dankrat and Ute
brother of Gernot, Gunther and Krimhild

Gish Afghan

[Giwish]
a war-god
son of Imra and Utr
consort of Sanju

He was said to live in a steel fortress built in a walnut tree.

Gish Bar Mesopotamian

[Gis(h)zida]
a Babylonian fire-god or sun-god

Gish Qaru Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as a tree-god

Gishzida (see Gish Bar.Ningishzida)

Gisl Norse

a horse of the gods

Gisler (see Giselher)

Gisli Norse

an outlaw
He killed his brother-in-law, Thorgum.

Gismirante British

a knight of King Arthur's court
A certain princess was said to attend church naked once a year and her father decapitated any man who dared to look at her. Gismirante nevertheless looked and abducted her.

Gisuki Japanese

brother of O Cho San

Giszida (see Gish Bar.Ningishzida)

Gita Buddhist

[=Tibetan Glu-ma]
one of the 8 Buddhist mother-goddesses

She is depicted with either two or four arms and holding a lyre.

Gita Govinda Hindu

[Gitagovinda.Song of Govinda]
a 12th c poem by Jayadeva

This work relates the love of Krishna, as Govinda, for Radha.

Gita Jayanti Hindu

a festival celebrating the Bhagavadgita, held at the end of December

Gitagovinda (see Gita Govinda)

Gitche Manitou (see Gitche Manitou)

Gitchee Manitou

(see Gitche Manitou)

Gitche Manitou North American

[Gitche Manitou.Gitche(e) Manitou.
Great Manito(u).Great Spirit.
Kchemnito.Kitche Manitou.

Kitshi Manitou]

the creator-god of the Algonquins

He instructed the duck and the terrapin to dive into the primordial waters and bring up some mud. The god dried the mud on his pipe and from it created the world and human beings.

(see also Great Spirit.Kitshi Manitou)

Githawn North American

[Salmon Eater]
uncle of Delarhons

G'ithilalan Siberian

a spirit of the twilight
father of Miti

Giuki Norse

king of the Niblungs husband of Grimhild
father of Gudrun, Gunnar, Guttorm and Hogni

Giukings Norse

the sons of Giuki

Giving God (see Dabog)

Giwish (see Gish)

Giyorgis African

an archangel in Ethiopia

Gizhigooke North American

an Algonquin deity regarded as the day-maker

Gizidu (see Ningishzida)

Gizo African

[=Yoruba Anansi]
a trickster-hero of the Housa in the form of a spider consort of Koki

Gjallar (see Gjallar)

Gjallarbru (see Gjallarbru)

Gjallarhorn (see Gjallar)

Gjalp (see Gjalp)

Gjol (see Giall)
Gjoll (see Giall)
Gyolp (see Gialp) Gla African

in the lore of the Bambara, a primaevial creative force which,
 with Dya, emerged from the empty void, Fu

Glacia Labolas (see Caacrinolaas)
Gladr Norse

a horse of the gods

Gladshiem Norse

the region of happiness, site of Valhalla, the golden palace of Odin where the gods met in council

An alternative version describes Gladshiem as a golden temple in Idavold which provided seating for Odin and twelve other deities.

Glaer (see Gler)

Glaesir Norse

a grove of amber near Valhalla

Glaesivellir Norse

a paradise in a valley of amber

Glain Celtic

the egg of a snake with magic powers, sought by Merlin

glaistig Scottish

a female devil

This being is said to appear either as a beautiful female, half woman, half goat, or a goat-like hag or a small woman dressed in green.

(see also glaistyn.Urisk)

glaistyn Manx

[=Scottish kelpie]

a water-horse which sometimes appears as a handsome youth

(see also cabyll-ushtey.glaistig.
 tarroo-ushtey)

Glam Norse

a dead warrior

He was causing havoc in the locality
 so Grettir cut off his head and buried the body.

In some accounts he was a shepherd killed by a spirit.

gLan-po stob-rgyas Tibetan

a form of prayer-flag (see da-cha)

Glaþsviðir Norse

a name of Odin as 'swift deceiver'

Glas<sup>1</sup> Irish

father of Garman

Glas<sup>2</sup> Welsh

the dog of Bwlch

Glas Gabnach Irish

[Cow of the Smith.Glas Gabnach.

Glas Gaibleann. Glas Ghaibhne(a)nn

Glas Ghoibhneann.Grey Cow:=Greek Io:

=Welsh Fuwch Frech]

a fairy cow

In some accounts, this animal appeared from the sea; in others, she was stolen from Spain by Gavidia. It was said that she had an inexhaustible supply of milk that could fill any vessel but when a witch placed a sieve under her, she died in the effort to keep it filled. Others say that she disappeared when she was struck by her owner and returned to the Otherworld.

Some versions say that this cow was owned by Ide, others by Cian or Goibhniu from one or other of whom it was stolen by Balor. The cow swam back to Ireland from Tory Island where she had been taken by Balor and some say that, as a result, Balor invaded Ireland where he was killed by Lugh at the second Battle of Moytura.

Glas Gabnach (see Glas Gabnach)

Glas Gaibleann (see Glas Gabnach)

Glas Ghaibhneann (see Glas Gabnach)

Glas Ghaibhnenn (see Glas Gabnach)

Glas Ghoibhneann (see Glas Gabnach)

Glasdamh Irish

a satirist with Cumascach

When they were trapped in a blazing house fired by Brandubh, he persuaded the Leinster king to release him but allowed Cumascach to escape in his place.

Glaser (see Glasir)

Glashan Scottish

a spirit

Glasir Norse

[Glaser]

a grove in Asgard

The trees in this grove, the site of Valhalla, had leaves of red gold. The grove itself is surrounded by the river Thund.

Glass Castle<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Conan's Tower]

a glass tower of the Fomoiré on

Tory Island

The Nemedians attacked the castle and killed the Fomoiré king, Conan mac Febar. Balor used the tower to imprison his daughter, Ethlinn.

Glass Castle<sup>2</sup> (see Caer Wydyr)

Glass-man East Indian

a spirit

A man who upset an ocean-goddess was turned into a figure of shining glass which is seen only at night.

Glast British

[Glasteing]

a man who found some pigs

with 8 feet

Glasteing (see Glast)

Glastonbury British

a town in Somerset

This is reputed to be the place to which Joseph of Arimathea brought the Holy Grail in AD 63. Some regard it as the site of Avalon.

Glastonbury Cross British

a cross found when the supposed grave of King Arthur at Glastonbury was excavated in 1911

Glastonbury Thorn British

[Holy Thorn.Thorn of Glastonbury]

a tree, said to flower at Christmas

It was said that this tree grew from a staff planted in the earth by Joseph of Arimathea. The original was said to be a tree grown from a thorn from Christ's crown of thorns.

Glastonbury Tor British

a hill near Glastonbury

This small hill is said to have been the home of Gwyn ap Nudd and an entrance to the underworld.

Glastonbury Zodiac Celtic

[Temple of the Stars]

a representation of the celestial zodiac imagined as seen in the topography of an area of Somerset

Some say it is related to the quest for the Holy Grail.

Glasya Labolas (see Caacrinolaas)

Glasyalabolas (see Caacrinolaas)

Glatissant Beast (see Questing Beast)

Glatisaunt Beast (see Questing Beast)

Glauce<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Cychreus, king of Salamis
 In some accounts she was the first wife of Telamon and mother of Teucer;
 others say that this was Hesione.

Glauce<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Creusa]

daughter of Creon, king of Thebes

When Jason divorced Medea, he married Glauce but the sorceress killed not only Glauce but all the wedding-guests by burning down the palace. Only Jason escaped.

In some stories she is Creusa, daughter of the king of Corinth.

Glauce<sup>3</sup> Greek

a sea-nymph, one of the Nereids

Glaucopis (see Glaucopis)

Glaucus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Glaukos]

son of Minos and Pasiphae

When, as a boy, Glaucus was drowned in a large jar of honey, his father ordered the seer Polyeidus, who found him, to be locked in the store-room with the dead boy. Polyeidus killed one snake when it approached the body but the second snake had a herb in its mouth with which it revived its dead mate. The seer used the same herb to restore Glaucus to life.

Some say that it was Asclepius who restored the boy to life.

Minos made Polyeides teach Glaucus the arts of prophecy which he did but, when leaving Crete, had the boy spit into his mouth, so taking away all that the boy had learned.

Glaucus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Glaukos]

a commander of the Lycians at Troy under Sarpedon

grandson of Bellerophon

son of Hippolochus

He was connected by family ties to the Greek, Diomedes, and they exchanged armour instead of fighting.

He was killed by Ajax in the fighting at Troy and Apollo translated his body on the wind to his own country where a river sprang up at the site of his burial.

Glaucus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Glaukos]

a sea-god

son of Anthedon and Alcyone or

of Poseidon and Nais

He was a fisherman who fell in love with the nymph Scylla. She spurned him and Circe, who also loved Glaucus, changed her into a monster who wrecked ships and destroyed sailors. Glaucus was changed into a sea god.

In another version, the fish he caught ate the grass on which he tipped them from the net and then plunged back into the sea. Glaucus ate some of the grass and felt an irresistible desire to follow them. He entered the sea and became a sea-god protecting fishermen.

In some accounts he is identified as Nereus, Phorcus or Proteus.

Glaucus<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Glaukos]

king of Corinth

son of Sisyphus and

Merope

husband of Eurynome

father of Bellerophon

He kept a stable of mares which he fed on human flesh. He was killed when his mares bolted and was eaten by them, becoming a Taraxippus.

Glaucus<sup>5</sup> Greek

[Glaukos]

a helmsman of the Argo

Glaukopis Greek

[Glaucopis]

a name of Athena as 'the owl-eyed'

Glaukos (see Glaucus)

Glaumvor Norse

second wife of Gunnar

Glaur Norse

son of Surtur

husband of Sol, some say

Glauron

a demon of the air governing the north

Gleaming Mountain African

the hill on which the palace Burju

Alamasi was said to stand

Gleed Norse

a horse of the gods

Gleipnir Norse

the magic rope restraining the wolf Fenris

When he broke free of chains on two occasions, the gods had a special rope made by the dwarfs which could not be broken even though it was made from such insubstantial materials as the footfall of a cat, the beard of a woman and the voice of a fish. Others include the miaow of a cat, the sinews of a bear, the spittle of a bird and the root of a mountain.

Gleis British

son of Merin

He was killed by King Arthur.

Gleisad Welsh

the dog of Syfwlch

Gleisig Welsh

[Glesig]

the dog of Cyfwlch

Glen More Irish

a narrow valley

This was the place where Finn mac Cool was left by the Lochlanners to be killed by the wild dog, Sceolan.

Glen of the Hazel Woods Irish

the home of the king of Dublin whose children were rescued

by Finn mac Cool

Glendenwitha (see Gendenwitha)

Glendoveer

a good spirit

Glendower (see Owen Glendower)

Glenthorne British

a site on the coast of

Cornwall

In the story that says that Joseph of Arimathea brought the young Jesus to Britain, they were said to have come ashore here in search of water. When they found none, Jesus caused a spring to appear, a source which has never dried up.

Glenus Greek

son of Heracles and Deianeira

brother of Cteissipus, Hodites, Hyllus

and Macaria

Glenvissig Welsh

the realm of Athrwy, now Gwent

Gler Norse

[Glaer]

a horse of the gods

Glesig (see Gleisig)

Gleti African

a moon-goddess of the Fon

consort of Lisa

Gletivi African

[Moon-children]

the offspring of Lisa and Gleti in the form of stars

Glew British

a warrior at King Arthur's court

son of Ysgawd

He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Glewlwyd British

[Glewlwyd Gafaelfawr.Glewlwyd

Mightygrasp.Glwlwyd]

head gatekeeper at King Arthur's palace

In some stories, it was he, not Kai, who refused to allow Culhwch into the palace to see the king.

Glifieu (see Gluneu)

Gligliois British

a squire to Gawain

He fell in love with Beauté who chose him in preference to Gawain.

Glineu (see Gluneu)

gLing (see gLing-chos)

gLing-chos Tibetan

the myths of the early Tibetans

concerning the world known as gling

This world had three (or four) realms, each with its own distinctive colour. At the top was the heaven, sTang-lha,

which was white; then came the red

home of humans, Bar-btsan; below

that was usually the blue underworld

known as Yog-klu. The fourth realm, which appears in some accounts, was the black or violet world of the demons known as bDud.

Glini Welsh

[Glivi]

the captor of Eidoel

He held Eidoel prisoner but handed him over to King Arthur to help in the search for Mabon who was needed to help Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Glipsa North American

[Glisma.Glispā]

a Navaho girl who was abducted by

Bear and Snake

She and her sister were captured from their underwater village and she mated with one of her captors, Snake, who appeared to her as a handsome brave. She later escaped but he once again appeared in this form and she returned to him. He taught her many things including the Hozoni Chant and eventually allowed her to return to her people. When she returned, she was possessed of magic powers of healing that she passed on to her brother.

Glisma (see Glipsa)

Glispa (see Glipsa)

Glistening Heath (see Gnitahaid)

Gliten British

sister of Morgan le Fay

Glitner (see Glitnir)

Glitnir Norse

[Glitner]

the gold and silver palace of Forseti

Glitnea British

sister of Morgan le Fay

Glivi (see Glini)

Gloier Celtic

a king of Sorelois

gloine nathair Irish

adderstones used by druids as amulets

Glonda Irish

a man killed by Lia

In avenging the death of Glonda by killing Lia, Finn mac Cool got possession of the Treasure Bag of the Fianna.

Glooscap (see Gluskap)

Glooskap (see Gluskap)

Gloriana (see Glorianda)

Glorianda European

[Gloria(n)a]

a fairy

In the Charlemagne stories, she is said to be the mother of Oberon by Julius Caesar. In Spenser she is the daughter of Oberon and queen of Faerie with whom Arthur, before he became king, fell in love.

Gloriande<sup>1</sup> British

a queen of Lyonesse wife of Apollo

Gloriande<sup>2</sup> European

daughter of Corsuble

Glorianna (see Gorianda)

Glorious European

a sword of Oliver

Glorious Goddess (see Lha-Mo)

glossolalia

speaking in tongues: the use of (words which sound as if part of) unknown languages, under the influence of some possessing spirit

(see also xenoglossia)

Glu-ma Buddhist

[Lu-ma]

the Tibetan version of Gita

Glum<sup>1</sup> Norse

a warrior and poet

He was rewarded for killing a berserker with the hand of a rich landowner's daughter and presents of a sword, spear and cloak which were said to bring him good fortune. He was involved in a dispute with Thorkel who had encroached on his land and killed Thorkel's son, a youth named Sigmund. He later lost the cloak and the weapons and his good luck deserted him. Convicted of manslaughter, he was banished.

He is said to have had a number of memorable dreams. In one such dream he saw a huge woman walking to his house from the sea; she was the guardian spirit of his grandfather. In another, he saw two women who were sprinkling blood over the earth, portending war. In the dispute with Thorkel he dreamt that many approached the god Frey on his behalf, to no avail.

Glum<sup>2</sup> Norse

one of the men with Flosi when they killed the Njalssons and burnt their house

Glunen (see Gluneu)

Gluneu eil Taran Welsh

[Glifieu.Glineu.Glunen]

a warrior at Bran's court

son of Taran

He was one of the seven survivors of the battle between the forces of Bran and Matholwch when Bran invaded Ireland to rescue his sister, Branwen, from Matholwch.

Glusgahbe (see Gluskap)

Gluskabe (see Gluskap)

Gluskap North American

[Glooscap.Glooskap.Glusgahbe.

Gluskabe.Great Hare.The Liar:

=Algonquin Manabozho:=Fox Wisaka:

=Iroquois Ioskeha:=Menominee

Manabush: =Montagnais Messou]

a creator-god of the Abnaki Indians

twin brother of Malsum

He created the earth and mankind from his mother's body while his brother, Malsum, created all the inconvenient things. He then killed all the giants and the evil beings such as witches and sorcerers, ridding the earth of the evil spirit, Pamola. One giant, Win-pe made himself taller than a pine tree but Gluskap grew until he reached the sky and then killed the giant with a blow from his bow. The only one unmoved by the god's power was the infant, Wasis, who merely gurgled at him.

In another story Gluskap overcame Jug Woman and killed the huge monster that was blocking a stream that a tribe depended on for water and then squeezed it so hard that it became a bullfrog.

Malsum killed Gluskap with the feather of an owl, the only thing that could hurt him, but Gluskap returned to life and killed Malsum with a fern. Malsum then became an evil wolf, Lox.

Malsum's demon followers, the Kewawkqu', tried to avenge their leader's death and Gluskap had to wage a constant war against these forces of evil and the Medecolin, who were sorcerers, finally defeating them. When his work was done, he gave a great feast for all the animals on the shores of Lake Minas, and then sailed off in his canoe. After he had gone, the animals, which had all previously spoken the same language, suddenly found that each species now spoke a different language.

He was a benevolent deity, envisaged as a rabbit, and granted reasonable requests made to him by humans but those who asked for immortality were turned into stones or trees.

He is expected to return as a saviour of his people.

Glut Norse

the first wife of Loki

mother of Einmyria and Eisa

Glwelwyd (see Glewlyd)

Glwyddyn Welsh

[Glywyrn.Gwlyddyn]

a craftsman who built King Arthur's hall, Ehangwen

He was killed by the boar, Twrch Trwyth.

Glywydyn (see Gwlyddyn)

Glycon Greek

[Glykon]

the name used by Alexander the Paphlagonian for the snake which he claimed was the reincarnation of Asclepius

Glykon (see Glycon)

Gna Norse

[Liod.Lyod]

a messenger and attendant of Frigga, one of the Asynjur

She rode a horse called Hofvarpnir and carried an apple from Frigga to King Rerir which, when eaten by his wife, produced the son they had longed for. (see also Angerbode)

gNan Tibetan [gNyan]
evil spirits which live in rocks, water or trees and bring disease

Gnas-brtan Buddhist [Neten:=Japanese Arakan.Rakan]
the Tibetan version of the Eighteen Lohan or the 16 arhats

Gnathal Irish
a warrior at the Battle of Cenn Abhradh

In one version of the story of this battle, it was he who defeated and wounded Lugaid mac Con.

Gnipa Cave Norse
[Gnipaheller.Gnipahellir]
the hole in which the dog Garm was housed at the entrance to Niflheim or Niflhel

Gnipaheller (see Gnipa Cave)

Gnipahellir (see Gnipa Cave)

Gnita Heath (see also Gnitahaid)

Gnitahaid Norse
[Glittering Heath.Gnita Heath]
the home of Fafnir

This is where Fafnir lived after he had turned himself into a dragon to guard the gold taken from the dwarf Andvari by Loki and given to Fafnir's father, Hreidmar, as compensation for the murder of his other son, Otter. Fafnir killed his father when he refused to share the gold and kept it all for himself.

gnod-sbyin Tibetan black demons

These beings, armed with bows and arrows, were precursors of the human race. Next came the bdud.

gnome
a goblin or sprite
elemental earth-spirit

It is said that these beings can move through the earth at will, much like a fish moving through water.

gNyan (see gNan)

Go (see Ko<sup>1</sup>)

Go-chi Nyorai Japanese the 5 Dhyanihodhisattvas, in some accounts

These deities are listed as Ashuku, Dainichi, Shaka, Taho and Yakushi.

Their Sanskrit names are respectively Akshobhya, Vairocana, Amoghasiddhi, Amida and Bhaisajya.

Another list has Ashuku (Akshobhya),

Dainichi (Vairocana), Fuku-joju (Amoghasiddhi), Hoshu (Ratnasambhava) and Murjoju (Amitayas).

Go-loka (see Goloka)

Go Toba Japanese
an emperor

He commanded a pine tree, which disturbed his sleep with the noise of the wind in its branches, to be quiet. Thereafter, the tree never moved, even in the strongest gale.

Goah North American
a supreme deity of the Seneca tribe

Goap (see Gaap)
goat<sup>1</sup> Greek

the animal of Dionysus (see also Amalthea)

goat<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
the animal of Marduk and Ningirsu

goat<sup>3</sup> Norse
the animal of Thor

goat<sup>4</sup> (see Capricorn)

Goat-fish Mesopotamian
one of the Eleven Mighty Helpers created by Tiamat

Goat-god Greek [Goat-Pan]
the god Pan

Goat-Minos (see Minotragos)

Goat Pan (see Goat-god)

Goat Spirit (see Yang Ching)

goathead Irish
a form of demon

Gobaka Buddhist
[Ch'ieh-po-ka.Gopaka.Shu-po-chia.Supaka: =Tibetan Be-je.Bed-byed]
one of the Eighteen Lohan

He is depicted holding a fan or a book.

Goban (see Gobhan Saer.Goibhniu)

Goban Saor (see Gobhan Saer)

Gobban (see Goibhniu)

Gobban Saer (see Gobhan Saer)

Gobei Japanese
a noble

He lost all his money and became bankrupt but the spirit of an old willow tree indicated the site of a chest full of gold, buried many years before by an ancestor, and his fortunes were restored.

gobbeline (see goblin)

Gobhan Saer Irish
[Gob(h)an Saer.Gobban Saer]
an architect and builder for the fairies
In some accounts, he was blinded by monks for whom he was building a monastery but had his sight restored by Aban.

In another story, he built an oratory and asked in payment as much corn as would fill the building. Asked to turn the building upside down so that it might be filled with the corn, he did just that and got the payment he had asked for. but the grain all turned to maggots next day.

On another occasion, when the monks removed all the ladders from a monastery he had built for them, trying to force him to accept lower wages, he took the building down, stone by stone, to reach the ground.

In some accounts, he is equated with Goibhniu.

Gobhan Saor (see Gobhan Saer)

Goibhniu (see Goibhniu)

goblin [gobbeline]
a frightening spirit or
gnome

These malicious creatures are envisaged as being small and grotesque in appearance and are much given to causing damage in the house by night.

Goblin-king (see Shutendoji)

Goblin-spider Japanese
an evil goblin

When Raiko was ill, this goblin came to him each night in the form of a boy, giving him medicine which only served to make his condition worse. When Raiko struck him with his sword, the goblin enmeshed him in a large web. Raiko cut himself free and killed the goblin which he found hiding in a cave.

Another version has the goblin appearing to Raiko and his servant, Tsunna, first in the form of an old woman and then as a beautiful maiden. Again the goblin was wounded, trapped Raiko in a web and was killed when Raiko escaped.

When Raiko cut off the goblin's head, hundreds of skulls emerged from a wound in its stomach.

Gobniu (see Goibhniu)

Gobuju Japanese

a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

god-eyes
the eyes of a god regarded, in some cases, as having a separate existence

In the case of Ra, the eyes were the sun and moon; the eye of Horus was said to operate separately to bestow gifts on mankind.

God-like North American

4 deities of the Sioux

These are given as Nagi, Nagila, Niya and Sicun, all aspects of Wakan Tanka.

God of Heaven (see Beelzebub)

God of the Axe Central American

[Great Seer of the Axe]

a Mayan deity

God of the Dunghill (see Beelzebub)God of the Eight Banderoles(see* Hachiman)God of the Flies (see Achor)God of the Hanged(see* Hangagud.Odin)God of the Land of Tehennu (see Ash)God of the Place of Long Life(see* Chang-sheng t'u Ti)God of Walls and Moats (see Wang<sup>2</sup>)Godā (see Freya)Godai myooJapanese*

[Godaison]

the collective name of 5 gods, agents of the 5 great BuddhasThe names of these deities are given as Dai-itoku, Fudo-myoo, Gozanze, Gundari and Kongo-yasha.Godaison (see Godai Myoo)Godan (see Wodan)godaphus (see gyascutus)Godard Danish

a usurper of the Danish throne

He seized the throne from Havelock's father and ordered that the young Havelock be killed.Goddess of Sunset Land(see* Estanetlehi)Goddess of the Brazen Horse(see* Athena Chalcoecus)Goddess of the Carrying ChairChinese*the deified version of a young girl who died as she was being carried to the home of her new husbandGoddess of the Jade Petticoat(see* Chalchihuitlicue)Goddess of the Southern Sea(see* Kuan Yin)Gode (see Frigga)Godefroi de Bouillon (see Godfrey<sup>1</sup>)Godeu Welsh

the Otherworld

Godfrey<sup>1</sup> European [Godefroi de Bouillon.

Godfrey de Bouillon]

a duke of Lorraine

grandson of the Swan Knight

son of Ida

brother of Baldwin and Eustace

At the court of the Emperor Otto, he fought and defeated Gui de Montfaucon, who threatened the inheritance of a count's daughter, and was made Duke of Bouillon.When Cornumarant, a Saracen, came to France to spy out the strength of the Christian forces preparing forthe First Crusade, Godfrey deceived him by parading the same detachments of troops time after time in front of the bemused interloper. Godfrey later led the Christian forces attacking Jerusalem and it is said that, in the fighting at Antioch, he split a mounted Saracen in half from top to toe, one half falling to earth, the other half continuing to ride the horse for some time. When Jerusalem fell, he was offered and refused the crown but when, during a vigil, his own candle ignited spontaneously he realised that he was called to this office and took the throne while still refusing the golden crown. He upset the patriarch, Eracles, by sending holy relics to his own mother, Ida, and died when the cleric poisoned him.In some accounts, Godfrey married Florie, sister of the Saracen Corboran.Godfrey<sup>2</sup> European

a merchant

While Godfrey was away on his travels, his wife bought the seven year old Vivien who had been rescued by pirates from the hands of the Saracens.
They raised the boy as their own son and Godfrey tried, without success, to train him as a merchant. Instead, Vivien became a knight committed to fighting the Saracens.Godfrey<sup>3</sup> (see Geoffroy)Godfrey<sup>4</sup> (see Gottfried)Godfrey de Bouillon (see Godfrey<sup>1</sup>)Godhanga Chinese a sacred region, home of Pindola

Godheim Norse

home of the gods: site of the city,

Asgard: heaven

Godi<sup>1</sup> African

a dragon attendant on Hara Ke

Godi<sup>2</sup> Norse

[druids.gothi]

priests of the war-god Tyr

Godlike Ones (see Godlike Spirits)Godlike Spirits North American

[Godlike Ones]

4 gods of the Sioux

These four are given as Nagi, Nagila,
Niya and Sicun, all aspects of Wakan Tanka.Gododdin *British*a 13th c Welsh poem, said to have been written by Aneurin, covering the defeat of the British at CatterickGod's Messengers *African*in the Sudan, fishes sent to the earth in thunderstorms are used by god as his messengersGods of Happiness (see Fu Lu Shou)Gods of the First Time Egyptian

the gods of that early golden age when the gods walked the earth with men

god's wife of Amun Egyptian

a woman who acted as the consort of Amun in religious ceremonies

This position was held by the daughter of the king, in later years.Godvetter (see Govetter)Godwin British

a knight at the court of King Mark

He was one of a trio of knights who spied on Tristram and Isolde and informed the king of his wife's infidelity. He was killed when Tristram shot an arrow through his eye as he spied on the lovers at a window.Goemagot (see Gogmagog)Goemmasson Japanese

a name for Dai-itoku as conqueror

of Emma-O

Goemot (see Gogmagog)goetae Hebrew

[goetia]

nomadic wonder-workers

goetia (see goetae.goety)goety

[goetia]

black magic: miracle-working

Goewen Welsh

[Goewin]

a virgin

daughter of Pebin

She was one of the young girls who acted as footholders to Math, king of Gwynedd, and was seduced by Gilfaethwy when Math went off to do battle with Pryderi. When he returned, she had to tell him that she was no longer a virgin but the king nevertheless married her and punished Gilfaethwy and his brother Gwydion who had hatched the plot that resulted in the battle with Pryderi.In an alternative version, Math dismissed her from the court. Some accounts say that Llew was her son by Gilfaethwy and not the second son of Aranrhod.Goewin (see Goewen)Gofannon (see Govannon)Goffar Celtic

king of a tribe in Gaul

He attacked the Trojans under Brutus who were en route to Britain. His forces were routed by Corin, the giant son of Hercules, who was sailing with the Trojans.

Gog and Magog British

the last survivors of a giant race
These giants were captured by Brut and Corineus and kept as porters in the royal palace. In an alternative story they were the giant Gogmagog who Corineus threw to his death from a cliff.

Another story describes them as races which were imprisoned behind a range of mountains by Alexander the Great who had built a huge metal gate to keep them from escaping. Others relate how they attacked King Arthur but he defeated them with the help of Gargantua who wielded a sixty-foot club.

In apocalyptic writings, Gog and Magog are the Devil's assistants.

(see also Gogmagog)

Gog-Sheklah (see Gamchicoth)Goga East Indian

the Papuan goddess of fire and rain
She was said to have made fire from her own body.

A hunter stole one of her burning brands to bring fire to mankind.

Goggle-eye (see Tēpegoz)Gogigwr British

a gatekeeper at King Arthur's palace
a deputy of Glewlwyd
He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Gogmagog British

[Goemagot.Goemot.Gourmaillon]

a pre-Celtic giant
He is represented by a figure cut in the chalk of the South Downs, the site of fertility rites.

Some say that he turned into a hill when a nymph, Granta, rejected his love. In some accounts, he is identified with Cormoran and Gourmaillon.

He appears in Spenser's Faerie Queene as Goemot.

(see also Gog and Magog)

Gogo Pacific Islands

a snake-goddess
mother of Jari
Her daughter, Jari, married a snake-man who killed and ate Gogo.

Gogo-me Japanese

[Hisa Females]
8 ugly thunder-goddesses of the underworld

Gogrvan Welsh

[Ocvran]
the Welsh name for Leodegrance,
father of Guinevere

Gogyfwlch British

a gatekeeper at King Arthur's palace

gohei Japanese

[nusa] pieces of paper, foil, etc. used as charms

Gohitsu-Osoh Japanese

the name given to Kobo Daishi when he painted a room for the Chinese emperor

He was said to have used five brushes – one in each hand and foot, one in his mouth.

Gohone North American

the Iroquois spirit of winter

Goibhniu Irish

[Gaibhde.Ghaibhneann.Ghoibhneann.

Gob(b)an.Gobniu.Gobhniu.Goibniu: =Welsh Govannon]

a smith-god
one of the Tri De Dana son of Turbe

brother of Credne and Luchta

He raised Lugh after he was rescued from the sea by Manannan, teaching him the arts of the smith. He and his brothers made the weapons used by the Danaans in their battles with the Fomoiré and killed the Fomoiré spy, Ruadan. At the feast of Fled Goibnenn in the Otherworld he gave his guests a special brew that made them immune to disease and death.

Some say that he was the owner of the marvellous cow, Glas Gabnach.

(see also Gávada.Gobhan Saer)

Goibniu (see Goibhniu)Goidel (see Gaedheal)Goin<sup>1</sup> Australian

an evil spirit

This being was said to have the claws of an eagle on legs like an alligator's.

Goin<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Goinn]
a dwarf
son of Grafvitnir
brother of Moin

Goinn (see Goin)Gokuraku-Jodo Japanese

[Gokuraku-Lekai:=Chinese Hsi T'ien]
the Buddhist paradise, home of Amida (see also Pure Land.Sukhavati)

Gokuraku-Lekai (see Gokuraku-Jodo)gola African

in the lore of the Liúanda, a snake-spirit that can take possession of people

Golagras (see Golagros)Golagros British

[Golagras]
a giant in Italy

He had never been beaten in a fight for a thousand years but Gawain was getting the better of him when they met. The knight offered a draw to save the giant from humiliation.

Golamh Irish

the name originally given to Milesius

Gold Comb (see Gullinkambi)Gold Eye (see Hiranyaksha)Gold Germ (see Hiranya-Garbha)Gold Mountain East Indian

in the lore of the Dyaks, this mountain clashed with Jewel Mountain to form the world

Golden Gate

the gate to heaven

Goldborough British

a princess
wife of Havelock

Goldbranch (see Gullveig)Goldcrest Norse

a horse of the gods (see also Gullfaxi)

Goldemar German

[King GoldemarKing Vollmar]
a harp-playing kobold who exposed the sins of the clergy

Golden Ass, The Greek

[Metamorphoses]
a book of legends including the story of Cupid and Psyche, as told by Apuleius

Golden Book of Fate Siberian

the book in which the goddess Ajyst records each person's life

golden bough Greek

a branch carried by Aeneas which gave him access to Hades

Golden Bough, The English

a book of magic and religion by Sir James Frazer

This work was first published in 1890 in two volumes but was later expanded to fill twelve volumes published between 1911 and 1915. A supplement called Aftermath was published in 1936.

Golden Boy (see Kintaro)Golden Calf

a hairy demon

Golden Door (see Chin Men)Golden Dragon (see Hsieh Hsü)Golden Eagle (see Keneum)Golden Fleece Greek

the fleece of Chrysomallon
The ram that carried Phrixus to safety had a golden-coloured fleece. When he sacrificed the ram to the gods, Phrixus gave the fleece to the king of Colchis who hung it on a tree guarded by a serpent. It was later the object of the quest undertaken by Jason and the Argonauts who seized it and returned it to Iolcus.

Golden Flute Malay

[Magic Flute]
a magical instrument

This instrument, when blown by the king, creates a gentle breeze which cures the plagues brought by the Green Demon. It is said that it will lose its magic powers if it is blown by anyone other than the king.

Golden Frog *(see Kumwa)Golden Island British

the home of the fairy Pucelle Guinglain stayed for a while on this island en route to rescuing Blonde Esmerée.

Golden Lotus Buddhist

the eight-flowered petal of Buddha's Law

When a dragon offered to give the Buddha great knowledge in exchange for human flesh, the Buddha offered himself. The dragon then turned into the Golden Lotus.

Golden Moon *(see Chandra-Kirana)Golden Mother of the Tortoise

(see Hsi Wang-mu)

Golden Mountain *(see Mount Meru)Golden Old Woman *(see Zlotababa)Golden Nucleus *(see Hiranya-garbha)Golden Tortoise Malay

a wise animal

This tortoise, which owns the Golden Flute, is consulted by the king on certain matters. If plague is brought by the Green Demon, the king can cure it by blowing on the Golden Flute.

Golden Womb *(see Hiranya-Garbha)Golden Youth Buddhist

a guide in Hades

His function is to guide the spirits of the good across the Inevitable River over the Fairy Bridges.

Goldenmane *(see Gullfaxi)Goldfax *(see Gullinfaxi)Goldmane *(see Gullfaxi)Gold top *(see Gulltop)Golem Hebrew

an image brought to life: a servant automaton

It is said that Reb Low, a 16th c Polish rabbi, created an automaton which worked non-stop when a plate was inserted under its tongue but rested when the plate (which bore the name of god) was removed for the sabbath. When the owner forgot to remove the plate, the automaton disintegrated.

Golerotheran British

a giant adversary of Percival on the Grail Quest

Goleuddydd Welsb

[Goleudid] daughter of Anlawdd and Gwen wife of Clydd
sister of Igraine and Rieingulid,
some say
mother of Culhwch

She went mad and ran into a field full of pigs where she gave birth to her son, Culhwch. When she died, she made her husband promise that he would not re-marry until a two-headed briar grew on her grave.

Goleudid *(see Goleuddydd)Golugus Greek

in some accounts, one of the mortal children of Adonis and Aphrodite

In this version, the third child of the union was Priapus who was immortal.

Golistant British

in some accounts, son of Morholt brother of Amoroldo

Goll Irish

son of Garbh and Lot father of Cichol Gricenchos

Goll Easa Ruiadh Irish

a wise salmon

This fish, featured in early stories, reappears in the story of Fintan.

Goll mac Carbada Irish

a huge German warrior

He was sent to Ireland to exact tribute but was met by Cuchulainn who killed him.

In another version, the warrior was Scandinavian and his name was Garbh.
(see Garbh<sup>2</sup>)

Goll mac Golb Irish

ruler of Magh Mell

He carried off the wife and daughter of Fiachna and was then killed by Laoghaire mac Criomhthann who rescued them.

Goll mac Morna Irish

[Aedh]
a leader of the Connaught Fianna son of Morna
brother of Garadh, Conan and Maignhis

husband of Cebha father of Fer-tai

Aedh mac Morna killed Finn's father, Cumail, to win control of the Fianna, either in battle where he lost one eye and became known as Goll, or, in another version, when he was sent by Murna's father to kill Cumail who had eloped with his daughter. When he killed Cumail, who was leader of all the Fianna, he took the Treasure Bag, giving him control of the force. This bag was later recovered by Finn who became leader of all the Fianna and Goll swore loyalty as leader of the Connaught branch.

In some accounts, he had been driven from Ireland by Cumail and conquered Scandinavia, exacting tribute.

When Irnan and her sisters captured some of his warriors by using a magic herb, he killed her two sisters. Irnan turned herself into a monster and challenged the Fianna to single combat. Goll accepted the challenge and killed her. Finn gave him his daughter, Cebha, as a wife in reward for his efforts.

He led the party of nine which recovered Finn's hounds, Bran and Sceolan, which had been stolen by Arthur.

At the Quicken Trees Hostel, he was one of Finn's company trapped by the magic of the three kings of the Islands of Torrent. He killed Borba who led one of the waves of attackers trying to cross the ford below the hostel.

He later killed Cairell, Finn's son, and was pursued by the Fianna until, refusing to surrender when cornered, he died of starvation.

Gollinbursti *(see Gullinbursti)Gollinkambi *(see Gullinkambi)Gollveig<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Goldbranch.Gollweig.Gullveig.

Gullweig.Hag of Iarnvid]

a goddess of evil

a giantess

mother of Hati and Skoll by Fenris

She was sent by the Vanir on an errand to the Aesir who treated her very badly, spearing her to death three times and revivifying her before trying, unsuccessfully, to burn her. As a result, war between the gods ensued, ending in victory for the Vanir.

An alternative version says that Gollweig and Loki abducted Freya and war ensued as a result, precipitating Ragnarok.

She was perhaps an aspect of Freya; in other stories, she is Angerbode or Heid.

Gollveig<sup>2</sup> *(see Volva<sup>1</sup>)Gollweig *(see Gollveig)Goloka Hindu

the heaven of Krishna to which Surabhi was taken or, some say, a heaven created for Surabhi by Brahma

- Goltrade Irish
a harpist
son of Uaithne and Boann
brother of Gentrade and Suantrade
He and his brothers played music so sad that men died weeping as they listened.
- Golwg Hafddydd Welsh
a maid to Esylt
lover of Cae Hir
She went with her mistress when she eloped with Trystan.
- Gomara, Francisco Central American
a 16th c Spanish monk who recorded much Aztec lore
- Gombo Tibetan
a leader of the demons
He is regarded as a manifestation of Shiva.
- Gomer Welsh
son of Japhet
He was said to be an ancestor of the Cymry who sailed with Ith when he came to Ireland.
- Gomez Spanish [Don Gomez]
father of Ximena
He insulted Diego Laynez and was killed by the old man's son, El Cid.
'gong-po' Tibetan early ancestors: miracle-workers (see also klu-rgyal-po)
- Gommateshvara Jain
[Bahubali.Gommatesvara] son of Rishabha
brother of Bharata
He fought with Bharata for supremacy and, having won, ceded the kingdom to his brother and did penance by standing for a year in the forest while plants of all descriptions grew over him and snakes kept him company.
- Gommatesvara (see Gommateshvara)
- Gomory (see Gemori)
- gompa Buddhist
a Buddhist monastery in Tibet
- gon-negi Japanese
a Shinto senior assistant priest
- Gon-Po Nag-Po (see Mgon-po)
- Gonamati Buddhist
[=Chinese Chu-ti Ho-shang.Tè-Hui]
one of the Eighteen Lohan
A very wise disciple of the Buddha, he is depicted seated under a tree.
- Gonaqade't North American
a sea-god of the Chilkat Indians
He may appear as a canoe, a fish or house rising from the waters.
He is depicted as having both arms and fins.
- Gondefer (see Goon Desert)
- Gondemar (see Andvari)
- Gondowah East Indian
a Sumatran maiden
She loved the hero Anggun Nan Tungga but disappeared when she became upset on hearing the tales told by a parrot of her beloved's many mistresses. Her jacket is said to have become a white monkey.
- Gondul Norse
an aspect of Freya as a Valkyrie
- Gonemans Welsh
a warrior
He trained Peredur in the use of arms and the arts of war.
- Goneril British
daughter of King Lear
sister of Cordelia and Regan
She and Regan, each given half of their father's kingdom, drove him mad and only Cordelia helped him, raising an army to depose her sisters but dying in the attempt.
- Gonge (see Gongen)
- Gongen Japanese [Gonge]
a name given to Shinto versions of the Buddha and to some deified heroes an avatar, incarnation or manifestation
- Gongen Sama (see Ieyasu)
- Gongola African
a king in Nigeria
The girl Jaliya had been seized by a river-serpent who lived in an underwater palace. When Gongola heard her singing, he had the river drained. The serpent flew off and Gongola married Jaliya.
- Gonosor British
a king of Ireland
On one occasion, he went to the aid of Canor, king of Cornwall, and Cornwall thereafter paid a tribute to Ireland. This stopped only when Tristram defeated Morholt.
- Gonzalez Spanish
[Martin Gonzalez]
a knight of Aragon
Ramiro, king of Aragon, was in dispute with Ferdinand and appointed Gonzalez as his champion to settle the matter, with El Cid fighting for Ferdinand. He was defeated when they met in single combat.
- Gonzuole African
in the lore of Liberia, the first woman
Although she lived alone on earth she bore many girls. In some accounts, she was captured by a chieftain, Utompe.
- Gooberen Persian
a demon, one of the Aristatiko-Pauligaur
- Good Archer, The (see I<sup>4</sup>)
- Good Creator (see Apap)
- Good Folk, The [Good Neighbours.Good People.
Little People]
the fairies (see also Faylinn)
- Good Goddess
(see Bona Dea.Demeter.Fauna)
- Good Neighbours (see Good Folk)
- Good People (see Good Folk)
- Good Running North American
a Blackfoot chief who adopted Long Arrow when he was abandoned by his tribe
- Good Striker, The (see Sucellus)
- goofang North American
a fabulous animal
- goofus bird North American
a fabulous bird
- Gooblebubbon Australian
the bustard personified
It is said that he played a trick on Dinewan the emu, as a result of which the bird lost its wings.
- Goon Desert British [Gondefer]
brother of the Fisher King
He had killed Espinogee and was himself killed by Espinogee's son, Partinal.
The sword with which Partinal killed Goon Desert shattered and its repair could be accomplished only by the knight who finally found the Holy Grail.
- Goonnear Australian
a snake, the evil counterpart of Biggarroo
It is said that the dead pass through his body to the world of unhappy spirits.
- goose<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the bird of Horus, Isis, Osiris and Seb
- goose<sup>2</sup> Celtic the bird of the goddess Epona
- Goose-god Siberian
an Ostyak deity of fate
This bird lives in a nest made of furs and skins built in the mountains.
- Gopa (see Yashodhara)
- Gopaka (see Gobaka)
- Gopal (see Gopala)
- Gopala Hindu
[Gopal]
a name for Krishna as a cowherd
- gopi<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a shepherdess
Krishna is said to have lured gopis

from their homes and loved ones by playing his magic flute. His favourite gopi was Radha.

Gopi<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of the 9 nathas

gopina Indian

the intricately carved tower over the gateway to a temple

Gopinath Hindu

a name for Krishna as lord of cowherds

Gora-Daileng Pacific Islands

god of the underworld of the Caroline Islanders

Goraknath Hindu

a protective god
an avatar of Shiva

Gorboduc British

a king of Britain
husband of Judon
father of Ferrex and Porrex

Gorddu (see Black Witch)

Gordian knot Greek

the knot with which Gordius tied his oxen to the cart

This strange knot of cornel bark defied all attempts to undo it until the problem was dramatically solved, centuries later, by Alexander who sliced through it with his sword.

Gordius Greek

king of Phrygia
husband of Cybele
father of Adrastus and Midas

In some accounts, the mother of Midas was Cybele and his father was Gorgias.

He started life as a peasant but was elected king when he unwittingly fulfilled the prophecy of an oracle by entering Temissus driving his ox-cart. The oxen were tied to his cart with what became known as the Gordian knot.

Gore<sup>1</sup> British

a kingdom adjoining Scotland
This realm was ruled by Bagdemagus or Urien and Morgan le Fay and was reached by an underwater route or by crossing a bridge as narrow as a sword blade. Only Lancelot could rescue any knight who entered the kingdom.

Gore<sup>2</sup> Slav

misfortune personified

Gore<sup>3</sup> (see Gwyar)

Goreu Welsh

a page at King Arthur's court son of Custennin

He was the only survivor of Custennin's twenty-four sons; the others had all been killed by Custennin's brother, the giant Ysbaddaden.

He accompanied Culhwch on his quest for the hand of Olwen. When all the conditions had been fulfilled, he killed Ysbaddaden and cut off his head, whereupon all his dead brothers were restored to life.

He is said to have rescued King Arthur from three prisons – the Castle of Oeth and Anoeth, the Castle of Pendragon and the Dark Prison under the Stone.

Gorgasus Greek

a physician
son of Machaon and Anticleia
brother of Alexanor and Nicomachus

Gorge Greek

daughter of Oeneus and Althaea wife of Andraemon mother of Thoas

Gorgo (see Medusa)

Gorgias Greek

father of Midas, in some accounts

Gorgon<sup>1</sup> African

a monster in Libya
This beast, which lived on poisonous plants, had a scaly body and long hair covering its face. If it raised its drooping head, its breath caused convulsions in anybody standing near.

Gorgon<sup>2</sup> (see Gorgons)

gorgoneion Greek

[chimaera.gorgoneum.gryll]
a mask of the hideous face of a gorgon

gorgoneum (see gorgoneion)

Gorgons Greek

3 snake-haired, winged female monsters
daughters of Phorcus and Ceto
sisters of the Graiae

A glance from these monsters, or at least from Medusa, could turn a man to stone. Their names were Euryale, Medusa and Stheno and only Medusa was mortal.

They lived in Cisthene and were depicted as having snakes for hair, tusks like a boar, beards, hands of brass and the hindquarters of a mare.

Gorgopa Greek

[Gorgopis]
a name of Athena as 'she of the fearful face' or 'Gorgon-faced'

Gorgophone Greek

daughter of Perseus and Andromeda
wife of Perieres
mother of Aphaeus and Leucippus
She later married Oebalus and bore Tyndareus and Icarus.

Gorgopis (see Gorgopa)

Gorgyra Greek

a nymph of the underworld mother of Ascalaphus by Acheron,
some say

Gorias Irish

one of the 4 cities said to be the original home of the Danaans
This was the city, ruled by Esras, from which Lugh got his magic sword or, in some versions, his lance.

Gorius British

a lord of Gallias
father of Loosepayne
He entertained Grahame when he was on his way to fight Grey-steel. Having suffered at the hands of this tyrant, Gorius was delighted when Grahame returned with news that Grey-steel was dead and gave him the hand of his daughter, Loosepayne.

Gorlagon British

King Arthur's pet wolf
He was originally a magician who had been turned into a wolf by his wife. When Arthur obtained the magic wand she had used, he was able to restore him to his human form.

Gorlois British

[Duke of Cornwall.Duke of Tintagel.
Gerlois:=Welsh Rica]
husband of Igraine
father of Dioneta, Elaine, Morgan le Fay and Morgause

On a visit to Uther's court he realised that Uther had designs on his wife, Igraine, so he locked her up in a tower. It was no use – Merlin changed Uther into the form of Gorlois and he was able to seduce her, fathering the boy Arthur. Gorlois had the baby thrown into the sea but it was rescued by Manannan the sea-god. Gorlois was killed in the fighting when Uther's army invaded Cornwall.

Gorm Glas Irish

the sword of Conor mac Nessa

Gormac Irish

a name of Bres as 'dutiful son'

Gormant British

son of Rica
brother of King Arthur, in
some accounts

Gormlaith Irish

wife of Brian Boru
sister of Maolmhordha

Gormund Irish

an African king
father of Gurmun, some say
In some accounts, he conquered Ireland and became king.

(see also Gurmun)

- Gornemant British [Gurnemans]
a Knight of the Round Table
a prince of Graherz father of Gurzgi, Lascoyt, Liaze
and Schenteflurs
He trained Percival in knightly pursuits and wanted him to marry his daughter Liaze but his hopes were never realised.
- Goronwy (see Gronw Pebyr)
gorramooloch Irish
a sea-monster
- Gorsedd Arberth Welsh
an enchanted mound near Pwyll's court
Anyone who sat on this mound would either suffer wounds or witness marvels. Pwyll was sitting there when Rhiannon arrived and it was here that Manawydan tried to hang the mouse that turned out to be Llywd's wife.
- gorska makva Bulgarian [=Russian nocnitsa]
a hideous hag of the woods
- Gortigern Irish
a language said to have been spoken by all races before the episode of the Tower of Babel
- Gortys Greek
son of Rhadamanthus
- Goru African
a dragon attendant on Hara Ke
- Gorvenal (see Gourvernail)
gosain (see guru)
goset Japanese
a dance of the cherry-blossom fairies
- Gosh (see Dervaspa)
Goshurun (see Geush Urvan)
Goshurvan (see Geush Urvan) Goshye-e South American
the king of the giants
In the lore of the Patagonian Indians, he was the giant killed by the culture-hero, El-lal, who turned himself into a gadfly and poisoned Goshye-e with his sting.
- Gosirsa Chinese
the Buddhist version of Niu-t'ou Gospel of the Witches [Aradia. Book of Shadows]
a book of demonology and witchcraft written by C G Leland and published in 1899
- Gosurvan Persian
an angel
In some accounts, Gosurvan is one of the Amesha Spentas. (see also Geush Urvan)
- Goswhit British ['goose-white']
King Arthur's helmet
- Gotama<sup>1</sup> Hindu
the Pali version of the Sanskrit Gautama
- Gotama<sup>2</sup> Hindu [Gautama]
one of The Seven Rishis
husband of Ahalya
When his wife was seduced by Indra he caused a thousand impressions of the female genitalia to appear on Indra's body or, in some accounts, caused the god to lose his testes. He punished his wife by making her lie in ashes, living only on air, until she was rescued by Rama, many years later.
He was the author of a code of laws.
- Gotegrim British
son of Garlin
brother of Guinevere, in
some accounts
He carried off his sister and proposed to kill her when she rejected the claim of Gasozein that she was his wife.
Gasozein rescued her from her brother's hands and Gawain fought with the impostor, defeated him and returned the queen to King Arthur.
- Gotelinde German
wife of Rudiger
mother of Dietelinde
- Gothi (see godi<sup>2</sup>)
Götterdämmerung<sup>1</sup> German [Twilight of the Gods]
the German name for Ragnarok
- Götterdämmerung<sup>2</sup>
(see Twilight of the Gods)
- Gottfried German
[Godfrey]
son of the Duke of Brabant
brother of Elsa
He and Elsa were the foster-children of Frederick and Ortrud who coveted the dukedom to which Gottfried was heir. Ortrud turned Gottfried into a swan and Frederick then accused Elsa of having murdered her own brother.
Lohengrin arrived on a swan, saved her from this danger and married her but left when she demanded to know his name. The swan that drew Lohengrin's boat was restored by the hero's prayers to the form of Gottfried who became the next duke of Brabant.
- Gou (see Gu)
Goub (see Ga-gorib)
gouger (see guyascutus)
Gourd Boy (see Fu-hsi)
Gourd Girl (see Nü Kua)
Gourgoune (see Ogoun)
Gourgourgahgah Australian
in Aboriginal lore, a bird which laughs to herald in the dawn
- Gourgune (see Ogoun)
Gourles British
a Cornishman, possibly the prototype of Gorlois
- Gourmaillon
(see Cormoran. Gogmagog)
Gouvernail European [Gorvenal. Go(u)vernal. Kurneval] a servant of Tristram
husband of Branwen
He took Tristram to Brittany to save him from his step-mother and later took him to the court of King Mark in Cornwall.
When Tristram went to Ireland to escort Isolde to King Mark's court, Gouvernail went with him and later killed Melot who betrayed to Mark the affair between Tristram and Isolde.
He married Branwen and became the king of Lyonesse.
(see also Kurneval)
- Gouveral (see Gouvernail)
Govannon Welsh
[Gofannon:=Irish Goibhniu]
a smith-god
son of Beli and Don brother of Amaethon and Aranrhod
He was the owner of the ploughshare that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen.
He accidentally killed his nephew,
Dylan.
- Govardhana (see Mount Govardhana)
Governal (see Gourvernail)
Govetter Norse
[Godvetter:=Lapp Guffitar]
a benevolent spirit of the forest or living underground
(see also Huldafolk)
- Govinda<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a name for Krishna as 'cow-finder'
- Govinda<sup>2</sup> (see Vahguru)
- Gower Welsh
part of the underworld
- Gowra (see Battle of Gabhra)
Gowther British
a hero of Arthurian romances whose wicked nature was cured by penance
- Gozanze-myoo Japanese
a terrible deity of the east
He is depicted with four faces and eight arms, standing with his right foot on Jizaiten and his left on Umahi's hand, against a background of flames.
(see also Acala<sup>2</sup>. Fudo-myoo)
- Gozu Tenno Japanese [Goze Tenwo]
a name for Susanowa or Buto as an ox-headed god of love and marriage

In this form, he was regarded as a manifestation of Bhaishajya.

Gozu Tenwo (see Gozu Tenno)

grail (see Holy Grail)

Grabbersnitch

the English version of Graffican

Grace O'Malley (see Granuaile)

Graces Greek

[Charit(i)es.Khariteis:=Roman Gratiae]

dawn goddesses

daughters of Zeus or Dionysus by

Aphrodite or Euronyme

These three, attendants on Aphrodite and Eros, are Aglaia (Splendour), Euphrosyne (Mirth) and Thalia (Good Cheer).

Originally there were two, Auxe and Hegemone, worshipped in Athens and two, Cleta and Phaenna, worshipped in Sparta. Other parts of Greece worshipped three – Aglaia, Pasithea and Peitho. Another, Cale, is sometimes referred to as one of this trio.

Gracia British

a niece of King Arthur (see also Graeria)

Gradasso European

a king of Sericune

He was one of the many knights enchanted by the fairy guarding the armour of Hector, the hero of Troy, and was required to fight all who might try to claim it. He was defeated by Mandricardo who took the armour. Gradasso accompanied him when he went to France as part of Agramant's army of invasion and disputed the right to bear the Trojan arms with Mandricardo and Rogero. The dispute was settled by Florismart who offered to lead them to Roland who had the sword Durindana, sought by Mandricardo. When Mandricardo got hold of the sword, which had been abandoned by Rogero during his period of madness, both Gradasso and Rogero disputed his right of possession. Agramant ordered a contest to settle the issue. Rogero, representing himself and Gradasso, fought and killed Mandricardo but the sword was awarded to Gradasso.

He later fought Rinaldo for the possession of Bayard but the fight was interrupted by a huge bird, conjured up by Malagigi, which attacked Bayard causing the horse to bolt. Gradasso followed and recovered the horse and, having achieved his objectives, returned to his own country. He met Agramant when the emperor withdrew from France and offered to help him in the relief of his capital, Biserta, which was besieged by Abyssinians led by Astolpho. He, Agramant and Sobrino challenged Roland, Oliver and Florismart to combat. The only survivors were Sobrino, Roland and Oliver. (see also Galafre)

Gradivus Roman

[=Greek Ares]

a name for Mars as leader of the Roman forces in battle

Gradlon European

[Gralon]

father of Ahes

Graecae (see Graiae)

Graeria British

a niece of King Arthur (see also Gracia)

Grafenberg, Wirnt von German

a 13th c writer, author of Wigalois

Graffican European

[Grabbersnitch]

a demon in Dante's Inferno

Grafvitnir Norse

a dwarf

father of Goin and Moin

Graha Hindu

['seizure']

an evil spirit

These beings are said to live in lakes and are responsible for eclipses of the moon. Some say that they can cause children to suffer from fits.

Grahamatrika Buddhist

a goddess

a form of the god Vairocana

Grahame British

a knight

husband of Loosepayne

His great friend Edgar tried to win the hand of Winlayne by fighting the fearsome knight, Grey-steel, but was defeated and returned wounded and in dishonour. Grahame managed not only to kill Grey-steel but so arranged things that Edgar was given the credit and was able to marry Winlayne.

En route to his encounter with Grey-steel in the Forbidden Island, Grahame had been entertained by Gorius, a lord who had suffered greatly at the hands of Grey-steel, and he fell in love with the lord's daughter, Loosepayne, whom he married when Edgar and Winlayne were wed. He was later killed in battle.

Grahapati Hindu

[Grhapati.Vispati]

a name of Surya as 'ruler of planets'

an aspect of Agni as 'lord of settlers'

Graiae Greek

[Graeae.Graii.Grey Women.Phorcides]

daughters of Phorcus and Ceto

sisters of the Gorgons

These sisters, named Deino, Enyo and Pemphredo, lived on the far side of Ocean and shared one eye and one tooth between them. Perseus seized this eye and returned it only when they gave him the directions, or the magic cap, shoes and bag, which he needed to locate the Gorgons. In some accounts, he was said to have thrown the eye away, leaving them blind.

grail (see Holy Grail)

Grail Castle (see Castle Carbonek)

Grail Keeper (see Grail King)

Grail King British

[Grail Keeper]

a succession of kings charged with keeping the Holy Grail

The list of these kings includes such names as Amfortas, the Fisher King, Frimutel, Helaius, and Pelles.

(see also Perlesvaus)

Grail Lance (see Holy Lance)

Grail Procession British

the procession seen by Percival

at Carbonek

The make-up of the procession is variously described but generally includes a maiden bearing the Holy Grail with attendant squires.

Grail Quest British

the search for the Holy Grail by the Knights of the Round Table

The quest ended only when Galahad and his companions, Bors and Percival, returned the grail and the Holy Lance to their rightful home in the Holy Land.

Grail Question British

a question to be asked by the true

knight of the Grail

When asked, this question, which took the form 'What is the Grail and whom does it serve?', healed the wounds of the Fisher King.

Grail Spear (see Holy Lance)

Grail Sword British

the sword of Partinal

This sword was made by Trebuchet. When Partinal used it to kill Goon Desert, it shattered. One of the objects of the Grail Quest involved its repair.

When Bors, Galahad and Percival arrived at Castle Carbonek, Eliazar, son of Pelles, brought in the broken sword which was repaired by Galahad after the other two had tried to mend it and failed.

Others say, it was the sword of David.

Grain Mother (see Demeter)

Grainne (see Grania)

Grallo British

a king of Ys
husband of Tigridia

In some accounts, he was an ancestor of King Arthur.

Gralon (see Gradlon)

Gram Norse

[Balmung.Gran.Sword of Need.Wrath]
the sword of Sigmund

This magic sword was made by Volund and was thrust into the oak, Branstock, in Volsung's hall, by Odin at the wedding of Siggeir and Signy. It could be withdrawn only by Sigmund. It was shattered by Odin and the pieces were collected by Sigmund's wife, Hiordis. They were later forged into a new blade by Regin at the behest of Sigmund's son, Sigurd.

In the Nibelungenleid, this weapon was given to Sigmund by Alberich.

(see also Balmung)

Gramadevata Hindu

[Matris.Thakurani]

local gods and goddesses responsible for boundaries, etc. (see also Amma.Dih)

gramary

[gramarye] enchantment or magic gramarye (see gramary)

grammadian (see swastika)

Gramoflanz British

[Gramoflaus]
husband of Itonje

He was the enemy of Orgelleuse, and when Gawain, at her behest, took a twig from a tree near his castle, he challenged Gawain to combat. Eight days later, his champion met Gawain by the palace of Klingsor and they fought. Gawain was saved by the pleas of his sister, Itonje, and the champion, who turned out to be Percival, spared him. Gramoflanz later married Itonje and Gawain married Orgelleuse.

Gramoflaus (see Gramoflanz)

Gran (see Gram)

Grand Batala (see Obtala)

Grand Bois West Indian

[Tree of Life]
a Haitian voodoo spirit

Grand Lama (see Dalai Lama)

Grandfather<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a name for Bhrama as the source of all living things

Grandfather<sup>2</sup> South American

a culture hero in Brazil

He was left in charge of some children while their parents were away hunting and took them up to heaven by climbing a tall tree which he then ordered the ants to fell. When the children tried to escape, the ropes they used were too short and they fell to the ground, leaving Grand-father in the sky.

He gave the tribe tobacco and extra women. Originally there was only one woman but Grandfather cut her into pieces and when the men returned from hunting, each found a woman in his hut.

Grandfather<sup>3</sup> (see Izoi-tamoi.Queuevet)

Grandfather Mystery North American

[Grandfather Spirit.Tunkashila]

a creator-spirit of the Sioux

Grandfather of Worms

(see Izoi-tamoi)

Grandfather Power

(see Unknowingly)

Grandfather Spirit

(see Grandfather Mystery)

Grangousier British

[Grangousier]

a giant
husband of Gargamelle
father of Gargantua

It was said that Merlin created this being from whales' bones and the blood of Lancelot.

Grandmother<sup>1</sup> North American

a supernatural being

She found a clot of blood lying on a path and covered it with a jar. It developed into a baby which she raised as Orphan Boy.

Grandmother<sup>2</sup>

(see Ma-tsu-p'o.Mbuya.Toci)

Grandmother Earth North American

[Unci]

a creator-spirit of the Sioux

Grandmother, The North American

a spirit of the Pueblo tribes

Grandmother Turtle North American

in the lore of the Cheyenne, the turtle on whose back the creator built the world from mud

Grandoigne (see Grandonio)

Grandonio European

[Grandoigne]

a king of Spain

He was in the battle at Roncesvalles where he killed Sansonet but was himself killed by Roland.

Grane Norse

[Grani.Greyfell]

the horse of Sigurd or Siegfried which was descended from Sleipnir

Grangousier (see Grandgousier)

Grani<sup>1</sup> Norse

one of the men with Flosi when they killed the Njalssons and burnt their house

Grani<sup>2</sup> (see Grane)

Grania Irish

[Grainne.Greine.Grianna]

the beloved of Finn mac Cool daughter of Cormac mac Airt sister of Cairbre
mother of Eachtach, some say

At the wedding feast when she was to be married to Finn mac Cool, she drugged the guests and eloped with Dermot rather than marry the aging Finn. Finn and his Fianna pursued them for sixteen years and then Angus Og persuaded Finn to forgive the young couple. She bore four sons and a daughter to Dermot.

After the death of Dermot, which Finn could have averted but refused, she trained her sons to kill Finn but in the end she married him.

Granicus Greek

a river-god

Grannos (see Grannus)

Grannus Celtic

[Grannos]

a sun-god and god of healing and mineral springs in Gaul husband of Sirona

Granny Irish

a name for the Cailleach in parts of Northern Ireland

Granta British

a nymph

The giant Gogmagog fell in love with Granta and, when she rejected him, changed into a large hill.

Grantorto British

a giant in The Faerie Queene

He captured Irena who was then rescued by Arthgallo who killed her captor.

Granuaile Irish

[Grace O'Malley]
(1530-1603)

a sea-faring heroine

She led a fleet against the British and was said to keep her own ship tied to her big toe when it was in port.

Granwen Welsb

son of Llyr

Graphael (see Graphiel)

Graphiel Hebrew

[Graphael]

one of the 7 Intelligences, ruler of the planet Mars

Grass-cleaving Sword (see Kusanagi)

Grass-mower (see Kusanagi)

Grasshopper North American

a Choctaw spirit
daughter of Grasshopper Mother

Grasshopper Girl North American

a Navaho spirit

At creation, she and Pollen Boy were placed on Mount San Juan.

Grasshopper Mother North American

a Choctaw spirit
mother of Grasshopper

When the Choctaws emerged from underground at Nanih Waya, she was killed by some of the tribe who failed to reach the upper world.

Grasshopper People North American

the people of the Yellow World

During their ascent from the nether world, the Navaho passed through several worlds, including the Yellow World. They offended the Grasshopper People by seducing their wives and were forced to move up to the next world.

Grastian British

a French knight

He was left in charge when Bors and Ban brought their armies to Britain to help King Arthur in his battles with the rebellious barons.

Grataie Roman

the Roman version of the Graces

Gratile British

in some accounts, mother of Grimal
by Evelake

Gratation Greek

[Gratium]

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

He was killed by Artemis during the battle between the Giants and the gods.

Gratium *(see Gratation)Gravain British

son of Gorlois and Igraine and brother of Gawain and Owain,
in some accounts

Gravidus Roman

[=Greek Ares]

a name of Mars as leader of the Roman legions in battle

grayle *(see Holy Grail)Graymalkin *(see Grimalkin)Grdhrasya Buddhist

a minor goddess

Grdhrakrita Buddhist

[=Japanese Ryojusen]
a future heaven

greal Welsh

the magic brew that Ceridwen made in her cauldron, Amen,
for her son, Avagddu

Great Ancestor South American

a vaguely defined supreme spirit of some tribes (see also Powerful One<sup>2</sup>)

Great Ascetic *(see Mahayogi)Great Awabi Japanese

[Awabi]

a sea-god in the form of a huge earshell

When the fisherman, Kansuke, came to investigate a bright light rising from the sea, he fell into the water and sank. His son, Matakichi, failed to find him; he had been eaten by the Great Awabi. Matakichi became a disciple of a priest and together they prayed for the soul of Kansuke, whereupon the spirit of the Great Awabi appeared to the priest and confessed what had happened and then killed himself, giving instructions that the huge pearl inside him should be given to Matakichi.

Great Bear

[Arthur's Wain.Charles' Wain.

Harrow.Himmel Wagon.Karl's

Wagon.Ploughing Oxen.The (Big)

Dipper. The Plough.The Wagoner.Ursa

Major. Wain Harrow]

a constellation in the northern sky

(1) The Arabs call the constellation Al Akbar or Al ubh.

(2) In Central America, Nahua myths regard the constellation as Tezcatlipoca, as Ocelotl, falling out of the sky into the sea.

(3) The Chinese call it the Bushel (= measure of grain), regarded as the throne of Shang-ti and a symbol of longevity, or Pei-tou or Ch'i-chiang regarded as the emperor's chariot.

(4) In Greek myths it was the never-sleeping guardian of the universe or a form of Callisto.

(5) Hebrews, in ancient times, called the constell-ation Dobh (bear).

(6) In Hindu lore the seven stars of the Plough are the Seven Rishis.

(7) The Inuit say that this was a real bear which took to the skies to escape hunters who, in following it, were turned into the Pleiades.

(8) The Mongols refer to the Great Bear as the god of thieves since the original six stars stole one of the Pleiades to make the seven.

(9) In North America, the Plains Indians refer to the Great Bear as Mishe-Mokwa and say that it was killed by Mudjekeewis.

Other tribes say that three hunters follow the bear and, when they kill it, the world will come to an end.

(10) The Persians call this constellation Hapto-iringa and regard it as the leader of the northern quarter.

(11) In Siberia, the seven stars are wolves pursuing the seven horses of the Little Bear. If they catch the horses, the world will come to an end. In some versions, the wolves are reindeer.

(12) Other stories have the Pole
Star as the hunter and the Great Bear as a stag and, once again, the death of the hunted signals the end of the world. Yet another story says that the seven stars are seven skulls thrown into the sky after they had been used as cups.

Great Beast, The<sup>1</sup>

book of magic by Aleister Crowley, published in 1915

Great Beast, The<sup>2</sup> *(see Crowley)Great Beginning, The

(see T'ai Shih)

Great Black Gahé *(see Gahé)Great Black Lord *(see Kalamahakala)Great Blue Gahé *(see Gahé)Great Boar *(see Kamapua'a)Great Book, The British

a book of magic in the Channel Islands

Great Bull *(see Dama Ngile)Great Bull of Heaven

(see Bull of Heaven)

Great Cackler Egyptian

[Great Chatterer.Nile Goose]

a name of Geb in the form of a goose

Great Canoe South American

a stockade

The Mandan hero, Lone Man, built this stockade to save his people from the flood. (see also Maninga)

Great Cat *(see Sakhmet)Great Cataclysm *(see Mahapralaya)Great Change, The *(see T'ai I)Great Chatterer *(see Great Cackler)Great Chief Above

(see Whee-me-me-ow-ah)

Great Company of Gods

(see Ennead)

Great Daedala Greek

a festival in honour of Zeus and Hera

Great Dionysia *(see City Dionysia)Great Eagle North American

a water-spirit of the Pima tribe

He was an enemy of Earthmaker and preyed on the humans created by him.
When he sent the flood to destroy the world, only Szeuka survived. This son of Earthmaker fought and killed Great Eagle and restored human life.

Great Father<sup>1</sup> Australian
a name for the rainbow serpent as a creator and fertility god

Great Father<sup>2</sup>
(see Bhraspati.Dagda)

Great First One
(see Mkulumncande)

Great First, The (see T'ai Ch'u)

Great Fool, The British
son of the Knight of the Fair Country, a nephew of King Arthur

He became a great warrior, defeating many famous knights including Gawain.

Great Foot Pestle (see Oho-usu)

Great Frog<sup>1</sup> North American
some tribes regard this animal as a rain-bringer

Great Frog<sup>2</sup> (see frog<sup>1</sup>)

Great Goat (see Leonard)

Great God
(see Dagda.Mahadeva.Reshpu)

Great Goddess
a name given to an important (sometimes supreme) goddess in many cultures

This name is used for such deities as Dorje, Hera, Juno, Mahadevi, Neith, Nerrivik and Sedna.

In some South American tribes, the Great Goddess is said to have mated with dogs and produced dog-spirits.
(see also Palace Goddess)

Great Goddesses (see Two Goddesses)

Great Gugulana (see Gugulana)

Great Hand (see Hunab)

Great Hare North American [Cottontail.Hare.Mahtigwess.Rabbit]
a trickster-god

This deity appears in the lore of many Algonquian tribes under such names as Gluskap, Manabush, Manabozho, Messou, Michabo, Nanabozho and Wabus.

(see also White Hare)

Great Hawk North American [Tlanuwa]

a bird which helped the Navaho to reach the upper world

Great Hawk was said to have clawed a small opening in the sky through which the Navaho were able to escape after it had been enlarged by Locust.

Great Head North American
a storm-god of the Seneca people

He was envisaged as a large head carried on two legs and was said to live on blocks of maple wood.

He helped a young Seneca to kill the witch who had killed the boy's nine brothers and, when he next passed over in a storm, he restored the dead brothers to life.

Great Heavenly Princes Chinese
the 7 chief ministers of the celestial Ministry of Exorcism, Ch'u Hsieh Yüan.

Great-Holy-Fire-Above
(see Ababinili)

Great Huntsman, The European
[The Great Huntsman of Fontainebleu]
the French name for the Wild Huntsman

Great Immortal (see Huang Ta-hsien)

Great King (see Pa Ch'a)

Great Lady of the Night (see Hina')

Great Learning (see Ta Hsüeh)

Great Lion Mesopotamian
one of the Eleven Mighty Helpers created by Tiamat

Great Man (see Chareya)

Great Manito (see Great Spirit)

Great Manitou (see Great Spirit)

Great Mare, The (see Epona)

Great Medicine North American
a name for the creator-spirit of the Cheyenne

Great Monad Chinese a primordial being

This entity split to form Yin and Yang. These split further to form four deities which gave rise to Pan-ku, the first man.
(see also T'ai I)

Great Mother<sup>1</sup> Australian
a primeval goddess of the Aborigines. She repeatedly swallowed and regurgitated young men.

Great Mother<sup>2</sup> [Queen Bee]
a name used in many cultures for a (mother-) goddess

This name is used for such deities as Ama-arhus, Cybele, Damkina, Hathor, Isis, Magna Mater, Nekhbet, Nina and Tiamat.

The Akkadians knew her as Ishtar, the Babylonians as Mylitta, Nina or Tasmetu, the Armenians as Anahit, the Canaanites as Anat; to the Cilicians she was Ate or Ateh, to the Greeks, Aphrodite or Ma, to the Phoenicians she was Astarte or Bau, to the Romans she was Venus and to the Sumerians she was Baba, Mai or Mamitu.

In Europe, the Great Mother is often in the plural and variously known as Dervonae, Mairae, Matrae, Matronae, Matres, Niskae, Proximae and Quadrivae. The Welsh refer to them as Mamau.

Great Mountain (see Enlil)

Great Mystery<sup>1</sup> North American
a creator-spirit of the Papago

Great Mystery<sup>2</sup> (see Wakan Tanka)

Great Negro
a black prince

This being is described as eight feet tall, with three horns, and is said to appear at sabbat. In some accounts, he is the same as the demon, Leonard.

Great Night of Lord Shiva
(see Mahashivaratri)

Great One<sup>1</sup> African
the name of the creator-god in the Zulu story of creation

He came out of the earth with the sun and the moon, which he placed in the sky, and then created the tribes.

Great One<sup>2</sup> (see El Khidi)

Great Peacock Lady
(see Mahamayuri)

Great Plain, The
(see Land of the Dead'.Mag Mor)

Great Pole, The (see T'ai Chi)

Great Pool (see Dzivaguru<sup>2</sup>)

Great Primordial (see T'ai Su)

Great Prince (see Orobas)

Great Protector (see Maruka Akore)

Great Rainbow Snake
(see Rainbow Snake)

Great Roaring Thunder North American
an assistant of the Cheyenne creator-spirit, Maheo

Great Queen (see Rhiannon)

Great Sabbat (see Sabbat) Great Seer of the Hammer
(see God of the Axe)

Great Serpent (see Acan<sup>1</sup>)

Great Shark
(see Tumi-i-te-Are Toka)

Great Shepherd, The (see Yima)

Great Snake (see KleestoMaboya)

Great Sorcerer (see Mut)

Great Speaker (see Apurimac)

Great Sphinx (see Sphinx)

Great Spider Australian
a sky-deity of the Aborigines

Great Spirit<sup>1</sup> North American [Great Manito(u).Kitanitowit]
a name used for the supreme deity or creator-god by many tribes

This name is used for deities such as Gitchi Manitou, Ketchimanetowa, Kisha Manido, Kitshi Manitou, Maho Penekheka, Maiyun, Shilup Chito Osh, Sibü, Atius-Tirawa and Wakonda.

Great Spirit<sup>2</sup> (see Adonai)

Great Spirit Springs
(see Windfall Run)

Great Star North American

in the lore of the Pawnee, the planet Venus as the morning star personified

Great Tellings (see Ich-kanava)Great Tor (see Author)Great Tornak (see Tornasuk)Great Thing (see Pembá)Great Thunderbird North American
chief of the Thunderbirds

He, together with three other elders, was responsible for guarding the nest holding the eggs from which all other Thunderbirds were hatched. He was also the guardian of the west and was said to be so large that he could eat whales whole.

Great Triad (see tortoise<sup>1</sup>)Great Turtle North American
in the lore of the Iroquois, the turtle on which the earth is supported

A tree dropped from heaven into the primordial waters, followed by the beautiful Awenhai. The swans saved her from drowning and reported to Great Turtle who ordered diving birds and animals to dive on the spot where the tree fell and bring up some earth. Several animals died in the attempt but the toad finally succeeded. This soil, spread on Great Turtle's back, grew to form an island large enough to support Awenhai and kept growing until it became the present earth.

Great Watch (see Hueytozoztli)Great White Gahe (see Gahe)Great White Mountain Korean
the place where Hwanung landed when he descended from heavenGreat Upholder (see Tarenyawagon)Great Vehicle (see Amitabha)Great White Brotherhood Hindu
the spirits of dead mahatmas who supposedly passed messages to mediums such as Madame BlavatskyGreat White God (see Sitamahakala)Great Wolf (see Amarok)Great Xolotl (see turkey)Great Yellow Gahe (see Gahe)Great Yü (see Yü<sup>2</sup>)Grec Irish

a warrior of Connaught

He saved the infant Cormac mac Airt from a pack of wolves.

greegree (see grisgris)Green Carpet (see Flying Carpet)Green Chapel British

the place where Gawain met the Green Knight to offer himself in the beheading contest

Green Children British

a boy and a girl with green skin
These two children, found wandering would eat only green food and spoke an unknown language. The boy soon died but the girl lived to become a normal woman.

Green Demon Malay
a plague-demon

This monster, with the head of a snake on a body of green vapour, causes boils, plagues, sores, and other diseases. The Golden Tortoise, however, owns a magic flute which, when blown by the king, can cause a gentle breeze which blows away the disease.

Green-feathered Serpent (see Quetzalcoatl)Green Jade Lake (see Lake of Gems)Green Knight, The<sup>1</sup> British [Bercelak.Bercilak de Hautdesert.
Bernlake.Bertilak]
an unknown knight

He arrived unheralded at Camelot one Christmas, dressed all in green and riding a green horse, and challenged Arthur's knights to a beheading contest. Gawain accepted the challenge and cut off the interloper's head. The Green Knight merely replaced it and rode off, renewing the challenge for a year later at the Green Chapel. En route to that meeting, Gawain was entertained by Bercilak whose wife twice tried in vain to seduce Gawain. He did, however, accept a green sash from the lady. At the chapel, the axe was swung three times – twice reflecting Gawain's resistance to temptation: it stopped short of his neck; the third stroke inflicted only a very slight wound, reflecting his acceptance of the sash. The man wielding the axe turned out to be Bercilak and the whole episode was one of the destructive ploys of Morgan le Fay.

Green Knight, The<sup>2</sup> European a pagan knight
uncle of Clermond

He wanted to marry Fezon but was defeated by Orson who claimed her as his wife.

Green Knight, The<sup>3</sup> British a 16th c version of the story of Gawain's encounter with the Green KnightGreen Knight, The<sup>4</sup> (see Pertolepe)Green Lord (see Ch'ing Ti)Green Man<sup>1</sup> European an early vegetation god now represented by a face with foliage emerging from the mouth

Green Man<sup>2</sup> (see Khadir)Green One, The (see Khadir)Green Parrot Girls Australian

consorts of the Rainbow
Snake, Kunmanggur

Green Serpent European
the magical boat used by UrgandaGreen Tara Buddhist

[Tara Dharani.Tara Utála:
=Tibetan sGrol-Ilang]

a Tibetan queen who was regarded as an incarnation of Tara in Nepal wife of Song-tsen Gam Po

She was originally a Nepalese princess, Bhrkuti-Tara, who married the Tibetan warrior-king and was recognised as an incarnation of Syamatará.

In this form, Tara acts as guardian during the night.

She is depicted as holding a book and a rosary.

Greenan Castle British

a site in Scotland suggested as the site of Camelot

Gregorius European

[Grigors]

a bastard who became a pope

Born of the incestuous relationship of a brother and sister, the baby was set adrift in a boat and was found, three days later, by a fisherman. The boy was named Gregorius, reared by monks and, when he learned of his origins, set out to become a knight. In one adventure, he routed the besiegers of a castle and married the queen who lived there, only to find that he had married his own mother. In despair, he had himself chained to a rock in the sea and threw the key into the water.

Seventeen years later, on the death of the pope, the key was found in the throat of a fish, Gregorius was freed and became pope to the sound of church bells ringing of their own volition.

Gregory, Isabella Augusta Irish
(1852-1932)

author of Cuchulain of Muirthemne

She was born Isabella Augusta Persse and became Lady Gregory when she married Sir William Gregory. After his death, she immersed herself in Irish mythology.

Greid Welsh

son of Eri

He owned the dog Drudwyn that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get to help in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Greidal (see Greidwl)

Greidawl (see Greidwl)

Greidwl Welsb

[Greida(w)l.Gwreidawl]

father of Gwythyr

Greine (see Grania)

Greip Norse

daughter of Geirrod by Ran, some say

sister of Gialp

second wife of Ivald, some say

When Thor visited her father, she and her sister Gialp crawled under Thor's chair and tried to crush him against the ceiling. Thor, using the staff given to him by Grid, forced the chair down against them and crushed them both to death.

She was one of the nine wave-maidens said simultaneously to have produced Heimdall, fathered by Odin. Others say that she was the mother of Fenia and Menia.

Greissmodel

an evil demon

Greit Welsb

a deity or hero held in an underground prison

Gregloguevaus British

the father of Percival in some French stories

gremlin

[female=Dingbelle]

a spirit causing mechanical trouble

Grendel Anglo-Saxon

a half-human monster

son of Eager, some say

This man-eating monster, which, in some accounts, was a descendant of Cain, lived under a lake and was invulnerable to normal weapons. It frequently raided the castle of Hrodgar, the king of Denmark, who called in Beowulf who trapped it and fought it. In the struggle, Grendel broke free of Beowulf's grip and tore off its arm, causing a wound from which it later died. When the monster's mother tried to avenge Grendel's death, Beowulf killed her and decapitated both with a magic sword.

Grep Norse

the 3 sons of the giant, Beli

Grerr Norse

a dwarf

He was one of the four dwarfs that Freya was said to have slept with in order to get the magical necklace, Brisिंगamen.

Gressil

a demon

Grettir Norse

a warrior

A giant troll-woman seized Grettir and, after a long fight, dragged him into the river. He cut off her arm and she fell backwards into the water and drowned. In another adventure, he opened the barrow of the dead Karr who was haunting the locality, removed much treasure and cut off Karr's head. He also fought the dead Glam who was causing havoc in the area, cut off his head and buried the body.

Grey Cow (see Glas Gabnach)

Grey Dog (see Sceolan)

Grey God (see Tonenili)

Grey Horse Welsb

a devil

Grey Lady, The British

a ghost

She is said to haunt the site in Wales known as Moel Arthur to protect the king's treasure.

Grey of Macha Irish

[Liat Macca.Liath Macha]

a horse of Cuchulainn

This was one of the two horses born at the same time as Cuchulainn. It is said to have shed tears of blood when being prepared for Cuchulainn's final battle and, in that fight, although wounded by a spear thrown by Erc, killed eighty warriors before it was finally overcome. The other horse was Black of Sainglenn.

Grey One North American

the most powerful of the Gae

Grey-steel<sup>1</sup> British

a fearsome knight

He lived on Forbidden Island and defended it against all comers, either killing them or sending them away humiliated by the loss of one little finger. He treated Edgar in this way when the young knight tried to win the hand of Winlayne by killing the tyrant. Edgar's great friend, Grahame, avenged the defeat of his comrade by killing Grey-steel in single combat and he so arranged matters that the credit for this success was given to Edgar.

Grey-steel<sup>2</sup> Norse

a sword owned by Koll

Grey Washer by the Ford

(see Washer by the Ford)

Grey Wolf North American

a god of the tribes of the north-west

He appeared at creation and was placed on Mount Shasta as a guardian god.

Grey Women (see Graiae)

Greyfell (see Grane)

Grhapati (see Grahapati)

Gri-bdog Tibetan

[Di-do]

10 demons armed with knives

Gri-gum Tibetan

a divine king

It was foretold that he would die in combat despite being linked by a cord to heaven. He fought a palace groom, Lo-nGam, and, having inadvertently cut the divine cord, was killed.

Grian<sup>1</sup> Irish

daughter of Finn mac Cool

Grian<sup>2</sup> (see Grianainech)

Grianainech (see Grianainech)

Grianainech Irish

[Grianainech.Grian(eces)]

a name of Ogma as 'sunny-face' or 'poet of the sun'

Grianecces (see Grianainech)

Grianna (see Grania)

Grid Norse

[Gird]

a giantess and magician

a wife of Odin

mother of Vidar

When Thor visited Geirrod unarmed, she warned him to beware of treachery and lent him her belt, glove and staff.

Gridaivold Norse

the magic wand of Grid

Griemhild (see Grimhild)

Griessmodal

an evil spirit in the form of a spaniel

griffa Irish

a huge bird said to have attacked

Brendan on one of his voyages

(see also griffin)

griffin<sup>1</sup> African [griffon.gripe.gryfon.gryphon.

gryps.gryphs]

a monstrous bird

The Berbers say that the Ormaddu, a huge bird, mates with a female wolf to produce this monster which splits its mother apart when she gives birth.

griffin<sup>2</sup> Greek

[griffon.gripe.gryfon.gryphon

gryps.gryphs]

a monster with the body of a lion and the beak and wings of an eagle

In some versions its two front legs were those of an eagle, in others (the opinicus) all four feet were those of a lion.

This monster guarded the stream flowing with gold against the Arimaspi. Griffins were said to build their nests of gold and lay eggs made of agate.

It was regarded as the animal of Apollo or Nemesis and, later, of the Roman Empire.

Griffith British

a king of Wales
He obtained the throne by killing Caradoc and sent Caradoc's children, Meriadoc and Orwen, to be killed but the men charged with the task let them live. When he grew up, Meriadoc deposed Griffith with the help of King Arthur.

Other accounts say that Caradoc died of shock when Caswallawn usurped the throne.

Griffon<sup>1</sup> European

son of Oliver
brother of Aquilant

griffon<sup>2</sup> (see griffin)

Griflet British

[Girflet.Gryflet]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Do

brother of Galentivet and Lorete

When Pellimore killed Miles, Griflet challenged him but was defeated and badly wounded.

In some accounts, it was Griflet, rather than Bedivere, who was with King Arthur at the end and threw Excalibur back into the lake. In this version, he became a hermit and died soon afterwards. Others equate him with Jaufré.

grigri (see grisgris)

Grigorss (see Gregorius)

Grihaspati Hindu

a name for Agni as Lord of the House

Grihastha (see brahmin)

Grillon European

a soldier with Charlemagne's army
He was decapitated by Cloridan who, with Medoro, penetrated the Frankish camp by night to avenge the death of their leader, Dardinel, who had been killed by Rinaldo.

Grim<sup>1</sup> British

a fisherman
He found the young Havelock, who had been cast adrift, and reared him as his own son.

Grim<sup>2</sup> British

a pagan deity

Grim<sup>3</sup> British

a giant in Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress

Grim<sup>4</sup> Norse

[Grimur]
a giant brother of Sigenot
husband of Hilde

He had a magic sword, Nagelring, which was stolen by Elbegast. The dwarf gave it to Dietrich who used it to kill both Grim and his wife who had ravaged Dietrich's lands.

Other stories say that this sword, Nagelring, was made by Elbegast.

Grim<sup>5</sup> Norse

son of Njal and Bergthora
brother of Helga, Helgi, Skarp-Hedin and Thorgerd

He died, with the rest of the Njalsson clan, when they were trapped in their house, Bergthor-sknoll, which was burnt to the ground by Flosi and his men.

Grim<sup>6</sup> (see Wodan.Woden)

Grimal British

son of Evelake by Floree or Gratille brother of Eliezer

Grimalkin

[Graymalkin]
a witch's familiar in the form of a cat:
a demon

Grimanesa European

wife of Apollidon

Grimbart European

[Duke Grimbeert.Grymbert]
the badger in Reynard the Fox
nephew of Reynard

He spoke in favour of his uncle when all the other animals accused him of one misdeed or another and was sent to summon him to the king's court after both Brown and Hintze had failed in the attempt.

Grimbeert European

the name for Grimbart in Dutch versions of Reynard the Fox

Grimhild Norse

[Griemhild.Grimild.Krimhild] wife of Giuki
mother of Gudrun, Gunnar, Guttorm and Hogni

She was queen of the Niblungs and a witch who could cast spells and brew magic potions. She gave one such drink to Sigurd, when he came to the king's court, to make him forget Brunhild and fall in love with Gudrun. She supplied another brew to Gunnar which enabled him to exchange identities with Sigurd so that the latter could woo Brunhild for Gunnar.

Later, when Gudrun had left with her daughter, Swanhild, to live with Elf, Atli demanded compensation for the death of his sister Brunhild, prompting Grimhild to administer another potion to Gudrun which caused her to agree to marry Atli whom she hated.

In the Nibelungenlied, she appears as Krimhild. (see also Krimhild)

Grimild Norse

the name of Grimhild in Thidrekssaga
In this version, she was killed by Thidrek who cut her in half with his sword.

Grimmr (see Grimmir)

Grimner (see Grimmir)

Grimnir Norse

[Grimmr.Grimner.Hooded One]
a name used by Odin at Geirrod's court

Grimnismal Norse

[The Lay of Grimmir]
the story in the Elder Edda of Odin, as Grimmir, and his visit to Geirrod

grimoire

a book of magic spells used to call up spirits

Grimthann (see Criomhthann)

Grimur (see Grim<sup>2</sup>)

Gringalet (see Gringolet)

Gringolet British

[Gringalet=Welsh Kincaled]

a horse of Gawain

In some accounts, the horse was given to Gawain by King Arthur, in others he won it from Escanor le Grand or from King Clarion.

Grinnus Greek

a king of Thera

He was told by the Delphic oracle to build a city in Lybia but, claiming to be too old, he passed the duty on to Battus.

Griottunagard Norse

the realm of Hrungrnir

It was here that a duel took place between Thor and the giant Hrungrnir.

gripe (see griffin)

Griper (see Gripir)

Gripir Norse

[Griper]

the groom in charge of the horses of the king of the Vikings brother of Hiordis

Grisandole British

the name used by Avenable when disguised as a youth at Caesar's court

grisgris African

[greegree.grigri]
a charm: an amulet: a spell

Grislet British

a Knight of the Round Table, in some accounts

Grismadevi Buddhist

[=Tibetan dByar-gyi-rgyal-ma]

a goddess of summer

one of the attendants of Sri

She is sometimes depicted as having the head of an animal.

Grismodal

a demon

Gritachi Hindu
one of the ApsarasasGritsa Hindu
a name of Kama as ‘the sharp’Gro Mama South American [Aida.Asase.Awanaisa.Mama fo Dou.
Mama fo Gro.Waisa:=African Asa’ase]
a mother-goddess of the Paramaribo people of SurinamThis being is the tutelary goddess of children and is invoked at childbirth.
Her name is never spoken but can be used in various forms in song.Groa Norse [Groad]

a giantess and sorceress

sister of Signe-Alveig

husband of Orvandil

mother of Hedding and Svipdag

mother of Gudhorn by Halfdan

mother of Orvandil, in some accounts

After the duel with Hrungrir, Thor was left with a piece of flint embedded in his forehead. Groa recited runes that started to extract it but when Thor told her that he had rescued Orvandil, her husband (or son), she forgot where she was in the recital and was unable to complete the removal of the flint.She was abducted by her brother-in-law, Halfdan, who fathered on her a son, Gudhorn.Groa Galdur Norse
[(The Magic) Lay of Groa-Galdur]
a collection of spells in the *Elder EddaGroad *(see Groa)Grocland British

a polar island, possibly Greenland

It was said that King Arthur conquered this island where the native population were over twenty feet tall. Many of his men (4000 in some accounts) never returned from expeditions to the north pole.Gromer<sup>1</sup> British a knight of King Arthur’s courtHe had been changed by a wizard into the form of a Turk. He and Gawain killed the king of the Isle of Man and Gromer took over as ruler of the island. He was restored to his proper shape when Gawain decapitated him.Gromer<sup>2</sup> *(see Gromersomer Joure)Gromersomer Joure British

[Gromer.Gromore Somir Jaure]

a robber-baron of Cannock Chase

He asked travellers a riddle and killed them if they failed to answer correctly.

When King Arthur was lost on the Chase and was given shelter by the outlaw, he was asked ‘What do women want most?’ An old crone, who turned out to be Joure’s sister, Ragnell, gave him the answer – ‘Their own way’.Gromore Somir Jaure *(see Gromersomer Joure)Gromovit Serbian [Gromovnik:=Slav Peroon]
a thunder-godGromovnik *(see Gromovit)Gronois *(see Gronosis)Gronosis British [Gronois] son of KayGronw Bebyr *(see Gronw Pebyr)Gronw Pebyr Welsh[Goronwy.Gronw Bebyr.Gronwy Pebyr] a chieftain: a hunterHe was the lover of Blodeuedd, the non-human wife of Llew. The lovers planned to kill Llew but Gronw succeeded only in wounding Llew who escaped in the form of an eagle. When Llew was restored, by the magic of Gwydion, to human form, he sought out Gronw and killed him.Gronwy Pedbyr (see Gronw Pebyr)
Grottasong Norse[Grottasongr.Grotti Song.Quern Song] the story of Frodi and the magic millstones known as Grotte, in the *Younger EddaGrottasongr *(see Grottasong)Grotte Norse [Grotti.World Mill]
the magic millstones given to Frodi
and worked by the two giantesses
Fenia and Menia
*(see also Hengi-Kiaptr)Grotti *(see Grotte)Grotti Song *(see Grottasong)Ground-heat Girl North American
a Navaho maiden wife of the first manGrove Festival *(see Nemoralia)Grove of Magicians Welsh [Cell-y-Dewiniaid]
a stand of oak trees in WalesIt is said that this site was used by Vortigern and his counsellors as a meeting-place.Grub-chen Buddhist the Tibetan version of Mahasiddhagruacach Scottish

[gruagach.The Hairy One]

a monster: an ogre: a brownie: a household goddess: an Otherworld wizard

Gruadh Irish

daughter of a king of Antioch

She was pursued by a giant and went to Cuchulainn for help. Despite his protection, the giant carried her off and Cuchulainn followed them overseas, killing the giant and freeing his captive.gruagach<sup>1</sup> Irish a wizard-warriorgruagach<sup>2</sup> *(see gruacach)Gruddieu British

[Grudye(n)]

a warrior in Bran’s army

son of Muryel

He was one of only seven to return from Bran’s expedition to Ireland to rescue his sister, Branwen, from Matholwch.Grudye *(see Gruddieu)Grudyn *(see Gruddieu)Grugyn Welsh

a young boar, offspring of

Twrch Trwyth

Gruibhne Irish

a warrior of Munster

He was one of the three captives ransomed by Conall Corc and then went to Scotland. When Conall was sent to Scotland by the king of Munster who believed that Conall had tried to seduce his wife, the king sent the Pictish king a coded message asking him to kill Conall. Gruibhne was able to repay Conall by changing the message with the result that the Fearadhach, the king of the Picts, welcomed Conall and allowed him to marry his daughter.Grumbo British

a giant in the story of Tom Thumb

Grumedan British

a knight

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.Gryflet *(see Griflet)gryfon *(see griffin)gryllia talisman in the form of a chimaera or griffin *(see also gorgoneion)Grymbert *(see Grimbert)Gryn British

a gatekeeper at King Arthur’s palace

gryphon *(see griffin)gryphs *(see griffin)gryps *(see griffin)gSan Sgrub Tibetan

a Bon god

He was merged with Yama in Lamaism.

gSang-ba Tibetan

Bon deities

gShen-Lha-Odkhar Tibetan

a Bon creator-god

He descended from the Tushita heaven in the form of a blue bird and was reborn on earth from his mother's right armpit. He then learned the art of magic and was able to manipulate bodies so that one became several or several united to form one.

gShen-Rabs Tibetan

[gShen-Rap.Mi-bo]

the supreme god in the Bon pantheon

gShen-Rap (see gShen-Rabs)

gShin-rje Tibetan

the Tibetan name for Yama as one of the Drag-gshed

gShin-rje gsed Tibetan

the Tibetan name for Yamantaka as one of the Drag-gshed

gSun-gi-rgyal po Tibetan

[Sung-gi-gral-po]

king of speech

one of the Panchmaharajas

(see also Klu-dban)

Gu' African

[Gou:=Yoruba Ogun]

the blacksmith-god and war-god of the Fon

son of Mawu-Lisa

He helped Mawu-Lisa make the earth fit for human habitation and taught them the art of ironworking. In another version, Gu was a magical tool used by Lisa to fashion the earth and to make mankind from the excrement of the gods.

He was envisaged as a block of stone with a metal blade protruding from it.

Gu<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

the Babylonian version of Aquarius

Guabancex West Indian

[Lady of the Winds]

a Taino wind-goddess

Guabonito West Indian

a sea-goddess

She was rescued from the sea by Guagugiana and taught him the arts of medicine and necklace-making.

guaca South American

objects involved in Inca religion

This generic term embraces objects of worship (such as idols) as well as such things as the places where worship took place (eg temples), tombs, etc.

Guacarabita (see Attabeira)

Guachimines Central American

the brothers-in-law of Guamansuri

They killed Guamansuri, who had seduced their sister, and later, when she had borne twin sons, Apocatequil and Piguerao, they killed her too. They were all killed by Apocatequil who restored his mother to life.

Guadiana European

a squire

When his master, Durandarte, fell at Roncesvalles, Guadiana turned into a river.

Guagugiana West Indian

[Albeborael.Guahayona.Guayahona.

(Hiaunael) Guanin.Vagoniona]

a culture-hero of the Taino

son of Hiauna

When Marocael was turned to stone, the people in the caves known as Amaiaua and Cacibagiagua escaped and Guagugiana was one of the first after sending out his servant, Giadrubava, who was also turned to stone. Guagugiana led all the women out of the caves and took them to an island where he left them while he travelled on, taking the children with him. When he left the children, they were turned into dwarfs (tona) or, some say, into frogs. He later learned the arts of medicine and lace-making from Guabonito whom he rescued from the sea.

In some stories, he was turned into a bird by the sun; in others, that was the fate of his servant Giadrubava.

Guahayona (see Guagugiana)

Guillauc Welsh

father of Eliseg

Guaire Irish

[Guiare Aidhne]

a king of Connaught

son of Colman

brother of Marvan

father of Cred and Geilgheis

He deposed Cellach and took the throne of Connaught, forcing Cellach to flee to an island with four of his followers. Guaire bribed the four to kill Cellach and, when Cellach's brother Muireadhach discovered what had happened, he came seeking vengeance. Guaire feigned friendship, gave Muireadhach his daughter in marriage and promised to yield the throne to him. Instead, when Muireadhach came to visit him, Guaire had him killed.

Another story says that he was defeated at the Battle of Carn Chonail by the high king, Dairmaid, and fled to a convent. He later gave himself up to the high king and proved his generosity by giving away all his fine trappings to lepers and distributing money to the poor. It was said that one (or both) of his arms grew longer from the weight of the coins he distributed.

When St Caimin fasted against him, Guaire and Cumaine Fada visited the saint to make amends for earlier ill-treatment. Guaire's wish that the saint's chapel should be filled with treasure was granted and he was able to give generously for the rest of his life.

On another occasion, he wished that he could share his good fortune with someone less fortunate and his plate of food was carried off by angels and set down in front of St Colman and his companions who were fasting. He later gave them a herd of cattle.

He was said to have killed the magic cow, Glas Gabnach.

At his funeral, his dead hand threw some sand, which turned to gold, to a beggar looking on.

Guallipen South American

[Huallepen]

in Chile, a fabulous animal in the form of a sheep with the head of a calf:

an amphibious monster

An alternative description of this monster says it was the result of a bull mating with a sheep and is very ugly with twisted hoofs. It is said that it will mate with either sheep or cows but the offspring of such unions are likely to be deformed, as will the children of any woman who hears or sees, or dreams about, the monster when she is pregnant.

Guamansuri Central American

the first mortal in the lore of the Incas. He seduced the sister of the Guachimines who killed him in revenge. The twins Apocatequil and Piguerao were the result of the union and, after they were born, the Guachimines killed their mother.

Guamaoncon West Indian

[Iocauna.Father Sky]

supreme god of the Taino

son of Attabeira (see also Yocahu)

Guan Irish

a warrior of the Fianna

He was one of the party that trapped Dermot and Grania in the Wood of Two Tents.

Guanamará (see Guanamhara)

Guanhamara British

[Guanamara]

wife of King Arthur in the work of

Geoffrey of Monmouth

In this version, Arthur married a noble Roman lady, Guanhamara, rather than Guinevere, daughter of his friend Leodegrance. (see also Guinevere)

Guanhuvara (see Guinevere)

Guanin<sup>1</sup> West Indian

a mythical country

The hero Guagugiana was said to have gone to this country.

Guanin<sup>2</sup> (see Guagugiana)

Guar Girl (see Gum Girl)

guara South American

spirits in the lore of the Chamacoco people

guard (see garde)

Guardian of the Threshold

(see Dragon of the Threshold)

Guarcy South American

[Guracy.Torushompek]

sun-god and creator of animals

(see also Torushompek)

Guarani South American

an ancestral hero

He was one of four brothers who survived the flood and became the ancestor of the Guarani tribe.

Guarinos European

one of Charlemagne's knights

In some accounts, Guarinos was killed at Roncesvalles but others say that he was taken prisoner by the Saracens and was won in a draw by Marlotes. Guarinos rejected his captor's offer of his two daughters on condition that he embraced Islam and was thrown into a dungeon. He was allowed out on some occasions and, when invited to take part in a nightly exercise, escaped.

In French stories he is Garin.

Guatavita South American

in the lore of the Chibcha, a lake said to be the home of a snake-

god

Guatauva West Indian

a messenger-goddess of the Taino

Guatrigakwitl (see Gudratrigakwitl)

Guayacan South American

in the lore of the Incas, a lake

It was believed that the sky rested on pillars which rose out of this primordial lake.

Guayahona (see Guagugiana)

Guayavacuni South American

a supreme god in Patagonia

Gubaba (see Kubaba)

Gugumat Central American

[Bowels of Earth.Bowels of Heaven.

Four Ends of Earth.Gugumat.Gukamat.

Gukumat.Heart of Haven.Plumed

Serpent.=Aztec Quetzalcoatl:

=Mohave Kukumat]

a Quiche sky-god and creator-god

son of E Quaholom and E Alom, in some accounts

In some accounts he is equated with

Hurukan. (see also Kukumatz)

Gudanna Mesopotamian

a Sumerian monster

This celestial bull, which caused seven years of drought, was killed by Gilgamesh.

Gudarz Persian

a nobleman

father of Gew

He dreamt about the young Khusraw who was growing up in Afghanistan, recognised him as a future king and sent his son Gew to bring him to Persia.

Gudhorn Norse

son of Halfdan by Groa

Halfdan was the brother-in-law of Groa whom he abducted.

Gudmund's realm (see Odainsakar)

Gudr (see Gudrun)

Gudratrigakwitl North American

[Above Old Man.Guatrigakwitl.

Old Man Above.=Chahoc Chareya]

the creator-god of the Wiyot tribes

He created the world by opening his hands and could, if he chose, end it by clapping his hands together.

Gudrun<sup>1</sup> German

[Cha(u)trun.Gudr(unn).Gurthr.

Gutrun(e).Kudrun.Krimhild]

daughter of Hettel and Hilde

wife of Herwig

She was promised in marriage to Herwig but was abducted by Hartmut, one of her unsuccessful suitors. She refused to marry him so he handed her over to his mother, Gerlinda, who treated her very badly. Thirteen years later, when she and her companion, Hildburg, were washing clothes on the shore, a mermaid or angel in the form of a swan told her that her brother Ortwin and her betrothed, Herwig, were coming to rescue her. Herwig, Ortwin and Wat led a force that routed the forces of Hartmut's father, Ludwig, who was killed by Herwig and Gundrun was reunited with her beloved who married her.

Gudrun<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Cha(u)trun.Gudr(unn).Gurthr.

Gutrun(e).Kudrun.Svava]

a Valkyrie

She fell in love with Helgi when she saw him fighting the Hundings and was reunited with him in Valhalla after he was killed.

In some accounts, she is Svava.

Gudrun<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Cha(u)trun.Gudr(unn).Gurthr.

Gutrun(e).Kudrun.=German Krimhild]

daughter of Giuki and Grimhild

sister of Gunnar, Guttorm and Hogni wife of Atli, Jonakur and Sigurd

mother of Swanhild by Sigurd

mother of Eitel and Erp by Atli mother of Erp, Hamdir and Sorli

by Jonakur

When Sigurd came to her father's court her mother gave him a love-potion that caused him to forget Brunhild and fall in love with Gudrun whom he married. When Sigurd was murdered by her brother, Guttorm, she went with her daughter Swanhild to stay with Elf, the step-father of Sigurd who had married Thora after his first wife, Hiordis, died.

Atli, king of the Huns, demanded compensation for the death of his sister Brunhild, who had died on Sigurd's funeral pyre, and, under the influence of another of her mother's magic brews, Gudrun agreed to marry Atli even though she hated him. They had two sons, Eitel and Erp. When Atli, coveting the treasure of the Niblungs, killed Gunnar and Hogni, she killed her two sons by Atli and served their hearts and blood to Atli and his guests. In one version, she then set fire to the palace killing all inside, including herself; in another story she killed Atli with Sigurd's sword and then drowned herself; in yet another story she survived the sea and married King Jonakur, bearing three more sons, Erp, Hamdir and Sorli.

When her daughter, Swanhild, was killed by King Ermenrich, she ordered these young sons to avenge her death. Hamdir and Sorli killed Erp en route, thinking him too young for such an enterprise, and when they found the king they cut off his hands and feet. (see also Ildico)

In the Nibelungeleid she appears as Krimhild and in Wagner as Guttrune.

Gudrun<sup>4</sup> Norse

wife of Thord and Thorwald

Gudrun Lied German

a 13th c epic, the story of Gudrun daughter of Hettel and Hilda

Gudrunn (see Gudrun)

Gudyri-mummy Russian

a thunder-goddess of the Votyaks

Guebres

[Ghebers]

fire-worshippers

Guecubu South American

[Guecufu.Hucuva]
an evil spirit of the Araucanian Indians

He was responsible for all the ills affecting mankind and is destined to destroy the earth with a flood. Some say that he has a benevolent aspect in the form of a vegetation-god, Akakanet, but others say that they are separate beings, brothers representing good and evil.

In another story, he sent a flood but Guenu-Pillan raised the mountains so saving some animals and human beings.

In some versions, guecuba is used as a generic term for all demons.

Guecufu *(see Guecubu)Guédé<sup>1</sup> West Indian

the first man to die, in Haitian voodoo lore

guédé<sup>2</sup> West Indian

a spirit of the dead, in Haitian
voodoo lore

It is said that these spirits can take possession of humans.

Guendolen *(see Gwendolen)Guendoloena

(see Gwendolen.Gwendoloena)

Guener *(see Gwen<sup>3</sup>)Guenever *(see Guinevere)Guenuvara *(see Guinevere)Guenevere *(see Guinevere)Guengasoain *(see Gwengasoain)Guenhwyach *(see Gwenhwyfach)Guenhwyvach *(see Gwenhwyfach)Guenloie *(see Gwenloie)Guenole Egyptian

a priest

He acted as confessor to the king, Gradlon, and was later made a saint.

Guenu-Pillan South American

[Pil(l)an]

a name of Menechen as 'spirit
of heaven'

In this role, he saved some human beings and animals when Guecubu sent a flood, by raising the height of the mountains.

Guerin European

a lord of Vienna

Charlemagne besieged his city when they quarrelled and the conflict was decided by single combat between Roland and Oliver, a grandson of Guerin. They fought an honourable draw, Guerin and the emperor were reconciled and Roland and Oliver became firm friends.

Guerrehet *(see Gaheris)gueyo North American

ashes said to have magical powers

Guffitar Baltic

[=Norse Govetter]

Lappish dwarf spirits of the forest or living underground

Guga Hindu

a serpent-god

Gugal Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk referring to his wealth

Gugoune *(see Ogoun)Gugsi *(see Zesa)Gugulana *(see Gugulanna)Gugulanna Mesopotamian

[Bull of Heaven.(Great) Gugulana]

a god of the underworld

consort of Ereshkigal (see also Nergal)

Gugumatz *(see Gucumatz)Gugune *(see Ogoun)Guha Hindu

a demon: a name for Karttikeya

He compelled Brahma to make him immune to any onslaught. Neither Vishnu nor Shiva could defeat him alone so they combined as Hari-Hara to overthrow him.

Guhya *(see Guhyaka)Guhya-pati

Buddhist

a master of secrets

Guhyaka Hindu

[Guhya.Strong One:fem=Guhyaki]

a yaksha

A servant of Kubera and one of the guardians of his treasure. He stood guard at the door, holding a thunderbolt. (see also Chin-kang.Li-shih.

Vajrapanibalin)

Guhyaki Hindu

[male=Guhyaka]

a female demon, servant of

Kubera

Guhyasamaja Buddhist

a protective deity

He is depicted with three heads and six arms.

Gui European

[Guy]

brother of Vivien

He rode with Guillaume to do battle with the Saracens, in support of his brother Vivien, but was captured when the Frankish army was totally defeated. Only he and Guillaume survived.

Gui de Burgogne European

[Guy of Burgundy]

a Frankish knight

husband of Floripas

He was one of Charlemagne's men captured by Balan but he was protected by the Saracen's daughter, Floripas, until rescued by the Franks. He later married Floripas and was made ruler of half of Spain, the other half being given to Fierabras.

Gui de Montfaucon European

a knight defeated by Godfrey

de Bouillon

guianos West Indian

sacred yellow shells used as talismans by the Taino

Guibourc European

[Witburgis]

wife of Girart de Vienne

In some accounts, the wife of Guillaume is called Guibourc.

Guichard European

[Guiscard.Guischart]

son of Aymon and Aya or Beatrice brother of Alardo, Bradamante,

Ricciardetto, Ricardo and Rinaldo

Guiderius British

a king of Britain

son of Cymbeline

brother of Arviragus

He was killed in battle when Claudius invaded Britain and Arviragus became king.

Guido of Tours French

the French version of Guy of Warwick

Guido the Savage

(see Guido the Wild)

Guido the Wild European

[Guido the Savage]

son of Aymon and Constantia

Aymon's wife is usually given as Beatrice and they had four sons. In Orlando Furioso, Aymon's wife is given as Constantia and their son was Guido.

He was captured by the Amazons and killed ten of their male warriors in single combat. When he finally escaped, he took with him Aleria, one of the ten wives he had been forced to marry.

He is sometimes included in the list of Charlemagne's paladins or equated with Guy of Warwick, the English hero.

Guigenor British

daughter of Guiromelant and Clarissant

grand-niece of King Arthur

wife of Aalardin

Guignier *(see Guimer)Guilan British

a knight

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Guillaume European

[Guillaume d'Orange. Guillaume Fierebrace. Guillaume Short-nose] son of Aymeri uncle of Vivien brother of Alane and Bertrane husband of Guibourc

Responding to Vivien's plea for help against the Saracens, Guillaume led an army into battle but was defeated and he returned to Barcelona where his wife had raised more troops which he once more led into the fray together with Vivien's brother, Gui. Only Guillaume and Gui survived the battle and Gui was captured. Guillaume then sought help from the king and was given a huge army including the giant Rainouart who, in the final battle with the Saracens, killed 3,000 of them. Rainouart turned out to be the brother of Guibourc, having been stolen when a child and sold as a slave.

He later retired to a monastery where he terrorised the other monks and they sent him on a journey for supplies, hoping that he would be robbed and killed by outlaws. In the event, he killed the leader of the robbers and returned to the monastery where he gave the monks a thorough thrashing. He left the monastery and set up his own hermitage but the Saracen king, Synagon, captured him and held him in prison for seven years until Guillaume's nephew, Landri, raised an army and defeated Synagon, who was killed, releasing Guillaume who then returned to his cell.

He left it later to help King Louis who was under siege by the heathen king Ysoré, killed Ysoré and returned once again to his cell. He started to build a bridge over a gorge but each night the devil pulled down what Guillaume had built during the day until Guillaume caught the devil and threw him into the gorge, thereafter completing the bridge. Some time afterwards he died in his hermitage.

Other feats attributed to Guillaume include the putting down of a rebellion against King Louis led by Acelin, and the liberation of Rome and the defeat, in single combat, of the giant Corsolt.

In this fight, Corsolt cut off the tip of Guillaume's nose, so accounting for his nickname, Short-nose.

Guillaume de Monclin European

brother of Fromont

Guillen *(see Laminak)Guimazoa *(see Attabeira)Guimer British

[Guignier:=Welsh Tegau Eufron] daughter of the king of Cornwall sister of Cador wife of Caradoc

She was betrothed to Caradoc who was dying from the effects of a blood-sucking snake fastened on his arm by his father, the magician Eliaures. Her brother, Cador, put her in a vat of sour wine and Caradoc in a vat of sour milk. This induced the snake to try to cross from one vat to the other, giving Cador a chance to kill it with his sword. She is said to have lost one breast in this encounter but it was replaced with a gold one by the magician Aalardin.

Her faithfulness was demonstrated when a mantle was produced at Arthur's court which would fit only faithful wives. Guimer was the only one who could wear it.

In Welsh stories, Caradoc's wife is Tegau Eufron.

Guinalot British

son of Eliaures

His father was forced by King Caradoc to mate with a bitch, a mare and a sow. The first coupling produced Guinalot.

Guinebaut British

a magician brother of Ban and Bors

Guinechen South American

a name of Epunamun as 'master of men'

Guinee West Indian

home of the gods in Haiti

Guinemapun South American

a name of Epunamun as 'master of the land'

Guinevere British

[Guanhuvara. Guanamara. Guanhamara.

Geneura. Genevra. Genievre. Ginevra.

Guenever(e). Guenhuvara. Guinever.

Gvenour. Gwennere. Wenhaver:

=French Gilan(e)ier:

=Welsh Gwen(h)wyfar.

Gwenh(w)yyar. Gwynhwfar]

daughter of King Leodegrance

sister of Gotegrim and Gwenhwyach wife of King Arthur

In some accounts, she was the mother of Loholt. In Welsh stories, her father was Gogrvan while other versions say he was King Garlin or even Vortigern. Others say she was a Roman, an orphan named Guanamara, reared by King Cador.

In some accounts she was regarded as a triune goddess while others say there were two Guineveres, one good, one bad, the latter being able to take the real Guinevere's place to do evil. Lanfal was the only man who realised that the False Guinevere had taken over from the real Guinevere at the wedding feast when she married King Arthur.

She brought the Round Table as part of her dowry when she married King Arthur.

In the Welsh version, she was once abducted by Melwas but Arthur soon recovered her. In the British version, she and ten of her knights were captured by Meliagaunt, who loved her from afar, and imprisoned her in his castle. When Lancelot rode to her aid, Meliagaunt begged for mercy and the queen forgave him. She slept that night with Lancelot, with whom she had a long affair, and he left blood on the sheets from a wound on his hand sustained when he forced the window bars. Meliagaunt accused Guinevere of being unfaithful to the king by sleeping with one of her ten knights, many of whom had been wounded when he captured them. The queen was saved from the stake by Lancelot who escaped from a trap set for him by Meliagaunt and killed him in single combat even though he had one hand tied behind his back.

The affair with Lancelot was resumed when the Grail quest ended but when Lancelot tried to distance himself from her she became angry and banished him from the court. When she gave a dinner for twenty-four of her knights, she was accused by Mador of killing his cousin Patrise who died after eating an apple poisoned by Pinel and intended for Gawain. She would have been burnt at the stake unless her innocence could be proved by single combat and the king ordered Bors to fight on her behalf against Mador. At the last minute, Lancelot took the place of Bors and defeated Mador who then accepted that the queen was innocent.

When Arthur went off on a hunting trip, she was caught in bed with Lancelot by Mordred and Agravain who betrayed her affair with Lancelot to the king. He ordered Gawain to burn her at the stake but he refused to do so. Gawain's brothers, Gaheris and Gareth, had to obey the king's command but when the queen was led to the pyre, Lancelot charged into the crowd and rescued her, killing Gaheris and Gareth and many others in the process. Lancelot took her off to Joyous Gard and Arthur attacked this castle to recover her. The conflict was ended only when the Pope intervened and Guinevere was returned to Arthur who pledged her safety. Lancelot took himself and many of his followers off to his estates in France where he was later followed by Arthur's army, intent on revenge. Mordred was left in charge of the country and he soon had designs on Guinevere. In some stories she became his mistress, in others she went through a form of marriage with him; still other versions say she merely pretended to yield and then left him, shutting herself away in the Tower of London.

On the death of Arthur she retired to a convent in Amesbury and refused to leave despite the pleas of Lancelot to return with him to France. She died in the convent soon afterwards. Other stories say that she joined Arthur in Avalon or was captured by the Picts. Yet another version says that she was killed by Lancelot who believed that she had been a willing accomplice of Mordred. He shut Mordred in a room with her dead body which, driven by hunger, Mordred ate.

In a Continental tale, a man named Gasozein claimed that he had married Guinevere but she rejected the chance to leave Arthur for the claimant. This upset Gotegrim who abducted her and would have killed her if Gasozein had not saved her. When Gawain rescued the queen from Gasozein, the impostor admitted that he had been lying.

Some accounts say that Arthur had three wives, all called Guinevere.

(see also Guanhamara)

Guinevere The False

(see False Guinevere)

Guingamor (see Guingamuer)

Guingamuer British

[Guingamor]

a lover of Morgan le Fay

In some accounts he was a ruler of Avalon.

Guinganbresil British

husband of Tancree

Guinglain (see Gingalain)

Guioamar British

[Giomar]

a nephew of King Arthur

Guire European

mayor of Bordeaux

brother of Sherasmin

Guireomelant (see Guiromelant)

Guiromelant British

[Guireomelant]

husband of Clarissant

father of Guigenor

A knight who hated Gawain, who had killed his father; they were later reconciled.

Guiron British

father of Calinan by Bloie

His lover, Bloie, was carried off by Danain but Guiron forgave him. He eventually became a hermit and died in a cave.

Guiscard (see Guichard)

Guischart (see Guichard)

Guitechin (see Widukind)

Guiteclin (see Widukind)

Guithelin British

a monk

He was sent to Brittany to offer Britain to the king, Aldroen, if he would send an army to defend it against invading forces. The king sent his brother Constantinus who became king of Britain.

guji Japanese

a chief priest

Gujo Afghan

a local god of the Kafir

Gukamatz (see Gucumatz)

Gukumatz (see Gucumatz)

Gul Irish

[Gulaidhe]

a satirist

father of Saba

He entertained the king, Feidhlimid, when he was caught in a snowstorm.

Gul-Ses Mesopotamian

[=Hurrian Hutena]

Hittite goddesses of fate

Gula Mesopotamian

[Nin Ezen.Nintinugga.Ninudzalli:

=Babylonian Ninkarraka.=Kassite Hala:

=Phoenician Baau.=Sumerian Baba]

the Sumerian goddess of death

and healing

consort of Ninurta or Nimib

In some accounts, she is identified with Baba.

Gulaidhe (see Gul)

Guland

[Nabam]

a demon associated with Saturday

Gulanundoidj Australian

a woman betrothed to a snake-man

She was promised to Jurawadbad who turned into a snake and bit her when she took Bulugu, a watersnake-man as her lover.

Gulban (see Ben Bulben)

Gulbhan (see Ben Bulben)

Gulf of Black Grief Norse

the berth, in Niflheim, of Naglfari, the ship of death

Guli African

a Tottentot hunter who killed

the Sun-ram

He shot the ram and cut off some of the flesh. When he found that all water sources had dried up he replaced the flesh and prayed. The god revived and the water supplies were restored.

Gullbra Norse

a princess

daughter of Visivald

sister of Soley

half-sister of Hiarandi

Her half-brother locked her up in a fortress and killed all who came seeking her hand, cutting off their heads and putting them on poles to deter others.

Gullfaxi Norse

[Gold(en)mane.Goldfax.Gullfaxi]

the horse of Hrungrir

When Thor killed Hrungrir in a duel he acquired this golden-maned horse and gave it to his son Magni.

Gullifaxi (see Gullfaxi)

Gullinbursti Norse

[Gollinbursti]

a boar with a golden pelt which pulled

Frey's car

This marvellous animal was made by Sindi and presented to Frey by Brock.

(see also Slidrugtanni)

Gullinkambi Norse

[Gold Comb.Goldtop.Gollinkambi.

Vithaf(i)nir.Vithofnir]

the cockerel in Midgard that will wake the gods at Ragnarok

This bird sits on the topmost branch of the great tree, Yggdrasil.

(see also Vedfolnir)

Gullintani Norse

a name of Heimdall as 'golden-toothed'

Gulltop Norse

[Gulltoppr]

the golden-maned horse of Heimdall

Gulltoppr (see Gulltop)

Gullveig (see Gollveig)

Gullweig (see Gollveig)

Gulsilia Mata Hindu

an evil goddess causing illness

Gulu African

[Kulu]

the creator-god of the Buganda

father of Kaizuki, Nimba and Walumbe

Gum Baby (see Gum Girl)

Gum Girl African

[Gum Baby. Guar Girl. Rubber Girl.

Tar Baby]

an effigy covered with sticky matter

This effigy was placed by a farmer whose crops were being stolen. Anansi, the trickster-god who was the culprit, kicked her to make her speak her name and when his foot got stuck he hit her to make her release him. His hand also got stuck and he was unable to defend himself when the farmer arrived and gave him a good thrashing.

Gum-Wa (see Kumwa)

Gumakesi Hindu

daughter of MatAli by Sudharma

She was so beautiful that Sudharma could find neither mortal nor god worthy of his daughter so he married her to the handsome Naga, Sumukha.

Gumali (see Wele Gumali)

gumberoo North American

a fabulous animal

guna Hindu

a strong principle of nature

The transmigrating of souls is governed by three gunas – raja, sattva and tamas.

guna-guna Pacific Islands

in Indonesia, witchcraft and magic

Gunadhya Hindu

a poet

A poem, written in Gunadhya's own blood, was rejected by the king, Satavahana, to whom it was addressed, so he tore it into small pieces and fed them one by one into the fire. All the game animals gathered round the fire and wept at the beauty of the poem. Meanwhile the king fell ill and was told to eat game to cure his illness – but there was no game to be found. The king hurriedly retracted his rejection and bought what was left of the poem.

Gunapipipi (see Kunapipi)

Gunarh North American

in the lore of the tribes of the north-west, an animal spirit in the form of a killer-whale

Gunarhnesemgyet

(see Gunarhnsengyet)

Gunarhnsengyet North American

a hunter of the killer-whale, Gunarh

When his wife was abducted by the whale, Gunarhnsengyet dived to the bottom of the ocean where he met the Cormorant People who were blind. As a reward for cutting open their eyes so that they could see, they told him where to find his wife. Outside Gunarh's house, Gunarhnsengyet met a woodman and repaired the wedge he used for splitting logs. The woodman helped by taking pails of water into the house which, when tipped on to the hot hearth-stones, caused so much steam that Gunarhnsengyet's wife was able to escape. To stop the killer whales from following, Gunarhnsengyet blew a magic potion over Gunarh who swelled so much that he blocked the door, preventing the others from getting out.

Gunasarman Hindu

owner of a magic eye-lotion which could make him disappear

Gundari-myoo Japanese

[Amrita Kundalin. Amrita Kundika.

Kanro Gundari. Kongo Gundari.

Nampo Gundari. Nasha. Renge Gundari]

a terrible god

He is regarded as a manifestation of Hosho and is depicted with three eyes, large fangs, eight arms and serpents twined round his limbs.

Gundebald British

ruler of a mysterious kingdom

Despite the fact that his realm was referred to as one from which nobody ever returned, Meriadoc was able to rescue a German princess held there by Gundebald.

Gundestrup bowl Norse

a 1st c bowl, silver-plate on copper, decorated with gods and scenes from mythology

Gundicarius (see Gunnar)

gundil Australian

witch-doctors of the Aborigines

Rain, falling where the rainbow ends, is said to turn into crystals and those who have these crystals in their bodies can become gundil.

Gunduple East Indian

a cat

This animal was owned by a lame boy in Borneo whose job it was to see that the children of the village passed safely to and from school. The evil goblin, Pasangu, managed to carry off some of the children so the boy warned the others to trust nothing – only the mice. Pasangu overheard this conversation – as intended – and promptly turned himself into a mouse. He was then quickly despatched by Gunduple.

Guneus Greek

father of Laonome

Gunger (see Gungnir)

Gungner (see Gungnir)

Gungnir Norse

[Gung(n)er]

the spear of Odin

In some accounts, this marvellous weapon was made by the dwarf Dvalin and presented to Odin by Loki; in others, Odin fashioned it himself from a branch of Yggdrasil and a blade was later added by the dwarfs. When thrown it had the power to determine the outcome of the battle by the direction of its flight.

In some accounts, it is referred to as the sword of Odin.

Gunkamdeva Hindu

a king who conquered the Nagas

The defeated Nagas each gave the victor a likeness of himself drawn in his blood, telling the king that worship of the pictures would bring rain in times of drought.

Gunlad (see Gunlod)

Gunlauth (see Gunlod)

Gunlod Norse

[Gunlad. Gun(n)lauth. Gunnlod]

daughter of the giant Suttung

mother of Bragi by Odin

She was entrusted with the three containers of the magic brew made by the dwarfs Fialar and Galar from the blood of the sage Kvasir whom they had killed to obtain his knowledge. She concealed it in the middle of a mountain but Odin knew about it from his ravens. Having gained access to the cave with the help of Baugi, Suttung's brother, Odin seduced Gunlod and, asking for a sip of the fluid, drank it all. In the guise of an eagle, he flew back to Asgard where he regurgitated the magical brew which endowed the drinker with the powers of music and poetry.

The product of Odin's dalliance with Gunlod was the god Bragi.

Gunna Scotland

spirits that search for scraps of food such as bones

Gunnar Norse

[Gundicarius. Gunnarr:

=German Gunther]

king of the Giukungs

son of Giuki and Grimhild

brother of Gudrun, Guttorm and Hogni

husband of Brunhild and Glauvmor

When Sigurd married Gunnar's sister Gudrun, Gunnar and his brother Hogni became his blood-brothers. Gunnar succeeded his father Giuki to the throne and wished to make Brunhild his queen but lacked the courage to face the wall of flames that surrounded her castle. Sigmund, who had already braved the flames before meeting Gunnar and Gudrun, assumed the form of Gunnar with the help of a magic potion brewed by his mother, and rode through the flames again, spending three days with Brunhild. When she married Gunnar ten days later, she realised that she had been deceived and that she still loved Sigurd who had been the first to ride through the flames so, after quarrelling with Gudrun, she asked her husband to kill Sigurd. Bound by blood-ties, Gunnar could not do such a thing but his younger brother Guttorm speared Sigurd in the back, killing him but dying in the attempt from Sigurd's thrown sword. After Brunhild died in the flames of Sigurd's funeral pyre, Gunnar married Glaumvor.

In some versions, he and Hagen ambushed Walther von Wasenstein and Hildegrinde but had one hand and one foot cut off in the fight.

Gunnar Helmingr Norse
a Norwegian who offended the king
He fled to Sweden to escape the wrath of King Olaf and went on an annual procession in which Frey blessed the land. Many abandoned the god in a blizzard but Gunnar stayed. In a fight with Frey, Gunnar prayed to the Christian god and Frey was defeated. He took Frey's place and was well received by the people. He married a priestess of Frey's temple and, reconciled with Olaf, returned to Norway.

Gunnar Lambason Norse
one of the men in Flosi's force attacking the Njalssons husband of Hallgerda
Gunnar was killed by Skarp-Hedin, Njal's son, who hurled at him the jawbone which, years before, he had cut from the head of Thrain whom he had killed, an event which started the feud between the Sigfussens and the Njalssons.

Gunnarr (see Gunnar)
Gunnlauth (see Gunlod)
Gunnlod (see Gunlod)
Gunnodoyah (see Gunnodoyak)
Gunnodoyak North American [Gunnodoyah]
an Iroquois warrior

He was a mortal who was taken to heaven and instructed in the arts of war by Hinun. He fought the Great Lake Serpent but was swallowed by it. Hinun killed the snake and rescued Gunnodoyak, restoring him to life and taking him back to heaven.

Gunnthra Norse
a river in Niflheim
one of the 12 rivers known as Elivagar

Gunphar British
a king of Orkney

He was one of the rulers who, impressed by King Arthur's might, submitted to his sovereignty.

Gunter British
a king of Denmark

When he refused to pay tribute to King Arthur he was killed.

Gunthari (see Gunther<sup>1</sup>)

Gunther<sup>1</sup> German
[Gunthari.King of Worms:=Norse Gunnar] the name of Gunnar in the Nibelungenlied
son of Dankrat and Ute
brother of Gernot, Giselper and Krimhild husband of Brunhild
father of Siegfried

He became king of Burgundy on the death of his father and, with Siegfried's help, won the hand of Brunhild. He invited Siegfried, who had married his sister Krimhild, to visit his court where Krimhild and Brunhild had a furious quarrel. Gunther was later induced by Hagen, who plotted to avenge the insult to Brunhild, to invite Siegfried's help in an alleged invasion. Hagen used the opportunity to kill Siegfried.

His sister, Krimhild, then married Etzel and they invited Gunther and his nobles to visit their court. Here Krimhild, intent on vengeance against Hagen, bribed her husband's brother, Brodelin, to kill the party. Gunther and Hagen were taken alive, all the rest were slain. Krimhild had Gunther, her own brother, beheaded and used his severed head to try to force Hagen to reveal where in the Rhine he had hidden the Nibelung treasure. When he refused to tell her, she killed him.

Another story says that his father was Gibich, king of Burgundy, who surrendered when Attila's hordes swept all before them, giving the Hun a tribute of gold and the young noble, Hagen, as a hostage in place of his own son, Gunther (here, Gunthari), who was just a baby at the time. In later years, Hagen escaped from Attila's court and returned to Burgundy to join Gunther who became king on the death of his father. Later still, Walther and his lover Hildegunde, two other hostages at Attila's court, escaped with much treasure and Gunther and Hagen set out to kill the fugitives and seize the treasure. In the event, Walther killed all the warriors Gunther sent against him and finally Gunther and Hagen did battle with Walther. Gunther lost a leg and Hagen lost an eye but they became reconciled with Walther who had had his right hand cut off in the fight.

Gunther<sup>2</sup> German
son of Siegfried and Krimhild

Gunthiof Norse
son of Frithiof and Ingeborg

Gunuko African
a deity of the Nupe of Nigeria and in Brazil

Gunura Mesopotamian
a Babylonian deity
father or sister of Damuzi

Gunvasius (see Guynas)

Gupta, Abhinava Hindu
a 10th c sage

He was said to be a miracle-worker, an incarnation of Shiva, and was the author of many works on yoga and Tantrism. He and some 1,200 of his followers entered a cave and disappeared forever.

Gur-Gyi Mgon-Po Tibetan
a Buddhist god of tents
a form of Mahakala

Gur-nu-gi-a (see Kur-nu-gi-a)

Guracy (see Guaracy)

Gurdr (see Gudrun)

Gurgiunt Brabtruc (see Gurgustius)

Gurgurant British
a cannibal king

He became a convert to Christianity and took the name Archier, becoming a hermit.

Gurguntius (see Gurgustius) Gurgustius British

[Gurgiunt Brabtrud.Gurguntius]
a king of Britain
son of Rivallo

Gurhyr (see Gwrhyr)

Guri (see Gwri)

Gurikhaisib African
the primaeval ancestor of the Hottentots

Guriang Tunggal East Indian a supreme god in Java father of Guru Minda husband of Ambu Dewi

Gurm (see Garm)

Gurmun Irish
an African king who became king of Ireland
son of Gormund, some say
In some accounts, he was the father of Isolde. He may be the same as Gormund.

Gurnemans (see Gornemant)

Gurthr (see Gudrun)

guru Hindu [gosain]
a spiritual leader
The guru mediates between god and man. Those who malign a guru may be struck dumb and turned into snakes.

Guru-Gita Hindu
[Song of the Guru]
a poem of some three hundred and fifty stanzas relating conversations between Shiva and Parvati

Guru-kam-balu Tibetan
a headless monk

Guru Minda East Indian
a Javan prince of heaven son of Guriang Tunggal and Ambu Dewi husband of Purba Sari
He was sent down to earth to find a bride for himself and adopted the form of a black monkey, Lutung Kasarang. With the help of some bujanggal, he provided the palace, the lake and the other items demanded by Purba Rarang as the price for the hand of her sister, the princess Purba Sari who Lutung married.

Guru Nanak (see Nanak)

Guru ri Seleng Pacific Islands
one of the first beings in the lore of Sulawesi brother of Sangkuruwira father of Nyilitimo

Guru Rimpoche (see Rimpoche)

guruwari Australian paintings on stones, etc. used in male rituals

Gurzgi British
son of Gornemant
brother of Lascoyt, Liaze and Schenteflurs

Guzil African
a god in Tripolitania
This deity, having been fathered on a cow, appeared in the form of a bull.

Gusayn
[Gusion.Gusoin.Pirsoyn]
a demon
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
He is said to know the past and the future and has the power to reconcile enemies.

Gushasp Persian
a sacred fire
This fire, together with Burzhin, Mitro and Frobach, protected the country.

Gushkinbanda Mesopotamian
a Babylonian god

Gushtaspa (see Vishtaspa)

gusi East Indian
a pot-bellied type of jar in Borneo
The Dasun tribe revere such jars, believing them to be the home of the spirits of their ancestors.

Gusion (see Gusayn)

Gusoin (see Gusayn)

Gustr (see Thiassi)

Gusts of Wind (see Breath of Wind)

Guta European
a Hungarian demon

Gutrun (see Gudrun)

Gutrune (see Gudrun)

Guttlehog
the English version of Ciriato

Guttorm Norse [Guttormr]
son of Giuki and Grimhild
brother of Gunnar, Gudrun and Hogni
His brothers Gunnar and Hogni had become blood-brothers of Sigurd who had married their sister, Gudrun. When Gunnar's wife, Brunhild, quarrelled with Gudrun, she asked Gunnar to kill Sigurd. He would not kill a blood-brother so the deed was done by Guttorm who drove his spear into Sigurd's back while he slept. With a dying convulsion, Sigurd flung his sword at the fleeing Guttorm, cutting him in half.

Guttormr (see Guttorm)

Guy de Bourgogne
(see Gui de Burgogne)

Guy of Burgundy
(see Gui de Burgogne)

Guy of Southampton British father of Bevis

Guy of Warwick British [=French Guido of Tours]
a mediaeval hero
son of Segard husband of Felice
father of Rainburn
He served as a page to Rohand, the earl of Warwick, and married his daughter, Felice. He killed the Dun Cow, a dragon in Northumberland and the giant Colbrand and went as a pilgrim to the Holy Land where he fought the Saracens. When he returned he found that Felice had given her life to good works so he left her in peace and built a hermitage for himself. When he was on his death-bed, he was reunited with Felice who died of grief. (see also Guido)

guyascutus North American [dismal sauger.godaphro.gouger.
gwinter.lunkus.mountain stemwinder.
prock.rackabore.sauger.sideswiper.
sidehill dodger]
a fabulous animal

Guynas Welsh
[Gunvasius.Gwenbaus.Gwinas]
a mortal version of Gwyn ap Nudd as king of Orkney

Guyon<sup>1</sup> British
a knight in The Faerie Queene, temperance personified
He rescued the prisoners held by Acrasia and sent her captive to the Queen of Faerie.

Guyon<sup>2</sup> European
a king of Denmark
son of Geoffroy half-brother of Ogier
father of Walter
He was the son of Geoffroy by his second wife and, when Geoffroy died, the throne passed to his son by his first wife, the paladin Ogier. Ogier was advised by a heavenly voice that greater things than kingship lay in store and he handed the crown to Guyon. When Ogier was imprisoned by Charlemagne, Guyon threatened to support the army of Carahue who was preparing to attack France to free Ogier. His forces arrived after Carahue's army had routed Bruhier's invading army and they joined forces to invade the Saracen lands in conjunction with a French force led by Ogier.

guytrash (see gytrash)

Guzhak Persian
consort of Hoshang
She and Hoshang, offspring of Siyamak and Nashak, are regarded as the progenitors of the Iranians.

Gvenour British
the name for Guinevere in Arthur and Merlin

Gwaddyn Oddeith British [Gwadynd Odyeith]
a warrior at King Arthur's court
He used the soles of his feet, which could become red-hot, to clear a path for Arthur's war-band.
He was also a member of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Gwaddyn Osol British [Gwadynd Osol]
a warrior at King Arthur's court

He could flatten any mountain merely by standing on top of it.

He was also a member of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Gwadyn Odyeith

(see Gwaddyn Oddieth)

Gwadyn Osol (see Gwaddyn Osol)

Gwaelod (see Cantre'r Gwaelod)

Gwaeth Welsh

maidservant to Cyfwlch and Drwgddyddwg

Gwaethaf Oll Welsh

maidservant to Syfwlch and Llynddyddwg

Gwair (see Gweir.Gwydion)

Gwakko Japanese

[=Hindu Chandra]
a Shinto moon-deity

He is depicted as a yellow-bodied youth with long hair, seated on a lotus.

Gwal (see Gwawl)

Gwalchafed (see Gwalchaved)

Gwalchaved Welsh

[Gwal(c)hafed.Gwalhaved.
Hawk of Summer]

the Welsh name for Galahad son of Lot and Gwyar
brother of Gwalchmai

Gwalchgwyn Welsh

[White Hawk]
the Welsh name of Gawain

(see also Gwalchmai)

Gwalchmai Welsh

[Gwalchgwyn.Gwalchmei.Gwalkmy.
Hawk of May]

a hunter at King Arthur's court
son of Lot and Gwyar
brother of Mordred
a nephew of King Arthur

He made peace between Tristram and King Mark and accompanied Culhwch on his quest for the hand of Olwen. In later stories he is Gawain although others regard them as separate characters.

In some accounts, he is the son of Arthur by his own sister, Gwyar, and was reputed to know the nature of everything. (see also Gwalchgwyn)

Gwalchmei (see Gwalchmai)

Gwalhafed (see Gwalchaved)

Gwalhaved (see Gwalchaved)

Gwalkmy (see Gwalchmai)

Gwalu African

[C'balu.Gbalu]
a rain-god of the Yoruba

Gware British

a member of King Arthur's household, appearing in the story of Culhwch and Olwen

Gwartheygydd Welsh

a warrior and counsellor at King Arthur's court
son of Caw

He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Gwastad Welsh

[Gwested]
father of Gwefyl

Gwau Meo Pacific Islands

a culture-hero of the Solomon Islands brother of Gwau Meo

These two heroes, known as the Red Heads, were regarded as children of the sun and were credited with slaying many monsters and bringing food, magic and other benefits to their people.

They were said to have led a band of their followers by sea to inhabit the Solomon Islands and are now worshipped as war-spirits.

Gwawl<sup>1</sup> Welsh

[Gawl.Gwal.Prince of Sun]
a former suitor of Rhiannon son of Clud

At the wedding of Pwyll and Rhiannon he asked a favour which Pwyll granted. He claimed Rhiannon. She agreed to be his one year hence. At the feast to celebrate that event, Pwyll appeared as a beggar and asked Gwawl to put food in his bag. When Gwawl tried to stamp it down he was trapped in the bag and agreed to give up Rhiannon as a condition of being released.

Gwawl<sup>2</sup> Welsh

[Gawl.Gwal]
daughter of Coel and Stradwawl wife of Cunedda, in some accounts

Gweddw Welsh

owner of the horse Gwyn Dunmane Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to obtain this horse for use in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth.

Gwefyl British

[Gwevyl]
a warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Gwastad

When he was sad, his bottom lip drooped to his midriff and his upper lip covered his head.

He was also a member of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Gweir British

[Gwair]
a counsellor of King Arthur son of Gwestyl

Gweir Ennwir British

[Gwair]
an uncle of King Arthur

Gweir Hir British

[Gwair]
an uncle of King Arthur

Gwen<sup>1</sup> British

[Gwenn.Llen Arthur.Mantle of Invisibility]
a cloak or veil of King Arthur

This garment, said to make the wearer invisible, was one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin. It could be worn only by women who were faithful to their husbands, which excluded Guinevere.

Some say it is the same as Mantell.

Gwen<sup>2</sup> British

[Gwenn] daughter of Cunedda

Gwen<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Guener]
a goddess of smiles
sister of Jou and Sadurn

Gwen<sup>4</sup> Welsh

[Gwenn.The White Swan] daughter of Cynwal
wife of Anlawdd
mother of Goleuddydd, Igraine and Rieingulid

She was said to be one of the most beautiful maidens in the country.

(see also Gwenlliant)

Gwenbaus (see Guynas)

Gwenddolau British

[Gwenddoleu]
a prince
Merlin's lord

He owned a gold gwyddbwyll board which became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin. He also had some magical birds which were yoked together and lived on corpses. These birds were killed by Gail.

He fought Rhydderch and his cousins, Gwrgi and Peredur, at the Battle of Arthuret and was killed there by Rhydderch.

Gwenddoleu (see Gwenddolau)

Gwendolen<sup>1</sup> British

[Guendoloen(a)] daughter of Corineus wife of Locrinus
mother of Maddan

Her husband had a secret mistress, Estrildis, by whom he had a daughter, Hebrén. When he deserted Gwendolen in favour of Estrildis, she raised an army in Cornwall, fought and killed Locrinus, threw Estrildis and Hebrén into the Severn and took over the throne of England. Some say that she buried Estrildis alive. She later abdicated in favour of her son Maddan.

Gwendolen<sup>2</sup> British

[Gwendolen(a)]

a fairy

mother of Gyneth by King Arthur

Gwendolena (see Gwendoloena)

Gwendoloena British

[Chwimleian.Guendoloena.Gwendolena]

a flower-maiden

wife of Merlin, in Italian romances

Some say that Merlin divorced her and she later married Rhydderch.

(see also Gwendydd)

Gwendydd British

[=Italian Ganieda]

a twin-sister of Merlin

wife of Rhydderch, in some accounts

(see also Gwendoloena)

Gwengasoain British

[Guengasoain.Gyngantioen]

a giant

the killer of Raguidel

father of Belinette

He had a bear to guard him against the prediction that he would be killed by two knights. These turned out to be Gawain and Yder who killed him to avenge the death of Raguidel.

Gwenhwyfach British

[Guenhwy(v)ach]

a sister of Guinevere

In some accounts, she was the wife of Mordred and the Battle of Camlan resulted from her striking the queen, her sister.

Gwenhwyfar Welsh

[Gwenhwyvar.White One]

the Welsh version of Guinevere

Gwenhwyvar (see Gwenhwyfar)

Gwenhyfar (see Gwenhwyfar)

Gwenhyvar (see Gwenhwyfar)

Gwenlliant Welsh

a beautiful maiden (see also Gwen<sup>3</sup>)

Gwenloie British

[Guenloie]

wife of Yder

Gwenlon British

a knight at the court of King Mark

He was one of a trio of knights who spied on Tristram and Isolde and informed King Mark of his wife's infidelity.

Gwenn (see Gwen)

Gwennere<sup>1</sup> Irish

daughter of Ryon

Gwennere<sup>2</sup> (see Guinevere)

Gwenwynwyn British

the chief warrior at King

Arthur's court

Gwern Irish

a prince of Ireland

son of Matholwch and Branwen

When Bran invaded Ireland to rescue his sister, Branwen, from Matholwch, the Irish king surrendered without a fight and agreed to hand the throne to his three-year-old son, Gwern. Efnisien killed the boy by pushing him into the fire, precipitating the battle between the two sides that left all the Irish, and all but seven of the British, dead.

Gwernach (see Gwernach)

Gwested (see Gwested)

Gwestel (see Gwestyl)

Gwestyl British

[Gwestel]

father of Gweir

Gwevyl (see Gwefyl)

Gwiawn British

[Cat-eye]

a warrior at King Arthur's court

He had such sharp eyesight that he was said to be able to cut the eyelid from the eye of a gnat.

He was also a member of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Other stories describe him as a magician with the power to cure wounds.

Gwiffred Petit British

[Little King:=Welsh Y Brenhin Bychan]

a small knight

He fought with Geraint and was defeated but became his friend and helper.

Gwilenhin Welsh

[Gwilenhyn]

a king of France

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to obtain the help of Gwilenhin in the hunt for Twrch Trwyth. He was killed by the boar during the hunt.

Gwilenhyn (see Gwilenhin)

Gwilym British

a son of the king of France

Gwinam British

a horse of Kay

Gwinas (see Gwynas)

gwinter (see guyascutus)

Gwion Welsh

[Gwion Bach:=Irish Finn mac Cool]

son of Gwreang

He was abandoned on the shore in a basket and was found by Ceridwen who employed him to stir the magic cauldron Amen in which she was brewing a potion that would give her son, Avagddu, supernatural knowledge to compensate for his extreme ugliness. Drops of the brew splashed on Gwion's thumb and he licked it off, so acquiring the knowledge intended for Avagddu. He ran off and Ceridwen chased him, both taking various forms until finally she, in the form of a hen, swallowed Gwion, in the form of a grain of corn. She then found herself pregnant and the boy Gwion was reborn. Ceridwen threw him into the sea from which he was recovered by Elphin who called him Taliesin.

(see Taliesin)

Gwlad Yr Hav Welsh

the Otherworld, a land of summer from which men came

Gwladys Welsh

a Welsh saint

daughter of Brychan

mother of St Cadoc

She was abducted by Gwynllym who was helped in the enterprise by King Arthur.

Gwlgawd (see Gwlgawd)

Gwlwlydd Welsh

owner of the oxen Melyn Gwanwyn

and Ych Brych

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get these oxen for use in part of his quest for the hand of Olwen.

(see also Melyn Gwanwyn.Nyniaw.

Peibiaw.Ych Brych)

Gwlyddyn (see Glwyddyn)

Gwrach Welsh

a hag: a witch: a form of banshee

Gwrach y Rhibyn British

the Welsh version of Grey Washer by the Ford (see Washer by the Ford)

Gwragedd Annwfn Welsh

lake-maidens

These beings are said occasionally to marry humans but return to their lake if struck. They are said to have passed on great knowledge of medicine.

Gwreang Welsh

father of Gwion

Gwreidawl (see Greidwl)

Gwres Welsh

a standard-bearer for King Arthur son of Rheged

Gwrfan Welsh

[Gwrvan]

in some accounts, a name for Gawain

Gwrfoddu (see Gwrfoddw)

Gwrfoddhu (see Gwrfoddw)

Gwrfoddw British

[Gwrfodd(h)u]

a warrior at King Arthur's court

uncle of King Arthur

He went on the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth and was killed by the young boar Llwydawg.

Gwrgi British
cousin of Gwenddolau

He and Peredur fought with Gwenddolau against Rhydderch at the Battle of Arthuret.

Gwrhŷr Gwalstawt British [Gurhŷr]
a warrior at the court of King Arthur, an interpreter

He was said to be able to talk to the birds and animals and was sent to accompany Culhwch on his quest for the hand of Olwen.

In some accounts he was a magician and could change into a bird; others say he was a Knight of the Round Table.

Gwri Welsh
[Guri]
the name first given to Pryderi by the couple who found him after he had been abandoned

Gwrnach British [Gwernach.Wrnach.Wrynach]
a giant

In some accounts, he was the owner of a magic sword, Dyrnwyn, that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Kay got his hands on the sword on the pretext of polishing it and used it to decapitate Gwrnach.

Gwrvan (see Gwrfan) Gwrwawr British
an ancestor of King Arthur

Gwrytheyrn Welsh
the Welsh name for Vortigern

Gwyar<sup>1</sup> Welsh
[Gore]
a war-goddess

Gwyar<sup>2</sup> Welsh
[Gore]
wife of Lot
mother of Dioneta and Gwalchmai

In some accounts, she was the sister of King Arthur, mother of Gwalchmai by Arthur and mother of Hoel by Ymer.

Originally Gwyar was regarded as the father of Gwalchmai, latterly as his mother. (see also Anna)

Gwyddawg British
son of Menestyr
father of Arwyli

He killed Kay and was himself killed by King Arthur.

gwyddbwyll Welsh [=Irish fidchell]
a board game played by gods and mortals

In the story of Rhonabwy's dream, King Arthur was playing this game against Owain.

Gwyddeu (see Gwyddno)
Gwyddno Garanhir
(see Gwyddno Garanhirtan)

Gwyddno Garanhirtan Welsh
[Dewrarth.Gwyddno Garanhir Gwyddeu.Urien]
king of Gwaelod
a salmon-fisher
father of Elphin

He and his son found and rescued the infant thrown into the sea by Ceridwen and raised him, calling him Taliesin.

Some say that he is the same as Gwyddno Longshanks and the hamper was a never-empty cauldron.

Gwyddno Longshanks Welsh
[Gwyddeu Longshanks]
ruler of Cantr'r Gwaelod, an undersea kingdom owner of a never-empty hamper, Mwys Gwyddno

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get this hamper as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Some say that he is the same as Gwyddno Garanhirtan.

Gwyddolwyn Welsh
[Gidolin.Gwyddolwyn]
a dwarf
owner of the bottles that kept liquids warm

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get these bottles as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Gwyddrei British
a gatekeeper of King Arthur's palace
He was said to be able to see in the dark.

Gwydion<sup>1</sup> Welsh
[Gwair.Gwydion:=Irish Ogma:
=Roman Ogmios]
a magician and war-god
nephew and deputy for Math,
king of Gwynedd
son of Beli and Don

brother of Aranrhod and Gilfaethwy
father of Nwyvre by Aranrhod
When his brother Gilfaethwy fell in love with Goewen, one of Math's footholders, he organised the battle necessary to get Math away from her. He did this by swapping some phantom horses for a herd of pigs owned by Pryderi and coveted by Math. When Pryderi discovered that the horses were merely a magician's illusion, he marched on Gwynedd.

While Math was away at war, Gilfaethwy seduced Goewen who was dismissed from her post when Math returned. Gwydion tried to have Aranrhod appointed in her place but, when tested for virginity by Math's magic wand, she produced a baby, Dylan. Gwydion collected in a handkerchief a drop of blood that appeared at the same time and put it in a chest. It developed into another baby, the boy Llew, who was raised by Gwydion as his own. Math punished Gwydion and Gilfaethwy by turning them successively into male and female deer, pigs and wolves. In each form they produced offspring and in these forms he was the 'father' of Hyddwn as a deer, Hychdwn as a pig and Bleiddwn as a wolf. Math changed all these young animals into boys and later restored both Gwydion and Gilfaethwy to human form.

In some versions there was a third child of Aranrhod, all fathered by Gwydion.

He is said to have led the forces that fought the Battle of Godeu against the forces of Arawn.

In some accounts, he created Taliesin.

Gwydion<sup>2</sup> Welsh
[Gwydyon]
a herdsman for the tribe of Gwynedd
Gwydolwyn (see Gwyddolwyn)
Gwydre<sup>1</sup> British

an illegitimate son of King Arthur
He was killed when a member of the party hunting the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Gwydre<sup>2</sup> British
nephew of Hueil

He was killed by King Arthur who fought his uncle, Hueil, when the latter tried to exact vengeance. Hueil succeeded only in wounding the king.

Gwydyon (see Gwydion)
Gwyglet Welsh

a warrior-hero

Gwyl British
a mistress of King Arthur daughter of Gendawd

Gwyl Awst (see Calan Awst)
gwyllion Welsh

mischievous spirits: cruel fairies
These spirits are said to appear in the form of ugly females, sometimes seen as goats.

Gwyn<sup>1</sup> Welsh
[Gwynn ap Nudd:=British Herne] king of the fairies, lord of the dead son of Lludd brother of Gwythyr, some say

Some say he is Arawn, king of the underworld, who left the underworld to become king of the fairies. Others say that King Arthur made him king of the underworld.

He carried off Creiddylad who had been promised to Gwythyr who then raised an army and attacked Gwyn. Gwyn won the battle, taking many prisoners and killing Nwython, forcing Nwython's son Cyledyr to eat his father's heart. King Arthur intervened to make peace between Gwyn and Gwythyr, decreeing that Creiddylad should be returned to her father, Lludd, and that the two suitors for her hand should fight each other every May Day until the end of time, the final winner to take the woman.

Some say that he was also a member of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen. In some accounts, he is given as Creiddylad's brother, in others he is equated with Gwyn, son of Tringad.

(see also Guynas.Gwyn<sup>2</sup>)

Gwyn<sup>2</sup> Welsh
a warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Tringad

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to obtain the help of Gwyn, riding his horse Du, in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth. He was killed by the boar during the hunt.

In some accounts he is equated with Gwyn ap Nudd.

Gwyn Dunmane Welsh
[Gwyn(n) Mygd(d)wn]
the horse of Gwedd

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get this animal for use in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Gwyn Gloy (see Gwyn Gohoyw)

Gwyn Gloyw (see Gwyn Gohoyw)

Gwyn Gohoyw Welsh

[Gwynn Gloy(w)]
father of Cigfa

Gwyn Hen Welsh
[Gwyn the Old]
father of Heilyn

Gwyn Llogell Gwyr British
an elder at King Arthur's court

Gwyn Mygdawn

(see Gwyn Dunmane)

Gwyn Mygdwn (see Gwyn Dunmane)

Gwyn the Old (see Gwyn Hen)

Gwyngelli Welsh
a warrior and companion of
King Arthur

When the boar Twrch Trwyth was brought to bay in the Severn, Gwyngelli grabbed him by the feet and dragged him under the water.

Gwynhwfar (see Guinevere)

Gwynn ap Nudd (see Gwyn<sup>1</sup>)

Gwynn Gloy (see Gwyn Gohoyw)

Gwynn Gloyw (see Gwyn Gohoyw)

Gwynn Mygdwn
(see Gwyn Dun Mane)

Gwynn Mygdwn
(see Gwyn Dun Mane)

Gwynnlym (see Gwynnlim)

Gwynnlim British

[Gwynnlym]
king of Gwynllyg
father of St Cadoc

He abducted St Gwladys and was helped by King Arthur to escape the pursuing Brychan, her father.

Gwri Gwallt-ecuryr Welsh

a Welsh hero, an early version of Gawain

Gwys Welsh

a young boar
offspring of Twrch Trwyth

Gwythyr British

son of Greidwl
brother of Gwyn ap Nudd,
some say

Gwyn carried off Creiddylad, the intended bride of Gwythyr, who raised an army to recover her but was defeated in battle. King Arthur intervened, making peace between them and decreeing that Creiddylad should be returned to her father, Lludd, and that the two suitors for her hand should fight each other every May Day until the end of time, the final winner to keep the woman.

Some say that he was also a member of the party that accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

gyal-tsan dsemo Tibetan
a form of prayer-flag (see also da-cha)

Gyalin Tibetan

king of the realm of demi-gods

Gyas (see Gyges)

gydja Norse

an Icelandic priestess

Gyes (see Gyges)

Gyfnewid, Llasar Llaes (see Llasar)

Gygantioen (see Gwengasoain)

Gyges<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Gyas.Gyes]

one of the Hundred-handed ones

son of Uranus and Gaea

brother of Briaraeus

and Cottus

He was killed by Heracles in the battle between the gods and the giants.

Gyges<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Gyes]

a shepherd who became king of Lydia
He found a horse made of brass hidden in a crack in the earth and opened it. Inside was the body of a giant wearing a magic ring. Gyges took the ring, which conferred invisibility on the wearer, and used it to gain access to the king's palace where he killed the king, Candaules, and seduced his wife.

Another story says that Candaules forced his wife to appear naked before Gyges so that he could admire her beauty. This so enraged Gyges that she persuaded Gyges to kill her husband and then married his killer.

gygr Norse

the female version of jotun (giant)

Gylfa-ginning Norse

[The Deluding of Gylfi]
a story from the Younger Edda of Gylfi's visit to Odin's palace

Gylfe (see Gylfi)

Gylfi Norse

[Gylfe]

king of Sweden

When he made the journey to the palace of Odin, disguised as the old man Gangleri, to find out about the gods, he was mystified by the three deities Har, Iafn-Har and Thridi, and the gatekeeper, Gangler, who related the Norse myths and then disappeared, together with the palace.

In another version, Gangler is the king of Sweden, the myths are related to him by the three mysterious gods and the gatekeeper is not named.

Gylli Norse

[Gyllir]

a horse of the gods

Gyllir (see Gylli)

Gymer (see Gyimir)

Gymir<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Gymer]

a sea-giant

a shepherd of Gollweig

son of Aegir and Ran

father of Beli and Gerda

brother of Mimir (see also Gyimir<sup>2</sup>)

Gyimir<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Gymer]

a name of Aegir as 'concealer'

In some accounts, the same as Gyimi the sea-giant.

Gyneth British

daughter of King Arthur by Gwendolen Merlin put her under a spell from which she was wakened by Roland de Vaux.

Gyngalyn (see Gingalin)

Gyoli (see Giall)

gyromancy
a form of divination

In this system, a participant walks round and round in a circle until he becomes dizzy and falls over. Prophecy is based on the direction towards which the person falls.

gytrash British

[guytrash]
a ghost haunting byways: the spirit of a horse, mule or dog

In some accounts, this is the same as the bargaist.

gyu-O Japanese

a form of lie-detector
An accused person swears on oath,

using a white paper bearing the rough outline of a crow or raven, which is then burnt. The accused then swallows the ashes and, if he lied, he will be devoured by the gyu-O.

H

H Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity,
referred to as god H

This deity seems to be connected with the serpent.

Ha' Chinese
[Ch'en Chi.The Blower]
a general who was deified as a door-god

Ha was originally Ch'en Chi, a marshal at the court of the emperor Chou Wang.

He and Hang did a service for the magician Tu O who rewarded Ha with the power to breathe out poison gas.
He met Hang, who could project fatal rays from his nostrils and who had defected to the opposing army, in battle and was killed.

He was made one of Buddha's guards in heaven when he died.

He is sometimes equated with Chin-kang and he and Hang together are referred to as Hang Ha Erh Chiang.

Ha<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
a guardian god of the desert
Lord of the Libyans

(see also Hah)

ha<sup>3</sup> Egyptian
an entity not dependent on the physical body, one of the 5 elements comprising the complete being

Ha-loa Pacific Islands
second child of Wakea

He was the ancestral founder of the Hawaiian people by his own daughter Ho'ohoku-ka-lani.

Ha-nui-o-rangi (see Hanui-o-rangi)

Ha Wen Neyiu North American
a supreme god of the Iroquois

Ha-mori Japanese
a guardian god of the leaves of trees

Ha-Yama-to Japanese consort of O-Ge-Tsu-Hime father of Wake-Sa-ne-me and Waka-toshi

haab Central American
the Mayan solar year (see also time)

Haagenti (see Hagenti)

Haakon (see Hakon)

Haapi (see Hapy)

Haatan
a demon said to hide treasure

Habbat-ar-Rumani African
a blind man

He found seven doves, one of which was blind. One of the other doves found a magic herb that cured their blindness and they all lived together in the Castle of Light.

Habeg Korean
Lord of the River
father of Yuhwa

When Yuhwa became pregnant by Hemosu, Habeg turned her out of the house.

Habergeis European
in the Tyrol, an evil bird

The cry of this bird, an instrument of the devil, portends death and anybody who imitates it is torn to pieces.

Habotchkilawetha North American ['oat goat']
a spirit of vegetation

(see also field spirit)

Habonde European [=Norse Fulla]

a Danish goddess of abundance

Habondia
a queen of spirits, witches, etc.

Haborim (see Aini)

Haborym (see Aini)

Habren British

[Hebren.Sabra.Sabre.Sabrina]
daughter of Locrinus and Estrildis

Locrinus, married to Gwendolen, fell in love with the German prisoner Estrildis and fathered on her a daughter named Habren (or Sabra or Sabrina) or, in some versions, a son named Hebren. When Locrinus finally rejected Gwendolen and married Estrildis, Gwendolen fled to her son Maddan in Cornwall and they raised an army which fought and defeated
Locrinus who was killed in the battle.
Gwendolen took over as queen and had Estrildis and Habren thrown into the river Severn. In some versions, Estrildis was buried alive.

Habrok Norse
the hawk owned by the Danish king
Hrolf Kraki

This bird was once put in a cage with thirty Swedish hawks which were supposed to kill Habrok. Instead, Habrok killed all of them.

Habyarimana African
a name of Imana as 'he who gives children'

Hacavitz Central American
a god of the Quiche Indians
He was turned to stone by the rays of the sun.

Hachacyum (see Nohochacyum)

Hache European
son of Berchther
father of Eckhardt

Hachiman Japanese
[God of the Eight Banderoles.Ojin.

Yahata:=Buddhist Daibosatsu]
a Shinto god of war

He was originally the emperor Ojin, son of the empress Jingo, and later deified.

Hachioji Japanese
a group of 8 deities (3 female, 5 male) spat out by Amaterasu and Susanowa

Hackebz (see Hackelberend)

Hackelberend Norse
[Hackeberg.Hackel-berend. 'mantle-bearer']

a name for Odin as a wind-god
Hackelberg, Hans von Norse
a suggested leader of the Wild Hunt

He was condemned for ever to hunt in the air as punishment for his sins.

Hacklespin British
the English version of Calcabrina

Haco (see Hakon)

Hacou (see Hakon)

Hactce (see Gahe)

Hactci (see Gahe)

Hactcin (see Gahe)

Hadachisi North American
a Navaho destroyer-god
one of the Yeibechei

Hadad Mesopotamian
[Dad(da).Dadu.Kurgal.Martu: =Babylonian Adad:=Phoenician

Balmarcodes]
a Syrian weather-god
consort of Atargatis or Asherah

Hadburg Norse
a swan-maiden
aunt of Siegelinde

Hagen met her and Siegelinde when he was en route to Etzel's court and Hadburg prophesied good fortune. As soon as Hagen returned their garments which he had seized, Hadburg prophesied doom.

Hadding<sup>1</sup> Danish

[Haddingr]
a hero
son of Orvandil and Groa
brother of Svipdag

He was a favourite of Odin who helped him in some of his battles.

After the death of his father, Hadding was nursed by Hardgrip and reared by Odin who gave him a drink called Leifner's Flames, which gave him great strength and courage.

He became king of Sweden and waged war against the Danes who were led by his half-brother, Gudhorn. He also killed a monster, only to find that it was Svipdag in disguise.

Hadding<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Haddingr]
a sea-god

He was wounded by a fellow suitor for Ragnhild. She nursed him, leaving a ring in the wound. When she later had to choose between a group of suitors, she was able to identify Hadding by touch. After some years, he longed for the sea and she for the hills, so they parted.

Haddingr (see Hadding)

Hades<sup>1</sup> Greek [Aides.Aidoneus.Ais.

Clymenos.Euboleus.Eubouteous.
Klymenos.Plouton.Pluteus.
Pluto.Polydectes.Polydegmon.Pylartes.
Stygeros.'unseen'.Zeus Katachthonios:
=Egyptian Serapis:=Japanese Emma-O: =Norse Ymir:=Pacific Islands Yamaraja:=Persian Yima:=Roman Aidoneus.

Dis (Pater).Dives.Orcus.Pluto]
god of the underworld, god of wealth
one of the Olympians

son of Cronus and Rhea brother of Demeter, Hera, Hestia, Poseidon and Zeus

husband of Persephone
He abducted Demeter's daughter Core and, as Persephone, made her his wife and Queen of the Dead.

When Heracles captured the dog Cerberus as his twelfth Labour, he wounded Hades who had to go up to Mount Olympus to be healed by Asclepius.

He wears a helmet of invisibility given to him by the Cyclopes and is depicted as a stern god with a beard and crowned head, holding a key and a sceptre.

Hades<sup>2</sup> Greek

[=Hebrew She'ol]
hell (see also Tartarus<sup>1</sup>)

Hadhayaosh (see Hadhayosh)

Hadhayosh Persian

[Sarsaok:=Hebrew Behemoth]
a primaevial ox

The beast carried people across the primaevial waters that were known as Vourukasha.

Hadiganso Shano North American

[False Face Society.Gagaso]

an organisation of Iroquois shamans

This group purported to cure the sick by ritual dancing and the use of carved wooden masks or 'faces'. They were assisted by the Gadjisa.

Hadir (see Khadir)

Hadubrand Norse

son of Hildebrand and Ute

He grew up while his father was away fighting alongside Dietrich and met him in battle, each not knowing the other. They finally recognised the relationship and were reunited.

Hadui North American

an Iroquois supernatural hunchback
Although he was said to cause disease, he nevertheless passed on to Ioskeha the secrets of medicines to cure diseases.

Hadur (see European)

a Hungarian deity, light personified

Haedcyn Anglo-Saxon

[Haethcyn]

son of King Hredel

haematomancy

divination based on the way blood runs from a victim

Haemon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Haimon]

son of Creon

husband of Antigone

When Antigone buried the body of Polyneices, killed at Thebes, against the orders of Creon the king, she was handed over to the king's son, Haemon, with instructions to bury her alive. Instead, he married her and they had a son. He killed both himself and his wife when their son was sentenced to death by Creon.

In some accounts, Antigone, imprisoned in a cave, hanged herself and Haemon fell on his sword in despair.

Yet another story says that Haemon failed to answer the riddle of the Sphinx who carried him off and ate him.

Haemon<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Haimon]

son of Andraemon and Dryope

father of Oxylus, some say

Haemon<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Haimon]
son of Pelasgus
father of Thessalus

haemony
a plant said, in Milton's works, to ward off evil spells

Haethcyn (see Haedcyn)

Haeva German
a minor deity

Hafdan (see Havgan)

Haferboch German

['oat goat']
a spirit of vegetation
(see also field spirit)

Havgan (see Havgan)

Hafra-drottin Norse

a name for Thor as lord of goats

hag

an evil witch or sorceress in the form of an ugly woman: a she-devil

These beings are said to ride people, particularly young men, at night, to the extent that their victim wakes up exhausted. In extreme cases, the person affected may die.

hag-knots

tangled hair in a horse's mane, said to be caused by witches

Hag of Beara (see Cailleach Bheur)

Hag of Hell (see Black Witch)

Hag of Iarnvid (see Gollweig<sup>1</sup>)

Hag of the Cats Irish

a hag who, they say, was fed by cats

Hag of the Mill Irish

[White Goddess]
a fairy affecting those driven mad

hag-stone

a naturally occurring flint with a hole in it

These stones may be hung round the neck or a bedpost etc, to ward off evil.

Hagal Norse

the tutor of Helgi

Hagan (see Hagen<sup>2</sup>)

Hagano (see Hagen<sup>2</sup>)

Hagbard (see Harbard)

Hagbardr (see Harbard)

Hagbarth (see Harbard)

Hagbarthar (see Harbard)

Hagbarthus (see Harbard)

Hagedises (see disir)

Hagen<sup>1</sup> German

son of Sigeband

husband of Hilde

father of Hilde

At the age of seven, he was carried off by a griffin and lived for many years in a cave with three young girls who had likewise been abducted. These were Hildburg, Hilde and another princess.

When the body of a soldier was thrown up by the sea, he took the armour and weapons from the corpse and killed the griffins and the four of them were rescued by a passing ship, only to find themselves in the hands of Count Garadie, an old enemy of Hagen's father. Hagen threw most of the crew overboard and compelled Garadie to take him to his father's court where he discovered that his father had died. He took the throne and married Hilde who bore him a daughter, also called Hilde.

Hagen<sup>2</sup> German

[Amelrich.Hagan(o).Hagru:=Norse

Hogni]

a Burgundian knight

brother of Dankwart

father of Aldrian and Hilda

In the Völsung Cycle he is Hogni.

In the Nibelungenlied he kills Siegfried and is himself killed by Krimhild. The story goes that, on a visit to Gunther's court, Gunther's sister, Krimhild, quarrelled with Gunther's wife, Brunhild, and Hagen plotted to avenge the insult to Brunhild by killing Siegfried. He induced Gunther to invite Siegfried to the court on a later occasion on the pretext of requiring his help to repel an invasion. Hagen took the opportunity of the visit to kill Siegfried by stabbing him with a spear in the one point in the middle of his back where he was vulnerable. At Siegfried's funeral, Hagen touched the body which was lying in state and it started to bleed where he touched it, betraying him as the killer. Krimhild vowed vengeance and, when she married Etzel, she persuaded him to invite Gunther and his nobles to the court. On the journey, Hagen met two swan-maidens one of whom, Siegelinde, prophesied death. He also, using the name Amelrich, killed a ferryman and used his boat to cross a river.

At Etzel's court, Brodelin was bribed by Krimhild to kill Gunther's party and Hagen, who escaped the first attack, killed Etzel's child, Ortlieb. After the Burgundians survived an attempt to burn down the hall in which they were besieged, they were again attacked by forces led by Rudiger. Only Gunther and Hagen escaped with their lives and both were taken prisoner and handed over to Krimhild. She beheaded her brother, Gunther, and used his severed head to try to force Hagen to reveal where in the Rhine he had hidden the Nibelung treasure. When he refused, she killed him.

Another story says that, as a young boy, Hagen (here, Hagano) was handed over as a hostage by the king, Gibich, together with a tribute of gold, when Attila (Etzel) threatened to overrun his kingdom, since the king's own son, Gunther, was just a baby at the time. At the Hun's court, Hagen met another hostage, Walther, and they became lifelong friends. A third hostage was Hildegunde with whom Walther was in love. The boys were schooled in the arts of war by Attila and became great warriors. Hagen escaped and returned to Burgundy where Gunther had become king on the death of his father. Later, Walther and Hildegunde also escaped, taking with them much of the Hun's treasure and Gunther insisted that he and Hagen should find the fugitives, kill them and seize the treasure. In the ensuing fights, Walther killed all the warriors sent against him and finally met the two leaders. Gunther lost a leg and Hagen lost an eye in the encounter but they nevertheless became reconciled with Walther whose right hand had been cut off in the engagement.

In the Wagnerian story of the Ring, Hagen plotted to get his hands on the Ring of Power and stabbed Siegfried in the back. When Brunhilde, dying on Siegfried's funeral pyre, threw the ring into the Rhine, the Rhine-maidens rose to claim it on a huge wave that drowned Hagen as he snatched at the ring.

Some versions say that he was the son of Krimhild by Alberich.

(see also Hogni)

Hagenit (see Hagenti)

Hagenith (see Hagenti)

Hagenti

[Haagenti.Hagenit(h)]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to have the power of transmutation and appears in the form of a bull with wings.

Haggit

[Hag(g)it(h)]

one of the 7 Olympic Spirits

This being was said to rule the planet Venus and to have the power of transmutation of metals.

Haggith (see Haggit)

Hagit (see Haggit)

Hagith (see Haggit)

Hagnias Greek
father of Tiphys, some say

Hagoromo Buddhist
a tennin who visited earth and left her robe behind when she returned to paradise

Hagru (see Hagen<sup>2</sup>)

Hags of Doom (see Amaite Aidgill)

Hags of Gloucester British
9 witches

These appear in the story of Peredur at the Fortress of Marvels as the Witches of Caer Llyw, one of whom trained Peredur in the arts of war. They were killed by King Arthur and his war-band.

Hah Egyptian
a god, eternity and infinity
personified

He is depicted holding up the heavens with his raised arms and holding a palm-frond.

Hahab
a demon associated with royalty

Hahabi
a demon of fear

Hahai Wugti North American [Hahaiwugti.Spider-woman]
a spirit of of the Hopi people

In some accounts, she takes the place of the Navaho spider-woman, Naste Etsan. (see also Kokyangwuti.

Naste Etsan.Spider Woman)

Hahaiwugti (see Hahai Wugti)

Hahana Ku Central American
a Mayan messenger-god

Hahanu Mesopotamian
a minor Sumerian god

Hahektaok (see Heitlik)

Hahgwehdaetgah North American
a name used for Tawiscara, in some accounts

son of Ataensic
twin of Hahgwehdiyu

These twins were known as the Doyadano.

Hahgwehdiyu North American
a name used for loskeha, in some accounts

son of Ataensic
twin of Hahgwehdaetgah

These twins were known as the Doyadano.

Hahness North American [=Nootka Tu-tutsh:=Makah Kaikaitch]

the thunderbird of the Chinook
This bird, a raven, first appeared when Too-lux cut open a whale. Its eggs were eaten by Quoos-hooi and the men appeared from these eggs.

Hai Ho Shang Japanese

a monster in the form of a huge fish
This beast was said to have a shaven head like a monk and was regarded as the spirit of the unquiet dead sailors.

Hai-en-Wat-ha (see Hiawatha)

Hai-uri African
a half-bodied monster in the lore of the Hottentot

Haia Mesopotamian
a Sumerian god of store-houses husband of Nunbarsegenu or Nanse

Ha'iaka (see Hiiaka)

Haibet Egyptian
the shadow: one's other self

Haid Norse
a vala

When Odin felt that the end of the world was near, he consulted Haid who told him how the world would end but could tell him nothing about what would follow Ragnarok.

(see also Heid<sup>1</sup>)

haiden Japanese
part of a shrine for the use of devotees (see also heiden)

Haidu North American
the spirit of disease

Ioskeha defeated Haidu and forced him to reveal the secrets of medicine which he then passed on to the tribes.

Haietleik (see Heitlik)

Haietlik (see Heitlik)

Haikili Pacific Islands
a Hawaiian thunder-god

Haili'laj North American
a plague-god of the Haida Indians

Haimati (see Haimavati)

Haimavati Hindu
[Haimati.Snow Queen]
an epithet of Devi or Parvati, referring to her birth in the Himalayas

Haimon (see Haemon)

Hainowele East Indian
a female deity

She was born from a coconut. The men of the tribe killed her and cut her body into pieces which, when buried, produced the fruits of the earth.

Haiowatha (see Hiawatha)

Hairy Chief (see No'a-huruhuru)

Hairy One, The (see gruacach)

Hairuku Japanese
a fisherman

He found a robe made of white feathers hanging on a tree. It turned out to belong to a moon-maiden who was bathing in the sea. When he gave it to her, she danced for him and then flew off to her home on the moon.

Haithne Irish

[Four-angled Music.Oak of Two Greens]
the Dagda's harp

When it was stolen by the Fomoiré, it flew off the wall where it had been hung, killed those who stole it and put the others to sleep with its music.

Haitsi-aibab (see Heitsi-eibib)

Haiu Egyptian
a serpent, night, which forever chased
the moon

Haiuri African
a Hottentot demon

This being, resembling half a man sliced vertically, collected victims and took them down to the underworld.

Haiwa Arab

the Arab name for Eve, wife of Adam mother of Abil(Abel) and Kabil(Cain)

Hak (see Heket)

Haka Arab
a name for the moon

hakata African carved wooden sticks, plates or tablets used in divination

Hakawau New Zealand
a Maori sorcerer

Two other sorcerers, Puarata and Tautohito, owned a wooden head which killed all who came near their fortress. Hakawau, by superior magic, overcame the power of the two sorcerers and their head and entered their stronghold. When he left he killed all those inside with a clap of his hands.

Hakhma (see Sophia<sup>1</sup>)

Haki Norse
an early king of Norway

Hakim African
brother of Azimu

When he threw a spear at Khadu, god deflected it so that it struck Hakim.

Hako North American

a fertility rite of the Pawnees

This ceremony celebrates the creation of the world by Atius Tirawa.

Hakon<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Haakon.Haco(n).Hocken]

a warrior-king
father of Thora

The Valkyries Gondul and Skogul selected this warrior to fall in battle as a valuable addition to the ranks of slain warriors in Valhalla.

Hakon<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Haakon.Haco(n).Hocken]

a rich merchant

Her parents promised the young Ketilrid to Hakon but she was in love with Viglund. Hoping to get rid of Viglund, Hakon, aided by Ketilrid's two brothers, laid an ambush for Viglund and his brother Trausti, both, of whom were wounded. It did Hakon no good – Ketilrid went through a form of marriage with her uncle, Ketil, and married Viglund when he later returned from overseas.

Hakon<sup>3</sup> Norse
[Haakon.Haco(n).Hocken]
a good king

He is due to take over after Ragnarok, in some accounts.

Hakona Tipu Pacific Islands
the south wind (see also 'Tua-uo Loa)

Hala<sup>1</sup> Hindu
the ploughshare of Balarama

He used this ploughshare as his favourite weapon.

Hala<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
[=Babylonian Gula]
a Kassite goddess of healing

halak<sup>3</sup> (see halak)

Halach uinic Central American
Mayan judges of good and evil: a high caste status

Halache
a demon associated with sympathy

Halahala<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
a god of poison

halahala<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the poison regurgitated by the serpent Vasuki at the Churning of the Ocean This poison was swallowed by Shiva who held it in his throat.

halak Malay [belian orang.hala]
a shaman

The halak is said to be able to diagnose illness using a magic crystal and to effect cures by untangling the roots of a shrub dug up by his assistant. Some say that the halak has the power to change into a tiger.

Halak Ghimal Malay
a chinoi

This supernatural being sits on Mat Chinoi's back and supervises the contents of his stomach.

Halasa (see du'1 Halasa)

Halayudha Hindu
a name for Balarama reflecting his use of the ploughshare, Hala, as a weapon

halcyon Greek
the kingfisher: the bird of Tethys

Halcyone (see Alcyone)

halda'wit North American
a witch of the Tshimshian tribe

These people keep a piece of a corpse in a box and use it to bewitch others, causing illness or even death. Should he kill somebody in this way, the witch himself will die unless he walks round the dead person's house and crawls round his grave wearing the skin of some animal.

Any person observing the rites of a halda'wit must join the ranks or be killed.

haldde Baltic
a Lappish nature spirit

Haldi Armenian
a guardian god
husband of Bagvarti

haldja (see haltija)

hale African magic employed by the Mende

Halesus Greek
son of Agamemnon

He was a bastard son of Agamemnon who escaped when his father, together with Cassandra and her twin sons, was murdered by Clytemnestra and her lover Aegisthus.

Half Boys (see Split Boys)

Halfdan<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Healfdene]
son of Belé
brother of Helgi and Ingeborg

After the death of their father, Halfdan and Helgi jointly ruled the kingdom of Sogn. When Sigurd Ring asked for the hand of Ingeborg, his sister, Halfdan made a joking remark that upset the old king of Ringric who then sent in his army. He and Helgi sent Hilding to persuade Frithiof to fight for them but he, having been insulted by Helgi, refused to help. They then signed a treaty with the invading king, paid him an annual tribute and gave him Ingeborg in marriage. In later years, in one story, he made friends with Frithiof and gave him Ingeborg as his wife.

Halfdan<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Healfdene]
husband of Signe-Alveig

He captured Orvandil, his wife Groa and their son Svipdag. He then forced Orvandil (or Egil) to shoot an apple off the top of Svipdag's head and fathered a son, Gudhorn, on Groa, his sister-in-law. He was later killed by Svipdag.

Halfdan Svarti Norse
a 9th c king of Norway

He was cut into quarters, one for each of four districts.

Halia Greek [Helia]
a sea-woman
mother of Rhode by Poseidon,
some say

Haliae Greek
sea-women: attendants of Dionysus

Haliartus<sup>1</sup> Greek
son of Sisyphus and Merope
brother of Coronus

Haliartus<sup>2</sup> Greek
the site of Telphusa's spring

Halieia Greek
a festival in honour of Helios, held in Rhodes

Halirrhothius Greek
a water-god
son of Poseidon and Euryte

He abducted Alcippe the daughter of Ares who pursued and killed him.

In another story, he was cutting down trees in a grove sacred to Athena when he accidentally struck himself with the axe and died.

Halitherses Greek
a prophet
son of Mastor

He predicted the safe return of Odysseus.

Halki Mesopotamian
a Hurrian corn-god

Halkis Mesopotamian
[=Hattic Kait]
a Hittite god of oaths

Hall of Judgement Egyptian
[Hall of Two Truths.Maaty]
the place in the underworld where the souls of the dead were judged by 42 judges

Hall of Two Truths
(see Hall of Judgement)

Hallgerda Norse
wife of Gunnar Lambason

In some accounts, it was her quarrel with Bergthora that started the feud between the Njalssons and the Sigfussons. When her husband, finally trapped, asked for a lock of her hair with which to make a new bowstring, she refused to give him one.

Hallinskide (see Heimdall)

Hallinskidi (see Heimdall)

Hallowes (see Hellowes)

Hallows
emblems or symbols of power or veneration

Many cultures have collections of such objects, a modern example of which are the British Crown Jewels.

Earlier collections are the Thirteen Treasures of Britain and an Irish collection which includes the Lia Fail, the spear of Lugh, the sword of Nuada and the cauldron of the Dagda.

In magic, the four elements are the pentacle, the cup, the spear and the sword.

Arthurian lore lists the Holy Grail, the Grail Sword, the spear which struck the Dolorous Blow and a dish for the head of the guardian of the Grail.

(see also Treasures of Britain)

Halmus (see Almus)

Haloa Greek

a festival in honour of Demeter, Dionysus or Poseidon

Haloeris (see Horus the Elder)

Halogaland Norse

a name for Norway under the rule of Haloge

Haloge Norse

a name of Loki as ruler of northern Norway

He was said to have two daughters carried off by husbands to nearby islands. One of these couples on Bornholm produced a son, Viking.

halomancy (see alomancy)

Halpas (see Halphas)

Halphas

[Halpas]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

This being is said to provoke wars and appears in the form of a stork or a dove.

haltia (see haltija)

haltija Finnish

[haldja.haltia.ort.urt]

a guardian spirit: the soul or spirit immanent in all things

(see also varjohaltija)

halulu Pacific Islands

a ghost: the soul of a dead person

Halys Greek

a river-god of Asia Minor

Ham<sup>1</sup> African

[=Swahili Hamu]

son of Noah

He was turned black as punishment for disobeying his father's order not to have intercourse with his wife during their time in the Ark. He became king of Egypt and his sons were the progenitors of the African tribes.

Ham<sup>2</sup> Irish

son of Noah

He is regarded as a progenitor of the Fomoiré.

Ham<sup>3</sup> Norse

a witch

sister of Heid

She and Heid were used by Helgé to cause a storm that nearly wrecked Frithiof's ship en route to the Orkneys. She was killed when the ship ran down the whale on which she and Heid were riding.

In other accounts, the two witches were called Thorgrim and Thorod.

Hama (see Heimdall)

hamadryad

[plur=hamadryades]

a tree nymph who lived and died

with the tree for which she was responsible (see also dryad)

Hamguchi Japanese

a farmer who was deified as the god of agriculture

Hamal (see Al Hamal)

Hamaliel

a demon, ruler of the Zodiacal sign

Virgo, the virgin (see also Schaltiel)

Hamavehae Roman

3 Celtic mother-goddesses of Germany

hamaya Japanese

arrows used at New Year as good-luck charms

Hambarus Armenian

spirits of deserted places

Hambei Japanese

a gardener

A noble gave him money to be allowed to transplant an ancient plum tree from Hambei's garden but Hambei sent the money back when Sumono, the spirit of the tree, wept. The angry noble slashed at Hambei with his sword but succeeded only in cutting off a branch of the plum tree which fell on his head. The weakened tree died soon afterwards and the noble's father died at the same time.

Hamdir Norse

son of Jonakur and Gudrun

brother of Erp and Sorli

In one version of the story of Gudrun and Atli, Gudrun survived an attempted suicide by drowning and married King Jonakur by whom she had three more sons, Erp, Hamdir and Sorli.

When her daughter Swanhild was killed by Ermenrich, Gudrun ordered her three sons to avenge her daughter's death. En route, Hamdir and Sorli killed their younger brother thinking him too young to be involved in such an enterprise. When they found the king, they cut off his hands and feet. Only the intervention of Odin stopped them from killing the king and both of the brothers were stoned to death, on the orders of Odin, by the king's subjects.

Hamedicu North American

a supreme god of the Hurons

Hamestagen Persian

[Hamistakan]

purgatory

Hamingja (see Fylgukona)

Hamistakan (see Hamestagen)

Hamlet (see Amleth)

Hammadi African

a prince

He saved the princess Fatouma who was about to be devoured by the Dragon of the Lake and married her.

Hammarsbeimt Norse

[Homecoming of the Hammer.Lay of

Thrym.Thrimms-Kvida.Thrymskvida]

a story in the Elder Edda relating how Thor's hammer was recovered after it had been stolen by Thrym

Hammer God (see Sucellus)

Hammer, The European

the name given to Charles Martel after his victory over the Saracens

Hammon African

[=Egyptian Amen]

a Libyan sun-god (see also Amon)

Hammu-Mata Hindu

a local mother-goddess

Hamond Norse

[Hamund]

son of Sigmund and Borghild

brother of Helgi

Hamou Japanese

a god of leaves

Hamoun (see Kasavya)

hamsa Hindu

[hansa]

Brahma's transport, the swan (or goose) as a symbol of the sun: an avatar of Vishnu as a goose: a manifestation of Brahma

It was said that, given a mixture of milk and water, this bird drank only the milk.

Hamsika Hindu

daughter of Surabhi

She is regarded as the supporter of heaven at the south corner.

Hamskerpir Norse

a horse, sire of Gna's

horse Hofvarpnir

Hamti Egyptian

a farmer

He seized the ass and its load which the owner, a peasant, was taking to market. The peasant appealed to the landowner, Meritensa, who was also a judge, and he placed the matter before the king. The latter was so impressed by the peasant's eloquence that he ordered Meritensa to confiscate Hamti's property and to recompense the peasant.

Hamu (see Ham<sup>1</sup>)

Hamund (see Hamond)

Hamus Persian

a ruler of the jinn

Han Chung-liChinese*

[Chi Tao.Chung-li Ch'üan.Ho-ho Tzu.Wang-yang Tzu.Yün Fan]
chief of the Eight Immortals

He was a 1st C soldier who became a hermit.

To test his wife's fidelity, he feigned death, reappearing as a young man. The wife fell in love with him but, when they opened the tomb to obtain the sage's brain, the 'dead' man came back to life and her lover disappeared. She committed suicide by hanging herself.

He was said to have discovered the elixir of life and the secret of transmutation in a box which was revealed when the rock wall of his cave split open.

He is usually depicted as a fat man holding a peach and a fan.

Han Hsiang-tzuChinese*

[Ch'ing Fu.Han Shang-chih]
a 9th c philosopher

one of the Eight Immortals

He was carried to the magic peach-tree by his tutor Lu Tung-pin but he fell out of the tree, becoming immortal. He was said to be able to make flowers grow and bloom immediately or to produce plants with poems written in gold on their leaves.

He was a flute-player who could charm the animals and birds with his music and so became the patron of musicians. His emblem is a flute.

Han-shan TzuChinese*

an 8th c hermit and poet
one of the Eighteen Lohan,
in some accounts

He is described as an ugly man who, dressed in old rags, lived in a cave. His poetry was written on rocks since he had no paper. It was said that he could make himself so small that he could hide in cracks.

Han Shang-chih(see Han Hsiang-tzu)Han ShihChinese*

the eve of Ch'ing Ming

On this day, all fires are put out and only cold food is eaten. The fires are lit again on the following day.

Han Tu-lungChinese* a deity of happiness, an official in the celestial Ministry of Time

Han Wu TiChinese*

a 2nd c magician

Han YüChinese*

[Wen Kung]
(768-824)

a Buddhist philosopher-poet

He was the leader of a revival of Confucianism and he was said to have killed an enormous reptile which was frightening all those living in the area.

He became known as Wen Kung after his death and was deified as God of the Place in Peking.

Hana<sup>1</sup>East Indian*

a sun-god in New Guinea brother of Ni

He mated with his sister to produce the human race but then they retreated to the sky where he became the sun and his sister became the moon.

Ha'na<sup>2</sup>(see A'na)*

Hana Matsuri (see Hanamatsuri)

Hanael

a demon, ruler of the Zodiacal sign
Capricorn, the goat

(see also Semaquel)Hanagaki Baishu(see Baishu)HanamatsuriBuddhist

[Flower Festival.Hana Matsuri]
the Japanese festival of flowers,
April 8th, the birthday of Shaka

Hanamin(see Hanullim)Hanimim(see Hanullim)Hanatu(see Anat)hanbleceyaNorth American*

a vision quest, a period of about 4 days spent in solitude without food, in an attempt to find the answer to some problem

Hand of Glory

the hand of a dead, mad person, soaked in oil, which thieves were said to use as a magic torch

HandsomeNorth American*

an Algonquin maiden

She rejected the suit of Elegant who nearly died of grief. Finally, he made a snowman, bedecked it with the finest clothes and feathers and gave it life, calling it Moowis. Handsome fell in love with Moowis and accompanied him when he left on a long journey. As the days grew warmer, Moowis melted in the sun and the girl was left with nothing but a heap of feathers.

Handsome Mystery (see Gingalin)HandyBritish

a nickname of Gareth

Hanea(see Nane)Hanes TaliesinWelsh*

a book of stories about Taliesin written by Sion Llywelyn

HangChinese*

[Cheng Lun.Heng.The Snorter]
a general who was deified as a door-god

Hang was originally Cheng Lun, a marshal at the court of the emperor Chou Wang.

He and Ha did a service for the magician To O. Hang was rewarded with the power to produce deadly light beams from his nostrils. He was captured and used his power for the opposing army and met Ha, who could breathe out poison gas, in battle. Ha was killed and Hang was later killed by an ox-spirit. He was made one of the Buddha's guards in heaven.

He is sometimes equated with Li-shih and he and Ha together are referred to as Hang Ha Erh Chiang.

Hang Ha Erh ChiangChinese*

[Erh Chiang]

the deified generals Ha and Hang

In some accounts this pair are the Men Shen. (see also Vajrapanibalin)

Hang TuahMalay*

a hero

He and some of his friends are said to have repelled a fleet of pirates. He became a pupil of Adi Putra.

Hanga-Tyr(see Hangagud)HangagudNorse*

[God of the Hanged.Hanga-Tyr]

a name of Odin as 'the hanging god'

This title refers to the nine days he spent hanging from the tree Yggdrasil.

hangdownNorth American*

a fabulous animal

Hanghep WiNorth American*

a Dakota moon-spirit

Hanging HairNorth American*

a tree-spirit in the lore of the tribes of the north-west

She lived in a tree by a river and was unhappy when the whirlpool Keagyihl Depguesk claimed the lives of many young men of the tribe. She was the tribe's protector so she called a meeting of all the other river-spirits and they arranged to curb the whirlpool's power.

Hanging LinesNorth American*

the constellation Orion, in the lore of the Zuni

Hanhau(see Hunhau)HaniMesopotamian*

[Hanis(h)]

a god attendant on Adad

a herald

Hanis(see Hani)Hanish(see Hani)Hanlon(see Anluan)HannahannaMesopotamian*

[Hannahannas]

a Hittite mother-goddess

When Telipinu disappeared she sent a bee to find him.

Hannahannas (see Hannahanna)

Hannya Japanese
an ogress said to devour children

Hannya-sbinkiyō Buddhist a revered Buddhist text

Hanpa Mesopotamian
lord of evil demons father of Pazuzu

hansa (see hamsa)

hantu Malay
a ghost; a demon
These beings are said to capture humans and demand ransom.

Hantu Air Malay
a Malaysian sea-god
(see also Hantu Ayer)

Hantu Ayer Pacific Islands
St Elmo's fire, regarded as a water-spirit (see also Hantu Air)

Hantu Belian Malay
a tiger-demon

Hantu Kibor Malay
a demon of graves

Hantu Kuang Pacific Islands
a dangerous ghost, said to have 100 eyes

Hantu Pemburu Malay
[Hantu si Buru]
a demon hunter

He was supposed to be hunting a pregnant doe but searched instead for a pregnant buck. Naturally, he found no such animal on earth so he sent his hounds into the heavens to search for one there. He watched them working the sky for so long that his head became permanently fixed in an upward-facing position and a leaf fell into his mouth, growing into a plant that covered his face. His spirit still hunts for the mouse-deer.

Hantu Puteri Malay
the ghost of a young girl
She is said to appear to young men and drive them mad.

Hantu Ribit Malay
a storm-demon

Hantu Rinaba Malay
a spirit of the deep forests

Hantu si Buru (see Hantu Pemburu)

Hantu Uri Pacific Islands
a placenta-spirit who causes problems arising after child-birth

Hantuen East Indian [Raja Hantuen]
king of the ghosts in Borneo

Hanui-o-Rangi Pacific Islands
[Ha-nui-o-Rangi]
a name for Rangi as father of the wind
In some accounts he was a son of Rangi.

Hanullim Korean [Chesok.Ch'onje.Hanamin.Hanamin.

Hanumin.Hwanin]
the supreme deity, ruler of heaven

Hanuman Hindu

[Anuman.Hanumat.Huniman:
=Chinese Sun Hou-tzu]
a trickster monkey-god
a manifestation of Vishnu
son of Vayu by Anjana

He had a deformed jaw as the result of a blow from one of Indra's thunderbolts which broke his jaw when he tried to eat the sun.

He was in charge of the forces that attacked Ravana's fortress when the demon-king abducted Rama's wife, Sita, building a bridge from India to Ceylon for this purpose. When swallowed by the female demon Surasa, he grew enormously to force her jaws apart and then shrank to the size of a finger and flew out of her ear. When he was captured by Ravana, whose son set his tail alight, Hanuman used the flame to burn down Ravana's stronghold.

In one account, Ravana persuaded his nephew to kill Hanuman but the monkey-god threw him back to his uncle's court in Ceylon.

For his help, Rama gave him the gifts of immortality and eternal youth. He could change his shape at will and owned a magic stick that could expand to a thousand miles.

He accompanied Tripitaka and Chu Pa-chieh on their journey to India and back and helped him to overcome the dangers they met en route. In one case, Tripitaka and Chu Pa-chieh were trapped by spider-women who attacked Hanuman with a swarm of insects. He conjured up a flock of birds which ate all the insects and his magic overcame that of the spider-women and the prisoners were released.

He was regarded as a huge, red-faced monkey with yellow fur and a tail that was several miles in length.

(see also Sun Hou-tzu)

Hanumat (see Hanuman)

Hanumin (see Hanullim)

Hanwasuit Mesopotamian
a Hittite goddess, guardian of the royal throne

Hao African
an Ethiopian creator-god
He is depicted as a crocodile.

Haoka (see Haokah)

Haokah North American

[Haoka.=Dakota Heyoka]
a Sioux thunder-god and god of the hunt

He has horns on his head and his face is divided down the middle, one side being miserable, the other cheerful. He used the wind to beat a huge drum to cause thunder. (see also heyoka)

Haoma<sup>1</sup> Persian [Homa]

a sacred drink made from the haoma vine

The tree itself was brought by an eagle to Mount Alburz. (see also Gaokerena)

Haoma<sup>2</sup> Persian
a Zoroastrian physician-god

son of Ahura Mazda
He was the personification of the sacred drink made from the haoma vine.

In some accounts, Haoma is female – the moon.

Haoshangha (see Hoshang)

Haoshyangha (see Hoshang)

Haosrvavah (see Kay Krusraw)

Haoumea (see Haumea)

Hap (see Hapy)

Hapantalli Mesopotamian
[=Hittite Hapantalliyas]

a Hattic guardian god

Hapantalliyas Mesopotamian
[=Hattic Hapantalli]

a Hittite guardian god

Hapi (see Hapy)

hapi-nunu South American [hapi-nunu]

Inca demons: female spirits of the Aymara

Hapikern Central American
a cosmic serpent

Some of the tribes in Yucutan say that this evil being will finally overcome the supreme god, Nohochacyum, and the world will end.

hapi-nunu (see hapi-nunu)

Hapopo New Zealand
a Maori priest

He was killed when the forces of Uenuku attacked the fortress of the chief, Tawheta.

happy auger North American
a fabulous animal

Hapto-iringa Persian [Haptok-ring]

the constellation the Great Bear:
leader of the northern quarter

Haptok-ring (see Hapto-iringa)

Happy Hunting-ground North American
the heaven of the native Indian tribes

Hapy<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
[Hap.Ha(a)pi.=Greek Nilus]

a fertility god and god of the Nile consort of Mut and Nekhbet

An androgynous deity responsible for the Nile floods. He was born when a virgin cow was impregnated by moonbeams or by lightning.

He helped to bring Osiris back to life, after he had been killed and dismembered by Set, by suckling him after Isis had reassembled the parts.

He was sometimes depicted as a goose with two heads and a human body or as a naked fat man with erect phallus and pendulous breasts, holding a fan and tray.

Hapy<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
[Hap.Ha(a)pi]
an ape-headed or dog-headed god one of the 4 Amenti son of Horus

He was guardian of the north and of the lungs of the dead or, some say, the north and the small intestine.

Hapy<sup>3</sup> Egyptian
[Hap.Ha(a)pi]
a name for the bull-god, Apis, in some accounts

Hapy Qementu Egyptian
a rite involving Hapy, Isis and Nephthys

A cake in three pieces symbolised the deities and one piece (Hapy as Osiris) was hidden or lost.

Har<sup>1</sup> British father of Tiriel

Har<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Harr.Mighty]
one of 3 mysterious deities visited by Gylfi, probably a manifestation of Odin

Har<sup>3</sup> Norse
[Harr]
a rock-dwarf

Har<sup>4</sup> (see Horus)
Har-em-akhet (see Horus of the Horizon)

Har Hou (see Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Har Magedon (see Armageddon)

Har-mau Egyptian
[Heru-sam-taiu:=Greek Harsomtus]
a name of Horus as unifier of the 2 kingdoms

Har-nedj-itef Egyptian
[=Greek Harendotes]
Horus as the guardian of Osiris

Har-pa-khered (see Harpakhrad)

Har-pa-Neb-Taui Egyptian
a name of Horus as 'Lord of Two Lands'

Har-pi-chruti (see Harpakhrad)

Har-Soped Egyptian
a syncretion of the hawk-gods, Horus and Soped

Hara<sup>1</sup> Hindu [Prah Eysor.'ravisher'. 'robber']
a name of Shiva in Cambodia
(see also Harihara)

Hara<sup>2</sup> (see Mount Alburz)

Hara Berezaiti (see Mount Alburz)

Hara Ke African [Harake.Mistress of Water]
a Nigerian water-goddess and rain-goddess

She is assisted in her duties by two dragons, Godi and Goru.

Hara-Yama-Tsu-Mi Japanese
a Shinto mountain-god

Harab Serap Hebrew
a raven in the Cabbala

harac-do Japanese [harai]
a simple shrine; an area used for purification ceremonies (see also hitogata)

harai (see harac-do)

Harake (see Hara Ke)

Harakhtes Greek
the Greek name for Harakhti

Harakte (see Horus of the Horizon)

Harakhti (see Horus of the Horizon)

Harald<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Harald(r) Hilditonn]
a king of Denmark

Odin promised to protect the king in battle if he would hand over those he killed but, taking over as the driver of the king's chariot, Odin stabbed and killed him. (see also Brun)

Harald<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Haraldr]
a chieftain or a storm-demon

He tried to open the barrow said to contain the body of the god Balder to steal its treasures. Water poured from the opening he had made and the land was flooded.

Haraldr (see Harald)

Haravaiti Persian [=Afghan Helmund]
a river-goddess

Harbard<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Hagbard(r).Hagbarthr.Hagbarthus.
Harbardr.Harbarthr]
a name adopted by Odin in one of his disguises

Harbard<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Hagbard(r).Hagbarthr.Hagbarthus.
Harbardr.Harbarthr]
a lover of Signy

He killed Signy's brothers and, when he was executed for the crime by her father, the king of Denmark, she killed herself.

Harbardr (see Harbard)

Harbardsljod Norse

[Lay of Harbard]
a story in the Elder Edda

This story tells of the meeting between Thor and Odin (as Harbard) when they boasted to each other about their adventures.

Harbarthr (see Harbard)

Hard Ghilli (see Gilla Dacar)

Hard Gilly (see Gilla Dacar)

Hard Servant (see Gilla Dacar)

Hardar Saga Icelandic
[Harthar Saga]
the story of the outlaw, Hoder

Hardaul Hindu
a local plague-god and god of weddings

Hardgrep Norse
a sorceress

daughter of Vagnhofde

She acted as nurse to Hadding when he was wounded and escorted him in battle.

She died when a huge black hand appeared and strangled her.

Hardred (see Heardred)

hare
a small animal like a larger rabbit, with long ears, which appears in many myths, often associated with the moon

(1) In West Africa, Hare (or Rabbit) is a trickster-god and is regarded as the precursor of Brer Rabbit, taken to America by slaves.

(2) In Buddhism the hare is regarded as a previous incarnation of Buddha.

(3) In China, the hare (t'u) represents longevity. It is said that the female animal becomes pregnant either by looking at the moon or by licking its mate's fur and delivers her young through the mouth. Some say that the hare can live for 1,000 years and lives in the moon where it sits at the foot of a tree pounding the drug of immortality. In this role, it is known as the Gemmeous Hare. Its transfer to the moon is said to have been the reward of self-sacrifice.

(4) In Greek myths the hare is the animal of Aphrodite, Eros and Hermes.

(5) In Hindu lore, Shasha, a hare, is said to live on the moon.

(6) In Japan also, Usagi, Hare in the Moon, is said to live on the moon where it spends its time pounding rice which it makes into cakes.

(7) In Roman myths the hare is the animal of Mercury and Venus.
(see also Great Hare)

Hare in the Moon (see hare)

Hare of the Aloes (see Mexitli)

Harek Norse
son of Kol
brother of Biorn

Harendotes Greek
the Greek version of the Egyptian Har-nedj-itef

Harfer (see Holda)

Hari<sup>1</sup> Hindu [‘tawny one’] a name for Vishnu as Vamana
in Cambodia (see also Harihara)

Hari<sup>2</sup> (see Vahguru)

Hari Hara (see Harihara)

Hari Krishna Hindu
the young Krishna as the stealer of hearts
He is said to have made 10,000 copies of himself so that each maiden could appear to dance with him alone. He eventually fell in love with Radha.

Hariasa German
a minor deity

Harihara Hindu
[Hari Hara]
the Cambodian deity combining aspects of Vishnu (Hari) and Shiva (Hara)
In statues, Vishnu (Hari) is the left half, Shiva (Hara) the right. The two gods combined forces to defeat the demon Guha since neither could defeat him single-handed.
(see also Kritarajasa)

Harimau Kramet Malay
ghostly tigers

Harimella German
a minor deity

Harinaigamaisin (see Haringamesi)

Harinegamesi (see Haringamesi)

Haringamesi Jain [Deerhead.Harinaigamaisin.
Harinegamesi]
a messenger of the gods
He conveyed to Devanda the instruction from Sakra that her son, Mahavira, still an embryo, should be transferred to Trishala.
He has the power to grant children to those who worship him.

hariolate
foretell the future

hariolation
divination

Haripriya Hindu
a name for Lakshmi as ‘beloved of Vishnu’

Harischandra Hindu
a king
son of Trishanku
father of Rohitaswa
He had a hundred wives but no children so he prayed to Varuna and was granted a son. Varuna demanded the boy as a sacrifice but Harischandra kept postponing the rite. When the boy came of age, he hid in the forest and eventually persuaded a Brahmin to sacrifice his son, Sunah-sepa, in his place in exchange for several herds of cattle. When the boy prayed to the gods, he was saved from execution and the dropsy from which he had long suffered was cured.
To mitigate an offence to the sage Vishvamitra, Harischandra handed over all his possessions, including his wife and son. He was then sold as a slave to Chandala. When his son died of snakebite, Harischandra and his wife proposed to die on his funeral pyre but the gods intervened.
Rohitaswa was restored to life and took the throne so that his parents could reap the reward of their piety and go to heaven where Indra had prepared their own heaven for them.

Hariti Buddhist
[Ananda:=Chinese Ho-li Ti: =Japanese Kishi Bojin]
a child-snatching demon, goddess of plagues
consort of Kubera or Panchika mother of Pingala and the Yakshas
This female demon ate the children
she stole until Buddha hid her own son, Pingala, so persuading her to change her ways when she became Ananda, protectress of all children.

Harits Hindu
the winged steeds of Indra
These twin sisters are sometimes regarded as the female version of the Aswins. In other accounts they are said to be the same as the Rohits.

Harivamsa Hindu
a 16,000 line epic poem, a supplement to the Mahabharata, relating the life and deeds of Krishna

Harlequin<sup>1</sup>
[Arlecchino.Arlecchioe.Hellekin]
a pantomime sprite

Harlequin<sup>2</sup> British [Arlecchino.Arlecchioe.Hellekin]
a fairy king
lover of Morgan le Fay, some say
In some accounts, he is a giant, leader of the Wild Hunt.

Harleus British
a knight
He was on a quest when, at the king’s request, he was taken by Balin to the king’s court. Before he could greet the king, he was killed by the invisible knight, Garlon.

Harma Armenian
father of Aram

Harmachis Greek [Harmakhis.Hermakhis:
=Egyptian Har-em-akhet] a name of Horus as Horus of the Horizon (see Harmachis)

Harmerti (see Horus of the Two Eyes)

Harmonia Greek [Hermione] daughter of Ares and Aphrodite or of Zeus and Electra wife of Cadmus
mother of Agave, Autonoe, Illyrius, Ino, Semele and Polydorus
She was given a magic necklace made by Hephaestus as a wedding gift from Aphrodite and a magic robe or veil
by Athena.
Both she and Cadmus were changed into black serpents at the end of their lives and sent to the Islands of the Blessed.

Haroeris (see Harwer.Horus the Elder)

Haronga Pacific Islands
son of Rangi and Papa
father of Atarapa

Harpa-khruti (see Harpakhrad)

Harpagus Greek
a horse of Castor and Pollux

Harpakhrad Egyptian
[Har-pi-chruti.Har-pa-khered.
Harpa-khruti. Harpi-chruti.Her-pe-khred.
Heu-pa-khart. Heru-pakhret:= Greek Harpocrates.Harpokrates]
a god of silence
a name for Horus as an infant son of Banaded and Hatmehyt
In some accounts he is half man, half crocodile. (see Harpalus)

Harpale (see Harpalus)

Harpaluke (see Harpaluce)

Harpalus Greek [Harpale]
a dog of Actaeon
When Artemis turned Actaeon into a stag when she caught him spying on her as she was bathing, his hounds, including Harpalus, tore him to pieces.

Harpalyce<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Harpaluke]
daughter of Clymenus wife of Alastor

When she married Alastor and left her home, her father seized and brought her back, wanting her himself. She killed her younger brother (or her son by Clymenus) to serve his flesh to Clymenus at a banquet and was turned into an owl in answer to her own prayers. (see also Epopeus<sup>2</sup>.Nyctymene)

Harpalyce<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Harpaluke]
daughter of Harpalycus

She was brought up by her father as a warrior-maid. When he died, she became an outlaw and was caught and killed by shepherds.

Harpalyce<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Harpaluke]
a maiden who died from unrequited love for Iphiclus, the twin of Heracles

Harpalycus<sup>1</sup> Greek

father of Harpalyce

He trained his daughter in the art of warfare and she repaid him by saving his life in a battle.

Harpalycus<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of the Trojans who accompanied Aeneas on his journey to Italy

He was killed in battle by Camilla.

Harpe<sup>1</sup> Greek

one of the Amazons

Harpe<sup>2</sup> Greek

a curved sword

This was the type of sword used by Perseus to decapitate the Gorgon, Medusa.

Harpeia (see Harpyia)

Harpichruti (see Harpakhrad)

Harpies Greek

[Harpuai.Harpyiae.Hounds of Zeus]

female monsters, part woman, part bird

daughters of Typhon and Echidna, or

Thaumas and Electra, or Phorcus and Gaea

sisters of Iris, some say

Originally, there was one such being, Podarge, on whom it is said, Zeus (or Zephyrus) fathered the horses of Achilles known as Balios and Xanthos. Then Aello and Ocypte were added. Later stories had them as Aellopus, Calaeno, Ocythoe and Nicothoe. At first they were regarded as spirits of the air, later as foul monsters.

Amongst other horrible deeds they harried Phineus, the blind Thracian king who had offended Zeus by the accuracy of his prophecies, befouling his food until they were chased off by the two winged members of Jason's crew, Calais and Zetes. Some say they were never seen again.

On another occasion they harried Aeneas and his men when they landed on the Strophades Islands where the Harpies lived. On both occasions, the monsters were saved from destruction by the angry sailors by the intervention of Iris.

They also carried off the daughters of Pandareus and gave them to the Furies as servants.

They appear in the stories of Charlemagne where they harried Senapus, the blind king of Abyssinia, by snatching away or fouling his food so that he would have died of starvation if Astolpho had not arrived in time to drive them off and so save his life.

In mediaeval times they could be depicted in various forms such as centaur-like beasts with wings, rather than as bird-women.

Harpinna Greek

a horse of Oenomaus, son of Ares

Harpocrates Greek

[Harpokrates]
the Greek name for Harpakhrad

Harpokrates (see Harpocrates)

Harpre Egyptian

[Horus of the Sun]

a god

son of Menthu and Rattawy

Harpre's function was to protect the king.

Harpuai (see Harpies)

harpy-hag North American

a fabulous animal

Harpyia Greek

[Harpeia]

a dog of Actaeon

When Artemis turned Actaeon into a stag when she caught him spying on her as she was bathing, his hounds, including Harpyia, tore him to pieces.

Harpyiae (see Harpies)

Harr (see Har)

Harrow (see Great Bear)

Harrowd (see Heroud)

Harrowhound British

the English version of Cagnazzo

Harry le Fise du lake British

a Knight of the Round Table

Harsa Hindu

a goddess

a sakti of Hrsikesa

Harsaphes (see Arsaphes)

Harsiese (see Horus the Younger)

Harsiesis (see Horus the Younger)

Harsomtus Greek

[Somtus]

the Greek name for Har-Mau

Hart Fell British

a Scottish mountain

In some accounts, this was the home of Merlin.

Hartbar Saga (see Hardar Saga)

Hartman von Aue (see Aue)

Hartmut German

a prince of Normandy

son of Ludwig and Gerlinda

brother of Ortrun

husband of Hergart

This prince was one of the suitors for the hand of Gudrun, daughter of Hettel and Hilde. While her father was helping another suitor, Herwig, against a third, Siegmund, Hartmut abducted Gudrun and took her to Normandy. Herwig, Ortwin and Wat led a force that killed Hartmut's parents and only the pleas of his sister, Ortrun, saved him from death at the hand of Herwig. He later married Herwig's sister, Hergart.

Hartomes Egyptian

a name of Horus as 'he who pierces'

Hartwaker Danish

son of Hengist

Haru-yama Japanese

a mountain god representing spring

brother of Aki-yama husband of Izushio tome

Harueris (see Harwer.Horus the Elder)

Harun African

[Haruna]

a Moroccan water-spirit said to appear in the form of a snake

Haruna (see Harun)

haruspex Italian

[plur=haruspices]

an Etruscan diviner of future events

haruspicate

fortell the future

haruspication

[extispicy.haruspicy]

divination from the entrails of animals

haruspices (see haruspex)

haruspicy (see haruspication)

Harvatat Persian

an aspect of Ahura Mazda as 'integrity'

harvesptokhm Persian

a tree said to produce the seed of all trees

Harwer Egyptian

[Aro(u)eris.Haroeris.Harueris.

Hor-meriti.Horus the Elder.

Mekhenti-en-irty]

the early god Wer as an aspect of Horus

husband or son of Hathor

Hasameli Mesopotamian
 [Hasammeli]
 a Hittite smith-god

Hasammeli (see Hasameli)

Hasan Persian [Hasen]
 a hero of the Arabian Nights
 He helped a magician to find the philosopher's stone and later was shipwrecked, coming ashore near a palace. The magician turned up again and Hasan killed him, after which he entered a forbidden room to find ten swan-maidens. He stole the feathered robe of one of the maidens who then became his wife but she later recovered the robe and flew off to the island of Wak Wak. With the help of a jinnee, he found this island and recovered his wife.

Hashcheyalte (see Hashje-Altye)

Hasen (see Hasan)

Hashakimana African
 a name of Imana as 'planner'

Hashat Canaanite
 a goddess
 She was killed by Anat.

Hashche (see Hashje)

Hashcheyalte (see Hashje-Altye)

Hashi-ne-Omi
 (see Nome-No-Sukune)

Hashje-Altye North American [Hashcheyalte]
 the Talking God of the Navajo
 one of the Yeibechi
 This deity is regarded as the creator and supreme deity.

Hashje-Ba'ad North American
 6 female gods of the Navaho
 members of the Yeibechi

Hashje-Bakan North American
 6 male gods of the Navaho
 members of the Yeibechi

Hashje-Hlichi North American
 the Red God of the Navaho
 one of the Yeibechi

Hashje-Hogahn North American
 a Navaho god

Hashje-Iditchonsi North American
 the Whistling God of the Navaho
 one of the Yeibechi

Hashje-Ohltohi North American
 the Shooting God of the Navaho
 one of the Yeibechi

Hashje-Oyan North American
 the Calling God of the Navaho
 one of the Yeibechi

Hashje-Shohini North American
 the Black God of the Navaho
 one of the Yeibechi
 He is said to have placed the stars in the sky from a pouch worn on his belt and tipped out the fragments to form the Milky Way.

Hasibwari Pacific Islands [Hatuibwari]
 a supreme deity in Melanesia
 He is said to have come from the sky and made the first woman out of clay baked in the sun and the first man from one of her ribs. The god himself, though male, has breasts and feeds all life from them.
 He is envisaged as a serpent with wings and a human head with four eyes and four teeth.

Hasikasnawanzas Mesopotamian
 a Hittite god

Hasis-Atra (see Atrahasis)

Hasmodai
 one of the 7 Intelligences, ruler of the moon (see also Asmodeus)

Hassan European
 the name taken by Huon when he disguised himself as assistant gardener under Sherasmin

Hasta Hindu
 a goddess of fortune
 one of the Nakshatras
 daughter of Daksha
 wife of Candra

Hastehogan North American
 [Hast(s)(h)ehogan]
 a Navaho house-god and god of agriculture
 god of yellow maize

Hasteyalti North American
 [Hast(s)(h)eyalti.Yebitshai] supreme god of the Navaho
 god of white maize
 He and Hastehogan created the two goddesses, Estanatlehi and Yol kai Estsan, and helped them to create humans from maize-flour.

Hastimukha Hindu
 a name for Ganesha as 'elephant-face'

Hastings Norse
 a pirate
 He fostered Sigurd the Snake-eyed and taught him the arts of war. Sigurd's brothers joined them in many raids and they all returned to Denmark to help their father, Ragnar, repel the invasion by Eystein, the king of Sweden.

Hastsbaka North American [Yebaka]
 a Navaho god

Hastsehogan (see Hastehogan)

Hastsebaad North American
 supreme goddess of the Navaho

Hastseltsi North American [Red Lord]
 the Navaho god of racing

Hastseoltoi North American
 the Navaho goddess of hunting

Hastseyalti (see Hasteyalti)

Hastsezini North American [Black Lord]
 the fire-god of the Navaho

Hastshehogan (see Hastehogan)

Hastsheyalti (see Hasteyalti)

hasu (see lotus')

Hasu-ko Japanese [Lotus Child]
 sister of Kei
 When she died, her soul took over the body of her sister, Kei, who then lived in a state of suspended animation and, for a whole year, lived with her lover. At the end of that time, she left Kei's body who then revived and married Hasu-ko's former lover.

Hat-Mehit (see Hatmehyt)

hatak-mansarik Persian a part of the Avesta
 This part deals with both legal and spiritual matters. The other two parts are the datik and the gatha.

Hatakeshvara Hindu
 king of Vitala, part of the underworld

Hatdastsisi North American
 a healing god of the Navaho

Hatea-motua Pacific Islands
 a chieftain
 When the son of Apakura sought the hand of his daughter, Hatea-motua killed him. The young man's mother killed the chief in revenge.

Hategekimana African
 a name of Imana as 'ruler'

Hathor Egyptian
 [Anit.Athyr.Great Mother.Het-Hert.
 Lady of Byblos.Lady of Dendera.
 Lady of Faience.Lady of the West.
 Lady of Turquoise.Qedeshet Sakhmet.Tafner.Triphis:
 =Canaanite Baalat.Tanit:
 =Greek Aphrodite:
 =Mesopotamian Ishtar]
 a mother-goddess, goddess of childbirth, fertility, joy, love, marriage, music, sky wife of Horus the Elder mother of Horus the Younger and Ihi mother of Khons by Sebek, some say
 In some versions she is Ra's daughter by Nut, in others his wife and mother of Ihy.
 She was originally a war-goddess of the Nubians and is sometimes identified with Sakhmet or with Isis, in which capacity she held the ladder by which the good dead could ascend to heaven. Others identify her with Mehet-Weret.

She suckled the pharaohs and greeted the souls entering the underworld. On one occasion, in the form of Sakhmet, she was sent by Ra to kill all mankind but she got drunk on the red-coloured beer with which Ra flooded the land and forgot to carry out her mission.

Her son is said to have cut off her head replacing it with the head of a cow.

She was originally depicted as a lioness and later as a cow, sometimes wearing a headdress of horns enclosing the disc of the sun. In some depictions, her four limbs support the universe.

(see also Athor.Mut.Nekmet-Awai.Sakhmet.Tauret)

Hathor-Sakhmet Egyptian [Eye of Ra]
the goddess of war

Hathors, Seven (see Seven Hathors)

Hati<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the corporeal heart, distinguished from Ab, the symbolic heart that is judged at death

Hati<sup>2</sup> Norse
the strongest of the giants
He was killed by Helgi.

Hati<sup>3</sup> Norse
a wolf, one of the Varns offspring of Fenris and Gollweig

This animal was one of the wolves pursuing the sun and moon and trying to swallow them.

It is said that when he, Managarm and Skoll managed to overtake the heavenly bodies, they swallowed them, causing an eclipse. At Ragnarok they finally devoured the sun and moon completely. They were fed on the marrow from the bones of dead criminals. (see also Managarm)

hatif Persian [female=hatifa; plur=hawatif]
a type of jinnee that can be heard but not seen: a voice in the desert

The voice may sound like a maiden in distress calling for help and the traveller who follows its sound may find himself lost. In some cases, he may be led to an oasis where the caller appears in human form and the traveller, forgetting where he was going, stays with her.

hatifa (see hatif) Indian

Hatim T'ai
a hero of Bengal, based on an Arab chieftain, appearing in many adventures (see also Hatim Tay)

Hatim Tay Arab
a king, famous for his generosity
He was said to have ruined himself by slaughtering his camels and horses to feed guests.

In one story, he went in search of another's bride who had been carried off by a demon, found them and killed the maiden's captor.

(see also Hatim T'ai)

Hatiphas
a demon associated with garments

Hativa North American
daughter of Atius Tirana and Atira

Hatmehit (see Hatmehyt)

Hatmehyt Egyptian
[Hat-Mehit.Hatmehit.Heru-pa-kaut. Herupakaut.Hetmetit.Mother of Mendes] a fertility goddess and goddess of fishing consort of Banaded mother of Harpakhrad

Hattatal Norse
part of the Younger Edda dealing with prosody

Hatthi Hindu
a plague-goddess

Hatto (see Bishop Hatto)

Hatuibwari (see Hasibwari)

Hatun Raymi (see Raymi)

Hatupatu New Zealand
a Maori boy

He was carried off by the bird-woman, Kura ngaituku, but he stole her clothes and escaped. When he became a man, he returned to Kura.

Hau<sup>1</sup> New Zealand
a Maori wind-god
son of Rua-tapu

Hau<sup>2</sup> (see Hautupatu)

Hau Maringi Pacific Islands
a god of mists
son of Ua

Hau-o-Tawera New Zealand
a Maori hero

He killed a Poua-kai which had carried off many of his people.

Haubas Arab [Hoba]
a god of the southern region in pre-Islamic times

Hauhet Egyptian
[Hehet.Hehit.Hehut]
a goddess of the primitive waters
consort of Huh

With Huh, she represented the endlessness of the waters or, in some accounts, space.

Haukim Arab
a god of law in pre-Islamic times

Haumea Pacific Islands

[Haoumea.Haumia:=Tuamotu Faumea]
the Hawaiian goddess of fertility daughter of Ranga and Papa sister of Rongo, Ruamoko, Tane, Tangaroa, Tawhiri and Tu mother of Pele by Kane Hoalani

Being reborn again and again she was able to breed with her own descendants. She could order trees to produce fruit and could populate the seas with fish by using her magic rod. In some versions she is identified as Hina.

Haumia (see Haumea)

Haumia-tikitiki (see Haumiatiketike)

Haumiatiketike New Zealand
[Haumia-tikitiki]
a Maori god of vegetation
son of Rangī and Papa

In some accounts, he is equated with Haumea.

Haurun Canaanite
an earth-god, god of healing

Haurvatat Persian

[Hordad.Khurdad.'wholeness']
a water-god and god of health and integrity one of the 7 Amesha Spentas, perfection
one of the Yazatas
son of Ahura Mazda

This being was in charge of all water and is opposed by the demon Zairicha.

Other accounts give Haurvatat as female, a goddess of prosperity.

Hauteclair European [Altecler]
a sword of Oliver

Hautupatu New Zealand
[Hau]
a Maori youth

He was captured by the ogress Kurangai Tuku who shut him in a cave. He escaped but she followed him until he used a magic spell to open a door in a rock-face through which he escaped again. When she next tried to seize him, she fell into a hot spring and was scalded to death.

Havai (see Hawaibi)

Hawaiki (see Hawaibi)

Havamal Norse

[Ballad of the High One.High Song. Sayings of Odin]
a poem in the Elder Edda recording the code of moral laws handed down by Odin

Havelin European

in some versions of the Tristram story, the name given to Hoel, father of Isolde White Hands

Havfru (see Akkruva.Havfrue)

Havfrue European

a Danish mermaid

[male=Havmand]

These beings are said to be very beautiful but not always friendly. Their function is to collect the bodies of those drowned at sea. (see also Havfru)

Havmand European

[female=Havfrue]

a Danish merman

These beings are said to be very handsome, wearing beards, and, unlike the female of the species, are quite friendly to humans.

Havelock Danish

a prince of Denmark

son of Birkabegn

husband of Princess Goldborough

His father's throne was seized by Godard who ordered that the young Havelock be cast adrift in a boat. He landed in Britain where he was reared by a fisherman called Grim. He later inherited his father's kingdom when he was recognised as being of noble blood by the cross on his shoulder and the light issuing from his mouth.

Haven

a demon of dignity

Havgan Welsh

[Hafdan.Hafgan.Prince of the Underland]

a warrior-king

He was an enemy of Arawn, king of the underworld, and could be killed only with a single blow since he revived if struck again. When Pwyll and Arawn reversed roles for one year, Pwyll met Havgan in single combat and killed him, taking over his kingdom.

Havoa East Indian

daughter of Maelere

sister of Eau

wife of Kopu

Havstrambe North American

a sea-monster of the Inuit

Hawa African

wife of Adama

In the lore of the Songhai, she bore forty children but she and her husband hid twenty of them from god who built a wall to keep the parents from these children which he kept for himself.

Hawaiki Pacific Islands

[Avaiki.Havai(ki).Haval.Land of Kane.

Polutu:=Japanese Awagi:=Tahitian Kahiki]

home of the Hawaiian spirits in the sky or under the earth: home of the ancestors of the Polynesians: home of Miru

Hawart Norse

a warrior at Etzel's court

He was one of those who, bribed by Krimhild, tried to kill Hagen but failed and was slain by Hagen.

hawatif (see hatif)

Haweniyo North American

a supreme god of the Iroquois

Hawichyepam North American

a supernatural being in the lore of the Chemehuevi tribe of California

It was she who caused the primordial waters to subside.

hawk

a bird of prey found in many parts of the world and featured in some myths

(1) In Central America the hawk, Tlotli, was regarded as the messenger of the Aztec gods.

(2) In the East Indies the hawk is a revered bird, guardian of workers in the rice-fields.

(3) In Egypt the hawk is a sacred bird and the god Horus is frequently depicted with the head of a hawk (or falcon).

(4) In Greek myths the hawk is the messenger of Apollo or Hera.

(5) The Pacific Islanders regard the hawk as an incarnation of Maui.

(6) In Siberia they say the hawk stole fire and gave the secret to the gods who passed it on to mankind.

(see also Great Hawk)

Hawk-hole North American

one of the 10 brothers who became the Supernatural People

He was so-called because, having passed through the fire, he was found to have a blue hole in his heart.

Hawk of May (see Gwalchmai)

Hawk of Summer (see Gwalchaved)

Hawthorn (see Ysbadadden)

Haya Mesopotamian

a name for Ninlil as goddess of directions

Haya-Akihiko Japanese

a river-god

son of Izanagi and Izanami

brother and husband of Haya-Akitsu

Haya-Akitsu Japanese

a sea-goddess

daughter of Izanagi and Izanami

sister and wife of Haya-Akihiko

Haya-Ji Japanese

[Haya-tsu-muji]

a Shinto wind-god

When Waka-Hiko was killed for neglecting his divine mission, Haya-Ji carried his body back to heaven.

Haya-tsu-muji (see Haya-Ji)

Hayagriva<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[=Tibetan rTa-mgrin.Tandim]

a Tibetan horse-god, god of wrath

one of the 8 dreadful Drag-gshed

In some accounts, Hayagriva is female.

Hayagriva<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Paramasva:=Tibetan rTa-Mgrin.Tandim]

a horse-headed demon

one of the Dharmapalas

He stole the scriptures from Brahma and was killed by Vishnu in his incarnation at Matsya.

Another version says that Hayagriva was an incarnation of Vishnu who, at the request of Brahma, recovered the Vedas from the ocean-bottom where they had been taken by the two demons who had stolen them.

In some accounts he appears as Khasarpana or as Lokanatha, assistants to Avalokiteshvara.

Some say that he will be reincarnated as Kalki, the tenth avatar of Vishnu.

Hayasum Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god

Hayasya<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a horse-goddess

Hayasya<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a horse-god

Some versions equate him with Hayagriva.

Haydn Welsh

[Hyddwn.Hydwyn]

son of Gwydion and Galfaethwy as a deer

For the rape of Goewen, Math condemned the brothers Gwydion and Gilfaethwy to spend a year as deer. Their offspring was turned into a boy by Math and named Haydn.

(see also Bleiddwn.Hwychdwn)

Hayhuaypanti South American

Inca deities acting as messengers

for Viracocha

Hayicanako North American

[Hayicanke]

in the lore of the Tlingit of Alaska,

the old woman who supports the earth

In some accounts, the world is supported on the leg of a beaver which the old woman looks after.

Hayicanke (see Hayicanako)

Hayik (see Hayk)

Hayk Armenian

[Hayik]

a giant who led his people from oppression in Babylon

father of Armenak

He later led his people against the forces of Bel and overcame them in battle.

He was later revered as a god of vegetation and wine.

Haykoona Serbian
a Turkish princess wife of Stephan

When the Turks captured Belgrade, Stephan was taken prisoner by the vizier who tried to make him embrace the Turkish faith. He even used his daughter, Haykoona, to try to persuade his prisoner but she fell in love with Stephan. They escaped together, she converted to Christianity and they married.

Hayowentha (see Hiawatha)

hayula Arab
the primordial matter from which all else is made

Hayunu North American
[Stone Men:=Zuni Ahayuta achi:
=Tewa Towaesendo]

The name given to the twin war-gods of the Tewa at Taos.

Hayyin Canaanite
a name of Kothar as 'the deft one'

Hazzi<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
a Hittite mountain-god

Hazzi<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
a mountain, home of the gods

He People South American ancestral spirits of the Barasana people

He Zur Egyptian
a baboon-god
an aspect of Thoth

Hea (see Ea)

Head-he-go-round man East Indian a prophet or seer

Head-splitter (see Quatlapanqui)

Healers (see Therapeutae)

Healing Buddha (see Yakushi)

Healfdene (see Halfdan)

Heammawihio North American
a sun-spirit of the Cheyenne

Heang Lo Chinese
[Pai Yang:=Arab Al Kabah al-Alif]
an early name for the constellation
Aries as 'the dog'

Heardred Norse
[Hardred]
a king of the Geats
son of Hygelac and Hygd

He was still an infant when he became king of the Geats on the death of his father. He was killed by the sons of Othere who were sheltering at his court to escape from the wrath of their own father.

Heart of Heaven (see Gucumatz.
Hurakan)

Heart, The Egyptian
Horus as an aspect of Ptah

heaven

[Celestial City:paradise]

the home of the blessed: dwelling-

place of gods: paradise

Most cultures envisage some form of heaven:

–Afghan

The Kafir paradise is called Burry La Boola.

–African

The Bambara envisage a heaven created by Faro divided into seven parts:

(1) Kaba Noro, the home of Faro

(2) Kaba dye, the home of the souls of the dead

(3) Kaba fii, the home of spirits

(4) Faro's accounting room

(5) Red Heaven, the hall of judgement

(6) Sleep Heaven, the store for secrets

(7) Faro's store for rain

–Australian

The paradise of the Aborigines is called wathi-wathi. The road that leads there forks: the road to the right is clean and inviting but is the home of evil spirits whereas the road to the left, though dirty, is the realm of the good spirits.

–Buddhist

The place where Buddhas and bodhisattvas wait is known as the Tushita heaven (Maya) and has thirteen layers, the highest of which is known as Paranimitta-Vasavarten.

In Mahayana Buddhism, a paradise for those en route to enlightenment is known as the Pure Land (Jodo) and is equated with the Nirvana of Hinayana Buddhism.

The heaven reserved for past Buddhas is known as Kshetra, Amitabha's heaven is known as Sukhavati and a future heaven is called Grdhakuta.

In Cambodia, there are said to be twenty-six paradises, the highest of which is known as Nirpean.

(see also Sukhavati)

–Central American

The Aztecs envisaged three heavens of which Tlalocan, home of Tlaloc, was the lowest, Tlillan-Tlallapan was in the middle and Tonatiuhcan, the home of Tonatiuh, was the highest. Other stories say there were thirteen heavens, the highest of which was called Zivena Vitzcatl (see Ilhuicatl). In later belief, heaven was like a ladder with steps, on the top rung of which lived Ometeotl. Other rungs, in descending order, were occupied by innocent children, tempests, night and day, shooting stars, birds and Venus, the sun and the 400 warring sons of Coatlicue, the Milky Way, the moon.

–Egyptian

The paradise of Osiris, Aalu, lay far to the west and could be reached only by travelling in Ra's bark after being judged by Osiris in the underworld.

–Hindu

Each god has his own heaven and Brahma lives in the highest heaven, Brahmaloaka, said to be 84,000 leagues above the earth

The heaven ruled by Vishnu is called Vaikuntha; that of Indra is Svarga; that of Krishna is Go-loka; that of Shiva is Kailasa; that of the goddess Shanti is called Shanti-Niketa and paradise for the uncremated dead is known as the Land of the Pitris.

–Irish

The Irish envisage an earthly paradise in the form of the island, called Emain Ablach, the Western Paradise.

–Mesopotamian

Heaven was regarded as the playground of the gods and was known as Anduruna or, in Sumerian lore, Eridu.

–Norse

The heaven to which slain warriors are conducted is known as Valhalla.

–North American

The native Indian tribes believe in a Happy Hunting-ground where game is plentiful.

–Pacific Islands

Burotu, paradise, is envisaged as a land of perpetual joy where the good can rest.

The Hawaiian paradise is called Paliuli.

The Polynesian heaven is multi-layered, the highest realms being Putahi-nui-o-Rahua. The tenth heaven is Rangi-Tuarea.

-Persian

Heaven is a four-cornered region known as Varena.

-Shinto

Heaven is the Eternal Land, Takanohara, home of the gods, to which the mikado is allowed to ascend on his death and the paradisaical land of the spirits is Tokoyo-no-kuni.

-Slav

The paradise of the western Slavs is known as Rai, that of the eastern Slavs as Svarog.

-Taoist

The island paradise where all the inhabitants are immortal is called Ying-chou. There are said to be 108 realms of paradise, one of which, called P'eng-lai, is the home of the Eight Immortals.

There are said to be thirty-six heavens of which the highest is Ta-lo.

The imperial heaven is known as Huang-t'ien.

-West Indian

The Caribs of the Antilles call their heaven Hueyuku.

Heaven Deaf (see Hsüan Tung-tzu)

Heavenly Arch (see Atius-Tirawa)

Heavenly Deity (see Tenjin)

Heavenly Dog Chinese

[Child-stealing Devil]

the spirit of a girl who died at an early age

This child will kill any child so that its spirit can replace her own so that she can be reincarnated.

(see also Heavenly Dog Star)

Heavenly Dog Star Chinese

[Celestial Dog.Demon of the Eclipse.

T'ien Kou.T'ou-sheng Kuei]

a star said to cause an eclipse by devouring the moon

It is said that this star represents the spirit of a girl who tries to steal babies to make up for the child she never had. It is envisaged as a shooting star or as a fearsome dog and was shot down by the archer, I.

(see also Heavenly Dog)

Heavenly Iron Chain Korean

a route to heaven

When two children, who were in danger of being eaten by a tiger prayed for help, god dropped the Heavenly Iron Chain down to them and they climbed up it, later becoming the sun and the moon.

When the tiger prayed, god dropped the Rotten Straw Rope which broke when the tiger tried to climb it and the animal fell to earth and was killed.

Heavenly King (see Tenno)

Heavenly Kings

(see Four Diamond Kings)

Heavenly Weaving Girl

(see Chih Nü.Tanabata)

Heaven's Concubine (see T'ien Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Heaven's Fortright Female

(see Uzume)

Heb-seb

Egyptian

a jubilee festival

This ceremony was said to renew the energy of an ageing pharaoh by magic.

Hebat

Mesopotamian

[Hepatu.Hepit.Queen of Heaven:

=Hittite Arrina]

a Hurrian mother-goddess

and sun-goddess

consort of Teshub

mother of Sharrumas

She is sometimes depicted with a lion.

(see also Hepit)

Hebe

Greek

[Ganymeda.'youth':=Roman Juventas]

goddess of youth

cup-bearer to the gods

daughter of Zeus and Hera

wife of Heracles

She had to resign her post when she fell over and spilt wine at an important feast. She was superseded in the post by Ganymede.

After Heracles was deified, Hebe married him and they had two children, Alexiars and Anicetus.

She is said to have rejuvenated Iolaus in his old age so that he could fight Eurystheus to protect the children of Heracles.

Heber (see Eber)

Hebes le Renoumes British

a knight attendant on Tristram

He saved Tristram when the wife of King Anguish tried to kill him while he was in the bath.

Hebren (see Habren)

Hebron British

[Bron(s).Rich Fisher]

husband of Enygeus

father of Alan and 11 other children

He was given the Holy Grail by Joseph of Arimathea who was his wife's brother.

Some say he was Percival's grandfather and became the Rich Fisher who was cured of his wounds and carried to heaven by angels.

Hebura Korean

a king

He found a little boy, in the form of a golden frog, under a stone and adopted him, calling him Kumwa. When Hebura died, Kumwa took the throne.

Hecabe (see Hecuba)

Hecadoth

a demon

Hecate<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Empua.Hekate.Phosphoros:=Roman Trivia]

the three-headed or three-bodied goddess of darkness, fertility, moon, streets, the underworld and witchcraft

a Titaness

daughter of Perses or Zeus

by Asteria

daughter of Coeus and Phoebe,

some say daughter of Demeter, some say

mother of Circe

mother of Medea by Aetes, some say

In some accounts she is Artemis on earth, Persephone carrying a torch in the underworld. Others say that she helped Demeter in her search for Core (Persephone) in the underworld.

The triple aspect of her nature is represented by Artemis, Hecate and Salene but she is otherwise identified with Brimo, Cybele, Demeter and Rhea.

She is depicted as having six arms, three or four bodies and the heads of a dog, a horse and a lion.

(see also Queen of Elphame)

Hecate<sup>2</sup> Greek

a poor woman who made Theseus

welcome when he was hunting

the Marathonian Bull

Hecate<sup>3</sup> Roman

a name for Diana as goddess of death and the underworld

Hecate the Younger (see Iphigenia)

Hecate Trioditis Greek

[=Roman Trivia]

a name for Hecate as goddess of the (cross-) roads

Hecatea Greek

white pillars set up at cross-roads

where offerings were left for the goddess Hecate

Hecaterus Greek

an ancestor of the Curetes

He was said to be the father of five daughters who became the mothers of the Curetes, satyrs and the Oreads.

Hecates (see Apollo)

Hecatonceires

(see Hundred-handed)

Hecatonceires

(see Hundred-handed)

Hecatontocheiroi

(see Hundred-handed)

Hechuchan Central American
a Mayan war-god

Hector<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Hektor.‘prop’]
son of Priam and Hecuba
brother of Deiphobus, Helenus and Paris husband of Andromache
father of Astyanax

He led the Trojans in their defence of the city against the attacking Greeks who had been angered by the treachery of Paris who carried off Helen, the wife of Menelaus when a guest in their house. He killed Patroclus, bosom friend of Achilles, who, wearing the armour of Achilles, had rallied the Greeks for a further attack. The death of his friend brought Achilles back into action – he had been sulking in his tent, refusing to fight, after falling out with Agamemnon over a girl captive. Now, in new armour made by Hephaestus, he led the Greeks in a fresh onslaught and killed Hector. He tied Hector’s body to his chariot and drove round the walls of the city. Priam pleaded for his son’s body and was allowed to take it for burial.

In some French accounts, Morgan le Fay fell in love with him but turned against him when he spurned her advances.

In Charlemagne stories, his armour and sword, Durindana, are fought over by several of the paladins.

Hector<sup>2</sup> (see Ector<sup>1</sup>)

Hector de Marys (see Ector<sup>2</sup>)

Hecuba<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Hecabe.Hekabe]
daughter of Cisseus, Dymas or Sangarius
sister of Theano
second wife of Priam, king of Troy
mother of Antiphus, Cassandra, Creusa, Deiphobus, Hector, Helenus, Iliona, Laodice, Paris, Polydorus, Polites,
Polyxena, Pontes

She is said to have had nineteen children by Priam.

She sent Polydorus to Polymestor, king of Thrace, for safety when the Greeks attacked Troy but the king killed her son for the treasure he carried. She was taken captive by the Greeks at the fall of Troy and given to Odysseus. When she learned from him what had happened to her son, she tore out Polymestor’s eyes and killed his two sons. To escape the wrath of the king’s subjects, she changed herself into a bitch, Maera, and jumped into the sea.

Hecuba<sup>2</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides
This work relates the story of her vengeance on Polymestor and the death of her daughter Polyxena.

Hedammu Mesopotamian

a Hurrian sea-monster son of Kumarbi

This monster was born of Kumarbi’s union with the daughter of a sea-god and emerged from the sea to devour animals and humans. It was eventually subdued by Ishtar who caused the seawater to act as a sleeping draught.

Hedetet Egyptian

a scorpion-goddess

Hedin (see Hedinn)

Hedinn Norse

[Hedin.Hildren]
a king

He abducted Hilde and was attacked by Hogni who attempted to rescue her. They fought an everlasting battle in which the slain were revived every night by Hilde or a sorceress.

Hedjwer Egyptian

a baboon-god

Hedley kow British

a mischievous spirit
These spirits are said to appear as an immovable bale of hay or a horse which cannot be restrained by harness.

Heduru East Indian

a sky-god of New Guinea
This god existed at a time when the sky was very close to the earth, to which it was connected by a rope ladder. Heduru often descended to earth to look after the children of those out at work but he started to steal children and take them back to the sky with him so the angry people cut the ladder, with the result that the heavens retreated to their present position.

Hefaidd (see Hefeydd)

Hefedha Arab

a guardian god

Hefeydd Welsh

[Hefaidd.Hefeydd the Tall.Hefyd(d).
Heveidd.Hev(e)ydd]
a messenger of Bran

Hefeydd Hen Welsh

[Hefaidd.Hefeydd the Old.Hefyd(d).
Heveidd.Hev(e)ydd]
father of Rhiannon

Hefyd (see Hefeydd)

Hefydd (see Hefeydd)

Hegal (see Marduk)

Hegemone Greek

in some accounts, one of the Graces

Hegir-nuna (see Gangir)

Heh (see Huh)

Heheh (see Huh)

Hehet (see Hauhet)

Hehit (see Hauhet)

Hehu (see Huh)

Hehut (see Hauhet)

Hei Lao-yeh Chinese

[Mr Black]
a minor deity

He, together with Po Lao-yeh, is an assistant to Ch’eng-huang, the god of Walls and Moats, reporting on events occurring during the night.

hei-tiki New Zealand

a Maori amulet

This charm represents a human foetus and is said to ward off attacks by the spirits of the still-born, envious of those who survived at birth.

heiau Pacific Islands

a temple built of lava in Hawaii

Heid<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Heidh.Heidr]
a witch
sister of Ham

With her sister Ham, she was used by Helgé to cause a storm that nearly wrecked Frithiof’s ship en route to the Orkneys. They were both killed when the ship ran down the whale on which they were riding.

In other accounts, the two witches were called Thorgrim and Thorod.

(see also Haid)

Heid<sup>2</sup> (see Gollweig<sup>1</sup>)

heiden Japanese

part of a shrine used by the officiating priest

Heidh (see Heid)

Heidr (see Heid)

Heidrum (see Heidrun)

Heidrun Norse

[Heidrum]
the goat of Odin

This goat supplied the mead of the gods, grazing on the leaves on Laerad, the highest branch of Yggdrasil.

Heidyn Welsh

killer of the bard Aneurin

heifer Egyptian

the animal of Isis

Heiglot

a demon of snowstorms

Heijo Japanese

a mythical castle of peace

Heike-hani Japanese

the spirit of a dead warrior of the Heike clan

Heil (see Helith)

Heilyn Welsh

a warrior in Bran's army
son of Gwyn Hen

He was one of only seven to return from Bran's expedition to Ireland to rescue his sister, Branwen, from Matholwch.

Heilyn Goch Welsh

son of Cadwgawn

He owned the cottage where Rhonabwy slept and had his famous dream.

Heimarmene Greek

destiny personified

Heimchen German

the souls of unborn or unbaptised children

Heimdall (see Heimdall)

Heimdall Norse

[Er.Gullintani.Hallinskide.Hama.Heimdal.

Heimdallr.Heimdellingr.Hermin.

Irmin.Mardall.Rati.Rig(er).Vindlir.

White God:=Saxon Saxsnot]

a giant demi-god, god of the dawn guardian of Bifrost, the rainbow bridge son of Odin by 9 wave-maidens

His mothers, giantesses all, are listed as Atla, Augeia, Aurgiafa, Egia, Gialp, Greip, Iarnsaxa, Sindur and Ulfrun and they simultaneously gave birth to a baby, fathered by Odin, which they reared on warmth from the sun, moisture from the sea and strength from the earth. Another account gives his mother as Angey.

He was said to have very keen eyesight, able to see 100 miles by night, hearing that could detect the grass growing and, armed with a bright sword Hofud and his trumpet Gjallarhorn, he lived in a palace known as Himinbiorg built on top of the bridge, from where he had a good view. His job was to keep the Frost Giants from entering Asgard.

On one occasion he saw Loki, in the form of a flea (or fly), steal the marvellous necklace, Brisngamen, from the sleeping Freya and, after a struggle in which they both changed forms several times, Heimdall finally retrieved the necklace and restored it to Freya.

In the guise of Riger, he visited earth and became the progenitor of the human race, spending three days each with three couples, the impoverished Ai and Edda, the well-off Afi and Anima and the very wealthy Fadir and Modir. A son (Thrall, Karl and Jarl respectively) was born to each couple and these became the forerunners of humanity.

He blew his horn to warn the gods of the impending battle of Ragnarok but, by then, it was too late. In the fighting, he killed Loki but was himself killed with the other gods.

He had a horse called Gulltop and is depicted in shining white armour.

(see also Cheru.Rati<sup>2</sup>.Lyfir.Riger)

Heimdallr (see Heimdall)

Heimdellingr Norse

a name of Heimdall as 'herald of the day'

Heime Norse

[Heimir]

son of Studas

son of Volund, in some accounts

In the Germanic stories, Studas gave his son the marvellous sword, Blutgang, with which he challenged Dietrich von Bern. He was defeated and became a devoted follower of Dietrich to whom he gave the horse, Falke, which never grew tired. When he saw Wittich fall in battle, he took his famous sword, Miming, thinking the owner was dead. When he later discovered that Wittich had survived, he returned the sword.

He later fell out with Dietrich and became the leader of a band of robbers.

(see also Wittich)

Heimer Norse

in some accounts, the man who saved the child Aslaug

In some accounts, it was he, not Brunhild's father, who took the child Aslaug to safety hidden in a harp.

Heimir Norse

the name for Heime in Thidreks saga

Heimskringla Norse

a book by Snorri Sturluson listing the ancient kings of Norway, including the Ynglingasaga

Heinin British

the chief bard at King Arthur's court or, in the story of Elphin, at the court of the king, Maelgwn

Heinze German

one of the kobolds

Heinzelmännchen German

friendly dwarfs who work by night to help people (see also kobold)

Heinrich von dem Turtin

(see Turtin)

Heise African

an itinerant Bushman hero

He was half-man, half-god and knew all the wild animals. He married an antelope and they had two half-human, half-antelope offspring. When he snapped off the branch of a tree, the maiden trapped inside the tree was released and became his wife.

Heitaro Japanese

a farmer

husband of Higo

father of Chiyodo

He became so fond of a large willow tree that grew near his house that eventually the spirit of the tree appeared to him in the form of a maiden called Higo. He married her and they had a child, Chiyodo. When the emperor had the willow felled to provide timber for a new temple, Higo cried out in pain as the axes fell and then disappeared forever.

Heithiurun British

an idol, possibly representing the god Taran

Heithrek Norse

a king

When offenders were brought to his court for trial, he would allow them to go free if they could pose a riddle which he could not answer. None did – until Gestumblindi. This proud landowner asked many questions, all of which the king answered with ease, but finally asked 'What did Odin whisper to Balder as he lay on his funeral pyre?'. It was only then that the king realised that he was dealing with Odin who had taken on the likeness of Gestumblindi. As he struck at the god with his sword, Odin changed into a falcon and flew away, losing only a few tail feathers. Angry at this insult, Odin ensured that Heithrek died that same night.

heitiki Pacific Islands

an amulet

Heitlik North American

[Haheктаok.Haietl(e)ik]

a demon of the tribes of the north-west This 'lightning-snake' was revered by fishermen.

Heitsi-eibib African

[Haitsi-aibab]

a Hottentot god or hero,

a shape-changer

Some say his mother was a cow, others that she was a virgin impregnated by a herb.

He killed the monster Ga-Gorib by pushing him into the pit he had used to trap travellers. In some accounts the monster was Gama and Heitsi-eibib killed him by striking him behind the ear with a stone.

He is said to have died and been resurrected several times.

Hek (see Heka)

heka<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[hek(au).hike.hyk]

the magical power of the gods

Heka<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

[Hek(au).Hike.Hyk]

a god of magic

He was one of those who accompanied the god Ra in his boat journey across the sky each day.

In some accounts he is equated with Shu.

Heka<sup>3</sup> (see Heket.Hike)

Hekabe (see Hecuba)

Hekate (see Hecate)

Hekatonkheires (see Hundred-handed)

hekau (see heka<sup>1</sup>)

Heke-Heke-I-Papa New Zealand

the third wife of Rangi

Heket Egyptian

[Hak.Heka.Hekt.Hequat.Heq(u)et]

a water-goddess, goddess of childbirth consort of Haroeris or Khnum

In some accounts, she is the daughter of Ra and the twin sister of Shu. As the wife of Khnum, she gave life to the bodies he made from clay.

Originally, she was one of the frogs which lived in the primaevial swamp and is depicted as a frog or as a frog-headed human. In some accounts she is regarded as the mother of Haroeris and wife of Khnum.

Hekija Buddhist

an underworld being

He dips the evil-doers in sauce and bites off their heads.

Hekkenfeldt European

[=Icelandic Hekla]

a site where Danish witches held their meetings

Hekla Norse

[=Danish Hekkenfeldt]

in Icelandic lore, a mountain where witches held their meetings

Hekt (see Heket)

Hektor (see Hector)

Hel<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Hela.Hell]

a parti-coloured underworld goddess

daughter of Loki and Angerbode

She was thrown into Niflheim by Odin to rule the nine worlds of the dead. She occasionally roamed the earth on a three-legged horse, bringing famine and disease, and is envisaged as half black, half white.

In some accounts, she is the leader of the Wild Hunt, in others she is Urd.

Hel<sup>2</sup> (see Niflheim)

Hel-cake Norse

food used to pacify the dog Garm

Hel-gate Norse

the entrance to Niflheim

Hel-kappe (see Tarnkappe)

Hel Keplein Norse

a mantle producing invisibility

(see also Tarnkappe)

Hel-shoes Norse

[Hel-sko.Helsko.Todtenschuh]

stout shoes fitted to the dead for their journey over the rough road, Helveg, leading to Niflheim

Hel-sko (see Hel-shoes)

Hel Tor British

a point on the Devon moors where King Arthur is said to have fought and defeated the Devil

Hela<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of Tiriell, in the works of William Blake

Her father rebelled against his own father, Har, and became a tyrannical ruler, killing many of his own children and turning Hela's hair into snakes like Medusa.

Hela<sup>2</sup> (see Hel<sup>1</sup>)

Helaius British

[Helyas]

an ancestor of King Arthur

father of Joshua

He is regarded as an earlier Grail King.

Helain (see Elyan)

Helblindi<sup>1</sup> Norse

son of Farbauti

brother of Loki, some say

Helblindi<sup>2</sup> Norse

a name used by Odin

Helche Norse

[Herka]

daughter of Rother and Oda first wife of Etzel

Heldenbuch German

[Book of Heroes]

a 15th c book of myths and legends by Kaspar von der Rhon

Heldins European

in some accounts, the first king of

Denmark. predecessor of Tallas

Heledd Welsh

daughter of Cynddylan

Heleius Greek

a king of the Taphians

son of Perseus and Andromeda

Helen<sup>1</sup> Canaanite

the consort of Simon Magus

Helen<sup>2</sup> European

[Helena]

daughter of King Hoel

She was carried off by Cormoran, the giant of Mont St Michel. King Arthur killed the giant but was too late to save Helen.

Helen<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Dendritis.Helen of Troy.Helena.

Helene.Kunopis]

daughter of Zeus by Leda or Nemesis

wife of Menelaus

sister of Castor, Clytemnestra

and Polydeuces

mother of Hermione and Xuthus

She was born from the coupling of Zeus, in the form of a swan, with Leda, or with Nemesis who took the form of a goose, to produce an egg from which Helen was hatched.

As a young girl, she was carried away by Peirithous and Theseus who drew lots for her. Theseus won and sent her to Aphidnus who cared for her until she was of marriageable age. She was rescued by Castor and Polydeuces when they invaded Attica while Theseus was imprisoned in Tartarus.

She later married Menelaus but was abducted by Paris, precipitating the Trojan War. After the death of Paris, whom she had married, in the fighting at Troy, she married his brother Deiphobus but when the city fell to the Greeks she was reunited with Menelaus and returned with him to Greece. Menelaus was one of those who condemned Orestes to death for killing Aegisthus and Clytemnestra to avenge their murder of his father Agamemnon and Orestes would have killed Helen to punish her husband had not Zeus intervened and carried Helen off to Olympus as one of the immortals where she became, like Castor and Pollux, guardian of sailors, appearing as St Elmo's fire.

Another version says that, when Menelaus died, Helen went to Rhodes where she was hanged by Polyxo.

An alternative story says that, when Paris' ship was driven ashore in Egypt, Proteus took Helen to the safety of a cave and put a spirit facsimile in her place to be abducted by Paris.

In some accounts she is said to have married Achilles in Hades and bore a son, Euphorion, though Goethe says that Euphorion was her son by Faust.

Helen<sup>4</sup> Greek

daughter of Aegisthus and Clytemnestra

She was one of those killed by Orestes when he killed her parents to avenge the murder of his father, Agamemnon.

Helen<sup>5</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides in which he alleges that only a phantom Helen was taken to Troy

Helen<sup>6</sup> Serbian
the real name of Yevrossima

Helen<sup>7</sup> (see Elaine<sup>1</sup>)

Helen of the Hosts (see Elen)

Helen of Troy (see Helen<sup>3</sup>)

Helena<sup>1</sup> British daughter of Coel

Her father overthrew the king, Asclepiodotus, and took the throne. He died a month later and Helena married the Roman, Constantine, who became king of Britain.

In some accounts, she is the same as Elen.

Helena<sup>2</sup> (see Helen<sup>1,3</sup>)

Helena Dendritis (see Dendritis)

Helene (see Helen<sup>3</sup>)

Helenos (see Helenus)

Helenus Greek [Helenos]

a Trojan prophet
son of Priam and Hecuba
twin-brother of Cassandra brother of Deiphobus, Hector and Paris
Some stories say that both he and Cassandra acquired prophetic powers when they were licked on the ears by serpents when they were young children.

When Paris was killed during the siege of Troy, Helenus and his brother Deiphobus fought for possession of Helen. Helenus lost the encounter and fled from the city. He was either trapped by Odysseus or voluntarily joined the Greek forces and predicted that they would take the city only if Philoctetes and Pyrrhus joined the battle, the shoulder bone of Pelops were brought from Greece and the Palladium were seized from within the city. When the city fell to the Greeks, he led a band of survivors to settle in Greece itself. Andromache, the widow of Hector, was given as a prize to Pyrrhus but he soon abandoned her. Helenus later married her and they had a son, Cestrinus.

Helfrat (see Elf<sup>6</sup>)

Helferich (see Elf<sup>6</sup>)

Helga Norse
daughter of Njal and Bergthora

sister of Grim, Helgi, Skarp-Hedin and Thorgeid

She was trapped when Flosi's men surrounded the house but, with the other women and children, was given safe passage before the house was burnt to the ground.

Helga-fell Norse
In Icelandic lore, a hill which is the home of the dead

Helgé (see Helgi<sup>1,2,3,4</sup>)

Helgi<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Helgé]
son of Belé

brother of Halfdan and Ingeborg

After the death of their father, Helgi and Halfdan jointly ruled the kingdom of Sogn. At their coronation, Frithiof offered his loyalty and asked for the hand of their sister, Ingeborg. Helgi rejected his suit because Frithiof was a mere commoner and insulted him by offering him work in the palace.

When the aged king, Sigurd Ring, sued for the hand of Ingeborg, Halfdan upset the king by a joking remark about his age, whereupon the king sent an invading army. The brothers sent Hilding to ask Frithiof to fight for them and when he refused they made peace with Sigmund Ring, paying him an annual tribute and giving him Ingeborg in marriage.

Frithiof offered to free them from their obligations to Sigmund Ring if they would allow him to marry Ingeborg but, because Frithiof and Ingeborg had broken the sacred laws by speaking in Hoder's temple, Helgi again rejected his suit and imposed a sentence which he fully expected would result in Frithiof's death.

Angantyr, king of the Orkneys, had ceased paying an annual tribute to Belé when he died. Helgi sent Frithiof to Orkney to demand that the king should hand over the tribute. Helgi then used two witches, Ham and Heid, to brew up a storm that almost wrecked Frithiof's ship but they survived by running down the whale on which the witches were riding and killing them. Frithiof returned safely with a bag of coins given to him by Angantyr which he flung in Helgi's face.

When hunting in the mountains, he came upon a deserted shrine and when he tugged at the lock the god's statue fell from over the gate and killed him.

Other accounts say that he was killed by Frithiof.

Helgi<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Helgé]

son of Sigmund and Borghild
brother of Hamond

Tutored by Hagal, Helgi became a fearless warrior and killed the giant Hati. He saw nine Valkyries riding in the sky and one of them, Svava, told him where to find a magic sword.

In another story, Sigrun (Svava reborn) saved him from a storm at sea and, in yet another, Kara (Sigrun reborn) protected him in the form of a swan but was killed when he swung his sword too high in the air.

Some say that Sigrun had been promised in marriage to Hadbrod and that he fought Helgi for her hand and was killed.

Helgi escaped capture by the Hundings, traditional enemies of the Volsungs, by disguising himself as Hagal's man-servant and then, with Sinfiotli, led an army against the Hundings which killed all except Dag who promised to end the feud. Instead, he used Odin's spear, Gungnir, to kill Helgi.

One of the Valkyries, Gudrun, had fallen in love with Helgi and they were reunited in Valhalla after his death. In some versions, Gudrun is Svava.

Helgi<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Helgé]
son of Njal and Bergthora
brother of Grim, Helga, Skarp-Hedin and Throgerd

He died, with the rest of the Njalsson clan when they were trapped in their house, Bergthorsknoll, which was burnt to the ground by Flosi and his men. He tried to escape dressed as a woman but was spotted and killed by Flosi.

Helgi<sup>4</sup> Norse

[Helgé.Helgi Thorgilsson]
father of Bjarni

In one story, it was said that Helgi killed Geiter but others say that they fought but became good friends.

Another story tells how he plotted with Geitir, his brother-in-law, to murder a rich merchant for his valuables but the merchant's partner, Thorlief, sent the dead man's possessions to his heirs. Helgi then employed Ketill to kill Thorlief but the assassin made friends with his intended victim. Helgi and Geitir each came to suspect the other of having stolen the merchant's fortune and they quarrelled. In the end, Geitir laid an ambush for his brother-in-law and Helgi was killed.

Helgrind Norse

[Helgrindr.Nagrind.Valgrind:=Finnish Tuonen-portti]

the gate at the entrance to Hel's kingdom of the dead

Helgrindr *(see Helgrind)Helgunda European

the name for Hildegunde in the Polish version of the story of Walther and Hildegunde

In this version, her husband was Walcerz.

Helheim *(see Niflheim)Heli *(see Beli<sup>1</sup>)Helia *(see Halia)Heliades<sup>1</sup> British

a king of Scotland

He was an ally of Mordred when he usurped the throne of Britain and was rewarded with the throne of Scotland.

Heliades<sup>2</sup> Greek

the daughters of Helios and Clymene sisters of Phaeton

Their names were Aegle (or Phoebe), Lampetia and Phaetusa.

Grieving at the death of their brother Phaeton, they were turned into poplar trees on the banks of the river Eridanus, the river into which he fell when struck by the thunderbolt of Zeus.

The term is also used for the children of Helios, of whom there were many, by various consorts.

Helias *(see Elias)Helicaon Greek

son of Antenor husband of Laodice

Helice<sup>1</sup> Greek

a nymph wife of Oenopion mother of Merope

Helice<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Selinus wife of Ion

Helicon *(see Mount Helicon)Helie British

a servant of Blonde Esmerée

She went to King Arthur's court to enlist the help of Gingalin for her mistress.

Helig Welsh

a ruler of Lafau Sands

As a result of his wickedness, his realm was inundated by the sea. He escaped with his family and thereafter lived a pious life.

Heliogabalos Greek

the Greek version of Elagabalus

heliolatry

sun-worship

Heliopolis Greek

the Greek name for the sacred Egyptian city of the sun

Helios *(see Helius)heliotrope<sup>1</sup> Greek

the sunflower into which Clytie was changed

heliotrope<sup>2</sup>

a stone, a greenish form of quartz Some say it makes its wearer invisible.

Helis<sup>1</sup> British

son of Ardan cousin of King Arthur

Helis<sup>2</sup> *(see Helith)Helith British

[Heil.Helis] a sun-god

Some say that he is represented by the figure known as the Cerne Abbas Giant.

Helius Greek

[Apollo.Helios.Phoebus.Titan: =Egyptian Ra:=Roman Sol]

a sun-god and god of beauty

son of Hyperion and Thea or Euryphaessa

brother of Eos and Selene consort of Perse

father of Aegle, Lampetia, Phaetusa and Phaeton by Clymene father of Pasiphae by Crete father of Aetes and Crete by

Perse, some say father of Prote by Rhode, some say

He was said to have fathered seven sons and one daughter on the nymph Rhode. In some accounts, Phaeton is one of those sons, in others he is the son of Helius by Clymene. Other accounts say that he was the father of Silene by Euryphaessa while others say there were three sons (or grandsons), Camirus, Ialysus and Lindus.

He drove his sun-chariot across the sky from east to west every day, returning to his eastern palace each night in a golden ferry-boat operating in Ocean. Foolishly he allowed his son Phaeton to drive his sun-chariot with disastrous results.

During the war between the Giants and the gods, he was absent from the sky to prevent the growth of a herb that would have made the Giants immortal.

It was Helius who gave Heracles the golden bowl in which he crossed from Africa to Erythea en route to seize Geryon's cattle.

Helius owned seven herds of cattle and seven flocks of sheep, pastured on islands in the Mediterranean and tended by his daughters. These herds never grew larger or smaller until they were attacked by the crew of Odysseus' ship.

Heljar-ran Norse

the realm of Dellinger

Hell<sup>1</sup> *(see Hel<sup>1</sup>)hell<sup>2</sup>

[Abyss.Bottomless Pit]

a place of punishment after death, common to many cultures

-Afghan

The Kafir hell is called Burry Duggan Boola.

-Buddhist

The Buddhists envisage a hell with eight, ten or as many as 136 realms, the lowest of which is called Avici.

-Central American

The Mayan hell consisted of nine steps which required the soul to cross a river guarded by a yellow dog, pass between two mountain peaks, suffer the onslaught of bitterly cold winds, banners and arrows, and escape from a wild animal before reaching a land of peace.

-Chinese

This home of departed souls, known as Ti Yü, Earth Prism, is said to be somewhere in Szechuan province and has ten departments, known as Shih T'ien-wen-yang, each of which is ruled by one of the Ten Yama Kings.

Souls reaching this region are asked for money at the entrance and beaten if they fail to pay. After being weighed to ascertain whether they are weighed down by evil, they are segregated into good and evil in Bad Dog Village. They are allowed a glimpse of their future in a mirror and a nostalgic look at their past before crossing a bridge which, for sinners, is only about an inch wide. On the far side, they receive a drink which destroys all recollection of an earlier life and pass through the Wheel of the Law to emerge into a new incarnation.

-European

In his Divine Comedy, Dante divides hell into nine circles, some of which are sub-divided.

After entering at the gates and passing through the vestibule reserved for the futile, one crosses the Acheron to reach the first circle, Limbo, reserved for the unbaptised.

The next three circles are reserved for the lustful, the gluttonous and the hoarders (or spendthrifts). Crossing the Styx, one reaches the fifth circle, reserved for the angry, and then the city of Dis. Passing from the upper hell to the lower hell, one comes to the sixth circle, reserved for heretics. The seventh circle, for the violent, is subdivided into three rings (for those who attacked relatives; suicides; and blasphemers) and the eighth circle has ten trenches reserved for panderers, flatterers, simoniacs, sorcerers, barrators, hypocrites, thieves, fraudsters, agitators and falsifiers.

The final circle has four zones that are known as Caina (for those who betrayed their families), Antenora (for those who betrayed their country), Ptolomaea (for betrayers of hospitality) and Judecca (for those who betrayed their superiors).

–Greek (see Hades.Tartarus)

–Hebrew

She'ol, sometimes referred to as Belial, is a dark realm under the earth, largely a place for the dead awaiting the last day, rather than a place of punishment.

(see also Gehenna)

–Hindu

Hell has twenty-eight realms. Of these, Asipatravana is for heretics, Avichimat is for liars, Kalasutra is for killers of Brahmins, Krimibhoja is for the selfish, Raurava is for sadists, Suchimukha is for misers, Sukramukha is for tyrants, Tamusra is for adulterers and thieves, Vaitarani for pillagers and those who have destroyed beehives, and Vajrakantaka is for those who married into another caste. Those people who have caused religious controversy are thrown into the filthy river, also called Vaitarani.

–Jain

Hell has a number of layers of which the lowest is known as Mahahima. In one realm, Valuka, the torture involves burial in hot sand.

–Japanese

Yomitsu-kuni or Jigoku lies under the earth and comprises eight hells, each of which is divided into sixteen parts. In addition to these major hells there are others, each divided into four parts, known as Kimpen-jigoku and others, the Koduko-jigoku, which appear randomly. Souls are judged by Emma-O and sent to one or more hells or, if deserving, reborn.

(see also underworld)

Hell-money

paper money burnt as an offering to the dead

Hellawes (see Hellowes)

Helle Greek

daughter of Athamas and Nephele,

Ino or Themisto

sister of Phrixus

She and her brother were rescued from being sacrificed and carried away by Chrysallom, a flying ram with a golden fleece, but she got giddy, fell into the sea and was drowned in what became known as the Hellespont.

Some stories allege that she was saved from drowning by Poseidon and bore his son, Paeon or Edonus.

Hellekin (see Harlequin)

Hellen Greek

son of Deucalion and Pyrrha

brother of Amphictryon, Idomeneus

and Molus

husband of Orseis

father of Aeolus, Dorus and Xuthus

He is regarded as the father of all Greeks.

Heller South American

a Patagonian creator-god

son of the sun

Hellespontine Sybil Greek

a prophetess

Helli (see Selli)

Hellison

a spirit of fruitfulness

Hellkin British

the English name for Alichino

Hellotia Greek

a Cretan festival in honour of Athene or Europa

hellotis Greek

a wreath, said to contain the bones of

Europa, carried in the festival of Hellotia

Hellowes British

[Hallowes.Hellawes]

a sorceress of Castle Nigramous

She was sent by Morgan le Fay to entrap Lancelot but he warded off all her enchantments by using the hilt of his sword as a cross. She fell in love with Lancelot but perished since a sorceress cannot love a mere mortal and live. Others say she died of a broken heart.

Hellraker British

the English version of Malebranche

Helm Gunnar (see Hialmgunnar)

Helm Wind (see helmwind)

Helmet of Dread

(see Helmet of Invisibility<sup>2</sup>)

Helmet of Invisibility<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Cap of Hades]

a helmet owned by Hades

This helmet was worn by Perseus when he killed the gorgon, Medusa.

In some versions, this headgear was a cap made of dogskin which Perseus got from the Graiae.

Helmet of Invisability<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Aegis.Helmet of Dread.Oegishialm.

Tarnhelm]

a magic helmet made by the

dwarf, Mime

This was part of the treasure surrendered under duress by Andvari to Loki to ransom himself, Odin and Hoenir who were held captive by Hreidmar for the killing of his son Otter by Loki. It was seized by Fafnir who used it to turn himself into a dragon.

Helmigis German

a shield-bearer to Alboin

When Alboin was murdered by Perideus at the behest of Alboin's wife, Rosamund, she became ruler of the Lombards and proposed to marry Helmigis. Her subjects would not accept such a man as king and they fled together. She grew tired of him and gave him a poisoned drink. He forced her to drink half of it and they died together.

Helmschott Norse

a warrior serving with Dietrich

von Bern

He was one of the party captured by Ermenrich.

Helmund Afghan

[=Persian Haravaita]

a river-goddess

helmwind British

[Helm Wind]

a Cumbrian wind in Arthurian legends

Heloha North American

a female Thunderbird, in the lore of the Choctaws

Helsko (see Hel-shoes)

Helva Norse

daughter of the lord of Nesvek

Her father agreed that she could marry Esbern if he would build a church. Esbern agreed to give his eyes, heart and soul to the dwarf who undertook the work, unless he could discover the dwarf's name before the church was completed. Helva's prayers to the gods enabled her to discover that the dwarf's name was Father Fine in time to save her lover.

Helveg Norse

[Helvegr.Helvig]
the rough road leading to Niflheim

Helvegr (see Helveg)

Helvig (see Helveg)

Helyas (see Elias.Helaius)

Hema<sup>1</sup> New Zealand

son of Kai Tangata and Whatiri husband of Urutonga
father of Tawhaki

He was killed by demons but his death was avenged by Tawhaki.

(see also Hema<sup>2</sup>)

Hema<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

in Hawaii, Hema was the son of Ai Kanaka and Mahina and the brother of Puna

Hemadri Hindu

a name for Mount Meru as 'golden mountain'

Hemakuta Hindu

a range of mountains said to lie to the north of the Himalayas

Hemantadevi Buddhist

[=Tibetan dGun-gyi-rgyal-mo]
a goddess of winter

She is depicted as blue and having the head of an animal.

Hemen Egyptian

a falcon-god

He is said to be an aspect of Horus.

Hemera Greek

['day'] an aspect of Eos as 'morning'
daughter of Erebus and Nyx
mother of Aphrodite, some say

hemicyne Greek

one of a race of dog-headed humans, said to bark like dogs, living near the Black Sea (see also cyanocephali)

Hemison British

a knight
lover of Morgan le Fay

He was said to be the father of Pulzella Gaia by Morgan and was killed by Tristram.

Hemithea Greek

daughter of Cynus and Procleia
Her father's second wife, Phylomone, accused Hemithea's brother, Teles, of improper advances and Cynus cast both Teles and Hemithea adrift in a chest. They were rescued by Poseidon and landed on Tenedos where Teles was made king.

Hemosu Korean

father of Chumong

He pretended to be the son of a god and raped the maiden Yuhwa who produced an egg from which Chumong was born.

Hemp Lady (see Ma Ku)

Hemusut Egyptian

[Hemusut]
a goddess of fate

Hemusut (see Hemsut)

Hen Wen Welsh

[Henwen.Old White One]

a magical white sow

She distributed gifts of corn, bees, etc., and was said to be the mother of the monstrous animal, Cath Palug, and other troublesome offspring. King Arthur chased her until she jumped into the sea.

In some accounts she is identified as Ceridwen.

henbane

a plant said to have magical powers

Henbeddestyr Welsh

son of Erim

He could run faster than any man whether on foot or on horseback.

(see also Henwas)

Hendursaga Mesopotamian

[Hendursanga.=Akkadian Ixum]

a Sumerian god of law

Hendursanga (see Hendursaga)

Heneb Egyptian

a god of the vine

Heng<sup>1</sup> North American

[De Hi No]

a thunder-god of the Hurons

Heng, one of seven brothers, was so vigorous and so clumsy that his brothers abandoned him on a small island in a lake in the mountains where he still lives.

Heng<sup>2</sup> (see Hang)

Heng Hsi Chinese

[Chang Hsi.Ever Breath]

one of the wives of Ti Chün

She had ten (or, some say, twelve) sons by Ti Chün and took them, one each day as the moon, across the sky in her chariot.

In some accounts, she is the same as Heng O.

Heng O Chinese

[ch'an-ch'u.Chang O.Ever Sublime.

Moon Lady]

a moon-goddess

sister of Ho Po

wife of I

Her husband built a jade palace for Hsi Wang Mu and was given the drink that conferred immortality. Heng-O stole it and fled to the moon, becoming a three-legged celestial toad. She was reunited with I when he became a sun-god.

(see also Heng Hsi)

Heng Shan<sup>1</sup> Chinese

one of the Five Holy Mountains, known as Wu Yüeh, in Hunan province

Heng Shan<sup>2</sup> Chinese

one of the Five Holy Mountains,
known as Wu Yüeh, in Shansi (Shanxi) province

Henga North American

an eagle-spirit in the lore of the Osage tribe

Hengest (see Hengist)

Hengi-kiapt Norse

a name for Frodi's mill (see also Grotte)

Hengist<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Hengest]

a Danish clan-chief brother of Horsa

father of Aesc, Ebissa, Hartwaker, Octa, Renwein and Sardoine

When Hnaef was killed in the battle with Finn who had married Hnaef's sister, Hildeburh, Hengist took over as leader of the clan. He pretended to make peace with Finn but treacherously killed him and took Hildeburh back to her own people.

He led the Saxon invasion of Britain with his brother Horsa and became king of Kent. He was killed in battle by Eldol.

Hengist<sup>2</sup> Saxon

the Saxon name for Ivald or Hiuki

Hengroen Welsh

the horse of Cynwyl

Henin Welsh

father of Garwen

henky Scottish

a troll of the northern islands

Henning European

the cock in Reynard the Fox, mate of Scratchfoot

Heno (see Hinun)

Henry European

a German emperor
father of Laris and Lidoine

Henry the Courtly British

leader of an army sent by King Arthur to relieve Jerusalem from the threat of invasion

Hensho Kong (see Kobo Daishi)

Hent-Taui Egyptian

a priestess of Amon-Ra

Henten Karube African

daughter of Bincigi
sister of Marain Jagu

She helped her brother avenge her father's death at the hands of the tyrant king, Garakhe.

Henwas Welsh
son of Erim

He was known as Henwas the Winged because he could run faster than any animal. (see also Henbeddestyr)

Henwen (see Hen Wen) Henwinus British

a duke of Cornwall
husband of Regan

He and his wife, together with Goneril and her husband, deposed the aging King Lear. Lear went to his other daughter, Cordelia, in Gaul and they returned with an army that restored the king to his throne.

Heol European
a Breton sun-god

Herot Danish
the palace of Hroldgar

Heosphorus (see Phosporus)

hepatoscopy
divination by inspection of animals' livers or entrails

Hepatu (see Hepit)

Hepetiupa (see Rua Kenana)

Hephaestia<sup>1</sup> Greek [Hephaistia:=Roman Vulcania]
a festival in honour of Hephaestus

Hephaestia<sup>2</sup> Greek [Hephaistia]
a name of Athena as a smith-goddess

Hephaestus Greek [Hephaistos:=Hindu Tvashtri: =Roman Mulciber.Vulcan]
god of fire, a smith-god
one of the Olympians

son of Zeus and Hera or of Hera alone
brother of Hebe and Ares husband of Aglaia, Aphrodite or Charis father of Olenus and Palaemon father by Etna of the twins, Palici, in some accounts

father by Gaia of Erichthonius father by Medusa of Ardalus, Cacus, Cercyon and Periphetes

He was a puny and ugly infant and may have been born lame, prompting his mother Hera to throw him off Mount Olympus. In another account, he was thrown down by Zeus when he had the audacity to criticise Zeus for his treatment of Hera who had been hung up by her wrists. Whether he was lame before or not, he was certainly lame thereafter as a result of breaking his legs in the fall. In the first version he fell into the sea and was rescued by Thetis and Eurynome, in the second he fell on Lemnos. He walked on golden leg supports which, some say, were in the form of hand-maidens who supported him. He made a golden throne which trapped anyone who sat in it and sent it to Hera. After Hermes had failed, Dionysus persuaded Hephaestus to return to Olympus and release her, whereupon he was restored to his parents' favour. Some say that he released Hera only when he was promised Aphrodite as his wife. He soon returned to his forge and made golden palaces for each of the gods and the thunderbolts that Zeus used as his personal weapons. His other works included Talos, the bronze guardian of Crete, a golden mastiff for Rhea to guard the infant Zeus, Harmonia's beautiful necklace, the bulls of Aetes and the golden basket used by Core when picking flowers. Some say that he also created Pandora.

In some accounts he married Aglaia, one of the Graces, or Charis; others say he married Aphrodite. In this latter story, he caught Aphrodite in bed with Ares and trapped them both in a net of very fine metal mesh which he had made, allowing all the bystanders to see her shame. It was he who split open the head of Zeus with his axe to allow the birth, fully dressed in armour and already armed, of the goddess Athene. In an abortive attempt to rape Athene he fertilised Gaea, giving rise to Erichthonius.

His symbol is the hammer.

Hephaistia (see Hephaestia)

Hephaistos (see Hephaestus)

Hephibah (see Rua Kenana)

Hepiales (see Ephialtes<sup>2</sup>)

Hepialos (see Ephialtes<sup>2</sup>)

Hepit Mesopotamian
a Hurrian sky-goddess

In some accounts, she is identified with Hebat; in others, they are separate deities.

She is depicted as standing on a lion.

Heptad (see Amesha Spentas)

Hepiti Norse
one of the dwarfs

Heqet (see Heket)

Heqt (see Heket)

Hequat (see Heket)

Heques Egyptian
a god of fishermen and river-mouths

Hequet (see Heket)

Her Egyptian
a sky-god

Her-ap-sheta Egyptian

Horus as 'opener of secrets'
the planet Jupiter

Her-ka Egyptian

Horus as the Bull: the planet Saturn

Her-pe-khred (see Harpakhrad)

Her-Tyr (see Herfadir)

Hera Greek

[Chera.Gamelia.Great Goddess.Here.

Karpophonos.Kourotrophos.'lady'.
Parthenos.Queen of Heaven.Teleia:

=Egyptian Mut:=Hindu Indrani:

=Roman Juno]

the goddess of marriage and sky

one of the Olympians

daughter of Cronus and Rhea

twin sister and wife of Zeus mother of Ares, Hebe, Hephaestus

and Ilithyia

She was one of the children swallowed by Cronus who was afraid that one of them might usurp his throne. Only Zeus escaped this fate and he later caused Cronus to regurgitate the children he had swallowed. She was nursed by the Seasons and raised by Temenus.

She was raped by Zeus in the form of a cuckoo and later married him, receiving a tree that yielded golden apples as a wedding gift from Gaea.

She was so disgusted by the puny and ugly infant Hephaestus that she is said to have dropped him from Mount Olympus. She had the power to grant to others the gift of prophecy.

She found the infant Heracles abandoned by Alcmena and, not realising that this was another son of her errant husband Zeus, suckled it at her breast, so making him immortal. She later did all she could to harass Heracles.

She once led a revolt against the imperious Zeus and was severely punished for her treachery. She was suspended by her wrists with heavy weights attached to her ankles. Others say that this treatment resulted from her persecution of Heracles.

When Semele was having an affair with Zeus, Hera came in the form of Semele's old nurse, Beroe, and persuaded her mistress to demand that her lover should prove that he really was who he said he was. When Zeus complied, the divine radiance killed Semele. The son of this union was Dionysus and Hera ordered the Titans to destroy him. They tore him to pieces and boiled him but Rhea collected all the bits, reassembled them and restored Dionysus to life.

When Paris awarded the golden apple to Aphrodite at the wedding of Peleus and Thetis, she and Athene, the losing contestants, became his enemies and supported the Greeks against the Trojans during the Trojan War.

Once, when she left Zeus, he made a wooden image, dressed it in a bridal gown and displayed it as his new wife. She then came back, knocked over the statue and was reconciled with her husband.

Some say that she produced the monster, Typhon, in jealousy when Zeus produced Athene unaided.

Amongst other exploits, she changed Callisto into a bear for having an affair with Zeus, although others say that Zeus did this to deceive Hera, and transferred the eyes of Argus to the peacock's tail. When Teiresias said that women have nine times as much pleasure as a man from sexual intercourse, she struck him blind.

On some accounts, she is identified with Ilythia.

Her animal was the cow, her bird the peacock and her symbol the cornucopia. (see also Selene)

Heracleidae<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Heraclidae.Heraclides.Heraklidae]
descendants of Heracles

Heracleidae<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Children of Heracles]
a play by Euripides

Heracles<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Alcaeus.Alcides.Amphitryonides.
Criophorus.Herakles.Herc(1)e.Kymenos.
Maneros.Melampygos.Melon.
Palaemon.Palaimon.Tiryntian:
=Armenian Vahagn:

=Canaanite Melkarth:=Celtic Ogmios:

=Etruscan Hercle:=Italian Hereklo:

=Roman Hercules.The Unconquerable]

son of Zeus by Alcmene

twin of Iphicles

husband of Megara and, later, of Deianeira

father by Megara of Creontidas,

Deicoon and Thersimachus

father by Deianeira of Ctesippus,

Glenus, Hodites, Hyllus, Macaria
and Tlepolemus

father by Procris of Antileon and

Hippeus, some say

When Zeus decided that there was a need for a great champion to safeguard both the gods and mortals, he slept with Alcmene during the absence of her husband Amphitryon at the wars, deceiving her into thinking he was her husband and causing the motions of the universe to slow so that one night lasted for three. The result of this union was Heracles, known in his early years as Alcides.

Alcmene, fearing the wrath of the jealous Hera, abandoned Heracles in a field where he was found by Hera who, not knowing who the infant was, suckled him, so making him immortal. When she later discovered that the boy – originally known as Alcaeus or Palaemon – was the son of her own husband she became obsessed with making his life difficult. As a start, she sent two fiery-eyed serpents to kill him but Heracles, though a mere lad at the time, strangled them both, one in each hand.

As a youth, he killed Linus who was teaching him to play the lyre by striking him with the instrument in a fit of anger. He was acquitted at his trial, quoting the law that gave him the right of self-defence against Linus who had been beating him. He also killed the outlaw Saurus and another called Termerus, the latter in a head-butting contest just as Termerus had killed many a traveller.

At eighteen, he slept with each of the fifty daughters of King Thespius, producing fifty-one sons, and went on to kill the Cithaeronian lion which had been causing havoc. He wore the skin as armour with the jaws forming a helmet. Other accounts say that this was the skin of the Nemean Lion which he killed as the first of his twelve Labours and that the Cithaeronian Lion was killed by Alcaethous.

Reputedly the strongest man who ever strode the earth, he fought on the side of the gods when the Giants rebelled and killed Ephialtes, Porphyron and their leader Alcyoueus.

When a Theban charioteer accidentally killed King Clymenus, his son Erginus avenged his death by exacting a tribute of a hundred cattle for twenty years. Heracles became involved when he cut the noses off the men sent to collect the cattle and, when Erginus attacked Thebes, he led the Theban youth and defeated the Minyan army, killing Erginus. As reward he was given Megara, the eldest daughter of King Creon, in marriage and they had several sons – the number varies according to who is telling the story – who became known as the Alcaides.

Hera eventually drove Heracles mad and he tried to kill his own nephew Iolaus. Iolaus escaped but Heracles did kill six of his own sons and two of the sons of his brother Iphicles or, in an alternative version, Megara and two or three of his own sons. He was purified by King Thespius and, when he consulted the Delphic Oracle, he was told to serve King Eurystheus for twelve years and do whatever the king demanded of him. Hermes gave him a sword, Apollo donated a bow and arrows, Hephaestus a breast-plate, Athena a robe, Poseidon a team of horses and his father, Zeus, gave him a shield. So equipped, Heracles set out to perform the twelve Labours, taking with him young Iolaus as charioteer.

After his fourth Labour, he joined the Argonauts on their expedition to recover the Golden Fleece but was left behind at Mysia when he went off to look for his armour-bearer, Hylas, who had been carried off by water-nymphs.

Giving up his fruitless search, he resumed his Labours, successfully completing all twelve. He later killed Calais and Zetes who had advised Jason to sail on, leaving Heracles stranded in Mysia.

Afterwards, he gave his wife Megara to Iolaus and tried for the hand of Iole by beating her father Eurytus in an archery contest. When Eurytus reneged on his offer of Iole's hand to the victor and an argument arose about some stolen cattle, Heracles killed Iphitus, son of Eurytus, by throwing him from a tower. As punishment, he was sold as a slave to Omphale, queen of Lydia, for one year but this proved pleasant punishment when Omphale fell in love with him and bore him three children, Agelaus, Lamus and Laomedon. He also fathered Cleodaeus and Alcaeus on Malis, a servant of Omphale.

To avenge himself on Augeas who had failed to hand over the promised reward of a tenth of all the herds when Heracles cleansed his stables and land, Heracles attacked Elis and later killed Eurytus and Cteatus, the twins who had acted as general for Augeas and were joined at the waist. He also sacked Pylus because the king, Neleus, had fought for Augeas, and killed his sons including Periclymenus who, given the power by Poseidon of assuming any shape he wished, attacked Heracles in the form of an eagle until killed with an arrow. Heracles gave the city to Nestor, son of Neleus.

Hippocoon had become king of Sparta by deposing his brothers, the co-kings Icarus and Tyndareus. He had also helped Neleus in his fight with Heracles. In revenge, Heracles killed Hippocoon and his twelve sons, restoring the former rulers to the throne.

He also fought and defeated the many-formed river-god Achelous for the hand of Deianeira and married her. Their children were called Ctesippus, Glenus, Hodites, Hyllus and Macaria.

Heracles also killed Phyleus, king of Ephyra, abducting his daughter Astyoche on whom, according to some accounts, he fathered Tlepolemus. Others say the mother was Astyadameia, also abducted.

He accidentally killed Eunomus when the boy spilled some wine and exiled himself and family to Trachis. A Centaur named Nessus offered to carry Deianeira and the children over the Evenus while Heracles swam across but ran off with Deianeira and tried to rape her. Heracles shot him from across the river. At the behest of Nessus, Deianeira collected his spilt semen and blood and mixed it with olive oil in a sealed jar, believing his story that it would act as a love-potion if she spread it on her husband's shirt. In another version, Nessus gave her his own robe, stained with his poisoned blood, which had the same effect.

Challenged to a chariot-duel by Cynus, a son of Ares, he won the contest, killing Cynus and wounding Ares who was supporting his son in the duel.

He next took further revenge on Eurystus, who had reneged on his promise to give his daughter Iole to the winner of the archery contest, by sacking Oechalia and killing Iole's family. He captured Iole and sent her back to Trachis while he remained to offer sacrifices to Zeus. By the hand of the herald, Lichas, Deianeira sent, at Heracles' request, a new shirt for the ceremony and she, fearing that she would be abandoned in favour of Iole, anointed the shirt with what she believed to be the love-potion given to her by Nessus. In fact, the mixture contained the poison of the Hydra which had entered the blood-stream of Nessus from the arrow fired by Heracles and Heracles died in agony, finally immolating himself on a pyre on Mount Oeta. Before he died he grabbed Lichas by one foot and threw him to his death from Mount Oeta. The pyre was lit either by Philoctetes, to whom Heracles bequeathed his bow and arrows, or by his father, Poeas. Zeus conveyed the immortal part of his son to Olympus where he became one of the gods. Finally reconciled with Hera, he married her daughter Hebe and fathered two more children, Alexiars and Anicetus.

In the Roman version, where Heracles becomes Hercules, he is said to have married Lavinia and fathered Latinus and Pallas.

As father of Celtus by Celtina, he originated the Celts.

(see also Labours of Hercules)

Heracles<sup>2</sup> Greek
a play by Euripides

Heracles of Ceta Greek
a barley-god
twin brother of Poeas

He was the ruler of twelve chieftains but subject to the Queen of the Woods whom he married in an annual ceremony and then died.

In an alternative version, he was killed at mid-summer each year and Poeas reigned until the New Year when he in turn was killed by a new Heracles.

The annual ritual required that he be impaled on a stake, blinded, castrated, killed, flayed and cut into pieces which were then roasted. The head was floated down the river in a boat or preserved as an oracle.

Heracles of Tiryns Greek
an early vegetation god

He was the lover of fifty maidens, who were priestesses of a mountain goddess. In the recurrent rite of death and renewal, he was killed at intervals of eight years, alternately with his twin, Iphicles. In later years, a child victim was sacrificed in his stead, prolonging his reign.

Heraclidae (see Heracleidae)

Heracledes (see Heracleidae)

Heraia Greek
a festival in honour of Hera, held at New Year in every fourth year

Herakhte (see Horus of the Horizon)

Herakhty (see Horus of the Horizon)

Herakles (see Heracles)

Heraklidae (see Heracleidae)

Herambá Hindu
in Nepal, a form of Ganesha with 5 elephant heads

herba sacra Roman [vervain]

a plant said to have magic properties to cure sickness and avert witchcraft

Herbart German
a nephew of Dietrich von Bern

His uncle sent him to King Arthur's court to sue for the hand of Hilde, the king's daughter. Herbart and Hilde fell in love and eloped.

Herbrand European
son of Berchther
father of Hildebrand

Herce Egyptian
Heracles as the god of merchants and soldiers

Herclé Greek
the Etruscan name for Heracles

Herculean knot Greek
the entwined snakes (originally said to be ribbons) on Hermes' rod

This complex knot was used by brides for their girdles and it was said that it could be unfastened only by the bridegroom.

Hercules Greek
the Roman name for Heracles

Hercules Barbatus (see Donar)

Hercules secundus (see Commodus)

Herculis columnae
(see Pillars of Hercules)

Herdesher (see Herdesuf)

Herdesuf Egyptian
[Herdesher]
Horus as the Red Horus: the planet Mars

Herdsmán (see Pan<sup>2</sup>)

Here (see Hera)

Herecgunina North American
an evil spirit of the Winnebago tribe

Hereklo Roman [=Greek Heracles:=Roman Hercules]
an Italian hero

Heremod (see Hermod<sup>2</sup>)

Heremon (see Eremon)

Herensugue European
a Basque demon in the form of a flying snake with 7 heads

Hereret Egyptian
a huge serpent living in the Lake of Cobras

The evil that this beast spewed out was swallowed by the goddesses guarding the flame of Ra.

Hereric European

[Heriricus]

a Frankish king

father of Hildegunde

When the advancing hordes of Attila threatened his kingdom, he surrendered without a fight, paid a tribute of gold and handed over his young daughter, Hildegunde, as a hostage.

Herēs Canaanite

a name for the Babylonian sun-god,

Samas

Hereshguina North American

an evil spirit of the Winnebago

In some accounts, this spirit is equated with Wakdjunkaga.

Heret-Kau Egyptian

a goddess of the underworld

Hereward the Wake British

an 11th c hero

He is said to have fought a giant and a bear, winning a magical suit of armour from the former.

Herfadir Norse

[Her-Tyr.Herfather]

a name for Odin as ‘father of hosts’

Herfather (see Herfadir)

a name for Odin

Herfjoturr Norse

a Valkyrie

Hergart

sister of Herwig

wife of Hartmut

Heri Norse

in the Icelandic version of the Tristram and Isolde story, it was he who told King Mark of his wife’s affair with Tristram

Herian Norse

[Herjan]

a name for Odin as ‘leader of hosts’

Heriricus (see Hereric)

Herishef (see Hershef)

Herjan (see Herian)

Herjan’s Maids (see Valkyries)

Herka (see Helche)

Herke (see Holda)

Herkhty (see Horus of the Horizon)

Herkios Greek

a name for Zeus as god of enclosures

Herla British

[King Herla]

a mythical king of Britain

A dwarf king appeared at Herla’s wedding and invited the king to visit his court. Herla and some of his retinue accepted the invitation and spent a few days in the underground palace. When they returned, they found that they had been away for 200 years and those that dismounted from their horses crumbled away to dust. The others were condemned to ride on forever or suffer the same fate. Herla was said to be a leader of the Wild Hunt, unable to dismount until the small dog he carries, which was given to him by the dwarf king, jumps down.

Herlathing (see Herelethingi)

Herelethingi British

[Herlathing]

a train of phantom soldiers

on horseback

These men, carrying many fine gifts, were said to move through the countryside in broad daylight. They are generally regarded as the survivors of Herla’s visit to the kingdom of the pygmy king but others say that they are the riders of the Wild Hunt.

Herlind African

a handmaiden of Oda

Herma Greek

[=Roman Terminal]

a marker, originally a heap of stones, but later a post or column bearing a head of Hermes, erected at street corners and venerated by the public

Hermaia Greek

a festival in honour of Hermes

Hermakhis (see Harmachis)

Hermaneric (see Ermenrich)

Hermangarde European

daughter of Desiderius

In some accounts she was the second wife of Charlemagne.

Hermanubis Greek

the Egyptian god Anubis identified with Hermes

Hermaphroditos (see Hermaphroditus)

Hermaphroditos (see Hermaphroditus)

Hermaphroditus Greek

[Aphroditus.Hermaphrod(e)itos]

son of Hermes and Aphrodite

When he spurned the advances of the nymph Salmakis she prayed that they might be united. When she embraced him as they bathed their bodies merged into one. Subsequently, the spring changed all men who bathed in it into hermaphrodites.

Hermeias (see Hermes)

Hermensul German

[Herminsul.Irmensaule.Irminsul]

a fertility-god

A pillar dedicated to this god, who was said to support the world, was destroyed by Charlemagne.

In some accounts, the name is merely that of the sacred pillar.

(see also Tiwaz)

Hermes Greek

[Agoneus.Arais.Arg(e)iphontes.

Atlantiades.Camillus.Clithonius.

Cyllen(ius).Hermaubis.Hermeias.

Master of Animals.Master Thief.

Nomius. Oneicopompus.Pasturer.

Psychogogue.Psychopomp(us).Terminus.

The Master.Trismegistus:

=Egyptian Anubis.Thoth:=Etruscan

Turms:=Roman Mercury]

god of art, commerce, eloquence,

fertility, games, herdsmen, luck,

markets, roads, thieves,

travellers, wisdom

herald and messenger of the gods

one of the Olympians

son of Zeus by Maia

Hera, as usual, was jealous of her husband’s affair with Maia so Hermes disguised himself as the infant Ares and deceived Hera into suckling him, after which she felt obliged to regard him as her own son.

As an infant he stole some of Apollo’s cattle and gave him the lyre, which he had invented when less than one day old, to earn his forgiveness. The peasant Bottus had told Apollo who had taken the cattle and Hermes turned him to stone.

When he was appointed official herald to the gods, Zeus gave him his winged sandals, his hat and his staff. Others say that Apollo gave him the staff when Hermes gave the god the lyre and they became friends.

He was also appointed by Hades to summon the dead and conduct their souls to Tartarus, as Psychopompus.

He had many children, among them Daphnis, Echion and, in some stories, Pan. He was also the father of:

Abderus

Autolykus by Chione

Cephalus and Ceryx by Herse

Daphnis by a nymph

Eros by Aphrodite, in

some accounts

Evander by Carmenta

Hermaphroditus by Aphrodite

Myrtilus by Phaetusa or Theobule

Pan by Penelope or a nymph

Priapus by Aphrodite, some say.

He saved the infant Dionysus when his mother was killed by Zeus and planted him in the father's thigh until full term.

He is credited with the invention of fire, the lyre from the shell of a tortoise, the shepherd's pipe, astronomy, musical scales, measures, etc.

He brought Protesilaus back from Hades to see his wife who, refusing to give him up, went back to Hades with him.

He killed the Giant Hippolytus during the battle between the Giants and the gods and restored to Zeus the sinews cut out by the monster Typhon.

He rescued Io (in the form of a cow) from imprisonment under the eyes of Argus, killing Argus and cutting off his head. Hera, who had ordered the detention of Io, placed the 100 eyes of Argus in the peacock's tail.

He gave Perseus the sickle with which he beheaded Medusa.

He is depicted as wearing the winged hat and sandals and carrying his staff, the caduceus, with wings and entwined serpents. (see also Charidotes)

Hermes Argeiphontes Greek
a name for Hermes as the killer of Argus

Hermes Chthonius Greek
the god Hermes as a magician
In this role, he was second only to Hecate.

Hermes Psychopompus
(see Psychopomp)

Hermes Trismegistus Greek
[=Arab Hirmis]
a Greek derivation from the Egyptian god, Thoth

He is said to have written many works of scholarship.

Hermesent (see Hermisent)
Hermetic art (see alchemy)

hermetic powder
a powder said to be able to effect cures at a distance

Hermetic philosophy (see alchemy)
Hermin (see Irmin<sup>2</sup>)

Herminius (see Titus Herminius)
Herminsul (see Hermensul)

Hermione<sup>1</sup> Greek daughter of Menelaus and Helen wife of Orestes and Pyrrhus mother of Tisamenus by Orestes

She married Pyrrhus after he had abandoned Andromache, widow of Hector, whom he had brought back from Troy but she had earlier been betrothed to Orestes who killed Pyrrhus and married her.

Hermione<sup>2</sup>
(see Demeter.Harmonia.
Persephone)

Hermis (see Hirmis)
Hermisent British

[Hermesent] sister of King Arthur

In some accounts, she was the daughter of Hoel and Igraine and sister of Blasine and Bellisent.

Hermit King (see Elyas.Pelles)
Hermitten South American

a survivor of the flood brother of Coem and Krimen

These three brothers escaped the flood by taking refuge in caves or trees.

Hermod<sup>1</sup> Danish
a Danish king

Hermod<sup>2</sup> Norse [Heremod.Hermod(e)r.Hermoth(r).
Irwin]

messenger of the gods
son of Odin and Frigga
brother of Balder, Hoder and Thor Swiftest of the gods, he received fallen heroes in Valhalla.

When Hoder inadvertently killed his twin brother Balder with a mistletoe branch, Hermod rode down to Niflheim on Sleipnir, Odin's eight-legged horse, to plead that his brother be restored to life. Hela agreed provided that the whole world wept for Balder. When just one giantess, Thok (thought to be Loki in disguise), refused to shed a tear, Hela kept her own.

He brought back from Niflheim Odin's ring, Draupnir, and Nanna's magic ring which had been placed in Balder's pyre.

Hermoder (see Hermod<sup>2</sup>)
Hermodr (see Hermod<sup>2</sup>)

Hermondine British
a Scottish princess wife of Meliador

Hermoth (see Hermod)
Hermothr (see Hermod)

Hermothea Greek
wife of Pandareus

Hermouthis Greek [Thermouthis]
the Greek name for the Egyptian goddess Renenutet

Hermus Roman
a river-god

Hermutrude British
a queen of Scotland

When Ameth arrived at her court with a message from the king of Britain asking her to kill the bearer, she ignored the message and married him.

Hern the Hunter (see Herne)

Hernaut European

son of Garin de Monglane brother of Girart de Vienne
father of Aymeri

He helped his brother in his war with Charlemagne.

Herne British [Hern the Hunter.=Welsh Arawn.
Gwyn ap Nudd]

a wind-god and god of the underworld
In some versions he is leader of the Wild Hunt.

He is depicted as a giant with the antlers of a stag growing from his head. Some say that he still lives in Windsor Great Park where he roams through the woods, disappearing at midnight.

hero<sup>1</sup> Greek
a demigod, offspring of a god and a mortal

Hero<sup>2</sup> Greek
a priestess of Aphrodite

She was loved by Leander but they were forbidden to marry and were separated by the waters of the Hellespont. Every night she put a light in the window of her tower to guide Leander as he swam over to see her but one night a storm blew the light out and he was drowned. Hero killed herself in grief by jumping from the tower into the sea.

Hero and Leander English
a poem by Christopher Marlowe

Hero of Estonia Estonian
an epic tale of the exploits of the hero Kallivipoeg

Hero, The Greek
the ghost of Polites (see Polites<sup>2</sup>)

Hero Twins, The South American
the twin brothers Hunapu and Ixbalanque

Herodiades
[Nocticula]
a demon, ruler of the night

He is said to have presided over the rites of sabbat.

Herodis British [Meroudys]
a lady rescued from the underworld by Orpheo

Herod's Hunt (see Wild Hunt)
Heroes, The English

the story of Jason, Perseus and other Greek heroes, by Charles Kingsley

Heroides Roman [Heroines]

a book of poems, addressed to the heroines of Greek and Roman myths, written by Ovid

Heroines (see Heroides)

Heron<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[Thracian Hero]
a god depicted on horseback

Heron<sup>2</sup> North American

a sage of the Tlingit tribe
He was created by Nascakiyetl at the same time as Raven (Yetl).

Herophile<sup>1</sup> Greek

a prophetess, priestess at Delphi daughter of Zeus and Lamia
She was the oracle at Delphi at the time when Heracles seized the tripod, the seat of the oracle.

Herophile<sup>2</sup> (see Sibyl of Cumae)

Herophilus Greek

son of Poseidon by Aphrodite

Heros Greek

a Thracian god of the underworld, vegetation and the chase

Hero's Portion (see Curad-mir)

Heroud British

[Harrowd]
father of Asslake

He looked after Rainburn, son of Guy of Warwick, but the boy was kidnapped by Russians and sold to Argus, an African king. Heroud went in search of the youth but was himself captured and put in prison in Africa.

He was later reunited with Rainburn when the latter led the forces of Argus in an attack on the adjoining country. On the return journey to England, they met a young champion who fought a draw with Rainburn and who turned out to be Heroud's son, Asslake, who was searching for his father.

Herovit (see Gerovit)

Herowdes British

an emperor of Rome
He became blind and was cured only when, on the advice of Merlin, he killed his advisers, the Seven Sages.

Herrad Norse

the name of Herrat in Thidrekssaga

Herrand (see Herrat)

Herrat German

[Herrad.Herrand]
a princess of Transylvania
second wife of Dietrich von Bern

Herren-Surge European

a Basque monster in the form of a huge snake with 7 heads

Herrick (see Erik.Svipdag)

Herse Greek

goddess of dew daughter of Cecrops and Aglaurus sister of Aglaurus and Pandrosus
She was seduced by Hermes and bore Cephalus and Ceryx.

She and her sisters were entrusted with the care of the infant Erichthonius. In one story, they were so shocked when they saw the infant that they threw themselves to their death from the Acropolis.

Hersent European

a she-wolf
mate of Isengrim in some versions of Reynard the Fox

In one story she chased Reynard into his burrow but got stuck in the entrance. Reynard came out through another hole and raped her.

(see also Gieremund)

Hershef Egyptian

[Herishef.Herysaf.Heryshef.Terrible Face:=Greek Arsaphes.Harsaphes]

a fertility god
an aspect of Horus

He is said to have emerged from the primordial waters and is depicted as a ram or as a human with a ram's head.

His feet rested on earth but his head was in the sky where his right eye was the sun and his left eye was the moon.

He is sometimes depicted with four heads.

Hersilia Roman

wife of Romulus
She was taken up to heaven after the death of her husband and became one of the Horae.

Hertha (see Nerthus)

Hertnid (see Hertnit)

Hertnit German

[Hertnid]
an earl of Greece
brother of Osantrix
husband of Isolde

He helped his brother in the battle with Etzel who was helped by Dietrich and some of his warriors. He captured Wittich and put him in prison, until Wildeber, dressed as a dancing bear, got access to the prisoner, killed Hertnit and freed Wittich.

Heru (see Cheru.Huh)

Heru Khent Khat Egyptian

a name for Horus

Heru Khent an Maa Egyptian

a name for Horus

Heru Khuti Egyptian

a name for Horus

Heru Murti Egyptian

a name for Horus

Heru-pa-kaut (see Hatmehyt)

Heru-pakhret (see Harpakhrad)

Heru-pakhart

(see Harpakhrad.Hatmehyt)

Heru-sam-taui (see Har-mau)

Heru Ur Egyptian

name for Horus

Heruka Buddhist

[Buddhakapala.Vajraheruka]
a wrathful aspect of Aksobhya
He combines with his sakti, Nairamata, to produce nirvana.

In this aspect, he is envisaged as blue.
(see also Karuna.Saptaksara)

Herukabuddhas Buddhist

manifestations of the Dhyani Buddhas and their saktis
They are depicted with one or three heads, two or six arms and four legs.

They are listed as Karmaheruka (green), Padmaheruka (red), Ratnaheruka (yellow), Vairocana (white) and Vajraheruka (blue).

Herunub Egyptian

a name for Horus

Herupakaut (see Hatmehyt)

Herus Central American

an Apache hero
He is said to have appeared among the Chiricahua Apache and told them to keep the book he gave them. When he died, the tribe followed their usual practice of burning all the dead man's possessions, including the book, with the result that they suffered many disasters.

Herusmatauy (see Ihy)

Hervis de Revel British

a Knight of the Round table

Hervor<sup>1</sup> Norse

daughter of Angantyr
Her father owned the magic sword Tyrfring which was buried with him. She used magic to force him to rise again and hand the sword over to her.

Hervor<sup>2</sup> Norse

in some stories, the swan-maiden, wife of Volund, otherwise known as Alvit

Herwig Norse

a prince of Zealand brother of Hergart
husband of Gudrun

He was one of the suitors for the hand of Gudrun, daughter of Hettel and Hilde, and when her father refused to sanction their marriage, he invaded his kingdom. His courage persuaded Hettel to accept him as a son-in-law.

While Herwig was away fighting Hettel, Siegfried, another suitor for Gudrun's hand, invaded Herwig's kingdom. Herwig returned to fight Siegfried and was helped this time by Hettel. They all joined forces to fight Hartmut who had abducted Gudrun, but failed to rescue her.

Later he sailed to Normandy with Ortwin and Wat and rescued Gudrun and her companion, Hildburg. In the battle that ensued, Herwig killed Ludwig and would have killed Hartmut as well but was persuaded by Gudrun and Ortwin to spare him. When they returned to Gudrun's home, she and Herwig were married.

Herysaf (see Hershef)

Heryshef (see Hershef)

Herzeloide (see Herzeloide)

Herzeloide British

[Herzeloide]

a queen of Anjou

daughter of Frimutel

sister of Amfortas, Josiane, Repanse

and Trevezent

wife of Castris and, later, of Gahmuret

Her sister, Josiane, died giving birth to Sigune and Herzeloide raised the girl alongside Schionatulander, another orphan.

In some accounts, she later married Gahmuret and bore Percival, dying of a broken heart when Percival left home to seek his fortune.

Hesat Egyptian

[Hest]

a name for Isis as a goddess of birth

She is depicted in the form of a cow.

Hesiod Greek

an 8th c BC writer

He was the author of Theogony, an attempt to classify the many deities and heroes of the past, and Shield of Heracles.

Heshwash Ceremony North American

a contest of magic between shamans

Hesione<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Laomedon wife of Telamon

mother of Teucer

sister of Podarces (Priam)

Laomedon chained his daughter to a rock in the sea as a sacrifice to appease a sea-monster sent by Poseidon because Laomedon had refused to pay Apollo and Poseidon for building the walls of Troy. Heracles found her when he was returning from his ninth Labour, and undertook to rescue her in exchange for Laomedon's horses. He was swallowed by the monster but killed it by attacking its internal organs. Her father reneged on the promise of the horses so Heracles killed him and took Hesione as a captive to Athens where she married Telamon. She ransomed her brother, Podarces, for the price of her veil and Heracles made him king of Troy as Priam.

In other stories, Telamon helped Heracles in his later attack on Troy and, for his help, was awarded Hesione, as a prize and fathered Teucer on her.

Hesione<sup>2</sup> Greek

a sea-nymph, one of the Nereids

wife of Prometheus

Hesione<sup>3</sup> Greek

wife of Nauplius, some say mother of Nausimedon, Oeax

and Palamedes

In some stories, the wife of Nauplius and mother of his three children was Clymene.

Hesioneus (see Eioneus)

Hesius Mesopotamian

a Hurrian god

Hesper (see Vesper)

Hespera<sup>1</sup> Greek

an aspect of Eos as 'evening'

Hespera<sup>2</sup> Greek

a nymph, one of the 7 Hesperides

Hesperie (see Hesperis)

Hesperieia Greek

[Hesperia]

a nymph

one of the 7 Hesperides

Hesperethusa (see Hesperusa)

Hesperia (see Hesperieia)

Hesperides Greek

[African Sisters.Atlantides]

nymphs

daughters of Atlas and Aethra,

Hesperis or Pleione, or of Erebus and

Nyx, or of Phorcus and Ceto

In some accounts, there were three (Aegle, Erythia and Hespera), in others, four or seven, the other suggested names being Arethusa, Hesperieia, Hesperusa and Hestia.

They, with the dragon Ladon, were the guardians of the golden apples from Hera's tree who helped Heracles in his quest for some of these apples on his eleventh Labour.

In some versions the name is used for the Pleiades.

Hesperis Greek

[Hesperie]

a nymph

mother of the Hesperides by Atlas

Hesperus Greek

[=Roman Vesper]

god of the west, the evening star

son of Atlas or of Atræus and Eos

brother of Phosphoros

He was said by some to be the father of the Hesperides.

Hesperusa Greek

[Hesperethusa]

a nymph

one of the 7 Hesperides

Hest (see Hesat)

Hestia<sup>1</sup> Greek

['hearth'.Histi:= Roman Vesta]

goddess of the community, family, fire, hearth, house

one of the Olympians

daughter of Cronus and Rhea

A virgin-goddess whose symbol is a torch.

Hestia<sup>2</sup> Greek

a nymph

one of the 7 Hesperides

Hesus (see Esus)

Het-Hert (see Hathor)

Het Nabes Egyptian

the palace of Shu

Hetel (see Hettel)

Hetepes-Sekhus Egyptian

a goddess of the underworld

She is attended by crocodiles and her function is to destroy the souls of the enemies of Osiris.

She is sometimes depicted as a cobra or cobra-headed.

Hetmehit (see Hatmehyt)

Hetpet Egyptian

a goddess, happiness personified

Hettel German

[Hetel.Hettle]

a north German king

husband of Hilde

father of Gudrun and Ortwin

Three of his followers, Frute, Horant and Wat, abducted Hilde, the daughter of Hagen, with whom Hettel was in love. Hagen invaded to rescue his daughter and wounded Hettel in the battle that ensued but they made peace and Hettel married Hilde, fathering a daughter, Gudrun, and a son, Ortwin.

When Hettel rejected Herwig's suit for the hand of Gudrun, Herwig invaded Hettel's kingdom and so impressed the king with his courage that he consented to the marriage. Gudrun was abducted by another unsuccessful suitor, Hartmut, so Hettel joined forces with Herwig and a third suitor, Siegfried, to rescue her. They failed in this attempt even though Hettel killed Hartmut's father, Ludwig, in the battle.

In some versions, Hettel himself was killed in the battle.

Gudrun was later rescued by Herwig, Ortwin and Wat.

Hettle (see Hettel)

Hetwn (see Hetwyn)

Hetwyn Welsh

[Hetwn (the Leaper)]
father of Cynedyr

Hevajira Buddhist

[Hevajra:=Tibetan Kye-rdor.
Kye-ba-rdorje]

a bodhisattva

one of the Yi-dam

an aspect of Aksobhya

consort of Vajravaraḥi or Nairatama

He is variously depicted with three or eight heads, three eyes, two or four legs and as many as sixteen arms.

Hevajra (see Hevajira)

Hevehe East Indian

a feast at which the spirits of the dead are said to appear

Heveidd (see Hefeydd)

Heveydd (see Hefeydd)

Hevydd (see Hefeydd)

hex

a witch or wizard: a spell: to bewitch

Hex Chun Chun Central American

a Mayan war-god

hexagram

a six-pointed star used in magic

Hexe German

a witch

Hey-tau Egyptian

[Es(h)mun]

a god who was changed into a pine tree

In some accounts, he is equated with Tammuz.

Heyoka North American

[=Sioux Haokak]

spirits of the Dakotas: clowns

(see also Haokah)

Heyvoso African

the sky-god of the Fon

son of Mawu-Lisa

Heywood, Thomas English

(1574-1641)

a writer and dramatist, author of Life

of Merlin and Morte Arthur

Hez-ur Egyptian

a baboon-god

an aspect of Thoth

Hi-asa East Indian

a primaeval being in the Admiralty Islands

When she cut her finger, she collected the blood in a shell. Two eggs formed from the blood and the first man and woman emerged from the eggs.

Hi Haela Pacific Islands

[String Man]

a priest

Some tribes believe that spirits descend the long creeping stems of some plants, such as the convolvulus, and destroy their crops. A priest, called

Hi Haela, is appointed to ensure that this does not happen by cutting the 'strings' of the creeping plants.

Hi-Hya-Hi Japanese

a Shinto sun-god

son of Kazu-Tsuchi

He was born from the blood of Kazu-Tsuchi who was decapitated by his father.

Hi-matsuri Japanese

a Shinto festival in honour of the fire-gods

Hi-no-kami Japanese

a fire-god (see Kamado-no-kami)

Hialli Norse

a servant of Atli

When Atli captured Gunnar and Hogni and tortured them to make them disclose the hiding place of the Niblung's gold, he ordered that Hogni's heart be cut out to force his brother to speak. His servants, fearful of such a warrior, killed the scullion Hialli instead and took his heart to Atli. Gunnar rejected it as his brother's heart with the result that they then killed Hogni and cut out his heart.

Hialmgunnar Norse

[Helmgunnar.Hjalmgunnar]

a hunter

He was killed by Brunhild against the orders of Odin and for this she was demoted and put to sleep inside a wall of flame.

Hialpret (see Elf)

Hian East Indian

a deity of Kei Island

brother of Parpara

He and his brother descended from the heavens on a rope and became the ancestors of the islanders.

Hiang Piumbung East Indian

a supreme god of the Dayaks

Hiarandi Norse

[Hjarandi.'whirlwind']

a prince

son of Visvald

half-brother of Gullbrag and Soley

To protect Gullbra from unwanted suitors, Hiarandi locked her in a fortress and killed all who came seeking her hand, cutting off their heads which he put on poles to deter others.

Hiarbas (see Iarbas)

Hiauna West Indian

father of Guagiana

Hiaunael (see Guagiana)

Hiawatha North American

[Hai-en-Wat-ha.Haiowatha.

Hayowentha.Hy-ent-wat-ha]

a 16th c sage of the Iroquois son of Mudjekeewis and Wenonah husband of Minnehaha

He was reared by his maternal grandmother, Nokomis.

His wife and daughter were killed by the magician Atotarho but the two men later became reconciled and founded the Confederacy of the Five Tribes.

He was regarded as a culture-hero who taught the tribes the arts of agriculture and medicine, killed the corn-spirit Mon-da-moin to give mankind maize, overcame the great strugeon Mishe-Nahma and killed the evil magician Megissogwon. He was helped by a pair of mittens which enabled him to split rocks when he wore them and a pair of moccasins in which he could cover a mile at each step.

When his work was done, he sailed off to Ponemah in the west in his magic canoe.

In another version, Tatenyawagon took pity on the suffering tribes and came to earth as a man, Hiawatha. He led the tribes to a cave where they recovered their strength and then led them to their own homelands, separating them into the five tribes, the Cayuga, Mohawks, Onondaga, Oneida and Seneca, each with its own language and character. When they were attacked by wild tribes from the north the five appealed to Hiawatha for help. He sacrificed his daughter Minnehaha to the Great Spirit and she was taken up to heaven on the back of a great eagle. Hiawatha united the tribes into the Five Nations who repelled the invaders and brought peace to the land. Hiawatha himself entered his white canoe which then rose into the sky and disappeared.

(see also Manabozho)

Hibakara Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Hibernia Celtic

[Ivernia]

an old name for Ireland

Hicetaeon Greek

son of Laomedon and Strymo

Hickathrift, Tom English

a mythical giant-killer

Hidari Jingoro Japanese

a sculptor

He carved the figure of a woman he had fallen in love with, incorporating a mirror which she had dropped. When it was completed, it came to life.

Hidden-Kissa Baltic

a cat owned by the giant, Hiisi
This cat could so frighten criminals that they confessed their misdeeds.

Hide South American

a water-monster in Argentinian lore

hidebehind North American

a fabulous animal

Hidesato Japanese

[My Lord Bag of Rice.Tawara Toda]

a warrior

He undertook to kill the huge centipede that had taken all the children and grandchildren of the Dragon King of Lake Biwa. The first two arrows he shot when the monster next appeared had no effect but the third, moistened with saliva, killed the centipede. As reward, the Dragon King gave Hidesato a never-empty bag of rice, an endless roll of silk, a cauldron that cooked without fire and two bells. He was thereafter known as My Lord Bag of Rice.

Hideyoshi Japanese

[Toyo Kuni.Toyokuni]

a peasant who became a civil dictator and was deified as Toyokuni

Hidimba Hindu

[Hidimva]

a demon
brother of Hidimbaa

He was killed by Bhima who then married Hidimbaa.

(see also Shurpanakha)

Hidimbaa Hindu

[Hidimvaa]

sister of Hidimba wife of Bhima
mother of Ghatotkacha

Hidimva (see Hidimba)

Hidimvaa (see Hidimbaa)

Hidr (see Khadir)

hieracosphinx Egyptian

a sphinx with the head of a hawk and the body of a lion

hieromancy

[hieroscopy]

divination from objects used in sacrifice

hierophant Greek

chief official at the celebration of the Eleusian mysteries

hieros gamos Greek

[theogamy]

marriage between gods or between gods and humans

hieroscopy (see hieromancy)

Higelac (see Hygelac)

High One, The (see Briganta.Odin)

High Ones (see Superior Gods)

High Song (see Havamal)

Higo Japanese

['willow']

the spirit of the willow tree

She appeared to Heitaro in the form of a lovely maiden and they married and had one child, Chiyodo. When the emperor had the tree cut down to provide wood for a new temple, Higo cried out in pain as the axes fell and then disappeared for ever.

High Plains of Heaven

(see Takama-gahara)

Higher Azure Palace Chinese

[Shang Ch'ing]

the home of Tao Chun

Highest Azure Palace Chinese

the home of Lao-tzu

higona (see figona)

Hiiaka Pacific Islands

[Ha'iaka]

sister of Pele and Kapo

second wife of Lohiau

She was born from an egg which Pele carried in her armpit.

Lohiau was the second husband of her sister, Pele, who killed him and all his attendants when they were very slow in arriving at the new home she had made for her husband.

Another story says that Lohiau died before Pele sent for him and Hiiaka was sent to collect his body. She retrieved his soul from the underworld and reunited it with his body. Lohiau then fell in love with Hiiaka but the jealous Pele poured lava over him and he died again. Hiiaka went to the underworld to wait for his soul to arrive but Kanehoalani had found the soul in the upper world and restored Lohiau to life once again. The god gave Lohiau a magic shell which turned into a boat that took Lohiau to an island where he found Hiiaka and they married.

Hiisi Baltic

a Finnish giant

a tree-god

son of Kaleva, some say

He owned an elk, the fastest creature on earth, that Lemminkainen was required to outrun as one of the tasks required of him by Louhi.

He also owned a fierce cat which terrorised criminals into confessing their misdeeds.

Some accounts equate him with the Devil or Lempo.

He is envisaged as a very ugly man with no eyelids.

Hikayat Bayan Malay

a book of legends and fables

Hikayat Hang Tuah Malay

the story of the life and exploits of the hero Hang Tuah

Hikayat Pandawa Jaya Malay

the Malay version of the

Mahabharata

Hike<sup>1</sup> (see Heka<sup>2</sup>)

hike<sup>2</sup> (see heka<sup>1</sup>)

Hiko-hoho-demi (see Fire Fade)

Hiko-Sashiri-No-Kama Japanese

a Shinto carpenter-god

Hikoboshi<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[Kengyu-Sei]

a Shinto sky-god (see also Hikoboshi<sup>2</sup>)

Hikoboshi<sup>2</sup> Japanese

[Aquila.Kengiu.Kengyu.=Chinese Ch'ien

Niu.Tung Yung]

an ox-herder

He fell in love with Tanabata and his ox wandered free, causing great damage.

Tanabata's father caused them to be separated by a celestial river and they could meet only once a year when a flock of magpies formed a bridge over the river. (see also Hikoboshi<sup>1</sup>)

Hiku Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian demi-god

son of Hina

Taking his magic arrow, Pua-ne, he came to earth seeking adventures and stayed with a queen, Kawelu, who put a spell on him. When he grew wings and flew away, she died. Hiku had himself lowered on a vine into the realm of Milu and rescued Kawelu's soul, which took the form of a butterfly, catching it in a coconut shell. Back on earth, he made a small incision in the dead queen's toe and, by inserting her soul by magic, brought her back to life.

Hikula'o Pacific Islands

a god of Tonga

His home was in Putolu, land of the dead, and he was envisaged as having a tail which encircled the earth. He later came to be regarded as female.

Hikuli Central American

a Mexican deity, peyote personified

This spirit is envisaged as having four faces, one looking in each direction.

Hilaeria Greek

[Hilaira.Hilara]

daughter of Leucippus

sister of Phoebe

mother of Anogon by Castor

In some stories of the death of Castor, she and her sister were abducted by Castor and Polydeuces. Their cousins, Idas and Lynceus, to whom they were betrothed, pursued them and Idas killed Castor who was hiding in a hollow tree.

Hilaira (see Hilaeria)

Hilaria Greek

a festival in honour of Cybele held at the Spring equinox

Hilal<sup>1</sup> Arab

[Hillaliy]
a moon-god

Hilal<sup>2</sup> Arab

[Hillaliy]
founder of the warrior race
father of Al-Mundzir

He is the hero of the stories in Sirat Bani Hilali.

Hilara<sup>1</sup> Greek

a priestess of Artemis daughter of Apollo

Hilara<sup>2</sup> (see Hilaeria)

Hilaria Roman

a festival celebrating the reunion of Attis and Cybele

Hild (see Hilde)

Hilda (see Hilde.Ildico)

Hildburg<sup>1</sup> German

daughter of the king of Portugal
As a child, she was carried off by a griffin and lived for many years in a cave with three others who had likewise been abducted. Two of these three were Hagen, son of the king of Denmark, and Hilde, another princess. They were all rescued by a passing ship owned by Count Garadie who was forced by Hagen to take them to his father's court where he and Hilde were married.

Hildburg<sup>2</sup> Norse

daughter of Walgund wife of Hugdietrich mother of Bogen, Waxmuth and Wolfdietrich

Her father kept her locked in a tower to exclude would-be suitors but Hugdietrich gained access in the guise of an old woman, fathering a son on her. She kept the birth secret but the boy was taken by wolves from which he was rescued by Berchther and Walgund and given the name Wolfdietrich. She later married Hugdietrich and bore two more sons, Bogen and Waxmuth.

Hildburg<sup>3</sup> Norse

a companion of Gudrun
She was captured when her mistress was abducted by Hartmut and taken to Normandy. They were both rescued by Herwig and Ortwin and Hildburg later married Ortwin.

Hilde<sup>1</sup> German

[Hild(a).Hildir.Hil(l)dur]
an Indian princess

As a child, she was carried off by a griffin and lived for many years in a cave with three others who had likewise been abducted. Two of these three were Hagen, son of the king of Denmark, and Hildburg, daughter of the king of Portugal. They were all rescued by a passing ship owned by Count Garadie who was forced by Hagen to take them to his father's court. There they married, Hagen took his father's throne and they had a daughter, also called Hilde.

Hilde<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Hild(a).Hildir.Hil(l)dur]
daughter of Hagen and Hilde wife of Hettel
mother of Gudrun and Ortwin

Hilde<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Hild(a).Hildir.Hil(l)dur]
a Valkyrie
daughter of Hogni

She was abducted by Hedin and he fought an everlasting battle with Hogni over her, in which the slain were revived every night by Hilde or a sorceress.

In German stories she is Hilde, daughter of Hagen.

Hilde<sup>4</sup> Norse

[Hild(a).Hildir.Hil(l)dur]
a giantess
wife of Grim

When Dietrich killed her husband, she attacked him and Hildebrand but Dietrich cut her in half with his sword, Nagelring. The two halves of her body immediately joined together and she renewed her attack. Dietrich cut her in half again and prevented her from restoring herself by placing his sword between the two halves.

Hilde<sup>5</sup> Norse

[Hild(a).Hildir.Hil(l)dur]
a daughter of King Arthur

In Germanic stories, Herbart came to Arthur's court to sue for the hand of Hilde on behalf of his uncle, Dietrich von Bern, but she fell in love with Herbart and they eloped.

Hildebrand Norse

son of Herbrand
brother of Ilstan husband of Ute
father of Hadubrand

He was foster-father to Dietrich and became his greatest friend. They set out to kill the giant Grim who was ravaging the countryside and forced the dwarf, Alberich, to lead them to the giant. Dietrich killed Grim and his wife Hilde with his magic sword, Nagelring, and he and Hildebrand shared the giant's treasure between themselves.

Both he and Dietrich were captured by Sigenot, brother of the slain Grim, but Hildebrand managed to kill the giant and they escaped.

He was present when Krimhild killed the captive Hagen who refused to reveal where in the Rhine he had hidden the Nibelung treasure and he was so incensed by her cruelty that he killed her.

When Emenrich attacked Dietrich who had refused to pay tribute, Hildebrand and a party of his men were captured. To save their lives, Dietrich gave up his kingdom to Ermenrich and left with many of his friends, going to Etzel's court.

In later years, he met his son Hadubrand in battle, although neither recognised the other. They fought to a standstill and, finally realising the relationship, were re-united. Some accounts say that he killed his son.

Hildebrandslied German

a 9th c poem telling the story of the warrior Hildebrand

Hildeburh Danish

sister of Hnaef wife of Finn

In the battle between the clans of Hnaef and Finn, Hnaef was killed. The new leader, Hengest, treacherously killed Finn after talking peace and took Hildeburh back to her own people.

Hildegarde<sup>1</sup> European

in some accounts, one of the 9 wives of Charlemagne

Another version says that she was betrothed to Roland who was called away to fight in Spain before they could get married. When she heard that Roland had been killed at Roncesvalles, she became a nun. A similar story is told of Aude. (see also Aldabella.Aude)

Hildegarde<sup>2</sup> (see Hildegunde<sup>1</sup>)

Hildegard Norse

[Hildigrimur]
a magic helmet made by Grim

Dietrich took possession of this helmet, which gave the wearer increased strength, when he killed Grim and his wife Hilde.

Hildegunde<sup>1</sup> German

[Hildegarde]
the German version of Aude

Hildegunde<sup>2</sup> German

[Helgunda.Hildegundr.Hiltgunt]

a Frankish princess daughter of Hereric

wife of Walther von Wasgenstein

Her father handed her over when she was just a child as a hostage to Attila when he feared that his small kingdom would be overrun by the Hun's army. She was raised by Attila's queen and, as she grew older, virtually ran the household. She fell in love with Walther, another hostage who, with his friend and fellow-hostage Hagen, had been trained in the arts of war by Attila. Hagen later escaped and returned to Burgundy where he joined Gunther who had just become king on the death of his father.

Later, she escaped with Walther, taking with them much treasure from the Hun's coffers. Gunther coveted this treasure and persuaded Hagen to join him when he set out to find and kill the fugitives and seize the treasure. In the event, Walther killed all the warriors sent against him by Gunther and severely wounded both Gunther and Hagen. Walther lost his right hand in the encounter but the three men became reconciled and Walther and Hildegunde continued their journey to his home in Aquitaine where they were married.

In Thidrekssaga she is called Hildegundr, and, in a Polish version, Helgunda.

Hildeswm<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Hildisvin(i)]

a helmet worn by the Swedish kings

Hildeswm<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Hildisvin(i)]

a golden-haired boar owned and ridden by Freya

In some accounts, he is a boar to all appearances but is really Ottar, a lover of Freya, in disguise.

Hildigoltr Norse

the helmet of the Swedish king, Athils

Hildigrimur *(see Hildegrim)Hilding Norse

the tutor of Frithiof and Ingeborg

When the Ringric king, Sigurd Ring, invaded their kingdom, the kings of Sogn asked Hilding to persuade Frithiof, whom they had earlier insulted and rejected as a suitor for Ingeborg, to help them in the defence of their land. Hilding tried but to no avail.

Hildisvin *(see Hildeswm)Hildisvini *(see Hildeswm)Hildir *(see Hilde)Hildren *(see Hedin)Hildur *(see Hilde)Hi'lina North American

a god of the Haida Indians

the thunderbird

Hill, Eleanor *Irish*author of *Cuchulainn Sagahill folk Norse

a race of people somewhere between elves and humans

Hill of Aisneach Irish

[Balor's Hill.Hill of Uisneach.

(Mount) Killa(u)r(a)us]

a hill said to be the centre of Ireland

This was the site of one of Tuathal's four palaces and of the Giants' Ring from which Merlin transported the stones to build Stonehenge.

Hill of Bat Egyptian

the hill which supports the heaven, home of Sebek

Hill of Uisneach *(see Hill of Aisneach)Hillaliy *(see Hilal)Hilldur *(see Hilde)Hilldigundr *Norse*the name of Hildegarde, daughter of Hereric, in *ThidrekssagaHills of Longevity *(see Shou Shan)Hiltgunt *(see Hildegarde<sup>2</sup>)Hilyaish Persian

a ruler of the jinn

Hima-Pandara Hindu

['snow palace']

the home of Kubera

Himalaya *(see Himavan)Himantes Greek

a Titaness

mother of Pluto, some say

Himavan<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Himalaya.Himavat(a)]

a mountain god, personification of the Himalayas

consort of Mena

father of Devi, Ganga and Parvati

Himavan<sup>2</sup> Tibetan

a sacred mountain in Tibet

It is here that Zampu, the tree of life, grows. It is also the place where the ark landed after the flood.

Himavat *(see Himavan)Himavata *(see Himavan)Himeropa Greek

one of the sirens

Himeros *(see Himerus)Himerus Greek

[Himeros]

a deity, desire personified, attendant on Aphrodite

Himiltrude European

in some accounts, one of the 9 wives of Charlemagne

Himinbiore *(see Himinbjorg)Himinbjorg Norse

[Himinbiore.Himinbjorg]

the palace of Heimdall built on top of the rainbow bridge, Bifrost

Himimbjorg *(see Himinbjorg)Himinbrioter Norse

[Himinhriod]

the ox of Hymir

Thor killed this animal and used its head for bait when he went fishing for the Midgard serpent.

Himinhriod *(see Himinbrioter)Himmel Wagon *(see Great Bear)himorogi Japanese

a primitive shrine in the form of an area bounded by stakes or evergreen trees

Hin-Han North American

an owl

The Sioux say that this bird guards the entrance to the Milky Way, the road that leads to the home of the spirits.

Hina<sup>1</sup> New Zealand

[Great Lady of the Night.Hine-i-tau-ira.

Hine(-nui-te-po).Ina.Ma Hina.Mahina]

the Maori goddess of death

She was originally the sky-goddess Hine Titama.

When Maui tried to avoid death by creeping through her body, she squeezed him to death.

She was envisaged as a black goddess with green eyes.

*(see also Hine Titama)Hina<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

[Hine.Ina]

a double-faced woman made from sand by Te Tuna mother of Tiki and the Dawn Maiden

In some stories, Hina is the mother of Maui; in others she deserted her husband, the eel Te Tuna, in favour of Maui who killed Te Tuna. They buried his head and, from it, sprang the first coconut tree.

In some stories she is a Tongan noblewoman impregnated by an eel.

*(see also Tiki<sup>2</sup>)Hina<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands

[Ina:=Hawaiian Mahina:=Hervey Islands

Ina:=New Zealand Marama:

=Samoa (Ma) Sina]

a moon-goddess of Tahiti daughter of Tangaroa

sister of Ru

The Tahitians say that the dark markings on the moon are the shadows of the branches of the original banyan tree from which Hina stripped bark to make clothes for the gods. She is therefore the tutelary deity of cloth-beaters. It was beating tapa that took her to the moon in the first place. Ta'aroa got fed up of the noise and told her to stop. When she refused, Pani grabbed the mallet and struck her on the head, whereupon she flew off to the moon.

In another story, she accidentally broke a branch from this tree and it fell to earth, took root and so the banyan was introduced to the islands.

Hina<sup>4</sup> Pacific Islands

[Ina]

daughter of Rona

Her mother, a cannibal, devoured Hina's lover, Monoi. With the help of No'a-huruhuru, Hina killed her mother.

Hina-a-rauriki Pacific Islands

wife of Turi-a-faumea

She was abducted by Rogo-tumu-here, the demon octopus, but her husband and his father, Tangaroa, fished the monster up from the depths of the ocean, killed him and rescued the woman.

Hina-ika Pacific Islands

sister of Maui

wife of Ira Waru

Maui used her hair to make a net in which he trapped the sun.

In some accounts, she is the same as Hina-uri.

Hina-keha Pacific Islands

[Hine-te-iwa-iwa.Hine-te-Ngaru-Moana]

goddess of the bright moon and of childbirth

sister of Hina-uri and Maui

In some stories she appeared out of the sea as a beautiful maiden and made love to Tinirau, bearing a son called Tuhuruhuru. Other versions say that this was Hina-uri.

Hina-te-Ngaru-Moana Pacific Islands

a name for Hina-keha, in the form of a fish, as 'lady of the ocean'

Hina-tu-a-uta Pacific Islands

mother of Oro

Hina-uri Pacific Islands

[Indigo Lady]

goddess of the dark moon

sister of Hina-keha and Maui

Some say that it was she who emerged from the sea and made love to Tinirau who left her after the birth of their son, Tuhuruhuru. Others say that this was Hine-keha.

In some accounts, she is the same as Hina-ika.

Hinako-Nai-Shinno Japanese

a princess

It is said that she bit into a chestnut but threw it away without eating it. The nut grew into a tree and all the fruit bore the marks that the princess's teeth had made on the original nut.

Hind of the Fairies British

a fairy deer

In an Italian story, this animal led King Arthur through a mountain to Morgan le Fay's palace where he was shown all the wonders of the world.

Hindarfiall Norse

[Hindfell.Hlymdall]

a mountain

It was here that Odin put Brunhild to sleep within a wall of flame to await the arrival of a warrior-husband.

Hindfell (see Hindarfiall)

Hine (see Hina<sup>1,2</sup>)

Hine-ahu-one Pacific Islands

[Earth-girl]

an underworld goddess

wife of Tane

mother of Hine Titama

mother of Tiki, some say

She was created by Tane from sand or carved from sandstone.

In some accounts she is called Hine-i-tau-ira.

(see also Hine Titama)

Hine-atua-rangi (see Hine Titama)

Hine-i-Tapeka Pacific Islands

a fire-goddess

Hine-i-tau-ira

(see Hina<sup>1</sup>.Hine Titama)

Hine Kaikomako (see Kaikomako)

Hine-kau-Ataata Pacific Islands

[Lonely Gentle Woman]

daughter of Tiki and Marikoriko

She was the first child to be born on earth.

Hine-make-moe New Zealand

a goddess of troubled sleep

daughter of Te Kore

Hine-nui-te-po

(see Hina<sup>4</sup>.Hine Titama)

Hine Piripiri Pacific Islands

wife of Tawhaki

Hine-te-iwa-iwa (see Hina-keha)

Hine Titama Pacific Islands

[Dawn-girl.Dawn Maiden.Hine-

atua-rangi.Hine-nui-te-po.

Tiki-kapakapa.Tikikapakapa]

a sky-goddess

daughter of Tane and Hine-ahu-one mother of Hine Titamauri

She unwittingly married her own father and, ashamed of what had happened, killed herself and became a goddess of the underworld in the form of Hine-nui-te-po.

In some accounts it was Hine-i-tau-ira who killed herself in shame and became an underworld goddess.

(see also Hina<sup>4</sup>)

Hine Titamauri Pacific Islands

[Hine-atua-rangi]

daughter of Hine Titama by her own father, Tane

Hine-tu-Whenua Pacific Islands

a benevolent wind-goddess

Hine-tuanange Pacific Islands

in some accounts, a wife of Tane

It was said that she produced reptiles and mountain streams.

Hinegba African

[Hinegba]

the supreme god of the Igbara people of Nigeria

Hinemaka Pacific Islands

a Polynesian maiden

She was captured by Maru when he raided the compound of Whakaputa and married Maru's son.

Hineteiwaiwa New Zealand

the Maori goddess of childbirth

daughter of Tane

Hinglaj Hindu

[Hinglaj-Mata]

a mother-goddess of northern India

Hiniel

an angel of the fifth heaven,

associated with the north and Tuesday

Hinkon Siberian

a god of the hunt in the lore of the Tungus tribes

Hino (see Hinun)

Hino-haya (see Kazu-Tsuchi)

Hinokagutsuchi (see Kazu-Tsuchi)

Hinquememan North American

a lake in British Columbia

It is said that the waters of this lake will reach out and draw back into the depths of the lake anyone who dares to take water from it.

Hintubuhet Pacific Islands

an androgynous supreme deity in

New Ireland

Hintze European

the tom-cat in Reynard the Fox

He accused Wackerlos of stealing the sausage that he had stolen from the miller's wife and was sent to summon Reynard to appear at the king's court after Brown had failed in the attempt. He was tricked by Reynard into entering a barn where he was caught in a trap. He managed to escape but lost an eye in the process.

Hinu (see Hinun)

Hinun North American

[Heno.Hino.Hinu.Thunderbird]

a thunder-god of the Iroquois husband of Rainbow

When the serpent of the Great Lakes swallowed his helper, Gunnodoyak, Hinun killed the snake with one of his flaming arrows shot from the sky, restored the boy to life and took him back to heaven.

He also saved his people from the Stone Giants of the west by shattering them with his divine power.

Each year, he sent the three Thunderers to earth to destroy evil.

He is accompanied by the eagles Keneu and Oshadagea.

Hinzelmann German

a house-spirit

hi'ona (see figona)

Hiordis Norse

[Hjordis]

daughter of Eglimi

sister of Gripir

second or third wife of Sigmund

mother of Sigurd

When Sigmund abandoned his wife Borghild after she had poisoned his son, Sinfiotl, he married Hiordis, daughter of the King of the Islands. Her unsuccessful suitor, Lygni, made war on Sigmund who was killed in the battle when Odin shattered his sword, Gram, and left him defenceless. She then married Elf, King of the Vikings, who, when Sigurd, her son by Sigmund, was born, raised the boy as his own.

Hippa (see Hippia)

Hippalcimus Greek

father of Peneleos

Hippasus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Leucippe

He was torn to pieces and eaten by his mother and her sisters, Alcippe and Alcithoë, when Dionysus drove them mad.

Hippasus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Ceyx and Alcynone

He was killed when fighting for Heracles at Oechalia.

Hippasus<sup>3</sup> Greek

son of Admetus and Alcestis

brother of Eumelus and Perimele

Hippe (see Euippe)

Hippeus Greek

son of Heracles by Procris

twin brother of Antileon

Hippia Greek

[Hippa]

a title of Athena as goddess of horses

She was said to be a nurse of Baachus.

Hippios Greek

a title of Poseidon as god of horses

Hippo Greek

an Amazon queen

hippocampus

[hydrippus; plur=hippocampi]

a sea-monster like a horse with the tail of a fish or dolphin: the horse of Poseidon (see also Farasi Bahari.

Sabgarifiya)

Hippocentaur (see Centaur)

Hippocoon Greek

king of Sparta

son of Oebalus and Batia

brother of Icarus and Tyndareus

He was the father of twelve sons and expelled Tyndareus and Icarus, the co-kings of Sparta, taking the throne for himself. Heracles killed him and his sons and reinstated the former kings.

Hippocrene Greek

[Hippokrene]

a spring which appeared on Mount

Helicon from a hoof-print of Pegasus which became sacred to Apollo and the Muses (see also Aganippe)

Hippodameia (see Hippodamia)

Hippodamia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Hippodameia]

daughter of King Oenomaus

wife of Pelops

mother of Alcaethous, Atreus

and Thyestes

Pelops won her by defeating her father in a chariot race after bribing Myrtilus, the charioteer, to sabotage the chariot of Oenomaus.

She induced her own sons to kill Chryseippus, an illegitimate son of Pelops, and, when her part in the crime was discovered, she either hanged herself or fled to Midea to the protection of her sons Atreus and Thyestes.

Hippodamia<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Danais.Deidameia.Hippodameia]

daughter of Butes and Aphrodite wife of Peirithous

mother of Polypoetes

At her wedding to Peirithous, some drunken Centaurs tried to rape her and the ensuing fight started the long feud between the Centaurs and Lapiths.

In some accounts she is referred to as Deidameia.

Hippodamia<sup>3</sup> (see Briseis)

hippogriff

[hippogryph]

a monster in the form of a winged horse with the head of an eagle

This animal, fathered by a griffin on a mare, features in several stories of Charlemagne's paladins and was ridden by Astolpho and Rogiero.

hippogryph (see hippogriff)

Hippokrene (see Hippocrene)

hippolatry

the worship of horses

hippoelectryon

a monster in the form of a horse with the feet and tail of a cockerel

Hippolochus Greek

son of Bellerophon and Pilonöe

brother of Deidameia and Isander

father of Glaucus

He competed with Isander for the throne of Lycia by trying to shoot an arrow which would displace a ring fixed to the chest of the child Sarpedon.

Hippolute (see Hippolyta)

Hippolyta<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Hippolute.Hippolyte]

daughter of Cretheus wife of Acastus

mother of Laodamia, Sterope

and Sthelene

She accused Peleus of rape and the dispute ended with Peleus killing

Hippolyta and, some say, Acastus also.

In other versions, Astydamia is the wife of Acastus.

Hippolyta<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Hippolute.Hippolyte]

a queen of the Amazons

daughter of Ares

She was given a love-girdle by Ares which Heracles seized as his ninth Labour, killing her in the fight that ensued when her followers thought that he was abducting her. Others say that she fell in love with him and gave him the girdle while another story says that Heracles captured Melanippe, one of her generals, and won the girdle as ransom for her release.

In some versions she was not killed in this way but was later captured by Theseus who fathered Hippolytus on her and, some say, married her. In this version she was killed in a battle when the Amazons invaded in an attempt to recapture her.

Another story says that she (or Antiope) was killed when she interrupted the wedding of Theseus and Phaedra and yet another that she was killed by accident by Penthesilea who is described as her sister.

In some accounts, she is equated with Antiope; in others, she is given as Antiope's sister. This version says that it was Antiope who was captured by Theseus and Hippolyta led the attempted rescue, dying of grief when she was defeated.

Hippolyta<sup>3</sup> (see Ypolita)

Hippolyte (see Hippolyta)

Hippolytus<sup>1</sup> Greek

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

He was killed by Hermes during the battle between the Giants and the gods.

Hippolytus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Theseus and Hippolyta or Antiope

He was adopted by Pittheus, king of Troezen and rejected the advances of Phaedra, his step-mother, whereupon she hanged herself claiming he had tried to rape her. Theseus invoked the help of his father Poseidon to bring about the death of Hippolytus. Poseidon sent a huge bull or seal that frightened the horses which pulled the chariot of Hippolytus and when they bolted, Hippolytus was dragged against the rocks and killed. In Tartarus he was almost restored to life by Asclepius but Zeus killed the physician before he could complete the task.

In some versions he was restored to life and lived as an immortal in Italy where he was worshipped as Virbius.

Hippolytus<sup>3</sup> Greek

father of Deiphobus, some say

Hippolytus<sup>4</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides telling the story of Hippolytus and his step-mother, Phaedra

Hippolytus<sup>5</sup> Greek

a play by Seneca alternatively called Phaedra

Hippomedon Greek

one of the Seven against Thebes

brother of Adrastus

father of Polybus

father of Polydorus, some say

He was killed at Thebes by Ismarus.

In some accounts he is the same as Eteoclus.

Hippomene Greek

daughter of Menoeceus, some say mother of Amphityron and Anaxo

Hippomenes Greek

son of Amphidamas or Megarius husband of Atalanta

father of Parthenopaeus, some say

Hippomenes was given three golden apples by Aphrodite which he dropped in the path of Atalanta during a foot-race. When she paused to pick them up, he won the race and, with it, her hand in marriage. Both he and Atalanta were changed into lions by Zeus when they defiled the god's precinct or by Aphrodite for failing to render thanks for her help.

That is the Boeotian version; the Arcadian version names the runner as Melanion.

Hippona Greek

[=Celtic Epona]

a goddess of horses

Hipponous<sup>1</sup> Greek

husband of Astynome

father of Capaneus and Periboea

Hipponous<sup>2</sup> (see Bellerophon)

Hippotades Greek

a mortal deified as Aeolus, god of the winds

son of Hippotas, some say

Hippotas Greek

[Hippotes]

father of Hippotades, some say

Hippotes<sup>1</sup> Greek

a soldier under Temenus

When Temenus invaded the Peloponnese, Hippotes killed a seer, thinking he was a spy, with the result that the fleet was wrecked and they had to mount a new attack.

Hippotes<sup>2</sup> (see Hippotas)

Hippothee Greek

daughter of Mestor and Lysidice

mother of Pterelaus by Poseidon

Hippothon (see Hippothous)

Hippothous Greek

[Hippothon]

son of Poseidon by Alope

father of Aepyttus, some say

He was abandoned by his mother, suckled by mares and found by some shepherds who took him to Alope's father, Cercyon. He killed his daughter and abandoned the boy again. He was found by the same shepherds and reared by them. When Theseus killed Cercyon, he made Hippothous king of Eleusis in his place.

Hir Atrym (see Long Atrym)

Hir Erwm (see Long Erwm)

Hir Peisawg Welsh

king of Llydaw

He was killed by the young boar Llwydawg during the hunt for Twrch Trwyth.

Hira African

a huge monster of the Shilluk

Hirantayaksa Thai

the Thai version of Hiranyaksha

Hiranya-Aksa (see Hiranyaksha)

Hiranya-garbha Hindu

[Gold Germ.Golden Nucleus.Golden

Womb.Narayana.Prajapati]

the creator-god of the Rigveda, later identified with Brahma

In some accounts, he was a sage, originator of yoga, in others, hiranyagarbha was the golden egg, which appeared in the primordial waters, from which Brahma or Prajapati emerged. (see also Narayana<sup>2</sup>)

Hiranyakashipu Hindu

[Hiranyapakasura.Hiranyakasipu]

a demon-king

the first manifestation of Ravana

twin brother of Hiranyaksha

father of Hrada and Prahlava

father of Bali, some say

He achieved great strength by austerity and took power over air, earth and sky for a million years until he was killed by Vishnu in his fourth avatar as the man-lion Narasinha.

Hiranyakasipu (see Hiranyakashipu)

Hiranyaksa (see Hiranyaksha)

Hiranyaksha Hindu

[Gold Eye.Hiranya-Aksa.Hiranyaksa:

=Thai Hirantayaksa]

a giant

twin brother of Hiranyakashipu

He is said to have pulled the earth to the bottom of the ocean and kept it there for a thousand years until he was killed by Vishnu in his third avatar as the boar Varaha.

Hiranyapakasura (see Hiranyakashipu)

hircocervus

a monster, part goat, part stag

(see also tragelaph)

Hirguan Canary Islands

on Gomera, a demon opposed to the god Orahan

Hirihbi Mesopotamian

a Sumerian king

He acted as intermediary when Yarih sent him to ask Baal for the hand of Nikkal.

hirizi African

a Swahili amulet

Hirmis Arab

[Hermis:=Greek Hermes Trismegistus]

an early prophet in Egypt

father of Idris

He is said to have built the first pyramid and invented writing and was lost in the flood, only to appear again at Babel hundreds of years later to invent science and re-invent writing. On an even later occasion, he reappeared in Egypt and wrote a famous work on the sciences.

Some say that he was discovered still alive, sitting in a tunnel beneath his own statue in Hermopolis, by the scholar Balinus.

He has been identified with Thoth.

Hiro-ko (see Hiru-ko)

Hiru-ko Japanese

[Hiro-ko.Hirugo.Hiruko.Leech Child]

a Shinto god of fortune

the deformed son of Izanagi and Izanami

He was so ugly that his parents abandoned him, putting him in a boat which was then cast upon the sea.

Others say that the child was born as a jellyfish or a leech (hence the name Leech Child) and was set adrift in a boat. The boat came ashore at Ebisu Shore and the infant grew up bearing the name Ebisu and became the god of fishermen. (see also Ebisu)

Hirugo (see Hiru-ko)

Hiruko (see Hiru-ko)

Hisa Females (see Gogo-me)

Hisagitaimisi North American

[Breathmaker.Hisakitaimisi.Ibofang]

the supreme god of the Creek

Indians

Hisakitaimisi (see Hisagitaimisi)

Hismael

a demon of the planet Jupiter

Histie (see Hestia)

Histion British

son of Japhet

father of Alemmanus, Britto, Francus

and Romanus in some stories

Historia Britonum British

a book written in Latin by Nennius

This 9th c book tells of the battles between King Arthur and his armies and the Anglo-Saxons.

Historia Meriadoci Welsh

a story of the Welsh king, written in Latin

Historia Regnum Britanniae British

a 12-volume work written in Latin by Geoffrey of Monmouth

This 12th c work tells the stories of King Arthur's exploits and of the race of giants who were the early inhabitants of Britain. The last two giants, Gog and Magog, were said to have been captured by Brut, leader of the Trojan invaders.

Hitaspa Persian

a demon

He killed the sage Urvakhshaya and was himself killed by his victim's brother, Keresaspa.

Hito-koto-kwannon Japanese

a form of Kwannon who will answer

only one prayer

Hitogaki Japanese

the ghosts of dead nobles

Humans were buried up to their necks in a circle round the grave of a noble and left there to die.

hitogata Japanese

paper cut-outs of human beings used in purification ceremonies

These silhouettes, said to absorb the sins of real humans, were placed in a temple and later burned.

Hitopadesa (see Hitopadesha)

Hitopadesha Hindu

[Book of Sound Counsel.Hitopadesa]

beast-fables, a summary of the Panchatantra

hitsuji Japanese

a sign (sheep) of the Zodiac

Hittauanin (see Hittavainen)

Hittavainen Finnish

[Hittauanin]

a god of hunters: a forest spirit

hituhitu Pacific Islands

a spirit of the dead appearing to the living

Hiuki Norse

[Gelder.Hengest.Hjuki.Hyuki.Ide.

Slagfinn-Gjuki]

the god of the waxing moon

son of Ivald and Greip

brother of Bil

He and Bil were captured by the moon-god Mani when they were carrying water and thereafter always accompanied him.

In some accounts they were carrying song-mead from the well Byrgir in the bucket Saegir.

Hixtaca Nih'ancan North American

the Arapaho name for the white man's god

Hiyei-zan Japanese

a hill said to have an evil influence

Hiyoyoa Pacific Islands

the Papuan underworld

This realm is located under the sea and the souls of the dead work in the underwater gardens there. This realm is ruled by Tumudurere but in some versions, Hiyoyoa is used also as the name of the god of the underworld.

Hizarbin

a sea-demon

Hizen (see Ito Soda)

Hjalmgunnar (see Hialmgunnar)

Hjalpret (see Elf*)

Hjarandi (see Hiarandi)

Hjordis (see Hiordis)

Hjuki (see Hiuki)

Hkeo Burmese

a lake (see Hkun Hsang L'rong)

Hkrip Hkrawp Burmese

a male earth-spirit

husband of Sik Sawp

father of Chanum, Ngawn-wa-Mogam

and Woi-shun

hkuang-beit-set Burmese

sacred objects in the form of pieces of precious metals, stones, etc., inserted under the skin

Some of these objects have incantations inscribed upon them and are said to make the wearer invulnerable.

Hkum Yeng Burmese

a guardian spirit of villages

one of the nats

Hkun Ai Burmese

a hero who married a dragon-

woman

When he left his wife she gave him an egg from which a son, Tung Hkam, was born.

Hkun Hsang Long Burmese

a creator-spirit

He created the first couple, Ta-hsek-khi and Ya-hsek-khi who were born in the shape of tadpoles. After this couple had mated, he renamed them Ta-hsang-kahsi (Yatawn) and Ya-hsang-kahsi (Yatai).

Hkun Hsang L'rong Burmese

a deity who came down to earth

Having eaten the Thalasan, he became a debased spirit and cut open two gourds belonging to Nang-pyek-kha Yek-khi. The water that poured from the gourds formed a lake, Hkeo, which became a sacred sea where the first beings, Ta-hsek-khi and Ya-hsek-khi lived in the form of tadpoles.

Hkun Sak-ya Burmese

the Burmese name for Indra

Hlakanyana African

[Icakijana.Icakanyana.Ucakijana.

Uhlakanyana:Mpfundlwa]

in Zulu lore, a trickster dwarf

Immediately he was born he stood up, cut his own umbilical cord and carved himself a choice portion of a recently-slaughtered beast, following it with the rest of the dead animal. Thereafter he seemed to eat anything and everything.

Hlebard Norse

one of the dwarfs

This smith made a magic wand for Odin and shaped the mistletoe into the magic arrow with which Hoder, prompted by Loki, killed Balder.

Hler Norse

a name of Aegir as 'shelterer'

Hlidskialf Norse
[Hlidskjalfr.Hlithskjolf.Lidskialf]
the throne or throne-hall of Odin in Valaskjalf

Hlidskjalf (see Hlidskialf)

Hlin Norse
[Hlina]
the goddess of consolation

This deity was one of Frigga's attendants and her job was to comfort the mourners and to relay prayers to Frigga.

Hlina (see Hlin)

Hliodalfr Norse
one of the dwarfs

Hlithskjolf (see Hlidskialf)

Hlodyn (see Nerthus<sup>2</sup>)

Hlokk Norse
a Valkyrie

Hlora Norse
wife of Vingnir
foster-mother of Thor

Hloride (see Hlorridi)

Hlorridi Norse
[Hloride] a name taken by Thor in honour of his foster-mother

Hlothyn (see Nerthus<sup>2</sup>)

Hludana German [=Norse Nerthus]
a goddess

Hlymdall (see Hindarfiall)

hmawsaya Burmese
an exorcist

These people are said to be able to cure those who fall ill as a result of being bewitched either by ordering the nat which caused the illness to give up its knowledge or by physical means such as beating the patient.

To become a hmawsaya, one must burn scrolls covered with cabalistic signs and drink the ashes mixed with water and have one's body tattooed with magic diagrams.

H'men Central American
Mayan diviners

These people were said to have direct communication with the gods who gave them their power to manipulate natural forces for the benefit of the people.

Hmin Burmese
a nat who afflicts travellers with the ague or drives them mad

hminza Burmese
a malignant ghost in the form of a cat or dog; a form of tase

Hnaef Danish
a clan-chief brother of Hildeburh

His sister married another clan-chief, Finn, causing resentment which led to war in which Hnaef was killed.

Hnikar Norse
[Feng]
a name of Odin as 'wave-stiller' or 'giver of rain'

Hnit-ma-dawgyi Burmese
[Saw Meya.Shindwe-hla.Shwe Myet-hna.
Taunggyi-shin.Thon Pan Hla]
a nat creator-deity
sister of Min Magaye

She was a queen who was burned to death by the king, her husband, with her brother.

Hnos (see Hnoss)

Hnoss Norse
[Hnos(s).Hnossa]
daughter of Odur and Freya

In some accounts, it was this child who dreamed of Balder's death. Some say that she was one of the Asynjur.

Hnossa (see Hnoss)

Ho<sup>1</sup> Chinese
a minor deity, assistant to Pi Kan.

Ho<sup>2</sup> Chinese
3 celestial brothers

They, with the three brothers Hsi, were responsible for the solstices and equinoxes. (see also Hsi-ho)

Ho<sup>3</sup> Chinese
a sacred river

Ho<sup>4</sup> Chinese
a sacred bird, the crane

Ho-deri (see Fire Flash)

Ho Ho<sup>1</sup> Chinese
[Wan Hui]

a 7th c man who was said to have covered over 3,000 miles in one day to see his brother who was in the army

Ho Ho<sup>2</sup> Chinese
attendants of Ts'ai Shen, god of wealth

Ho-ho bird Japanese
the sun in the form of a bird

This messenger of goodwill comes to earth and sits on top of the torii.

Ho-ho Erh Hsien Chinese
in some accounts, a wealth-producing box of Ts'ai Shen

Ho-ho Tzu (see Han Chung-li)

Ho Hsien-ku Chinese [Damsel Ho:=Japanese Kasenko] goddess of housewives
one of the Eight Immortals
daughter of Ho T'ai

She was the daughter of a 7th c shopkeeper and, having eaten a magic peach, became a fairy who, living on moonbeams and powdered mother-of-pearl, was immortal. She was born with just six hairs on her head and no more ever grew.

When she was attacked by a demon, Lu Tung-pin killed the demon with his magic sword.

Her emblem is the lotus flower and is sometimes depicted with a fly-whisk or drinking wine.

Ho-li Ti Chinese [=Buddhist Hariti:=Japanese Kishi Bojin]
a child-snatching demon

Ho-masubi (see Kazu-Tsuchi)

Ho-musubi (see Kazu-Tsuchi)

Ho-no-susori (see Fire Flash)

Ho Po Chinese [Ping-i.Count of the River.Duke of the River]
brother of Heng-o
husband of Fu-fei

He lived on the mountain K'un Lun, source of the Yellow River, and became immortal by drowning himself weighted with stones.

Every year, a maiden was thrown into the river as a sacrifice to this deity.

Ho Shen Chinese
a fire-god

In some accounts he is the same as Tsao Chün.

ho-sig Korean
the fate of being eaten by a tiger

Ho-suseri (see Fire Flash)

Ho T'ai Chinese
father of Ho Hsien-ku

Ho Wang Chinese
an attendant on Tam Kung

They both jumped to their death from a cliff-top to escape death at the hands of Kublai Khan.

ho-wo (see hoo)

Ho-wori (see Fire Fade)

Hoa (see Aos<sup>2</sup>.Ea)

Hoa-Tapu Pacific Islands
a Tahitian god
son of Oro
brother of Ai-Tupuia, Mata-Fatu-Rau and Toi-Mata

hob
a brownie; a frightful apparition

Hobal (see Hubal)

Hobal Hubal (see Hubal)

Hobanockka North American
an evil spirit or devil (see also Hobbamock)

Hobas (see Haubas)

Hobbamock North American [Hobbamoqui]
a malevolent god in the lore of the New England tribes
(see also Hobanockka)

Hobbamoqui (see Hobbamock)

hobbidance

a malevolent sprite

(see also Hoberdidance)

Hoberdidance

British

a demon of the dance

(see also hobbidance)

hobgoblin

a mischievous sprite such as a brownie

Hobnil

Central American

[Hobnel]

a Mayan god of beekeepers

one of the 4 Bacabs

He supported the eastern corner of the world (red). (see also Kan<sup>1</sup>)

hobo

(see hoo)

hobyah

Scottish

a cannibal goblin

(see also Turpy)

Hocelice

British

the name used by Galahad of Galefort

when he became king of Wales

Hochigan

African

a spirit in the lore of the Bushmen

The Bushmen say that, originally, all animals could speak but Hochigan went away forever taking their power of speech with him.

Hocken

(see Hakon<sup>3</sup>)

Hod-srum

Tibetan

[O-Sung]

the Tibetan name for Kashyapa the manushibuddha

Hod

(see Hoder)

Hodag

North American

a water-monster of Quebec

This beast is said to have telescopic legs and kills its victims by shooting clay pellets from its long snout.

Hodain

(see Houdain)

Hodbrod

Norse

a suitor for the hand of Sigrun, killed

by Helgi

Hodeken

German

a kobold who exposed unfaithful wives

Hoder<sup>1</sup>

Norse

[Biorno-Hoder.Bjorn-Hoder.Hod(ir).

Hod(u)r.Hotherus.Hromund]

the blind god of darkness

son of Odin and Frigga

twin brother of Balder

brother of Hermod and Thor

Frigga had extracted a promise from all things that they would cause no harm to Balder but she overlooked the mistletoe. The gods made a game of throwing things at Balder and none of them could harm him until Loki, the troublemaker, persuaded the blind Hoder to throw a branch of mistletoe.

This branch, guided by Loki, killed Balder immediately.

In another story, Hoder and Balder vied for the hand of Nanna. When she married Hoder, he killed Balder with the sword, Mistillteinn, stolen from Mimingus.

In some versions, Hoder was killed by Vali, son of Odin and Rinda, who, having grown to manhood in one day, arrived with his bow and arrows and shot Hoder to avenge Balder, thus fulfilling a prophecy of Rothiof.

Some say that he was sacrificed for killing Balder, others that both survived Ragnarok.

Hoder<sup>2</sup>

Norse

[Hodir.Hod(u)r] an Icelandic outlaw

Hoder<sup>3</sup>

(see Svipdag)

Hoderi

(see Fire Flash)

Hodir

(see Hoder)

Hodites

Greek

son of Heracles and Deianeira

brother of Ctessipus, Glenus, Hyllus

and Macaria

Hodmimir

(see Mimir)

Hodmimir's Holt

Norse

a deep cavern

This is the place where Lif and Lifthrasir slept during Ragnarok. When they awoke, they lived on dew and repopulated the earth.

In some accounts, it is described as a forest which could not be destroyed by fire and so escaped Surtur's flaming sword at Ragnarok. Others describe it as a cavern.

Hodo

Japanese

one of 5 Dhyani Buddhas

one of 5 Dhyani bodhisattvas,

in some accounts

Hodoedocus

Greek

husband of Agriarome

father of Oileus

Hodr

(see Hoder)

Hodur

(see Hoder)

Hoel<sup>1</sup>

European

[Gilierchins.Havelin.Howel.Jovelin]

a king of Brittany

father of Belinda, Helen, Isabella,

Isolde, Kaherdin and Runalen

In some accounts, his parents are given as Boudicus and Anna, in others he is the son of Ymer by Gwyar, a sister of King Arthur.

In some versions he is known as Gilierchins, in others as Havelin or Jovelin.

His eldest daughter, Isabella, married Meliad after the death of his first wife and she tried to poison Meliad's son, Tristram, who was then sent to Hoel's court for safety. His other daughter, Belinda, fell in love with Tristram and she also tried to poison him when he rejected her. Helen was carried off by the giant of Mont St Michel but, King Arthur, who had landed in Brittany to help his friend Hoel fight the Romans, killed the giant though not in time to save Helen's life. (see also Jovelin)

Hoel<sup>2</sup>

Celtic

duke of Tintagel

In some accounts, the husband of Igraine and father of Blasine, Belisent and Hermisent.

Hoener

(see Hoenir)

Hoeni

(see Hoenir)

Hoenir

Norse

[Ho(e)ner.Hoeni.Honir]

son of Bor and Bestla

brother of Loki, Odin, Ve and Vili

He endowed newly-created mankind with intelligence and was one of the Aesir who went to live among the Vanir as a hostage after the two groups made peace. Some say that he was one of the few to survive Ragnarok.

Some equate him with Ve or Vili.

Hofud

Norse

the magic sword of Heimdall

hofgothi

Norse

a keeper of a temple

Hofvarpner

(see Hofvarpnir)

Hofvarpnir

Norse

[Hofvarpner.Hoof-tosser]

the horse of Gna, Frigga's messenger

This animal was sired by Hamskerpir on Gardrofa.

hog-folk

(see Alvor)

hoga

Pacific Islands

gnomes or dwarfs

Hogahn

North American

[Hogan]

a Navaho purification ceremony: the hut in which the ceremony is held:

the home of a god

Hogalen Tudno

(see Whetstone)

Hogan

(see Hogahn)

Hogne

(see Hogni)

Hogni

Norse

[Hogne:=German Hagen]

son of Giuki and Grimhild

brother of Gudrun, Gunnar and Guttorm

father of Dag and Sigrun, some say His sister Gudrun, after the murder of her husband Sigurd by their younger brother Guttorm, married Atli, king of the Huns who, coveting the treasure of the Niblungs, invited them to his court, planning to kill them. Despite a warning, his elder brother, Gunnar, accepted the invitation but took the precaution of hiding the gold in the bed of the Rhine. Atli killed all the party except Gunnar and Hogni whom he tortured to reveal the hiding place of the treasure. To force Gunnar to speak, Atli had Hogni killed and cut out his heart which he displayed before Gunnar who, still refusing to speak, was thrown into a snake-pit and bitten to death.

In another story, his enemy, King Hedinn, abducted Hilde and they fought an everlasting battle over her in which the slain were revived every night by Hilde or a sorceress.

He owned a sword called Dainslef.
(see also Hagen<sup>2</sup>)

Hogos

[Nogah]

a demon associated with the planet Venus and Friday

Hogstari

Norse

one of the dwarfs

Hoh

Central American

a crow

In Mayan lore, this was one of the birds which brought the maize from which the gods created human beings.

Hohi

(see Ama-no-ho)

Hohlee

(see Holi)

hoho

(see hoo)

Hoho-demi

(see Fire Fade)

Hoichi

Japanese

a blind priest

He was bewitched by the ghosts of the Tiara clan, all of whom, including the infant emperor, Antoku Tenno, had been killed in a great sea battle with the Minamoto clan. When his fellow priests discovered him sitting before the tomb of the young emperor, chanting the story of that battle, they covered him with sacred texts to ward off the ghosts. When the ghosts next came for Hoichi, all they could see were his ears which had not been covered. These they tore off and the priest was thereafter earless.

Hoin

Japanese

an aspect of Jizo

Hoita

North American

a Mandan eagle-spirit

When Lone Man stole his white buckskin coat, Hoita collected all the animals and enclosed them in the Dog Den. Lone Man made an even more powerful medicine-drum than the one owned by Hoita who was then forced to release the animals.

Hoja Maimoon

Malay

a merchant

He bought a talking parrot which he left behind when he went on a long journey. His wife was wooed during his absence by a local prince but the parrot kept her entertained by telling her tales each night until Hoja Maimoon returned seventy days later.

Hoji

Japanese

the name of the fox-woman later

known as Jewel Maiden

consort of luwao

Hojo Takatoki

Japanese

an emperor

He banished Oribe Shima to a far-off island. His daughter, Tokoyo, set out to find him and came upon a priest about to throw a maiden over a cliff in sacrifice to the serpent-god, Yofuna-Nushi. She took the maiden's place and jumped into the sea where she met and killed the monstrous white serpent-god. She then returned to the surface bearing the body of the serpent and an image of Hojo Takatoki which she had found under the sea. As soon as this image was restored, the emperor, who had fallen ill, was restored to full health.

Hok Braz

Celtic

a giant in Brittany

He was said to be able to swallow large ships.

Hokewingla

North American

a turtle-spirit of the Dakotas

Hokhokw

North American

a monster in the form of a huge bird with a long beak, in the lore of the tribes of the north-west

Hokomata

(see Kukumatz)

hokora

Japanese

a wayside shrine

Hokushin-O-Kami

Japanese

a Shinto sky-god, Ursa Minor

Holawaka

Ethiopian

a messenger-bird from god

This bird was sent to tell the Galla tribes that they could become immortal by removing their skins when they grew old but the bird, in return for food, gave the message to a snake who thereafter was able to grow by sloughing its skin. As punishment, the gods inflicted a painful disease on the bird.

Hold

(see Holda)

Holda'

German

[Bertha.Brechta.Frau Gode.Frau

Venus.Harfer.Herke.Hold(e).Holl(e).

Huda.Huld(r)a.Hulle.Nerthus.

Vrou-Elde:=Norse Frigga]

a goddess of children and weather wife of Holder, some say

She was said to have given flax to the human race.

As Frau Holle, she was said to guard the souls of children in lakes or wells.

As Frau Venus, she was said to live in a cave in the Horselberg and tempted mortals with the pleasures of the flesh. Tannhauser was one of those who stayed with her until he became sickened with his own sinfulness.

She was the owner of the magic fountain, Quickborn.

Holda<sup>2</sup>

German

the offspring of a demon and a witch. These beings are said to be capable of appearing in many different forms – bee, caterpillar, elf, fairy, etc.

Holde

(see Holda)

Holder

German

[Holler]

a name of Uller in Germany

Holda's Troop

German

[Holla's Troop.Hulda's Troop]

a version of the Wild Hunt, led by Holda

Hole

African

Songhai spirits of the air

These were the children of Adama and Hawa retained by god.

Holgarbrud

(see Thorgerd<sup>2</sup>)

Holger

(see Ogier)

Holger Danske

(see Ogier)

Holi

Hindu

[Hohlee.Hoolee.Hutashana.

Phag(u).Shimga]

the spring festival of fire,

in honour of Krishna's victory over Putana, held in February/March

Holiartus

Greek

son of Sisyphus, some say

brother of Coronus

Holl

(see Holda)

Holla's Troop

(see Holda's Troop)

Holle

(see Frigga.Holda)

Hollenfurt

the flight of witches

Holler

(see Holder)

Hollow Grey Rocks

(see Te Parai-Tea)

Holmkell

Norse

a friend of Thorgrim

husband of Thorbjorg

father of Ketilrid

holocaust

the sacrificial burning of victims

holy angels

(see angels)

Holy Boy North American

a spirit of the Apache He, with Red Boy, placed the sun and the moon in their courses.

Holy Emperor *(see Sheng Ti)Holy Grail, The<sup>1</sup> British [graal.grail.grayle.Sangraal.

Sangreal.Sangrail]
a holy vessel

This prized object was Christ's cup or plate which he was said to have used at the Last Supper and in which Joseph was said to have caught the blood of Christ at the Crucifixion. It was made from an emerald which fell from Lucifer's crown when he was cast out
of heaven.

It was later brought by Joseph of Arimathea and Evelake to Britain where it was guarded by the 'undead' Fisher King. It was said that if the Grail ever fell into the hands of a sinner, the peace of the world would come to an end and the Grail would disappear.

It appeared at the banquet at Camelot when Galahad took his seat
as a knight of the Round Table, inspiring the knights to set out in their search for it, the Grail-quest. Only Galahad was deemed worthy of finding the Grail which was taken back to the Holy Land by Galahad, Percival and Bors. When Galahad died, the Grail and the Holy Lance disappeared forever.

In some versions, it was Percival who finally achieved the Grail, in others it was Gawain.

In the Wagnerian version, the Grail was sought by Titirel and his band of knights in another land. They built a temple on Mount Salvat and angels brought the Grail from heaven.
Titirel spent the rest of his life guarding the Grail, day and night, and, when he died, the duty was carried on by his son, Amfortas.

In some accounts, the Grail was a stone on which had been engraved the names of the knights guarding it.

(see also Lapis Exillis.Parsifal)

Holy Grail, The<sup>2</sup> English

a poem by Tennyson

Holy Jade Empress

(see Yü-huang Sheng-mu)

Holy Lance British

[Bleeding Lance.Grail Lance.Grail
Spear.Holy Spear.Lance of Longinus.
Sacred Lance.Sacred Spear]
the weapon with which the Roman centurion Longinus pierced Christ's side at the crucifixion

This lance or spear was brought to Britain with the Holy Grail by Joseph of Arimathea and Evelake. It was used, in some accounts, by Balin to kill or to wound Pelham. In other accounts, Galahad found the lance and used it to cure Pelles, guardian of the Grail, who had been made lame for his sins. It was taken back to the Holy Land by Galahad, Percival and Bors at the end of the Grail Quest and, at the death of Galahad, the Lance and the Grail disappeared forever.

In the Wagnerian version, this weapon was kept in the Temple of the Grail and Amfortas took it with him when he tried to destroy the evil magician, Klingsor. Klingsor took the spear from Amfortas and struck him in the side, thereby causing a wound that healed only when Parsifal, at the end of the Grail Quest, regained the spear and laid it on the wound.

In some accounts, it was used by Charlemagne in his battles with the Saracens.

Holy Mother (see Pi-hsia Yüan-chun.
*Queen of Heaven)Holy Mother of Heaven

(see T'ien Shang Sheng-mu)

Holy-mouth men North American

medicine-men of the Nacirema tribe
They believe that the mouth is the route by which spirits enter the body.

Holy One (see Sheng.

Turkey Hactcin)

Holy Spear *(see Holy Lance)Holy Thorn

(see Glastonbury Thorn)

Holy Wheel *(see Wheel of Law)Hom Thai

sister of Phrom

Her sister found the son of Kong abandoned in the forest and gave the child to Hom who reared him, calling him Phan.

Homa<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a ceremonial sacrificial offering

Homa<sup>2</sup> *(see Athena)Homa<sup>3</sup> *(see Haoma)Homage to Durga *(see Navaratri)Homage to Lakshmi

(see Lakshmi-puja)

Homage to Sarasvati

(see Sarasvati-puja)

Homartes Persian

[Omartes]

a king

father of Odatis

He refused to allow his daughter to marry Zariadres but she chose him anyway and they eloped together.

Homasubi *(see Homusubi)Home of the Angel *(see Ingelheim)Homecoming of the Hammer

(see Hammarsheim)

Homecomings Greek

one of the poems in the Epic Cycle
dealing with the story of Troy

Hometeuli Central American

an Aztec creator-god

Homer Greek

[Homerus]

a 9th c BC blind poet and writer

He is taken to be the author of The Iliad, telling the story of the Trojan War, and The Odyssey, the story of the wanderings of Odysseus after leaving Troy.

Homeric Hymns Greek

epic poems addressed to the Greek deities

These thirty-three poems are generally attributed to Homer but were probably composed by various other authors.

Homerus *(see Homer)Homme de bouc French

[=Basque Basa Jaun:=Roman Concordia]
a wood-sprite or fairy

Homonoia Greek

a goddess, concord personified

Homshuk Central American

an Olmec deity, maize personified

He was born from an egg and reared by an old couple who, alarmed when he killed all those who mocked him, tried to kill him but failed.

He was later taken prisoner by Hurakan but survived after being locked in three rooms, one filled with snakes, another with tigers and a third with flying arrows. Hurakan finally realised that Homshuk was a deity and promised thereafter to tend him – in other words, to cultivate the maize.

homunculus

a little man

In some accounts, such a being resulted from the union of the sun and the moon while others say that it was the concoction of an alchemist using blood and sperm.

Homusubi Japanese

[Homasubi]

a name for Kazu-Tsuchi as 'he who starts a fire'

honden Japanese

a main shrine: the part of a shrine in which a deity is installed

- hondo Japanese
the main hall of a Buddhist monastery
- Hondscio Norse
a companion of Beowulf
He was eaten by the monster, Grendel.
- Honer (see Hoener)
- Hong (see Hang)
- Hong Do-Ryong Korean
a man who became a tiger
He prayed for help when his mother fell ill and a spirit advised him that a medicine made from 100 dogs would save her. Further prayer gave him the power to turn himself into a tiger and he was then easily able to catch ninety-nine dogs. On the last night, his wife saw him change into a tiger and leave the house to catch the final dog. Foolishly, she burnt the paper in which the tiger-spell was written and Hong was unable to resume his human form. In his anger, he killed his wife who happened to be wearing a blue skirt at the time. Thereafter, the tiger killed every woman he met who was similarly dressed.
- honga North American spirits of the Osage underworld
- hongu Japanese [honsha]
the central shrine of a particular deity
- Honinigi (see Ninigi)
- Honir (see Hoenir)
- Hono African
a name of Were as 'miracle-worker'
- Hono-ika-zuchi Japanese [Fire Thunder]
a god of lightning
- Honochenokah North American
benevolent spirits in the lore of the Iroquois
- Honorée British
the sword which only Biaisdous could remove from its scabbard
- Honorius of Autun German
a 12th c theologian
He wrote extensively on historical and mythical subjects including Scala Coeli, a book on mythical animals in which he described an encounter between a maiden and a unicorn.
- Honos (see Honus)
- Honoyeta Pacific Islands
a serpent-god in Goodenough Island
He had two wives, one of whom discovered that he could turn into a handsome youth in their absence. She destroyed his abandoned skin so that he could not revert to his snake form, making him so angry that he caused death and famine to appear on earth.
- Honsha (see hongu)
- Honsi African
twin brother of Honsu
He and his brother Honsu are the heroes of magical exploits in the lore of Dahomey.
- Honsu African
twin brother of Honsi
He and his brother Honsi are the heroes of magical exploits in the lore of Dahomey.
- Honus Roman [Honos]
a god (or goddess in some accounts) of military honours
- Honoured Women (see Cihuateteo)
- hoo Japanese
[foo.ho.ho-ho.ho-wo.hobo.hoho.howo.O]
the Japanese version of the phoenix, regarded as bisexual
- Hoo-Hwu (see Wu')
- Ho'o Ipo Pacific Islands
a princess
daughter of Rina
wife of Moikeha
She was given by her father as the prize in a sailing race. Moikeha, with the help of the wind-god, won the race and married her.
- Hoo Kwan Buddhist
[Crown of Brahma.Crown of Treasures.
Treasure Crown]
a device like a wheel which gives a dazzling light
This device is one of the signs on the Footprint of Buddha.
- Hooded One (see Grimmir)
- Hooded Ones (see Cuculatti)
- Hoodoo
['white magic']
a mixture of voodoo with Christian religion (see also voodoo)
- hoodoo hand North American magic charms used by the black population of the southern states
These charms, which include such things as the eye or scales of a fish, a small dried turtle, a piece of snakeskin, the foot of a rabbit, etc., are said to cause the death, or at least the illness, of one's enemy; to cure diseases; to bring back one's lover; to bring the wearer good fortune.
- hoodoo man North American
a magician or sorcerer
- Hoolee (see Holi)
- Hoof-tosser (see Hofvarpnir)
- Ho'ohoku-ka-lani Pacific Islands
daughter of Wakea and Papa
She bore two children fathered by her own father. The first was born as a root and grew into a plant, the second was mortal.
- Hoori (see Fire Fade)
- Hopladamus Greek
a giant
- Hopop Caan Central American
a name for Chac as 'lighter of the heavens'
- Hor (see Hor Nubuti.King Hor)
- Hor-akhi (see Horus of the Horizon)
- Hor-hekenu Egyptian
a falcon-headed god of ointments
an aspect of Horus
- Hor-merti (see Harwer)
- Hor Nubuti Egyptian
[Hor] Horus as conqueror of Set
- Hora Roman
[Hora Quirini]
a goddess
consort of Quirinus
- Hora Galles (see Horagalles)
- Hora Quirini (see Hora)
- Horace (see Alcuin)
- Horae Greek
[Horai.Hours.Seasons:=Hindu Rtus] daughters of Zeus by Themis daughters of Sennai, some say
The maidens who acted as the gatekeepers of Olympus.
In some accounts, there were just two – Carpo and Thallo – or three with Auxo; others list Dike, Eirene and Eunomia.
Some say there were four maidens, the daughters of Helius by his sister Selene, while yet others say that Mersilia, wife of Romulus, became one of their number when she was taken up to heaven. Some accounts have twelve.
- Horaea Greek
a festival in honour of the Horae
- Horagalles Lapp
[Hora Galles.Tora Galles:=Norse Thor]
a god of weather
husband of Raudna
- Horai<sup>1</sup> Japanese
paradise: elf-land: home of the Dragon King
- Horai<sup>2</sup> (see Horae)
- Horaisan Japanese
a name for Mount Fuji
- Horakt (see Horus of the Horizon)
- Horakhte (see Horus of the Horizon)
- Horakhti (see Horus of the Horizon)

Horang Gamte Korean
caps worn by goblins which make them invisible to humans

Horant
a warrior and musician at Hettel's court

He, with Frute and Wat, abducted
Hilde who married Hettel.

Horatia Roman
sister of Horatius

Her three brothers fought three brothers of the Curiatii to settle the war between Rome and Alba Longa.
Two of her brothers were killed and the third killed Horatia when she bewailed the loss of one of their opponents to whom she was betrothed.

Horatii Roman
3 champions of Rome

These three brothers fought three of the Curiatii to settle the war between the cities. Two were killed and the other killed their sister who had become betrothed to one of the Curiatii.

Horatius<sup>1</sup> Roman [Horatius Cocles]
a hero

He, with two friends, Titus Herminius and Lartius Spurius, held the bridge leading to Rome against the might of the invading Etruscans under Lars Porsena.

Horatius<sup>2</sup> Roman [Publius Horatius]
brother of Horatia

He and his two brothers fought three of the Curiatii to settle the war between Rome and Alba Longa. His two brothers were killed but he killed all three of their opponents. When his sister bewailed the loss of one of the Curiatii to whom she was betrothed, he killed her.

Horbehudet Egyptian
[Horus of Edfu]
a name of Horus as the solar disc

Horcus (see Orcus)

Hordad (see Haurvatat)

Hore African
an oracle of the god Nosenga

Horei African
an evil spirit in West Africa

Horemakhet
(see Horus of the Horizon)

horen Japanese
a palanquin bearing the model of a phoenix (see also mikoshi)

Horios Greek
a name for Zeus as guardian of boundaries

Horiya (see Hurriya)
horizon Egyptian

the home of the sun-god in the east
The sun was often depicted as rising between two mountains personified as the breasts of a goddess.

Horkos (see Orcus)

Hormazd (see Ahura Mazda)

Hormazu (see Ahura Mazda)

Horn (see Freya)

Horn of Ament Egyptian
[Horn of Amenti]
the furthest boundary of Amenti

Horn of Amenti
(see Horn of Ament)

Horn of Bran Galed Welsh
[Corn Bran Galed]

a drinking-horn that could provide whichever drink the owner required

When Merlin set out to acquire the Thirteen Treasures of Britain, he had to obtain this horn before he could get the others.

(see also Horn of Gawlgawd)

Horn of Fidelity British a horn sent by Morgan le Fay to King Arthur

This vessel detected those ladies who had been unfaithful to their husbands when they found that they could not drink from it.

Horn of Gawlgawd Welsh
one of the objects that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get in his quest for the hand of Olwen

(see also Horn of Bran Galed)

Horn of Plenty (see Cornucopia)

hornbill Pacific Islands
a man who became a bird

This bird was originally a prince who destroyed a palace or a man who destroyed the house of his mother-in-law and was changed into a hornbill
as punishment.

Hornbogi German
a warrior with Dietrich von Bern father of Amalung

Horned God
the god of witches

Horned Lord
(see Apollo Cunomaglus)

Horned One, The (see Cernunnos)

Horned Water Serpent North American
a spirit of the Pueblo tribes

Horns Standing Up North American
a Cheyenne medicine-man

When his tribe was starving as a result of drought, Horns Standing Up commanded the wife of the chief to accompany him and they set off to seek help. After many days they came to the mountains and entered a cave where, for four days, Maheo and Great Roaring Thunder gave them instructions in the art of the medicine dance. When the couple returned to their tribe, the men built a medicine lodge and danced round it as Horns Standing Up had instructed them. Soon the rains came and the buffalo returned.

Horomazd (see Ahura Mazda)
Horon Canaanite

a destructive god
horoscope

the position of the planets at the moment of a person's birth Astrologers purport to foretell a person's future from such observations.

Horror (see Uath mac Imoman)

Horsa Danish
brother of Hengist

He and his brother led the Saxon invasion of Britain.

horse
an animal, found in many countries and featured in their myths, which has been domesticated and used for many purposes in sport, transport, etc.

(1) The Arab poet-warrior Antar rode a horse called Abjar.

It was said that a race of green horses, Farasi Bahari, lived in the Indian Ocean and horses bred from these stallions and normal mares could run forever because they had no lungs and therefore were never short of breath.

(2) The Babylonian mare, Silili, was said to be the progenitress of all the horses in the world.

(3) British lore includes the Arthurian characters with their horses, such as:

Arthur	Dun Stallion.Lamri
	Passelände.Spumador
Bevis	Arundel
Caradoc	Lluagor
Fergus	Arondiel
Kay	Gwinam
Launfal	Blanchard
Tristram	Passe Brewell

The mediaeval hero Guy of Warwick had a horse called Black Saladin and, in The Faerie Queene,
the knight Guyon rode Brigadore.
In some stories, the spirit of a horse, haunting boggy areas, is called a gytrash.

(4) Buddhist lore says that the Buddha's horse was called Kantaka, that of Avalokiteshvara was Balaha.

(5) In Carolingian stories the some of the characters and their steeds are:

Argalia	Rabican
Bruhier	Marchvallée
Charlemagne	Blanchard
Gradasso	Alfana
Guarinos	Trezibond
Ogier	Beiffror.Marchvallée
	Tachebrune
Oliver	Ferrant d'Espagne
Orlando	Vegliantino
Rinaldo	Bayard
Rogero	Frontino
Roland	Brigliadoro.Veillantif

and a fire-breathing horse ridden by Ogier was known as Papillon.

(6) In Egypt, a sea-living horse, Sabgarifiya, was the equivalent of the Arab Farasi Bahari.

(7) Other European stories include the Brazen Horse of Cambuscan which had a pin in one ear which enabled it to accept instructions from the rider as to where he wished to go, Rosinante, the broken-down nag ridden by Don Quixote and Clavileno, a wooden horse, controlled by a peg protruding from its head, which could take the rider wherever he wished to go. The goddess Epona, like her Welsh counterpart Rhiannon, is said to have ridden the White Mare.

(8) German stories include the horse of Dietrich von Bern, an animal called Falke, and one called Lion, owned by Walter von Wasgenstein.

(9) In Greek myths, one famous horse, Pegasus, sprang from the blood of the Gorgon, Medusa, slain by Perseus and was later used by Bellerophon when he attacked and killed the Chimaera.

Some deities and mortals, with their horses, include:

Achilles	Balios.Xanthos
Adastrus	Cairus
Alexander	Bucephalus
Aurora	Abraxa.Eos
Castor and Polydeuces	Cytharos
	Harpagos
Diomedes	Dinos.Lampos
Eos	Phaeton
Hector	Ethon.Galathe.Podarge
Helios	Actaeon.Aethon.Ametha
	Bronte.Erythroos.Lampos
	Philogea.Phlegon.Purocris
	Pyrois

Heracles	Phallas
Oeneus	Harpinna
Oenomaus	Psylla
Peleus	Balios
Pluto	Abaster.Abatos.Nomios

The Seian horse was reputed to bring bad luck to whoever owned it. Perhaps the most famous of all horses is the wooden horse made by the Greeks and left in front of the city walls of Troy.

(10) In Hindu lore, the horse was the seventh thing to emerge from the Churning of the Ocean. The sun-god Surya used the horse Rohita to pull his chariot.

(11) Irish characters with their steeds include:

Conall Cearnach	Dearg Druchtach
Cuchulainn	Black of Sainglenn
	Grey of Macha
Dagda	Acein
Lugh	Horse of Manannan
Manannan	Splendid Mane

The horse known as Aonbharr was said to be able to travel over water.

(12) In Norse myths, Odin's horse was the eight-legged Sleipnir.

Other more normal animals are listed below with their owners or riders:

Brunhild	Vingskornir
Frey	Arvak. Aslo. Blodighofi
	Freyfaxi.Skinfaxi
Gna	Hofvarpnir
Hrungnir	Gullfaxi
ice-giant	Svadilfare
moon-god	Alsvið.Alsvin
Nott	Hrimfaxi
Sigurd	Grane

Other horses used by the gods were Falhofnir, Glead, Gler, Goldcrest, Gylli, Hamskerpir, Sini and Skidbrim.

(13) In Malaya, the Farasul Bahri were sea-living horses, the equivalent of the Arab Farasi Bahari.

(14) In Persian myths, the hero Rustem rode Rakush and the mythical king Kay Khrusraw had a horse called Shibaliz.

(15) Russian stories include those of Ivan the Fool and Ivan Tzrnoyevitch who respectively rode Silver Road and Zdral.

(16) In Serbian stories there are several horses called Bedevia, owned by such heroes as Balatchko, Marko and Milosh and another hero, Momtchilo, had a flying horse called Yabouchילו.

(17) In Thailand, the mythical king Sison had a flying horse, Tipaka, which could transport its rider instantaneously to anywhere in the world.

(18) Horses mentioned in Welsh stories, with their owners, include

Bwlch	Call
Cyfwlch	Cuall
Cynwyl	Hengroen
Gweddu	Gwyn Dunmane
Moro	Du
Rhiannon	White Mare
Syfwlch	Cafall

horse-dragon (see ch'i-lin)

Horse-face (see Ma Mien)

Horse-faced Messenger (see Ma Mien)

Horse Head Lady (see Ma-t'ou)

Horse of Manannan Irish

a horse owned by Lugh which could travel over water

Horsel German

a Swabian love-goddess and moon-goddess

Horselberg (see Venusberg)

Horta Roman

an Etruscan goddess of agriculture

Horus<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

son of Paneshe

An ancient sorcerer who defeated a Nubian sorcerer in a contest of magic.

Horus<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

[Anti.Har.Har-mau.Har-nedj-itef.Har-pa-Neb-Taui.Harpakhrad.Harsomtus.Hartomes.Heart.Her-ka.Her-ap-sheta.Herdesuf.Heru Khent Khat.

Heru Khent an Maa.Heru Khuti

Heru Murti.Heru-pakhret

Heru-sam-taui.Heru Ur.Herunub.

Hor-hekenu.Hor Nubuti.Iahu.

Lord of Two Lands.

Mekenti-(en-)irty.Ra-Harakta.Ra-

Harahkte.Re-Harahkty.=Greek Ankhoes.

Harendotes.Harsaphes]

a falcon-headed sun-god

son of Osiris and Isis

father of Anset, Hapi, Qebsehenuf

and Tuamutef

In some accounts he is the son of Osiris and Isis, conceived when they were still in Nut's womb, in others he is the son of Osiris and Nut.

An assimilation of both Horus the Elder and the Younger as the opponent of Set in the struggle for supremacy. He lost an eye in the fight but it was restored by Thoth. In some versions, the eye was later given to Osiris but other accounts say that Set gouged out both the eyes of Horus and buried them. Lotus-blossom grew from the burial site but Horus had his sight restored by the gods. The case between Horus and Set was arbitrated by the gods and when the judgement was in favour of Horus he took over the whole of the kingdom.

In another version, the fight was over supremacy of the light and Thoth settled the argument by awarding the day to Horus and the night to Set.

Some say that he steered Ra's barque Manjet through the heavens; others equate him with Ra.

It was said that all human races, except the black race, were born from the eyes of Horus.

The pharaoh of the United Kingdom was Horus in his lifetime.

He was associated with the planets Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.

(see also Hemen)

Horus Aroeris

(see Horus of the Horizon)

Horus Behdety

(see Horus of Edfu)

Horus lock

Egyptian

[Sidelock of Youth]

a long curled strand of hair left on a shaven head, worn by young royals

Horus name

Egyptian

the first of the 7 names given to a king

Horus of Edfu

Egyptian

[Horbehudet.Horus Behdety]

a war-god

This was Horus as the solar disc and leader of the forces that defeated Set at Edfu.

Horus of the Horizon

Egyptian

[Har-em-akhet.Harakhti.Harakte.

Herakhte.Herakhty.Herkhty.Hermakhis.

Horakhi.Horakh(ti).Horakte.Horemakhe.

Horus Aroeris.Ra-Herakhta:

=Greek Harakhtes.Harmachis]

a form of Horus

In this form, Horus was Ra, the sun-god, as the rising and setting sun.

He is depicted as the disc of the sun set between falcon wings.

(see also Behedti)

Horus of the Sun

(see Harpre)

Horus of the Two Eyes

Egyptian

[Harmerti.Mekhent(-en-)irty]

a form of Horus the Elder husband of Tafner

In this form his two eyes were the moon and the sun. Set stole the sun and so precipitated the struggle with Horus which was settled by the intervention of Thoth. Set also took parts of the other eye so that the moon varied in size.

Horus the Child

(see Horus the Younger)

Horus the Elder

Egyptian

[Aro(u)eris.Haloeris.Haroeris.

Harwer:=-Greek Harueris]

a sun-god

son of Hathor, some say husband of Hathor, some say

In this form, Horus is depicted as a falcon or a falcon-headed human.

Horus the Younger

Egyptian

[Harpakhrad.Har-pa-khered. Harsiese.

Harsiesis.Horus the Child.Taut:

=Greek Harpocrates.Harpokrates]

son of Osiris and Isis or Horus

and Hathor

In this form, Horus is depicted naked either sucking his fingers or being suckled by Isis.

(see also Harpakhrad)

Horvendil

European

[Horvendillus.Horwendil]

a king of Jutland

brother of Feng

husband of Gerutha

father of Amleth

He was killed by Feng who married

Gerutha and took the throne.

In some accounts he is the same as Orvandil.

Hoshang

Persian

[Haosh(y)angha.Hushang]

son of Siyamak and Nashak grandson of Gayomart

consort of Gushak

He was regarded as the first law-giver,

was credited with the introduction of metal-working and, with Gushak, is regarded by some as the progenitor of the Iranians.. After making a sacrifice to the gods on top of the iron mountain known as Hara Berzaite, he was given divine protection which enabled him to eradicate the demons, killing most of them while the rest fled into the outer darkness.

In the Shah Name, he caused fire to appear when he struck a dragon with a stone and is said to have domesticated

asses, cattle and sheep.

In the Bundabishn, he was the grandson, rather than the son, of Siyamak.

Hoshi matsuri

Japanese

[Star Festival]

a festival in honour of the Weaving

Lady, Tanabata, held on the seventh day of the seventh month

Hosho<sup>1</sup>

Japanese

[Gem-birth Buddha:=Buddhist

Ratnasambhava]

the Japanese equivalent of Yama

(see also Gundari)

Hosho<sup>2</sup>

Japanese

[Hoshu]

an aspect of Jizo

Hoshu

(see Hosho<sup>2</sup>)

Hosia

Greek

heavenly justice personified

Hosioi

Greek

priests as Delphi

Hoso-no-kami

Japanese

[Hoso-shin]

a god of smallpox

Hoso-shin

(see Hoso-no-kami)

Hospodricek

German

[=Slav Zmek]

a guardian spirit in Bohemia

This spirit is said to take the form of a snake.

Hostage

Norse

a horse of the gods

Hostel of the Quicken Trees

(see Quicken Trees Hostel)

Hostia

Roman

an Etruscan goddess

Hostilius

(see Tullius Hostilius)

Hotar

(see Hotri)

Hotei<sup>1</sup>

Japanese

[Hotei-oshō.P<sup>u</sup> Sa.Wagon Priest:

=Chinese Mi-lo-fo]

a god of laughter

one of the 7 Shinto deities of fortune, the Shichi Fukujin

Hotei is said to be based on a cheerful

Buddhist monk, Pu Tai Ho-shang.

He is depicted as a fat man with a naked belly and carrying a never-empty sack of precious things or riding in a decrepit carriage pulled by children. In this latter role, he is known as the Wagon Priest and is equated with the Laughing Buddha,

Maitreya, whom he resembles and who also carries a sack.

hotei<sup>2</sup>

Japanese

the sack carried by the god

Hotei

Hotei-oshō

(see Hotei<sup>1</sup>)

Hotherus

(see Hoder<sup>1</sup>)

Hotoke<sup>1</sup>

Japanese

a name given to all saints and

Buddhas

Hotoke<sup>2</sup>

Japanese

the spirits of the dead

Hotoke-umi

Japanese

[Buddha Flood.Tide of the Returning

Ghosts]

the last day of the Festival of the Dead

It is on this day that the spirits who have returned for the Festival of the Dead return to their own realm.

- hotot Armenian evil spirits living in rivers and marshes who lure children to their death
- Hototogisu Japanese
a bird from the land of the dead
The call of this bird, heard in May, tells the peasants that the time has arrived for the planting of the rice.
Some define this bird as the cuckoo which acts as a guide to the land of the dead.
- Hotri<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Hotar]
a goddess of sacrifices
- hotri<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a priest performing sacrifices
- Hotu Pacific Islands
the canoe of the god Mahi
- Hotu Hiva Pacific Islands
a Tahitian princess wife of Rahi
Rahi heard a voice singing inside his drum and opened it to find Hotu Hiva whom he then married.
- Hotu Papa (see Papa)
- hotua poro Pacific Islands
Samoan monsters
- Hoturu North American
a Pawnee wind-spirit
- Hou<sup>1</sup> British [Har Hou:=Welsh Hu Gardarn]
an oak-god of Guernsey
- hou<sup>2</sup> Chinese a mythical animal, a form of lion, ridden by Kuan Yin
- Hou<sup>3</sup> Chinese
a title for an empress regarded as a divine being
- Hou I (see I)
- Hou-chi (see Hou t'u)
- Hou-t'u Chinese
[Hou-chi.Lord of the Earth.
(Millet) Prince.Prince of the Earth.She.She-chi.
She-tse.T'u]
a culture-hero
son of Chiang Yüan
He was the offspring of a virgin birth, conceived when the maiden Chiang Yüan trod on the toe (or toe-print) of a god. He taught the people the arts of agriculture and was later deified as the Confucian god of agriculture.
In some accounts, Hou-chi is the god of millet and Hou-t'u is a separate deity, god of earth or soil, who later became the goddess Hou-t'u-nai-nai.
(see also Hou-t'u Shen)
- Hou-t'u Shen (see T'u Ti Shen)
- Houdain British [Hodain.Leon]
a dog given to Tristram by Belinda when she killed herself for love of Tristram
- hougan West Indian [h(o)ungan]
a spirit master: a priest of voodoo
- Houhou Pacific Islands
[Place of Sleep]
the home of Timbehes
- Houmea New Zealand
a Maori drought-demon or cannibal ogress
- hound marine
a sea monster, part dog, part fish
- Hounds of Gabriel (see Hounds of Hell)
- Hounds of Hell Welsh
[Cwn Annwfn.Cwm Mamau.Hounds of Gabriel:=English Yeth Hounds]
a pack of white dogs with red ears
These are the hounds of Arawn, that came from the underworld, and which were chasing the stag that Pwyll claimed. They are the same animals that are kept by Gwyn ap Nudd.
(see also Wild Hunt)
- Hounds of Zeus (see Harpies)
- houngan (see hougan)
- hour<sup>1</sup> P'Aini Muslim [=Norse Valkyrie]
a houri who is responsible for receiving the souls of those killed in battle
- Hours<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
[=Greek Horae]
12 daughters of Ra
They control the individual's life-span.
- Hours<sup>2</sup> (see Horae)
- Housain Persian [Houssain] brother of Ahmed
He owned the magic carpet featured in The Arabian Nights.
- House of Bats Central American part of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba Hunapu and Ixbalanque spent a night here and Hunapu's head was cut off by Camazotz.
- House of Benben Egyptian
the home of Ra
- House of Cold Central American
part of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba Hunapu and Ixbalanque spent a night here and managed to survive.
- House of Eternity (see Dar al-Baqa)
- House of Fire Central American
part of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba Hunapu and Ixbalanque spent a night here and managed to survive.
- House of Gloom Central American part of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba Hunhunapu and Vucub Hanapu spent a night here when they visited Xibalba and were killed.
Hunapu and Ixbalanque, who came to avenge their deaths, also spent a night here. They were given torches and were told that they would be killed if the torches went out. They survived by painting red flames to replace the real ones.
- House of Illusion (see Dar al-Ghurur)
- House of Joy (see Dar al-Surur)
- House of Lances Central American part of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba Hunapu and Ixbalanque spent a night here and were required to produce four vases of flowers if they were to be allowed to survive. They did this with the help of ants after subduing the demons in the room.
- House of Lies Persian
the house of Ahriman
- House of Meslam (see Aralu)
- House of Myth North American
the home of the gods of the Bella Coola people
- House of Passing (see Dar al-Fana)
- House of Sadness (see Dar al-Huzn)
- House of Song Persian
the home of the righteous dead
- House of Temptation (see Dar al-Ibtala)
- House of the Dawn (see Pacari)
- House of the Sun (see Tonatiuhican)
- House of the Water (see Tzununiha)
- House of the West (see Sunsetland)
- House of Tigers Central American
part of the Mayan underworld, Xibalba Hunapu and Ixbalanque spent a night here and managed to survive by throwing bones to the fierce animals that appeared.
- hovatu-koiari East Indian in the lore of Papua, the spirit of a stillborn or aborted child
These spirits are envisaged as being about one foot tall with a long tail and are said to live in the sago swamps.
- household gods Roman gods
gods of the family, lares and penates
- Houssain (see Housain)
- How Beautiful (see Yma Sumac)
- How-too (see Hou-t'u)
- Howel (see Hoel)
- howleglass (see Tyll Eulenspiegel)
- howo (see hoo)

- Hozanek Central American
a Mayan god
one of the Bacabs
He supported the southern corner of the world (yellow). (see also Cauac)
- Hozo Japanese
a Chinaman who lived for 800 years by drinking the dew from the flowers of the chrysanthemum
- Hozoni Chant North American
a Navaho ritual chant relating the story of Glipsa
- hPaung-daw-u Burmese
a Buddhist water-dragon god, guardian of lakes
- hPi Burmese
[hPi-hPai]
a demon
This being is said to have red eyes and cast no shadow.
- hPi-hPai (see hPi)
- Hrada Hindu
a demon
son of Hiranyakashipu
- Hraesvelg Norse
[Hraesvelg(u)r.Hroesvelgur]
a giant acting as gatekeeper
He could adopt the form of an eagle and caused the winds by flapping his wings.
- Hraesvelgr (see Hraesvelg)
- Hraesvelgur (see Hraesvelg)
- Hrafna (see Hrafna-god)
- Hrafna Galdur Odins Norse
[Odin's Raven Spell.The Spell of Odin's Ravens]
a poem in the Elder Edda
- Hrafna-god Norse [Hrafna]
a name for Odin as 'raven'
- Hrafinkel Norse
a priest of Frey
- Hrauding Norse
a king
father of Agnar and Geirroð
- Hredel Danish
a king of the Geats
grandfather of Beowulf
father of Haedcyn
- Hreidmar Norse
[Hreidmarr.Hriethmarr.Reichmar]
king of the dwarfs
father of Fafnir, Otter and Regin
- Hreidmarr (see Hreidmar)
- Hreithmarr (see Hreidmar)
- Hrim (see Hrimnir)
- Hrim-thurs (see Frost Giants)
- Hrim-faxi Norse [Hrimfaxe.Hrimfaxi]
the horse drawing the chariot of Nott
- Hrimfaxe (see Hrim-faxi)
- Hrimfaxi (see Hrim-faxi)
- Hrimgerð Norse
[Hrimgerth]
a giantess
She could change her shape and often appeared as a mare.
- Hrimgerth (see Hrimgerð)
- Hrimnir Norse [Hrim.Hrym(nir)]
a Frost Giant
father of Frigga, some say
It is said that, at the final battle, Ragnarok, he will build the boat Naglfar, load the Frost Giants and pilot the ship to the site of the battle.
- Hrimthursar (see Frost Giants.giants.)
- Hringhorn (see Ringhorn)
- Hringhornr (see Ringhorn)
- Hringr (see Sigurd<sup>2</sup>)
- Hringrimnir Norse
a Frost Giant
- Hrist Norse
a Valkyrie
- Hrith Norse
a river of Niflheim, one of the 12 rivers known as Elivagar
- Hroald Norse
one of the men with Flosi when they killed the Njalssons and burnt their house
He was killed during the fight by Njal's son, Skarp-Hedin.
- Hroar (see Hrodgar)
- Hrodgar Norse
[Hroar.Hrothgar.Hrothulf]
king of Denmark
husband of Wealtheow
father of Freawaru and Rorik
This is the name given to Hrolf Kraki in Beowulf.
He and his court were the subject of harassing raids by the monster Grendel and he asked Beowulf for help.
- Hrodvitnir (see Fenris)
- Hroesvelgur (see Hraesvelg)
- Hrolf Kraki Norse
a king of Denmark
He was famous for his strength and generous nature. He owned a magic sword, Skofnung, together with a hawk called Habrok and a dog, Garm.
(see also Bodvar.Hrodgar)
- Hroffssaga Norse
stories of the exploits of the Danish king, Hrolf Kraki
- Hromund Norse
owner of the sword Mistillteinn
In an alternative telling of the story of the death of Balder, Bildr and Voli are magicians and both Bildr and Hromund are suitors for the hand of Svanhit. Hromund, though wounded, killed Bild and Voli with the marvellous sword. (see also Hoder)

Hronesness Norse

[Eagle's Ness.Earnness.an's Ness Whale's Ness]

a headland

This is the place where Beowulf was buried and where he guides ships through the mists.

Hropt Norse

a name for Odin as 'arranger of runes'

Hross (see Hnoss)

Hrossharsgrani (see Starkader)

Hrothgar (see Hrodgar)

Hrothulf (see Hrodgar)

Hrothwina (see Renwein)

Hrotte Norse

a sword

This weapon was one of the treasures guarded by Fafnir.

Hroudlandus (see Roland)

Hrsikesa Hindu

an avatar of Vishnu consort of Harsa

Hrungner (see Hrungrnir)

Hrungrnir Norse

[Hrungner]

a giant

After a race in the sky on his horse Gullfaxi with Odin riding Sleipnir, he was entertained by the gods in Valhalla.

He got drunk and boasted he would take over the whole of Asgard, including Sif, the wife of Thor. Thor fought a duel with Hrungrnir who was assisted by a nine-mile long monster, Mokerkialfi. His own squire, Thialfi, killed the monster and Thor killed Hrungrnir.

Hrunting Norse

a sword

This weapon was given to Beowulf by Unferth for his fight with Grendel and Grendel's mother. It proved useless against these monsters and Beowulf returned it to Unferth after he had dealt with them. (see also Nagelring)

Hrym (see Hrimnir)

Hrymnir (see Hrimnir)

Hrymthurs (see Frost Giants)

Hrymthursar (see Frost Giants)

Hsi Chinese

3 celestial beings

They, with the three brothers Ho, were charged with the responsibility for solstices and equinoxes.

(see also Hsi-Ho)

Hsi-fang chi-lo shih-chieh Chinese

the Chinese version of Sukhavati

- Hsi Hai Chinese
god of the western sea husband of T'ai Shan
- Hsi Ho Chinese
a deity, male or female
In some versions, Hsi Ho was a charioteer of the sun while others regard 'him' as a female deity, mother of the sun.
In this latter role, she was the mother of the ten suns which one day appeared in the sky all at the same time. The archer, I, shot down nine of them, each of which hit the earth as a three-legged crow.
In later years, Hsi Ho became two separate males, Hsi and Ho, officials in charge of the calendar.
Although there were three Hsi and three Ho, Hsi Ho is regarded as one being incorporating all six of them.
- Hsi-ling Shih Chinese
wife of Huang Ti, some say
In other accounts, the wife of Huang Ti is given as Lei T'su (in female form).
- Hsi-men Ch'ing Chinese
a merchant
He fell in love with P'an Chin-lien, the widow of Wu Ta-lang. When her brother-in-law, Wu Sang, found them making love, he decapitated P'an Chin-lien, who was later immortalized. Her lover made good his escape.
- Hsi-men Pao Chinese
a magistrate
He intervened in the annual ceremony in which a maiden was sacrificed to the god of the Yellow River and ordered one after the other of the attendants of the witch, Wu, to be sacrificed in place of the intended victim. When Wu herself was so sacrificed, the practice came to an end.
- Hsi Po Chinese [Hsi Pei]
the original name of Wen Wang
- Hsi Shen Chinese
a god of joy
He is depicted with a basket of arrows or, alternatively, borne aloft on the shoulders of the god of wealth.
- Hsi Shih Chinese
a goddess, patroness of perfume merchants
- Hsi T'ien (see Sukhavati)
- Hsi Wang Mu Chinese [Chin Mu.Golden Mother of the Tortoise.Queen Mother of the West.Queen of Heaven.Royal Lady of the West.Shih Wang Mu. Wang Mu (Niang Niang).(Western Royal Mother.=Japanese Sei-O-Ba)] a Taoist goddess of medicine and immortality wife of Tung Wang Kung mother of Ching Wo, Hsien Hsiu, Hua Lin, Mei Lan, Wan, Yao Chi and many others
She was the embodiment of the female yin principle and combined with Tung Wang Kung to create the world and all that is in it.
Originally a terrible tiger/leopard woman or plague goddess, she was later regarded as a benevolent goddess, guarding the tree (or herb) of immortality. She was the ruler of the Western Paradise where she lived in a golden palace, hundreds of miles round, built of gold and precious stones, alongside the Lake of Jewels. In the garden of the palace stood the peach tree Shen T'ao, that flowered once every 3,000 years.
The fruit took a further 3,000 years to ripen, an event which coincided with her birthday, but made immortal those, such as the archer I, who ate it. I had built her palace and was rewarded with, some say, a pill which would give him immortality but his wife took the pill and was transported to the moon where she became a three-legged toad.
Her personal transport was a crane and in one form this goddess was the wife of Yü Ti, the supreme ruler of heaven.
- Hsi Yü Chi (see Pilgrimage to the West)
- Hsiang Chinese
the elephant which carried the sacred jewel of Buddhist law
- Hsiang Chun Chinese [Hsien Chun]
a god of waterways
- Hsiang Fu-jen Chinese [Hsien Fu-jen]
2 daughters of Yao
Their names were Nü Ying and Wo Huang and they became consort and empress.
- Hsiang Yao Chinese a nine-headed snake-like being, attendant on Kung Kung
- Hsiao Fo (see Mi-lo-fo)
- Hsiao-jen Kuo Chinese a mythical land where the inhabitants, the Ching, are less than one foot tall
- Hsieh-ching t'ai Chinese [Terrace of the Mirror]
a place in the first hell where sinners can see all their victims reflected in a huge mirror
- Hsieh Hsü Chinese
[Chin-lung.Golden Dragon]
a nephew of a 13th c empress
He drowned himself to escape capture by the insurgent Mongols. A hundred years later, his spirit returned to help to defeat the Mongols by harassing them with bees.
- Hsien Chinese [Jen]
a Taoist immortal: a deity
The home of these immortals was San Hsien Shan. (see also kuei1.Shen)
- Hsien Chun (see Hsiang Chun)
- Hsien Fu-jen (see Hsiang Fu-jen)
- Hsien Hsiu Chinese
[Chen Jen]
son of Tung Wang Kung and Hsi Wang Mu
- Hsien Nung T'an Chinese
an altar to the spirit of agriculture
In a fertility rite held at this site the emperor ploughed the first furrow of the new season.
- Hsien O (see Wang Shu)
- Hsien tree Chinese a symbol of immortality
- Hsien Tsan Chinese
a goddess of silk-culture wife of Shen Nung
- Hsien T'ung Chinese [Immortal Youth]
a retainer of Mu Kung
- Hsin Nien Chinese
the New Year
- Hsing Chinese
form, which developed during the T'ai Ch'u period
- Hsing She Chinese a god of highways
- Hsiung Shen Chinese
a spirit
He assists the daughter of Cheng Wu in spoiling young brides.
He is so ugly that he runs thousands of miles if he catches sight of his face in a mirror.
- Hsü Chen-chun Chinese a slayer of dragons
- Hsü Shih Chinese
a 2nd c bc Taoist mystic
He led an expedition to find the Islands of the Blest but failed in the attempt.
- Hsüan Shang Jen Chinese a spirit who related the story of the birth of Yüan Shih
- Hsüan Nü Chinese
[Mother of Heaven]
the tutor of the Phoenix Empress

Hsüan Tan (see Yüan-tan)

Hsüan T'ien Shang Ti
(see Cheng Wu.Pak Tai)

Hsüan Tsang (see Tripitaka<sup>2</sup>)

Hsüan Tung-tzu Chinese

[Dark Youth.Heaven Deaf.T'ien Lung]

a servant of the god of literature,

Wen Ch'ang Ti Chun

In some accounts, he and Ti Ya mated to produce all the creatures on earth.

Htamenmas Tibetan

[Pharmen-ma]

a group of 8 goddesses

These beings, shown as holding corpses and skeletons, are also depicted as having the heads of animals or birds.

Hu<sup>1</sup> Arab

[Huwa.'he']

god

Hu<sup>2</sup> British

[Hugh.=Guernsey Hou.=Welsh

Hu Gardarn]

an oak-god or a sun-god

He is said to have killed a dragon, organised the tribal system and good government and taught the people the arts of agriculture and literature.

Hu<sup>3</sup> Chinese

[Emperor of the Northern Seas]

He is manifest in the lightning which pierced Chaos to form the universe.

(see Hun-tun.Shu<sup>1</sup>)

Hu<sup>4</sup> Chinese

one of the household gods, guardian of windows

Hu<sup>5</sup> Chinese

a sorceress

Hu<sup>6</sup> Egyptian

[Huhi.Khuhi.Tongue of Ptah]

a god representing kingly authority and divine will

son of Ra

He was said to have been formed from blood from Ra's penis.

In some versions, there were two gods of this name, one a nature-god associated with the Nile, the other the personification of wisdom, often portrayed as a man or a sphinx. Both have associations with Ra's boat and, in this aspect, are merged.

Hu<sup>7</sup> Mexican

a sun-god

Hu Chao Chinese

[Tiger's Claw]

a charm guarding against shocks

Hu Ching-t'e Chinese

one of the Three Door Gods

Hu Gardarn Welsh

[=British Hu.=Guernsey Hou]

an oak-god or sun-god

He is regarded as the ancestor of the Cymry who brought them from Ceylon. He raised the monster Addanc from a lake, using his team of oxen, causing a flood.

hu-hsien Chinese

the fox as a shape-changer: a fox

fairy or fox spirit

It is said that, in the form of young men or women, they can debilitate their lovers to such an extent that they die.

They are reported to be fond of wine but resume their shape as foxes if they drink too much or if they are frightened in some way.

Hua-hsien Chinese a goddess of flowers

Hua-hu Tiao Chinese

a white rat

This animal was carried in a bag by Mi-lo Shou, one of the Four Diamond Kings. When released, it became a winged elephant that ate human beings.

In some accounts it is referred to as a monster, the Striped Marten.

Hua-hsü Chinese

mother of Fu-hsi

She was said to have produced Fu-hsi as a result of being impregnated by the wind.

Hua-kuang Chinese

[Fo]

a tutelary deity

He is depicted sitting in a chair and resting his feet on an ingot of precious metal.

Hua-lin Chinese

[Chou Hsing Lao T'ou-tzu.

Nan-chi Fu Jen.Yung Chen]

fourth daughter of Tung Wang Kung

and Hsi Wang Mu

Hua shan Chinese

one of the Five Holy Mountains,

Wu Yüeh

Hua'atua Pacific Islands

a god

father of Taurua

huaca South American

[brother.huacas]

an Inca spirit representing a sacred object: a sacred stone

Some large stones were erected in the middle of fields; a small version (known as a brother) was carried by the emperor as a personal amulet.

It is also in more general use to mean any object (e.g. a double-yolked egg) which is strange or in any way out of the ordinary. (see also compa. chichic. huanca.huilca)

huacas (see huaca)

Huahuantli (see Teoyaoimiqui)

Huai-nan-tzu Chinese

[Liu An.Wang Chung-kao]

a prince and writer

He was the author of Hung Lieb Chuan, a book of alchemy and magic.

In one account, he killed himself after a failed coup but others say that he made an elixir of life which, when he drank it, carried him up to heaven.

Another version says that he was originally the king, Liu An, who, with his brother Lu-chiang, was wrongly accused of plotting to overthrow the emperor. Lu-chiang killed himself but Liu An was taken up to heaven by the Eight Immortals. When he realised that great power was not quite what it seemed to be, he spent the rest of his life in the study of philosophy.

Some say that he appeared in every generation as Wang Chung-kao.

In some accounts, he is one of the three bean-curd gods; the others are Chiao Kuan and Kuan Ti.

Huail (see Hueil)

huakanki South American

love amulets in Bolivia

Huakinthos (see Hyacinthus)

Huallallo South American

[Caruyucha Huayallo.

Huallallo Caruincho]

a despotic king of the Quecha

He defeated Yananamca Itanamca, usurped the throne and decreed that one child from every family should be sacrificed to him. He was deposed by Paricaca and turned himself into a bird. Still pursued, he hid behind a huge serpent but was found and driven away until he finally went into the forest and was never seen again.

Huallallo Caruincho (see Huallallo)

Huallepen (see Guallipen)

Huamantantac South American

an Inca spirit controlling the sea-birds which provided the guano

to fertilise the maize

huaminca South American light rays regarded by the Incas as messengers of Viracocha

Huan (see Llew Llaw Gyffes)

Huan Ching Chinese

a young magician

He was warned by his tutor to take his family up into the mountains for safety. He spent his time in the mountains perfecting the art of kite-flying and thereby escaped a huge natural disaster.

Huan Ti Chinese

[Chen-wu Sheng-kun.Dark Lord.

Huan-wu.Pei-chi.Pei-chi-chen-chun]

a sky-god responsible for the north.

A version of Cheng Wu.

(see Cheng Wu.Huang Ti)

Huan-wu Chinese

a name for Huan Ti as a warrior-prince

Huana Cauri South American

[Huanacauri.Wanakawri]

a name for Ayar Oco in some versions

In some accounts, this is a rock near Cuzco said to be the petrified Ayar Oco.

Huanacauri (see Huana Cauri)huanca South American

a huaca placed near crops to ensure adequate rainfall

Huandaw British

a gatekeeper at King Arthur's palace a deputy to Glewlwyd

He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Huang Ch'eng-i Chinese

an official of the celestial Ministry of

Time responsible for overseeing

the month

huang-chien (see Yellow Springs)Huang-chou Chinese

a city god

Huang Ch'u-p'ing

(see Huang Ta-hsien)

Huang Fei-hu Chinese

[Fei]

a deity acting as judge of the dead

This god takes the form of a bull with only one eye and the tail of a snake.

Huang-ho Chinese

a river

The spirit of this river, a fish with a man's head, acted as tutor to Yü.

Huang Kun Chinese

a god of incense-makers

Huang Shih Chinese

[Old Huang]

the mortal who introduced cotton, later deified

Huang Ta-hsien Chinese

[Huang Ch'u-p'ing.The Great Immortal] a god

He started life as Huang Ch'u-p'ing, a young shepherd who became a hermit. Many years later, his brother, Ch'u Ch'i, found him and the large blocks of white stone that stood round the hermit's cave were suddenly returned to their former shape as Huang's flock.

Huang Tao-chou Chinese

one of the disciples of Confucius allowed to sacrifice in the temple of Confucius

Huang Ti Chinese

[Ch'in-shih Huang Ti.Huang.Yellow Emperor.Yellow Lord]

a sky-god, ruler of the moving heavens

one of the Five Emperors

patron of doctors and tailors

son of Fu Pao

husband of Lei Tsu or Hsi-ling Shih

father of Feng Po and Yü Ch'iang

He was conceived miraculously and his gestation lasted for twenty-four months.

He is credited with the invention of armour, bamboo musical instruments, bricks, a form of script, ships and the potter's wheel.

He sent Chu-jung to kill K'un who had stolen his magic Swelling Earth and fought and defeated the demon Chi Yü.

He became a Taoist immortal and the patron saint of Taoism and runs the Ministry of Healing with Fu-hsi and Shen Nung.

He was said to have four faces and owned a chariot driven by a bird with a human face and drawn by an elephant and six dragons.

(see also Huan Ti)

Huang-t'ien Chinese

the imperial heaven

Huang-t'ien Shang Ti Chinese

[Supreme Lord of the August Heaven]

a supreme deity

Shang Ti as ruler of the heavens

huantaysara South American

a corn-doll representing Saramama, the Inca spirit controlling the growth of maize

Huard French

a demon which misleads travellers in Brittany

huari South American

a revered ancestor of an aristocratic family

Huarwar Welsh

one of the 3 plagues that affected Cornwall

Huasa malleu South American

a Bolivian deity, guardian of the vicuna

He is said to protect the vicuna by rendering them invisible to hunters.

Huathiacuri South American

a Peruvian hero

son of Paricaca

He overheard two foxes discussing the illness of a chieftain and set out to find him. He fell in love with the chief's daughter and offered to cure her father if she would marry him. He told the chief, whose name was Tamtanamka, that his illness was caused because his wife was unfaithful and that there were two serpents and a two-headed toad poised to do him harm. When a search discovered these reptiles and they were killed, the wife confessed and the chief recovered.

At the wedding, his bride's brother-in-law challenged him to various contests, such as drinking, dancing and building a house, all of which Huathiacuri won, largely aided by his father's magic. When the brother-in-law ran away, Huathiacuri turned him into a deer and his wife into a stone (or vice versa).

Huayna-Capac South American

an Inca king

It is said that he was given a box by the god Coniraya in which there was a woman. When he opened the box, light escaped into the world.

Hubaba (see Huwawa)Hubal Arab

[Al-lahu.Hobal (Hubal)]

an early oracular god

This deity was worshipped in the form of an idol or red agate, said to have been brought from Syria.

Huban Persian

[=Sumerian Enlil]

an Elamite god

Hubur<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

a Babylonian mother-goddess

Hubur<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[=Greek Styx]

a river of death in the underworld

Huchi Japanese

[Fuchi.Fuji]

an Ainu goddess of fire

Hucuva (see Guecubu)Huda (see Holda)Hudata (see Odatis)Hudibras<sup>1</sup> British

a king of Britain

father of Bladud

Hudibras<sup>2</sup> (see de Bras)Hueca (see Manta)Huecomitl Central American

[Akbal]

an Aztec rain-god

huecuvi South American

[trelque huecuvu]

malevolent spirits of the Araucanians

Huehuetlapallan Central American

the old red land to the north

Huehuecoyotl Central American

an Aztec god of sexual desire or mischief

In some versions the same as Huehueotl

Huehueotl Central American
a name for Xiuhtecutli as 'old god' (see also Huehuecoyotl)

Hueil British [Huail]
son of Caw
brother of Cywyllog and Gildas
He fought King Arthur who had killed Gwydre, Hueil's nephew, and wounded the king. Arthur had him executed when, later, Hueil broke his promise not to reveal that the king had been wounded in the fight.

Hueil's Stone British
a rock in Wales where Hueil was executed

Huemac<sup>1</sup> Central American [Uemac]
a king of the Toltecs
His rule started well but descended into corruption and oppression so the sorcerer, Touyo, organised a huge gathering and killed thousands of people, whereupon the other rulers offered a sacrifice to the gods. The chosen victim turned out to have no heart and no blood in his veins and more people died in the stench from his body. Huemac humbled himself before the gods and repented of his wickedness. It transpired that the sorcerer, whom his daughter married, was Tezcatlipoca in disguise.

Huemac<sup>2</sup> Central American
a god of earthquakes
an aspect of Quetzalcoatl

Huergo Spanish
[Uergo]
a man-eating demon

Hueytecpatl Central American
one of quadruplets
son of Hueytonantzin
brother of Ixcuin, Nanacatlzatzin and Tentemic

Hueymatzin Central American
a hero of the Toltecs Hueymatzin was said to have snared the god Quetzalcoatl in his net when the god descended from his home in the sun.

Hueytonantzin Central American
an Aztec primæval goddess mother of the quadruplets
Hueytecpatl, Ixcuin, Nanacatlzatzin and Tentemic
Her children killed her as a sacrifice to the sun every day, but every night she was reborn.

Hueytozotli Central American
[The Great Festival]
an Aztec festival in honour of Chicomecohuatl
This fast, held on 5th April, involved decorating the statues of the household gods (tepitoton) and the dwellings with bulrushes sprinkled with blood. Shoots of maize were pulled from the fields and grain from the previous year was offered to the goddess to whom also a frog was sacrificed.

Hueyuku West Indian [Mansions of the Sun]
the afterworld in the Antilles

Hug European
a noble of Dordogne
He pleaded with Charlemagne to reward Aymon for his deeds of valour and, when the emperor refused to do so, he responded with such anger that Charlemagne killed him on the spot.

hugag North American
a fabulous animal

Hugdietrich<sup>1</sup> German
son of Anzius husband of Hildburg
father of Bogen, Waxmuth and Wolfdietrich
He was reared by Berchther and when he grew up he disguised himself as a woman to gain access to the princess Holdburg, whom he wished to marry, and fathered a son, Wolfdietrich, with her. He later married Hildburg and they had two more sons, Bogen and Waxmuth. When he died, he left his kingdom of Constantinople to Wolfdietrich.

Hugdietrich<sup>2</sup> German
son of Wolfdietrich and Liebgart father of Dietmar
It was said that he lived to the age of 450 years.

Hugeia (see Hygeia)

Huges European
a king of Jerusalem
He entertained Charlemagne and his entourage when they made a pilgrimage to Jerusalem.

Hugh<sup>1</sup> British a robber baron brother of Edward
He and his brother seized all the estates of the Lady of the Rock, leaving her only her castle. Owain fought them both at the same time, killing Edward and forcing Hugh to surrender.

Hugh<sup>2</sup> (see Aedh.Hu<sup>2</sup>)

Hughie
a mythical god of surfers

Hugi Norse
[Hugin(n). 'thought']
a runner at the court of Utgard-Loki
During Thor's visit to Jotunheim, Thialfi raced against Hugi and lost.
He is variously described as a giant or a dwarf.

Hugin Norse
[Hugin(n). 'thought']
one of the 2 ravens of Odin
These birds brought Odin news of what was going on in the world. The other raven was called Munin.

Huginn (see Hugi.Hugin)

Hugon<sup>1</sup> European
a king
husband of Alif
father of Landres
When his wife was seduced by the courtier Milon, Hugon locked her in a dungeon full of snakes and toads. There she remained until she was rescued by her son Landres, seven years later.

Hugon<sup>2</sup> European
a French ogre which travels about at night frightening children and causing injury

Huh Egyptian
[Heh.Heheh.Hehu.Heru]
a god of the primitive waters
a god of space, some say consort of Hauhet
With Hauhet, he represents the endlessness of the waters.
He is sometimes depicted as holding up the solar bark.

Huho (see Hu<sup>6</sup>)

Hui-k'o Chinese
the second patriarch of the Ch'an sect
the successor to Ta-Mo
He interrupted Bodhidharma's meditation by cutting off his own arm and giving it to the patriarch.

Hui Lu Chinese
a fire-spirit

Hui Tarara Pacific Islands
[Na Ainanu]
the Polynesian version of Gemini

Hui-tsang Chinese
one of the Eighteen Lohan,
in some accounts
He is depicted bare above the waist and wearing a golden headband.

Hui-yüan Chinese
one of the Eighteen Lohan,
in some accounts
He was the founder of the Pure Land sect in China, a Buddhist order dedicated to Amitabha.

Huichaana Central American

a creator deity of the Zapotecs
This deity, of indeterminate sex, was said to have created fishes and human beings after Cozaana created the world and all the animals.

Huichilobos (see Huitzilopochtli)Huicton Central American

one of the leaders of the Aztecs when they left their homeland, Atzlan

huilca South American

a huaca acting as an oracle

Huillcamayu South American

a river revered as an oracle

Huiracocha (see Viracocha)Huitaca (see Chia)Huitzilopochtli Central American

[Blue Tezcatlipoca.Huichilobos.

Huizilpochtli.Humming-bird of the South.Mexitli.Uitzilopochtli.Vitzilpochtli.

Xochipilli:=Toltec Quetzalcoatl]

an Aztec sun-god and god of war

a humming-bird magician

son of Tezcatlipoca or Mixcoatl and Coatlicue

son of Tonacetecuhltli and

Tonacacihuatl, some say brother of Camaxtli, Quauhtlicac,

Quetzalcoatl and Tezcatlipoca,

some say

In some accounts he is an aspect of Tezcatlipoca as god of war.

Born to Coatlicue, already mother of 400 children, he was delivered fully-formed and fully-armed, having been warned while still in the womb by Quauhtlicac, that these children were planning kill Coatlicue to prevent his birth. Some say that he had two mothers – Coatlicue and Teteionan.

In some versions, he decapitated his sister Coyolxauhqui; in others she was killed in battle between Huitzilopochtli and the other children. In either event, he threw her head into the heavens where it became the moon.

He was the ruler of the current era, the Fifth Sun.

He is said to be the god Xochipilli who developed into the war-god when he was given human blood to drink.

He was depicted with his limbs painted with bars of blue and wearing a cap of humming-bird feathers. His shield was made of reeds and down from an eagle and his spear was tipped with down rather than flint.

(see also Huitziton)

Huitziton Central American

[Huitzon]

an Aztec hero

He knew the language of the birds and they advised him to lead his people into Mexico. He was a dragon-slayer and probably an aspect of Huitzilopochtli.

Huitztlampa Central American

[Place of Thorns]

the place to which those of Coatlicue's 400 sons who escaped death at the hand of Huitzilopochtli fled for safety

Huitznahua Central American

one of the 4 quadruplets, sons of Hueytonantzin, in some

accounts

Huitzon (see Huitziton)Huixtocihuatl Central American

an Aztec goddess, patron of salt-making

Huizilpochtli

(see Huitzilopochtli)

Hukshedarmah Persian

[Hukshetar-mah.Ukkshyat-nemah]

son of Zoroaster

One of the three versions of the saviours, born of a virgin birth.

(see also Saoshyant)

Hukshetar-mah (see Hukshedarmah)Hula<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

bards of Hawaii: a religious dance festival

Hula<sup>2</sup> Roman

an early Italian vegetation deity

(see also Hulus)

Hulas (see Hylas)Hulda (see Holda)Hulda's Troop

(see Holda's Troop)

Hulderfolk (see Huldrafolk)Huldra<sup>1</sup> Norse

a local name for Holda

Her attendant wood-nymphs were said to have long tails that showed even when they put on long dresses to mix with mortals.

Huldra<sup>2</sup> (see Huldrafolk)Huldrafolk Norse

[Hulderfolk.Huldra.

Huldrefolk.Huldu-folk]

a name for the dwarfs or elves

In some accounts, their backs are hollow, in others they have a long tail. They sometimes marry mortals.

(see also Huldu.Uldra)

Huldrefolk (see Huldrafolk)Huldu Norse

[Alfar.Huldrafolk.Liufingar]

the Icelandic name for the elves

Huldu-folk (see Huldrafolk)Huli Hindu

a spring festival, held on March 31st

hulkilae North American

in the lore of some Californian tribes, spirits of the dead

Hulla Mesopotamian

daughter of Taru and Wurusemu

Hullas Mesopotamian

a Hittite god

Hulle (see Holda)Hulus Roman

an early Italian vegetation deity

(see also Hula<sup>2</sup>)

huma Persian

a monster in the form of a restless bird

Human August One Chinese

a title of Jen Wang in those versions

where he is regarded as a deity

Human Kings (see Jen Wang)Humanmaker North American

the creator-god of the Pima tribe

He made figures from clay to which Coyote added genitalia, so allowing them to breed and become the ancestors of the tribe.

humans (see first humans)Humba (see Huwawa)Humbaba (see Huwawa)Humban Mesopotamian

a god of the Elamites

Humber European

[Humbert]

a king of Germany

father of Estrildis

He invaded Britain but his army was defeated, after killing Albanact, by his brothers Camber and Locrinus. He was drowned, in the river which bears his name, while attempting to escape.

Humbert (see Humber)Humen (see Hymenaeus)Humenaus (see Hymenaeus)humility North American

a fabulous bird in Connecticut

This bird has sharper eyesight than even the falcon and can fly faster than any other bird in the world.

hummingbird

[Bird of the Gods.Revival Bird]

a bird credited with magic powers

This bird is said to live on dew, to hibernate and always tells the truth.

In some cases, feathers from this bird are used as charms.

Hummingbird of the South

(see Huitzilopochtli)

hun<sup>1</sup> Chinese

one type of soul, the spirit soul

Each person has three hun and seven p'o. The hun is said to leave the body at death and goes to heaven where it is reunited with its ancestors; the p'o remains, sustaining the body until it decays.

hun<sup>2</sup> (see vodun)
Hun Ahpo (see Hunapu)
Hun Apu (see Hunapu)
Hun Came (see Huncame)
Hun Hunapu (see Hunhunapu)
Hun Itzamna (see Itzamna)
Hun Pic Tek (see Hun Pic Tok)
Hun Pic Tok Central American

[Hun Pic Tek]
 a Mayan war-god
 He is the holder of 8,000 spears.

Hun-tun Chinese [Chaos.Emperor of the Centre.T'ai Chi]
 a deity representing chaos
 Chaos is conceived as the state, following Wu Chi, from which the universe emerged. From Chaos, it is said, evolved time and space and a fixed point, T'ai Chi, which gave rise to much change and eventually to substance (Chih).

Other accounts make Hun-tun an emperor ruling the centre before creation, while Hu ruled the north and Shu the south. These two merged to form the lightning which pierced the body of Hun-tun which then formed the universe.

In some versions, he was a wicked prince sent into exile by his father, the Yellow Emperor, while others say that he was a red, faceless bird with four wings and six legs.

Yet another story says that he was the Emperor of China who was born without the seven bodily openings of other humans. When well-meaning friends bored the necessary openings, he died as the last one was bored and the earth came into being at the same time.
 (see also Hu<sup>2</sup>.Shu<sup>1</sup>)

Hunab Central American [Great Hand.Hunab-ku.Kinebahan.'one'] the creator-god of the Maya husband of Ixazaluch
 father of Itzamna

He periodically flooded the earth by causing rain to fall from the belly of the sky-serpent. He repopulated the earth after three floods first by dwarfs, then with a race called dzalob who became demons and lastly with the Maya who are themselves destined to perish in another flood.

Some stories equate this deity with Hurakan or Itzamna.

Hunab-ku (see Hunab)
Hunahpu (see Hunapu)
Hunaland Norse
 the home of Brunhild, some say
Hunaphu (see Hunapu)

Hunapu Central American [Hun A(h)pu.Hunahpu.Hunaphu.
 Magician.Master]
 the Mayan god of the hunt
 one of the Hero Twins son of Hunhunapu and Xquiq
 twin brother of Ixbalanque
 brother of Hunbatz and Hunchouen

He and his twin brother were born when the decapitated head of his father, who had been killed by the rulers of Xibalba, spat into the hand of Xquiq. Their other brothers, Hunbatz and Hunchouen, were jealous of the twins' magical powers and would have killed them but the twins realised their intentions and turned them into monkeys.

They set out to dispose of the giant, Vacub-Caquix, and his sons Cabraca and Zipacna. Their first attempt, when they shot a poisoned arrow that struck Vacub-Caquix on the cheek, was not successful so, in the guise of physicians, they pulled out his emerald teeth and gouged out his eyes and he then died. They tried to kill Zipacna by burying him and building a house over the site but the giant recovered and killed the 400 young men who had helped to bury him. Another attempt, when they threw mountains on top of him, was successful in killing him. His brother Cabraca was easily killed when the twins gave him poisoned chicken to eat.

They then went to Xibalba, at the invitation of the rulers, to play tlachtli with them, hoping to be able to avenge the death of their father, Hunhunapu. Every time they won a game against the lords of Xibalba, they had to spend a night in a house of torture. They survived the House of Gloom, the House of Lances, the House of Cold, the House of Tigers and the House of Fire but, in the House of Bats, Hunapu was decapitated by the bat-god, Camazotz. He was later restored by a turtle.

Advised and helped by the magicians Bacam and Xulu, the twins burnt and restored all sorts of things, including, finally, themselves. The rulers Huncame and Vucubcame were persuaded to attempt this feat and were burnt to death.

Hunaunic Central American
 a Mayan wind-god, god of the east wind
 one of the 4 Chaob deities

Hunbatz Central American
 son of Hunhunapu
 brother of Hunapu, Hunchouen
 and Ixbalanque

He and Hunchouen persecuted their other two brothers and plotted to kill them but the twins turned them into monkeys.

Hunbaut<sup>1</sup> British
 a companion of Gawain

Hunbaut<sup>2</sup> French
 a 13th c French poem about the exploits of Gawain and Hunbaut

Huncame Central American [Hun Came]
 one of the rulers of Xibalba, the Aztec underworld

He shared the sovereignty of Xibalba with Vucubcame. They were both killed when they tried to copy the feat of Hunapu and Ixbalanque who had immolated themselves and been restored.

Huncamunca British
 in some stories, daughter of King Arthur

Hunchouen Central American
 son of Hunhunapu
 brother of Hunapu, Hunbatz
 and Ixbalanque

He and Hunbatz persecuted their other two brothers and plotted to kill them but the twins turned them into monkeys.

Hunding Norse
 the head of the family feuding with the Volsungs husband of Sieglinde, some say

Hundings Norse
 the descendants of Hunding

Hundred-eyed (see Argus<sup>5</sup>)

Hundred-handed Ones Greek [Centimani.Hecatonch(e)ires.
 Hecatotoncheiroi.Hekatonkheires.
 Uranids]
 sons of Uranus and Gaea

Briareus, Cottus and Gyges were shut up in Tartarus by Uranus who hated them but released by Cronus when he killed his father. They were sent back to Tartarus when Cronus took control but released again by Zeus to fight in his ten-year war with the Titans. When he won, he confined the Titans in Tartarus where they were guarded by the Hundred-handed Ones.

Some say that, in addition to 100 hands, they had fifty heads.

Hundredhands (see Canhastyr)

Hundred Slayer (see Coil Croda)

Huergo European

[=Greek Orcus]

the Spanish ruler of the dead

hunessai South American

in the lore of the Witoto, spirits of those who, in life, were associated with plants or fish

Hung Chou Chinese

a city god

Hung Lieb Chuan Chinese

a book on Taoist magic written by Huai-nan-tzu

Hung Sheng Chinese

a god of fishermen

In some accounts he is regarded as an aspect of Ao Kuang.

hungan (see hougán)

Hunger North American

one of the 4 anaye left alive after the storm sent by Estanatlehi

Hunger Beast Irish

[lon craois]

a demon of voracious appetite

This demon flew into the throat of Cathal mac Fionghuine and settled in his stomach with the result that Cathal acquired an insatiable appetite that was impoverishing the area until a student, Anera mac Conglinne, tricked the demon into leaving and then banished it.

Hungr Norse

a dish used by Hel

Hungry Chief (see Nezahualpilli)

Hungry One (see Excalibur)

Hunhau Central American

[Hanhai]

an owl-headed Mayan god of death

a name of Ah Puch as chief of the demons (see also Mictlantecuhtli)

Hunhun Apu (see Hunhunapu)

Hunhun Ahpu (see Hunhunapu)

Hunhunapu Central American

[Hun Hunapua.Hunhun A(h)pu]

a Mayan culture-hero

son of Xpiyacoc and Xmucane

brother of Vucub-Hunapu husband of Xbakiyalo

father of Hunbatz and Hunchouen

father of Hunapu and Ixbalanque

by Xquiq

Hunhunapu and Vucub-Hunapu were invited to Xibalba to play a ball-game, tlachtli, with the rulers of that realm but were killed by Huncame and Vucubcame who decapitated Hunhunapu and hung the head on a tree. The head spat into the hand of the princess Xquiq who bore his sons Hunapu and Ixbalanque who later killed the two underworld gods in revenge.

Huniman (see Hanuman)

Hunmark German

the land of the barbarian tribes

to the east

hunsi African

a devotee of any Fon god

hunsi kango West Indian

a vodun initiate who has passed the ordeal of putting a bare hand into a pot of boiling meal

Hunt Chief (see First Made Man.Poseyemu)

Hunthaca (see Chia)

Hunthiof Norse

son of Frithiof and Ingeborg

Huntin African

a Xhosa tree-spirit

Hunting Causeway British

a roadway in Somerset

On Christmas Eve or on St John the Baptist's Day, King Arthur and his knights are said to ride this route from Cadbury Castle to Glastonbury.

Hunting Knight British

a knight at King Arthur's court

son of the king of Gascony

Hunvor Norse

a Swedish princess wife of Viking

mother of Ring

She was being pestered by a giant who wanted to marry her so she summoned Viking to her aid. He quickly despatched the giant and would have married Hunvor himself but was too young. She was later carried off to India but Viking rescued her and they were married. After bearing their son, Ring, she died.

Huo Chinese

a minor deity, assistant to Pi Kan

Huo-li-to Chinese a male version of Kuei-tzu-mu

Huo Po Chinese

members of the Ministry of Fire

This celestial ministry is run by Lo Hsüan.

Huo Sheng Chinese

a member of the Ministry of Fire

He was originally a priest who became a giant flame-thrower.

Huon European

[Hassan.Huon of Bordeaux]

a duke of Guienne

son of Sevinus and Alice brother of Girard

husband of Clarimunda

father of Claretie and Huonet

He and his brother were ambushed by Charlot when they were riding to present themselves to Charlot's father, the emperor Charlemagne. Charlot wounded the young Girard but was killed by Huon, though others say that Charlot was killed by Rinaldo on another occasion. The Emperor forgave him for killing his son on condition that he should go to the court of the sultan Gaudisso, decapitate the principal guest, insult his daughter by kissing her in public and bring back some of the sultan's beard and four of his teeth.

Accompanied by a party of knights, including Garin de St Omer, he travelled via Rome where he was blessed by the Pope and thence to Palestine where he met Sherasmin, a former servant of Huon's father, who had lived as a mendicant for many years and who thereafter travelled with Huon. They went to Arabia where they met Oberon, king of the fairies, a dwarf who befriended Huon and gave him a goblet that provided unlimited wine for true believers and a horn which would afford protection from perils. They met a fellow-countryman, Floriac, who told them that Eudes, an uncle of Huon, who had become a Muslim, was governor of the nearby city of Tormont. Huon visited his uncle and scandalised the company by drinking wine from his magic goblet. When Floriac drank from the same goblet, he was badly burned since he was a renegade Christian who now served Muhammed.

When he and Sherasmin were attacked, Huon blew on his horn which caused all present to dance themselves into exhaustion. To stop the torment, Eudes allowed Huon and Sherasmin to leave and gave them a ring which would ensure safe passage to the court of the sultan Gaudisso. Another version says that this ring had been stolen from Oberon by the giant, Angoulaffre who lived in Castle Dunostre. At the behest of Alexis, Huon killed this giant, freed Angela and the other maidens imprisoned in the giant's castle and took the magic ring.

They rescued a knight from a lion which already killed the knight's horse but he repaid them by stealing Huon's horse. He was Babican, the prince of Hyrcania, who was betrothed to Clarimunda, the daughter of the sultan.

They arrived in Baghdad on the eve of the wedding and, next day, gained admittance to the palace with the aid of the magic ring. Huon kissed Clarimunda and when her prince objected, Huon cut off his head. In some versions, Huon then used his horn to cause all present to dance themselves into exhaustion while he escaped with Clarimunda. Oberon gave them a lock of the sultan's beard and some of his teeth and provided a ship which took them safely to France.

In another account, Huon was put in prison by the sultan but Clarimunda kept him well supplied with food and drink while the guard was reporting that Huon had died of starvation. Sherasmin and Clarimunda planned his escape but Huon refused to leave until he had fulfilled the final part of his undertaking. As it happened, the Caliph Agrapard ordered the death of Gaudisso and Sherasmin was able to secure some of his beard and four teeth from the body before it was buried.

Huon returned to France with these objects, received the Emperor's full pardon and married Clarimunda who became a Christian, calling herself Amanda. As a condition of helping them, Oberon had required Huon to go to Rome to seek the pope's blessing and to refrain from sleeping with Clarimunda until they were married. Huon failed to keep to this latter injunction and Oberon punished him by causing a storm when Huon and his bride were at sea. Huon drew the fateful lot to decide which of them should be sacrificed to the storm-god and, when he jumped overboard, Clarimunda did the same. They were transported to an island where, by a regime of penance, Huon appeased Oberon and where their son, Huonet, was born and abducted by Titania. Clarimunda (Amanda) and her servant, Fatima, were seized by pirates and taken to Tunis. Oberon transported Huon to that city where he again met Sherasmin who had taken work as a gardener at the sultan's palace. Huon, calling himself Hassan, became Sherasmin's assistant. Amanda rejected the sultan's advances and, when Huon was discovered, the sultan ordered that they both be burnt at the stake. Once again they were saved by Oberon and, with Sherasmin and Fatima, the couple were transported to Fairyland.

They finally returned to Charlemagne's court and, presenting the trophies the emperor had demanded, were pardoned.

Another telling says that Clarimunda (Esclaramonde in this version) was being taken by pirates to the court of Yvoirin when the ship was wrecked. She was given to Galafre, king of Tunis, but rejected his advances. Huon, transported by Oberon's servant, Malebron, went to Yvoirin's court and undertook to retrieve Esclaramonde. Galafre chose Sherasmin as his champion to fight Huon and, when the combatants recognised each other, they joined forces, killed Galafre and rescued Esclaramonde and Fatima. En route to France, Girard stole the chest containing the trophies of Huon's quest and claimed to have won them himself. The emperor condemned Huon to death but Oberon intervened to carry Huon and Esclaramonde to Fairyland, where, in due time, they had a daughter, Claretie, and Huon became ruler after Oberon. Girard was hanged for his treachery.

In another story, Huon met King Arthur in Fairyland. When Oberon handed his kingdom to Huon, Arthur, who had expected to receive the throne, objected but was subdued by Oberon's threats.

Huon de Bordeaux French

a 13th c French poem relating to the adventures of Huon

Huonet European

son of Huon and Clarimunda
He was carried off to Fairyland by Titania when he was still a baby but was reunited with his parents when they came to that country.

Hupasiyas Mesopotamian

a mortal who became a lover of the goddess Inaras

He helped her trap the dragon Illuyankas by feeding it so much food that it became stuck in the entrance to its lair. They bound the dragon and its brood so that the weather-god Taru could kill them. She built him a house and told him that he must never look out in case he should see his wife and family. The goddess killed him when he disobeyed and wanted to return home.

Huperboreoi (see Hyperboreans)

Huperion (see Hyperion)

Hupermestra (see Hypermnestra)

Hupermnestra (see Hypermnestra)

Hupnos (see Hypnos)

Hupsipule (see Hypsipyle)

Hurabtil Persian

[Lahurabtil.Lahurati.=Sumerian Ninurta]
an Elamite god

Huracan (see Hurakan)

Hurakan Central American

[Heart of Heaven.Huracan.Hurukan.

Uracan]

the one-legged creator-god and thunder-god of the Maya

He or Gucamatz is said to have made mankind first from clay and then from wood, both of which attempts were unsuccessful. His efforts were finally rewarded when he made them from maize. He later sent a flood to kill them.

Some equate Hurakan with Gucumatz, Hunab or Tepeu. Others say that he was the first man, created by Gucumatz.

hurán Persian

nymphs of paradise

H'uraru (see Atira?)

Huray (see Hurriya)

Huriyanzipas Mesopotamian

a Hittite god

Hurlame British

[Hurlane]

a Saracen king

Another version of Varlan. (see Varlan)

Hurlane (see Hurlame)

Hurler (see Thor)

Hurri Mesopotamian

a divine bull

This beast, together with Seli, was a companion of Ishkur.

Hurriya Canaanite

[Horiya.Huray]

a princess

wife or daughter of Pabel

second wife of Keret

mother of Yasib

When Keret's wife (or wives) died childless, Keret invaded the adjoining kingdom and took Hurriya, the king's daughter (or wife, some say) for his wife.

Huruing Wuhti North American

two Hopi sister mother-goddesses

In some accounts they were creator-goddesses who fashioned men and animals from clay. They made the good people – the less civilised were made by Kokyangwuti. They survived the flood and became the ancestors of the tribe.

Hurukan (see Hurakan)

Hus Brothers North American

buzzard-gods of the Wintun people

The creator-god, Oelbis, sent these two beings down to earth with orders to build a ladder from there to heaven but they dismantled what they had built when Sedit persuaded them that it was better if man were not given the right to go to heaven and return.

It is said that one lived in the east, the other in the west and the sun travelled from one to the other every day.

They were said to have created death.

Husbishag Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess of the underworld
wife of Namtar

She recorded the time of each person's death on tablets kept for that purpose.

Hushang (see Hoshang)

Hushedar Persian

[Hushetar.Ukshshyat-ereta]
son of Zoroaster

One of the three saviours, born of a virgin birth. (see Saoshyant)

Husk-faced Dancers (see Gadjisa)

Hut Arab

the Zodiacal sign, Pisces

Hutashana (see Holi)

Hutgin

a demon

In black magic he was ambassador to Italy.

Huti Watsi Ya North American

[=Cherokee Anitsutsa]
star-spirits of the Hurons

Hutena Mesopotamian

[=Hittite Gul-Ses]
a Hurrian goddess of fate

Hutb-Merlin French

[Suite de Merlin]
a 13th c poem about the exploits of the wizard, Merlin

Hutram Persian

[=Assyrian Uduran]
a god of the Elamites

Hutton Castle British

home of the Green Knight, Bertilak

Hutu New Zealand

a Maori chief
husband of Pare

Pare fell in love with him but, knowing that he could never marry a maiden of such high rank, he ran away. Pare died of grief and Hutu went down to the underworld, Te Reinga, and brought back her soul, climbing one of the upside-down trees that lead to the realm of the living, and they were married.

Htukhtu Mongol

[Khobilkhan]
the Mongol version of Tulku

Huveane African

the creator-god of the Basuto people
Having created the earth and the sky, Huveane climbed into the heavens on pegs which he withdrew to prevent man from following.

Huvi African

a god of hunting of the Ovimbundu people

Huwa (see Hu<sup>1</sup>)

Huwassanas Mesopotamian

a Hittite goddess
consort of Teshub

Huwawa Mesopotamian

[Hubaba.Humba(ba).Khumbaba] a fire-breathing giant attendant on the storm-god Wer

This being, whose beard was like human entrails, guarded the cedars at the seat of the gods and was killed by Enkidu and Gilgamesh.

Masks with protruding ears were attached to houses to ward off this demon.

Huyen-thien Burmese

[Nguyen-quan.Tran-vu.=Chinese Huyen-vu] a Buddhist dragon-god, guardian of the north and of Tongking

Huyen-vu Chinese

the Chinese version of Huyen-thien

Huzruwauqti North American

a Pueblo goddess, guardian of coral, shells, etc.

Hva-sang Buddhist

a preacher who was deified
He is depicted wearing a shawl with his fat belly exposed.

Hva-sen (see Upadhyaya)

Hva-sheng (see Upadhyaya)

Hvar (see Hvarekhshaeta)

Hvar-khshaeta (see Hvarekhshaeta)

Hvaranah Persian

one of the yazatas, 'glory'
the halo of a king

Hvarekhshaeta Persian

[Hvar-khshaeta]
the sun, envisaged as the eye of Ahura Mazda
one of the Yazatas

Hvergelmir (see Hvergelmir)

Hvergelmir Norse

[Hvergelmer]
a fountain in Niflheim
This fountain, which was the home of the serpent Nidhogg and which was guarded by Ivald, supplied Elivagar, the twelve rivers of Niflheim.

Hvitserk Norse

son of Ragnar Lodbrok and Aslaug
brother of Biorn, Ivar, Rogenwald and Sigurd

Hwan Ung (see Hwanung)

Hwanin (see Hanullim)

Hwanung Korean

[Hwan Ung]
son of the ruler of heaven
father of Tan'gun

Accompanied by three ministers and some 3,000 spirits, Hwanung descended from heaven, landing on the Great White Mountain at a spot he named Sacred City, and took over the kingship of the earth.

A bear and a tiger both asked Hwanung to change them into humans. He gave them herbs to eat but only the bear changed, becoming a woman. She prayed for a mate by the sandalwood tree near to the spot where Hwanung had landed and Hwanung changed into human form and married her. Their son was called Tan'gun.

Hwashan Tibetan

a Chinese priest expelled from Tibet
by Padmasambhava

Hwegbaja African

a 17th c king of Dahomey
He is revered as a mythical culture-hero who instituted the practice of burying the dead.

Hwychdwn Welsh

[Hychdwn]
the son of Gwydion and Gilfaethwy
as boars

For the rape of Goewen, Math condemned the two brothers to spend a year as boars. Their offspring was turned into a boy by Math and called Hwychdwn.

(see also Bleiddwn. Haydn)

Hwyrddyddwg Welsh

wife of Bwlch

Hy-Brasil Irish

[Breasil's Island.Hy-Breasal.Hy-Breasil]
a mythical island in the Atlantic

It was said that this island, ruled by Breasal, was all that remained of the continent of Atlantis and was the home of the Danaans after their defeat by the Milesians. It became visible to human eyes only once every seven years.

Hy-Breasal (see Hy-Brasil)

Hy-Breasil (see Hy-Brasil)

Hy-ent-wat-ha (see Hiawatha)

Hy-Falga Irish

a part of the Otherworld visited by Cuchulainn

hyacinth Greek

the flower that grew from the soil stained by the blood of Hyacinthus

Hyacinthia Greek
an eleven-day festival, held in May, in honour of Hyacinthus

Hyacinthus Greek [Huakinthos.Hyakinthos]
a prince of Sparta
son of Amyclas and Diomedea or of Pierus and Clio brother of Polyboea

He was loved by Apollo, Thamyris and Zephyr the West Wind who, in a fit of jealousy, killed Hyacinthus by smashing his head with a discus thrown by Apollo as he was practising. From his blood sprang the hyacinth flower. (see also Ajax<sup>1</sup>)

Hyades Greek
[=Arab Little Camels:=Roman Suculae]
the Nysaeen nymphs, placed in the heavens by Zeus, as reward for raising the infant Dionysus daughters of Atlas and Aethra or Pleione

In some accounts, their names are given as Ambrosia, Coronis, Eudora, Phyto, Polyxo and Tyche (or Dione). A different list appears for the Nysaeen nymphs. (see also Nysaeen Nymphs)

Hyaeane Persian
female celebrants of the orgies of Mithras

In the rites attended by these women, an ox was killed and its flesh eaten raw.

Hyagais Phrygian
a satyr
a god of lightning, some say father of Marsyas

Hyakinthos (see Hyacinthus)

Hyale Greek
a nymph attendant on Hermes

Hyas<sup>1</sup> Greek
Atlas as father of the Hyades

Hyas<sup>2</sup> Greek
a vegetation-god
son of Atlas
brother of the Nysaeen nymphs

He was killed by a lion or a boar when hunting and his sisters died of grief. (see also Hyas<sup>3</sup>)

Hyas<sup>3</sup> Phrygian
[=Armenian Hayk]
a vegetation-god (see also Hyas<sup>2</sup>)

Hybris Greek
according to some accounts, the mother of Pan by Zeus

Hychdwn (see Hwychdwn)

Hyddwn (see Haydn)

Hydra Greek [Lemnaean Hydra.Lemnian Serpent: =Mesopotamian Musmahhu]
a many-headed water monster

offspring of Typhon and Echidna
This monster lived in the swamp at Lerna and had the ability to grow further heads to replace any that were cut off. The number of heads varies from seven to a hundred.

It was eventually killed by Hercules, with the help of Iolaus, as his third Labour. (see also Waterlord)

Hydriades Greek
water nymphs

Hydriol
a water-demon

hydrrippus (see hippocampus)

Hydris Greek
a water-snake said to destroy crocodiles

hydromancy
divination using water

hydromel Norse
the drink of the gods

This drink (mead) was produced by the goat Heidrun for the gods and the warriors in Valhalla.

Hydwyn (see Haydn)

Hyel African
a supreme deity in Nigeria
When the first man died, a worm was sent to heaven to ask Hyel what men should do to revive him and he advised them to hang up the dead man's body and throw mush at it. The lizard, Agadzagazda, overheard this and ran back with the message that they should bury the body. When the worm arrived with the god's real message, the people ignored it with the result that men still die.

A similar story is told of Qamatha and by various other tribes. (see also Chameleon<sup>1</sup>)

hyena
a scavenging animal
The Arabs say that wizards can turn themselves into hyenas.

In Africa, where the animal is native, some tribes say that the soul of a man can enter a hyena which then attacks the man's enemies. Others say that hyenas are tribal ancestors.

In Egypt it is said that this animal has a stone in its eye. If the stone, known as a hyaenia, is placed under the tongue, it can bring the gift of prophecy.

The Greeks say the animal can change its sex and imitate the human voice and so is able to lure men to their death.

hyena-men African evil spirits appearing either as men or as hyenas

In South Africa they are said to have two faces, one handsome, the other like a hyena with powerful jaws.

Hygd Norse
wife of Hygelac mother of Heardred

Hygeia Greek
[Hugeia.Hygi(ei)a:=Roman Salus.Valetudo] goddess of health daughter of Asclepius daughter of Machaon, some say sister of Machaon, Panacea and Podalirius

In some accounts, she is identified with Athena and is depicted feeding a serpent.

Hygelac Norse [Higelac]
a king of Geatland
uncle of Beowulf husband of Hygd
father of Heardred

Hygia (see Hygeia)

Hygieia (see Hygeia)

Hyginus Roman
a 1st c mythographer

He was a former Spanish slave who wrote a handbook of mythology, Genealogiae or Fabulae.

Hygwydd British
a servant of King Arthur brother of Cacamwri

He carried the cauldron, captured from Diwrnach by Arthur, in the story of Culhwch and Olwen.

Hyk (see Heka)

Hylactor Greek
a dog of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Hylactor, tore him to pieces.

Hylaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek
a Centaur

He was shot and killed by Atalanta when he tried to rape her during the hunt for the Calydonian boar.

Hylaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek
a dog of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Hylaeus, tore him to pieces.

Hylas<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Hulas.'wood-child'] armour-bearer to Heracles
son of Theodamus and Menodice

He was abducted as a lover by Heracles, who killed the young man's father. He accompanied Heracles on the Argo and went missing when he was looking for water. Heracles searched for him in vain – he had been carried off by Driope and her water-nymphs to their underwater grotto.

Hylas<sup>2</sup> Greek
in some accounts, brother of the Pleiades

He was killed in a hunting accident.

Hyldemoer (see Elle Woman)

Hylin Norse
a protective goddess

Hyllus Greek
a son of Heracles and Deianeira or, some say, by Melite brother of Ctessipus, Glenus, Hodites, and Macaria husband of Iole
father of Cleodaeus

He helped the wounded Heracles at the end and was commanded by Heracles to marry Iole. He was killed by Echemus in single combat.

hymapon hog bear North American
a fabulous animal

Hymen (see Hymenaeus)

Hymenaeus Greek [Humen(aios).Hymen(aios)]
the winged god of marriage son of Apollo by Terpsichore or Urania or of Dionysus by Aphrodite

In some accounts, he was a youth who saved a procession of maidens from the hands of a gang of pirates at Eleusis.

Some say he was the son of Magnes who became a lover of Apollo: others say he was one of those whom Asclepius brought back to life.

He is depicted as a young man carrying a torch.

Hymenaios (see Hymenaeus)

Hymir (see Hymir)

Hymir Norse
[Dark One.Hymir]
a sea-giant son of Ymir
father of Tyr, some say

He owned a magic cauldron that Thor wished to borrow for a feast of the gods arranged by Aegir. When Thor came to collect it, they went on a fishing trip and Thor caught the Midgard serpent on his hook. Hymir was so frightened that he cut the line. In some versions he jumped overboard and was drowned. Others say that, when Thor left with the cauldron, Hymir led a band of giants to attack him but Thor killed them all with his hammer.

Hymiskvida Norse
[The Lay of Hymir]
a story from the Elder Edda of the journey of Thor and Tyr to collect the magic cauldron from Hymir for the feast of Aegir

Hymn of the Primitive Man
(see Purushs-sukta)

Hymn to Demeter Greek
a poem by Homer telling of the wanderings of Demeter in search of Core

Hyndla Norse
a giantess and a sorceress
At the request of Freya, she gave Ottar the names of all his ancestors and a magic drink to ensure that he would remember them so that he could prove his title to a piece of land.

Hyndla's Chant (see Hyndlu-Ljod)

Hyndlu-Ljod Norse
[Chant of Hyndla.Hyndla's Chant]
a story from the Elder Edda and the Flatey Book of Freya's visit to the sorceress, Hyndla

Hyobbu Korean
a friend of Clumong
When Clumong fled to escape death at the hand of Kumawa, Hyobbu and two other friends, Mari and Zoi, went with him.

Hypastos Greek
a title for a supreme god

Hypate Greek [‘top’] an alternative name for one of the Muses when it was said that there were only 3 of them

Hyperbius Greek
a Theban
He faced Hippomedon at the Oncaean Gate and killed him in the battle with the Seven against Thebes.

Hyperboreans Greek [Huperboreoi;=Hindu Uttara-Kuru]
inhabitants of the sunny land in the north, beyond the North Wind
Their land was known as Hyperborea and it is here that Apollo is said to have roamed shedding tears of gold after the death of Asclepius.

These people were said to live for a thousand years.

Hypereia Greek
an old name for Italy

Hyperenas Greek
a Trojan soldier
son of Panthous
brother of Euphorbus and Polydamas

Hyperenor<sup>1</sup> Greek
one of the 5 surviving Sown Men

Hyperenor<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Apollo by Aethusa
son of Poseidon by Alcylene, some say brother of Hyrieus

Hyperion<sup>1</sup> Greek [Huperion]
a sun-god
a Titan
son of Uranus and Gaea
husband of Thea
father of Eos, Helios and Selene
His role as sun-god was later assumed by Helios and then by Apollo.

Hyperion<sup>2</sup> English
a poem by John Keats dealing with the overthrow of the Titans by the new Olympian gods

Hyperipne Greek
wife of Endymion, in some accounts

Hypermestra (see Hypermnestra)

Hypermnestra<sup>1</sup> Greek
[Huperm(n)estra.Hypermestra]
daughter of Danaus wife of Lynceus
mother of Abas

She alone of the fifty daughters of Danaus spared her husband when the other forty-nine slew their husbands on their joint wedding night. Some accounts claim that two others, Amymon and Berbyce, also spared their husbands.

Hypermnestra<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Huperm(n)estra.Hypermestra]
daughter of Thestius and Eurythemia wife of Oicles
mother of Amphiarus

Hyperoche (see Arge)

Hyperphas Greek

father of Euryganeia

Hypnos (see Hypnus)

Hypnus Greek
[Hupnos.Hypnos;=Roman Somnus]
the god of sleep
son of Erebus and Nyx brother of Thanatos
husband of Pasithea, some say father of Icelus, Morpheus and Phantasus or of Morpheus, Phoebetus and Phantasus

He lives in the underworld during the hours of daylight and, in some accounts, is envisaged as a night-bird.

Hyposouranios Phoenician [Upsouranios]

a giant son of Fire
brother of Ousoos
He was said to be the first being to construct towns.

Hypseus Greek
 a king of the Lapiths son of Peneus by Creusa brother of Cyrene, Daphne and Stilbe,
 some say
 husband of Creusa, some say father of Astygia, Cyrene and Themisto by Creusa

Hypsipyle Greek
 ['high gate'.Hupsipule]
 a priestess of Aphrodite
 queen of Lemnos
 daughter of Thoas
 mother of Euneus and Thoas (Nebroponus)

The men of Lemnos objected to the rule of women and left them, sleeping with prostitutes.

The women rebelled and killed all the men on the island. The only man to escape was Thoas, king of Lemnos, saved by Hypsipyle who secretly set him adrift in a boat. He later recovered his kingdom.

When the Argonauts called at Lemnos en route to Colchis, the women slept with the sailors and Hypsipyle herself slept with Jason, bearing him twin sons, Euneus and Thoas.

When the other women discovered that she had not killed her father, they sold her as a slave to Lycurgus. Others say that she was exiled and captured by pirates who sold her to Lycurgus but was later rescued by her sons, Euneus and Thoas. She was the nurse of Opheltes, son of Lycurgus, and when she was sent to lead the Seven against Thebes to a pool, she took the boy with her. She sat him down on the ground for a moment where he was bitten by a snake and died.

Some say that Adrastus bought her from Lycurgus and she served as a slave for many years before being rescued by her sons.

Hypsestus (see Hypsistos)

Hypsistos Greek

[Hypsestus]

a local god: a title for a supreme god: the Greek name for Alalu or Elioun

Hyrie Greek

mother of Cycnus by Apollo

Hyrieus Greek

a king of Boeotia

son of Apollo by Aethusa

son of Poseidon by Alcyone, some say

brother of Hyperenor

He gave hospitality to three gods and asked in return that he be given a child. They urinated on the hide of a bull which he buried and from which arose a son, Urion, later Orion.

When he ordered Agamedes and Trophonius to build a treasure-house, they left a secret entrance and robbed the building at their leisure. He set a trap for the thief and caught Agamedes.

A similar story is told of the king Rhampsinitus.

In some accounts, Hyrieus is the consort of Clonia and father by her of Nycteus.

Hyrnetho Greek

daughter of Temenus

sister of Archelaus, Creisis and Perdiccas

wife of Deiphontes

Her father preferred Deiphontes over his own sons so they killed Temenus. Creisis took over the throne of Argos and sent his brothers to persuade Hyrnetho to leave her husband. She refused and, when they tried to force her, she was killed.

Hyrrokin Norse

a giantess

an aspect of Angerbode

The funeral pyre on Balder's ship, Ringhorn, was so heavy that the gods could not push the ship away from the shore. Hyrrokin gave it one mighty shove and it glided out on to the water. Odin was so jealous of her powers that he tried to kill her.

Hyrtaeus Greek

a king of Percote

husband of Arisba

father of Asius, Eurotas and Nisus

Hysminai Greek

battle personified

a descendant of Eris (see also Malchai)

Hystaspes<sup>1</sup> Greek

god of meadows

son of Adonis and Aphrodite

Hystaspes<sup>2</sup> (see Vishtaspa.Zariadres)

Hyuki (see Hiuki)

I

I' Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity,
referred to as god I: perhaps Ix Chel
This deity is depicted as an old woman with feet like claws and wearing a snake formed into a knot on her head and holding a water-pot. Water flowing from the pot leads to the suggestion that she was a water-goddess.

I' Japanese
a sign (pig or wild boar) of the Zodiac
I' Chinese
[Celestial Archer.Chang Hsien.Divine Archer. Good Archer.Hou I.Shen I] the archer who shot down 9 suns husband of Heng O

When ten suns appeared in the sky the heat was too much so I shot down nine of them with his magic bow.

In one version, he was a deity who was banished to earth by Ti Chün who was angry at the loss of his sons, killed by I. His wife, Heng O, who was banished with him, stole the elixir of immortality and flew off to the moon.
Some say that he later married Fu-fei.
He was later forgiven by Ti Chün or, in some accounts, was given immortality by Hsi Wang Mu and came to be identified with the sun.

Other stories of his exploits say that he prevented the eclipse of the moon, which caused humans to become infertile, by shooting the Celestial Dog which devoured the moon and that he rode up on the winds created by the wind-lord, Feng Po, and shot him in the leg, forcing him to abate the storms he had caused.

I Ching Chinese
[Book of Changes.=Korean Chong Yok]
the first of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon, dealing with natural phenomena
one of the Five Classics

This work, in sixty-four parts, was written by Wen Wang and his son, Chou I, and uses diagrams made up of horizontal lines, said to have been invented by Fu-hsi. The latter part contains observations by Confucius, linking Taoist and Confucian thought.

I-hsing Chinese
[(Ta-hui) Ch'an-shih]
(672-717)
a scholarly monk

He repaid Wang Mu, a widow who had supported him when he was a young student, by saving the life of her son who had been condemned to death for killing a man. He is said to have caused the stars of the Great Bear constellation to disappear from the sky and captured them in the form of pigs. He then advised the emperor to grant a general amnesty and, releasing the pigs, caused the stars to reappear.

He was given the title Ta-hui
Ch'an-shih after his death.

I Kaggen African [Cagn.Kaggen]
the Bushman god, Kaang, as the spirit of the praying mantis
(see also Kaang)

I-ho-wei Chinese a self-created celestial trinity

I-hsi Chinese part of the I Ching

I-mu-kuo Chinese a mythical land where the people have only one eye which is in the middle of the forehead

I-qong Pacific Islands
in Melanesian lore, a god of the night He sold Qat the darkness of night in exchange for some pigs.

I-ti Chinese [Immortal One]
a minor deity, patron of wine-makers
(see also Tu K'ang)

Ia' Greek
daughter of Midas
Her wedding to Attis was interrupted by Agdistis and the guests were struck with madness. Attis castrated himself and Ia died of self-inflicted wounds.

ia' (see ija)

Iacchus Greek [Corus.Iakchos.=Phrygian Bacchus]
a minor god
son of Zeus and Demeter son of Dionysus by Demeter or Core,
some say
brother of Core

husband of Demeter, some say
In some accounts he is identified with Dionysus or Liber.

Iae South American

moon-god of the Mamaiuran Indians
of Brazil

twin brother of Kuat

Men were in darkness because the wings of Urubutsin, the vulture-king, prevented the light of the sky from reaching earth. Iae and Kuat captured Urubutsin and released him only when he promised to allow light to pass.
Then they took to the sky with Iae becoming the moon, Kuat the sun, lighting the earth below.

Iafn-Har Norse

[Jaf(ə)nhar.Janfar.Like-mighty]

one of the 3 mysterious deities visited by Gylfi, probably a manifestation of Odin

Iah

a demon

Iahu Egyptian

a name for Horus or Set or for Isis

as a dove-goddess

(see also Elath-Iahu)

Iakchos (see Iacchus)

Iakim North American

a sea-monster in the lore of the tribes of British Columbia

Ialabion Greek

son of Poseidon

He tried to steal some of Geryon's cattle seized by Heracles as part of his tenth Labour and was killed by Heracles.

Ialmenus Greek

son of Ares and Astyoche

brother of Ascalaphus

He and his brother led the Minyans fighting with the Greeks at Troy.

Ialonus Celtic

a god of fields in Gaul

Ialysa Greek

daughter of Danae

Ialysus Greek

son of Helios by Rhode or of their son Cercaphus

brother of Camirus and Lindus

Iambe Greek

daughter of Pan and Echo

In some accounts of Demeter's stay in the house of Celeus when she acted as wet-nurse to his baby son, Iambe is described as a lame servant acting as the baby's dry nurse and it was she, not Baubo the daughter of Celeus, who so amused Demeter by her obscene gestures and dances. She is said to have hanged herself. (see also Baubo<sup>1</sup>)

Iampelamananoro African

a maiden in Madagascar

She was held captive by Raivato but the hero Iboniamasiboniamanoro came to her rescue, hammering Raivato into the ground and marrying his captive, Iampelamananoro.

Iamus Greek

son of Apollo by Evadne

His mother abandoned him in a bed of flowers as a baby but he was fed on honey by snakes sent by Apollo.
When found, he was reared by Evadne's guardian, Aepytus, and,
inheriting his father's talents, became a famous prophet.

Ianda (see Mbomba<sup>1</sup>)

Ianthe Greek

wife of Iphis

Iphis was a girl raised as a boy. Ianthe was betrothed to him, knowing nothing of this. Isis saved the day by changing Iphis into a real man just before the wedding.

Ianuania Celtic

a goddess in Gaul, associated with music and healing

Ianus (see Janus)

Iao<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Erikapaios.'light'.Metis.Phanes.Protogonos]

a primeval sun-god

father or consort of Nyx, some say

He was born from an egg created by Chronos and is depicted as four-eyed with golden wings and the heads of a bull, a lion, a ram and a snake.

Iao<sup>2</sup> Greek

a fourfold god

This name was applied to Hades in spring, Zeus in summer, Helios in autumn and Dionysus in winter.

Iapetos (see Iapetus)

Iapetus Greek

[Iapetos]

a Titan

son of Uranus and Gaea

brother or husband of Themis

husband of Ana or Clymene

father of Atlas, Epimetheus, Menoetius

and Prometheus by Asia or Clymene

In some accounts, he fathered Prometheus on Themis and is said to have created man.

Iapis Greek

a physician

He, with the help of Aphrodite, healed Aeneas when he was wounded in the fighting with the Latins.

Iapyx<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Lycaon

brother of Daunas and Peucetius

He and his brothers fought many battles and when they had conquered the southern part of Italy, they shared it between themselves.

Iapyx<sup>2</sup> Greek

[=Roman Chrus.Corus]

a wind from the north-west quarter

Iarbanel Irish

son of Nemed

brother of Starn

father of Beothach

He and two brothers, I bath and Ibean, survived the defeat of the Nemedians and escaped to become the ancestors of the Danaans.

Iarbas Greek

[Hiarbas]

a king of Lybia

son of Zeus

He sold to Dido the land on which she built Carthage and wanted to marry her. In some accounts, she threw herself on a pyre and died rather than marry him.

Iardanus Greek

a king of Lydia, father of Omphale

Iareku (see Uretsiti)

iaret (see uraeus)

Iarmerik European

a king of Denmark

husband of Svanhild

father of Broder

His story is a Danish version of the story of Ermenrich.

His counsellor, Bikki, accused the king's son, Broder, of seducing the queen, so Iarmerik had her trampled to death by horses.

Iarn-greiper Norse

[Iron Dirk]

the grip worn by Thor when holding his magic hammer, Miolnir

Iarnsaxa Norse

[Jarnsaxa]

a giantess

first wife of Thor

mother of Magni and Modi

She was one of the nine wave-maidens said to have given birth simultaneously to Heimdall, fathered by Odin.

Iarnvit (see Ironwood)

Iarnvith (see Ironwood)

Iarovit Baltic

a Latvian god

an aspect of Svantevit

Iasion Greek

[Ias(i)us]

son of Zeus or Corytus by Electra

brother of Dardanus

father of Bootes, Plutus and, some say,

Philomelus, by Demeter

In some accounts, his earthly father was Corytus. He was the father of two or three sons by Demeter, whom he seduced in a ploughed field, though others claim that he married Cybele, fathering Corybas, and that he was made immortal.

Some say that he was killed by his brother, Dardanus, others that he was killed by Zeus for his seduction of Demeter.

Iasius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Iasus, Jasus]

king of Arcadia

son of Lycurgus

father of Atalanta by Clymene

In some stories Schoenius is the father of Atalanta.

Iasius<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Iasus, Jasus]

a king of Argos

son of Triopas

brother of Agenor and Pelasgus

In some accounts, he was the son of Argus and father of Io.

Iasius<sup>3</sup> (see Iasion)

Iaso Greek

son of Asclepius

Iason (see Jason)

Iassen (see Izehne)

Iasus (see Iasion, Iasius)

Iath (see Eire, Ith)

Iath n'Annan Irish

an old name for Ireland or for Dana

Ia'tik (see Ia'tiku)

Ia'tiku North American

[Iaticu, Ia'tik, Iatiku]

a creator-goddess of the Pueblos

daughter of Utc'tsiti

sister of Nao'tsiti

mother of the Katsinas

Her sister bore twin boys after being impregnated by the rainbow and gave one of them to Ia'tiku before leaving to settle in the east. The boy, Tia'munia, mated with Ia'tiku to produce the forerunners of the tribe.

iatromancy
divination by incubation

Iavure-cunha South American

a tiny forest-spirit of Brazil

Ibanza (see Libanza)

Ibath Irish

son of Beothach

brother of Ibean

He and his brother Ibean, with Iarbanel, survived the defeat of the Nemedians and escaped to become the ancestors of the Danaans.

Iba'um Mesopotamian

an Akkadian god

Ibe Dji African

an idol of the Yoruba

Ibean Irish

son of Beothach

brother of Ibath

He and his brother Ibath, with Iarbanel, survived the defeat of the Nemedians and escaped to become the ancestors of the Danaans.

Ibeorgan Central American

a culture-hero in Panama

He is said to have taught his people, the Cuna, how to build, fashion gold, make beer from maize and many other useful things.

Ibert British

husband of Iblis in some accounts

He is said to have castrated Klingsor.

ibex

a monster antelope

The real ibex, a native of the Pyrenees, was said to be able to leap from the top of high peaks and land on its horns without harm.

Ibhell (see Dubh Lacha)

Ibilisi African

[=Moslem Eblis]

a Swahili devil

Ibini Okrabi African

a powerful spirit of the Igbo

ibis Egyptian

a sacred bird: an incarnation of Thoth

Ibissa Shayto African

an Ethiopian fire-spirit

Iblis<sup>1</sup> British

[Yblis]

wife of Ibert

In some accounts she married Lancelot by whom she had four children.

Iblis<sup>2</sup> (see Eblis)

Iblis al-Qadim (see Eblis)

Ibo West Indian

[Ibo-léle]

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Ibo-léle (see Ibo)

Ibo-Osun African

an annual feast in honour of the Yoruba goddess Osun when the priestesses of this cult are chosen

Ibofango North American

a name for Hisagitaimisi as One

Sitting Above

Iboniamasiboniamanoro African

a hero in Madagascar

son of Rasobemanana

His mother sought help from the seer, Ranakombe, in order to conceive. She went to heaven where a grasshopper entered her and lived in her womb for ten years. The unborn child chose the place where he would be born and got his mother to swallow a knife with which he cut himself free of her body. His mother died at his birth and he jumped into a fire but was unscathed.

When he was old enough to marry, Ranakombe set him a number of near-impossible tasks which he performed successfully and then set out to rescue the maiden Iampelamananoro who had been held captive by Raivato. He gained access to the captor's house by killing the servant Ikonitra and dressing in his skin. Once inside, he overcame Raivato and hammered him into the ground. He rescued the maiden and married her but their happiness was short-lived since he died a few years later.

Ibor Irish

an early charioteer for Cuchulainn

Iboroquiamio South American

a deity of Guyana, evil personified

Ibukido Japanese

an evil deity

He causes the destruction of crops and water-courses, incest, leprosy, etc.

Ibycus Greek

a 6th c BC poet

son of Phytius

When he was attacked and killed by a band of robbers he called on a flight of cranes to avenge him. Later, in a theatre, the birds scared one of the robbers who confessed to the crime and they were all put to death.

Icadius Greek

a man saved by a dolphin

Icananyana (see Hlakanyana)

Icakijana (see Hlakanyana)

Icalus (see Icelus)

Icarius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Icarus, Ikarios]

son of Oebalus and Batea or Perieres and Gorgophone

brother of Hippocoon and Tyndareus

co-king of Sparta with Tyndareus father of Iphthime and Penelope

by Periboea

He and Tyndareus were expelled by their brother Hippocoon who took over the throne. Heracles killed Hippocoon and his twelve sons and restored the former kings.

Icarius<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Icarus, Ikarios]

an Athenian farmer

father of Erigone

Dionysus taught him the art of wine-making and he gave some of his produce to a number of shepherds who, thinking he had bewitched them with his wine, killed him. His dog, Maera, led his daughter to his grave where she hanged herself. The dog jumped to its death and Dionysus set them all in the heavens, Erigone as Virgo, Icarus as Bootes and Maera as Canicula. Some say Iasius became Bootes.

Icarius<sup>3</sup> (see Icarus)
Icarus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Icarius.Ikaros]

son of Daedalus by a slave girl

He was locked with his father in the labyrinth housing the Minotaur on Crete by Minos but they were both freed by Pasiphae, the king's wife. They escaped from Crete by flying on wings of feathers and wax made by Daedalus. Ignoring instructions, he flew too close to the sun, whereupon the wax melted and he crashed into the sea and drowned.

An alternative version says that Icarus was not killed but swam to the nearby island of Icaria and lived there for many years.

Icarus<sup>2</sup> (see Icarus)

Icauna Roman

a Celtic river-goddess in Gaul

Ichha-sakti Hindu

a sakti longing to be made manifest

Icci Siberian

spirits under the control of the creator-gods

Iccovellauna Celtic

a European water-goddess

Ice-giants (see giants-Norse)

Icelus Greek

[Icalus.Ikelos.Phobetor.Phobetus]

a god of dreams

son of Hypnos

brother of Morpheus and Phantasus

He brings dreams of animals.

Ich-kanava North American

[Great Tellings]

narratives of the Mohave tribe

These long tales, concerned with migration, myths, etc., are said to have been revealed in dreams.

Ichairi West Indian

household gods of the Caribs

Ichino-miya Japanese

Shinto temples

Ichijo Japanese

an emperor

father of Kimitaka

When his daughter was captured by the demon Shutendoji, Ichijo sent the warrior-hero, Raiko, to her aid. Raiko killed the demon and freed the princess.

Ichiko Japanese

[itako]

a sibyl: a temple servant possessed

by spirits: a blind female shaman

or medium

These women are reputed to be able to call up deities or the ghosts of ancestors and pass on their messages.

ichneumon Egyptian

the mongoose, revered in Egypt

Some say that the mongoose kills only snakes but others maintain that it can kill a crocodile by entering its gaping jaws and eating the beast's viscera.

Ichnobate Greek

[Ichnobates]

a dog of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Ichnobate, tore him to pieces.

Ichnobates (see Ichnobate)

Ichō (see gingko.Ichō Kalakal)

Ichō-kalakal Pacific Islands

[Ichō]

a hero in the lore of the

Caroline Islands

He is said to have led his people to their homeland.

ichor Greek

the colourless fluid in veins of gods

This vital fluid never carried disease; if shed, it would generate new life where it fell.

ichthyocentaur (see centauro-triton)

ichthyomancy

divination using the entrails of fish

ichthyotaurus (see centauro-triton) ichthys (see fish)

icilius Roman

a man betrothed to Verginia

Icona Central American

a Mexican father-god

Iconia Serbian

daughter of Miloutin

She had been promised in marriage to Sredoi but Theodore seized her and carried her off as his wife.

Icosiel

a demon of the air

Icovellauna Celtic

a goddess of springs and healing

Ictcinike North American

[=Santee Unktome.Inktomi]

the Missouri Indian name for Ictinike

Ictinike North American

[Ikto(me).‘spider’.Spider Man.

Unktome.Unktomi]

the trickster-god, war-god of the Iowa Indians

son of the sun-god

He was expelled from heaven for his trickery. He tricked Rabbit into taking off his fur coat and, while Rabbit was up a tree, put the coat on and ran off with it. He married one daughter of a local chief and so offended the other daughter who rescued the skinless Rabbit. He engaged in shooting matches with Rabbit in which they shot an eagle which grew each day from the feathers of the one shot the day before. When Rabbit gave back to Ictinike the clothes he had taken off to put on Rabbit's fur, the Indians drummed up such a frantic dance that Ictinike, jumping ever higher, fell and broke his neck.

Another story has a different version of his death. It was said that he was jealous when Rabbit (in this story, Rabbit Boy) married the girl he wanted for himself and incited the youths of the village to kill Rabbit. Before they killed him, cut him up and boiled him, Rabbit Boy sang a death-song and then used his magic powers to reassemble the parts and return to life. When Ictinike tried to do the same, he sang the wrong words to the death-song and died, never to return.

Yet another story says that he rode on the back of a buzzard who threw him off into a hollow tree where he was trapped for some time. When he finally escaped, he pretended to be dead. The buzzard landed to feed on his flesh and Ictinike seized it and tore the feathers from the top of its head.

Some equate him with Ikto, a culture-hero said to have invented speech.

Id Irish

son of Rianganbair and Finnabair

brother of Etan and Laeg

He was a charioteer for Conall Cearnach.

Ida<sup>1</sup> European

daughter of Elias and Beatrix

mother of Eustace and Godfrey

de Bouillon

Ida<sup>2</sup> Greek

a Cretan nymph

daughter of Melisseus and Almathea

sister of Adastrea and Melissa

She and her sisters nursed the infant Zeus.

Ida<sup>3</sup> Greek

[=Greek Nemesis]

a Phrygian goddess

Ida<sup>4</sup> Greek

daughter of Corybas

mother by Lycastus of Minos

- Ida<sup>5</sup> Hindu
 [Ila.Ira]
 a goddess of food and law daughter of Varuna, some say consort of Manu
 wife of Dyaus, some say She was said to have been created from butter and milk left over from the Churning of the Ocean.
 She and Manu repopulated the earth after the flood which they survived on top of a mountain.
 In some accounts, she was the daughter of Manu and wife of Budha
 and was said to be mother of Pururavas.
 Another version says that Ida was originally male but she angered Parvati who changed her into a woman. Later, Parvati relented and Ida was allowed to spend alternate months as a man, Ila.
Ida<sup>6</sup> (see Idavold)
Ida<sup>7</sup> (see Mount Ida)
Ida Ten Japanese
 [=Chinese Wei-t'o]
 a tutelary deity of Buddhism
Idaea<sup>1</sup> Greek
 a river-nymph or a nymph of Mount Ida
 When Scamander jumped into the river Xanthus, she mated with him to produce a son, Teucer.
Idaea<sup>2</sup> Greek
 a Scythian princess daughter of Dardanus second wife of Phineus
 mother of Mariandynus and Thynius
 She was the second wife of Phineus and accused her stepsons of rape for which they were blinded by their father. When Phineus was killed, she was sent back to her own people and her father, Dardanus, killed her for the cruel treatment of her stepsons.
Idaea<sup>3</sup> (see Cybele)
Idaeon Dactyls (see Dactyls)
Idaeon Mother Greek
 a Greek version of Cybele: a name for Rhea
Idaeans Greek
 Cretan spirits
Idaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek
 herald of the Trojans son of Dares brother of Phegeus
idaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek
 a magic name for a finger
Idakeru Japanese
 a deity
 son of Susanowa, some say He is said to have introduced seeds for the production of plants and trees.
- Idalia (see Aphrodite)
Idamente Greek
 son of Idomeneus
 He was killed by his own father who, caught in a storm at sea, had promised Poseidon that he would kill the first person he met on shore if the sea-god would save him.
idan Pacific Islands
 magicians
 These people say that they are followers of Anulap and Samoaneokoaner.
Idas<sup>1</sup> Greek
 [Ides]
 son of Aphareus and Arene husband of Marpessa
 twin brother of Lynceus
 father of Cleopatra His real father was Poseidon but he was reared by his earthly father, Aphareus. He was a member of the group that hunted the Calydonian boar and he sailed with the Argonauts.
 He carried off Marpessa in a magic chariot borrowed from Poseidon and, when Apollo took her and turned her into a kingfisher, he fought the god for her hand. Zeus stopped the fight and Marpessa chose to stay with Idas whom she married.
 In one story, Hilaeria and Phoebe,
 the brides of Idas and Lynceus, were carried off by Castor and Polydeuces on their wedding day, so starting the feud between the two pairs of brothers.
 In a fight over this abduction or over some cattle, he killed Castor who was hiding in a hollow tree and wounded Polydeuces. Zeus again intervened and killed Idas with a thunderbolt.
 Others say that Idas was killed by Polydeuces.
Idas<sup>2</sup> Greek
 [Ides]
 a follower of Diomedes
 He went to Italy with Diomedes and
 was turned into a bird by Aphrodite.
Idath Irish [Fiodach]
 a warrior of Connaught
 father of Fraoch
 husband of Befind
 He was a suitor for the hand of Maev
 but was killed by Tinne mac Conrach, king of Connaught.
Idavida Hindu
 first wife of Vishravas mother of Kubera
Idavold Norse
 [Idavolir.Ida(voll).Ithavall.Ithavoll] a plain in Asgard
 the playground of the gods
 This is the area where the gods were playing when Balder was killed by the mistletoe bough thrown by Hoder.
 Idavold is regarded as the land destined to replace Asgard in the new world due to arise after Ragnarok.
Idavolir (see Idavold)
Idavoll (see Idavold)
Idazzei (see Uller)
Iddabedu Mesopotamian
 the ship of the Akkadian god Nabu
Iddawc (see Iddawg)
Iddawg Welsb
 [Churn.Iddawc.The Embroiler]
 a chieftain appearing in Rhonabwy's dream
 son of Mynio
 He was known as Churn or The Embroiler for his part in stirring up trouble between King Arthur and Mordred.
 He owned a fabulous horse which could blow away anybody it chased with the breath from its nostrils and then draw them back when it inhaled.
Iddig Welsb
 a messenger of Bran
 son of Anarawd
Iddhis Buddhist
 supernatural powers such as clairvoyance, telepathy, etc.
Iddon Welsb
 father of Cadwgawn
Ide<sup>1</sup> Irish [Deirdre.Ite.Mide.Mo-Idel]
 a saint
 daughter of Ceannfhaolaidh
 foster-mother of Brendan Her father wanted her to marry a young noble but she preferred the holy life and became a nun. It was said that she suffered the agony of a large beetle which gnawed her body until it was seen and killed by the other nuns. She was said to have been visited by the infant Jesus.
 The miracles she is said to have performed included the release of souls from hell and the curing of a man with horse's ears.
 In some accounts, she owned the marvellous cow, Glas Gabnach.
Ide<sup>2</sup> (see Hiunki)
Idem-kuguza (see Obin-murt)
Ides (see Idas)
Idhunn (see Iduna)
Idiptu Mesopotamian
 a Babylonian storm-god
idises (see disir)
Idisi (see disir.Vala)

Idlirvirisong North American

an evil spirit of the Inuit

idlozi African

the guardian spirit of a Zulu ancestor

Idmon Greek

a seer

son of Apollo or of Abas and Cyrene

one of the Argonauts

He was killed by a wild boar while en route to Colchis with the Argonauts.

Ido (see Idothea)

Idoiho Pacific Islands

a creator-god in the Society Islands

idolomancy

divination by using idols

Idomene<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Idomenea]

daughter of Abas and Aglaia

sister of Acrisius and Proetus

Idomene<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Idomenea]

wife of Amythaon

mother of Bias and Melampus

In some accounts, Amythaon's wife was the nymph Melanippe.

Idomenea (see Idomene)

Idomeneans Greek

a race of people said to have sight

but no other senses

Idomeneus Greek

[Cnossius.Lyctius]

a king of Crete

son of Deucalion and Pyrrha

brother of Amphictryon, Hellen

and Molus

husband of Meda

father of Idamente

He was the leader of the Cretans in the Trojan War and was one of those hidden inside the Wooden Horse. He aimed his spear at Aeneas but killed Oenomaus instead. Returning from Troy, his ship was caught in a storm and Idomeneus vowed to kill the first person he met on shore in Crete if the sea-god, Poseidon, would save his ship. The first person was his own son, Idamente. He killed him and was banished to Italy when a plague descended on the island.

In some accounts, he was driven from Crete by Leucus who had seduced Meda while her husband was at Troy.

Idothea Greek

[Dioi.Eidothea]

a nymph

daughter of Proteus

Idres British

a king of Cornwall

He was one of the leaders of the rebellion put down by King Arthur at the Battle of Bedgrayne.

Idris<sup>1</sup> Arab

a prophet

son of Hirmis

He is said to have invented writing, tailoring, geomancy and the use of the fortune-telling board, the ziraja.

An angel was so impressed with Idris that he took the prophet up to heaven still alive but the angel of death, who had been looking for Idris, met him in the fourth heaven and the prophet died.

Idris<sup>2</sup> Arab

a cook with Al Iskander (Alexander the Great)

Preparing some fish for his master's supper, he washed them in the waters of the Well of Life, whereupon the dead fish immediately revived and swam away.

Idris<sup>3</sup> Welsh

a giant prince

Iduie (see Idyia)

Idumeans British

[Edomites]

a Middle Eastern tribe

Gawain is said to have been in conflict with this tribe whose queen had been killed by the Crop-eared Dog.

Idun (see Iduna)

Iduna Norse

[Id(h)unn.Idun(na).Ithun(n).Y'dun]

goddess of youth

daughter of Ivald and Sol

wife of Bragi

Some say she had no birth and could never die.

She owned a magic basket containing the apples of eternal youth, the supply of which was continuously renewed. She gave these to the gods, some of whom were otherwise not immortal.

Tricked by Loki into leaving Asgard with a bowl of this fruit, she was abducted by the storm-giant Thiassi. When the gods, who found themselves aging in the absence of the fruit, discovered what Loki had done they ordered him to get her back. Wearing Freya's falcon-garb he flew to Thrymheim and, changing Idun into a swallow, or a nut, brought her safely back to Asgard.

One day when she was sitting on a branch of Yggdrasil she fainted and fell into Niflheim where she was found by Bragi who wrapped her in a white wolf-skin given by Odin. She remained pale and tearful from the horrible sights she had seen in Hel's kingdom and Bragi stayed with her until she recovered.

In some stories she was married to Heimdall and seduced by Loki.

Idunn (see Iduna)

Idunna (see Iduna)

Idurmer Semitic

[Ilumer.=Babylonian Adad:

Assyrian Mer.=Sumrian Enlil.Ishkur:

Syrian Hadad]

a god of rain and thunder

Idyia Greek

[Eidyia.Iduie]

a sea-nymph, one of the Oceanids wife of Aetes

mother of Apsyrtus and Medea

Idylls of the King English

a series of poems on the Arthurian legend written by Tennyson

Idzumo Japanese

[Central Land of the Reed Plains.Izumo]

a part of the newly-created earth

This realm caused so much annoyance to the gods from the noise made by the trees and flowers which, in those days, could speak, that they sent Ninigi, preceded by three envoys, to quell the disturbance.

Idzumo Takeru Japanese

an outlaw

While Takeru was swimming in a river, Prince Yamato substituted a wooden sword for the brigand's steel one. He then challenged Idzumo to a duel and cut off his head.

Iella (see Attabeira)

Iemhetep (see Imhotep)

Ieson (see Jason)

Ieyasu Togugawa (see Tokugawa)

Ifa<sup>1</sup> African

[=Fon Fa]

a demi-god of the Yoruba

son of Oroko and Alajeru

He is said to have had great wisdom obtained from divination using palm-nuts and taught men the art of medicine.

In some accounts, he is the same as Orunmila. (see Fa<sup>1</sup>)

Ifa<sup>2</sup> (see Fa<sup>2</sup>)

Ifing Norse

a stream in Asgard, surrounding Idavold, which never froze

ifriti (see afriti)

ifreet (see afriti)

ifrit<sup>1</sup> Pakistani

a malevolent ghost of a dead person

ifrit<sup>2</sup> (see afriti)

Ifru Roman

a North African god

Ify (see Ihy)

- Igalilik Inuit
a spirit of the hunt
He is said to carry a boiling cauldron large enough to hold a seal.
- Igaluk Inuit
the supreme god and moon-god
He inadvertently had intercourse with his sister who, in disgust, ascended into the sky with a torch and became the sun. Igaluk became the moon.
- Igaranha South American
a Brazilian spirit which can appear in the form of a canoe
- Igari-Bat Mahlat Hebrew
a queen of demons
- igbodū African
groves sacred to the Yoruba god, Orunmila
- Igdrasil (see Yggdrasil)
- Igernā (see Igraine)
- Igerne (see Igraine)
- Iggi Mesopotamian
the younger Sumerian sky-gods created by Marduk
These heavenly spirits, appearing as stars above the horizon are, in some versions, confused with the Annunaki which are those below the horizon.
In some accounts, they are described as slave-gods who worked on earth. One of their main tasks was to keep open the channels of the rivers to allow the free flow of water. When they rebelled against Enlil's rule, his wife killed their leader, We-e, and created a completely new race. (see also Annunaki<sup>1</sup>)
- Ignerssuak Inuit
a sea-god
- Ignoge (see Imogen)
- iqqira African
a witch-doctor in the Transkei
- Igraine<sup>1</sup> British
[Igernā.Igerne.Ygernā.Yg(u)erne:
=Welsh Eigr] daughter of Anlawdd and Gwen sister of Gorlennydd and Rieingulid wife of Gorlois mother of Dioneta, Elaine, Morgan le Fay and Morgause mother of King Arthur by Uther
When Uther fell in love with Igraine, her husband shut her away in a castle. Merlin changed Uther into the form of Gorlois giving him access to Igraine on whom he fathered the infant Arthur, later king of Britain. Others say that they also had a daughter called Anna. She married Uther when Gorlois died.
In some accounts she came from Atlantis; others say her first husband was Hoel.
- Igraine<sup>2</sup> British
[Igernā.Igerne.Ygernā.Yg(u)erne:
=Welsh Eigr] in some accounts, a sister of King Arthur
- Iguagué South American
a lake in Colombia
This is the lake from which, according to the Chibcha, the woman Bachué emerged at creation.
- Iguana Central American
a lizard-god, said to provide food
- Iguvine Tablets Roman
[Eugubine Tablets.Tabulae Iguvinae]
9 bronze tablets found at Gubbio in 1444
These tablets set out the liturgy of a priestly brotherhood worshipping a number of Italic deities.
- Ih P'en Central American
a Mayan fertility-god and god of wealth consort of Ix Kanan
- Iha-naga Japanese
[Iwa-naga.Iwanaga.Rock-long Princess]
a goddess
the ugly daughter of Oho-yama sister of Sengen
Her father wanted Ninigi to marry her but he preferred her sister, Sengen. To avenge this insult, Iha-naga brought death to the human race.
- Iha-no Japanese
a goddess of longevity wife of Nintoku
- ihai Japanese
an ancestral tablet: a soul-commemoration (see also ancestor worship)
- Ihanam North American
the creator-god of the Chinook Indians
- Ihi Egyptian
[Ehu]
god of the sistrum
son of Hathor
- Ihi-yori-hiko Japanese
a fertility deity
- Ihinegba (see Hinegba)
- Iho-o-Kataka New Zealand
a magical tree
It is said that if a woman prays while clasping the tree, she will have a child – a boy if she stands on the east side of the tree, a girl if she stands on the west.
- Ihoiho Pacific Islands
a creator-god of the Society Islands
- Ihova Pacific Islands
the god of the Papuan cargo-cult
He is depicted as wearing modern Western clothes.
- Ihy Egyptian
[Ahy.Herusmatauy.Ify]
a god of music
son of Horus and Hathor or of Ra and Hathor
- I'i Pacific Islands
sister of Sava
She and her brother became ancestors of the people of Savai'i, a Samoan island.
- ija Persian [ia]
an evil spirit: a devil
- Ija-kyl Siberian
in Yakut lore, a spirit-animal
This spirit is said to appear to a shaman when he takes up his office, in the middle of that period and just before his death. It dies when the shaman dies and conveys the shaman's spirit to the Otherworld.
- Ijaksit (see Ajysit)
- ijim Hebrew
satyrs
- ijimere African [=Ashanti immoatia:=Brazil saci: =Dahomey aziazan:= Surinam apuku] forest spirits of Nigeria
- Ijuru African
a realm in the sky in the lore of the Banyarwanda
- Ik<sup>1</sup> Central American
the second of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the stage when the unborn child receives a soul (see also Twelve Ik)
- Ik<sup>2</sup> Central American
the wind, said to have been created on Twelve Ik, the twelfth day of the Mayan creation cycle
- Ika Roa Pacific Islands
the Polynesian Milky Way
- Ika Tere Pacific Islands
a Polynesian fish-god
Some say he created all sea-creatures.
- Ika-zuchi Japanese
a thunder-god
- Ikaiut (see Ycaiut)
- Ikal Ahau Central American
a Mayan god of death
He is said to attack humans at night and eat their flesh.
- Ikanam<sup>1</sup> North American
a creator-god of the Chinook
- ikanam<sup>2</sup> North American
[=Kwakiutl nuyam:=Thompson spetakl:
=Tshimshian adaox]

- in the lore of the Chinook, a myth or tale of the early days of the world
- Ikarios (see Icarus)
- Ikaros (see Icarus)
- Ike-no-nushi Japanese
a god of ponds
- Ikelos (see Icelus)
- Ikenqa African
a god of fortune of the Ibo people
- Ikh Egyptian
the existence after death
- Iki-Ryo Japanese
a spirit of anger or envy
It is believed that this spirit, directed at another, can cause illness or even death.
- Ikkaku-sennin Japanese a fallen god
He was a god who performed miracles but lost his powers when he allowed himself to be seduced by the pleasures of the flesh.
- Iko East Indian
the first man to die, in the lore of New Guinea
He left behind a sort of mirage which, ever since, has prevented the living (other than seers) from following him to the land of the dead.
- Ikonitra African
a servant of Raivato
When Iboniamasiboniamanoro came to rescue the maiden Iampelamananoro from the clutches of Ravaito who was holding her captive, he killed Ikonitra and donned his skin as a disguise to gain access to the house.
- Iksvashu Hindu
[Iksvasu]
a creator-god
son of Vaivasvata
father of Nimi and Vikukshi
He was said to have been born when Vaivasvata sneezed. Some say that he fathered 100 sons.
- Iksvasu (see Iksvashu)
- Ikto North American [Itome.Iktomi]
a Sioux culture-hero said to have invented speech
In some accounts he is equated with Ictinike.
- Iktome (see Ikto)
- Iktomi (see Ikto)
- Iku<sup>1</sup> African
the Yoruba god of death
- Iku<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
[Capella]
a form of Ishtar as a star
- Iku<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian
a form of Marduk as a star
- Iku-guhi (see Ikugupi)
- Iku-Ikasuchi Japanese
a Shinto thunder-god
He was one of the eight gods born from the charred body of Izanami.
- Iku-tama-yore-hime Japanese
a princess
mother of Oho-tata-ne-ko
A handsome youth came to her each night, disappearing through the keyhole at dawn. She tracked him to his home by stitching a thread to his clothing and found that he lived in a shrine on Mount Miwa. They had a son who was called Oho-tata-ne-ko.
- Ikugupi Japanese [Iku-guhi]
a Shinto goddess
consort of Tunogupi
These two deities were produced from a branch of the primaeval god, Umashiaskabihikoji.
- Ikumusubi Japanese
one of the Eight Imperial Deities
- Ikundu (see Likundu)
- Ikuzimu African
the land under the earth in the lore of the Banyarwanda
- Ikkxareyavs North American
ancestors of the Karok tribe, appearing in their myths
- II<sup>1</sup> Arab [Ilah.Ilmugah.Wadd.Warah]
an early moon-god
- II<sup>2</sup> (see E<sup>1</sup>)
- IIa<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands
in the lore of Samoa, the first woman (see also Ele'ele)
- IIa<sup>2</sup> (see Ida<sup>4</sup>)
- IIa-Ife (see Ile-Ife)
- IIa-IIai Langit East Indian
in the lore of the Dyaks, a primordial monster in the form of a fish This fish was created in the first of the three epochs of creation.
- IIalge Arab
a local Nabataean god
- IIansi African [Indaaka.Indeesa]
the supreme god of the Fipa people
- IIabrat Mesopotamian
[Ili-Abrat:=Sumerian Ninshubur]
an attendant of Anu
a Babylonian messenger of the gods
- IIah (see EI.II<sup>1</sup>)
- IIai Pacific Islands
an Indonesian sun-god consort of Indara
Together they made men by making stones and breathing life into them.
- IIaheva Pacific Islands
wife of the Tongan
- worm-god Eitumatupua
mother of Ahoietu
- Ilamatecuhtli Central American [Old Princess]
an Aztec goddess
a name of Cihuacoatl as 'old goddess'
In this role, she was the wife of Mixcoatl and bore seven sons, each of whom founded a major city.
She is also depicted as Tlaltecuhlti.
- Ilankaka African
wife of King Konkundo mother of Honde
- Ilapa (see Ilyapa)
- Ilat<sup>1</sup> African
a rain-god of Kenya and Uganda son of Tororut and Seta
He carries water for his father and any that he spills reaches the earth as rain.
- Ilat<sup>2</sup> Arab
a sun-goddess
consort of II (EI)
In some accounts she is Alilah.
- Ilat<sup>3</sup> (see Asherah)
- Ilix Norse
the Norse name for Lac
- Iilazki European [Iilargui.Iretargui]
a Basque moon-goddess
- Iilberg Irish
son of Manannan
In the battle between the gods which followed the Dagda's resignation, Iilberg fought for Midir.
- iilbinji Australian body-painting on men, designed to attract the opposite sex (see also grurwari)
- Iilbhreach (see Iilbrec)
- Iilbreach (see Iilbrec)
- Iilbrec Irish [Iilb(h)reach]
son of Manannan
lover of Aiofe
- Iildanach (see Samildanach)
- Iildathach Irish
a man of the Otherworld
He was drowned when Manannan sent a huge wave after the boat carrying the party eloping with Cliona.
- Iildico German [Hilda] a Burgundian princess wife of Attila
She killed her husband on their wedding night with the sword of Cheru to avenge the death of her father, killed by Attila in his conquests. This is the Germanic version of Gudrun, wife of Atli. (see also Gudrun<sup>2</sup>)

- Ile African
a Yoruba earth-goddess
- Ilé-Ifé African [Ila-Ife.Ilife]
a sacred city of the 17 deities of the Yoruba
This was the site at the centre of the world where humans were created and where the dead meet to be given instructions.
- Ilea (see Rhea Silvia)
- Ilele-a-Ngonda African
a name of Itonde as the god of copper-smiths and hunting
He used a magic bell, elefo, to predict the future and to with its sound, kill people. (see also Itonde)
- Ilem (see Ilmarinen)
- I'lena Siberian ['rain woman'] consort of Tenanto'mwan
- Ilex British
[Great Spirit]
an early god of longevity:
a holly-oak god
- Iluicatl Huixtotlan Central American
fifth of the 13 Aztec heavens, the home of Tonaleque
- Iluicatl Tlalocan
- Ili-Abrat (see Habrat)
- Iluicatl Tonatiuh Central American [Tollan]
fourth of the 13 Aztec heavens, home of Tonatiuh (see also Tonatiuican)
- Iluicatl Xoxouhcan Central American
eighth of the 13 Aztec heavens, home of Tlaloc (see also Tlalocan)
- Iluicatl Yayauhcan Central American
sixth of the 13 Aztec heavens, home of Tonacateuhitli
- Ilia<sup>1</sup> Greek
a Titaness
daughter of Uranus and Gaea
- Ilia<sup>2</sup> (see Rhea Silvia)
- Iliad, The Greek
Homer's poem telling the story of the Trojan War in 24 volumes
- Ilias Parva Greek
[Little Iliad]
one of the poems in the Epic Cycle
- Ilife (see Ile-Ife)
- Ilinot British
a son of King Arthur
He was raised by Florie and was so upset when she sent him away that he died of grief.
- Iliona (see Ilione)
- Ilione Greek
[Iliona]
daughter of Priam and Hecuba
- sister of Polydorus wife of Polymestor
mother of Deipylus
When her younger brother, Polydorus, was sent to the court of her husband, Polymestor, for safety during the siege of Troy, she reared him as her own. Her husband planned to kill Polydorus in order to take the treasure he had brought with him but Ilione substituted Deipylus who was killed by his own father.
In some accounts, she was the sister of Hecuba.
- ilisitsok (see ilisitsok)
- ilisitsok Inuit [ilisitsok]
a medicine-man with the power to invoke evil (see also angakoq)
- Ilithyia Greek
[Eil(e)ithyia.Eil(e)itheia.Eilithua.
Eleuthia.Eleuthyra.Ilythia:=Cretan
Eleuthia:=Egyptian Nekhbet:=Roman Juno.Lucina]
the goddess of childbirth
daughter of Zeus and Hera
In some versions, she was a primordial force, sister of Gaea, and laid the cosmic egg from which all else sprang.
In other versions there were originally two goddesses with this name, one presiding over birth, one prolonging labour pains. They later merged.
She tried to delay the birth of Heracles but was outwitted by Galanthis whom she turned into a weasel.
She is sometimes identified with Artemis or Hera. (see also Ilithyiae)
- Ilithyia-Leucothea Roman
an Etruscan fertility-goddess
- Ilithyiae Greek [Eileithyiae] daughters of Zeus and Hera
In some accounts there were several daughters acting as the goddesses of birth.
- Iliu Persis Greek
[Sack of Troy]
one of the poems in the Epic Cycle dealing with the fall of Troy, attributed to Arctinus
- Ilius Greek
founder of Troy (Ilium)
- Ilkxum Siberian
consort of Kutkhu
- Illa South American
[Illa-Ticci.Illa-Tiki.Illatici]
a thunder-god: a name for Viracocha as 'light'
- Illa-Ticci (see Illa)
- Illa-Tiki (see Illa)
- Illan (see Iollann)
- Illapa (see Ilyapa)
- Illargui (see Ilazki)
- Illatici (see Illa)
- Ille Estrange (see Estrangot)
- Illil (see Illilos)
- Illilos Mesopotamian
[Illil]
an alternative version of Enlil son of Assoros and Kisare
- Illinus Mesopotamian
a Babylonian god
brother of Anu
- Ultud (see Iltyd)
- Iltyd British [Ultud.Iltyd.Ultud]
a 6th c Welsh saint son of Rieingulid
He is said to have founded a monastery and, in some accounts, was one of King Arthur's warriors.
His feast day is November 6th.
- Illuyanka (see Illuankas)
- Illuyankas Mesopotamian
[Illuyanka:=Babylonian Tiamat: =Hebrew Leviathan]
a Hittite dragon
This monster was involved in a struggle with the weather-god, Teshub, and overcame him. In revenge, Inaras and Hupasiyas trapped the dragon and its offspring and bound them for the weather-god to kill.
In another version, the dragon took the eyes and heart of the weather-god who then begot a son who married Illuyankas' daughter and received the missing parts as a wedding gift. Whole again, Teshub killed the dragon and his own son. In some accounts, this son was Telepini. (see also Typhoon)
- Illyrius Greek
son of Cadmus and Harmonia
- Ilma<sup>1</sup> Finnish
a spirit of the air
mother of Ilmatar
This primaeval force preceded creation and produced the daughter, Ilmatar, who, in some accounts, fell from the heavens into the ocean where, mating with Ahti, the ocean, she produced countless sea creatures.
- Ilma<sup>2</sup> (see Ilmarinen)
- Ilma-samba (see Veralden.tshuold)
- Ilmaqah Semitic
a moon-god
- Ilmarine Baltic
an Estonian god based on the Finnish Ilmarinen

Ilmarinen<sup>1</sup>Baltic*

[Ilem.Ilma.Ismaroinen.Jen.Jumla.

San(g)ke:=-Estonian Ilmarine:

=Russian Inmar]

a Finnish sky-god, smith-god and god of weather (see also Ilmarinen<sup>2</sup>)Ilmarinen<sup>2</sup>Baltic*

[Ilem.Ilma.Ismaroinen.Jen.Jumla.

San(g)ke:=-Estonian Ilmarine:

=Russian Inmar]

a Finnish hero

son of Ilmatar

brother of Vainamoinen

consort of Kildisim

His brother Vainamoinen had been promised the hand of the daughter of Louhi if he could make a sampo. Ilmarinen was sent to her country, Pohjola, to make it. Using materials such as the feathers of a swan, barley and wool, he set about the task. From the flames of his furnace many wonderful objects appeared but he rejected them all as evil. Finally, the sampo emerged, a talisman with a mill on each of its three sides. When he presented it to Louhi's daughter, she married him instead of Vainamoinen.

When his wife died, he abducted her sister and, when she was unfaithful, he turned her into a bird.

He, with Vainamoinen, stole the sampo but it was smashed when Louhi caused a storm which wrecked their ship.

He is said to have taught mankind the arts of metalwork.

In one story, Vainamoinen caused a fir tree to grow until it reached the sky and Ilmarinen climbed the tree hoping to capture the moon. A magic wind sprang up and he was blown off the tree.

Some accounts distinguish between Ilmarinen, the sky-god, and the hero of the Kalevala while others say that Ilmarinen and Jumala are the same.

(see also Ilmarinen<sup>1</sup>)IlmatarBaltic*

[Daughter of the Air. Daughter of the Creator.Ilmator.Luonnotar. Sinnytar]

a Finnish creator-goddess and goddess of the air daughter of Ilma

mother of Vainamoinen

She floated in the primordial waters for 700 years and finally either mated with a bird or a teal laid its egg on her knee. The egg fell off and the shell broke, becoming the earth and sky.

In some accounts, the bird laid six golden eggs and one made of iron, and with these, Ilmatar filled the universe.

A similar story is told about Vainamoinen but in that case the bird was an eagle.

In another version, she fell into the ocean and mated with Ahti to produce Vainamoinen and also countless sea creatures.

As a goddess of birth, she was known as Luonnotar or Synnytar.

Ilmator (see Ilmatar)Ilmuqah (see El.II<sup>1</sup>)Ioibonok African medicine men of the Masai

Ilombo African

in Zambia, a familiar

This serpent-bodied being with a human head will suck the blood of its owner's enemies. If it is destroyed, the owner will die.

Ilos (see Ilus)Ilсан German

son of Herbrand

brother of Hildebrand

He was a monk of great strength who joined Dietrich's forces.

Ilse German

daughter of a giant

Her father did not approve of her affair with a mortal and, with his bare hands, tore the rocks apart to make a cleft between her house and that of her lover. Ilse threw herself into the cleft and was changed into an undine in the waters that filled it.

Iltyd (see Illytd)Ilu<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

['firmament']

a Samoan sky-god

This entity merged with Mamao to form the sky and together they produced Ao and Po.

ilu<sup>2</sup> Semitic

a word for a supernatural being such as a demon, god or spirit

Ilu<sup>3</sup> (see El.Enlil)Ilu Limnu Mesopotamian

an evil god or demon in Assyria

Ilu Salman (see Salman)Ilu Sar (see Shar)Ilu Tashmit Mesopotamian

a name for Nabu as a god or revelation

Ilu mer (see Idurmer)Ilus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Ilos]

king of Troy

son of Tros by Callirrhoe

brother of Assaræus and Ganymede husband of Eurydice

father of Laomedon and Themisto

He was instructed by an oracle to build the city of Troy. Zeus sent him the Palladium which, it was said, would ensure its safety as long as it remained in the city. (see also Ilus<sup>2</sup>)

Ilus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Dardanus

In some accounts, he is the same as Ilus, son of Tros.

Ilus<sup>3</sup> Greek

a king of Ephyra

son of Mermerus

Ilus<sup>4</sup> (see Ascanius)Ilya Muromets Russian

[Ilya Muromyets.Svyatogor]

a hero, one of the bogatiri

He was too weak to move until, at the age of thirty-three, he was given honey by pilgrims. From then on, he defended his country with a magic bow against all comers and killed the monster, Nightingale the Brigand.

He decreed the building of the cathedral at Kiev and died when it was complete when his body turned to stone. (see also Svyatogor)

Ilya Muromyets (see Ilya Muromets)Ilyapa South American

[Apu-illapu.Coqi-Ilya.II(())apa.

Inti-Ilyapa.Katoylla]

an Inca weather-god and god of thunder

He was replaced by Santiago.

Ilyon (see Iryon)Ilythia (see Ilithyia)Im Mesopotamian

a storm-god

Im-Zong Korean

a nobleman who adopted the goblin

Gil-Dal as his son

Imagheghan African

[Iwillemedan.Sons of Maghegh]

the 7 sons of the Tuareg

jinn Maghegh

Maghegh fathered a son on each of seven virgins and taught them all they would need to know when they became the founders of the seven clans.

Imana<sup>1</sup> African

a name for god

Imana<sup>2</sup> African

[Bigirimana.Habyarimana.Hashakimana.

Hategekimana.Ndagijimana]

the supreme god and creator-god of the Banyarwanda

He created the world in three layers, each supported on wooden props, one above the other. He lived in the topmost world, the next below was the world of living things and the lowest was the world of the dead.

Imana<sup>3</sup> African

a creator-god of the Burundi

He made Kihanga, the first man.

imandwa African ghosts of the Banyarwanda

Imap South American
a water-monster

Imap-ukua Inuit
a sea-goddess

She was said to control all the animals in the sea.

Imaymana Viracocha South American son of Pachayachachic, some say brother of Tocado Viracocha

He was sent to earth to teach the tribes the names and properties of all living things.

Imbas forosnai Irish acquisition of wisdom by chewing the thumb

This is featured in the story of Finn mac Cool and the Welsh story of Gwion.

Imbath Irish
father of Sainnth

Imbe Hironari
(see Imibe-no-Hironari)

Imberomba (see Imberombera)

Imberombera Australian [Imberomba.Waramurungundju]

an ancestress of the Kakadu tribe of Aborigines

consort of Wuraka

When she met and mated with Wuraka, she instantly produced all living things to which Wuraka gave names. When it was all over, they walked out into the sea from whence they came and disappeared.

Imbolc Irish [Earrach.Feile Bhríde.Feile Bríghde.

Imbolg.Oi(l)melc.Oi(l)melg]

a festival of the sun in honour of Brigit, February 1st

Imbolg (see Imbolc)

Imbreke Norse
a nephew of Ermenrich

brother of Fritele

These two brothers were hanged by King Ermenrich when Sibich told the king that they lusted after the queen, Swanhild.

Imbrifer Greek
a name for Orion as 'bringer of rain'

Imder Norse
daughter of Aegir and Ran one of the nine Wave-maidens,
in some accounts

Imdugud Mesopotamian
a name of Ninurta as rain-god

In some versions, Imdugud and Ninurta were originally the same deity who developed into two widely different beings.

Imdugud (or Zu) once stole the Tablets of Destiny from Enlil but they were recovered by Ninurta.

He is depicted as a storm-bird with the head of a lion. (see also Imgug.Zu)

Imelot German
a king of Babylonia

When Imelot attacked Constantinople, the Lombards, who had earlier been imprisoned by the emperor Constantine, helped to rout Imelot's forces and took him prisoner. He later escaped and made a second invasion when he tried to force Oda, the emperor's daughter, into marriage with his son who was an ugly hunchback. Rother arrived in time to save her, killing both Imelot and his son.

Imenarete Greek
mother of Elphenor by Chalcadon

Imgig (see Imgug)

Imgug Mesopotamian
[Imgig]

a divine eagle, a royal symbol in Sumerian lore (see also Imdugud.Zu)

Imheptep (see Imhotep)

Imhotep Egyptian
[(e)mhetep.Ptah.=Greek

Asclepius. Imouth(es)]

a god of learning, medicine, scribes

a pharaoh, later fully deified son of Sakhmet or of Ptah and a mortal woman

He was a scholar of the 26th c BC, said to have designed the first pyramid, and was deified as Ptah.

Imhulla Mesopotamian
a supporter of Marduk in his struggle with Tiamat

Imibe-no-Hironari Japanese
[Imbe Hironari]

a 9th c writer, author of Kogoshu

Imilozi African ['whistlers']

ancestor-spirits of the Zulu

Their function was to pass on to men the secrets of, and messages from, the gods but their whistling language was incomprehensible and so no messages got through.

imiut<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a fetish in the form of the skin of an animal's head stuffed and tied to a pole

Imiut<sup>2</sup> (see Imy-Ut)

Imix Central American
the first of the 20 ages of man in

Mayan lore, the start of life's journey (see also Eleven Imix)

Immaculate, The (see Anahita)

Immanuence (see Lud)

Immap Ukua (see Sedna)

Immat Afghan
a demon

He is said to carry off virgins.

Immer (see Ishkur)

immortal<sup>1</sup>

a god

immortal<sup>2</sup>

living forever: exempt from dying

Immortal Chang (see Chang Hsien)

Immortal Holy Ones

(see Amesha Spentas)

Immortal Mountain (see Mount Fuji)

Immortal One (see I-ti)

Immortal Youth (see Hsien T'ung)

immortality

the state of eternal existence:

exemption from death

Immortals (see Eight Immortals)

immram Irish

[imram:plur=immrama]

folk-tales of mysterious voyages

Immram Curaig Maile Duin Irish

an early story of a voyage of Maeldun

immrama (see immram)

Imogen British

[Ignoge]

daughter of Pandrasus

wife of Brutus

When Brutus led a revolt of the Trojan exiles and captured her father, Imogen was given to Brutus as a wife and left Greece with him when he sailed for Britain.

Imouth Greek

[Im(o)uthes]

the Greek name for Imhotep

Imouthes (see Imouth)

imp

a sprite: a wicked spirit

Impartial Giver (see Dionysus)

Imperator Roman

a name for Jupiter as 'supreme leader'

Imperfect Mountain Chinese

[Pu Chou Shan]

a mountain impaled by Kung Kung in his attempt to destroy the world

Imperial Ancestor (see T'ien)

Impersonal Buddha (see Amida)

Imperturbable, The (see Akshobhya)

Impetuous Male (see Susanowa)

Imporcitor Roman

a god of agriculture

Impundulu African

an incubus in the form of a bird

This being will attack and kill any human lover of the woman it has intercourse with. The child of any such union will be a vampire.

Imra Afghan

[Amra.Yamri]

a creator-god of the Kafir

consort of Utr
father of Gish
He is said to have been born of a giantess with tusks and to have created the other gods by swirling his breath inside a golden goatskin.

(see also Shomde)

imram (see immram)

imrama (see immram)

Imset (see Amset)

Imseti (see Amset)

Imsety (see Amset)

Imsu (see Min)

Imuthes (see Imouth)

Imy-ut Egyptian

[Imiut]

a minor god

a name of Anubis as 'one in the mortuary'

In<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[=Chinese Yang;=Tibetan Yab]

the positive, light, male principle: sky

In combined with Yo to form the cosmic egg which split to form the earth (Yo) and the sky (In) while the embryo formed the Separate Heavenly Deities. (see also Yo)

In<sup>2</sup> (see Phra In)

In-Ab Mesopotamian

the pilot of Ea's ship

In Lao Thai

a princess

wife of Kham Daeng

She took the form of a golden hind to lure the king, Kham Daeng, into a wonderful palace built inside a mountain and became his wife.

In-Yo Japanese

[=Chinese Yin.Yang;=Hindu Sri Yantra:

=Tibetan Yab-Tum]

the opposing principles of male/female, light/dark,
positive/negative, etc.

Ina<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

[Rona;=Samoan (Ma) Sina:

=Tahitian Hina]

a moon-goddess of the

Hervey Islands

daughter of Kui

sister of Rupe and Tangi-Kuku

wife of Tinirau

mother of Aroture and Koro

She used to ride on the back of fish.

Ina<sup>2</sup> (see Hina)

Ina-Bikari (see Inazuma)

Ina-da Samdulo Hose Pacific Islands

mother of Lature and Lowalangi

She bore two sets of mixed twins.
Lowalangi married Lature's twin sister, and they became ancestors of the Nias tribe.

Ina'hitelan Siberian

a sky-god

father of Ya'halan, some say

Ina-Tsurubi (see Inazuma)

Inabizoza African

wife of Mutaga

mother of Mwambudza

Inachus<sup>1</sup> Greek

a river

It was said that Athena renewed her virginity by bathing in this river.

Inachus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a river-god

first king of Argos

son of Oceanus and Tethys husband of Melia

father of Aegialeus, Argus, Io

and Phoroneus

When Io was abducted by Zeus, he pursued them so the god sent the Furies to drive him mad and he jumped into the river Carmena or Haliacmon, later called the Inachus.

Inada Japanese

[Kusa-nada.Kushi-nada.Kushinada]

a Shinto love-goddess and rice-goddess

daughter of Ashi-nadzuchi and

Te-nadzuchi

wife of Susanowa

mother of Ya-Shima-Ji-Nu-Mi and

Kamu-O-Ichi

Her seven sisters had been devoured
by the eight-headed dragon, Yamatono Orochi, and she was to be the next victim. Susanowa changed her into a comb, then got the serpent drunk so that he could kill it and, returning Inada-hime to her proper form,
married her.

Inagi-utasunhi North American

a malevolent Cherokee deity

Inana (see Inanna)

Inangi-I-Bake (see Bake)

Inanna Mesopotamian

[Astarte.Inana.Innana.Innini.Innin(ina).

Nana.Ninanna.Nin(in)ni.Ninsinna.

Queen of Heaven.'sky lady':=Akkadian

Ish(t)ar;=Phrygian Cybele:

=Babylonian Nina]

the Sumerian mother-goddess, goddess of fertility, love and war

daughter of An or Enlil or Sin

twin sister of Ereshkigal wife of Dumuzi

mother of Nergal and Ninurta,

some say

In some accounts she was created by Anu as his consort.

She descended to the underworld Kur, hoping to impose her authority on her sister Ereshkigal who ruled there.

She was admitted by Neti to each of the seven realms but removed one symbol of her power at each gateway. She was then killed and suspended from a stake.
The gods sent two sexless beings to revive her and bring her back but, to rid herself of the demons that continued to harry her, she was required to provide a substitute for herself and so she sacrificed her husband Dumuzi, who had been unfaithful in her absence, and Geshtinanna who, with Dumuzi, served alternate periods of six months in the underworld.

This is an earlier version of the same story about Ishtar. Some accounts distinguish between this goddess and Inanna, a Babylonian mother- goddess, and some say that Inanna is the same as Ereshkigal.

Inapatua (see Inapertwa)

Inapertwa Australian

[Inapatua]

primitive, rudimentary beings

These beings were used by the Numbakulla for making animals, birds and plants. Some were even made into humans.

Inar (see Inara)

Inara Mesopotamian

[Inar(as).Innara]

a Hittite goddess

daughter of Teshub

When the dragon Illuyankas overcame
the weather-god, Teshub, she and her lover Hupasiyas made the monster and its offspring drunk and tied them up so that Teshub could kill them. Others say they trapped the dragon by giving it so much food that it got wedged in the passage to its underground lair.

She built a house for Hupasiyas and ordered him not to look out in case he should see his wife and family. When he disobeyed, she killed him.

In another version, Inara was a Hittite god (also known as Lama) who usurped the heavenly throne but was overthrown by Ea.

Inaras (see Inara)

Inari<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[Inari-M'yogin.Spirit of Rain.

Vixen-goddess]

a Shinto god of food

husband of Uke-mochi

After his wife was killed by the moon-god Tsukiyomi, Inari became identified with her, taking over her duties, though in some versions this is a female deity.

In some accounts, both he and Uke-mochi are regarded as aspects of Ugonomitama.

He was sometimes seen as a fox (or riding on a fox) and is often depicted as a bearded man with two foxes.

(see also Ugonomitama)

Inari<sup>2</sup> Japanese
fox-shrines

These Shinto shrines, dedicated to the god Inari, have images of seated foxes at the entrance.

Inari-M'yogin (see Inari<sup>1</sup>)

Inaruchaba African

daughter of Kihanga, the first man wife of Kanyarundi

mother of Mwezi

She got lost in the forest but survived when she found a herd of cows and drank their milk.

Inazuma Japanese

[Ina-Bikari.Ina-Tsurubi]

a Shinto lightning-goddess

incarnation

a manifestation of a god: the possession of a medium by a spirit

Incitatus Roman

the horse of Caligula

The emperor appointed this animal to be a consul and priest.

incubation

sleeping in a sacred place for inspiration or cure

In some cases, the incubant sacrificed an animal and slept in its hide.

incubi (see incubus)

Incubo Greek

a name for Faunus as a spirit of nightmares or buried treasures

incubus

[plur=incubi:=Celtic dusius]

a devil in male body: a spirit attacking

women during the night

Early accounts regard the incubus as a fallen angel. In some accounts the incubus rides his victim, sometimes even to the point of death from exhaustion. The offspring of such a union are monsters of all descriptions.

Incwala African

a Swazi festival invoking tribal ancestors

Indaaka (see Ilaansi)

Indaji African

a famous Nigerian hunter

He could attract animals by whistling and killed so many that the forest-god ordered him to kill no more than one per day. When he killed three antelopes, they changed into lions and attacked him. They all changed shape several times until Indaji changed himself into a tree and was burnt in a forest fire.

Indar<sup>1</sup> Persian

an early moon-god

Indar<sup>2</sup> (see Indra<sup>2</sup>)

Indech (see Inneach)

Indeesa (see Ilaansi)

Indeg British

a mistress of King Arthur daughter of Garwy

Inder (see Indr)

Indera Pacific Islands

[Batara Guru:=Japanese Taishaku:

=Sanskrit Indra]

a supreme god

Indera can appear as a mortal prince,

Indra Kamajaya; one such was the prince

Arjuna, hero of The Mahabharata.

Indera Bayu Malay

[Divine Wind]

a magical bird

This bird, owned by Chaya Bulan, was said to be omniscient and had the power to cure illness by singing. She became a minister to the king, Budiman.

Indiges<sup>1</sup> Greek

the title of Aeneas in heaven

Indiges<sup>2</sup> Roman

[plur=Indigit(i)es]

a class of minor gods or gods with limited functions

These deities, especially those who were descended from Aeneas, were mortals who had been deified.

Indigities (see Indiges<sup>2</sup>)

Indigo Flower (see Nilawata)

Indigo Lady (see Hina-uri)

Indira (see Lakshmi)

Indiren Persian

a demon, one of the Austatikco-Pauligaur

Indombe (see Sunset Serpent)

Indr Afghan

[Indr]

a Kafir weather-god and god of wine

father of Disani and Pano, some say

Indra<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Aptya.Bhatara Guru.Divaspati.

Gadhi.Is(h)vara.Is(h)wara).

Mahendra.Meghavahana.Prajapati.

Purandara.Sa-yoni.Sakka.Samraj.

Sarasraksha.Sayoni.Shachipati.

Shakra.Svargapati.Trita.Vajrapani.

Vajri.Vasava.Vishvakarma.Vritrahan.

Vrtraghna:=Buddhist Amoghasiddhi.

Sakra=Burmese Hkun-sa-ya:=Cambodian

Prah En:=Chinese Ti-shih.We-i-t'o.

Yin-to-lo:=Greek Zeus:=Japanese

Shaka.Taishaku=Persian

Verethragna:=Tamil Venda]

the supreme god, god of fertility,

heavens, rain, war

son of Dyaus Pitar and Aditi or Prithivi

son of Dyaus and Niskitgri, some say son of Tvashtri by a cow or Nishtigri,

some say

consort of Indrani

father of Jayanta, Jayanti, Midhusa,

Nilambara, Purnavijara and Rsabha

father of the monkey-king Sugriva

Originally the god of the Aryan invaders of North India, or even a mortal later deified, he was adopted

into the Hindu pantheon and later demoted to become god of the paradise, Svarga.

He is regarded as one of the Dikpalas, guardian of the east with his elephant, Airavata.

He was said to have been born fully developed from his mother's side,

ready to fight the forces of evil.

Ahi, the drought-serpent, had swallowed all the primaeval waters so

Indra split open the monster's stomach

with one of his thunderbolts to release the waters to create life. He also rescued the cloud cattle, the sacred cows, when they were stolen by Ahi.

Another version says that the cattle were swallowed by a different demon,

Vritra, made by the sage Tvastri to kill

Indra who had killed Tvastri's threeheaded son. In this story, Vritra also swallowed Indra who escaped when the other gods forced open the demon's jaws. Vishnu formed himself into a knife and cut off the monster's head. In some stories, this monster is called Namuci.

Indra then created a new universe in which the sky rested on pillars of gold and the mountains became fixed in position when he cut off their wings.

When he seduced Ahalya, her husband, Gotama, caused 1,000

impressions of the female genitalia to appear on Indra's skin as a result of which he became known as Sa-Yoni.

These marks later changed to eyes. As punishment he was imprisoned by

Ravana, the demon-king, and released only on the intervention of Brahma. In other accounts, Gotama cursed him and he lost his testicles.

Some say he could assume the form of an insect.

He owned the horse Uccaihsravas which appeared at the Churning of the Ocean.

He was killed by his own son, Dyauś.

His weapon was the thunderbolt, Vajra, and he is depicted as red or gold, sometimes riding in a chariot drawn by two (1,100 or 10,000) horses, at other times riding an elephant.

He is depicted with a beard which, it is said, flashed like lightning and sometimes with seven arms bearing a diadem, a discus, a goad, prayer-beads, a sickle, a sword and the vajra. Seven rivers flow from him.

(see also Pajanya. Trita Aptya)

Indra<sup>2</sup> Persian

[Andar. 'apostasy'. Indar] a demon opposing Asha

indra jala (see maya<sup>4</sup>)

Indra Kamajaya (see Indera)

Indra-Loka Hindu

one of the realms of the universe, the home of the minor gods

(see also Svarga)

Indra-pura Hindu

Indra's city: paradise

Indra Puspa Malay

a princess

wife of Asmara Dewa

She was bitten by a snake but was cured by Asmara Dewa, who had a magic jewel given to him by a king of the cobras, and married her saviour.

Indrabhuti Tibetan

a king

a Lamaist sorcerer

father of Lashmikara

Indrajit Hindu

son of Ravana and Mandodari

He wounded both Rama and Lakshmana in the battle when Rama attacked Ravana's fortress to recover Rama's wife, Sita.

Indrani Hindu

[Aindri. Paulomi.=Greek Hera]

a goddess of wrath

one of the 7 Mataras

one of the 8 Matrikas

one of 9 Navasaktis

daughter of Puloman

consort of Indra

mother of Jayanta, Midhusa,

Nilambara, Rbhus and Rsabha

She was opposed to the demon Matsurya and remained perpetually young, renewing herself fourteen times in each day of Brahma.

She is depicted with a thousand eyes and accompanied by a lion or an elephant.

Indrasena Hindu

son of Nala and Damayanti

brother of Indraseni

Indraseni Hindu

daughter of Nala and Damayanti

sister of Indrasena

Indu Hindu

the moon (see also Chandra.Soma<sup>1</sup>)

Indu-Mani (see Chandra-Kanta)

Induja (see Narmada)

Indukari Hindu

a goddess

consort of Samba

Indumati Hindu

a princess

wife of Aja

mother of Dasha-ratha

She was asleep in her orchard when she was suffocated by flowers.

Indurman Afghan

a Kafir deity of fruit and wine

Indwano African

chief diviner of the court of Ruhaga

Inemes Pacific Islands

a goddess

sister of Anulap

Inevitable River Chinese

a river in hell

The travelling spirit must cross this river. The good pass over the Fairy Bridges, accompanied by the Golden Youth, while the evil are forced to cross a bridge only an inch or so wide.

Inferi Roman

gods and inhabitants of the underworld (see also Superi)

inferiae Roman

offerings to the spirits of the dead

infernal

pertaining to the underworld

Infernal Court

the ruling body in hell

This court is said to comprise a hierarchy of princes, ministers, ambassadors, justices, houses of princes and lesser pleasures.

infernal

a collection of writing relating to hell

inferni Roman

spirits of the departed

inferno<sup>1</sup>

hell

Inferno<sup>2</sup> European

the first of the 3 books of Dante's

Divine Comedy

infernus Roman

hell

infestation

an act of violence caused by an evil spirit

Infideles

a 12th c order of the damned, the unbelievers

Infinite Life (see Amitayas)

Inflamer Hindu

one of the 5 arrows carried by Kama

Infoniwoo Chinese

In Taiwanese lore, a creator-god

Ing<sup>1</sup> European

a Danish founder-god

He is said to have come from over the sea to found the Saxon race, after which he disappeared.

Ing<sup>2</sup> (see Ingvi-Frey)

Ingcel British

a British chieftain

This one-eyed chief was exiled from Britain and joined the three foster-brothers of Conary in a raid in which his own parents and seven brothers were killed. They were later involved in the attack on the Da Derga Hostel in Ireland where Conary was killed.

Ingeborg<sup>1</sup> Norse

daughter of a king of Sogn

sister of Belé

wife of Thorsten

mother of Frithiof

When Jokul conquered the kingdom he killed Ingeborg's father, banished her brother Belé and turned her into a witch. She saved Thorsten from the sea when Jokul called up a storm that twice shipwrecked him and when Thorsten found the exiled Belé and restored him to the throne she was restored to her former self and married Thorsten.

Ingeborg<sup>2</sup> Norse

daughter of Belé

sister of Halfdan and Helgé

wife of Sigurd Ring

Her father was king of Sogn. As a child she played with Frithiof, Thorsten's son.

She fell in love with Frithiof and he asked for her hand in marriage at the enthronement of her brothers Helgé and Halfdan as joint-kings on the death of Belé, but Helgé rejected his suit because Frithiof's father was a commoner. She was sought as a wife by Sigurd Ring, king of Ringric, but he was upset by a joking remark about his age made by Halfdan and sent an invading army. When Frithiof refused to help them, the brothers made peace with Sigurd Ring under which they paid him an annual tribute and gave him Ingeborg in marriage. She met Frithiof in Hoder's temple and they broke the most sacred law by speaking within that holy precinct. He gave her the armband of Volund as a love-token.

In some stories she married Frithiof after the death of Sigurd Ring.

Ingeborg<sup>3</sup> Norse
an attendant on Hunvor wife of Halfdan

Ingeld Norse
[Ingellus] leader of the Heathorbard tribe
husband of Freawaru

In some versions, Ingeld was the son of the Danish king, Frodi, and, despite the fact that his father was killed at the court of the Saxon king, Swertung, married that king's daughter. He later repudiated her and killed her brothers.

Ingelheim European [Home of the Angel]
one of Charlemagne's palaces

It was here that Charlemagne was visited by an angel who told him to go out and steal something.

Ingellus (see Ingeld)

Ingheanach Irish
wife of Gabhra

She gave birth to twin girls and her husband exchanged one of them for one of the twin boys born at the same time to Feidhilm, wife of Eochu.

Ingimund Norse
[Ingimundr]
son of Thorstein and Thordis
father of Thorstein

He became a famous seafarer and eventually became a chieftain in Iceland where, when very old, he was killed by a young relative.

Ingimundr (see Ingimund)

Ingléson West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit

This spirit lives among the rocks and eats those who upset him.

Inglings Norse
descendants of Frey

Ingnersuit Inuit
fire-people

These people are said to live in cliffs near the sea. Some, the pug-nosed ones, are friendly to man but the noseless ones are inimical.

Ingolf Norse
[Ingolfr] son of Thorstein
grandson of Ingimund

He inherited the chieftancy started by his grandfather when his own father died but was soon killed in an ill-planned raid on a robber-band. The chieftancy then passed out of the family.

Ingolfr (see Ingolf)

Ingr (see Ingvi-Frey)

Ingrama European
an evil Basque spirit

This spirit is said to come by night and throttle people.

Ingumar-Frey (see Ingvi-Frey)

Ingumbane African
an incubus in the form of a snake

Ingun (see Norse) [Yngvi]

an aspect of Freya as a fertility-goddess

Inguz German [Ingwaz]
a fertility-god

Ingvar (see Ivar)

Ingvi (see Ingvi-Frey)

Ingvi-Frey Norse
[Ing(r).Ingumar-Frey.Ingunar-Frey.
Ingvi.Yng(ve).Yngvi(-Frey)]
a later incarnation of Frey as ruler of Sweden

Ingwaz (see Inguz)

Inhert (see Anhur)

Ini-Init (see Aponitolau)

Ininna (see Ishtar)

Inis Boi Irish
the island house of Cailleach Bheur (Boi)

Inis Ealga Irish
[Innis Ealga.The Noble Isle]
an early name for Ireland, used by the Milesians

Inis Fail Irish [Inishail.Innis Fail.Isle of Destiny]
an early name for Ireland

Inis Manann Irish
[Innis Manann]
the Isle of Man regarded as the home of Manannan

Inis Mor (see Inishmore)

Inishail (see Inis Fail)

Inishmore Irish [Inis Mor]
the island on which the saint Enda built his monastery

Inkanyamba African
a Zulu storm-god or goddess

Inkari South American [Inkarri]
an ancestor of the Q'ero people of Peru

He and his mate, Collari, were created by the Apus to repopulate the country after Raol had killed the existing people with the heat of the sun.

Another story says that Inkari was a god of the sun who was beheaded. His head was hidden in a secret location where it is still alive and growing a new body. As soon as the body is complete, the god will appear once again and restore his people to their former glory.

Inkoto African
the sword of Kanyarundi

Inktomi North American ['spider'] a trickster-god of the Dakotas

Innar Russian [=Estonian Ilmarine:=Finnish Ilmarinen]
a Votyak sky god
son, or husband of Kildisin-mummy

Inmutef Egyptian
a minor god, regarded as 'he who holds up the heavens'

Inn of Dawn (see Pacari)

Inn of Origin (see Pacari)

Innana (see Inanna)

Innara (see Inara)

Inneach Irish [Indech.Inneach mac De Domhnnan]
a king of the Fomoiré son of Domnu
father of Octrliallach

He and Balor raised the army which invaded Ireland to restore Bres as king but they were defeated at the second Battle of Moytura. In some accounts he is referred to as Indech and was killed at Moytura by Ogma.

Innel Irish
a warrior of Connaught
Both he and his charioteer, Fochlam, were killed when they challenged Cuchulainn at the ford.

Innin (see Inanna)

Innini (see Inanna)

Inninina (see Inanna)

Innis (see Inis)

Innsa Irish
foster-brother of Finn's son, Fiachna

He was with Finn mac Cool and the party of Fianna at the Quicken Trees Hostel and defended the ford leading to the hostel against the war-band led by one of the chieftains under Sinsar, King of the World, killing most of them. He fell under the sword of the chieftain who was killed soon afterwards by Fiachna.

Innuus Roman [Inuus]
a fertility-god, god of shepherds
In some accounts, he is equated with Faunus as 'fertiliser'.

Ino Greek
[Leucothea.Leucothoe.Leukothea.

Mater Matuta.Plastene.White Goddess] daughter of Cadmus and Harmonia sister of Agave, Autonöe and Semele second wife of Athamas mother of Learchus and Melicertes
She sheltered the infant Dionysus, born to her sister Semele, until Zeus had him moved to Mount Nysa under the care of the nymphs. For this, the jealous Hera drove Ino mad. Ino, with her sisters Agave and Autonöe, tore to pieces Pentheus, son of Agave.

She tricked Athamas into offering Phrixus, his son by his first wife Nephele, in sacrifice to avenge herself on Nephele, but Phrixus and his sister Helle escaped on the back of the ram with the golden fleece.

Hera drove Athamas mad and Ino had to flee to escape his death by his sword. She jumped into the sea and was drowned but was deified as Leucothea, a sea-goddess and goddess of the Centaurs, for taking care of Dionysus. Some say she was the mother of the Centaurs.

Her son, Melicertes, who was drowned with her or, in some accounts, was killed and boiled in a pot by his mother, became the god Palaemon.

When the raft on which Odysseus left Calypso's island was wrecked in a storm it was Ino who saved him by giving him her veil which protected him from harm as he abandoned the raft and swam for two days.

In another version, she left Athamas who then married Themisto. When Ino returned, she tried to kill Themisto's children but succeeded in killing her own two sons instead.

Inogen British

daughter of Merlin, in some accounts
Some say that King Arthur fell in love with her.

Inomème West Indian

[Maîtresse Inomème]
a Haitian voodoo spirit

Inoshishi Japanese

a female bear
It is said that this beast chases away snakes and her name is used to the same end.

Inpw (see Anubis)

Inriri West Indian

a woodpecker
Once there were men but no women. Then one day four beings with no sexual organs fell out of the trees. The men tied these beings up and Inriri, thinking they were trees, pecked holes in their bodies, forming vaginas.

Inta Central American

an Aztec fire-god

Intare African

a king in Burundi
son of Mwambudza

On his accession to the throne, he asked King Ruhaga for his daughter,

Juru, as a wife. Ruhaga sent Kikore, her half-sister, in her place. Intare, in disguise, entered Ruhaga's court and eloped with Juru.

When his country was affected by drought, he went to the top of the highest mountain and struck the yellow stone, Iyogera. A river then flowed from the stone to become the source of the Nile. (see Kanyarundi)

Intare Rushadi (see Kanyarundi)

Intelligent Pearl (see Ling Chu-tzu)

Intercidona Roman

a goddess of birth

In some accounts, Intercidona is one of three deities present at the birth of every child to ward off any advances by Silvanus. This deity is a hewer of wood; Deverra does the sweeping up and Pilumnus pounds the grain.

Her symbol is a chopper.

Inti South American

[Apo-Inti.Apu Punchau.Con Inti.

Inti Wawqi.Intu]

the sun-god of the Incas

brother and consort of Mama Kilya

father of Ayar Ayca, Ayar Cachi, Ayar

Manco, Ayar Oco, Mama Oello,

Manco Capac

He sent his children to earth to start the Inca civilisation wherever the golden wedge he gave them sank into the earth.

He is depicted as a golden solar disc with a human face.

(see also Children of the Sun)

Inti-Ilyapa (see Ilyapa)

Inti raimi South American

an Inca festival of the sun, celebrated at the winter solstice

At this ceremony, a black llama was sacrificed and its entrails used for divination.

Inti-Wawqi Central American

an aspect of Inti as 'brother of the sun'

intichiuma Australian

[intijiuma.intichiuma]

an Aboriginal rite intended to increase food supplies and fertility

intijiuma (see intichiuma)

intichiuma (see intichiuma)

Intu (see Inti)

Intulo African

the lizard in the Zulu story of creation

inu<sup>1</sup> Japanese

a sign (dog) of the Zodiac

inu<sup>2</sup> North American celestial spirits of the Inuit

inu-gama-mochi Japanese

dog-god owners

These are people who own or are in league with dogs with supernatural powers. The dog's spirit is said to leave the body which sometimes dies before the spirit returns. In such a case, the spirit enters a magician.

inua Inuit

[plur=inue]

the spirit of the individual

All things have an inua – in the case of a human being it is the soul. Inue can appear as fire, stars, mermen, etc.

inue (see inua)

Inuus (see Innuus)

Inuuyalau Pacific Islands

a man with a very long penis

It was said that he could impregnate women while standing many yards away. When the men of the village attacked him, he left, cutting off pieces of the offending organ as he went.

Invasion Myths Irish

the tales of the successive waves of people invading and settling in Ireland

These tales, as told in The Book of Invasions, mention six waves:

1. Cessair (or Banba) with a party of fifty-four, most of whom perished in the flood.

2. Partholians who were decimated by plague.

3. Nemedians of whom only nine survived shipwreck to reach Ireland. Their descendants were defeated by the Fomoiré and the thirty survivors left for Britain and Greece.

4. Fir Bolgs, descendants of Nemed, in three tribes, from Greece and/or Spain.

5. Danaans, also descendants of Nemed, who defeated the Fir Bolg and the Fomoiré.

6. Milesians who defeated the Danaans.

Alternative listings omit Cessair in one case and the Fir Bolgs in another.

Invictus Roman

a name of Jupiter as 'invincible'

Invidia Roman

[=Greek Phthonus]

a god of envy

invultuation

the making of an image to use in witchcraft: the use of such an image

Inyan North American

['rock']

one of the 4 Superior Gods of the Sioux, an aspect of Wakan Tanka

inyana African
a Zulu sorcerer

These men are said to be able to communicate with the ancestral spirits of the tribe, known as the Itongo.

Inzak (see Enshag)

Io' Greek

[Callirrhoe.Callithyia.'moon']

White Goddess;=Egyptian Isis]

a river-nymph, a priestess of Hera daughter of Inachus and Melia mother of Epaphus by Zeus

In some accounts, she was the daughter of Iasus.

Zeus fell in love with Io and when Hera caught him with her he changed Io into a cow denying that he had touched any woman. Hera begged to be given the cow which she then put in the charge of the 100-eyed Argus. Hermes lulled the guardian to sleep with music and Zeus killed him and released Io.

Hera sent a gadfly to torment Io which pursued her in her wanderings during which she came upon Prometheus chained to a rock but could not help him.

After travelling through many lands, still in the form of a cow, she settled in Egypt where she was returned to human form by Zeus and bore his son Epaphus though married to Telegonus. She became assimilated into the goddess Isis and Epaphus to the bull-god, Hapy. (see also Selene)

Io' New Zealand

[Iao.Io-Mata-Aho.Io-Mata-Kana.Io-Mata-

Ngaro.Io-Matua.Io-Nui.Io-Roa.Io-te-

Waioira.Io-te-Wananga.Io-Taketake.

Io-Tikitiki-o-Rangi.Iao]

a creator-god of the Maori

(see also Tē Tumu)

Io-Mata-Aho New Zealand

a name for Io as 'the invisible'

Io-Mata-Kana New Zealand

a name for Io as 'the vigilant'

Io-Mata-Ngaro New Zealand

a name for Io as 'hidden face'

Io-Matua New Zealand

a name for Io as 'parent'

Io-Nui New Zealand

a name for Io as 'the great'

Io-Roa New Zealand

a name for Io as 'long-tailed'

Io-Taketake New Zealand

a name for Io as 'unchanging'

Io-te-Waioira New Zealand

a name for Io as 'source of life'

Io-te-Wananga New Zealand

a name for Io as 'the source of knowledge'

Io Tikitiki-o-Rangi (see Io<sup>2</sup>)

Io (see Io<sup>2</sup>)

Iobates Greek

king of Lycia

father of Anteia and Philonoë

Proetus sent Bellerophon to the court of Iobates with a request that Iobates should kill the bearer who had been accused of raping Anreia, the wife of Proetus. Instead, Iobates sent Bellerophon to kill the Chimaera and on various other dangerous tasks.

Iocasta (see Jocasta)

Iocaste (see Jocasta)

Iocauna (see Guamaonocon)

Iocce Greek

a deity, rout personified

Iodame Greek

a maiden seduced by Zeus

In some accounts she bore a daughter, Thebe. Others say that she is the same as Europa.

Iodhan Moran Irish

a breastplate of judgement

iodhi Baltic

[murgi]

souls of the dead: spirits of the air

Iodhnait Irish

mother of Fionnchu

She slept with Findlugh and bore him a son who spoke in the womb, breaking open several vats of ale, and who later became a saint.

Ioi North American

sister of Blue Jay in the lore of the

Chinook Indians

She was claimed as a bride by the dead and carried off to the land of the Supernatural People. Here Blue Jay found her watching over the bones of her dead relatives which, from time to time, became human for a while.

In another story, Ioi gave her brother five buckets of water with which to extinguish prairie fires but he disobeyed her instructions and was so badly burned that he died.

Iokaste (see Jocasta)

Iokul (see Jokul)

Iolanus (see Iolaus)

Iolaos (see Iolaus)

Iolaus Greek

[Iolanus.Iolaos]

son of Iphicles and Astyoche

or Automedusa

Heracles took this lad, his nephew, as his charioteer during the period of his Labours. At the end of this period, he gave his wife, Megara, to Iolaus. In some stories, Iolaus is sixteen when he takes Megara which makes him rather young for a charioteer at the start of his adventures. In the adventure with the Hydra, when Heracles cut off each of the monster's heads, Iolaus cauterised the wound to prevent the head from growing again.

Some say that, when old, he was restored to youth by Hebe in order to help the children of Heracles when attacked by Eurystheus who, in some accounts, he killed.

In some accounts he is referred to as Iolanus.

Iole Greek

daughter of Eurytus

wife of Hyllus

mother of Cleodaeus

When Heracles abandoned Megara he sought the hand of Iole. Her father offered her as a prize to any man who could beat him at archery but when Heracles did so he reneged on his undertaking. At a later date, after he had married Deianeira, Heracles exacted revenge by sacking Oechalia and killing Eurytus and Iole's family. Iole tried to kill herself by jumping from the city walls but failed. Heracles sent her to be looked after by Deianeira but he was inadvertently killed by Deianeira before he could return home to Trachis. Iole married Hyllus, son of Heracles, after the hero's death and they had a son, Cleodaeus.

Iollann<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Illan.Ullan]

an Irish king

He befriended Cano but was killed by Munster warriors soon after Cano left to take up the kingship of Scotland.

Iollann<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Illan.Ullan]

son of Finn mac Cool

Iollann<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Illan.Ullan]

a prince

Conal Gulban defeated Iollann in single combat when he came to Crete in search of Eithne, the girl he loved, and Iollann became his devoted helper in the search.

Iollann<sup>4</sup> Irish

[Illan.Ullan]

a king of Leinster

husband of Tuireann

His wife was Finn mac Cool's sister. He had an affair with the druidess Uchtdealb who, jealous of Tuireann, changed her into a bitch. The children she produced were the hounds Bran and Sceolan.

In some accounts, he proposed to marry Finn's aunt Uirneand the jealous Uchtdealb turned Uirne into a bitch.

Iollann the Fair Irish

[Illan.Ullan]

son of Fergus mac Roth
brother of Buino

He was of the party that escorted Naisi and Deirdre back from Scotland under safe conduct from Conor who reneged on his promise and had them killed, except Buino who had betrayed them.

Iolofath (see Olofat)

Iolokiamo South American

an evil trickster-god in Venezuela, opposed to Cachimana

Iomchadh Irish

a prince of Ulster

When he was banished from Ulster, he went to the court of the high-king, Conn, who gave him one of his daughters as a wife.

Ion<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Apollo or Xuthus and Creusa husband of Helice

In one story, he was the son of Apollo who had raped Creusa, abandoned as a baby and taken to Delphi. His mother later married Xuthus and they both sought the advice of the Delphic Oracle when they found themselves childless. Here they discovered Ion who was happily reunited with his mother. Later, believing the story that Ion was an illegitimate son of Xuthus, Creusa tried to poison him but Apollo (or Athene) intervened to save him. Ion would then have killed Creusa but Pythia proved to her that Ion was her natural son and the rift was healed.

Other accounts say that he was the natural son of Xuthus and Creusa who married Helice and became king of the Ionians. He was killed in battle between the Athenians and the Eleusinians.

Ion<sup>2</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides

Iona British

a French king at the court of King Arthur

Ionians Greek

those Greeks said to be the descendants of Xanthus

ionones (see juno<sup>2</sup>)

Iophil

one of the 7 Intelligences, ruler of the planet Jupiter

Iord (see Erda)

Iormungand (see Iormungandr)

Iormungandr Norse

[Iormungand.Iormungard.Jormungand(r).
Jormungard.Midgardsormen.

Midgardsormr.Mitgardsormen.

Mithgardsormr.World serpent.]

This monster, the Midgard serpent, was, with Fensir and Hel, the offspring of the secret marriage between Loki and Angerbode.

Odin threw the serpent into the sea where it became so large that it encircled the earth.

On one occasion, it was caught by Thor on a fishing trip but his companion, Hymir, cut the line in fear.

It emerged to fight the gods at Ragnarok and was killed by Thor who perished in the flood of venom that erupted from the dying monster.

Iormungard (see Iormungandr)

Ioruaidhe Irish

a kingdom ruled by a king who owned the magical hound Fail Inis

This was the land to which the sons of Turenn travelled to get the hound Fail Inis which they were required to get as part of their punishment for the murder of Cian.

Iorwoerth Welsh

[Irwert]

son of Maredudd
brother of Madawg

He was aggrieved at the disparity between his own lowly rank and that of his brother who was chief of all Powys and raided England, causing much damage. Madawg raised an army to hunt him down.

Ioskeha North American

[Hahgwehdiyu.Ioskeha.Jouskeha.

Odononnia.'Sapling'.Teharon(hiawagon).

Tharonhiawakon.Tharonhiaouagon.

White One.Yoskeha:=Abnaki Gluskap:

=Algonquin Manabozho:=Huron

Tsent(s)a:=Menominee Manabush:

=Montagnais Messou]

a sun-god of the Iroquois son of Wind-Ruler and Breath-of-Wind

twin brother of Tawiscara

He is regarded as the creator of the universe and mankind.

He fought with his twin brother, even in their mother's womb, and she died when they were born. From then on they fought for supremacy. In one story they fought, Ioskeha with a stag's horn and Tawiscara with a rose. Tawiscara was wounded and fled leaving Ioskeha as the principal god who killed monsters, including the Great Frog which had swallowed all the water from the lakes and rivers, and taught the people the arts of agriculture and hunting. It is said that he was taught the secrets of medicine by Hadui.

In some accounts, Ioskeha married his grandmother, Ataensic, and renews his youth when he grows old.

(see also Djuskaha.Oterongtongnia)

Iota Greek

[Iotes]

goddess of destiny

Iotes (see Iota)

Iouskeha (see Ioskeha)

Iowahine Pacific Islands

in Hawaiian lore, the first woman

She and the first man, Tiki, were made by the god Tane. (see also Lalo-honua)

Ipa Huaca South American

in some accounts, a female member of the Children of the Sun

Ipalnemoani Central American

[Ipalnemohuani]

an Aztec creator-god and sun-god

Ipalnemohuani (see Ipalnemoani)

Ipan Metzli Central American

second of the 13 Aztec heavens, the home of Tlalecuhtli

Ipes (see Ipos)

Ipet Egyptian

[Ipi.Ipy.Queen of the Two Lands]

a mother-goddess

consort of Amen

Iphigenaia (see Iphigenia)

Ipheneia (see Iphigenia)

Iphianassa<sup>1</sup> Greek

['princess'] wife of Bias

mother of Anaxibia

Iphianassa<sup>2</sup> (see Iphigenia)

Iphicles (see Iphiclus)

Iphiclus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Iphicles.Iphikles]

son of Amphitryon and Alceme

twin of Heracles

husband of Astyoche and Automedusa

father of Iolau and Protesilaus

He was the companion of Heracles on some of his adventures and was killed by the Moliones when they attacked Hippocoon in Sparta or when Heracles attacked Elis.

Iphiclus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Iphicles.Iphikles]

son of Thestius and Eurythemis

one of the Argonauts

He was killed by Meleager after the hunt for the Calydonian Boar.

Iphiclus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Iphicles.Iphikles]

a famous runner

son of Phylacus or Cephalus by

Clymene

father of Podarces and Protesilaus

He was a famous runner, said to be able to run on the top of growing corn without disturbing it, and a member of the crew of Argo.

In some stories, he was impotent and his father promised the seer, Melampus, some of his cattle if he could find out the cause. Melampus determined that it was due to the fact that Iphiclus had earlier driven a knife into an oak tree. The young man was cured when he drank a potion containing rust from the same knife.

Iphiclus<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Iphicles.Iphikles]

son of Cephalus and Clymene

In some accounts, he is the same as Iphiclus, son of Phylacus.

Iphigenia Greek

[Iphigenaia.Iphogeneia.Iphianassa]

daughter of Agamemnon and Clytemnestra

sister of Chrysothemis, Electra, and Orestes

In some accounts, Iphigenia is a later name for Iphianassa. Others say that she was Helen's daughter by Theseus, raised by Clytemnestra.

In one story she was sacrificed by Agamemnon so that the winds which were keeping the Greek fleet, ready to sail for Troy, confined to harbour would abate.

In another version, Artemis substituted a deer (a bear or a calf in other stories) on the altar and spirited Iphigenia away to the land of the Taurians where she became a priestess of a cult which sacrificed all prisoners to a wooden image of the goddess, said to have fallen from the sky. She was there when Orestes and Pylades arrived to seize this sacred image of Artemis. She recognised Orestes as her brother and deceived the king, Thoas, who had captured the newcomers, into releasing them and they escaped with the sacred image, taking Iphigenia back to Mycenae with them.

It is said that Artemis made her immortal as Hecate the Younger and that she married Achilles.

In some accounts, she is regarded as the daughter of Theseus.

Iphigenia among the Taurians

(see Iphigenia in Tauris)

Iphigenia in Aulis Greek

a play by Euripides dealing with the sacrificial death of Iphigenia before the departure of the Greek fleet for Troy

Iphigenia in Tauris Greek

[Iphigenia among the Taurians]

a play by Euripides dealing with the exploits of Orestes in seizing the statue of Artemis

Iphigénie French

a play by Racine

Iphigénie en Aulide French

an opera by Gluck dealing with the sacrificial death of Iphigenia

before the departure of the Greek fleet for Troy

Iphikles (see Iphiclus)

Iphimede (see Iphimedeia)

Iphimedeia Greek

[Ephimedia.Iphimede(ia)]

daughter of Triopas

sister of Erysichthon

wife of Aloeus

In some stories, she is the mother by Poseidon of the giants Otus and Ephialtes, known as the Aloadae; in others, their mother is Canace.

Iphimedeia (see Iphimedeia)

Iphinoe<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Proetus

For some slight to a deity, she and her sisters were driven mad. Their father gave much of his kingdom to Melampus and Bias when the former agreed to cure the girls. By the time they were located, Iphinoe was dead.

Iphinoe<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Nisus

In some accounts, she became the wife of Megareus.

Iphis<sup>1</sup> Greek

a king of Argos

son of Alector

father of Eteoclus and Evadne

It was he who advised Polyneices to bribe the wife of Amphiarus to persuade her husband to join the Seven Against Thebes.

Iphis<sup>2</sup> Greek

a youth of Cyprus

He loved Anaxarete but she spurned him and remained unmoved when he hanged himself at her door.

Aphrodite turned her to stone for her heartlessness.

Iphis<sup>3</sup> Greek

daughter of Ligdus

and Telethusa

Ligdus said that, if their child was a girl, it had to be abandoned and so his wife deceived him and reared the girl as a boy. 'He' was betrothed to the maiden Ianche but Isis saved them all from a difficult situation by changing Iphis into a man before the wedding.

Iphitus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Eurytus

He was killed by Heracles who threw him from the top of a tower in an argument over some stolen cattle.

Iphitus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Phocis

one of the Argonauts

son of Naubolus

brother of Eurystheus

father of Epistrophius and Schedius

Iphitus<sup>3</sup> Greek

a king of Elis

Iphitus<sup>4</sup> Greek

an Elean

He was killed by Copreus who fled to Mycenae and was purified of his blood-guilt by Eurystheus.

Iphthime Greek

sister of Icarus and Penelope

wife of Eumelus

Iphtimis (see Nefertem)

Ipos

[Ayp(e)r(os).Ayporus.Ipes]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

In some accounts, he is described as a prince of hell and is depicted as a standing eagle. Others say that he appears as an angel with the body of a lion. He is said to foretell the future.

ippayeq (see piat)

Ipy (see Ipet)

Iqi Balam Central American

['moon jaguar'.Tiger of the Moon]

one of the first 4 men, in Mayan lore

brother of Balam Agab, Balam Quitze

and Mahucutah

He and his brothers were created from maize-flour and broth brewed by Xmucané. Each had his own guardian spirit, Nicahtagah being allocated to Iqi Balam. The gods created a woman for each of the brothers and they produced children who became the ancestors of the tribes when their parents returned to their original home in paradise.

Ir<sup>1</sup> Irish

a son of Milesius and Scota

When the Milesians invaded Ireland the Danaans conjured up a storm to wreck the ships and Ir was killed in this storm.

In some accounts Ir is given as a name for Ith.

Ir<sup>2</sup> (see Tiwaz.Tyr)

Ir<sup>1</sup> Hindu

one of the daughters of Daksha

wife of Kashyapa, some say

In this version, Ira was the mother of all vegetation.

Ira<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a Polynesian sky-goddess

Ira<sup>3</sup> (see Ida<sup>4</sup>.Irra)

ira avure (see binza)

Ira Waru Pacific Islands

a fish-god

husband of Hina-ika

He was envisaged as half man, half fish, and is credited, in some accounts, with the invention of the eel-trap.

He was the brother-in-law of Maui who turned Ira Waru into a dog when he took some of Maui's fish-bait.

Iraca South American

a creator-god of the Chibcha

He and Ramaquiri made figures from clay which became men and others from keck which became women. The world, at that time, was without light so the pair went up into the heavens where Ramaquiri became the sun and Iraca the moon.

Iraj (see Eraj)

Iraja Hindu

a name for Kama as 'one born in water'

Iram Arab

[Irama]

a fabulous city in the mountains of Yemen

Shaddad robbed his subjects and built this city with gold and precious stones, but died before he could live in it. The city is normally invisible to humans but once became visible to a man called Abdullah who took some of the treasure before the city disappeared again at dawn.

Irama (see Iram)

Iravat Hindu

son of Arjuna and Ulupi

Irena British

in The Faerie Queene, a maiden

captured by Grantorto and rescued by Arthgallo

Irene (see Eirene)

Iretargui (see Ilazki)

Irgallach Irish

son of Lach

He was the commander of a troop of veteran warriors fighting for Conor mac Nessa against the incursions of Medb and Ailill.

Irgoll Irish

[Loscennlomm]

a Formorian chief fighting at the Second Battle of Moytura

Iri East Indian

a creator-deity in Borneo

He helped Rinaggon to create men from the kumpong tree.

Irihia New Zealand

the Maori land of the spirits of the west

(see also Aratiatia.Tahekeroa)

Irik East Indian

in the lore of the Iban of Borneo,

a primaevial creator

Ara and Irik, in the form of birds, flew over the primordial ocean. They drew two eggs from the waters and from them made earth and sky. They then made men from soil and gave them life.

Irin Mage South American

a magician

He put out the flames, when Monan set fire to the world, by causing a flood.

In some accounts, the deluge was caused by Ariconte and Tamandonar.

Irina (see Artemis)

Iring German

a warrior at Etzel's court

He was one of those who, bribed by Krimhild, tried to kill Hagen but was slain by Hagen.

Irion British

father of Martha

Iris Greek

the rainbow-goddess

messenger of the gods

daughter of Thaumias and Electra sister of the Harpies

mother of Eros by Zephyrus, in

some accounts

She was said to keep the clouds supplied with rain and to release the souls of the dying from their bodies.

Irish Achilles Irish

a name for Cuchulainn

Irjoirilik Pacific Islands

a deity in the Gilbert Islands

He was created by Loa to rule over the west.

Irkalla Mesopotamian

the Sumerian home of the dead

a name of Ereshkigal the Babylonian goddess of the dead

Irke African

[Kutiumo.Zambanta]

a god of the Songhai people

Irkingu Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk after his defeat of Kingu

Irlek Khan (see Erlek Khan)

Irman (see Aryamon)

Irmen (see Irmin)

Irmensaule (see Hermensul)

Irmin<sup>1</sup> German

[Ermin.Hermin.Irmen:=Norse Odin.Tyr]

a Saxon war-god: god of wisdom

He was said to drive his chariot, now seen as the Great Bear, along the Milky Way, its rumbling being heard as thunder.

Irmin<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Ermin.Hermin.Irmen]

a name of Heimdall in the role of Odin

Irmin's Way Norse

[Bil's Way]

the Milky Way (see also Bifrost)

Irminsul (see Hermensul)

Iranan Irish

a sorceress

daughter of Conaran

She and her two sisters spun a magic web to capture some Fianna warriors.

Goll mac Morna killed her sisters and released his men. She changed herself into a monster and challenged the Fianna to single combat. Goll accepted the challenge, killed her and was awarded Cebha, Finn's daughter, in marriage as a reward.

Infried German

a warrior at Etzel's court

He was one of those who, bribed by Krimhild, tried to kill Hagen but was slain by Hagen.

Irni (see Ishtar)

Iro African

a five-toed chicken, in the lore

of the Yoruba

This being, associated with creation, is represented by a costume worn at various festivals by the chief's son.

Iroldo European

a knight imprisoned by Morgana

and freed by Roland

Iron Crutch (see Li T'ieh-kuai)

Iron Dirk (see Iarn-greiper)

Ironsides British

[Ironsides.Knight of the Red Launds.

Knight of the Red Lawns.The Red

Knight]

a Knight of the Round Table

father of Raynbrown

He was harassing Lyonesse so her sister, Lynette, sought help from King

Arthur. Gareth took up her cause, defeated the Red Knight and married

Lyonesse.

Ironsides (see Ironside)

Ironwood Norse

[Iarnvid.Iarnwith.Yarnvid.

Yarnwid.Yarnwithr]

a forest of black iron-trees, home of the trolls

Ironwood woman Norse

a female troll

Irpa Finnish

a storm-goddess

Irra Mesopotamian

[Erra.Gir(ra).Ira.:=Sumerian Nantar] a Babylonian war-god: Nergal as the Babylonian plague-god who destroyed Babylon
(see also Gerra.Giru.Irranergal)

Irranergal Mesopotamian

the Sumerian god of beasts

Irsirra Mesopotamian

Hurrian deities

Irus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Actor

father of Eurydamas and Eurytion

Irus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Arnaeus]

a giant beggar

When Penelope was besieged by suitors during the absence of her husband, Odysseus, at the siege of Troy, Irus ran errands for the suitors. He was killed by Odysseus on his return.

Irusan Irish

a king-cat

This animal, as large as an ox, was said to have carried off Seanchan Torpest on his back because the poet had satirised all cats. St Ciaran saw what was happening and threw a red-hot iron bar at the cat, killing it and saving the poet.

Iruva African

[Iruwa.Iyuva.Izuwa.Loba.L(y)uba.'sun']

the supreme god and sun-god of many tribes, including the Chaga or Meru

Iruwa (see Iruva)

Irwin (see Hermod)

Irwerth (see Iorwerth)

Iryon Korean

[Ilyon]

a 13th c Buddhist monk, compiler of Samguk yusa

Is Elfydd (see Annwfn)

Isa<sup>1</sup> African

a goddess of the river Niger

Isa<sup>2</sup> Baltic

[=Greek Isia]

a Lappish goddess

Isa<sup>3</sup> Buddhist

a minor god

Isa<sup>4</sup> Hindu

an aspect of Shiva

one of the 11 rudras

a guardian of the north-eastern corner of the world

He is depicted as riding a bull or a goat.

Isa Bere African

a dragon

This beast swallowed all the water of the Niger. After a battle lasting for some 800 years, Samba managed to kill the dragon and the river began to flow again.

Isabel Scottish

a queen rescued from the underworld
by Orfeo

Isabella<sup>1</sup> European

daughter of the king of Galicia wife of Zerbino

Her father refused to allow Isabella, a Moslem, to marry Zerbino, a Christian, so they married secretly. When Zerbino was recalled to Scotland, she set out to follow him in a ship captained by Oderic. They were shipwrecked and Oderic and the few of the crew who survived sold her to pirates. She was rescued by Roland who took her under his protection.

They came across Zerbino, a prisoner of a group of armed men who were soon routed by Roland, and she was reunited with her husband. When Zerbino was killed fighting Mandricardo for the ownership of the sword, Durindana, she vowed to enter a monastery but met Rodomont en route and he tried to dissuade her from such a course. She offered him a secret herb remedy that would make him invulnerable and, anointing herself with the liquid, invited him to strike her with his sword to prove its effectiveness. It was, in fact, a ruse to escape his clutches and the sword stroke cut off her head.

Isabella<sup>2</sup> European

daughter of King Hoel

Isabella<sup>3</sup> (see Elizabeth)

Isaburo Japanese

husband of Oyasu

When Oyasu died, he left her parents without support. The spirit of Oyasu, in the form of Yuki-Onna, visited him several times and he then returned to his in-laws.

Isaiah British

[Isaias]

an ancestor of Galahad

son of Eian

father of Jonaan

Isaias (see Isaiah)

Isaiwa (see Isaywa)

Isakakate North American

a supreme god of the Crow tribe

Isakawuate North American

a trickster-god of the Crow tribe

Isana (see Ishama.Pancabrahma)

Isanadayas (see Pancabrahma)

Isanagi (see Izanagi)

Isanami (see Isanami)

Isander Greek

[Isandros]

son of Bellerophon and Philonoe

brother of Deidameia and Hippolochus

He competed with Hippolochus for the throne of Lycia by trying to shoot an arrow which would displace a ring fixed to the chest of the child Sarpedon.

He was killed in battle with the Solymi.

Isandros (see Isander)

isanusi African

a Zulu witch-doctor

He can smell out the witches that cause illness.

Isara Mesopotamian

[Esara]

a Babylonian goddess of childbirth
and marriage

Isatpragbhara Jain

a paradise for perfect souls

This realm is said to have the shape of an umbrella and lies just below Sila.

Isaude (see Isolde)

Isaulta (see Isolde)

Isaywa African

[Isaiwa]

a name of Wele as 'he who is worshipped'

Ischepolis Greek

son of Alcathous

He was killed in the hunt for the Calydonian boar and his father killed Callipolis, the bearer of the news.

Ischin

[Bne-aleim]

a group of angels

These seven beings are said to have consorted with men at the beginning of creation and taught them many subjects. Like the Muses, each had its own special field: Akibeel taught the meaning of signs, Amazariak mathematics, Amers magic, Asaradel the motions of the moon, Azazel weaponry, Barkayat astrology and Tamial astronomy.

Ischus Greek

[Ischys]

the lover of Coronis

She was loved by Apollo but she preferred the mortal Coronis. When the god found out that she was having an affair with Coronis he killed her but saved their unborn son Asclepius.

Ischys (see Ischus)

Isdernus (see Yder)

Isdes Egyptian

a god of death

Isden (see Esden)

Isdustaja (see Isdustaya)

Isdustaya Mesopotamian

[Isdustaja]

a Hattic goddess of fate

She and Papaya used a mirror and spindle to determine an individual's fate.

Isegrim (see Isengrim)

Isenbras (see Isumbras)

Isengrim European

[Ise(n)grim.Isengrym.Isgrim.

Ysengrim(us).Ysengrin]

the wolf in Reynard the Fox

mate of Gieremund

He accused Reynard of blinding three offspring and insulting his wife. When Reynard was tried before the king's court and offered to fight Isengrim to prove his innocence, the wolf was defeated. Some say he was later killed so that his heart could be used to cure the king of an illness, a remedy suggested by the crafty Reynard.

Isengrin (see Isengrim)

Isengrym (see Isengrim)

Iseo Celtic

daughter of Tristram

sister of Tristram the Younger

In some Spanish stories, she married Juan, king of Castile.

Iseult (see Isolde<sup>1,2</sup>)

Isfandarmud (see Armaiti)

Isfandiyar Persian

[Asfandujah.Aspandijar.Isfendiar]

a prince of Persia

father of Bahman

He was shot and killed by Rustem who used a special arrow made from a branch of the tamarisk which he brought from China. His son later avenged his death, killing Rustem.

Isfendiar (see Isfandiyar)

Isgawyn Welsh

a warrior at King Arthur's court

son of Banon

He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Isgofan Welsh

a warrior at King Arthur's court

He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Isgrim (see Isengrim)

ish Hindu

[isha(na).ruler]

divinity as ruler of the world

Isha<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a name for Shiva as 'lord'

isha<sup>2</sup> (see ish)

Ishadhara Chinese

Buddhist sacred mountains

This realm is ruled by Chu-ch' a Pan-t'o-chia.

Ishana<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Isana]

a name for Agni, Shiva or Rudra as 'lord'

ishana<sup>2</sup> (see ish)

Ishani Hindu

a name for Devi, Kali or Uma as 'lady'

Ishar Mesopotamian

a name for Adad and Nergal

Ishi Phoenician

an early light-god

Ishi-Kore-Dome Japanese

a Shinto god or goddess, patron of mirror-making and stone-cutting

It was this deity who made the mould for the bronze used in making the mirror which enticed Amaterasu from the cave in which she was hiding.

The mirror itself was made by Ama-Tsu-Mara.

Ishidomaro Japanese

son of Kato Sayemon

His father deserted his mother when Ishidomaro was a young boy and went off to become a Buddhist priest. When he was old enough, Ishidomaro and his mother spent five years looking for Sayemon and finally found him in a temple. Ishidomaro recognised the man who met him at the temple gate as his own father but Sayemon, putting his vows before his love for his family, denied that he was his father and sent the boy away.

Ishidoro Japanese

sacred stone lanterns

Ishila (see Ashila)

Ishits North American

[Beetle]

in the lore of the Sia tribe, an insect

Given a bag of stars by Utset to carry to the underworld, Ishits bit a hole in the bag allowing the stars to escape. Utset blinded Ishits for disobeying his orders.

Ishizukuri Japanese

a prince

He was a suitor for the hand of Kaguya and undertook to get for her the stone begging-bowl used by the Buddha. When he produced a similar bowl and pretended that it was authentic, she rejected him.

Ishkhara Mesopotamian

a Babylonian love-goddess

Ishkur Mesopotamian

[Bir.Immes.Iskur.Mer(mer).Mir.Mur:

=Babylonian Adad]

the Sumerian storm-god

son of Enlil or Sin

ishta-devata Hindu

['chosen deity']

a deity representing abstract reality

Ishtanu Mesopotamian

[=Hattic Eshtan]

a Hittite sun-god

Ishtar Mesopotamian

[Agusaya.Anunitum.As(h)darAshtart.

Ast(h)ar.Bau Gula.Estar.Ininna.

Irnini.Istar.Kilili.Lady of Battles.

Mah.Mama.Mami.Minu-anni.

Minu-ulla.Mylitta.Qadishtu.

Sirtu.Sarpanitu:=Babylonian Ashtoreth:

=Egyptian Hathor:=Greek Aphrodite:

=Hebrew Tamar:=Hurrian Shaushkas:

=Phoenician Astarte:=Sumerian

Baba.Inanna]

an Akkadian mother-goddess, goddess of fertility, hunting, love, war

daughter of Anu and Nannar

daughter of Ea, Enki or Sin, some say sister of Ereshkigal, Samas and Teshub,

some say

sister and wife of Tammuz, some say mother and wife of Tammuz, some say

wife of Nabu, some say

As a goddess of love, she was associated with the planet Venus.

In the Assyrian stories, Ishtar was the wife of Ashur, the war-god, and she grew a beard that reached her breast.

As an Akkadian goddess she was the wife of Tammuz and descended to the underworld, Aralu, to bring back her husband when he died. She was kept in the underworld by the ruler, Ereshkigal, until the gods created Ashushu-Namir and sent him to demand Ishtar's release. In some accounts, it was Belet-Seri, not Ishtar, who went to the underworld. A similar story involves Inanna and Dumuzi, the Sumerian equivalents.

Other accounts have her as consort of Marduk, others identify her with Anat, Anunitm, Aruru, Ashrah, Ashtoreth, Astarte, Athar, Belit, Damkina, Inanna, Ninhursaga, Ninlil or Nintu.

When Gilgamesh rejected her advances she persuaded Anu to send the Bull of Heaven to despoil the earth.

She is depicted as riding a lion and is sometimes envisaged as male. (see also Ella.Iku.Inanna.Nidaba Nin.Saltu)

Ishtarate Mesopotamian

goddesses in general

Ishtinike North American

a trickster-god of some of the tribes of the Great Plains

Ishulana Mesopotamian

[Ishullana]

the gardener of the god Anu

He was loved by Ishtar who eventually killed him or, some say, turned him into a frog or a pig.

Ishullana (see Ishulana)

Ishum Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god

a minister, adviser to Marduk

He intervened to stop Irra from destroying Babylon completely.

(see also Isum)

Ishvara Hindu

[Is(h)wara.Iswara]
a name for Brahma, Indra, Shiva or Vishnu as 'supreme lord'

Ishvara-Gita Hindu

[Song of the Ruler]
a poem of nearly 500 stanzas dealing with dialogues between Shiva and some of the sages

Ishwara *(see Ishvara)Isia Greek

the Greek version of the Egyptian Isis

Isimud *(see Isinu)Isinu Mesopotamian

[Isimud.=Akkadian Usumu]
a two-faced Sumerian messenger-god

Isis Egyptian

[As(e)t.Aust.Enohebis.Eset.Esu.Great Mother.Lady of the Beginning.Lady of the Emerald.Lady of Turquoise. Hes(a)t.Iahu.Mother of God.Our Lady. Queen of Heaven.Sakhmet. Star of the Sea.Thousand Named. Unt.Urethekau.Watch Merti. Werethekau.=Greek Athena. Demeter.Isia.Io.Stella Maris] mother-goddess, goddess of medicine, fertility-goddess, moon-goddess queen of heaven

daughter of Geb and Nut sister of Nephthys and Set sister and wife of Osiris mother of Anubis and Horus
She is said to have introduced marriage and had the ability to change into any form she desired.

On one occasion when Osiris and Set, both in the form of bulls, were fighting, she is said to have killed them both.

When her husband, Osiris, was put into a box and thrown into the Nile by his brother Set, she rescued his body, mourning in the form of a bird and conceived their son Horus. When Set again took the body, cut it into fourteen pieces and threw them into the Nile, she recovered the pieces and brought her husband back to life.

She and Nephthys are known as the Weeping Sisters from their wailing at the death of Osiris.

She found the infant Anubis hidden in the reeds by his mother, Nephthys, and raised him as her own.

Wearing the headdress of horns enclosing the disc of the sun, she is Hathor, the cow-goddess. Her cow's-head was given to her by Thoth to replace her own head which had been cut off by Horus who was angry with her for releasing Set who had been captured in battle.

She became a goddess by devious means, making a serpent from earth and Ra's spittle. The snake bit the sun-god and he was persuaded to speak his secret name, Ran, so conferring immortality on Isis. Her function as a goddess was, with Nephthys, guardian of the coffin of the dead.

In the Greek story, Isis (Io) turned the girl Iphis into a swan.

She is represented in the sky as Sirius and is often depicted with long wings, as a snow white heifer, a hippopotamus, a serpent or a queen standing on a crescent.

(see also Manat.Mut.Sakhmet.Ziza)

Isitoq North American

[Giant Eye]

in the lore of the Inuit, a tornaq This spirit, who seeks out those who have broken taboos, is envisaged as having eyes which have a mouth in the middle.

Iskandar Malay

[Iskander.Iskender]

the Malay name for Alexander the Great husband of Syarul Baria

father of Arisatun

He is said to have conquered the whole of India which, for many years, was ruled by his descendants.

Iskander *(see Al Iskandar)Iskender *(see Al Iskandar)Iskur *(see Ishkur)Island of Ants Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

The ants on this island were reported to be as big as small ponies.

Island of Apple Trees

(see Emain Ablach)

Island of Apples Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

The precipitous cliffs of this island prevented Maeldun from landing but the three apples they seized fed the crew for several weeks.

(see also Avalon)

Island of Birds Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

Here Maeldun and his men killed many birds which they used for food.

Island of Biting Horses Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

This island was the home of a race of huge horses which bit lumps of flesh out of one another.

Island of Black Mourners Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

On this island, the black inhabitants were constantly weeping. When some of the crew went ashore, they turned black and started to weep.

Island of Blessed Souls *(see Avalon)Island of Enchantment Egyptian

an island ruled by a serpent-god

This island was once visited by a shipwrecked sailor but disappeared after the serpent-god provided a ship for the sailor's return to Egypt.

Island of Fianchuive *(see Finchory)Island of Fiery Swine Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

The huge, red, pot-bodied, pig-like beasts on this island lived on apples. Maeldun stole some of these by night to keep his men alive.

Island of Four Fences Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

The four quarters into which this island was divided by metal fences were occupied by kings, queens, warriors and maidens. The latter gave the mariners food which put them to sleep. When they awoke, they found themselves at sea again.

Island of Fruit *(see Palan Bah)Island of Giant Horses Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

This was the home of a race of giant horses which often raced against each other.

Island of Giant Pigs Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

The pigs on this island were so large that Maeldun's men could not lift the small one they managed to kill and had to roast it on the spot.

Island of Joy Irish

a happy world visited by Bran

on his voyages where one of his crew stayed

Island of Prophecy Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

Maeldun could not land here because the sea formed a wall higher than the island and they were driven off when the inhabitants threw nuts at them.

Island of Red Berries Irish

an island visited by Maeldun

Here the crew gathered the red berries which grew in profusion on the trees and made an intoxicating drink from them.

Island of Seven Cities Irish

a paradisaal island

Seven bishops, driven from Spain and Portugal by the Moors, are said to have settled on this island.

Island of Sheep Irish
 an island visited by Brendan and Maeldun
 A huge shepherd tended two flocks of sheep, one black, one white, separated by a fence. He occasionally transferred a white sheep to the other side of the fence, whereupon it turned black. Sometimes he did the reverse and the black sheep became white.

Island of Shouting Birds Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun
 This island was occupied by a race of birds which could speak and which shouted to one another.

Island of Smiths Irish
 an island visited by Brendan and Maeldun
 Here a giant smith threw lumps of red-hot metal at Maeldun's boat.

Island of Spouting Water Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun
 Here a stream shot in an arc across the island and Maeldun was able to spear many fine fish.

Island of St Brendan Irish
 a floating island discovered by Brendan

Island of the Blessed<sup>1</sup> Irish [St Brendan's Island]
 a happy Otherworld discovered by Brendan on his voyage

Island of the Blessed<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
 an island in the Sea of Death
 Gilgamesh went to this island to visit Utnapishtim.

Island of the Blessed<sup>3</sup> North American
 a happy land in the spirit world
 This island is said to be ruled by the Master of Life.

Island of the Blessed<sup>4</sup> (see Tuma)

Island of the Cat Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun
 In a white house on top of this very tall island of chalk, the mariners found a feast and carried some of it back to their boat. When one of the crew picked up a necklace, a small cat, which was playing in the room, turned into a fireball which shrivelled the man to ashes.

Island of the Eagle Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun
 Here the mariners watched three eagles bathe in a lake and emerge much stronger. Diuran swam in the water and was never ill thereafter.

Island of the Falcon Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun
 The final landfall in Maeldun's voyage was an island occupied only by cattle and sheep. They saw a falcon flying overhead and followed it home to Ireland.

Island of the Fierce Beast Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

A fierce animal, like a horse with claws, drove the mariners off by throwing missiles at them.

Island of the Flaming Rampart Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

This island was surrounded by a wall of flame which prevented the mariners from landing.

Island of the Glass Bridge Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

A glass bridge on this island led to a fort but the crew could not cross it. A maiden gave them food but, as in the case of the Island of Four Fences, they were put to sleep and awoke to find themselves once again at sea.

Island of the Hermit Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

On this island they were entertained by a hermit who claimed to have sailed on a piece of turf that grew bigger each day to form the island.

Island of the Laughing People Irish
 an island visited by Bran and Maeldun

The people living on this island laughed continuously and the first crew member to land also started to laugh. He was pulled back on board though some accounts say that they left him.

Island of the Marvellous Fountain Irish

an island visited by Maeldun
 Another hermit lived in a golden castle on this island. A fountain at this castle provided almost any drink required.

Island of the Mighty Irish a name for Britain

Island of the Mill Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

Here they found a giant miller grinding corn.

Island of the Monk Irish an island visited by Maeldun and Brendan

The monk who lived on this tiny island was fed on fish brought by otters. He said that an angel had told him to discard all the treasures he had brought from Ireland and live alone. He told Maeldun where to find the man who had killed his father.

Island of the Ocean God (see Ellan Sheeant)

Island of the Pedestal Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

This island stood high above the surface of the sea on a tall pedestal.

Island of the Silver Column Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

This was a silver pillar rising from the sea into the sky, where Maeldun's boat was trapped in a silver net which fell from the top of the pillar.

Island of the Slayer Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

A fort on this island was the home of the man who had killed Maeldun's father.

Island of the Stone Door Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

On this island, the mariners found a house with four giant beds and a large door which opened into the sea and through which shoals of salmon entered.

Island of the Wondrous Beast Irish
 an island visited by Maeldun

This was the home of an animal which could revolve inside its skin. The mariners were driven off by missiles thrown at them by the beast.

Island of Women Irish
 an island visited by Bran and Maeldun on their voyages

A castle on this island housed a queen and seventeen maidens. Maeldun married the queen and his crew married the maidens. They left after three months but the queen threw a ball of thread to Maeldun and drew the boat back to the island. After this had happened several times, Diuran caught the thread himself and, when he found that he could not let go of it, cut off his own hand so that they could escape.

(see also Tir inna mBan)

Islands of the Blessed (see Fortunate Islands)

Isle of Arran
 in some accounts, this Scottish island is regarded as Emain Ablach

Isle of Destiny (see Inis Fail)

Isle of Falga Irish an Irish name for the Isle of Man (see also Inis Manann)

Isle of Flames Egyptian
 an island in the Sea of Two Knives

In the version of Ra's birth that asserts that he came from an egg laid by Geb, as a goose, this is the place where the egg was laid.

Isle of Glass (see Avalon)

Isle of Honey Welsh
 an early name for Britain

Isle of Life Celtic
 a mythical land to which Perceforest and his brother Gaddifer retired when the Romans took over Britain

Isle of Servage British

[Franchise Tristram]
the realm of Nabon

Nabon gave the realm to Segwarides.

In some accounts, it was conquered by Tristram and was thereafter called Franchise Tristram.

Isle of Souls (see Avalon<sup>1</sup>)

Islendinga Sagur Norse
a collection of Icelandic sagas

Isles of P'eng-lai Chinese
the site of the Eastern paradise

Isles of the Blessed
(see Fortunate Islands)

Isles of the Blest
(see Fortunate Islands)

Isles of the Genii
(see Fortunate Islands<sup>3</sup>)

Ismaroinen (see Ilmarinen)

Ismarus Greek
son of Astraeus
brother of Amphidocus, Leades
and Melanippus

He and his brothers helped to defend Thebes against the attacking Seven and he killed Hippomedon in the battle.

Ismene<sup>1</sup> Greek
daughter of Oedipus and Jocasta sister of Antigone, Etiocles, and Polyneices

In some accounts, she declared that she had helped her sister, Antigone, to bury the body of their brother, Polyneices, against the orders of Creon, and demanded that she share her sister's fate of being buried alive. She was killed by Tydaeus or by Laodamas.

Ismene<sup>2</sup> Greek
daughter of Asopas and Metope

Ismenus Greek
a river-god
son of Asopus and Metope father of Linus, some say

Iso Japanese
a noble

He was a suitor for the hand of Kaguya and undertook to get for her the cownie shell carried by a swallow. He failed to find it.

Iso-da Samadulo Hose Indonesian
a mother-goddess

mother of Lature and Lowalangi
She is said to have emerged when a large stone split and bore two sets of mixed twins. The younger boy, Lowalangi, married the twin sister of his elder brother, Lature, and they became the progenitors of the Nias tribe.

Isodd (see Isolde)

Isodaites (see Dionysus)

Isokalakal Pacific Islands

[King Wonderful]
a war-god

He was born when the god Lugeilan sprinkled an elderly woman with lemon juice and was raised by the god to slay the dictator, San Telur, who had once put him in prison. Helped by 333 warriors, Isokalakal defeated the tyrant and was deified as a god of war.

Isokeha North American
the god of the Huron, Mohawk and Tuscaroran Indians
grandson of the moon

Isolde<sup>1</sup> British
[Essylt.Esylv()t.Isaude.Isaulte.Iseult.
Isodd.Isole.Isolt.Isotta.Isoude.Isulte.
Yseult.Ysolde.Ysoud]

in some accounts, the wife of King Anguish and the mother of the Isolde who married King Mark

Isolde<sup>2</sup> British [Beale Isoud.Essylt.Esylv()t.Isaude.
Isaulte.Iseult.Isodd.Isole.Isolt.Isotta.
Isoude.Isulte.Yseult.Ysolde.Ysoud]
daughter of King Anguish wife of King Mark
mother of Ysaie

Her mother is variously given as Isolde or Lotta.

She was betrothed to Mark, a king of Cornwall, who sent Tristram to her father's court in Ireland to escort her to Cornwall. Her mother had entrusted to the maid Branwen a love-potion for the betrothed couple but Isolde drank it on the journey and she and Tristram fell hopelessly in love. On the night of her wedding to Mark, she substituted Branwen for herself in Mark's bed so that he would not realise that she was no longer a virgin and then tried to kill Branwen to keep the matter secret, but failed. Although married to Mark, she continued to see Tristram until Mark finally banished him to France.

She accompanied Mark when he went to Camelot intent on killing Tristram who was in Britain at that time and was captured by Bruce the Pitiless. Tristram killed her captor and returned Isolde to her husband. Others say they lived together at Garde Joyeuse for some time.

Tristram made a loveless marriage to another Isolde in France but when he was wounded he sent for his first love who quickly answered his call and took ship for Brittany. Her ship carried white sails, a prearranged signal, but Tristram's wife reported that the sails were black and he died of grief. His beloved Isolde died at the sight of her dead lover and they were buried together in Cornwall. In some accounts, she killed herself with Tristram's sword.

In the Wagnerian version, Isolde had been betrothed to Morholt and wanted to avenge his death. She found a piece of a sword-blade embedded in Morholt's severed head and kept it hidden. Tristram had been wounded by a poisoned spear thrown by Morholt during their encounter and the wound refused to heal. He went to Ireland in the guise of Tantris, a minstrel, and Isolde ministered to his poisoned wound. When she saw his broken sword she realised that it was he who had killed Morholt. They fell in love but Tristram returned to Cornwall without her. Mark was so impressed with Tristram's description of Isolde that he sent Tristram back to Ireland to ask for her hand as his queen. Isolde, deeply unhappy that she was to be the wife of Mark, not Tristram, brewed a noxious drink, intending to kill both herself and Tristram, but Branwen, her maid, gave them instead a love-potion entrusted to her by Isolde's mother.

They continued to meet after her marriage to Mark but were betrayed by Melot or, in other versions, by Andreu. Tristram was banished to France and when Isolde elected to go with him, Melot tried to prevent their departure and wounded Tristram who went off with Kurneval, who had killed Melot in the encounter, leaving Isolde in Cornwall. She came at his request when he was dying from the wound but arrived too late and died of a broken heart.

Isolde<sup>3</sup> British

[Essylt.Esylv()t.Isaude.Isaulte.Iseult.
Isodd.Isole.Isolde White Hands.Isolt.
Isotta.Isoud la Blanche Mains.
Isoude.Isulte.Yseult.Ysolde.Ysoud]
daughter of Hoel, king of Brittany sister of Kaherdin
wife of Tristram

When Tristram was banished to France to put a stop to his affair with Mark's wife, Isolde, he married another girl of the same name. When he was dying from wounds, he called for his first love who took ship for France. Her ship carried white sails, a prearranged signal, but Tristram's wife told him the sails were black, whereupon he died of grief.

In some accounts, she was a Spanish girl who was given to Tristram when he conquered her country. In the Icelandic version, she is the mother by Tristram of Kalegras.

Isolde<sup>4</sup> British
in some accounts, a god-daughter of Tristram

Isolde White Hands (see Isolde<sup>3</sup>)

Isolde (see Isolde)

Isolier European

a Saracen knight

He went into the forest with Rinaldo to capture the horse Bayard, which had bolted, but was killed by the horse which was then subdued by Rinaldo.

Isollde Norse

wife of Hertnit

In Thidreksaga, she married Thidrek when Hertnit died.

Isolt (see Isolde<sup>1,2</sup>)

Isोनoe Greek

a Danaid

mother of Orchomenus by Zeus

Isора Japanese

a god of the sea-shore

son of Ryujin

At the behest of the empress, Jingo, he procured the Tide Jewels from his father, the Dragon King, and brought them to her. He also collected them after the empress had used them in the conquest of Korea and returned them to Ryujin. He later gave them to Jingo's son, Ojin.

Isotta (see Isolde)

Isoud la Blanche Mains (see Isolde<sup>3</sup>)

Isoude (see Isolde)

Israfel (see Azrafil)

Israfil (see Azrafil)

Issa<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

devotees of Isis initiated into her mysterious rites

Issa<sup>2</sup> Greek

a maiden loved by Apollo daughter of Macareus and his sister Canace

Issaki Hindu

[Kerala]

a goddess

She is depicted holding a decapitated infant.

Issedones Greek

a legendary race

They were conquered and evicted from their own country by the Arismapi.

issiwun North American

the sacred horned buffalo-cap of the Cheyenne medicine-man

Issland Norse

the kingdom of Brunhild

Issunboshi Japanese

[Issunhoshi.One-inch Priest]

a very small boy

He was born the size of a finger and remained that size until he reached his teens when he was discovered by the princess Sanjo who took him as her page. When they were attacked by two oni, Issunboshi met them with his sword (which was, in fact, a needle) and drove them off. One of them dropped a magic mallet and, with this implement, Issunboshi was granted his wish to be the same size as others of his age. The emperor became his patron and he later married a prince's daughter.

Issunhoshi (see Issunboshi)

Istadevata Hindu

the name for any god to whom the individual offers special worship: a household icon

Istanu Mesopotamian

[=Hattic Estan:Hurrian Simigi]

a Hittite sun-god (see also Sius)

Istar (see Ishtar)

Istaran (see Sataran)

Isten<sup>1</sup> Hungarian

a creator-god

Isten<sup>2</sup> (see Esden)

Istepahpah North American

a man-eating monster in the lore of the Creek Indians

Isthmian games Greek

four-yearly games founded by Sisyphus in memory of Melicertes

or in honour of Poseidon

Isuki-yori-hime Japanese

a princess

wife of Jimmu-tenno

Isulte (see Isolde)

Isum Mesopotamian

[=Sumerian Endursaga]

a fire-god

herald of the Babylonian gods

brother of Samas (see also Ishum)

Isumbras European

[Isenbras.Ysambras]

a mediaeval hero

He travelled to the Holy Land and killed many Saracens whilst he was there, starting as a very proud and arrogant knight. Adversity taught him to be humble.

Isung German

a minstrel

He played while Wildeber, dressed as a bear, danced when they rescued Wittich from Hertnit's prison.

Isus Greek

an illegitimate son of Priam

He and his half-brother, Antiphus, were killed by Agamemnon in the Trojan War.

Isvara (see Ishvara)

Iswara (see Ishvara)

itako (see ichiko)

Italapas (see Coyote<sup>1,2</sup>)

Italos (see Italus.Itylus)

Italpas (see Coyote<sup>1,2</sup>)

Italus Greek

[Italos]

son of Telegonus and Penelope

In some accounts he was a king and married the daughter of Latinus, giving his name to Italy.

itan African

the myths and histories of the Yoruba

Itaressus Greek

one of the rivers in Hades

Itcher Pacific Islands

one of the 8 Spitters (see Spitter<sup>1</sup>)

Iterduca Roman

a goddess of brides

Her function was to introduce a bride to her new home.

She was later assimilated into Juno.

Ite (see Ide)

Ith<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Iath.Ir]

a Milesian

son of Breoghan

father or brother of Bile

When his father conquered Spain, he built a tall tower from the top of which Ith first saw Ireland.

He sailed from Spain for Ireland with Gomer and ninety men but was killed by the three Danaan kings, Mac Cecht, Mac Cuill and Mac Greine. The Milesians invaded Ireland in revenge.

Ith<sup>2</sup> (see Eire)

Itha-Arapi South American

a huge boulder

This rock was in two halves which could clash together. When the twins Ariconte and Tamendonare jumped through it, the rock crushed one of them to death but he was quickly restored to life by the other brother.

Ithavall (see Idavold)

Ithavoll (see Idavold)

Ither British

a cousin of King Arthur

In some accounts, he was killed by Percival when he tried to take over Arthur's throne.

Itherther African

the primaeval buffalo of the Kabyle

He and his wife, Thamuatz, emerged from a place beneath the earth called Tlam. Their son, Achimi, drove off Itherther and mated with his mother and sister. Wandering alone he discharged his semen into depressions in the rocks to produce all the game animals except the lion.

Ithun (see Idun)

Itunn (see Idun)

Ithuriel British
an angel

In Paradise Lost, Ithuriel and Zephon were sent to search for Satan who had entered paradise.

ithyphallic

pertaining to the procession at the festivals in honour of Dionysus in which an image of an erect phallus was carried: pertaining to the hymns used at such festivals

Itiba Cahubaba (see Cahubaba)

itihahas Hindu
sacred writings comprising such epics as the Ramayana and Mahabharata

Itinerarium Cambriae

(see Itinerary of Wales)

Itinerary of Wales Welsh
[Itinerarium Cambriae]

a 12th c work recording the geography and mythology of much of Wales

Itiwana North American
the underworld of the Zuni

When the tribe were seeking a homeland they lost all their children in a lake which they had to cross. A brother and sister, who had been turned into supernatural beings after committing incest, made a road into the lake so that the parents could visit their children who declared themselves to be so happy at being in Itiwana under the lake that, henceforth, all the dead went there.

Itje Siberian
a hero

When his parents were eaten by the giant Punegusse, he attacked and killed the giant. Punegusse was immediately restored to life and this cycle of slaying and rebirth continued until Itje burned the giant's body. Mosquitoes appeared from the ashes.

(see also Karaty-Khan)

Ito Soda Japanese

[Hizen]
a soldier

A lady, O Toyo, loved by the prince of Hizen, was killed by a huge cat which then took the form of O Toyo. She cast spells on the prince who became ill and, when retainers were set to keep watch at night, she sent them to sleep and carried on with her evil work. Ito Soda kept awake by sticking his knife into his thigh and saw what was happening. When he tried to kill her, O Toyo turned back into a cat and escaped.

In some accounts, the prince is referred to as Hizen, rather than the prince of Hizen.

I'toi North American
a culture-hero of the Papago tribe

He is said to have instituted the solstice festivals, the Wiikita.

I'toki South American
in Nicaragua, a mother-scorpion

This being, said to live at the end of the Milky Way, sends the souls for new babies and receives the souls of the dead.

Itoli African
a humming-bird that gave Itonde a bell that granted all his wishes

Itonde African [Ilele-a-Ngonda]

a god of death and hunters in Zaire son of Lonkundo and Ilankaka

He is regarded as the first man and when he died he was reincarnated as Lianja.

He was so hungry in the womb that he slipped out and ate some of his father's venison. The humming bird, Itoli, gave him a little bell that granted all his wishes. When he grew up he was called Ilele-a-Ngonda and married Mbombe. When his father died, a famine raged and Itonde had to hunt deep into the forests to find game. He was killed on one such hunting trip. Soon after, his wife gave birth to Lianja and Nsongo and all the animals of the world.

Itongo African
ancestral spirits of the Zulu

These spirits are said to teach magic to the inyana, the diviners, with whom they communicate.

Itonia Greek
a name for Athena as the goddess of Coronea

Itonie (see Itonje)

Itonje British [Itonie]

sister of Gawain wife of Gramoflanz

Itonus Greek
father of Chromia

Itshi Siberian
a nature-god, guardian of tools and weapons

Itsike North American
a trickster-god of the Osage

Itsu-se Japanese

son of Amasuhiko and Tama-yori
brother of Jimmu-tenno

He and his brother conquered many new lands and he was killed in one of their battles.

itta African
a Zulu sorceress and healer.

Itugen Mongol
earth-goddess and fertility-goddess

Itulos (see Itylus)

Itum<sup>1</sup> Canaanite
a goddess
wife of Resep

Itum<sup>2</sup> (see Nefertem)

Iturna (see Eiturn)

Itus (see Itys)

Itylus Greek [Italos.Itulos]

son of Zethus and Aedon or Thebe brother of Neis

His mother killed him, mistaking him for the son of her sister-in-law, Niobe.

Itymoneus Greek
an Elean

He was killed by Nestor in the course of a cattle-raid.

Itys Greek
[Itus]

son of Tereus and Procne
He was killed and boiled by Procne and served for supper to Tereus in revenge for his deceit and brutal treatment of her and her sister Philomena. When the gods intervened, he was turned into a pheasant or a sandpiper.

Itzam Cab Central American
a Mayan earth-god, an aspect of Itzamna

In this form he has maize-leaves growing out of his head.

Itzam Na (see Itzamna)

Itzamkabain Central American
in the Mayan creation story,

a whale with the feet

of an alligator

Itzamna (see Itzamna)

Itzamna Central American [Chichen Itza.Hun Itzamna.Itzam Cab.

Itzam Na.Itzamna.Izamna.Izona.Kab-ul.

Kabil.Kabul.Lakin Chan.Lizard House.

Uac-metun-ahau.Xaxcoc-ahmut.

Yaxcocahmut.Zamna:=Aztec Quetzalcoat]

sun-god of the Maya, god of day and night, learning and writing

son of Hunab and Ixazaluch husband of Ix Chel

father of the Bacabs
He is credited with the invention of books and is depicted as a benevolent old man with no teeth or as a huge serpent.

In some versions he is described as a moon-god or is equated with Ah Kin, Hunab or Kukulcan.

Itcuinan (see Tlazolteotl)

Itzcuintl<sup>1</sup> Central American

an Aztec hearth-goddess

Itzcuintl<sup>2</sup> Central American

the tenth of the 20 days of the

Aztec month

Symbolising the dog and north, the day was governed by Mictlantecuhtli.

Itzeecayan Central American

[Palace of Cool Breezes]

one of the 3 celestial homes of the gods

Itzlacolihqui (see Itzlacolihque)

Itzlacolihque Central American

[Itzlacolihqui]

an Aztec obsidian knife-god

Some accounts identify him with Tezcatlipoca. (see also Itzli)

Itzli Central American

an Aztec stone-knife god, god of justice

Some accounts identify him with Tezcatlipoca. (see also Itzlacolihque)

Itzpalotl Central American

[Itzpalotl.Obsidian Knife Butterfly]

an Aztec mother-goddess, fire-goddess

and goddess of agriculture

a name of Coatlicue as ‘butterfly of obsidian’

an aspect of Cihuacoatl

She appeared as a beautiful woman but, when any man tried to take her, flint knives from her various orifices cut him to pieces and she squeezed out all his blood.

Itzapatl Totec Central American

[=Mayan Ix Tub Tun]

an Aztec fertility-god, patron of workers in precious metals

Iubdan Irish

[Iubdhan]

king of the fairies

husband of Bebo

He owned a pair of shoes that enabled him to travel in or on the water with the greatest of ease.

He was captured by Fergus mac Leda when he visited Ulster and fell into a bowl of porridge. Bebo had an affair with Fergus who released both her and her husband after a year and a day but demanded Iubdan’s magic shoes in return.

Iubdhan (see Iubdan)

Iubhar<sup>1</sup> Irish

a bishop

brother of Milla

uncle of Aban

Iubhar<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Ur:=British Uther Pendragon]

the Irish name for Uther, father

of King Arthur

Iuchadan Irish

a goldsmith working for Tigernmas

Iuchair (see Iuchar)

Iuchar Irish

[Iuchair]

son of Turenn and Brigit, or Dana,

some say

brother of Brian and Iucharba

husband of Fodhla

His family had feuded with the family of Cian and he and his two brothers killed Cian, the father of Lugh, who had adopted the form of a pig to avoid them. Some say that Lugh killed them, others that he had them condemned by the high-king to perform seven (or eight) near-impossible tasks.

(see Sons of Turenn)

Iucharba Irish

[Iucharbar]

son of Turenn and Brigit, or Dana,

some say

brother of Brian and Iuchar

husband of Banbha

His family had feuded with the family of Cian and he and his two brothers killed Cian, the father of Lugh, who had adopted the form of a pig to avoid them. Some say that Lugh killed them, others that he had them condemned by the high-king to perform seven (or eight) near-impossible tasks.

(see Sons of Turenn)

Iucharbar (see Iucharba)

Iuchna Irish

a companion of Cliona

He was in the boat with Cliona when she set off to meet Angus Og but he arranged for a flood to overwhelm the boat in harbour and she was drowned.

Iuchna Eachbheal Irish

an early king of a Leinster sept

Iulus<sup>1</sup> Roman

king of Latium

son of Ascanius

brother of Silvius

He was forced from the throne and banished by Silvius.

Iulus<sup>2</sup> (see Ascanius)

Iuno (see Juno)

Iunones Egyptian

a creator-goddess

Iunsa Irish

father of Eibhir

Iupiter (see Jupiter)

Iuppiter (see Jupiter)

Iusas Egyptian

[Eus-os.Iusaes.Iusaset.Jusas.

Rat.Uert-Heket]

a goddess revered in Heliopolis

wife of Atum or Ra (see also Iusau)

Iusaset (see Iusas)

Iusau Egyptian

a name of Atum as the bisexual god who produced Shu and Tefnut

(see also Iusas)

Iustitia (see Justitia)

Iuturna (see Juturna)

Iuvar

a demon

Iuventas (see Juventas)

Iuwao Japanese

an emperor of China

He took the fox-woman, Hoji, as his consort.

Iuwen Egyptian

a fetish in the form of a pillar symbolising the moon and the moon-god aspect of Osiris

Iva Pacific Islands

the Polynesian realm of the spirits of the dead

Ivain (see Owain)

Ivald Norse

[Ivalde.Iwaldi.Slagfinn.Svald.Svigdur.

Vidfinner:=Saxon Hengist]

a dwarf blacksmith

husband of Greip and Sol

father of Dvalin by Greip

father of Idun by Sol

In some accounts he is known as Vidfinner who sent his children, Bil and Hiuki, to fetch song-mead from the well, Byrgir. Whilst fetching the mead they were abducted by Manu. Vidfinner followed them and stole some of the mead and was then exiled to the moon where, as Svigdur, he was condemned to a state of perpetual drunkenness.

Ivalde (see Ivald)

Ivan<sup>1</sup> Russian

a prince

When the firebird stole apples from the tsar’s magic tree, he sent Ivan and his two brothers to capture the bird. They seized it and the maiden Yelena but the two brothers killed Ivan before returning home. The prince was restored to life by a wolf and returned to claim Yelena as his wife.

In another version, the tsar wanted Yelena for his wife and sent Ivan to seize her. Ivan fell in love with his captive and the wolf which had helped him in his quest resolved the problem by turning himself into a likeness of Yelena and the tsar took 'her' as his bride. When the wolf resumed its normal shape, the tsar died of shock and Ivan was able to marry Yelena and took the throne.

Ivan<sup>2</sup> Russian

[Ivan the Fool]

the youngest of 3 brothers

When his father died, Ivan guarded the grave for three nights and was rewarded with the gift of Silver Roan, a magic horse. Ivan was transformed from a peasant into a handsome youth and won the hand of the tsar's daughter.

Ivan<sup>3</sup> Serbian

[Ivan Kosantchitch]

a knight

He and his friends Milan and Milosh were thrown into jail by the Hungarian general, Voutcha. Marko rode to their rescue and captured the general and his son, trading them for the release of his three friends.

Ivan<sup>4</sup> Serbian

[Ivan Tzrnoyevitch]

a prince

ruler of Montenegro

father of Maximus

He sailed to Venice to sue for the hand of the doge's daughter for his handsome son Maximus but had to call on Milosh Obrenbegovitch to woo her for Maximus when his son contracted smallpox which disfigured him.

Ivan<sup>5</sup> (see Prince Ivan)

Ivar Norse

[Ingvar]

son of Ragnar Lodbrok and Aslaug
brother of Biorn, Hvitserk, Rogenwald, Sigurd and Ubbe

He was a cripple from birth and was carried into battle on a shield from where he shot his arrows to great effect. He also learned the art of magic and used it to kill the enchanted cow that helped Eystein, the Swedish king, when he invaded Denmark.

When his father was killed in a raid on Northumberland, Ivar and his brothers made another raid, hoping to exact vengeance. Instead, they were soundly beaten and Ivar and his brothers surrendered. The king, Ella, gave them land on which the survivors built a fortress which, it is said, became the city of London. Ivar gradually won over the people and they finally rose against Ella who was slain on a stone altar.

Ivenant British

a king

He promised to knight Yder if he could resist the efforts of Ivenant's wife to seduce him. Yder passed the test and was duly knighted.

Ivera Norse

goddess of beauty, love, youth

Ivernia (see Hibernia)

Ivi Apo East Indian

in Papuan lore, the first woman

She was hatched from an egg laid by a turtle and mated with Kerema Apo, the first man, born from another egg.

ividjur Norse

[ivithjur]

wood-spirits

ivithjur (see ividjur)

Ivo<sup>1</sup> European

[Iwo]

a Saracen prince of Spain

Ivo<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

husband of Ukaipu

He was a god who came from the earth but went to heaven to bring back knowledge for the people of Papua.

Ivoine British

the original name of Moine

(see also Constans)

Ivoire Celtic

sister of Ban

wife of Constantine mother of Aurelius, Constans

and Uther

Ivon European

one of Charlemagne's paladins

Ivonya-Ngia African

owner of vast herds

He offered cattle to a poor man who asked instead for the knowledge to make his own prosperity. He gave him ointment to put on his wife's canine teeth. These grew into tusks which he pulled out and sold. More tusks grew and she became an elephant.

Ivor Celtic

a huntsman

husband of Morwen

He and his wife raised the young Meriadoc who had been sent by Griffith to be killed after he had killed Meriadoc's father, Caradoc.

Ivory European

one of Charlemagne's paladins

ivy Greek

a plant sacred to Dionysus

It was said that this plant prevented drunkenness.

Ivy Girl (see Cornaby)

Iwa-naga (see Iha-naga)

Iwa-saru (see Iwazaru)

Iwain German

a 12th c version of the story of Owain, written by Hartmann von Aue

Iwainus (see Iwein)

Iwaldi (see Ivald)

Iwanaga (see Iha-naga)

Iwanet British

a squire at King Arthur's palace

He greeted Percival when he first came to the court.

Iwanus (see Iwein)

Iwar Australian

a culture-hero in the form of a crocodile

Iware-Biko (see Jimmu-tenno)

Iwarzaru Japanese

[Iwa-saru]

one of the Three Mystic Apes

He is depicted with his hands covering his mouth representing 'he who speaks no evil'.

iwasaka Japanese

an open space, set within sacred rocks, used for devotions

Iwein European

[Iwa(i)nus]

the name for Owain in Dutch stories

Iweret British

in some accounts, father of Iblis

When he attacked Mabuz, a foster-brother of Lancelot, Lancelot killed him.

Iweriadd Welsh

[Iweridd]

the first wife of Llyr

mother of Bran and Branwen

Iweridd (see Iweriadd)

Iwillemedan (see Imagheghan)

Iwo (see Ivo<sup>1</sup>)

Ix<sup>1</sup> Central American

a Mayan god

one of the Bacabs

He is the guardian of the west (black)

(see also Zac Cimi)

Ix<sup>2</sup> Central American

the fourteenth of the 20 ages of man, in Mayan lore, the freedom from all sin (see also Four Ix)

Ix Balan Ku (see Ixbalanque)

Ix Chebel Yax (see Ix Chel)

Ix Chel Central American

[Chibilias.Chibirias.Ix Chebel Yax.

Ix Kamleom.Ix Kamleon.Ix Zacal

Nok.Ixchel.Ixkamleom.Ixkamleom.

(Lady of the) Rainbow:=Toltec

Ix Ch'up.Ix-huyne]

a Mayan moon-goddess,

water-goddess, goddess of childbirth and weaving

consort of Itzamna or Votan

mother of the Bacabs

She is said to hold a jug from which she can produce another world flood at any time and is envisaged as a combination of a waterfall and a serpent.

In some accounts, as Ix Chebel Yax, she is identified with the Virgin Mary.

Ix Ch'up Central American

[Ix Huayne:=Mayan Ix Chel]

a Toltec moon-goddess

Ix-huayne (see Ix Ch'up)

Ix Kamleom (see Ix Chel)

Ix Kamleon (see Ix Chel)

Ix Kanan Central American

a Mayan goddess of the bean-plant

consort of Ih P'en

Ix Tub Tun Central American

[=Aztec Itz'apal Totec]

a Mayan goddess, patroness of workers in precious stones

She is said to spit out jewels and is envisaged as a serpent.

Ix Zacal Nok (see Ix Chel)

Ixazaluch Central American

a water-goddess wife of Hunab

mother of Itzamna

Ixazalvoh Central American

a Mayan goddess of weaving wife of Kinich Ahau

Ixbalanqué Central American

[Ix Balan Ku.Little Tiger.'the little jaguar'.Xbalanque]

one of the Mayan Hero Twins

son of Hunhunapua and Xquiq or Uatlan

twin brother of Hunapu

brother of Hunbatz and Hunchouen

He and his twin brother were born when the decapitated head of his father, killed by the rulers of Xibalba, spat into the hand of Xquiq. Their other brothers, Hunbatz and Hunchouen, were jealous of the twins' magical powers and would have killed them but the twins realised their intentions and turned them into monkeys.

They set out to dispose of the giant, Vacub-Caquix, and his sons Cabraca and Zipacna. Their first attempt, when they shot a poisoned arrow that struck Vacub-Caquix on the cheek, was not successful so, in the guise of physicians, they pulled out his emerald teeth and gouged out his eyes and he then died. They tried to kill Zipacna by burying him and building a house over the site but the giant recovered and killed the 400 young men who had helped to bury him. Another attempt, when they threw mountains on top of him, was successful in killing him. His brother Cabraca was easily killed when the twins gave him poisoned chicken to eat.

They then went to Xibalba, at the invitation of the rulers, to play dachtli with them, hoping to be able to avenge the death of their father, Hunhunapua. Every time they won a game against the lords of Xibalba, they had to spend a night in a house of torture. They survived the House of Gloom, the House of Lances, the House of Cold, the House of Tigers and the House of Fire but, in the House of Bats, Hunapu was decapitated by the bat-god, Camazotz. He was later restored by a turtle.

Helped by the magicians Bacam and Xulu, the twins burnt and restored all sorts of things, including, finally, themselves. The rulers Huncame and Vucubcame were persuaded to attempt this feat and were burnt to death.

Ixchel (see Ix Chel)

Ixcozauhqui (see Xiuhtecuhtli)

Ixcuin Central American

one of quadruplets

son of Hueytonantzin

brother of Hueytecpatl, Nancatlzatzli

and Tentemic

Ixcuina (see Tlazolteotl)

Ixcuiname (see Tlazolteotl)

Ixcuinana (see Tlazolteotl)

Ixion Greek

['strong'] king of the Lapiths

son of Antion, Peision or Phlegyas

husband of Dia

father by Nephelē of Centaurus, the ancestor of the Centaurs

father of Peirithous, some say

He arranged to marry Dia and pay for the honour but he reneged on his promise and when her father, Eioneus, demanded the money, Ixion killed him by luring him to fall into a pit of burning material. He fathered Peirithous on her, although the real father may well have been Zeus. When Zeus invited him to dinner in Olympia, Ixion tried to seduce Hera but was forestalled by Zeus who created a likeness (Nephelē) from cloud-material. She bore the Centaurs or, in some accounts, Centaurus who fathered the Centaurs on the Magnesian mares. Zeus punished Ixion by having him tied to a burning wheel forever revolving in the heavens or, in some stories, in Tartarus.

Ixkamleom (see Ix Chel)

Ixkamleon (see Ix Chel)

Ixnexltli Central American

an Aztec goddess of weaving

Ixpuztec Central American

an Aztec god of the underworld

Ixquimilli Central American

an Aztec god of justice

Ixquina (see Tlazolteotl)

Ixtab Central American

the Mayan goddess of suicide or the hangman's noose

She carried off the souls of suicides and warriors killed in battle and is depicted with a noose round her neck.

Ixtlilton Central American

[Little Black Face]

an Aztec god of darkness, medicine and games

a god of sexual desire, in some accounts

brother of Macuilxochtili

Ixtlilxochtil Central American

a Mexican who recorded many Aztec traditions

Iya North American

a magic rock

In a rare display of generosity, Coyote gave the rock his blanket but snatched it back when he began to feel cold. The rock chased Coyote and Ictinike, flattening trees in its path, and finally ran over Coyote, flattening him also, so recovering the blanket.

In other versions, Iya was a cannibalistic monster of the Sioux, appearing in the form of a hurricane.

iya-ku Siberian

[ya-kut]

the mother-soul

one of the 3 parts of the soul (kut), in the lore of the Yakuts

iyalorisha African

[male=babalarisha:=Brazil mae de santo]

a Yoruban priestess

Iyan Hokshi (see Stone Boy)

Iyatiku North American

the corn-goddess of the Pueblo

sister of Poseyemu

She was the ruler of an underground realm, Shipap.

Iyngies Greek

a name of Dionysus

Iynx<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Pan and Echo

She bewitched Zeus into falling in love with Io and was changed into a wryneck by the jealous Hera.

Iynx<sup>2</sup>

a magic wheel

Iyogera African

a yellow stone in Burundi

When the king Itare struck the stone with his hammer, a river flowed out, forming the source of the Nile.

Iyuva (see Iruva)
Izamna (see Itzamna)
Izanagi Japanese
 [August Male.Isanagi]
 the Shinto primaeval father-god son of Kuni-toko-tachi brother and husband of Izanami
 father of Amaterasu, Hiru-Ko, Kazu-Tsuchi, Susanowa and Tsukiyomo
 He and Izanami were two of the seventeen gods of creation. Standing on the bridge of heaven they stirred the primaeval waters with a spear and created an island, Onogoro, with the brine that came up on the blade. They also created an island called Awagi and the rest of the islands of Japan.
 When Izanami died giving birth to Kazu-Tsuchi, Izanagi decapitated the boy with his magic sword, Ame-no-wo-ha-bari, and went into Yomi, the underworld, to get his wife back but she was already rotting. He escaped the demons, the Eight Ugly Females, sent after him and blocked the entrance with a huge boulder. He escaped to an island where he built a house and lived forever in silence. When he bathed in the sea to cleanse himself his clothes became more gods, the dirt from his body became sea-gods, Amaterasu came from his left eye, Tsuki-yomo from his right eye and Susanowa from his nose. Other versions allocate these deities to different parts of his face. In some accounts, he divided his kingdom between these three and retired to heaven.
Izanami Japanese
 [August Female.Isanami]
 the Shinto primaeval mother-goddess daughter of Kuni-toko-tachi sister and wife of Izanagi mother of Amaterasu, Hiru-Ko, Kazu-Tsuchi, Susanowa and Tsukiyomo
 She and Izanagi were two of the seventeen gods of creation. Standing on the bridge of heaven they stirred the primaeval waters with a spear and created an island, Onogoro, with the brine that came up on the blade. They also created an island called Awagi and the rest of the islands of Japan.

She died when giving birth to Kazu-Tsuchi. Her husband went down to the underworld to fetch her back but it was too late – she had already eaten the food of the dead. She was allowed to return if Izanagi did not look at her but, as in the story of Orpheus and Eurydice, he broke his promise. She sent many demons after him when he fled at the sight of her rotting corpse but he escaped, blocking the entrance with a huge boulder.

While in the underworld she produced many other deities from her bodily discharges.

Izashine (see Izehne)

Izayemon Japanese
 a man whose name was invoked as a charm to drive away snakes

Izdubar Mesopotamian
 a Babylonian hero or sun-god
 Like Heracles, he performed twelve labours and, in some accounts, is equated with Gilgamesh.

Izedi<sup>1</sup> Persian
 30 archangels of Ahura Mazda
 They act as guardians and preside over the days of the month.

Izedi<sup>2</sup> Persian [Yez(i)di]
 a member of a sect said to worship the devil

Izehne Persian [Iassen.Izashine]
 a sacred book of the Parsees

Izha Persian
 a goddess of sacrifice

Izimud Mesopotamian
 an attendant on Enki

Izlucoco Central American
 the tree of life during the third stage of man

Izoi-tamoi South American [Grandfather (of Worms).Tamoi: =Carib Tamusi]
 ruler of the Bolivian underworld creator of the Guarani

He created the tribe and then departed to the underworld where he was encountered by all souls entering the underworld and grew bigger or smaller according to whether the traveller had been bad or good. Evil souls were split in half by Izoi-tamoi.

His two sons climbed an arrow-chain into the sky and became the sun and moon.

Izona (see Itzamna)

Izpapatlotl (see Itzpapatlotl)

Izpuzteque Central American
 a fierce demon in the lore of the Aztecs

This demon was one of the many hazards faced by the souls of the dead in their journey through the underworld.

Izquitectatl Central American
 an Aztec fertility-god

Iztac Ciuatl<sup>1</sup> Central American
 [The White Woman]
 an Aztec giantess

Iztac Ciuatl<sup>2</sup> Central American
 a sacred mountain, home of the rain-god, Tlaloc

Iztacmixcoatl (see Mixcoatl)

Iztacmixcohuatl (see Mixcoatl)

Iztat Ix (see Alaghom Naum)

Izumo (see Idzumo)

Izushio-tome Japanese wife of Haru-yama

Her husband's elder brother, Akiyama, failed to give her a gift when she married Haru-yama and his mother placed a curse on him so that he withered and died.

Izuwa (see Iruva)

J

Ja Mrima African

a name of Were as 'the one who has a temper'

Ja-ztak (see Sutekh)

Jabal Lamma African

the rock where Copper City was said to have been built by Solomon

Jabal Saa African

the rock where Copper City was said to have been built by Japhet

Jabbor Australian

an ancestral cat of the Aborigines

Jabir Arab

son of Al Mundzir
brother of Jubayr
father of Rizk

Jabme-aibmo Baltic

Jabme-aimo Baltic

[Jabme-aibmo]
the Lappish underworld, ruled by Jabme-akkao

Jabme-akka Baltic

an old woman, ruler of the Lappish underworld, Jabme-aimo

Jabru Persian

a sky-god

jack North American

a charm used in the southern states
Various items, wrapped in red flannel, are used as divining tools or to prevent the owner from getting lost.

Jack of the Bowl European

a Swiss brownie

Jack in the Green British

a spirit of the woodlands

Jack o' Lantern Scandinavian

the ghost of a person who had moved a landmark

Those who had moved boundary markers to their own advantage were condemned to carry the stones in the afterlife.

Jack the Giant Killer British

a hero of children's stories

He killed many giants including Blunderboar and Cormoran whom he lured into a pit and decapitated and became the servant of one of King Arthur's sons.

He was able to perform his feats of giant-killing by using a cap that gave him great knowledge, a cloak that rendered him invisible, shoes that allowed him to travel at great speed and a wonderful sword.

In some accounts, he married the daughter of a duke.

Jackal African

a trickster-hero of the Hottentots

In some accounts, it was he who overcame the monster Ga-gorib.

Jacob's Pillow (see Stone of Destiny)

Jacob's Stone (see Stone of Destiny)

Jacound British

a Saracen king

He was fighting on the side of the Romans in their battles with King Arthur during his forays on the Continent and was killed by Lancelot.

Jacques Majeur West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit, derived from St James

Jacquet Indian

a grey toad, used by sorcerers to dry up a cow's milk

Jacunuam South American

a celestial fish

The Xingu of Brazil say that this great fish swallows the sun every night and vomits it up each morning.

Jacy South American

[Toruguenket]
a Tupi creator-god, the moon

jadatsky Siberian

a shaman who acts as a rain-maker

jade

a green mineral

The Chinese say it was made from the bone-marrow of Pan-ku. It is believed to preserve the dead from decay.

Jade Emperor (see Yü Huang)

Jade Fairy Maids Chinese

5 maidens in the service of Hsi Wang Mu

Jade Maidens (see Yü Nü)

Jade Mountain (see Yü Shan)

Jade Palace Chinese

the home of Yü Huang in Ta Wei

Jade Purity (see Yü Huang)

Jade Ruler (see Yü Huang)

Jade Skirt (see Chalchiuhtlicue)

Jadi Arab

the Zodiacal sign, Capricorn

Jadu (see Yati<sup>2</sup>)

Jael

an angel, ruler of the Zodiacal sign
Libra

Jafenhar (see Iafn-Har)

Jafnhar (see Iafn-Har)

Jaga-Baba (see Baba-Jaga)

Jagadgauri Hindu
an aspect of Devi as 'the fair one' or 'light of the world'

Jagadhattri Hindu
a goddess of spring

Jagadnatha (see Jagannath)

Jagan-natha (see Jagannath)

Jaganmata Hindu [Jaganmatri]
an aspect of Devi as 'mother of the world'

Jaganmatri (see Jaganmata)

Jagannath Hindu
[Jagadnatha, Jagan-natha, Jaggernaut, Jaggurnath, Juggernaut, Lord of the World]

an incarnation of Vishnu as a relentless god

brother of Balabhadra and Subhadra
He is depicted with no legs and only stumps in place of arms. One version accounts for this by saying that Vishnu was accidentally killed by a hunter and Vishvakarma undertook to revivify him by forming new flesh on the original bones. Krishna broke the undertaking that nobody should look until the job was finished with the result that it never was completed.

In some accounts, Jagannath is an incarnation of Krishna.

Jagati Hindu
daughter of Suparni

sister of Gayatri and Tristubh
She changed into a bird and flew to heaven to bring back soma but the journey proved to be too much for her and she failed. Her mother had tried before her and failed and her sister Tristubh also failed, but Gayatri succeeded.

Jaggernaut (see Jagannath)

Jaggurnath (see Jagannath)

Jagaubis Lituanian
a fire-god

Jaguar South American [Dog of the Shaman, Master of Animals]
a large spotted feline

Some say that the jaguar was the founder of the Quiche tribe and Tezcatlipoca became a jaguar when he was killed by Quetzalcoatl and fell into the sea.

The Toltecs regarded this animal as symbolising darkness and thunder.

Some tribes say that eclipses are caused when a supernatural jaguar swallows the sun or moon.

It is said that, when a black jaguar dies, it becomes a demon and a shaman may turn into a jaguar when he dies. (see also Desana)

Jaguar God (see Ahau-Kin)

Jaguar-man South American
a form of werewolf

Some shamans are reputed to be able to turn themselves into jaguars, in which form they attack victims at night.

Jaguar-Snake Central American
a primordial goddess of the Mixtec sister and wife of Puma-Snake mother of Wind-Nine-Cave and Wind-Nine-Snake

She and her consort appeared when the earth rose out of the primaevial waters and built a palace in which they lived for hundreds of years before producing their two sons. The four gods became the progenitors of the human race.

Jah't Egyptian
[Joh]

a moon-god later merged with Thoth

Jah Acab Hebrew

Jacob as 'heel-god'

Jahera African

a name of Were as 'merciful'

Jahi (see Jeh)

Jahir (see Elom)

Jahnu Hindu

a sage
It is said that the overflowing of the Ganges interrupted his meditation so he swallowed all the water. He later released it when the gods pleaded with him – through his ear.

Jaik-khan Siberian [Jajuts(h)i]

son of Over-god
a prince of floods

He sent the souls for the new-born and, having deserted his father in heaven to go to the underworld, acts as receiver of souls. He also records man's good deeds.

Jajutshi (see Jaik-khan)

Jajutsi (see Jaik-khan)

Jaka (see Trayastrimsa)

Jaka Tingkir East Indian
[Mas Krebet]

a Javanese sultan
His great enemy, Panangsang, sent four retainers to kill the sultan but they could inflict not so much as a scratch with their daggers on the royal skin. He eventually died as a result of falling off his elephant.

Jakis Japanese
evil spirits which cause illness

Jakui South American
a Xingu flute-spirit

This spirit is said to live under water and is envisaged as a ceremonial flute.

Jakuaep South American
a Xingu mask-spirit

Like the related Jakui, this spirit lives under water but is envisaged as a ceremonial mask.

Jakuta African
a Yoruba thunder-god

Jala-Hastin (see Jalebha)

Jala-Shayin Hindu
a name for Vishnu as 'he who sleeps on the waters'

Jala-Turaga Hindu
a water-spirit in the form of a horse

Jaladhi-ja Hindu
a name of Lakshmi as 'the ocean-born'

Jalandhara Hindu

a demon
son of Ganga
consort of Vrindha

He threatened to take over the universe so the gods forged a powerful sun-disc to kill him. Vishnu, in the form of Jalandhara, seduced Vrindha who, ashamed at what had happened, committed suicide. This angered Jalandhara so that he attacked the gods who then produced their secret weapon and cut off his head. He became whole again when his blood fell into the ocean but eventually the goddesses lapped up the blood and he weakened and died.

An alternative version says that Jalandhara sent the demon Rahu to seize Sakti, wife of Shiva, but that god created the lion-headed monster, Kurttimukha, by discharging a tremendous burst of power from his eyes. This scared Rahu away and the hungry demon was forced to eat
himself.

Jalang Malay
daughter of Yak Lepeh

wife of Tak Pern

Some say that she was Tak Pern's sister.

Jalapati Hindu
a name for Varuna as ruler of the waters

Jalatunda East Indian

a well said to reach down to the underworld

This well contains tala, an oil reputed to make invulnerable those who use it on their bodies.

Jalebha Hindu

[Jala-Hastin]
a water-spirit in the form of an elephant

Jalinprabha Buddhist

[Suryaprabha]
a bodhisattva

Jaliya African

a Nigerian girl who lived in a river

She was pushed into the water by her friends and found herself in a beautiful palace where a serpent ruled as king. A real king, Gongola, heard her singing to the serpent and had the river drained. The serpent flew away and the king married the girl.

Jaljogani Indian

an evil spirit

This spirit, said to live in wells and streams, puts women and children under spells and can cause diseases.

Jalk Norse

[Jalkr]
a name for Odin as killer of Vafthruthnir

Jalkr *(see Jalk)jalpari Indian

a water-spirit

This mermaid-type being was said to lure men to her underwater home and to kill any who rejected her advances.

Jalweny African

a name of Were as 'mighty warrior'

Jalyogoni Indian

in the Punjab, evil spirits

These beings are said to live in streams and wells and cast spells which cause illness in women and children.

Jam-dpal Buddhist

[Jam-pa-i-dbyans, Jam-pa-yang, Jam-pol, Jampahi'dbyans]
the Tibetan name for Arpacana or Manjushri

Jam-pa-i-dbyans *(see Jam-dpal)Jam-pa-yang *(see Jam-dpal)Jam-pol *(see Jam-dpal)Jamad-agni Hindu

one of the Seven Rishis husband of Renuka
father of Parashurama

He ordered his five sons to kill their mother for thinking lustful thoughts. Only Parashurama was prepared to obey and he cut her head off with an axe. When he was rewarded with the chance to make a request, Parashurama asked that his mother be restored to life.

When Parashurama killed Kartavirya, that king's twenty-one sons attacked the hermit of Jamad-Agni who was killed in the fight. Parashurama vowed to exterminate the whole caste of the kshatriyas, a promise which he kept.

Jamajaya East Indian

a king of Java

His reign was particularly peaceful because the giant, Wikramadatta, had forced the king to hand over all the weapons in the country.

Jambala *(see Jambhala)Jambas German

son of Ortgis

His father, a magician, seized Virginal, the ice-queen, and when Dietrich and Hildebrand came to her rescue, Jambas was the only one to escape alive from the fight that ensued. He besieged Jeraspunt, the castle in which Virginal and her maidens were held, but Dietrich and his men routed the besiegers and freed the captives.

Jambavan Hindu

[Jambavat]
a king of bears

He existed in the time before the Churning of the Ocean and it was he who had thrown into the sea the herbs that made amrita.

In later years, he helped Rama in his struggle with Ravana.

He also killed the lion which held the light of the sun in a ruby and refused to give the gem to Krishna who wanted it. It was only after they had fought for many days that Jambavan realised that he was fighting a god and immediately yielded the stone, adding the hand of his daughter, Jambavati, for good measure.

Jambavat *(see Jambavan)Jambavati Hindu

daughter of Jambavan

Her father gave her to Krishna whom he had fought for many days for the possession of a ruby.

Jambe *(see Njambi)Jambha Hindu

a demon killed by Vishnu

Jambhala Buddhist

[Jambala:=Hindu Kubera; =Tibetan Dsam-bha-la]
a three-headed god of riches
an aspect of Ratnasambhava

In one form he is shown treading on a man to make him vomit up jewels. He is sometimes depicted holding a bag of gold, a mongoose or a lemon.

Jambi *(see Njambi)Jambridvipa Hindu

[Jambu(dvipa), Jambudvipa.

Rose-apple Island]

the continent or island standing at the centre of the world: site of Mount Mandara or, some say,

Mount Meru (see also Dvipa)

Jambu<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[=Siberian Zambu:=Tibetan Zampu]

the Tree of Life growing on Mount

Meru

In some accounts this tree is the source of soma. It is the axis of the earth with its roots on the underworld, and its topmost branches in the heavens.

Jambu<sup>2</sup> *(see Jambridvipa)Jambudvipa *(see Jambridvipa)Jambudwipa *(see Jambridvipa)Jambupati Hindu

a king of Jambriavipa

He refused to honour the Buddha but changed his attitude when the Buddha appeared bedecked in even greater splendour than the king himself.

Jambutri Shring Tibetan

[=Hindu Jambu]

the tree of life

The roots of this tree are in Lamayin but its branches in Lhayul so that the inhabitants of that realm can enjoy the fruit.

Jampadi'dyans *(see Jam-dpal)Jamshid Persian

[Giamschid, Jamshyd, Jemshid]

an early king or culture-hero

mentioned in Shah Name

son of Vivahvant

In some accounts, he is the same as Yima, in others they are separate beings.

In the latter case, he was said to have lived for 700 years but neglected to worship and was expelled for 100 years being finally sawn in half. He owned a goblet which was reputed to contain the elixir of life.

Other versions say that he ruled for 1,000 years, teaching the arts of weaving, working in precious metals and stones and masonry. He was murdered by Zahak. (see also Yima)

Jamshyd *(see Jamshid)Jamund *(see Jutmundus)Jan Burmese

a benevolent nat of the sun

one of the original nats created by

Chinun Way Shun

- Jan Teng Chinese
[Jan-teng-fo. Lamp Bearer]
a female beggar
Various stories of the saint's origins describe him as a female beggar, a male hermit Lao-tu-po-t'i, or a teacher of Sakyamuni.
As a result of her devotion s/he was destined to become a Buddha.
(see also Dipankara.Lao-tu-po-t'i)
- Jan-teng Tao-jen Chinese a Taoist
He is said to have killed Tou Mu with a pearl in the Battle of Ten Thousand Spirits.
- Jana Roman
wife of Janus
Some versions identify Jana with Diana.
- Jana-Loka Hindu
one of the 7 realms of the universe, home of Brahma's children
- Janaka<sup>1</sup> East Indian a name for Arjuna in the Javanese version of the Mahabharata
- Janaka<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a sage
king of Mithila
father of Sita
He insisted on making his own submissions to the gods without the intervention of priests and, as he had no children, he prepared to make sacrifices to the gods to get a child.
- Janamejaya East Indian [Janocmejaya]
son of Parikshit
His father had been killed by the forces of the snake-king, Takshaka. Janamejaya avenged his death by a rite that trapped the nagas, causing them to fall into a fire. Total annihilation of the army was averted only by the intervention of Astika.
- Janamashtrami Hindu [Janmastami]
a festival celebrating the birthday of Krishna, held in August/September
- Janardana Hindu
a name for Brahma, Shiva or Vishnu
- Janen African
a name of Were as 'wise one'
- Janet Scottish
lover of Tam Lin
When Tam Lin was seized by the fairy queen, Janet held him firmly through several shape changes until he finally freed himself from the enchantment.
- Janfar (see Lafn-har)
- Jang Lung Chinese
one of the Four Dragon Kings
- Janguli Buddhist [Mahavidya]
a snake-goddess
an aspect of Tara
one of the dharanis
She can heal snake-bites and is sometimes depicted as having three heads and may be attended by a snake.
- Jan'gwono African
a name of Were as 'kind'
- Janiceps
a two-headed monster
- Janicot Basque
[=Roman Janus]
god of oak-trees
- Janim Phoenician
a sea-god
In some accounts, after being defeated by Baal-Sagan, he was given Astarte for his wife in consolation.
- Janmastami (see Janamashtrami)
- jann<sup>1</sup> Muslim [sing=jinne]
the fifth order of spirits, the least powerful
- Jann<sup>2</sup> Persian [Jannu]
the father of the jinn, in some accounts
- Jannu (see Jann<sup>2</sup>)
- Janocmejaya (see Janamejaya)
- Jantam East Indian
a king in Borneo
He gave his daughter as a wife to Alexander the Great and Khadir, the emperor's minister, filled the king's storehouses with treasure using his magic powers.
- januae Roman
cakes forming part of offerings to the god Janus
- Janus Roman
[Clusivius.Consuvius.Dianus.Dionus. Ianus.Janus Bifrons.Patulcius] the two-faced god of beginnings, dawn, doors, gateways, travel son of Apollo
husband of Jana or Camise husband of Juturna, some say father of Tiberinus
father of Fons by Juturna, some say father of Canens by Venilia father of Proca by Carna father of the Horae, some say
In some accounts, he was made by Uranus and Hecate, using earth and water moulded into a ball. En route to the underworld, the ball became a kind of sentient pillar which Hecate reared as Janus. He ran off and dived into the Styx, arriving back in the land of the living where, in the warmth of the sun, he developed organs.
On one occasion, the nymph Carna lured him into a cave and then tried to slip away as she had done with many others, but his second face saw her behind him and he prevented her escape and seduced her, fathering Proca. On another occasion, he saved Rome from the attacking Sabines by creating a spring of boiling water at the gateway.
He became a deity when he was rewarded for helping the gods in their fight with the Titans.
As Janus Quadrifrons he was the four-headed god of the seasons.
His temple in Rome had two doors (or four) which were closed only when the nation was not at war.
His festival was celebrated on 9th January.
He was said to have one young face, one old, and is depicted with two, three or four heads and carrying a key and a rod.
Some regard Janus as a pre-Latin deity adopted into the Roman pantheon.
- Janus Bifrons<sup>c</sup> Roman
a name for Janus as two-faced
- Janus Quadrifrons Roman
a four-headed version of Janus
- Janziri (see Jata1)
- Jaoth Mesopotamian
a name for god
- Japhet Hebrew
[Japheth]
son of Noah
brother of Ham and Shem
father of Histion
In Irish stories, he was the father of Cessair (Magog), an ancestress of the Irish people.
- Japheth (see Japhet)
- Jar-Sub Siberian
an earth-god
- Jara<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Jaras]
a hunter
brother of Krishna, some say
He inadvertently shot Krishna in the heel and killed him.
In some accounts, he is equated with the goddess Jara.
- Jara<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a goddess, old age personified (see also Jara<sup>1</sup>)
- Jara<sup>3</sup> Hindu
a female demon
By day, she was a beautiful, happy young girl; by night she was an ugly corpse-eating crone.

She found the two half-babies born to the wives of the king, Brihadratha, and joined them together. The boy was then restored to his father and called Jarasandha.

Jarah (See Elom)

Jaralez Armenian

[Ar(a)lez]
a spirit said to revivify those killed in battle merely by licking their wounds: a race of dog-like people living in heaven

Jaras (see Jara<sup>1</sup>)

Jarasandha Hindu

a king of Maghadha
son of Brihadratha
His father had two wives, each of which gave birth to half a baby and they were abandoned in the forest where they were found by the demoness, Jara, who joined the halves together and returned the boy to his father. He became very strong, his strength waxing and waning with the moon.

He was at first in conflict with the Yadavas but sent two of his daughters as wives for Kansa, the demon who had taken the Yadava throne, hoping to make peace. After the death of Kansa at the hand of Krishna, a second conflict arose, this time with the Pandava brothers. One of these, Bhima, killed Jarasandha.

In an earlier manifestation, he was one of the demons killed by Krishna.

Jari Pacific Islands

daughter of Gogo
She deserted the snake-man she had married after he had killed and eaten her mother and lived with the lizard-man, Kamarong. He was an incomplete being but Jari fashioned a penis for him and they became the ancestors of the tribes.

Jarih Mesopotamian

[=Hebrew Elom]
a Syrian moon-god
husband of Nikkal

Jarita Hindu

a huge bird
Jaritas were female birds with no mates. A saint named Mandalpana died but returned as a male bird, Sarangika, and mated with a Jarita, fathering four sons, and then went back to the underworld.

Jarl Norse

[Rig-Jarl]
son of Modir by Heimdall husband of Erna

father of Konur

Heimdall, visiting earth as Riger, fathered Jarl on Modir. He married Erna and their many children were the forerunners of the nobility. Their son Konur founded the Danish royal family.

Jarl Angantyr (see Angantyr<sup>1</sup>)

Jarnsaxa (see Jarnsaxa)

Jarnvid<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Jarnvithr]
a race of giant witches living in Ironwood

Jarnvid<sup>2</sup> (see Ironwood)

Jarnvithr (see Ironwood, Jarnvid<sup>1</sup>)

Jarog (see Svarog)

Jarovit (see Gerovit)

Jarri Mesopotamian

a Hurrian plague-god and god of war

Jasonius Irish

[Jastoni]
a giant whale

During his voyaging, Brendan landed on the back of this huge beast, thinking it was an island and here they celebrated Easter Mass.

Jason Greek

[Diomedes. 'healer'. Jason. Ieson] son of Aeson and Alcimede brother of Promachus husband of Medea
father of Medus, Mermerus and Pheres, and, in some accounts, Alcimenes, Eriopis, Thessalus and Tisander

His name at first was Diomedes and he was reared by Chiron to escape Pelias who tried to kill anyone who might be a threat and changed his name to Jason. As a result of his kindness to the goddess Hera whom he carried across a river in flood when she visited earth in the guise of an old woman, he was granted the protection of the goddess in his later adventures.

He claimed the throne of Iolcus from Pelias who had usurped it from Aeson and Pelias agreed to surrender it if Jason would lay the ghost of Phrixus which was haunting him and bring back the Golden Fleece to Iolcus. This initiated the quest for the Golden Fleece told in the story of the Argonauts.

In some stories, Alcimede appears as Polymede. (see also Argonauts)

Jastoni (see Jasonius)

Jasus (see Iasius)

Jata<sup>1</sup> African

[Janziri. Nakada]
a spirit which causes venereal disease and madness

Jata<sup>2</sup> East Indian

son of Mahatara
brother of the Salang goddesses
He is said to have had a head like a crocodile.

jata<sup>3</sup> East Indian

a sea-demon of the Dayaks
These beings are said to use crocodiles as servants.

jata<sup>4</sup> East Indian

a general name for god among the Dayaks

Jata-kagami Japanese

[Yata]
the mirror of Amaterasu, one of the objects comprising the Go-shin Tai

Jataka Buddhist

[=Thai Panyasa-Jataka]
a collection of 547 stories of the Buddha's previous lives

In a typical story, the Buddha was incarnate as a stray dog, leader of a pack accused of eating the harness of the horses which pulled the royal coach. He persuaded the king to administer an emetic to his own dogs which then vomited up the remains of the harness. As a result, the king decreed that all living things should not be harmed.

Jatavedas (see Agni)

Jatayas (see Jatayu)

Jatayu Hindu

[Jatayas. Jatayus]
a huge bird, king of the vultures an incarnation of Garuda son of Garuda, some say brother of Sampati

He saw Ravana abducting Sita and tried to stop him but the demon tore out his feathers and left him dying. He lived long enough to tell Rama what had happened to his wife and was then taken up to heaven.

In one account, he caught the falling Dasha-ratha when he was thrown out of heaven by Shani and so saved his life.

Jatayus (see Jatayu)

Jaufré British

a knight of King Arthur's court
husband of Brunissen

Taulat killed a knight at the king's court and promised to return each year and kill another. Jaufré was ordered to go after him and killed him.

In some versions, he is equated with Griflet.

Jauza Arab

the Zodiacal sign Gemini

Javersaharses Armenian

[Javerzaharses]
female spirits

These beings are regarded as a fount of knowledge in all matters concerning women but they never forget anything, neither do they learn anything new.

Javerzaharses (see Javersaharses)

Jawi Mesopotamian

[Ja'u.jw]

an ancient Syrian god

Jawzahr Moslem

a supposed planet said to influence the zodiac

jay<sup>1</sup> North American

a chattering bird

In some southern states, this bird is regarded as a messenger of the Devil and, every Friday, takes him a bundle of sticks with the consequence that the bird is not seen on that day. Some say that medicine-men can take on the form of a jay; others say that the bird is a hero who brought up mud after the flood to make dry land.

Jay<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of the 8 demonesses attendant on Durga

Jaya Hindu

a demoness, one of the Yogini

Jaya-Vijaya Hindu

twin goddesses

Jayadeva Hindu

a 12th c poet, author of Gita-Govinda

Jayadratha Hindu

a cousin of the Pandava brothers

He tried to rape Draupadi and Bhima punished him by making him work as a slave for the Pandavas.

Jayakara Buddhist

a god

He is depicted as riding in a chariot drawn by cockatoos.

Jayanaga East Indian

one of the 5 kings of Java regarded as incarnations of the Dhyani-buddhas

Jayanta Hindu

a god

one of the 11 ekadasarudras son of Indra and Indrani

Jayanti Hindu

['victorious'] daughter of Indra

Jayatarā Buddhist

a name of Tara as 'victorious'

Jayawardhana East Indian

one of the 5 kings of Java regarded as incarnations of the Dhyani-buddhas

Jayhawk North American

a legendary bird, part phoenix, part gargoyle

This bird, adopted as the emblem of Kansas, is said, like the ouzelum bird, to fly backwards, with the result that it never knows where it is going but always knows where it has been.

Jazer West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit who can evoke feelings of love

Jazeriel

a moon-demon

Jean West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit, derived from St John

Jean Baptiste West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit, derived from St John the Baptist

Jean Brigard West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit, regarded as the tutelary spirit of thieves

Jean Crabe West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Jean Délé West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Jean Féro West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Jebel Mousa (see Abyla)

Jebel Musa (see Abyla)

Jefa African

the name for the sun in Zaire

Jefischa

a demon of the hours of the day

Jeh Persian

[Jahi]

a whore, servant of Ahriman

She wakened Ahriman, who had swooned away for 3,000 years, and induced him to poison Gayomart.

She is permanently in conflict with Eredatfedhri, the virgin.

Jehan de Saintré European

a French knight

He loved the Dame des Belles-Cousines but she transferred her favours to an abbot while Jehan was campaigning in the East. On his return, the abbot defeated him in a wrestling match but Jehan turned the tables when they fought with weapons. He slit his opponent's tongue to stop him from giving further offence.

Jejamo-karpo Buddhist

[Pho-zem-na-po]

a Tibetan princess, one of the Yakshas

Jemaliwat Pacific Islands

son of Wulleb

brother of Edoa

He and his brother were born from a blood-blister on the leg of Wulleb when he fell to earth to escape death at the hand of Laney and Lewo or, some say, from the leg of the god Loa.

Jemshid (see Jamshid)

Jen<sup>1</sup> Russian

a sky-god of the Ziryen people

He used lightning in his fight with the devil, Kul.

Jen<sup>2</sup> (see Ilmarinen)

Jen-hsien Chinese

humans who attain immortality

Jen Huang (see Jen Wang)

Jen Wang Chinese

[Human August One.Human Kings.

Jen Huang]

child(ren) of Chun T'i and Tou Fu

In some versions, this name applies to the nine children of the goddess Chun T'i and her husband Tou Fu, who became the first human rulers; in others it refers to their eldest son, T'ien-ying, when he came to earth and took the throne.

Jendzibaba (see Baba-Yaga)

Jendzyna (see Baba-Yaga)

Jengk-Tongk Baltic

[Kul-Jungk]

a Lapp water-spirit or fish-spirit

Jerah (see Elom)

Jeraspunt

a castle, home of Virginal, where she married Dietrich

Jeremiah British

a king of Hungary in Arthurian lore

Jerobaal

a demon said to take possession of humans

Jersey Devil North American

[Leeds Devil]

A woman who had borne many children is alleged to have said that, if she had another, it would be a devil – and so it turned out. The child could fly and even went bathing in the sea with mermaids.

Jerusalem Delivered European

an Italian epic poem, running to 10 volumes, written by Tasso

This book, published in 1581, deals with the siege and capture of Jerusalem by Christian forces under Godfrey, and includes the story of Rinaldo's dalliance with Armida.

Jeschuté French

daughter of Lac

sister of Brandiles and Erec

wife of Orilus

Jessis Slav

[=Roman Jupiter]

an early deity

jet

a black mineral said to ward off serpents and spells

Jetaita South American

an earth-spirit in Tierra del Fuego

jettatura Italian [malocchio:=Corsican ordin]
the evil eye: one who brings bad luck (see also magia)

Jeune Gens West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit

Jewa-Jewa Malay
[=Sanskrit Deva Deva]
a heavenly being who intercedes with god on behalf of humans

jewata East Indian [=Hindu devata:=Java dewata: =Philippines divata:=Sumatra leibata]
a general name for a deity in Borneo

Jewel Casket Chinese a mythical container
This casket is full of jewels and ingots which are replaced as often as they are removed.

Jewel Maiden Japanese
[Hoji]
a fox-woman

She appeared first as Hoji, consort of the emperor, then as concubine to the emperor Toba and finally as the Jewel Maiden. She set out to destroy the imperial dynasty and nearly caused the death of the Mikado. A sorcerer frustrated her plans and she reverted to her fox-self and fled the country to inhabit the Death Stone. She was saved from her evil ways by the prayers of the priest, Genno.

Jewel Mountain East Indian
in the lore of the Dayaks, this mountain clashed with Gold Mountain to produce the world

Jewel Peak (see Mount Meru)

Jewelled Fowl (see turkey)

Jezenky (see Baba-Yaga)

Jezyinky (see Baba-Yaga)

Jezi-Baba (see Baba-Yaga)

Jhana (see Dhyana)

Jhasa Hindu
a huge fish or whale

jhoting Hindu
a ghost

In some versions, this is the ghost of a person of low caste but, in some parts of India, the jhoting is said to be the spirit of a youth who died unmarried which now haunts cemeteries and wooded areas, leading travellers into pools where they drown.

Jhulanayatra Hindu
[Swinging the Lord Krishna]
a festival celebrating 'swinging Krishna'

Jichi Japanese
an aspect of Jizo as possessor of land

Jigami Japanese
Shinto deities of the land
These deities are regarded as the spirits of those who first cultivated the land of that area or founded a particular village.

In some accounts, they are equated
with the Kojin or Ta-no-kami.

jigo African [jihu]
a Hausa spirit causing fevers

Jigoku (see Yomi-tsu-kuni)

Jihma-yodhin Hindu
the name (unfair fighter) bestowed on Bhima when he broke Duryodhana's thigh with an unfair blow

jihu (see jigo)

jikininki Japanese
a corpse-eating goblin

Jikoku Japanese
[=Chinese Ch'ih Kuo:=Hindu
Dhartarashtra:=Taoist Mo-li Ch'ing] a guardian-god responsible for the east, one of the Shi Tenno

Jimme Japanese
a white horse kept at a shrine and used in divination rites

Jimmu Tenno Japanese [(Kamu-Yamato-)Iware-Biko]
a descendant of Amaterasu
son of Amasuhiko and Tama-yori
brother of Itsu-se

husband of Islaki-yozi-hime
He was originally called Toyo-mike-nu and is regarded as the first human emperor of Japan.

Jimpachi Japanese
an innkeeper

He ill-treated the old man, Kanshiro, who stayed at his inn when he was travelling to take money for the upkeep of a shrine, and stole all the money from the pilgrim's bag. Kanshiro cursed him and, when the old man died, a great swarm of fire-flies flew out of his tomb and smothered Jimpachi who died in agony.

jinn Pacific Islands [=Moroccan jnun:=Moslem jinnee]
a demon

Jina' Buddhist
a name for the Buddha as conqueror

jina' (see tirthankara)

Jinde Sirinde African
wife of Waterlord

She had been forcibly dragged into the river and married to the Waterlord.
She called on her lover for help and he killed the monster, cutting off his seven heads.

jingi (see kami)

Jingo Japanese
an empress of Japan wife of Chuai
wife of Yamatodake, some say mother of Ojin

After her husband's death, she developed an ambition to annex Korea. She built a huge fleet and, taking with her the Tide Jewels which she had borrowed from the Dragon King of the Sea, set sail. When they met the Korean fleet, she threw the Jewel of the Ebb Tide into the sea and the opposing ships became stranded on the sands as the sea receded. When the Koreans disembarked, she used the Jewel of the Flood Tide to cause the sea to return and overwhelm the Koreans, after which she was easily able to conquer the country.

She was deified after her death.

jingu Japanese
a superior form of shrine

jinguji Japanese
a Buddhist place of worship

jinn (see jinnee)

Jinn bin Jann Arab
the king of the jinn

He was regarded as the ruler of the world in the time before Adam and Eve.

jinnee Arab

[(d)jinni.genie:female=jinniyah:

plur=(d)jinn.ginn.jann:

=Moroccan jnun:=Pacific

Islands jin:=Persian narah]

a powerful spirit made of fire which assumes all kinds of shapes

The five orders of jinn, in descending order of power, are marid, efrīt, shaitan, jinn, jann.

They were created some 5,000 years ago and lived on Mount Qaf but were dispersed when they became disobedient. The survivors reassembled on an island in the Indian Ocean from where they now operate.

They are said to have magic powers over humans and interbreed with them.

In some accounts they are described as half hyaena, half wolf, with the power to take the form of any animal, serpent or giant invisible to humans. It is said that they ride abroad at night on such mounts as foxes or ostriches.

Jinnestan Muslim

[Ginnistam]

the supposed realm of the jinn

This realm is divided into two parts, the Desert of Monsters (Badiat Coldare) and the Desert of Demons (Badiatealgin).

Its capital city is known as Schadou Kiam.

jinni (see jinnee)

jinniyah Arab a female jinnee

Jir-rten skyong Buddhist the Tibetan version of Lokapala

Jirjis Arab [Baqiya]
the Arab version of St George

In Arab lore, Jirjis was a prophet sent to preach the faith on many occasions. Each time he was killed but god restored him to life and sent him back to preach.

Jiro Japanese
a warrior

He and Taro abandoned their leader, the prince Yuriwaka, on an island and stole his magic bow and arrows.

Jirohei Japanese a manager of a tea-shop

When he refused to sell to a noble a cherry-tree which grew in his garden, the samurai killed him. He then cut off a branch of the tree to take with him, only to find that his father had died at the same instant. The noble samurai killed himself in grief.

jisha Japanese a temple-shrine

A religious centre devoted to both Buddhist and Shinto deities.

Jitoku (see Fudo-myoo)

Jiu (see Fukurokuju)

Jiu-ichi-men-Kwannon Japanese [Juichimen]
a name for Kwannon when she is depicted as having 11 faces representing infinite beauty

jiva Buddhist [=Hindu jivatma]
the soul: the life principle

jivatma Hindu [=Buddhist jiva]
the soul or essence

Jizaiten Japanese the Japanese version of Maheshvara husband of Umahi

Jizo Japanese [Emmei.Han.Jichi.Josho.Joshu.
Kengoi.Kosodate-Jizo:=Chinese Tits'ang:
=Indian Kshitigarbha]
a bodhisattva
the Buddhist god of children and counsel of the dead

He sheltered dead children in his wide sleeves to hide them from the oni. He also protected the souls of the dead from these demons.

Jnana Buddhist [Jnanaparamita.Jnanavasita]
one of the 12 Paramita goddesses, knowledge personified daughter of Ratnasambhava

Jnana-marga Buddhist [Jnana-yoga]
the path to god through knowledge

Jnana-yoga (see Jnana-marga)

Jnana-sakti Buddhist pure consciousness: the creative power of wisdom

Jnanadakini Buddhist a goddess of knowledge

Jnanadeva Hindu a 13th c mystic poet
brother of Nivrattinatha

He wrote many works including a commentary on the Bhagavad-Gita.

Jnanaparamita (see Jnana)

Jnanavasita (see Jnana)

Jnanendriyas Hindu
5 of the 10 vital breaths

The other breaths are known as the Karmendriyas. The ten breaths (Pranas) plus Atman were regarded as a manifestation of the eleven sons of Rudra.

jnun Moroccan [=Arab jinnee:=Pacific Islands jin:
=Persian marah]
a demon, envisaged in the form of a toad

Jo Japanese a pine-tree spirit
husband of Uba

Jo-Uk (see Juok)

Joagh (see Juok)

Joan go-to't British in some accounts, mother of Merlin

Joannes
one of the Seven Sleepers

Jobo-Atisa (see Atisa)

Jobutsu Japanese the living Buddha

It is believed that, in any given age, there exists one person who is 'a living Buddha', one who has the knowledge of a bodhisattva.

Jocakuvague-Maorocon (see Yocahu)

Jocasta Greek [Epicasta.Epicaste.Epikaste.Iocasta.
Iocaste.Iokaste]
daughter of Menoeceus sister of Creon wife of Laius
mother of Oedipus by Laius
mother of Antigone, Eteocles, Ismene and Polyneices by her son Oedipus

After the death of Laius she married Oedipus, not realising that he was her own son who had been abandoned at birth by Laius. She hanged herself when she learned the truth from the seer Teiresias.

Jochgrumm European a mountain in Austria

It is said that three maidens living on top of this mountain create the winds.

Jodo (see Pure Land)

Joe Magarac (see Magarac)

Jofuku Japanese a Chinaman

He travelled to Japan to wrest the secret of eternal life from Mount Fuji but was unsuccessful. He came to be regarded as a saint.

Jogah North American [Jogash]

Iroquois nature-spirits

There are said to be three different groups of these dwarf beings – the Gahonga, the Gandayah and the Ohdows.

Jogappa Hindu
a young boy recruited as a male prostitute in the service of the goddess Yelanna

Jogash (see Jogah)

Joghi (see Juok)

Joh (see Jah)

Johfrit de Liez British
a warrior

In the story that says Lancelot was raised by a water-fairy in Maidenland, Johfrit trained him in the arts of war.

John of Glastonbury English a 14th c writer, author of the history The Chronicle of Glastonbury, written in Latin

John the Presbyter (see Prester John)

Jojorin (see Jurojin)

Jok<sup>1</sup> African [Jok Odudu]
the creator-god and rain-god of the Alur

jok<sup>2</sup> African
a name for god in various parts of Africa: celestial beings: spirits (see also Juok)

Jok Odudu (see Jok<sup>1</sup>)

Jokinam African a lake-god of East Africa

He is said to own a herd of cows which graze on the bed of Lake Albert, tended by fishermen who have drowned in the lake.

Jokrut African
the Alur god of twins

Jokul<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Iokul]
eldest of the 9 sons of Niorfe
He conquered the kingdom of Sogn, killed the king, exiled the king's son, and turned the king's daughter into a witch. To kill Thorsten he raised a storm that twice wrecked Thorsten's ship, but failed in the attempt.

Jokul<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Iokul]
a highwayman
brother of Thordis
When he was attacked and wounded by Thorstein, he fought back and overpowered his attacker. Generously, he forgave Thorstein and even allowed him to marry his sister, Thordis.

Jokul<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Iokul]
a Frost Giant
god of glaciers
son of Thrym
brother of Driffta, Frosti and Snoer

Jokwa Japanese

[=Chinese Nü Kua]
a mythical empress
She destroyed demons and giants and was said to have caused the flood.

Jolima African

a hero
He escorted a group of girls at night to protect them from a huge hyaena. His courage was such that the hyaena could do him no harm and Jolima trussed the beast up and dragged him into the town as an exhibit.

Jollity (see Thalia)

Jom Mesopotamian

a name for the sun

Jomial

a demon

Jomunrek (see Ermenrich)

Jonaan British

[Jonaans]
an ancestor of Lancelot
a king of Gaul
son of Isaiah
He became king of Gaul when he married the daughter of the previous king, Maronex.

Jonaans (see Jonaan)

Jonakr (see Jonakur)

Jonakur Norse

[Jonakr] husband of Gudrun, some say father of Emp, Hamdir and Sorli
Some say that Gudrun did not die after killing her sons and Atli, her second husband, but survived and married this king.

Jonas British

first husband of Trephina
father of Tremeur, in some accounts

Jones, D M English

(1895-1974)
a poet and artist who wrote extensively on Arthurian themes, particularly those with a Welsh background

Joogi (see Juok)

Joram British

a king
He had a magic girdle and offered to give it to Guinevere or to fight her knights for it. He defeated a number of them, including Gawain who was forced to return with Joram to his magic realm. He gave the girdle to Gawain who married Florie, Joram's niece.

Jord (see Erda)

Jordans British

a knight of King Mark's court
Merlin impersonated him when he helped Uther to gain access to Igraine.

Jordegumma Swedish

[=Lapp Mader Akka]
an earth-goddess

Jordh (see Erda)

Jormungand (see Iormungandr)

Jormungandr (see Iormungandr)

Jormungard (see Iormungandr)

Jormunrekk (see Ermenrich)

Joro (see Gesar)

Jorojin (see Jurojin)

Josa British

a saint
daughter of Joseph of Arimathea

Jose (see Joseph of Arimathea)

Joseph of Arimathea British

[Jose]
brother of Enygeus
father of Adam, Josa and Josephus
He is said to have come to Britain bringing with him the chalice, the Holy Grail, which had contained the blood of Christ and the Holy Lance.

Other stories say that he became king of Norway after driving the Saracens from that country and marrying the daughter of the former king. His greatest pleasure was fishing and he became the Fisher King.

In other accounts, he was in Gaul before he came to Britain.

He is credited variously with sons Adam and Josephus, and a daughter, Josa.

Joseph d'Armatbie French

a 13th c story of Joseph of Arimathea and the Holy Grail, written by Robert de Boron

Josephe (see Josephus)

Josephus British

[Josephé]
a priest
son of Joseph of Arimathea
He was imprisoned with some of his followers by the cruel king, Caudel, but released when Evelake brought an army to rescue him and Caudel was killed.

It was said that he came to Britain with Evelake and built the Castle of Carbonek where the Holy Grail was kept.

In some accounts, he and his party crossed the seas floating on the outspread shirt of Josephus.

joshi Japanese

the pre-ordained 'death of love'

Lovers who broke promises of marriages in one life may well find themselves prevented from marrying in a later life and may then commit suicide together in the hope that they may meet and marry in an even later existence.

Joshua<sup>1</sup> British

[Josue]
a king of Terre Foraine
son of Hebron by Enygeus brother of Alan

He took over as keeper of the Holy Grail after Alan.

Joshua<sup>2</sup> British

[Josue]
an ancestor of King Arthur
son of Helaius

Joshua<sup>3</sup> British

[Josue]
an ancestor of Igraine son of Evgen
father of Garcelos

Josian British

[Josyan]
daughter of Ermyn
She fell in love with Bevis who had been given to her father as a slave and later eloped with him, became a Christian and married him.

In some versions, Ermyn was the king and Josian, his daughter, who married Bevis.

Josiane British

daughter of Frimutel
sister of Amfortas, Herzeloyde, Repanse and Trevezent
mother of Sigune
She died giving birth to Sigune who was raised by Herzeloyde.

joss Chinese a god or idol

- joss-house Chinese a name for a temple
- Josue (see Joshua)
- Josyan (see Josian)
- jotnar (see jotun)
- jotun Norse
[jotunn.thurses:female-gygr:
plur=jotnar]
a giant: a race of giants
- Jotunheim Norse
[Jotunheimr]
the land of the giants
- Jotunheimr (see Jotunheim)
- jotunmodi Norse
the anger of the giants
- jotunn (see jotun)
- Jou Irish
a deity
sibling of Gwen and Sadurn
- Jouk (see Juok)
- Joukahainen Lapp
brother of Aino
He was originally a Frost Giant, developed from an icicle.
When he challenged Vainamoinen, the magician buried him up to his neck in a bog. To save himself, he promised to give Vainamoinen his sister, Aino, as a wife. When Aino killed herself, rather than marry Vainamoinen, Joukahainen tried to kill him by wrecking his boat but was unsuccessful.
- Journey to the West
(see Pilgrimage to the West)
- Jouskeha (see Ioskeha)
- Jove<sup>1</sup> English
a fallen angel in Paradise Lost
- Jove<sup>2</sup> (see Jupiter)
- Jovelin British
a duke of Arundel
In some accounts, he is said to be the father of Isolde White Hands, equating him with Hoel.
- Joy (see Volupta)
- Joyeuse European
[La Joyeuse]
a sword of Charlemagne, made by Volund, which was buried with the dead emperor
- Joyeux Gard (see Garde-Joyeuse)
- Joyous Castle European
the building in which Rinaldo was kept by Angelica
- Joyous Gard (see Garde-Joyeuse)
- Joyous Isle British
the island on which stood the Castle Bliant, given to Lancelot and Elaine by her father, Pelles
- Jozefant British
in Arthurian lore, a king of Denmark
- Ju (see Shu<sup>1</sup>)
- Ju-i Chinese
[Ch'u.Diamond Mace:=Japanese Nyoï:=Tibetan Dorje]
the jewel of omnipotence: one of the signs on the Footprints of Buddha: a diviner's wand Originally an iron sword or thunderbolt, this is now a symbol of good wishes for prosperity.
- Ju'i Chu Chinese
a pearl which makes every wish come true
- Ju-lai Chinese
the Chinese name for Tathagata
- Ju-Ok (see Juok)
- Ju Shui Chinese
the sea-water round the P'eng-lai Isles
Because this special water would not support a boat, the only way to reach this paradise was by air. Consequently, it was home only to immortals.
- Ju Shou Chinese
a messenger of the sky-god
He was said to bring bad luck and is associated with the autumn and the western region. (see also Kou Mang)
- Juan<sup>1</sup> European a king of Castile brother of Maria husband of Iseo
- Juan<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
a hero of the Philippines
son of Tetong
He is famous for having killed many flesh-eating giants.
Another story says that he was a foster-son of the Virgin Mary and expelled the infidels with a magic whip which then built him a palace.
- Jubanladace
a good demon
He is depicted with a flaming sword.
- Jubayr Arab
son of Al Mundzir
brother of Jabir
- Judecca European
the fourth zone of the ninth circle of Dante's hell
This area was reserved for those who had betrayed their lord and master.
- Judgement of Paris Greek
a fateful decision
At the wedding of Peleus and Thetis, at which many gods were present, the uninvited Eris tossed a golden apple, inscribed 'To the fairest', into the assembly. There was a great dispute as to which goddess should claim the title and Paris, son of Priam the king of Troy, was asked to decide which of the three goddesses, Aphrodite, Athena
- and Hera, was the most beautiful. He gave the prize, a golden apple, to Aphrodite because she promised him the most beautiful girl in the world – Helen of Troy – so setting the scene for the Trojan War.
- Judi (see Djudi)
- Judon British
wife of Gorboduc
mother of Ferrex and Porrex
Her sons quarrelled over their father's throne and eventually Porrex killed Ferrex. Judon and her maids cut Porrex to pieces as he slept. With both her sons and her husband dead, Judon went mad.
- Judwall (see Tremeur)
- judy Greek
one of the fairies of Macedonia
These beings are said to induce humans to dance with them and then kill those who do so.
- Juesaes (see Iusas)
- Jufran Arab [Geoffrey]
in some accounts, a son of Antar
- Jug Woman North American
an evil female
She was one of those overcome by Gluskap when he was clearing the world of demons.
- Jugalis (see Juno<sup>1</sup>)
- Juggernaut (see Jagannath)
- juggler North American
a medicine-man
- Jugokudo (see Yomi-tsu-kuni)
- Jugumishanta Pacific Islands
the first woman in the lore of the people of Vanuatu consort of Morufonu
She made her husband from her own body and they built the islands of the Pacific from their own excrement.
- Juhan European [Julian]
a count of Ceuta
father of Florinda
When his daughter was raped by Roderick, Juhan called in the Saracen forces and attacked him. In some accounts, Roderick was killed, in others he spent the rest of his life as a hermit and was eventually eaten by snakes.
- Jui-ch'ing-fu-jen Chinese [Noble Lady of Felicity]
a household goddess wife of Ch'ang-sheng-t'u-ti
She is responsible for promoting happiness in the house.
- Juichimen
(see Jiu-ichi-men-Kwannon)

Jujaka Hindu
a Brahman

He asked for and was given the children of Vessantara and sold them to their grandfather, Sanjaya.

Some say that he was the god Dharma who appeared as a mendicant to test Vessantara's generosity.

juju<sup>1</sup> African
a priest-king in Nigeria

It is said that, should the juju become ill, disaster will befall the tribe.

juju<sup>2</sup> African
an idol of the priest-king: a revered object: a protective amulet: the spirit inherent in such objects

juju house African
the building in which the juju priests carried on their work, sometimes involving human sacrifice

juju man African
a priest of black magic: a witch-doctor
It is said that these men can change into birds.

Juko African
a hero-king of the Buganda

It was said that he angered a priest who then caused the sun to hide so that the land was covered in darkness until daylight was restored by a lake-god.

Jukurokujin (see Fukurokuju)

Julain British
in some accounts, husband of Yglais and father of Percival

Julana Australian
an ancestral hero of the Aborigines

In some stories, Julana was the son of Njirana, in others his separate penis.

When Julana attacked the woman Minma Mingari, she called up a pack of dogs whereupon Julana retracted his penis and they were all turned to stone.

Julian (see Juhan)

Julius (see Proculus)

Julius Caesar

(100-44 BC)

a Roman emperor

In Arthurian legend, a contemporary of King Arthur whose court Merlin visited in the form of a deer. In some accounts, he is the father of Oberon by Morgan le Fay.

In the Charlemagne stories, he was said to be the father, by Glorianda, of Oberon, king of the fairies.

Julunggah (see Yurlungur)

Julunggul (see Yurlungur)

Juma Russian

a sky-god of the Mari people

Jumala Baltic

[Jumla.San(g)ke]

a supreme god of the Finns and Lapps
Originally a creative force in the early universe, Jumala came to be regarded as the later Ukko, the sky-god.

In some accounts he is the same as Ilmarinen.

jumart French
a monster, bull/mare or cow/stallion

jumby (see duppy)

Jumis Baltic

a Latvian fertility-god

Jumla (see Jumala)

Jumna Hindu

a goddess

the river Jumna personified

consort of Varuna, some say

Junak Slav

a heroic prince

He is said to have rescued the princess Sudolisa who had been put into a long sleep as the result of a spell cast by the ogre, Kostey.

Jundei Kwannon Japanese

[Sonna.Sunde]

a form of Kwannon, seated with a shawl and a tiara (see also Chunda<sup>1</sup>)

Junit Egyptian

a local goddess in Tophium

Juno<sup>1</sup> Roman

[Capritona.Cinxia.Covella.Domiduca.

Great Goddess.Huga.Iuno.Iterduca.

Jugalia.Lucina.Opigina.Pronuba.

Queen of Heaven.Sispes.

Sororia:=Etruscan Uni:

=Greek Hera.IIithyia]

goddess of childbirth, light, marriage

one of the Olympians

sister and wife of Jupiter

mother of Mars and Vulcan

Jupiter seduced her in the form of a cuckoo and later married her. Jealous when Jupiter produced Minerva from his head, she complained to Flora who made her pregnant at the touch of a magic herb to produce a son, Mars.

Her festival is Matronalia, held on March 1st.

juno<sup>2</sup> Roman

[iuno:plur=ionones.junones:

male=genius]

the guardian spirit of the individual

woman

Juno Caelestis (see Caelestis)

Juno Capritona Roman

a title of Juno used at the festival of Nonae Capritonae

Juno Covella Roman

a name used to address Juno at new moon ceremonies

Juno Curitis Roman

[Juno Quiritis]

a name for Juno as a war-goddess and guardian of cities

Juno Lucina Roman

a name of Juno as the goddess of childbirth who caused the child to see

Juno Moneta Roman

['the warner']

a name of Juno as goddess of finances and guardian of the Capitol

The cackling of her geese warned the Romans of the attacking Gauls.

Juno Natalis Roman

a name of Juno as patron of birthdays

Juno Pronuba Roman

a name of Juno as guardian of marriages

Juno Quiritis (see Juno Cuiritis)

Juno Regina Roman

a name of Juno as queen of goddesses

Juno Sororia Roman

Juno as the guardian goddess of girls

at the age of puberty

Juno Sospita Roman

Juno as the guardian of women in danger, later of the state

Juno Virginensis Roman

a name for Juno as guardian of maidens' chastity

Junones Roman

protective goddesses

Junonian bird Roman

the peacock

Junrojin (see Jurojin)

juods (see velns)

juoigen Baltic

a Lappish sacred chant

This magical incantation is used to call up the spirits of the dead in a form of language known only to initiates.

Juok African

[Jo-Uk.Joagh.Joghi.Joogi.Jouk.Ju-Ok.Jwok]

a creator-god of the Shilluk and Nuer peoples

He is said to have made black people from the soil of the Sudan and brown ones from the sands of Egypt. When he got tired of making people, he gave them sexual organs so that they could reproduce themselves. (see also jok)

Jupiter Roman

[(Deus) Fides.Diespiter.

Diovis(-pater).Diu-pater.Fidius.

Fulgans.Fulgar.Imperator.

Invictus.Iup(p)iter.Jove.

Juppiter.Papaeus.Pluvius.Praedator.

Sky Father.Terminus.Thunderbearer.

Thunder-darter.Thunder-master.

Thunder-smiter:=Etruscan Tinia: =Egyptian Amon:=Greek Zeus]
supreme god and god of the moon, rain, sky, sun, thunder
son of Saturn and Ops
brother of Neptune consort of Juno
father of Diana, Dianus
and Venus

Jupiter Ammon<sup>1</sup> Roman [=Greek Zeus-Ammon]
a form of Amon worshipped in Lybia (see also Zeus-Ammon)

Jupiter Ammon<sup>2</sup> Roman
a statue of Amon in Lybia
This figure was reported to have spoken and was consulted as an oracle.

Jupiter Capitolinus Roman
[Jupiter Tarpeius]
a name for Jupiter as protector
of Rome

Jupiter Dolichenus Roman
a name of Jupiter taking the place of the Hittite god, Taru, in the Syrian empire

Jupiter Elicius
(see Jupiter Fulgurator)

Jupiter Feretrius Roman
Jupiter as the god of the sacred oak

Jupiter Fidius Roman
a name for Jupiter as guardian of the land

Jupiter Fulgurator Roman [Jupiter Elicius, Jupiter Fulminator]
a name of Jupiter as god of lightning

Jupiter Fulminator
(see Jupiter Fulgurator)

Jupiter Imperator Roman
a name for Jupiter as ruler

Jupiter Invictus Roman
a name for Jupiter as unconquerable

Jupiter Latialis (see Jupiter Latiaris)

Jupiter Latiaris Roman [Jupiter Latialis]
a name of Jupiter as god of the Latin League

In some accounts, Latinus was not killed in the battle between Aeneas and Turnus but was taken up to heaven as a deity.

Jupiter Lucerius Roman
[Jupiter Lucesius]
Jupiter as one who lives in the shiny heaven

Jupiter Lucesius
(see Jupiter Lucerius)

Jupiter Opikulus Roman
a name for Jupiter as helper

Jupiter Optimus Maximus Roman
Jupiter as the all-powerful guardian
of Rome

Jupiter Pluvialis Roman [Pluvius]
a name for Jupiter as god of rain

Jupiter Praedator Roman
Jupiter as one who takes and gives booty

Jupiter Serenator Roman
Jupiter as god of calm skies

Jupiter Stator Roman [‘supporter’] Jupiter as the god of battle

In this role, Jupiter prevented combatants from deserting their fellows.

Jupiter Tarpeius
(see Jupiter Capitolinus)

Jupiter Terminus Roman
Jupiter as a god of boundaries

Jupiter Tonans Roman [Tonitrualis]
Jupiter as a god of thunder

Jupiter Triumphator Roman
Jupiter as the giver of victory

Jupiter Victor Roman
Jupiter as conqueror

Jupiter’s beard
the house-leek which is used as a charm to protect against lightning and evil spirits

Juppiter (see Jupiter)

Jurasmate Baltic
[Mother of the Sea]
a Latvian sea-goddess

Jurawadbad Australian
a snake-spirit of the northern tribes

When the woman Gulanundoidj, whom he proposed to marry, took another man, Bulugu, as her lover, he hid inside a log in the form of a snake and bit her when she passed by.

Jurojin Japanese [Jojojin, Jorojin, Junrojin]

a god of long life
one of the 7 Shinto deities of fortune,
the Shichi Fukujin

He is depicted with a staff and book and riding on, or attended by, a deer.
(see also Fukorokuju, Tobosaku)

Juron (see Chu-jung)

jurt-ava (see kud-ava)

Juru<sup>1</sup> African
daughter of King Ruhaga King Intare asked for her as a wife but her father sent her half-sister, Kikore, in her place. Intare disguised himself, got into Ruhaga’s court and eloped with Juru.

Juru<sup>2</sup> East Indian uncle and minister of Senapati

Jurua Indian [Juruwin]
an evil sea-spirit of the Andaman Islands

These invisible beings are said to live in the sea, eating fish and the bodies of the drowned. They may also attack sailors with invisible spears which cause sickness.

Jurumu Australian
grandson of Mudangkala
son of Purukapali
brother of Mudati

He discovered fire when he rubbed two sticks together and, giving blazing torches to his mother and her sister, gave light to the earth when they rose into the sky as the sun and the moon.

Jurupari South American
a god of the Tupi Indians son of Creucy

He was said to have been born when the sun impregnated Creucy with the sap of a tree or as the result of a virgin birth caused by beer or a fish-bite.
Until then, women had ruled the world but Jurupari gave all power to men and any woman who saw his image died of poison.

He still roams the earth seeking a wife for his father, the sun.

In one story, he was burnt to death by his people for cannibalism.

Juruwin (see Jurua)

Jusas (see Iusas)

jushoku Japanese
head monk in a Buddhist monastery
a parish priest

Juskaha (see Djuskaha)

Justitia Roman
[Augusta, Iustitia:=Greek Dike]
a goddess, justice personified
She is depicted blindfolded and holding the scales of justice.

Juterna-jesta Norse
a maiden loved by Sengemand She rejected the giant Sengemand in favour of Torge. When the giant shot a huge arrow at her, Torge saved her life by throwing his hat to deflect the missile.

Jutmundus European
a giant
Roland defeated this giant and acquired the sword Durindana and the horn Olivant. Others say that he won them when he killed Almontes.

In some accounts, Jutmundus appears as Jamund, son of Agulandus and the sword is called Dyrumdlani.

Jutpu Indian
the first man, in the lore of the Andaman Islands

It is said that Jutpu was born inside a bamboo cane and made a wife for himself out of clay.

Juturna

Roman

[Diuturna.Iuturna]

goddess of springs

daughter of Daunus and Venilia

sister of Turnus

mother or wife of Janus, some say

mother of Fons by Janus, some say

She was a mortal but Jupiter gave her immortality as a water-nymph when he seduced her.

In the battles between the band of Trojans under Aeneas and the Romans and their various allies, Juturna drove the chariot for her brother Turnus disguised as his charioteer, Metiscus. When she failed to save her brother, who was killed by Aeneas, she returned grieving to her home in a spring.

Juturnalia

Roman

a festival, held on January 11th, in honour of Juturna

juudas

Baltic

[=Finnish juutas:=Latvian juods] an Estonian devil

juutas

Baltic

[=Estonian juudas:=Latvian juods] a Finnish devil

Juvant

a demon of reincarnation

Juventas

Roman

[Iuventas.Juventus:=Greek Hebe] goddess of youth

cupbearer to the gods

Juventus

(see Juventas)

Jvaraharisvara

Hindu

a plague-god

Jw

(see Jaw)

Jwok

(see Juok)

Jyeshtha

Hindu

a goddess of misfortune

one of the nakstras

daughter of Daksha

sister of Lakshmi

wife of Candra

Jyeshtharaja

Hindu

a name for Brhaspati as 'elder'

K

- K Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity, referred to as god K: perhaps Ah Bolom Tzacab, Itzamna, Kukulcan or Lakin Chan
He is depicted with a tapir-like snout.
- K-or-lo Buddhist
the Tibetan version of Chakra
- Ka<sup>1</sup> Burmese
a name for Chinun Way Shun as the spirit of the earth
- Ka<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
a person's double or genius, a vital force: one of the 5 essential parts comprising the individual
This creative force was thought to live on after the death of the individual and therefore needed sustenance which was provided in the form of food etc.
- Ka<sup>3</sup> Hindu
a creative principle: a nameless entity
In some accounts, Ka is equated with Daksha or Prajapati or, more generally, is regarded as a supreme deity.
- Ka-Ata-Killa South American
a moon-goddess in Peru
- Ka-Khu-Khat Egyptian
the triad spirit, soul, body
- Ka-li-ha (see Kalika)
- Ka-li-ka (see Kalika)
- Ka-no-ka Fa-tso (see Kanaka Vatso)
- Ka-nub (see Kanobus)
- Ka Tyeleo African
a creator-god of the Ivory Coast in West Africa
- Kaan Central American [Caan]
the Mexican heaven
- Kaang African [Cagn.Cang.(I) Kaggen.Kang.Kho (Thora).Ngo]
the supreme god of the Bushmen husband of Coti
father of Cogaz and Gewi
He was swallowed by an ogre but was vomited up unharmed. When he died after being pricked by thorns, the agents of Gauna, the ants, ate all the flesh from his bones but he resurrected himself. He is said to have made the moon from an old shoe and can turn his shoes into dogs which attack his enemies.
All his power resides in one of his teeth and he operates through the agency of the caterpillar and the mantis. (see also I Kaggen)
- Kaare (see Kari)
- Kab-ul Central American
[Kabul.Kabil]
a name for Itzamna as Miraculous Hand
He was said to be able to cure illness merely by touching the sick person.
- Kaba<sup>1</sup> African in Swahili lore, the first village built by the people who descended from the sky with Faro
- Kaba<sup>2</sup> Baltic
[Kava:=-Russian Chuvash]
- a Finnish spirit of fate
father of Pulah
- Kaba dye African
the second of the 7 heavens of the Bambara, home of souls of the dead
- Kaba fii African
the third of the 7 heavens of the Bambara, home of spirits
- Kaba noro African
the first of the 7 heavens of the Bambara, home of Faro
- Kabandha Hindu
[Danu]
a headless monster or serpent-god
son of Devi
He was killed by Rama who was pursuing Ravana who had abducted his wife, Sita, and from his ashes came Gandharvaa who helped Rama against Ravana.
He is described as having his face on his stomach, one eye in his chest and eight-mile long arms on which, having no legs, he walked.
- Kabeiroi (see Cabeiri)
- Kabeyun North American
[West Wind]
the name given to Mudjekeewis after he had killed the Great Bear (see also Kabun)
- Kabibonokka North American
an Algonquin hero
He was one of the quadruplets born to a primaevial being who died in childbirth.

He was responsible for the north; the others were Kabun (the west), Showano (the south) and Wabun (the east).

Kabir (see Cabeiri)

Kablunait North American

a race of otherwise unknown people referred to in the lore of the Inuit

Kaboi South American

[=Arawak Kamu:=Carib Kame.Tamu:

=Paraguayan Pay Zume]

a culture-hero of the Karaya Indians

He was the leader of the survivors of the flood sent by Anatiwa.

Kabonian (see Kaboniyan)

Kaboniyan Pacific Islands

[Kabonian]

a culture-hero or deity in the Philippines

As a culture-hero, he was said to have taught the people the arts of agriculture and how to ward off evil spirits.

As a deity, he is sometimes equated with Kadaklan though others say that he was superior to Kadaklan.

Kabranan Central American

a Mayan earthquake god

He is said to destroy mountains.

Kabta Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god of workmen

kabu Pacific Islands

a soul which can take on a visible form

Kabul (see Kab-ul)

Kabun North American

an Algonquin hero

father of Micabo and Chokanipok

He was one of the quadruplets born to a primaeval being who died in childbirth. He was responsible for the west; the others were Kabibonokka (the north), Showano (the south) and Wabun (the east). (see also Kabeyan)

Kabundungulu African

son of Nzuadia

twin brother of Sudika-mbambi

He and his brother were both fully formed at birth.

When his brother was swallowed by the fish, Kimbuji, Kabundungulu rescued him but he became jealous of his brother who had two wives while he had none. As a result, they fought bitterly and decided to go their separate ways.

Some say that they married two sisters, daughters of the king of the underworld.

Kabura Christian

a ruler of one of the 7 supposed firmaments

Kac-u-Pacat Central American

a Mayan war-god

Kaca (see Kacha)

Ka'cak Inuit

a female sea-spirit

She devours the bodies of the drowned.

Kacha Hindu

[Kaca]

an attendant on Sukra

son of Brhaspati and Tara

Several times the Asuras killed Kacha but, on each occasion, Devayani, Sukra's daughter, persuaded her father to bring him back to life. Finally, the demons killed Kacha once more and burnt his body. They then mixed his ashes with Sukra's wine which he unwittingly drank. However, the old priest then recited the formula for restoring life and Kacha was made whole again inside his tutor's stomach. He was released by a surgeon who opened Sukra's body but the old man died as a result. Kacha was able to revivify him.

Kaches Armenian

evil spirits

These beings were said to live in rocks and to cause wars and torture humans.

In other versions they were fairy musicians and were often benevolent towards humans.

Later they were superseded by the devs.

Kachina North American

[Aholo.Katchina]

a spirit of an ancestor in the lore of the Pueblo Indians

These beings are said to live on the earth in winter and in the underworld in summer.

Some say they live in lakes.

The chief priest will wear a mask of a god during ceremonial dances and, while so engaged, becomes the god himself.

(see also Gahe.Katsinas.Shiwana)

Kachina Mana North American

[Katchina Mana]

a Pueblo maize-spirit

(see also Kerwan)

Kacoch (see Cacoch)

Kadaklan Pacific Islands

a supreme deity in the Philippines

husband of Agemem

father of Adam and Balujen

Kadavul (see Katavul)

Kadeir Taliesin (see Chair of Taliesin)

Kades Canaanite

[Kadesh.Kedesh(et).Lady of Heaven:

=Egyptian Qedeshet:=Syrian Quades]

a fertility-goddess, an aspect of Astarte

Kadesh (see Kades)

Kadeshoth Canaanite

religious prostitutes, devotees of Baal-Peor

kadhaa (see qada)

Kadia-Bosu (see Bossu)

Kadien British

[Kadienn]

an ancestor of King Arthur

Kadienn (see Kadien)

Kadjeri Australian

a mother-goddess of the Aborigines

Kadlee North American

3 sisters, thunder-goddesses

of the Inuit

Kadmilos (see Cadmilus)

Kadmos (see Cadmus)

Kado-mori Japanese

Shinto deities

These deities, a form of zuijin, acted as guardians of the temple gates.

Kadru Hindu

a snake-goddess

daughter of Daksha

sister of Vinata

wife of Kasyapa

mother of Vasuki and the Nagas

She quarrelled with Vinata, who was her sister and co-wife of Kasyapa, and imprisoned her in the underworld. Vinata's son, Garuda, secured her release by providing the ransom demanded, which was amrita in one story, and in another, the moon itself to illuminate the dark interior of the underworld.

It was said that Kadru could crawl into the uterus of a pregnant woman and lay eggs which would be born as snakes or snake-like mortals. She is said to have had a thousand sons, born as serpents from the eggs she produced. All were killed by Garuda.

Kadwr British

an ancestor of King Arthur

Kadzutoyo Japanese

a samurai

Returning from a fishing trip with his retainer, he came upon a maiden weeping at the roadside. The servant fell in love with her but Kadzutoyo cut off her head with his sword. He had noticed that she was not in the least wet although it was raining hard and had recognised her as an evil goblin. Next morning, the headless body was found to be that of a large badger.

(see also Rokugo)

Kae Pacific Islands
a priest

He killed and ate the pet whale of the sea-god, Tinirau, who then killed and ate the priest.

Kae Hir (see Cae Hir)

Kaehehe Pacific Islands
a Papuan

He was killed by the townspeople for adultery. His uncle then put a curse on the town, bringing on a sort of communal madness which ended with a famine.

Kaere (see Kari)

Kaf (see Mount Qaf)

kafar (see cafre)

Kagami Japanese [Yata-kagami]

the mirror invented to tempt

Amaterasu from the cave in which she had hidden herself

This mirror now forms part of the imperial regalia, sanshu-no-shinki.

Kagase-wo Japanese

[=Chinese Myoken]

a Shinto sky-god

He was executed by Futsu-nushi in an argument over the creation of the world. (see Myoken)

Kagauaha Pacific Islands

a benevolent serpent-goddess

Kagayo Japanese

wife of O-Toshi

mother of Mi-Toshi

Kagenda African

a drum

In the lore of the Burundi, this was a male drum given by Kihanga to Kanyarundi as a wedding present together with the female drum Mukakagenda.

Kaggen (see I Kaggen.Kaang)

Kagingo African

a name of Katonda as 'lord of life'

Kagu-hana Japanese

a double-faced male head

This object, capable of detecting misdeeds by smell, assists Emma-O in the judgment of souls in the underworld. It is placed on the left of the god's throne and smells everything. (see also Miru-me)

Kagu-tsuchi (see Kazu-tsuchi)

Kaguni-hime (see Kaguya)

kagura Japanese

a ritual dance used in Shinto festivals
It was this obscene but amusing dance that was used by Uzume to induce Amaterasu to come out of the cave in which she had hidden herself.

Kagutsuchi (see Kazu-tsuchi)

Kaguya Japanese

[Kaguni]

a moon-maiden

She was found as a baby on Mount Fuji by Sanugi as he was cutting bamboo. She was only four inches tall but perfectly formed and grew into a beautiful maiden who set near-impossible tasks for the five nobles who were suitors for her hand, none of whom succeeded. She became the consort of the emperor but had to reject him for she knew that she was an immortal and had to return to her home in the heavens. A company of moon-folk descended in a cloud and, wrapping her in the Feather Robe that erased the memory of her life on earth, took her back to the moon. She left behind a magic mirror in which her husband might always see her image.

Kagutsuchi (see Kazu-tsuchi)

Kab-gyur Tibetan

[Kang-gyur.Kanjur:=Buddhist Tripitaka]

sacred writings of Lamaism

This work, like the Tripitaka, is divided into three parts dealing with discipline, sermons and metaphysics.

Kaha'i Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian lightning-god

Kahausibware Pacific Islands

a creator-goddess and serpent-goddess of the Solomon Islands

She created all living things and, when the first baby was born to the woman she had created, the goddess took the form of a snake to rear the child. When the boy cried, the snake crushed it to death and the mother then killed the snake.

Kahawali Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian chief

He defeated Pele in a race on sledges down the slope of a volcano and was lucky to escape with his life when she erupted in fury at losing to a mortal.

Kahedrin (see Kaherdin)

Kaherdin European

[Kahedrin.Kehydus.Pheredin]

son of Hoel

brother of Isolde, Tristram's

French wife

He went to England when Tristram was dying to bring the real Isolde to his bedside. He had an affair with Branwen, her maid, but was in love with Isolde and died for love of her.

In some accounts, he is Pheredin and his unrequited love caused him to ride into the forest where he died alone.

Kahiki Pacific Islands

[=Hawaiian Hawaiki]

the home of spirits in the sky: the home of ancestors

Kahil Mesopotamian

a name for the moon-god, Sahar, as 'old one'

(see also Kahilin)

Kahilin Arab

a tutelary god in pre-Islamic times

In some accounts, he is the same as Kahil.

Kahit North American

a wind-god of the Wintun tribe

When the first world was destroyed by the fire started by Buckeye Bean and his two companions, Kahit and Mem Loomis were given the task of putting out the fires and restarting the world.

He is envisaged in the form of a bat.

Kahk North American

a crow

In the lore of the Yuma, this bird brought seeds from all corners of the earth for them to cultivate.

Kahmaraj Persian

a demon

Kaho (see Kahomovailahu)

Kahoali Pacific Islands

a sorcerer-god of Hawaii

god of the underworld

Kahomovailahu Pacific Islands

[Kaho]

a Samoan sailor

Kaho was blind but was said to be able to determine correctly the position of a boat at sea merely by feeling the water with his hand. His descendants, known as Fafaki-Tahi, are reputed to have the same ability.

Kahukura<sup>1</sup> New Zealand

a Maori fisherman

He is said to have taught his people how to make and fish with nets, an art he had learned when he caught a group of fairies net-fishing by night.

Kahukura<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a god of the rainbow: the rainbow

regarded as a route to heaven

Kahukura<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands

a manifestation of Rongo

kahuna Pacific Islands

[=Maori tohunga]

a Hawaiian priest or witch-doctor

Some of these people practise the black arts and are said to be able to kill people with prayer and spells. Others practise herbal medicine to effect cures.

Kahyangwuti (see Kokyangwuti)

- Kai<sup>1</sup> British [Cai.Cei.Kay]
a steward to King Arthur father of Garanwy
He grew as tall as a tree and had the ability to live for nine days under water. It was he (or Glewlwyd) who originally refused to allow Culhwch to enter Arthur's court but was later a companion of Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.
In later stories he becomes Kay, one of the Knights of the Round Table.
(see also Kay)
- kai<sup>2</sup> Persian [kavan.kavi.kavya:=Hindu kavya]
a seer with supernatural knowledge
- Kai Kaus (see Kay Kaus)
- Kai Khusrau (see Kay Khusraw)
- Kai-n-tiku-aba Pacific Islands
a sacred tree of Samoa
Men grew from its branches and when it was broken by Koura-abi, men were distributed throughout the world.
This tree was originally the spine of Na Atibu which was planted by his son Nareau the Younger who had killed his father.
- Kai Tangata<sup>1</sup> New Zealand [Kai(n)tangata]
a Maori fisherman
father of Hema
The sky-goddess, Whatiri, came down to earth and married Kai Tangata, teaching him the art of fishing with hooks. When her husband offended her, she returned to heaven.
In some versions, Kai Tangata is the sky-goddess and Whatiri is the cannibal chief she married.
- Kai Tangata<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
[Kai(n)tagata]
son of Rehua
The Polynesians say that the red sunset is caused by the blood spilt by Kai Tangata when he fell and injured himself.
- Kai Yum Central American
a Mayan god of music
- Kaia Pacific Islands
demons in New Britain
Originally the creators of all things, Kaia are now evil beings living underground and appearing on the surface in the form of snakes.
- Kaia muni East Indian a demon in New Guinea
This being takes part in the initiation rites during which he is said to swallow the young male initiates and then regurgitate them.
- Kaiba Japanese
a sea-horse
This fabulous beast was said to have the head of a goat but with a single horn, a thick curly tail and a shell on its back like the carapace of a turtle.
- Kaibutsu Japanese
imaginary animals
These beasts have three sharp talons on each paw, beards and stumpy tails.
- Kaidu Malay
[Kida:=Indian Puru]
a king of India
father of Syarul Baria
- Kaifuke Japanese
one of the 5 Dhyani Buddhas
one of the 5 Dhyani Bodhisattvas, in some accounts
- Kaika Hindu
a cruel stepmother of Rama
- Kaikari South American
a supernatural serpent
The Araucanians say that this huge serpent, and another called Trentren, caused the flood.
- Kaijin Japanese
[Umi-no-kami]
Shinto sea-deities
- Kaikara African
a harvest-goddess of the Banyoro
- Kaikiyi Hindu
[Kaikiyi] wife of Dasha-ratha
mother of Bharata
Dasha-ratha gave each of his wives a special cake designed to make them conceive since, until that time, he was childless. Kaikiyi refused to eat it but instead drank soma and became the mother of Bharata.
Alternatively, Vishnu gave Dasha-ratha a potion which he shared between his wives. Kaikiyi received a quarter and produced Bharata.
- Kaikobad Persian
a mythical king mentioned in the Shah Name
- kaikomako Pacific Islands
[Hine Kaikomako]
a tree believed to contain fire
- Kailasa Hindu
[Krailasa]
the heaven of Shiva
In some accounts, Kailasa is a mountain in the Himalayas, in others the home of Shiva on Mount Meru.
- Kaineus (see Caenus)
- Kaintangata (see Kai Tangata)
- Ka'ioi Pacific Islands
a bard of the Marquesas
He is depicted in the form of a drum.
- Kaiora (see Waiora)
- Kaira-khan Siberian supreme god of the Tartars son of the deity Kudai-i
This son, the black prince, left his father's home in the sixteenth heaven and went to live in the underworld.
- Kairos<sup>1</sup> Greek [Cairus]
a god, opportunity personified
He is depicted as bald at the back but with a long forelock.
- Kairos<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Cairus]
a horse of Adrastus
- Kaistowanea North American
a monster in the form of a two-headed lake-serpent
In the lore of the Iroquois, this beast was caught by a boy when fishing. It grew so large that the boy, now a brave, had to kill bear and deer to feed it.
- Ka'it Mesopotamian
[=Hittite Halkis]
a Hattic god of oaths
- Kaitabha Hindu
a demon
He was born, with Madhu, from the ear of Vishnu. When they attacked the sleeping Brahma and, some say, stole the Vedas, Vishnu killed them both. Brahma used their bodies to build the earth.
- Kaitaluga Pacific Islands
a mythical island
It is said that this island is inhabited by naked women who force shipwrecked sailors to have intercourse until they are worn out and die.
- Kaitangata (see Kai Tangata)
- Kaiti North American
the bear-god of the Haida Indians husband of Dzelarhons
- Kaito Japanese
a legendary general and hero
- Kaitu Pacific Islands
a Beru warrior who, with Uakea, conquered the Gilbert Islands
- Kaivalya Jain
a state of perfect isolation
When a devout Jain dies, his soul (jiva) attains this state and exists for ever.
- Kaiwan African
in Ethiopia, an earth-goddess, goddess of plenty
- Kaizuki African [Kaizuku] son of Gulu
brother of Walumbe and Nambi
When Nambi left the sky for earth, Walumbe (death) followed her.

Kaizuki tried to kill him so that men would not die but he escaped to the underworld.

Kaizuku (see Kaizuki)

Kajati African

a name of Tilo as 'self-created'

Kaka (see Kakka)

Kaka-Guia African

a bull-headed god in Guinea

He is the conductor of the souls of the dead.

Kakaitch North American

[T'hlu-kluts:=Chinoo Hahness:

=Nootka Tu-tutsh]

the Thunderbird of the Macah tribe

His tongue causes lightning and he eats whales.

Kakaku Japanese

a Shinto river-god

kakaluk Pacific Islands

an amulet in the form of a bag of stones

Kakamora Pacific Islands

[=Banks Island Nopitu:=Papua New

Guinea Tukis:=Solomon Islands

Kakangora.Pwaronga]

spirits in Melanesia, living in trees and caves

These beings are envisaged as human-like, with long nails, varying in size from a few inches to about five feet in height. They sometimes kill humans and eat their flesh.

Kakangora Pacific Islands

[pwaronga]

the name for the Kakamora in the

Solomon Islands

Kakasya Buddhist

a crow-faced goddess

Kaket (see Kekuit)

Kakia Greek

[Cacia]

vice personified

She tried to tempt Heracles in his youth but he resisted her.

Kakios (see Cacus<sup>1,2</sup>)

Kakka Mesopotamian

[Kaka]

a god attendant on Anu

Kaksisa Mesopotamian

a Babylonian star-god, the star

Sirius personified

Kakudmati Hindu

a consort of Pradyumna as an incarnation of Vishnu

Kakuet (see Kekuit)

Kakupacat Central American

a Mayan war-god

Kakuriyo Japanese

the spirit world: the world after death

Kakus (see Cacus<sup>1,2</sup>)

Kakwet (see Kekuit)

Kala<sup>1</sup> East Indian

[=Balinese Waruna:=Indian Varuna:

=Japanese Ryujin]

a Javanese sea-king

Kala<sup>2</sup> East Indian

[Banapati.Kirt(t)imukha]

a monster

This being took the form of a head with protruding eyes and large fangs but no lower jaw.

(see also Kirttimukha)

Kala<sup>3</sup> Hindu

consort of Shatahrada

father of Viradha (see also Bhairava)

Kala<sup>4</sup> Hindu

[The Black One]

a god, the personification of time

a name for Brahma or Vishnu

a name for Shiva as 'death'

a name for Yama as 'time'

Kala<sup>5</sup> Pacific Islands

in Bali, one of a class of demons or

evil spirits

Kala<sup>6</sup> Siberian

[Kalak.Kamak.ninvi:plur=kalau]

These beings are sent by the supreme god to bring death and disease to mankind. Some of them live on earth and cause illness by breathing on people; some live underground, emerging to bite people, gouge out pieces of their flesh or knock them on the head, causing headaches.

They are generally invisible but can appear as humans with pointed heads or as animals.

They are the perpetual adversaries of Quikinna'qu.

Kala<sup>7</sup> (see Kalika<sup>2</sup>)

Kala-danda Hindu

[Staff of Fate]

the symbol of office of Yama

Kala-Shiva Hindu

a double-sexed god of death

an aspect of Shiva

Kala-Sutra (see Kalasutra)

Kala-Yavana Hindu

a king

When he kicked the giant, Muchukunda, to wake him, the giant burnt him to death with his fiery glance.

In another manifestation, he was a demon killed by Krishna.

Kalab

a demon of sacred vessels

Kalachakra Buddhist

[=Tibetan Dus-kyi Khor-lo]

a god of time

He is depicted with four heads and twenty-four arms.

Kaladuti Buddhist

a goddess of death

Kalafes Celtic

[Alfasein.Alfasesm]

a king of Terre Foraine

When he was cured of leprosy by Alan he became a Christian, taking the name Alfasein. He was badly wounded for watching a service with the Holy Grail and died of his wounds.

Kalais (see Calais)

Kalak (see Kala<sup>5</sup>)

Kalaiikota East Indian

a priest

He persuaded Wishnu to become incarnate as Rama, a son of Dasarata who, until then, was childless.

Kalaka<sup>1</sup> Hindu

daughter of Daksha

sister of Puloma

wife of Kasyapa

mother of the Danavas

She and Puloma married Kasyapa and bore 60,000 giant sons, the Danavas.

Kalaka<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a prime minister

He persuaded the king, Yasapani, to instruct his senior judge to construct a pleasure garden, then a lake and finally a palace. When these tasks were carried out overnight, with the help of Indra, the king dismissed Kalaka and gave the job to the judge.

Kalakala Tibetan

a Lamaist sorcerer

Kalakuyuwish North American

in the lore of the Kwakiutl, a totem pole

This pole was made by the chief, Wakiash, who then took this name as his own.

Kalala Ilunga African

a culture-hero of the Luba people

son of Mbidi Kiluwe

Mbidi slept with Bulanda and Mabela, the twin sisters of King Nkongolo.

The son born to Bulanda was Kalala and he was claimed by Nkongolo.

When the boy, tutored by Majuba, developed into a good dancer, the king tried to kill him but, warned by Kahia, he escaped and fled to his real father, Mbidi, whose forces killed the pursuing Nkongolo.

kalalao Pacific Islands

the soul, in the lore of the Philippines

The soul is envisaged as being in two parts, one on each side of the body. When a person dies, the right-hand kakalao goes to heaven, the left-hand one goes to Kilot, the underworld.

- Kalamahakala Buddhist
[Black Mahakala.Great Black Lord]
one of the 8 dharmapalas
guardian of science
- Kalamainu Pacific Islands
a Polynesian lizard-woman
She and Kilioa act as warders guarding the souls of the departed.
- kalamaka
a monster, part crocodile, part lion (see also makara<sup>1-2</sup>)
- Kalamakua Pacific Islands
cousin of Piliwale and Lo-Lale husband of Kelea
The king, Piliwale, sent Kalamakua on a voyage to find a suitable bride for his brother, Lo-Lale. Kalamakua returned with Kelea who married Lo-Lale but she later left him and married Kalamakua.
- Kalamu African [Pen]
a Swahili recording angel
This being records every event in the Luah.
- Kalamukha Hindu
one of a race of evil beings, offspring of men and rakshasis
- Kalanemi Hindu
one of the rakshasas
son of Virochana
uncle of Ravana
He was persuaded, by his nephew Ravana, to kill Hanuman but the monkey-god, warned by the nymph who emerged from the body of a crocodile that Hanuman had killed, picked up Kalanemi and hurled him back to his nephew's court in Ceylon.
He was killed by Vishnu.
In another version he dressed himself as a hermit but Hanuman was warned of his intentions by a forest-nymph and the monkey-god killed the demon by throwing him so high that he hit the sky and fell back to earth dead.
Some say that he later appeared as Kansa and Kaliya.
- Kalaratri (see Bhairava)
- Kalari Hindu
a name for Shiva as 'ruler of life'
a name for Yama
- kalasha Hindu
a water-jar, a symbol of Brahma,
which holds the sacred amrita
- Kalasi-sutra (see Agastya)
- Kalasutra Hindu
[Kala-Sutra]
one of the 7 realms of hell, Naraka
This region is reserved for the punishment of those who have killed a Brahmin. Here they are burned in the fires of hell.
- Kalaturru Mesopotamian
one of the 2 beings created by Enki
from the dirt under his fingernails Kalaturru and Kurgarru were sent to restore Inanna to life and bring her back from the underworld.
- Kalau (see Kala<sup>5</sup>) evil spirits causing illness and death
- Kalavahi Hindu
a fierce deity
- Kalavikarnica Hindu
a goddess of fevers
- Kalayagan (see Manama)
- Kalchas (see Calchas)
- Kale (see Cale)
- Kalegras<sup>1</sup> British
son of Tristram and Isolde White Hands
In some accounts, he became king of England.
- Kalegras<sup>2</sup> Norse
father of Tristram by Blenzibly
In the Icelandic version of the Tristram and Isolde story, he killed Plegrus, the first lover of Blenzibly, and became her next lover and father by her of Tristram.
- Kaleru (see Galeru)
- Kalervo Baltic
in Finnish lore, father of Kullervo
He was killed by his brother Untamo.
- Kaleva Baltic
[=Estonian Kalevi]
in Finnish lore, father of Ilmarinen, Lemminkainen and Vainamoinen
father of Hiisi, some say He is ancestor of the cultural heroes whose stories appear in the Kalevala.
- Kalevala Baltic
Finnish epic stories of the heroes and creation
The fifty parts, over 20,000 lines, were compiled by Elias Lonrot in 1849 following a shorter version published
in 1835.
- Kalevanpojat Baltic
evil giants who destroy the landscape
- Kalevi Baltic
[=Finnish Kaleva]
an Estonian hero
father of Kalevipoeg
- Kalevipoeg<sup>1</sup> Baltic
a benevolent spirit in Estonia
- Kalevipoeg<sup>2</sup> Baltic
an Estonian culture-hero son of Kalevi
He is described as a very strong man, a sort of benevolent giant.
- Kalevipoeg<sup>3</sup> Baltic
an Estonian epic, of 19,000 verses This work, compiled by F R Kreutzwald and published in the period 1857–61,
tells the story of the hero and his exploits.
- Kali<sup>1</sup> Hindu [Ambi(ka).Ankalamman.Anna-Purna.
Bhadrakali.Bhagavati.Bhavani.
Bhimadevi.Bhramari.Bhuta-Nayaki
Black One.Devi.Dewi.Digambara.
Durga.Gana-Nayaki.Gauri.
Girija.Ishani.Kali Ma.
Kamakhya.Kamak(s)hji.
Kanyakumari.Kapalini.Karala.Karali.
Kotari.Karna-Moti.Katyayani.Kirati.
Kumari.Mahadevi.Mahakali.
Mahes(h)vari.Mahisha-Mardini.
Parvati.Pinga.Pitari.
Raktadanti.Rudrani.Sati.
Shakti.Simha-Vahini.The Black
One.Uma.Vijaya:
=Javanese Ambu Dewi.Lara
Jonggrang.Ratu Lara Kidul: =Pacific Batari].
a plague-goddess, goddess of death
an aspect of Devi as 'The Black One' consort of Shiva
She was said to have sprung from the forehead of Durga.
Sent to earth, she fought the demon Raktavija and, when 1,000 giants grew from each drop of blood he spilled, she killed him, with the help of the seven copies she made of herself known as the Matrikas, and drank his blood. In her frenzy, she killed Shiva and danced on his body.
She is depicted as a hideous, five-headed being standing on Shiva's body, holding a sword in one of her four (or ten) hands and a severed head in another or as standing in a boat which floats in a sea of blood, drinking blood from a skull.
Her male aspect is known as Mahakala. (see also Canda<sup>1</sup>)
- Kali<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a demon
In his fury at seeing Nala win the hand of Damayanti whom he had wanted for himself, he caused Nala to gamble away his kingdom.
- Kali<sup>3</sup> Jain
a goddess of wisdom
- Kali Jaka East Indian
a Javanese king
He is said to have brought Islam to Java.
- Kali Ma Hindu
a name for the goddess of death as
'black mother'
- kali-yuga Hindu [kaliyuga]
the age of iron, the fourth and present
age of the world

This age, in which wars are rife and possessions become more important than righteousness, is due to last for another 400,000 years.

(see also yuga)

Kalichi Hindu

the palace of Yama in his capital,

Yamapura (see also Yamapura)

Kalida Hindu

[Kalidas]

a slave or servant of Kali

Kalidas (see Kalida)

Kalidasa Hindu

a writer, author of the epic

Abhijanasakuntala

Kalika<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a minor goddess

Kalika<sup>2</sup> Buddhist

[Chia-li-Chia.Ka-li-ha.Ka-li-ka.Kala.

Lion King]

the fourth arhat

one of the Eighteen Lohan

He is depicted as having eyebrows so long that they reach the ground.

Kalika<sup>3</sup> Buddhist

a king of the nagas

Kalika<sup>4</sup> Hindu

a minor goddess

an aspect of Durga

a sakti of Nirrtā

Kalika-Purana Hindu

an epic poem of some 9,000 verses

This work is devoted to the worship of goddesses such as Devi, Kali and Parvati.

Kalila (see Karataka)

Kalilab wa Dimnab Arab

an early collection of fables and stories of dragons: a version of the Panchatantra

Kaliloze African

a magic rifle which fires invisible

bullets, used by the sorcerers

of Zambia

Kalimulore (see Nyavirezi)

Kalina Finnish

a goddess of death

Kalinago South American

a man who became a fish-monster

(see Atraioimen)

Kalinak (see Kaliya)

Kalinda Hindu

a sun-god

father of Kalindi

Kalindi Hindu

the river Yamuna personified

daughter of Kalinda

one of the many wives of Krishna

Kalisia African

a creator-god of the Pygmies, god of hunters

Kalivinka Japanese

a celestial nightingale

Kaliya Hindu

[Kalinak]

a five-headed snake-demon

He lived in the river Yamuna and, until subdued by Krishna who danced on his many heads, polluted the water with his poison. After that, he left the river for the sea.

Some say that he was an incarnation of Kalanemi, others that he had 1,000 heads.

Kaliyadama Hindu

a name for Krishna, reflecting his defeat of the serpent Kaliya

kaliyuga (see kali-yuga)

Kalkhas (see Calchas)

Kalki Hindu

[Kalkin:=Buddhist Maitreya.

=Chinese Mi-lo-fo:

=Japanese Miro(ku)]

a sun-god and house-god

a future avatar of Vishnu

This will be the tenth avatar who will appear on or as a winged white horse and bring about the final destruction of the world and the beginning of a new golden age.

He is depicted either as a horse or as a four-armed giant with a horse's head.

Kalkin (see Kalki)

Kallevipoe Estonian

[=Finnish Kullervo]

the hero of the epic Hero of Estonia

Kalligeneia<sup>1</sup> Greek

a minor goddess of birth

Kalligeneia<sup>2</sup> Greek

the third day of the Thesmophia

Kalliope (see Calliope)

Kallipyges Greek

[Callipyges]

a name of Aphrodite (Venus) as 'the one with shapely buttocks'

Kallirhoe (see Callirhoe)

Kallirhoe (see Callirhoe)

Kalliste (see Artemis)

Kallisto (see Callisto)

Kallynteria Greek

a festival in honour of Athena, held in May

Kalma Baltic

a Finnish goddess of death

She normally lived in the realm of Tuonela but occasionally came into the realms of the living to seize the dead.

In some accounts, Kalma is male.

Kalmasha-pada Hindu

[Shaktar]

a king, a man-eater

husband of Adrisyanti

father of Parashara

A tiger killed by the king became a demon and swore to be revenged. He achieved his end when he posed as a cook and produced cooked human flesh at a banquet. As a result, the king became a man-eater, probably a leopard, for twelve years.

In another version, he was turned into a demon by a Brahmin he had punished. This demon, Shaktar, immediately ate the Brahmin.

Kalojan European

[Caloian]

the central figure in a Romanian fertility ceremony

A clay figure of the Adonis-like Kalojan is ceremoniously buried, exhumed after three days and, after being broken into pieces, is thrown into the river. The celebrants persuade themselves that he will rise again.

Kalooise North American

[=Aztec Quetzalcoat]

a sun-god of the Zuni people

Kalos (see Talos<sup>1</sup>)

Kalou-Vu Pacific Islands

the indigenous gods of Fiji known as root-gods

The chief of these gods is known as Ndengei.

kalpa<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[calpa.Day of Brahma]

a day in the life of Brahma, equal to 4,320 million human years or 1,000 mahayugas: a day and night equal to 8,640

million human years: an age of the world

Kalpa<sup>2</sup> Jain

one of the upper realms of the universe

This region is made up of sixteen separate heavens or Devalokas.

Kalpathitha Jain

one of the upper realms of the universe

This region is made up of fourteen separate dwellings for the deities.

Kalpavriksha (see Kalpavrksha)

Kalpavrksha Jain

[Kalpavriksha.'wishing trees']

the trees that provided all human needs in the early ages

Kalseru (see Kalseuru)

Kalseuru Australian

[Kalseru]

a name for the Rainbow

Serpent in the north-west of the country

Kaltēs (see Kaltēsh)

Kaltēsh Siberian

[Kaltēs]

a fertility-goddess

consort of Num

She appears as a goose or sometimes as a hare.

Kalu Mesopotamian

priests of Enmesharra

Kalu Kumara Yaka Ceylonese

a demon

This being is said to be antagonistic to children, preventing conception or causing fever or delay in childbirth.

He was originally an arhat but he fell in love with a princess and immediately lost his powers and became a demon.

kaluk (see nat)

kalulu Pacific Islands

the spirit of the individual, in the lore of New Britain

Kalumba African

the creator-god of the Luba in Zaire

Kalunga<sup>1</sup> African

[Kalungangombe.Kalwanga]

a giant creator-god and fertility-god in Namibia king of the underworld

father of Musisi

In some accounts, Kalungangombe is the king of the underworld and Kalunga is his realm, or vice versa.

In neighbouring Angola, Kalunga is the creator-god who made the first man, Nambalisita.

Kalunga<sup>2</sup> South American

the African god transported to Brazil and worshipped as a sea-god

Kalungangombe (see Kalunga)

Kalupso (see Calypso)

Kalvaistis Baltic

[=Greek Hephaestus:=Roman

Mulciber.Vulcan)

a Lithuanian smith-god

He is said to make the sun anew each day.

Kalwanga (see Kalunga)

Kalyb British

a hero

He was carried off as a child by the Lady of the Woods who gave him supernatural powers and raised him as her own. He shut her up in a rock when she was attacked by demons and torn to pieces.

Kalypso (see Calypso)

Kama<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Ananda.Ananga.Bhavaja.Cama.Depaki.

'desire'.Dipaki.Gritsa.Iraja.

Kamadeva.Kandarp(a).Manmatha.Mara.

Mayasuta.Mayi.Pradyumna.Ragavrinta.

Rupasta.Samantaka.Samsara-Guru.

Smara.Titha.Vasanta-Bandhu:=Buddhist

Madhukara:=Greek Eros]

god of love

son of Aniruddha and Trishna, Dharma and Shradhdha, Krishna and Rukmini or Vishnu and Lakshmi

brother of Sama and Lakshmi husband of Rati and Priti

husband of Red Tara, some say

He was opposed to one of the Matrikas, Yogeshvari.

An alternative account of his origin has him born from the heart of Brahma at the birth of the universe and, like Eros, he fires arrows to inflame the passions of those they strike. His bow-string is said to be a string of bees and he carries five arrows, each with its own designation – Carrier of Death, Exciter, Infatuator, Inflamer and Parcher.

When he interrupted Shiva's meditation, he was burned to a cinder by the fierceness of the god's third eye but he was born again as Pradyumna, son of Krishna and Rukmini. As the limbless version, Kama is known as Ananga.

He is depicted as having three heads and three eyes and may be riding on a parrot or a peacock.

Kama<sup>2</sup> Japanese

a god of longevity

He is depicted holding a scroll and riding on a stag.

Kama<sup>3</sup> (see Mara)

Kama Dhenu (see Kamadhenu)

Kama-Gami (see Kamado-no-kami)

Kama-loka Buddhist

[Kama-lokic.Kama-rupa.Kamaloka]

one of the 3 regions of the universe, the world of desire: the after-death state of purgation

(see also Kamadhatu.Tri-loka)

Kama-lokic (see Kama-loka)

Kama-rupa (see Kama-loka)

Kamadeva (see Kama<sup>1</sup>)

Kamadhatu Hindu

the realm of wordly desire

(see also Kama-loka)

Kamadhenu Hindu

[Kama Dhenu.Kamadhenu.Kamdhen.

Kamdhenu.Savala]

a sacred cow: a monster, part cow, part eagle, part peacock

Some say that she emerged at the Churning of the Ocean, others that she was born to Rohini, the sun-goddess.

(see also Nandini.Surabhi)

Kamadhenu (see Kamadhenu)

Kamado-no-kami Japanese

[Kama-gami.Kamadogami.Kamadokami.

Kami-gami.O-kama-sama]

a Shinto god of the household

god of the cooking-stove or the kitchen fire

He is also regarded as the tutelary deity of potters.

(see also Hi-no-kami. Kojin)

Kamadogami (see Kamado-no-kami)

Kamadokami (see Kamado-no-kami)

Kamaima South American

in Honduras, a name for various forms of black magic: a practitioner of that art

Kamak<sup>1</sup> Persian

a huge bird whose wings prevented the rain from reaching earth, killed by Keresaspa

Kamak<sup>2</sup> (see Kala<sup>5</sup>)

Kamakhya (see Devi.Kali<sup>1</sup>.Uma)

Kamakshi Indian

[Kamaksi.Kamashi]

a Tamil goddess of love

a sakti of Shiva

an aspect of Parvati

a name for Devi, Kali and Uma

Kamaksi (see Kamakshi)

Kamala<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Padma]

an aspect of Maharatri

one of the mahavidyas

kamala<sup>2</sup> (see lotus<sup>4</sup>)

Kamalamitra Hindu

a sun-hero

When he boasted of his wife's beauty the gods separated them and he was forced to traverse the skies daily in search of her.

Kamalasama (see Brahma)

Kamaloka (see Kama-loka)

Kamapua'a Pacific Islands

[Great Boar]

the hog-child god of Hawaii

He appeared first as a black fish but, when he came ashore, became a hog.

Despite his huge, hog-like figure and snout he had human hands in which he could, and did, wield a club to defeat his enemies.

He used his snout to push up land from the bottom of the sea to make a home for mankind.

The giant Limaloa once tried to kill him but, when Kamapua'a turned to a handsome youth, they became great friends. In this form, Kamapua'a tried to win Pele, the fire goddess. She rejected him and the ensuing battle between her forces and his ended only when she yielded to his embraces.

Kamarong Pacific Islands

a lizard-man consort of Jari

Jari left her first husband, snake-man, because he killed her mother, and lived with Kamarong. He was incomplete but Jari fashioned a penis for him and they became the ancestors of the tribes.

Kamashi (see Kamakshi)

Kamatari Japanese

a minister of state
father of Kohaku Jo

His daughter married the emperor of China and sent back marvellous treasures. One of these, a crystal in which the image of the Buddha could be seen, was seized by the sea-king. A peasant woman lost her life in retrieving the crystal and Kamatari adopted her son and raised him to be a famous warrior.

Kamba African

an ancestral hero, founder of the Kamba people
son of Murungu

Kamba Engai (see En-kai)

Kamber (see Camber)

Kamdhain (see Kamadhenu)

Kamdhenu (see Kamadhenu)

Kame<sup>1</sup> South American

[=Arawak Kamu:=Karaya Kaboi:

=Paraguayan Pay Zume]

a culture-hero of the Bakairi Indians
the moon personified
son of Oka

twin brother of Keri

The mother of Kame and Keri conceived them by swallowing two bones. Her mother-in-law killed her but the two children were saved. The brothers pushed up the sky to make room for men to live and invented fire and water. They also produced all the animals of the earth from a hollow tree and set the sun and moon on their present courses through the sky.

In the lore of the Caingang, Kame's twin brother is known as Kayurukre while the Bororo of Brazil say that the twins were the offspring of Jaguar and the daughter of a chief. Jaguar's mother, a caterpillar, killed the girl by making her laugh until she died. Her husband rescued the twins from her womb and killed the caterpillar by burning her.

kame<sup>2</sup> (see kami)

Kamelan (see Kamelin)

Kamelin British

[Kamelan]

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Alvarez

brother of Miroet

Kamenaë (see Camenae)

Kamephis Egyptian

a manifestation of Ra as a bull

kami Japanese

[jingi.kame.kamit]

a name given to all Shinto deities:

a spirit: the powers of nature

kami-gakari Japanese possession by a spirit or a deity

Kami-Gami (see Kamado-no-kami)

kami-gi Japanese

sacred trees planted near temples

Kami-musubi (see Kamimusubi)

Kami-nari (see Kaminari)

Kami-no-kuni Japanese

the land of the gods

Kami-no-tsukai Japanese

animals, birds, etc. serving as messengers of the gods

Kami-yo Japanese

the age of the gods

kamidana Japanese

a small Shinto shrine or altar

Kamimusubi Japanese

[Kami-musubi.Kami-mimasubi.

Kami-mimusubi]

a Shinto creator-god

one of 3 primaeval beings

one of the 5 Separate Heavenly

Deities

one of the Eight Imperial Deities

In some accounts, a goddess representing the female principle.

(see also Zoka-no-sanshin)

Kaminari Japanese

[Kami-nari.Kaminari Sama.Kaminarisan.

Nari-kami.Naru-kami. The Thunder Woman]

a Shinto thunder-goddess

This mysterious being is said to have appeared on earth in the guise of the empress of China.

In some accounts, this deity is the same as the male Raiden.

Kaminari Sama (see Kaminari)

Kaminarisan (see Kaminari)

Kamlat Russian

a Tartar rite in which the devil is evoked by the use of magic drums

Kammapa (see Kholumulomu)

Kamini Buddhist

a goddess attendant of Buddhakapala

kamit (see kami)

Kamo-Wake-Ikazuchi Japanese

a Shinto rain-god

one of the Raijin

Kamonga African

second wife of Chibinda Ilunga

Kamonu African

in the lore of the Barotse, a man who imitated god

Kamonu copied everything done by god who, at that time, lived on earth. This so upset the deity that he moved to another village, then to an island and finally to the top of a mountain. Kamonu followed him to each of these places and, to escape him, god climbed a spider's web into the sky. Kamonu cut logs and piled them up in an attempt to follow but was unsuccessful.

Kamos Hebrew

a Moabite war-god

Kampe (see Campe)

Kampean Cambodian

[=Hindu Khumbhandas]

the blue tevodas

Kamusepa Mesopotamian

[Kamusepas:=Hattic Kataziwuri]

a Hittite goddess of healing and magic,
mother of Aruna

She charmed Telipinu into returning after he disappeared.

Kamusepas (see Kamusepa)

Kamsa (see Kansa)

Kamu South American

[=Bakairi Kame:=Karaya Kaboi:

=Paraguayan Pay Zume]

a culture-hero of the Arawak Indians

Kamu-mimusubi (see Kamimusubi)

Kamu-O-Ichi Japanese

a Shinto goddess

daughter of Susanowa and Inada

mother of O-Toshi-No-Kami

Kamu-yamato-iware-biko

(see Jimmu-tenno)

Kamui Japanese

[Tuntur]

a sky-god of the Ainu

Kamulla Mesopotamian

a god of the Kassites

Kamutef Egyptian

[Amun-Min-Kamutef]

the combined form of Amon and Min

Kamya Hindu

a goddess

wife of Priyavrata

Kamyaka Hindu

a forest

It was here that the Pandava brothers and Draupadi lived for twelve years when they were sent into exile.

Kan<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Can]

a Mayan god of maize

one of the 4 Bacabs

He supports the eastern corner of the earth (yellow).

(see also Hobnil.Kan<sup>3</sup>)

- Kan<sup>2</sup> Central American
[Can]
the fourth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the realisation that evil exists
(see also One Kan)
- Kan<sup>3</sup> Central American
[Can:=Yucatec Kanam-Ium]
a Mayan snake-god (see also Kan<sup>1</sup>)
- K'an<sup>4</sup> Chinese
one of the Eight Diagrams representing rain, moon, lake and pig
- Kan<sup>5</sup> Hindu
a mother-goddess
- Kan-gur (see Kanjur)
- K'an-mo (see K'an-po)
- K'an-po Tibetan [female=K'an-mo]
head of a monastery, said to be in direct communication with the saints
- Kan Tzicnal Central American [Can Tzicnal]
a Mayan god
one of the 4 Bacabs
He supported the northern corner of the world (white).
(see also Mulac)
- Kan-u-Uayeyab Central American
a Mayan guardian-god of city gates
- Kan-ying-p'ien Chinese a Taoist book of morality
- Kana-Yama-Biko-No-Kami Japanese
a Shinto god of miners husband of Kana-Yama-Hime-No-Kami
He was said to have been born from Izanami's vomit.
- Kana-Yama-Hime-No-Kami Japanese
a Shinto goddess of miners consort of Kana-Yama-Biko-No-Kami
- Kanae New Zealand
a ponaturi
This demon and Tonga-Hiti were the only two to escape when Tawhaku trapped the ponaturi who had killed his father. Kanae became a flying-fish.
- Kanag Pacific Islands
a hero of the Philippines
son of Aponitolau and Aponibolinayen
He was born when his mother pricked
an itching spot on her little finger.
To win the girl he loved, he was required to fill a spirit-house with jars nine times in succession and to string golden beads on a spider's web round the town.
- Kanahins British
a squire serving Lancelot
- kanaimu South American in the Guianas, various forms of black magic: avenging spirits who stalk their victims and kill them
- Kanaka Hindu
['gold'] son of Vishnu and Bhū
- Kanaka the Bharadvaja (see Pindola<sup>2</sup>)
- Kanaka-vatsa Buddhist [=Chinese Ka-no-ka Fa-tso]
one of the Eighteen Lohan
- Kanakamuni Buddhist [=Tibetan Ser-thup]
the seventh arhat, some say
one of the 7 manushibuddhas
- Kanakabharadvaja (see Pindola<sup>2</sup>)
- Kanakha Tibetan
a Lamaist sorceress
sister of Kanakhala and Mekhala
- Kanakhala Tibetan
a Lamaist sorcerer
brother of Kanakha and Mekhala
- Kanal South American
twin brother of Kayurukre
- Kanaloa Pacific Islands
[=Maori Tangaroa]
Hawaiian squid-god and creator-god ruler of the dead (see also Tangaroa)
- Kanam-Ium Central American [Mayan Kan]
a Yucatec snake-god
- Kananeski Anayehi North American
a Cherokee water-spider
This insect is said to have brought fire from underground where lightning had set fire to the roots of a tree.
- Kanapu Pacific Islands [Uira]
a god of lightning
- Kanasoka Japanese
a painter
His painting of a horse was so lifelike that the animal came to life. When people complained that the horse was destroying their crops, Kanasoka painted a rope tethering the horse to a post, after which the horse could not wander.
- Kanassa South American
the creator-god of the Kuikuru
He got fire from the sky by capturing a vulture and forcing him to bring down a burning ember.
- Kanati North American
the first man in the lore of the Cherokee husband of Selu
father of the Thunder Boys
- Kanchenjung Tibetan
5 brothers who became the spirits of sacred mountains
- Kanchil Pacific Islands
[Kancil.Kantijil.Pelandok.Pelanduk]
the mouse-deer, a trickster-hero
In Indonesian lore, this small animal defeated many predators by pretending to magic powers it does not possess, persuading even tigers to live in peace with other animals.
- kancho Japanese
abbot of a Buddhist monastery
- Kancil (see Kanchil)
- Kandaon Greek
a Boeotian name for Orion: an epithet of Ares
- Kandarp (see Kama<sup>1</sup>)
- Kandarpa (see Kama<sup>1</sup>)
- Kanda Yake Ceylonese
brother of Bilindi
A great hunter whose spirit (yaka)
became the guardian of hunters.
He killed his younger brother,
whose spirit is also invoked by hunters,
in a fit of temper.
- Kandu Hindu
a sage
father of Marisha
He was seduced by Pramlocha, who tried to distract him from his meditations, and fathered Marisha on her.
- Kandundu African
an ancestral spirit of the Ovimbundu
- Kane Pacific Islands
[=Maori Tane(-mahuta)]=Polynesian Atea]
the creator-god and sky-god of Hawaii
father of Hiiaaka
With the help of Ku and Lono he made the world and mankind.
- Kane-hekili New Zealand
a name of Kane as 'thunder-god'
- Kane-hoalani Pacific Islands [Kane-milohai]
a Hawaiian god
father of Pele
He was said to own a shell which could become a sailing-ship capable of taking its owner anywhere he might wish to go.
- Kane-huna-moku Pacific Islands
the Hawaiian paradise, an island floating in the sky
- Kane-milohai (see Kane-hoalani)
- Kane-oe-E Pacific Islands
[Oi-E]
the triad of gods, Kane, Ku and Lono
- Kanephorai (see Canephorae)
- Kang (see Kaang)
- Kang-gyur (see Kah-gyur)
- kang-mi (see Abominable Snowman)

- Kangalogba African
a primaevae female spirit of the tribes of Uganda
mother of Toro
She is envisaged as a dragonfly.
- Kangi Sapa North American [Black Crow]
a Sioux brave
He abandoned his friend Wanblee Glashka to die so that he could marry the girl they both loved. Wanblee survived and, when Kangi Sapa was killed in battle, married the widow.
- Kani (see Ganis)
- kanikani Pacific Islands
a Polynesian dance
During the performance of this dance, ancient myths are sung.
- Kanikilak North American
[=Aztec Quetzalcoatl:=Salish Quaaqua: =Tlingit Raven.Yetl]
a creator-spirit of the Kwakiutl tribe
- Kanisimbo African
a Swahili ancestor
brother of Simbumba
The eldest of the eight people who came down from heaven in a ship with Faro.
- Kanji Japanese
one of the 2 Tide Jewels
Kanji controlled the ebb-tide, Manji the flood-tide.
- Kanjur (see Kab-gyur)
- kankagee North American
a fabulous animal
- Kankar Mata Hindu
a mother-goddess, a goddess of disease
- Kannan Indian
a Tamil name for Krishna
- Kannon (see Kwannon)
- Kannon-sama (see Kwannon)
- kannushi Japanese
a priest
a master of divinity
The priests sometimes acted for the gods or as intermediaries between gods and mortals.
- Kanook North American
a god of darkness of the Tungit people: an evil principle brother of Yehl (Raven)
He refused to release water for the benefit of mankind so his brother tricked him into releasing it.
He was envisaged in the form of a wolf.
- Kanobus Egyptian
[Ka-nub]
a bull symbolising Ptah
- Kanopas (see Canopus<sup>2</sup>)
- Kanro Gundari Japanese
a form of Gundari-myoo regarded as a manifestation of Kokuzu
- Kanro-O (see Amrita<sup>1</sup>)
- Kansa Hindu
[Kamsa]
the tyrant, king of Mathura son of Drumalika by Pavanarekha
son of Kasyapa, some say brother of Sunaman
brother of Devaki, some say His nominal father was Ugrasena but his real father was the demon
Drumalika who had raped the queen Pavanarekha to produce a son who would rule the world. He began a life of great cruelty by murdering Ugrasena and taking his throne.
When he was told that his future killer was about to be born he ordered that all new-born males be killed.
Krishna, the eighth avatar of Vishnu,
escaped and was reared by cowherds.
Kansa sent demons to harry Krishna who defeated them all and finally he invited Krishna to his court where he had posted a wrestler and an elephant to crush Krishna when he arrived.
Kansa and his eight brothers were killed by Krishna, helped by his half-brother Balarama.
Some say that he was an incarnation of Kalanemi.
- Kanshiro Japanese
an old farmer
On a pilgrimage to a shrine, he was badly treated by the innkeeper, Jimpachi, who stole the money the old man had intended to give for the upkeep of the shrine. Kanshiro swore vengeance and, when he died, a huge swarm of fireflies flew from his tomb and smothered Jimpachi who died in agony.
- Kansuke Japanese
a fisherman
father of Matakichi
When a small island appeared in the sea and a bright light shone from the sea-bottom, Kansuke and his son went to investigate. Kansuke fell into the sea and sank straight to the bottom where he was eaten by the Great Awabi, the source of the light which had attracted the fisherman.
- Kanta Tibetan [Kantali]
a Lamaist sorcerer
- Kantaka (see Kanthaka)
- Kantali (see Kanta)
- Kantart European
a young cockerel in Reynard the Fox
son of Henning
brother of Kyrant
- Kantatman (see Dhanvantari)
- kanteletar Baltic
Finnish magic songs
- Kantha Hindu
a huge gemstone, said to provide light in the underworld
- Kanthaka Buddhist
[K(h)antaka]
the Buddha's white horse
This animal was said to have appeared at the moment of Buddha's birth.
- Kanti Hindu
a goddess of desire a sakti of Narayana
- Kantijil (see Kanchil)
- kantoki-no-ki Japanese
trees which have been struck by lightning
It is said that, because these trees have been 'cloven by god', they are sacred and are not to be touched.
- Kanva<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a forest hermit
He found the nymph Shakuntala and raised her as his daughter.
(see also Kanva<sup>2</sup>)
- Kanva<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a blind seer
In some accounts he restored the sight of Agni.
(see also Kanva<sup>1</sup>)
- Kanya Hindu
one of the signs of the Zodiac, Virgo
the virgin
- Kanyakumari Hindu ['maiden']
a name for Devi, Kali and Uma
- Kanyarundi African [Chambara-Ntama.Intare (-Rushadi)]
an ancestral king son of Kihanga
husband of Inaruchaba
father of Mwezi
His uncle Mashira told him to have a sword made and then kill a serpent which lived in a cave. This he did and then decided to live in the cave which was full of treasure. A chief's daughter, left outside the cave as a sacrifice to the serpent, married Kanyarundi. His father sent him two drums, Kagenda and Mukakagenda, for a wedding present. He was called Intare Rushadi and later became King Intare, married Inaruchaba and had a son, Mwezi.
His sword was called Inkoto.
(see also Intare)

Kanzakura Japanese
a sacred cherry-tree, home of the god of love, Musubi

Kanzi African
son of the first man, Amangundu brother of Nangombe
father of Mshindi

Kanzibyui Central American
a Mayan god

He was charged with the duty of restoring the earth after the flood and planted trees at the four corners of the earth to support the sky.

Kao Hou (see Ts'ao Hou)
Kao Chio Chinese

[Shun-feng Erh]
brother of Kao Ming

He and his brother fought for Chou Wang in the Battle of Mu until it was discovered that they were, in fact, fruit trees. When the trees were dug up, the brothers lost their great powers and were killed.

He was envisaged as having a green face with a red beard and two horns growing from his head.

Kao-hsin Chinese [Kao-hsin Ch'i]
a child born of a miraculous conception

His mother tried to dispose of the child by leaving him successively in a lane, a forest and an icy river. In each case he was saved, first by sheep and cattle, then by a woodman and finally by birds who covered the child with feathers to keep him warm. His mother then cared for him herself and he became the ancestor of a famous dynasty.

Kao-hsin Ch'i (see Kao-hsin)
Kao Ming Chinese

[Ch'ien-li Yen.T'ing chien]
brother of Kao Chio

He and his brother fought for Chou Wang in the Battle of Mu until it was discovered that they were, in fact, fruit trees. When the trees were dug up, the brothers lost their great powers and were killed.

Kao-yao Chinese [T'ing chien]
a magistrate

Some say he used a unicorn (ch'i-lin) to help him in his judgments and later became a judge of souls in the underworld.

kaous Greek
a demon said to ride on a person's back and beat him with a stick

It is believed that a child conceived on March 25th will be born as a kaous.

Kapala Buddhist
a drinking-vessel made from a human skull used for offering libations to the gods

Kapali Hindu
a minor god
one of the 11 ekadasarudras

Kapalika Tibetan
a Lamaist sorcerer

His wife and five sons all died at the same time and he would have killed himself but was converted by Krishnacari. He then studied magic, wearing his sons' bones as ornaments and using the skull of his wife as a drinking-vessel.

Kapalini<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
a goddess attendant on Buddhakapala

Kapalini<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a name for Durga or Kali as 'skull-owner'

Kapalu European
a servant of Morgan le Fay

He sank Renoart's ship at Morgan's behest when Renoart, her lover, deserted her.

Kapaneus (see Capaneus)
kapiangu African in Zaire, a charm which causes the death of a thief

Kapila Hindu
a sage

In one story, the favourite horse of the king, Sagana, was missing and the king's 60,000 sons dug a huge pit in which they found the horse. They also found Kapila and accused him of having stolen the horse. This so angered the sage that he killed them all with fiery rays from his eyes.

Kapila-Vashi Buddhist
a city, the birth-place of the Buddha

Kapipikauiia Pacific Islands
a Polynesian demon killed by Kaua

Kapirimtiya African
the site of the holes from which the ancestors of some of the people of Malawi emerged

Kapisha Hindu
mother of the Pishachas

Kapo Pacific Islands
a Hawaiian goddess sister of Hiiaka and Pele
mother of Laka

Kapoo Australian
an ancestral kangaroo

Kapoonis North American
the lightning-spirit of the tribes of the north-west, twin brother of Enumclaw

He became adept at hurling huge boulders while his twin learned the art of throwing fire-balls like spears. To prevent them from doing too much damage, the gods took them up to heaven and made Kapoonis the lord of lightning and Enumclaw the lord of thunder.

In some versions, their roles are reversed.

Kappa Japanese
[Child of the River.Kawako]
water-demons of the Ainu

This being lived and travelled on flying cucumbers and ate cucumbers and blood. They had a depression on the top of the head which held water. They would challenge travellers to fight and, if the traveller bowed, they would bow in return and the vital liquid ran out and, with it, their strength. The traveller would be afflicted by a wasting disease. They sometimes attacked swimmers, sucking their blood.

In one story, a kappa was captured when it seized a horse and its life was spared only when it promised on oath never again to attack domestic animals. They are said to have taught men the art of bone-setting and are depicted as having the body of a tortoise with the legs of a frog and the head of a monkey.

kapparah Hebrew
an animal or bird offered in sacrifice

Kapu Mate Baltic
a name for Velumate as 'mother of the graveyard'

Kapua Pacific Islands
a demi-god in Hawaii

kapuku Pacific Islands
the Polynesian art of restoring the dead to life

kapurale Ceylonese [dugganawa]
a shaman

These men are said to be able to contact the yaku, the spirits of ancestors and transmit messages to their relatives.

Kaput Persian
a storm-demon, in the form of a wolf, slain by Keresaspa

kar-fish Persian
a fish created by Ahura Mazda to guard the Goakerena tree

Kara Norse
a Valkyrie

She was said to be Sigrun born again and flew over Helgi, in the form of a swan, to protect him in battle. He swung his sword too high and killed her. (see also Sigrun.Svava)

- Karadan British
a brother-in-law of King Arthur father of Aquisant
- Karadawc (see Caradoc)
- Karadigi African
a hunter
He owned 120 huge black dogs which he set on to kill the monster hippo, Mali.
- Karadoc (see Caradoc)
- Karaeng Lowe Pacific Islands [Mahaiswara]
a sea-god
the Indonesian version of Shiva, worshipped in the form of a lingam
- Karahu (see Carahue)
- Karai-Shin Japanese [Karaishin]
a Buddhist god of lightning
one of the Raijin deities
- Karaia-I-Te-Ata Pacific Islands
daughter of Miru
- Karaijin (see Raijin)
- Karaishin (see Karai-shin)
- karakia Pacific Islands
a Polynesian incantation: a plea to the gods: a magic formula
- Karala (see Karali)
- Karali Hindu
[Karala]
a name for Durga or Kali as 'terrible'
- Karamnasa Hindu
a river of ill-fortune
It is said that touching the water of this river negates the merit of good deeds.
- Karandala African
an Ethiopian evil spirit
- karapan Persian
an idolatrous priest
- Karaperamun Pacific Islands
an early Melanesian god
He is said to be reincarnated in John Frum, revered in the Cargo Cult of Vanuata.
- Karara-Huara (see Ngarara<sup>2</sup>)
- karashishi Japanese
Chinese lions, statues of which are used to guard temples
- Karataka Hindu
[Kalila]
a jackal featured in the Panchatantra (see also Damina)
- Karaty-khan Mongol
a hero who killed the man-eating demon, Puneugusse
- Karawata Pacific Islands
a Melanesian woman
It is said that she gave birth to a spirit-bird, the cockatoo.
- karawatoniga Pacific Islands
benevolent coastal spirits of Melanesia
- karcist
one who can call up demons and spirits
- Kardeiss (see Kardeiz)
- Kardeiz British [Kardeiss]
son of Percival and Condwiramur, in some accounts brother of Aribadale and Lohenergrain
- Kare (see Kari)
- Karei Malay
[Kari]
a thunder-god
This large but invisible creator uses thunder to indicate his disapproval of man's actions, causing the guilty party to atone for his sins by self-mutilation, mixing his blood with water and throwing it heavenwards.
- Kareya North American
a creator-spirit of the Karok tribe
- Kari<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Ka(e)re]
a Frost Giant
god of tempests
son of Ymir
brother of Aegir and Loki
father of Beli, Thiassi and Thrym
With his brothers Aegir and Loki he formed a trinity of early gods.
- Kari<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Ka(e)re]
son-in-law of Njal
father of Thord
He was the only one of the Njalsson clan to escape when Flosi's men attacked and set fire to Njal's house, Bergthorsknoll. In later years, wielding his sword Life-taker, he exacted vengeance on the Sigfussons.
- Kari<sup>3</sup> (see Karei)
- Karia
a name for the Rainbow Snake
- Karibatu Mesopotamian
[Lamassu.Lamast(a).Lamastu: =Sumerian Dimmea]
an Assyrian demi-goddess of sickness
In some accounts, she is described as a demon with a pale face, the ears of a donkey and poisonous claws who was said to kill suckling infants.
Later, installed as guardians at the entrances to palaces, she (and the male Sedu) were depicted as winged bull/human hybrids.
In Sumerian lore she was originally a protective deity.
In some accounts, Karibatu is the same as Lamastu but Lamassu is regarded as a separate benevolent being.
- Karibu (see Kuribu)
- Karihi (see Kariki)
- Kariki Pacific Islands
[Karihi]
brother of Tawhaki
- Karina (see Ummu-Sibyani)
- Karini Buddhist
an attendant on Buddhakapala
- Karisini Hindu
a name for Lakshmi as goddess of agriculture and rice-growing
- Karitei-mo Japanese
the original name of Kishi Bojin
- Karka Hindu
[Karkata]
one of the signs of the Zodiac, Cancer the crab (lobster)
- karkadann Muslim
a monster, part unicorn, part rhinoceros, sometimes winged
- Karkata (see Karka)
- Karkota Hindu
[Karkotaka]
a snake-god
one of 7 mahanagas
- Karkotaka (see Karkota)
- Karl Norse
[Churl] son of Amma by Heimdall husband of Snor Heimdall, visiting earth at Riger, fathered Karl on Amma. He married Snor, founding the class of husbandmen.
- Karlafberg Norse
a name for Odin as 'man of the mountain'
- Karliki Russian
dwarfs
They were originally spirits that fell from heaven into the underworld when Satan was expelled.
There are a number of varieties including Domoviks, Leshi, Vodyanoi and Vozdushnoi.
- Karlot (see Charlot)
- Karl's Wagon (see Great Bear)
- Karma Indian
causation: the doctrine that one's own deeds affect one's chances of re-birth
This doctrine, in various forms, is found in the beliefs of the Buddhists, the Hindus and the Jains.
- Karma-sakshi Hindu
a name for Surya as 'witness'
- Karmadakini Buddhist a goddess of the air
- Karmheruka Buddhist
one of the 5 Herukabuddhas (see also Amogasisiddhi)
- Karmavasita Buddhist
a goddess
one of the 12 Paramita goddesses

Karmendriyas Hindu

5 of the 10 vital breaths

The other five are known as the Jnanendriyas. The ten breaths (Pranas) plus Atman were regarded as a manifestation of the eleven sons of Rudra.

Karna<sup>1</sup> East Indian

a Javanese warrior

son of Suria and Kunti

It was said that Karna was born from Kunti's ear.

Karna<sup>2</sup> Hindu

son of Surya and Kunti

Kunti prayed to Surya and bore a son, whom she abandoned. The baby was cast adrift on the Ganges but was rescued by Shatananda, a charioteer to King Dhartarastra, who called the boy Karna and raised him to be a charioteer. Indra gave him an unerring spear which he used in a contest to win the hand of Draupadi. When she rejected his suit, he joined forces with the Kauravas.

He met his half-brother, Arjuna, in single combat and was killed.

(see also Kunti)

Karna-Moti Hindu

a name for Devi, Kali and Uma as 'one with pearls in her ears'

Karnari Tibetan

a Lamaist sage

Karneia (see Carneia)Karneios (see Karnos)Karnikacala Hindu

a name for Mount Meru as 'lotus mountain'

Karnos Roman

[Karneios]

an ancient god assimilated to Apollo

Karnu Mesopotamian

an ancient Assyrian sun-god

Karous West Indian

a Haitian female voodoo spirit

Karobinga (see Gario)Karpo (see Carpo)Karpophoros (see Kourotrophos)Karpous (see Carpus)Karr Norse

a dead warrior

The ghost of this warrior was haunting the area so Grettir opened the tomb, removed the treasure and cut off Karr's head.

Karshipta Persian

[Karshiptar]

a bird sent out by Yima to look for survivors after the flood

This bird, said to be able to speak, was also sent out to spread the teachings of Ahura Mazda.

Karshiptar (see Karshipta)Karsnik (see Kresnik)kart Russian

a Cheremissian priest

Karta Baltic

a Latvian goddess of fate

sister of Dekla and Laima

In some accounts, these three sisters act as the Latvian Fates.

kartaman (see lukuman)Kartanagara East Indian

one of the 5 kings of Java regarded as incarnations of the

Dhyani Buddhas

Kartavirya Hindu

the thousand-armed king of the Himalayas

He was killed by Parashurama, the sixth incarnation of Vishnu, when he insulted Renuka stealing a calf.

Kartika (see Karttika)Kartikeya (see Karttikeya)Kartrika Buddhist

[Karttr(i)ka]

a symbol of Lamaist deities in the form of a chisel-knife

Karttika Hindu

[Kartika]

a mother-goddess

the sakti of Karttikeya

one of 9 navasaktis

Karttikaya (see Karttikeya)Karttikeya Hindu

[Agneya.Ganga-ja.Guha.Karttikeya.

Karttikaya.K(a)umara.Mahasena.

Mangala.Sena-pati.Skanda.

Subra(h)manya:=Greek Ares]

a war-god, an aspect of Shiva

son of Agni and Ganga

brother of Ganesha, some say consort of Kumari or Devasena

Accounts of his birth are many and varied. Some say that he was born in the Ganges after Shiva spilt semen which dropped first on a fire which it extinguished and then into the river.

Others say that Indra saw the demon, Kesir, about to rape the maiden, Devasena, drove him off and took the girl to heaven where she married Agni, bearing his son, Karttikeya. Yet another story says that Agni resisted the urge to seduce the wives of the Seven Rishis when he saw them bathing but was himself seduced by Svaha, who appeared in the form of each of those seven wives, and it was from this union that Karttikeya, as Subrahmanya, was born. Some say Karttikeya was formed from Brahma's ear or was Rudra's son.

His alternative name was Skanda and, in that role, his origins are somewhat different.

He is depicted as six-headed and riding his favourite peacock, Paravani. (see also Skanda)

Kartrika (see Kartrika)Karttrka (see Kartrika)Karu<sup>1</sup> Japanese

a legendary king

When his brother deposed him, Kuru and his wife were exiled and both committed suicide.

Karu<sup>2</sup> South American

a Tupi culture-hero

father of Rairu

Karu and his son Rairu existed in the primaevial darkness but Rairu put a stone on his head which grew to form the sky and they had light. Rairu hid under the earth to escape death at the hands of his jealous father and found human beings living there. When these people emerged into the upper world, Karu and Rairu turned some of them, the lazy ones, into birds and animals.

Karubi Arab

cherubim, the highest angels

Karubu (see Kuribu)Karules siunes Mesopotamian

early Syrian deities regarded as judges in the underworld

Karuna Buddhist

compassion personified as Heruka

Karura Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Karwan North American

a kachina of the Pueblo tribes

a nature-spirit of maize

Karwar East Indian

a talisman in the form of a figure of an ancestor, carved from a tree

Karyatis (see Caryatides)Karyobinga Buddhist

half woman, half bird

This creature is depicted with the head and body of a woman, the legs, claws, wings and tail of a bird.

Kasa-nasi (see Kusanagi)Kasavya Persian

a lake

It is said that the seed of Zoroaster still lives in this lake, pending the day when a virgin bathes in the waters. She will then become pregnant and deliver the saviour, Saoshyant.

Its modern name is Hamoun.

Kasenko Japanese

[=Chinese Ho Hsien-ku]

a god said to live on mother-of-pearl Kasha Japanese
 an evil spirit gorging on corpses
Kasdeya<sup>1</sup>
 a devil of destruction
Kasdeya<sup>2</sup> Norse
 a demon which appears as a calf
Kaseteran Pacific Islands
 [Land of Ghosts]
 home of the spirits of the dead
 This realm is envisaged as a gloomy forest in which only the heads of the spirits are visible.
Kashale (see Koshare)
Kashare (see Koshare)
Kashi (see Nirvana)
Kashiapa (see Kasyapa)
Kashiko-dokoro Japanese
 an imperial private shrine used for ancestor-worship Kashikone Japanese
 a god of the Tenrikyo movement an aspect of Tenri-o-no-mikoto
Kashima Japanese
 a deity
 He plunged his sword through the centre of the earth to keep it steady.
Kashku (see Kasku)
Kashyapa<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [Kashiapa.Kasyapa.Kesava.Mahakasyapa:
 =Chinese (Chin) Ma-ho Chia-yeh.
 Mo-ho Chia-yeh:=Tibetan Hod-srun.O-Sung]
 a disciple of the Buddha
 one of the 4 Bikshu
 the third of the 7 manushibuddhas
 He was originally an Indian Brahmin who converted to Buddhism. This hermit was Uruvilva Kashyapa. His two brothers, Gaya Kashyapa and Nadi Kashyapa converted to Buddhism at the same time.
 He maintained that the Buddha's death was the cause of an earthquake.
 The Buddha gave him his golden gown to hold in trust for the coming of the future Buddha, Maitreya.
 He was said to have lived for 20,000 years and is depicted as an old man holding a staff and a scroll.
Kashyapa<sup>2</sup> Hindu [Kashiapa.Kasyapa.Maya Kasyapa.
 Old Tortoise Man.
 Prajapati.'tortoise']
 a sage, one of the Seven Rishis son of Marichi
 consort of Aditi, Ira, Kadru, Khasa, Krodha or Vinata
 He married thirteen daughters of Daksha and fathered on them all the creatures of the earth, including the Danavas, Daityas and a number of demons.

 In some accounts he was the father of the Kinnaras, Narada and Vivasvat. Others say he was the father of:
 earthly vegetation by Ina Garuda by Vinata
 the Adityas by Aditi
 the Aswins by Diti
 the Nagas by Kadru
 the Pashishas by Kapisha
 the Rakshashas by Khasa
 the Yakshas by Khasa Vamana by Aditi
Kasi (see Nirvana)
Kasios (see Zeus Kasios)
Kasku Mesopotamian
 [Kashku:=Hurrian Kusuh]
 a Hittite moon-god
(see also Arma)
Kasobinga (see Gario)
Kasogana (see Kasogonaga)
Kasogonaga South American [Kasogana]
 the rain-goddess of the Chaco Indians
 She is said to appear as an ant-eater when she visits the earth.
Kaspar von der Rhon (see Rhon)
kaspi South American the souls of the dead, in the lore of the Ona tribe of Tierra del Fuego
Kassandra (see Cassandra)
Kassim Baba Persian [Cassin Baba]
 brother of Ali Baba
 He entered the cave but forgot the magic password and could not escape. The robbers found him and cut him into four pieces which they hung up in the cave. The pieces were found by Ali and stitched together by the cobbler Mustapha Baba.
Kassir Afghan
 a Kafir idol
(see Castor)
Kastor North American
Kastsatsi
 a rainbow-spirit of the Pueblo tribes Kasuga Japanese
 a guardian deity of Yamato province
Kasyapa (see Kashyapa)
Kaswa (see Al kaswa)
Kat Pacific Islands
 a god of Banks Island
 He is said to have taught the islanders the art of making dug-out canoes.
Katagogia Greek
 a festival in honour of Dionysus
Katahhas Mesopotamian
 a Hittite god
Kataibates Greek
 a name of Zeus as 'the one who descends'

katanes Arab
 a hairy vampire
Kataragama Ceylonese
 [Ceylon:=Hindu Skanda]
 a Tamil god
Katari African
 a water-demon in the lore of the Nyamuezi tribe Kataris
 a demon associated with dogs
Katavul Ceylonese
 [Kadavul]
 the supreme god of the Tamils Katayun Greek
 a princess
 lover of the Persian hero, Zariadres (see also Odatis)
Kataziwuri Mesopotamian
 [=Hittite Kamrusepa]
 a Hattic goddess of healing
Katchina (see Kachina)
Katha-Sarit-Sagara Hindu
 an 11th c book of mythology written by Somadeva Kathakatanave Central American
 the first man, in the lore of some Mexican peoples
 In some accounts, he emerged from the Grand Canyon and was instructed by Coyote in the art of making men.
Kathar-Wa-Hasis (see Kothar)
Katkochila North American
 a god of the Wintun Indians of California Somebody stole his magic flute so he set the earth on fire. The Flood came in time to save the world.
Kato Saemon (see Kato Sayemon)
Kato Sayemon Japanese [Kato Saemon]
 a rich man: a warrior
 He lived a very contented life in the shogun's palace until he realised that his wife and concubines were far from the gentle, obedient creatures he had thought them to be. Then he left the palace and became a Buddhist priest. When, five years later, his wife and son came looking for him, he kept his vows as a priest and pretended that he was not Sayemon.
Katoylla (see Ilyapa) Katonda African [Gguluddene.Kagingo.Lissoddene.Lugab.
 Namugereka.Namunginga.Nnyiniggu.
 Ssebinitu.Ssewannaku]
 the creator-god of the Baga
Katsinas North American Pueblo rain-spirits children of Itatiku
(see also Kachina)

Katsura Japanese
 a celestial laurel tree
 This tree lives on the moon and causes the dark spots visible on the moon's surface.

Katukilal (see Korraval)

Katun Central American in the Mayan time-scale, a period of 7,200 days, about 20 years

Katwa African
 a child of the first man, Kihanga
 ancestor of the pygmies

katwanga Hindu
 the mace of Shiva

Katayani Hindu
 a form of Kali after she had shed her black skin

Kaua Pacific Islands
 a Polynesian hero
 This hero had enormous strength and used it to pull down a cliff to reach the demon Kapipikaula, who lived on top and then killed him.

Kaudinya Cambodian
 an Indian Brahmin
 When he sailed to Cambodia he fired a magic arrow at the dragon-princess who sailed out to meet him. They later married and her father created the kingdom of Cambodia by draining the land.

kaukas Baltic
 [=Russian Domovik]
 a Lithuanian dwarf house-spirit, similar to the aitvaras (see also pukys)

Kauket (see Kekuit)

Kauko (see Lemminkainen)

Kaukomieli (see Lemminkainen)

Kaumara (see Kumara)

Kaumari (see Kumari)

Kaumundi Hindu
 a moon-goddess
 consort of Chandra

Kauna Inuit
 the spirit of the south wind

Kauravas Hindu
 [=Javanese Korawas.Kurus]
 the 100 sons of Dhritarashtra
 The Kaurava boys were brought up with their cousins, the five Pandava brothers, but quarrelled with them over the accession to the throne. The result was the epic war described in The Mahabharata.

Kausalya Hindu
 wife of Dasha-ratha
 mother of Rama and Lakshmi
 Like the other wives of Dasha-ratha, Kausalya drank her share of the potion given to Dasha-ratha by Vishnu and bore a son, Rama, an avatar of Vishnu.

Kaushita (see Durga)

Kaustubha Hindu
 a jewel of Vishnu
 This precious object was produced at the Churning of the Ocean, the eighth thing to emerge on that occasion. (see also Chinta-mana)

Kautar (see Kothar)

Kautilya Hindu
 [Chanakya]
 a counsellor at the emperor's court
 He inspected the emperor's new palace before it was occupied and, seeing ants carrying breadcrumbs, deduced that enemies were hidden under the floor. He had the floor-boards taken up and the soldiers hidden there were executed.

Kauvera (see Kubera)

Kauveri (see Yakshi<sup>2</sup>)

kava<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands
 a plant from which an intoxicating drink is brewed: the drink so brewed
 The Tongans say that a poor couple, Fevanga and Fenala, killed and cooked their baby daughter, Kavaonau, to feed the god Loa in a time of famine. He ordered that the head and body should separately receive a chief's burial. From the head came the first kava plant and from the body came the sugar cane.

Kava<sup>2</sup> Persian
 a smith-god

Kava<sup>3</sup> (see Kaba<sup>1</sup>)

Kavah Persian
 a blacksmith-hero who fought the demon Zahak

kavan (see kai)

Kavaonau Pacific Islands
 daughter of Fevanga and Fefana
 She was killed and cooked by her parents to provide food for the god Loa. (see also kava<sup>1</sup>)

kavi<sup>1</sup> Persian
 one of many types of demon

kavi<sup>2</sup> (see kai)

Kavra'nnna Siberian [Ko'rgina]
 a female spirit of the sun

Kavy Usan (see Kay Kaus)

Kavya<sup>1</sup> [=Persian Kay Kaus]
 a seer
 a version of Shukra
 In this version, he was given supernatural knowledge by Shiva as a reward for spending a thousand years suspended head down over a fire, breathing smoke. (see also Shukra)

kavya<sup>2</sup> (see kai)

Kaw (see Caw)

Kawako (see Kappa)

kawakuku Pacific Islands
 in Melanesia, experts who determine which foods are taboo
 These shamans appear in huge masks and the children are told that they are forest spirits in order to frighten them.

Kawaya Japanese
 a deity of the toilet
 This deity, incorporating both male and female aspects, arose from the excreta and urine of Isanami.

Kawelu Pacific Islands
 a queen
 She bewitched Hiku and kept him as her lover until he grew wings and left her. She died of grief and her soul went to the underworld realm of Milu to which Hiku descended on a vine and rescued her soul in the form of a butterfly which he caught in a coconut shell. Hiku then inserted her soul by magic through a small incision in her toe and brought Kawelu back to life.

Kay British [Kay le Seneschal:=French Queux: =Welsh Cai.Cei.Kai.Kei.Keu]
 a Knight of the Round Table
 a personal attendant on the king son of Ector
 foster-brother of Arthur husband of Andrivete father of Celamon, Garanwyn and Gronosis
 When Kay left behind his sword just before the gathering of nobles to elect a new king, Arthur rode back to fetch it but failed to find it. He then decided that Kay should have the sword which, set in an anvil and a block of stone, had appeared in the churchyard and pulled it out with ease. When he handed it to Kay, the assembly realised that it was he, Arthur, who was destined to become king of Britain.
 Once, when King Arthur was entrapped by the sorceress, Annowre, Kay saved the king from death at her hands and killed her.
 He was said to have killed Lachere, one of the king's sons, but he helped Arthur in his fight with the giant of Mont Saint Michel and killed Palug's Cat, a monstrous animal that had eaten 180 soldiers on Anglesey.
 He was one of the many knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot. When freed, he followed his rescuer and that night, as

Kay slept, Lancelot donned his armour and rode off. In this guise, Lancelot defeated Gawter, Gilmere and Raywold and then Ector, Ewain, Gawain and Sagamore so that Kay's reputation as a warrior was enhanced.

When Arthur conquered much of the Continent, Kay was left in charge of Anjou.

In the Welsh stories he is Cei or Kai, son of Cynyr, who grew as tall as a tree and had the ability to live for nine days and nights under water. He also generated so much heat that he remained dry in any downpour and could keep his comrades warm in winter and any burden he carried could never be seen. He was present at Arthur's court when Peredur arrived and he ill-treated the dwarf and his wife who both greeted Peredur although they had never before spoken while employed at the court. Peredur vowed to avenge this ill-treatment and when, some time later, Kay met him in single combat, he was defeated and broke an arm and shoulder.

He was one of the band of Arthur's men who helped Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen and, in the guise of a sword-maker, entered the fort of Gwrnach the giant, killed him and took the sword which Culhwch had been instructed to get by Ysbaddaden. He also trapped Dillus and pulled out his facial hairs to make the leash which was another of the tasks Culhwch had been set.

In some accounts he was a Saxon who became a Christian.

He was killed by Gwyddawg, in some accounts, but others say he was killed in battle against either the Romans or Mordred. (see also Kai)

Kay Kaus Persian
[Kai Kaus.Kavi Usan:=Hindu Kavya]
a mythical king
husband of Sudabe
father of Siyawush

He led an army to rid the land of demons but the leader of the demons, Diw-e-Safid (Arzang), pelted the army with stones from above and took Kay Kaus, who had been blinded by the stones, prisoner. He was later rescued by the great hero, Rustem, who cured the king's blindness. When the king, riding an eagle, pursued some of the demons to their stronghold in the mountains, God caused him to fall down the mountain.

His second wife, Sudabe, accused Siyawush, the king's son by his first wife, of making advances though it was she who was guilty of trying to seduce the young prince. Siyawush fled from the palace but was killed by the demon Afrasiyab.

He was tempted by the evil demons, the Mazainyon, to take over the kingdom of heaven and tried to fly by tethering an eagle to each corner of his throne and urging them on with lumps of meat held in front of them on spears. He failed in the attempt and would have been killed by Ahura Mazda's messenger, Nairyosangha, but the spirit of his yet-to-be-born grandson, Kay Khusraw, pleaded for his life and saved him.

He ruled for fifty years before the usurper, Kay Khusraw, took over the throne.

Kay Khosraw (see Kay Khusraw)

Kay Khusraw Persian [Chosrow.Haoshravah.Kai Khusrau.

Kay Khosraw.Kay Khushraw:=Arab Kisra]
a mythical king
son of Siyawush

Before he was born, his spirit intervened when Nairyosangha was about to kill Kay Kaus, his grandfather. His pleas saved Kay Kaus from death.

He was raised by shepherds in Afghanistan and became a skilled warrior, fighting lions at the age of ten. He was said to have killed the demon Afrasiyab.

In Persia, a noble named Gudarz dreamt of this future king and sent his son, Gew, to bring him back to Persia. Here he slew a dragon and killed the man who had killed his father. After reigning for many years, he abdicated in favour of his son and disappeared into the mountains.

He was guided to heaven by Sraosha.

Kay Khushraw (see Kay Khusraw)

Kay Kobad Persian
[Kay Kvadadh.Kay Qubadh]
a mythical king

He was found by Rustem, floating in the waters of a river, and was adopted by the king whom he later succeeded.

Kay Kvadadh (see Kay Kobad)

Kay Qubadh (see Kay Kobad)

Kaya Japanese [Nuzuki]
a goddess of herbs

Kayanu-hime Japanese
a goddess of grasses and herbs
an aspect of Toyo-uke-hime

kayon East Indian
in Java, a stylised representation of the Tree of Life

Kayura African

[=Zulu Kayurankuba]
a Tanzanian storm-god

Kayurankuba African

[=Tanzanian Kayura]
a Zulu storm-god

kayotsarga Jain

dismissal of physical concerns in favour of those of the spirit

Kayurukre South American

a culture-hero who gave bees to the Caingang tribe

Kazariya Kyubei Japanese

a merchant

His servant, Tama, returned after death in the form of a fly.

Kaze Japanese

a wind-god

Kazikamuntu African

the first man, according to the lore of the Banyarwanda

kazila African

something forbidden or taboo

In some cases, royalty may not eat pig. Women are banned from eating fish by decree of Nzambi.

Kazooba African

[Nyamwezi:=Tanzanian Kazyoba]
a creator-god of the Ankore people of Uganda
a name of Rugaba as sun-god

Kazu-Tsuchi Japanese

[Hino-haya.Hinokagutsuchi.
Ho-masubi.Homasubi.Homusubi.

Kagu-tsuchi.Kagutsuchi]

a Shinto fire-god

son of Izanagi and Izanami

His mother died giving birth to this deity. His father decapitated him and from his blood sprang Hi-Hiya-Hi and four (or sixteen) other deities.

Kazyoba African

[=Ugandan Kazooba]
creator-god and sun-god of the Nyamwezi people of Tanzania

Kbai-khotun (see Kybai-khotun)

Kchemnito (see Gitchi Manitou)

K'daai Maqsin Siberian

in the lore of the Yakuts, a smith-god in the underworld

He is said to have introduced shamans and is regarded as the tutelary deity of blacksmiths.

To make iron hard he tempers it in the blood of a lion, a young man and a maiden and tears of a seal.

He is envisaged as covered in a thick layer of dirt and rust, with closed eyes.

It takes eight men above and eight below to pull his eyelids apart so that he can see.

Ke Akua (see Akua)

Keagiyhl Depguesk North American
a whirlpool

This whirlpool had claimed the lives of many young men so the tree-spirit, Hanging Hair, called a meeting in Festival House of all the river-spirits who agreed to curb its power. The storm-spirit blew part of a cliff into the river, so diverting the flow of water and reducing the whirlpool to a gentle eddy.

Keats, John English
(1795–1821)
a poet

He was author of several works on mythological themes including Endymion, Lamia and Hyperion.

Keb (see Geb)

Kebechet Egyptian

a snake-goddess
daughter of Anubis

Kebechsenef (see Qebsehse-nuf)

Kebeh (see Qebsehse-nuf)

Kebehsenuf (see Qebsehse-nuf)

Keckamanetowa
(see Ketchimanetowa)

Kecrops (see Cecrops)

Kedalion (see Cedralion)

Kedemel
a demon of the planet Venus

Kedesh (see Kades)

Kedeshet (see Kades)

Keelta mac Ronan (see Cailte)

Keen Kings Australian
a race of men with wings

These evil beings, built like tall humans with bat-like wings attached to their arms and with only two fingers and a thumb on each hand, lived in a huge cage where, in a hole in the floor, the Flame God lived. They captured humans and sacrificed them to this god but all of them fell into the hole and were consumed by the flames when the Winjarning Brothers led them in a frenzied dance.

Keeper of the Medicine of the Deer North American

a priest who looks after the fetishes of the Prey Brothers when they are not being used

Keeper of the Forest
(see Keeper of the Wood)

Keeper of the Wood British [Keeper of the Forest]

a giant black man

In the story of the Lady of the Fountain, this black warrior, with one leg and one eye in the middle of his forehead, guarded the property of the Black Knight and put those seeking adventure on the road to meeting the Black Knight in combat.

Keevan (see Ciabhan)

Keh Egyptian
a primordial god portrayed as having the head of a frog

Kehama Hindu
a prince

He drank some amrita but failed to achieve immortality. Instead, he found himself acting as one of the four supporting the throne of Yama, the god of the dead.

Kehtahn North American
an offering to the gods of the Navajo, a reed filled with tobacco etc.

Kehydius (see Kaherdin)

Kei' Japanese
sister of Hasu-ko

When Hasu-ko died, her soul took over Kei's body and, for a whole year, lived with a lover. At the end of that time, Hasu-ko's soul left and Kei was returned to life and married Hasu-ko's former lover.

Kei' (see Kai.Kay)

Keidomos Greek
a demon

This being, who accompanied Ares in battle, controlled the noise of the battle.

Keikeyi (see Kaikeya)

Keiko Japanese
an emperor

father of O-Uso-no-Mikito and Oho-usu
He sent his son Oho-usu to escort two beautiful maidens to the court to become wives of the emperor. Instead, Oho-usu married the girls, Ye-hime and Oto-hime, and sent two others to his father's court. Keiko refused to accept them and they died of grief.

Kek (see Kekui)

Kekeko East Indian
a fabulous bird

This bird can talk and also provides food for orphans.

Keket (see Kekuit)

Kekewage Pacific Islands
the keeper of the Melanesian

afterworld, Bebebweso husband of Sinebomatu

He and his wife care for the spirits of dead children until their parents also die and can look after them.

Kekri' Baltic
an ancient Finnish god of cattle

Kekri' Baltic
a Finnish festival in honour of the god Kekri

kekri' Baltic
a Finnish ghost or spirit

kekritar Baltic
masks, or the people wearing them, in the Kekri festival

Kekrops (see Cecrops)

Keku (see Kekui)

Kekui Egyptian
[Emen.Kek(u).Kuk]

a primaeval god
consort of Kekuit

With Kekuit he represented the darkness of the primordial chaos.

He is depicted sometimes with a frog's head, sometimes as a baboon.

Kekuit Egyptian
[Ahat.Emenet.Kakuet.Kakwet.

Kauket.Keket.Kekut]

a primaeval goddess
consort of Kekui

One of a pair of gods, with Kekui, created from Chaos by Thoth.

Kekut (see Kekuit)

Kekuwawku' (see Kewawku')

kekyon Greek
a drink of Demeter used in the ceremonies at Eleusis

Kelaino (see Celaeno)

kelby (see kelpie)

Kele Pacific Islands
a Tongan primaeval deity consort of Limu parent of Touia Fatuna

Kelea Pacific Islands
a princess

sister of Kawoa
wife of Kalamakua and Lo-hale

Kalamakua was sent on a voyage to find a bride for his cousin's son, Lo-hale, and came back with Kelea whom he had found swimming in the sea. She married Lo-hale and bore three children but later left her husband and married Kalamakua.

Kelemon (see Celamon)

Keleos (see Celeus)

Kelets Siberian
a demon of death in the lore of the Chukchee

He is said to have a pack of dogs with which he hunts and kills men.

Kelikila Hindu

a name of Rati as 'the shameless one'

Kelliwic Celtic

[Kelliwig]

one of King Arthur's castles,

in Cornwall

Kelliwig (see Kelliwic)

- Kelok North American
a monster
In the lore of the tribes of the south-west, this winged giant was killed by Coyote and his body ignited a fire that destroyed the world.
- kelpie Scottish [kelby.kelpy;=Irish each uisge:
=Manx Cabyll-Ushtey:Glaistyn: =Orkneys tang(ie):=Scotland
shoopiltie:=Shetlands shoopiltee: =Welsh ceffyn dwr]
a spirit in the form of a water-horse
He lures people to ride on his back, runs into the water to drown them and then eats them.
- kelpy (see kelpie)
Keltchair (see Celtchair)
Keltchar (see Celtchair)
Kelyddon (see Caledon Wood)
Kematef (see Knef)
Kembal Pacific Islands
a semi-divine hero of Keraki
- kemea Hebrew [kemia(h)]
an amulet used to ward off the evil eye
- kemia (see kemea)
kemiah (see kemea)
kemoit Malay
a ghost
A soul allowed to reach Belet, the home of the dead, is turned into a kemoit when the earlier inhabitants meet under the Mapik tree and break its arms and legs and turn its eyes inwards.
- Kemos (see Chemosh)
Kemosh (see Chemosh)
Kemur (see Kemwer)
Kemush North American [=Modoc Kumush]
the Klamath name for Kumush
- Kemwer Egyptian
[Kemur]
a black bull worshipped in Athribis
- Ken Chinese
one of the Eight Diagrams, representing mountains and dog
- Ken-ro-ri-jin Japanese [Kenro-jijin]
an earth god
- Ken Tambochan Malay
[Kin Tambuhan.Lady Unknown]
a princess
She was left in the forest by an eagle which had carried her off and was found there by a king who married her to his son. The queen had her killed and her body was thrown into the river.
- Kenaima West Indian
a Carib Indian with the power of death: an avenger
- Kenarey (see Kenor)
Kendatsuba Japanese
a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu
- Kenet Egyptian
a goddess originating from Syria
- Keneu North American
an eagle
The companion, with Oshadagea, of the thunder-god Hino.
(see also Keneun)
- Keneun North American
[Chief Thunderbird.Golden Eagle]
an Indian totem figure
He is regarded as the guardian of fire, originally stolen by Manabush.
(see also Keneu)
- Keng San Ku-niang Chinese
[(Three) Lavatory Ladies]
3 sisters of Chao Kung-ming
Their brother was killed in the Battle of Mu and they tried to avenge his death by throwing their red buckets (water-closets) at the enemy forces. Two of them, Ch'ung Hsiao and Pi Hsiao, were killed. For their efforts in the great battle, they were appointed guardians of childbirth.
Another version says that the interpretation as three goddesses is mistaken and has Keng San Ku as the Third Lady of the Privy, a goddess who was the mortal, Lady Ch'i, second wife of an official. His first wife, Lady Ts'ao, killed Ch'i by throwing her into the privy. She is alternatively known as Third Lady (San Ku), Purple Lady or Seventh Lady (Ch'i Ku).
- Kengida Mesopotamian
a Sumerian deity, messenger for Enlil
- Kengiu (see Hikoboshi)
Kengoi Japanese
an aspect of Jizo as 'strong determination'
- Kengyu (see Hikoboshi)
Kengyu-sei (see Hikoboshi) Kenimbleni African
a Subagi
He stole magic powders which made him immortal and enabled him to fly and to talk the language of the birds.
- Kennaquhair Scottish
an imaginary place
- kenne South American
a stone which the Incas said formed in the eye of a stag
This stone was used as an antidote to poison.
- Kenneth (see Cailleach)
- kenningar Norse
the metaphorical language of the skalds used to describe gods etc.
- Kenny (see Cailleach)
Kenor Cambodian [Kenary:=Hindu Gandharva]
a being with a female head and thorax but the wings and feet of a bird
- Kenos (see Keros)
Kenro-jijin (see Ken-ro-ri-jin)
Kentaur (see Centaur)
Kentauroi (see Centaur)
Kentauros (see Centaur)
Kenverchyn (see Cenferchyn)
Kenzoku Japanese
minor deities
- Kephalos (see Cephalus)
Kepheus (see Cepheus)
Kephisos (see Cephisus)
Ker<sup>1</sup> Greek
a goddess of death
daughter of Erebus and Nyx
sister of Hypnos, Moros and Thanatos
Her function was to drag the dead and dying to the entrance to the underworld. She is depicted as wearing a long cloak stained with blood.
(see also keres<sup>1-2</sup>)
- Ker<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian
a name for Q're
- ker<sup>3</sup> (see keres)
Ker-Is (see Ys)
Ker-Ys (see Ys)
Kerala (see Issaki)
Kerastes (see Cerastes<sup>3</sup>)
Keraunia Greek
a name for Semele reflecting her death from the lightning of Zeus
- Keraunos Greek
a thunder-god
a name of Zeus as 'lightning'
- Kerberos (see Cerberus.Naberius)
kere Mongolian
[=Chinese ch'i-lin:=Japanese kirin:
=Tibetan serou]
the unicorn
- Kerema Apo East Indian
the first man, in Papuan lore
He was hatched from the egg of a huge turtle and mated with Ivi Apo, the first woman, who was born from another egg.
- keremat Pacific Islands
the power of miracle-working of saints
- keremet<sup>1</sup> Baltic
in Finnish lore, the place where a hero was killed Bonfires are made on this spot in tribute to the hero who, it is said, will continue to serve his country.

keremet<sup>2</sup> Russian
sacred groves
These places are said to be the home of dead heroes.

Keremet<sup>3</sup> Russian
a devil
brother of god

Kere Nyaga (see Mount Kenya)

Kereberus (see Cerberus.Naberijs)

keres<sup>1</sup> Greek [sing=ker]

female underworld spirits: winged creatures controlling destiny: souls of the dead

These beings are said to cause disease among the living and to carry off the bodies of the dead. Some say that they escaped from Pandora's box.

They are envisaged as tiny human figures rather like gnats.

Keres<sup>2</sup> Greek
violent death personified

(see also Ker<sup>1</sup>)

Keresaspa Persian

[Garshasp.Krsaspa]
a semi-divine hero
son of Thrita Athwiya brother of Urvakhshaya husband of Khnathati

He was the son of one of the first four men to press the divine drink, Haoma, from the fruit of the Gaokerena tree.

He fought the monster Ganda-rewa for nine days and nights and killed the monsters Arazoshamana, Hitaspa, Kamak, Kaput, Pitaona, Srvara and Vareshava.

He was once captured and seduced by the sorceress Khnathati but he managed to escape. He later married her.

He is destined to kill Angra Mainya and the demon Dahak in the final battle when good triumphs over evil.

(see also Nariman.Thraetona)

Keresavazdah Persian
a demon of drought

brother of Afrasiyab
He falsely accused Siyawush who was killed by Afrasiyab.

Keret Canaanite
king of Sidon
son of El consort of Hurriya

father of Ellil and Yasib
He fought and defeated the moon-god, Etrah, who tried to take his kingdom.

After Hurriya, his first wife, died (or, some say, after the death of his first seven wives) he was still childless so he went to war with a neighbouring king and took his daughter, or wife in some accounts, by whom he had seven sons, one of whom, Yasib, suckled by Anat, wanted his father's throne and led an unsuccessful rebellion when his father fell ill. Keret was cured by Sha'taqat, sent by El.

Kereth Egyptian
a snake-god

Kere'tkun Siberian [Peruten]
the supreme sea-spirit
husband of Cinei'nen

He is said to devour the bodies of the drowned.

Kerh (see Qeh)

Kerhit (see Qerhit)

Keri South American

a culture-hero of the Bakairi Indians
the sun personified
son of Oka
brother of Kame

The mother of Keri and Kame conceived them by swallowing two bones. Her mother-in-law killed her but the two children were saved. The brothers pushed the sky up to allow room for men to live and invented fire and water. They also produced all the animals of the earth from a hollow tree and set the sun and moon on their present courses through the sky.

Keridwen (see Ceridwen)

Keridwin (see Ceridwen)

kerimas Tibetan [keyuri]

a group of 8 Buddhist goddesses
These beings form part of the Bardo group of goddesses. Each one is a different part of the human body.

Kerkio (see Cercios)

Kerkopes (see Cercopes)

Kerkuon (see Cercyon)

Kerlaug Norse
[Kerlaung.Kerlogar]

a meeting-place of the gods near Urda's well

In some accounts, two rivers of the dead. (see Kormt)

Kerlaung (see Kerlaug)

Kerlogar (see Kerlaug)

Kernababy (see Cornbaby)

kernos Greek
a jar or drinking-vessel used in the Eleusinian rites

Keros South American [Kenos]

the first man, in the lore of the Ona tribe of Tierra del Fuego

Keros produced more people by forming sexual organs from peat which united to make the ancestors of the tribe.

Kerres Italian
[=Roman Ceres]

an early mother-goddess

kerrighed French
devilish spirits in France (see also Coranieid.Corrigan)

kerub (see cherub)

keruk North American

a ceremony of the Yuma tribe, designed to make the dead happy and send them on their way

Kerwan North American
a Pueblo maize-spirit
(see also Kachina Mana)

kerykeion Greek

[=Roman caduceus]

the wand of Hermes (see caduceus)

Keryneian Hind
(see Ceryneian Hind)

Kesa<sup>1</sup> Hindu

['lord of the waters']
a name of Varuna in his role as a sea-god

Kesa<sup>2</sup> Japanese

a faithful wife

Under duress she agreed to help Endo Morito kill her husband so that she could become his wife. She gave him access to her husband's room and he cut off the head of the sleeping figure which turned out to be Kesa wearing her husband's night-shirt.

Kesair (see Cessair)

kesakten East Indian

[=Indian shakti]
in Java, the vital principle permeating the universe

Kesar (see Gesar)

Kesar Saga (see Gesar Saga)

Kesava Hindu

a name for Vishnu, in the form of a boar, as 'hairy'

Keshi (see Keshin)

Keshin<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Keshi.Kesin]
a Vedic ascetic and mystic

Keshin<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Keshi.Kesin]
a horse-demon

He once tried to rape the maiden Devasena but Indra arrived in time to save her and, when the god threatened Keshin with his thunderbolt, the demon fled.

Kamsa posted this demon to kill Krishna but the god killed both the demon and Kamsa.

Keshini<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Kesini]
an attendant on the goddess Arapancana

Keshini<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[Kesini]
a maid-servant of Damayanti

Keshvar Persian
one of the 6 sections into which the outer part of the world is divided

Kesil Semitic
a giant: the constellation Orion
He tried to reach the heavens but god tied him up and put him in the sky as Orion. When he disappears below the horizon, he is said to be spending part of the year in She'ol.

In some accounts, he is equated with Gibbor or Nimrod.

Kesin (see Keshin)

Kesini (see Keshini)

Kesna<sup>1</sup> East Indian
[=Hindu Krishna]
the Javanese form of Krishna

Kesna<sup>2</sup> Malay
[=Hindu Krishna]
the Malay form of Krishna

Ket (see Cet)

Ketanto'wit North American ['great power']
a creator-god of the Delaware Indians

Ketchkatch North American
in the lore of the tribes of the north-west, the grey fox created by Kumush

Ketchimanetowa North American [Great Spirit.Keckamanetowa]
the creator-god of the Fox tribe
(see also Great Spirit)

Ketil (see Ketill)

Ketill<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Ketil]
a legendary hero

He was with the Njalssons when they were attacked by a force led by Frosi and died with the rest of Njal's family when the attackers burnt the house down.

Ketill<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Ketil]
a would-be assassin

He was hired by Helgi to kill the merchant Thorleif but the two became good friends.

Ketill<sup>3</sup> Norse
[Ketil]
a farmer

He went through a form of marriage with his niece, Ketilrid, to protect her until Viglund, the man she loved, returned from overseas.

Ketilrid Norse
daughter of Holmekell and Thorbjorg
She fell in love with Viglund but her parents wanted her to marry the rich

Hakon. When Hakon, aided by Ketilrid's two brothers, ambushed and wounded both Viglund and his brother Trausti, who then left the country, Ketilrid went through a form of marriage with her uncle, Ketil, to protect her until Viglund returned and married her.

Keto (see Ceto)

Ketqskwaye North American
a creator-goddess of the Huron

Ketse-awa Russian
a tutelary spirit, guardian of the sun

Ketsi Niusak North American goodness personified, in the lore of the Abnaki

Kettu (see Kittu)

Ketu Hindu
[=Chinese Chi-tu]
the lunar node known as the Dragon's Tail, the part of Rahu which the amrita did not reach (see also Rahu)

Ketua African
a god of fortune in Zaire

Ketumala Hindu
one of the 4 island-continent mentioned in the Mahabharata
(see also Dvipa)

Keu (see Kay)

Keu Woo Chinese
in Hainan, a deity controlling typhoons

Keux (see Ceyx)

Keva (see Cebha)

Kevalin Jain
a sage

Kevin (see Caoimhghin)

Kewanambo East Indian
a man-eating ogre of Papua
This demon often appears in the guise of a kindly woman who lures children from their homes.

Kewawkqu' North American [Kekuawkqu']
a tribe of giant magicians

These demon followers of Malsum were defeated by Gluskap.

Keyeme South American
lord of the animals in the lore of the Taulipang people

He is envisaged as a man who can change into a snake.

Keyuri (see Kerimas)

Kezer-Tshingis-Kaira-Khan Russian
a hero of the flood

He is said to have taught men how to prepare strong drink.

Khadaga (see Khadga)

Khadau Siberian
with Mamaldi, the first pair of beings

Khadga Hindu
[Khadaga]

a sword, one of the weapons of Durga

Khadir Arab

[Al-Khidr.El Khadir.(El) Hidr.
Hadir.Khidu.(El) K(h)idir.Khizr.(El)
Kidr.Kilir.Matun.Nabi.Nabu.The Green Man.The Green One]
an early vegetation-god and sea-god
The original Khadir was born in Persia in 1077 and died in 1166.

He was a prophet who became immortal after drinking from the Well of Life, the only mortal allowed to do so. He accompanied Alexander the Great into a cave in search of the well. He used a jewel to guide them but they became separated and Khadir stumbled in the darkness and fell into the well. As a result of drinking from the well, he turned a bluish-green colour. He managed to find his way out of the cave and is said to be still alive, wandering the face of the earth, returning once every 500 years to the same place.

It is said that he can speak every language. When he was captured, his chains turned to dust. On another occasion, King Abud ordered his men to kill the prophet but their swords turned against the soldiers and killed them.

When the king, Jantam, gave his daughter to Alexander as a wife, Khadir used his magic to fill the king's storehouse with treasure.

In another version, Khadir was cook to Alexander the Great on his expedition into the desert. As he washed a dried fish in a pool, prior to cooking it for his master's supper, the fish came to life and swam away. Khadir drank some of the water and, as in other versions, turned green and became immortal. Alexander wanted to achieve immortality himself but the pool could no longer be found and he would have killed the cook had he not been invulnerable. He finally threw the unfortunate Khadir, weighted with stones, into the sea, whereupon Khadir turned into a sea-god, still immortal.

One story tells how a king had been duped by a dervish but the king pardoned him on the advice of Khadir.

His judgment was demonstrated when, having smashed a boat, killed a youth and rebuilt a wall, he explained that the boat was destined to be captured by pirates, the youth to become an evil man and the wall contained much treasure that would now go to two orphans and not to the greedy tenant.

Khadir is depicted as a young man but nevertheless with white hair and beard.

Khadriyani-Tara Buddhist

a goddess

Khagarbha (see Akasagarbha)

khaib (see khaibit)

khaibit Egyptian

[khaib.khaybet]

a personal 'shadow', part of the individual's make-up

It was said that this shadow could leave the body and exist on its own.

Khakaba African

a name of Wele as 'the sharer'

Khakadi Egyptian

the red-coloured beer that Ra used to flood the earth when

Sakhmet was killing the people

Khalbin Mongolian

one of the 11 sons of Khori Tumed and a swan-maiden

Khaldi Mesopotamian

[=Persian Bag-Mashtu]

a supreme god of the pre-Armenian

Uartians

He is regarded as the precursor of the Chaldaean.

Khaldis Mesopotamian

an Assyrian god

Khaleel Arab

[Sheik Khaleel]

a man who owned a cat which could talk in Arabic

kham Arab

[kam]

a charm in the form of a hand

Kham Daeng Thai

[Golden Prince]

a king

On a hunting trip, he was lured into a wonderful palace inside a mountain, by a hind that turned into In Lao, a beautiful maiden. He stayed with her and was never seen again.

Khambaba Persian

an ancient sun-god, in some accounts

Khambageu African

a culture-hero of the Sonjo people of Tanzania

He came among the Sonjo working miracles, moving from village to village until he died. He was buried but the grave was later found to be empty. Some say that he had risen from the dead and flown up to heaven.

khamsa Arab

a mystic number; the number 5

This number is so powerful that it is never used in speech.

Khamseh Persian

a 12th c book of legends

Khan-iki Siberian

an earth-watching deity

son of Overgod

Khandas Cambodian

[=Hindu Gandharvas]

the white tevodas

Khandava Hindu

[Khandavaprastha]

the country given to the Pandavas

by Dhartarashtra

Khandavaprastha (see Kandava)

Khandoba Hindu

an aspect of Shiva

consort of Mhalsa

Khantaka (see Kanthaka)

Khar (see Khara)

Khara Persian

[Khar]

a huge ass

This beast, described as having only three legs but six eyes (two are on top of its head and two in its hump) stands in the sea called Vourukasha and is said to be able to overcome all forms of evil.

In some accounts, Khara is described as a primaeval fish.

Kharasvara Jain

gods of the underworld

These beings torture the wicked dead by forcing their bodies into thorn-bushes.

Khariteis (see Graces)

Kharmaheruka (see Amoghasiddhi)

Charon (see Charon)

Kharubdis (see Carybdis)

Khasa Hindu

a goddess of forest spirits

daughter of Daksha

a consort of Kasyapa

Khasarpana Buddhist

a form of Hayagriva as an assistant to Avalokiteshvara

an aspect of Avalokiteshvara, some say

He is depicted as white and sitting on the moon.

Khasm Persian

[Khism]

a later name for Aeshma

Khat Egyptian

the physical body, as distinct from

Sahu the spiritual body, one of the 5 elements comprising the complete

being

Khatib Malay

a man who discovered the

Bamboo Princess

He went into the jungle to look for the Bamboo Princess. While he slept, she cooked a meal for him and then disappeared. He then cut open the bamboo under which he had been sleeping and the princess emerged. They both went to Bukit Peraja and disappeared and, although still alive, are never seen. They will, however, help anybody who invokes their aid.

khatvanga Buddhist

a word used in rituals incorporating the vajra, a skull, etc.

khaybet (see khaibit)

Khebe (see Khipa)

Khebieso (see Xewioso)

khecaratva Hindu

levitation: astral travel: the sensation

of leaving the physical body

Kheiron (see Chiron)

Khen-Ma Tibetan

[Khon-Ma]

a Buddhist goddess controlling earthly demons

She is depicted with eight wrinkles in her face and riding a ram.

Khen-Pa Tibetan

a Buddhist god controlling heavenly demons

He is depicted with white hair and riding a white dog.

Khenemu (see Khnum)

Khens (see Khons)

Khensit Egyptian

a goddess of the Lower Kingdom

She is depicted in the form of the uraeus.

Khensu (see Khons)

Khentamenti (see Khenti Amentiu)

Khenti Amentiu Egyptian

[Chenti Amentiu.Chontamenti.

Chonti-amentiu.First of the Westerners.

Khentamenti.Khenty-imentiu.

King of the Dead.Wepwawet]

a funerary god, god of the underworld

This jackal-headed deity was later assimilated with Osiris who ruled the underworld under that name.

Other versions give Khenty-imentiu as a name for Anubis and later for Osiris.

Khenti-cheti Egyptian

[Chenti-cheti:=Greek Chentechtoi]

a god

Originally envisaged as a crocodile, he developed into a falcon-god and merged with Osiris.

Khenti-irti Egyptian

[Chenti-irti.Machenti-irti]

a falcon-god

an aspect of Horus

He was responsible for law and order and was depicted as blind.

Khenty-imentiu

(see Khenti Amentiu)

Khenty-seh-netjer (see Anubis)Khepera (see Khepra)Kheperi (see Khepra)Khepra Egyptian

[Chepre.Chepera.Khepera.Khep(e)ri.

Kheprer.Khepry.Khopri]

a scarab-headed sun-god

a manifestation of Ra as the morning sun

He was regarded as a self-created creator-god, rising out of Nun, who, merely by saying his name, created a solid place on which he could stand, and created Shu and Tefnut. He was later assimilated with Ra, the sun-god. In some accounts, he was the son of Nut who swallowed her son each evening only for him to be born again each morning.

In another version, one of his eyes wandered across the sky each day as the sun and was brought back to him by Shu and Tefnut.

In the form of a scarab, he fought the demons of the abyss from which he had emerged.

He was said to have created the world by rolling his own spittle into a ball.

(see also Menthu<sup>2</sup>)Kheprer (see Khepra)Khepri (see Khepra)Khepry (see Khepra)Kherebu Mesopotamian

Assyrian spirits

Kherneter (see Field of Reeds)Kherty Egyptian

[Cherti]

a ram-god protecting the tombs

of kings

In some accounts he was the ferryman of the dead.

Khery-bakef Egyptian

a name of Ptah as 'he who sits under a tree'

Kheti (see Akhthoes)Khetrapal Indian

a guardian deity in Bengal

Khi-dimme-azaga Mesopotamian

a Babylonian mother-goddess

daughter of Ea

In some accounts, she is thought of as Belet-Seri.

Khidi Arab

[El Khidi.The Great One]

a benevolent water-spirit

Khidir (see Khadir)Khidu (see Khadir)Khimaira (see Chimaera)Khin-ort Siberian

an Ostiak demon of sickness

He is said to be the pilot of the boat of the dead.

Khione (see Chione)Khipa Mesopotamian

[Khebe]

a tutelary god of the Hurrians

Khism (see Khasm)khitaka Hindu

a club, one of the weapons of Durga

(see also gada)

(see Khadir)

Khizr (see Tlehanoi)Khlenonoai (see Tlehanoi)Khmathati Persian

a sorceress

She once captured and seduced the hero Keresaspa but he escaped.

khmoc pray Cambodian

an evil spirit

This particular form of pray is the spirit of a woman who died in childbirth. They are said to live in trees and throw stones at passers-by, sometimes killing them. Even worse are the spirits of those women who died during pregnancy; they are accompanied by the spirit of the unborn foetus. (see also kon pray)

Khnemu (see Khnum)Khnoum (see Khnum)Khnoumis (see Khnum)Khnum<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[Ba.Chnoumis.Chnemu.Divine Potter.

Doudoon.E(e)f. Kh(e)nemu.

Khnoum(is).Khnumu.Knepf.

Knum.Lord of the Afterworld:

=Nubian Dodonu]

a ram-headed creator-god, god of the cataracts

one of the 3 Lords of Destiny

consort of Anuket and Sati consort of Heket, Neith and Menhyt,

some say

He is said to have made gods and humans from mud from the Nile or from clay on a potter's wheel and was guardian of the grotto where Hapi lived on the island of Bigeh.

In some accounts, he was later merged with Min.

He is sometimes depicted as ram-headed or as a serpent.

(see also Knef)

Khnum<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

7, 8 or 9 earth-gnomes, assistants of the creator-god, Khnum

It was said that they could reconstruct the rotting bodies of the dead.

Khnumu (see Khnum<sup>1</sup>)Kho (see Kaang)Kho Thora (see Kaang)Khobilkhan (see Hutukhtu)Khoda Persian

a supreme deity

Khodumodumo (see Kholumulumo)Kholumulumo African

[Kammapa.Khodumodumo]

a monster of the Sotho tribe

He ate all humans except one woman whose son, Moshanyana, killed the monster when it got jammed in a narrow pass, slit open its belly and released the imprisoned people.

Khons Egyptian

[Chons.Chunsu.Khens(u).Khonsu.Khuns.

Lord of Air.Lord of All.Lord of Time.

The Traveller:=Greek Heracles]

a moon-god, wind-god, war-god and god of healing

son of Amon and Mut or of Sebek

and Hathor

He was Thoth as 'Lord of Time' and Shu as 'Lord of All'.

In some accounts, he grew out of the leg of Osiris after he had been cut to pieces by Set.

As Khensu-Hor or Khensu-Ra he was a sun-god.

He is sometimes depicted as a child, as falcon-headed, or as a dog-headed baboon and may be shown standing on a crocodile. (see also Ah)

Khonsu (see Khons)Khonsu-Hor Egyptian

[Khonsu-Ra]

the god Khons as spring rain

personified

Khonsu-Ra (see Khonsu-Hor)Khonvum African

the supreme god of the Pygmies

He made the first pygmies in the sky and lowered them down to earth on ropes.

Khopri (see Khepra)Khori Tumed Siberian

a man who married a swan-maiden

father of Galzuut, Khalbin,

Khovduud, etc.

Like Volund, he seized the wings of a swan-maiden who came, with eight others, to bathe in a lake, and made her his wife by whom he had eleven sons. She later recovered her wings and flew away.

Khors Slav

god of good health and hunting

He is depicted as a stallion.

Khoser-et-Hasis Phoenician

[Bn-Ym]

a sea-god

He fought Baal with the aid of Leviathan, Suffete and Zabel.

- Khosodam Siberian
a cannibalistic female ruler of the dead
- She was said to have created mosquitoes.
- Khosrou (see Kay Khusraw)
- Khotun (see Ajysyt)
- Khovduud Mongolian
one of the 11 sons of Khori Tumed and a swan-maiden
- Khurseis (see Chryseis)
- Khrusippos (see Chrysippus)
- Khrut Thai
[Galon.Gallus.Garuda]
the Thai version of Garuda
- Khshathra Vairya (see Kshathra Varya)
- khu<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the immortal essence of the individual, one of the 5 elements comprising the complete being
- This entity is sometimes depicted as a bird with a crest.
- Khu<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
a god of light
- Khubilgan Siberian
[=Golde Bucu]
in the lore of the Buriats, the soul
- This being, in the form of an animal or a bird, acts as the protector of a shaman.
- Khubur Mesopotamian
[=Greek Styx]
the river of death in Aralu, the Babylonian underworld
- This river was crossed by a ferry operated by Arad-Ea who carried souls across to the underworld.
- Khudjana African
a creator-god in the Transvaal
son of Ribimbi
- He is said to have created the earth.
- Khuhi (see Hu<sup>6</sup>)
- Khuluppu Mesopotamian
the Babylonian world-tree
- This tree on the banks of the Euphrates was the site of Ishtar's lovemaking sessions. The timber of the tree was said to have medicinal properties.
- Khumbala Mesopotamian
a tyrant killed by Gisdhubar
- Khumbanda Hindu
[=Cambodian Kampean]
one of a group of 8 demons led by Virudhaka
- Khumbu'i Yulha Tibetan [Home God of the Khumbu] patron deity of the sherpas
- This deity lives on the Himalayan peak Khumbila.
- Khun Hsang L'rong Burmese
husband of Nang-pyek-kha Yeh-khi
- He was the only man able to split the
- two gourds given to Nana by her parents. When he did so, all the animals of the world emerged.
- Khun Kan Thai
one of the Three Great Men
- Khun Ket Thai
one of the Three Great Men
- khuna Thai
paradise
- Khuno South American
a Bolivian god of snow-storms
- Khuns (see Khons)
- Khuran-Nojon Siberian
a Buriat rain-deity
- He stores rain in barrels each of which, when opened, causes rain to fall for three days.
- Khurdad (see Haurvatat)
- Khurdhid Persian
[=Greek Helios]
an ancient sun-god, forerunner of Hvarekshaeta
- Khuri Edzhin Siberian
a Buriat spirit who teaches men the art of music
- Khurs (see Chors)
- Khushwame (see Khuzwame)
- Khuzwane African [Khuswane]
a creator-god of the Luvedu tribe
- Khvarenah<sup>1</sup> Persian [Farro]
a god of divine grace
- khvarenah<sup>2</sup> Persian
[Farro]
a divine substance
- This substance confers power on kings and the souls of the dead, creates gods, gives the stars and planets their power to influence human affairs and endows men with the strength to fight evil. Originally vested in Yima, it passed, when he spoke false words, to Mithra, then to Thraetona and finally to Keresaspa, ending up in the ocean.
- It is variously said to be found in the ocean, reeds or space.
- khwan Thai
[=Indonesian badi]
the soul which, it is said, can leave the body and return (see also windjan)
- Khyati Hindu
mother of Lakshmi by Brighu, some say
- Khyung Tibetan
[=Hindu Garuda]
winged deities of the Bon
- Khyung-Gai mGo-Can Tibetan
[=Hindu Garuda]
a local Buddhist god, leader of the Khyung
- ki<sup>1</sup> Japanese [=Chinese ch'i]
spirit: spiritual energy
- Ki<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian [=Babylonian Antu]
a Sumerian earth-goddess daughter of Nammu wife of An
mother of Enlil and Enki
- Some say that she was the daughter of Ansar and Kisar, others that she was generated by Nammu.
- Originally, An and Ki were joined together but Enlil separated them and mated with Ki to produce all living things on earth. (see also Ninmah)
- ki-apod South American celestial spirits of the Tupari
people of Brazil
- ki-apoga-pod South American
a soul, in the lore of the Tupari
people of Brazil
- Some say that, after the pabid leaves, the body is buried. Its heart then starts to get bigger and eventually bursts open to reveal a new being, the ki-apoga-pod. A shaman pulls this new being, made of clay, out of the ground, shapes it into human form and, after giving it food and drink, releases it into the upper air where it lives.
(see also pabid)
- Ki-gulla Mesopotamian
[Destroyer of the World]
son of Ea
- ki-mon Japanese garden shrines said to protect the home
- ki-mu Chinese a bag said to contain the essence of life
- Ki-no-o-baké Japanese
a tree-spirit
- This spirit was said to be able to leave the tree it inhabits and assume a number of different guises.
- ki-pi Chinese a diviner's wand made of red-lacquered peachwood
- ki-rin (see kirin)
- Ki Sin Chinese
a god of Chekiang
- He was originally a 2nd C. BC general who took the place of the emperor during a siege, so allowing his master to escape at the cost of his own life.
- Kiaklo North American
in Zuni lore, a hero of the Askiwi who visited Pautiwal in the underworld
- Kian (see Cian)

- Kianda African
a sea-god of the Kimbundu of Angola. He proposed, in the form of a skull, to a girl who rejected him. Her sister accepted him and they went to his palace where he revealed himself as a god.
- Kiara (see Mbomba<sup>1</sup>)
- kiavari East Indian
spirits of the dead, in Javanese lore
- kibaba African
a Swahili charm used against thieves
- kibla (see keblah)
- Kibu Pacific Islands
the Melanesian land of the dead. This land is envisaged as an island in the west. When the soul (mari) reaches Kibu it is turned into a proper ghost of the dead when it is struck on the head with a stone club. It is then a markai and can learn about life in Kibu.
- Kibuka African [Kibuki Kyobe]
a war-god and storm-god of the Baganda son of Manema Mairwa and Nagadya or Nambubu brother of Mukasa
He helped the tribe in the form of a cloud from which missiles rained down on their enemies in battle.
He lost his immortality by sleeping with a mortal woman and was killed in the next battle.
- Kibuki Kyobe (see Kibuka)
- Kibunwasi African
a trickster-deity in Zanzibar
- Kibwebanduka African
a tribal-hero in Tanzania
He led his people to their present homeland.
- Kichaka Hindu
a general
He tried to seduce Draupadi when she was serving as a maid at court and was beaten to death by Bhima.
- Kichigonai South American
a spirit of light, maker of the day, in Guatemala
- Kichijoten Japanese
the goddess of fortune
- Kici Manitou North American [Kici Manitu]
the supreme god of the Algonquin Indians
He created the world from mud collected by birds and dried in his sacred pipe. His staff forms the central support for the world.
- Kici Manitu (see Kici Manitou)
- Kicva (see Cigfa)
- kicklesnifter North American
a fabulous animal
- Kida (see Kaidu)
- Kidilli Australian
[Kulu]
a moon-man of the Aborigines
When he tried to rape the first woman he was killed by Kurukadi and Mumba, the lizard-men of the Dreamtime.
- Kidir (see Khadir)
- Kidul East Indian
[Belorong.(Nyai) Belorong.
(Nyai) Gedé Segoro.(Nyai) Lara.
Kidul.Ratu Kidul.Ratu Lara Kidul.
Ratu Loro]
a sea-goddess, goddess of storms
She met Senapati when he was swimming and took him to her underwater palace where he became her lover. He later returned to his home and became king of Java.
- Kidr (see Khadir)
- Kiehtan North American
a beneficent god in the lore of the New England tribes
- Kieran (see Ciaran)
- Kiet African
in the lore of the Nandi, the world order created by Asis
- Kigare African
a cattle-god of the Banyoro
- Kigva (see Cigfa)
- Kigwa African
an ancestral hero of Rwanda
The wife of Nkuba had no children so she killed a cow and took its heart which she tended for nine months to produce the boy, Kigwa. He descended to earth and his son, Gihanga, became the first king.
(see also Nkuba)
- Kihanga African
the first man in the lore of the Burundi father of Kanyarundi, Katwa and Kinyarwanda
He was made by Imana and descended to earth on a rope. He was black and white like a zebra.
- Kiho Tumu (see Te Tumu)
- Kihunai North American
the people who preceded the Hupa tribe
These people are believed to exist all round the Hupa, even above them.
- Ki'i Pacific Islands
the Hawaiian name for Tiki
- Kiir African
a Nuer god, guardian of the Nile
- Kijo Japanese
an ogre of the woods
- Kika (see Na Kika)
- Kika-saru (see Kikazaru)
- Kikanga (see Chikanga)
- Kikazaru Japanese [Kika-saru]
one of the Three Mystic Apes
He is depicted with his hands covering his ears as 'he who hears no evil'.
- Kikimora (see Domovikha)
- Kikore African
daughter of Ruhaga
She was the daughter of the king's concubine and was sent as a bride to King Intare who had asked for the hand of her half-sister, Jaru. Intare, in disguise, entered Ruhaga's court and eloped with Jaru.
- Kiku Japanese
a farmer's daughter
wife of Sawara Kimi, the girl whom Sawara loved, ran away and Sawara, despairing of ever seeing her again, married Kiku. He later found Kimi who killed herself and he then sent Kiku back to her own family.
- Kiku-jido Japanese [Chrysanthemum Boy]
an immortal youth said to live in the fountain of youth
- Kikuo Japanese
a servant of Tsugaru
He and his master escaped when enemies seized Tsugaru's land and castle and, when Tsugaru died, Kikuo planted hosts of chrysanthemums round his grave. When Kikuo himself fell ill, the spirits of the chrysanthemums appeared, in the form of children, to tend him as he had tended them but he was fated to die within thirty days. The chrysanthemums he had planted disappeared and when others were planted round his own grave they died.
- Kikuyu (see Gikuyu)
- Kilattas Mesopotamian
a Hurrian deity attendant on Shaushkas
- Kilcoed (see Cil Coed)
- kilcrop
the child of a woman and an incubus
These children are said to have a voracious appetite but rarely live longer than seven years.
- Kildisin Baltic
wife of the Finnish sky-god, Ilmarinen (see also Kildisin-mummy)
- Kildisin-mummy Russian [Kugo-shotshen-Ava] a birth-goddess

mother or wife of the Votyak sky-god, Inmar (see also Kildisin)

Kilembe African [Tree of Life]
a magical tree
This tree arrived on earth carried by the hero Sudika-mbambi when he was born.

Kilhwch (see Culhwch)
Kilhwych (see Culhwch)
kili Norse
one of the dwarfs

kiliakai (see kilyakai)
Kilibob East Indian
a local god in New Guinea

Kilili Mesopotamian
an aspect of Ishtar as 'harlot'

Kilima African
a type of spirit which takes possession of humans, causing illness (see also Kinyamkera)

Kilioa Pacific Islands
a lizard-woman, in Polynesian lore
She and Kalamainu act as guardians of the souls of the dead.

Kilir (see Khadir)
Killaraus (see Hill of Aisneach)
Killer-of-Enemies North American a culture-hero or minor deity of the Apache and Navaho son of Changing Woman brother of Child-of-the-Water and Wise One
He and his brothers killed monsters and all the enemies of mankind.
He is credited with the creation of the horse in which he used the wing of a bat to form the diaphragm.

Kilot Pacific Islands
the underworld, in some parts of the Philippines
This place is regarded as the home of the left-hand kalalao (soul); the right-hand one goes to a heaven in the sky.

kilu Pacific Islands
a Hawaiian song-festival and recital of legends

Kilwydd (see Cilydd)
Kilya South American
an Inca moon-goddess

kilyakai East Indian [kiliakai] malevolent forest spirits of New Guinea
These spirits are said to shoot arrows which cause malaria.

Kilydd (see Cilydd)
Kima Japanese
the first maiden to be abducted by the spirit of Yenoki

Kimat Pacific Islands
a dog of lightning in the Philippines, owned by Tadaklan

Kimata-no-kami Japanese [Tree-trunk god]
son of Okuni-Nushi and Ya-gami-hime
When this child was born, Ya-gami-hime left it in a tree outside the palace where Okuni-Nushi now lived with Suseri-hime. The child was found by the palace servants and Suseri-hime reared him as her own.

kimbanda African
a sorcerer in Angola

Kimbay Irish
[Cambaeth.Cimbaeth.Ci(o)mbaeth. Combaeth.Cumbaeth]
a prince of Ulster
brother of Aedh and Dithorba
On the death of his brother, Aedh, he was due to share the throne of Ulster with his other brother, Dithorba, but he was killed by Aedh's daughter, Macha, who forcibly wed Kimbay and took the throne.
In some accounts, Macha is the sister of Dithorba and Kimbay, rather than their niece.

Kimbeline (see Cunobelinus) Kimbugwe African
a guardian of the afterbirth of a king, among the Buganda

Kimbuji African [Kimiji]
in the lore of Angola, a huge fish or crocodile
This underworld inhabitant swallowed Sudika-mbambi but was killed by his brother Kabundungulu.

Kimera African
an ancestral king of the Baganda grandson of Kintu
He was killed by his own grandson, Tembo, who had been led to believe that Kimera had killed his own son, Tembo's father.

Kimi Japanese
daughter of Tenko
She fell in love with Sawara, a pupil of her father, but he left to further his education under the painter Myokei. When Kimi heard that Sawara was to marry Myokei's daughter, she ran away. Sawara could not find her when he returned to her father's home so he married Kiku. When Kimi later met Sawara and learned of his marriage to Kiku, she stabbed herself to death and the painting that Sawara made of her body came alive to reproach him.

Kimidinin Hindu
hostile goblins travelling in pairs

Kimiji (see Kimbuji)
Kimitaka Japanese
daughter of the emperor Ichijo
She was captured by the demon Shutendoji but her father sent the warrior Raiko to kill the demon and she was rescued.

Kimmerians (see Cimmerians)
Kimmeroi (see Cimmerians)
kimpasi African
a ritual of the Bakongo
This ritual is performed when many deaths have occurred in a village. Young members of each family are housed in a specially-built enclosure and then taken to a burial-ground where they are beaten to death with twigs. In reality, they are merely frightened out of their wits and, when they recover, they are sent back to their families.

Kimpen-jigoku Japanese
subsidiary hells at the cardinal points of the 8 major hells of Jigoku, each divided into 4 parts (see also Kodoku-jigoku)

Kimpurusha Hindu
a spirit serving Kubera
These beings are said to have the body of a horse with a human head.
(see also Kinnava)

Kin Tambuhan (see Ken Tamboehan)
kina South American in Tierra del Fuego, a masked religious dance-ritual for men only Originally used by women, who were the superior sex, the sun discovered the secret from the moon and killed all the women except young girls and adopted the dance for men to ensure that they became superior to women.
(see also kloketan)

Kincaled British
the Welsh name for Gringolet

kinchaku Japanese
a bag containing a charm said to protect children from accident or being lost kinchiltun Central American in the Mayan time-scale, a period of some 3,200,000 years

Kindawuss North American
a Haida maiden
mother of Cunwhat and Soogaot
She ran off with her lover Quissankweedas when they were not allowed to marry but she was carried off by a bear while her lover was away. She bore two sons to the bear but was later found and returned to live with Quissankweedas.

- Kinderbrunnen German
wells in which, it is said, Frau Holle guards the souls of children (see also Kinderseen)
- Kinderseen German
lakes in which, it is said, Frau Holle guards the souls of children (see also Kinderbrunnen)
- Kindly Ones (see Eumenides.Furies)
- kindoki<sup>1</sup> African
the secret lore of the sorcerers
- Kindoki<sup>2</sup> African
an evil spirit of the Bakongo
- Kindred Gods North American [Related Ones]
4 gods of the Sioux
These deities are given as Buffalo, Four Winds, Two-legged and Whirlwind, all aspects of Wakan Tanka.
- Kine (see Ganis)
- Kina-kine-boro East Indian an ogre who used his long hair to lasso his victims
- Kinebahan (see Hunab)
- King Arthur<sup>1</sup> English
a 17th c opera by Dryden (music by Purcell) in which the king is in love with a blind girl, Emmeline
- King Arthur<sup>2</sup> English
a long poem by Edward Bulwer-Lytton
- King Arthur<sup>3</sup> (see Arthur)
- King Arthur and King Cornwall British
a 16th c poem about the king and the sorcerer
- King Asoka (see Ashoka)
- King Brown (see Lud)
- King Bruin (see Lud)
- King Cole (see Coel)
- King Cornwall British
a sorcerer appearing in a 16th c poem
- King Daniel (see Daniel<sup>2</sup>)
- King Fox British
the name Lancelot used for King Mark whom he distrusted
- King Goldemar (see Goldemar)
- King Herla (see Herla.Herlethimgi)
- King Hor Tibetan
a king who abducted Brug Ma
She was rescued from his clutches by Gesai whom she married.
- King Lir (see Lir)
- King Love British
a king who dismissed his wife
When his wife oppressed his people, he banished and gave jurisdiction to her sister who was later attacked by the banished woman. Bors came to her aid and defeated the attacking forces led by Priadan.
- King Mark (see Mark)
- King Mathias (see Kralj Matjaz)
- King Noble (see Nobel)
- King of Cows Chinese
an ugly ogre, protector of cattle
- King of Horses Chinese
an ugly ogre
This being is depicted with four hands and three eyes and is revered by horse-breeders.
- King of Lidskialf Norse
a title of Odin
- King of Men (see Agamemnon.Zeus)
- King of Military Pacification (see Wu-an wang)
- King of Saturnalia Roman [Abbot of Unreason]
a man impersonating the god Saturn
After five days in office, the incumbent was killed.
- King of Suffering Welsh
[King of Tortines]
His sons were killed each day by the Addanc of the lake and restored to life each evening when bathed by their wives.
- King of the City (see Melkarth)
- King of the Dead (see Khenti Amentiu)
- King of the Desert Land (see Claudas)
- King of the Golden Pillars (see Easal)
- King of the Isles British father of Biautei
- King of the Land (see Wurukatti)
- King of the Lions (see Shishi-wo)
- King of the May European
a mediaeval spirit of vegetation
In a festival in honour of this spirit, the main participant, dressed in bark and flowers, is chased by the others and, if caught, decapitated in a mock ceremony and carried on a bier to the next village where he is revived.
- King of the Tangled Wood (see Valerin)
- King of the Wood Roman [Priest of Nemi.Rex Nemorensis]
a priest of Diana in Aricia
The first of these was Virbius and the succession went to a runaway slave or gladiator who fought the incumbent with a branch of a tree in the surrounding grove.
- King of the World (see Daire Donn. Mandhatri.Sinsar)
- King of Tortines (see King of Suffering)
- King of Worms (see Gunther)
- King Pêcheur (see Fisher King)
- King Pelles (see Pelles)
- King Priam English
an opera by Michael Tippett based on the story of the Trojan king
- King Suddhodama (see Shuddhodhana)
- King Sweeney (see Suibhne Geilt)
- King with a Hundred Knights (see Aguyans)
- King Vollmar (see Goldemar)
- King Wonderful (see Isokalakal)
- Kingdom of the Faylinn Irish the land where the Faylinn lived, ruled by lubdan and Bebo
- Kingaludda Mesopotamian
a Sumerian deity, messenger of Enlil
- kingfisher Greek
the bird of Thetis
Some say that this bird's beak always indicates the direction of the wind and that its dead body can be used to divert thunderbolts.
It was originally grey in colour and acquired its brilliant colouring when it flew near the sun while surveying the waters after the flood.
- Kingly Castle (see Caer Feddwid)
- King's Castle (see Caer Feddwid)
- King's Cycle Irish
the corpus of literature dealing with the exploits of the many kings of Ireland and its provinces
- Kings of Hell (see Ten Yama Kings)
- Kings of the Island of the Torrent Irish leaders of the forces which, under Sinsar, sailed to Ireland to help Midac
All three of these kings were killed in the fighting that ensued at the ford when they tried to attack Finn mac Cool and his Fianna party trapped in the Quicken Trees Hostel.
- Kingsley, Charles British (1819–1875)
a writer
He was the author of The Heroes, tales of Greek mythology.
- Kingu Mesopotamian
[Kingugu.Qingu]
an Akkadian earth-god
son of Abzu and Tiamat
husband of Tiamat
He was the leader of the evil primal forces and the Eleven Mighty Helpers in the struggle with the gods and acted as holder of the Tablets of Destiny.
He was the son and second husband of Tiamat and was killed with her in the fight with Marduk. In some accounts, his blood was mixed with sand to make mankind. Some equate him with Tammuz.

Kingugu (see Kingu)

Kinh Duong Vuong Vietnamese

an ancestral hero
father of Lac Long Quan

He married the daughter of a water-dragon and they produced a son who taught the people the arts of agriculture etc.

Kinharingan (see Kinharingan)

Kinharingan East Indian

[Kinharigan]
a creator-god in Borneo
husband of Munsumundok

It is said that Kinharingan and his wife appeared out of a rock in the sea, walking on the water to the home of Bisagit who gave them some soil with which they made the earth. They then made the sky, the heavenly bodies and human beings.

Kinharingan killed his first son and cut his body into pieces which he planted in various places. From these pieces came all the plants and animals.

One version says that Bisagit gave them the soil on condition that he could have half of the people that Kinharingan made. He achieved this by spreading small-pox through the population at forty year intervals.

Kinich Ahau (see Ah Kin)

Kinich Kakmo Central American

a name for Ah Kin, the sun-god, in the form of a macaw

Kini'je Siberian

[Ki'njen]
the spirit which controls time

Ki'njen (see Kini'je)

Kinjikitire Ngwale (see Bokero)

Kinkara (see Konkara)

Kinma Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'leader of gods'

Kinnar Phoenician

[Kinnur]
a god of music

Kinnara<sup>1</sup> Hindu

one of a mythical race of horse-headed people, servants of Kubera

These beings acted as musicians at Kubera's court.

Some say that these beings sprang from Brahma's toe, others that they were the offspring of Kashyapa.

(see also Kimpurusha)

Kinnara<sup>2</sup> Japanese

a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Kinnara<sup>3</sup> Thai

a monster, half man, half bird

kinno South American

in the lore of the Tupari of Brazil, the people who failed to reach the upper world

Aroteh and Tovapod dug into the earth to find the people who had stolen their food and, in so doing, created an opening through which some humans, living under the earth, escaped to the upper world. The kinno were those that were trapped when the hole was sealed.

It is said that they will emerge to repopulate the earth when the present races have all died.

Kinnur (see Kinnar)

Kino Momoye Japanese

[Momoye]
the man who ridiculed Kobo Daishi
While he was asleep, he was assaulted by a wrestler who, when Momoye awoke, turned into a written character, the very one that Momoye had scoffed at when Kobo Daishi wrote it.

kinocetus

a stone said to have the power to repel demons

Kinship of the Three

(see Ts'an T'ung Ch'i)

Kintaro Japanese

[Golden Boy.(Sakata) Kintoki]
a hero

servant of Yorimitsu
son of Sakata Kurando and Yaégiri
He was born of a warrior and a mountain-spirit and, after his father had killed himself, was raised by his mother in the wilds where, as a youth, he made friends with the wild animals and developed enormous strength.

One day he was seen by a noble, Yorimitsu, in the act of pushing over a tree to form a bridge so that he could cross a river. Yorimitsu took him as his retainer, called him Sakata Kintoki and he grew up to be a warrior-hero.

Kintoki (see Kintaro)

Kintu African

a king-god of the Buganda
the first man
husband of Nambi

He went up to heaven to ask for a wife and was given Mambi, daughter of the supreme god, Gulu, but only after he had passed a number of tests. One was to eat enough food for a hundred people, another to fill a bottomless pot with dew. He also had to identify his own cow in three large herds. He passed all the tests and took Nambi back to earth. Her brother, Walumbe, the god of death, followed them.

Kinyamkera African

a type of evil spirit which takes possession of humans, causing illness
They are described as having one eye, one arm and one leg. (see also Kilima)

Kinyarwanda African

a child of the first man, Kihanga
brother of Kanyarundi and Katwa

Kinyoka African

a serpent in the underworld
This five-headed monster was killed by Sudika-mbambi when he went down to the underworld.

Kinyras (see Cinyras)

kiolu African

a very small animal generated by a sorcerer from his own soul
A sorcerer can cause this animal to enter the body of another person and kill him.

Kiore Ta New Zealand

a servant of Ngarara
She helped Ruru to escape the clutches
of her mistress when he landed on their island.

Kiore Ti New Zealand

a servant of Ngarara
She helped Ruru to escape the clutches
of her mistress when he landed on
their island.

Kiousa<sup>1</sup> North American

in the lore of the tribes of the south-eastern states, an idol guarding the dead

Kiousa<sup>2</sup> (see Oki)

Kipalende African

the 4 servants of Sudika-Mbamba

kipriano Armenian

a charm
This device, in the form of a roll of prayers and magic formulae, is said to protect the bearer from such things as the evil eye and snake-bite.

Kipu-Tytto Finnish

a goddess of sickness
daughter of Tuoni and Tuonetar
sister of Kivutar, Loviatar and Vammatar

She enticed mortals to the underworld
by singing.

Kirabira African

a war-god of the Baganda
son of Mukasa
brother of Nende and Mirimu

Kirata-n-te-rerei Pacific Islands

a founding ancestor of the Gilbertese son of Te-ariki-n-Tarawa and Nei Te-reere

He was said to be so handsome that he could produce children without a woman.

- Kiratas Hindu
a mythical race in the mountains
These people were said to live in water while others say they were huge, man-eating tigers. The female version appears as a seductive maiden.
- Kirati Hindu
a name for Durga and Kali
as 'mountain woman'
- Kirava Tibetan
a king
a Lamaist sorcerer
- Kiriél
[Ciriél]
a moon-demon
- kirimu African
a spirit or soul of the Nande
- kirin Japanese
[ki-rin.sin-you:=Chinese ch'i-lin:
=Mongolian kere:=Tibetan serou]
a single-horned animal, counterpart of the Chinese ch'i-lin: a unicorn
- Kirinh Mongolian
one of the burkhan
- kirka Hindu
a sign of the Zodiac, Cancer the crab
- Kirke (see Circe)
- Kirnababy (see Cornbaby)
- Kirom Irish
a chieftain fighting with the forces of Sinsar, King of the World
When Midac trapped Finn mac Cool and a party of the Fianna in the Quicken Trees Hostel, Kirom led the second wave of attackers against Fiachna who held the ford against them and killed all except one man.
- Kiron (see Chiron)
- Kirti Hindu
a goddess
the sakti of Kesava
- Kirtimukha (see Kirttimukha)
- Kirttimukha Hindu
[Banaspati.Kirtimukha]
a lion-headed monster
This being was created by Shiva to fight the demon Rahu which had been sent by Jalandhara to seize Shiva's wife, Sakti. When Rahu fled, the voracious monster ate its own body leaving only the face.
(see also Face of Glory.Kala<sup>2</sup>)
- Kis Egyptian
a god of Kusae
He is depicted in the form of a man strangling two long-necked creatures, perhaps giraffes.
- Kisani North American [Mirage People]
the inhabitants of the fourth world through which the Navaho passed on their way to the upper world
- Kisangan-Tengri Siberian
[=Altaic Kysan-Tengere]
a Mongol war god
- Kisar Mesopotamian
[Kishar.Kissare]
an early Sumerian goddess daughter of Lahmu and Lahamu consort of Ansar mother of Antu
mother of Anu and Ea, some say
- Kisboldogasszony (see Boldogasszony)
- Kisha Manido North American [Masha Manido]
the Menominee name for the creator-god, the Great Spirit
(see also Great Spirit)
- Kishar (see Kisar)
- kishi<sup>1</sup> African
a Kimbundu evil spirit
This being has a two-faced head, one human, one hyena.
- kishi<sup>2</sup> (see nkisi)
- Kishi Bojin Japanese
[Karitei-mo.Kishimo-jin.Kishimojin:
=Chinese Ho-li Ti:=Indian Hariti]
a Buddhist goddess, guardian of children
It is said that she was originally the demon-woman, Karitei-mo, who ate children. When she converted to Buddhism she became the protector of children and women in labour.
- Kishijoten Japanese
a Shinto goddess of fortune
sister of Bishamon
- Kishimo-jin (see Kishi Bojin)
- kisi (see nkisi)
- kisimbi African [Water Girl.Water Nymph:
plur=bisimbi]
a Bakongo spirit which causes illness
These beings cannot be seen because they are made of water.
- Kisin Central American
a Mayan earthquake spirit
- kisirani African in the lore of the Swahili, one who brings bad luck
- kiskanu Mesopotamian
a sacred tree in Sumerian myths
- Kisbil-lilla Mesopotamian
[=Babylonian Lilith]
a Sumerian female demon of the night
- Kiskilussa Mesopotamian
the site of the battle between Teshub and Illuyankas
- Kismaras Mesopotamian
a Hittite god
- kismet (see kismet)
- kismet Turkish [kismet:=Muslim quisma]
fate as decreed by god
- Kisra Arab
the Arab name for Kay Khusraw
- Kissare Mesopotamian
an alternative version of Kisar consort of Assoros
- Kisseus (see Cisseus)
- Kissos Greek
Dionysus as the god of ivy
- Kistna (see Krishna)
- Kitamba African [Kitambe] king of the Mbundu
husband of Muhongo
He placed a ban of total silence on his people when his wife died. They then dug a pit and sent a sorcerer down to the underworld to find his wife who gave him an armlet which made the king lift the ban.
- Kitambe (see Kitamba)
- Kitanitowit North American
[Great Spirit.Kittanitowit]
a creator god of the Algonquin Indians
a name for the Great Spirit
- Kitap Ngelmu East Indian
a Javanese book of magic
- Kitche Manitou (see Gitche Manitou)
- Kitchen God Chinese [Stove God]
a deity of the household
Each house has its own spirit which reports to heaven on the family each year.
(see also Chang Tao-ling.Tsao Chün)
- Kitimil Pacific Islands
in Pelew Island flood myths, one of the 2 survivors
The other survivor was Magigi.
- Kitkaositiyiqá North American
father of Yeti, some say
- Kitsawitsak North American
one of the 5 houses of the Pawnee animal-spirits known as the Nahurak
- Kitshi Manitou North American
the Chippewa name for the Great Spirit
(see also Gitche Manitou)
- Kitsuki Japanese
a shrine to Susanowa
It is said that the gods assemble here once a year to arrange all marriages for the next year.
- Kitsune Japanese
a shape-changing fox: a fox-spirit acting as a messenger for Inari
- kitsune-tsuki Japanese possession by demons due to foxes
It is said that a fox-spirit can enter a woman via her breasts or her fingernails.

Kittanitowit (see Kitanitowit)

Kittu Mesopotamian

[Kettu.Kittum]

a Babylonian god, truth personified
son of Samas and A-a brother of Giru, Mesharu and Nusku

(see also Sydyk)

Kittum (see Kittu)

Kium (see Chium)

Kiva North American

a Hopi ceremonial chamber

This circular room is built underground and is entered through the roof. It is here that the tribe's secret rites are performed.

Kivati North American

[Kwatee.Kwati]

a trickster-god of the Quinault
Indians

He changed the original giant animals into normal animals and made men from balls of dust mixed with his own sweat.

When his brother was swallowed by a monster in the lake, Kivati threw hot rocks into the lake until the scalding water killed the monster, whereupon Kivati slit open its belly and released his brother.

At the end of his world-forming labours he turned into stone.

Kivutar Finnish

a goddess of suffering
daughter of Tuoni and Tuonetar
sister of Kipu-Tytto, Loviatar and Vammatar

Kiwa Pacific Islands

the precursor of all shell-fish, in Polynesian lore

kiwi New Zealand

a flightless bird

The Maori say that this bird was made from a calabash by Tane.

Kiyamat-saus Baltic

an assistant of the Finnish underworld god Tuoni

Kiyamat-tora (see Tuoni)

Kiya'rnrarak Inuit

a creator-god

Kiyo Japanese

[Kiyohime.Kujo]

a serving-maid in a tea-house

She fell in love with the monk, Anchin, who so far forgot his vows as to fall in love with her. When he renounced the temptations of the flesh, she sought the aid of the fire-god, Fudo, and the magician-god, Kompira, and learned how to turn herself into a dragon. When Anchin left her for the last time, she became a huge dragon and, when he hid under a bell, she coiled round it, crushing it and melting it with her hot breath, killing both the monk and herself.

Kiyohime (see Kiyo)

Kiyomori Japanese

a hero, leader of the Taira

He killed Yoshitomo and would have killed all his family but Yoshitomo's wife, Tokiwa, agreed to marry him to save her children.

kla (see akra)

klaboterman Baltic

the spirit of the phantom ship

Carmilhan

This spirit helps the sailors but thrashes those who are idle.

When a tree was felled for a mast, an ill child was passed through it. If the child died, its caul remained in the mast as a klaboterman.

klaf Egyptian

a headdress worn by Isis

This headdress was said to impart divine wisdom to the one who wore it.

Klaus German

[Peter Klaus:=North American Rip van Winkle]

a goat-herd

He followed a goat into a valley where twelve men were playing skittles. Overcome by wine, he fell asleep and, when he awoke, found that he had slept for twenty years.

Kle-klati-e'il (see Lalaia'il)

Kleanthes (see Cleanthes)

Kleesto North American

in the lore of the Navaho, the Great Snake

Klehanioia (see Tlehanioia)

kleinevolk (see Dwarfs)

Kleng (see Kling)

Kleo (see Cleo)

Kleobis (see Cleobis)

Kleio (see Clio)

Kletrpal (see Bhumiya)

Kliarin-Kliara (see Kunapipi)

Klieng (see Kling)

Kling East Indian

[Kl(i)eng]

a war-god of the Iban tribe of Borneo

a mythical hero

This being was said to have been found in the knot of a tree and could assume any shape he chose.

Klingshor (see Klingsor)

Klingsor European

[Clinschor.Klingshor]

a magician

duke of Terre Labur

He was castrated by Ibert and became a wizard. Some say he was a bishop.

In some versions, he imprisoned several queens, including King Arthur's mother, Arnive, but they were rescued by Gawain.

In the Wagnerian version of Parsifal's (Percival's) quest for the Holy Grail, Klingsor was refused admission to the Temple of the Grail so he built a garden of delight nearby where many knights seeking the grail were seduced from their honourable path. He took the sacred spear from Amfortas and wounded him with it. When he tried to kill Parsifal with the spear, it miraculously stopped in its flight and floated round Parsifal's head. Parsifal used the spear as a means to destroy the garden and banish Klingsor from the earth.

In some accounts, his home is called Schastel Marveil.

Klio (see Clio)

Kliwa North American

a wind-spirit of the Pueblo tribes

Klodan Pacific Islands

a Balinese girl

She and Klontjing were locked in a chest by a giantess but were saved by mice which gnawed a hole through which they escaped.

Kloketen South American

in Tierra del Fuego, a male initiation rite

Youths gathered in a hut are subjected to frightening ordeals by masked men who instill the secrets of the tribe and the superiority of men.

Klontjing Pacific Islands

a Balinese girl

She and Klodan were locked in a chest by a giantess but were saved by mice which gnawed a hole through which they escaped.

Kloskurbeh North American

a creator-god of the Hopi

A being ('youth') was created from this god's breath and another ('lore') from one of his tears. These two mated to produce the first humans.

Klotho (see Clotho)

Klothon (see Clotho)

Klu<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Khe-rgyal]

the Tibetan name for Virupaksha

as king of the nagas

klu<sup>2</sup> Tibetan

ancestors of the race

miracle-workers (see also 'gong-po.

rgyal-po)

Klu-dban Tibetan
 [Lu Vang]
 king of speech
 one of the 5 Mahapancharajas
 He is depicted as red, holding an elephant-goad or a mace and riding a blue crocodile or a blue mule.
 (see also Sun-gi-rgyal-po)

Kludd British
 the English version of Kludde

Kludde European [=British Kludd]
 a Belgian or Flemish spirit
 This being could turn itself into a variety of animals such as a dog, horse or toad, or, alternatively, into a tree.

Klumene (see Clymene)
Klumenes (see Clymenus)
Klust (see Clust)
Klutaimnestra (see Clytemnestra)
Klymenos (see Clymenus)
Klytaimnestra (see Clytemnestra)

kmoch Cambodian
 ghosts

kmoch pray Cambodian ghosts of women or children who died in childbirth
 Some say these spirits can enter living relatives and make them ill.

K'makamtch (see Kmukamtch)
Kmukamtch (see Kmukamtch)
Kmukamtch North American [Ancient Old Man.K'makamtch.
 Kumukamch]
 a demon: a creator-spirit
 In the lore of the Klamath, he tried to set the world on fire but the Medoc regard him as a creator-spirit.

Knaninjar Australian
 ancestors living as spirits in the sky

Kne
 a demon

Knecht Ruprecht German [Servant Rupert]
 a domestic fairy

Knef Egyptian
 [Kematf:=Greek Kneph]
 an early god
 In some accounts, he and Athor were engendered by the supreme god, Amon, and were the parents of Isis and Osiris. In others, he is a manifestation of Khnum as a god of winds, depicted as blue, holding a sceptre and a plume of feathers.

Knefrud Norse [Wingi]
 a servant of Atli
 He was killed in the fight that ensued when Atli ambushed Gunnar's party.

Kneph Greek
 [Cnuphis.Knephis.Kneph]
 the Greek version of Knef

Knephis (see Kneph)
Knepth (see Kneph)
Knife-wing North American
 a spirit of the Pueblo tribes

Knight of Friendship (see Triamond)

Knight of La Mancha (see Don Quixote)

Knight of Song (see Tannhauser)
Knight of the Cart British [Knight of the Chariot]
 a name given to Lancelot
 Lancelot had his horse shot from under him when he was riding to the rescue of Guinevere who had been abducted by Meliagaunt and was compelled to complete the journey in the back of a woodman's cart.

Knight of the Chariot (see Knight of the Cart)

Knight of the Doleful Countenance (see Don Quixote)

Knight of the Dragon (see Segurant)

Knight of the Dwarf (see Amadis of Gaul)

Knight of the Ebon Spear (see Britomart)

Knight of the Fair Country British brother of King Arthur father of the Great Fool

Knight of the Fountain British [Black Knight.Esclados]
 husband of Laudine
 He defeated Cynon but was killed by Owain who took his estate and his wife.

Knight of the Goddess (see Gawain)

Knight of the Green Sword (see Amadis of Gaul)

Knight of the Invincible Sword (see Amadis of Gaul)

Knight of the Lantern<sup>1</sup> British
 a knight who killed the Black Knight

Knight of the Lantern<sup>2</sup> British
 son of Libearn

Knight of the Lion (see Owain)
Knight of the Mill (see Peredur)
Knight of the Old Table (see Segurant)

Knight of the Red Launds (see Ironside)

Knight of the Red Lawns (see Ironside)

Knight of the Silver Keys (see Pierre)

Knight of the Sleeve British a knight who won Clarette as a wife in a tournament

Knight of the Sparrowhawk (see Edern)

Knight of the Swan (see Lohengrin.
 Swan Knight)

Knight of the Well Irish
 a knight who fought with Dermot on the island where he had gone in search of the men carried off by Gilla Dacar

Knight of the White Moon (see Samson Carrasco)

Knight of Two Swords (see Balin.Meriadeuc)

Knights Eagle Central American
 a higher grade of Knights Tiger, warriors of the sun

Knights of Battle British
 3 famous warriors of King Arthur's court
 They were Cadeu, Lancelot and Owain.

Knights of the Franc Palais British an order set up by Perceforest which was annihilated by the Romans

Knights of the Round Table British
 the chosen knights of King Arthur's court
 The Round Table provided places for 150 knights and 100 were sent by Leodegrance with the table as Guinevere's dowry on her marriage to Arthur. Merlin, authorised to find fifty more, found only twenty-eight suitable knights. Each knight took a yearly oath to fight only in just causes and not for personal gain, to protect women and respect their persons, to use force only when necessary, never to commit murder or treason and to grant mercy when it was asked for.
 Among these knights, the most honoured were Galahad, Gareth, Gawain, Kay, Lamerock, Lancelot, Percival, Tristram, Mark, Mordred, Palamedes and Torre. Others included were Accolon, Bleoberis, Bedivere, Bors, Dornar, Ector, Gaheris, Galahaut, Lionel, Marhaus, Owain, Pelleas, Pellimore, Sagramore, Turkin and Vanoc.

Knights Tiger Central American
 initiates of an Aztec religious order (see also Knights Eagle)

knocker British [=German kobold:=Welsh coblyn]
 a Cornish spirit of the tin-mines, said to indicate the presence of valuable ore: a form of bucca

Knum (see Khnum)

knupa Pacific Islands
the Hawaiian demi-gods, as opposed to the gods, the akua

Ko' Korean
[Go]
the name taken by Chumong when he set up his own kingdom

Ko<sup>2</sup> Korean
an ancestral hero

Ko, together with Pu and Yang, emerged from the earth and survived by hunting.

A box which they found on the shore contained three princesses and a number of domestic animals. The three men each married a princess and, determining the site of their future homes by shooting arrows, settled down and founded three clans.

ko<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands
in New Caledonia, the human spirit

The priest keeping a vigil beside the body of some dead person may capture the ko in the form of a small animal which he then drowns in the river, producing in its place a stone, a bao, said to hold the departed soul.

K'o-chu Chinese
the realm of Fa-no-p'o-ssu

Ko-dama Japanese
an echo-god: an echo regarded as the soul of a tree answering the original call

Ko Hung<sup>1</sup> Chinese [Pao-p'u-tzu]
a Taoist alchemist

He is said to have made a drug that conferred immortality. Both he and a dog took the pills and died but both came back to life.

(see Ko Hung<sup>2</sup>)

Ko Hung<sup>2</sup> Chinese
a patron-god of dyers

Originally he was a 4th C writer of books on alchemy and ancient legends including Biographies of the Gods.

(see Ko Hung<sup>1</sup>)

Ko-lung Chinese
an emperor who was deified as god of the soil
one of the T'u-ti Shen

Ko-no-hana (see Sengen)

Ko-no-ka Po-li-to-she (see Pindola<sup>2</sup>)

Ko Pala Burmese
a legendary king

He was banished by his people and left to die on an island but was reborn as a crab and sent floods to avenge his earlier ill-treatment.

Kobal
a demon in charge of entertainment in hell as stage manager

Kobath (see Mount Baker)

Kobe-no-kami (see Oki-tsu Hime)

Kobetsu Japanese
imperial clans who claimed to be descended from Amaterasu (see also Shinbetsu)

Kobine Pacific Islands

daughter of Naredu
She helped her father create the earth.

Kobo Daishi Japanese

[Gohitsu-Osoh.Hensho Kong.

Kukai.Totomono]

(c. 774-835)

a Buddhist saint founder of True Word Buddhism

The priest Kukai, who as a boy was called Totomono, travelled to China, learned the principles of the Chen Yen sect and returned to Japan to found the Shingon (True Word) movement. Before leaving the mainland, he threw his vajra which landed in Japan. He was credited with the invention of a form of cursive script and was a famous preacher and painter.

He could produce water by pushing his staff into the earth or, if he needed shelter from the sun, the staff would take root and grow into a shady tree.

In one story, he gave a handkerchief to a servant who had brought him water. When she used it, she became very beautiful and attracted a rich husband, whereas the girl's mistress, who had refused to give him water, was turned into a horse.

Another story says that he straightened the leaning tower of a temple merely by prayer.

When he once tried to kill himself for the benefit of humanity, angels prevented him so that he might fulfil his destiny. It was said that a star entered his mouth and he killed a dragon merely by spitting on it. Asked by a boy to demonstrate his powers, he wrote letters in the sky and on the surface of water. The boy then drew a dragon on the water and, when the saint added a dot, the dragon came to life and ascended to heaven.

He was said to be able to raise the dead and to purify polluted water as well as communicating with the gods. At his own request he was buried alive and it is said that his body never rots but awaits the coming of the Buddha Mahavairocana. After his death he was deified as Kobo Daishi.

One story says that he rose from his grave to conduct the funeral of one emperor and to baptise his successor.

kobold German

[=British brownie.knocker:

=Welsh coblyn]

a dwarf mine-spirit:

a domestic brownie

(see also dwarfs.elves.

Heinzelmännchen)

Kodinhaltia Baltic

a Finnish house-fairy

Kodo-yanpe North American

[Earth Maker.Earth Namer]

a name of Wonomi as 'namer of the world'

Kodo-yapeu North American

a name of Wonomi as 'creator of the world'

Kodo-yaponi North American

a name of Wonomi as 'chief of the world'

Kodojeza Baltic

an Estonian household god

Part of the garden was kept as sacred to this deity. A woman was allowed to enter it once, just after she was married, but never thereafter.

Kodomo-no-Inari Japanese

a fox-god

Kodros (see Codrus)

Koduku-jigoku Japanese

subsidiary hells which appear randomly anywhere on earth (see also Kimpen-jigoku)

Koen Australian

an evil spirit

husband of Mailkun

Koeus (see Coeus)

Koevasi Pacific Islands

a creator-deity of the Solomon Islands (see Agunua)

Koftarim Egyptian

a mythical king

It is said that he built the Pharos lighthouse and a gateway which, by staring with mechanical eyes, could put animals to sleep; and was the owner of a magical mirror in which he could see what each of his subjects was doing and a statue made of glass which could turn into clay any person who tried to gain entry to the king's treasury.

Kogoshui Japanese

a 9th c book of myths written by

Imbe-no-Hironari

Koh-i-Noor (see Castle of Light<sup>2</sup>)

Kohai Pacific Islands
the first man, in the lore of Tonga grandfather of Ahoaitu

In some accounts, Kohai was a primaeva serpent.

Kohaku Jo Japanese
daughter of Kamatari

She married Koso, the emperor of China, and sent back to her home in Japan three marvellous treasures given to her by her husband. These were a musical instrument that could play for ever, an inkwell which never ran dry and a crystal in which an image of the Buddha could be seen.

Kohara Pacific Islands
the female progenitor of all tuna fish

Kohi Tumu (see Tè Tumu)

Kohin Australian

[Koin]
a thunder-god who lives in the Milky Way

a culture-hero of the Aborigines

Kohkang Wuhti (see Kokyanwuti)

Kohmba Sri Lankan

a god

Kohu Pacific Islands

a god of mists

Koiakutu Pacific Islands

the hill of lice, part of the Melanesian afterworld

Koil North American

the sheep, created by Kumush

Koin (see Kohin)

Koiti Pacific Islands

son of Auahi-Turoa and Mahuika brother of Konui, Koroa, Manawa
and Mapere

Koito African

an Ethiopian feast to propitiate the spirit of lightning

Koji-Ki (see Kojiki)

Kojiki Japanese

[Book of Ancient Matters.Koji-Ki] sacred Shinto texts relating the story of the Creation, written by Ono Yasuman in AD 712

Kojin Japanese

[Kojin-sama.Sambo-Ko-Jin]
a kitchen-goddess whose spirit inhabits the enoki tree

She was originally a demon who ate children but later became their guardian deity. Old and discarded dolls are dedicated to her.

In some accounts, Kojin is male and equated with Kamado-no-kami, Jigami or Oyamakui.

Kojin-sama (see Kojin)

Kokalika Buddhist

an adherent of Devadatta
He was consigned to hell with his master when they tried to kill the Buddha.

Koki African

in the lore of the Hausa, a praying mantis wife of Gizo

wife of Spider, some say

Kokili Tibetan

a king

a Lamaist sorcerer

Kokko (see Koko<sup>2</sup>)

Koko<sup>1</sup> African in Bantu lore, an old woman who knew the name of the tree bearing forbidden fruit

When she finds that animals to whom she has told the name of this tree have eaten some of its fruit, she punishes them. Tortoise, who had been buried in an anthill, escaped without punishment.

Koko<sup>2</sup> North American

[Kokko]

mask-gods: rain-making gods of the Zuni: the entire pantheon of the

Zuni deities

Kokomaht (see Tuchaipai.Yokomatis)

Kokomat (see Tuchaipai.Yokomatis)

Kokomikeis North American

[Kokomikis]

moon-goddess of the Blackfoot

Indians

wife of Natos

mother of Apisuahts

Kokomikis (see Kokomikeis)

Kokopelli North American

[Kokopolo;=Tewa Nepokwa'i]

a Hopi fertility deity, one of the Kachinas

Kokopolo (see Kokopelli)

Kokozu Japanese

[Kokuzo;=Tibetan Akasagarbha]

a Buddhist sky-god

He is sometimes depicted holding a flaming sword.

(see also Kanro Gundari)

Kokumthena North American

[Cloud.Our Grandmother.

Snaggletooth Woman]

a creator-goddess of the Shawnee

This deity is said to be an old, grey-haired woman living with her grandson and her dog near the land of the dead. The shadows on the moon are said to be Kokumthena bending over her cooking-pot.

Kokutos (see Cocytus)

Kokuzo (see Kokozu)

Kokyangwuti North American

[Kahyangwuti.Kokyangwuqti.

Spider Woman]

a creator-goddess of the Hopi

daughter of Sotukngang

She made men and women from clay and brought them to life but they were rougher characters than those fashioned by the Huruung Wuhti sisters.

Others say that she made the first humans from spittle and dust in a kind of underworld. When her father flooded their world because they had become wicked, she led them to the upper world. Here she created two more beings, Palongwhoya and Poquanghoya, who protected men from evil demons.

(see also Hahai Wugti)

Kokyangwuqti (see Kokyangwuti)

Kokytyos (see Cocytus)

Kol<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Kolr]

one of the men with Flosi when they killed the Njalssons and burnt their house

Kol<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Kolr]

a slave at the court of King Visivald

The king's daughter, Soley, promised to marry Kol if he would kill an unwanted suitor. This he did but Soley reneged on her promise, changing places with a servant girl who married the unwitting Kol. He later became an outlaw and was killed by Vilmund who found the real Soley and her half-brother, Hiarandi.

Kol<sup>3</sup> Norse

[Kolr]

an ugly giant

father of Biorn and Harek

Some say that he was the first owner of the sword Angurvadel.

Kola African

son of the Sacred White Cow

His grandson, Ukwa, is regarded as the ancestor of the Shilluk people of the Sudan.

Kolantes (see Colanthes)

Koleo African

a Tanzanian snake-god

Kolelo African

a cave

In the lore of Tanzania this is the site to which Kyumbe carries the spirits of the dead. Women who wish to conceive bathe in a pool in this cave.

Kolio African

a Ewe war-god

Kolita (see Moggallana)

Koll Norse

[Koll the Thrall]

owner of the sword Grey-steel

kollawalla (see collhualla)

Kollapura-Mahalakshmi Hindu
a six-armed goddess

kollo African [qollo]

Ethiopian spirits of the mountains,
trees and springs

These spirits appear in the form of four-horned cockerels or as tall, one-legged beings.

Koloowise Central American

[Koloowisi.Kolowissi.Serpent of the Sea:=Aztec Quetzalcoatl:=Hopi Palulukon]

a Zuni plumed serpent-god of plenty
a god of lightning

In one story he was upset when a young maiden polluted the water he lived in by washing her clothes there and turned himself into a baby which she found and took home with her.
There he resumed his former shape as a serpent and slept with her. Now committed to his power, she was forced to leave her family and go with Koloowise who, en route, changed into a handsome young man.

Koloowisi (see Koloowise)

Kolowissi (see Koloowise)

Kolpia Mesopotamian

a Phoenician wind-god son of Aer and Chaos consort of Baau
father of Aion and Protogonos

Kolyvan Russian

a hero
father of Kolyvanovitch

Kolyvanovitch Russian

a hero
son of Kolyvan

Kom African

a stool or throne

In the lore of the Alur this is one of the four attributes of the king.

koma African

Swahili spirits which live on after death

(see also nkoma)

Komagawa Japanese

a servant of a daimyo

He fell in love with Asagao and gave her a fan with a poem about a convolvulus inscribed upon it. When her parents tried to force her into a marriage with a man she did not love, she ran away but failed to find her beloved.

Years later, Komagawa came across her singing for her living in a tea-garden. She could not see him because she was blind as a result of shedding so many tears at losing him. She later recovered her sight and they were reunited.

k'omanti (see kromanti)

Komashtam'ho North American

son of Kakomaht

Komba (see Mbomba)

Komba Ralingki East Indian

[Spirit of the Stranger]
a powerful Papuan ghost

kombu Japanese

a sacred rope, said to bring happiness

Komdei-mirgan Russian

a Tartar hero
brother of Kubaiko

The monster Yebegen bit off Komdeimirgan's head and his sister, Kubaiko, went down to the underworld to plead with the ruler, Erlik Khan, for its return. The god set her a number of tasks and gave her the head and some water of life when she completed the tasks successfully.

Komfo South American

in Surinam, a person possessed by a spirit (see also okomfo)

Komfo Anotchi (see Anochi)

Komokoa (see Komokwa)

Komoku Japanese

[=Chinese Tseng Chang:=Hindu
Virudka:=Buddhist Virudhaka:=Taoist Mo-li Hung]

a guardian-god, one of the Shi Tenno
He was responsible for guarding the south.

In some accounts, he was one of the twenty-eight Nijuhachi-Bushu and was originally a demon who converted to Buddhism.

Komokwa North American

[Komokoa.The Rich One]
a sea-god of the Haida people

He is regarded as the guardian of seals and the receiver of the souls of the dead.

Komokyatsiky North American

[Old Woman]
a woman who slept with her brother and woke up as an old woman

It is said that the offspring of this union are the koyemshi dancing clowns of the Pueblo Indians.

Komorkis North American

a moon-goddess of the Blackfoot
Indians

Komos (see Comus)

Kompera (see Kompira)

Kompira Japanese

[Kompera.Kompira.Kubira.Lord of Demons:=Buddhist Kubera:=Hindu

Kubera:=Indonesian Kuwera:

=Thai Kupera]

a god, guardian of sailors

He is depicted as black in colour, with a fat belly, seated and holding a purse.

In some accounts, he was one of the twenty-eight Nijuhachi-Bushu.

(see also Susanowa)

kon pray Cambodian

a foetus used by a sorcerer

When a woman suffers a miscarriage, a sorcerer is called and he takes the foetus, deceiving the woman into thinking it has been disposed of in a jar thrown into a river. In fact, the foetus is retained, cooked and coloured black and varnished. Thereafter, it is the sorcerer's constant familiar and source of power, said to make its owner invulnerable.

Kon-Tiki South American

[Illa-Tiki]

an early name of Viracocha

Kona Pacific Islands

[=Marshal Islands Rimogaio]

a fabulous race of giants in Ponape

(see also Liat)

Konakadset North American

[=Haida Wasco]

a hero of the Tlingit people

He was envisaged as an aquatic beast, a kind of wolf-whale.

Konda Japanese

a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Konde African

son of Nkuba and Chinawezi brother and husband of Nawezi

Kondos Baltic

a Finnish god of agriculture

Kong Thai

a king

It was prophesied that a son of his would kill him so he abandoned the baby in the forest where it was found by the old woman Phrom and reared by her younger sister, Hom. When the boy, who they called Phan, grew to man-hood, he killed Kong and seduced his own mother who, too late,
recognised her own son.

Kongara-doji Japanese

an attendant of Fudo-myoo

kongo<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[=Sanskrit vajra]

a three-pointed staff

This staff, owned by Koya-no-Myoin, imparts wisdom to its owner and radiates light in darkness.

- Kongo<sup>2</sup> Japanese [=Hindu Vajrasattva]
a Buddha
(see also Renge Gundari)
- Kongo Gundari Japanese
a name for Gundari-myoo regarded as a manifestation of Kwanjizai
- Kongo-yasha-myoo Japanese [Vajrayaksha]
a terrible god, a manifestation of Fukujoju
He is depicted either with one head and four arms or with three heads and six arms. One of his faces has five eyes and he is surrounded by flames.
- Kongoho (see Sho-Kwannon)
- Kongorikishi Japanese
a guardian god
From this deity came the two guardian gods Fukaotsu and Soko.
- Konshiki Japanese
a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu
- Konjin (see Ushitoro-no-Konjin)
- Konkara Japanese [Kinkara]
a manifestation of Fudo as a youth
- Kono-hana-sakuya-hime
(see Sengen)
- Konohana
(see Sengen)
- Kononato South American
a creator-god of the Arawak Indians
He made man to live in the sky but Okonorote made a hole and they all came down to earth. When a fat woman got stuck in the hole, they found themselves unable to return.
- Konpira (see Kompira)
- Konui Pacific Islands
son of Auahi-Turoa and Mahuika brother of Koiti, Koroa, Manawa and Mayere
- Konur Norse
son of Jarl and Erna grandson of Heimdall
He became the first king of Denmark.
- Koori (see Bucu)
- Kootamoinen (see Kun')
- Kopala Russian
a guardian god of mountaineers
in Georgia
He carries a club and can transform himself into this weapon.
- Koph (see Qoph)
- Kopilitara South American
a woman who taught the Chaco the art of pottery
wife of Kosodot
- koppatengu Japanese
small demons attendant on the tengu
- Kopu East Indian
[Malara]
a goddess of the morning-star, Venus
In some accounts, Kopu is male and the consort of Eau and Hovoa.
- Kor-wa-ji Tibetan
the Tibetan name for Krakucchanda
- Kora (see Core)
- koradji Australian
an Aborigine shaman
- Kore (see Core)
- Kore-Arethusa (see Core)
- Kore-te-rawea Pacific Islands
[=New Zealand Te-kore-rawea]
a Polynesian deity
offspring of Kore-te-whiwhia
- Kore-te-tamaua Pacific Islands
[=New Zealand Te-kore-tamaua]
a Polynesian deity
offspring of Kore-te-rawea
- Kore-te-whiwhia Pacific Islands
[=New Zealand Kore-whiwhia]
a Polynesian deity: the primaeval void
- Kore-whiwhia
(see Kore-te-whiwhia)
- Korero Pacific Islands
wife of Tangaroa
- Ko'rgina (see Kavra'nna)
- Korinchi East Indian [Korinci.Korintji]
a Sumatran tribe, members of which, it is said, can change into tigers
- Korinci (see Korinchi)
- Korintji (see Korinchi)
- Koriro New Zealand
a name for Maui as 'cheerful'
- Koriyama Japanese
a noble
When he, his wife and his child were sticken with disease, an old recluse asked permission to plant lotus in his moat. As soon as the plants had grown, the noble and his family all recovered.
- Korka-guzo (see Domovik)
- Korka-murt (see Domovik)
- Kormak Norse
a 9th c poet and warrior
He was the owner of a sword which had a little snake living under the hilt.
- Kormet (see Kormt)
- Kormos Siberian
an evil spirit
This spirit follows a man throughout his lifetime, recording all his deeds.
- Kormt Norse
[Kormet]
a river in Asgard
In some accounts, one of the twelve rivers of the dead. (see Kerlaug)
- Kornmutter German ['corn mother']
a field spirit, the spirit of growing corn (see also field spirit)
- Kornwolf German
a spirit of the cornfields invoked to frighten children (see also field spirit)
- Koro Pacific Islands
[Koro-mau-Ariki] son of Tinirau and Ina brother of Aroture
- Koro-mau-Ariki (see Koro)
- Koroa Pacific Islands
son of Auahi-Turoa and Mahuika brother of Koiti, Konui, Manawa and Mayere
- Korobona South American
mother of the first Carib, fathered by
a demon
- Korongo African
a Mali sorcerer from whom Kenimbleni stole magic powders
- Koronis (see Coronis)
- Koronus (see Koronus)
- Koropanga (see Tu-te-Koropanga)
- Korotango New Zealand
a pigeon made of greenstone
The korotango is placed in a shrine and used as an oracle by the Maori.
- Korowas East Indian [Kurus]
the Javanese version of the Kauravas
- Koraval Hindu
[Katukilal.Korrawi]
a Tamil war-goddess wife of Silappadikaram mother of Seyon
- Korrawi (see Korraival)
- korrgan (see corrgan)
- korrganed (see corrgan)
- Korshid Persian
the modern version of the old sun-god, Hvarekhsaeta
- Korubantes (see Corybantes)
- korupira (see urupira)
- korwar East Indian
a wooden image of an ancestor, used as an oracle
- Korybantes (see Corybantes)
- Koryphasia (see Athena)
- Korythalia Greek
a name of Artemis as 'laurel maiden'
- Kosa (see Tripitaka<sup>2</sup>)
- Kosankiya North American
in the lore of the Sioux a dark planet or one of the 7
forms of mankind developed from We-Ota-Winchasha
- Kosar (see Kothar)
- Kosensei Japanese [Gama-Sennin.Sage of the Toad]

a sennin who could turn himself into a reptile or a young man
In some accounts, he owned a magic toad.

Koshare North American [Delight Makers.Kashale.Kashare.

Koshari.Kossa]

the first men, according to the Keres and Tewa Indians

These beings were made from the skin of a goddess. In other versions they are the sacred clowns. (see also Kurema)

Koshari (see Koshare)

Kosharot Hebrew

[=Canaanite Sasuratum]

a midwife-goddess

Koshchay Bessmertny Russian

[Koshchei.Old Bones.The Immortal]

a storm ogre

He was said to carry off young maidens. It was said that he was virtually immortal and could be killed only if a hero would throw a magic egg at him.

Koshchei (see Koshchay Bessmertny)

Koshi (see Yamato-no-Orochi)

Koshin<sup>1</sup> Japanese

a god of roads

On the fifty-seventh day of the sixty-day cycle, monkey-day, the three worms which live in all people ascend to heaven when the individual is asleep, to report on that person's behaviour. On this day, Koshin acts as guardian to the individual.

(see also Sanshi-taisho)

Koshin<sup>2</sup> Japanese

a name for the Three Mystic Apes

koshpik South American

spirits of the dead, in the lore of the

Yaghan of Tierra del Fuego

Kosla-kuguza Baltic

a guardian deity of the forests

husband of Kosla-kuva

Kosla-kuva Baltic

wife of Kosla-kuguza

Koso Chinese

an emperor of China

husband of Kohaku Jo

Kosodate-Jizo Japanese

an aspect of Jizo as bearer of children

Kosodot South American

a little man who taught the Chaco to hunt

husband of Kopilitara

Kossa (see Koshare)

Kostey Slav

an ogre

He cast a spell which put the princess Sudolisa into a long sleep from which she was rescued by the prince Junak.

kosti (see sacred thread<sup>2</sup>)

Kotan-shorai Japanese

[Kyotan]

a wealthy man

brother of Sennin-shorai

He refused to give shelter from a storm to Susanowa, who was dressed in rags as Buto, so the god cut him into five pieces and offered them in sacrifice.

Kotar (see Kothar)

Kotari Hindu

a name for Devi, Kali and Uma

as 'naked'

Kothar Canaanite

[Chusor.Divine Artificer.Kathar-Wa-

Hassis.Kautar.Kothar-u-Khasis.Hayyin.

Kosar.Kotar]

the god of smiths

He made the wonderful bow for Aqhat and built Baal's palace. He also made Baal's maces, Ayamur and Yagrush.

In some accounts, there were two such craftsmen, Kothar-u-Khasis.

(see also Kusor)

Kothar-u-Khasis (see Kothar)

Kothluwalawa North American

a celestial palace, in the lore of the Zuni, mountain home of the gods

This palace is a council chamber of the gods and a temporary abode for the spirits of the dead. It also contains the dance-house of the gods.

Koti North American

a frog-spirit of the Creek Indians

Kotikili North American

Zuni priests who take on the role of a Kachina

Kotisri Buddhist

a mother-goddess

Koto-shiro-nushi Japanese

[Sign Master.Yae-koto-shiro-nushi]

a Shinto god of fortune

one of the Eight Imperial Deities

son of Susanowa

son of Okuni-nushi, some say

In some accounts he is identified with Ebisu.

Kotoamatsukami
(see Separate Heavenly Deities)

Kotodama Japanese

a spirit inherent in words

Kotre Baltic

[More]

a Lithuanian fertility-spirit

Kottche Australian

[Cuchi]

a demon in the form of a bird or

a snake

He goes about at night causing illness. His voice is the thunder, his breath the whirlwind.

Kottos (see Cottus)

Kotutto (see Cotytto)

Kotys (see Cotytto)

Kotytto (see Cotytto)

Kou-mang Chinese

a messenger of the sky-god

He is said to bring good fortune and is associated with springtime and the eastern region. (see also Ju Shou)

Kouantun Chinese

a sacred mountain at the centre of the world

Koulash Serbian

a horse of Petroshin Voinovitch

This animal was ridden by Milosh the Shepherd at the wedding of Doushan. Three others in the procession tried to steal Koulash but Milosh defeated them all.

Koupai South American

evil spirits in the lore of Peru

Koura-abi Pacific Islands

[Kourabi]

a Beru warrior who invaded the

Gilbert Islands

He was the man who broke the sacred tree, Kai-n-tiku-aba.

Kourabi (see Koura-abi)

Koure (see Core)

Kouretes (see Curetes)

Kourotrophos Greek

[Karpophoros]

Hera as the goddess of wet-nurses

kov-ava Russian

[=Cheremis teleze-awa]

a Mordvin tutelary spirit, guardian of the moon

Kovero Cambodian

[=Buddhist Kubera:=Hindu Vaishravana]

a Lukabal

ruler of the north

ruler of the yeaks

In some versions, this role is played by Peysrap.

Kowwituma North American

a Zuni war-god

twin brother of Watsuii

He and his brother found the Corn Maidens and later persuaded them to return to the tribe after they fled to escape Patayami.

Koya-no-Myoin Japanese

a mountain-god

He is depicted as a red-faced hunter, often accompanied by two hunting dogs.

koyemshi North American

[mudheads]

Kachinas who act as clowns, wearing fearsome masks smeared with mud

It is said that the koyemshi were originally the offspring of Komokyatsiky who slept with her brother and woke up an old woman.

Koyorowen Australian

[Yaho]
a cannibalistic monster
husband of Kurriwilban

He lives on mountain tops and kills women while his wife kills men. Her feet point to the rear.

Koyote (see Coyote)

Koyuri Japanese

son of Yurine

Wandering in search of sake for his dying father, he came upon two Shoyo who gave him some of their sacred white sake which restored Yurine's youth and vigour. A neighbour, Mamikiko, demanded some of the sake but, because he was a greedy man, found the drink so unpleasant that he spit it out. Koyuri took him to the Shoyo who cured him of his greediness and selfishness and he was then able to enjoy the sake.

Kozma Slav

the goat personified

kra<sup>1</sup> South American

[=Ashanti okra]
the soul, in the lore of some black tribes of the north

kra<sup>2</sup> (see akra)

krabben (see kraken)

Kradoc (see Caradoc)

Krailasa (see Kailasa)

Krakama Norse

the death-song of Sigurd

Krake Norse

['crow']
the name given to Aslaug when she was working as a slave to the couple who raised her

kraken Norwegian

[krabben.Sykraken]
a sea-monster which pulled ships to the sea-bottom

It was said to be one and a half miles in circumference.

Krakucchanda Buddhist

[=Tibetan Kor-wa-ji]
one of the 7 manushibuddhas

Kralj Matjaz Slovene

[King Mathias]
king of the Slovenes
brother and husband of Alencica

He is said to have rescued Alencica from the Turks or, in other accounts, from the underworld.

In death, he is said to be sleeping in a cave on Mount Petra, awaiting a call in his country's hour of need.

When that day arrives, he will emerge from his cave and hang his shield on a lime tree which, they say, grew on Christmas night, flowered at midnight and then died. It will flower again only when this hero emerges from his long sleep.

Krantor (see Crantor)

krasnoludi European

[Hungarian lutki:=Serbian ludki] dwarfs of the Polish underworld

Kratos (see Cratus)

Kratti Baltic

a Finnish spirit, guardian of property

Kratu Hindu

a sage, one of the Ten Rishis

Krauncha Hindu

one of the 7 island continents
(see also Dvipa)

Kravyad Hindu

the sacrificial fire lit by the gods
Kravyad is envisaged as a terrible goblin which consumes human flesh.

Kreimhild (see Krimhild)

Kremara Polish

a god of pigs

He protected pigs from birth to death, taking over from Priparchis who ensured that they were safely born.

Krenouchos Greek

a name for Poseidon as god of fresh water

Kreon (see Creon)

Kreos (see Crius)

Kresna East Indian

the Javanese version of Krishna

brother of Baladewa and Subadra

Kresna Dwipayana (see Abiasa)

Kresnik Slav

[K(a)rsnik].
a Slovene culture-hero
a god of agriculture and cattle
son of Svarog, some say

He slew many monsters and was given the role of king of the Slovenes by Svarog. He was succeeded in this role by Kralj Matjaz.

In some accounts Kresnik is a good spirit guarding the family from the vil Vlkodlak.

Kreutzneald, F R Baltic

the Estonian compiler of the epic
Kalevipoea, published 1857-61

Kriemhild (see Krimhild)

kriksy (see nocnitsa)

Krimen South American

a survivor of the flood in the lore of the Tupi

He and his brothers Coem and Hermitten saved themselves by climbing trees or hiding in caves.

Krimhild German

[Chreimhild.Grimhild.Kreimhild.

Kriemhild.Krimhilt:=Norse Gudrun]

a princess of Burgundy

daughter of Dankrat and Ute sister of Gernot, Giselher and Gunther wife of Siegfried

mother of Gunther

mother of Hagen by Alberich, some say

She is the Nibelungenlied version of Grimhild.

She fell in love with Siegfried when he came to the court of her brother, Gunther, to help him defeat the invading armies of Ludegar the Saxon and Ludegast of Denmark. When Gunther married Brunhild, Krimhild married Siegfried and later Gunther invited the young couple to his court where the two ladies had a furious quarrel. Krimhild foolishly told Hagen, who was angry at the perceived insult to Brunhild, that the only vulnerable spot on Siegfried's body was just between his shoulder-blades and, when Siegfried made a further visit to the court to help Gunther repel a purported invasion, he was killed by Hagen who speared him in the back.

When the dead body of Siegfried bled where Hagen touched it at the funeral, she knew that he was her husband's murderer and plotted revenge. She persuaded Gunther to claim the Nibelung treasure that Siegfried had won when he killed the dragon Fafnir, but the hoard was seized by Hagen who sank it in the Rhine for safety.

Krimhild later married Etzel, king of the Huns, and bore a son, Ortlieb, but kept alive her loathing for Hagen. She persuaded Etzel to invite Gunther and his nobles to his court and then bribed Brodelin, Etzel's brother, to kill all the Burgundians. When the first attack left some of the visitors alive, she burned down the hall where they still held out. She forced Rudiger to attack them and many were slaughtered on each side, including Gernot and Rudiger. In the end, only Gunther and Hagen remained alive and they were captured. She had Gunther beheaded and used his severed head to try to force Hagen to disclose where in the Rhine he had hidden the Nibelung treasure. When he refused, she killed him. Her wanton cruelty so enraged Hildebrand who was present at the murder that he drew his sword and killed her.

In Thidreksaga, it was Thidrek (Dietrich von Bern) who killed her by cutting her in half with his sword.

(see also Grimhild)

Krimhilt (see Krimhild)

Krimibhoja Hindu

a realm of hell

This region is reserved for the selfish who are turned into worms which eat one another.

kriobolion (see criobolium)

kriocamp (see criocamp)

kriosphinx (see criosphinx)

Krios (see Crius)

Kripa Hindu

wife of Drona

mother of Ashvatthaman

Krisa Greek

a shore on which Apollo brought

Cretan sailors to safety

In honour of the god, his chief shrine was established here.

Krishna Hindu

[Bhagavan.Damodara.Dark One.Gopal(a).

Gopinath.Govinda.Hari Krishna.

Kaliyadamana.Kannan.Kistna.Kr(i)sna.

Kristna.Madhava.Marishiten.Mathuranath

Narayana.'puller'.Punyasloka.

Vasudeva:=East Indies K(r)esna:

=Greek Heracles:=Malay Kesna:

=Tamil Mayon]

earth-god and preserver

an incarnation of Vishnu – the eighth son of Vasudeva and Devaki

brother of Jara, some say husband of Rukmini, an incarnation of Lakshmi, and many others

father of Samba and Charumati

father of Bhadracharu and Pradyumna by Rukmini

He was born from a black hair of Vishnu with a mission to destroy the evil tyrant Kansa. When Kansa ordered the slaughter of all new-born males, Krishna escaped by being secretly hidden with the cowherds, Nanda and Yasoda.

He was constantly harried by demons sent by Kansa but overcame them all. He and his half-brother Balarama did battle with Kansa and killed not only him and his eight brothers but the huge wrestler Chanura, the demons Arishta and Keshin, the wind-demon Trinavarta, Sakta-Sura who tried to crush him, the demoness Putana who tried to poison him with milk from her breasts, the cow-demon Vatsasura, the huge raven Bakasura, Ugrasura the snake-demon who swallowed him whole, the demon Dhenuka as a huge donkey and Kunalayapida, the elephant posted to kill them. He also subdued the snake-demon Kaliya. On one occasion, a fire-demon started a forest fire that surrounded Krishna and some of his friends. The god merely swallowed the flames. Other demons killed by Krishna include Jarasandha, Kalayavana and Shankha-Sura.

In the battle between the Pandavas and the Kauravas he acted as charioteer to Prince Arjuna.

When Indra sent a flood, Krishna used Mount Govardhana as a canopy to save the people and their cattle and he rescued his grandson, Aniruddha, when he was seized by the demon, Bana.

He was said to have had affairs with, or married, over 16,000 women but his greatest love was the shepherdess Radha and, later, his wife Rukmini. Some of his other wives were Jambavati, Kalindi and Satyabhama.

When he was accidentally wounded in the only vulnerable part of his body, his heel, by an arrow fired by his brother Jara the Hunter, he died and returned to heaven.

He is sometimes envisaged as the personification of the universe with his navel encompassing the heavens in which his chest represents the stars.

It is said that he had 16,000 wives.

(see also Jagannath)

Krishna Dvaipayana (see Vyasa)

Krishna Janamashtama Hindu

Krishna's birthday: a feast to celebrate

Krishna's birth in 3,227 bc

(see also Krishna Jayanti)

Krishna Jayanti Hindu

a festival honouring Krishna, Aug/Sep

(see also Krishna Janamashtama)

Krishnaa (see Draupadi)

Krishnachari Buddhist

a disciple of the Buddha who converted a number of Lamaist

sorcerers

(see also Kukkuri)

Krisky Russian

a hag of the night who harries

children

Krisna (see Krishna)

Kristna (see Krishna)

krita-yuga Hindu

[Brahma-yuga.kritayuga.satya-yuga]

the first age of the world

This was the golden age in which all men were virtuous. The destruction of the present age by Kalki will herald a new age. (see also yuga)

Kritanta Hindu

fate personified: a name of Yama as

'the one who finishes'

Kritarajasa East Indian

a king

husband of Rukmini and Satya-bhama

He was sometimes identified with Harihara.

kritayuga (see krita-yuga)

Krttikas Hindu

[Krttikas]

the Pleiades

They were said to have suckled the infant Skanda and, because each of them wanted the child, he developed six faces.

Kriya Sakti Hindu

a manifestation of space and time

Krodha Hindu

['anger']

daughter of Daksha

wife of Kasyapa

She was opposed by Maheshvari, one of the Matrikas and is regarded as the progenitor of all birds and animals that have sharp teeth or beaks.

Khodadevatas Buddhist

a group of fearsome gods

These beings are depicted as red or black, with three eyes and with skulls and snakes adorning their bodies.

Krohn, Julius Baltic

(1835–1888)

the Finnish author of works on folklore and mythology, especially on the

Kalevala

Krohn, Kaarle Baltic

(1863–1933)

a Finnish scholar who wrote extensively on folklore and mythology

kromanti South American

[k'omanti]

in Surinam, a force said to make warriors

invulnerable to bullets and swords

Kronia Greek

a festival in honour of Cronus

Kronos (see Cronus)

Kronus (see Cronus)

Krsanu Hindu

an archer

He shot Gayatri (or Garuda) when the latter stole the soma.

(see also Gandharva)

Krsaspa (see Keresaspa)

Krsna (see Krishna)

Krsnik (see Kresnik)

Krsodari Hindu

a form of Camunda representing famine

Krttikas (see Krittikas)

- kru Cambodian
a shaman
This type of shaman is said to be able to exorcise the demons that cause illness.
- k'rubh (see cherub)
- Krut (see Khrut)
- Kruth Cambodian
[=Hindu Garuda:=Thai Khrut]
a fabulous bird
- Kruthreach Cambodian
king of the garudas
- kruvnik (see upir)
- Ksama Hindu
a minor goddess
an aspect of Lakshmi as an earth-goddess
daughter of Daksha
- Ksantiparamita (see Kshanti)
- Ksetrapala Hindu
a form of Bhairava as god of doors
- Ksetrasya Hindu
a field god
- Kshanti Buddhist [Kshantiparamita]
one of the 12 Paramita goddesses, patience personified
- Kshantiparamita (see Kshanti)
- Kshathra Varya Persian
['chosen'. 'dominion'. Khshathtra Vairya. Shahrevar. Shathra. Shihri-var] one of the 7 Amesha Spentas an aspect of Ahura Mazda as 'the desired kingdom' guardian of metals
He is assisted in his work by Aniran, Asman and Mithra and is opposed by the demon Saura.
- Kshetia Buddhist
a heaven reserved for past Buddhas (see Pure Land)
- Ksirabdhitanya (see Lakshmi)
- Kshitigarbha<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [Ksitigarbha.=Chinese Ti-ts'ang:
=Japanese Jizo:=Tibetan Sahi snin-po.
Sai nying-po]
an Indian bodhisattva
He tours the underworld bringing comfort to condemned souls.
- Kshitigarbha<sup>2</sup> Hindu
[=Japanese Jizo]
a guardian deity of children and travellers
- Kshumai Afghan
a Kafir fertility-goddess
She appears in the form of a goat and is regarded as the mother or grandmother of Mon.
- Ksitigarbha (see Kshitigarbha)
- kteis (see cteis)
- Ktesios Greek
a name for Zeus as the guardian of storerooms
- Ku<sup>1</sup> Chinese
a provincial governor
He explored a pothole and claimed to have found the site of hell from which the cries of the damned could be heard.
- Ku<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
[Ku-Ka-Pau. Ku-Kau-Akahi.
Ku-matuenga: Kumatauenga:
=New Zealand Tu:=Tahitian Oro]
an ancestral god of Hawaii, a war-god and god of agriculture
He helped Kane or Tane and Lono to make the world and mankind.
- Ku<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands
a monster in the form of a huge dog
He could turn himself into a man whenever he wished. In the guise of a small dog, he formed an attachment to Na-pihe-nui, the daughter of a chief but ran off when her father tried to kill him. He then changed into a handsome prince to woo the maiden but her father refused to sanction the marriage. He next turned himself into a huge fierce dog and ate many of the chief's tribesmen. The warriors of the tribe finally killed him and cut him in half. Each half was turned into a large stone by the priests.
- K'u<sup>4</sup> Chinese
one of the Five Emperors
- Ku<sup>5</sup> (see Kun)
- K'u-ch'u ch'iao Chinese [Bridge of Pain]
a bridge in the underworld
Souls who are to be reborn cross this bridge after receiving a drink of Mi Hung Tang from Lady Meng and are thrown off into the river which will carry them to their new life.
- Ku-e-hiko Japanese
a lame deity
- Ku-Ka-Pau Pacific Islands
a name for Ku as 'constructor'
- Ku-Kau-Akahi Pacific Islands
a name for Ku as 'master of the universe'
- Ku-matuenga (see Ku<sup>1</sup>)
- Ku-nga-gyal-po (see Mahapancharaja)
- Ku Shen Chinese
spirits which live in the void from which the universe emerged
- Ku-t'em-ba (see Lha-K'a)
- Ku t'ung Ching Chinese [Old Brass Mirror]
a mirror said to cure madness induced by a demon
- Ku-yu North American
a deified culture-hero of the Mohave brother of Cathena
He was envisaged in the shape of a shark.
- Kua Fu Chinese
a primaevial giant
He died from exhaustion after chasing the sun in a vain effort to capture it. His body turned into a mountain and his stick became the tree which produces the peaches of immortality.
- kuala Russian [=Cherimissian kudo]
a Votyak shrine to an ancestral god or house-spirit
- kuan (see Kw'en)
- Kuan Di Buddhist
a dragon-god in Cambodia and Vietnam, architect of the universe
- Kuan Hsing Chinese [Star of Officials]
an alternative name for the Star of Dignities
- Kuan Lo Chinese
a physician who advised Chao Yen
- Kuan Kung (see Kuan Ti)
- Kuan Shih-jen Chinese a 12th c minister of the imperial court
It was said that, as a young man, he met a band of demons whose function it was, at the beginning of each year, to spread diseases. He and his family, being virtuous, were not affected.
- Kuan-shih-yin (see Kuan Yin)
- Kuan Ti Chinese
[Chang. Emperor Kuan. Fo-mo Ta Ti.
Kuan Kung. Kuan Yu. P'u-sa Kuan.
Wu-an Wang. Wu Ti]
(162-220)
a Confucian god of war
a god of wealth, in some accounts
His original name was Chang, a 2nd-3rd c bean-curd seller, who became a soldier, rising to the rank of general. He was deified after being taken prisoner and executed. He is one of the three bean-curd gods; the others are Chiao Kuan and Huai-nan-tzu.
He is represented as a giant, nine feet tall, with a long beard and red eyes, and is regarded as the patron of sellers of bean-curd and of hotel keepers.
- Kuan Yin Chinese
[Goddess of the Southern Sea.
Kuan-shih-yin. Miao Shan. Sung-tzu Kuan-yin:=Buddhist Avalokitesvara:
=Hindu Vishnu:
=Japanese K(w)annon:
=Sanskrit Padmapani:=Taoist Tou Mu]

a Buddhist mother-goddess, goddess of mercy, the North Star, seamen, women and children daughter of Chong Wang

In one version Kuan Yin was a male derived from Avalokiteshvara; in another she was a mortal princess, Maio Shan, who strangled herself but was revived by Buddha who put her on an island where she stayed for nine years before she became a deity. Some say that she died as a result of sacrificing her hands and her eyes to save the life of her father.

Another story says that her father sentenced her to death when she refused to marry but, when the executioner brought down the sword, it broke, leaving her unharmed. He later had her smothered and she went to hell which was transformed by her presence into a paradise. This did not suit Yama, the ruler of that gloomy place, so he returned her to life.

In some accounts, she was with Tripitaka when he brought the Buddhist culture to China and she released Sun Hou-tzu when Buddha imprisoned him in a mountain.

She is depicted sometimes with many heads and arms, sometimes riding the mythical Hou, a form of lion.

(see also Miao Shan. Tara')

Kuan Yü (see Kuan-ti)

Kuang Ch'eng-tsu Chinese a war-god, ruler of evil spirits

Kuang-hsieh Chinese a sacred mountain, the realm of Yin-chieh-t'o

Kuang-jun (see Ao Jun)

Kuang-li (see Ao Ch'in)

Kuang Mu Chinese

[=Hindu Virupaksha:=Japanese Zochō:

=Taoist Mo-li Hai]

a guardian spirit of the west and autumn

Kuang-she (see Ao Shun)

Kuang-te (see Ao Kuang)

Kuat South American

sun-god of the Maimauran Indians of Brazil

twin brother of Iae

Having no light of his own at the beginning, Kuat and his brother Iae captured Urubutsin, king of the vultures, whose wings blocked out the light of the sky, and released him only after the gift of light had been handed over. They then took to the sky, Kuat becoming the sun, Iae the moon.

Kubaba Mesopotamian

[Gubaba.Kupapa:=Hurrian Sauska:

=Phrygian Cybele]

a Syrian mother-goddess

Kubai-Khotim (see Ajysyt)

Kubaiko Russian

a Tartar heroine

sister of Komdei-Mirgan

The monster Yebegeen cut off her brother's head and she went down to the underworld to plead with the ruler, Erlik Khan, for its return. He set her a number of tasks and, when she successfully completed them all, he gave her the head and some water of life.

Kube African

a name of Mulungu as 'all-embracing'

Kubebe (see Dionysus)

Kubele (see Cybele)

Kubera<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Dhana-Pati.K(a)uvera:=Hindu

Vaishravana:=Indonesian Kuwera:

=Japanese Bishamon.Kompira:

=Thai Kupera:=Tibetan Rnam-thos-sras]

god of wealth

one of the 8 dharmapalas

son of Vishravas and Idavida

He was a Hindu god adopted into the Buddhist pantheon as the bodyguard of Buddha.

(see also Kubera<sup>2</sup>)

(see Sudurmukha)

Kubera<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Dhana-pati.Dhanada.K(a)uvera.

Kumbhakharna.Nara-raja.Ratnagarbha.

Vaishravana.Vibishana.Yaksha]

a god of the dead and god of wealth

king of Alaka

son of Vishravas and Idavida

half-brother of Ravana

one of the Dikpalas, some say husband of Rambha, Riddhi or Yakshi

father of Minakshi

Born to the deserted wife of an artisan, the boy, Duhsaha, became a wicked youth who set out to rob a temple of Shiva. When his own lamp failed he lit ten others, so doing honour to the god. He was killed by a temple guard but was granted rebirth for the lamp episode. Reborn as the evil king Sudurmukha, he still looked after the lamps and was again allowed to be reborn when he was killed by enemies. This time he was Kubera and the guardian of the northern quarter of the world, riding in his flying chariot, Pushpaka.

He was deposed by Ravana and helped Rama in his battle against the demon usurper. For his help, Rama gave him control of all the precious metals and gems.

He is depicted as a fat dwarf with three legs and one eye in the centre of his forehead, all covered in gold.

(see also Kubera<sup>1</sup>

Sudurmukha.Yaksha<sup>2</sup>)

Kubira (see Kompira)

Kubjika Hindu

a goddess of writing

a consort of Ganesa

Kubuddhi Hindu

a goddess

a consort of Ganesa

Kucedre (see Kulshedra)

kuchi African in the lore of the Nupe, a spiritual force

Kucumatz (see Kukumatz)

Kud Korean

evil personified

kud-ava Russian

[jurt-ava.kud-azerava]

a Mordvin tutelary spirit, guardian of the home

kud-azerava (see kud-ava)

Kuda Hebrew

a demon of disorder

This being is said to attack women in labour.

Kudai Siberian

[Bai-Ulgon.Bai-Ylgon.Kudai Bai-Ulgon]

the supreme god of the Tartars

father of Kara-khan, Pyrehak-khan,

Tos-khan and Suilap

He lives on a golden mountain in the sixteenth heaven and receives sacrifices of white horses.

In some accounts, Kudai refers to the seven sons of the supreme god.

Kudai-Bakshy Siberian

the Yakut guardian god of blacksmiths

Kudai-jajutshi Siberian

an Altaic star-god

Kudari-ryo Japanese

a celestial dragon

kude-wodez Russian an evil house-spirit

Kudippe (see Cydippe)

Kudo-no-kami (see Oki-Tsu-Hiko)

kudoa Russian

[=Voytak kual]

a Cherimissian shrine to an ancestral god or house-spirit

Kudrun (see Gudrun)

kuei' Chinese

[hsien:=Hindu preta]

a wandering demon who has lost the chance of reincarnation: a spirit of the dead: a natural force: a benevolent dragon

Some say that these demons, the souls of suicides or of those drowned, have black or green faces.

Another version has kuei as an animal with only one eye. One story says that the Yellow Emperor killed it and made a drum from its skin.

In another account, kuei-lung is an animal with one leg, a voice like thunder and which shines like the sun, living in the east. It causes storms when it enters the water and is identified by some as the crocodile.

kuei<sup>2</sup> Chinese a ceremonial tablet carried by the

Jade Emperor

Kuei Chü-ching Chinese
a 14th c writer

He compiled The Twenty-four Examples of Filial Piety.

K'uei Hsing (see Chung-k'uei)

Kuei Ku-tzu Chinese a god of fortune-tellers

kuei-lung (see kuei<sup>1</sup>)

Kuei Shen Chinese

[Black Tortoise.Sombre Warrior]
the tortoise, chief of all the shell animals

one of the Four Auspicious Animals guardian of the north and of water (see tortoise<sup>2</sup>)

Kuei-tzu-mu Chinese

[Mother of Demons.=Buddhist Hariti] the Chinese version of the female demon Hariti (see also Huo-li-to)

K'uei Yü-chen T'ien-tsun Chinese
in some accounts, a future deity of the San Ch'ing

Kuen Luen (see K'un Lun)

Kuge Japanese
people claiming to be descendants of gods and emperors

Kugo-jen Russian
an evil spirit

This being is said to require sacrifices to be made to him to persuade him to cure illness.

Kugo-jumo Russian
a supreme god of the Chermis

He is envisaged as a manlike being, carrying on many of the earthly practices such as bee-keeping and agriculture.

Kugu-shotshen-Ara
(see Kildisin-mummy)

Kuhu Hindu
a goddess of the new moon

Kui<sup>1</sup> New Zealand
a Maori demon

This being takes the form of a blind female cannibal.

Kui<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
a Polynesian earth-god father of Ina

Kui-gyal-po (see sKui-rgyal-po)

Kuiamo (see Kwoiam)

Kuichi Heizayemon Japanese
a servant

He was carried off by a tengu and forced to climb the roof of a temple where he was placed on a tray which carried him on a journey that seemed to last for several days. When he prayed to the Buddha, he came to and found himself on what he thought was a mountain-top but which was only the roof of the temple where he was found.

Kuila-moku Pacific Islands
a god of medicine in Hawaii

Kuinyo Australian
an evil-smelling spirit, the personification of death

Kujaku-myoo Japanese [=Buddhist Mahamayuri]
a bodhisattva

This guardian god is sometimes regarded as an aspect of Shakyamuni and is depicted riding on a peacock.

Kujo<sup>1</sup> (see Kiyō)

kujo<sup>2</sup> Japanese
a Shinto priest of medium rank

Kuju Siberian
a sky-spirit providing food for man

Kuk (see Kekui)

Kukai Japanese
the original name of the saint, Kobo Daishi

Kukitat North American
a mischief-making deity of the Servano people

brother of Pakrokitat

He was born from the left shoulder of the creator, Pakrokitat, and so upset him with his demands that people should have webbed feet, eyes in the back of their heads and suchlike ridiculous ideas that Pakrokitat departed to the Otherworld and left his brother in charge.

He turned out to be such a troublemaker that the people decided to get rid of him. This they achieved when a frog hid itself in the ocean and swallowed his excrement.

Kukkuri Tibetan
a disciple of the Buddha who converted a number of Lamaist sorcerers

(see also Krishnachari)

Kuknos (see Cycnus)

Kuksu<sup>1</sup> North American
the first man in the lore of the

Maidu Indians
husband of Laidamlulum-kule

Kuksu<sup>2</sup> North American

a creator-god of the Pomo Indians
brother of Marumda
He and his brother attempted to destroy the world by fire and flood.

Kuku-Lau Pacific Islands
a sea-goddess

She causes mirages to delude sailors.

Kuku-no-shi Japanese [Kukunochi]
a god of the trees
son of Izanagi and Izanami

In another version, one of the deities formed when Toyo-uke-hime separated. The other deity formed at this time was Rayanu-hime.

Kuku-Toshi-No-Kami Japanese
a rice-god

Kukucan (see Kukulcan)

Kukudhi (see Kukuth)

Kukul Malay
a king

The Seven Sages at his court each owned one of the Seven Precious Stones with which they could predict the outcome of the king's battles.

Kukulcan Central American

[Cocolcan.Cucucan.Kukucan.
Kukulcan:=Aztec Quetzalcoat:
=Mayan Yum Caax]
a sun-god and wind-god of the Maya and Toltecs

In some accounts he is a king who was deified and called Cezalcoatl.

It is said that he sometimes comes to earth and can be seen planting maize or fishing from his canoe.

He is depicted as a plumed serpent or with a long nose and serpent fangs. His symbols are a fish, maize, a lizard, torch and vulture.

Kukulcan (see Kukulcan)

Kukumatz North American

[Hokomata.Kucumatz:
=Mayan Gucumatz]
the creator-god of the Mohave Indians
twin brother of Tochipa

In some accounts it was he who caused the flood.

(see also Ah Kin.Gucumatz)

Kukunochi (see Kuku-no-shi)

Kukuri Japanese
a god of the underworld

Kukuth Balkan [Kukudhi]
an Albanian female demon causing sickness

kukwanebu East Indian fairy stories in Papua New Guinea

Kul Baltic

[Vasa:=Finnish Vedenhaltija:=Russian Vodyanoi]

a lappish evil water-spirit part human, part fish

He is in conflict with the sky-god Jen.

In some accounts, this being is female and was said to lure men into the water and drown them.

(see also Cacce-haldde)

Kul-jungk (see Jengk-Tongk)Kula Hindu

[male=akula]

in Tantric lore, divine power: the female aspect of the Absolute

Kuladevata Hindu

gods of the household

Each family chooses one god to be the guardian of the household.

Kuladevi Hindu

goddesses of the household

Each family chooses one goddess to be the guardian of the household.

Kulakaras Jain

the early givers of law (see Nabhi)

Kulhwch (see Culhwch)Kulika Hindu

a snake-god

one of 7 mahanagas

Kulili Mesopotamian

[Kulilu]

a monster fighting with Tiamat against Marduk

Kulilu (see Kulili)Kulimina South American

the creator of women in the lore of the Arawak Indians

(see also Kururumany)

Kuling Australian

the Milky Way, home of the thunder-god, Kohin

Kulisankusa Jain

a goddess of learning

one of the 16 vidyadevi

Kulisesvari Buddhist

a goddess

Kulitta (see Kulittas)Kulittas Mesopotamian

[Kulitta]

a Hurrian goddess attendant on Shauskas or, in the Sumerian version, on Ishtar

Kulla Mesopotamian

the Sumerian god of bricks and tools

Kullervo Finnish

[=Estonian Kallevipoeg]

a hero whose exploits appear in the epic Kalevala

son of Kalervo

His uncle, Untamo, killed his own brother, Kalervo, and gave Kullervo to Ilmarinen as a slave. He caused the death of his master's wife, the maiden of Pohjola; she had misused him so he turned her cattle into wild animals which tore her to pieces. He also raped his own sister, not knowing who she was, and the girl drowned herself. When he returned to his own house, he found all his family dead so he killed first Untamo and then himself.

He is depicted as a very strong man who misused his strength.

Kulshan North American

husband of Clear Sky and Fair Maiden

His wives quarrelled and Clear Sky left, setting up her own home far to the south. Later, Fair Maiden left to visit her own mother and she and her children were changed into islands. Kulshan and his three other children, always stretching to try to see the missing women, became mountains while Clear Sky became Mt Rainier.

(see also Mount Rainier)

Kulsheder Balkan

[female=Kulshedre]

an Albanian male demon

Kulshedra Balkan

[Kucedre:male=Kulsheder]

an Albanian female demon

These beings, which develop from Bollas, take the form of loathsome hags or fire-breathing dragons. They are said to cause drought and demand human sacrifices.

Kulu (see Gulu.Kidilli)Kumado Japanese

one of the Michi-No-Kami, 3 guardians of boundaries and roads

kumakanga South American

a werewolf in Brazil

Kumang East Indian

the mother-goddess of Borneo

Kumaphari South American

a cannibal god of the Shipaya tribe

Kumara Hindu

[Kamara]

an aspect of Kartikkeya or Skanda

In this form, no longer a war-god but appearing as a handsome youth.

Kumaras Hindu

4 sons of Brahma, some say

These 'mind-born' children always remained boys.

Kumarajiva Buddhist

[=Chinese Chiu-mo-lo-to) a 5th c Indian sage

one of the Eighteen Lohan, some say

He translated Buddhist texts into Chinese including the Satyasiddhi Sastra, on which the Chinese Satyasiddhi school is based, and the Madhyamika texts used by the San-Lun School.

Kumarbi Mesopotamian

[Kumarbis:=Sumerian Enlil]

the supreme god of the Hurrians, creator-god and father of the gods

father of Hedammu and Ullikummi

son of Anu

He castrated his father by biting off his genitals and then spat out three gods, Teshub, Tasmisus and the river-god Aranzakh. He married the daughter of a sea-god and they produced the monster Hedammu which came out of the sea to devour animals and humans.

When he was overthrown by Teshub, he produced, by impregnating a stone pillar, the giant, Ullikummi, to help him but this being was rendered helpless by Ea. (see also Ellil?)

Kumarbis (see Kumarbi)Kumari' Hindu

[Kamari]

an aspect of Durga as 'virgin'

a name for Devi

a sakti of Karttikeya or Skanda

one of the 7 mataras

one of the 8 Matrikas

She was opposed to the demon Moha.

Kumari? Tibetan

a Lamaist sorcerer

Kumaso Japanese

an outlaw

Prince Yamato came to his camp disguised as a woman, got Kumaso drunk and then killed him.

(see also Idzumo Takeru)

Kumatauenga (see Ku?)Kumbha' Hindu

one of the signs of the Zodiac,

Aquarius the water-carrier

Kumbha? Jain

gods of the underworld

These beings torture the wicked dead by rubbing chilli powder into wounds previously inflicted by other gods.

Kumbhakharna Hindu

a demon

son of Vishravas by one of the rakshasas

half-brother of Kubera, Ravana

and Vibhishana

This monster was said to be over 2,000 miles tall and could eat 5,000 women or 4,000 cows at one meal. He was awake for only one day in every six months but was awake long enough to help Ravana in the battle with Rama during which he ate many of Rama's troops but was killed by Rama and Sugriva.

Kumbhandas Buddhist
short, pot-bellied gnomes or giant demons

Kumbhika Hindu
a realm of hell

This region is reserved for the punishment of the cruel who are boiled in oil.

Kumé Japanese
a sennin

He was looking at the reflection of a maiden in a stream and fell out of his cloud-chariot.

kumi New Zealand
a bulldog-headed monster

Kummiya Mesopotamian
the home of Teshub

Kumokomba Pacific Islands
an Indonesian god of fate son of Lichambene

Kumokums North American
a creator-god of the Modoc Indians

He created the world with mud that he scooped out of Tule Lake. When he was tired from his labours he went to sleep in a hole which he dug in the lake-bottom.

Kumsnooth (see Quaaqua)

Kumu-honua Pacific Islands
the first man in the lore of Hawaii

His wife, Lalo-honua, ate the forbidden fruit of Kane's tree and they were both expelled from their garden paradise. (see also Tiki)

Kumu-Tonga-I-Te-Po Pacific Islands
daughter of Miru

Kumuda<sup>1</sup> Hindu
Suryabhauma, as one of the Dikpalas, or his elephant

Kumuda<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a king of the Nagas father of Kumudavati

Kumudavati Hindu
daughter of Kumuda wife of Kusha

Kumulipo Pacific Islands
the Hawaiian creator-hymn of over 2,000 lines, composed c. 1700

Kumush North American
[=Klamath Kemush]
a creator-god of the Modoc Indians father of Evening Sky

He was given the task of creating the world, using the ashes of the Aurora Borealis and, having built it, populated it with plants and animals. After a long rest, he set about the task of creating mankind. He spent six days and nights in the underworld and returned with a basketful of bones of the dead. From these dry bones he made the various Indian tribes and then ascended into the sky where he lives with his daughter.

Kumwa Korean
[Golden Frog.Gumwa]
a king husband of Yuhwa father of Deso

Hebura, the king, found a little boy, in the form of a golden frog, under a stone and adopted him, calling him Kumwa. When Hebura died, Kumwa took the throne.

He met the maiden Yuhwa, who claimed to be the daughter of a river-earl, and had been banished after being raped by Hemosu who had claimed to be a heavenly being. Kumwa gave her shelter and she eventually bore a large egg from which emerged the boy Chumong. Kumwa was persuaded by his son Deso to kill Chumong but the boy escaped.

Kun<sup>1</sup> Baltic
[Kootamoinen] a Finnish moon-god

Kun<sup>2</sup> Chinese
a sea-monster

In some accounts, this monster changed into the huge bird, the P'eng Niao.

Kun<sup>3</sup> Chinese
[Ku]
a descendant of Huang-ti

He stole the magic swelling earth to construct dams and was killed by Chujung, sent by Huang-ti. The dragon Yu emerged from his body three years after his death.

K'un<sup>4</sup> Chinese
one of the Eight Diagrams, representing the earth and the ox

Kun<sup>5</sup> Hindu
a mother-goddess and goddess of plenty

Kun Dadhana Buddhist
[=Chinese Chun T'ou-p'o-han]
one of the 4 Bikshu

K'un Lun Chinese
[Kuen Luen.Kunlun.Kwen Lun:
=Indian Mount Meru]
the sacred mountain of the West

This mountain, the Taoist paradise where all the inhabitants were immortal, was at the centre of the earth and was over 4,000 miles high, providing a route from earth to heaven. It was regarded as the source of the winds, the Yellow River and the Ju Shui and as the home of the Lord of the Sky and Ho-Po, Count of the River.

Kun-Rig Tibetan
a form of Vairocana with 4 heads

Kun-tu-bzan-Po
(see Kuntu bXan Po)

Kuna Thai
a king

He offended the spirits of the forest by hunting elephants within their precinct and, when he died, they made him a tree-spirit, living in a tree.

Kunado-No-Kami Japanese
a Shinto guardian-deity one of 3 guardians of boundaries and roads a Yakushin deity

Kunapipi Australian [Gunapipi.Kliarin-kliara.Mumuna.
Old Woman]

a mother-goddess of the Aborigines
kundalini-shakti Hindu
serpent-power

This is a mystical phenomenon said to be caused by the upward passage of the kundalini which lies coiled in the lower part of the body.

Kunde African
a hunter-god of the Ewe in Ghana

kundje East Indian a form of magic used in New Guinea

Kundrav Persian
the name for Gandarewa in the Shah Name

Kundry British [Cundrie]
a woman enchanted by Klingsor a version of the Loathly Lady

Klingsor put her under a spell and used her as a drudge but he could change her into a beautiful maiden for his own purposes or to bewitch the knights seeking the Holy Grail who came to his garden of delight. When Parsifal banished the magician, she became a devotee at the Temple of the Grail.

In some accounts, having laughed at Christ on the cross, she was condemned to eternal laughter.

Kung Chinese
a god of thunder

He is usually depicted as a winged being.
kung-ch'i (see cock)

Kung Ch'iu (see Confucius)

Kung-fu-tzu (see Confucius)

Kung Kung Chinese a demon, half man, half serpent a god of water son of Chu-jung

In one story he tilted the world when he impaled Mount Pu Chou on his horn, in another he tried to usurp the throne of Nü-huang and, when he was defeated, knocked down the pillars supporting the sky, thereby causing the flood. For these crimes he was executed.

An alternative version of the flood story says that Kung Kung tore a hole in the sky, allowing the waters to pour out, damage that was repaired by Nü Kua.

Another version says that he tried to depose his father, Chu-jung.

His attendant is Hsiang Yao.

Kung Mu (see Li T'ieh-kuai)

Kung-shu Tzu Chinese

the original name of Lu Pan

Kungarankalpa (see Seven Sisters)

Kungwa African

the supreme god of the Kannuku of Nigeria

Kunhild German

[Simild.Similte]

sister of Dietlieb

wife of Laurin

When Kunhild was carried off by Laurin, king of the dwarfs, her brother went to Dietrich for help. They succeeded in rescuing her but she forgave Laurin and married him.

In some stories, she is Grimhild and the mother of Gudrun.

Kuni-toko-tachi Japanese

[Kuninotokotati.Kunitokotachi]

a supreme Shinto god, spirit of the universe

god of Mount Fuji

An ancestor of Izanagi and Izanami who appeared out of the primordial mud as a reed and is manifest in Amaterasu. He lives on Fujiyama.

Another account makes him the consort of Toyokumono with whom he was produced by one of the branches of the god Umashiashikabihikoji who also produced Izanagi and Izanami.

Kuni-tsu Kanu Japanese

earth-gods, as opposed to

Ama-tsu-Kami

Kunigunde German

a legendary female said to treat all her lovers with contempt

Kuninotokotati

(see Kuni-toko-tachi)

Kunitokotachi (see Kuni-toko-tachi)

Kunjarakarna Hindu

a man who visited the underworld and was given a conducted tour by Yama

Ku'nkunxuliga North American

the thunder-god of the Indians of British Columbia

Kunlun (see K'un Lun)

Kunmanggur Australian

the rainbow-snake of the Aborigines of the Northern Territory father of Tjinimin, the bat

He was stabbed by his son in an argument about their sexual prowess.

(see also Rainbow Snake.Yurlungur)

Kunopis (see Helen<sup>3</sup>)

Kuntarra Mesopotamian

the home of the Hittite gods

Kunti Hindu

[(Princess) Pritha]

daughter of Suira

sister of Vasudava

wife of Kuntibhoja, Pandu and Surya mother of Arjuna, Bhima, Karna

and Yudhishtira

She was originally known as Pritha and it was prophesied that, as a result of a charm given to her by Durvasas, she would have five children, the sons of gods. A prayer to Surya produced a son, Karna, whom she abandoned, and when her first husband, Kuntibhoja, died she married Pandu, the king of Bharata, who refused to have children because of a curse placed on him. Later prayers to the gods gave her Yudhishtira from Dharma, Bhima from Vayu, and Arjuna from Indra. The other boys, the twins Nakula and Sahadeva, were born to Pandu's other wife, Madri, to make up the five Pandava brothers whose struggle with the Kauravas forms the basis of The Mahabharata. In this battle, Karna was killed by Arjuna and his father, the sun-god Surya, avenged his death by burning Kunti into a cinder.

Kuntianak (see Ummu Sibyani)

Kuntibhoja Hindu

first husband of Kunti

Kuntu bXan Po Tibetan

[Kun-tu-bzan-Po:=Buddhist

Samantabhadra:=Taoist P'o Hsien:

=Japanese Fugen]

the creator god of the Bon pantheon

Kunu<sup>1</sup> African

a supreme god in Sierra Leone

kunu<sup>2</sup> South American

in Surinam, a supernatural force used by the gods to punish breaches of the social code

Kuo Chu Chinese

a poor peasant

He was about to kill his sons to feed his starving mother when he found a bar of gold sent by the gods.

Kuo P'o Chinese

a man said to have collected the principles of Feng Shui

Kuo Shang Chinese

a legendary warrior who died for his country

Kuo Ting-hsiang Chinese

wife of Tsao Chün

Her husband divorced her and married Li Hai-t'ang. She met him again, years later, a blind beggar, and restored his sight but failed to save him when he jumped to his death on a fire in remorse for his heartlessness.

Kuo Tzu-i Chinese

a god of wealth in some areas

a god of happiness in other areas

In some accounts, Fu Hsing was the 8th C general of this name, in others he was the young Ch'eng, a 6th C mandarin.

(see also Fu Hsing)

Kupai South American

a devil in Peru

Kupala Slav

a sun-god, god of light

Kupalnitsa Slav

a goddess of lakes and rivers

Kupapa (see Kubaba)

Kupera Thai

[=Buddhist Kubera:=Indonesian

Kuwera:=Japanese Kompira]

a god of wealth

Kupiro Hindu

one of the Yakshas

kupua Pacific Islands

Indonesian demi-gods

Kur Mesopotamian

[Ukur]

a dragon

He abducted Ereshkigal and became ruler of the underworld with her. He was killed by Enki and Ninurta but his body had held back the primeval waters and now a flood threatened. The situation was saved when Ninurta built a wall to hold the waters back.

In some versions, Kur is the underworld.

(see also Kur-nu-gi-a)

Kur-gal (see Kurgal)

Kur-nu-gi-a Mesopotamian

[Kurnugi.Magan.Mahan:=Akkadian

Cutha]

the Sumerian underworld ruled

by Ereshkigal

(see also Kur)

Kura<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

one of several gods credited with having fished up the islands from the bed of the ocean

Kura<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

husband of Eneene

In the myths of Mangaia Island,

Eneene fell into the underworld and was held captive. Kura, with the help of his guardian spirit, went down to the underworld and rescued her.

Kura-Okami Japanese
a Shinto rain-god of the valleys, in the form of a dragon

(see also Taka-Okami)

Kuramochi Japanese
a prince

He was a suitor for the hand of Kaguya and undertook to get for her a jewelled branch of a tree from Mount Horai. He produced instead a copy that his workmen had made but she realised it was a fake and rejected him.

Kurando (see Sakata Kurando)

Kurangai New Zealand

[Kurangai Tuku]

a Maori monster in the form of a bird-woman

She was said to be as tall as a tree and had wings as well as arms. Some say that her nails were so long that she could spear birds with them.

In one story she carried off the young Hautupatu who promptly stole her clothes and escaped, only to return to her when he grew up. Another version says that, when he escaped, she followed him and, in trying to recapture him, fell into a hot spring and was scalded to death.

Kurangai Tuku (see Kurangai)

Kurdaitcha Australian

invisible spirits

These beings accompany sorcerers and cause the death of the sick.

Kurdalaegon (see Kurdalion)

Kurdalion Russian

[Kurdalaegon]

an Ossetian smith-god

Kurderke-jumo Russian

a god of thunder

Kurena North American

[Kwirana.Kwirina.Quirina]

a group of clowns alternating with the Koshare

Their function is to control the weather.

Kuretes (see Curetes)

Kurgal Canaanite

[Kur-Gal]

a name for the Babylonian god Adad

Kurgarru Mesopotamian

one of the 2 beings created by Enki

from the dirt under his fingernails

Kurgarru and Kalaturru were sent to restore Inanna to life and bring her back from the underworld.

Kuri African

[Yandu.Yerro]

a Housa spirit which causes paralysis

Kuribu Mesopotamian

[Karibu.Karubu]

an aspect of Ea as a guardian deity

Kurkil Siberian

a Mongol creator-god

He is envisaged as a raven.

Kurma<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[=Indonesian Kuruma]

a primaeval tortoise

In the earlier, Aryan, myths, Prajapati created the tortoise by squeezing the cosmic egg and its shell became the earth and sky.

Kurma<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Kurma-avatara:=Indonesian Kuruma]

the second incarnation of Vishnu, as a tortoise or turtle

In this incarnation he saved the lost divine drink, amrita. He stood on the bottom of the ocean bearing on his back the mountain, Mount Mandara, that was churned to produce amrita and the other precious objects.

Kurma-avatara (see Kurma<sup>2</sup>)

kurmes Siberian

[=Buriat ongon:=Turkish tyus]

a shamanistic fetish in the form of an image

Kurnaval British

[Gouvernail.Rohand.Rual]

foster-father of Tristram

When Tristram's mother died, Kurnaval claimed the baby Tristram as his son to save him from Morgan who had killed his father, Meliad. He raised the boy, teaching him the knightly arts.

In the Wagnerian story of Tristram and Isolde, he accompanied Tristram to Ireland to escort Isolde to Cornwall and killed the traitor Melot who betrayed Tristram and Isolde to King Mark. He was killed in the same fight, where he is known as Gouvernail.

Kurnugi (see Kur-nu-gi-a)

Kurozaemon Japanese

a servant of the owl Fukuro

Kurriwilban Australian

wife of Koyorowen

She is said to have a horn growing from each shoulder and uses them to kill men. Her husband kills women.

Kursis Baltic

a Lithuanian corn-spirit

Kursis represents the male equivalent of Rugu-Baba.

Kursuri ya Nuru

(see Castle of Light<sup>1</sup>)

Kurttimukha Hindu

a demon created by Shiva

Rahu was sent by Jalandhara to seize

Sakti, wife of Shiva, and the god created Kurttimukha by a blast of power from his eyes. When Rahu ran away in fright, the hungry Kurttimukha was forced to eat itself until all that remained was the face.

kuru<sup>1</sup> Hindu

an evil spirit

Kuru<sup>2</sup> Hindu

an ancestor of the Kauravas and the Pandavas

father of Dhartarastra and Pandu

Kuru<sup>3</sup> Hindu

the most northerly of the 9 realms of the world

Kurukadi Australian

one of the 2 lizard-men, known as Wati-kutjara, ancestors of the Aborigines

twin of Mumba

They awoke in the Dreamtime and created rocks, plants and animals.

When they met Kidilli, the moon-spirit, who was chasing a group of women (or the first woman), they killed him. Kidilli appears in the sky as the moon, the women as the Pleiades and the twins as Gemini.

Kurukulla<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[=Hindu Rati]

a goddess of wealth

a sakti of Amitabha

(see also Astabhujja-Kurukulla.Red Tara)

Kurukulla<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a goddess of boats and wine

Kuruma Pacific Islands

an Indonesian version of the tortoise, Kurma

Kurumasaba African

a supreme god in Sierra Leone

Kururumany South American

a creator-god in the lore of the

Arawak Indians

husband of Emisiwaddo and

Wurekaddo

When he found that men were corrupt

he created snakes and lizards to harass them and took away their immortality.

(see also Kulimina)

Kurus (see Korowas)

kurusi African

in the lore of the Swahili, the throne of the creator-god shielded by the canopy, Arishi

Kurwaichin Polish

a god of sheep

Kus Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god of herdsmen

Kusa Hindu

one of the 7 island continents

(see also Dvipa)

- kusa grass Indian [darbha]
a sacred grass with very sharp blades
It is said that this grass grew from the hairs of Vishnu as Kurma or from the ground on which some of the amrita was spilled at the Churning of the Ocean. Snakes have forked tongues as a result of licking this grass. It is now used in Buddhist rites.
- Kusa Kap South American
in the lore of Torres Strait,
a fabulous bird
It is said that this bird first brought fire to mankind.
- Kusa-nada-hime (see Inada-Hime)
- Kusanagi Japanese
[Ame-no-Murakumo. Grass-cleaving Sword.Grass-mower.
Murakumo-no-Tsuguri]
the sword of O-Uso-No-Mikoto
The magic weapon, Murakumo, was taken by Susanowa from the tail of the dragon, Yamato-no-Orochi, and given to O-Uso-No-Mikoto. It became known as Kusanagi after it had saved its owner from a grass-fire by cutting down the burning grass of its own accord.
- Kusariqqu (see Kusariqu)
- Kusariqu Mesopotamian
[Kusariqqu]
one of the monsters fighting with Tiamat against Marduk
In some accounts, the Fish-man.
- Kusha Hindu
son of Rama or Ravana and Sita
twin brother of Lava husband of Kumudavati
- Kushadhvaja Hindu
son of Brhaspati
father of Vedavati
- Kushamba Hindu
a king
son of Kusha
father of Gadhi
His devotion to Indra persuaded the god to be born as his son, Gadhi.
- Kushi-Dama-Nigi-Haya-Hi Japanese
a Shinto sun-god
- Kushi-Iwa-Mada-No-Mikoto Japanese
a Shinto god, guardian of entrances
- Kushi-mitama Japanese
a spirit which brings about mysterious transformations
- Kushi-nada (see Inada)
- Kushinada (see Inada)
- Kusinara Buddhist
in China, the place where the Buddha left his footprints in stone
- Kusiunek Inuit
witchcraft which can cause illness or death
- Kuski-banda Mesopotamian
a name for Ea or Oannes as god of goldsmiths
- Kusmandi Jain
an earth-goddess
She was said to have appeared in 983 to indicate the spot where a huge statue of Gommateshvara was buried.
- Kuso Russian
a Cheremis festival, involving sacrifice, held in June
- Kusor Mesopotamian
[Kusorhasisu]
an artisan-god
His job at creation was to fit windows in the roof of the earth to let rain in.
In some accounts he is the same as Kothar.
- Kusorhasisu (see Kusor)
- Kustenhin (see Custenin)
- Kustenin (see Custenin)
- Kustennin (see Custenin)
- kushti (see sacred thread?)
- kusti (see sacred thread?)
- Kusug Mesopotamian
[Urbadda]
high priest to the gods of Babylon
- Kusuh Mesopotamian
[=Hittite Kasku]
a Hurrian moon-god
- Kusuit North American
a supernatural being in the lore of the tribes of British Columbia These beings are said to cure the sick.
- Kusumamodini Hindu
[=Greek Chloris:=Roman Flora]
a flower-goddess
- kut<sup>1</sup> Korean
a ceremony of purification and the driving out of spirits
- Kut<sup>2</sup> Siberian in the lore of the Yakuts, the soul: the spirit investing all men and all natural objects
The soul is said to have three parts known as anya-kut, buor-kut and iya-kut.
- Kutchis Australian
supernatural beings consulted by the Aborigine medicine-men
- kuti African
in the lore of the Nupe, a spiritual force
- Kutumio (see Irke)
- Kutkhu Siberian
[Kutk.Kutq:=Chukchee Ku'urki:=Koryak Kutkinna'qu.Quikinna'qu] creator-god of the Kamchadal tribe brother of Xutlizic consort of Ilkxum
In some accounts he brought the earth down from heaven, in others he created it from the body of his son.
- Kutkinna'qu (see Quikinna'qu)
- Kutku (see Kutkhu)
- kutni Indian
a wise woman: a witch
- Kutoyis North American
an Algonquin brave
His 'parents' had a son-in-law who treated them very badly, keeping all the meat and skins from the hunt for himself. One day, all he allowed his father-in-law was a drop of blood that he found on the arrow that had killed a buffalo. The old man put the drop of blood into a pot with some water and boiled it. When he opened the pot, he found a baby boy, Kutoyis, who instructed the old man to tie him to the lodge-pole, whereupon he grew to manhood at once. He killed the evil son-in-law and went on to rid the land of many evils before departing forever to the Shadow Land.
- Kutq (see Kutkhu)
- Kutsa (see Kutso)
- Kutso Hindu
[Kutsa]
a protégé of Indra
When Kutso was fighting Sushna, Indra stopped his sun-chariot and pulled off one of the wheels which Kutso then used as a weapon to defeat his enemy.
- Kutushar (see Ninlil)
- Kuu Finnish
the moon
- Ku'urkil Siberian
[=Kamchadal.Kutkhu.Kutq:=Koryak Kutkinna'qu.Quikinna'qu] creator-god of the Chukchee tribe the first human being
- Kuvalayapida Hindu
an elephant
Kansa invited Krishna and Balarama to a feast and used this huge animal in one of his attempts to kill his guests. The elephant was killed instead, by Krishna.
- Kuvalayaswa Hindu
a king
He sent his 21,000 sons to kill the demon Dhundhu who had burnt the saint, Uttanka. All except three of them died in the flames but the survivors killed the demon.
- Kuvanna Hindu
a Yakshi

wife of Vijaya
 mother of Pulinda and Pulindi
 In the form of a bitch, she put a spell on Vijaya's men and then turned into a lovely woman. Vijaya married her as the price for releasing his men and later became the king of the yakshas.

Kuvan-pas (see Staka-pas)
Kuvera (see Kubera)
Kuveri (see Yakshi?)
kuwai Japanese
 an amulet in the form of water-weed, used to guard against fire

Kuwarishiki-no-Amida Japanese
 a form of Amida, red in colour

Kuwatawata Pacific Islands
 a guardian of Pou-Tere-Rangi, the entrance gate of the Polynesian heaven

Kuwe Pacific Islands
 a lizard-goddess of the Moluccas

Kuweru Pacific Islands
 [=Buddhist Kubera;=Japanese Kompira; =Thai Kuperu]
 an Indonesian god of wealth

Kuyakaya Japanese
 a strong man
 He was killed by Nomi-No-Sukune.

Kuzimu African
 the Swahili underworld
 It is said that the movements of ghosts in this realm cause earthquakes.

Kuzu-no-ha Japanese
 a fox said to have married a human warrior

Kvas (see Kvasir)
Kvasir Norse
 [Kvas(or).Qvasir]
 a sage or god of wisdom
 He was made from the saliva of the gods, which they spat into a vase as part of the peace ceremony between the Aesir and the Vanir, and in some accounts he is regarded as a god of wisdom.
 The dwarfs Fialar and Galar became jealous of Kvasir and wanted to acquire his knowledge so they killed him in his sleep and drained off his blood into three vessels. They added honey to make a drink which inspired all who partook of it to become poets or musicians.

Kvasor (see Kvasir)
kveldrida (see trollkona)
Kwa (see Eight Diagrams)
Kwajitsu Japanese
 a warrior-monk

Kwaku Ananse African
 [=Yoruba Anansi]
 the spider-god of the Ashanti

Kwammang-a African a rainbow deity

Kwan Buddhist
 an evil spirit
 This being is said to hover over a newborn child until, at a date fixed by astrologers, a lock of its hair is cut off.

Kwangiden' Japanese [=Buddhist Ganapati]
 a representation of Sannayaki and Vinayaki embracing like the 2 elephant-headed figures of Shoten

Kwangiden' (see Shoten)
Kwangiten (see Shoten)
Kwangyo-mandara Japanese
 one form of paradise
 (see also Taema-mandara)

Kwanjizai Japanese [=Buddhist Avalokiteshvara]
 a bodhisattva
 (see also Kongo Gundari)

Kwannon Japanese [Bato.Chu-jo Hime.Fuku-kensaku.
 Jiu-ichi-men-Kwannon.Juichimen.
 Jundei.Kannon(-sama).Nyoirin.Senjiu.
 Sho(tuku):=Buddhist Avalokiteshvara:
 =Chinese Kuan Yin]
 Buddhist mother-goddess. goddess of mercy, women and children
 This deity is sometimes represented in masculine form as a prince. Other forms show a thousand eyes, the head of a horse or eleven arms, reflecting some of her names. As 'the Wise', she is Sho-Kwannon; as 'eleven-faced' she is Ju-ichi-men Kwannon; as 'a thousand-handed' she is Sen-ju Kwannon; as 'horse-headed' she is Bato Kwannon and as 'omnipotent' she is Nyo-i-rin Kwannon. In some manifestations, as Hito-koto Kwannon, she will answer only one prayer.
 Some sects envisage groups of six, seven or even thirty-three Kwannons.
 She is said to have renounced nirvana to bring happiness to others.

Kwanyip South American
 a culture-hero of the Ona tribe of Tierra del Fuego
 He is said to have defeated the evil spirit, Chenuke.

Kwarwar (see Chinigchinich) Kwaasind North American
 in Longfellow's Hiawatha, a strong man
 He was the strongest man on earth and invulnerable to everything but the blue fir-cone. He died when the dwarfs threw these cones at him while he slept.

Kwatee (see Kivati)

Kwati (see Kivati)
Kw'en Chinese [kuan]
 a miraculous fish which lives in a pool in heaven

Kwen Lun (see K'un Lun)
Kwikumat North American [=Dieguenos Tuchaipai]
 a creator-god of the Yuma
 He is said to have emerged from the sea.

Kwirana (see Kurena)
Kwirina (see Kurena)
Kwoiam East Indian [Kuiamo]
 a culture-hero in New Guinea

Kworrom African
 a Housa spirit who trips up those who pass his home under the roots of a tree

Kwotei Japanese
 an epithet for a Tenno as ruler of earthly affairs

Kwoth African [Tutgar]
 the creator-god of the Nuer people of the Sudan

Kyai Agung East Indian
 husband of Nawang Dulan
 father of Rora Nawang Sih
 He seized the feather coat that the moon-goddess, Nawang Dulan, had used to fly down to earth to bathe so that she could not fly away. She married Kyai Agung and they had one daughter but the goddess later found her feathers and flew back to her home in the sky.

Kyai Belorong East Indian [Kyai Blorong]
 a servant of the sea-goddess in Java
 He is said to have 1,000 arms and legs, and the tail of a fish. He makes gold from stones and will give as much as he wishes to any man – the penalty is death after seven years.
 He lives in a splendid palace under the sea which has real men as columns to hold up the roof which is made from human bones.

Kyai Blorong (see Kyai Belorong) Kyala African
 a supreme god of the Ngonde people

Kybai-khotun Siberian [Kbai-khotun]
 a Yakut goddess of childbirth and fate-goddess consort of Ar-tojon
 mother of Ar-soghotch, the first man
 She is said to live in the Zambu, the tree of life.

- Kybebe (see Cybele)
- Kybele (see Cybele)
- Kye-ba-rdorje (see Kye-rdor)
- Kye-rdor Buddhist
[Kye-ba-rdorje]
the Tibetan version of Hevajira
- Kyesar Saga (see Gesar Saga)
- Kyklops (see Cyclops)
- Kyklopes (see Cyclops)
- Kyknos (see Cynus)
- Kyleddon (see Cyleddon)
- kylin (see ch'i lin)
- Kylli Finnish
wife of Lemminkainen
Her husband divorced her when she broke a promise not to attend local dances.
- Kylliki Finnish
a goddess of love
mother of Lemminkainen
When her son was killed by a serpent, the son of Tuomi cut his body into pieces and threw it into the river. She recovered the pieces, reassembled them and, smearing the body with honey brought by a bee, restored him to life.
- Kymbeline (see Cunobelinus)
- Kymbelinus (see Cunobelinus)
- Kymenos Greek
a name of Heracles as 'renowned'
- Kymidei (see Cymidei)
- Kymideu Kymeinvoll (see Cymidei)
- Kymon (see Cynon)
- Kynan British
an ancestor of King Arthur
- Kynddelig (see Cynddelig)
- Kynddylig (see Cynddelig)
- Kynedyr (see Cynedyr)
- Kynfarch (see Cynfarch)
- Kynvor (see Kynor)
- Kynnvor (see Kynor)
- Kynon (see Cynon)
- Kynor British [Kynuawr.Kyn(n)vor]
great-grandfather of King Arthur
- Kynotus British
a man who was appointed rector of Cambridge by King Arthur
- Kynuawr (see Kynor)
- Kynvarch (see Cynfarch)
- Kynvor (see Kynor)
- Kynwal British
an ancestor of King Arthur
- Kyode-Jielle Russian
a household spirit
- Kyohime Japanese
a maiden who became a serpent
She changed herself into a serpent to kill her lover who proved unfaithful to her.
- Kyoi North American [=Kato Nagaitco:=Yuki Taikomol]
a creator-god of the Sinkyone tribe of California
- Kyotan (see Kotan-shorai)
- kyoung Burmese
[=Buddhist vihara]
a Buddhist monastery
- Kyparissos (see Cyparissus)
- Kypris (see Cypris)
- Kyrgys-khan Siberian
a Tartar deity bringing happiness grandson of Kudai (see also Sary-khan)
- Kysan-Tengere Siberian
[=Mongol Kisangan-Tengri]
an Altaic god living in the ninth heaven
- Kytelen, Alice Irish
a 14th c witch
She sometimes appeared in the form of a black dog.
- Kyumbe African
a creator god of the Zaramo people of Tanzania
- Kyung-Gai in Go-Can Buddhist
the Tibetan version of Garuda
- Kyzaemon Japanese
a farmer
A phantom, the spirit of the dead Oyazu, came to his house and prayed before his family shrine. Her husband, Isaburo, had left her parents without support but, after several visits from Oyazu in the guise of Yuki-Onna, he returned to their house to live.

L

L Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity,
referred to as god L: perhaps Ek Chuah

This deity is depicted as an old man, hollow-cheeked from lack of teeth,
with part of the face painted black,
giving him the alternative name of Old Black God. Some identify this god as Ek Chuah or Tepeyollotl.

la' Burmese
the soul or, some say, a nat (see leippya)

La<sup>2</sup> Central American
a goddess

Another version of the story of Coatlucue's impregnation with a ball of down has the widow La, whose 400 sons have grown up and left, becoming pregnant when she places a feather in her breast and bearing a son, Huitzilopochtli.

La Beale Isoud (see Isolde<sup>2</sup>)

La Cote Male Tailée (see Breunor)

La Croix (see Baron Samedi)

La Dorada South American
in Inca lore, a statue of the female consort of the king (of) El Dorado

La Festival Chinese a festival at which sacrifices are made to all the divinities

La Joyeuse (see Joyeuse)

La Llorona South American

a modern version of the cihuateteo
This spirit is said to take the form of an unhappy woman weeping for a lost child.

La Silène West Indian

a female Haitian voodoo spirit

La Sirene (see Sirene)

La Strega (see Befana<sup>2</sup>)

La Veve Dame British
in some accounts, wife of the Fisher King

La Vecchia (see Befana<sup>2</sup>)

Laa Boaldyn (see Beltane)

La'a Maomao Pacific Islands
[=New Zealand Raka Maomao: =Samoan Fa'atiu]

a Hawaiian wind-god
In the guise of an old man, he controlled the winds so that Makeha won a sailing race and, with it, the hand of the princess Ho'o Ipo.

Labama African

daughter of Nchienge

sister and wife of Woto

labartu Mesopotamian

a female mountain demon

These demons, of which there were seven, were said to steal children.

In some accounts they acted as benevolent guardians.

Labashu Mesopotamian

[Labasu]

a Semitic monster

Labasu (see Labashu)

Labbu Mesopotamian

[Labu.La(c)hmu.Lakhmu:= Babylonian Tiamat]

a Sumerian monster created by Enlil
As the Shining Snake, this monster was one of the Eleven Mighty Helpers of Tiamat.

In some accounts, this monster was killed by Tispak.

Labdacus Greek

[Labdakos]

a king of Thebes

son of Polydorus and Nycteis

father of Laius

After taking over the throne of Thebes, he fought a war against Athens and lost. He died soon after and Lycus ruled as regent for the infant Laius.

Labdakos (see Labdacus)

Labe Persian

a queen in The Arabian Nights

She was a sorceress who could turn men into animals.

Labeled

a demon

Label British

a king of Persia

His daughter converted to Christ-ianity and married Celidoine, king of Scotland.

Labezerin

a demon associated with success

Labhar Irish

the physician to the Fianna

Labiane British

niece of King Mark

Mark raped her and, after she had borne him a son called Meraugis, he killed her.

Labor (see Lambor)

Labours of Hercules Greek

the tasks given to Hercules as penance after he killed his children

These stories are generally referred to as the Labours of Hercules, the name the Romans used for Heracles, but since they take place in a Greek setting and with a full cast of Greek characters it seems more appropriate to retain the name Heracles. Not all writers agree on the order, or even the content, of the various tasks. Other versions include clearing the seas of pirates and the killing of Cycnus.

All the Labours were carried out on the instructions of Eurystheus, king of Mycenae (or Tiryns, in some versions), who was so frightened of Heracles that he hid himself in a large bronze jar buried in the ground and had his orders passed on by his herald Copreus.

For his first Labour, Heracles killed the Nemean lion which had a skin that resisted all weapons, choking it to death with his bare hands. After flaying it with its own claws, he used the skin as armour, as, in other accounts, he had done with the skin of the Cithaeronian lion.

He next killed the Hydra, a monster with a body like a dog and many heads, one of which was immortal. In this he was helped by Iolaus who burned the neck as Heracles cut off each head so that the head could not grow again. The immortal head he cut off and buried. Heracles dipped his arrows in the poison of the carcass so that the slightest wound from one of them was always fatal. In the end, this cost Heracles his own life.

He was then ordered to capture the golden-horned Ceryneian hind which he did by chasing it for a year until she was exhausted, whereupon he hoisted her on to his shoulders and carried her to Mycenae.

For his fourth task he captured alive the Erymanthian boar which was ravaging the area around Mount Erymanthus. En route, he killed several Centaurs and routed the others when they attacked him and Pholus, another Centaur who was entertaining Heracles. One of those who escaped was Nessus who was later to be instrumental in bringing about the death of Heracles. During this encounter, Heracles accidentally wounded Chiron, king of the Centaurs and the wise counsellor to many heroes, and Pholus died when he dropped one of Heracles' poisoned arrows on his foot. He captured the boar alive and carried it back to Mycenae. He then went off to join the Argonauts, only returning to his Labours when he was left behind at Mysia.

His next task was to cleanse the stables of Augeas, king of Elis. The whole area was deep in dung from his huge herds and Heracles cleansed it all by diverting the rivers Alpheus and Peneius. He claimed one tenth of the herds as reward for his efforts but Augeas reneged on the deal. On his way home, he saved Mnesimache from a Centaur intent upon rape, killing her attacker.

The sixth Labour involved the driving off of the huge flock of man-eating birds, largely made of brass, from the Stymphalian Marshes. This he did by making a terrible din with castanets (or a rattle) to scare the birds into the air where he shot them down with his poisoned arrows.

The white bull given by Poseidon to Minos, which had fathered the Minotaur on his wife Pasiphae, was still ravaging Crete and for his next task Heracles successfully captured it and brought it to Mycenae. Eurystheus set it free again and it was later captured by Theseus as the Marathonian Bull and killed.

Diomedes, king of the Bistones in Thrace, had four wild mares which he fed on human flesh. Heracles was given the task of capturing these animals as his eighth Labour. On his way there he stayed with his friend King Admetus who was in mourning for his wife, Alcestis, who had sacrificed her own life to save his. Heracles, penitent for getting noisily drunk in a house of mourning, wrestled with Death himself and forced him to hand over Alcestis alive again. Having collected the mares, he drove them to the shore ready to ship them back to Greece and diverted the sea into a channel to foil the pursuing Bistones. While he was thus engaged, the mares ate Abderus who had been left in charge of them. He knocked out Diomedes and fed him to the mares which, when full, were tame enough to be led aboard his ship. He left the mares in charge of Laomedon, king of Troy.

For his ninth Labour, Heracles was required to get the love-girdle given by Ares to Hippolyta, an Amazon queen, for Admete, the daughter of Eurystheus. The queen offered it to him as a gift but her people, incited by Hera to believe that Heracles intended to abduct their queen, attacked his ship. He killed Hippolyta, took her golden girdle and routed her army. Others say that he took Melanippe as hostage and returned her in exchange for the girdle while Theseus, who had joined the expedition, took Antiope who was in love with him. On the way back to Mycenae he defeated the champion boxer, Titias, at the games and inadvertently killed him and rescued Hesione who had been chained to a rock by her father, Laomedon, king of Troy, as a sacrifice to a sea-monster sent by Poseidon. When Laomedon refused to hand over the mares of Diomedes that Heracles had left in his charge or, in some versions, reneged on a promise to give Heracles two immortal horses if he would rid Troy of the monster, Heracles killed Laomedon and all his sons except Podarces whom he set – as Priam – on the throne of Troy. He also shot and killed Sarpedon and killed both Polygonus and Telegonus in a wrestling match.

His next task was to fetch the cattle of Geryon the winged, three-bodied king of Tartessus. He travelled via Libya and Helios gave him a golden bowl in which he sailed to the island of Erythea where Geryon ruled. En route to Spain, Heracles erected the Pillars of Hercules at the entrance to the Mediterranean. In the Pyrenees, the giant Albion lay in ambush, hoping to kill Heracles to avenge the death of the other giants killed by Heracles when they attempted to overthrow the Olympian gods, but Heracles came upon him from behind and killed him. Reaching Geryon's kingdom, he killed both Orthrus, the two-headed guard-dog, and Eurytion, the herdsman, with his club and Geryon with an arrow through all three bodies and then drove the cattle to Mycenae. He mated with Galata, fathering a son, Corin, to found the nation of the Gauls, and killed the brothers Ialebion and Dercynus and the three-headed Cacus, when they tried to steal the cattle. In some stories, Heracles killed Scylla for taking some of the cattle and at Croton, where he was entertained by an old hero of the same name, Lacinius tried to steal some of the cattle and a fight ensued in which Heracles accidentally killed Croton. He also killed King Faunus who had the habit of killing and sacrificing all strangers. Others he killed on this adventure were Eryx, a king of Sicily who challenged all-comers to a wrestling match and was defeated by Heracles and the giant Alcioneus who died when the stone he threw at Heracles rebounded and killed him. Heracles' horses were stolen by a snake-woman who returned them only when Heracles agreed to sleep with her. He stayed with her for some time and fathered three sons, Agathyrus, Gelonus and Scythes. Some say that this snake-woman was Echidna who was Geryon's sister.

The tree that Gaea had given to Hera as a wedding-gift produced golden apples and the next Labour, the eleventh, was the task of collecting some of this fruit from the garden on Mount Atlas where it was guarded by the Hesperides, daughters of Atlas, and by the dragon Ladon. He had a great struggle, through many shape-changes, with Nereus before the sea-god would disclose the location of this secret garden. Heracles killed the dragon with an arrow and persuaded Atlas to get some of the apples from his daughters while he temporarily took on Atlas' task of holding up the heavens though others say that Heracles entered the garden and picked the apples himself. In some accounts, he killed Emathion who tried to prevent him from taking the apples. On the way home with the apples (which were later returned to Hera), he killed the giant King Antaeus of Lybia in another wrestling match and both Busiris, king of Egypt, and his son, Amphidamas, when the former tried to kill Heracles on a sacrificial altar to avert drought. He also found Prometheus chained to a rock, killed the vulture that had been tearing at his liver and set him free. Prometheus then took on the immortality of Chiron who was still suffering from the wound inflicted by Heracles' poisoned arrow but could not die.

His final task was to bring the three-headed dog Cerberus, the guardian of Tartarus, to Mycenae. He freed Theseus from the Seat of Forgetfulness but failed to free Peirithous. Wrestling with Menotes, herdsman to Hades (or, in some accounts, with Hades himself), Heracles threatened to kill him unless Hades handed over Cerberus. He choked the dog into submission and dragged it to Mycenae. While he was in Tartarus, Heracles was told by the shade of Mealeager of his sister's beauty and Heracles promised to marry her. She later became his second wife, Deianeira. When Eurystheus insulted him by offering him a slave's portion of a sacrifice, Heracles killed the king's three sons, Eurybius, Erypilus and Perimedes. Cerberus was later returned to Hades.

Labra Swift Hand

(see Labraid Luathlam)

Labra the Mariner

(see Labraid Loiseach)

Labhraidh (see Labraid)

Labraid Irish

[Labra.Labhraidh]

father of Fintan by Bochna

Labraid Lamfhada Irish

a druid

He was present at the Battle of Fionn's Strand, passing magical weapons to the Fianna. (see also Lamfada)

Labraid Loingseach

(see Labraid Loiseach)

Labraid Loingsech

(see Labraid Loiseach)

Labraid Loiseach Irish

[Labra the Mariner.Labraid

Loingse(a)ch.Labhraidh Loingsech.

Lorc.Maon.Moen]

a king of Leinster

son of Ailill

As a boy, he was known as Labraid but he lost the power of speech when Covac forced him to swallow pieces of the hearts of his father and grandfather, whom Covac had killed, and was thereafter known as Maon. He fell in love with Moriath of Munster but fled to France to escape Covac. Moriath sent a harper called Craftiny to convey her love for Maon and he, recovering his speech, returned at the head of an army, killed Covac, married Moriath and took over the throne.

In some accounts, he was called Maon first and Labraid Loiseach later.

Some say that he had an iron chamber built in which he imprisoned Covac and his thirty followers. He then built fires round the walls and roasted them to death.

He was said to have horse's ears and all who knew the secret were killed. One barber who was spared told the secret to a tree. A harp made for Craftiny from the wood of this tree gave away the secret when played. Some say that St Brigit turned the horse's ears into normal human ears.

Labraid Luathlam Irish

[Labra Swift Hand.Labhraidh]

ruler of Mag Mell

husband of Li Ban

He was in conflict with three warriors and needed help so he promised Fand, his sister (or sister-in-law), to Cuchulainn if he would help him defeat his enemies.

Labros Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Labros, tore him to pieces.

Labu (see Labhu)

labuni East Indian

fragments of bone, coral or stone

These fragments, it is said, can be used by a sorcerer as his familiar, and he can cause them to fly through the air and embed themselves under the skin of an intended victim, causing illness or death.

Labus

a demon of the Inquisition

Labyrinth Greek

the maze built by Daedalus for Minos,

king of Crete, to contain the Minotaur

Lac British

[=Norse Ilax]

a Knight of the Round Table

a king of Estregales son of Canan

brother of Dirac

father of Brandiles, Erec and Jeschuté

Lac Long Quan Vietnamese

a culture-hero

son of Kinh Duong Vuong

His father married the daughter of a sea-dragon and Lac Long Quan emerged from the sea to overcome the evil spirits and to teach the people how to grow and cook rice. He returned later and captured Au Co, the wife of an invading Chinese war-lord, forcing him to leave.

Lacedaemon Greek
son of Zeus by Taygete husband of Sparte
father of Amyclas and Eurydice

Lach Irish
father of Irgallach

Lachamu (see Lahamu)

Lache Mesopotamian
an alternative version of Lahmu consort of Lachos
father of Moymis

Lachesis Greek [Lakhsis]
the Fate who measures the thread of life

She is depicted with a scroll.

Lachme Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Lachme, tore him to pieces.

Lachmu (see Lahmu<sup>1</sup>)

Lachos Mesopotamian
an alternative version of Lahamu consort of Lache
mother of Moymis

Lacinius Greek
an Italian bandit

He attempted to steal some of the cattle that Heracles had seized from Geryon and, in the ensuing fighting, Croton, who was entertaining Heracles at the time, was accidentally killed.

Lacon Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Lacon, tore him to pieces.

Lactanus Roman [Lactans]
a god of agriculture

Lactans (see Lactanus)

Lactantius Roman
a 2nd or 3rd c writer, generally regarded as the author of the poem Phoenix

Lada<sup>1</sup> Greek
a goddess of Lycia

Lada<sup>2</sup> Slav
wife of Lado

She and her husband Lado personified divine marriage.

Ladasin British
a knight

He was one of the 100 knights fighting

for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Ladder of Heaven Japanese the means whereby Amaterasu and Tsuki-yami rose to take their places in the sky

Ladhaa African
in the lore of the Swahili, the second floor of hell reserved for misers who are forced to drink the blood of their victims

Ladinas British [Ladynas]
a French knight

He came to Britain with the army brought over by Bors and Ban.

Ladis British
a king of Lombardy, in Arthurian lore

ladni Tibetan
a female yeti
(see also abominable snowman)

Lado Slav
husband of Lada
He and his wife Lada personified divine marriage.

Ladon<sup>1</sup> British
a king of Gascony husband of Lidoine

After the death of Ladon, his widow was abducted by Savari, was then rescued by King Arthur and married Claris.

Ladon<sup>2</sup> Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Ladon, tore him to pieces.

Ladon<sup>3</sup> Greek
the hundred-headed dragon guarding the apples of the Hesperides offspring of Typhon and Echidna or of Phorceys and Ceto

Heracles killed the dragon when he obtained some of the apples as his eleventh Labour and Hera placed him in the heavens as the constellation Draco.

Ladon<sup>4</sup> (see Peneus)

Ladra Irish [Ladru]
a ship's pilot

He was the pilot of the ship that brought the first settlers, fifty women and three men led by Cessair, to Ireland. He and the other men, Bith and Fintan, shared the women and Ladra died from too much sexual activity.

Ladru (see Ladra)

Lady Ch'i Chinese

second wife of an official goddess of the privy
Her husband's principal wife, Lady Ts'ao, was jealous and killed her by throwing her into the privy. She was deified as goddess of the privy.

(see also Keng San Ku-niang)

Lady Leek Stem Chinese
mother of Radish

Because she kept, for herself, the money that her son had left for distribution to the poor, she was sent to hell when she died. Radish interceded with the Buddha and she was returned to earth as a dog. Radish spent a week in prayer and she was finally made human again.

Lady Melyhalt (see Bloie)

Lady Meng Chinese [Lady Ming.Meng(-p'o)]
an underworld spirit

She gave those returning to life a drink of Mi Hung Tang, the Broth of Oblivion, after which they cross the Bridge of Pain, K'u-ch'u ch'iao.

Lady Midday (see Psejpolnica)

Lady Ming (see Lady Meng)

Lady Mud Earth (see Shuhiji-ni)

Lady Nourishment
(see Tonacacihuatl)

Lady of Avalon (see Morgan le Fay)

Lady of Ascalot (see Elaine<sup>3</sup>)

Lady of Asheru (see Mut)

Lady of Battles (see Ishtar)

Lady of Byblos (see Asherah.Hathor)

Lady of Death (see Mictlantecuhtl)

Lady of Dendera (see Hathor)

Lady of Drachenfels (see Bolfriana)

Lady of Duality (see Omecihuatl)

Lady of Faience (see Hathor)

Lady of Fecundity Chinese

an attendant on the Lady of T'ai Shan

Lady of Fortune European

a name for Morgana in Orlando
Inamorata

Lady of Heaven
(see Edjo.Kades.Qedshet.Wadjet)

Lady of Kornton (see Larie)

Lady of Little Van Lake Welsb

a water-fairy
She was reputed to have great skill in the use of herbs in medical treatment.

In some accounts she is equated with Modron.

Lady of Lyle (see Lyle)

Lady of Malehaut (see Bloie)

Lady of Our Flesh
(see Omecihuatl.Tonanaciuatl)

Lady of Pohjola (see Louhi)

Lady of Rule British mother of Alyne by Pellimore

Lady of Sati (see Anuket)

Lady of Shallot (see Elaine<sup>3</sup>)

Lady of Sballot English

a poem by Tennyson telling the story of Elaine, the Fair Maid of Astolat

Lady of Sinadone
(see Lady of Sinadun)

Lady of Sinadun British

[Blonde Esmerée. Lady of Sinadone] daughter of a king of Wales

Gingalin was asked to help her against Mabon and Yvan, the magicians who had turned her into a snake. He killed Mabon but Yvan escaped. When he kissed the snake, it was restored as a beautiful woman who married Gingalin.

Lady of T'ai Shan Chinese

a goddess
patroness of immortals daughter of T'ai Shan wife of Hsi Hai

She is said to sleep for nine months of the year, awaking in spring to bring the rains.

Lady of the Abyss Mesopotamian

wife of the Babylonian supreme god

Lady of the Bed (see Chuang Mu)

Lady of the Beginning (see Isis)

Lady of the Blue Robe
(see Matlalcueye)

Lady of the Castle British

a lady rescued by Percival from the Hags of Gloucester

This may be Lufamour with whom he then spent three weeks.

Lady of the Castle of Life
(see Mafdet)

Lady of the Emerald (see Isis)

Lady of the Emerald Robe
(see Chalchihuitlicue)

Lady of the Fair Hair British

a fairy
King Arthur rescued her from the clutches of the Fish Knight and took her for a lover.

Lady of the Flowered Clouds
(see Yao Chi)

Lady of the Fountain<sup>1</sup> Welsh [Owain]

a story from the Mabinogion relating the adventures of Owain

Lady of the Fountain<sup>2</sup> (see Laudine)

Lady of the Great Mountain
(see Ninhursaga)

Lady of the Jade Flower (see Wan)

Lady of the Lake<sup>1</sup> British [Dame du Lac. Morgana. Nimue.

White Serpent]

guardian of a magical lake

The office of guardian of the lake, who lived in a castle in the centre of the lake with her own train of attendants, seems to have been occupied by several women in the Arthurian legends, including Morgan le Fay and Nimue.

She seized the infant Lancelot when he was left on the side of the lake and reared him in her underwater realm until he reached manhood. In one version she is said to have given the sword Excalibur to King Arthur and to have received it when it was returned to the lake by Bedivere on Arthur's death.

One holder of this office was killed by Balin whom she accused of killing her brother.

In some Continental tales she was the mother of Mabuz. (see also Nimue)

Lady of the Lake<sup>2</sup> European
a name for Morgana in Orlando

Furioso

Lady of the Mansion (see Nephthys)

Lady of the Mountain
(see Ninhursaga)

Lady of the Night (see Yohualticitl)

Lady of the Rainbow (see Ix Chel)

Lady of the Rock British

a lady deprived of her lands
Her lands had been seized by Edward and Hugh and all she had left was the Castle of the Rock and very little to live on. Owain (Ewain), having completed his training under Lyne, the warrior-maid, fought both the robber-barons at once, killing Edward and forcing Hugh to yield. The grateful lady offered Owain the chance to live with her but he decided to seek further adventures.

Lady of the Snow (see Yuki-onna)

Lady of the Star Tse Wei
(see Ching Wo)

Lady of the Turquoise (see Isis)

Lady of the Vine (see Geshtinanna)

Lady of the West
(see Hathor. Sakhmet)

Lady of the Wilderness
(see Geshtinanna)

Lady of the Winds (see Guabancex)

Lady of the Woods British
a sorceress

She carried off the infant Kalyb, gave him supernatural powers and raised him as her own. She was torn to pieces by demons and sealed in a rock by Kalyb.

Lady of Turquoise (see Hathor)

Lady of Wild Things (see Artemis)

Lady Po Nagar Cambodian
a name for Parvati or Uma

Lady Silkworm (see Ts'an Nü)

Lady Tituabine (see Tituabine)

Lady Ts'ao Chinese

the first wife of an official
She was jealous of her husband's subordinate wife, Lady Ch'i, and killed her by throwing her into the privy.

(see also Keng San Ku-niang)

Lady Unknown (see Ken Tamboehan)

Ladynas (see Ladinas)

Laeding Norse

[Leding]

a chain

This was the first chain used in an attempt to restrain the wolf Fenris and from which he easily broke free.

Laeg Irish

[Laegh. Laogh(aire). Loeg]

son of Rianganbair and Finnabair

brother of Etan and Id

charioteer to Cuchulainn

In the final battle in which Cuchulainn was killed, Laeg shielded his master with his own body and caught the spear hurled by Laoghaire.

Laegaire (see Laoghaire)

Laegh (see Laeg)

Laeghaire (see Laoghaire)

Laelaps Greek

[Lailaps. Lelaps]

a marvellous dog

This dog was originally given by Zeus to Europa when he carried her off to Crete and was later given by Procris to Cephalus on their marriage.

Amphitryon used this dog, which always caught any animal it chased, to hunt the Cadmeian Vixen, an animal that could never be caught. This impossible situation was resolved when Zeus turned both animals into stone.

In some accounts, the dog was one of the pack that turned on Actaeon and tore him to pieces. Others say that they were different dogs.

Laerad Norse

[Laerath. Lerad(h)]

a tree near Odin's hall

This may be the tree Yggdrasil, or its upper part where the goats grazed, or merely its highest bough.

Laerath (see Laerad)

Laertes Greek

['ant']

a king of Ithaca

son of Acrisius and Chalcomedusa or of Cephalus and Procris

husband of Anticleia

father of Odysseus

Some say that Sisyphus seduced Anticleia on her wedding morning and he, rather than Laertes, was the real father of Odysseus.

He was one of the Argonauts and a member of the party hunting the Calydonian Boar.

Although he was too old to defend Penelope from the harassment by her many suitors while Odysseus was away, he did help to rout them when his son returned, killing Ephites.

Laery (see Laoghaire)

Laestrygones Greek

[Laistrugones.Laestrygonians.Lestrigones]
giant cannibals of Sicily or Libya

They attacked the fleet of Odysseus and sank all his ships except one. At that time, their leader was Antiphates.

Laestrygonians (see Laestrygones)

Lafau Sands Welsh

[Llys Helig.Tyno Helig]
a coastal area of Caernarvonshire

It is said that this area was overwhelmed by the sea in the same manner as Lyonesse.

Laga (see Saga<sup>1</sup>)

Lagarre African

a prince
His father, on his deathbed, gave the throne to Lagarre, his youngest son, because his other sons were too rude or too lazy. Lagarre sent a vulture to heaven to bring the royal drum, Tabele. When he struck the drum, a new city arose in the desert defended by a dragon, Bida, who allowed Lagarre to enter and become king on his promise to hand over to the dragon one young girl every year. When this yearly sacrifice was made, the dragon flew over the city, Wagadoo, disgorging gold which paved all the streets.

Laghlaghghi-gar (see Nabu)

laghiman Hindu

[utthana]
the psychic power to become airborne (see levitation)

Laghusyamala Hindu

a minor goddess

Lagi (see Rangī)

Lahama Mesopotamian

Sumerian water-demons
Lahamu Mesopotamian
[Lachamu.Lachos.Lakhame.Lakhe]
the first goddess, in Babylonian lore consort of Lahmu daughter of Abzu and Tiamat mother of Ansar and Kisar

Lahar Mesopotamian

[=Babylonian Sakkān.=Hittite Sumukan]
a Sumerian god of cattle

Lahatala Pacific Islands

a sky-god who created the heavens (see also Tuniai)

Lahelin British

brother of Orilus
He seized Herzeloide's kingdom when her husband, Gahmuret, died.

Lahmu Mesopotamian

[Lache.Lachmu.Lakhmu]
the first god, in Babylonian lore consort of Lahamu
son of Abzu and Tiamat
father of Ansar and Kisar

Lahmu<sup>2</sup> (see Labbu)

Lahurati (see Hurabtil)

Lahurabtil (see Hurabtil)

Lahu Burmese

a fertility-god

La'i-La'I Pacific Islands

in some Polynesian stories, the first woman
offspring of Po

Laica South American

a benevolent fairy in Peru

Laidamlulum-kule North American

the first woman in the lore of the Maidu Indians
wife of Kuksu

Laidcheann Irish

a poet at the court of the high-king
Niall

When the poet refused hospitality to Eochu, a prince of Leinster, Eochu burnt his house to the ground. The poet satirised Leinster and Niall attacked the province in vengeance. Eochu was given to the king as hostage but he managed to throw a stone which killed Laidcheann.

Laidly Beast Scottish

a monster living in a loch
This monster was about to seize Mocumin who was swimming in the loch when St Columba made the sign of the Cross and the beast retreated to its underwater lair.

Laidly Worm British

[Lambton Worm]
a monster in the form of a huge worm
This beast grew from a worm thrown into the river by a boy out fishing. If it were cut in half, it joined itself together again. It was killed when the son of Lord Lambton dressed in armour with sharp blades so that, when the worm coiled round him, it was cut into hundreds of small pieces. The witch who had advised him on the method of killing the worm demanded that he kill the first living thing he saw after emerging from the water. This turned out to be his own father and, when the boy refused to keep his undertaking, the witch placed a curse on his family.

Laighin<sup>1</sup> Irish

an early name for Leinster, after Galian

Laighin<sup>2</sup> Irish

descendants of the Fir Gailean

Laighlinne Irish

son of Partholon and Dealgnaid

Laigne Irish

a Nemedian
father of Liath

He was the first to cultivate the area of Tara.

Lailoken British

[=Welsh Llalegan.Llalogan.Myrddyn]
a madman with the gift of prophecy

In some stories, he was Scottish, in others Welsh.

It is suggested that he is the basis for the story of Merlin the wizard.

Lailaps (see Laelaps)

Laima Baltic

[Laima-Dalia.Laime]
a Latvian goddess of childbirth, destiny and prosperity
sister of Dekla and Karta

In some accounts, there are a number of such goddesses, sometimes three sometimes seven.

The three sisters are said to act as the Latvian Fates.

Laima-Dalia (see Laima)

Laime (see Laima)

Laimos Greek

a deity, pestilence personified

Laindjung Australian

the ancestor of the Aborigines of Arnhem Land

He is reputed to have appeared out of the sea.

Laios (see Laius)

lair ban Irish

['white horse'. 'white mare']
a name for the moon

(see also Lair Bhan)

Lair Bhan (see lair ban.White Mare<sup>2</sup>)

Lair Dhearg (see Feidhilm<sup>2</sup>)

Lairgnean (see Lairgnen)

Lairgnen Irish

[Lairgnean.Lairgnen]
a king of Connaught
husband of Deoca

His bride wanted the singing swans, the Children of Lir, as a wedding present so he seized them from Mochaomhog, the hermit who had sheltered them. When the swans changed into very old people who died before his eyes, he ran away and was never seen again.

Lairgren (see Lairgren)

Laistrugones (see Laestrygones)

Laius Greek

[Laios]

king of Thebes

son of Labdacus

husband of Jocasta

father of Oedipus

He lost the throne, which he had inherited as an infant, to Amphiion and Zethus but regained it when they died.

He abducted the boy Chryseus as a lover and, as a result, was cursed by the boy's father, Pelops.

Believing the Delphic oracle that any son of his would kill him, he abandoned his first-born on Mount Cithaeron after piercing his feet with nails. He later met Oedipus without realising he was his son and when his charioteer, Polyphontes, drove over Oedipus' foot, Oedipus killed both Laius and his charioteer.

Lajbuineamuen (see Lalikian)

Lainan Pacific Islands

a creator deity in Micronesia

This being is envisaged as a worm.

Laka Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian goddess of rainstorms guardian goddess of dancers daughter of Kapo

sister or wife of Lono

Lakdios (see Bacchus/Dionysus)

Lake Avernus (see Avernus)

Lake Derryvaragh Irish

the lake on which the Children of Lir spent the first 300 years of their existence as swans

Lake Dragon Mouth
(see Loch Beal Deagon)

Lake Minas North American

a lake on which Gluskap sailed into the west when he finally departed from this earth

Lake of Blood Chinese

the fourth of the 10 hells, ruled by

Wu Kuan

Lake of Cobras Egyptian

the home of the serpent Hereret

Lake of Gems Chinese

[Green Jade Lake/Lake of Jewels]

site of the home of Hsi Wang

Mu

Lake of Jewels (see Lake of Gems)

Lake of Waves (see Llyn Llion)

Lakedion (see Laquedon)

Lakhesis (see Lachesis)

Lakhame (see Lahamu)

Lakhe (see Lahamu)

Lakhmu (see Lahmu)

Laki Oi East Indian

a culture-hero in Borneo

He was said to have invented fire by rubbing bamboo stems together.

Laki Tenangan East Indian

a chief spirit in Borneo ruler of Dali Matei

Lakin Chan (see Itzamna)

Lakone North American

characters in a Hopi fertility rite

The Lakone are two young girls around whom the other female participants in the Lakonti ceremony dance.

laksana (see lakshana)

lakshana Buddhist

[laksana]

the lakshanas are the superior marks of the Buddha, 32 in number

Lakshman (see Lakshmana)

Lakshmana Hindu

[Lakshman]

a minor god

son of Dasha-ratha and Su-Mitra

twin brother of Shatrughna

half-brother of Bharata and Rama

consort of Urmita

father of Angada and Chandraketu

He was with Rama when the rakshasi,

Shurpanakha, attacked Rama's wife

Sita and they wounded the demoness,

who was Ravana's sister, so precipitating the battle between Rama and Ravana. He helped Rama in his battle with the demon Ravana and, in some versions, it was he, rather than

Rama who killed the demon.

In some accounts, he is regarded as an incarnation of Ananta.

Some say that he died quietly, meditating on the banks of a river, others that he sacrificed his life for Rana and as a result was taken up into heaven.

Lakshmi Hindu

[Dakshina.Devi.Seri.Devi-Shri.

Dharani.Empress of the Sea.

Gajadevi.Haripriya.Indira.Jaladhi-ja.

Karisini.Ksama.Ksirabdhitanya.

Laksmi.Lokamata.Lotus.

Mahalakshmi.Mahasarasvati.Matrirupa.

Padma(vati).Radha.Rohini.Rukmini.

Sadana.Shri.(Sri) Laksmi.Sita.

Sri(-devi).Tulsi.Vaishnavi.

Vridhhi:=Buddhist Maya:=East Indies

Dewi-Shri.Phra Naret]

the lotus-goddess, goddess of agriculture, beauty, pleasure, wealth

sister of Jyestha

consort of Vishnu

mother of Kama and Trishna, some say

She sprang fully-formed from the body of Prajapati or from the foam, the third thing to emerge when the gods churned the ocean to produce amrita, and is reincarnated with every avatar of Vishnu. When Vishnu appeared as Rama, she was Sita; when he was Krishna, she was Radha and Rukmini; when he was Parasurama she was Dharani.

Other accounts say that she was the daughter of Brighu and Khyati.

She is sometimes depicted with four arms and standing on a lotus.

(see also Tulsi)

Lakshmi-Narayana Hindu

Lakshmi as the consort of Narayana

Lakshmi-puja Hindu

[Homage to Lakshmi]

a festival of homage to Lakshmi, held in November/December

Lakshmi-Vrata Hindu

a festival in honour of Lakshmi, held towards the end of August

Lakshmikara Tibetan

a Lamaist sorceress

daughter of Indrabhuti

Lakshmindra Hindu

son of Chand

husband of Behula

His father had always refused to worship the snake-goddess, Manasa,

who ruined his livelihood and killed his other six sons. To protect

Lakshmindra and his wife Behula,

Chand built a steel house but Manasa slipped in on Lakshmindra's wedding-night and killed him. When Chand finally agreed to worship Manasa, she restored his son to life.

Laksmi (see Lakshmi)

Lakuli (see Lakulisha)

Lakulisha Hindu

[Lakuli.Lord of the Club.Nakulisha]

founder of the Pashupata sect who was deified after his death

Lal Beg Hindu

a god of sweepers

In some accounts he is identified with Balmik.

Lalala'il North American

[Kle-klati-e'il]

a god of medicine-men among the

Bella Coola Indians of Canada

Lalakonti Central American

a Hopi fertility rite for women

Lalikian Pacific Islands

[Lajbuineamuen]

a deity of the Marshall Islands

He was created by Loa to rule the north.

Lalita Tripurasundari Hindu
a goddess, cosmic energy personified

Lalita Vistara Buddhist
a treatise dealing with the life and work of the Buddha

Lalo-honua Pacific Islands
the first woman in Hawaiian lore wife of Kumu-honua

She ate the sacred apples of the god Kane when she was seduced by a sea-bird with the result that she and her husband were driven from their garden paradise. She went mad and changed into a sea-bird.

(see also Iowahine)

Lalwani (see Shaushkas)

Lam-bstan Tibetan
the Tibetan version of Panthaka

Lama<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
a female protective being, in Sumerian lore

lama<sup>2</sup> Tibetan a senior monk

Lama<sup>3</sup> (see Inara)

Lamacazton Central American
Aztec priests of the lowest grade

Lamaism Tibetan [nang-ch'os]
a form of Buddhism in Tibet

This particular form of worship is a mixture of demonology, magic and Buddhism and was established in Tibet by the Indian sorcerer-priest, Padmasambhava.

Lamallaka (see Mount Lamallaka)

Lamaria Russian
in the Caucasus, a guardian goddess of women

Lamashtu (see Lamassu<sup>1</sup>)

Lamassu<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian [Lamashtu.Lamast(a).Lamastu.
Lambosi.Lamme(a)]

Babylonian female guardian spirits
In some accounts they are depicted as winged animals (bulls and lions) with human heads. They later degenerated into powerful demons which could turn into stone any person which merely looked at them. Their favourite targets were women and children to whom they brought plague.

(see also Karibatu)

Lamassu<sup>2</sup> (see Karibatu)

Lamast (see Karibatu.Lamassu<sup>1</sup>)

Lamasta (see Karibatu.Lamassu<sup>1</sup>)

Lamastu (see Karibatu.Lamassu<sup>1</sup>)

Lamat Central American
the eighth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, descent to the nether regions

(see also Five Lamat)

Lamayin Buddhist

the realm of the demi-gods
This is one of the six realms shown on the second ring of the Tibetan Wheel of Life. In it lies a lake which mirrors the future and here grows the tree of knowledge the Jambustriing.

lamb Roman

the animal of Juno

Lambegus British

a knight of King Mark's court
an attendant on Tristram
He helped Tristram when he broke out of the prison into which he had been thrown by Andrew.

Lambewell (see Launfal)

Lambton Worm (see Laidly Worm)

Lambong Malay

the upper part of the pillar, Batu Herem (see also Batu Herem)

Lambodara Hindu

a name for Ganesha referring to his pendulous stomach

Lambor British

[Labor.Lambord]
a king of Terre Foraine

He was killed by Varlan and his kingdom became part of the Waste Land.

(see also Lambord)

Lambord British

an ancestor of King Arthur
Some say that he is the same person as Lambor.

Lambosi (see Lamassu)

Lament for Adonis Greek

a poem by Bion

Lamentation of Danae Greek

a poem by Simonides

Lamerock British

[Lamerok.Lamora(c)k.Lamorock]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Pellimore
brother of Percival

He was killed by Gawain and his brothers when they discovered him in bed with their mother, Morgause, or, in other stories, by Mordred in a battle between the families of Lot and Pellimore.

Lamerok (see Lamerock)

Lamesisi Pacific Islands

a semi-divine

Lamfada Irish

[Lamfhada]
a name of Lugh as 'long-arm' (see also Labraid Lamfhada)

Lamfhada (see Lamfada)

Lamga Canaanite

a double god, androgynous precursor of the human race

Lamh Ghabhaidh Irish

a warrior of Ulster
He met Cet in combat and had one arm cut off.

Lamha Mesopotamian

a name for Ea as 'palmist'

Lamia<sup>1</sup> Basque

a mermaid or water-sprite

Lamia<sup>2</sup> British

a poem by Keats

Lamia<sup>3</sup> Greek

['greedy':=Lybian Neith]

a monster in the form of a blood-sucking woman-serpent

In one story, she was not at first a monster but a sea-nymph or a queen of Libya, one of Zeus' many mistresses who bore him several children, including Herophile and the monster Scylla, most of whom she ate. In this form she was a snake-goddess, queen of Lybia, daughter of Belus. Later she became the blood-sucking monster, one of the Empusae, that some have identified with Medusa.

Some say that she had the ability to remove her eyes.

In some stories, the jealous Hera stole all Lamia's children by Zeus and, to exact vengeance, Lamia killed all the children she encountered.

In some accounts she is equated with Lilith, the first wife of Adam.

(see also Empusa)

Lamiae Greek

demons in the form of beautiful women

They were originally priestesses of Lamia but were down-graded and became demons seducing travellers or sucking their blood.

Laminak Basque

fairies living underground

It is said that they sometimes exchange their children for mortal children. Each one is called Guillen.

Lamkarya Hindu

a goddess of healing
one of the 6 sisters of Shitala

(see Shitala)

Lamme (see Lamassu<sup>1</sup>)

Lammea (see Lamassu<sup>1</sup>)

Lammekune Baltic

an Estonian hero based on the Finnish Lemminkainen

Lamorak (see Lamerock)

Lamorack (see Lamerock)

Lamorock (see Lamerock)

Lamp Bearer (see Jan-teng-fo)

Lamp of Phoebus Greek

a name for the sun

- Lampado Greek
an Amazon queen
- Lampadomancy
divination from flames
- Lampas Greek
a horse of Hector and Diomedes
- Lampe European
the hare in Reynard the Fox
He was killed and eaten by Reynard and his family. (see also Coart)
- Lampetia Greek
one of the Heliades daughter of Helius and Clymene or Neara
sister of Aegle, Phaeton and Phaetusa
She and her sisters Aegle and Phaetusa were turned into a poplar (or pine) tree as they grieved at the death of their brother Phaeton.
- Lampetus (see Lampos)
- Lampos<sup>1</sup> Greek [Lampetus.Lampus.'shiner']
one of the dogs of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Lampos, tore him to pieces.
- Lampos<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Lampetus.Lampus.'shiner']
one of the horses drawing the chariot of Helius
- Lampos<sup>3</sup> Greek
[Lampetus.Lampus.'shiner']
son of Laomedon brother of Priam
father of Dolops
- Lamprus Greek
husband of Galatea
father of Leucippus
When his wife was expecting a child, he ordered her to kill it if it were a girl. When a girl was duly born, Galatea dressed it as a boy and reared it as such. When the truth became known, mother and child took refuge in the temple of Leto where Galatea prayed to the goddess who answered her prayers by turning the girl into a boy.
- Lampus (see Lampos)
- Lamri British [Llamrei]
King Arthur's mare
- Lamurudu African
a king of Mecca
father of Oduduwa
- Lamus<sup>1</sup> Greek
king of the Laestrygones
son of Poseidon
- Lamus<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Heracles by Omphale
- Lamwell (see Launfal)
- lamyroi Greek [=Roman lemures]
ghosts of the dead
- Lan Ts'ai-ho Chinese
one of the Eight Immortals
This being is variously regarded as male or female. In some accounts, Lan Ts'ai-ho was originally a street-singer and is said to have been carried off on a cloud after getting drunk, leaving one shoe behind. He/she is the patron saint of florists or gardeners and is depicted carrying a flower-basket and wearing only one shoe.
- Lan Ts'an (see Shen-tsan)
- Lan Yein Burmese
a progenitor of the Karens
- Lance (see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)
- Lance of Longinus (see Holy Lance)
- Lancelin French
a French version of Lancelot
- Lancelot<sup>1</sup> British
son of Jonaan
grandfather of Lancelot du Lac
father of Ban and Bors
- Lancelot<sup>2</sup> British [Lansilotta.Lanslod.La(u)ncc.
La(u)nccelot du Lac.Lawnslot.
Knight of the Cart.Knight of the Chariot.Le Chevalier de la Charetta.Le Chevalier Mal Fet.Sinner
Lord:=French Lancelin]
a Knight of the Round Table
one of the Knights of Battle son of King Ban and Elaine brother of Galihodin father of Galahad and of Blamor and Bleoberis,
some say
Besieged by rebellious chieftains, King Ban left his castle to seek help. His pregnant wife also escaped when their treacherous steward let the besiegers into the castle. She found her husband beside a lake where she died giving birth to the boy they would have called Galahad. Ban died of grief at the sight of her dead body. Other versions say they left together and that Ban died when he saw his castle going up in flames and realised that his steward had surrendered to the besiegers. The lake was the home of Nimue who heard the baby's cries and rescued him, raising him with his cousins (in some versions, Lionel and Bors) whom she stole to provide company for the boy she now called Lancelot du Lac.
Some accounts refer to a fairy foster-mother who raised him in Maidenland where he was trained by Johfrit de Liez. Others say he was the son of Pant and Claris.

In the Nimue version, when the boys reached manhood she took them all to Britain and set them on the road to Arthur's court at Camelot. Morgan sent the sorceress Hellowes to entrap Lancelot but he used the hilt of his sword as a cross to ward off the evil phantoms she had conjured up. Hellowes, having fallen in love with Lancelot, perished.

When he delivered the Castle Dolorous Gard from an evil spell he found there a tomb which bore his name. He took over the castle as his home, calling it Garde Joyeux (Joyous Gard). In later years, after returning Guinevere to Arthur, he once again called it Dolorous Gard. Some say the estate was given to him by King Arthur.

Seeking adventure with his nephew Lionel, he was put under a spell by Morgan and imprisoned in Chateau de la Charette. Asked to chose between Morgan and three other fairy queens as a lover, he rejected them all. A maid helped him to escape when he promised to help her father, Bagdemagus. He kept his promise and, with four of Bagdemagus' knights specially trained by Lancelot, attended a tournament and defeated all the knights who came against him so that Bagdemagus was declared to have won the day. Lionel had been captured by Tarquin, a knight who hated all Arthur's knights. Lancelot then rode to Tarquin's castle and killed him in single combat, freeing Lionel and all the other knights who had been imprisoned there. One of those freed was his old friend Kay who was unhappy that his duties as seneschal had sapped his knightly ardour so, while Kay was asleep, Lancelot donned his armour and, in the guise of Kay, defeated many knights, including Gawter, Gilmore and Raynold, followed by Ector, Ewain, Gawain and Sagramore, so enhancing Kay's reputation as a warrior.

The girl who led him to Tarquin's castle asked a favour in return and he challenged and killed Perys de Foreste Savage who had made a practice of attacking damsels. When he came upon a knight, Pedivere, intent upon killing his wife who, he claimed, had been unfaithful, Lancelot intervened but the man nevertheless cut off her head. Lancelot then forced him to carry the head in his hand and the headless body on his back all the way to Camelot.

He met a damsel who asked for his help to save her wounded brother, Meliot, who had fought and killed Gilbert the Bastard whose hand had been cut off in an earlier fight with Gawain. Taking the sword and a piece of cloth from the body of the dead Gilbert in Chapel Perilous, he touched Meliot's wounds with the sword, wiped them with the cloth and made him whole again. In another version of this incident, the damsel tried and failed to bewitch Lancelot into becoming her lover, the sword turned out to be a wooden imitation and the body a rag dummy. When he refused to hand over the sword, she tried to kill him with a dagger but Lancelot disarmed her.

At the request of another lady, he took off his armour and climbed a tree to rescue her falcon which was trapped there. Caught unarmed by Phelot, he broke off a branch of the tree and killed the treacherous knight, taking his sword and lopping off his head.

He learned from Suppinales that Tristram had married Isolde, Hoel's daughter, and cursed him for deserting the other Isolde, daughter of King Anguish. They fought when Tristram next came to Britain.

In Carbonek he rescued a damsel who had been shut in a scalding hot room by Morgan and had been there for five years and he slew the dragon living under a tomb. In some versions, this was Elaine with whom he slept to produce Galahad.

He was given hospitality by King Pelles in his castle where the Grail appeared carried by a mysterious damsel. Pelles wanted Lancelot to marry his daughter Elaine, knowing that the union would produce the perfect knight, Galahad. When Lancelot rejected the love of Elaine, Pelles or her maid Dame Brisen, using a magic potion, deceived Lancelot into thinking that he was sleeping with Queen Guinevere, his true love, at Castle Case. When he realised how he had been duped, Lancelot would have killed Elaine but he relented when she pleaded for her life. The result of this union was Galahad.

In King Arthur's battles on the Continent with Lucius, he rode into the fray and killed the Emperor, seizing his standard which he handed to the king. When they returned to Britain, Arthur gave a great feast to celebrate his victories. Here Lancelot met Elaine once more and was again tricked by Dame Brisen into sleeping with her in the belief that he was sharing Guinevere's bed. When he realised what had happened he went mad, jumped from the window and roamed the country living like an animal for many months. In his wanderings he came to a pavilion where he fought and defeated Bliant. This knight and his brother Selivant, took Lancelot to their home in Castle Blank and looked after him for over a year. In other stories, he was cared for by Castor, a nephew of Pelles. He ran away and found himself back at Carbonek where he was kept as a fool by the knights and was found again by Elaine. He was taken to the room where the Grail was kept and was cured of his madness. Pelles gave him the Castle of Bliant for a home and he lived with Elaine on this island retreat for fifteen years, attended by a retinue of knights and ladies. He now called himself the Chevalier Mal Fet. He was finally found by Ector and Percival (or, some say, by Lionel and Bors) who persuaded him to return to Camelot where he was made welcome by Arthur and Guinevere.

In some accounts, his madness occurs when he, together with King Arthur and Gawain are captured by Camille. Lancelot is released and, cured of his madness by Nuimue, rescued the other two prisoners.

In another adventure, he rode to Estrangot where Lionel was held prisoner by King Vagor. He took Lionel's place in a duel with the king's son, Marabron, defeated his opponent and rescued Lionel.

In some accounts, after the death of Tristram, with whom he had fought over the latter's treatment of Isolde, he invaded Cornwall and killed King Mark.

When Galahad was of age, Lancelot made him a knight and took him to Arthur's court where he took his rightful place in the Perilous Seat. They both joined the other Knights of the Round Table in vowing to search for the Holy Grail.

Each knight on the quest chose his own route and Lancelot found himself challenged by a knight who unhorsed him. When he realised that this was Galahad in disguise, he rode after him but could not catch him and found himself, at nightfall, by a stone cross outside an old chapel. Half asleep on his shield, he had a vision in which a sick knight was healed by the Holy Grail which appeared in front of the cross. The knight took Lancelot's horse, sword and helmet leaving Lancelot to travel through the forest unarmed and on foot until he came to a hermitage where he confessed all his sins to a hermit and was forgiven. He reached the sea at Mortause (or, in some accounts, came to the River Median) where a voice told him to go aboard a ship. There he found the dead sister of Percival. He stayed aboard the ship for several weeks until Galahad arrived. They sailed together for six months having many adventures until a knight in white armour told Galahad it was time to leave his father and take up the quest for the Holy Grail. Lancelot stayed aboard until he arrived at Castle Carbonek where he entered a room and saw the Holy Grail but was struck down and lay unconscious for twenty-four days. From Pelles, he learned that Elaine was dead. Rendered unfit to find the Grail by reason of his affair with Guinevere, he gave up the quest and returned to Camelot where he found that many of the knights who had left on this quest were now dead.

He resumed the affair with Guinevere but tried to distance himself from her when the affair became the subject of gossip. This made the queen angry and she banished him from the court. He went to live with the hermit, Brastias. When Guinevere was accused by Mador of poisoning his cousin, Patrice, Lancelot took up the challenge on her behalf and defeated Mador in single combat, saving Guinevere from the stake.

On the way to a major tournament ordered by Arthur, he stayed with Bernard at Astolat where the baron's daughter, Elaine le Blank, known as the Fair Maid of Astolat, fell in love with him. He wore her favour at the tournament at which he was the champion but refused her offer to become her husband or her lover and returned to Camelot accompanied by Elaine's brother, Lavaine, who had helped him in the tournament. Elaine died of unrequited love and her body was placed in a boat which drifted down the river to Westminster where the king ordered Lancelot to give the dead maiden an honourable burial.

When Guinevere and ten of her knights were captured by Meliagaunt, Lancelot rode to her rescue. When his horse was shot from under him in an ambush by Meliagaunt's archers, he compelled a woodman to drive him to the castle in his cart. He was thereafter called the Knight of the Cart or the Knight of the Chariot. He reached the castle by crossing a sword bridge and rescued Guinevere. Lancelot would have killed Meliagaunt but he begged the queen for mercy and she pardoned him. That night, Lancelot slept with Guinevere but he left blood on the sheets from a wound on his hand sustained when he forced the window-bars. Meliagaunt accused Guinevere of being unfaithful to her husband by sleeping with one of the ten knights, many of whom had been wounded when he captured them. Lancelot took up the gauntlet and arranged to meet Meliagaunt at Westminster. Meliagaunt trapped Lancelot in a dungeon and left for Westminster. A maid released Lancelot for the price of one kiss and he rode to Westminster on Lavaine's horse. He met Meliagaunt in single combat and killed him with one hand tied behind his back.

Mordred, always jealous of Lancelot, betrayed Lancelot's affair with Guinevere to Arthur and, with his brother Agravain and twelve other knights, attempted to catch Lancelot with Guinevere as proof. Lancelot, unarmed, killed Colgrevance, the first man into the room, with a footstool and then, taking the dead man's sword and armour, killed all the others with the sole exception of Mordred who, though wounded, managed to escape. Given proof of the affair, Arthur ordered the queen to be burned at the stake. Lancelot rode to her rescue once again as she was being led to the stake and charged into the crowd, killing many of those who got in his way. Among these were Gaheris and Gareth, both of whom had been ordered by King Arthur to attend but who had turned up unarmed and were not recognised by Lancelot in the fury of his attack. As a result of their deaths, Gawain, their elder brother, became Lancelot's mortal enemy.

Lancelot took Guinevere to his castle, Garde Joyeuse, which was then attacked by Arthur's forces and the fierce battle was ended only when the Pope intervened. Lancelot handed Guinevere back to her husband but his quarrel with Gawain, and hence with Arthur, was not settled. He left for France with about a hundred of his followers and set up court at Benwick but Arthur, at the urging of Gawain, took an army of 60,000 to France, laying waste Lancelot's domain and besieging the town. Each day for weeks on end, Gawain challenged and defeated one of Lancelot's knights in single combat and finally goaded Lancelot himself into fighting him. On two successive days Lancelot struck him down but refused to kill him. A third encounter was prevented when Arthur was called back to Britain to reclaim his throne that had been usurped by Mordred who had been left in charge during the king's absence.

When he learned of Arthur's troubles, Lancelot brought his forces to Britain to help the king but Arthur had already been badly wounded and carried off to Avalon. He tried to persuade Guinevere to return with him to France but she refused to leave the nunnery she had entered on the king's death and so Lancelot joined Bedivere in a hermitage where other knights later joined them. When Lancelot learned of the death of Guinevere, he had her body carried to the hermitage where it was buried in Arthur's tomb. From then on he refused to eat or drink and died soon afterwards. Other stories say that he threw himself on the grave of the king and stayed there for six weeks, eating nothing, until he died. His body was carried to Garde Joyeuse and buried there.

Another version has it that Lancelot, believing Guinevere had been a willing accomplice of Mordred, killed her and shut Mordred in a room with her dead body which, driven by hunger, Mordred ate.

In a Dutch story, he overcame seven lions guarding a hart with a white foot for a princess who will marry only the knight who will bring her the hart's foot. Exhausted by the struggle, he gave the foot to a passing knight to deliver to the princess. The knight wounded Lancelot and tried to claim the hand of the princess but Gawain intervened and defeated the treacherous knight in a duel. Lancelot, recovered from his wound, declined the princess' offer of marriage.

In a German version, his parents were King Pant and Claris and his wife was Iblis, by whom he had four children. When Pant was killed, a fairy took Lancelot to Maidenland where he was brought up and trained as a knight by Johfrit.

In an Italian story, his mother is given as Constance.

Lancelot<sup>2</sup> British

a poem by the American, Edwin Arlington Robinson

Lancelot<sup>4</sup> French

[Le Chevalier de la Charette]

a 12th c story about the adventures of Lancelot, written by Chrétien de Troyes

Lancelot of the Lake

(see Lancelot of the Laik)

Lancelot of the Laik British

[Lancelot of the Lake]

a 15th c Scottish poem

Lanceor (see Launceor)

Lancien British

[Lantien.Lantyan]]

the site of one of King Mark's homes, in Cornwall

Lancilotto (see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)

Land-across-the-Sea (see Annwfn)

Land-Bearer (see Mo-li Ch'ing)

Land o' the Leal Scottish

the happy home of spirits: heaven

Land of Beulah English

a mythical land of divine happiness in Pilgrim's Progress

Land of Bright Colours

(see Tlapallan)

Land of Darkness Japanese

the Shinto realm of decay and pollution

Land of Eternity

(see Tokoyo-no-kami)

Land of Ghosts (see Kaseteran)

Land of Kane (see Hawaiki)

Land of Life (see Tir-inna-mBeg)

Land of Living Men (see Odainsakar)

Land of Promise (see Tir Tairnigiri)

Land of Shadows Irish

the home of Skatha the warrior-maid

Land of the Dead<sup>1</sup> Irish

[The Great Plain]

the home of the Milesians: Spain

(see also Mag Mor)

Land of the Dead<sup>2</sup>

(see Amenti, Otherworld, underworld)

Land of the Fathers

(see Land of the Pitris)

Land of the Living

(see Tir innamBeo)

Land of the MaidensIrish*

the realm ruled by the giant Treon

Land of the PitrisHindu*

[Land of the Fathers]

a paradise for the uncremated dead

Land of the Red Parrot Feathers

(see Enea-Kura)

Land of the Yellow Springs

(see Yellow Springs)

Land of Women (see Tir inna mBan)Land of Wonders

(see Tir inna nLongnadh)

Land of Yomi (see Yomi-tsu-kuni)Land of Youth (see Tir inna n-Og)Land-under-the-Sea

(see Annwfn, Tir-fa-Tonn)

Land-under-the-Waves

(see Annwfn, Tir-fa-Tonn)

Landeval

(see Launfal)

LandresEuropean*

son of Hugon and Alif

His mother was seduced by the courtier, Milon, and her husband, King Hugon, locked her in a dungeon full of snakes and toads where she remained for seven years until Landres rescued her and she was restored to her rightful position by her brother Charles (Charlemagne).

LandriEuropean*

a nephew of Guillaume

When his uncle was captured and imprisoned by the Saracen king, Synagon, Landri raised an army and rescued him.

LandvaettirNorse*

guardian spirits of the land

Landvide

(see Landvidi)

LandvidiNorse*

[Landvide, Landvith]

the palace of Vidar

Landvith

(see Landvidi)

LanejGerman*

['zenith']

son of Wulleb and Lejman

brother of Lewof

He and his brother planned to kill Wulleb but he escaped and fell to earth.

Launfal

(see Launfal)

Lang LingChinese*

a follower of Li T'ieh-kuai

He was left in charge of the body of Li T'ieh-kuai when the latter's soul visited Lao-tzu in heaven and, thinking that his master was truly dead, cremated the body so that when the sage returned he had to take on another body, that of a recently-dead lame beggar.

Lang-peiChinese*

a dragon-like monster

Langal

a name for the Rainbow Snake

Langali

(see Balarama)

langhui

(see langsuir)

Langi

(see Rangì)

LangitPacific Islands*

[=Polynesian Rangì]

an Indonesian sky-god

langsuirMalay*

[langhui, lan(g)suyar:=East

Indies puntianak]

a female vampire, the spirit of a woman who died in childbirth

They suck the blood of children through a hole in the back of the neck which is normally hidden under their ankle-length hair. Cutting the hair and the long nails renders a langsuir harmless if the hair is used to block the hole in the neck.

Glass beads were placed in the mouth, eggs under the armpits and needles in the hands of a dead woman to ensure that her spirit did not become a langsuir.

langsuyar

(see langsuir)

language

legend has it that Adam and Eve spoke

Persian, the serpent spoke Arabic and Gabriel spoke Turkish

LanguinesFrench*

a king of Scotland

father of Agraies

He married one of the daughters of Garinter, king of Brittany, whose other daughter, Elizena, was the mother of Amadis. They brought Amadis to the court not knowing of their kinship and he and Gandalin became firm friends of their own son, Agraies.

LanguorethWelsh*

wife of Rhydderch

Other accounts give Ganieda as the wife of Rhydderch.

Lanka<sup>1</sup>Hindu*

an evil spirit, companion of Shiva

Lanka<sup>2</sup>

(see Sri Lanka)

Lansdown HillBritish*

[Mons Badonicus]

a hill in Somerset

This is one of the places suggested as the site of the Battle of Mount Badon. It was once said that the bones of King Arthur had been found there.

Lanslod(see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)Lantern Festival<sup>1</sup>Chinese*

[Festival of Lanterns]

originally a spring festival, later devoted to T'ai I, god of the Pole Star, held at the first full moon in February

Lantern Festival<sup>2</sup>

(see Festival of the Dead)

Lantien

(see Lancien)

Lantris

(see Alcardo)

Lantyan

(see Lancien)

Launfal<sup>1</sup>French*

a 12th c poem by Marie de France

about the adventures of Launfal

Launfal<sup>2</sup>

(see Launfal)

LanzeletGerman*

a 13th c version of the story of

Lancelot written by von Zarzikhoven

Lao

(see Lau)

Lao Chün

(see Lao-tzu)

Lao Tan

(see Lao-tzu)

Lao-t'ien-yeh

(see Mr Heaven)

Lao-tu-po-t'iChinese*

a hermit

He was elevated to the status of a Buddha for giving his blood and his heart to a yaksha.

In some accounts, he is equated with the saint, Jan Teng-fo.

Lao-tzuChinese*

[Lao Chün, Lao Tan, Lao Tun, Laocius.

Li Erh, T'ai Shan, The Old Master, The Old Philosopher]

(c 600-517 BC)

god of alchemists and potters

one of the San Ch'ing, the Three

Pure Ones

the founder of Taoism

He is said to have been born under a plum tree from a virgin birth after sixty (some say seventy or eighty) years in his mother's womb, already grey-haired with age. Others say that he was born from his mother's left side in 1321 BC.

His original name was Li Erh; he was deified as Lao Chün and was regarded as an incarnation of T'ai Shan, or Shen P'ao, living in the highest Azure Palace.

He is depicted riding a buffalo.

(see also Shou-he)

Lao Tun

(see Lao-tzu)

LaociusChinese*

the Latinised version of Lao-tzu

Laocoon<sup>1</sup>Greek*

[Laokoon]

a Trojan prince, son of Priam and

Hecuba or of Capys or Antenor

a prophet and priest of Apollo

or Poseidon

When he warned the Trojans not to take the wooden horse left by the Greeks at its face value, Apollo or Poseidon sent two large serpents which coiled round Laocoon and his two sons and crushed them to death. In some accounts Laocoon, in others he and one of the sons, escaped.

Laocoon<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Laokoon]

son or brother of Oeneus
one of the Argonauts

Laodacus Greek

son of Echemus and Timandra

Laodamas<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Eteocles

He was only a boy when his father was killed at Thebes but Creon acted as regent for him until he became of age and took over the throne of Thebes.

He led the Thebans in the fight against the Epigoni and, losing, went with his routed people to Illyria. Some say that he was killed in this battle by Alcmaeon.

Laodamas<sup>2</sup> Greek

a son of Alcinous

He offered to wrestle with Odysseus who declined the offer.

Laodameia (see Laodamia)

Laodamia<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Laodameia]

daughter of Acastus and Hippolyta or Astydamia

sister of Sterope and Sthenela

wife of Protesilaus

Protesilaus was the first man ashore when the Greeks landed at Troy and was soon killed. The gods sent Hermes to Tartarus to bring him back so that his grieving wife might see him once more.

Laodamia refused to be parted from him again and killed herself so that she could accompany him to Tartarus.

Others say that she spent all her time grieving over an image of her dead husband and, when her father threw it on the fire, she threw herself after it.

Laodamia<sup>2</sup> English

a poem by Wordsworth telling the story of her love for Protesilaus

Laodamia<sup>3</sup> (see Deidameia<sup>3</sup>)

Laodegan (see Leodegrance)

Laodice<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Astochē: 'princess']

daughter of Priam and Hecuba

wife of Helicaon or Telephus

mother of Eurypylos

When the Greeks sent envoys to Troy to demand the return of the abducted

Helen, she fell in love with one of them, a man named Acamas, by whom she had a son, Mynchus. At the fall of the city to the besieging Greek army, the earth opened up and swallowed her or, some say, she threw herself to her death from the walls of the city.

Laodice<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Agapenor

She founded a temple to Aphrodite in Tegea.

Laodice<sup>3</sup> Greek

wife of Elatus

mother of Aepytyus, Cyllen, Pereus

and Stymphalus

mother of Ischis, some say

Laodice<sup>4</sup> (see Electra<sup>1</sup>)

Laodice<sup>5</sup> (see Opis)

Laogh (see Laeg)

Laoghaire<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Laegaire.Laery.Loeg(h)aire.Loiguire]

a high-king of Ireland

son of Niall

brother of Cairbre, Conal Gulban,

Eanna and Eoghan

He helped his brothers at the Battle of Ath Cro and took as a prize the wife of Cana, the Ulster king, who was slain

by Conall.

He once set out to arrest St Patrick for the grave offence of lighting his Easter fire before the king lit his at Tara but he was so impressed by the saint's powers that he converted to Christianity, though others say that he remained a pagan.

He was killed, by lightning some say, when he attacked Leinster in an attempt to exact a tribute which he earlier promised to cancel.

Laoghaire<sup>2</sup> (see Laeg)

Laoghaire Buadhach Irish

[Laegaire. Laery.Loegaire Buadac.

Loeg(h)aire.Loiguire.Winner of Battles]

a warrior of Ulster

one of the 12 champions of the Red Branch

son of Connadh Buidhe

husband of Fedelma

In a contest with Conal and Cuchulainn for the title of Champion of All Ulster, both he and Conal ran from the wildcats put in the room with them while Cuchulainn faced them with his sword. They were also tested by Ercal who attacked them first with witches and then fought them himself, losing only to Cuchulainn. In a beheading contest with a giant, all three decapitated the giant but only Cuchulainn was prepared to offer his own neck to the axe.

When soldiers tried to drown the poet, Aedh, who had been condemned to death by Conor mac Nessa, he ran out of his house to intervene but smashed his head against the door-lintel. In his death throes, he killed all the soldiers and the poet escaped.

Laoghaire Lorc Irish

[Laegaire.Laery.Loeg(h)aire.Loiguire]

a king of Ireland

son of King Ugaine and Cessair

brother of Covac

father of Ailill Aine

He inherited the throne from his father, Ugaine, but his brother Covac was jealous. Covac feigned illness and when Laoghaire and Ailill visited him he killed them both and took the throne.

Laoghaire mac Criomhthann Irish

[Laegaire mac Crimthainne.Laery.

Loeg(h)aire.Loiguire mac Crimhthainn]

son of Criomthann Cas

father of Ethne

father of Fedelma, some say

When Goll mac Golb, ruler of Mag Mell, abducted the wife and daughter of Fiachna, Laoghaire took a force to the Otherworld, killed Goll, rescued the two women and married the daughter, Der Greine. He returned to Ireland after a year but soon returned to Mag Mell and was never seen again.

Laoko West Indian

[Loko (Attiso)]

a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from the Fon god, Loko

Laokoon (see Laocoon)

Laomedan (see Laomedon)

Laomedon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Laomedan]

king of Troy

son of Ilus and Eurydice

brother of Themiste and Tithonus husband of Strymo

father of Antigone, Clytius, Hesione,

Hicetaeon, Lampos, Podarces

and Tithonus

Apollo and Poseidon had been ordered by Zeus to serve as slaves to Laomedon. The former tended his flocks while the sea-god built the walls of Troy. When the king refused to pay them, Poseidon sent a sea-monster to attack Troy, Laomedon chained his daughter to a rock in the sea as a sacrifice to propitiate the god. She was found and rescued by Hercules who had left the mares of Diomedes in charge of Laomedon. It is also said that he promised two immortal horses to Hercules if he would rid Troy of the monster. These horses had been given to the king of Troy by Zeus in compensation when he abducted Ganymede as his cup-bearer. Because Laomedon refused to hand over the mares or because he reneged on his promise of the two horses, Hercules later returned with an army, sacking Troy, killing Laomedon and setting his son, Podarces on the throne as Priam.

Laomedon<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Laomedan]

son of Heracles by Omphale

Laonome Greek
daughter of Guneus
a mistress of Heracles

Laothea Greek [Laot(h)oe]
a mistress of Priam daughter of Altes
mother of Lycaon and Polydorus,
some say

Laothoe (see Laothea)

Laotoe (see Laothea)

Lapeel European
a rabbit in Reynard the Fox
He lost one of his ears when he was attacked by Reynard.

Laphystios (see Dionysus)

Lapis exillis British
the name for the Holy Grail in those versions in which it was said to be a stone rather than a cup or plate

Lapis Manalis Roman
a stone placed over one of the entrances to the underworld

When a city was first founded, entrances to the underworld were dug and sealed with such a stone. Three times each year the stone would be removed to allow the spirits of the dead to return.

lapis philosophorum (see elixir of gold)

Lapithae (see Lapiths)

Lapithes (see Lapithus)

Lapiths Greek [Lapithae]
a mythical race in Thessaly descendants of Lapithus

They were said to be horse-tamers and their long feud with the Centaurs started when the Centaur, Eurytion, tried to rape Hippodamia on her wedding day.

Lapithus Greek [Lapithes]
son of Ixion or Apollo and Nephele brother of Centaurus

He was the progenitor of the Lapiths.

Lapna'ut Siberian wife of Tayan

Laponga Pacific Islands
a magician

It was once the case that men bore children but that changed when a midwife revealed that Laponga was pregnant, whereupon he transferred his reproductive organs to a woman.

Laquedom French
[Lakedion]
the French version of Buttadeus

Lar<sup>1</sup> British husband of Amene
father of Larie

His kingdom was invaded by Roaz after Lar's death but his ghost led Wigalois, who had been sent by King Arthur to help Lar's widow, Amene, against the invader.

Lar<sup>2</sup> Roman
an Italian god of agriculture

lar<sup>3</sup> (see lares)

Lar Familiaris Roman
a household god, a guardian spirit of an ancestor of the family

Lara<sup>1</sup> Irish
son of Fintan and Cessair husband of Balma

He and his wife and father were the survivors of the flood.

Lara<sup>2</sup> Roman ['babblər'.Larunda.Mania]
a nymph
daughter of Alcmōn
mother of the Lares

In some versions, an early Italic earth-goddess, she annoyed Jupiter by bearing tales to Juno so he had her tongue cut out and sent her to Hades. Her escort, Mercury, fell in love with her and they produced the two children who became the Lares, gods of the hearth.

In some accounts, she is identified with Larundra, in others she is Mania.

Lara Jonggrang East Indian [Ambu Dewi]
a statue of Durga or Kali in Java

Some accounts say that she was the daughter of Ratu Baka.

Lara Kidul (see Kidul)

Laran Italian
an Etruscan war-god

L'arc en ciel West Indian a Haitian voodoo spirit, the rainbow personified

Larentalia Roman
the feast of the dead in honour of Acca Larentia, 23rd December

Larentia (see Acca Larentia)

Lares Roman

[Lases:sing=lar]
household gods: ancestral spirits:
good spirits: a form of Lemur,
some say

Originally Etruscan guardian gods, the Lares were adopted into the Roman pantheon as spirits protecting institutions and various places. Lares Familiares protect the house and family, Lares Compitales guard crossroads or parts of the city; Lares Premarini, the city or empire; Lares Rurales, the countryside; Lares Vicorum, the streets, and so on.

Another version regards the Lares as two sons of Lara by Mercury.

Lares viales Roman
guardian gods of the cross-roads

Lares praestiles Roman guardian gods of the state

Larie British [Lady of Kornton] daughter of Lar and Amene wife of Wigalois

Wigalois, who had been sent by King Arthur to help Amene whose kingdom had been invaded, after the death of her husband, by Roaz, defeated the invader and married her daughter, Larie.

In another version, the besieged lady is Larie herself, Lady of Kornton.

Larilari South American
an evil spirit of the Andean tribes

Laris European son of Henry, the German emperor brother of Lidoine

Tallas, king of Denmark, besieged Urien whose daughter, Marine, was loved by Laris. Tallas captured Laris but he was rescued by Claris and, when Tallas was defeated by King Arthur, Laris was given the kingdom of Denmark.

Larkosargasa Baltic
a Lithuanian field-god

Larmumzuge German
rites of exorcism

Lars Porsena Roman
[Lars Porsenna.Porsena]
an Etruscan prince

He was the leader of the Etruscans in the attack on Rome when Horatius defended the Pons Sublicius virtually single-handed. Impressed by the courage of Scaevola and the girl Cloelia, he abandoned his assault and withdrew his forces.

Lars Porsenna (see Lars Porsena)

Lartius (see Spurius Lartius)

Larunda<sup>1</sup>	Greek	Latiaris	( see Jupiter Latiaris)	son of Ina-da Samadulo Hose, some say
a nymph		lating	( see leeting)	brother of Lowalangi
Larunda<sup>2</sup>	Roman	Latinus<sup>1</sup>	Greek	Latus
a minor goddess of the Sabines		son of Odysseus		Egyptian
In some accounts, she is identified with Lara.		Latinus<sup>2</sup>	Roman	a fish sacred to the Egyptians
larva	Roman	king of Latium		Lau
[plural=larvae]		husband of Amata		Andaman Islands an evil spirit: a form of Lemur		father of Lavinia		[(Erem) Cauga.Jurua.Juruwin. Lao.Ti-miku]
larvae	( see larva)	His parentage is not clear. Some say that he was the son of Hercules or Telemachus, others that his parents were the god Faunus and the nymph, Marica.		a spirit of the dead
Lasae	Roman	He was warned by the spirit of his father not to allow Lavinia to marry one of her countrymen but to keep her for a stranger from over the sea. This turned out to be Aeneas, seeking somewhere to settle after the fall of Troy. In some accounts he fought for Aeneas, in others against him and was either killed in battle or taken up to heaven as Jupiter Latiaris.		These beings are said to steal the souls of travellers. Lau living in the sea are Jurua or Jurwin; those of the forest are Erem Cauga or Ti-miku.
minor Etruscan female deities or supernatural beings		Latipan	Canaanite	Laudame
Lasair	Irish	[Bull.Father of Mankind.Father of the Gods]		British
wife of Caolcharna		a Canaanite deity		queen of Anferre
mother of Feichin		This name is sometimes given to El or Dagan.		wife of Garell
Lascoyt	British	Latmikaik	Pacific Islands	Laudine
son of Gornemant		wife of Tperakl		British
brother of Gurzgi, Liaze and Schenteflurs		Her husband, the creator-god, lived in the sky whereas she lived in the depths of the ocean.		[Lady of the Fountain]
Laseo	East Indian	Latmos	( see Latmus)	wife of Escalados, the Black Knight
a culture-hero of Celebes		Latmus	Greek	When Owain killed the Black Knight in single combat he took over not only the knight's lands but his wife also.
Lases	( see Lares)	[Latmos]		Laufakanaa
Laskowice	Slav	the mountain on which Endymion fell asleep: the land of forgetting		Pacific Islands
forest spirits, guardians of animals		Lato	( see Leto)	a wind-god of the Tongan Islanders
Lassar	( see Llasar Llaes Gyfnewid)	Latona	Roman	He is credited with having invented the fishing net and having brought the banana from heaven.
Lasya<sup>1</sup>	Buddhist	[=Greek Leto]		Laufeia
[=Tibetan sGeg-mo-ma]		a mother-goddess and moon-goddess		Norse a Buddhist mother-goddess		mother of Apollo and Diana by Jupiter		[Laufey.Nal]
one of the astamataras		Latreus	Greek	a giantess
She is depicted holding a mirror.		a Centaur		mother of Loki by Farbauti, some say
Lasya<sup>2</sup>	Buddhist	He was killed by Caeneus in the fight that broke out between the Centaurs and the Lapiths at the wedding of Perithous and Hippodamia.		Laufey
a group of 4 astamataras – Gita, Lasya, Mala and Nrtya		Latrina gods	Japanese	( see Laufeia)
Lat	Arab	deities who instructed men in the art of agriculture		Laufrodedd
a name for Alilat as mother of the sun		Latromis	Greek	Welsb
mother of Dusares		son of Dionysus by Ariadne		[Llaufrodedd.Llawfrodedd]
Lata	Pacific Islands	Latura	( see Lature)	owner of the knife that became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain
[=Maori Rata]		Lature	Pacific Islands	collected by Merlin
a Samoan hero		[Latu(ra)]		Laugardag
Lathenes	Greek	an Indonesian sun-god and creator-god		Norse
a Theban warrior		god of the dead, some say		Saturday, a day honouring Loki
In the war with the Seven, he faced Amphiarus at the Homoloid Gate.				Laughing Buddha
Latarak	Mesopotamian			( see Fut-tai-shih. Maitreya Warai-botoke)
a Sumerian god				Laughing Festival of Wasa
Latawicc	European			( see Festival of Wasa)
a Polish spirit				Laughing Water
This being may appear as male or female, causing travellers to lose their way. It may also take the form of a flying serpent consorting with witches.				( see Minnehaha)
latedo	African			Lauka Mate
a priest of the Acholi				( see Laukumate)
latedo tiim	African			Laukika-Devatas
a priest of the Acholi who ensures good hunting				Hindu
latedo koot	African			a group of local gods
a priest of the Acholi who ensures rain				Lancelot du Lac
Latialis	( see Jupiter Latiaris)			( see Lancelot)
				Lauka Mata
				( see Laukumate)
				Laukpatis
				Baltic [Lauksargis:=Latvian Laukumate: =Polish Lawkapatim]
				a Lithuanian field-god
				Lauksargis
				( see Laukpatis)
				Laukumate
				Baltic [Lauka Mata.Mother of the Fields: =Lithuanian Laukpatis: =Polish Lawkapatim]
				a Latvian goddess of agriculture

- lauma<sup>1</sup> Baltic
the Latvian version of the Lithuanian laumė
- Lauma<sup>2</sup> East Indian
in New Guinea, the soul
It is said that, when a person dies, the Lauma leaves the body and takes up a separate existence.
- laumė Baltic
[deive.lauma:=Latvian lauma.spigena]
a Lithuanian hag or witch
Originally these beings were harmless fairies, later they became evil beings.
- Laumu East Indian
the soul, in New Guinea
It is said that the body can leave the soul, causing illness, and return. At death, it leaves permanently but leads its own separate life.
- Launce (see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)
- Lanceor British [Lanceor]
a knight of King Arthur's court
son of the king of Ireland
He was present at the court when Balin drew the sword brought by Colombe and sent by Lyle, Lady of Avalon, and was jealous. He rode after Balin when he left, hoping to avenge the death of the Lady of the Lake, and challenged Balin who killed him in single combat.
- Launfal British [Lam(=be)well.Lan(de)val.Lanfal]
a knight of King Arthur's court
one of the king's stewards husband of Trianor
He was the only man to realise that the bad Guinevere had taken over from the good Guinevere at the king's wedding feast. He left the court when Arthur rejected his warnings and was seduced by the witch Trianor. She gave him all the trappings of a rich noble and he returned to Camelot where he boasted that Trianor was the most beautiful woman in the world. He had been forbidden to speak her name and all his clothes and wealth disappeared. Guinevere would have had him executed but Trianor went to Camelot, struck the false queen blind and carried Lanfal off to her magic fairyland or, some say, to Avalon.
Another story says that Guinevere tried to seduce him and was rejected. Tried for improper advances to the queen, he was saved when Trianor appeared and proved that she, not the queen, was his lover.
- Laurel<sup>1</sup> British wife of Agravaïn
- laurel<sup>2</sup> Greek
the tree of Apollo
- Laurin
[Laurus]
king of the dwarfs
husband of Kunhild
In Germanic stories, he abducted Kunhild, sister of Dietlieb, and fought Dietrich and his followers when they came to her rescue. He trapped Dietlieb and some of his knights in his underground palace where he had imprisoned Kunhild but they escaped and, after a fight, captured Laurin. When he promised to behave better in future, he was forgiven and allowed to marry Kunhild. (see also Andvari)
- Laurus (see Andvari.Laurin)
- Lausus Greek
son of Mezentius
He was killed in the fighting between the band of Trojans led by Aeneas and the indigenous Latins and Rutulians.
- Lava Hindu
son of Rama or Ravana and Sita
twin brother of Kusha
- Lavaine British [Lavaine.Lawayn]
a knight of King Arthur's court
son of Bernard brother of Elaine, Maid of Astolat, and Tirre
He accompanied Lancelot to France and was made Duke of Arminak.
- Lavarcham Irish [Le(a)b(h)archam.Lebhorcham.Levarcam]
an attendant on Deirdre
Conor, the high king, put her in charge of Deirdre to raise her until she reached marriageable age. Lavarcham introduced her to Naisi with whom she eloped. The lovers were induced to return on a promise of safe conduct but Conor had Naisi and his two brothers killed and took Deirdre by force. Lavarcham died of grief and shame.
In some accounts, she is said to be a prophetess able to travel through the whole of Ireland in a day. It was said that her legs below the knee faced backwards.
- Lavatory Ladies
(see Keng San Ku-niang)
- Laverna Italian
an underworld goddess, goddess of thieves
- Lavinia Greek
daughter of Latinus and Amata
second wife of Aeneas
Amata tried to keep her daughter for Turnus by hiding her in the woods but she eventually married Aeneas, just as had been prophesied before the arrival of the Trojans in Italy.
In some accounts she was the daughter of Evander, in some the wife of Hercules.
- Lawaine (see Lavaine)
- Lawayn (see Lavaine)
- Lawkapatim Polish [=Lithuanian Laukpatis]
a field-god
- Lawnslot (see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)
- Lay of Alvis (see Alvis-Mal)
- Lay of Demodocus Greek
a poem in Homer's Odyssey telling the story of Aphrodite's affair with Ares
- Lay of Grimnir (see Grimnismal)
- Lay of Groa-Galdur (see GroaGaldur)
- Lay of Harbard (see Harbardsljod)
- Lay of Hymir (see Hymiskvida)
- Lay of Rig (see Rigsthula)
- Lay of the Nibelungs
(see Nibelungenlied)
- Lay of Thrym (see Hammarsheimt)
- Lay of Vafþrútnir
(see Vafþrútnismal)
- Lay of Vegtam (see Vegtamskvida)
- Lay of Volund (see Volundarkvida)
- Lays of Ancient Rome English
tales by Thomas Macaulay including the story of Horatius defending the bridge
- Laz Mesopotamian
a Babylonian goddess
wife of Nergal
- Laziliez British
an ancestor of Percival
- Lcham-Sring Buddhist
a Tibetan god of war
one of the Drag-gshed
- ICogpo Tibetan
[!Jogspo]
the ruler of the underworld, Yog-klu
- Le Bel Inconnu (see Gingalin)
- Le Cheval Bayard (see lutin<sup>1</sup>)
- Le Chateau de la Charette
(see Chateau de la Charette)
- Le Chateau de Morgan la Fée
(see Fata Morgana<sup>1</sup>)
- Le Chevalier au Lion (see Yvain<sup>2</sup>)
- Le Chevalier de la Charette
(see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)
- Le Chevalier Mal Fet British [Sinner Lord]
the name used by Lancelot during the period when he was living with Elaine (see Lancelot<sup>2</sup>)
- Le Conte de Graal (see Conte deGraal)
- Le Conte del Grail
(see Conte de Graal)

Le-eyo African

an ancestor of the Masai

Le Morte d'Arthur

(see Morte d'Arthur)

Le petit homme rouge French

a house spirit of Normandy, a lutin

Le Roi Mehaigne (see Fisher King)

Le Roi Pêcheur British

a name for the keeper of the Holy

Grail, variously translated as the Fisher King or the Sinner King

(see Fisher King, Pelles)

Le Tournement de l'Anticrist European

a French story which tells of the battle between the forces of good, led by King Arthur, and the forces of hell

Leabbar Gabala

(see Book of Invasions)

Leabbar Gabbala

(see Book of Invasions)

Leabbar Laigean

(see Book of Leinster)

Leabbar na hUídhre

(see Book of the Dun Cow)

Leabarcham (see Lavarcham)

Leabharcham (see Lavarcham)

Leades Greek

son of Astracus

brother of Amphidocus, Ismarus

and Melanippus

He and his brothers helped to defend Thebes against the attacking Seven.

Lean Pacific Islands

son of Timbehes

brother of Bangar and Sisianlik

The members of this family are regarded in New Guinea as the ancestors of the tribes. Lean himself died as the result of falling into a fire and a huge coconut palm grew from the remains of his skull.

Leanan-Sidhe Irish

[=Manx Llianán-she]

a female fairy who takes possession of a man, inspiring him with bardic powers

Leander Greek

[Leandros]

a youth of Abydus

He lived on one side of the Hellespont, Hero on the other and, although in love, they were forbidden to marry. Guided by a light in her window, he swam the Hellespont every night but when a storm extinguished the light, he was drowned. She hanged herself from grief.

Leandros (see Leander)

Lear British

a legendary king of Britain

father of Cordelia, Goneril and Regan

He is said to have divided his kingdom between Goneril and Regan. They drove him to madness and he was cared for by Cordelia who raised an army to depose her sisters but was killed in the attempt.

Learchus Greek

son of Athamas by Ino

brother of Melicertes

Hera discovered that Ino had reared the infant Dionysus and drove Athamas mad. He killed Learchus, shooting him under the delusion that he was a stag, and would have killed Ino and Melicertes if they had not jumped into the sea to escape.

In some accounts, he is referred to as Leucon.

Leargan (see Ligan, Lumina)

Leba (see Legba<sup>2</sup>)

Lebadeia Greek

a town in Boeotia, site of the oracle

of Trophonius

Lebai Malang Malay

bad luck personified: a character for whom everything he does goes wrong

Lebanah (see Zeveac)

Lebarcham (see Lavarcham)

Lebe Serou African

ancestor-god of the Dogon, the eighth of the Eight Ancestors

He was said to be the first man to die.

He was buried up to his neck and

Binou Serou, the seventh of the Eight

Ancestors, in the form of a snake, swallowed his head.

Lebermeer German

[=Estonian Maksameri]

the land of the dead

Lebes

an angel of fruitfulness

Lebharcham (see Lavarcham)

Lebhorcham (see Lavarcham)

Lebien-Pogil Siberian

a guardian spirit of the earth

Lebor Gabala (see Book of Invasions)

Lebor Laigen (see Book of Leinster)

Lebor na hUídhre

(see Book of the Dun Cow)

Lebros Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her while she was bathing, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Lebros, tore him to pieces.

lecanomancy

divination by the reflections in the surfaces of dishes or bowls of water

Lechies

a forest-demon

These beings are envisaged as having the head and legs of a goat on a human body. In some accounts they are said to kill travellers by tickling them until they die laughing.

lectisternium Roman

[=Greek theoxenia]

a meal for the gods

Leda Greek

daughter of Thestius and Eurythemis

wife of Tyndareus

mother of Castor and Clytemnestra

by Tyndareus

mother of Helen and Polydeuces

by Zeus

In one story she found the egg resulting from the union of Zeus

(appearing as a swan) with Nemesis (as a goose) and from which came Helen of Troy.

Another version has Zeus (as a swan) raping Leda who produced two eggs from which came Helen and Clytemnestra, Castor and Polydeuces.

In other accounts, she had three other daughters, Phoebe, Phylonöe and Timandra.

She was deified as Nemesis or her attendant.

Leding (see Laeding)

Leech Child (see Hiru-ko)

Leed's Devil (see Jersey Devil)

leeting

[lating]

a gathering of witches at Hallowe'en

Left-handed, The (see Opochtli)

legarau West Indian

[legarou]

a werewolf in Trinidad

(see also leperou, loupgarou<sup>2</sup>)

legarou (see legerau)

Legba<sup>1</sup> African

[Legbar, Legua; =Yoruba Eshu]

an angel-trickster of the Fon

a god of destiny

son of Lisa and Mawu or Minona

Legba<sup>2</sup> West Indian

[Elegaba(ra), Leba, Legbassou,

Legua, Liba]

the sun-god of Haiti

During the daytime he operates the gate that gives spirits access to take possession of humans.

He is depicted as an old man in ragged clothes with a stick which supports the universe.

Legbar (see Legba<sup>1</sup>)

Legbassou (see Legba<sup>2</sup>)

Legua (see Legba<sup>1,2</sup>)

Lei Chen-tzu Chinese

a son of Thunder
He was said to have been born from an egg and was raised by Yün Chung-tzu. When he ate two apricots he had found, he developed a long nose, tusks and wings and his face became green.

Lei Hai-ch'ing Chinese

[Wu-tai]
a patron-god of musicians
He is said to have killed himself when some friend played a practical joke on him and he became a god.

Lei Jen Tsu Chinese

son of Lei Tsu
He was born from an egg and found by soldiers who gave him to Wen Wang who had the boy reared by a hermit. When Wen Wang was captured, Lei Jen Tsu turned into a dragon and rescued him.

Lei Kung Chinese

[Duke of Thunder]
a Taoist thunder-god
son of Lei Tsu

Originally depicted in human form with blue skin, fangs and talons, he was later shown as a monkey-faced bird.

Lei Pu Chinese

the celestial Ministry of Thunder

Lei Tsu Chinese

[Ancestor of Thunder.Wen Chung T'ai-shih] god of silk-weavers and cake-makers controller of storms husband of T'ien Mu
father of Lei Jen Tsu and Lei Kung

He was the earthly minister, Wen Chung, and was on the losing side at the Battle of Mu, fleeing to the mountains. Yün Chung-tzu caused eight columns of flames to surround the fugitive and he was burnt to ashes, becoming the god Lei Tsu.

He is envisaged as having three eyes, one of which, in the middle of his forehead, emits a death-dealing beam. For transport he has a black unicorn said to travel at immense speed.

In some accounts, Lei Tsu is female, the goddess of agriculture and the wife of Huang Ti, and said to have been the first person to domesticate the silk-worm. Others say that this was Hsi-ling Shih.

Leib-olmai Lapp

['alder man']
the bear-god, protectors of hunters

leibata East Indian

[=Borneo jewata:=Hindu devata:

=Indonesian dewi:=Javanese dewata:

=Philippines divata]

a general name for a deity in Sumatra

Liefneis Flames Norse

a drink
Odin gave this drink to the hero Hadding to give him great strength and courage.

Leilah Persian

the personification of female beauty lover of Mejnoun

Leimoniads Greek

[Limoniades]
nymphs of the meadows

Lein Irish

a smith to the gods
He made the magic spear given to Finn mac Cool by Fiacha.

Leiodes Greek

a priest
He was one of the suitors harassing Penelope during her husband's absence and was killed by Odysseus on his return from his wanderings.

leippya Burmese

a soul which can appear in the form of a butterfly and leave the body
It is said that the soul can leave the body and return as it pleases. While the soul is away, the person may become ill and, if the soul is seized by a demon, the person will die.

(see also la')

Leiptar *(see Leipter)Leipter Norse

[Leiptar:=Greek Styx]
the river of oaths
a river in Niflheim, one of the 12 rivers known as Elivagar.

Leir British

the British version of the Irish god Lir

Leiriope Greek

[Liriope]
a nymph
mother of Narcissus by Cephisus

Lejman Pacific Islands

[=Celebes Lumimu'ut]
the first woman in the lore of the Marshall Islanders consort of Wellub mother of Lanej and Lewoj mother of Edao, some say
She and Wellub were born from the leg of Lao. In another version, they were originally worms living in a shell.

In some versions she is referred to as Limdunanij or Limdunaniji.

Lejo East Indian

a Dayak chief husband of Mang
He found the goddess Mang trapped with her hair caught in a vine and married her. They had a daughter and then Mang returned to her home in the sky.

Lel Russian

a shepherd
Snegurochka, the snow-maiden, fell in love with Lel and emerged from her icy forest home to be with him. She perished in the heat of Yarilo, the sun-god. But the same heat warms the earth and flowers spring up where she died.

Lela Muda Malay

a prince
son of Budiman
brother of Naga Mas

Lelaps *(see Laelaps)Lelex Greek

king of Laconia
son of Poseidon by Libya brother of Agenor and Belus
father of Eurotas

Lelwani *(see Shaushkas)Lelwanis *(see Shaushkas)Lembu East Indian

a prince of Borneo
Sailing down a river, he came to a waterfall where there stood a beautiful girl named Tunjung Buih. As he watched, Suryananta appeared and took the girl as his wife.

Lemminkainen Finnish

[Ahti.Ahto.Kauko(mieli).Lieto:

=Estonian Lammakune]

a hero of the Kalevala
son of Ilmatar
son of Lempi and Kyllikki, some say husband of Kylli

He is said to have seduced all the women on the island of Saari.

His wife broke her promise not to attend local dances so he divorced her and was a suitor for the hand of the Maiden of Pohjola, the daughter of the evil Louhi. To win her, he was required to catch a camel (or outrun an elk, some say), capture a fire-breathing horse and shoot a swan on one of the rivers of the underworld Tuonela. A blind cowherd named Markhattu, whom Lemminkainen had earlier offended, sent a serpent which killed the hero. His body was cut into pieces by a son of Tuoni but his mother, Kyllikki, recovered the pieces from the river of death and, with the help of honey brought from heaven by a bee, which she smeared over the parts, restored him to life. While Lemminkainen was in the underworld, the maiden married Ilmarinen.

Lemminkainen later went on an expedition to Pohjola with Ilmarinen and Vainamoinen to seize the sampo, a magic mill that provided a never-ending supply of money and grain, which Ilmarinen had made for the Maiden of Pohjola.

Lemnian Serpent (see Hydra)

Lemnos Greek

the island ruled by Thoas

The women of this island killed all the men with the exception of Thoas who was helped to escape by his daughter, Hypsipyle.

Philoctetes was left here when he was bitten by a snake en route to Troy with the Greek army.

lemon

a yellow citrus fruit

Pinning a piece of paper bearing the name of a person to a lemon was said to cause illness or even death of that individual.

Lempi Finnish

['love']

father of Lemminkainen

Lempo Finnish

an evil spirit (see also Hiisi)

lemur Roman

[plur=lemures=Greek lamyroí]

a ghost of the dead

In some accounts, a distinction is made between the larvae and the lemures, the former being ghosts of the wicked dead, the latter of the good dead.

(see also lares.larva)

Lemuralin (see Lemuria<sup>2</sup>)

lemures (see lemur)

Lemuria<sup>1</sup>

a supposed lost continent, the birthplace of man

Lemuria<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Lemuralin]

a festival commemorating the dead,

May 9-15th

Len Linfiachlach Irish

a smith working for Bodb Dearg

Lena Irish

grandson of Mac Da Tho

He raised the huge boar that was killed for Mac Da Tho's feast.

Lenae (see bacchantes)

Lenaea Greek

[Festival of Wild Women.Lenaeon]

a Spring festival in honour of Dionysus

Lenaeon (see Lenaea)

Lenaeus Greek

[Lenaíus]

an epithet of Dionysus as ruler of the wine-presses

Lanaios (see Lenaeus)

Lendar Irish

wife of Connall Cearnach, some say

Lendebair Irish

wife of Finn mac Cool, some say

Lendix-Tcux North American

a shape-changing god of the Chilcotin Indians of Canada

Lenga African

sister of Lunga

wife of Nsassi (see also Nsassi)

Lenni-Lenapi North American

the ancestors of the Delaware people, direct descendants of the Great Spirit

Lenus Celtic

a god of healing in Gaul and Wales

Leo<sup>1</sup> European

a pope

son of Constantine

His father demanded the hand of Bradamante for his son and Rogero set out to challenge his right to her hand. When Rogero was captured and imprisoned, Leo released him out of admiration for his bravery and skill on the battlefield at Belgrade where he had rallied the Bulgarians and routed the Greeks. In return, Leo extracted a promise that Rogero would fight Bradamante to win her hand for Leo. Rogero won the contest with Bradamante and departed in despair but when Leo heard of his distress he gave up his claim to Bradamante who finally married Rogero, the man she loved.

Leo<sup>2</sup>

[Lion:=Arab Asad]

the fifth sign of the Zodiac, the lion

Leo<sup>3</sup> (see Louis)

Leodegan (see Leodegrance)

Leodegrance British

[Laodegan.Leodegan.Leodogran.

Lodegrance:=Welsh Gogrvan.Ocvram.

Ogyr Vran]

king of Cameliard

father of Guinevere

When Leodegrance's kingdom was attacked by Royns, King Arthur brought a great army to his rescue. It was on this occasion that Arthur first met Guinevere who later became his wife. Leodegrance gave Arthur the Round Table as part of Guinevere's dowry.

Some accounts equate him with Bran.

Leodogran (see Leodegrance)

Leofos Pacific Islands

wife of Paluelap

mother of Rongelap and Rongerik

Leon (see Houdain)

Leonais (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Leonard

[Great Goat.Master Leonard]

a demon of the first order

In black magic, one of the Grand Dignitaries, grand master of the Sabbath, depicted with a black face and three horns.

Leones (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Leonesse (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Leonois (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Leonnaos (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Leonoretta European

a princess

daughter of Lisuarte

sister of Oriana

She and a number of knights and maidens were captured by the giant Famongomadan and his son, Basagante. Amadis killed both giants and released the prisoners.

Leontes Persian

male celebrants of the rites of Mithra

In these rites, a bull was sacrificed and its raw flesh was eaten by the Leontes.

Leonteus Greek

son of Coronus

He was one of the leaders of the Lapiths at Troy.

Leontophonus Greek

son of Odysseus

In the story that says that Odysseus was sent into exile to Aetolia for killing the suitors of Penelope, he was said to have married the daughter of the king, Thoas, who bore Leontophonus.

leopard

a fierce animal of the cat family with a spotted coat

(1) In Biblical terms, a beast said to have seven heads and ten horns, mentioned in Revelations.

(2) The Egyptians revered the leopard as the animal of Osiris.

(3) In Greece the leopard was regarded as the animal of Dionysus.

Leopard of the Night (see Buk)

Leopard Spirit Chinese

a demon

He captured Tripitaka and his friends on their Journey to the West but Sun Hou-tzu turned into a firefly and rescued them.

Leophontes (see Bellerophon)

Leos Greek

a herald at the court of Theseus

lepanthropy

the supposed power to turn oneself into a hare

leperou (see liberou.werewolf)

Lepidotus Egyptian

a fish sacred to the Egyptians

leprachaun (see leprechaun)

Leprea (Greek)
a guardian goddess of lepers

leprecawn (see leprechaun)

leprechaun (Irish)

[leprachaun.leprec(h)awn.lepricaune.

lubberkin.lubrican.luprachain]

a spirit or fairy of the Otherworld

When the Danaans were conquered by the invading Milesians they retreated underground as fairies. They are said to guard a crock of gold.

In some accounts, they are the same as the geanncanae.

(see also clurricane.luchorpain)

leprechawn (see leprechaun)

lepricaune (see leprechaun)

Lepus (Egyptian)

[hare]

a star of Orion, recognised as the boat of the god Horus.

Ler (see Lir)

Lerad (see Laerad)

Leradh (see Laerad)

Leraie (see Lerajie)

Lerajie

[Leraie.Oray]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to cause wars and can prevent the wounds of one's enemies from healing.

He may appear dressed in green and carrying a bow and arrows.

Lerna (Greek)

[Lerne]

a swamp in Argolis, home of the Hydra

Lernaean Hydra (see Hydra)

Lerne (see Lerna)

Lesa (see Leza)

Lesage (Persian)

a demon opposing Sraosha

Leschi (see Leshi)

Leshachika (Slav)

wife of Leshi

Leshi (Slav)

[Leschi,Leshy.Lesiy(e).Lsovik.Ljeschi.

Lychie.Lyeshie.Lyeshy.Miehs-

Lozjin.Vare-jielle]

an evil forest-spirit

a type of karliki

These one-eyed beings are said to rape young women after luring them into the forest. They are regarded as the progeny of mortal women and demons, capable of changing their shape at will, and are said to have blue faces with green beards. Some say that they fell from heaven when Satan was expelled.

Leshy (see Leshi)

Lesiy (see Leshi)

Lesiye (see Leshi)

Lesni Zenka (Slav)

[Meschamaat]

a female woodland spirit

Lesovik (see Leshi)

Lessoe (Norse)

an island

the home of Aegir

Lestoire de Merlin (British)

the life story of Merlin from the

Vulgate Version

Lestrigones (see Laestrygones)

Lethaea (Greek)

wife of Olenus

She and her husband were both turned to stone by the gods

Lethe<sup>1</sup> (Greek)

[Ameles]

one of the rivers in Hades

The waters of this river, if drunk, caused forgetfulness so the dead were required to drink its waters to obliterate memories of their past life.

Lethe<sup>2</sup> (Greek)

oblivion personified

offspring of Eris

Lethowstow (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Leto (Greek)

[Lato:=Roman Latona]

a Titaness

goddess of darkness

daughter of Coeus and Phoebe

sister of Asteria

mother of Apollo and Artemis by Zeus

She was abandoned by Zeus when he made her pregnant and pursued by Python at the behest of the jealous Hera. She wandered the earth until finally carried by a dolphin to the floating island of Ortygia (later Delos) which welcomed her and gave her sanctuary for the birth of her children, Apollo and Artemis. Poseidon chained the island to the bottom of the sea so that its motion should not disturb Leto and her children and two men who, at the instigation of Hera, had stirred up the mud in a pool to prevent Leto from taking a drink were turned into frogs by Zeus.

Some accounts say that Ortygia and Delos were two separate places while others say that the island of Asteria (Leto's sister turned into a rock by Zeus) was the site of the birth of the twins. Some say that Leto arrived on Delos in the form of a wolf to deceive Hera.

She was said to have changed Leucippus from a girl to a boy.

Some accounts have Leto as the wife of Zeus before Hera. (see also Asteria)

Leto Phytia (Greek)

a name for Leto as creator, after she changed a girl into the boy Leucippus

Lettfeti (Norse)

a horse of the gods

Leuca (Greek)

[Leucos]

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her while she was bathing, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Leuca, tore him to pieces.

Leuce<sup>1</sup> (Greek)

a nymph

When chased by Hades she was turned into a white poplar.

Leuce<sup>2</sup> (Celtic)

[White Island]

a home for illustrious dead heroes

Leucetios (Roman)

a Celtic thunder-god in Gaul

Leucippe (Greek)

[White Goddess]

daughter of Minyas

mother of Hippasus

With her sisters Arsippe and Alcithoë she tore her son Hippasus to pieces and ate him in a fit of madness induced by Dionysus who was upset when they refused to join his revels.

Hermes changed all three sisters into bats (or birds).

Leucippides (Greek)

the daughters of Leucippus

Leucippus<sup>1</sup> (Greek)

co-king, with Aphareus, of Messenia

son of Pereires and Gorgophone

father of Arsinoe, Hilaeria and Phoebe

Leucippus<sup>2</sup> (Greek)

a Cretan girl who was changed into a boy by Leto daughter of Lamprus and Galatea

Lamprus ordered his wife to kill their expected child if it should turn out to be a girl. When a girl was duly born, Galatea dressed her like a boy and reared her as such. Eventually the truth came out and mother and child took refuge in the temple of Leto where Galatea prayed to the goddess. Her prayers were answered when Leto changed the girl into a boy.

Leucippus<sup>3</sup> (Greek)

son of Oenomaus

He fell in love with Daphne, the nymph who rejected all men. To approach her, he disguised himself as a nymph but the others discovered the trick when they were bathing together and killed him.

Leucon (see Learchus)

Leucos (see Leuca)

Leucosia Greek
one of the sirens

Leucothea (see Ino.Leucothoe)

Leucothee (see Leucothoe)

Leucothoe<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Leucothea.Leucothee.Leukothea]

daughter of Orchamus and Eurynome

Helius seduced her and her father then buried her alive. The sun-god changed her into the shrub frankincense.

Leucothoe<sup>2</sup> (see Ino)

Leucus Greek

a Cretan

He seduced Meda, wife of Idomeneus, and, when her husband returned from the Trojan war, killed her and drove her husband from Crete.

Leudonus British

an early name of Lot

Leukothea (see Ino.Leucothoe)

Levana Roman

a tutelary goddess of new-born babies

Levander Celtic

a servant of Melora husband of Verona

Melora, on a quest to acquire three things which would lift the spell put on her lover, Orlando, defeated the king of Africa in single combat and acquired the Lance of Longinus.
Levander was given to her as a servant
in her quest for a carbuncle and the oil of a pig. At the end of the quest, he married Verona.

Levarcam (see Lavarcham)

Leve African

a name of Ngewo as 'the one high up'

Leviatan<sup>1</sup> (see Leviathan)

Leviathan<sup>2</sup> Hebrew

[Leviatan.Livyathan:=Babylonian

Tiamat:=Canaanite Lotan.Yam:

=Muslim Nun]

the serpent of primeval chaos

This beast was said to emit a light even brighter than the sun. At the end of the world it will be killed by Behemoth but another version says that Gargantua met and killed the monster on one of his journeys. In other versions it is a sea-monster with seven heads which was killed by Baal and Mot. Later, it came to symbolise hell.

In some accounts, he was chained by Anat while another version makes Leviathan an androgynous being.

Leviathan<sup>2</sup>

a demon, loss of faith personified

levitation

[=Hindu laghiman.utthana]

the supposed power of rising in the air, defying gravity

This ability has been claimed by a number of saints and by Hindu yogin.

Lewalevu Pacific Islands

an underworld goddess in Fiji

She receives the souls of the dead
when they arrive in Bulu.

Lewis (see Louis)

Lewis, C S English

(1898-1963)

a scholar and writer, author of

The Screwtape Letters

Lewoj Pacific Islands

['nadir']

son of Wulleb and Lejman

brother of Lanej

He and his brother plotted to kill Wulleb but he escaped and fell to earth.

Lewy (see Lugaid)

ley lines

imaginary cross-country lines

These lines are imagined to join sites of religious or historical importance and to be imbued with magical properties.

leyak Pacific Islands

in Balinese lore, one who can turn into a tiger or a firefly

The leyak roams about at night collecting the intestines of the dead and is said to use these entrails to make a brew with which he can turn himself into a tiger.

Leza African

[Lesa.Luchyele.Lumumba.Rez(h)a:

=Fon Lisa]

a creator-god and sky-god of the Kaonde

He sent three gourds to men in the care of the honeybird. The bird opened the gourds including the one that should not have been opened until Leza himself came to earth. Two gourds contained seeds and other useful things but the third contained all the ills that afflict mankind.

In some areas they maintain that Leza reached the sky by climbing up a spider's web which broke when men tried to follow.

Lha<sup>1</sup> Tibetan

[=Hindu Deva]

a name for a god or good spirit

These beings were envisaged as white males who made frequent visits to earth. (see also dMu)

lha<sup>2</sup> Tibetan

early inhabitants of Tibet

These beings, who knew the art of tempering steel, were the precursors of the race. Next came the dMu-rgyal.

Lha-K'a Tibetan

[Ku-t'em-da]

a sorcerer

He can cure pain by sucking on the end of a divining rod which is touching the affected spot, so drawing out a spot of blood and, with it, the demon causing the pain.

Lha-Mo Buddhist

[Glorious Goddess.Lhamo:=Hindu Sri]

a Tibetan goddess

one of the Drag-gshed

a name for Sri

lha-so Tibetan

the land of the gods: heaven

lha-tho Tibetan

shrines erected to the lha, regarded as the home of these spirits

Lha-tho-tho-ri Tibetan

(433-493)

a king of Tibet

Out of a sky full of rainbows, Buddhist texts and images fell, so it is said, into the palace of this king. These were not understood until five generations later when Buddhism came to Tibet.

lhamayin Tibetan

demons or elementals

Lhamo (see Lha-Mo)

Lhayul Buddhist

a celestial region

The fruit of the Tree of Life, which has its roots in Limayin but branches spreading over the adjoining region, is available to the inhabitants of Lhayul.

Lhiannan-she (see Llianem-Shee)

Lho-Mo (see Sri<sup>2</sup>)

Li<sup>1</sup> African

a malevolent spirit of the Ngbandi

The spirit lives in the stomach and the person so affected is invisible and may steal children and corpses and eat them.

li<sup>2</sup> Chinese

the active principle, opposed to ch'i

Ch'i and li combined to form Yin and Yang.

Li<sup>3</sup> Chinese

a fire-god

son or grandson of Chuan Hsü

brother of Chung

When his father (or grandfather) came to the throne, he put Li in charge of mortal affairs to restore order.

(see also Li<sup>4</sup>.Chu-jung)

Li<sup>4</sup> Chinese

[Li T'o-o-t'a]

a Taoist deity

one of the Four Diamond Kings

He is depicted holding a pagoda.

(see also Li<sup>3</sup>.Li Ching)

Li<sup>5</sup> Chinese
one of the Eight Diagrams, representing fire, sun, heat and the pheasant

li<sup>6</sup> Chinese
one of the 3 main types of dragon (see also dragon<sup>3</sup>)

Li<sup>7</sup> Irish son of Dedad

Li Ban<sup>1</sup> Irish [Liban.Muirgen.Muirgheilt.
Muirghein.Murigen]
daughter of Eochaid mac Maireadha sister of Airiu

She and the rest of her family were overwhelmed when Lough Neagh was formed but she survived in an underwater bower. She turned into a salmon and lived in the sea for some 300 years. She met a monk, Beoan, who was en route to Rome and made a promise to meet him a year later.
When she was caught in the net of another monk, Fergus, they argued over her but she chose to die and go to heaven rather than continue her existence for another 300 years.
Before she died, she was baptised as Muirgen.

Li Ban<sup>2</sup> Irish [Liban]
wife of Tadhg mac Cein

She and her husband's brothers, Airnealach and Eoghan, were carried off by Camthann to a foreign land called Fresen. Tadhg arrived with a force of warriors and, with the help of Camthann's nephews, conquered Fresen, killed Camthann and freed his wife and his brothers.

Li Ban<sup>3</sup> Irish
[Liban]
daughter of Aedh Abrat sister of Angus mac Aedh and Fand wife of Labraid Luathlam

When her husband sought the aid of Cuchulainn to defeat his enemies, she was sent to offer Fand, her sister, in payment for his help.

Another story says that she and Fand incapacitated Cuchulainn for a whole year when they attacked him with whips.

In some accounts, she was the daughter of the goddess Flidhais.

Some accounts describe her as a goddess who sometimes took the form of a bird.

Li Chi Chinese
one of the Five Classics
part of the Li Ching

Li Ching<sup>1</sup> Chinese
[Li T'ien Wang.Pagoda Bearer.T'o-t'a-li] a gate-keeper in heaven
father of Li No Cha

His wife gave birth to a ball of flesh which, when cut open, revealed a baby boy who immediately grew to manhood.

In some stories, the boy, Li No-cha, grew to sixty feet and had three heads and eight arms. When Li Ching tried to kill him, the gods intervened and settled the quarrel, promoting Li Ching to a more senior position in heaven.

He was originally a Hindu god of thunder taken into the Chinese pantheon as the Pagoda Bearer.

(see also Li<sup>3</sup>)

Li Ching<sup>2</sup> Chinese
[Book of Rites.Book of Rituals]
the fifth of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon, dealing with proper conduct, written by Confucius

This work has three parts: Chou Li, I Li and Li Chi.

Li Ch'un Chinese
a spring festival

Li Erh (see Lao-tzu)

Li Hai-t'ang Chinese
wife of Tsao Chün

She persuaded Tsao Chün to divorce his first wife, Kuo Ting-hsiang, and marry her but, when his good fortune deserted him, she did the same.

Li Hsiu-yüan (see Chi Kung)

Li Huan-chi Chinese a book-keeper in a celestial ministry

He was selected for this administrative post but he needed greater knowledge and so he was returned to earth after death for further tuition before taking up the appointment.

Li Kung Chinese

Li Mou-ch'un Chinese
father of Chi Kung one of the disciples of Confucius
allowed to sacrifice in the temple of Confucius.

Li Ning-yang (see Li T'ieh-kuai)

Li No-cha Chinese [Ling Chu-tzu.No Cha]

a Taoist god, guardian of the heavenly gates son of Li Ching

In one story, he was said to be the son of a heavenly unicorn and Li Ching's wife, appearing as a ball of flesh which, when cut open, revealed a boy who immediately grew to manhood. When he later committed suicide in remorse

when he accidentally killed an attendant of the goddess Shih-Chi-Niang-Niang, he was reborn as a sixty foot giant with three heads and eight arms. The gods made him an armour-bearer to the Jade Emperor.

Another version says that a priest,
Chin-kuang Tung, appeared in a dream to a woman who subsequently bore a monstrous lump of flesh which her husband cut open with his sword to reveal a baby boy with three heads,
each with three eyes, and eight arms,
who was wearing the clothes and the bracelet of the priest. He grew to be sixty feet tall at the age of seven and had the power to produce blue clouds from his mouth.

He used his bracelet to kill a retainer of the Dragon King who attempted to arrest him when he disturbed the Dragon King and in the Battle of 10,000 Spirits, he defeated the immortal Feng-lin using his bracelet and his wind-fire wheel.

In some accounts, he was a reincarnation of Ling Chu-tzu.

Li Pa-pai Chinese
an immortal

He is said to have walked 800 miles every day or, in some versions, to have lived for 800 years.

In one story, he persuaded first the servants of T'ang Kung-fang, then his wife and finally the official himself to lick the sores on his body. When the promised cure did not come about, he bathed himself in wine and was cured and the others did likewise and became youthful once again. He gave T'ang Kung-fang a copy of the Tan Ching from which he prepared a potion that made him an immortal.

Li Ping Chinese
an official of the celestial Ministry of

Time responsible for overseeing
the year

Li Po Chinese (699-762)

a celebrated poet

It was said that he was conceived when the mythical planet, T'ai Sui, impregnated
a maiden.

Li Pu Chinese
the celestial Ministry of Rites

Li Shao-chün Chinese a 2nd c BC alchemist

He appealed to Tsao Chün for the gift of eternal youth and persuaded the emperor that he too would become immortal. He tried to deceive the emperor, saying that the recipe he needed was hidden inside an ox and so the beast was killed. A piece of silk with characters written on it was found in the animal's stomach – which was not surprising since Li had given it to the animal to eat. For this crude deception he was executed.

Li-shih Chinese
part of the name Chin-kang-li-shih, referring to Guhyaka as the yaksha with the closed mouth
(see also Hang.Chin-kang)

Li-shih Hsien-kuan Chinese a minor deity, assistant of the God of Riches

Li T'ieh-kuai Chinese [Iron Crutch.Kung Mu.Li Ning-yang.
Li Yüan.T'ieh-kuai (Li)]
one of the Eight Immortals
god of apothecaries and the disabled
He was originally a student known as Li Ning-yang and he developed the power of leaving his body to visit Laotzu in heaven. On one occasion, his disciple, Lang Ling, thinking his master truly dead, burned his body so that, when he finally returned, he was forced to find another body, that of a lame beggar. As a result, he is depicted as a beggar using a crutch given to him by Hsi Wang Mu or Lao-tzu.

Another story says that he was taught by Hsi Wang Mu who cured him when he had an ulcer on his leg. It left him lame so she gave him the iron crutch with which he is depicted. He is said, on one occasion, to have walked into a fiery furnace and emerged unscathed. On another occasion he crossed a river by standing on a floating leaf.

Li T'ien Wang (see Li Ching)

Li T'o-t'a (see Li<sup>4</sup>)

Li Yang-p'ing Chinese
a 9th c writer

Li Yüan (see Li T'ieh-kuai)

Lia Irish
[Liath]
a treasurer of the Fianna
father of Conan mac Morna Conan's brother, Goll, killed Finn's father, Cumail. In revenge, Finn killed Lia and seized his money-bags, distributing the proceeds among the poor.

In another version, Finn killed Lia to avenge the death of Glonda, a man killed by Lia, and, in so doing, took possession of the Treasure Bag of the Fianna.

Lia Fail (see Stone of Destiny)

Liadan Irish

[Liadhain.Liadin]

wife of Lughna

mother of St Ciaran of Saighir

Liadhain (see Liadin)

Liadin (see Liadan)

Liagan Irish

a warrior

He challenged Conan mac Morna to a duel. Conan tricked him into looking behind and cut off his head when he did so.

Lianja African

a god of the Nkundo people

son of Itonde and Mbombe

twin-brother and consort of Ntsongo

father of Likinda

His father, Itonde, was the first man and he was reincarnated on death as Lianja. He was born, fully developed and armed, from his mother's thigh, with his twin sister, Ntsongo, and jumped immediately on to the roof of the house to survey his kingdom.

He sent the sun-bird, Nkundo, to heaven to bring back the sun.

Lianour British

[Lynor]

a duke who ruled the Castle of Maidens

The castle was occupied by many young women under his control until he was killed by seven brothers. These were later routed by Galahad, who freed the maidens, and killed by Gareth and Gawain.

liao Chinese

an altar used for sacrifices to Shang Ti

Liar, The (see Gluskap)

Liat Pacific Islands

[=Marshall Islands Rimogaio]

a race of fabulous giants on Ponape

(see also Kona)

Liat Maca (see Grey of Macha)

Liath<sup>1</sup> Irish

son of Laigne

Liath<sup>2</sup> Irish

a Danaan prince

He fell in love with Bri who died of a broken heart when her father, Midir, rejected Liath as a suitable match for his daughter.

Liath<sup>3</sup> (see Lia)

Liath Luacha Irish

a warrior-maid

She taught Finn mac Cool the military arts.

Liath Macha (see Grey of Macha)

Liathdrom Irish

a name for Tara

Liaze British

daughter of Gornemant

sister of Gurzgi, Lascoyt

and Schenteflurs

Liba (see Legba<sup>2</sup>)

Libahi (see Tonenili)

Liban<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of Ban

She had an affair with Pandragus and bore twins.

Liban<sup>2</sup> (see Li Ban)

libanomancy

divination from burning incense

Libanza African

[Ibanza.Rich One]

a creator-god

The Bangala say he is a creator-god living at the bottom of the river Congo who causes floods.

The Upoto say he lives in the eastern part of the sky and sends the moon to collect the souls of the dead.

Libation Bearers, The Greek

[Choephoraes.Choephoroii]

the second play in the trilogy Oresteia
by Aeschylus

Libearn British

second wife of the king of India

She turned her step-son into the Crop-eared Dog so that her own son might inherit the throne.

Libeaus Desconus (see Gingalin)

Liber Roman

[Liber Pater:=Greek Dionysus]

an Italian fertility-god, god of agriculture and wine consort of Ceres

father of Libera

He is said to have created Falerian wine to reward a peasant who had given him hospitality. He was sometimes identified with Bacchus or Iacchus.

Liber Pater (see Liber)

Libera<sup>1</sup> Roman

[=Greek Core.Persephone]

a goddess of fertility

daughter of Liber and Ceres

libera<sup>2</sup> West Indian in Haiti, a chant sung at African funerals to drive the spirit of the dead person from the house

Liberalia Roman

a festival in honour of Liber held on March 17th

Liberalitas Roman

a god of generosity

Libertas Roman

a goddess of personal liberty

liberou

[leperou:=West Indian legarau]

a form of werewolf

Libertina Roman
a name for Venus as the goddess of sensual pleasures (see also Libitina)

Libethra Greek
the site of Orpheus' burial

Libicocco European
a name for the Devil in Dante's Inferno

Libitina Roman [=Greek Persephone]
a goddess of funerals and the underworld, death personified an aspect of Venus (see also Libertina)

libogues East Indian legends of Papua New Guinea

Libra
[Jugum:=Arab Mizan]
the seventh sign of the Zodiac, the balance or scales

Librabis
a demon associated with hidden gold

Libu Mesopotamian
a Babylonian deity said to cause ague

Libya Greek
[Aega]
daughter of Epaphus and Memphis
sister of Lysianassa mother of Agenor, Belus and Lelex by Poseidon

Libyan Sybil Greek
a prophetess

Licat Anir British
the reputed site of the grave of King Arthur's son, Amr

Lichambene East Indian a rice-goddess of Sulawesi mother of Kumokomba

Lichas Greek
a herald to Heracles
He rescued the bones of Orestes from Tegea whereafter, as foretold by the Delphic Oracle, Sparta won every battle with the Tegeans.

It was he who carried the poisoned robe sent by Deianeira which killed Heracles who, in his agony, grabbed the messenger by one foot and threw him to his death from the top of Mount Oeta.

He was also said to have been transformed into a rock.

Licina Roman
a vestal virgin
She was condemned to death for incest.

Liconaus British
in some accounts, father of Enid by Tarsensyde

licwigunga (see necromancy)

Licymnius Greek
son of Electryon and Midea husband of Perimede
father of Aegeus, Melas and Oeonus

He was the only son of Electryon to survive when the Taphians took his father's cattle in a raid in which his eight brothers were killed.

He was accidentally killed by Tlepoleus during a quarrel.

Lida Mesopotamian
a representative of Nina, in some accounts

Lida Bumi Malay
a plant

It is said that, if one puts an ear close to this plant, one can hear the earth speaking, passing on knowledge.

Lidoine European
daughter of Henry sister of Laris
wife of Ladon and Claris

When her aged first husband died, she was carried off by Savari. She was rescued by King Arthur and married Claris.

Lidskialf (see Hlidskialf)

Liebgart Norse
the name taken by Sidrat when she became a Christian (see also Sidrat)

Liekkio (see Liekko)

Liekko Baltic
[Liekkiö]
a Finnish vegetation spirit, guardian of plants

It is said that the Liekko is the spirit of a child who died and was buried in the forest.

Lietna'irgin Siberian
one of the 4 spirits of the dawn

Lieto (see Lemminkainen)

lietuvens Baltic
a Latvian ghost, the spirit of one who died violently

Lif Norse
[Mogdrasir.Mogthraser]
wife of Lifdrasir

She and her husband hid in Hoddminir's Holt and survived the final battle of Ragnarok to repopulate the earth.

Lifdrasir Norse [Lifthrasir]

husband of Lif
He and his wife hid in Hoddminir's Holt and survived the final battle of Ragnarok to repopulate the earth.

Life and Death of Jason, The English
a book by William Morris telling the story of Jason and the Argonauts

Life of Merlin English
the 17th c story of Merlin written by Thomas Heywood

Life-taker Norse
the sword of Kari

Lifthrasir (see Lifdrasir)

Ligan Lumina Irish [Leargan.Ligan the Leaper]

a warrior of the Fianna
Ligan was a very swift runner and was said to be able to clear Tara in one leap. He chased Gilla Dacar when he absconded with thirteen or fourteen of Finn mac Cool's men and followed him and his mare into the sea, grabbed the mare's tail, and was carried off with the others. Some say that these men were never seen again, others that they were rescued by Finn.

Ligea Greek [Ligeia]
one of the sirens

Ligeia (see Ligea)

Ligdus Greek
husband of Telethusa

father of Iphis
He ordered his wife to abandon her expected baby if it turned out to be a girl. Instead, she raised the child as a boy. Isis later changed the child into a boy so that he could marry Ianthe.

Ligessac British
a fugitive

Having killed some of King Arthur's men, he took shelter with St Cadoc for ten years. Cadoc paid compensation in the form of 100 cattle but these beasts all turned into ferns when being driven through a ford.

In some accounts, others were involved in the killing besides Ligessac.

Light (see Aether)

Light-bearer (see Lucifer)

Light Child Phoenician
offspring of Genos and Genea

Light Elves (see Liosalfar.Nibelungen)

Light of Beauty (see Sgeimh Solais)

Lightfoot<sup>1</sup> Norse
a horse of the gods

Lightfoot<sup>2</sup> (see Sgilti)

lightning<sup>1</sup>

in many cultures, lightning is regarded as a weapon wielded by a god

(1) The Chinese say that a young goddess uses a mirror to flash light on to a chosen target so that the thunder-god can release a bolt of lightning and be sure of hitting the right spot.

(2) In Central America, some tribes say that lightning first brought illness to man.

(3) The people of Dahomey say that the thunder-gods use lightning to punish wrongdoers and one of them, the young god Gbade, can kill people with a lightning shaft.

(4) Early inhabitants of Germany blamed witches for lightning while others said that a charred log from a midsummer bonfire, if kept in the house, would preserve it from lightning strikes. Some say that a magic coal, found under a mugwort plant, will protect the owner from lightning.

(5) In Greece, lightning was the weapon of Zeus and the Greeks regarded as sacred any spot where lightning struck the earth.

(6) In New Guinea it is believed that many evil spirits can cause lightning.

(7) The Romans regarded Jupiter as manifest in lightning and thunder.

(8) In North America, some tribes believe that using a toothpick made from the timber of a tree that has been struck by lightning will cure toothache. Others say that a lightning strike near to the spot where a person is dying announces the arrival of the Devil to collect that person's soul. Some believe that lightning caused the raccoon or the mole while others cover their heads with raccoon skin as protection from lightning.

(9) The Tartars regard lightning as an arrow shot from the rainbow which is the bow wielded by a great hero.

(10) The early Vedic religion taught that lightning was a weapon wielded by several gods, including Apam Napat, Indra, the Maruts, Rudra and Trita.

Lightning<sup>2</sup> (see Caculha-Hurukan)

Lightning-flash (see Chipi-Caculha)

Ligni (see Lygni)

Ligo-feast Baltic
a Latvian festival in honour of the sun-god

Ligoapup (see Ligoupup)

Ligobond Pacific Islands
a goddess who created plants and fruit

Ligoububfanu (see Ligoupup)

Ligoupup Pacific Islands

[Ligoapup.Ligoububfanu]

a creator-goddess in the Gilbert Islands

sister or daughter of Amilap daughter of Lugeilan, some say

She is said to have created the world and now manifests her presence by causing earthquakes.

In some accounts she is regarded as the first woman.

Liguron (see Achilles)

Lijebage Pacific Islands

[Lady Turtle]

Edao was sent to Lijebage by Wulleb to get a magic tortoise shell and the goddess made him into a great magician.

Like-mighty (see Iafn-Har)

Likho Russian

a female demon

This being is depicted as a one-eyed hag.

Likinda African

son of Lianja and Ntsongo

husband of Boale

His daughter was Ntsongo reborn.

Liknites Greek

[Child in the Harvest Basket]

a name of Dionysus as a vegetation-god, new-born each year

Liknophoria Greek

a fertility rite used as part of the Eleusinian Mysteries

Likubala African

a name of Mulungu as 'the counter of steps'

Likundu African

[Ekundu.Ikundu.Ndoki]

the Bangala god of evil:

the devil

Lil Mesopotamian

a Sumerian deity

son and husband of Aruru

brother and husband of Egime,
some say

He was castrated and imprisoned in the underworld.

Lila (see Lilu)

Lilang East Indian

a Sangiang

brother of Tempon Telon

This demi-god acts as the guardian of fishermen.

Lile (see Lyle)

Lilim Mesopotamian

[Lilins:=Greek Empusae]

the winged children of Lilith

They were said to have the legs of asses and to be able to take on any form. As women, they would sleep with men, sapping their strength until they died.

Li'linau North American

a maiden wooed by a phantom

She followed her phantom lover into the forest and was never seen again.

Lilins (see Lilim)

Lilis (see Lilith<sup>2</sup>)

Lilit (see Lilith<sup>1,2</sup>)

Lilith<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Ardat Lili.Lilit(h)u.Lilli.'owl-hag'].

Princess of Succubi 'storm-woman':

=Sumerian Kiskil-lilla]

a Babylonian goddess

She is envisaged as a winged demon-woman attacking sleeping men.

(see also Lila.Lilith<sup>2</sup>.Lilu)

Lilith<sup>2</sup> Hebrew

[Gelou.Gilou.Lilis.Lilit(h)u:

=Sumerian Alu]

a hairy monster who married the Devil

In some accounts, Lilith was expelled from paradise and slept with the Devil, producing the jinn. Other versions say that she flew off in the form of a vampire or took the form of a black cat, preying on new-born babies. In this context, her name is used to refer to the star Algol, previously known as Rosh ha Satan (Satan's Head).

In some accounts, she is identified with Empusa or Lamia, while others refer to her as the queen of Zamargad, the plentiful home of lovers.

(see also Lila.Lilith<sup>1</sup>.Lilu.Naamah)

Lilith<sup>3</sup>

in astrology, the star Algol or a hypothetical planet (see also Lilith<sup>2</sup>)

Lilithu (see Lilith<sup>1,2</sup>)

Lilitu (see Lilith<sup>1,2</sup>)

liliu East Indian

sacred myths of Papua New Guinea

Lilli (see Lilith<sup>1</sup>)

Lillu (see Lilu)

Lilu Mesopotamian

[Lila.Lillu]

the male form of Lilith

He was an elf who enchanted young maidens.

Liluri Mesopotamian

a Syrian mountain-goddess consort of Manuzi

lily Roman

the flower of Juno

Lily Maid of Astolat (see Elaine<sup>3</sup>)

Lima (see Limi)

Limaloa New Zealand

a giant

He tried to kill the god Kumapua'a who had taken the form of a hog but, when the god turned into a handsome young man, they became great friends.

Limba West Indian

[Limba-Zaho.Limba-Zoau]

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Limba-Zaho (see Limba)

Limba-Zoau (see Limba)

limbo

the borders of hell

This area is reserved for those who cannot reach heaven through no fault of their own, such as children who died before baptism. There are said to be separate limbos for such children (Limbo of Children); for those born before Christ's crucifixion (Limbo of the Fathers) and for those not responsible for their own actions (Limbo of Fools).

In Carolingian lore, the Limbo of the Moon is a storehouse for ephemeral things such as advice disregarded, time misspent, promises not kept, deathbed wishes, etc.

Limdunani (see Lejman)

Limdunani (see Lejman)

Limi African

[Lima]

a name of Mulungu as the sun

Limniads Greek

lake-nymphs

Limoniades (see Leimoniads)

Limos Greek

famine personified

offspring of Eris

Limours, Earl of (see Limwris)

Limping Devil

(see Devil on Two Sticks)

Limu Pacific Islands

[Rimu]

a Tongan primeval deity

god of the dead

consort of Kele

Limwris British

[Limours]

an earl

He sheltered Geraint and Enid when Geraint was wounded by one of the three giants he had killed. Geraint killed him when he insulted Enid.

lin<sup>1</sup> Chinese

the female unicorn (see ch'i'-lin)

Lin<sup>2</sup> (see T'ien Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Lin Ma-tzu (see T'ien Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Linda Greek

daughter of Danae

Lindolt Norse

a warrior serving with Dietrich

von Bern

He was one of the party captured by Ermenrich.

Lindus Greek

son of Helios by Rhode or of Cercaphus, their son

brother of Cameirus and Ialysus

lindworm

a monster in the form of a

wingless wivern

Lindwurm Norse

a dragon killed by Siegfried

Linet (see Lynette)

ling Chinese

[ling-yen]

soil substance: the supernatural power of divinities

Ling Chih Chinese

[Plant of Immortality]

a fungus regarded as a sacred plant

It is said that this plant, if eaten, confers immortality.

Ling-chu Chinese

[Transcendental Pig]

the god of swine

He is envisaged as a pig or with a black face and elongated lips.

Ling Chu-tzu Chinese

[Intelligent Pearl]

a sage who was re-incarnated as

Li No Cha

Ling-kuan (see Wang<sup>4</sup>)

Ling Pao (see Tao Chun)

Ling Tzu Chinese

one of 3 deities regarded as patrons of tea

ling-yen (see ling)

ling-yü Chinese a monster in the form of a fish with the head and limbs of a human being

linga<sup>1</sup> (see lingam)

Linga<sup>2</sup> (see Shiva)

Lingadua Pacific Islands

a Fijian one-armed drum-god

lingam Hindu

[linga.Shivalingam]

a phallus, one of the 12 symbols

of Shiva

When an argument arose between Vishnu and Brahma as to who had created the world, a flaming lingam rose out of the primeval waters and burst open to disclose Shiva, the supreme power. (see also Sishana)

Lingodbhava Hindu

a name for Shiva as 'lord of the phallus'

One account of Shiva's birth says that a cosmic phallus appeared to Brahma and Vishnu and out of it appeared Shiva.

Another story says that some sages put a curse on Shiva, for tempting their wives, causing his phallus to shrivel. When he then caused light to disappear from the earth, the sages quickly made an artificial organ that became the symbol of fertility, the lingam.

Linkalankala African

a familiar

This is in the form of a tortoise, with a knife where its head should be, which can be used by a sorcerer to kill his enemies.

Linne Irish

a friend of Oscar

He was inadvertently killed by Oscar when in the grip of battle-rage.

linoi (see linus<sup>3</sup>)

Linus (see Linus)

Linus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Ailanos.Linos]

lamentation personified

son of Amphimarus, Apollo or Oeagus,

by Urania

In some versions, his parents were Apollo and Calliope or Psamathe.

In some accounts, he was deserted by his mother but rescued and reared by shepherds. He was torn to pieces by the dogs of Crotopus though others say that he was killed by Apollo who was jealous of his prowess as a musician. (see also Linus<sup>2</sup>)

Linus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Ailanos.Linos]

son of Ismenus, some say

brother of Orpheus

He was a musician who taught Orpheus. He tried to teach Heracles literature and music and was killed by Heracles who struck him with his lyre when they argued about correct musical instruction.

In some accounts, he is the same as Linus, son of Amphimarus.

Linus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[plur=Linoi:=Egyptian Manaros:

=Phrygian Lityerses]

a lament or dirge addressed to Linus and Psamathe

li'oa Pacific Islands

[pa'ewa]

a ghost in the Solomon Islands

These beings, said to be the spirits of dead chiefs or warriors, are invoked to help the sick. In some cases, they become manifest as large fish such as sharks, when they are known as pa'ewa.

Liod (see Gna)

Liogach Irish

sister of Fearghal mac Maolduin

She sent gifts of sweets and apples to her beloved, Cathal, king of Munster, but her brother had a spell put on the gifts with the result that the king was afflicted with the Hunger-beast.

Lion<sup>1</sup> British

the owner of a pet parrot won by

King Arthur

lion<sup>2</sup>

a large, fierce animal of the cat

family, regarded as king of the beasts, appears in many mythologies

(1) In Babylonia, the demon Ugallu was a form of lion and the lion was also regarded as the steed of Nergal.

(2) In Buddhism, the lion (simha) was the favoured steed of several deities including Avalokiteshvara and Maitreya.

(3) In China, the immortal, Chiu-shou, often took the form of a lion (shih).

(4) Christian symbolism has the lion representing Christ and a number of saints, including Mark.

(5) In Egypt the lion was a symbol of the sun and the sun-god and also the deities Sef and Tuau.

(6) The Greek hero, Heracles, killed the Cithaeronian Lion and the Nemean Lion and wore a lion's skin as a cloak.

(7) The Hebrews used the lion as the symbol of the tribe of Judah.

(8) In Hindu lore, the fourth avatar of Vishnu was Narasinha, the man/lion. The lion is also one of the signs of the Zodiac.

(9) In Persia the lion was used as the national emblem.

(10) The Romans regarded the lion as the animal of the god Vulcan.

(11) In Thailand this animal is regarded as the ancestor of the royal family.

Lion<sup>3</sup> (see Leo<sup>2</sup>)

Lion-and-bee Goddess (see Cybele)

Lion-dog Buddhist

a guardian of law

Lion Goddess (see Nyavirezi)

Lion King (see Kalika)

Lion Knight (see Amadis of Gaul)

Lion-man (see Chacha-puma)

Lion of the Summit (see Mertseger)

Lionel British

[Lyonel]

a knight of King Arthur's court

brother of Bors

In some versions he is the cousin of Lancelot and, with Bors, was stolen by Nimue and reared in her underwater kingdom as a companion for Lancelot. Other versions say that he was Lancelot's nephew.

He was one of the many knights captured and imprisoned by Tarquin, who hated all Arthur's knights, until rescued by Lancelot.

He was once held captive by King Vagor of Estrangot and was due to fight the king's son, Marabron, in a duel. When Lionel was injured, Lancelot took his place, defeated Marabron and released Lionel.

He became king of Gaul and, after the death of King Arthur, died at the hand of Mordred's son, Melehan.

Liones (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>.Lyonors)

Lionesse (see Lyonesse<sup>1</sup>)

Liongo African

a Swahili hero

son of Mwasho

He was a poet, a giant who could not be wounded.

Lionors (see Lyonors)

Liosalfar Norse

[Light Elves.Ljosalfar.Nibelungen]

elves of light

Their home was Alfheim suspended between earth and heaven. They were ruled by Frey and were responsible for birds, butterflies and flowers. The fairy-rings seen in the grass are the sites of their dancing and are said to bring luck to – or, in some stories, kill – those who stand in them.

Liosalfheim Norse

[Ljosalfaheim]

home of the Light Elves: land of the righteous (see also Alfheim)

Lioumere Pacific Islands

a female demon of the Caroline

Islands

Her iron fangs were knocked out by a man who made her laugh and then struck her with a large stone.

Liparus Greek

father of Cyane

Lippant (see Lyppaut)

Lips Greek

[=Roman Africus]

a wind from the south-west quarter

lipsipsip Pacific Islands

spirits of the New Hebrides

These beings, which take the form of dwarfs living in stones and trees, are quite capable of eating anybody who upsets them.

Lir Irish

[Le(i)r:=Welsh Ll(e)yr]

a sea-god

husband of Aobh and Aoife

father of Manannan and Sainred

father of Aedh, Conn, Fiachra

and Fionuala

He had four children by Aobh and when she died, he married her sister, Aoife, who turned the children into swans. Later, Lir returned them to human shape but they had grown old and wrinkled. Aoife was changed by Bodb Dearg into a demon as punishment. (see Children of Lir)

Lirifu (see Lufu)

Liriope (see Leiriope)

Lisa African

[Lissa.Liza:=Kaonde Leza]

sun-god of the Fon

son of Nana Buluku

twin brother of Mawu

father of Da, Gu, Legba, Sagbata

and Sogbo

In some accounts, Lisa is female, Mawu is male, in others he is Mawu's son. (see also Mawu-Lisa)

Lisa Patrikeyevna Slav

the vixen personified, in Slav myths

Lischois Celtic

husband of Cundrie

Lisin (see Negun)

Lissa (see Lisa)

Lissoddene African

a name of Katonda as 'big-eye'

Listenise (see Listenoise)

Listenois (see Listenoise)

Listenoise British

[Listenise.Listenois]

the country that, in some accounts,

became the Waste Land

Lisuarte<sup>1</sup> British

a king of Britain

grandfather of Esplandian

father of Leonoretta and Oriana

In the battle between 100 of his knights and 100 warriors of the Irish king, Cildadan, he was captured by the giant, Mandanfabul, but Amadis swiftly came to his rescue and killed the giant.

In later years, he was captured by Archalaus and imprisoned in a castle on the Forbidden Mountain. Esplandian came to his rescue and, with the help of Urganda, killed Archalaus and his kin and freed his grandfather.

Lisuarte<sup>2</sup> British

grandson of Amadis of Gaul son of Esplandian

father of Amadis of Greece

Lit Norse

[Lit(e)r.Lit(t)ur]

a dwarf

As Thor was lighting Balder's funeral pyre, Lit got in the way and the angry god kicked the dwarf on to the pyre and he perished with Balder and Nanna.

Lit Merveille British

a marvellous bed

In one of Gawain's adventures he went to a castle to rescue some captives and came upon a bed which moved of its own accord. When he sat on it, the bed careered round the room, rebounding off the walls.

(see also Adventurous Bed)

Litai Greek

[Prayers]

daughters of Zeus

They were sent by Zeus to follow the mischief-making Ate so that mortals could have a chance, by prayer, to avoid the troubles that Ate brought upon them.

Litaolane (see Moshanyana)

Litavis Celtic

an early deity

(see Lit)

Literary King (see Wen Wang)

Lithben Irish

a female warrior

lithomancy

divination using stones

Litr (see Lit)

Little Black Face (see Ixtlilton)

Little Brother North American

in the lore of the Winnebago, a boy who once snared the sun

(see also First Real Boy)

Little Camels Arab

the Arab name for the group of stars known as the Hyades

Little Cat (see Bast)

Little Dionysia (see Rustic Dionysia)

Little Doctor (see Chikanga)

Little Guinea Fowl (see Chikanga)

Little Fawn (see Oisin)

Little Foot Pestle (see Wo-usu)

Little Gude Scottish

the devil

Little Iliad (see Ilias Parva)

Little King (see Gwiffred Petit)

Little Man North American

a hero of the Metis tribe

He was very small and hairy but extremely powerful and owned a magic knife given to him by a grateful tribe after he killed a bear monster. He met Smoking Mountain and his brother, Broken War Club, and together they went looking for adventure. One day Broken War Club stayed in the lodge they had found to do the cooking and the other pair went hunting. When they returned, Broken War Club was still moaning from a beating he had received from a tiny dwarf and the same thing happened next day to Smoking Mountain. Little Man stayed home the next day and killed the ugly dwarf who came out from a deep hole. They lowered first Broken War Club and then Smoking Mountain into the hole in a kettle on a rope and they were scared by the noises they heard so Little Man went down. He was attacked successively by monsters with two, then three and finally four heads and killed all three of them. He rescued the three girls the monsters had kept locked up and sent them up in the kettle together with much plunder from the monsters' home. When it was his turn to go up, Broken War Club cut the rope and they left him to die but he managed to climb out. For helping them to settle an argument, a wasp, a worm and a woodpecker each gave him the power to assume their shape. He soon overtook the fleeing men and killed Broken War Club, sending Smoking Mountain packing and keeping the girls and the treasure for himself. Later, he rescued another girl from a huge monster by killing first the monster himself and then the grizzly, the brown bear, panther, wolf, wolverine, fox, rabbit, and quail that successively emerged from the last body.

The quail produced an egg which, smashed against the original monster's horn, killed him beyond hope of revival. As a result, Little Man acquired more treasure and a fourth wife.

Little Men<sup>1</sup> North American

friendly spirits of the Cheyenne

Little Men<sup>2</sup> (see Thunder Boys)

Little Orphan Pacific Islands

a boy sponsored by Ro Som

Little Orphan was a boy in Banks Island who was found by the sea-goddess, Ro Som. She built him a house, gave him pigs and great wealth and advanced him through the local secret society. When he insulted his benefactress, she returned to her home in the sea and Little Orphan found that all his trappings had disappeared.

Little Paynal (see Paynal)

Little People<sup>1</sup> North American

dwarfs or fairies in the lore of some Indian tribes

Little People<sup>2</sup> (see Faylinn.Good Folk)

Little Sprout (see Djuskaha)

Little Tiger (see Ixbalanque)

Little Turtle North American

in the lore of the Iroquois, the animal who brought light to the world

When the earth was formed on Great Turtle's back, it was dark so he ordered Little Turtle to climb into the heavens to remedy the situation. She collected flashes of lightning from the thunderclouds, rolling them into a large ball which became the sun and a smaller ball which became the moon.

Littur (see Lit)

Litur (see Lit)

lituus

Roman

an augur's staff

This staff, hooked at one end, was used to mark out the area to be used for divination.

Lityerses<sup>1</sup> Greek

a king of Phrygia, a farmer

son of Midas, in some accounts

He challenged all-comers to do less than he in a reaping contest and killed the losers. He was about to kill Daphnis when Heracles killed him and gave Daphnis the throne.

Lityerses<sup>2</sup> Pbrygian

[=Egyptian Maneros:=Greek Linus]

a dirge or lament for the death of Lityerses

Liu Chinese

[Celestial Prince]

a deity in charge of the 5 cereals

He was in charge of barley, millet, rice, sorghum and wheat, taking over many of the functions of Hou t'u.

Liu An Chinese

the original name of Huai-nan-tzu

Liu Ch'en Chinese

a magician

When the governor threatened to have Liu Ch'en executed for practising his art, the magician summoned up the governor's ancestors who accused the governor of failing to honour them and then disappeared, taking Liu Ch'en with them.

Liu Hai Chinese

an immortal

He was a 10th C minister of state, a Taoist scholar, who retired to a monastery and was given the recipe for making the pills of immortality by Lu Tung-pin.

He was the owner of a three-legged toad which would carry him wherever he wished to go and which, if it escaped, he could recapture with gold coins on the end of a line.

He was said to have lured a venomous toad which killed people out of its pond and killed it.

As a deity he is regarded as a god of the earth and patron of needle-makers.

Liu Hung<sup>1</sup> Chinese

an official of the celestial Ministry of Time, responsible for overseeing the hour

Liu Hung<sup>2</sup> Chinese

a boatman

He killed the scholar Ch'en and assumed his identity, forcing Ch'en's wife to keep silent and live with him. When her son by Ch'en found her years later, she sent him with a message to her father, Yin K'ai-shan, who came to her rescue and killed the imposter.

Liu I (see Liu Meng)

Liu Ju (see Liu Meng)

Liu Meng Chinese

[Liu I.Liu Ju.Liu Meng Chang-chun.

Liu T'ai-wei]

a god of agriculture

He is sometimes equated with Pa Ch'a and is said to be based on either of the two generals Liu I or Liu Ju or various others with similar names.

Liu Meng Ching-chun Chinese a name for Liu Meng as the Fierce

General Liu

Liu Pei Chinese

a Taoist god representing the emperor's celestial authority god of basket-makers

Liu T'ai-wei Chinese a name for Liu Meng as Constable Liu

Liu Tsung Chinese

[Six Honoured Ones]

celestial spirits controlling the heavenly bodies, directions, rain and wind

Liuflingar (see Huldu)

Living Buddha Tibetan

the Dalai Lama

Living God (see Ahura Mazda)

Livre d'Artus French

a poem adding to Boron's Merlin

Livyathan (see Leviathan)

liwa South American

in Honduras and Nicaragua, an evil water-spirit

These beings, envisaged as white worms, are said to pull canoes under the water, drowning the occupants. They are said to have ships of their own which travel under water.

Liz British

the realm of Meljanz

Liza (see Lisa)

Lizard North American

a culture-hero of the Navaho

He gave to Child-of-the-Water a cloak of invisibility which enabled him to approach monsters unseen and kill them.

Lizard House (see Itzamna)

Ljeschi (see Leshi)

Ljod (see Angerbode.Guna)

Ijogspo (see ICogpo)

Ljosalfaheim (see Liosalfheim)

Ljosalfar (see Liosalfar)

Ljubi Balkan

an Albanian female demon

She causes drought which can be lifted only by the sacrifice of a virgin.

Lla Luanya British

the Manx name for Lughnasad

Llacheu British

son of King Arthur

Llacheu was said to know the nature of everything, like Gwalchmai and Ruwallawn. He was killed by Kay.

In some accounts, he is the same as Loholt. (see also Borre.Loholt)

Llaesegmyn British

[Llaesymin]

a gatekeeper at King Arthur's palace
a deputy of Glewlwyd

Llaesymin (see Llaesegmyn)

Llagoligua South American

a tree

The tribes of Paraguay say that this tree is used by the dead as a route to heaven.

Llalegan (see Lailoken)

Llalawc (see Emrys)

Llalogan Vyrdin (see Emrys)

Llaminawc (see Lleinawc)

Llaminawg (see Lleinawc)

Llampallec South American

a stone figure in the temple, Chot, later removed by the king, Fempellec

Llamrei (see Lamri)

Llapchilulli South American

a servant of Naymlap

Llasar Llaes Gyfnewid Welsh

[Lassar.Llasar Llaesgywydd]

a war-god and god of death

husband of Cymidei Cymeinfoll

He owned the magic cauldron which could restore the dead to life.

He was shut up by Matholwch in an iron room and the walls were then heated but he and his wife broke out and went to Wales where he gave the cauldron to Bran who later gave it to Matholwch in compensation for the damage done to his horses by Efnisien.

Llasar Llaesgywydd

(see Llasar Llaes Gyfnewid)

Llaufrodedd (see Laufrodedd)

Llawfrodedd (see Laufrodedd)

Llawereint Welsh

a name of Lludd as 'silver-handed'

(see also Lud)

Llawnrodded Welsh

a herdsman of Nudd

Llefelys Welsh

[Llevelys.Llewelys]

a king of France

son of Beli

brother of Caswallawn, Lludd and Nyniaw

On the death of Beli, Lludd took the throne and Llefelys went to France and married a princess, later becoming king of France. He returned to meet Lludd on a ship in mid-Channel where he advised him how to deal with the plagues that were afflicting Britain – the Coraneids, the shrieking dragon and the giant thief.

Lleinawc British

[LLaminawc.Llaminawg.Lleinawg

Llwhc.LLlawyanawc.Llwhc Lleinawc]

a companion of King Arthur on the expedition to Annwn to seize the magic cauldron

A similar story involves Llenlleawc (who was Irish) and the expedition to Ireland to seize the magic cauldron of Diwrnach, one of the objects that Culhwch was required to get in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

In some accounts, he is identified with Bedivere.

Lleinawg (see Lleinawc)

Llen Arthur (see Gwen<sup>1</sup>)

Llenleawg (see Llenlleawc)

Llenllawc (see Llenlleawc)

Llenlleawc British

[Llenlleawg.Llenleawg]

a companion of King Arthur on the expedition to Ireland to seize the cauldron of Diwrnach

A similar story involves Lleinawc and the expedition to Annwn to seize the magic cauldron of Arawn.

Lleu (see Llew Llaw Gyffes)

Lleuched Welsh

[Lluched]

daughter of Bwlch and Hyrddyddwg

Llevelys (see Llefelys)

Llew Llaw Gyffes Welsh

[Huan.Lleu.Lluch Llawynnauch.

Nant y Llew:=Celtic Lug:=Irish Lugh]

sun-god, god of light

a legendary hero

son of Aranhod

brother of Dylan

One of two (or some say three) boys born mysteriously to Aranhod, a footholder to King Math, he was raised by her brother, Gwydion the magician, who was probably the boy's father.

In one version, Gwydion collected a drop of blood that fell when Dylan was born, wrapped it in cloth and put it in a chest. He heard a cry from the chest and opened it to find a baby.

In another story Llew was the son of Goewen, the previous footholder to King Math, who had been seduced by Gilfaethwy, Gwydion's brother.

Aranrhod cursed the boy so that he could never marry a mortal woman so Gwydion and Math, also a magician, made a non-human wife, Blodeuedd, for him. She had an affair with Gronw and the lovers planned to kill Llew. Gronw wounded him with a spear but Llew turned into an eagle and escaped. Gwydion found him and returned him to human form, turning Blodeuedd into an owl at the same time. Llew then sought out Gronw and killed him. Llew, without a wife, got bored and finally went to live in the sea with his grandfather Llyr.

Llewellyn Welsb
a chieftain

He owned the hound Gelert and killed it when he found it blood-spattered and his baby son missing. It turned out that Gelert had not eaten the child but had fought and killed the wolf that attacked the boy who was found safe and well.

Llewelys (see Llefelys)

Llewyd (see Llwyd)

Lleyr (see Llyr)

Lliannan-she Manx
[Lhianan-Shee:=Irish Leanan-sidhe]
a female spirit or fairy in the Isle of Man

Lligwy Cromlech
(see Arthur's Quoit<sup>2</sup>)

Lloegyrr Welsb
[Loegr(ia):=British Locris.Logres]
the Welsh name for England

Llongad British
a man who killed Taliesin's son, Addaon

Lluagor British
a horse of Caradoc Briefbas

Lluch Llauyinnauch Welsb
the Welsh version of Lugh as Lluch White-hand

(see Llew Llaw Gyffes)

Lluched (see Lleuched)

Lludd Welsb [Lludd Llaw Eraint.Lludd Llawereint.
Lludd Silverhand.Lot

=British Lud:=Irish Nuada]
a sky-god
a king of Britain
son of Beli and Dôn
brother of Caswallawn, Llefelys and Nyniaw

father of Creiddylad and Gwyn
When Beli died, Lludd came to the throne. During his reign the country was afflicted by three plagues and he sought advice from his brother, Llefelys, king of France, as to how to deal with them. He then killed the mysterious Coranieids by using a spray made of insects crushed in water, trapped the dragons whose shrieks had been driving people mad and trapped the giant who had been stealing food from the palace. He trapped the dragons by making them drunk on mead and then had them carried to Wales and buried on Mount Erith. They were later released by Vortigern when he built his castle there.

Some accounts assert that Lludd, son of Beli, is a different character from Lludd Silverhand. (see also Nudd)
Lludd and Llefelys Welsb
the story of these brothers, from the Mabinogion

Lludd Llaw Eraint (see Lludd.Lud)

Lludd Llawereint (see Lludd.Lud)

Lludd's Fort (see Caer Lludd)

Lludd Silverhand (see Lludd)

Llwch Llawyanawc (see Llleminawc)

Llwch Llleminawc (see Llleminawc)

Llwyd Welsb
[Llewyd]
a magician
son of Cil Coed

To avenge the treatment of Gwawl who had been rejected by Rhiannon in favour of Pwyll, he put a spell on Rhiannon and her new husband Manawydan together with Pryderi and his wife Cigfa, part of which involved a plague of mice affecting their farm. When Manawydan caught the biggest mouse and was about to hang it, Llwyd, in the guise of a bishop, offered a large ransom for the mouse who was his wife. When she was released, he lifted the spell and returned Pryderi and Rhiannon who had been spirited away.

Llwydawg Welsb
a young boar, offspring of Twrch Trwyth

Llyn Cerrig Bach Welsb
a sacred lake in Anglesey

Llyndry (see Caer Lludd)

Llwyr Welsb

son of Llwyrrion
He was the owner of the magic cup that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get as part of his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Llwyrdyddwg Welsb
wife of Syfwlch
mother of Eisywed

Llwyrrion Welsb
father of Llwyrr

Llychlyn Welsb

[=Irish Lochlan]
the Welsh name for Norway
or, in some versions,
the Otherworld

Llyfr Coch Hergest
(see Red Book of Hergest)

Llyfr du Caerdyddin
(see Black Book of Carmarthen)

Llyfr Gwyn Rhydderch
(see White Book of Rhydderch)

Llygadnudd Emys Welsb [Llyganudd]

an uncle of King Arthur
He was killed in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Llyganudd (see Llygadnudd Emys)

Llyn Barfog British
a lake where King Arthur fought with an addanc

Llyn Cau Welsb
a lake near Cader Idris

This lake is said to be bottomless and the home of a man-eating monster.

Llyn Cerrig Bach Welsb
a sacred lake in Anglesey

Llyn Eiddwen British
a lake in Dyfed

Merlin was said to have prophesied that Carmarthen would suffer some catastrophe if this lake ever dried up.

Llyn Feic Welsb
the home of the wise old salmon
consulted by Culhwch, in some accounts (see also Llyn Llyw)

Llyn Lech Owen British
a lake in Wales

This lake is said to have been formed when one of King Arthur's knights failed to replace the cover of a well, allowing it to overflow.

(see also Llyn Tegid)

Llyn Llion Welsb

[Lake of waves]
the lake which overflowed to cause the flood from which only Dwyvan and his wife escaped

Llyn Llw (see Llyn Llyw)

Llyn Llyw Welsb
[Lyln Llw]
the home of the wise old salmon
consulted by Culhwch

(see also Llyn Feic)

Llyn Lyw (see Llyn Llyw)

Llyn Tegid British
the home of Ceridwen and her husband, Tegid Voel

This lake is said to have been formed when the cover was left off a well, allowing it to overflow.

(see also Llyn Llech Owen)

Llyn y Fan Welsh
a lake in Dyfed

The home of a maiden of the Otherworld who married a mortal and bore three sons. When he struck her carelessly, she disappeared, taking all their possessions with her. When her sons grew up, she appeared and gave them a bag which contained all kinds of medical knowledge with the result that they became famous physicians.

Llyr Welsh

[Lleyr:=British Leir:=Irish Lir]

a king of Britain

a sea-god

husband of Iweriadd and Penardun

father of Bran and Branwen

by Iweriadd

father of Manawydan by Penardun

father of Creiddylad, some say

He is regarded as the prototype for King Lear. Some say that he was an ancestor of King Arthur.

Llyr Marini British

[=Welsh Llyr]

an ancestor of King Arthur

father of Caradoc, in some accounts

Llys Dôn Welsh

the goddess Dôn as a star in the constellation Cassiopeia

Llys Helig (see Lafau Sands)

Llywarch British

a 6th c Welsh bard

In some accounts, he was one of the Twenty-four Knights of King Arthur's court.

Llywelyn, Sion Welsh

(c 1540-1615)

author of Hanes Taliesin

Lo Chinese

a sacred river

Lo Aget Pacific Islands

a man who owned a magical cat

His white cat was really a princess who had been put under a spell by a sorcerer who said that she would remain as a cat until a man said he loved her. When Lo Aget said these words, she resumed her former shape and became his wife.

Lo Chin Cha Siamese

a sun-festival held at harvest time

Lo-gNam Tibetan

a groom at the royal palace

He fought and killed the divine king, Gri-gum, so fulfilling a prophecy that the king would die in combat.

Lo-han (see lohan)

Lo-hou Chinese

[Caput Draconis.Dragon's Head.Star

of Quarrels:=Hindu Rahu]

the north node at the intersection of the orbits of the moon and earth
The Chinese say that an invisible planet, home of celestial beings, exists at this point.

Lo-hou-to Chinese

the Chinese name for Rahula

Lo-hou-lo-to Chinese

the Chinese name for Rahulata

Lo Hsüan Chinese

a sage who was deified and runs the celestial Ministry of Fire

Lo-Lale Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian prince

brother of Piliwale

His brother sent their cousin, Kalamakua, on a voyage to find a suitable bride for Lo-Lale. Kalamakua returned with Kelea who married Lo-Lale but, after producing three children, left him and married Kalamakua.

Lo-ma-gyon-ma Tibetan

the Tibetan version of Parna-Savari

Lo Phag Tibetan

one of the Five Lands

This realm, like Balang Cho, was said to be the home of cattle-herding giants who lived for 500 years or more.

Lo-pon (see Rinpochhe)

Lo-tsu Ta-hsien Chinese

[Ancestor Lo]

a disciple of Lao-tzu

patron of barbers

Lo Yü Chinese

one of the 3 deities regarded as patrons of tea

Loa<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

[Loau.Lona.Lowa:=Tahitian 'Ta'aro]

creator-god of the Marshall Islands

Having created the reefs, planets and birds, he then produced a god to rule each of the four cardinal points. These were Irjojrilik (west), Lajbuineamuen or Lalikian (north), Lokoman (east) and Lorok (south).

In one version he was the father of the first couple, Wulleb and Lejman, who were born from his leg. The hero Edao was later born from his leg or, in some accounts, was the son of Wulleb and Lejman.

When a poor couple, having no food to offer the god, killed and cooked their own daughter, Kavaonau, to provide a meal, Loa had the head and body buried separately. From the head grew the kava and from the body came sugar cane.

Later, when he saw how his descendants quarrelled, he jumped into the sea, causing a huge wave which drowned them all.

loa<sup>2</sup> West Indian

[zanges]

a god of the voodoo cult: a spirit taking possession of a human

Many of these beings are derived from deities of the African regions from which many West Indians originated; others are based on Christian saints.

In the former category there are such spirits as loa Dahomey, loa Ibolele, loa Congo, loa Senegal, etc.

Loak-Ishto-hoollo-Ab (see Ababinili)

Loan Irish

the name given to Barra at birth

Loanga winti South American

a spirit worshipped by some African tribes

Loarn Irish

father of Earc

Loathly Lady British

a hag

This hag could transform herself into a beautiful maiden. In Arthurian lore, she appears as Ragnell or Cundrie and also, in an Arthurian context, in Chaucer's Wife of Bath's Tale. The Irish version appears in The Adventures of the sons of Eochu Muigmedon.

Loau (see Loa<sup>1</sup>)

Lob-lie-by-the-fire British

[lubber fiend]

a hard-working brownie

Loba African

a sun-god of the Duala tribe

(see also Iruva)

Lobha Hindu

a demon

He was opposed by one of the Matrikas, Vaishnavi.

Lobsangma Tibetan

one of the 5 Long-Life Sisters

Locana Buddhist

[Buddhalocana]

a goddess

a sakti of Akshobhya, some say

Loch Beal Dragan Irish

[Lake Dragon Mouth]

the lake on which Caer, in the form of a swan, lived with 150 other swans

Loch Garten Monster Scottish

a flesh-eating monster, part bull, part horse

Loch Leathghlas Irish

a poet of the Fomoiré

Loch Mor Irish

a warrior of Connaught

son of Mofebais

He was trained, together with Cuchulainn and Ferdia, by the great warrior-maid Skatha. His skin was so tough that it could not be penetrated by normal weapons so, when he fought with Cuchulainn and wounded him, Cuchulainn used the Gae Bolg to kill him.

Loch Ness Monster Scottish [Nessie]
a monster purported to be living in Loch Ness

Loch Riach Irish
this lake formed to separate two warring groups of fairies

Every seventh year, white sheep dipped in the waters of the lake turned crimson.

Loch-wife Scottish
a woman living underwater in a loch
Her life was coiled up inside an egg concealed in a trout inside a raven inside a stag. Her only companion was the Laidly Beast. She was destroyed by Tam.

Lochan Irish
a hero of a voyage to many strange places with Emne and Silvester

Locheia Greek [Lochia]
a name of Artemis as goddess of childbirth

Lochia (see Locheia)

Lochlan Irish [Lochlann:=Welsh Lychlyn]
the Irish name for Norway
the Otherworld
the home of the Fomoiré under the sea

Lochlann (see Lochlan)

Lochlannach (see Sharvan)

Lochlanners Irish [Danair:Giall.Lochlannaigh] underwater beings
the Fomoiré
the Vikings

Lochlannaigh (see Lochlanners)

Lochru Irish
a druid

He was one of those who foresaw the coming of Christianity which would destroy the power of the druids.

In some accounts, he was killed by St Patrick when they fell into argument.
(see also Lucet Maol)

Lo'cil (see Lo'cin-coro'mo)

Lo'cin-coro'mo Siberian [Lo'cil.Yegi'le]
a household guardian-god

Lo'cin-po'gil Siberian
a fire-spirit

Locrin (see Locrinus)

Locrine (see Locrinus)

Locrinus British

[Locrin(e).Logris]
a king of Britain
son of Brutus husband of Gwendolen father of Habren by Estrildis
father of Maddan by Gwendolen
On the death of his father, Locrinus and his brother Albanact shared the kingdom and ruled peacefully. When the German Humbert invaded, Locrinus joined forces with Camber and defeated the invaders.

He fell in love with the captive Estrildis, daughter of Humbert, and had an affair with her despite being betrothed to Gwendolen. He married Gwendolen but kept Estrildis in an underground chamber as his mistress. He fathered a son, Maddan, on Gwendolen, and a daughter, Henben or Sabra, on Estrildis. While Gwendolen was away attending the funeral of her father Corin, Locrinus abandoned her and proclaimed Estrildis queen. Gwendolen raised an army in Cornwall and killed Locrinus herself, taking over as queen.

Locris (see Locrinus.Logres)

Locust North American
in the lore of the Navaho, Locust enlarged the hole made by Hawk which allowed the tribe to climb into the upper world

Lodan Irish
son of Lir brother of Manannan
father of Sionan

He, together with Ciabhan and Eolus, eloped from Tir Tairnigiri with Aoife, Cliona and Etain. Manannan sent a huge wave after them which drowned all six or just the three girls or, in some accounts, swept the girls back to the Otherworld.

Lodbrog (see Ragnar Lodbrok)

Lodbrok (see Ragnar Lodbrok)

Lodbrokr (see Ragnar Lodbrok)

Loddis-edne (see Barbmo-ekka)

Lodegrance (see Leodegrance)

Lodehur (see Lodur)

Loder (see Lodur)

Lodewijk European
the name of Louis, son of Charlemagne, in Dutch stories

Lodge Boy North American
a hero of the Plains Indians
twin brother of Thrown Away

The twin boys were taken from the body of their mother who had been killed. Lodge Boy's twin was abandoned and lived in a spring but was later found and they were both reared by their father. Lodge Boy grew up to be a hero who killed many monsters.

In some accounts, they succeeded in resuscitating their mother; in others, the twin, Thrown Away, grew from a discarded placenta.

(see also Thrown Away)

Lodgerda Norse
a warrior-maid
first wife of Ragnar Lodbrok

Ragnar Lodbrok met her when he was on an expedition to Norway and married her. When, after three years, he returned to Denmark to repel an invasion, she refused to leave Norway so Ragnar married Thora.

Lodona Greek
a nymph

She was changed into a stream by Artemis to save her from the unwanted attentions of Pan.

Lodr (see Lodur)

Lodur Norse
[Lode(hu)r.Lodr.Lodurr.Lothur(r)] a name of Loki as one of the 3 creator-gods

He is said to have given man his physical senses or, in some versions, his blood.

Lodurr (see Lodur)

Loeg (see Laeg)

Loegaire (see Laoghaire)

Loeghaire (see Laoghaire)

Loegr (see Lloegyr)

Loegria (see Lloegyr)

Lofn Norse
an attendant of Frigga

Her function was to smooth the path of lovers. She conveyed the permission of the gods for mortals to marry.

Loge German
a name of Loki in the Wagnerian cycle

Logi Norse [wild fire']
a giant cook

He appeared as the cook in the story of Utgard-Loki and won in a contest with Loki to see who could eat the faster.

Logestilla European [Logistilla]
a good fairy

sister of Alcina and Morgana
When Rogero and the other prisoners escaped from the enchanted castle of Alcina they went to the kingdom of Logestilla. She gave Rogero a bridle which allowed him to ride the hippogriff of Atlantes and she gave Astolpho, who had been rescued from the form of a myrtle tree, a horn to be sounded in times of peril and a magic book which would tell him all he ever needed to know.

Logistilla (see Logestilla)

Logos<sup>1</sup> Greek

the primaevial essence which gave rise to the gods: the mind of god: reason

Logos<sup>2</sup> Greek

fable personified
offspring of Eris

Logos<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a name for Sarasvati as a goddess of learning (see also Vach<sup>3</sup>)

Logres British

[Locris:=Welsh Loegr(ia).L.Loegyr]
the name for England in the Arthurian legends (see also Locris)

Loha-Mukha Hindu

one of a race of iron-faced cannibals with only one foot

Loha Penu Hindu

a god of iron, revered in Madras

lohan Chinese

[lo-han:arhat:=Japanese Rakan: =Sanskrit Sthavira]
a Buddhist immortal, a disciple of the Buddha

(see also Eighteen Lohan)

Lohengrain Welsh

the Welsh version of Lohengrin son of Peredur and Condwiramur

Lohengrin German

[Knight of the Swan.Loherangrin]
Swan Knight:=Welsh Lohengrain]
son of Parsifal and Condwiramur brother of Aribadale and Kardiez husband of Elsa and Belaye

When the princess Elsa was accused of murdering her brother Godfrey, heir to the dukedom of Brabant, Lohengrin was sent from the temple of the Grail to her rescue riding on a swan. He defeated her accuser, Frederick of Telramund, and married Elsa without revealing his name. When he was later persuaded to tell her his name, he left her and was carried by the swan back to the temple of the Grail. Before leaving, he restored Godfrey, who had been turned into a swan by the magic of Ortrud, Frederick's wife, to his human form.

He later married Belaye but her parents, believing that he had put her under a spell, had him killed.

(see also Swan Knight)

Loherangrin (see Lohengrin)

Lohiau Pacific Islands

husband of Hiiaka and Pele
This young chieftain married Pele after her first husband deserted her but Pele left him soon after the wedding to prepare a new home. It took so long for the message to reach Lohiau that he died. He was revived and set out with his attendants to go to Pele. Again it took a long time and Pele lost her patience and killed them all with fire.

Another variation says that Pele's sister, Hiiaka, rescued his soul from the underworld and, when he was restored to life, he fell in love with her. The jealous Pele poured lava over him and he died again. In some stories, Hiiaka again went to the underworld to await the arrival of his soul, not knowing that his soul was searching for her in the upper world. The god Kane-hoalani reunited Lohiau's soul with his body and gave him a magic shell in which he sailed to an island where he was reunited with Hiiaka and married her.

Lohier European

[Lotharius]
son of Charlemagne

When Beuve refused to pay proper homage to Charlemagne, the king sent Lohier to threaten reprisals. Beuve killed Lohier and, when the king sent an army to exact vengeance, was forced to submit.

Lohipada (see Minanatha)

loho (see bao)

Loholt

[Borre.Lacheu]
a Knight of the Round Table
son of King Arthur by Guinevere
or Lyonors

In those accounts where his mother is said to be Lyonors, he is the same as Borre. In other stories, he was equated with Llacheu.

In some accounts, he was killed by Kay.

Loi Hsao Mong Burmese

a sacred mountain, home of the gods

Loiguire (see Loaghaire)

Loingseachan Irish

a friend of Suibhne Geilt

When Suibhne went mad, it was Loingseachan who found him in the wilderness and restored him to his kingdom.

Loka Hindu

one of the worlds into which the universe is divided

One version postulates just three realms, the Tri-Loka, while another has seven, the Sapta-Loka, and others have eight, eleven or fourteen.

(see Sapta-Loka.Tri-Loka)

Loka Pala (see Lokapala<sup>1</sup>)

Lokalolo Hindu

a mountain range

This range, lying beyond the furthest sea, is said to separate the known world from outer darkness.

Lokamata Hindu

a name of Lakshmi as 'mother of the world'

Lokanatha Buddhist

a form of Hayagriva or Samantabhadra as an assistant to Avalokiteshvara

Lokapala<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Loka Pala:=Tibetan Jir-rten skyona]
the region guarded by the Dikpalas

Lokapala<sup>2</sup> (see Dikpala)

Lokasenna (see Aegisdrekka)

Loke (see Loki)

Lokesvara<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a name for a group of deities or for the various forms of one of them

Lokesvara<sup>2</sup> Cambodian

[Lord of the World]
the Cambodian name for Avalokiteshvara

In one story, he saved the shipwrecked merchant, Simhala, from the rakshasis by turning himself into a horse and carrying Simhala away.

Lokesvararaja Buddhist

an incarnation of the Buddha

Loki Norse

['fire'.Haloge.Loder.Lod(u)r.Lodurr.Loke.
Lokkju.Lopt(er).Lopti.Loptr.Lothur(t): =German Loge.Sataere]

the god of evil, fire and mischief son of Fimbauti and Laufeia or Nal son of Bor and Bestla, some say son of Ymir, some say brother of Aegir and Kari brother of Odin, some say brother of Byleist and Helblindi,
some say

husband of Angerbode, Glut and Sigyn
In some versions, Loki was the son of Ymir and one of an early trinity with his brothers Aegir and Kari. Those who regard him as a brother of Odin equate him with Ve.

He was said to have had three wives, fathering Einmyria and Eisa on his first wife, Glut; Iormungandr, Fenris and Hel on his second wife, Angerbode; and Narve and Vali on his third wife, Sigyn. He is also said to be the father of Sleipnir, Odin's eight-legged horse.

Loki was always a troublemaker. He stole the golden tresses of Sif, wife of Thor. The angry husband caught Loki and nearly strangled him, forcing him into a promise to restore the beautiful hair. Loki persuaded the dwarf, Dvalin, to fashion a replacement from golden thread which turned out to be even more beautiful than the original.

He made a wager with another dwarf, Brock, that Dvalin could make better things than Brock's brother, Sindri, the loser to forfeit his head. The gods judged the results and said that Brock was the winner. Instead of cutting off the loser's head, Brock sewed Loki's lips together to stop his chatter.

When Thor went to Jotunheim dressed in a bridal gown to deceive Thrym into returning the hammer of Thor which he had stolen, Loki went with him dressed as the bridesmaid to help the deception.

On one occasion, he was carried into the sky by Thiassi in the form of an eagle and was released only when he promised to lure Iduna into Thiassi's power with some of the apples of eternal youth which she guarded. He did what he had promised but when the gods discovered what he had done they forced him to get Iduna back. Wearing Freya's falcon-garb, he flew to Thrymheim, turned Iduna into a nut (or, some say, a swallow) and brought her safely back to Asgard.

On another occasion he turned himself into a flea to gain access to Freya's bed and made off with her beautiful necklace, Brisingamen. Heimdall saw him stealing away and, after a struggle in which they both assumed several different forms, Loki was forced to surrender the necklace which Heimdall then returned to Freya.

To frustrate the giant Skrymsli, Loki hid the boy that the giant had won in a wager as an egg in the roe of a fish in the ocean but Skrymir still found the hiding place so Loki turned the boy back to his normal form, whereupon he ran off. The giant chased him but ran head-first into a pointed stake cunningly placed by Loki.

When the gods decided to build a wall round Asgard to keep out the giants, an unknown architect undertook to do the work if they would give him the sun, the moon and Freya. Loki advised acceptance but they stipulated that the work must be done in one winter and by the architect himself, aided only by his horse, Svadilfare. When it looked as if these conditions would be fulfilled, Loki changed into a mare and enticed Svadilfare into the forest so that the architect did not finish the work in time. He would have killed all the gods but Thor threw his hammer and killed the architect who turned out to be a giant in disguise.

On a visit to earth with Odin and Hoenir, Loki killed Otter, the son of Hreidmar, a king of the dwarf-folk. In compensation, the king demanded sufficient gold to cover the skin of an otter, the form in which his son had been killed. This skin kept expanding as more gold was added and Loki forced the dwarf Andvari to hand over his hoard of gold to pay the ransom demanded by the king for the release of the three gods. When Loki snatched the dwarf's magic ring as well, Andvari put a curse on the treasure.

Loki's final act of treachery was to persuade the blind Hoder to throw the branch of mistletoe that killed Balder and for this he was banished from Asgard.

He turned up uninvited at the feast given for the gods by Aegir and killed the sea-god's servant Funfeng. He escaped death from Thor's hammer by fleeing to the mountains and hiding in a hut. When Odin, Kvasir and Thor came looking for him, he turned himself into a salmon and hid at the bottom of the stream, Fraananger. When the gods made a net and started to fish for him he jumped into the air to escape but was caught by Thor. He resumed his normal shape and the gods bound him hand and foot with the entrails of his son, Narve, who had been killed by his other son, Vali, in the form of a wolf. They then turned the bonds to metal to make sure he could not escape. They left Loki in a cave and Skadi placed a huge serpent over his head which constantly dripped venom on to Loki's face. He was saved much agony by his faithful wife Sigyn who sat beside him catching the venom in a cup until the last day.

In the final battle, leading the subjects of Hel, he defeated the gods at Ragnarok and, in his role as Suttur, the fire-god, burnt the whole world, killing Heimdall at whose hand he himself died.

(see also Lodur.Sataere.Surtur)

Lokkju (see Loki)

Lokman Arab

[Lukman]

a hero, said to have a huge appetite, who lived for some 3,500 years

Loko<sup>1</sup> African

the Fon god of trees

brother of Ayaba

Loko<sup>2</sup> (see Laoko)

Loko Attiso (see Laoko)

Lokoman Pacific Islands

a deity in the Gilbert Islands

He was created by Loa to rule the east.

Loljersker Norse

[Lundjungfrur]

invisible spirits living in woodlands

lolok Pacific Islands

gnomes, in the lore of Indonesia

Loma African

a supreme god of the Bongo people of the Sudan

Lomapada Hindu

a king

He adopted Shanta, a daughter of Dasha-ratha, and, to avert a drought, had his ministers find Rishya-Shringa who married Shanta.

Lomhna Irish

a jester with Finn mac Cool

He was killed by Cairbre, one of Finn's warriors, when he told Finn that Cairbre had slept with the woman who, at that time, was Finn's lover.

Lomi Ago (see Age<sup>2</sup>)

Lomo African

a Ngbandi goddess of peace

lon craois (see Hunger Beast)

Lon Dubh

a warrior in the Fianna

He and Ceadach loved the same girl and, when she chose Ceadach, they fought over her and both were killed. The girl was able to restore Ceadach to life.

Lon lait Irish

the light of battle

This is the light said to shine round or from the head of a great warrior in battle. It was often observed when Cuchulainn was roused to fury. A similar phenomenon is said to have shone from Achilles during the Trojan War when he retrieved the body of his friend Patroclus who had been killed by Hector. (see also riastradh).

Lona<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

a Polynesian moon-goddess
She married a mortal, Ai Karaka, and took him to her own realm, the White Kingdom. In some accounts, she appears as Mahina. (see Mahina<sup>1</sup>)

Lona<sup>2</sup> (see Loa<sup>1</sup>)

Lonbemelech (see Lonbemelech)

Lone Man North American

[Only Man]
a demi-god of the Mandan Indians
He walked on the primordial waters with First Creator and, having been shown by a duck that earth would be brought up from the bottom, set about creating the world. He created the flat lands while First Creator made the mountains, trees and streams.

He met Coyote, who called himself First Man, and they quarrelled over who was the elder. Lone Man killed First Man with his spear but the dead man's skeleton returned to life as Coyote and they became partners in creating the land animals as food for the tribes.

He was later born to a Mandan maiden and became a culture-hero of that tribe, teaching them many things.

When he stole a white buckskin coat from Hoita, the latter exacted vengeance by collecting all the animals and enclosing them in the Dog Den. Lone Man turned himself into a hare and hid in the Dog Den where he learned that Hoita's power came from a magic drum. He then made an even more powerful drum for himself and overcame poita, releasing all the trapped animals.

He also defeated the evil Maninga but he came again, four years later, in the form of a great flood which swamped the Mandan villages. Lone Man built a stockade called the Great Canoe and saved his people. He once again defeated Maninga, using the magic of his drum, and Maninga was swept away in the receding flood waters.

At the end of his time on earth, he placed a red-painted cedar in the centre of his village to which people could offer sacrifices and which was given to them as an assurance that he would one day return.

(see also Lucky Man)

Lonely Gentle Woman

(see Hine-Kau-Ataata)

Long Amren (see Amhren)

Long Arm (see Bahman<sup>1</sup>)

Long Arrow North American

a hero of the Blackfoot tribe
When his parents died, his sister was adopted by another family but Long Arrow, being deaf, was abandoned and lived on any scraps he could find. Later his hearing returned and he was taken in by Good Running. To repay the old man's kindness, Long Arrow undertook to find the elk-dogs, their word for horses.

After travelling for many days, Long Arrow arrived at the edge of a lake where a young boy offered to take him to his grandfather's lodge under the lake. The boy then turned into a kingfisher and dived into the water and when Long Arrow followed he found himself in an underwater world where there were many horses. The grandfather had a secret – he had the legs of a horse – and when Long Arrow discovered this he was allowed to have a wish. He chose the old man's belt and robe and a herd of horses which he took back to his tribe. When his people made a pilgrimage to the lake to thank the old chief, they found nothing but water and some fish.

Long Atrwm British

[Hir Atrym]

one of King Arthur's warriors

brother of Long Erwm

He had an enormous appetite and would eat virtually anything.

Long-Do Burmese

a guardian deity

Long Eiddyl British

a servant of King Arthur

Long Erwm British

[Hir Erwm]

one of King Arthur's warriors

brother of Long Atrwm

He had an enormous appetite and would eat virtually anything.

Long Juju African

an oracle in Nigeria

A priest at the entrance to a cave gave judgment on the people. Those said to be guilty of some crime were required to enter the cave. Once inside, they were seized and sold as slaves.

Long-Life Sisters Tibetan

5 attendants on Sri

These beings, who always travelled with Sri, are listed as Dinsangma, Dosangma, Lobsangma, Tashitsheringma and Thinggishalsangma.

Others who are sometimes included are Miyolangsangma and Machi-pal Lah-mo.

Long Meg British

[(Mons) Meg]

a giantess, demon of disease mother of Long Tom

Long Meg and her Daughters British

a megalithic circle in Cumberland

The stones are said to be witches who were turned to stone.

Long Person North American

a river

Long Teeth (see Rona<sup>2</sup>)

Long Tom British

a giant

son of Long Meg

Longar African

[(Longar) Aiwel]

an ox, in the lore of the Dinka

This multi-coloured animal accompanied Aiwel when he emerged from the River Nile. Aiwel himself became known as Aiwel Longar and, in some accounts, the ox was an incarnation of Aiwel.

Another story says that Longar was a son of god and was the first man to emerge from the river where, until that time, all people lived.

Longbeard Norse

father of Wayfarer

Longes mac Nusnig Irish

[The Exile of the Sons of Usnech]

Tragic Story of the Sons of Usnech]

the story of the 3 brothers, Ainle,

Ardan and Naisa (see Sons of Usna)

Longfellow, Henry W North American

a poet

He wrote The Song of Hiawatha, The Drinking Song of Bacchus, The Occultation of Orion, etc.

Longinus<sup>1</sup> British

[Longius]

a Roman centurion

He was said to have pierced Christ's side with a spear but no such character appears in the New Testament. He is mentioned only in Acts of Pilate, a book of the Old Testament apocrypha. The spear he used appears in Arthurian legends as the Holy Lance, the Lance of Longinus or the Sacred Spear.

(see Holy Lance)

Longinus<sup>2</sup> Norse

a viceroy

He sheltered Rosamund and Helmigis when they fled together and he persuaded her to poison Helmigis so that he could marry her himself. When she died from the same poisoned drink, he appropriated her treasures.

Longius (see Longinus<sup>1</sup>)

Longspear (see Peredur)

Longshanks (see Gwyddno)

Lonkundo African

a culture-hero of Zaire husband of Ilankaka
father of Itonde

He made the trap in which he caught the sun-woman, Ilankaka. He married her and they had a son, Itonde, who discharged himself from his mother's womb because he was hungry.

Lonnbemnech Irish

[Lonnbemlech]
a name of Lugh as 'the one of mighty blows'

Lonnrot (see Lonrot)

Lonnroth (see Lonrot)

Lono Pacific Islands

[=Samoan Lo'o]
god of heaven and messenger-god in Hawaii

a name of Rongo or Tane
He and Ku helped Kane to make the world and mankind.

In some accounts, he came down to earth along a rainbow and married Laka who, some say, was his sister.

Lonrot, Elias Finnish

[Lonrot(h)]
(1802-1884)
the compiler of the Kalevala

Lontsingo African

in the lore of Zaire, a fly who flew to heaven with the sunbird Nkombe to bring back the sun

Lo'o Pacific Islands

[=Hawaii Lono]
the name for Rongo in Samoa

Loo Seng (see Ngamu)

lookman West Indian

a diviner in Trinidad

It is said that a lookman can interpret dreams, diagnose illness, prescribe a cure and foretell the future.

If a vampire or a werewolf is caught, the lookman whips it to prevent it from ever resuming its human form.

(see also lukman)

Loom Siberian

the ghost of a dead shaman

This spirit appears to a descendant in a dream to reveal whether he has inherited the gifts necessary to become a shaman.

Loon Woman North American

in the lore of the Wintu tribe of California this being set the world on fire

Loosepayne British

daughter of Gorius
wife of Edgar and Grahame

Her lover had been killed by Grey-Steel, the tyrant of the Forbidden Island.

When she found Edgar wounded and helpless after a fight with Grey-Steel, she took him to her father's castle and looked after him until he was well enough to return home. She fell in love with Grahame who stayed at the castle en route to avenge his friend's defeat and, when he killed Grey-Steel, he gave the credit to Edgar and Loosepayne married him. In later years, Grahame was killed in battle and she married Edgar whose wife, Winlayne, had died while Edgar was fighting the Saracens.

Lopomudra Hindu

wife of Agastya

Agastya made this maiden from parts of animals and she was reared as the daughter of a king who gave her to Agastya as a wife when she came of age.

Lopon (see Padmasambhava)

Lopt (see Loki)

Lopter (see Loki)

Lopti (see Loki)

Loptr (see Loki)

Loraine le Sauvage British

a treacherous knight

He attacked Myles from the rear and wounded him as he was travelling with his fiancée, Alyne, to be married.

Lorc (see Labraid Loiseach)

Lord Bromel (see Bromel la Pleche)

Lord Creator (see Vishnu)

Lord Hare (see Michabo)

Lord Mud Earth (see Uhiji-ni)

Lord Nourishment (see Tonacatecuhtli)

Lord of Air Egyptian

a name of Khons as an aspect of Shu

Lord of Albane (see Marquis d'Este)

Lord of Albano (see Marquis d'Este)

Lord of All (see Khons)

Lord of All Existence (see Ometeotl)

Lord of Allban (see Marquis d'Este)

Lord of Ancestors (see Pitripati)

Lord of Auban (see Marquis d'Este)

Lord of Bearosche (see Lyppaut)

Lord of Beasts (see Tepeolotlec)

Lord of Cattle (see Pashupati)

Lord of Cold Weather (see Estonea-pesta)

Lord of Creation (see Prajapati)

Lord of Creatures (see Prajapati)

Lord of Death (see Tigernmas.Michlanteuhtli)

Lord of Demons (see Kompira)

Lord of Dilmun (see Enshag)

Lord of Duality (see Ometecuhtli)

Lord of Eternity (see Reshpu)

Lord of Fire (see Satan)

Lord of Great Knowledge

(see Ruad Rofessa)

Lord of Growth (see Mo-li Hung)

Lord of Hades (see Mictlantecuhtli)

Lord of Heaven

(see Shang Ti.Ti Chün.Sirma Thakur)

Lord of Lands (see Buriash)

Lord of Magic (see Thoth)

Lord of Obstacles (see Vigneshava)

Lord of Our Flesh

(see Ometecuhtli.Tonacatecuhtli)

Lord of Progeny (see Prajapati)

Lord of Sacred Wisdom (see Vishnu)

Lord of Sesennu (see Thoth)

Lord of the Afterworld (see Khnum)

Lord of the Bed (see Ch'uang-kung)

Lord of the Centre of Heaven

(see Minaka-Nushi)

Lord of the Club (see Lakulisha)

Lord of the Dance

(see Nataraja.Natesha.Shiva)

Lord of the Dawn

(see Tlahuizcalpantecuhtli)

Lord of the Day (see Michabo)

Lord of the Earth<sup>1</sup> Celtic

a name for the frog

Lord of the Earth<sup>2</sup> (see Hou t'u)

Lord of the Flies Mesopotamian

a name for Beelzebub

(see also Beelzebub)

Lord of the Harvest (see Yum Caax)

Lord of the House (see Grihaspati)

Lord of the House of Dawn

(see Tlahuizcalpantecuhtli)

Lord of the Immortals

(see Tung Wang Kung)

Lord of the Light of Dawn

(see Tlahuizcalpantecuhtli)

Lord of the Lance (see Anhur)

Lord of the Libyans (see Ha<sup>2</sup>)

Lord of the Moon

(see Chandraprabha. Somanatha)

Lord of the Mound

(see Cenn Cruaich)

Lord of the Mountains (see Rudra)

Lord of the Noonday Heat

(see Rapithwin)

Lord of the North

(see Mictlantecuhtli)

Lord of the Ocean (see Varuna)

Lord of the Ring (see Ometeotl)

Lord of the River (see Habeg)

Lord of the Sacrifice (see Angiras)

Lord of the Scottish Wilderness

(see Estonne)

Lord of the Sky<sup>1</sup> African

[King of the Earth]

a Zulu sky-god

Lord of the Sky<sup>2</sup> Chinese a warrior, or the chrysalis of the silkworm, who lived on the mountain of the West, K'un Lun

Lord of the Sky<sup>3</sup> (see Zeus)

Lord of the Storm (see Enlil)

Lord of the Sun Face (see Ahau Kin)

Lord of the Sylvan Tower
(see Florismart)

Lord of the Underworld (see Satan)

Lord of the Universe (see Vishnu)

Lord of the Waters (see Ambupati)

Lord of the World
(see Jagannath, Lokeshvara<sup>3</sup>)

Lord of Therapy (see Belinus)

Lord of Time Egyptian

a name of Khons as an aspect of Thoth

Lord of Trenteny British

a man who killed Endelienta's cow

King Arthur killed this lord for killing the cow but he was restored to life by Endelienta.

Lord of Two Lands
(see Har-pa-Neb-Taui)

Lord of Westerburg German

a lover of Ilse

Ilse's father, a giant, rent the rocks apart to form a huge cleft between his home and Westerburg. Ilse, unable to go to her lover, threw herself into the ravine.

Lord of Wisdom (see Monju)

Lord on High (see Shang Ti)

Lord Royns (see Royns)

Lord Sun (see Upu Lero)

Lord Uhe-Minu Japanese

[Lord Uye-Minu]
an aspect of the Buddha in the form of an eagle

Lord Uye-Minu (see Lord Uhe-Minu)

Lordly People (see Danaans)

Lords of Destiny Egyptian

the 3 gods Amon, Khnum and Ptah

Lords of Light Central American

9 Mayan deities

Lords of the Day and Night
Central American

Aztec deities, each ruling one of the 22 hours of the day

Lords of the Three Worlds
(see San-kuai-kung)

Lore British

a lady of Garadigan

She took a sword and belt to King Arthur's court and Meriadeuc won it as the only one present who could unfasten the belt.

Lore of the Prominent Places, The (see Dinnsenchas)

Lorelei German

[Lurlei]
a siren-maid

She lured sailors on the Rhine to their deaths. When a troop of soldiers was sent to capture her, she put them all in a trance and escaped in her chariot to her underwater cave.

Lorenzo, Aldonza European
the real name of Dulcinea, mistress of Don Quixote

Lorete British
sister of Grifflet

Loridi (see Lorrider)

Lorie British

in some accounts, a mistress of Gawain

Lorigal British
son of Eliaures

His father was forced by King Caradoc

to mate with a bitch, a mare and a sow.

The second coupling produced Lorigal.

Loro Jonggrang East Indian
a princess

She promised to marry a prince if he would build 1,000 temples in one night, knowing that this was impossible. With the help of many trolls, the prince

would have succeeded but the princess frustrated him by having her servants

start the rice-pounding, which was normally done at dawn, while it was still dark. This wakened the cockerels which began to crow, signalling the end of the night. The angry prince put a curse on Loro Jonggrang who thereupon turned to stone.

Lorok Pacific Islands

a deity in the Gilbert Islands

He was created by Loa to rule the south.

Lorrider Norse

[Loridi]

son of Thor and Sif

brother of Thrud

Losi Pacific Islands

a guardian-god of the taro

son of Tangalao

Losna Roman

an Etruscan moon-goddess

Lost Island, The (see Cephalonia)

Losy Siberian

a huge serpent

The sky-god Otshirvani, in the form of the eagle Garide, grabbed the serpent in his claws and dashed him against the cosmic mountain, Sumbur,

so killing him.

Lot<sup>1</sup> British

[Leudonus.Loth(a).Lothus Llew]

king of Lothian and Orkney husband of Anna, Belisent, Morgause

or Sangive

father of Agravain, Clarissant, Gaheris,

Gareth,Gawain, Soredamor and

Thaney

father of Denw by Anna, some say

father of Dioneta by Gwyar, some say

father of Cundrie by Sangive, some say

Originally he was an enemy of King

Arthur. His enmity towards the king arose when the king seduced his wife Morgause, fathering the boy Mordred.

He was one of the kings and barons who rose in revolt against King Arthur but, after being defeated in battle, became the king's friend. When Arthur defeated the Saxons, he restored to Lot the lands that the invaders had taken from him.

In some stories he was king of Northumberland and a former king of Denmark. Other accounts say that his uncle, Sichelm, left him the throne of Norway. When Riculf took the throne on the death of Sichelm, King Arthur invaded Norway, killed Riculf and installed Lot as king.

He should have taken his army to help Nero in his battle with King Arthur but Merlin delayed him and he arrived when the battle was over and Nero dead. He made a belated attack but his forces were defeated and he was killed by Pellimore.

Lot<sup>2</sup> Irish
wife of Garbh

mother of Goll

She was a warrior-woman leading the Fomoiré in battle with Partholan. She was said to have four eyes in her back and lips growing from her breasts.

Lot<sup>3</sup> (see Lludd)

Lotan Canaanite

[=Hebrew Leviathan]

a seven-headed primeval serpent

killed by Baal or Anat

(see also Shalyat)

Loth (see Lot<sup>1</sup>)

Lotha (see Lot<sup>1</sup>)

Lothar (see Finn Eamhna)

Lotharius (see Lohier)

Lothur (see Lodur)

Lothurr (see Lodur)

Lothus Llew (see Lot<sup>1</sup>)

Lotis Greek

a nymph

daughter of Poseidon

She was changed into a lotus tree to escape Priapus who tried to seduce her as she slept.

Lotophagi Greek

[Lotus Eaters]

a race of lotus-eaters

When Odysseus landed in their country he had to force his men to leave otherwise they would have stayed for ever in this land of pleasure.

(see also lotus<sup>3</sup>)

Lotta Irish

a queen of Ireland

In some accounts, she was the mother of Isolde.

lotus<sup>1</sup> Buddhist the lotus, hasu, is dedicated to the Buddha

lotus<sup>2</sup> Chinese
the sacred flower of Taoism

This flower is the emblem of the immortal, Ho Hsien-ku, and represents the developing soul.

lotus<sup>3</sup> Egyptian
a symbol of rebirth from which the sun rose at creation

The blue lotus was taken as the emblem of Nefertem.

lotus<sup>4</sup> Greek
a plant causing forgetfulness

The lotus was a plant with roots which drew water from the River Lethe in the underworld and produced bean-like seeds which robbed any who ate the seeds of all memory.

lotus<sup>5</sup> Hindu [kamala.padma]
a sacred flower, the symbol of knowledge, the female principle and procreation

This flower is the emblem of Lakshmi, Surya and Vishnu.

Lotus<sup>6</sup> (see Lakshmi)

Lotus Child (see Hasu-ko)

Lotus Eaters (see Lotophagi)

Lotus Eaters, The
a poem by Tennyson describing an incident in the Odyssey

Lotus Mountain (see Mount Meru)

Lotus Sutra
(see Daimoku.Saddharmapundarika)

Lou-chi Chinese [Ruchika.Wei-t'ò:=Buddhist Vajrapani]
the last of the 1,000 Buddhas of this era

It is predicted that the guardian god, Wei-t'ò, will become the final Buddha.

loublin French
a werewolf said to frequent French cemeteries

Loucetius (see Mars Loucetius)

Louhi Finnish
[Lady of Pohjola]
a wicked ice-giantess
ruler of fog, winds and wild animals
consort of Pohjanakka

She promised to give her daughter to Vainamoinen in marriage if he would get a talisman, a sampo, for her. Ilmarinen made the sampo and, when he, helped by Vainamoinen and Lemminkainen, stole it, she caused a storm which wrecked their ship and shattered the sampo.

Louis European [Leo.Lewis:=Dutch Lodewijk]
son of Charlemagne
brother of Charlot

He took over the throne on the death of his father.

Loukianos (see Lucian)

loup-cervier (see lucive)

loupgarou<sup>1</sup> North American
a werewolf in the lore of some Indian tribes of Canada

A man (but not a woman) can become a werewolf (or any other animal, such as a pig or a horse) as punishment meted out from heaven for some sin. He can return to his normal form if exorcised by a priest, if he loses blood while in his animal form or, sometimes, as a result of a blow on the head.

Loupgarou<sup>2</sup> West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit

These spirits are envisaged as witches flying by night who can adopt the form of a mosquito to suck the life out of children. It is said that, if the discarded skin is sprinkled with pepper, it becomes too painful for the owner to resume his proper form. If a loupgarou is wounded, the scar is still visible when the human form is resumed and from this the person can be identified as a werewolf and killed.
(see also legarau.liberou)

Louquo West Indian
the first man, in the lore of the Caribs
He is said to have descended from the sky to which he returned after populating the earth.

Lova African [Love]
a supreme god in Cameroon

Lovar Norse
a tribe of dwarfs

Love<sup>1</sup> (see King Love)

Love<sup>2</sup> (see Lova)

Love-spot (see ball seirc)

Love-talker (see Gan-Ceann)

Loviatar Finnish
a goddess of evil, a plague-goddess
daughter of Tuoni and Tuonetar
sister of Kipu-Tytto and Kivutar
She was the mother of many afflictions.

LoveI British
a Knight of the Round Table
son of Gawain

He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravaïn and Mordred when they attempted to seize Lancelot in Guinevere's room. All except Mordred were killed by Lancelot.

Lovely Obscure (see Amadis de Gaul)

Low Hebrew
a 16th c Polish rabbi, said to have built the automaton, Golem

Lowa (see Loa)

Lowalangi East Indian [Lowalani]

a sky-god and god of winds husband of Silewe Nazarata son of Ina-da Samadulo Hose,
some say
brother of Lature

It is said that he was born from a tree, the fruits of which produced the first humans, but ascended to heaven to rule over good and evil.

Another version says that he was the son of Ina-da Samadulo Hose who had two sets of mixed twins. Lowalangi married Lature's twin sister and their children became the ancestors of the Nias tribe.

Lowalani (see Lowalangi)

Lowe African
a cave

This cave, in the centre of Botswana, was the home of T'auetona, the first man.

Lowland Cantref
(see Cantre'r Gwaelod)

Lowland Hundred
(see Cantre'r Gwaelod)

Lox North American
the wolverine in some stories
a name for Malsum as chief of the wolves

Loxias Greek
a name of Apollo as 'the ambiguous one'

Loys<sup>1</sup> European
son of Sibilla

His mother, a wife of Charlemagne, was banished after being found in bed with a dwarf and she set off for her former home in Constantinople. She got as far as Hungary when her son, Loys was born.

Loys<sup>2</sup> European
a king of Hungary

He sheltered Sibilla when she arrived en route to Constantinople and her son, also called Loys, was educated in his court.

Loz Mesopotamian
a Babylonian god of the underworld
With Nergal and Ninmug, he was ruler of Aralu.

Lu<sup>1</sup> Burmese
an evil nat

This being is said to live by eating dead bodies and offerings of food are made to him when a person falls ill in the hope that it will satisfy his hunger and the sick person will not die.

Some say that there are two such nats, and the older is not so voracious.

Lu<sup>2</sup> (see ch'i-lin.deer)

Lu Ch'i Chinese

a man who gave up the chance to become immortal

He was called to the palace of the Dragon King to marry the princess, T'ai Yin, but changed his mind and returned to earth where he became a famous minister.

Lu-chiang Chinese

a king
brother of Liu An

He and his brother were wrongly accused of plotting to overthrow the emperor. Lu-chiang killed himself but his brother was taken to heaven by the Eight Immortals and, with their help, restored Lu-chiang to life.

Lu Hsing Chinese

[Lu Shen.Shih Fen.Star of Dignities.Star of Emoluments.Star of Officials] a god of good fortune and wealth
one of the Fu Lu Shou

He was the scholar Shih Fen, a 2nd C BC official at the emperor's court.

He is sometimes depicted as, or riding on, a deer.

Lu Lung-chi Chinese

one of the disciples of Confucius
allowed to sacrifice at the Temple of Confucius

Lu-ma (see Glu-ma)

Lu Pan<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Kung-shu Tzu]
a god of workmen

He was originally the mortal, Kung-shu Tzu, born 506 BC, a carpenter who became a recluse and was later deified. He was said to be able to work miracles, one of which involved making a statue which caused a drought when his father was wrongfully condemned to death. When he cut the hand off the statue, the rains returned.

He is credited with many inventions including the adze and a wooden bird that actually flew.

He is usually depicted carrying an axe.

Lu Pan<sup>2</sup> Chinese

a name adopted by the 4th c hermit Ch'u-ch'i

Lu Shen (see Lu Hsing)

Lü Tsu (see Lü Tung-pin)

Lu Tsu-ch'ien Chinese

one of the disciples of Confucius
allowed to sacrifice at the Temple of Confucius

Lü Tun-yang (see Lü Tung-pin)

Lü Tung-pin Chinese

[Lü Tsu.Lü Tun-yang.Lü Yen.
Shun-yang Tzu]

one of the Eight Immortals

He was an 8th C prince and magistrate, reputed to be eight feet tall, who became one of the immortals.

He was given a magic sword by the Fire Dragon for resisting temptation and used it to kill many dragons and evil beings. He met Chiung-li and convinced by a dream, of riches gained and then lost, that material possessions were worthless, became his disciple.

He was said to have lived for over 400 years and is regarded as the guardian of the sick and patron of barbers.

He is depicted with his sword slung over his back and a fly-whisk in one hand. This description is said to be that of Lu-tzu with whom he is sometimes confused.

Lu-tzu Chinese

patron of barbers, beggars and pedicurists

A disciple of Lao-tzu, he, like Lü Tung-pin, is depicted holding a magic sword given to him by the Fire Dragon, but additionally has a fly-whisk in one hand. He is sometimes confused with Lü Tung-pin.

Lu Vang (see Klu-dban)

Lu Wu Chinese

an 8th c tea-master who was deified as the god of tea-merchants

Lü Yen (see Lü Tung-pin)

Lu Yo Chinese

a Taoist sage who was deified as the minister in charge of the celestial Ministry of Epidemics

Lua Roman

[Lua Mater.Lua Saturni]
an ancient Italian goddess of destruction
the first consort of Saturn

Lua-a-Milu New Zealand

[Lua-o-Milu.Milu's Cave. 'the pit of Milu']
the Maori underworld

Lua Mater (see Lua)

Lua-o-Milu (see Lua-a-Milu)

Lua Saturni (see Lua)

Luachas Irish

the kingdom of Lia: the treasurer of the Fianna: part of Connaught

Luah African

[Emerald Tablet.Mother of Books.
Tablet of Emerald]
according to the Swahili, a stone created by god on which all things are recorded by Kalamu.

Luaighne Irish

a warrior who killed Cathaoir at the Battle of Magh Agha

Luaine Irish

daughter of a Danaan chieftain
wife of Conor mac Nessa

She died from blisters caused by a satire directed at her by Aithirne, who had demanded that she sleep with him and his two sons.

Luan<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Fei Lien.Fei Luan]
a fabulous bird, a version of the phoenix

This bird is said to be like a phoenix when it is born but changes to a Luan, recognised by the five colours of its feathers. (see also Feng<sup>1</sup>)

luan<sup>2</sup> Irish

the moon

The proper name for the moon was taboo so euphemisms such as 'luan' were used. (see also esca.gealach.re)

Luath Irish

a hound of Cuchulainn

Luba (see Iruva)

Lubanga African

a god of good health of the Bunyoro people

Lubangala African

[Rainbow (Monster)]

a rainbow-god of the Bakongo people

Lubara (see Dibbara)

lubber fiend (see Lob-lie-by-the-fire)

lubberkin (see leprechaun)

Lube African

a god of Sao Tome

lubrican (see leprechaun)

Lucan British

[Lucas (the Butler)]

a knight of King Arthur's court
duke of Gloucester

brother of Bedivere, some say

He and Bedivere helped the wounded Arthur from the field at Camlan and then died from the wounds received in that final battle, leaving Bedivere to carry the king to the boat which took him to Avalon.

Lucas (see Lucan)

Lucat Moel (see Lucet Maol)

Lucet Mael (see Lucet Maol)

Lucet Maol Irish

[Lucat Moel.Lucet Mael]

a druid

He was one of those who foresaw the coming of Christianity which, he believed, would destroy the power of the druids.

He tried, unsuccessfully, to poison

St Patrick when he came to the court of the high-king, Laoghaire, but was burnt to death in a contest of magic with the saint. (see also Lochru)

Luchar Irish

sister of Fothadh Canainne

In some accounts, she was a wife of Finn mac Cool.

luchorpain Irish

a leprechaun living in the sea

Luchta Irish

[Lucht(a)ine.Luchtar]

a carpenter-god of the Danaans

one of the Tri De Dana

brother of Credne and Goibhniu

He and his brothers made the weapons used by the Danaans in their battles with the Fomoiré.

Luchtaine (see Luchta)

Luchtar (see Luchta)

Luchtine (see Luchta)

Luchyele African

a name adopted by Leza when he came down to earth

Lucian Greek

[Loukianos]

a 2nd c writer

He was the author of many satirical works involving gods and heroes.

Lucien Persian

a prince

When Lucien returned to the court after being educated by the Seven Wise Masters, he was warned by the stars not to speak for seven days. He was accused of rape by a female at the court and, unable to respond to the charge, was condemned to death. His tutors told contrary stories that postponed the execution day after day until he was able to speak and refute the charge.

Lucifer<sup>1</sup> Roman

[Light-bearer:=Greek Eosphoros.

Phosphoros]

Venus as the morning star

Lucifer<sup>2</sup>

In black magic, this being was a demon, the chief justice.

Lucifuge Rocofale

a demon said to reveal hidden treasure

Lucina Roman

[Diana:=Greek Ilithyia]

the goddess of childbirth, hunting, and marriage

an aspect of Diana or Juno

(see also Juno Lucina)

Lucius<sup>1</sup> British

a mythical king of Britain, said to have been the first Christian monarch

Lucius<sup>2</sup> British

a king of Lyonesse

son of Pelias

father of Apollo, some say

Lucius Tarquinius (see Lucumo<sup>2</sup>.Tarquinius Priscus)

Lucius Hiberius Roman

a Roman general

son of Cincinnatus and Racilia

He led the Roman forces against the army brought by King Arthur who had rejected the demands of Emperor Leo for taxes. In the battle, Arthur split Lucius almost in half with Excalibur.

lucive North American

[lucivee.loup-cervier]

a fabulous animal

lucivee (see lucive)

Lucky Man North American

a creator-deity of the Arikara tribe

He and Wolf-Man appeared over the primordial waters and created the world from soil brought up by the ducks. He created the hills and valleys while Wolf-Man created the prairies.

(see also Lone Man)

Lucomo (see Lucumo<sup>2</sup>)

Lucrece (see Lucretia)

Lucretia Roman

[Lucrece.Lucrezia]

daughter of Lucretius

wife of Tarquinius Collatinus

Her rape by Sextus Tarquinius and her consequent suicide roused the citizens to demand the abolition of the monarchy.

Lucretius Roman

father of Lucretia

Lucrezia (see Lucretia)

lucumo<sup>1</sup> Italian

[lucomo]

a prince-priest

Lucumo<sup>2</sup> Roman

[Lucomo]

an Etruscan

son of Demaratus

He became the fifth king of Rome as Tarquinius Priscus.

Lud<sup>1</sup> British

[Immanuence.King Brown.King Bruin.

Ludd.Nudd:=Irish Nuada:=Welsh Lludd]

a river-god

a king of Britain

son of Beli

brother of Cassivellaunus and Nennius

father of Androgeus and Tenuantius

the British version of Lludd

He is said to have founded London and defended it from many perils. He was succeeded by his brother Cassivellaunus. In some accounts he had a silver hand, like Nuada, and was called Llawreint.

lud<sup>2</sup> Russian

sacrificial groves

Ludd (see Lud)

Ludegar German

a king of the Saxons

He invaded Gunther's kingdom and was defeated by forces led by Siegfried.

Ludegast German

a king of Denmark

He invaded Gunther's kingdom and was defeated by forces led by Siegfried.

Ludi Apollinares Roman

games in honour of Apollo

Ludi Capitolini Roman

games in honour of Jupiter, held in October (see also Ludi Magni.

Ludi Plebei.Ludi Romani)

Ludi Cerialis Roman

games in honour of Ceres

(see also Cerealia)

Ludi Florialis Roman

games in honour of Flora

Ludi Magni Roman

[Ludi Maximi]

games in honour of Jupiter

(see also Ludi Capitalini.

Ludi Plebei.Ludi Romani)

Ludi Maximi (see Ludi Magni)

Ludi Megalenses Roman

games in honour of Cybele

Ludi Plebei Roman

games in honour of Jupiter, held in November (see also Ludi

Capitalini.Ludi Magni.Ludi Romani)

Ludi Romani Roman

games in honour of Jupiter, held in September (see also Ludi

Capitalini.Ludi Magni.Ludi Plebei)

Ludjatakó North American

a turtle-spirit of the Creek Indians

ludki Slav

[=Hungarian lutki:=Polish krasnoludi]

benevolent dwarfs of the Serbian

Otherworld

Ludlam British

a sorceress of Farnham

Ludwig German

a king of Normandy

father of Hartmut

He killed Hettel, father of Gudrun, when Herwig, Hettel and Siegfried fought a battle with the Normans in a vain attempt to rescue Gudrun who had been abducted by Ludwig's son, Hartmut. In a later battle which took place when Herwig, Ortwin and Wat took a force to Normandy, Ludwig was killed by Herwig who was reunited with his beloved Gudrun.

Lueji African

a queen of the Lunda people
When she married Chibinda Ilungi, she handed over her rule to him and, when she proved to be infertile, she gave him a second wife, Kamonga.

luete-muor Baltic

a tree used in Lappish sacrificial rites
When the tree has been felled, it is smeared with the blood of an animal which was killed at the same time, and offered to the gods.

Lufamour British

in some accounts, a lover of Percival (see also Lady of the Castle)

lufurlang North American

a fabulous animal

Lufu African

[Lirifu]

a god of death

He owns herds of cattle which are tended by the dead.

Lug Celtic

[=Gallic Lugus:=Irish Lugh:

=Welsh Llew Llaw Gyffes]

the Celtic sky-god, god of light

husband of Eire, some say

Lugaba African

a name of Katonda as 'he who gives'

Lugaid<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h)]

a blind poet

son of Ailill mac Mata

He killed Fergus mac Roth, who was the lover of Maev, when Maev's husband, Ailill, caught them swimming together in a lake.

Lugaid<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h).Son of Three Dogs]

a warrior and satirist

son of Curoi and Blathnat

He was a friend of Cuchulainn but swore vengeance when Cuchulainn killed his father and abducted his mother. He led Maev's army in an assault on Ulster and set a trap for Cuchulainn in which he threw the spear that mortally wounded the Ulster hero. When a crow settled on Cuchulainn's shoulder, he came in close to the crippled warrior, who had tied himself to a pillar, and cut off his head. As the sword dropped from Cuchulainn's hand it cut off Lugaid's hand. He was killed by Conall Cearnach who fought one-handed to equalise the contest.

Some say that the killer of Cuchulainn was a son of Calatin.

In some accounts, Cuchulainn gave Lugaid the princess Dearbhfhorgaill whom he had rescued but others say he gave her to Lugaid Riabhdhearg.

(see also Lugaid Riabhdhearg)

Lugaid<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h)]

son of Lughna

brother of Nia

When Cormac regained his throne in a battle with Eochu Gunnat, it was Lugaid who killed Eochu.

Lugaid<sup>4</sup> Irish

daughter of Finn mac Cool

mother of Gaoine

In some accounts, Gaoine is called Mac Lughach, son of Lugaid Lagha.

In other accounts, Lugaid became a daughter of Finn who bore Gaoine to her brother, Daire Dearg.

Lugaid<sup>5</sup> (see Molua)Lugaid Lagae (see Lugaid Lagha)Lugaid Lagha Irish

[Lewy.Lugaid Lagae.Lughaid(h)]

a great warrior

brother of Ailill Olom

father of Gaoine, some say

When Finn's aunt, Uirne, was turned into a hound by the jealous first wife of Ullan, a king who wanted to marry Uirne, Lugaid killed Ulla, whereupon Uirne was restored to her former self and married her saviour.

He went to Scotland with Lugaid mac Con when the latter was exiled and fought on his side when he returned to Ireland, killing Art at the Battle of Magh Mucramha. He later served Art's son, Cormac, when he came to the throne.

In other versions, his son, known also as Mac Lughach, was a son of Lugaid who becomes a daughter of Finn mac Cool by her brother, Daire Dearg.

Lugaid Laighde Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h) Loigde]

son of Daire

When hunting with his brothers they came upon an ugly old hag. Lugaid was the only one prepared to sleep with her, whereupon she turned into a beautiful maiden who foretold that he would become king.

He is sometimes equated with Lugaid mac Con, though others regard him as Mac Con's father.

Lugaid Lamhdhearg Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h)]

a king of Ireland

He killed Eochaid Uaircheas and took over the throne of the southern half of the country. He was later killed by Conaing, king of the northern half.

Lugaid Loigde (see Lugaid Laighde)Lugaid Luaighne Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h)]

a high-king of Ireland

father of Cairbre, Criomhthann and Fionnbhair

He divided Ulster into two parts, giving one part to Congall, the other to Fergus mac Leda.

Lugaid mac Con Irish

[Lewy.Lugaid mac Con Roi.Lughaid(h)]

a king of Ireland

son of Lugaid Laighde, some say

As king of Munster, he was defeated at the Battle of Ceann Abhradh by Ailill Olom and fled to Scotland. He later returned with an army, defeated Ailill and Art at the Battle of Magh Mucramha and took the high-king's throne. Some say that this battle arose out of an argument between Lugaid and Ailill's son, Eoghan Mor, over a tiny harper they had found in a tree. Lugaid later handed over the throne to Art's son, Cormac mac Airt, and tried to resume his earlier friendship with Ailill but the latter, by kissing him, infected Lugaid with the poison from an infected tooth. Ailill's son, Fearcheas, then followed Lugaid and killed him with a spear-cast.

In some accounts, it was said that he never slept and this was accounted for by the fact that his father was an otter who took Lugaid to his underwater lair.

He is sometimes regarded as being the same as an earlier character, Lugaid mac Con Roi.

Lugaid mac Con Roi

(see Lugaid mac Con)

Lugaid Mean Irish

[Lewy.Lughaid(h)]

a king of Munster

He was defeated in a battle with forces led by Conall Gulban.

Lugai Red Stripes

(see Lugaid Riabhdhearg)

Lugaid Reo-derg

(see Lugaid Riabhdhearg)

Lugaid Riabhdhearg Irish

[Lewy.Lugaid Red Stripes.

Lughaid(h) Reo-derg]

a king of Ireland

foster-father of Cuchulainn

son of Clothra

In some accounts, the three sons of Eochaid Feidhleach, known as Finn Eamhna, slept with their own sister, Clothra to father Lugaid. It was said that his body was divided by red stripes into three parts, each of which resembled one of his three fathers. In some accounts, she bore three sons, all called Lugaid. Others say that Lugaid slept with his own mother, Clothra, fathering Criomhthann Nia Nair.

Some say that Cuchulainn rejected the love of Dearbhfhorgaill and gave her to Lugaid. In this version, he died of grief or by his own hand when she was mutilated by a group of jealous women. Other versions say that Dearbhfhorgaill was given to Lugaid, son of Curoi.

He was killed by the three Red-heads of Leinster. (see also Lugaid<sup>2</sup>)

Lugal Mesopotamian
a Sumerian word for 'king'

Lugal-abzu Mesopotamian
[Lugal-abzuak]
a name of Enki as 'owner of the deep waters'

Lugal-abzuak (see Lugal-abzu)

Lugal-Dimmer-An-Ki-A Mesopotamian
a name of Marduk as 'king of the gods'

Lugal-ida Mesopotamian
[Lugal-idak.Lugalid]
a name of Ea or Enki as 'lord of the river'

Lugal-idak (see Lugal-ida)

Lugal-Irra Mesopotamian
a Sumerian underworld god

Lugal-Meslam Mesopotamian
a name for Nergal as king of Meslam, the underworld

Lugalbanda Mesopotamian
[Lugulbanda] son of Enlil, some say consort of Ninsun
father of Gilgamesh

In the early myths he is said to have killed Zu to recover the Tablets of Destiny. Later stories give Marduk the credit.

Lugalid (see Lugal-ida)

Lugdunensis (see Lugdunum)

Lugdunum Celtic [Lugdunensis.Lyons]
Lug's fort in France
a name for Lyonnesse

Lugeilan Pacific Islands
[Lugeilang.Luk.Lukelang.Nan Dapue: =Pelew Islands Obagat]
the sky-god and god of agriculture of the Caroline Islanders a founder-hero
husband of Thilpelap father of Olofat
father of Ligoupup, some say

When his son was killed by the other gods, Lugeilan brought him back to life.

In some accounts, Lugeilan is Olofat's brother (or half-brother) and their father is Anulap. Others say that Olofat's brother is Samonekoaner.

Lugeilang (see Lugeilan)
Lugh Irish

[An Scal.Find.Ildanach.Lug:Lugh
Chromain.Lugh Laebach.Lam(h)fada.
Lonbemlech.Lonnbemnech.Ord-ollam.
Samildanach.The Bright One:=Celtic Lug:=Gaulish Lugus:=Roman Mercury:
=Welsh Llew Llaw Gyffes]
the sun-god, god of light
son of Cian and Ethlinn husband of Boi
brother of the Dagda and Ogma,
some say

In some versions, Lugh is the son of Clothra or of Delbaeth by Eire but the more usual story is that three sons were born to Ethlinn at one birth after she had been seduced by Cian. It was predicted that a son of Ethlinn would kill his grandfather, Balor, so he had the babies thrown into the sea. Lugh was rescued by Manannan and reared by his uncle Goban, the smith-god Goibhniu, and spent his youth in the care of Duach, king of the Great Plain, the land of the dead, where his foster-mother was Taltiu, Duach's daughter. Although Balor was of the Fomoiré, Lugh served with the Danaans under Nuada, bringing with him the Boat of Manannan, the Horse of Manannan and the magic sword, Fraganach. On the death of Nuada, Lugh became a king of the Danaans.

He sent his father north to raise an army to fight the Fomoiré but he was waylaid and killed by the sons of Turenn. Lugh arraigned the killers before the high-king and agreed to a fine instead of execution, requiring them to perform seven (or eight) very difficult tasks.

In the second Battle of Moytura he restored all his fallen warriors to life and defeated the Fomoiré who were henceforth banished. During this battle Lugh killed Balor, as had earlier been predicted, by throwing a magic stone, Tathlum, into his baleful eye. The stone went right through Balor's skull and out the other side, killing twenty-seven other warriors. Others say that he threw a spear or drove a stake through Balor's eye and then decapitated him.

It was said that he was killed when attacked by the three sons of Cearmaid (whom Lugh had killed). One of them wounded Lugh who fell into a lake and was drowned. Others say that Lugh was killed in battle by Cailte.

In The Prophetic Ecstasy of the Phantom, Lugh appeared in the form of a horseman, claiming to be the returned son of Adam, and recited to Conn, king of Ulster, the names of all future kings.

Lugh Chromain Irish
a name of Lugh as a craftsman

When the invading Milesians conquered the Danaans, the defeated tribe retreated underground as fairies. Their leader, Lugh, became a craftsman leprechaun. His store of sunlight he buried at various sites, each to be marked by the end of a rainbow.

Lugh Laebach Irish
a magician

He, together with Ai, Bechuille and Cridhinbheal, defeated the sons of Carman and took their mother prisoner.

Some say that he was an aspect of the god, Lugh.

Lugh Lamfada (see Lamfada)

Lugh Lamf(h)ada (see Lamfada)

Lughaid (see Lugaid)

Lughaidh (see Lugaid)

Lughna' Irish
husband of Liadan
father of Cianran

Lughna' Irish
father of Lugaid and Nia

Lughna' Irish
[Lugna Fer Tri]
brother-in-law of Eachtach

When her husband, Art, was killed at the Battle of Magh Mucramha, Eachtach went to stay with Lughna. Her son, Cormac mac Airt, was born en route to Lughna's house and, after being recovered from the she-wolf which suckled him, the boy was raised by Lughna alongside his own sons.

He corresponds to the Lughne referred to in the story of Achtan. In an alternative version of Cormac's birth, he was raised by Fiachna Casan.

Lughnasadh (see Lugnasad)

Lugh's Chain Irish
the Milky Way

The Milky Way is regarded as a chain by which Lugh could raise the dead to heaven.

This is also the name given to the sling which Lugh used to kill Balor.

Lugh's Mass (see Lugnasad)

Lughtigern Irish
a monster cat

- Lugmannair Irish
father of Dil
- Lugna Fer Tri (see Lugna<sup>3</sup>)
- Lugnasa (see Lugnasad)
- Lugnasad Celtic [Bilberry Sunday.Bron Troghain.
Fraughan Sunday.Garland Sunday.
Lug(h)nasadh.Lugh's Mass.Lugnasa:
Lueji=British Lammas:=Manx Lla
Lluany:=Welsh Calan Awst.Gwyl Awst]
a festival of Lugh held on August 1st to commemorate his foster-mother, Taltiu
- In some accounts, Lugnasad is a feast of marriage rites.
- Lugnasadh (see Lugnasad)
- Lugne Irish
a monk
- He was swimming in Loch Ness when he was attacked by a monster. St Columba ordered the monster to stop and it swam off, leaving him unharmed.
- Lughnasadh (see Lugnasad)
- Lugoves (see Lugus)
- Luguain British
a servant of Yder who later became
a knight
- Lugulbanda (see Lugalbanda)
- Lugus Celtic
['bright'.Lug:=Irish Lugh:=Welsh Llew Llaw Gyffes:plur=Lugoves]
the Gaulish version of the sun-god Lug
- Luh-Ka Mesopotamian
a Sumerian purification ceremony
- Luian (see Eochaid mac Luchta)
- Lughne Irish
a trapper
- He found the infant Cormac mac Airt
who was being suckled by a she-wolf,
and returned the child to its mother.
(see also Lughna<sup>3</sup>)
- Lughteach Irish
husband of Boilce
father of Conall Corc
- Luin Irish
the spear of Celtchair
- If this magic weapon smelt an enemy it twisted in the hands and, unless it spilt the blood of that enemy, it would turn on the holder. This effect could be neutralised only by immersing the spear in a vat of venom.
- Luipa<sup>1</sup> Tibetan
a Lamaist sorcerer
one of the Mahasiddhas
- He is depicted seated, holding a skull
cap and with a rope round his body.
- Luipa<sup>2</sup> (see Minanatha)
- Luitgarde European
in some accounts, one of the 9 wives
of Charlemagne
- Luk<sup>1</sup> North American in the lore of the Klamath, the grizzly bear created by Kumush
- Luk<sup>2</sup> (see Lugeilan)
- Luka-Kane Pacific Islands
a Hawaiian god of sports
- Lukabal Cambodian
[=Hindu Dikpala]
a guardian spirit of the earth and human beings
- Lukaon (see Lycaon)
- Lukelang (see Lugeilan)
- Lukhavi Slav
the Devil
- Lukoi Greek
devotees of Zeus Lycaeus who ate the flesh of wolves at religious ceremonies
- Lukman (see Lokman)
- Lukomedes (see Lycomedes)
- Lukourgos (see Lycurgus)
- Luktari Afghan
a Kafir fertility-deity
- lukumans South American
a diviner among the Africans of Surinam
- These people, male or female, are said to be able to cure sickness by questioning a person's soul. Having brought the soul up into the patient's head, the diviner finds answers to his questions by watching the surface of water in a bowl, by the opening and closing of a fan or by looking in a mirror.
- Other varieties of diviner are known as kartaman, obiaman, piaman, wintiman and wisiman.
(see also lookman)
- Lulal Mesopotamian
a minor Sumerian god
- Lullu Mesopotamian
a man created by the gods to work for them
- Lumaug (see Lumawig)
- Lumawig Pacific Islands
[Lumaug]
a deity in the Philippines
- He is said to have created humans from reeds which he placed in pairs on the ground. Each pair became a male and female, each pair speaking a different language. His sons wiped out the whole population, except one brother and sister, by causing a flood.
The surviving couple repopulated the islands and Lunawig came to be regarded as a culture-hero who taught the people their arts and customs.
- Lumbini Buddhist
a sacred grove said to be the birthplace of the Buddha
- Lumbu African
the first man in the lore of the Bakongo
The androgynous being Mahungu, created by Nzambi, was split by the tree Muti Mpungu to form the man Lumbu and the woman Muzita.
- Luminous Maiden Japanese
a goddess of Mount Fuji
- Luminous Race Hindu
descendants of Agni
- These deities had responsibility for such things as light, meteors, and sacrificial fires.
- Luminous, The (see Dipankara)
- Luminu'ut East Indian [Empung Luminu'ut=Marshall Islands Lejman]
the first woman in the lore of the Celebes
wife of Toar
- She was born from the sweat of a rock and, covering the rock with soil, she planted seeds and so created the earth.
- In some versions, Toar was her son produced after being made pregnant by the wind. Together they produced the people and their gods.
- Lumukaka Pacific Islands
a sea-giant
- Lumukaka appeared to two boys who were fishing and, even after eating the whole of their catch, demanded more food. The elder boy successively cut off the arms and legs of his younger brother to feed the giant and managed to escape. When the remains of the younger boy were buried, a dog appeared and from this animal came the coconut palm.
- Lumumba (see Leza)
- Lun Yü Chinese
[Analects.Sayings of Confucius]
the sixth of the 9 sacred books of the Confucian canon, dealing with the teachings of Confucius on political matters
one of the Four Books
- Luna Roman
[=Greek Phoebe.Selene]
a moon-goddess
- Lunang Afghan
a Kafir river-goddess, goddess of water-mills
- Lundjungfrur (see Loljersker)
- Lundy Island (see Ynys Wair)
- Luned Welsh [Lunet(te)] a maidservant of the Lady of the Fountain
- In some versions, she is the sister of the Lady of the Fountain, Laudine.

She saved Owain when she gave him a ring that could make him invisible. He later rescued her when she was imprisoned awaiting death at the stake.

Lunet (see Luned)

Lunette (see Luned)

lung Chinese

a dragon chief of the scaly animals,

ruler of the earth (see also dragon<sup>3</sup>)

Lung-Gom Pa (see Lunggompā)

Lung Nü Chinese

[Lung Wang Nü]

a female attendant on Kuan Yin

Lung-ta (see rLun-rta)

Lung Wang (see Ao Kuang)

Lung Wang Nü (see Lung Nü)

lung-rta Tibetan

a form of prayer-flag (see also da-cha)

Lunga African

sister of Lenga

wife of Nsassi (see also Nsassi)

Lunggompā Buddhist

[Lung-Gom Pa.Wind Men]

monks who, by asceticism, are said to be able to walk great distances at high speed without resting, in a form of trance

Lumbeng Chinese

the Chinese record of Korean myths

lunkus (see guyascutus)

Luojarar (see Luonnotar)

Luonnotar Baltic

[Daughter of Creation.Luojatar.Synnytar]

a Finnish goddess

This is a name for Ilmatar as a goddess of birth.

In some accounts, the name of three nature-goddesses of birth or norms.

Luot-hozjit (see Luot-chozjit)

Luot-chozjit Baltic

[Luot-hozjik:=Russian Pots-hoznik]

a Lappish female spirit, guardian of reindeer

Lupe Pacific Islands

the dove created by Malamanganga'e and Malamangangaifo

Lupercalia Roman

a festival honouring Faunus, Lupercus

or the wolf that suckled Romulus and Remus, held on February 15th

Lupercii Roman

the young men or priests who took part in the rites of the Lupercalia

Lupercus Roman

[=Greek Pan]

an ancient Italian god of fertility, flocks and wolves

In some accounts, he is equated with Faunus.

Lupies North American

a mythical tribe of Plains Indians

lupinam insaniam (see lycanthropy)

Luppolt European

a vassal of Rother

He was in charge of the delegation sent to Constantinople by Rother to sue for the hand of the emperor's daughter, Oda.

luprachain (see leprechaun)

Lur European

[Lurgurr]

a Basque earth-goddess

Lurgurr (see Lur)

Luridan

[Belelah]

a demon, ruler of the north

Lurlei (see Lorelei)

Luseios (see Lusios)

Luseus (see Lusios)

Lusiads, The Portuguese

[Portuguese Iliad]

a 16th c story of famous Portuguese,

written by Camoens

A number of classical deities appear in these stories.

Lusios Greek

[Luseios.Luseus]

a name of Dionysus as 'one who flees

from guilt'

lustrum Roman

a sacrificial rite of purification held every 5 years

lutin<sup>1</sup> French

[Le Cheval Bayard.netun]

a goblin or house-spirit of Normandy

This goblin was said to be able to transform and take on the form of a horse when it was referred to as Le Cheval Bayard.

lutin<sup>2</sup> West Indian

in Haiti, the ghost of an unbaptised

child

lutki Hungarian

[lutky:=Polish krasnoludi:=Slav ludki]

benevolent dwarfs of the Otherworld

lutky (see lutki)

Lutung Kasarung East Indian

a black monkey, the role taken by

Guru Minda

Lutung Kasarung East Indian

a Javanese epic, the story of Guru

Minda during his time on earth

Lu'ukia Pacific Islands

the Hawaiian version of Rukutia

Luvah British

a demon of the emotions

This being is one of the four zoa in the works of William Blake.

Lwndryś (see Caer Llud)

Lyada Slav

a war-god

Lyaeus (see Dionysus)

Lyambilo African

brother of Ngeketo and Mbasi

He and Mbasi became jealous of Ngeketo, who had brought maize to his people, so they killed him. When he reappeared as a snake, they chopped him into pieces and, when those pieces rejoined, they did the same again.

Lyangombe African

a principal god in the Congo

Lybia Greek

[Aega]

daughter of Epaphus and Memphis

mother of Agenor, Belus, and Lelex

by Poseidon

Lybica Roman

a sibyl

Lybius Desconus<sup>1</sup> British

a 14th c poem relating the exploits of Gingalin

Lybius Desconus<sup>2</sup> (see Gingalin)

Lycabas Greek

a sailor on the ship when Dionysus

was imprisoned by the crew

Lycaea Greek

a festival in honour of Pan

Lycaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Lykaios]

a mountain sacred to Pan and Zeus

Lycaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Lykaios]

a name for Apollo as guardian of wolves or for Zeus as 'wolf-like'

Lycaeus<sup>3</sup> (see Lyceus)

lycanthrope

[cynanthropist.lycanthropist]

a human in the form of a wolf:

a wolf-man

lycanthropsia (see lycanthropy)

lycanthropist (see lycanthrope)

lycanthropy

[cucubuth.cynanthropy.lupinam

insaniam.lycanthropsia.wolf-madness]

the supposed ability to change into a (were)wolf

In other parts of the world, various other ferocious animals are substituted for the wolf.

In medical terms, this is a mental affliction in which one imagines oneself to be a wolf.

Lycaon<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Lukaon.Lykaon]

king of Arcadia

son of Pelasgus and Meliboea

husband of Nonacris

father of Callisto, Macareus, Nyctimus

and Orchomenus

His son Nyctimus was killed by his brothers and served in a stew to Zeus

who then restored Nyctimus to life.

Lycaon then tried to kill the god by stabbing him when he was asleep but Zeus let out a roar that rased the king's palace. Zeus killed Lycaon and his other sons or, in some versions, turned them into wolves, sending Deucalion's flood as further punishment.

A similar story is told of Arcas, Lycaon's grandson.

Lycaon<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Lukaon.Lykaon]

son of Priam by Laothea

He was killed by Achilles during the siege of Troy.

Lycaon<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Lukaon.Lykaon]

king of Deleia or Zeleia

father of Pandarus

Lycaon<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Lukaon.Lykaon]

a king of Illyria

father of Daunus, Iapix and Peucetius

Lycaon<sup>5</sup> Greek

[Lukaon.Lykaon]

son of Ares

When he challenged Heracles to single combat, he was killed.

Lycastus Greek

father of Minos by Ida

Lycatheus Greek

father of Creon

Lycelius Greek

Apollo as god of the wolves

Lyceus Greek

[Lycaeus]

a name for Apollo as 'light' or 'splendour'

Lychie (see Leshi)

Lychnus Greek

in some accounts, a son of Hephaestus by Athena

Lycia Greek

[Lykia]

the place where Apollo was born

Lycimnius Greek

son of Electryon by Midea

Lycius<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

a Hittite god

Lycius<sup>2</sup> (see Apollo)

Lycian (see Apollo)

Lycippe Greek

an Amazon

mother of Tanais

Lycisca Greek

[Lycise]

a dog of Actaeon, half dog, half wolf

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Lycisca, tore him to pieces.

Lycise (see Lycisca)

Lycomedes Greek

[Lukomedes]

king of Scyros

father of Deidamia

He sheltered Achilles who was dressed as a girl by his mother, Thetis, who tried to hide her son so that he might not have to serve with the Greek army at Troy.

He killed Theseus by pushing him over a cliff fearing that Theseus might take his throne.

Lycorea Greek

one of the peaks of Mount

Parnassus, sacred to Apollo

(see also Tithorea)

Lycothereses Greek

king of Illyria

husband of Agave

His wife, Agave, who had killed Pentheus, her son by her first husband Echion, killed Lycothereses and gave the throne to Cadmus.

Lyc tius (see Idomenus)

Lycurgus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Lukourgos.Lykourgos]

king of Nemea

son of Pheres and Periclymene

brother of Admetus

father of Opheltus

In one account, he bought Hypsipyle as a slave to nurse his infant son. She put the boy on the ground for a moment but it was bitten by a snake and died.

The Nemean games were instituted in honour of this infant.

Lycurgus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Lukourgos.Lykourgos]

king of the Edonians of Thrace

son of Dryas

father of Dryas

He insulted Dionysus and opposed the new religion worshipping the god of wine for which he was blinded by Zeus. He captured the invading army of Dionysus but the god himself escaped and Rhea drove Lycurgus mad so that he killed his own son Dryas with an axe, thinking he was cutting down a vine. A curse of barrenness descended on the land and, to propitiate the god, the Edonians killed Lycurgus by pulling him apart with wild horses.

In another version, he was handed over by Dionysus to the wild animals of Mount Rhodope which killed him, though others say that he killed himself, his wife and his son.

Lycurgus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Lukourgos.Lykourgos]

son of Euonomus

brother of Polydectes

When his brother died, leaving his wife pregnant, she offered to kill the baby and share the throne with Lycurgus. He pretended to agree but instead proclaimed the child, called Charilaus, king and left Sparta in his hands.

Lycurgus<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Lukourgos.Lykourgos]

a king of Arcadia

son of Aleus and Neaera

brother of Amphidamus, Auge,

Celeus and Cepheus

father of Ancaeus

He killed King Areithous and gave his armour to Erethalion.

Lycurgus<sup>5</sup> Greek

a lawgiver in Sparta, deified

after his death

Lycus<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of Athens

son of Pandion

brother of Aegeus,

Nisus and Pallas

He was expelled by Aegeus, who took over the throne of Athens, and fled to Lycia.

Lycus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Thebes

son of Chthonius

brother of Nycteus, some say

He put aside his wife Antiope in favour of Dirce and they put Antiope in prison and ill-treated her. Antiope's sons by Apollo, Amphion and Zethus, avenged her by killing both Lycus and Dirce.

In another story, he was the brother of Nycteus, the father of Antiope. Some say that he and Nycteus were fathered by Poseidon on Celaeno.

Lycus<sup>3</sup> Greek

king of Mariandyne

son of Dascylus

brother of Priolas

father of Dascylus

When the Argonauts called en route to Colchis, Lycus sent his son to guide them along the shore.

Lycus<sup>4</sup> Greek

son of Lycus and Dirce

He left Thebes after his father's death at the hands of Amphion and Zethus but returned later to wrest the throne from Creon. Heracles, married to Creon's daughter, killed Lycus and put Laodamas on the throne.

Lycus<sup>5</sup> Greek
a follower of Diomedes
He went to Italy with Diomedes and
was turned into a bird by Aphrodite.

Lyda Greek
a nymph who rejected the love of a satyr

Lyeshy (see Leshi)

Lyfir Norse
Heimdall as a mortal sent to protect Hadding in battle

Lygadnudd (see Llygadnudd)

Lygis Greek
a son of Poseidon

Lygni Norse
[Ligni]
a king of the Hundings

When Hiordis rejected his suit and married the aging Sigmund, he raised an army and attacked Hunaland. In the ensuing battle, Sigmund was killed and Lygni claimed his kingdom. At that time, Sigmund's son, Sigurd, had yet to be born. When he reached manhood, Sigurd returned to kill Lygni and reclaim his father's throne.

Lykaios (see Lycaeus.Zeus)

Lykaon (see Lycaon)

Lykia (see Lycia)

Lykourgos (see Lycurgus)

Lykurgos (see Lycurgus)

Lyle British [Lady of Lyle.Lile]
a lady of Avalon

She sent a maiden, Colombe, to King Arthur's court bearing a sword that only the purest knight could draw from its scabbard. It was drawn and claimed by Balin and led to his death and that of his brother Balan.
The sword had once belonged to the girl's lover who had been killed by her brother.

In some accounts, it was Lyle herself who took the sword to the court.

Lymdale Norse
the home of Brunhild, some say

Lymph Roman
a nature-goddess

Lyncea Greek
one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon,
the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Lyncea, tore him to pieces.

Lynceus<sup>1</sup> Greek
king of Argos
son of Aegyptus, one of 50 husband of Hypermnestra
father of Abas

The only son to survive when they were murdered on the night of their wedding to the fifty daughters of Danaus. He killed his father-in-law and took his throne of Argos.

Lynceus<sup>2</sup> Greek
son of Aphareus and Arene twin brother of Idas

He joined the Calydonian boar hunt and sailed in Argo in which, having sharp eyes which could see beneath the earth, he acted as the look-out. He was killed by Polydeuces after a dispute over stolen cattle or, in some accounts, in the fight that ensued when Castor and Polydeuces abducted Hilaria and Phoebe, the wives of Lynceus and his brother Idas.

Lynch Irish
a warrior with Ailill and Maev

He was one of those who took on the great warrior Cuchulainn in single combat at the ford but treacherously brought twelve soldiers to support him. All died at the hand of Cuchulainn.

Lyncus Greek
king of Scythia

He tried to kill Triptolemus but the goddess Demeter intervened and changed Lyncus into a lynx.

Lyne British
a warrior-maid

She had always wanted to be a man and, as a girl, had dressed and fought like a boy, killing one youth in combat.
She spent her life studying the arts of battle and trained likely prospects to become outstanding knights. One of these was Ewain who spent most of a year at her home in Wales learning all she could teach him.

Lynette British [Linet]
sister of Lyonesse
wife of Gareth, some say

She went to King Arthur's court to enlist help for her sister, Lyonesse, against the Red Knight.

In some accounts, she married
Gareth after he had rescued her sister and had been admitted as a Knight of the Round Table.

Lyngvi Norse
an island in the lake Amsvartnir

Here Fenris was bound to a rock until the last battle when he broke loose and fought with Loki against the gods.

Lynor (see Lianour)

Lyonel (see Lionel)

Lyonesse<sup>1</sup> Celtic [Leones(se).Leonnais.Leonnoys.

Leonois.Lethowstow.Liones(se).Lyonnoy:
=Welsh Cantre'r Gwaelod.Lowland Cantref.=French Ker-Is]
a fabled lost land

This island is said to have been situated off the far south-west of Britain, supporting a happy agricultural society. Part of it, ruled by Galahad, was known as Surluse. The island was drowned under the Atlantic by water spirits jealous of the happiness and prosperity of the inhabitants. Only Trifilian escaped when the sea overwhelmed the island.

Some say it was the land where Tristram was born, the land from which King Arthur came and the site of the final battle where he met his death.

Others say that, when King Arthur was killed, Mordred survived and drove the remaining forces of the king to Lyonesse. The ghost of Merlin caused the land to sink beneath the waves taking Mordred's men with it while the king's men escaped.

In some accounts, Liones is a separate realm. (see also Lugdunum)

Lyonesse<sup>2</sup> British a lady attacked by the Red Knight

sister of Lynette
When the Red Knight besieged her castle, she sent Lynette to King Arthur's court to enlist help. The king sent Gareth who rescued Lyonesse and, in some accounts, married her.

(see also Lynette.Lyonors)

Lyonors British [Liones.Lionors]
daughter of Earl Sanam

She was seduced by King Arthur and bore him a son named Borre or Loholt.

In some accounts she is the same as Lyonesse.

Lyon (see Lugdunum)

Lyonse British
a French knight

lord of Payarne
He and Phariance met Ulfias and Brastias when they journeyed to France to enlist help for King Arthur from Bors and Ban.

Lyppaut British [Lippant.Lord of Bearosche]

a duke of Bearosche
father of Obie and Obilot

When Obie rejected the suit of King
Meljanz, he attacked her father's city, helped by Percival. Gawain fought on the side of the besieged duke.

Lyra (see Chih Nu.Tanabata)

Lysianassa<sup>1</sup> Greek

daughter of Epaphus and Memphis

sister of Libya

mother of Busiris by Poseidon

Lysianassa<sup>2</sup> Greek

daughter of Polybus

wife of Talaus, some say

Lysidice Greek

daughter of Pelops

wife of Mestor

mother of Hippothoe

mother of Amphitryon, some say

Lysimache Greek

daughter of Abas

sister of Coeranus

wife of Talaus, some say

Lysippe Greek

daughter of Proteus and Anteia

wife of Melampus

She and her sisters Iphinoe and Iphianassa were driven mad by Dionysus or Hera. Iphinoe died but the seer Melampus and his brother Bias cured the other two and Lysippe married Melampus.

Lytir Norse

a name of Frey in Sweden

Lytuvonis Baltic

a Lithuanian rain god

Lyuba (see Iruva)

M

M Central American

a Mayan deity of uncertain identity referred to as god M: perhaps Ek Chuah

This deity is depicted as black with red lips and carrying a package on his head.

Ma<sup>1</sup> Chinese

a Taoist deity one of the Four Diamond Kings He is depicted holding a sword.

Ma<sup>2</sup> Chinese

the steed of the sun

Ma<sup>3</sup> Egyptian

[Ammas.Maet.Maet.Maht.Mait. Maut.Mayet.'truth']

goddess of justice and truth a form of Tefnut the sun-goddess as a lioness ruler of the underworld daughter of Ra wife of Thoth

She is depicted as wearing a single ostrich feather which she uses to weigh the souls of the dead.

(see also Mut.Nehebkau)

Ma<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Great Mother:=Roman Bellona] a primeval Anatolian goddess

(see also Anaitis<sup>1</sup>)

Ma<sup>5</sup> Turkish

[=Greek Enyo:=Roman Bellona] an Anatolian war-goddess and fertility-goddess

ma<sup>6</sup> (see akuma)

Ma<sup>7</sup> (see Ama<sup>2</sup>.Baba.Parvati.Sin<sup>4</sup>)

Ma-Bajan Tibetan

mother of 'Brug-ma'

Ma-banda-anna Mesopotamian

a name for Samas as 'boat in the sky'

Ma-Bellone (see Baba)

Ma Bumba South American

[Bumba]

a deity of Surinam, based on the Bakongo creator-god Niambi

ma-chung Chinese

a paper image of the kitchen-god, Tsao Chün, displayed at the New Year festival

Ma-Hina (see Hina<sup>1</sup>.Mahina<sup>1</sup>)

Ma-ho Chia-yeh Chinese

[Chin Ma-ho Chia Yeh.Mo-ho Chia-yeh] the Chinese name for Kashyapa

Ma Hu Chinese

father of Ma Ku

His cruelty caused his daughter to run away. She returned only to bathe his eyes when he went blind through weeping over the loss of her services and then left again, riding away on a bird.

Ma-lha Tibetan

a local god of longevity and good fortune

Ma Kiela African

a goddess of the Bakongo, a deified mortal

She is regarded as the queen of those women who have been killed with a knife.

Ma Ku<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Hemp Lady]

a 2nd c female magician who attained immortality

Ma Ku<sup>2</sup> Chinese

[Hemp Lady]

a 4th c reincarnation of the 2nd c magician of the same name daughter of Ma Hu

Her father was so cruel that she left him and returned only to bathe his eyes when he went blind from weeping at the loss of her services. She then left again, riding on a bird.

Ma Ku<sup>3</sup> Chinese

[Chen Jen.Hemp Lady]

a 12th c lady who became a hermit

Ma Mien Chinese

[Asvamukha.Horse Face.

Horse-faced Messenger]

a gaoler and assistant judge in the underworld

an attendant on Yen Wang

He and Niu-t'ou are sent to collect the spirit when a person dies.

Ma-mo Tibetan

female demons

These black she-devils are reputed to be the cause of disease.

Ma Ming Chinese

the Chinese name for Asvagosha

Ma Muang Thai

a mango-goddess

Ma-niang (see T'ien Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Ma-p'am-pa Tibetan [Me-phem-pa]
the Tibetan version of Asita

Ma-riko-riko (see Marikoriko)

Ma-sang Tibetan early ancestors of the race
During this dynasty, men invented armour. Next came the miracle workers, the 'gong-po, the klu and the rgyal-po.

Ma Shen Chinese
son of Tou-shen
brother of Chen Shen, P'an Shen and Sha Shen
He helps his mother with cases of smallpox by removing the pock marks.

Ma Sina (see Sina)

Ma-t'ou Chinese a name of Ts'an Nü as Horse Head Lady

Ma-tsu-p'o (see T'ien Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Ma-tzu (see T'ien Hou<sup>1</sup>)

Ma Vien (see Bach Ma)

Ma Wang Chinese
[Celestial Charger.Ssu-ma Ta Shen]
a celestial horse, progenitor of all horses
He is depicted as a three-faced god in the company of a crane, a dragon and a phoenix. In some accounts, he is regarded as a king, Ssu-ma Ta Shen.

Maa Egyptian
a deity, sight personified

maa-alused (see maahiset)

Maa-Emac Baltic
[Maan-Emo]
a Finnish earth-mother

Maadit bark (see Manjet)

Maahes (see Mihos)

maahiset Baltic [alv-myror.alva.maa-alused.maanalaiset]
a Finnish forest spirit
Ant hills are used as the site for making offerings to this spirit. In an alternative version they are small beings which live under the earth and which can cause skin diseases in humans.

Maailmanpatsas (see Veralden tshuold)

Maamba Australia
a culture-hero of the Aborigines in the Herbert River area

maanalaiset (see maahiset)

Maane (see Mani<sup>3</sup>)

Mannegarm (see Managarm)

Maapita Pacific Islands
in the lore of the Moluccas, one of the first 2 men
brother of Masora
Having obliged the goddess Kuwe by picking lice from her body, Maapita was told to pick ripe fruit from a tree. He did so and Kuwe changed the fruit into a beautiful maiden. His brother Masora was less successful.

Maasewe (see Masewi)

maat<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

the ostrich feather worn by Ma

Maat<sup>2</sup> (see Ma<sup>2</sup>)

maaty (see Hall of Judgement)

Maau Egyptian

[Mau]

the goddess Atet in the form of a cat

Mab Celtic

[Madb.Maeve.Titania]

a fairy-midwife

queen of the fairies

Mabel (see Meabel)

Mabinogion, The (see Mabinogion)

Mabinogion, The Welsh

[Mabinogion]

a book of legends

Of the eleven stories, the first four are referred to as The Four Branches of the Mabinogi. These are Pwyll Prince of Dyfed, Branwen Daughter of Llyr, Manawyddan Son of Llyr, and Math Son of Mathonwy.

The Four Independent Native Tales are The Dream of Maccen Wledig, Llud and Llefelys, Culhwch and Olwen and The Dream of Rbonabwy.

Last come The Three Romances, The Lady of the Fountain, Peredur Son of Effrawg and Gereint Son of Erbin.

Maboia (see Maboya)

Mabon<sup>1</sup> Welsh

[Mabonagrain.Mabuz:=British Maponus:

=Irish Angus Og.Macan]

a sun-god, god of youth, god of hunting and fishing

son of Urien and Modron

He was abducted when three days old. The Salmon of Llyn Llyw led Arthur's men to Caer Llyw where he was imprisoned and he was freed to help Culhwch in his efforts to win the hand of Olwen. He rode the horse Gwyn Dunmane in the hunt for the boar Twrch Trwyth and snatched the razor from between the boar's ears.

(see also Mabon<sup>2</sup>)

Mabon<sup>2</sup> Welsh

a magician

son of Mellt

He and Yvan had turned the Lady of Sinadun into a snake and when Gingalin came to her rescue they attacked him. Mabon was killed but Yvan escaped.

In some accounts he is equated with the god Mabon. (see also Mabon<sup>1</sup>)

Mabonagrain British

a name for Mabon in Continental tales of King Arthur in which Mabon was rescued from prison by Erec

Maboya West Indian

[Great Snake.Maboia]

a guardian deity of snakes

Mabuz British

a name for Mabon in Continental tales of King Arthur in which Mabon was regarded as the son of the Lady of the Lake

Mac an Choill Irish

a hound of Dermot O'Dyna

Mac an Daimh Irish

a servant of Mongan

His wife accompanied Mongan's wife when she was taken by Brandubh but he recovered her when Mongan tricked Brandubh with a hag made to resemble a princess.

Mac an Luin Irish

[Son of the Spear]

Finn's sword

Mac Ceacht (see Mac Cecht)

Mac Cecht<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Mac Ceacht.Son of the Plough]

a Danaan king of Ireland

brother of Mac Cool and Mac Greine

husband of Fohla

He and the other kings, Mac Cool and Mac Greine, killed Ith, leader of an expedition from Spain, so precipitating the invasion of the Milesians. He was killed by Eremon, son of Milesius.

Mac Cecht<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Mac Ceacht]

a giant warrior

son of Snade Teched

When Conary and his party were besieged at Da Derga's hostel by pirates led by Conary's three foster-brothers, Mac Cecht broke through the invaders' ranks to get a drink for Conary who was dying of thirst. Magic had dried or hidden all the rivers and he searched far and wide before he could fill his cup. When he got back to the hostel it had fallen and Conary was dead. He killed the two pirates who had cut off Conary's head and gave the severed head a drink. The head spoke to Mac Cecht and thanked him for the water.

In some accounts, Conall Cearnach appears in place of Mac Cecht.

Mac Coll (see Mac Cool)

Mac Cool<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Mac Coll.Mac Cuill.Son of the Hazel]
a Danaan king of Ireland
brother of Mac Cecht and Mac Greine husband of Banba

He and the other kings, Mac Cecht and Mac Greine, killed Ith, leader of the expedition from Spain, so precipitating the invasion of the Milesians.

He was killed in battle with the Milesians.

Mac Cool<sup>2</sup> (see Finn mac Cool)

Mac Cuill (see Mac Cool.Mac Goill)

Mac Da Chearda (see Comgan)

Mac Da Tho Irish

[Mesgora Mac DaTho.Mesroda]

a king of Leinster

son of Da Tho

He was the owner of a hound called Ossar, a whelp of the Brown Mouse, and a famous boar and he agreed to sell the hound to both Ailill, king of Connaught, and Conor, king of Ulster, stipulating that they bring their armies with them and killing the boar to serve at a feast. The warriors Cet of Connaught and Connal of Ulster disputed the right to carve the boar and a quarrel broke out which resulted in the two kings going to war. In the ensuing battle, the forces of Connaught were defeated but Ailill's charioteer, Fear Logha, killed the hound so that Mac Da Tho was left with no boar, no hound and no payment – but he had saved his kingdom from the warring kings.

Some say that he was killed by Conall who crushed his brains and mixed the powder with lime to make the missile called the 'brain-ball'. In other accounts, it was the brain of Meas Geaghra that Conall used.

(see also Meas Geaghra)

Mac Eacht Irish

a warrior of Connaught

He killed Cuscraidh, the son of Conor mac Nessa, in a battle between Ulster and Connaught.

Mac Elathon Irish

a name of Ogma as 'son of knowledge'

Mac Erc Irish

a king of the Fir Bolgs

He was killed at the first Battle of Moytura.

Mac Giolla Ghunna Irish

an Ulster poet

Mac Glas Irish

a jester at the court of Ronan mac Colmain

Ronan ordered the death of his son,

Mael Fothartaig, believing he had raped his second wife. The warrior Aodan speared not only Mael but his friend Congall and Mac Glas.

Mac Goill Irish

[Mac Cuill]

a tyrant

He demanded proof of St Patrick's powers and the saint restored to life one of Mac Goill's servants who had just died.

Mac Greine Irish

[Mac Grene]

a Danaan king of Ireland

brother of Mac Cecht and Mac Cool

husband of Eire

He and the other kings, Mac Cecht and Mac Cool, killed Ith, leader of the expedition from Spain, so precipitating the invasion of the Milesians.

Mac Grene (see Mac Greine)

Mac ind Oc (see Angus Og)

Mac ind Og (see Angus Og)

Mac Liag Irish

a poet

When Flann's harper boasted about his master's knowledge, Mac Liag threatened to hang him but Flann arrived in time to prove what his harper had said was true and so saved his life.

(see also Muircheartach<sup>1</sup>)

Mac Lughach (see Gaoine)

Mac Mein Irish

the smallest warrior in the Fianna

Mac Mhaol Irish

a giant defeated by Cuchulainn

Mac Moineanta Irish

father of the gods in succession to the Dagda

father of the fairies

Some say that he became king of the fairies when Manannan went to Scotland but he was later deposed by Finn or Fionnbharr.

Mac Mong Ruadh Irish

[Macha of the Red Tresses]

an early queen of Ireland

an aspect of Morrigan (see also Macha)

Mac na Michomhairle Irish

a man who visited the Otherworld

Mac na Tri Con

(see Son of Three Dogs)

Mac Oc (see Angus Og)

Mac Og (see Angus Og)

Mac Riagla Irish

a voyager

He and Snedgus went on a voyage that took them to many wonderful places.

Mac Roth (see Fergus mac Roth)

Mac Suibhne Irish

a leader of the Mac Sweeney sept

He invited Feidlimidh Cam O Baoill to his home with the intention of killing him as part of a feud. Feidlimidh managed to escape from the house and Mac Suibhne died from his exertions in the pursuit of his intended victim who got away in a boat.

Mac Telene Irish

a boaster from Munster

He boasted that Munster was superior to Connaught and was required by the king, Guaire, to prove it. This he did by producing the jester Comgan who recited poetry, the bishop Moronoc who acted the fool and Cumane who sat on an egg without breaking it.

Mac y Leirr Manx

[Manannan Beg]

the Manx name for Manannan mac Lir

Macaire, Robert French

in the story of Aubry's Dog, he was the murderer of Aubry (see also Macharijs)

Macan Irish

[Macan:=Welsh Mabon]

a name for Angus Og

Macan Madungan East Indian

a Javanese monster

This beast was envisaged as a tiger with the soul of a man.

It is said that the soul can leave the body at night and become a tiger either as the result of magic or, in some cases, unknown to the sleeper.

Macaomh an Fhagain

(see Vagrant Youth)

Macaomh an Vaignis

(see Solitary Youth)

Macaomh Mor Irish

[Machaomh Mor]

a warrior of Leinster

When Conall Gulban carried off Eithne, daughter of the king of Leinster, Macaomh was sent in pursuit. He took Eithne as Conall slept and they went overseas. Conall eventually found them and defeated Macaomh but captured a Caledonian princess for him to compensate for the loss of Eithne.

Macar (see Macareus)

Macareus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Macar]

son of Aeolus and Enarete

father of Issa

He fathered Issa on his own sister, Canace, and committed suicide.

(see also Macareus<sup>2</sup>)

Macareus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Macar]

a king of Lesbos

son of Helius

He is sometimes identified with Macareus, son of Aeolus.

Macareus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Macar]
son of Lycaon

Macareus<sup>4</sup> Greek

a seaman with Odysseus

Macardit African

a Dinka deity of ill-fortune

Macaria Greek

daughter of Heracles and Deianeira sister of Cteissipus, Glenus, Hodites and Hylus

An oracle had demanded the sacrifice of one of the children of Heracles so she killed herself to save Attica from the invading forces of Eurystheus.

Macariel

a demon who carries secrets

Macaulay, Thomas English

(1800-1859)
a writer and historian

He wrote The Lays of Ancient Rome, Prophecy of Capys, etc.

Macaw South American

brother of Yurupary

His brother stole fire from the underworld and used it to kill Macaw.

Maccan (see Macan)

Maccha (see Macha)

mace<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

the weapon of Baal

(see Ayamur.Yagrush)

mace<sup>2</sup> Hindu

the weapon of Mahisha

Macnimartha Find Irish

an account of Finn mac Cool as a young man

Mach (see Macha.Morrigan)

Macha Irish

[Maccha.Mach:=Connaught Maev.Medb]

a war-goddess and fertility-goddess of Ulster

daughter of Aedh Ruadh, Ernmas,

Midir or Sainnith

wife of Kimbay

wife of Nemed or Nuada, some say

She appears as a prophetess, the wife of Nemed, in the early histories and later as the second wife of Nuada.

As a war-goddess she, with Ana and Babd, made a trinity that equated with the goddess Morrigan.

The throne of Ulster should have been shared between Aedh's brothers, Dithorba and Kimbay but when Aedh died Macha killed Dithorba, forcibly married Kimbay and took the throne herself. She captured and imprisoned the five sons of Dithorba and forced them to build the walls of the fortress Emain Macha.

In some accounts, she was the sister of Dithorba and Kimbay, rather than their niece, and was killed by Balor. In those versions where Macha was the wife of Nuada, it was she who was killed by Balor.

She appeared mysteriously in the home of Crundchu and became his mistress. When he boasted that she could run faster than the king's horses, she was forced into a race although heavily pregnant at the time. She won the race but gave birth to twins on the spot. She cursed the men of Ulster so that when they most needed their strength to fight they would, for five days and four nights, become as weak as a woman in labour.

In some accounts, she was killed with Nuada at the Second Battle of Moytura, in others she was killed by the usurper, Reachtaidh.

In some accounts, the mortal Macha, wife of Crundchu, is a different being from the goddess Macha.

(see also Debility of the Ultonians.Mac Mong Ruadh)

Macha of the Red Tresses

(see Mac Mong Ruadh)

Machai Greek

a deity, battle personified

offspring of Eris (see also Hyiminai)

Machanu Thai

a god, guardian of a lake in Patal

Machanu is described as being half god, half fish, and his role is to supervise the souls of the dead who must cross his lake to enter the underworld realm of Patal.

Machaomh Mor (see Macaomh Mor)

Machaon Greek

['warrior']

a physician to the Greek army at

Troy

son of Asclepius and Epione

brother of Hygeia, Panacea and Podaleirius

husband of Anticleia

father of Alexanor, Gorgasus

and Nichomachus

He healed the wound that had caused Philoctetes to be abandoned on Lemnos enabling him to take part in the battle for Troy. He was killed by Eurypilus or Penthesilea or, some say, by Paris.

Macharijs European

[Macaire]

an adviser at Charlemagne's court

He lusted after Sibilla, wife of Charlemagne, and, when she was found in bed with a dwarf, recommended that she be banished rather than burnt at the stake. She was escorted to the frontier by Auborijn, but Macharijs followed them and attacked their party, killing Auberijn, though Sibilla managed to escape his clutches. The murdered man's dog conveyed the news of his master's death and the identity of his killer to Charlemagne and later attacked Macharijs.

This tale is retold as the story of Aubry's dog, Dragon.

In another version, in which the queen is referred to as Blanchefleur and he is Macaire, he tried to seduce the queen but failed. He incited the dwarf to do what he had failed to do and then threw the dwarf into the fire to prevent him from talking.

(see also Macaire)

machasacoins Irish

a name for the heads of warriors

who were killed in battle and decapitated

Machenti-irti (see Khenti-irti)

machi South American

[=Guarani piá]

shamans of the Araucanian tribes

Machi-pal Lha-mo Tibetan

a Buddhist goddess

chief of the Long-Life Sisters,

some say

Machimos Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Machimos, tore him to pieces.

Machorell Norse

a king of Syria

father of Sidrat

Mackinely (see Cian<sup>3</sup>)

Mackinly (see Cian<sup>3</sup>)

Mackonaima (see Makanaima)

Macnia Irish

a king of Munster

Both he and Conaing were deposed by Eoghan Mor and went to the high-king for help. Conn gave him one of his daughters as a wife and forces with which to fight Eoghan. When they met the usurper in battle, Eoghan was defeated and fled to Spain. He later returned at the head of a Spanish army and Macnia submitted to his rule.

Macpherson, James Scottish

(1736-1796)

a Scottish poet

He was the author of several works on Celtic mythology, purporting to be translations of the poems of Ossian. In fact, they were his own work.

Macris Greek

a nurse of Dionysus daughter of Aristaeus and Autonoe
sister of Actaeon

In some accounts, she was the nurse of Hera, in others one of the Nysaeon nymphs who reared Dionysus.

Macsen Welsh

[Macsen Wledig.Magnus Maximus.Maxen. Maximian(us)]
king of Britain emperor of Rome
husband of Elen
father of Constantine and Sevira

As emperor of Rome, he dreamed of a beautiful maiden in a castle built on an island and became convinced that she was real so he sent out emissaries to find her. She was Elen, daughter of Eudaf, but she refused to leave her home so Macsen came to Britain and married her. After seven years, he and Elen took an army and recaptured Rome. Her brothers Cynan and Gadeon, who had helped her, were given the land of Armorica and established the Breton race.

In an alternative story he fought Conan for the hand of the daughter of King Octavius, who some equate with Eudaf, but, having married her, joined forces with Conan and conquered Armorica.

Macsen Wledig (see Macsen)

mactimanelo North American

an evil demon of the Shawnee

Macuilxochitl Central American

a god of dance and games
a name of Xochipilli as 'Five Flower' brother of Ixtilton, some say

macumba South American magic rituals of some Brazilian tribes

Mad Healer (see Chi Kung)

Mada<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a name of Varuni as 'intoxication'
She was opposed by one of the Matrikas, Brahmani.

Mada<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a monster

This monster, created by Chyavana, threatened to devour Indra and released him only when he allowed the Aswins to participate in the soma ceremony.

madabi

a form of sympathetic magic

Madaglan British

a relative of Guinevere

In some stories, Guinevere was said to have died before King Arthur and Madaglan claimed the Round Table which had originally been in her family. Alternatively, he said, the king should marry Madaglan's sister. On both counts, Arthur refused and Lancelot defeated the claimant in single combat.

Madali Wi-hsa-kyuna Burmese

a powerful nat

Madame Lady

(see Nai-nai-niang-niang)

Madame Wind (see Feng-p'o-p'o)

Madan<sup>1</sup> British

a king of Bulgaria in Arthurian lore

Madan<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a spirit which helps magicians

It is this spirit which enables magicians to raise seemingly impossible weights and to rise in the air.

He is envisaged as strong-bodied and covered with hair.

Madan<sup>3</sup> (see Maddan)

Madavi Hindu

wife of Bharata

Madawc (see Madawg.Madog)

Madawg<sup>1</sup> Welsh

[Madawc.Madoc.Maduc]
a chief of Powys
son of Maredudd
brother of Iorwerth

His brother, aggrieved at the disparity between his lowly rank and Madawg's chieftainship, rejected offers made by Madawg and raided England, causing much damage. Madawg raised an army to hunt him down. One of the soldiers in that army was Rhonabwy.

Madawg<sup>2</sup> Welsh

[Madawc.Madoc.Maduc]
son of Teithion

He was killed by the boar Twrch Trwyth.

Madawg<sup>3</sup> Welsh

[Madawc.Madoc.Maduc]
son of Twrgadarn
a forester with King Arthur

Madawg<sup>4</sup> Welsh

[Madawc.Madoc.Maduc]
son of Uther
father of Eliwlod

Madawg<sup>5</sup> Welsh

[Madawc.Madoc.Maduc]
a legendary prince, said to have discovered America in 1170
son of Owain Gwynedd

Madawg<sup>6</sup> (see Madog Morfryn)

Madb (see Mab.Maev)

Maddan British

[Madan.Maddon]
son of Locrinus and Gwendolen
father of Mempirc

When his mother abdicated as queen of England she handed the throne to Maddan.

Maddon (see Maddan)

Madderakka (see Mader Akka)

Madeleine West Indian

[Maitresse Madeleine]
a female Haitian voodoo spirit

Mader Akka Baltic

[Madderakka]
a Lappish creator-goddess wife of Mader Atcha mother of Sarakka

Mader Atcha Lapp

a creator-god
husband of Mader Akka
father of Sarakka

Madhava Hindu

a name for Krishna as the god of spring: a name for Indra, Krishna and Vishnu as 'nectar-born'

Mahdhavi Hindu

an earth-goddess

Madhu Hindu

a demon

He was born, with Kaitabha, from the ear of Vishnu. When they attacked the sleeping Brahma and, some say, stole the Vedas, Vishnu killed them both and Brahma used their bodies to build the world.

Madhukara Buddhist

[=Hindu Kama]
a love-god

He is depicted in a chariot drawn by parrots.

Madhupamanjari Hindu

a heroine in a Cinderella-type story

Madhupriya Hindu

a name for Balarama as 'friend of wine'

Madim

[Madime]
a demon associated with the planet
Mars and Tuesday

Madlebe African

a Swazi hero-king
brother of Madlisa

It was said that Madlebe was born wearing a bracelet that cried out whenever the boy wept, when his tears were of blood. When he broke a pot he had been forbidden to touch, his father sent him to be executed but a thunderstorm frightened the executioner who let the boy escape. He returned on the death of his father and became king.

Madness of Merlin English

an unfinished drama in verse by R. L. Binyon, published in 1947

Madoc *(see Madawg.Madog)Madog Morfryn Welsh

[Madawg.Madoc]

father of Merlin in some accounts

(see also Morgan Frych)

Mador British

a Knight of the Round Table

son of the king of the Hesperides,

some say

cousin of Patrise

At a dinner given by Guinevere for twenty-four of her knights, Pinel placed a poisoned apple on the table, meant for Gawain, who had killed Pinel's cousin, Lamerock. By mistake, Patrise ate the apple and fell dead on the spot. Mador accused Guinevere of the murder. Lancelot took up the cause on behalf of the queen and defeated Mador in single combat. The queen, saved from the stake, forgave Orlando and persuaded Merlin to put a spell on him.

Madri<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

wife of Kessantara

Madri<sup>2</sup> Hindu

second wife of Pandu

mother of Nakula and Sahadeva

Her husband refused to sleep with her because of a curse placed on him but she received, as a gift from Kunti, Pandu's other wife, the power to conceive by praying to a god. She prayed to the Aswins and bore twin boys, Nakula and Sahadeva.

Madrid Codex Central American

[Troano Codex]

a manuscript source of Mayan legend and culture

Maduc *(see Madawg.Madog)Madumba North American

a creator-god of the Pomo tribe

brother of Coyote, some say

mae de santo South American

[male=pai de santo=Yoruba iyalarisha]

a priestess in Brazil

Mael

an angel of the first heaven, associated with the north

Mael Duin *(see Maeldun)Mael Dunn *(see Maeldun)Mael Fothartaig Irish

[Mail Fothartaig.Maol Fhothartaigh]

a Leinster hero

son of Ronan mac Colmain and Eithne

When Eithne died, Ronan married a younger woman who fell in love with Mael. To avoid conflict, Mael went to Scotland for a time, hunting with his dogs Dartenn and Dailin, but when he returned, the queen made further advances. His foster-brother, Congall, tried to help, by arranging a tryst for the queen with Mael and keeping the assignation himself, threatening to tell the king of her infidelity. Frustrated, she accused Mael of rape and Ronan had his son put to death by the warrior Aodan who also killed Congall when he protested. When the truth came out, Ronan died of grief and his wife poisoned herself. In another version, Mael's sons avenged his death by killing Aodan.

Mael Ruain *(see St Mael Ruain)Maelcen Irish

a druid

Cormac mac Airt tried to suppress druidism so Maelcen used his powers to cause a fishbone to lodge in Cormac's throat and the king choked to death.

Maeldun Irish

[Mael Duin.Mael Dunn.Maeldune.

Mail Duin.Maol Duin.Maildun]

a hero-voyager

a lord of Aran island

son of Ailill Agach and a nun

When he grew up he learned that his father had been murdered by men from Leix, or men from the Laighis sept, and set out to avenge his death. He built a coracle for the seventeen who were to go with him but three others, his foster-brothers, insisted on going as well. In some versions, he was accompanied by sixty men.

He travelled far and wide seeking the killers, regaining his youth by bathing in a lake. They had many strange adventures and called at many islands, such as the Island of Apples, the Island of Women where they stayed for many months, the Island of the Eagle and the Island of the Laughing People. They saw strange animals such as the beast that turned itself round inside its own skin and another which sat in a tree and ate the cattle which grazed below. When he eventually found the murderers he forgave them.

Maeldune *(see Maeldun)Maelere East Indian

a sun-god

father of Eau and Havoia

Maelgan *(see Maelgwn)Maelgwn Welsh

[Maelgan.Maelgwyn.Melchinus.Melkin]

a king of Gwynedd

son of Clutarius

father of Rhun

father of Bridei, in some accounts

He imprisoned his nephew, Elphin, until he could prove his boast that his wife was the most virtuous of women and his bard, Taliesin, was the best in the land.

He sent his son Rhun to test the lady's virtue but she changed roles with a servant and deceived him. Taliesin raised a storm that shook Maelgwn's castle and freed Elphin. In other accounts, this story involved King Arthur, not Maelgwn.

In some accounts, he is equated with Melchinus, the prophet.

Maelgwyn *(see Maelgwn)Maelid Greek

an apple-nymph

Maelodran Irish

[Maolodhran]

a Leinster hero

He was attacked by the three sons of Diarmaid the high-king, or, in some accounts, by two sons of Blathmac the joint-ruler, and was wounded. He managed to drive his attackers into a mill-pond and started up the mill so that they were crushed to death by the wheel. These sons were known as Conall and Dunchadh and, where there were three, Maolodhar.

He married the daughter of a sub-king, Aitheachda, but she betrayed him to his enemies who surrounded the hut where she and Maelodran slept. He escaped wearing his wife's clothes while she was killed. To avenge his daughter, Aitheachda had his son-in-law blinded with hot coals and then killed him with Maelodran's own magic spear. It was said that the dead hero reappeared a year later and used the same spear to kill his murderer.

Maen Arthur British

a rock in Wales said to retain the imprint of the hoof of King

Arthur's horse

Maen Dylan Welsh

[Stone of Dylan]

a stone off the coast of Gwynedd, said to be the site of Dylan's grave

maenades *(see bacchantes)maenads *(see bacchantes)Maenalian Hind *(see Ceryneian Hind)Maenam *(see Menam)Maenawr Penardd Welsh

the magician-king of Arvon

He had a sow which ate carrion and was said to be Ceridwen in disguise. She was the only one immune to his magic.

Maeon Greek

son of Hemon
He led a party of fifty men to ambush Tydeus. The intended victim killed all except Maeon.

Maer Irish

a woman who fell in love with Finn mac Cool
She sent him some nuts that contained a love-potion but Finn, guessing what was afoot, would not eat them.

Maera Greek

[Canis Minor.Moera]
a dog of Icarus

When Hecuba tore out the eyes of Polymestor, king of Thrace, and killed his two sons, she turned herself into a bitch to escape the wrath of the king's subjects and jumped into the sea.

She led Erigone to the grave where Icarus had been buried by the shepherds who had killed him and here Erigone hanged herself.

Maes Gwyddno (see Cantré'r Gwaelod)Maesk North American

a dog
This dog, owned by the youngest brother of Rhipisunt, was instrumental in finding her when she was abducted by a bear.

Maestra Greek

daughter of Erysichthon
Demeter punished Erysichthon for cutting down trees in her sacred grove, causing him to have an insatiable hunger. After selling all his possessions for food, he finally sold his own daughter. In some accounts, Poseidon enabled her to escape from her purchasers only for her to be sold again and again by her father. In other accounts, Poseidon changed her into various animals which collected food for her father, who, in the end, ate himself.

Maet (see Ma<sup>3</sup>)Maev Irish

[Madb.Maeve.Me(a)dhbh(a).Medb.
Queen Maeve]
a mother-goddess
queen of Connaught
daughter of Eochaid Feidhleach and Clothfhionn sister of Clothra, Eithne, Mughain and the Finn Eamhna wife of Ailill mac Mata and Conor mac Nessa mother of Findbhair, the Maini and Orlam

She was the first wife of Conor mac Nessa but left him and returned to her father at Tara. She later married Ailill, king of Connaught, but only after other marriages to Tinne and Eochaid Dala.

She coveted the Brown Bull of Cooley and Ailill, her husband, led an expedition into Ulster to seize it. The bull was captured but Cuchulainn inflicted defeat on her army and she swore revenge. She invaded seven years later with another army, aided by the Children of Catalin who conjured up phantom battalions to harass the Ulstermen.

She was killed by Furbaidhe, a son of Conor mac Nessa and Clothra, Maev's sister, who shot her with a piece of hard cheese from his sling.

Maeve (see Maev)Mafdet Egyptian

[Lady of the Castle of Life]
a goddess who protects man from scorpions and snakes

She is depicted as a panther or lynx.

Mafuike (see Mahuika<sup>2</sup>)Mag Da Cheo Irish

[Magh Da Cheo.Plain of Two Mists]
part of the Otherworld

Mag Indoc Irish

[Magh Indoc.Plain of Indoc]
the plain where Cuchulainn asked the high-king to assist him in converting to Christianity

Mag mBrag Irish

[Mag(h) mBreg]
part of the Otherworld

Mag mBreg (see Mag mBrag)Mag Mel (see Mag Mell)Mag Meld (see Mag Mell)Mag Mell Irish

[Field of Happiness.Mag Mel(d).
Magh Me(a)ll.The Pleasant Plain]
part of the Otherworld

Part of the Western Paradise ruled by Labraid Luathlam.

Mag Mor Irish

[Magh Mor.The Great Plain]
a part of the Otherworld
land of the gods, some say

Mag Nuadat (see Eoghan Mor)Mag Nuadhat (see Eoghan Mor)Mag Rein Irish

[Magh Rein]
a part of the Otherworld

Mag Sleacht (see Moyslaught)Mag Slecht (see Moyslaught)Mag Tuired (see Moytura)Maga<sup>1</sup> Irish

daughter of Angus Og wife of Ross the Red mother of Fachna

After the death of Ross, she married the druid Cathbad and bore three children, Dectera, Elva and Finchoom.

Maga<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Maghach]
father of Anluan and Cet

maga-tsumi Japanese

evil spirits controlled by Susanowa

Magan (see Kur-nu-gi-a)Magaera Greek

one of the 3 Furies

Magarac, Joe North American

a hero in the Paul Bunyan mould
This seven foot man was made of steel and could make girders by squeezing molten steel between his fingers, making four with each hand.

Magar (see Sin<sup>4</sup>)Magari (see Min Magaye)magatama Japanese

sacred stones

These are pea-shaped pieces of semi-precious stone (agate, jasper, etc.) used in Shinto rites.

Magatsumi Japanese

evil spirits from the underworld

The damage these demons cause is put right by the Naobi.

magba African priests of Shango

Magdelona French

daughter of the king of Naples

She fell in love with Pierre of Provence and they eloped together. A raven seized her jewel-bag and dropped it in the sea and Pierre nearly lost his life in trying to retrieve it. She was asleep at the time and, when she awoke and found Pierre missing, she assumed that he had deserted her. She then sailed to Provence where she established a hospital for the poor and sick on a small island. Here, years later, she was re-united with Pierre who had been saved from the sea by pirates who sold him to a sultan who later set him free and gave him much wealth.

mage (see magus)maggot

an evil being which eats the brain, causing madness

Magh (see Mag)Magh Slecht (see Moyslaught)Magh Tuireadh (see Moytura)Magha Hindu

a goddess of fortune
one of the naksatras
daughter of Daksha
wife of Candra

Maghach (see Maga)

MagheghAfrican*

a Tuareg jinnee who impregnated 7 virgins

His unions resulted in seven sons and he taught them all the skills they would need when they became the founders of seven clans.

magi (see magus)

Magia Italian

magic: enchantment: the evil eye

(see also jettatura) magian (see magus)

magianism

[magism]

Eastern sorcery

magic

[black art.necromancy:=Hindu

abhicara.Indra-jala.maya]

sorcery: apparent miracles produced by harnessing spirits or natural forces

Magic is classified broadly as black magic (involving the Devil), red magic (involving bloody, diabolic practices) and white magic (beneficial magic).

Magic Breath (see Breath of Love)

magic bricks Egyptian

inscribed mud bricks, placed one on each side of a tomb, to protect the dead from evil

magic carpet

a miraculous form of air transport which would carry its rider wherever he wished to go

One such carpet was that used by Solomon which carried his throne and all his entourage. Another was owned by Housain and appears in The Arabian Nights.

Magic Flute (see Golden Flute)

Magic Lay of Groa-Galdur, The

(see Groa-Galdur)

magic square

[zahlenquadrat]

a matrix of numbers that total the same when added horizontally, vertically or diagonally

This form was used by Jews as an amulet in mediaeval times.

magical birth

[miraculous birth]

many cultures have stories of women bearing children after being impregnated by some magical occurrence

Stories report conception as a result of consuming various foods or drinks; being exposed to sunlight or wind; or from rain, tears, mucus, etc.

(1) In China, it was said that Yüan Shih was born through the spine of a hermit.

(2) In Finnish lore, Marjatta was impregnated after eating a cranberry; Vainamoinen was so long in the womb that he was an old man when he was born.

(3) The Greeks have stories of the impregnation of Danae by Zeus in the form of a shower of gold; of Hera bearing Ares after picking a flower and Hebe from a lettuce leaf; of Leto bearing Castor and Polydeuces after an encounter with Zeus in the form of a swan; of Pasiphae bearing the Minotaur, fathered by a bull. Athena was born from the head of Zeus and Dionysus from his thigh.

(4) In Hindu lore, Yuvanasva, a man bore a son from his side after drinking a potion; Brahma was born from Vishnu's navel; Kadru and Kaitabha were born from Vishnu's ear; Manjushri was born from the pistil of the lotus.

(5) The Irish say that Deicta produced Setanta (later, the hero Cuchulainn) as a result of swallowing a mayfly (the god Lugh in another form); Etain was turned into a butterfly by her husband's discarded first wife and later fell into a cup of tea which was drunk by the wife of Etar, king of Ulster who, in due course, produced a child, the reincarnated Etain.

(6) In the Marshall Islands, Loa gave birth to Lejman and Wulleb from his leg and Wulleb similarly produced Edao and Jemaliwut.

(7) Norse myths include the story of Heimdall said to have been fathered by Odin on the nine Wave Maidens who simultaneously gave birth to the boy.

(8) In North American lore, the Navaho goddess Nao'tsiti was impregnated by the rainbow; Kukitak was born from his brother's shoulder; Malsum was born from his mother's armpit.

(9) Persian lore refers to Mithra having been born, fully-formed, from a rock.

(10) In South American myth, Coatlicue was impregnated by a ball of down or feathers; Chalchihuitlicue produced Quetzalcoatl after contact with a piece of jade; Xquiq became pregnant when the severed head of Hunhunapu spat into her hand; a medicine-man, Maira-pochy, impregnated a maiden by giving her fish.

magician<sup>1</sup>

one who works wonders

Magician<sup>2</sup> (see Hunapu)

Magician<sup>3</sup> (see Man Maker)

magicism

a magical act

Magig Pacific Islands

in the Pelew Islands flood myths, one of the survivors

The other survivor was Kitimil.

magism (see magianism)

magistellus

an incubus or a succubus in intimate relationship to a witch

(see also familiae)

Maglawa

Pacific Islands

the underworld in the Philippines: the ancestral soul (see also Gimokodan)

Maglore

European

in some French stories, a companion of Morgan le Fay

Magna Mater

Roman

[=Phrygian Cybele.Great Mother:

=Greek Rhea]

a mother-goddess

This deity is represented in Rome by a black meteoric stone.

Magne

(see Magni)

Magnes<sup>1</sup>

Greek

son of Zeus by Thyia

father of Hymenaeus, in some accounts

Magnes<sup>2</sup>

Greek

son of Aeolus

father of Dictys and Polydectes by a nymph

Magnesian mares

Greek

a group of mares in Magnesia, Thessaly mothers of the Centaurs, some say

In some accounts, Ixion fathered the Centaurs on Nephele but others say that their son, Centaurus, fathered them on these mares.

magnetic mountain

a mountain which drew the nails from passing ships

Magni

Norse

[Magne.'strength']

son of Thor and larnsaxa

brother of Modi

When Thor killed the giant Hrungnir, he was struck by a fragment of flint from the giant's club and fell to the ground where he was pinned helpless by one of the giant's legs. Magni, said to be only three days (or years) old at that time, easily moved the leg and freed his father who gave him the giant's horse, Gullfaxi, as a reward.

He and Modi both survived Ragnarok.

- Magnimartha Finn Irish
the story of the early years of Finn mac Cool
- Magnum European
a name sometimes used by Charlemagne
- Magnus Maximus (see Macsen)
- Magot
a demon
- Magog<sup>1</sup> British
the last survivor, with Gog, of an ancient race of British giants
Some say he was the son of Japhet.
(see also Gog and Magog)
- Magog<sup>2</sup> (see Cessair)
- Magora Japanese
a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu
- magpie
a bird with black and white plumage and a long tail
(1) The Bible story says that this bird was excluded from the ark because it chattered so much and was forced to ride on the roof.
(2) In China the magpie is used as the imperial emblem. It is regarded as the bringer of good news and, accordingly, is known as the Bird of Joy. (see also Magpie Bridge)
(3) In Rome the magpie was regarded as the bird of Mars.
(see also Picus)
- Magpie Bridge Chinese a bridge in the heavens crossing over the Milky Way and linking Aquila and Lyra
In some accounts, a flock of magpies formed a bridge over a river (the Milky Way) to enable the lovers Ch'ien Niu and Chih Nü to meet once a year.
(see also Hikoboshi.Tanabata)
- Magombe African
the realm of the dead in the lore of some Ugandan tribes
- magucan North American [mukucan]
a feast to propitiate the bear spirits of the tribes of Labrador
- Magula-Anna (see Sin<sup>4</sup>)
- magus<sup>1</sup> Persian [mage.magian: plur=magi]
a Zoroastrian priest, sage or sorcerer:
a Brahmin
- Magus<sup>2</sup> Slav
a magic golden-maned horse
- Magus<sup>3</sup>
a talisman said to bring good luck
It contains parts of verses from Genesis and images of creation.
- Magus of Utgard (see Utgard-Loki)
- Magus, Simon Canaanite
a sorcerer
He was the antagonist of St Peter. He flew above Rome and broke his leg when he fell in answer to Peter's prayers.
- Mah<sup>1</sup> Persian
a moon goddess, one of the Yazatas
- Mah<sup>2</sup> Persian
a fish which supports the universe
- Mah<sup>3</sup> (see Makh.Mami)
- Mah Sish North American
a Mandan deity, spirit of the war-eagle
- Maha-ben-ach
an ancient Eastern sun-god
- Maha Bherava (see Bherava)
- Maha-Ganapati Hindu
a form of Ganesha with 10 arms
- Maha Gita Medani Burmese
a collection of stories about Burmese demons known as nats
- Maha-kala<sup>1</sup> Hindu
one of the 7 realms of hell
- Maha-kala<sup>2</sup> (see Mahakala<sup>3</sup>)
- Maha-pudiva Hindu
the elephant standing on the back of the tortoise, Chukwa, which supports the earth
- Maha-raurava Hindu
one of the 7 realms of hell
- maha-yuga (see mahaiuga)
- Mahabala Buddhist
a fearsome god
an aspect of Amitabha
one of the dikpalas
He is the guardian of the north-western corner of the world.
- Mahabali (see Bali<sup>1</sup>)
- Mahabharata Hindu
[=Javanese B(ha)ratayuda:=Malay Hikayat Pandawa Jaya]
a sacred book, an epic poem in 18 volumes, 100,000 verses
An epic covering the Vedic myths including the exploits of Krishna, as the eighth avatar of Vishnu. It deals largely with the battle between the Kauravas and the five Pandava brothers.
It is said to have been dictated by the sage Vyasu to Ganesha who wrote it down.
- Mahabja Hindu
a snake-god
one of the 7 mahanagas
- Mahacabatara Pacific Islands
a name for Siwa in the Philippines
- Mahacinatara<sup>1</sup> Tibetan
a Buddhist goddess
an aspect of Akshobhya
- Mahacinatara<sup>2</sup> Tibetan
a fearsome Lamaist goddess
as aspect of Ekajata
- Mahacutah (see Mahucutah)
- Mahadar Hindu
queen of Shambhara
- Mahadeo Hindu
a name of Shiva as the supreme deity in Northern India
- Mahadeva Hindu
[Great God]
an aspect of Shiva with 3 heads a name for Agni, Brahma, Rudra, Surya, Vayu, Vishnu and other major gods
- Mahadevi Hindu
[Great Goddess]
a name for Ambika, Canda, Durga, Kali, Parvati, Uma and other important goddesses
a name for Devi
Mahadevi was created by the gods who gave the pre-existing Devi something of their own energy, making a visible and powerful deity capable of defeating the demons, enemies of the gods. They also gave her weapons and a lion to ride on and, as Canda, she rode to do battle with the demons. After killing Chiksura and other leaders and hordes of their followers, she met their supreme leader, the huge buffalo, Mahisha. When she caught him in a noose, he became a lion; when she killed the lion, he became a warrior; she killed him, only to find that he had become a mad elephant and, when she cut off the animal's trunk, the demon became the huge buffalo again. Mahadevi (Canda) cut off his head, finally killing him.
When two other demons, Nishumbha and Shumbha, challenged the gods, she returned, this time as Kali (or Durga). She killed Nishumbha and felled Shumbha but contact with the earth re-invigorated him. Locked in battle, he carried her into the sky but she escaped, threw him down to earth and killed him with her arrows and lance.
- Mahadewa (see Waruna)
- Mahaf Egyptian
[Greek Charon:=East Indian Tempon Talon:= Roman Charun:=Mesopotamian Arad Ea]
a ferryman in the underworld
He steers the boat (meseket) which carries Ra back to the east each night ready for his next trip across the heavens. (see also Turnface)
- Mahagiri (see Min Magaye)
- Mahaiswara (see Karaeng Lowe)

Mahaitiac North American
in the lore of the Hidatsa, a bird which changed into a man
He and Tsakakaitiac, another bird/man, had supernatural powers which they used for the benefit of the tribe, becoming great heroes.

Mahaka Daikoku Japanese
Daikoku depicted as a woman sitting down with a bale of rice on her head

Mahakala<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [=Tibetan Gon-Po Nag-Po.Mgon-po]
the fearsome Buddhist god of protection, tents and wealth
one of the 8 dharmapalas
He is depicted standing on the body of a man or god. (see also Yeces mGon-po)

Mahakala<sup>2</sup> Hindu
an aspect of Shiva
In this form, a violent side of Shiva, his sakti is Mahakali. He is depicted as three-eyed and riding a lion.
(see also Bhairava<sup>2</sup>)

Mahakala<sup>3</sup> Hindu
the male aspect of Kali

Mahakala<sup>4</sup> Hindu
one of the regions of the hell, Naraka

Mahakala<sup>5</sup> Jain
gods of the underworld
These beings torture the wicked dead by tearing out lumps of their flesh.

Mahakala<sup>6</sup> Japanese [Mahakara]
a name for Shiva as the god of time

Mahakala<sup>7</sup> (see Drag-shed)

Mahakali<sup>1</sup> Hindu
an aspect of Kali
sakti of Mahakala

Mahakali<sup>2</sup> Jain
a goddess of learning
one of the 16 vidyadevis

Mahakapi Buddhist
an early incarnation of Buddha
In this form, Buddha is depicted as an ape.

Mahakara (see Mahakala<sup>6</sup>)

Mahakara Daikoku Japanese
Daikoku with the Wheel of Law
(see Yasha Daikoku)

Mahakasyapa (see Kasyapa)

Mahalakshmi (see Lakshmi)

Mahalbiya African
a Hausa spirit which causes sores

Mahamai Hindu
a goddess of healing
one of the 6 sisters of Shitala
(see also Shitala)

Mahamanasika Jain
a goddess of learning
one of the 16 vidyadevis

Mahamantranusarini Buddhist
a protective goddess

one of the 5 Pancharakshas
She is the guardian of one of the quarters of the world (east) and uses her magic to protect from diseases.

Mahamari Hindu
a name for Durga or Kali as 'great killer'

Mahamataras Hindu
the goddesses acting as saktis of Shiva in his various aspects

Mahamaya<sup>1</sup> Hindu
a king of Atala, part of the underworld

Mahamaya<sup>2</sup> Tibetan
one of the Yi-dam

Mahamaya<sup>3</sup> (see Maya<sup>2</sup>)

Mahamayuri Buddhist
[Great Peacock Lady:=Japanese Kujaku-myoo]
an aspect of Amoghasiddhi
a female bodhisattva
one of the 5 Pancharakshas
She is depicted as having three eyes and three or four heads, guards the northern quarter and protects against snake-bite.

Mahameru East Indian
in Javanese lore, the home of the gods (see also Mount Meru)

mahan<sup>1</sup> (see buddhi<sup>1</sup>)

Mahan<sup>2</sup> (see Kur-mi-gi-a)

Mahanaga Hindu
a snake-god

Mahapadma Hindu
a snake-god
He is depicted as having three eyes.

Mahapancharaja Tibetan [sKu-ina-rgyal-po.Ku-nga-gyal-po]
any one of the Five Great Kings of Tibetan Buddhism
These beings were astrologers and magicians, worshipped as deities controlling various attributes; Bihar (deeds), Chos-skyon (magic), dGra-lha (body), Klu-dban (speech) and Thok-chho (accomplishment).
They were also known as the Panchamaharajas when their names were gSun-gi-rgyal (speech), Prin-las-gyi-rgyal-po (magic), sKui-rgyal-po (body), Tsun-gyi-rgyal-po (accomplishments) and Yon-tan-rgyal-po (deeds).

Mahaparinirvanamurti Buddhist
a representation of the Buddha reclining in paradise

Mahaprabhu Indian
a local god of the Bondo people

Mahaprajapati Indian
an aunt who reared the Buddha

Mahapralaya Hindu
[Great Cataclysm]
the dissolution of the universe at the end of each period of 100 years in the life of Brahma

Mahapratishara Buddhist
a goddess
one of the Pancharakshas
She is the three-headed guardian of the southern quarter of the world who guards against physical danger and sin.

Mahapratyangira Buddhist
a goddess
an aspect of Akshobhya

Mahapurusha Hindu
a name for Buddha, Vishnu and others as 'great man'

Maharaja<sup>1</sup> Buddhist a high priest in Tibet

Maharaja<sup>2</sup> Hindu
a leader of the Vallabha sect regarded as an incarnation of Vishnu

Maharaksa (see Pancharaksha)

Maharatha Hindu
a king
father of Mahasattva

Maharatri Buddhist [Kamala.Padma]
a goddess

Mahaurava Hindu
one of the regions of the hell, Naraka

Maharjika Hindu
one of a group of minor deities: a type of Gana

maharishi (see rishi)

Maharudra (see Rudra<sup>2</sup>)

Mahasahapramardani Buddhist
a goddess
an aspect of Vairocana
one of the Pancharakshas
She is guardian of the centre of the world and protects from earthquakes and storms.

Mahasarasvati<sup>1</sup> Buddhist
an aspect of Sarasvati

Mahasarasvati<sup>2</sup> Hindu
an aspect of Lakshmi

Mahasattva Hindu
son of Maharatha
His compassion was aroused when he came across a starving tiger, too weak to feed her two cubs, so he killed himself so that they could eat.

Mahasena Hindu
a name for Karttikeya as 'captain'

Mahasiddha Buddhist [=Tibetan Grub-chen]
a great sorcerer, one of 84 such beings
They were said to be able to perform supernatural feats such as flying like birds.

Mahasitavati Buddhist
a goddess
one of the Pancharakshas

an aspect of Amitabha
She is sometimes depicted with three heads and three eyes and is the guardian of the south who protects from wild animals.

Mahashivaratri Hindu

[Great Night of Lord Shiva]
a festival in honour of Shiva, held in January/February

Mahasritara Buddhist

a goddess
an aspect of Amoghasiddhi

Mahasthama Buddhist

[Mahasthamaprata:=Chinese Ta-shih-che]
a god of wisdom
one of the bodhisattvas

He and Avalokiteshvara occupy thrones in Amitabha's heaven.

Mahasthamaprata (see Mahasthama)

Mahasukha Buddhist

eternal bliss (see also Nirvana)

mahat (see buddhi)

Mahatala<sup>1</sup> East Indian

[Mahatara.Sangiang Dewata:=Hindu Shiva]

a creator-god of the Dayaks
father of Jata and the Satang goddesses

Mahatala<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of the realms of Patala, the home of monsters

Mahatara (see Mahatala<sup>1</sup>)

mahatma Hindu

a holy sage (see also rishi)

Mahatuma Jain

the lowest of the 7 hells

Mahavairocana

(see Dainichi.Vairocana)

Mahavairochana

(see Dainichi.Vairocana)

Mahavidya<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a group of 10 goddesses
saktis of Shiva

Mahavidya<sup>2</sup> (see Janguli)

Mahavira Jain

[Nigantha Nataputta.Siddharta(h)a. Siddharta(h)a.The Naked Ascetic. Vardhamana]
(c. 540-468 BC)

last of the 24 Tirthankaras

founder of Jainism

son of Rishabhadata and Devananda

husband of Yasoda

father of Riyadarshana

On the orders of Sakra, he was transferred before birth from the womb of Devananda to that of Trishala. He was originally called Vardhamana but became known as Mahavira, 'great hero', when he overpowered and killed a mad elephant or a serpent while still a child. After the death of his parents, he became, at the age of thirty or thirty-two, an itinerant naked ascetic preaching the prohibition of killing. He died by fasting to death after preaching for about thirty years. In some accounts, his death is dated at 526 BC.

Mahayasa Buddhist

a goddess attendant on Buddhakapala

Mahayogi East Indian

[Siwa Mahayogi]

a name for Shiva as the Great Ascetic

Mahayuga Hindu

[Maha-yuga]

a time period

1,000th of a kalpa

This period covers four yugas, totalling 10,000 or 12,000 divine years.

In this system, where a divine year equals 360 human years, a mahayuga is 4,320,000 years. 1,000 such cycles is a day of Brahma, a kalpa, lasting 4,320,000,000 human years or, including a night and day of Brahma, twice this period.

Mahdu Hindu

a demon

He was born, with Kaitabha, from the ear of Vishnu. When they attacked the sleeping Brahma, Vishnu killed them both.

Mahendra<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a 2nd c BC emperor of India

son of Ashoka

brother of Mahinda and Sanghamitta

Mahendra<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a name of Indra reflecting his association with the mountains of that name

Mahendradatta Pacific Islands

the eleventh queen of Bali

She was banished for practising witchcraft.

Maheo North American

[All-spirit]

a creator-god of the Cheyenne Indians

He is said to have made the world from mud. This mud was brought from the sea bottom by the coot, who was called Earth-Diver, and Maheo built land on the back of a huge turtle. He made man from one of his own ribs.

Mahes (see Mihos)

Maheshvara Hindu

[Mahesvara:=Japanese Jizaiten]

an aspect of Shiva

In some accounts he married Uma and they had 3,000 children, including Sannayaka and Vinayaka.

Maheshvari<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Mahesvari]

one of the 7 mataras

one of the 8 Matrikas

She was opposed to the demon Krodha.

Maheshvari<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Mahesvari]

a name for Devi, Kali and Uma

Mahesvara (see Maheshvara)

Mahesvari (see Maheshvari)

Mahi<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a goddess of sacrifice

an aspect of Bumadevi

Mahi<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a god

Mahih-Nah-Tlehey (see Coyote)

mahiki Pacific Islands

the road which leads to Lua-a-Milu

Mahina<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

[Ma-Hina:=Hervey Island Ina:=Samoa

Sina:=Tahiti Hina]

a Hawaiian moon-goddess

mother of Puna and Hema by Ai

Kanaka, some say (see also Lona)

Mahina<sup>2</sup> (see Hina<sup>1</sup>)

Mahinda Buddhist

son of Ashoka

brother of Mahendra and Sangamitta

He became a priest and founded a monastery in Ceylon.

Mahipala Jain

an ascetic hermit

grandfather of Parsva

When Parsva disturbed his meditation, Mahipala split a log with an axe despite his grandson's warning that he would kill two snakes in the log. Parsva was able to restore the serpents with his hymns, one as Ananta, the other as Lakshmi.

Mahisa (see Mahisha)

Mahisasuramardini

(see Mahishasuramardini)

Mahisha Hindu

[Mahisa.Mahishasura.Mahis(h)ura]

a demon monster in the form of a water-buffalo armed with a mace

To meet the challenge of this awesome beast, the gods created Devi who, in the form of Mahishasuramardini (Durga or Kali), fought him with her trident. When she wounded him, he turned into a warrior with 1,000 arms, each holding a weapon. The goddess threw him to the ground and killed him with an arrow or lance or, some say, his own sword. Others say that he was killed by Bhavani.

In the Mababharata, Mahisha is a monster killed by Skanda.

(see also Bhainsasura.Mahadevi)

- Mahisha-Mardini Hindu
a name for Durga or Kali as the killer of the demon buffalo, Mahisha (see also Mahadevi)
- Mahishasura (see Mahisha)
- Mahishasuramardini Hindu
[Canda.Mahisuramardini]
a form of Devi
She appeared in this form to fight the demon Mahisha.
She is depicted as three-eyed with as many as twelve arms and holding various weapons.
(see also Mahadevi.Mahisha)
- Mahishura (see Mahisha)
- Mahisura (see Mahisha)
- Maho Penekheka North American [Maho Peneta]
a Mandan name for the Great Spirit
- Maho Peneta (see Maho Penekheka)
- Mahodadhi Buddhist
a goddess attendant on Buddhakapala
- Mahomet
a demon said to take possession of humans
- Mahonin
a demon said to be a fallen angel
- Mahora-nui-a-Rangi New Zealand
[=Pacific Islands Mahora-nui-a-tea] a Maori goddess representing the expanse of the heavens, descendant of Whai-tua wife of Maku
mother of Rangipotiki
- Mahora-nui-a-tea Pacific Islands
[=New Zealand Mahora-tui-a-Rangi] a Polynesian goddess
wife of Maku
mother of Rangi
- mahorga Jain
one of the many varieties of demon in Patala
- mahound (see mahoun)
- Mahr German
a demon appearing in nightmares
This being may appear as an animal, a dwarf or a giant. It is regarded as the soul of a dead person and is sometimes said to sit on the chest of the dreamer.
- Mahre Persian
an ancient name for Adam husband of Mahrianag
- Mahrem African
a war-god in Ethiopia
- Mahrianag Persian
an ancient name for Eve wife of Mahre
- Mahrkusha Persian
a demon of frost and snow
- Maht (see Ma<sup>3</sup>)
- Mahtigemwess (see Great Hare)
- Mahu British
a demon in King Lear: a Scottish demon of theft
- Mahu-faturau Pacific Islands
a Tahitian goddess
sister of Ai Tupuai, Hoa-Tapu and Toi-Mata
daughter of Oro
She and her sisters accompanied her father in battle.
- Mahu Ika (see Mahuika)
- Mahu Ike (see Mahuika)
- Mahucutah Central American [Mahacutah.The Distinguished Name]
one of the first 4 men, in Mayan lore
brother of Balam Agab, Balam Quitzé and Iqi Balam
He and his brothers were created from maize-flour and both brewed by Xmucané. Each had his own guardian spirit, Hacavitz being allocated to Mahucutah. The gods created a woman for each of the brothers and they produced children who became the ancestors of the tribes when their parents returned to their original home in paradise.
- Mahuika<sup>1</sup> New Zealand
[Mahu Ika.Mahu Ike]
a Maori ogress
- Mahuika<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
[Mafuike.Mahu Ika.Mahu Ike:
=New Zealand Ruaumoko]
a Polynesian goddess of the underworld grandmother of Maui
In some accounts, she was a fire-goddess who married Auahi-Turoa and bore five sons, Koiti, Kouii, Koroa, Manawa and Mapere.
Some say that Maui stole fire from her in the underworld and gave it to his people while others say that she gave Maui one of her nails, in which fire resided, but it was so hot that he dropped it in the sea. When he did this several times, she threw fire at him and he would have burnt to death if the rain-gods had not doused the fire.
Other stories say that Maui learned the secret of fire from the mud-hens.
In some versions, Mahuika is male.
(see also Mafui'e)
- Mahuike (see Mahuikez)
- Mahuikez Pacific Islands
a fire-god
- Mahungu African
the first being in the lore of the Bakongo
This was a two-headed androgynous being which separated to form the
- male Lumbu and female Muzita.
(see also Ndosimau)
- Mai-Gangaddi African
a Hausa spirit which causes sleeping sickness
- Mai-ja-Chikki African [Dakaki]
a Hausa spirit which causes the evil eye
- Mai-hesa (see Mekhit)
- Maia<sup>1</sup> Greek [Maia's.mother'] a nymph of Mount Cyllene
one of the Pleiades
daughter of Atlas and Pleione mother of Hermes by Zeus
- Maia<sup>2</sup> (see Cybele.Maya.Rosmerta)
- Maia Maiesta (see Fauna)
- Maia<sup>3</sup> (see Maia<sup>1</sup>)
- Maid of Astolat (see Elaine<sup>3</sup>)
- Maid of the Hairy Arms Irish [May Molloch.Meg Mullack.Molloch May]
a banshee who engages in games and sports
- Maid of the Narrow Wood British a maiden who tried to kill Gawain when he rejected her love
- Maidari Buddhist [Maidere]
a name for Maitreya in Manchuria and Mongolia
He came to earth to teach men to revere god but was attacked with a sword by the evil Erlik. Maitreya was wounded and his blood set itself on fire with the result that the whole world, together with Erlik and his followers, was destroyed.
(see also Maidera)
- Maiden of Pohjola Finnish
daughter of Louhi wife of Ilmarinen
- Maiden of Unai Japanese
a maiden wooed by 2 identical lovers
Unable to choose between Mubara and Chinu, who were alike in every respect, she threw herself into the river. Both lovers jumped in after her and all three perished together.
- Maiden, The<sup>1</sup> Canaanite
sister of Aqhat
She killed her brother's murderers.
- Maiden, The<sup>2</sup> (see Core)
- maidenhair Japanese
a sacred tree
- Maidenland British
in some accounts, the place where Lancelot was reared by a water-fairy
- Maiden's Land Irish
a paradise in the west

Maidere (see Maidari)
Maidhyoi-Maongha Persian
 cousin and first disciple of Zoroaster
Maiesta (see Fauna)
Maighe Lena (see Battle of Moylena)
Maighe Tuired (see Moytura) Maighnis Irish
 sister of Goll mac Morna
 wife of Finn mac Cool, some say Maighniu Irish
 a saint
 He suffered from a voracious appetite caused by a reptile that lived in his stomach. He transferred this to his friend Fursa in exchange for Fursa's ailments, piles and headaches.
Maihun Pacific Islands
 in the lore of the Carolines, the home of the spirits
 This place is envisaged as a reef and the spirits who live there prey on shipwrecked sailors and eat them.
Maikuku New Zealand
 wife of Uru Rangī
Mail Duin (see Maeldun)
Mail Fothartaig (see Mael Fothartaig)
Maidun (see Maeldun)
Mailkun Australian [Tippakaleum]
 an evil spirit
 wife of Keen
 She captures adults in a net and kills their children with her spear.
Maimaktes (see Zeus)
Maimed King, The (see Fisher King)
Maimon (see Amaimon)
Main Siberian
 a guardian of the sun
 An elk once caught the sun in its antlers and took it into the forest so that the world became dark. Main shot the elk and restored the sun to the heavens.
Maina African
 an ancestor of the Luyia people
 When Maina refused to give food to the chameleon, the animal laid a curse on the human race which resulted in the introduction of death.
mainades (see bacchantes)
Mainchin Irish
 an abbot
 He treated Anera very badly when he called at his monastery and would have had him executed if Anera had not recited a poem detailing the abbot's descent from Adam.
Maine<sup>1</sup> Irish
 a Norse prince
 In one account, it is he, not Owen, who killed Naisi and his brothers when they returned with Deirdre to Ireland under a promise of safe-conduct from Conor on which he reneged.

Maine<sup>2</sup> (see Maini)

Maine Andai Irish

Eochaid, one of the 7 sons of Ailill and Maev

Maine Maghor (see Sin<sup>1</sup>)

Maini Irish

[Maine.Manes]

princes of Connaught sons of Ailill and Maev

Ailill and Maev had seven sons (Cairbre, Ceat, Daire, Eochaid, Feidhlim, Fergus and Sin) all of whom were known as Maine or, collectively, as Maini.

As a group they were sent to seek supplies from the hostel-keeper, Reaghmhain. His seven daughters eloped with the Maini.

One of them volunteered to challenge Cuchulainn at the ford and was killed. In another account, he was killed by Conall Cearnach to avenge the death of Cuchulainn.

Mair Irish

wife of Bersa

She fell in love with Finn mac Cool and sent him a present of enchanted nuts which, had he eaten them, would have put him in her power. Finn merely buried them.

Maira Ata (see Maire)

Mair-monan South American

[Sumé]

a creator-deity and culture-hero of the Tupinamba tribe

Originally a creator, he appeared on earth to teach the people their laws and taboos. When they ungratefully burned him to death, his head appeared out of the flames of the pyre, producing thunder and lightning.

Mair-pochy South American

a medicine-man of the Tupinamba tribe

He impregnated a chief's daughter by giving her fish to eat. The baby, a boy, identified his father from many claimants by handing him a bow and arrows.

Maira (see Maera)

Maira-Monan South American

a creator-god and culture hero of the Tupinamba tribe

Mairae European

mother-goddesses

Maire South American

[Maira Ata]

the Tupi deity who sent the Flood

He raped a mortal woman who subsequently gave birth to twins,

Ariconte and Tamendonare, one fathered by the god, the other by her mortal husband, Sarigoys.

Maireann Irish

one of the wives of Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill

The other wife, Mughain, was jealous of Maireann and exposed the fact that she was bald. Maireann cried out for help and St Ciaran caused golden hair to grow on her head. In punishment, Mughain became barren.

Mairidh Irish

a king of Munster

father of Eochaid mac Maireadha

and Ribh

husband of Eibhliu

His wife eloped with his son Eochaid.

Mairne (see Murna)

Maiso South American

[Stone Woman]

a creator-goddess and first woman of the Arawaks

mother of Darukavaitere

When her son married and produced a series of offspring in the shape of parrots and serpents, she intervened and caused the woman, Urahiul, to bear the first Paeris Indian, Uzale.

Mait (see Ma<sup>2</sup>)

Mait' Carrefour (see also Carrefour)

Maitagarri Spanish

a Basque lake-priestess

Maitre Carrefour (see Carrefour)

Maitresse Amelia (see Amelia)

Maitresse Inomème (see Inomème)

Maitresse Madeleine (see Madeleine)

Maitresse Mombu (see Mombu)

Maitresse Philomène (see Philomène)

Maitreya Buddhist

[Asita. Chakravartin:=Chinese

Hsiao Fo.Mi-lo-fo.Pu T'ai Ho-shang:=Hindu Kalki:

=Japanese Miro(ku).Hotei:

=Korean Miruk:=Manchurian Maidari:

=Mongolian Maidari:=Pali Metteya:

=Tibetan Byams-pa.Chem-pa]

the Buddha in a future incarnation

the laughing Buddha, patron of

workers in precious metals

the fourth Buddha, in some accounts

son of Brahmayus and Brahmavati

In some accounts, he was a real man, a disciple of the Buddha who will appear in the role of a future Buddha. When he comes, he will be hailed as Chakravartin.

It is said that he will be born, 500 years after the death of Gautama, to Brahmavati, after a pregnancy lasting ten months, emerging from her right side. His teaching will convert even the demons and the world will be at peace. The world will gradually come to an end because, in the absence of all forms of desire, no more children will be procreated.

He is represented as a jovial fat man, with ear-lobes reaching down to his shoulders, waiting in the Tushita heaven until he is reborn in 5,000 (or 5,670 million) years, the Buddha yet to come. He carries prayer-beads and a bag.

He is equated with Hotei whom he resembles and who also carries a bag.

Maiva Pacific Islands

a Samoan maiden
grand-daughter of Raho
She left Samoa in a boat with her grandfather and sailed west. When Raho tipped a basket of Samoan soil, into the sea, a new island, Rotuma, was created and here they settled.

Maivia Kivivia East Indian

a fish
father of Mavu and Moro

Tired of swimming, the fish rested on a bank and here it grew limbs and became a two-legged being. Alone, it produced two sons, Mavu and Moro, who became the ancestors of the tribes of New Guinea.

maiya African

a Hausa warlock

Maiyarab Thai

king of the underworld realm, Patal

Maiyun North American

the Cheyenne name for the Great Spirit

maiynahu'ta North American

a Cheyenne guardian-spirit of the individual

Maize Mother (see Saramama)

Majahaldas (see Domovik)

Majas Gars (see Domovik)

Majas kungs Baltic

[=Lithuanian Zemepatis]

a Latvian god of the household

Majasgars (see Domovik)

Majaw Shringa Pum Burmese

[Majoi Shringa Pum]

a sacred mountain, home of the first man

Majibu African

a sorcerer to King Nkogolo

He was given the boy Kalala Ilunga to raise and taught him to be a fine runner and dancer.

majinai Japanese

magic: the various means by which people ward off sickness,

ill fortune, etc.

majky (see navky)

Majoi Shringa Pum

(see Majaw Shringa Pum)

Majok African

among the Dinka, a sacred ox

majores Roman

senior flamines chosen from the patricians

Maju European

a Basque spirit or deity consort of Mari

He is said to appear in the form of a snake. (see also Sugaar)

Maka<sup>1</sup> African

brother of Ngunzu

When Maka died, his brother trapped Kalungangombe, king of the underworld, who gave him the seeds of plants to grow for food.

Maka<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

the huge snake which attacked Ra's barge each night when it made its journey through the underworld

(see also Sebek)

Maka<sup>3</sup> North American

['earth']

one of the 4 Superior Gods

a creator-deity of the Sioux, an aspect of Wakan Tanka

Makafonua Pacific Islands

['land stones']

the low islands

The Polynesians say that the low islands were dropped from the sky whereas the larger ones were fished up from the bottom of the sea by Maui.

Makala (see Narmada)

Makan (see Kur-nu-gi-a)

Makanaima South American

[Mackonaima.Makunaima]

a creator-god in Guyana

one of the Twins (see also Aimon Kondi)

Makani Pacific Islands

[=Samoan Matagi]

a Hawaiian wind-god

makara<sup>1</sup> Cambodian

a monster in the form of a lion

with a trunk

(see also gaja-simha.kalamaka)

Makara<sup>2</sup> East Indian

a sea-monster in the form of a crocodile with a trunk-like snout

(see also kalamaka)

Makara<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a monster ridden by Ganga or Varuna

In some accounts, this being was described as part crocodile, dolphin and shark, in others as a fish with the head and legs of a deer or as a fish-elephant.

Another story has the Makara as the crab which outwitted a crane and snapped off its head.

Makara<sup>4</sup> Hindu

one of the signs of the Zodiac,
Capricorn the goat (monster)

Makaravaktra Buddhist

a lion-headed goddess or spirit
She can confer supernatural powers on her devotees.

Make East Indian

in New Guinea, a huge snake

This snake is said to be a manifestation of the god Wunekan.

Make Make (see Makemake)

Makea Pacific Islands

[Makea-Tutara]

a king of the underworld

father of Maui

He had an affair with the mortal queen, Taranga, and fathered Maui.

Makea-Tutara (see Makea)

Makemake Pacific Islands

[Make Make.Meke Meke]

creator-god and sea-god of the Easter Islanders

He first appeared as a skull. One of his functions was to protect the birds from the egg-gatherers.

Maker of White (see White Hare)

Makeri African

a Hausa spirit causing occupational ailments in smiths

Makers of the Path of Life

(see Prey-Gods)

Makeshura Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Makh Mesopotamian

[Belit-Itani.Mah]

a Babylonian virgin-goddess wife of Marduk

Makha Hindu

a demon of darkness

He was overcome by Brighu and Matarisvan.

Makhta North American

[Brave Woman.Winyan Ohitika]

a Sioux maiden

daughter of Tawa Makoce

Her three brothers were killed in battles with the Crow and she refused to marry until their deaths had been avenged. In a later battle, she rode with the Sioux warriors and the Crow were finally driven away. In the battle, Wanblee Cikala, who loved her, was killed and she spent the rest of her life mourning his loss.

Makhu Mesopotamian

a Babylonian god of dreams

Maki Hiogo Japanese

a retainer
His master, father of Princess Aya, had him wait in the peony bushes by night and he succeeded in capturing the young samurai for whom Aya was dying with longing. A wave of perfume caused Maki Hiogo to faint and, when he recovered, he found that he was grasping not the young man but a peony flower.

Maki-Syra-Zemlya Russian

mother-earth, lover of Mikula
Makihiki Pacific Islands

a festival in honour of Lono which lasts for 4 months

Makila North American

a culture-hero of the Californian Pomo Indians father of Dasan
Makila and his son, Dasan, came out of the sea to bring civilisation to the tribe.

Makishi African

man-eating monsters in Angola

Makkal *(see Moloch<sup>1</sup>)Makkhali Gosala Jain

a hermit
He taught that all things could attain perfection in due course but that this was a natural process, spread over many incarnations, which could not be hastened or halted.

Maklandjalu African

a supreme god of the south-eastern coastal regions

Makosh *(see Mokos)Maksameri Baltic

[=German Lebermeer]
the Estonian world of the dead

Maku<sup>1</sup> New Zealand

a Maori god descendant of Whai-tua husband of Mahora-nui-a-Rangi father of Rangipotiki

Maku<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

a Polynesian god offspring of Kore-te-tamaua husband of Mahora-nui-a-tea
father of Rangi

Makunaima *(see Makanaima)Makura Daikoku Japanese

a name of Daikoku depicted with a mallet and lotus leaf

Makuri South American

a member of the Callao tribe who killed his daughter when she became a follower of Thunupa

He also killed Thunupa and cast his body adrift on Lake Titicaca.

makutu Pacific Islands

Polynesian witchcraft

Mal Indian

[Tirumal]

a Tamil creator-god

Mal mac Rochraidhe Irish

a king of Ulster

He killed Tuathal Techtmar, the high-king.

Mala Tibetan

a Buddhist mother-goddess
one of the astamataras

Mala Lith *(see Cailleach)Malacander *(see Malcandre)Malacoda

[Belzecue]

a demon in Danté's Inferno

Maladisant British

[Maledisant]

wife of Breunor

Malagant *(see Meliagaunt)Malagigi European [=Dutch Malagjis:=French Mal-gist.

Malagis.Maugis]

an Italian enchanter

one of Charlemagne's paladins

cousin of Rinaldo

In a French version, he was Maugis, son of Beuve and twin brother of Vivien. When the Saracens invaded, Vivien was abducted but Maugis was saved by the fairy Orianda and was taught magic by her brother, Baudris. At the great tournament arranged by Charlemagne, Malagigi recognised Angelica as an enchantress and tried to kill her. Instead, he was captured by Angelica and her brother Argalia and transported to Albracca where he was imprisoned in a rock under the sea.

After the defeat of the Saracens, he suspected Gano of treachery and summoned up the demon Ashtaroth, demanding that he find Rinaldo and Ricardetto and bring them quickly to Roncesvalles. When Rinaldo fell out of favour with Charlemagne and his horse Bayard was taken by the prince, Charlot, Malagigi tricked Charlot and recovered Bayard and also freed Rinaldo's brothers who had been imprisoned by the emperor.

Malagjis European

the name of Malagigi (Maugis) in Dutch stories

Malagis *(see Malagigi)Malaika African

a benevolent spirit which can take on human form

These beings are said to sit on one's shoulder and whisper wise or beneficial advice into one's ear.

Malakbel Arab

an ancient sun-god and god of vegetation

brother of Aglibol (see also Malekbel)

Malaliach Irish

a servant of Partholan

He is said to have introduced ale-brewing into Ireland.

Malamanganga'e Pacific Islands

a creator-deity

With Malamangangaifo this being created the dove, Lupe, predecessor of the beings who gave rise to man.

Malamangangaifo Pacific Islands

a creator-deity

With Malamanganga'e this being created the dove, Lupe, predecessor of the beings who gave rise to man.

Malambruno European

a giant in Don Quixote:
an enchanter

Malandela African

a Zulu hero

father of Ntombela

He led his people to their present homeland.

Malaphar *(see Malephar)Malapher *(see Malephar)Malara *(see Kopu)Malava African

a legendary ancestor of the Vugusu of Kenya (see also Ummgoma)

Malaveyovo Pacific Islands

in the lore of the Goodenough Islands, a cannibal

Malaya Hindu

one of the 8 Yogini, demoneses attendant on Durga

Malayavati Hindu

an Arabian princess
She was carried off in a pomegranate by Vikrama and became his wife.

Malcam *(see Moloch)Malcander *(see Malcandroz)Malcandre Egyptian

[Malacander]
king of Byblos

Needing a pole for his new palace he had his workmen fell a large tamarisk that had grown round a sealed chest. This proved to be the chest in which Set had sealed his own brother Osiris. Isis claimed the body of her husband and resurrected him but he was killed once again by Set who cut the body into fourteen pieces.

Malcandroz Mesopotamian

[Malacander.Malk-Addu]
a name for El as god of the underworld

Malchidael

[Malkidiel]

a demon, ruler of Aries

(see also Sarahiel)

Malchus

one of the Seven Sleepers

MalducBritish*

a wizard

Valerin once captured Guinevere and held her prisoner. Malduc promised to free her if Erec and Gawain were delivered into his hands. When the exchange had been made, Lancelot rescued Erec and Gawain.

Maleagans (see Meliagaunt)Maleagant (see Meliagaunt)MalecastaBritish*

the lady of Castle Joyeous

lust personified (Spenser)

MalegerBritish*

evil passion personified (Spenser)

MalekbelEgyptian*

a sun-god

(see also Malakbel)

MalebolgeEuropean*

a part of Hell, the eighth circle (Dante)

Malebranche

[Hellraker]

a demon in Dante's InfernoMalebronEuropean

a spirit, servant of Oberon

He carried Huon and Sherasmin across the Red Sea and later carried Huon to the court of Yvoirin where he rescued Esclaramonde and Fatima.

Maledisant (see Maladisant)malefici

[sing=maleficus]

the tenth order of the damned, witches and sorcerers

maleficium

the art of the witch: doing harm

by magic

maleficus

a sorcerer: a witch (see also malefici)

Maleginis

(see Aguysans)

Malehaut, Lady of

(see Bloie)

Malek<sup>1</sup>Afghan*

a Kafir deity of nut-trees

Malek<sup>2</sup>

(see Moloch)

MalenginBritish*

guile personified (Spenser)

Malepartus

(see Malpertius)

Malaphar

[Malaphar.Malapher.Valafar.Valefar.

Valefor.Walafor]

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to impart knowledge of magic and anthropomorphism and is depicted as a lion. (see also Walafar)

Malgaras

a demon of the west

Malhal MataHindu*

a mother-goddess

one of the 7 saptamataras

MaliAfrican*

a shape-changing monster in the form of a hippopotamus

This monster ate all the crops and, when Karadigi attacked it with his pack of hounds, it ate those too. Fara Maka tried to kill it with spears but was eaten. His wife, Nana Miriam, finally stopped the beast by paralysing it with a magic spell.

Maliagant (see Meliagaunt)MaligerniiRoman*

evil spirits

Malik<sup>1</sup>Arab*

[Malka]

a god of the northern region in pre-Islamic times

Malik<sup>2</sup>

(see Moloch)

Malika HabashiyaAfrican*

a queen of Ethiopia

She dreamt that she was holding a young goat and woke to find herself pregnant. Her daughter was born with one foot shaped like the cloven hoof of a goat. (see also Queen of Ethiopia)

MalinalliSouth American*

the twelfth of the 20 days of the

Aztec month

Symbolising grass, thorns and the south, the day was ruled by Patécatl.

malingeeAustralian*

a demon with fiery eyes and knees

which knock together when he walks

Malinke

(see Ninimina)

MaliqaPersian*

a ruler of the jinn

MalisGreek*

mother of Alcaeus and Cleodaeus

by Heracles

Malk-Addu

(see Malcandros)

Malka(see Malik<sup>1</sup>)Malkidiel

(see Malchidael)

Malkin

a demon

MalkoshPersian*

[Malqos]

a rain-god

MallerstangBritish*

a kingdom of Uther, in some accounts

mallcuSouth American*

[=Quecha apo]

gods and spirits of the Aymara

This name is sometimes added to the name of a mountain to indicate that it is a deity.

In other parts of South America, mallcu are large conical piles of earth on which the tribes make sacrifices.

MalliJain*

the only female jina

Mallolwych

(see Matholwch)

malocchio

(see jettatura)

MalomboAfrican*

sacred snakes in Mozambique which are said to act as oracles

Malory, Sir ThomasEnglish*

(d. 1471)

a knight of uncertain identity

He was the author of Le Morte d'Arthur who was said to have spent some time in prison.

Malpas

[Malphas]

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to be able to construct impregnable buildings by magic and is envisaged in the form of a huge bird.

Malperdy

(see Malpertius)

MalpertiusEuropean*

[Malepartus.Malperdy]

the home of Reynard the Fox

Malphas

(see Malpas)

MalprimoEuropean*

a Saracen knight

He was killed at Roncesvalles by Oliver who was wounded in the encounter.

Malqos

(see Malkosh)

MalsumNorth American*

[Maslum.Wolf]

a creator-god of the Algonquin

a wolf-god

twin brother of Gluskap

He made all the evil features of this world.

He killed his mother at birth when emerging from her armpit and he killed his brother with the feather of an owl, the only thing which could harm him. Gluskap came back to life and Malsum tried again with a pine-root but Gluskap merely laughed and drove him into the woods. Quah-beet heard Gluskap say that he could be killed by a flowering rush and he passed this on to Malsum. When the otter (or toad) asked for the wings of a bird as reward, Malsum scoffed at him so Quah-beet told Gluskap what he had done. Gluskap then dug up a fern, the only thing that could harm Malsum, and used it to kill his brother who lived as the wolf, Lox, in the underworld thereafter.

MaltegardeEuropean*

in some accounts, one of the 9 wives

of Charlemagne

MaluthAfrican*

an Ethiopian spirit

Malvasius British

a king of Iceland which, in some accounts, was part of King Arthur's realm

Mam Central American

a Mayan god of evil

He lives under the earth, appearing only in times of crisis, and is depicted as a scarecrow-like wooden figure.

mama' South American

an Inca plant-spirit

These spirits were said to control the growth of plants and each variety had its own 'mother' or spirit. The spirit controlling the coco plant was cocomama, maize was controlled by saramama, the potato by acumama, the quinoa plant by quinuamama and so on.

Mama<sup>2</sup> (see Ama-arhus.Mami)Mama Allpa South American

an Inca earth-goddess and goddess of the harvest

She is depicted with many breasts.

Mama Brigitte West Indian

[(Mamam) Brigitte]

a Haitian voodoo spirit, guardian of the dead

wife of Ghede

Mama Cocha South American

[Mama Qoca]

an Inca sea-goddess and goddess of rain wife of Viracocha

Mama Cora South American

an Inca maize goddess daughter of Pirua

(see also Mama Cota)

Mama Cota South American

[Mother-water]

the spirit of Lake Titicaca

This spirit was worshipped as the provider of food and was represented by two stone idols known as Copacahuana and Copacati.

On one occasion, a man called Huaina tried to build a temple to Yatiri on an island in a lake but the god refused to acknowledge its worshippers. The same happened when he built on a second island and when he tried again on yet another island, the lake goddess became angry and called up a great storm that caused the island to disappear forever beneath the waves.

(see also Mama Coro)

Mama Coya (see Mama Coyo)Mama Coyo South American

[Coyo Mama.Mama Coya.Mama Ocello]

daughter of Inti

In some versions she is Mama Ocello,

in others one of the three sisters said to be ancestors of the Incas.

(see also Children of the Sun)

Mama fo Dou (see Gro Mama)Mama fo Gro (see Gro Mama)Mama Huaco South American

one of the sisters said to be ancestors of the Incas

(see also Children of the Sun)

Mama Ipa Qora South American

one of the sisters said to be ancestors of the Incas

(see also Children of the Sun)

Mama Kilya South American

[(Mama) Quilla.Mama Quillo]

an Inca moon-goddess

sister and consort of Inti

Mama Nono West Indian

a Carib mother-goddess

Mama Ocello South American

[Cori Ocello.Mama Ocello.Mama Oella.

Mama Ogillo.Mama Oqlyo.

Mama Ocello Huaco]

daughter of Inti

sister of Ayar Ayca, Ayar Cachi, Ayar

Manco, Ayar Oco and Manco Capac

She married her brother, Ayar Manco or Manco Capac, and founded the Inca dynasty.

In one story she went on ahead of the others to look for a suitable place to settle and came to Cuzco. Here she killed a peasant and disembowelled him. Dangling his blood-covered liver from her mouth, she entered the village and all the inhabitants fled, thinking they were about to be attacked by a cannibalistic monster. She and her brothers and sisters were then able to take over the village unopposed.

(see also Children of the Sun.

Mama Coyo)

Mama Ocello Huaco (see Mama Ocello)Mama Ocello (see Mama Ocello)Mama Oella (see Mama Ocello)Mama Ogillo (see Mama Ocello)Mama Oqlyo (see Mama Ocello)Mama Pacha (see Pachamama)Mama Cocha (see Mama Cocha)Mama Quilla (see Mama Kilya)Mama Quillo (see Mama Kilya)Mama Rahua South American

[Mama Rawa]

one of the sisters said to be ancestors of the Incas

(see also Children of the Sun)

Mama Rawa (see Mama Rahua)Mamacuna South American

an Inca woman in charge of the Acllacuna

Mamadi African

the man who killed the dragon Bida His lover had been offered in sacrifice to the dragon but Mamadi arrived on the scene and killed the beast as it was about to devour the girl.

mamaé South American

the Xingu spirits of the dead

Mamaki Buddhist

a goddess

a sakti of Akshobhya or of Ratnasambhava

mother of Vajrapani

Mamaldi Siberian

with Kadau, the first pair of beings

Mamaloi West Indian

[male=Papaloi]

a voodoo priestess of Haiti

Maman Brigitte (see Mama Brigitte)Mamandabari Australian

2 brothers, creator-beings in the lore of the Aborigines

Mamao Pacific Islands

['space']

a Samoan sky-god

This entity merged with Ilu to form the sky and together they produced Ao and Po.

Mama'sa'a North American

the first man, in the lore of the Fox Indians

Mamau Welsh

[Y Mamau:=Roman Matres]

mother-goddesses: goddesses of the household: female fairies

(see also Tylwyth Teg)

Mambang Kuning Malay

an evil spirit of the sunset

Mambang Tuli Harus East Indian

in Java, Malaya, etc., a sea-spirit which controls currents

Mambo West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Mambo La Salle West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Mambo Zacca (see Azacca)Mambrino European

a Saracen king

He had a golden helmet which made the wearer invulnerable or, some say, invisible. Rinaldo killed him and kept the helmet.

mambu West Indian

a Haitian voodoo priestess

Mamdi (see Nandi)Mamercus Roman

son of Numa Pompilius

brother of Pinis and Pompo

Mamers (see Mars)mamh Indian

in Baluchistan, a female bear

It is said that a female bear will capture a man and break his foot so that he cannot leave the cave to which she takes him. He is then forced to mate with the animal whose offspring is yet another mamh.

Mami<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Great Mother.Mah.Mama]
a name of Ninhursaga as 'mother'

At the behest of Ea, Mami fashioned fourteen lumps of clay which, when placed in the wombs of women, produced seven boys and seven girls to perpetuate the human race which had been decimated by Enlil.

In some accounts, the clay had been mixed with the blood of a god, perhaps Kingu or Lamga, in others, the same as Ama-arhus.

(see also Aruru.Nunusesmea)

Mami<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

[Mama]
a name for Ishtar as a creator-goddess (see also Bau Gula)

Mamikiko Japanese

a neighbour of Yurine

The boy Koyuri had been given some sacred white saké by two Shojo and this drink restored his dying father, Yurine, to his former health. Mamikiko demanded some of the saké but, being a greedy man, found the drink tasted foul. Koyuri took him to see the Shojo who cured him of his greed and selfishness, after which he was able to enjoy the brew. He then made friends with Yurine and they lived together for 300 years.

Mamit (see Mamitu)

Mamitu Mesopotamian

[Great Mother.Mamit(um).
Mammetu(m).Mammitu(m)] a Babylonian goddess of the underworld
goddess of destiny
a consort of Nergal

Mamitum (see Mamitu)

Mamlambo African

a Zulu river-goddess, goddess of beer-makers

Mammetu (see Mamitu)

Mammetum (see Mamitu)

Mammitu (see Mamitu)

Mammitum (see Mamitu)

Mammon<sup>1</sup> Aramaic

a god of riches

Mammon<sup>2</sup>

[Maymon]

a demon of avarice or temptation

In black magic, an ambassador to England.

mammoth Siberian

a huge animal on the back of which the earth rests

It is believed that earthquakes occur when the animal moves.

Mammy of the Water (see Oya<sup>1</sup>)

Mamona (see Attabeira)

mamori Japanese

[o-mamori]
amulets: charms

mamorifuda Japanese

a charm carried by children in a charm-bag (see also kinchaku)

Mampes Malay

a psychopomp

This being escorts the souls of the good dead across the bridge Balan Bacham to Belet, the home of the dead.

Mamurius Veturius Roman

the celestial smith who made copies of the ancile

Mamzraumana (see Tuwapontumsi)

Man<sup>1</sup> Chinese

a Taoist deity
one of the Four Diamond Kings

Man<sup>2</sup> (see Chang<sup>1</sup>)

Man<sup>3</sup> (see Chokmah.manna)

Man-Eagle North American

a Hopi monster in the form of a huge eagle

This monster carried off young women to his nest and killed them. One of those taken was the wife of Son of Light who, with the help of Spider Woman, a mole and several birds, reached Man-Eagle's lair and saved his wife by beating the monster in several contests of magic. In the final test, Man-Eagle was burned to ashes but Spider Woman restored him to life in the form of a young man who promised to mend his ways.

Man-Ik Central American

the seventh of the 20 ages of man, in Mayan lore, entry into the afterlife (see also Four Man-Ik)

Man-la (see Bhaishajya)

Man Maker North American

[Magician]
a creator-spirit of the Pima tribe

He made men in his own image from clay and baked them in an oven. Interference by Coyote meant that the first result was a dog followed by an underburnt (white) couple and then an overburnt (black) couple and finally a perfect couple – the Pueblo.

Man of Brass (see Talos<sup>2</sup>)

Man of Wood North American

a mythical being in the lore of the Sioux

He had a human head but the rest of his body was carved from wood. He gave Chacopee the magic vine and pipe and the white feather which he needed to overcome the six giants.

Man Preceding (see Adam Kadmon)

Mana<sup>1</sup> Baltic

ruler of the Finnish underworld, Manala

In other versions, the ruler is Tuoni and his realm is Tuonela.

Mana<sup>2</sup> Hindu

father of Bhrihu

Mana<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Manu:=Welsh Manaw]
the Irish name for the Isle of Man

Mana<sup>4</sup> North American

a nature-spirit of maize among the Pueblo tribes: a kachina dressed as a woman

mana<sup>5</sup> Pacific Islands

a supernatural power

Mana<sup>6</sup> (see Mania)

Mana-garme (see Managarm)

Mana-heim (see Midgard)

Manabosho (see Manabozho)

Manabozho North American

[Great Hare.Manabosho.Manibozho.
Minabozha.Nanaboojoo.Nanabozho.
Nanabush.Winabozho:=Abnaki Gluskap:
=Iroquois Ioskeha:=Menominee
Manabush:=Montagnais Messou]
a trickster-god of the Chippewa
one of quadruplets
brother of Chibiabos and Flint

He was a shape-changer who often appeared as a rabbit.

In some versions, he was descended from Nokomis and, when the Underwater Panthers tried to kill her by causing a flood, Manabozho called on the beavers and others to bring up mud from the bottom from which he made dry land and saved Nokomis.

His enmity of the Underwater Panthers was based on the fact that they had seized and killed his brother Chibiabos. He was later given the secrets of the Mide ceremony which enabled him to resurrect his brother whom he made ruler of the underworld.

As a healing deity, he instituted the medicine-feast known as Mide.

He is sometimes equated with Gluskap or Hiawatha.

His brother, Flint, had killed their mother when they were born and Manabozho killed Flint when they grew up. (see also Manabush.Michabo)

Manabush North American

[Great Hare.Manabusch:=Abnaki

Gluskap: =Chippewa
 Manabozho: =Iroquois Ioskeha:
 =Montagnais Messou]
 a trickster-god of the Menominee Indians
 brother of Moqwaoui

He was the only survivor of twins born to Wenonah, a daughter of Nokomis, who died in childbirth. He turned into a white rabbit who later stole fire and gave it to the tribe.

When his brother, Moqwaoui, was killed by evil spirits, he killed two of their number. The other spirits then caused a flood from which Manabush was the only one to escape which he did by climbing a pine tree and causing it to grow rapidly to beat the rising waters. When Muskrat found a small piece of dry soil after Beaver, Mink and Otter had failed, Manabush was able to recreate the world.

In another story, Misikinebik, a monstrous serpent, ate nearly all the tribe so Manabush offered himself and, once inside the beast, stabbed its heart and killed it.

(see also Manabozho.Wabus)

Manael British

an ancestor of King Arthur
 son of Castellors

Manaf Arab

a heathen god of Mecca

Managarm Norse

[Mana-garme.Manegarm]
 one of the 3 wolves that chased the sun and moon

This beast, together with Hati and Skoll, pursued the sun and moon and, on occasions caught and swallowed them, causing an eclipse. They were the offspring of Fenris and fed on the marrow from the bones of dead criminals. As crime increased, they grew stronger and in the last days they overtook the sun and moon and swallowed them finally.

In some accounts, Managarm is the same as Hati.

Manah Arab

an angelic fertility-goddess

Manaheim (see Midgard)

manaia New Zealand

a bird-headed monster

Manala Baltic

the Finnish land of the dead, ruled by Mana (see also Tuonela)

Manalan-Rakki Baltic

a hound from the Finnish underworld

Manama Pacific Islands

[Eugpamolok Manobo.Kalayagan]
 a creator-god in the Philippines

Mananan (see Manannan mac Lir)

Manandan (see Manannan mac Lir)

Manannan Beg (see Mac y Leirr)

Manannan mac Lir Irish

[Mananan.Manandan.Oirbsen.Oirbsiu:

=Manx Mac y Leirr.Manannan Beg:

=Welsh Manawyddan]

a sea-god

a shape-changer and magician

son of Lir and Aobh

son of Alloit, some say

brother of Sainred

husband of Aine, Fand and Uchtdealb

father of Curcog, Gaiar, Ibrec Mongan,

Niam and Segda

He was the ruler of Emain Ablach and owned a chariot in which he could ride over the waves, a magic boat known as Wave-sweeper, a horse called Splendid Mane and a cloak and helmet that rendered him invisible.

He was said to have three legs which, used like the spokes of a wheel, enabled him to travel at great speed.

As a shape-changer, he often took the form of a bird; as a magician he performed many wonderful feats including one in which he tossed a silken thread into the sky where it caught on a cloud, allowing a lady to climb up it.

It was said that when Aillen fell in love with Manannan's wife, Uchtdealb, the god gave her to Aillen and took his sister, Aine.

It was he who rescued the infant Lugh when he was thrown into the sea on the orders of his grandfather, Balor.

He once took Angus Og on a trip to India and returned with two marvellous cows, keeping one and giving the other to Angus.

He allocated a sidh to each of the various groups of Danaans after their defeat by the Milesians and he gave them the Veil of Invisibility and some marvellous pigs which were restored to life each time they were killed and eaten.

When he quarrelled with Fand and left her, she had an affair with Cuchulainn but Manannan and his wife were later reconciled.

Some of his children were divine, others were mortal. One of his divine sons, Gaiar, seduced the goddess Becuma and Manannan slept with the wife of Fachna Lurgan, king of Ulster, fathering the mortal son Mongan as reward for helping Fachna in battle.

He was said to have been drowned in Lake Corrib by Uillin.

Manasa Hindu

[Manassa.Vishadhari: =Jain Nagini]

a snake-goddess

an aspect of Parvati

sister of Ananta daughter of Kasyapa and Kadru

daughter of Shiva, some say

When Shiva sucked up the venom which Ananta, or Vasuki, used to poison the amrita created at the Churning of the Ocean, Manasa helped him by taking some of the poison in her own mouth and passing it on to the venomous creatures of the earth.

When the merchant Chand refused to worship her, she appeared in the form of a lovely maiden and married him. She then destroyed his livelihood and reverted to her snake form, biting all of his six sons who died. He had another son, Lakshmindra, who married Behula and Chand tried to protect them by building a steel house. Manasa slipped into the house on the night of Lakshmindra's wedding and killed him but she restored him to life when Chand agreed to worship her.

She is said to have the power to cure illness caused by poison from snake-bites, etc. and is depicted in the company of a snake with seven heads.

Manasa Putra (see Seven Rishis)

Manasaputra (see Seven Rishis)

Manasi Jain

a goddess of learning

one of the vidyadevis

Manassa (see Manasa)

Manator (see Tuonetar)

Manatum (see Manat)

Manavi Jain

a goddess of learning

one of the vidyadevis

Manaw Welsh

[=Irish Mana]

the Welsh name for the Isle of Man

Manawa<sup>1</sup> New Zealand

a Maori chief

When he visited Tuwhakapau to arrange the marriage of his son to that chief's daughter, he and his men were ambushed and killed. Only Tahua escaped alive.

Manawa<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

son of Auahi-Turoa and Mahuika

brother of Koiti, Konui, Koroa

and Mapere

manawa<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands

the soul, in Polynesian lore

Manawat Mesopotamian

a Nabataean goddess of fate

Manawyddan (see Manawyddan)Manawyddan Welsh

[Manawydan (fab Llyr)]=Manx Mac y

Leirr.Manannan Beg:=Irish

Manannan mac Lir]

a sea-god

ruler of the land of the dead

son of Llyr and Penardun

brother of Bran and Branwen

He was one of the seven survivors of the force that Bran led to Ireland to rescue his sister, Branwen, from the ill-treatment she received at the hands of her husband, Matholwch.

He was later introduced by Pryderi to his mother, Rhiannon, widow of Pywll, and they married. By some mysterious agency, all living things disappeared from Wales so Manawyddan and Rhiannon, together with Pryderi and his wife Cigfa, moved to England. Here they worked successively as saddlemakers, shield-makers and shoemakers but they aroused the enmity of local craftsmen and eventually returned to Wales where Pryderi and Rhiannon mysteriously disappeared. When Manawyddan set up as a farmer he was plagued by mice and, having caught the largest mouse, was about to hang it when a bishop appeared and offered a large ransom for the mouse who was his wife. It turned out that he was the magician Llwyd who had put a curse on the country to avenge the treatment of Gwawl, the suitor rejected by Rhiannon when she married Pywll. With the mouse freed and restored as the magician's wife, Pryderi and Rhiannon were returned, the spell was lifted and the land returned to normal.

Manawyddan Son of Llyr Welsh

the story of Manawyddan from the Mabinogion

Manchet (see Manjet)Manco Capac South American

[Pirua]

an Inca king

In one story of the origins of the Incas, the land was divided between four kings when the waters of the flood subsided. One was Manco Capac who took the north; the others were Colla, Pinahua and Tocay.

In other versions he is the same as Ayar Manco.

Manda (see Shani)Mandad-Hira Mesopotamian

a Mandaean god of wisdom:

a saviour

Mandah Arab

the gods of irrigation

mandala Buddhist

a magic circle

In Tibet this takes the form of a diagram used in invocation and meditation.

Mandalpala (see Mandalpana)Mandalpana Hindu

[Manda(D)pala]

a sage

In the Mahabharata, he was said to be debarred from heaven until he had produced a son. After much consideration, he changed himself into a bird, Sarangika, and mated with a huge female bird, a Jarita. She bore four sons, after which Mandalpana was able to go to the land of the dead.

Mandanfabul British

a giant Irish chief

He was one of 100 warriors fighting for the Irish king, Cildadan, against 100 knights of the British king, Lisuarte. In the battle, he captured Lisuarte but was killed by Amadis who rescued the king.

Mandanu Mesopotamian

a Babylonian god of justice

Mandapala (see Mandalpana)Mandara (see Mount Mandara)Mandarangan Pacific Islands

an evil spirit in the Philippines

husband of Darago

This being is regarded as the patron of warriors and is said to live in the fumes of a volcano.

Mandaravu Buddhist

an incarnation of a dakini

accompanying Padmasambhava

Mandet (see Manjet)Mandhatha (see Manmatha)Mandhatri Hindu

[King of the World]

father of Muchukundu

Mandi (see Mon)Mandishire Siberian

a supporter of the earth

In one account, he can adjust the ropes that fasten three great fishes to the pillars on which the earth is supported, so enabling him to raise or lower the earth.

Others regard him as the huge tortoise on the back of which the earth rests.

Mandjunatha (see Manjushri)Mandjusri (see Manjushri)Mandodari Hindu

wife of Ravana

mother of Indrajit

Mandrabue Roman

a man who found a gold-mine

In thanks for the discovery, he gave Juno a golden ram; next year, a ram made of silver; next year brass. In the following years he gave her nothing.

mandrake<sup>1</sup>

[Devil's apple.Devil's candle:=Greek

Circe's Grass]

a plant said to have magical properties Some say that this plant was grown in paradise. In some accounts, a magician using the appropriate rituals can bring the plant to life so that it can speak.

Other accounts say the plant could kill anybody who pulled up the root so the job was done by tying a dog to the plant and then chasing the dog until it pulled the plant out of the ground, whereupon the dog died. The plant was said to scream when it was pulled up.

mandrake<sup>2</sup>

a small, black demon

Mandricardo European

a Tartar

son of Agrican

He had defeated the knight Gradasso who was one of the many enchanted by the fairy guarding the armour of Hector of Troy and had won possession of it with the exception of the missing sword, Durindana, which had come down to Roland. To win the armour he had to overcome the wild animals that appeared when he cut down the corn in a field and the predatory birds and the serpent which attacked him when he uprooted the tree that gave entrance to the vault where the armour had been stored.

He came to France to avenge the death of his father at the hands of Roland and there he met Rogero who bore the arms of Troy. Mandricardo disputed with both Rogero and Gradasso, who had accompanied him to France, the right to bear such arms. Florismart settled the dispute by offering to lead them to Roland who had the sword Durindana.

He ran off with Rodomont's lady-love, Doralis.

Roland went mad when he learned of Angelica's marriage to Medoro and abandoned his armour and sword. Mandricardo fought and killed Zebriano for possession of it and was later challenged by Rogero and Gradasso, both of whom claimed the sword. The king, Agramant, ordered a contest to settle the matter and Rogero, representing himself and Gradasso, fought and killed Mandricardo.

Mandulis Greek
[=Egyptian Meruil]
the Greek name for Meruil

Mandwa<sup>1</sup> African
a Baganda spirit substituting for Mukasa in the blood-drinking ceremony

Mandwa<sup>2</sup> African
the spirit-kingdom in Rwandan lore

maneaba Pacific Islands
in the Gilbert Islands, a large building in which Anti rest

manedowikamekoiki North American heaven, the happy hunting-ground of the Shawnee

maneko noko Japanese
a charm in the form of a cat
The cat has one paw raised as if to beckon customers into the shop where it is displayed.

Manema Mairwa African [Wanema] husband of Nambubi
father of Mukasa

Maneros<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
a barley-god

Maneros<sup>2</sup> Egyptian
[=Greek Linus:=Phrygian Lityerses]
in some accounts, a name for Heracles in Egypt

maneros<sup>3</sup> Egyptian
a lament for the dead

Manes<sup>1</sup> Roman [Di Manes]
the spirits of the good dead
offspring of Mania, in some accounts
These spirits were honoured at the festivals of Ferialia and Parentalia.

In the theory of the three-part soul, the Manes was the part that was sent to heaven or hell.

The word is also used to refer to ancestral spirits, to the rulers of the underworld or to the underworld itself.

Manes<sup>2</sup> (see Maini)

Manessian British
a knight of King Arthur's court
cousin of Accolan

He was captured by another knight who accused him of seducing his wife. Morgan, fleeing from Arthur's vengeance following her abortive attempt to have the king killed by Accolan, freed Manessian and sent him to Camelot with a defiant message to Arthur.

Mang East Indian a goddess of night
wife of Lejo

On a visit to earth, in the time before night existed, she caught her long hair in a vine and could not fly back to heaven. She was found and released by Lejo, who married her. Unused to the continuous light, she had brought a bag full of darkness and she inadvertently allowed it to escape so that thereafter night alternated with day. After the birth of their daughter, Mang flew back to heaven.

Mang Shen Chinese
[The Spring Ox]
a clay figure used in agricultural rites

Such figures are used at the spring equinox when they are broken in the fields to ensure good harvests.

Manga Pacific Islands
consort of Tueva
mother of Tiki and Veetini

mangabala bana African in the lore of the Congo, these flying spirits have only one leg each

Mangala Hindu
a god, the planet Mars personified
an aspect of Shiva

In some accounts, he is equated with Karttikeya.

Mangala Bulan East Indian
a Sumatran moon-goddess

Mangar-kunjer-kunja Australian [‘flycatcher’.lizard.Manger-kunjer-kunja]
a lizard-ancestor of the Aranda tribe
He discovered the two partly formed beings, Rella-manerinja, cut them apart and completed their development by making the appropriate openings so that they could become the ancestors of the human race.

Another story of the Aranda says that men were originally lizards. The first one lay down in the sun and, after a while, others appeared from his body and later they all became men.

Mangaroa Pacific Islands
[=Hawaiian Mango-roa-i-Ata]
the Milky Way, in Polynesian lore

Mangata Hindu
[=Greek Ceres.Demeter]
a goddess
a form of Parvati

She is depicted as three-eyed and riding a lion.

Manger-kunjer-kunja
(see Mangar-kunjer-kunja)

Mango-roa-i-Ata New Zealand [=Polynesian Mangaroa]
the Milky Way, in the lore of the Maori

It is said that this ‘long shark’ was caught by Maui when he was fishing and he tossed it up into the sky where it became the Milky Way.

Mangoun British
king of Moraine

He gave Caradoc a drinking-horn which, when used by his wife, would tell Caradoc whether or not she was faithful to him.

mangu African Zande witchcraft

mani<sup>1</sup> Buddhist stones engraved with the mantra Om Mani Padme Hum
(see also chinta-mani)

Mani<sup>2</sup> Hindu
the earth: a magic seed

Mani<sup>3</sup> Norse [Maane]
a moon-goddess
daughter of Mundilfoeri
sister of Sol

She guided the chariot of the moon in its journeys across the sky. In some accounts, Mani is male and was said to have kidnapped Bil and her brother Hjuki.

Mani<sup>4</sup> South American
a culture-hero of the Indians
of Brazil

He is said to have revealed the uses of manioc to man.

Mani<sup>5</sup> (see chinta-mani.Ratna<sup>2</sup>)

Mani-Mandapa Hindu
the palace of Ananta, ruler of the underworld

Mani-Mani South American
[=Greek Styx]
in the lore of the Tupari of Brazil, the river bounding the underworld

Mania Roman [Lara.’madness’.Mana]
an Etruscan goddess, one of the guardians of hell consort of Mantus

In some accounts, she is the mother of the Manes.
(see also Lara<sup>2</sup>.Larunda<sup>2</sup>)

Maniai Greek
a name for the Furies as ‘senders of madness’

Maniaka East Indian
son of Peri Dewa

Manibhadra<sup>1</sup> Tibetan [Bahuri]
a Lamaist sorceress

She was said to be able to fly like a bird.

Manibhadra<sup>2</sup> (see Manivara)

Manibozho (see Manabozho)

Manidhara Buddhist
a goddess attendant on Sadaksari

Manido (see Manitou)

Manikesara Thai
wife of Anomatan

Manikongo African [Bakongo]
the supreme god of the Teke people of the Congo

Manimekhalai Hindu
a virtuous goddess
On the Buddha's birthday, his bowl, amrita surabki, emerges from a lake and she uses it to feed the poor from the never-failing supply of food which it provides. She can also cure the sick by allowing them to touch the vessel.

Maninga North American
an evil spirit of the Mandan Maninga was in conflict with Lone Man who defeated him but Maninga came back four years later in the form of a great flood. Lone Man saved his people by building a stockade called the Great Canoe and Mananga was finally defeated by the powers of Lone Man's medicine-drum and was swept away as the flood receded.

Manioc Stick Anaconda (see Yurupary)

Manissa Irish
daughter of Garadh second wife of Finn mac Cool

manism
worship of the manes, spirits of the dead: ancestor-worship

Manito (see Manitou)

Manitoo (see Manitou)

Manitou<sup>1</sup> North American
[Great Spirit.Kitanatowit.Manido.
Manit(o)o.Manitu.'spirit']
a revered spirit or god
A benevolent manitou is called Aitche-manitou, and an evil one Matche-manitou. The former is symbolised by an egg, the latter by a serpent.
(see also Great Spirit.Matchi Manitou)

manitou<sup>2</sup> North American [=Iroquois orenda:=Sioux wakonda]
a creative principle: a life force

Manitu (see Manitou)

Manivara Hindu [Manibhadra]
a demon attendant on Kubera

Maniwori East Indian
son of the first human couple in New Guinea

Manjet Egyptian
[Maadit bark.Mandet.Manjet-boat Man(t)chet.Manzet]
the boat of the sun-god Ra (see solar bark)

Manjet-boat (see Manjet)

Manji Japanese
one of the 2 Tide Jewels
Manji controlled the flood tide, Kanji the ebb-tide.

Manjughosa (see Manjughosha)

Manjughosha Buddhist [Manjughosa]
a name for Dharmadhatuvagisvara
as one of 4 aspects of Manjushri

Manjushri Buddhist [Arpacana.Mandjunatha.Mandjusri.
Manjughos(h)a.Manjusri.Vac(h).Vak:
=Chinese Wen-shu:=Japanese Monju: =Tibetan Jam-dpal]
a god of wisdom
a bodhisattva
son of Aksobhya or Amitabha
He was said to have been a 10th c Indian king who went to China.
In some accounts, he was born from the pistil of the lotus flower which was generated by a bright light beamed from the Buddha's forehead.
When Yama was rampaging through Tibet, Manjushri turned himself into a demon with nine heads and thirty-four arms known as Yamantaka, who overcame Yama and converted him to Buddhism.
One story tells how he descended to the bottom of the ocean to spread Buddhism to the nagas and converted hundreds of them, including the daughter of Sagara, king of the nagas.
He is regarded as the bringer of civilisation, the founder of a branch of Mahayana Buddhism and a future Buddha, in some accounts an aspect of Akshobhya, or as the Adibuddha.
His sakti is Sarasvati.
He is depicted as holding a book and a sword, resting on a lotus.
*(see also Dharmacackra'.Siddhaikavira.
Simhanada.Tiksna.Yamantaka)*

Manjusri (see Manjushri)

Manjuvajra Buddhist
a Tibetan deity

Manlius Roman [Capitolinus]
commander of the Capitol garrison
He is said to have been alerted to the attack of the Gauls by the cackling of geese and was able to repulse the onslaught. He was thereafter known as Capitolinus.

Manmatha Hindu
[Mandatha]
a form of Kama or Vishnu as a god of carnal love

manna
[man]
food miraculously supplied

Mannheim (see Midgard)

Mannigfual Norse [Mannaheim<sup>2</sup>]
the ship of the giants
This enormous ship possessed by giants was so big that when it sailed through the Dover Straits it managed to scrape through only because the sides had been soaped. This is said to account for the white cliffs.

Mannin (see Ellan Sheeant)

Mannu Finnish
a mother-goddess

Mannus<sup>1</sup> German ['man'] progenitor of the German tribes son of Tvisto

Mannus<sup>2</sup> (see Halfdan<sup>2</sup>)

mano-gati Hindu
a psychic power that enables one to go wherever one wishes

mano-javitva Hindu
a psychic power which enables one to move instantaneously

Manoa South American [Omoa]
the capital city of the mythical country, El Dorado

Manogan Irish
father of Beli

Manohel-Tohel Central American
a Mayan creator-god
He gave mankind bodies and souls and conducted them from the darkness of caves into the light of day.

Mansen Japanese
a guardian deity
one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

mansin Korean [female=mudung]
a shaman

Mansion of the Sun (see Hueyuku)

Manta South American [Huecu]
in the lore of Aroucanians, a monster in the form of a cuttlefish
This monster, which lives in deep lakes, is said to drag people under the water and eat them. It may mate with various other animals, producing yet more monsters. It can be killed by the shrub quisco which has many sharp spines.
The beast itself is said to have four eyes, with hundreds of smaller eyes round the edges of its mantle.
(see also trelque huecuvu)

Mantchet (see Manjet)

Mantell British
a robe of Tegau

This robe, said to be able to keep the wearer warm in any weather, became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

In some accounts, this robe is equated with Gwen, King Arthur's robe of invisibility.

Mantible European
a bridge built of black marble

This structure, which had thirty arches, was guarded by a giant who was killed by Fierabras.

manticora

[manticore.mantygre]

a monster, part lion, part scorpion, with the head of a man

This blood-red beast was said to have three rows of teeth and a clump of poisonous spines on the end of its long tail. Some accounts say that it could shoot the spines like arrows, others use the beast to represent the devil.

manticore (see manticora)

Mantis African
a trickster-hero of the Khoisan people a sort of Dasse

He brought fire to his people by stealing it from the ostrich and is said to have given names to everything that exists.

Mantius Greek
father of Clitus

Mantle of Invisibility (see Gwen<sup>1</sup>)

Manto Greek

a Theban prophetess daughter of Teiresias wife of Alcmaeon or Rhocius mother of Amphilocheus and Tsiphone by Alcmaeon, some say mother of Mopsus by Rhocius or Apollo

She was taken prisoner at Thebes and acted as Pythoness to Apollo at Delphi. In some accounts, she married Alcmaeon and bore two children, Amphilocheus and Tsiphone. She later founded a colony in Asia Minor where she married Rhocius. Their son was Mopsus, though some say that his father was Apollo.

mantra<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[mantram]

a chant used in meditation: a charm or spell

mantra<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[mantram]

a sacred text or hymn, part of a veda
a chant used in meditation: a charm or spell

mantram (see mantra)

Mantrns (see Mantus)

mantygre (see manticora)

Manus Roman

[Mantrns]

one of the Etruscan guardians of hell consort of Mania

Manu<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Chakshusha.'man'.(Manu) Vaivasvata.

Menu.Prajapati]

a primaevial creator-god

one of the 9 Brahmarishis

son of Surya and Sanjna, some say son of Vivasvat, some say brother of Yama, some say consort of Ida

father of Bhrigu and Prasuti

Every kalpa has fourteen floods, each with its own version of the Manu story in which a fish warns of a coming flood. Manu built a ship, filled it with specimens of each plant and animal and was towed to safety by the fish, allowing Manu to survive to become the progenitor of the human race. The fish is Matsya, the first avatar of Vishnu, in some stories.

An alternative story says that Manu was the first mortal, produced when Brahma mated with Sarasvati, the woman born of his own body.

In other accounts, Brahma produced ten Prajapatis who produced seven Manus. The first Manu was known as Svayam-bhuva and some say that Vaivasvata is the seventh and current incarnation.

He is said to have written Manu Smirti, a book of laws.

Manu<sup>2</sup> (see Mana<sup>2</sup>.Yima)

manu-antara (see manvantara)

Manu Vaivasvata (see Manu<sup>1</sup>)

Manuai East Indian

in the lore of the Admiralty Islands, the first man

He cut down a tree which, at his command, became a woman with whom he mated to start the human race.

Manuchihir Persian

[Manucihr.Manushcithra]

a hero in the Shah Name

Manucihr (see Manuchihir)

Manuk Manuk East Indian

in the lore of Sumatra, a cosmic chicken

The primordial god mated with this blue chicken which produced three eggs from which came the three gods who created and ruled respectively the heavens, the earth and the underworld.

Manungal Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god of the underworld
consort of Birdu

Manushcithra (see Manuchihir)

manushibuddha Buddhist

[manushyabuddha]

a future buddha: a Buddha living in the world as a man

There are said to be seven manushibuddhas and these are known as Kanakamuni, Kashyapa, Krakucchanda, Shakyamuni, Sikhi, Vipassin and Vishvabhu.

Another version omits the last three and substitutes the future Buddha, Maitreya, to make a total of five. (see also Dhyaniabuddhas)

manushyabuddha

(see manushibuddha)

Manuzi Mesopotamian

a Syrian weather-god

manvantara Hindu

[manu-antara]

a fourteenth part of a kalpa

This is the period of the rule of a Manu at the end of which the world will end in a flood.

The present day is the seventh manvantara.

Manyu Hindu

god of wrath

manyura (see peacock<sup>3</sup>)

Manzan Gormo Siberian

a Buriat mother-goddess

It was said that the Milky Way was made from the abundant flow of her breast-milk.

Manzasiri Mongol

the being from whose body the universe was formed, in the lore of the Kalmyks

It was said that the world was made from his body, the sun and moon from his eyes.

Manzenshao Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Manzet (see Manjet)

Mao Chinese

a deity living on the planet Jupiter

Maodhog Irish

[Aed(h).Aedan.Aodan.Aodh.

Mo-Aedoc.Mogue]

a saint

He was always accompanied by guardian angels and, early in his life, was performing miracles such as restoring to life a drowned boy and replacing sheep taken by wolves.

He studied for a while in Wales and returned to Ireland to establish a monastery where, merely by drawing a line in the earth with his staff, he saved a herd from invading forces. He brought back to life the king of Leinster, Brandubh, but he said that he preferred the afterlife and returned to it.

There are numerous instances where he travelled in miraculous fashion, crossing lakes that dried up before him and riding across the Irish Sea on a marine animal.

Maoilsheachlainn Irish

a high-king of Ireland
He was forced to resign and hand over the throne to Brian Boru.

Maol<sup>1</sup> Irish

a druid known as ‘the bald’
brother of Calpait

He and his brother were tutors to Ethne and Fedelma, daughters of Laoghaire mac Criomhthann.

Maol<sup>2</sup> Irish

a Fomoiré
He ensured that his master, Balor, exercised his right to sleep with any maiden on her wedding night, a duty in which he was helped by Mullogue. He was killed by Goibhniu.

Maol<sup>3</sup> Irish

a cow owned by Flihdais
This animal could produce, at one milking, sufficient milk for hundreds of families.

Maol Cobha Irish

a hermit
brother of Domhnall mac Aodh
father of Cellach

He interpreted his brother’s dream to predict that he would be opposed by his foster-son but would finally defeat him in battle. The foster-son turned out to be Congall Caoch and Domhnall, the high-king, defeated him at the Battle of Magh Rath.

In some accounts, he had been high-king of Ireland until deposed by Suibhne Meann.

Maol Chroin (see Chroin)

Maol Dalua (see Dalua)

Maol Deoraidh (see Deoraidh)

Maol Dobharchan Irish

a friend of the saint, Moling, noted for his generosity

Maol Duin (see Maeldun)

Maol Fhothartaigh
(see Mael Fothartaig)

Maol Mor Irish

a warrior of Diarmaid mac Cearbhaill
He killed Diarmaid’s cousin, Tuathal Maolgharbh, who had won the throne of Ireland after a dispute with Diarmaid, so that his master could take the throne. He offered Tuathal, on the end of his spear, what he said was the head of Diarmaid and then plunged the spear into the king. Maol Mor was killed before he could escape.

Maol Seanaigh (see Seanaigh)

Maolbhrighde Irish

a man who killed Ragallach
There are other versions of Ragallach’s death but in the account that says he was killed by Maolbhrighde, Cathal, Ragallach’s son, avenged his father by killing Maolbhrighde.

Maolmhordha Irish

brother of Gormlaith

Maolochtraigh Irish

husband of Mughain
father of Comgan

When his wife died, he married a woman who fell in love with the jester, Comgan, who was her step-son.

Maolodhar Irish

son of Diarmaid, the high-king
In some accounts, Conall and Dunchadh were the sons of Blathmac, in others they were the sons of Diarmaid and Maolodhar was the third son. All three of them were killed when they set upon Maolodhran who drove them into a millpond and, by starting the mill, had them crushed to death by the water-wheel.

Maolodhran (see Maelodran)

Maon<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Moen]

a smith

When the infant Morann was rescued from the sea, Maon reared him and later sold him back to his father.

Maon<sup>2</sup> (see Labraid Loiseach)

Maori<sup>1</sup> African

creator-god and sky-god of the Makoni people

Maori<sup>2</sup> East Indian

an ancestor of the Maori of Papua New Guinea

Ten birds, pursued by the witch Eare, hid in ripe breadfruit which fell into a river and floated down to the sea. Ten girls opened the fruit and out came ten young men, one of whom was Maori. They married the girls and became the ancestors of the tribe.

Maou (see Mawu)

Mapere Pacific Islands

son of Auahi Turoa and Mahuika

brother of Koiti, Konui, Koroa and Manana

Mapico African

a ceremonial mask used in Mozambique to expel devils

Mapik Malay

a tree in Belet, the home of the dead Souls arriving in Belet are met under this tree by the earlier arrivals and are turned into kemoits. They are then allowed to remain in Belet, living on the fruit of this tree.

Children are catered for by the milk produced by the many breasts growing at the base of the tree.

Mapoia (see Maboja)

Maponos (see Maponus)

Maponus Brittish

[Divine Youth. Maponos:=Greek Apollo:
=Irish Angus Og:=Welsh Mabon]

a youthful tribal sun-god

a famous musician

son of Matrona

Maquares European

a servant of Matabrune

It was he who found the seven children of Oriant and Beartrix alive and well years after they had been abandoned by Marcon on the orders of Matabrune. When he reported his discovery to his mistress, he was instructed to seize the silver necklaces which had been round their necks when they were born. He managed to get six of them, whereupon these children turned into swans and flew off. The seventh child was away at the time but, as Elias, later rescued his mother and his siblings.

Mar-pa Tibetan

a magician, disciple of Atisa, tutor of Milarapa

Mara<sup>1</sup> Baltic

a Latvian goddess

In some accounts she is an early goddess, in others a version of the Virgin Mary.

Mara<sup>2</sup> Buddhist

[‘death’.Kama.Namilu:=Hindu Mr(i)yu]

a king of the demons

An assimilation of Mayi into Buddhist lore, he tempted Buddha, as he was meditating under the bo-tree, with dancing-girls, assailed him with demons then threatened him with thunderbolts and finally threw a flaming discus at him, all to no avail.

Mara<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a name of Kama as ‘destroyer’

mara<sup>4</sup> Norse

a troll-woman

The female trolls could change themselves into maras, or nightmares, but could be trapped and used as required if the hole through which they entered a house was stopped up.

(see also troll)

mara-halddo Baltic

a Lappish sea-spirit

Marabron British

son of Vagor

His father had imprisoned Lionel who was due to fight a duel with Marabron. When he was injured, Lancelot took his place and defeated Marabron.

Marad Mesopotamian

a form of Marduk

marae Pacific Islands

a sacred place: a temple

Maragoz European

a steward of King Elyadus

He killed his master whose wife fled to save herself and her unborn son, Floriant.

Marain Jagu African

a Senegal sorcerer

He walked before he was a year old. He killed a bull with his bare hands and ate it. He killed all seven sons of Garakhe who had killed his father and, after learning the arts of the sorcerer, he killed Garakhe too, becoming king in his place.

His familiars, which he used to kill his enemies, were three dogs housed in a calabash.

Maraiya East Indian

the New Guinea land of the dead

This land is envisaged as similar to our own world without illness.

marakayika Japanese

a goblin

Maraki-hau New Zealand

a Maori half-human monster

Marama New Zealand

[=Tahitian Hina]

a Maori moon-goddess

She is said to waste physically each month, renewing herself by bathing in the sea ready for the next lunar cycle.

In some accounts, Marama is referred to as a moon-god and his wife is Ina.

Maramalik Afghan

a Kafir god of the underworld

Maramma (see Amma<sup>2,3</sup>)

Maran-Loka Hindu

one of the 7 realms of the universe,

the home of the saints

maran-siddhi Hindu

['death-power']

the psychic power to kill by thought alone

Mararisvan Hindu

a god of lightning

This deity was said to have given fire to mankind.

Marassa Jumeaux (see Marissa)

Marathon Greek

a king of Sicily

son of Epopeus, some say the self-styled 'son of Zeus'

father of Corinthus and Sicily

Marathonian Bull Greek

[Cretan Bull]

This was the white bull given to Minos by Poseidon which was captured and taken to Greece by Meracles as his seventh labour. It was released by Erichtheus and driven to Marathon where it was later captured and killed by Theseus. (see also Cretan Bull)

Marawa Pacific Islands

a spider-spirit

When Qat tried to cut a canoe from a log, Marawa replaced each night the pieces that Qat had chipped out during the day. When Qat caught him in the act he helped to complete the job.

In an alternative version, Qat was carving human beings from wood and Marawa buried them, so introducing death to the world.

Marban (see Marvan)

Marbas

[Barbas]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is envisaged in the form of a lion.

Marbhan (see Marvan)

Marc British

grandson of Tristram

son of Ysaie and Martha husband of Orimonde

Marcán Irish

husband of Cred

March British

the leader of the white troop in Rhonabwy's dream

a cousin of King Arthur

March ap Meirchion Welsh

the Welsh name of Mark, king of Cornwall (see also Math)

Marchevallée European

the horse of Bruhier

When Ogier killed Bruhier in single combat he took over Marchevallée to replace his own horse, Beiffro, which had been killed in the fight.

Marchocias (see Marchosias)

Marchosias Christian

[Marchocias]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He is said to impart knowledge of warfare and is depicted either as a fire-breathing, winged wolf or as a wolf with wings and the tail of a serpent.

Marcii Roman

early oracular prophets

In some accounts, there was only one such prophet, Marcus.

Marcus (see Marcii)

Marco Slav

a prince

son of a veela

His blood brother was wounded by a veela named Raviyoyla. He is said to sleep on his horse in a cave awaiting a call to save his country. He will know the time has come when his sword rises from its scabbard and is fully visible.

Marcómir British

father of Faramon

Marcon European

a servant of Matabrone

When her daughter-in-law, Beatrix, gave birth to septuplets, Matabrone gave them to Marcon with instructions to kill them. He took pity on them and left them in the woods where they were found and reared by a hermit.

Marcoti (see Yocahu)

marcou

a seventh (or ninth) son who, some say, is destined to become a sorcerer

Marcus Cunomorus European

the Breton name for Mark of Cornwall

Marcus Curtius (see Curtius<sup>1</sup>)

Mardal (see Freya)

Mardall (see Heimdall)

Mardash Nara Persian

a demon

Mardel (see Freya)

Mardell (see Freya)

Mardez-awa Russian

[=Mordvin varm-ava]

a Cheremis tutelary spirit grandson of the wind

Mardoc (see Mordred)

Mardoll (see Freya)

Marduk Mesopotamian

[Adad.Addu.Agaku.Agilma.Amaradu(k).

Amarud.Amurru-

Ramman.Aranunna.Asai.

As(s)alluha.Asar(i).Asaru(alim)

Asaruludu.Avenger.Bel(-Enlil)

Bel-Marduk.Bel Matai.Epadum.Gibil.

Gil(ma).(Gish) Qaru.Gugal.Hegal.Iku.

Irkingu.Lugal-Dimmer-An-Ki-A.Kinna.

Marad.Marlah.Murduk.Namru.Namtillaku.

Nari.Qaru.Sandan.S(h)amas(h).Shazu.Sin.

Sirsir.Suhgurim.Tuku.Tutu.Usire.

Zah(gu)rim.Ziku.Zisi.Ziukinna.

Zulum: =Assyrian Ashur: =Greek Zeus:

=Hebrew Merodach: =Sumerian

Enlil.Tagtug]

the double-headed creator-god,

sun-god

and god of magic, wisdom and war
city god of Babylon son of Enki and Damgalnuna, Ea and Apzu, Ea and Damkina or El and Damkina
consort of Sarpanitu
father of Nebo and Tasmit

He created a new world order after he had killed Tiamat, the demon of chaos.
He cut her body in half, using one part for the earth, the other for the sky. He retrieved the Tablets of Destiny giving him complete control of the world and, mixing the blood of Kingu with clay, he made mankind.

Another story says that Marduk cut off his own head and used the blood to make mankind.

Eventually, all the gods were assimilated into Marduk who was associated with the planets Jupiter and Mercury.

He is described as having two heads, four ears, four eyes and a mouth emitting flames. (see also Iku.Shulpae)

Mare (see Thalassa)

Maredudd (see Marid) Welsh
father of Iorwerth and Madawg

mareed (see marid)

mareikura Pacific Islands
in Polynesian lore, nymphs of heaven attendants of Io

Marerewana South American
the survivor of the fire and the flood sent by Aimon Kondi

marēt South American guardian spirits of the Botocudo
people of Brazil

These beings live in the sky and intercede on behalf of humans. They can descend to earth by a sacred pillar,
if called by a shaman.

Marfisa (see Marphisa)

Margante (see Argante)

Marganus British
a nephew of Cordelia

He and Cunedagius led a revolt against the queen and imprisoned her.
Cordelia killed herself in her cell.
They then shared the kingdom between them but Cunedagius killed Marganus soon afterwards and ruled the whole of Britain.

Margause (see Morgause)

Margause (see Morgause)

Margiste European
mother of Aliste

She was the nurse of Bertha, daughter of the king of Hungary, and accompanied the young princess when she travelled to France to marry the Frankish king, Pepin I. She contrived to substitute her own daughter, Aliste, in Bertha's place and Pepin married Aliste in all ignorance. Margiste ordered that Bertha be killed but the servant charged with the deed allowed her to escape. When the deception was later exposed, Margiste was put to the stake.

Margot-la-Fée French
a fairy of Brittany

Margye Pongi Mongolian
a mountain

It was to this mountain that, at the end of his mission on earth, Gesar Khan returned to be purified.

Marhalt (see Morholt)

Marhaus (see Mark<sup>2</sup>.Morholt)

Marhokjuvek North American
a Yuma culture-hero

He was chosen by Komasham'ho to help to put the world into good order.

Marholt (see Morholt)

Mari<sup>1</sup> Basque

a mother-goddess
consort of Maju

She can appear as a flying being, a white cloud or as a rainbow. She is sometimes depicted as riding in a four-horse chariot, sometimes riding a ram.

Mari<sup>2</sup> Buddhist a god of literature
one of the dharanis

Mari<sup>3</sup> Greek a Cretan goddess

Mari<sup>4</sup> Indian a Tamil mother-goddess, goddess of smallpox or rain

Mari<sup>5</sup> Korean
a friend of Chumong

When Chumong fled to escape death at the hand of Kumwa, Mari and two other friends, Hyobbu and Zoi, went with him.

mari<sup>6</sup> Pacific Islands [mauri]

in Melanesia, the soul of a dead person
The soul travels to Kibu, the land of the dead where, after being struck on the head by a stone club, it becomes a markai, a true ghost.

Mari Mai Hindu
[=Tamil Mariyamman]

a plague-goddess

Mari-Morgan (see Morgan<sup>3</sup>)

Maria<sup>1</sup> European

sister or daughter of King Juan wife of Tristram the Younger

She was captured by an African chief but was rescued by Tristram and became his wife.

Maria<sup>2</sup> South American
a wandering magician-creator of the Guarani people

Maria Madeleine West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from Mary Magdalene

Mariam (see Marian)

Mariamma (see Amma<sup>2,3</sup>)

Mariammai (see Shitala)

Marian British [Mariam]
a sea-goddess

Mariana (see Nari-mariama)

Mariandynus Greek

son of Phineus by his second wife, Idaeia

Marica Greek

a nymph
one of the Naiads
mother of Latinus by Faunus, some say

Maricha Hindu

one of the rakshasas

son of Taraka

He turned himself into a deer to lure Rama away from Sita so that Ravana could abduct her.

Marichi<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Marici.Vajradhatvisvari]

a demiurge

leader of the Maruts

one of the Prajapatis

one of the Seven Rishis

father of Kasyapa

Marichi<sup>2</sup> (see Maritchi)

Marici<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

the Buddhist version of Maritchi

She appears in a number of forms. As Asokakanta she is golden in colour and rides a pig. As Samksipta-Marici she has three faces (the left-hand one is the face of a pig) and eight arms in which she holds the sun, moon and various weapons.

(see Marichi.Maritchi)

Marici<sup>2</sup> (see Marichi)

maride (see marid)

Marie de France (see France)

Marikoriko New Zealand

[Ma-riko-riko]

in some Maori accounts, the first woman, created by Arohirohi

Marina Russian

a witch

When Drobrynja accidentally killed one of her doves, she turned him into a bull.

Marinaia European

mother of Merlin in some Italian stories

Marindi Australian

an ancestral dog

During the Dreamtime, he fought the lizard Adno-artina and was killed. His blood make the rocks red.

Marine British

daughter of Urien
She was the beloved of Laris.

Marinette West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Maringuilla Central American

a young girl, the little Mary, featured in the atcatlaxqui, a fertility dance of the Otomi tribe

mariolatry Christian

the worship of the Virgin Mary

Mariole British

grandmother of Torec

mother of Tristoise

She was the original owner of the diadem stolen by Bruant.

mariology Christian

the study of the life and work of the Virgin Mary: the corpus of works on this subject

Maris Roman

[=Greek Ares:=Roman Mars]

an Etruscan war-god

Marisha Hindu

[Tushara]

a moon-goddess

daughter of Kandu and Pramlocha

wife of Pracheta

mother of Daksha

She was the mother of Daksha in his second incarnation.

Marishi-Ten (see Marishiten<sup>1</sup>)Marishiten<sup>1</sup> Japanese

[Marishi-Ten]

the Buddhist queen of heaven

She appears in both the Chinese and Japanese pantheons and is depicted with eight arms.

In some accounts, Marishiten is a god of war, protector of the Buddhist faithful.

(see also Marioi.Queen of Heaven)

Marishiten<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a name for Krishna

Marissa West Indian

[Marassa Jumeaux]

a Haitian voodoo spirit representing dead twins

Maritchi Hindu

[=Buddhist Maric(h)i:=Chinese Chun T'i.

Mo-li-chi.T'ien Hou.Tou Mu]

a mother-goddess

She was originally a mortal, a Brahmin tricked into marrying an untouchable.
She committed suicide, became a deity
and burned her husband to ash.

She is depicted with three heads (one the head of a pig) and eight or more arms, holding the moon, the sun and various weapons, and riding in a chariot drawn by seven pigs.

Marius British

a king of Britain

son of Arviragus

He defeated the invading Picts under Sodric.

Mariyamman Indian

[Mariyattal:=Hindu Mari Mai]

a Tamil plague-goddess

one of the navasaktis

Mariyattal (see Mariyamman)Marjani Hindu

one of the 8 Yogini, demonesses

attendant on Durga

Marjatta Baltic

a Finnish virgin who gave birth

The child, a boy, was born after his mother had swallowed a cranberry.
Vainamoinen advised that the child should be killed. The child himself rebuked the hero and was baptised as a king. Vainamoinen was offended and sailed off in a copper boat to some place between earth and heaven where,
like a number of other national heroes,
he awaits a call in his country's hour of need.

Marjodoc British

a steward of King Mark

He became the enemy of Tristram when he found out about his affair with Isolde.

Mark<sup>1</sup> British

[Cunomor.King

Fox.Quonomorius:=Breton Marcus

Cunomorus:=Welsh March ap

Meirchion]

a king of Cornwall

son of Felix, some say

brother of Blanchefleur, in some accounts

husband of Isolde

father of Andre

Some equate Mark with Cunomorus, others with Mark, king of Glamorgan.
Some say he was the brother of Meliad and Pernam. He is said to have had the ears of a horse, a secret known only to a dwarf called Frocin. When the dwarf betrayed the secret, Mark beheaded him.

He raped his niece, Labiane, and when she bore a son called Meraugis, killed her.

He took his nephew Tristram into his court as a young man to save him from his step-mother who had tried to poison him. Both he and Tristram were attracted to the wife of Segwarides but she preferred Tristram and invited him to her bed. Mark, with two knights, waylaid Tristram who unhorsed the king and killed the two knights.

Thereafter there was bad feeling between the king and his nephew.

Mark sent Tristram to Ireland to escort his bride, Isolde, back to Cornwall. They fell in love on the journey and, although she married Mark, she continued to see Tristram until Mark finally banished him to France. He later returned and the lovers took up where they had left off.

In one of the many versions of this tale, Mark and two knights, Amant and Basules, set out to kill Tristram.
Barsules refused to be a party to murder so Mark killed him whereupon Amant charged Mark at Arthur's court and, fighting him on the issue, was killed. Lancelot would have killed Mark but he surrendered and returned to Arthur's court where he promised the king that he would make his peace with Tristram.

He tried to get Tristram killed by entering him in the lists as Lancelot who was hated by Galahaut and by Bagdemagus, but Tristram defeated them both. Mark then, on pretext of healing Tristram's wounds, drugged him and put him in prison.

In one story, persuaded of Isolde's infidelity, he ordered that she and her lover be burnt at the stake. Tristram escaped so Mark handed Isolde over to Ivan, the leader of a group of filthy lepers. Tristram arrived in time to save her.

Some say that Mark killed Tristram with a poisoned spear.

There are various stories of his death. In some versions, after the death of Tristram, Lancelot killed Mark; others say that he was killed by Tristram's son or by Bellengerus; still others maintain that he survived King Arthur and Lancelot and destroyed
Camelot where he was killed by Pamlart. (see also Mark<sup>2</sup>)

Mark<sup>2</sup> British

[=Welsh March ap Meirchion]

a king of Glamorgan

son of Merchiaun

In some accounts, he is equated with Mark, king of Cornwall. If they were separate characters, the rape of Labiane may be attributed to either.

In some accounts he is referred to as Marhaus and is described as a deity with the features of an animal.

Marka Hindu

a demon

markai Pacific Islands

a Melanesian ghost of a dead person
When a person dies, the soul (mari) goes to Kibu, the land of the dead. It becomes a markai, a proper ghost, when it is struck on the head with a stone club. It is then ready to learn about life in Kibu.

Markandeya Hindu

He was the author of Devi-Mahatmya and the 9,000-verse poem Markandeya-Purana.

It is said that he saw the universe from inside Vishnu who swallowed the sage after he had survived an earlier dissolution of the universe.

Markhattu Finnish

a blind cowherd
He caused a water-snake to kill Lemminkainen and threw the hero's body into the river.

Marko Serbian

[(Royal) Prince Marko] son of King Voukashin
brother of Andrias

Some say that he was born of the union of a dragon with a veela.

A Moorish knight demanded the Sultan's daughter as a wife and rode to Istanbul to claim her. Her parents and the princess each wrote to Marko for help and he finally agreed on the promise of a rich reward. He attacked the Moor as he rode in procession to his wedding, killed him and cut off his head.

Another Moor had imposed a wedding tax on the people of Kosovo which was ended when Marko challenged the Moor in his own tent and beheaded him.

When his friend, Milosh and two others were thrown into prison by Voutcha, Marko rode to their rescue. He killed hundreds of the general's soldiers and captured both him and his son, Velimir, releasing them only in return for the release of his countrymen and a large reward.

He married the daughter of Shishman, king of Bulgaria.

When a veela, Raviyoyla, wounded Milosh with arrows, Marko pursued her and forced her to collect herbs that cured his friend. Marko once fought a tremendous duel with Moussa, a brigand, and defeated him but only with the help of his veela. It turned out that Moussa had three hearts, in one of which lived a serpent.

When his veela told Marko that his death was imminent, he broke his weapons, killed and buried his horse Sharatz, and, leaving gold for his tomb, lay down and went peacefully to sleep, never to wake.

Some say that Marko still sleeps in a cave with his sword embedded in a rock and will return when the sword is removed.

Marlah *(see Marduk)Marlowe, Christopher English (1564-1593)

a poet
He wrote Hero and Leander and The Tragedie of Dido.

Marlyn European

son of Ogier by Morgan le Fay

He may be the same as Meurvin.

Marmar *(see Mars)Mamoo Australian

a god of evil
The Aborigines say that Mamoo made all the bugs, insects, snails and other tiny creatures to ravage the pleasant world created by Yhi.

Marmyadose British

a sword of King Arthur
It was said that this sword had been made by Vulcan for Hercules and came into the hands of Retho from whom it was won by King Arthur.

Marnas<sup>1</sup> Arab

a local fertility-god of Gaza

Marnas<sup>2</sup> Greek

a name for Zeus as 'virgin-born'

Marnes

a demon

Maro *(see Virgil)maro-deives Baltic

pest-deities
These beings are said to drive round in coaches drawn by six black horses.

Maroc *(see Marrok)Marocael West Indian

a watchman of the caves Amaiaua and Cacibagiagua

He was turned to stone by the sun's rays and the people confined in the two caves were able to escape but were turned into trees.

Marocco English

[Banks' Horse.Morocco]
a horse said to have climbed to the top of St Paul's cathedral

Maron Greek

a priest of Apollo
son of Euanthes

He gave Odysseus the wine with which he made Polyphemus drunk.

Maronex European

a king of Gaul
His daughter married Jonaans who inherited the throne of Gaul.

Marpesia Greek

an Amazon queen

Marpessa Greek

[Choere.White Goddess]
daughter of Evenus and Alcippe

Her parents would not allow her to marry Idas so he borrowed Poseidon's magic chariot and abducted her. When Apollo, who also loved her, turned her into a kingfisher, Idas fought the god until Zeus parted them. She was asked to choose between the god and the mortal Idas and she chose Idas knowing that Apollo would be forever young while she grew older.

When Idas was later killed, she committed suicide.

Marphisa European

[Marfisa]
a warrior-maid
daughter of Rogero and Galaciella sister of Rogero

She and her brother were abandoned in a boat from which they were rescued by the magician Atlantes who reared them. She was stolen by an Arab chieftain who taught her horsemanship and military arts.

When Rogero was wounded fighting Mandricardo for possession of the sword Durindana, she nursed him back to health and fell in love with him, not realising that he was her brother.

In some accounts, she became Queen of India and, when Albracca was besieged, led an army to release Angelica. She later joined the forces of Charlemagne.

marquis

a rank in the hierarchy of demons

Marquis d'Este European

[Lord of Alban(e).Lord of Allban.

Lord of Auban]

in some accounts, he was the father of Rinaldo

Marra Serbian

[Pepelyouga]
a Serbian Cinderella

Her father married again after his first wife was turned into a cow and her stepmother ill-treated Marra. The story follows the well-known story of Cinderella, except that the lost slipper was made of gold instead of glass.

marré West Indian

the power to control a supernatural being

Marrion European
sister of Morgan le Fay, some say

Marrock British
a giant

He was killed by Eglamour as one of the tasks imposed on him in his quest for the hand of Crystabel.

Marrok British [Maroc]
a Knight of the Round Table

He was changed into a werewolf by his sorceress wife but was restored to human form after seven years.

Mars Roman
[Father Mars.Gradivus.Loucetius.Mamers.

Marmar. Ma(r)spiter.Mavors.Quirinus.
Rigonometis.Silvan.Ultor:=Egyptian
Anhur:=Etruscan Maris:=Greek Ares.Vitricos]

the war-god, god of agriculture, fertility, fields, woods: one of the Olympians

son of Jupiter and Juno

brother of Bellona

brother or husband of Nerio, some say husband of Venus

father of Anteros, Biston, Cupid and Harmonia

father of Faunus, some say

In one account, he raped Ilia (Rhea Silvia) and fathered the twins Romulus and Remus on her.

One story says that he employed the old Anna Perenna as a go-between when wooing Minerva. She told Mars that Minerva was willing to marry him but, when he raised the bride's veil, he found himself looking at Anna herself.

A different version has the minor goddess, Nerio, in place of Minerva while others say that Nerio, rather than Venus, was his wife.

His festivals were Armilustrium (October) and Quinquatrus (March).

Mars Gradivus Roman
Mars as the patron of the Campus Martius.

Mars Loucetius Roman
a name for Mars as 'brilliant'

Mars Mullo Celtic
a god of healing

This deity was a combination of Mars, the Roman war-god and Mullo, the Celtic mule-god.

Mars of Africa (see Rodomont)

Mars Quirinus Roman
a name for Mars as protector of the state

Mars Rigonometis Roman
a name for Mars as king of the sacred grove

Mars Thingsus (see Dings)

Mars Ultor Roman
a name for Mars as 'avenger of Caesar'

Marsiglio (see Marsilius)

Marsile (see Marsilius)

Marsilius European [Marsiglio.Marsile.Marsillus]

a Saracen

king of Spain

husband of Bramimonde

He invaded France when Charlemagne was out of the country but was driven back when Charlemagne attacked, supported by Guerin.

At the instigation of Gano, a traitor in the Emperor's court, Marsilius made a second incursion, combining forces with Agramant, emperor of Africa, another invader. After he had defeated these forces, Charlemagne overran Spain and exacted tribute to be paid to France. Marsilius agreed terms for the withdrawal of the Franks from Spain but reneged on his promises.

In some versions he laid a trap for the rearguard of the withdrawing army, in others the trap was laid for a party led by Roland who returned after the withdrawal to collect the tribute.
In either event, a famous battle ensued
at Roncesvalles during which Oliver, Roland and many other Paladins were killed but the main army of Franks, arriving too late to save these heroes,
routed the Spanish and Moorish forces. Marsilius and Gano were hanged by Charlemagne; others say that Roland cut off the right hand of Marsilius in battle and the Saracen withdrew from the fight, dying later of this wound.

Marsillus (see Marsilius)

Marsique British

a fairy

In some accounts, she stole the scabbard of Excalibur and gave it to Gawain.

Marsk Stig Danish

a hero who fought on behalf of the people against an oppressor

Marspiter Roman

[Maspiter]

a name for Mars as Father Mars

Marsyas Greek

a satyr famous as a flute-player

a Phrygian demi-god

son of Hyagnis, some say

He challenged Apollo to a music-contest playing his double-flute or oboe which Athena had made but abandoned while Apollo played his lyre. Apollo was adjudged to have won and flayed Marsyas alive. Midas was one of the judges at this contest and,

because he cast his vote in favour of Marsyas, Apollo gave him the ears of an ass.

Martamda (see Marttanda)

Martano European

a boastful coward appearing in Orlando Furioso

Martanda (see Marttanda)

Martel, Charles European

[The Hammer]

(c. 688-741)

a king of the Franks

son of Pepin d'Heristal

grandfather of Charlemagne

father of Carloman and Pepin II

In some accounts, he was due to marry the elder daughter of the emperor of Constantinople, Berte, but instead married the younger daughter, Elissent, giving Berte to his vassal, Girart de Roussillon. He later quarrelled with Girart and captured his capital city, Roussillon, but the two were later reconciled.

He defeated the Moors led by Abdallahman at the Battle of Tours
in 732.

Martes French

[Martines]

fairies

These beings were described as large-breasted women living in the rocks.

Martha<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of King Irion wife of Ysaie

mother of Marc

Martha<sup>2</sup> Christian

a French saint

She is said to have killed the monster,
Tarasque (Tarascon), near Marseilles.

Marthim (see Bathym)

Martin<sup>1</sup> European

a parson's son in Reynard the Fox

It was he who set the trap in which Hintze was caught.

Martin<sup>2</sup> European

the ape in Reynard the Fox

mate of Ruckenau

Martin Gonzalez (see Gonzalez)

Martin Krpan Balkan

a Slovene hero who was an attendant

of the Viennese emperor

Martines (see Martes)

Martinet<sup>1</sup> European

a Swiss demon, an ambassador of hell

Martinet<sup>2</sup>

a demon controlling a sorcerer

- Martinianus
one of the Seven Sleepers
- Marttanda Hindu
[Martanda.Martanda.Savitri.Surya]
a sun-god
one of the Adityas
son of Aditi
He was nothing more than a lump of flesh at birth and his mother threw him away. The artisan-god, Tvashtri, shaped him into god-like form and he became known as Vivasvat, marrying Saranyu, daughter of Tvashtri. He became the sun-god, Surya.
(see also Vivasvat)
- Martu<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian
a Sumerian tutelary-god and storm-god
god of the city of Ninab
- Martu<sup>2</sup> (see Amurru)
- Martummere (see Baime)
- martwicc (see upir)
- Martyr, Peter European (1455–1526)
[Pietro Martire d'Anghiera]
an Italian historian
He wrote a book on the legends and mythology of the Americas called De Orbe Novo.
- Maru<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands
[=Maori Tu(-matauenga)]
a Polynesian god of war
- Maru<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
a Polynesian chief
His daughter was promised to the son of Whakaputa but he gave her as wife to Tuakeka. The jilted suitor killed one of Maru's servants, precipitating a battle in which Maru captured the maiden Hinemaka as a wife for his son.
- Maruka Akore East Indian
[Great Protector]
son of Namura
His mother, the first woman, swallowed a fish and produced Maruka Akore. When mature, he mated with his mother to produce the people of New Guinea.
- Marumda North American
a creator-god of the Pomo Indians
brother of Kuksu
He and his brother tried to destroy the world with fire and flood.
- Marunogere East Indian
a Papuan deity living in the underworld, Adiri
He became a culture-hero of Papua, creating the coconut tree and teaching the people how to build and cultivate the land.
- Marupa East Indian
father of Aro and Pora
- Maruta (see Vayu)
- Marutgana (see Maruts)
- Maruts Hindu
[‘marchers’.Marutgana.Rudras] storm-gods
sons of Kasyapa and Diti
sons of Krishna or Dyaus and Prithivi sons of Rudra or Prisni, some say
There were twenty-seven of these gods (or eleven, forty-nine, sixty or 100 in some stories) said to have been produced from one embryo that would have produced just one very powerful god if it had not been shattered by a thunderbolt flung by Indra.
In some stories they are depicted as boars with four tusks or as black-backed swans.
- Marutta Hindu
an emperor
He so pleased the god by sacrifice that he was taken up to heaven.
- Marvan Irish [Marb(h)an] a chief poet
brother of King Guaire
- Marvawr (see Morvawr)
- Marwe African
a culture-heroine in Kenya wife of Sawoye
Monkeys ate the crop she had been set to guard and, in fear of punishment, she threw herself into a lake. Here she became servant to a family living under the water. When she returned home, the woman gave her many gold bangles. She married Sawoye, who had a terrible skin disease which disappeared when they married, and, when her jealous neighbours killed him, she brought him back to life.
- Mary (see Virgin Mary)
- Mary of Egypt (see May Bride)
- Mary of the Gaels (see Brigit)
- Mary of the Irish (see Brigit)
- Mary the Fiery One (see Oynyena Maria)
- Marya Marevna Russian
[Daughter of the Sea]
the personification of the sun
She is envisaged as being immersed in the sea between sunset and sunrise.
- Marzanna Polish [Marzyana]
a fruit-goddess
- Marzyana (see Marzanna)
- Mas-Krebet (see Jaka Tingkir)
- masabo African
a ghost-house
- Masai African
founder of the Masai people
son of Murungu
- Masaki African
a Hausa spirit causing occupational ailments in weavers
- masalai Pacific Islands
animal spirits
These spirits can appear in various human disguises or as other animals or birds, changing shape as they wish and interbreeding with mortals.
- Masan Hindu
a demon or ghost
This demon is said to rise from the ashes of a funeral pyre and afflict children with disease, especially tuberculosis, by scattering ashes over them. In the north of India, the Masan is said to take the form of a bear roaming about in the hills.
- Masani Hindu
a goddess of healing
one of the 6 sisters of Shitala
(see also Shitala)
- Masauwu North American
[=Keres Masewi]
a Hopi war-god, god of death and fire husband of Sand Altar Woman
- Mascarum
[Mascarvin]
a demon associated with death
- Mascarvin (see Mascarum)
- maschalismos Greek
the practice of cutting off the hands and feet of the dead to prevent them from reappearing as ghosts
- mascot
a person, animal or object said to bring good fortune
- Maseriel
a demon of the west
- Masewa (see Masewi)
- Masewi North American [Maasewe.Masewa:=Hopi Masauwu]
a war-god of the Keres
twin brother of Oyoyewa
He was a culture-hero who led the tribal ancestors out of their underground kingdom. He killed the Chatwena giantess when the sun told him where she kept her heart – in a rattle made from a gourd.
In some accounts, these twins were the sons of the sun. When they went to visit their father he gave them the weapons with which to kill monsters.
These twins are the equivalent of the Zuni Ahayuta achi.
- Masgabriel
an angel of the fourth heaven
associated with north and Sunday
- Masha (see Mashye)
- Masha Manido (see Kisha Manido)

Mashe (see Mash Mountain)
Mashenomak (see Misikinebik)
Mashia (see Mashye)
Mashiane (see Mashyane) Mashira African
 a Burundi sage who advised Kanyarundi to have a sword made and to kill the serpent living in a cave
Mash Mountain Mesopotamian
 [Mashe]
 a mountain crossed by Gilgamesh which separated the land of the living from the land of the dead (see also Mashti) Mashongavudzu African
 first wife of Mwari
Mashoyi (see Mashyane)
Mashti Mesopotamian
 [Mus(c)as] a mountain encountered by Alexander during his search for the Water of Life (see also Mashe)
Mashtu Mesopotamian
 a child of the moon-goddess, Nannar, some say twin of Mashtu
Mashu Mesopotamian
 a child of the moon-goddess, Nannar, some say twin of Mashtu
Mashya (see Mashye)
Mashyagh (see Mashye)
Mashanagh (see Mashyane)
Mashyane Persian
 [Mashanagh.Mashiane.Mashoyi.Mashyoi]
 the first woman
 She is regarded as the mother of the human race and is said to have grown like a plant from the seed of Gayomart, being born at the age of fifteen.
Mashye Persian [Mashia.Mashya(gh)]
 the first man
 He is regarded as the father of the human race and is said to have grown like a plant from the seed of Gayomart, being born at the age of fifteen.
Mashyoi (see Mashyane)
Masi Pacific Islands
 [People, of Morodo:
 =Hawaiian Menehune:
 =Marshall Islands Anjinmar.Nonieb
 =Ponape Tsokelai]
 a Melanesian spirit of the foolish dead Masilo African
 a legendary ancestor of the Basuto brother of Masiloniyane
 He killed his brother and took his cattle but the crime was revealed by a bird or, in some accounts, by a dog.

Masilonyane African
 a legendary ancestor of the Basuto brother of Masilo
 He was killed by his brother who took his cattle but the crime was revealed by a bird or, in some accounts, by a dog.
Masjid al-aqsa (see Bayt Al-Ma'mur)
Maslum (see Malsum)
masokjawi (see churchi tuboh)
Masora Pacific Islands
 in the lore of the Moluccas, one of the first men
 brother of Maapiti
 His brother had been rewarded by the goddess, Kuwe, for picking lice from her body by turning the ripe fruit he picked into a beautiful maiden.
 Masora, less enthusiastic at removing the lice, picked a fruit which was not quite ripe and his reward was a somewhat ugly girl with a squint. Jealous of his brother, Maapiti killed Masora but he was restored to life by Kuwe.
Maspiter (see Marspiter)
Mass of St Sécaire French
 a black mass in Gascony
 It is said that the person against whom the mass is directed will fall ill and die.
Massassi African
 the first woman in the lore of the Makoni
 the morning star
 She was created by Maori and mated with Mwuetsi to produce vegetation.
Masset San (see Sga'na)
Massin Biambe African
 a creator-god of the Mundang
 This deity created the primaeval beings, Mebeli and Phebele, progenitors of mankind.
Mastamho North American
 a creator-god of the Mohave
 brother of Matavilya
 He made a cane from his own breath and saliva and, when he pushed it into the earth, a river flowed forth. He then travelled down the length of the river in a boat, forming the shape of the country as he went.
Mastarna Roman
 an Etruscan
 He rescued his friend Caeles Vibenna, leader of the Etruscans, who had been captured by the Romans.
 In some accounts he is later known as Servius Tullius.
Mastema
 a fallen angel
 a leader of evil spirits

He is said to rule those born from those fallen angels who mated with mortals. This name is sometimes used as a name for the Devil.
Master (see Hunapu)
Master Carpenter North American
 a supernatural being in the lore of the Haida
 He built himself a canoe under the direction of The Greatest Fool and sought out and challenged the south-east wind, bringer of storms. The wind-god called all his nephews to help him and they battered Master Carpenter until he was finally compelled to relinquish his hold on their uncle. Some say that the wind-god was killed, others that he returned to his home.
Master Kong (see Confucius)
Master Leonard (see Leonard)
Master of Animals (see Desana.Hermes.Jaguar)
Master of Breath (see Esaugetuh Emissee)
Master of Life North American
 a supreme god of the Delaware tribe ruler of the Island of the Blessed Master of the Drum (see Votan)
Master of the Universe (see Obalwaye)
Master, The Greek
 a name and attribute of Hermes Master Thief Greek
 a name given to various characters noteworthy as thieves
 Some of these are Autolyclus, Cacus and Hermes.
Mastho
 a demon of delusion Mastiphal
 a demon, prince of darkness
mastodon Central American
 a pre-historic elephant
 This beast was regarded by the Maya as the earthly manifestation of the supreme being.
Mastor Greek
 father of Halitherses Mastor-ava Russian [Mastor Pas:=Cheremis Melande-awa]
 a Mordvin tutelary spirit, guardian of the earth
Mastor Pas (see Mastor-ava) Mastralia Roman
 a festival in honour of Mater Matuta, April 11th Mastusius Greek
 a noble of Elaeus
 When Mastusius objected to the king's annual practice of sacrificing a virgin to avert plague, Demophoon took the daughter of Mastusius as the next victim. In revenge, Mastusius killed the king's daughters and gave their father a cup of their blood to drink. Demophoon killed him by throwing him and the cup into the sea.

Masubi Japanese
a Shinto god of growth

Mat Chinoi Malayan
a supernatural being

He is regarded as the chief of a race of beings who live in trees and flowers and act as messengers for the supreme being, Tak Pern.

He is envisaged as a huge snake in whose body there are many beautiful female chinoi supervised by a male chinoi, known as Halak Ghimal, who sits on Mat Chinoi's back. To claim a bride, a male must pass successfully through a curtain of opening and closing mats made by Mat Chinoi for Tak Pern, and then through a tobacco-box with a lid that is always opening and closing.

Mata<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[=Tamil Amma]
a mother-goddess

Mata<sup>2</sup> Irish
a monster

This beast, said to have four heads and 100 legs, was captured and killed by the Dagda.

Mata-Fatu-Rau Pacific Islands
a goddess of Tahiti
daughter of Oro
sister of Ai-Tupuai, Hoa-Tapu
and Toi-mata

Mata-Syra-Zemla Russian [Mati-Syra-Zemlya:=Lett Zemes Mate: =Lithuanian Zemnya]
a vegetation goddess

Worshippers could make contact with her by talking directly into a hole in the ground.

Mata Upolu Pacific Islands
in Polynesian lore, the east wind

matabiri East Indian an evil Papuan swamp-spirit

Matabrune European
mother of Oriant

When her daughter-in-law, Beatrix, gave birth to septuplets, Matabrune gave the children to her servant, Marcon, with instructions to kill them and then substituted seven puppies.

She later persuaded her son to send Beatrix to the stake but Elias, one of the seven children, came to the rescue, defeated Matabrune's champion and had Matabrune herself burnt at the stake intended for Beatrix.

matagaigai East Indian a Papuan tree-spirit

If one of these spirits should touch the sick, death will follow.

matagi<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands
the winds, controlled by Maui

Matagi<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands
[=Hawaiian Makani]
a Samoan wind-god

matakau Pacific Islands
an amulet, sometimes in the form of an animal figure, used to deter thieves

Matakichi Japanese
a fisherman
son of Kansuke

When a small island appeared and a bright light shone from the sea-bottom, he and his father set out to investigate. Kansuke fell into the sea and went straight to the bottom. Matakichi dived into the water but, although he discovered that the light was coming from the Great Awabi on the sea-bed, he failed to find his father.

He became a disciple and, when he and a priest prayed for Kansuke's soul, the spirit of the Great Awabi appeared and confessed that he had eaten Kansuke. Giving instructions that Matakichi should receive the huge pearl inside his body, the Great Awabi killed himself.

Matali<sup>1</sup> Hindu
driver of Indra's chariot

Matali<sup>2</sup> Hindu
one of the 8 Yogini, demonesses
attendant on Durga

Matanga Hindu
an ascetic

Born of a Brahmin lady by a low caste man, he became an ascetic. It was said that he stood on one toe for hundreds of years and achieved the power of flight.

Matao-Anu Pacific Islands
[Cold Space]

one of 4 storm-gods
(see Multitude of Space)

Mataora Pacific Islands
a Polynesian prince husband of Niwareka

He married a fairy, one of the Turehu, but she left him and returned to her home in Rarohenga when he abused her. He went in search of her and was allowed to enter the gateway, Pouter-Rangi, where Kuwatawaka stood guard. He found his wife Niwareka and they were reconciled. Bearing a magic cloak, Rangi-Haupapa, given to him by his wife's father, he brought her back to the upper world and the guardian, Tiwaiwaka, closed the gate behind them so that no mortals could ever again travel to the fairy paradise.

Matara Hindu
a mother-goddess
consort of Kasyapa

Mataras Hindu
groups of goddesses regarded as divine mothers

The groups may be seven (Saptamataras), eight (Astamataras or Matrikas), nine (Navasaktis) or more.

Matariki Pacific Islands
in Polynesian lore, the 7 stars of the Pleiades regarded as gods

Matarisavan Hindu
[Matarisvan.Matariswan]
a messenger-god, an attendant
on Agni

He helped Brighu overcome the demon Makha.

Matarisvan (see Matarisvan)

Matariswan (see Matarisvan)

Matavilya North American [=Dieguenos Tuchaipai]

a creator-god of the Mohave
brother (or son) of Mastamho
father of Frog

When he upset his daughter, Frog, she ate his excrement, so causing his death.

Matche-manitou (see Manitou)

Matchi Manitou North American
a Chippewa deity

In some versions he was a benevolent spirit, in others the personification of evil. (see also Manitou)

Mate-Anu Pacific Islands
[Space of Cold Death]
one of 4 storm-gods
(see Multitude of Space)

Mateba African
sister of Nkongolo
twin sister of Bulanda

Her brother, King Nkongolo, allowed the visiting prince, Mbidi Kiluwe, to sleep with both his sisters. Bulanda produced Kalala Ilunga and Mateba bore twins.

(see tebo)

matebo (see tebo)

Mater Matuta Roman
[Aurora.Matuta:=Greek Eos.Ino]
a sea-goddess, goddess of growth, childbirth or the dawn

In some versions she is equated with Leucothea (Ino).

Mater Turrita Roman

[Great Mother:=Greek Rhea:
=Phrygian Cybele]

an earth-goddess, goddess of fertility
Her attendants were the noisy Corybantes.

materialisation

the appearance of a ghost

Math Welsh

[Math Hen.Old Treasure]

a god of wealth and winds
king of Gwynedd
son of Mathonwy
brother of Dôn

He always had to rest his feet in the lap of a virgin except when he was called away to battle. In order to get access to Goewin, one of these virgins, Gilfaethwy and his brother Gwydion tricked Pryderi with phantom horses in exchange for real pigs, so causing Pryderi to invade Gwynedd. Math had to leave Goewin to lead his men, giving Gilfaethwy the chance to seduce her. When she confessed what had happened, Math married her and punished Gilfaethwy and his brother by turning them successively into male and female deer, swine and wolves. In each form they produced offspring which Math turned into boys. He later restored Gilfaethwy and Gwydion to human form and took as his new footholder Aranrhod, daughter of Don, who gave birth to two (or three) sons. One of these, Llew, was raised by Gwydion who, with the help of Math, made a non-human wife for Llew. She was called Blodeuedd.

In some accounts, Math Hen, god of wealth and winds, is regarded as separate from Math, son of Mathonwy, in others he is identified with March ap Meirchion.

Math Son of Mathonwy Welsh
the story of Math in The Mabinogion

Math Hen (see Math)

Mathgen Irish

a Danaan druid at the second Battle of Moytura

He is said to have brought mountains down on the heads of the enemy.

Mathghamhain Irish

a king of Munster
brother of Brian Boru

When Mathghamhain was killed, Brian became king of Munster and, later, high-king.

Mathiel

an angel of the fifth heaven associated with the north

Mathim (see Bathym)

Matholch (see Matholwch)

Matholwch Irish

[Mallolwych.Matholch.Mattholoch]

king of Ireland
husband of Branwen
father of Gwern

When the king married Branwen, Efnisien, Bran's unstable half-brother, mutilated many of the horses of his courtiers. Although Matholwch accepted the magic Cauldron of Rebirth from Bran in compensation and the quarrel was patched up, some of the courtiers were still angry and eventually demanded that Branwen be demoted to the status of kitchen-maid. She managed to get a message carried to Bran by a starling and he came to her rescue at the head of an invading army. Matholwch surrendered and handed over the kingdom to his son Gwern. When Efnisien killed the boy by pushing him into the fire, a fight broke out in which Matholwch and all his court were killed and few of Bran's men survived. In some versions, the whole population of Ireland was killed with the exception of five pregnant women who, in time, repopulated the country.

Mathonwy Welsh

a sky-god
father of Don and Math

Mathu Irish

one of a triad of gods referred to in Christian accounts as 3 heathen prophets

The others in the group were Goibhniu and Nuada.

Mathura Hindu

the birthplace of Shiva

Mathuranath Hindu

a name for Krishna as lord of Muttra

Mati-Syra-Zemlya
(see Mata-Syra-Zemla)

Matlalcueye Central American

[Lady of the Blue Robe]
an Aztec fertility goddess and rain-goddess

Matong African

a boy whose only possession was a bull This animal protected Matong and even fought lions for him.

Matowelia North American

a culture-hero of the Mohave Indians who led them to their homeland

Matrae (see Matres)

Matralia Roman

a festival in honour of Mater Matuta held on June 11th

Matres Roman

[Deae Matres.Matronae.The Mothers:
=Welsh Mamau]

Celtic mother-goddesses, goddesses of the household

Matrikas Hindu

[Astamataras]

8 goddesses attendant on Durga

They are the guardians of mortality and the enemies of the demons that lure men from the path of duty. Each one opposes the efforts of a particular spirit, thus:

Brahmani v Mada
Camunda v Paisunya
Indrani v Matsarya
Kumari v Moha
Maheshvari v Krodha
Vaishnavi v Lobha
Varahi v Asuyu
Yogeshvari v Kama

Some say that they were created as saktis of the eight gods present at a meeting to decide how to deal with the king of the demons and his followers.
Others say that they were created by Durga (Kali) as copies of herself to help her in the fight with the demon Raktavija. (see also Lasya)

Matrirupa Hindu

a goddess of living things, a manifestation of Lakshmi

Matris (see Gramadevata)

Matroco European

a giant
nephew of Archalaus
son of Arcabone
brother of Argantes and Furion

He arrived at the head of his fleet just after Esplandian had killed his uncle and brothers while rescuing the old king, Lisuarte, from the castle on the Forbidden Mountain. He fought with Esplandian and was defeated, dying
after embracing the Christian faith.

Matron of the Measure
(see Queen of Heaven)

Matrona European

[Divine Mother:=Welsh Modron]
a Celtic water-goddess, goddess of the Marne
mother of Maponus

In some accounts she is equated with Morgan le Fay.

Matronae (see Matres)

Matronae Devones
(see Fatae Devones)

Matronalia Roman

a festival in honour of Juno Lucina held on March 1st

Matsarya Hindu

a demon

He was opposed by one of the Matrikas, Indrani.

Matshehawaituk North American

[=Menominee Matshehawaituk]
in the lore of the Menominee,
evil personified

Matsi Niouask North American

[=Abnaki Matsi Niouaski]
in the lore of the Abnaki, evil personified

Matsu Japanese

a servant of Shingé

Matsue Japanese

wife of Teoyo

She loved the pine-tree near her home and made herself a dress from the pine-needles and wore it when she married Teoyo, a young man she had rescued from the sea. When the loving couple died in old age, their spirits returned to wander round the pine-tree.

Matsui Japanese

a man who killed the spirit of a cherry-tree

Matsui tried to kill the ghost of a beautiful woman who stood beside a cherry-tree and succeeded only in killing the tree. Thereafter, the portrait of a woman in his bedroom got progressively older, blood oozed from the painting and the face eventually became a skull. Matsui was driven mad and killed himself.

Matsumura Japanese

a priest

He went to the Shogun and asked for funds to repair his monastery and took a house where the well was always full of water, even when a drought struck the city. Many people had thrown themselves into the well for some unknown reason. Matsumura saw a beautiful woman, Yayoi, in the water and she reappeared when the drought ended. She had been forced by the Poison Dragon to lure people to their death. She disappeared again and, when Matsumura cleaned out the well, he found her mirror which he cleaned and kept safely. When she appeared again, she explained that she was the soul of the mirror. She warned Matsumura to leave as his home would be destroyed in a flood and told him to present the mirror to the Shogun. When the priest gave the mirror to the Shogun, he was rewarded with money to repair his monastery.

Matsuo Japanese

a Shinto god of saké-makers

matsuri Japanese

a Shinto festival

Matsya Hindu

[Matsya-avatara]

the first incarnation of Vishnu, as a fish
In this form, he saved Vaivasvata (Manu), the progenitor of mankind, from the flood by advising him on how to build a ship and then towing it to safety. He also killed the demon Hayagriva when he tried to steal the Vedas from the sleeping Brahma.

(see also Brahma.Prajapati)

Matsya-avatara (see Matsya)

Matsya-Purana Hindu

a poem of some 14,000 couplets
This work, sets out the law of Manu with some mythological sequences, and was dictated to Manu by Vishnu.

Matsyendra Hindu

[Matysendranatha:=Nepalese Avolokiteshvara:=Tibetan Luipa.
Minanatha]

a 10th c sage

one of the 9 nathas

He was the founder of one of the branches of Tantrism.

Matsyendranatha (see Matsyendra)

Matter of Britain, The British

the stories of King Arthur and his knights

Matter of France, The European

the stories of Charlemagne and his paladins

Matter of Rome, The

the classical myths of Greece and Rome

Mattholoch (see Matholwch)

Matu African

mother of Efé

Matuku Pacific Islands

[Whakatau]

a cannibalistic demi-god

son of Tawhaki

brother of Tahiti Tokerau and

Waheiora

He was said to be able to walk on the bottom of the sea.

He was killed by Rata to avenge the death of Rata's father (or grandfather) at the hand of Matuku and Wahieroa, and when Rata cut off Matuku's head, the ogre's spirit became the bitter.

Other versions say that Rata killed Matuku by throwing hot coals into the giant's mouth while another had Wahieroa killed by lizards and Matuku as a shark from which Rata recovered his father's body parts.

Rata himself was killed by lizards.

Matun (see Khadir)

Maturaiviran Hindu

a local god of wine

He was a mortal, a policeman who ran away with a princess, and was later deified.

Matuta (see Mater Matuta)

Matuu Pacific Islands

the north wind

Matu'u-ta'u-ta'ua Pacific Islands

In Tahiti, a huge bird which can swallow a man

Matuyel

an angel of the fourth heaven

associated with north and Sunday

Matvutsini South American

a creator-god of the Xingu

He first made a woman from a shell and they mated to produce a son who became the ancestor of the Xingu tribe.

When some of the people died, Matvutsini tried to restore them in a ceremony in which he decorated kuarup logs and tried to bring them to life. This failed because the people failed to carry out his instructions for honouring the logs and so death became a permanent feature of the human condition.

Maty-Tapire Hindu

a dwarf, depicted as lame

Matyavela Central American

father of Mustamho

Mau (see Bast.Maau)

Maudgalyayana Buddhist

a disciple of the Buddha

the Tibetan version of Radish

Maugis European

[Mal-hist.Malagis]

the French version of the Italian Malagigi

Maugys (see Mawgin)

Maui Pacific Islands

[Aitu.Koriro.Maui-Potiki.

Maui-Tikitiki.Mawi.Mowee.Tama Rangii]

a trickster-hero and sun-god

semi-divine son of Makea and Taranga or of Taranga alone

brother of Hina-ika and Hina-keha brother of Sina

husband of Rohe

As an infant, he was thrown into the sea wrapped in a tuft of his mother's or sister's hair and was saved from drowning by an ancestor, the sky-god Tama.

Alone he pushed up the sky to give men more room to move, trapped the sun in a net made from the hair of his sister, Hina-ika, made it slow its motion across the heavens to give a longer day and fixed the stars in the sky. He killed his grandmother so that he could use her jawbone as a hook to fish up the islands from the sea-

bottom and he stole fire from Mahuika in the underworld for the benefit of mankind or, some say, learned the secret of fire from the mud-hens.

When Hina left her eel-husband Te Tuna she took Maui as a lover. Twice they fought over her and on the second occasion Maui succeeded in killing Te Tuna and buried his head from which sprang the first coconut tree.

Another story tells how he hooked a monstrous fish which, as he towed it behind his boat, split into many pieces to form the islands of the Pacific or, in some versions, into two large pieces which became the two islands of New Zealand.

He crept through the body of the sleeping Hine-nui-te-po, goddess of death, in an abortive attempt to win immortality for the human race but he was killed when she squeezed him.

His blood gives the rainbow its colours and causes shrimps to be red.

His weapon was the jawbone of his ancestress Muri-ranga-whenua and he is credited with the invention of sails and fish-hooks.

Maui-Pae Pacific Islands

brother of Maui

Maui-Potiki Pacific Islands

a name for Maui as 'last-born'

Maui-Roto Pacific Islands

brother of Maui

Maui-Taha Pacific Islands

brother of Maui

Maui-Tikitiki Pacific Islands

a name for Maui as 'topknot'

Maui-Whao Pacific Islands

brother of Maui

Mauleon Pacific Islands

a giant who was released by

Tinosa

Mauli African

the supreme spirit of the Shona people

Maung Tin De (see Min Magaye)

mauri (see Min Magaye)

Maurice Irish

father of Gearoid Iarla

When the goddess Aine was bathing in a lake, Maurice stole her cloak which gave him power over her. He slept with her and she bore a son, Gearoid Iarla, whom she presented to his father.

Maut (see Ma<sup>3</sup>)

Mauthara Hindu

a maid-servant of Kudra

Mauthe dog Isle of Man

[Moddey Dhoo]

a ghostly dog said to haunt Peel

Castle or the Isle of Man

mauvantara Hindu

an age of the world

mavje (see navky)

Mavors (see Mars)

Mavu East Indian

daughter of Maivia Kivavia

sister of Moro

She and her sister and brothers became the ancestors of the tribes of New Guinea.

Mavutsinim South American

supreme god of the Kamaiura Indians

He made a woman from a shell. She produced a son and then returned to her former state.

Mawa (see Mawu)

Mawaraten Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Maweja African

a supreme god in the Congo

Mawgin British

[Maugys]

a giant killed by Gingalin

Mawi (see Maui)

Mawn (see Mawu<sup>1</sup>)

Mawr Pen Aethir Welsh

a supreme deity

Mawu<sup>1</sup> African

[Maou.Mawa.Mawn]

a moon-goddess of the Fon

a creator-god, child of Minona, some say

twin sister of Lisa

mother of Da, Gu and Legba

In some versions, Mawu is male and Lisa female. Others give her name as Mawn.

In some accounts, Mawu is synonymous with Legba.

Mawu<sup>2</sup> African

[Maou.Mawa]

a sky-god of Togo

Mawu<sup>3</sup> African

[Maou.Mawa]

a name for god in West Africa

Mawu-Lisa African

[Mawu-Liza]

creator-god of the Fon

twin brother of Mawu

procreator of Agbe, Age, Dan Ayido

Hwedo, Gu, Heyveso and Naete

A dual-sex divinity, offspring of another androgynous deity Nana Buluku, combining Mawu the female aspect and Lisa the male aspect. In some versions, Mawu is male and Lisa female. They were said to have produced the first humans, seven pairs of twins.

Mawu-Liza (see Mawu-Lisa)

Maxen (see Macsen)

Maximian (see Macsen)

Maximianus<sup>1</sup>

one of the Seven Sleepers

Maximianus<sup>2</sup> (see Macsen)

Maximus<sup>1</sup> Serbian

a prince

While his father was away, seeking the hand of the Doge's daughter for his son, this handsome young man developed small-pox and became exceedingly ugly. Milosh took his place and wooed the maiden but Maximus fought and killed Milosh and claimed his bride who was not in the least repelled by his ugly visage. As a result of a battle between the followers of Maximus and Milosh which left very few alive, Maximus went to Turkey in disgust and embraced Islam.

Maximus<sup>2</sup> (see Macsen)

Maxtla Central American

a king of the Tecpanec

He inherited the throne when his father died and carried on the feud with Nezahualcoyotl, the prince of Tecuco, whose father had been killed by the invading Tecpanecs. After several failed attempts to kill the prince, Maxtla invaded Tecuco and the prince became a fugitive. Eventually, the people got tired of Maxtla's despotic rule and rebelled. Led by the prince, they defeated the forces of Maxtla who was captured and killed.

May Bride, The Saxon

[Mary of Egypt]

a love-goddess

May Molloch

(see Maid of the Hairy Arms)

May Queen (see Olwen)

Maya<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

the Buddhist heaven

This realm is said to have thirteen layers.

Maya<sup>2</sup> Buddhist

[Mahamaya.Maia.Maya-Bunin.

Mayadevi.Tara:=Hindu Lakshmi]

daughter of Anjana

sister of Prajapati

wife of Suddhodana

mother of the Buddha

It is said that she dreamt that she saw the future Buddha enter her womb in the form of a little white elephant with six tusks. She died soon after his birth.

Maya<sup>3</sup> Burmese

[Maia]

a primaeval mother-goddess

Maya<sup>4</sup> Central American
a rain-god
He is depicted with a long snout.

Maya<sup>5</sup> Hindu
[Maya]
a sea-demon
one of the Daityas

maya<sup>6</sup> Hindu [abhicara.indra-jala.maia] divine power: illusion: magic

Maya<sup>7</sup> Hindu
[Maya]
a name for Deva as illusion personified

Maya<sup>8</sup> Hindu
[Maya]
a king of Talatala, part of the underworld

Maya Bunin (see Maya<sup>2</sup>)

Maya Kasyapa (see Kasyapa)

Maya Pek Central American
the dog of lightning

Mayadevi (see Maya<sup>2</sup>)

Mayahual (see Mayahuel)

Mayahuel Central American [Mayahual.Mayahuel.Precious Tree]
a fertility goddess, goddess of intoxication

wife of Xochipilli

This young girl, who came from the underworld and was guarded by the old woman, Tzitzimitl, was awakened by the Aztec wind-god, Ehecatl. They mated, joined in the form of Precious Tree, to introduce sex to mankind. When she died her bones grew into vines and she was deified.

Another version says that she was carried off by Quetzalcoatl. Her body was later torn to pieces by animals and agave plants grew from the pieces.

In some accounts, she was the daughter of an earthly farmer, Patecatl, who discovered alcohol. Having seen a mouse apparently drunk from eating the seeds of the agave, she boiled some seeds to produce the intoxicating drink, pulque.

As a result, she was deified and became the wife of Xochipilli.

She is depicted with four hundred breasts and is often shown sitting in front of the agave.

mayamoyi Hindu

a ploy practised by Vishnu

He was able to frustrate many enemies of the gods by asking what it was that they wanted and then deluding them into believing that he had given it to them.

Mayarati Hindu

[Mayavati]

a name of Rati as 'great deceiver'

Mayasuta Hindu

a name for Kama as son of Lakshmi

Mayahuel (see Mayahuel)

Mayavati (see Mayarati)

maye African

a Hausa sorcerer

Mayet (see Ma<sup>2</sup>)

Mayi Hindu

the god Kama as 'the deluder'
(see also Mara<sup>2</sup>)

Mayin Siberian

the supreme god of the Tungus

Maymon (see Amaimon.Mammon<sup>2</sup>)

Maynom
demon said to appear in the form of a sheep

Mayochina North American

a Pueblo deity, the spirit of summer

Mayohu (see Tuchaipai)

Mayon Indian

a Tamil creator-god, a name for Krishna

mayura (see peacock<sup>3</sup>)

Mazadan British

a fairy
husband of Terdelaschoye
father of Brickus

In some accounts, he is said to be an ancestor of King Arthur.

Mazainyon Persian
evil demons

Mazat Central American
the seventh of the 20 days of the Aztec month

Symbolising the deer and west, the day was governed by Tlaloc.

Mazda (see Ahura Mazda)

Mazdah Ahura (see Ahura Mazda)

mazikeen Hebrew

[maziqim.mazzikim.mazzikin.shedeem.
s(c)hedim:=Arab jinn]
demons

In some accounts they are regarded as the offspring of Lilith.

mazimwi (see walawatu)

masiqim (see mazikeen)

Mazoe British

sister of Morgan le Fay, in some stories

mazzikim (see mazikeen)

mazzikin (see mazikeen)

Mbale African

a fertility-deity of the Baganda
(see also Mebeli)

Mbamba (see Mbomba<sup>1</sup>)

Mbambe (see Mbomba<sup>1</sup>)

mbari African

a temple of Ala

Mbasi African

brother of Lyambilo and Ngeketo Jealous of Ngeketo who had introduced maize to his people, Lyambilo and Mbasi killed him. When he reappeared in the form of a snake, they cut him into pieces and, when these rejoined, cut him into pieces again. Ngeketo revived once more and went away.

Mbatsav African
spirits of the Tiv ancestors

These spirits are said to travel on birds and sometimes appear as birds or animals.

Mbega African

a hero of the Shambala
father of Buge

Mbere African

a Bantu creator-god

Mbere made a lizard from clay and placed it in water. On the eighth day it emerged from the water as a man.

Mbidi Kiluwe African

a prince

He slept with the twin sisters of King Nkongolo, Bulanda and Mabela. The former produced Kalala Ilunga who was claimed by Nkongolo who later tried to kill him.

mbidla African

a diviner in Cameroon

Mbir South American

[Mirachucha]

a creator-god of the Guarayu

Mbir first appeared as a worm living in the reeds that grew in the primordial waters. The worm changed into a man, Mirachucha, who created the world.

mbolom African

Cameroon mountain spirits

Mbomba<sup>1</sup> African

[Ianda.Kiara.Komba.Mbomba.Mbombe.
Mbombo.Mpambe.Njakomba.White Giant]
a creator-god of the Bakuba
father of Mweel and Woot

He quarrelled with his fellow-deity, Ngaan, and went to heaven where he disgorged the sun, moon and stars followed by trees, animals and humans. Ngaan took the undersea world.

Mbomba<sup>2</sup> African

[Mboom.Sangu]
a monster river-god of the Wele people

Mbombe African

a mother-goddess in Zaire wife of Itonde

mother of Lianja and Nsongo

Her children were born from her thigh, fully grown. She is also regarded as the mother of all animals.

Mbombo (see Mbomba)

Mbon Malay

a wind-spirit

- one of the original nats created by Chinum Way Shun
- Mbongo African
a river-god in Zaire
He is regarded as the creator of all the black tribes.
- Mboom (see Mbomba<sup>2</sup>)
- Mbori African
supreme god of the Azande people of Zaire
- Mbotombo African [Mbotumbo]
an ape-headed creator-god in the Ivory Coast area
- Mbotumbo (see Mbotombo)
- Mbulu-Mbembe African
a water-monster
- Mbumba Luangu African [Rainbow Snake]
the rainbow
In the Congo, the rainbow is said to be a reflection of this snake as it rises from the water.
- Mbuya African [Grandmother]
a name for the female aspect of Mwari
- Mbwasho African
mother of Liongo
- mchawi African
an East African sorcerer
- Mchemnito North American
in the lore of the Potowatomi people,
evil personified
- Me-log-ma (see Puspa)
- Me-phem-pa (see Ma-p'am-pa)
- Meabel Irish
[Mabel.Mebale]
one of the 3 names for the wife of the Dagda
She was alternatively known as Breng or Meng.
- Mead of Inspiration Norse
a magic brew made by the dwarfs Fialar and Galar from the blood of the sage, Kvasir
In some accounts, the giant Gilling made the brew and the dwarfs killed him to obtain it. They were later forced to hand it over to Suttung who passed it on to his daughter, Gunlod, from whom it was stolen by Odin for the use of the gods.
- Meadhbh (see Maev)
- Meadhbha (see Maev)
- Mean Roman
an Etruscan deity
- Meander Greek
a Phrygian river-god
- Meanderi East Indian
a Papuan goddess
- She is credited with the invention of taro and sugar-cane.
- Meantheus Greek [Melanthius.Meanthius]
a goatherd
- Meanthius (see Meantheus)
- Mearatsim South American
a spirit of the Xingu
- Meargach Irish
husband of Aille
He was killed in battle by Oscar.
- Meas Buachalla (see Mess Buachalla)
- Meas Corb Irish
son of Cu Chorb
brother of Cairbre Cluitheachair, Cormac Lusc and Nia Corb
- Meas Deadh Irish
a warrior of Ulster
a pupil of Cuchulainn
He was killed in one of the battles between Ulster and Leinster.
- Meas Geaghra Irish [Mesgedra.Mesgegra]
a king of Leinster
husband of Buan
He was killed in single combat and decapitated by Conall Cearnach who thus avenged the death of his two brothers at the hand of Meas.
Conall used the brains of Meas, crushed and mixed with lime, to make the 'brain ball' which he deposited at Emain Macha and which was later used by Cet to kill Conor mac Nessa.
In other versions, it was the brains of Mac Da Tho, who is called Mesgora Mac Da Tho in some accounts, which Conall used to make the 'brain-ball'.
(see also Mac Da Tho)
- Mebale (see Meabel)
- Mebege African
a creator-god in the Congo and Gabon
He is said to have created humans by mixing a hair from under his arm with part of his own brain and a pebble which he then breathed on to form an egg.
This he gave to the spider, Diaboba,
and then fertilised it, whereupon it cracked open and human beings emerged. In similar fashion, he created termites and worms which built the world into which the humans ventured as soon as it had hardened.
- Mebeli African
the primaeval female created by Massim Biambe
She mated with the primaeval male,
Phebele, to produce the human race.
(see also Mbale)
- Mecca-stone (see carnelian)
- Mechanitis (see Athena)
- Mechi Irish
[Meiche]
son of Morrigan
He had three hearts, each of which contained a serpent. Dian Cecht killed him to forestall the prophesy that these serpents would ravage Ireland when fully grown. When the hearts were burned and the ashes scattered on the river, all the fish died.
- Mecisteus Greek
one of the Seven against Thebes,
some say
son of Talau and Lysimache, some say father of Euryalus
It is said that he was killed at Thebes.
- Meda Greek
wife of Idomenus
She was seduced by Leucus who, when her husband returned from the Trojan War, killed her and drove Idomenus from Crete.
- Medb (see Maev)
- Medar Irish
brother of the Dagda
- Meddygon Meddfai Welsh
3 famous physicians
The name given to the three sons of the mortal who married a maiden from the Otherworld, living in Llyn y Fan.
Their mother returned to the lake when her husband struck her three careless blows but came back to hand on to her sons the knowledge that made them famous physicians.
- Medea<sup>1</sup> Greek ['cunning'.Medeia]
a sorceress
a priestess of Hecate daughter of Aetes, king of Colchis, and Idyia or Hecate half-sister of Apsyrtus mother of Medus by Aegeus or Jason mother of Mermerus and Pheres
by Jason
She fell in love with Jason when he arrived in Colchis to get the Golden Fleece and lulled the guardian dragon to sleep while Jason took the fleece from the tree where it had been hung, fleeing with him in the Argo.
In one version, she took her half-brother Apsyrtus aboard with her and, when they were chased by the Colchian fleet, killed him and threw pieces overboard to delay the pursuers
as Aetees stopped to collect the pieces for burial. Another version has Apsyrtus with the pursuers, catching up with Jason and agreeing a truce

while the king of the Brygians adjudicated on the fate of both Medea and the fleece. She lured Apsyrtus ashore where Jason ambushed and killed him.

She married Jason after they had been purified of the murder by Circe.

On the voyage back to Iolcus they were attacked by Talos, the bronze guardian of Crete but Medea first drugged him and then removed the pin in his ankle which allowed the vital fluid to drain from his single vein, so killing him. In another version, she prayed to Hades who caused Talos to graze his ankle against a rock, so letting all his blood run out. At Iolcus, Pelias had brought about the death of Jason's parents and his young brother and Medea helped him to exact vengeance. She bewitched Pelias' daughters, Evadne and Amphinome, and induced them to kill and dismember their father and then signalled to the waiting Argonauts who captured the city unopposed. In some stories, she rejuvenated Jason's father, Aeson, who had not died but had been imprisoned by Pelias.

Medea's father, Aetes, was also king of Corinth and when she arrived there with Jason and found the throne vacant she claimed it for herself, ruling with Jason as her king for ten years, bearing seven sons and seven daughters. She had, in fact, poisoned the previous king, Corinthus, and when Jason found this out he set out to divorce her with a view to marrying Glauce, the daughter of King Creon of Thebes. Others say that they lived happily in Corinth as ordinary citizens with two sons and that it was the daughter of the king of Corinth that Jason planned to marry. As a wedding-gift, Medea sent her a crown and a robe which burst into flames when the bride put them on, killing her, her father and many of the guests. Jason was lucky to escape with his life.

Zeus was greatly intrigued by her resourcefulness and fell in love with her but she rejected his advances. Hera who was always jealous of her husband's lovers was so grateful that she offered to make Medea's children immortal if she would offer them in sacrifice. Medea promptly complied and, handing the kingdom over to Sisyphus, fled to Thebes to seek protection from Heracles. Having cured Heracles of his madness, she went on to Athens and became the third wife of King Aegeus whom she had met earlier, promising to procure a son for him. She herself produced a son called Medus. Aegeus had left an illegitimate son, Theseus, with his mother, Aethra, in Troezen and when Theseus arrived at the court to claim his inheritance, Medea tried to poison him. Banished by Aegeus, she fled to Italy, later marrying an Asian king.

When Perses usurped the throne of Colchis, she returned there with Medus who killed Perses and reinstated Aetes as king. Some say that Medea herself killed Perses.

Medea is said finally to have become immortal and to have ruled in the Elysian Fields. In some versions, it was Medea, not Helen, who married Achilles in Hades.

Medea<sup>2</sup> Greek

a play by Euripides

Medea<sup>3</sup> Roman

a book by Ovid

Medecolin North American

[Medicolin]

a race of sorcerers

These were some of the people overcome by Gluskap in his struggle for supremacy.

Medeia (see Medea)

Medeine Baltic

[Mejdejn]

a Lithuanian goddess of woodlands

Meder African

an Ethiopian earth-deity

Medeus (see Medus)

Medha Buddhist

a minor goddess

Medhas Hindu

a sage

Medhbh (see Maev)

Medhbha (see Maev)

Medi Kenago North American

in the lore of the Fox Indians, the spirit of the snapping turtle

Median British

a river flowing through the Waste Forest

Mediator Persian

a name and attribute of Mithra

Medica (see Minerva)

medicine-man

a witch-doctor: a shaman: a magician

In primitive tribes they are said to cure illness by the application of herbs and the use of magic, often under instruction from spirits.

Medicolin (see Medecolin)

Meditrina Roman

a goddess of healing

Meditrinalia Roman

a festival in honour of Jupiter and Meditrina

medium

one acting as an intermediary between this world and the spirit world

mediumism

the phenomenon alleged to be brought about by the action of a medium

Medius (see Medus)

Medon<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Codrus

His father, the king of Athens, was killed in the battle between the Athenians and the Dorians and, since no man could equal his heroism, the role of king was abolished and Medon was made archon for his lifetime.

Medon<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Oileus and Rhene

He fought at Troy and was killed by Aeneas.

Medon<sup>3</sup> Greek

son of Pylades and Electra

a herald of Odysseus

Medoro European

a Saracen soldier

He and Cloridan crept out of their camp at night to recover the body of their leader, Dardinel, who had been killed by Rinaldo. They entered the Christian camp and killed several men in revenge and then started back with the body. They were overtaken by a troop led by Zebrino and Cloridan was killed. Medoro was badly wounded but was saved by Angelica whose knowledge of herbs enabled her to heal his wounds. They sheltered with a shepherd while Medoro recovered and then they married.

Medr (see Beher)

Medraut Welsh

[Dylan.Medrawd.Medrawt]

son of Ludd and Gwyar

nephew of King Arthur

He was originally known as Dylan and later became Mordred. (see Mordred)

Medrawd (see Medraut)

Medrawt (see Medraut)

Medreddy Welsh

father of Medyr

Medus Greek

[Medeus.Medius]

son of Aegeus or Jason and Medea

His mother planned that he should inherit the throne of Athens and, when Theseus arrived to claim his inheritance, Medea tried to poison him. Exposed, she fled to Colchis, taking Medus with her. Perses had usurped the throne of Colchis and Medus (or his mother) killed Perses. Medus took the throne of Colchis and conquered Media.

Medusa<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Gorgo, 'queen', 'ruler'] one of the 3 Gorgons daughter of Phorcus and Ceto sister of Euryale and Stheno
She was originally a beautiful mortal but was changed into an ugly Gorgon by Athena for sleeping with Poseidon in Athena's temple or, in another story, for insulting Athena by claiming to be more beautiful than the goddess. In some versions, Artemis appears instead of Athena.

The only mortal of the three, she was killed and beheaded by Perseus who had promised her head to Polydectes as a wedding-gift. The flying-horse, Pegasus, and the warrior, Chrysaor, sprang from the blood of Medusa when she was killed though some say that Poseidon was the father of Pegasus. Medusa's blood was used by Asclepius – that from one vein to kill, that from another to restore the dead to life.

The head was finally given to Athena who bore it on the aegis, the shield of Zeus, which she carried. Another story has it that the head was buried under the market-place in Athens.

She is depicted as having snakes for hair, wings and, sometimes a beard. It is said that her look could turn people to stone.

Medusa<sup>2</sup> Greek

['queen', 'ruler'] daughter of Sthenelus and Nicippe sister of Alcinoe and Eurystheus

Medyr British

a warrior at King Arthur's court
son of Medredydd

He could split the leg of a wren with an arrow at a distance of many miles.

He was one of the party which accompanied Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Me'emzet (see solar bark)

Me'enzet (see solar bark)

Mefitis Roman

an Italian goddess of sulphurous vapours

Meg (see Long Meg)

Meg Mullach

(see Maid of the Hairy Arms)

Megaera Greek

[Megaira, 'relentless']
one of the 3 Furies

Megaira (see Megaera)

Megamede Greek

wife of Thespius
mother of Procris and 49 other daughters

Megapenthes<sup>1</sup> Greek

king of Tiryns
son of Proetus and Anteia
He exchanged kingdoms with Theseus and took over as king of Argos.

Some say that he killed Perseus who had turned Proetus to stone by displaying the Medusa mask.

Megapenthes<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Menelaus and a slave-girl

Megara Greek

[Megera] princess of Thebes daughter of Creon
wife of Heracles

In one version, Heracles was driven mad and killed Megara and his two sons but in others he killed his brother's children. After he had completed his twelve Labours, he gave Megara to his nephew and charioteer, Iolaus.

Magareus (see Megarius)

Megarius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Megareus]
son of Creon
father of Euaechine father of Hippomenes
some say

He was killed in action against the Seven Against Thebes where he faced Eteoclus at the Neistan Gate and killed him. Some say that he sacrificed his life to save the city by jumping from the battlements. Others say that this was Menoeceus.

Megarius<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Megareus]
a king of Onchestus husband of Iphinoe, some say

He fought with Nisus against Minos. Some say that he was killed, others that he lived to marry Iphinoe and become king of Megara.

Megera (see Megara)

Meges Greek

son of Phyleus
He was a suitor for the hand of Helen and fought at Troy.

Megha Hindu

[cloud]
a name for the elephant Sri-gaja
as a rain-maker

Meghamalin Jain

a monster attacking the twenty-third tirthankara, Parshva

Meghanada Hindu

a minor god
son of Ravana

Meghavahana Hindu

a name of Indra as 'cloud-borne'

Megingiord Norse

[Megin(g)jardir]
the magic belt of Thor which gave him increased strength when he wore it

Megingjardir (see Megingiord)

Meginjardir (see Megingiord)

Megissogwon North American

an evil magician

This man brought disease to the tribes and was killed by Hiawatha.

Mehen Egyptian

a protective serpent

This serpent is said to coil itself round the boat in which Ra travels through the underworld each night in order to protect it from the monster Apophis.

In some accounts Mehen is regarded as a god of the underworld.

Meher (see Mihr)

Mehet-Uret (see Mehet-weret)

Mehet-Weret Egyptian

[Celestial Cow.Mehet-Uret.Meht-Ueret Meh(t)urt.Mehueret]
a mother-goddess
mother of Ra

The personification either of the primitive waters or the underworld waterway used by Ra to return each night to the east, she generated the Seven Wise Ones who helped her to create the world.

In some accounts she is identified with Hathor or Neith.

She is depicted in the form of a cow with the solar disc between the horns.

(see also Neith)

Mehit (see Mekhit)

Mehod

a demon

Mehr (see Mihr)

Mehrem Arab

in some accounts, an ancient creator-god

Meht-Ueret (see Mehet-Weret)

Mehrturt (see Mehet-Weret)

Mehueret (see Mehet-Weret)

Mehurt (see Mehet-Weret)

Mei Lan Chinese

[Ching Lin.Yü Ying Fu Jen]
thirteenth daughter of Tung Wang
Kung and Hsi Wang Mu

Mei Shan Chinese
a sacred mountain, home of Wu Kung Ching

Meiboia Greek
a bee-goddess

Meiche (see Mechi)

Meido (see Yomi-tsu-kuni)

Meilanion (see Melanion)

Meilichian gods Greek minor gods

Meilichios Greek
a snake-deity
Worship of this deity was superseded by worship of Zeus. (see also Zeus)

Meilge Irish
a king
His face broke out in blotches when the bard Fafne composed a satire directed at him.

Meion Greek
a king of Phrygia
husband of Dindyme
father of Cybele, some say
In some accounts, Meion was the father of Cybele and, when he discovered that she had borne a child by Attis, he killed both the baby and its father.

Meirchiaun (see Merchiaun)

Meirchion Welsh
[=British Merchiaun]
the Welsh name for Merchiaun, father of Mark the king of Glamorgan

Meirion Welsh
son of Tybion
When his father, who was one of the eight sons of Cunedda, died before the family settled in Wales, Meirion took his place as one of the founders of the Welsh kingdoms.

Majdejn (see Medeine)

Mejnoun Persian
lover of Leilah

Mekala<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[Rishi Mekala]
father of Narmada, in some accounts

Mekala<sup>2</sup> Siamese
a lightning-goddess

Mekala<sup>3</sup> South American
a female demon of the Aymara
This being is said to damage crops and kill cattle.

Meke Meke (see Makemake)

Mekhala Tibetan
a Lamaist sorceress
sister of Kanakha and Kanakhala

Mekhenti-en-irty Egyptian
a name of Horus as god of moonless nights (see also Harwer)

Mekhenti-irty
(see Horus<sup>2</sup>.Horus of Two Eyes)

Mekhit Egyptian
[Mai-hesa.Mehit]
a lion-goddess
Sakhmet as the consort of Anhur or Osiris.

Melampe (see Melampus<sup>3</sup>)

Melampos (see Melampus)

Melampus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Amythaonius.'blackfoot'.Melampos]
the first mortal prophet son of Amythaon and Idomene or Melanippe husband of Lysippe
brother of Bias
father of Abas
He is said to have kept snakes as pets and they taught him the language of animals when they licked his ears.
His brother, Bias, was required to produce the cattle of Phylacus as the bride-price for Pero, daughter of Neleus. Melampus attempted to steal the cattle for his brother but was caught and imprisoned. While in prison, he heard the woodworm say that the roof was about to collapse and he was moved out just in time to save his life. Phylacus, impressed by this feat, asked him to cure his son, Iphiclus, of his impotence and promised to give him the cattle if he succeeded. He discovered from an old vulture that, as a boy, Iphiclus had been frightened by the bloody knife that his father wielded when he was castrating his rams. He cured Iphiclus with a potion made from wine infused with rust from this old knife and was given the cattle which he then gave to Bias.
He restored to sanity the daughters of Proetus when they were driven mad by Hera for some alleged slight and ran wildly about the fields thinking they were cows. He and Bias shared the kingdom with Proetus as reward.

Melampus<sup>2</sup> Greek [Melampos]
one of the Argonauts
son of Poseidon

Melampus<sup>3</sup> Greek ['blackfoot'.Melampe.Melampos]
one of the dogs of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Melampus, tore him to pieces.

Melampygos (see Heracles)

Melanchaetes Greek [Melanchetes]
one of the dogs of Actaeon
When Artemis discovered Actaeon,

the hunter, watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Melanchaetes, tore him to pieces.

Melanchetes (see Melanchaetes)

Melande-awa Russian

[=Mordvin Mastor-ava]

a Cheremis tutelary spirit, guardian of the earth

Melanea (see Melaneus)

Melaneus Greek

[Melanea]

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Melaneus, tore him to pieces.

Melangell Welsh

daughter of a chieftain

Rather than marry the man her father had chosen for her, she ran away to the mountains where she lived in a cave and made friends with the animals and birds. Brochmael, a prince of Powys, came upon her dwelling while he was hunting and gave her land upon which she set up a convent. She was later regarded as a saint.

Melanion<sup>1</sup> Greek

[M(e)ilanion.Melas]

son of Phrixus and Chalciope

brother of Argeus, Cytisorus and Phrontis

He and his brothers were shipwrecked but saved from drowning when they were picked up by the Argonauts.

In some accounts he is referred to as Melas.

Melanion<sup>2</sup> Greek

the Boeotian name for the runner in the famous race with Atalanta who is otherwise known as Hippomenes

(see also Hippomenes)

Melanippa (see Melanippe)

Melanippe<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Melanippa]

a nymph

wife of Amythaon, some say

mother of Melampus and Bias, some say

In other accounts, Amythaon's wife was Idomene.

Melanippe<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Arne.Melanippa]

daughter of Aeolus and Equippe

wife of Metapontes

mother of Aeolus and Boeotus

by Poseidon

When her sons by Poseidon were born, her father blinded her and exposed the babies who were suckled by a cow. The shepherds who found them gave the children to Theano. They were later returned to the shepherds and rescued their mother who had been imprisoned by her father whom they killed. Poseidon restored her eyesight and she married Metapontes whose wife, Theano, had killed herself. In some accounts, her name is given as Arne.

Melanippe<sup>3</sup> (see Antiope<sup>1</sup>)

Melanippe<sup>4</sup> (see Euipe<sup>1</sup>)

Melanippes (see Melanippus)

Melanippus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Melanippes]

son of Oeneus and Althaea

brother of Tydeus

In some accounts, he was killed by his brother Tydeus in a hunting accident.

Since it had been prophesied that he would kill Tydeus, this may have been a premeditated 'accident'.

Melanippus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Melanippes]

a famous runner

son of Theseus and Perigune

father of Ioxus

Melanippus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Melanippes]

a Theban noble

one of the Sparti

son of Astacus

brother of Amphidocus, Ismarus

and Leades

In the battle against the Seven, he fought at the Proetid Gate where he killed Mecisteus and met Tydeus in single combat. He was killed but mortally wounded Tydeus at the same time. Amphiaræus cut off the head of Melanippus and gave it to Tydeus who split it open and ate the brains before dying.

Melanippus<sup>4</sup> Greek

[Melanippes]

a lover of Comaetho

He made love to Comaetho who was a priestess of Artemis who then sent a plague. The people of Patrae killed both the lovers, sacrificing them to propitiate the goddess.

Melanius Greek

king of Oechalia

father of Eurytus

Melantheus (see Melanthius)

Melanthius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Melantheus]

son of Dolius

brother of Melantho

He sided with the suitors of Penelope against Odysseus when the latter returned from his wanderings and was killed for his treachery.

Melanthius<sup>2</sup> (see Meantheus)

Melantho Greek

a mistress of Eurymachus daughter of Dolius

sister of Melanthius

She sided with the suitors of Penelope against Odysseus when the latter returned from his wanderings and was killed for her treachery.

Melanthus<sup>1</sup> Greek

the helmsman of the ship on which

Dionysus was imprisoned by the crew

Melanthus<sup>2</sup> Greek

a king of Attica

father of Codrus

Melas<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Licymnius

He was killed when fighting for Heracles at Oechalia.

Melas<sup>2</sup> Greek

a prince of Calydon

son of Porthues and Euryte

brother of Agrius, Alcathous

and Oeneus

His eight sons were killed by his nephew, Tydeus, who was banished from Calydon.

Melas<sup>3</sup> (see Melanion<sup>1</sup>)

Melatha North American

the lightning-bird of the Choctaws

Melcarth (see Melkarth)

Melchinus Welsh

[Melkin]

a prophet

In some accounts, he is equated with Maelgwn.

Melchom

a demon acting as a treasurer in hell

Meldos Welsh

a supposed deity, possibly the basis for

Melkt as father of Mabon

Meldred Welsh

a king

It is said that Lailoken told this king that his queen was unfaithful to him.

Meleagans (see Meliagaunt)

Meleagant (see Meliagaunt)

Meleagaunce (see Meliagaunt)

Meleager Greek

[Meleagros]

son of Oeneus or Ares by Althaea

brother of Deianeira husband of Cleopatra

father of Parthenopæus by Atalanta,

some say

At his birth, the Fates decreed that when a piece of wood that they had thrown on to the fire was completely consumed, Meleager would die. His mother quickly doused the flames and hid the brand.

He was one of the Argonauts and became a champion javelin-thrower. It was he who killed the Calydonian boar and presented the skin to Atalanta who had first wounded it. He killed his uncles Plexippus and Toxeus when they objected. Althaea was so angry that, during the battle that ensued when two other uncles led troops against him, she threw the hidden brand on the fire and, as it burnt away, her son died.

In another story, he had killed his mother's brother and, when she cursed him for this deed, he refused to help Calydon when it was attacked by the Curetes. He later relented to the pleas of his wife and joined the fray. Some say that he was killed in the struggle with the Curetes and his grieving sisters (whose tears turned into amber, in some accounts) were changed into guinea-fowl and his mother hanged herself.

Meleagraunce (see Meliagaunt)

Meleagros (see Meleager)

Melech (see Moloch)

Melehan British

son of Mordred

In some accounts, he seized the throne of Britain when his father and King Arthur died at Camlan but was defeated by forces under Lancelot and was killed by Bors.

Melek (see Moloch)

Melek Taos Arab

a symbol of the sun-god, Moloch,

in the form of a peacock on top of a candlestick or pillar

Meles Greek

an Athenian youth

He rejected the love of Timagoras and told him to jump from the Acropolis to prove his love. He did so, killing himself, and Meles, in remorse, killed himself in the same way.

Melete Greek

['practice']

one of the Muses when there were said to be only 3 or 4 of them

Melia Greek

an ash-nymph

daughter of Oceanus and Argia

half-sister and wife of Inachus mother of Aegialius, Io and Phoroneus

(see also Meliae)

Meliad<sup>1</sup> European

[Meliad(i)us.Meliadas.

Melyodas.Rivalin]
king of Lyonesse
son of Felix, some say husband of Blanchefleur or Elizabeth father of Tristram
In some accounts, he was the brother of Mark and Pernam.

As a young man, he abducted the queen of Scotland and fathered a son, Meliad, on her.

For many years, he fought another knight, Morgan, but they finally made peace.

At the court of King Mark, he was champion of a great tournament and, when he asked for the hand of Blanchefleur, the king's daughter, and was refused, he eloped with her and married her. In other accounts, his wife was called Elizabeth.

He was captured by highwaymen (or in some versions of his story by an enchantress) and his wife Elizabeth, pregnant at the time, went in search of him and died, giving birth to Tristram. Meliad was rescued by Merlin who put a spell on his captors.
He later married a daughter of King
Hoel and they had three children.
When he discovered that his wife had tried to poison Tristram, he condemned her to be burnt at the stake but Tristram pleaded for her life and she was saved. He sent Tristram to the court of King Mark to remove him from further danger.

In some accounts, he was killed by his old enemy, Margan.

In an Italian version, he fought a war with King Arthur but made peace when he married Arthur's cousin Eliabel.

Meliad<sup>2</sup> European

[Meliad(i)us.Meliodas] son of Meliad and the queen of Scotland

He was illegitimate so his mother cast him adrift in a boat. He was rescued and brought up by the Lady of the Lake.

Meliad<sup>3</sup> British

[Meliad(i)us.Melias.Meliodas] a squire of Bagdemagus son of a king of Denmark

When his master was wounded in the Grail Quest and returned to Camelot, Meliad rode off with Galahad, leaving him where the road forked. He stopped to look at the roadside table and throne with a bejewelled crown.
When he took the crown, he was attacked by a bearded warrior and left wounded, impaled on a spear. Galahad rescued him and took him back to a chapel where his wounds were tended.

Meliadice British

a descendant of King Arthur daughter of Philippon wife of Cleriadus

Meliadius (see Meliad)

Meliador British

son of a duke of Cornwall husband of Hermondine
He killed Camal, another suitor, to win the hand of Hermondine.

Meliadus (see Meliad.Melot)

Meliae Greek

[Meliai.Melic nymphs]
ash-tree nymphs
These nymphs, who were armed with spears made of ash-wood, were said to have sprung from the blood of Uranus
when he was castrated by Cronus.

(see also Melia)

Meliagant (see Meliagaunt)

Meliagaunce (see Meliagaunt)

Meliagaunt British

[Malagant.Maleagans.Melegans.
Melegant.Meag(r)auunce.Meliagant.
Meliag(r)auunce.Mellyagraunce:
=Welsh Melwas]

son of King Bagdemagus
He loved Guinevere but could make no progress for fear of Lancelot who was the queen's lover, so he captured her and ten of her knights when they were out riding. When Lancelot rode to the queen's rescue, Maliagaunt submitted himself to the queen's mercy and she forgave him. Lancelot slept with the queen that night, leaving blood on the sheets from a wound on his hand received when he forced the window-bars. Meliagaunt accused the queen of being unfaithful to King Arthur by sleeping with one of her ten knights, many of whom had been wounded when captured. Lancelot undertook to meet him in single combat to prove her innocence but the treacherous knight trapped Lancelot in a dungeon and went off to Westminster for the arranged meeting. A maid released Lancelot for the price of one kiss and he arrived at Westminster
in time to save Guinevere once again, killing Meliagaunt even with one hand tied behind his back.

In another version, Lancelot defeated Meliagaunt but, at the queen's behest, spared his life while another says that Guinevere was rescued by Gawain. (see also Melwas)

Meliagrides Greek

sisters of Meleager who were changed into a guinea-fowl at his death

Meliai (see Meliae)

Meliant de Lis (see Melias de Lile)

Melianus British

an ancestor of Lot

Melias (see Meliad<sup>3</sup>)

Melias de Lile British

[Meliant de Lis]
a Knight of the Round Table
He hated Lancelot who had killed his father but he also died at the hand of Lancelot.

Meliboea Greek

one of the Oceanids
wife of Pelasgus
mother of Lycaon

Melic nymphs (see Meliae)

Melicertes Greek

[Melikertes=Roman Portu(m)nus] son of Athamas and Ino brother of Learchus

When Athamas was driven mad by Hera he killed his son Learchus, mistaking him for a stag, and would have killed Melicertes had not Ino snatched him up and plunged with him into the sea. She was changed into the sea-goddess Leucothea and he became the sea-god Palaemon.

Melichios (see Zeus)

Melikertes (see Melicertes)

Melili Mesopotamian

[Umma-Khubur]
wife of Benani
mother of the 6,000 Monsters of the Night

Meliodas (see Meliad)

Melion of the Mountain British

a knight of King Arthur's court
He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravaing and Mordred when they attempted to seize Lancelot in the queen's bedroom. All except Mordred were killed by Lancelot.

Melior<sup>1</sup> British

daughter of Elinus and Pressina
sister of Melisande and Plantina
(see also Melior<sup>2</sup>)

Melior<sup>2</sup> European

a queen
wife of Parthenopeus
She fell in love with Parthenopeus from afar and sent a magic ship to transport him to Chief d'Oire where he lived a life of luxury, waited on by unseen hands. As in the story of Psyche and Cupid, but with the roles reversed, she came to his bed every night but decreed that he must never see her until they were married. Inevitably, he broke the rule and was banished. Later, he was the victor in a tournament where the prize was in the hand of Melior and the two were reunited and married.

(see also Melior<sup>1</sup>)

Meliot de Logris British

a Knight of the Round Table
cousin of Nimue

Nimue was forcibly dragged by Ontelake from Arthur's court where she had gone to reclaim her white bitch which had chased a white stag into the hall where the king's wedding feast was in progress. Meliot challenged Ontelake and they were fighting each other on foot when Pellimore, sent by the king to bring the lady and the intruding knight back to his court, rode up and parted them. Pellimore killed Ontelake and, when Meliot surrendered without a fight, Pellimore took Nimue back to Camelot.

He was badly wounded in a fight in which he killed Gilbert the Bastard and was saved by Lancelot who retrieved a sword and a piece of cloth covering the dead knight in Chapel Perilous and used them to restore Meliot to health.

He was one of the twelve knights who helped Agravain and Mordred when they attempted to seize Lancelot in the queen's bedroom. All except Mordred were killed by Lancelot.

Melisande British

[Melusina.Melusine]
a fairy
daughter of Elinus and Pressina
sister of Melior and Plantina wife of Raymond

She became a serpent below the waist each Saturday as punishment for immuring her father in the mountains. When she married Raymond, he promised never to see her on a Saturday and, when he broke his promise, she left him. Some say that Raymond shut her up in a dungeon.

In some versions, her lower half was fish-like so that she resembled a mermaid. (see also Melusine<sup>1</sup>)

Melissa<sup>1</sup> European

a priestess at the tomb of Merlin
She guided Bradamante in her search for Rogero. When Rogero and Rinaldo were chosen to fight in single combat to decide the war between the Christians and the Saracens, she appeared in the guise of Rodomont and led an attack on the Christian forces, so breaking the agreed truce.

When Astolpho was turned into a myrtle tree by Alcina, Melissa, in the form of Atlantes, rescued him by giving him her magic ring.

Melissa<sup>2</sup> Greek

['bee'] daughter of Melisseus and Amalthea
sister of Adastrea and Ida

She was turned into a bee by the gods and helped her sisters care for the infant Zeus by providing honey for him.

melissa<sup>3</sup> Greek

['bee':plur=melissae.melissai]
a title given to a priestess of Artemis, Demeter, Rhea, etc.

melissae (see melissa<sup>3</sup>)

melissai (see melissa<sup>3</sup>)

Melisseus Greek

a king of Crete
husband of Amalthea, some say father of Adrastea, Ida and Melissa

Melite Greek

mother of Hyllus by Heracles, in
some accounts

Melites Greek

a nymph
one of the Naiads

Melius Greek

a Titan

Meljanz British

a king of Liz
When the daughter of Duke Lippant rejected his love, Meljanz attacked her father's province, helped by Percival. Gawain fought on the other side.

Melk-Ashtart Phoenician

an androgynous deity

Melkart (see Melkarth)

Melkarth Canaanite

[Baal.King of the City.Melcarth.Melkart.
Melqart:=Greek Heracles]
a fertility-god worshipped at Tyre and Carthage
consort of Astarte

In early tradition he was regarded as a sea-god or a god of the underworld but later was recognised as a sun-god. Others say he was first a sun-god, later a sea-god.

Some say that he is the same as Moloch or Baal. (see also Sandan)

Melkin (see Melchinus)

Mellonia Roman

a bee-goddess

Mellt Welsh

in those stories where Mabon the magician is regarded as separate from Mabon the god, Mellt is given as the magician's father

Mellygraunce (see Meliagaunt)

Melodiam British

[Melodian]
son of Pellimore

Melodian (see Melodiam)

Melodias (see Melot)

Melon Greek

a name of Heracles as an immortal after he received the apples of the Hesperides

Melora British

a warrior-maid
daughter of King Arthur
She was in love with Orlando, a prince of Thessaly. Mador persuaded Merlin to imprison Orlando under a spell that could be lifted only if the Lance of Longinus, the oil of the pig of Tuis and a precious stone owned by the daughter of the king of Narsinga were produced.

She defeated the king of Africa to win the Lance and she was given Levander as a servant for the rest of her quest. They were both put in prison by the king of Asia but escaped, taking with them the oil of the pig. They got their hands on the precious stone, a carbuncle, when they trapped the king of Narsinga and his daughter, Verona, who later married Levander.

With the three objects of the quest, Melora gained Orlando's freedom and married him.

Melot British

[Aquitain(e).Melodias.Meliadus]
a dwarf at the court of King Mark
He was one of those who spied on Tristram and Isolde and reported the affair to the king.

Some say that it was he who inflicted the wound that led to Tristram's death. He was killed by Kurneval.

In some accounts, he is called Melodias.

Melpomene Greek

one of the 9 Muses, the Muse of tragedy

Melqart (see Melkarth)

Melu East Indian

a creator-god

Melusina (see Melisande. see also Meluzina)

Melusine<sup>1</sup> French

a two-tailed mermaid
(see also Dame Blanche)

Melusine<sup>2</sup> (see Melisande)

Meluzina European

a wind-spirit in Bohemia (see also Melusina)

Melvas (see Melwas)

Melwas British

[Melvas]

a king of Summer Land

He abducted Guinevere but King Arthur soon recovered her by the threat of force. This is the Welsh version of the abduction of Guinevere by Meliagaunt. (see also Meliagaunt)

Melyhalt, Lady (see Bloie)Melyn Gwanwyn Welsh

an ox

This was one of the oxen that Ysbaddaden required Culhwch, in his quest for the hand of Olwen, to get from Gwlwydd.

(see also Nyniaw.Peibiau.Ych Brych)

Melyodas (see Meliad)Mem Loimis (see Mem Loomis)Mem Loomis North American

[Mem Loimis]

a water-goddess of the Wintun tribe

When the first world was destroyed by fire started by Buckeye Bean and his two companions, Mem Loomis and Kahit were given the task of putting out the fires and restarting the world.

Membe African

an ancestor of the Lugbara people

Membo-Delahi West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Memnon<sup>1</sup> Greek

an Ethiopian prince

son of Tithonus and Eos

brother of Emathion

nephew of Priam

He brought his army to fight with the Trojans at the siege of Troy and killed the young Antilochus. He was later killed by Achilles. To please Eos, Zeus resurrected Memnon and made him immortal.

Memnon<sup>2</sup> Greek

a statue of Amenhotep III in Thebes

(Egypt) said to salute Eos at daybreak with a musical sound

(see also Amenophis)

memnonia Greek

statues erected to commemorate

Memnon

The statue of Amenhotep III is one such statue. (see Memnon<sup>2</sup>)

Memnonides Greek

birds arising from Memnon's

funeral pyre

The grieving comrades of Memnon were changed into birds which were said to visit Memnon's tomb every year.

Memor (see Mimir)Memory of Blood

(see Mover of Blood)

Memphis Greek

daughter of the Nile river-god

wife of Epaphus

mother of Libya and Lysianassa

Mempirc British

son of Maddan

He killed his own brother to seize the throne and married a young boy. He was torn to pieces by wolves.

Men<sup>1</sup> Greek

a Phrygian moon-god adopted by the Greeks

Men<sup>2</sup> Central American

the fifteenth of the 20 ages of man, in Mayan lore, the age when perfection is reached (see also Five Men)

Men<sup>3</sup> (see Men Shen)Men Iguana (see Wati-kutjara)Men Shen Chinese

[Men]

Ch'en Chi (Ha) and Cheng Lun (Heng)

as guardians of the doors in the palace of Yü Ti

One story says that the Men Shen are the two doorkeepers Ha and Hang.

Another version describes Men Shen as gods of the underworld and enumerates them as Ching Ch'uan, Chung-lu, Hu and Ts'ao Chün.

(see also Hang Ha Erh Chiang)

Mena Hindu

a mountain goddess

wife of Himavan

mother of Ganga and Parvati

Menadiel

a demon who can be trusted

with secrets

Menaduke British

a Knight of the Round Table

Menahka North American

a Mandan sun-spirit

Menak East Indian

[=Malay Amir Hamza]

the Javanese name for Amir

Hamza

Menaka<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a water-nymph

mother of Sakuntala by Visvamisra

She distracted Visvamisra from his devotions long enough for him to father Sakuntala.

Menaka<sup>2</sup> Hindu

an apsaras

She is said to have married a mortal and became an ancestress of the human race.

Menam Tbai

[Maenam]

a sacred river

Menanader Buddhist

[Milinda]

a 2nd c BC Greek general who conquered part of northern India

He was converted to the Buddhist faith by Nagasena and was known as Milinda.

menat Egyptian

a talisman, in the form of a whip, said to ward off evil

Mencha Terim East Indian

a king of Sumatra

son of Sulana and Muhtabul Bahri

When he became king, he changed his name to Sapurba. (see also Sapurba)

Menchit (see Menhyt)Mencius Chinese

[Meng K'o..Meng-tzu]

(c 370-289 BC)

a disciple of Confucius, one of the Four Saints

Mend Irish

a king of Ireland

father of Blathnat

Mendeian Triad Egyptian

the deities Banaded, Harpakhrad and Hetmetit

Mendes Greek

the Greek name for Banaded

Mendrion

a demon of the horns of the day

(see Selene)

Menechen South American

[(Guenu-)Pil(l)an] supreme god and storm-god of the

Araucanian Indians

All warriors killed in battle were absorbed by Menechen. His followers were snake-bodied humans who caused all the troubles of the world.

Menebrates Greek

a physician

Menedice (see Menodice)Menehune Pacific Islands

[=Marshall Islands Anjinmar.Nonieb

=Melanesian Masi=Poanpe Tsokelai]

a race of pygmies or gnomes

in Hawaiian lore

Though very small, these beings are stronger than men and they are skilled in the arts of magic so that, if propitiated, they can be very helpful. They live deep in the forests or valleys.

Menelaus Greek

king of Sparta

son of Atreus and Aerope

brother of Agamemnon husband of Helen

father of Hermione

In some accounts he was the son of Pleisthenes and had a son, Nicostratus, by either Helen or a nymph and another, Megapenthes, by a slave.

He welcomed Paris, son of the king of Troy, to his court in Sparta but when he left for Crete, Paris carried off his wife Helen to Troy, so precipitating the Trojan War. During the battle, he came face to face with Paris and would have killed him had not Aphrodite intervened to save him. The Trojans might well have agreed, at that point, to hand back Helen but Pandarus, or Athena in some stories, shot and wounded Menelaus and the battle was resumed.

At the fall of Troy he was reunited with Helen but when they returned to Sparta they found that his brother Agamemnon had been killed by Clytemnestra and her lover Aegisthus. They in turn had been killed in revenge by Orestes. Menelaus was instrumental in having Orestes condemned to death. Orestes then seized Helen and Hermione, forcing Menelaus to change his mind and the death sentence was commuted to exile. When Helen was taken up to Olympus by Zeus to escape Orestes' sword, Apollo intervened in the affair and ordered Menelaus to re-marry and to give his daughter Hermione to Orestes.

Some accounts say that the Helen he was reunited with was the substitute Helen and both of them sailed to Egypt to collect the real Helen. He was shipwrecked and rescued by Theone.

In some versions, both Helen and Menelaus were taken up to Elysium.

Menelea Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, watching her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Menelea, tore him to pieces.

Menelik Abyssinian

a supposed son of Solomon and the queen of Sheba from whom the royal house of Abyssinia is descended

Menerva (see Minerva)

Meness Baltic

[=Lithuanian Menulis]

a Latvian moon-god and god of travellers

consort of Saule

He had an affair with Ausrine and Saule's father, Perkunas, cut him in half as punishment, so accounting for the phases of the moon.

In some accounts, Meness is female and Saule is male.

Menetheus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Sperchius by Polydora

Menestheus<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Peteos

He either usurped the throne or was made ruler of Athens by Castor and Polydeuces when they invaded Attica to rescue their sister Helen during the period when Theseus was imprisoned in Tartarus. He was one of the Greeks hidden inside the Wooden Horse and was killed at Troy or, in some versions, survived but found the throne occupied by Demophoon, son of Theseus, and became king of Melos instead of Athens.

Menestyr Welsh

father of Gwyddawg

Menetus Greek

father of Antianeira

Menew (see Menw)

Meng<sup>1</sup> Irish

one of the 3 names of the Dagda's wife

She was alternatively known as Breng or Meabel.

Meng<sup>2</sup> (see Lady Meng)

Meng K'o (see Mencius)

Meng-p'o (see Lady Meng)

Meng T'ien Chinese

a minor deity, patron of brushmakers

He was originally a 3rd C general and is said to have invented the brush.

Meng-tzu<sup>1</sup> Chinese

[Book of Mencius]

one of the Four Books

the last of the 9 major works of the Confucian canon, dealing with the life and teachings of Mencius

Meng-tzu<sup>2</sup> (see Mencius)

Menge (see Menia)

Mengi African

a culture-hero in the Congo

He was one of ten children and one of his sisters was taken by the kisimbi. He went to look for her and saw her hand holding a pearl necklace above the surface of the river. When this happened again, they dammed the river and found the girl in a coffin. She recovered and returned home but, when she ate pork, water rose in a flood around her and carried her back to the river. Mengi could still hear her voice and jumped into the river to be with her.

Mengindera Malay

a king

On a hunting trip, he came across a beautiful maiden locked in a hut. It transpired that the queen was jealous of her and had imprisoned her. Mengindera released her and made her his wife.

Mengk Russian

an evil forest-spirit

Menglad (see Menglod)

Menglod Norse

[Menglad.Mengloth]

a form of Freya

She was rescued from the hands of Fiolsvig by Svipdag who took her back to Asgard and married her.

Mengloth (see Menglod)

Mengzi (see Mencius)

Menhyt Egyptian

[Men(c)hit]

a lioness-goddess

In some stories, the consort of Khnum.

Meni Mesopotamian

[Minu.=Arab Manat]

an Assyrian goddess of fate identified with the planet Venus

Menia Norse

[Menge.Menja]

a giantess

daughter of Greip, some say

She and her sister Fenia were bought by Frodi as slaves to work his magic grindstone, Grotte.

Menippe<sup>1</sup> Greek

a nymph

one of the Nereids

Menippe<sup>2</sup> Greek

mother of Eurystheus

Menippe<sup>3</sup> Greek

one of the Muses, in some accounts mother of Orpheus

Menippe<sup>4</sup> Greek

daughter of Orion and Side

sister of Metioche

When an oracle decreed that, to lift the famine that had descended on Orchomenus, the sacrifice of two virgins was necessary, the two sisters, known as the Coronides, killed themselves with the shuttles from their looms. They were both placed in the heavens as comets.

In some accounts, two youths, the Coroni, rose from the ashes of their funeral pyre.

Menippus Greek

a man who was about to marry a

Phoenician woman when Apollonius discovered that she was a serpent

Menja (see Menia)

Menodice Greek

[Menedice]
a nymph
mother of Hylas by Theodamus

Menoceus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Menoikeus]
a descendant of the Sparti
father of Creon, Hippomene and Jocasta, some say

Menoceus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Menoikeus]
son of Creon and Eurydice
When Oedipus unwittingly married his own mother, Jocasta, a plague descended on Thebes. Teiresias warned that it would cease only when a descendant of one of the Sown Men gave his life for the city, whereupon Menoceus committed suicide by thrusting his own sword into his throat and hurling himself from the city walls into the dragon's pit.

In some accounts, this was Megareus.

Menoetes Greek

[Menoetius] son of Ceuthonymus
a herdsman to Hades
He told Geryon that Heracles had stolen his cattle as his tenth Labour.

He challenged Heracles to a wrestling match when Heracles visited Tartarus on his twelfth Labour but lost and was saved only by the intervention of Persephone.

menog Persian

mind-spirit

Menoikeus (see Menoceus)

Menoetius<sup>1</sup> Greek

a Titan
son of Iapetus and Clymene brother of Atlas, Epimetheus and Prometheus

He was killed by Zeus during the war between the Titans and the gods.

Menoetius<sup>2</sup> Greek

son of Actor and Aegina husband of Stelene
father of Patroclus

He was one of the Argonauts. He and his family fled to Phthia when the boy Patroclus killed another boy in a quarrel over a dice-game.

Menoetius<sup>3</sup> (see Monetes)

Menog (see Spenta Mainya)

Menon Mesopotamian

[Menones, Onnes]
a general under King Ninus
first husband of Semiramis

When Ninus demanded Semiramis for himself, Menon hanged himself.

Menones (see Menon)

Menrfa Italian

[Menrva]=Greek Athena:=Roman Minerva]
a goddess of dawn and dusk, goddess of wisdom

Menrva (see Menrfa)

Mens Roman

[Mens Bona]
a goddess, right thinking personified

Mens Bona (see Mens)

Mentes Greek

a Taphian chief son of Anchialus
Athena assumed the guise of Mentes to induce Telemachus to go in search of his father, Odysseus.

(see also Mentor)

Menthe (see Minthe)

Menthu<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[Bakha, Bakhe, Bouchis, Bukhe, Mentu.
Mont(h)u, Munt:=Greek Mont(h)]
the falcon-headed god of the sun's heat, god of war

the morning aspect of Ra consort of Rattawy and Tjenenyet
father of Harpre

He stands in the prow of Ra's nightboat, Meseket, to guard Ra from his enemies and was manifest in the Buchis bulls.

In some accounts, Menthu is Ra as the morning sun, in others he is the same as Khepra.

Menthu<sup>2</sup> Egyptian

[Mentu]
in some accounts, a consort of Anit (Hathor)

Menthu-Ra Egyptian

Menthu combined with the bull of Ra

Mentor Greek

a friend of Odysseus son of Alcimus
He was left in charge of the household of Odysseus and reared the boy Telemachus while his father was away fighting at Troy.

When Odysseus failed to return after the fall of Troy, it was Mentor who spurred Telemachus into searching for his father. Athena often appeared to Telemachus in the guise of Mentor. (see also Mentes)

Menthu (see Menthu)

mentula loquens North American

the concept of genitalia that speak In the lore of the Plains Indians, a man's penis (and, in some cases, his excrement) can speak and give him advice. It is said that the flow of speech can be silenced only by his mother-in-law, a person whom he may not look at, eat with or speak to.

Menu (see Manu.Min)

Menu vaivasvata (see Vaivasvata)

Menus (see Mnevis)

Menuis (see Mnevis)

Menulis Baltic

[Menuo:=Latvian Meness]
a Lithuanian moon-god

Menuo (see Menulis)

Menuquet Egyptian

a goddess of Amenti, the land of the dead

Menvis (see Mnevis)

Menw Welsh

[Meneu]
a wizard
son of Teirgwaedd

He had the power to make people invisible. He was a companion of Culhwch in his quest for the hand of Olwen and tried to recover the comb and scissors from between the ears of the boar Twrch Trwyth by changing himself into a bird and diving on the boar but was unsuccessful.

Menzabac Central American

[Metzabac]
a Mayan weather-god and fever-god

Menzentius Greek

king of the Etruscans
He was expelled from his kingdom for cruelty to his subjects and when Aeneas and his band of Trojans landed in Italy he helped the Rutulians under Turnus in their efforts to repel the settlers. He was killed by Aeneas in the battles that ensued.

Mephistopheles European

the devil (or his helper) in the story of Faust

Mer<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Ber, Bir(Qu), Ver:=Babylonian Adad]
an Assyrian fire-god

Mer<sup>2</sup> (see Ishkur, Wer<sup>2</sup>)

Mer-feast Persian

a feast dedicated to the gods of nature in times of trouble such as famine or war

Mer-wer (see Mnevis)

Meragbutu Pacific Islands

a spirit in the New Hebrides
This spirit hindered Tagaro, the wise brother of Qat, in his work of creation so Tagaro demonstrated that he could survive the flames when his house burnt down (he hid in the cellar).
When Meragbutu tried to do the same, he was burnt to death.

Merau Pacific Islands

a goddess of death

Meraugis British

a Knight of the Round Table
He was the son of King Mark by Labiane as a result of rape. His mother abandoned him in the forest where he was found and brought up by foresters.

After the death of King Arthur, he joined many of the other knights in a hermitage.

merchild

a monster in the form of a child/fish

Merchiaun British

[Meirchiaun:=Welsh Meirchion]

father of King Mark of Glamorgan

Merciful Lord (see Avalokiteshvara)Mercuralia Roman

a festival in honour of Mercury held
in May

Mercurius (see Mercury)Mercury Roman

[Mercurius.Mergurius.Mircurios.
Mirqurius.Mirqurius.Oneicopompus.
Psychopompus.Terminus:
=Greek Hermes]

the god of eloquence, merchants, theft, wisdom: messenger to
the gods

one of the Olympians

father of Cupid

father by Lara of the 2 gods of the hearth, the Lares

father of Faunus, some say

He is depicted as a handsome youth wearing winged sandals and hat and holding the caduceus.

Merddin (see Merlin)Merdes (see Mertseger)Meret Egyptian

[Mert]

a goddess of song

an underworld goddess

She is sometimes depicted as a coiled snake with a human head.

Meretseger (see Mertseger)Mergen Tengere Siberian

an Altaic sky-god

Meriadek European

an ancient god in Brittany

Meriadeuc British

[The Knight of Two Swords]

a knight of King Arthur

When Lore brought a sword-belt to the king's court, he was the only one able to unfasten it and was awarded the sword as a prize. He later married Lore.

Meriadeuc French

a 13th c French poem about the Knight of Two Swords

Meriadoc British

a king of Wales

son of Caradoc

brother of Orwen

In some accounts, Caswallawn caused the death of Caradoc but others say that Griffith killed Caradoc, took the throne of Wales and sent Meriadoc and Orwen to be killed. They were spared and later Meriadoc secured the help of King Arthur to depose Griffith and gave the throne to Urien who had married Orwen. He went to the Continent where he rescued the daughter of the German emperor and married her.

Merihim (see Merizim)Merim (see Merin)Merin Welsh

[Merim]

father of Gleis

Meriones Greek

a Cretan

son of Molus

brother of Molione

He was a companion of Idomeneus in the Trojan War and was one of those hidden inside the Trojan Horse. He helped to retrieve the body of Patroclus who had been killed by Hector.

Meriraukka (see Ravgga)Meritensa Egyptian

a landowner and judge

When a peasant who had been robbed of his ass and its load by the tenant-farmer named Hamti complained, Meritensa placed the matter before the king. The latter was so impressed by the peasant's eloquence that he ordered Meritensa to strip the farmer of his possessions and to recompense the peasant.

Merizim

[Merihim]

a demon of pestilence

Merkabah Hebrew

a book of mystic lore

Merkinau European

the crow in Reynard the Fox

mate of Shrafenebbe

Merlin<sup>1</sup> British

[Ambrosius.Bors.Merddin.Merlinus.Merlyn.

Prince of Enchanters:=Saxon Rof

Breocht Woden:=Welsh Emrys.Llallawc.

Llallogan Vyrddin.Myrddin (Emrys)]

a bard and magician

brother of Gwendydd

father of Vanoc

father of Inogen, in some accounts

In one account of his origins, he was created by the forces of evil to offset the effect of Christ's birth but he was baptised as a Christian by Blaise and so the plan failed. In some stories, his mother was Joan go-to't, in Welsh stories she was Aldan, in French stories she was Optima and in some Italian stories she was Marinaia.

His father is given as Madog or Morgan Frych though some say that he was fathered by an unknown youth, said to be a demon, on the daughter of a king and was born with a twin sister, Gwendydd, who becomes Ganieda in Italian stories. Other stories say that he came from Atlantis or that he was Taliesin reincarnated.
In some accounts his wife was Elen Lwyddawg, known in Italian stories as Gwendoloena.

When he was but a few days old, he made an impassioned plea for the life of his mother, who was on trial for associating with the Devil, and so saved her life.

He foretold the advent of Arthur and the return of Aurelius Ambrosius and Uther who had been taken to France to escape the fate that befell their brother Constans at the hand of Vortigern. When Aurelius or, in some accounts, Uther, wanted a fitting memorial to the knights slaughtered
by Hengist, Merlin went to Ireland with Uther, dismantled the Giant's Ring, transported the stones by magic to England and re-erected them as Stonehenge.

He changed himself into the form of Jordans, a knight at the court of Gorlois, and brought about the seduction of Igraine by Uther Pendragon by changing Uther into the form of her husband, Gorlois, on the promise that he would be given the son of their union. This was the future king, Arthur, and Merlin took the boy and fostered him with Ector.

In some accounts, Uther objected to handing over the child, so Merlin snatched him and blinded Uther.

When Arthur was defeated in a joust with Pellimore, Merlin saved his life by putting his opponent into a trance.

He knew that his fate would be sealed by a young girl and when Pellimore brought Nimue to Arthur's court he knew that his time had come.
He fell in love with Nimue and foolishly taught her his magic arts when she led him to believe that she might yield to his persuasive talk. She accompanied him when he went to Ban's court in Benwick and, back in Britain, he made a fabulous room in a rock in Cornwall where they could be together. When they entered, she sprang back, sealing the entrance with an unbreakable spell, and rode off leaving him to his fate. When Bagdemagus, seeking adventure, found the rock prison he was unable to break in and had to leave Merlin where he found him.

In some versions, Nimue bound him in an enchanted wood or an oak tree, in others she trapped him in a rock until he promised to love her only, entangling him forever in thorns when he refused. An alternative story says he was never so trapped and still lives on Bardsey Island guarding the Treasures of Britain, including King Arthur's throne, while others say that he was killed in battle or forgetfully sat in the Perilous Seat and was swallowed up by the earth.

Some say that he fought at the Battle of Arthuret and was driven mad by a vision he saw there.

He is credited with the creation of the magic sword, Excalibur, and the building of the Round Table.

In the stories of Charlemagne, he built a magic fountain from which Rinaldo drank, turning his love for Angelica into hate. The warrior-maid Bradamante, searching for Rogero, was taken to Merlin's tomb where his spirit gave her instructions on how to find him, helped by Merlin's priestess, Melissa.

Merlin<sup>2</sup> French
a 12th c poem by Boron on the later exploits of the wizard

Merlin's Cave British
a cave in Cornwall said to be haunted by the ghost of Merlin

Merlin's Enclosure
(see Clas Myrddin)

Merlin's Hill Welsh
[Bryn Myrddin.Ogof Myrddin]
a site in Wales where, it is said, Merlin lies buried

Merlin's Mound British
a mound in the precincts of Marlborough College said to be the grave of Merlin

Merlin's Precinct (see Clas Myrddin)

Merlin's Spring European
a water-source in Brittany to which pilgrimages were made

Merlin's Tree Welsh [Priory Oak]
a tree in Carmarthen

It was said that the city would be destroyed if this tree should fall.

Merlinus (see Merlin)

merlion
a monster, part lion, part fish

Merlyn (see Merlin)

mermaid
[mermaiden.sea-maid.sea-woman]
a monster, part woman, part fish
a siren

These beings are said to sit on rocks, combing their long hair, and lure sailors to their death. In some versions, they are said to be able to grant three wishes. Some say that they cannot survive on land while others say that some of them married mortals and lived ashore.

In early versions, mermaids had many birdlike features, including wings.

In Irish lore they are regarded as pagans banished by St Patrick. Some Greek stories say that the burning timbers of the Trojan ships turned into mermaids. (see also Merrow)

mermaiden (see mermaid)

merman [sea-man]
a monster, part man, part fish
the male version of a mermaid

Mermer (see Ishkus.Ramman)

Mermerus Greek
son of Jason and Medea
father of Illus

Merodach<sup>1</sup> Hebrew
[=Sumerian Marduk]
a sun-god

Merodach<sup>2</sup>
a demon

Merop, Bull of (see Mnevis)

Merong Mahawangsa Pacific Islands
a prince
ruler of the Gergasis

Merope<sup>1</sup> Greek
daughter of Cypselus wife of Cresphontes, king of Messenia

When Cresphontes and two of his sons were killed during a rebellion, Polyphontes who took over the throne also took Merope as his wife. Her third son Aepytyus, who had been hidden during the violence, later came back and killed Polyphontes, taking his father's throne.

Merope<sup>2</sup> Greek
a nymph
one of the Pleiades

daughter of Atlas wife of Sisyphus mother of Glaucus by Sisyphus mother of Daedalus, some say

In some accounts she left the other Pleiades in the sky in shame when her husband, the only mortal married to a Pleiad (except perhaps Corytus who, some say, married Electra) was sent to Tartarus so that only six of the seven Pleiades are now visible. Other says that the missing star is Electra.

(see also Electra<sup>3</sup>)

Merope<sup>3</sup> Greek [Aero]

daughter of Oenopion, king of Chios, and Helice

She was promised to Orion as a reward for clearing Chios of wild animals but her father kept postponing the promised marriage and it never came about. When Orion raped her, her father had him blinded by satyrs.

Merope<sup>4</sup> Greek
wife of Polybus, king of Corinth
foster-mother of Oedipus

(see also Periboea<sup>4</sup>)

Merope<sup>5</sup> Greek

daughter of Pandareus sister of Aedon and Cleothera

mother of Pandareus by Hermes
She and Cleothera were carried off by the Harpies and sold as slaves to the Furies.

Merops<sup>1</sup> Greek
a king of Egypt husband of Clymene
father of Pandareus and Phaeton

Merops<sup>2</sup> Greek
a seer, king of Percote brother of Arisba
father of Adrastus, Amphius and Cleite

Merotraphes Greek
a name of Dionysus referring to his insertion into the thigh of Zeus at birth

Meroudys (see Herodis)

Merovius German

a Frankish king
He was said to have been fathered on the queen by a sea-giant coming ashore in the form of an ox. He is regarded as the founder of the Frankish dynasty.

merpeople
monsters, part human, part fish

Merquarius (see Mercury)

Merrow Irish [Murduacha]
a mermaid or merman

These are generally benevolent beings, the female like a traditional mermaid while the male is ugly, greenish in colour and has arms which resemble fins. Some say they intermarry with mortals.

Merry Dancers (see Fir Chlis)

Merseburg Charms German
a 9th c set of spells

Mersekhnet (see Atet)

Mert<sup>1</sup> Egyptian

[(Watch) Merti]

Isis and Nephthys as goddesses of the Nile floods

Mert<sup>2</sup> (see Meret)

Mertat (see Ameretat)

Merti (see Mert)

Mertseger Egyptian

[Lion of the Summit.Meresger.Meretseger]
the guardian goddess of Thebes

She was depicted as a cobra or as a cobra-headed woman who punished wrong-doers with blindness.

Mertvaya Voda Slav

water which heals the wounds of a corpse

This water was carried by wind, hail or thunder or by birds.

(see also Shivaya Voda)

Meru (see Mount Meru)

Merul Egyptian

a Nubian sun-god

twin brother of Meruil

Meruil Egyptian

[Merulis.Merwel:=Greek Mandulis]

a Nubian sun-god

twin brother of Merul

Merulis (see Meruil)

Merur (see Mnevis)

Merveilles de Rigomer French

a 13th c poem relating the adventures of Gawain and Lancelot

Merveilleuse European

a sword

This weapon was owned by Doolin, said by some to be the father of Ogier.

Merwel (see Meruil)

mes Mesopotamian

[mesu]

the tree of life: a symbol of power: a divine decree

Mes An Du (see Samas)

Mes Lam Taea Mesopotamian

[Meslamt(a)ea]

a Sumerian war-god

an aspect of Nergal

son of Enlil and Ninlil

Mesaru (see Mesharu)

Mesca Irish

a goddess

daughter of Badb, some say

She died of shame when she was seduced by the mortal, Garman.

Meschamaat (see Lesni Zenka)

Mese Greek

['middle'] an alternative name for one of the Muses when it was said that there were only 3 of them

Mesede Pacific Islands

an archer

He saved Abele from a crocodile and was given Abele's daughters as a reward.

Mesede's wife killed them.

Meseket (see solar bark)

Mesektet (see solar bark)

Mesenet (see Meshkenit)

Mesenktet (see solar bark)

Meses Greek

a wind from the north-east quarter

Mesgedra (see Meas Geaghra)

Mesgegra (see Meas Geaghra)

Mesgora (see Mac Da Tho)

Mesha Hindu

one of the signs of the Zodiac, Aries

the ram

Mesharu Mesopotamian

[Mesaru.Mesharum.Misharu.

Misor.'righteousness']

a Babylonian goddess,

justice personified

daughter and attendant of Samas

sister of Giru, Kittu and Nusku

In some accounts, Mesharu is male.

Mesharum (see Mesharu)

Meshekenabec (see Misikinebek)

Meshkenet (see Meshkenit)

Meshkent (see Meshkenit)

Meshkenit Egyptian

['brick'.Mesenet.Meshken(e)t] a goddess of childbirth

the birth-tile personified wife of Shai

She was also to be found in the underworld, at the judgment of souls,

to assist their birth into the afterlife.

Meslam (see Aralu)

Meslamtea

(see Mes Lam Taea.Nergal)

Meslamtea

(see Mes Lam Taea.Nergal)

Mesnée d'Hellequin European

the French name for the Wild Hunt

Mesroda (see Mac Da Tho)

Mess Buachalla Irish

[Meas Buachalla.Messbuachalla]

daughter of Cormac and Etain Oig or of Eochaid Airemh

wife of Eterskel

Her father wanted a son so he ordered his infant daughter to be drowned.

The servants charged with the task

gave her instead to the cowherd of King Eterskel. He raised her secretly and when the king found out he ordered that the girl be brought to his court. Before this could be done, she was seduced by Nemglan the bird-god who came to her in the form of a Danaan youth. She married Eterskel and her son by the bird-god, who was named Canary Mor, was raised by a foster-father, Desa.

In some accounts, Mess Buachalla herself was from the Otherworld and brought an army from there to ensure that Canary was installed as king after the death of Eterskel. Others say that she was the daughter of Eterskel.

Another story has it that her children by Nemglan were birds who turned into warriors in times of need.

Messbuachalla (see Mess Buachalla)

Messene Greek

a princess of Sargos

Messibizi (see Michabo)

Messor Roman

a god of agriculture

Messon (see Michabo)

Messou North American

[=Abnaki Gluskap:=Algonquin Manbozho:

Iroquois Ioskeha:=Menominee Manabush]

the name used by the Montagnais for the Great Hare, Manabosho

In this version, man was originally immortal as the result of a small packet given by Messou to a brave who promised never to open it. The man's wife, however, was more inquisitive and looked inside. Immortality flew out and man has had a limited life-span ever since.

Mesta (see Amset)

Mestha (see Amset)

Mesti (see Amset)

Mestor Greek

son of Perseus and Andromeda

brother of Alcaeus, Electryon and Sthenelus

husband of Lysidice

father of Hippothoe

Mestra Greek

[Metra]

daughter of Erysichthon

wife of Autolycus, some say

In an attempt to satisfy the insatiable hunger which had been inflicted on him by Demeter, her father sold all his possessions and, finally, his daughter Mestra. She prayed to Poseidon who changed her shape on each occasion that she was sold so that she escaped her purchasers, only to be sold again.

Mesu (see Mes)

Metabus Roman

king of the Volscians
father of Camilla

To save his baby daughter from the troops who were chasing him from his own country, he tied her to his spear and threw her to safety across the river Asimenus.

Metageiteria Greek

a festival in honour of Apollo, held in Athens

Metakorab Pacific Islands

a Melanesian spirit

She was queen of the dogai and was shot and killed by Bu.

Metal Old Man North American

[Be chasti]

in the lore of the Apache, a giant clad in black metal

The only place where this monstrous being was vulnerable was under his armpit and it was here that the young Monster Slayer shot his arrows and killed him.

Metal Planet Chinese

the planet Venus

metals

the alchemists recognised 7 metals, each of which represented a deity

The seven were listed as gold (Apollo), copper (Venus), iron (Mars), lead (Saturn), quicksilver (Mercury), silver (Diana) and tin (Jupiter).

Metameleia Greek

a deity, repentance personified

metamorphosis

magical shape-changing

Metamorphoses<sup>1</sup> Roman tales from Greek mythology by Ovid

Metamorphoses<sup>2</sup>

(see The Golden Ass)

Metaneira Greek

[Metanira]

wife of king Celeus

mother of Abas, Demophoon,

Eubuleus, lambe and Triptolemus

When Demeter who, in the guise of an old woman, had been employed as wet-nurse, plunged Metaneira's son into the fire to make him immortal, Metaneira snatched the child away. In some stories the boy was Demophoon, in others Triptolemus; in some he died, in others he survived but did not become immortal.

Metanira (see Metaneira)

Metapontes Greek

[Metapontus]

husband of Melanippe and Theano

He and Theano adopted the two sons of Melanippe by Poseidon and later had two sons of their own. Theano incited her own sons to kill the two foundlings but Poseidon intervened and killed the other two. Theano killed herself in despair and Metapontes later married Melanippe.

Metapontus (see Metapontes)

metascopy

divination from lines on the forehead

metempsychosis

[transmigration]

the passing of a soul into another body after death

meteor Arab

[falling star.shooting star]

a meteor is said to be a flaming firebrand thrown by angels to drive off evil spirits

Meter Greek

[Meter Oriae]

a mother-goddess

Meter Anahita (see Anahita)

Meter Dindymene Greek

[Dindyme(ne).Dindymus]

a name for Cybele as a mountain goddess

Meter Oriae Greek

a name of Meter as 'mother of the mountain'

Meteres Greek

in some accounts, a Cretan fertility goddess

Metharme Greek

[Paphos]

daughter of Pygmalion and Galatea, some say

In some accounts, she married Cinyras; others say that Paphos, not Metharme, was Pygmalion's daughter and either the wife or the mother of Cinyras.

Meti (see Abominable Snowman)

Metiadusa Greek

wife of Cecrops

mother of Pandion

Meticus Roman

a charioteer to Aeneas in Italy

Metioche Greek

daughter of Orion and Side

sister of Menippe

An oracle decreed that the sacrifice of two virgins was necessary to lift the plague that had descended on Orchomenus, so the two sisters, known as the Corinides, killed themselves with the shuttles from their looms. They were placed in the heavens as comets.

In some accounts, two youths, known as the Coroni, rose from the ashes of their funeral pyre.

Metion Greek

son of Erechtheus and Praxithea

brother of Pandorus

father of Daedalus, in some accounts

He and his brother drove Cecrops from Athens when Xuthus chose him as the successor to Erechtheus.

Metis<sup>1</sup> Greek

['wise counsel']

one of the Oceanids

the goddess of prudence

daughter of Oceanus and Gaea

or Tethys

first wife of Zeus

She helped Zeus to overthrow Cronus and was seduced by Zeus who swallowed her (in the form of a fly, some say) to prevent the birth of a child she had foretold would be greater even than Zeus. That child was Athena who burst from the head of Zeus. Metis was sent to live in the planet Mercury.

metis<sup>2</sup>

magical powers of healing

Metis<sup>3</sup> (see Iao<sup>1</sup>)

Metnal Central American

home of the dead, ruled by Cizin

Metope Greek

daughter of Ladon

wife of Asopus

mother of Ismenus, Pelagon and 20 daughters

Metra<sup>1</sup> Persian

an ancient fertility-goddess and moon-goddess

Metra<sup>2</sup> (see Mestra)

metragyrti Greek

[plur=metragyrtes.metragyrtoi]

a wandering devotee of Cybele or Rhea

These men, mostly eunuchs, travelled the country begging and making prophecies.

Metsaka Central American

a moon-goddess of the Huichol

Indians

consort of Tatevali

metsanhaltia Baltic

[skogsradare:=Estonian metshaldijas]

a Finnish guardian spirit of the forest

This being is envisaged as an old man with a grey beard, covered with lichen, and able to stretch his body so that his head is level with the tallest tree.

metshaldijas Baltic

[skogsjungfru:=Finnish metsanhaltia]

an Estonian guardian spirit of the forest

It is said that the cry of this spirit is a portent of death to the hearer.

metsaneitsyt Baltic

a Finnish female spirit of the forest
This 'forest virgin', said to entice humans to make love to her, appears as a beautiful woman at the front but like a tree-stump or a bough or just a pile of twigs, when seen from the rear.

Metsmees Baltic

an Estonian wind-god

Metsola Baltic

a Finnish goddess, mother of the first deity

Metteya Hindu

the Pali version of the Sanskrit Maitreya

Mettius Curtius (see Curtius?)

Mettius Fuffetius Roman

a king of Alba Longa

When he deserted the side of Tullius Hostilius, his superior king, Tullius had him torn apart between two chariots.

Metus Greek

the god of fear

Metzabac (see Menzabac)

Metzli Central American

[Lady of the Night.Metzli.

Yohualticitl]

an Aztec moon-goddess and goddess of water

This deity is referred to as a god in some accounts and is identified with Tecciztecatl.

Metzli (see Metzli)

Meulen South American

an Araucanian whirlwind-deity

This being is said to eat children.

Meuric British

son of Caradoc and Tegau Eurfon, in some stories

Meurig British

a king of Glenvissig

father of Athrwys

Some say his son Athrwys is the same as King Arthur.

Meurvin European

son of Ogier by Morgan le Fay

father of Oriant

He may be the same as Marlyn.

Mew (see Bast)

Mewol Korean

a servant of Son-Gon

When she was cast aside by Son-Gon, whose mistress she had been, she told his parents that Son-Gon's wife had been unfaithful to him with the result that they treated the innocent wife so harshly that she killed herself. Mewol admitted her lies and repented and this allowed the dead wife to be restored to life.

Mexicatl Teohuatzin Central American

the high priest of Huitzilopochtli

Mexitli Central American

[Hare of the Aloes.Mextli]

a name for Huitzilopochtli or, some say, Tecciztecatl

mexolotl Central American

the agave plant

In Aztec lore, Xolotl turned himself into this plant after becoming a maize plant.

Mextli (see Mexitli.Tecciztecatl)

Mezasmate Baltic

[Mother of the Forest]

a Latvian forest-goddess

Mezatevs Baltic

[Father of the Forest]

a Latvian forest-god

Mezentius Greek

king of the Tyrrhenians

father of Lausus

He was a tyrant who would tie a subject to a corpse and leave him to die.

Expelled from his own country for his cruelty, he helped Turnus in the battle against Aeneas and his band of Trojans trying to establish a new home in Italy. In some accounts, he killed and was killed by Aeneas in single combat, in others he joined the Trojans after being defeated by Ascanius.

Mezulla Mesopotamian

a Hittite goddess

daughter of Wurusema

Mezzoramia African

a mythical oasis, site of perfect happiness

mfumu-kutu African

the soul, in the lore of the Bakongo

Mfuzi African

[Funzi]

a mythical smith

He is said to have appeared shortly after his people had received the gift of fire from a river-god and he taught them the art of working copper and iron.

mganga African

[=Bantu nganga:=Bakongo ndoki:

=Tanzanian mgonzi]

a Swahili medicine-man

Some of these people are taken under water and live there for many days learning their art from the river-spirits known as the Abantubomlambo.

Mgon-po Buddhist

[Gon-po Nag Po]

a Tibetan deity

one of the Drag-gshed

a name for Mahakala

mgonzi African

[=Bakongo ndoki:=Bantu nganga:

=Swahili mganga]

a Tanzanian magician

Mhalsa Hindu

a goddess

a form of Parvati

consort of Khandoba

mhondoro African

a god or spirit communicating through a medium

mi' Japanese

a sign (snake) of the Zodiac

Mi? (see Nara?)

Mi Bo (see gShen-Rabs)

Mi Fei Chinese

the spirit of the River Lo

daughter of Fu-hsi

(see also Queen Chen)

Mi Go (see Abominable Snowman)

Mi-gyo-ba Buddhist

a Tibetan version of Achala

Mi Hung Tang Chinese

[Broth of Oblivion]

a drink causing forgetfulness

Those who, having served their time in the underworld, were returning to new lives on earth were given this drink so that they had no recollection of a previous existence.

mi-kayu-ura (see bokusen)

mi-ko-gami Japanese

[offspring of kami]

subordinate deities

Mi-Kumari (see Mikumari)

Mi-Kura-Tana Japanese

a Shinto god of storehouses

Mi-li (see Mi-lo-fo)

Mi-lo (see Mi-lo-fo)

Mi-lo-fo Buddhist

[Hsiao Fo.Mila Fu.Mi-li.Mi-lo.Mi-lo

Fo.Mi Lo Fo. P'u Sa:=Japanese Hotei]

a fertility god

the name for Maitreya in China

It is said that he was a goldsmith who absconded from the palace of Shakyamuni with much treasure. He was captured by Lu Tung-pin using a magic cord. (see also Asita)

Mi-oya-no-kami Japanese

a guardian deity of parents or ancestors

Mi-saru (see Mizaru)

Mi-Toshi Japanese

a Shinto god of agriculture

son of O-Toshi and Kagayo

Mi-Wi Japanese

a Shinto god of wells and springs

Miach Irish

[Midach]

a physician

son of Dian Cecht
brother of Airmid
He became even more famous as a physician than his father. Where his father had made an artificial hand for Nuada from silver, Miach made him a real flesh-and-blood replacement. In one story, he replaced an eye lost by one of Nuada's servants with the eye of a cat.

His father killed Miach out of jealousy, killing him only at the fourth attempt after Miach had healed himself after the first three sword-strokes. It is said that 365 herbs grew on his grave.

Miao Ch'eng Chinese

daughter of Miao Chuang
sister of Miao Shan and Miao Yen
She became a bodhisattva.

Miao Chuang Chinese

a king of Taiwan
father of Miao Ch'eng, Miao Shan
and Miao Yen

When his daughter, Miao Shan, refused to marry and entered a convent, he did all he could to make her life miserable and made several attempts to kill her. For these sins, he was made blind (or, some say, developed an ulcer) and was cured only when Miao Shan plucked out her own eyes, cut off her hands and sent them to her father.

Miao Shan Chinese

a princess
the original name of Kuan Yin
daughter of Miao Chuang
sister of Miao Ch'eng and Miao Yen
She refused to marry and entered a convent where she was helped in her arduous manual work by a demon, a tiger and the birds. When her father set fire to the convent, she put the fire out with a miracle and, when he ordered her execution, the sword broke as it touched her neck. After meditating for nine years on an island, she became a bodhisattva. Her father was made blind for his sins. She told him that he would regain his sight if he were to swallow the eyeballs of one of his children and, when none of his children was prepared to make the necessary sacrifice, she plucked out her own eyes and cut off her hands and sent them to her father. Her own eyes and hands were miraculously restored.

Another version says that she made an eye which her father swallowed to restore his sight. (see also Kuan Yin)

Miao Yen Chinese

daughter of Miao Chuang
sister of Miao Ch'eng and Miao Shan

She became a bodhisattva.

Micapetlacoli Central American

an Aztec goddess of the underworld

Michabo North American

[Great Hare.Lord Hare.Lord of the Day.
Messon.Messibizi.Missabos.Missiwabun]
a creator-god of the Algonquins chief of the 5 gods of the tribe son of Kabun

brother of Chokanipok

Michabo often descended to earth to hunt and, on one occasion, his hunting pack composed of wolves led him to a lake. When he followed them into the lake, the water overflowed and flooded the whole earth. Both the raven and the otter failed to find any dry land but the musk-rat brought up mud from the bottom and Michabo made a new world, mating with Muskrat to start the human race.

He killed Chokanipok and scattered his entrails which became vines.

He is said to have invented the fishing net and instructed his people in the art of fishing. The clouds in the sky are the fumes from his great pipe.

(see also Manabozho.Wabun)

Michael (see Mika'il)

Michael Serbian

a king of Leyden
father of Roksanda

When the tsar, Doushan, came to sue for the hand of Roksanda, the king demanded that he or his champion should fight his best warrior and succeed in three difficult tasks. The fight and the tasks were undertaken by Milosh who succeeded in winning the hand of Roksanda for his master.

Michan (see Mochaen)

Michel West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from St Michael

Michel de Notre Dame (see Nostradamus)

Michi-No-Kami Japanese

3 Shinto gods of boundaries and roads

Yakushin deities

They are known as Chiburi, Kumado and Yachi-Mata.

Michizane Sugawara Japanese

[Sugaware-no-Michizane]
(845-903)

a sage

He was banished from the imperial court when he was unjustly slandered by the emperor's brother and retired to write poetry, dying soon afterwards. When the capital suffered a series of disasters, they were attributed to Michizane's spirit and, to appease the spirit, he was posthumously reinstated and deified as Tenjin, a god of learning and calligraphy.

In some accounts, he is referred to as Temmangu.

Michon (see Mochoen)

Mictecacihuatl (see Mictlantecuhtl)

Mictla (see Mictlan<sup>1</sup>)

Mictlan<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Apochquiahuyan.Mictla(ncaleo).

Navel of the Earth.Tlaxicco]

the Aztec land of the dead: part of the underworld (see also Chicunauhmicltan.underworld)

Mictlan<sup>2</sup> (see Mictlantecuhtl)

Mictlancaleo (see Mictlan<sup>1</sup>)

Mictlancehutl (see Mictlantecuhtl)

Mictlancehutli (see Mictlantecuhtl)

Mictlancihuatl (see Mictlantecuhtl)

Mictlantecuhtl Central American

[Lady of Death.Mictecacihuatl.

Mictlancehutl.Mictlancihuatl]

an Aztec goddess of the dead

consort of Mictlantecuhtl

Mictlantecuhtli Central American

[Lord of Death.Lord of Hades.

Lord of the North.Mictlan(cehutli).

Tzontemoc:=Mayan Ah Puch]

an Aztec god of the underworld, god
of death

an aspect of Tecatlipoca

consort of Mictlantecuhtl

This deity created the underworld Mictlan and, with Mictlantecuhtl made the monstrous goddess Cipactli.

Other accounts place him as the god of the sixth of the thirteen Aztec heavens or as one of the four gods supporting the corners of the lowest heaven.

He is sometimes equated with Ah Puch or Hunhau.

Midac Irish

[Miodach]

son of Colga

He was the only survivor of the army led by his father to conquer Ireland which was defeated by the Fianna. Finn mac Cool treated him well and gave him land at the mouth of the Shannon where he grew to manhood. He still hated Finn and brought Sinsar, King of the World, and the three kings of the Island of the Torrent, to help him to avenge the death of his father.

When Finn visited him, Midac invited him to a feast at the Quicken Trees Hostel and trapped him and some of the Fianna there. After two war parties had been killed by Innsa and Fiachna as they tried to cross the ford to reach the hostel, Midac himself led a third wave of attackers but they also fell under Fiachna's sword. A spear thrown by Dermot, leading a relieving force, killed Midac who, with his dying effort, slew Fiachna.

Midach (see Miach)

Midas Greek

[Berecynthian Hero]

king of Phrygia

son of Gordius or Gorgias

by Cybele, some say

It is said that a long line of ants fed him with wheat when he was in his cradle, a sign of wealth in the future. Midas had shown kindness to Silenus, the old tutor of Dionysus and the god repaid him by granting his wish that all he touched should turn to gold. He soon discovered it was not a good idea – his food became gold and he nearly starved to death. He was freed by Dionysus when he washed himself in the river Pactolus which thereafter had gold-bearing sands.

He was given the ears of an ass by Apollo when he objected to the god being adjudged the winner of a music contest with Marsyas or, some say, with Pan. His secret was betrayed by his barber who whispered it into a hole in the ground. He refilled the hole but a plant grew there and its leaves whispered the secret for all to hear.

He died from drinking bull's blood when shamed by the disclosure of his deformity which he kept hidden from sight.

(see also Portzmach)

Midach's head

a monster in the form of a man's head with the ears of an ass

Mide<sup>1</sup> North American

[Midewewin.Midiwiwin]

a religious ceremony

The rites handed down to the Algonquin Indians by Manabozho by which the dead could be resurrected.

Mide<sup>2</sup> (see Ide)

Midea Greek

a concubine of Electryon

mother of Licymnius by Electryon

Mider (see Midir)

Midewewin (see Mide<sup>1</sup>)

Midgaard (see Midgard)

Midgard Norse

[Mana-heim.Mann(a)heim.Midgaard.

Midgardr.Midgarthr.Mitgard]

middle-earth, home of the first humans

Midgard Serpent (see Iormungandr)

Midgardr (see Midgard)

Midgardsormen (see Iormungandr)

Midgardsormr (see Iormungandr)

Midgarthr (see Midgard)

Midhna Irish

father of Aillen

Midhir (see Midir)

Midhusa Hindu

son of Indra and Indrani

Midir Irish

[Mider.Midhir the Proud.Mithr.=British

Herne.=Welsh Arawn]

a god of the underworld

brother or son of the Dagda husband of Fuamnach

consort of Etain

father of Bri, Donn and Macha, some say

foster-father of Angus Og

Some say that he had a brother or son called Donn Tetscorach.

He abandoned his wife Fuamnach and took Etain in her place but the jealous wife turned her into a butterfly. She was reborn to the wife of the chieftain, Etar, and later married Eochaid Airemh. Midir claimed her back and took her off to fairyland but Eochaid discovered their home in a fairy-mound and stormed it with his army. Midir then surrendered but produced fifty identical versions of Etain. Eochaid chose the one he thought was his wife but chose one who was, in fact, his own daughter.

Midir was sentenced to perform four tasks for his seduction of Etain: build a causeway across Lamrachmoor, clear the plains of Meath, fell the forest of Meagh and clear all the marshes in the country.

Another version says that Midir won Etain from Eochaid by beating him at chess.

His magic cauldron was once stolen by Cuchulainn.

The eye he lost when struck by a wand of hazel or holly was replaced by Dian Cecht.

When the Dagda resigned, Midir objected to the election of Bodb Dearg as leader of the Danaans and enlisted the Fianna to fight on his side in a battle. In some accounts, he was the father of Blathnad.

Midiwiwin (see Mide<sup>1</sup>)

Midnight Hunter British

the leader of the Wish Hunt

Mielikki (see Mielkki)

Mielkki Baltic

[Mielikki]

a Finnish forest-spirit

wife of Tapio

mother of Nyryikki and Tuulikki

mien Chinese a flat bonnet, with 3 tassels front and back, worn by the Jade

Emperor

Miets-hozjin (see Leshy)

Mig-mi-bzang-Klu Buddhist

the Tibetan name for Virupaksha as guardian of the west

Mighty (see Har<sup>1</sup>)

Mighty Father (see Abadin)

Mighty One (see Dagda.Sakhmet)

Mihos Egyptian

[Ma(a)hes.=Greek M(i)ysis]

a lion-god

son of Ra and Bastet

Mihr Armenian

[Meh(e)r.=Persian Mithra]

a fire-god or sun-god

son of Aramazd

brother of Anahit and Nane

Mihrajan Persian

a six-day feast, in honour of Mithra,

held in September

Miidera (see Benkei)

Mika-Hiya-Hi Japanese

a Shinto sun-god

son of Kagu-Tsuchi

Mikado Japanese

a god-king (see also Arahito-gami)

Mikal Phoenician

a local god: a name for Moloch

Mikhail Potapich Slav

the bear personified

Miketsu Japanese

a food-god

one of the Eight Imperial Deities

mikku Mesopotamian

a drumstick (see also pukku)

miko Japanese

descendants of Saruta-Hiko

and Uzume

These people became shamans or, in later years, attendants at Shinto shrines.

mikoshi Japanese

a portable shrine or palanquin used in Shinto festivals to carry the deity to whom the ceremony is dedicated

mikuju Japanese

[omikuju]

written oracles handed out at a Shinto shrine

Mikula Russian
a farmer
Originally a god and lover of Maki-Syra-Zemlya, he appears in an epic poem as a hero of phenomenal strength.

Mikumari Japanese
a Shinto water-goddess
daughter of Minato

Mikura-tana (see Amaterasu)

Mil (see Milesius)

Mil Easpain (see Milesius)

Mil Easpaine (see Milesius)

Mil Espaine (see Milesius)

Mil Espane (see Milesius)

Mil the Black British son of Dugum
He was killed by King Arthur.

Mila (see Milaraspa)

Mila Fu (see Mi-lo-fo)

Mila-re-pa (see Milarepa)

Milan Serbian
a knight
He and his friends Milosh and Ivan were thrown into prison by the Hungarian general, Voutcha. Marko rode to their rescue and captured both the general and his son, trading them for the release of his friends.

Milanion (see Melanion)

milano bird North American
a fabulous bird

Milaraspa (see Milarepa)

Milarepa Tibetan
[Mila(raspa).Mila-re-pa] (1038-1122)
a Buddhist saint and magician
a pupil of Mar-pa
When his uncle cheated him out of his inheritance, Milarepa used his powers to kill thirty-five members of his uncle's family, to create a huge scorpion that demolished his uncle's house and to cause great hailstorms that flattened the local crops.

Milcham Hebrew
the phoenix
Eve, having eaten of the forbidden fruit, tempted all living things to do likewise. Only the phoenix refused the temptation.

Milcom (see Moloch)

Mile Easpain (see Milesius)

Miled (see Milesius)

Miledh (see Milesius)

Miles (see Myles)

Miles Hispaniae Irish [Soldier of Spain]
the Roman name for Milesius

Milesians Irish [Sons of Mil(ed)]
a tribe led by Milesius
The sixth and last invaders of Ireland who came with thirty-six ships to avenge the murder of Ith. The Danaans caused a storm which wrecked many of the invaders' ships and drowned many of their crews, but some got ashore. In the Battle of Tailltinn which ensued, the three kings of Ireland and their wives were killed. The defeated Danaans then retreated underground as fairies.

Milesius Irish
[Golamh.Mil (Espa(i)ne).Mil(e) Easpain(e).Miled(h).Miles Hispaniae] a Scythian warrior, king of Spain son or grandson of Breoghan husband of Scota
He was originally called Golamh. He went to Scythia and married Seang, the king's daughter. When she died, he went to Egypt where he met and married Scota, daughter of the pharaoh. He killed the pharaoh and returned to Spain with an army to repel invaders.
He was said to have had two sons (Aireach and Donn) by his first wife, six more (Amergin, Colptha, Eber, Erannan, Eremon and Ir) by Scota and many others as a result of affairs in Spain.
Ith, his uncle or, in some accounts, his grandfather, was killed by the three Danaan kings when he landed in Ireland. Milesius raised an army and invaded. He died before reaching the island and his wife died soon afterwards but his sons defeated the Danaans.

Milete Greek
daughter of Hoples
first wife of Aegeus

Miletus Greek [Deionides]
son of Apollo by Areia or Deione or, some say, by Acacallis or Pasiphae father of Byblis and Caunus by Cyanea
He had an affair with Sarpedon, brother of Minos, who banished them both from Crete.

Mili North American
a Zuni fetish

An object, an ear of corn decorated with the feathers of a macaw, which is buried with the body of a dead medicine-man.

miligma Greek
an offering to the god of the underworld

Milinda (see Menander)

Military Emperor (see Wu Ti)

Military King (see Wu Wang)

Militza Serbian
a tararina
wife of Lazar
She was seduced each night by a zmay but discovered that he feared another zmay, Vook. Her husband employed Vook who flew after the zmay and smashed him to earth with his club.

Milius Irish
a man who held St Patrick in bondage
When, in later years, he was told that St Patrick was returning, he immolated himself.

Milkilu (see Abimilki)

Milkom (see Moloch)

Milky Way<sup>1</sup> Central American in Aztec lore, this galaxy was personified in the goddess Citlanlinicue or as Chicomexochtili

Milky Way<sup>2</sup> Greek
a broad band of stars
Hera was induced into suckling the infant Heracles who had been abandoned and a spurt of milk from her breast was said to have formed the Milky Way.
Another story says that it is the trail blazed by Phaeton in his wild ride across the heavens in the chariot of his father, Helius.

Milky Way<sup>3</sup> North American
the Cheyenne regard this band of stars as a 'hanging road', Ekutshimmiyo, between heaven and earth

Milky Way<sup>4</sup> (see Bifrost.Irmin's Way)

Milla Irish
sister of Iubhar wife of Cormac
mother of Aban

Millet Prince (see Hou t'u)

Milo<sup>1</sup> Greek [Milon]
a 6th c BC athlete eaten by wolves
He could carry a cow on his shoulders, kill it with one blow of his fist and eat all of it in a day. When, in his late years, he tried to pull apart the two halves of a tree that was partly split, he trapped his hand and could not get free. He was helpless when a pack of wolves attacked and ate him.

Milo<sup>2</sup> (see Mi-lo-fo)

Milon<sup>1</sup> European [Milo(ne)]
a duke of Aiglant husband of Bertha father of Roland
He was banished by Charlemagne

when he secretly married the emperor's sister, Bertha. He left his wife and young son in a cave and set out to seek his fortune. He was drowned when trying to cross a ford or, in other accounts, was killed in battle by the Saracens in Spain.

Some stories say that Charlemagne fathered Roland on his sister, Bertha, and then married her off to Milon.

In a different version, Milon was a courtier at the court of King Hugon and he seduced the king's wife, Alif. She was locked in a dungeon by her husband for seven years until she was rescued by her son, Landres. Charlemagne, her brother, restored Alif to her proper position and had Milon thrown into the same dungeon which was full of snakes and toads.

Milon<sup>2</sup> (see Milo<sup>1</sup>)

Milone (see Milon<sup>1</sup>)

Milosh<sup>1</sup> Serbian

[Milosh the Shepherd. Milosh Voinavitch]

a Serbian hero

brother of Potrashin and Voukashin

Disguised as a Bulgar he accompanied his uncle, Doushan, to claim the hand of Roksanda, daughter of Michael, king of Leyden. He killed three of the tsar's train when they tried to take his marvellous horse, Koulash, and took upon himself the tasks set by King Michael before he would part with his daughter. These involved killing the king's champion, leaping over three horses in line, shooting an arrow through a ring to pierce an apple and choosing Roksanda from three identically dressed maidens. Milosh succeeded in all these tasks but when the party left with Roksanda, the king sent the three-headed warrior, Balatchko, to bring her back. Despite the flames from one of his mouths and the icy blast issuing from another, Balatchko was killed by Milosh who cut off all his heads.

Milosh<sup>2</sup> Serbian

[Milosh Obrenbegovitch]

a noble

Prince Ivan had won the consent of the doge of Venice to the marriage of his daughter to Ivan's son, Maximus, whom she had never seen. When Maximus was disfigured by small-pox, Milosh took his place to woo the maiden but he fell out with Maximus over a golden shirt that the bride had made as a wedding-present for her husband, and they fought. Milosh was killed and Maximus claimed the maiden for his wife.

Milosh<sup>3</sup> Serbian

[Milosh of Potzerye]

a knight

He was riding with Marko and Relya when they were set upon by Bogdan the Bully and twelve of his men. Marko captured all twelve and scared Bogdan into releasing his two friends who had been captured by Bogdan.

On another occasion, he was captured by General Voutcha, together with Ivan and Milan, but Marko came to their rescue.

He killed hundreds of the general's men and then captured the general and his son, trading them for the release of his three friends.

Milosh the Shepherd (see Milosh<sup>1</sup>)

Miloutin Serbian

a prince

father of Iconia

Milton, John English

(1608-1674)

a poet

He wrote Comus, Paradise Lost, etc

Milu New Zealand

[Miru]

a troublesome Maori chieftain

father of Kumu-Tonga-I-Te-Po

He was condemned to be god of the underworld by Kane.

Miluchra (see Milucra)

Miluchradh (see Milucra)

Milucra Irish

[Miluchra(dh)]

daughter of Culann

sister of Aine

Both sisters wanted Finn mac Cool as a husband and each was jealous of the other. Realising that Finn would never choose her, Milucra, in the shape of a hind, lured Finn to an enchanted lake where she turned him into a grey-haired old man. The Fianna dug down into Culann's fairy-mound where Aine gave Finn a drink that restored his youth but left him grey-haired.

Milu's Cave (see Lua-a-Milu)

milzinas Baltic

a Lithuanian giant-spirit

Mim (see Mimir)

Mimallones (see Bacchantes)

Mimameid (see Mimameith)

Mimameider (see Mimameith)

Mimameith Norse

[Mimameid(er).Mimameithr]

a name for Yggdrasil as the Tree of Mimir

Mimameithr (see Mimameith)

Mimas Greek

['mocker']

one of the Earthborn Giants

son of Uranus and Gaea

He was killed in the war against the gods when Hephaestus buried him beneath Mount Vesuvius.

Mime German

[Mimi(r).Modsognir:=Norse Regin]

a dwarf

brother of Alberich

He made the Helmet of Invisibility and the Ring of Power, used by Alberich, from some of the Rhinegold. When the treasure fell into the hands of Fafnir, Mime resolved to get it for himself. He set up a forge and started to make swords hoping to find a hero who would use one of them to kill Fafnir. The distraught Sieglinde arrived on his doorstep with a young baby and died soon after showing Mime the pieces of the broken Sword of Need. Mime raised the boy, Siegfried, who later reforged the sword and killed the dragon Fafnir. When Mime tried to poison Siegfried to get the treasure for himself, Siegfried killed him.

Mimer (see Mimir)

Mimer-Nidhad (see Mimir)

Mimi<sup>1</sup> Australian

a trickster-spirit of the

Aborigines

These extremely thin beings live in cracks in the rocks, cracks which they make by blowing on the surface of the rocks, and are said to have taught men the skills of the hunter.

The males are depicted with large genitals, the females with large pendulous breasts.

Mimi<sup>2</sup> English

a smith-god

Mimi<sup>3</sup> (see Mime.Mimir)

Miming<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Mimming.Mimung]

a magic sword

In some accounts, this sword was made by Volund for his son Heime; in others, Hoder stole this sword and used it to kill Balder.

In Germanic stories, Volund is Wieland and the son receiving Miming is called Wittich. In Thidreksaga, it is called Mimung and was owned by Vigda. In other accounts, this was the sword of Walther von Wasenstein.

(see also Mistillteinn)

Miming<sup>2</sup> (see Mimingus)

Mimingus Norse

[Miming]
a satyr of the woods and underworld
He was the owner of the magic sword, Mistillteinn, which was stolen by Hoder who used it to kill Balder.

Mimir<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Hodmimir.Memor.Mimer(-Nidhad).
Mim(i).Mimr]

a god of the primordial ocean
a wise sea-giant guardian of the Well of Knowledge
son of Aegir and Ran son of Bolthor, some say brother of Gymir

In some stories he was one of the hostages given to the Vanir and was decapitated by them when he refused to give them the secrets of the Aesir.
His head was given to Odin who preserved it by magic, giving it the power of speech so that he could consult it when needed.

Mimir<sup>2</sup> *(see Mime)Mimisbrunnr Norse

[Well of Knowledge]
the well below Yggdrasil in Asgard

In some accounts, this well was guarded by Mimir while others say that it came into being when Odin made a shrine there with the head of Mimir who had been decapitated by the Vanir and a spring erupted at that point. Others say that the head was placed next to Urda's Well in Midgard.

This was the well from which Odin drank to gain knowledge, giving up one of his eyes in payment. The eye was placed in the well.

Mimming *(see Miming)Mimr *(see Mimir)Mimung *(see Miming)Mim Egyptian

[Amsu.Imsu.Menu.=Greek Priapus; =Roman Mutinus]

a ram-headed god of fertility, hunters, mines and nomads
son of Ra or Shu by Isis consort of Qedeshet

He is regarded as an aspect of Amen
and is depicted with an erect penis and wearing a headdress with two plumes.

Min Kyawzwa Burmese

a nat, spirit of wine and merrymaking

Min Magaye Burmese

[Magari.Mahagiri.Maung Tin De]

a nat, a creator-diety brother of Hnit-ma-dawgyi husband of Shwe Ne Be uncle of Shin Ne Mi

He was originally a blacksmith, Nga Tinze, and became a deity when he and his sister were burned to death by the king, his brother-in-law.

In some accounts, his sister is Shwe Myet-hna.

Mina Hindu

one of the signs of the Zodiac,
Pisces the fish

Minabozho *(see Manabozho)Minaka-Nushi Japanese

[Ama-no-Minaka-Kushi.
Amanominakanushi.Lord of the Centre of Heaven]
a Shinto creator-god and pole-star
god

He is regarded as the oldest of the five Separate Heavenly Deities and lives in the ninth heaven.

Minakshi Hindu

[Minaksi]
a fish goddess
a sakti of Shiva
daughter of Kubera
mother of Ugra

She was said to have had three breasts, one of which disappeared when she met Shiva, and was reared as a boy. In some accounts, she was regarded as a warrior-maid who took over the world by conquest.

Minaksi *(see Minakshi)Minamoto no Yorimasa

(see Yorimasa)

Minanatha Tibetan

[Lohipada.Luipa]
the name for Matsyendra in Tibet

Minata-karaia South American

a supposed race in Brazil

These people were said to have had a hole in the head which emitted whistling sounds.

Minato Japanese

a Shinto river-god
son of Izanagi and Izanami
father of Mikumari

Minawara Australian

an ancestral hero of the Aborigines
a kangaroo-man
brother of Multultu

He and his brother appeared, when the primordial waters subsided, in the form of kangaroos and they created all the other living things on earth.

Mindi Australian

a name for the Rainbow Snake as the cause of disease

Minelaphos Greek

[Stag-Minos]

a sacred stag worshipped by a Cretan cult

Minepa African

a god of evil in Zambia

Minerva Roman

[Blue-eyed Maid.Cap(i)ta.Medica.

Menerva:Nautia=British Sirl:

=Etruscan Menrfa:=Greek Athena]

goddess of craftsmen, education, war and wisdom: one of the Olympians

Originally she was seen as the daughter of the giant, Pallas, whom she killed when he tried to rape her.

In other versions, like Athena, she was born fully grown, from the head of Jupiter.

Minervalia Roman

festivals in honour of Minerva

mingeche African spirits of the Lele which live in the forest

Minia African

a primeval serpent

This was the first thing to be created and its body was split into seven parts which were used by the creator to make the world and all that is in it.

Minige Japanese

a festival held in honour of Oho-kuninushi

A dragon carved from wood was said to have had its throat cut and thereafter no longer disturbed the inhabitants by crawling over the roofs of their houses. During the festival, the deity Oho-kuninushi rides through the streets on a horse made of bronze.

Mink North American

an animal which tried to find dry land so that Manabush could recreate the world after the flood

Mink died in the attempt, as did two other animals, Beaver and Otter. The only one to succeed was Muskrat.

Minma Mingara Australian

a woman who was turned to stone

Julana, the penis of Njirana, attacked this woman so she called up a pack of dogs which attacked Julana. Njirana then retracted his penis and they all turned to stone.

Minnehaha North American

[Laughing Water.Mni-haha]

wife (or some say daughter) of Hiawatha

She was offered to the Great Spirit as a sacrifice and was taken up to heaven on the back of an enormous eagle. As a result, her father was able to unify the Five Nations.

mino North American

water-spirits of the Cheyenne These beings were said to be covered with hair and to have horns on their heads.

Minocan British

father of Belinus, some say

Minokichi Japanese

an apprentice of Mosaku husband of Yuki

The phantom, Yuki-Onna appeared while Minokichi and his master slept. She killed Mosaku with her icy breath but spared the younger man. Later, in the form of Yuki, a beautiful maiden, she met and married Minokichi and they had ten children. He finally realised that she was the one who had killed his master, whereupon Yuki disappeared in a cloud of cold mist, never to return.

Minona African

a demi-goddess in Dahomey guardian of women

She is variously referred to as the mother of Fa or of Mwau or as the mother or sister of Legba.

minores Roman

junior flamines chosen from plebeians

Minos Greek

[Europaeus]
a king of Crete
son of Zeus by Europa brother of Rhadamanthys and Sarpedon husband of Pasiphae
father of Acacallis, Androgeus, Ariadne, Catreus, Chryses, Deucalion, Euryale, Eurymedon, Glaucus, Nephalion, Phaedra,
Philolaus and Xenodice

He and his brothers were adopted by Asterius, king of Crete. They quarrelled over the youth Miletus and Rhadamanthys and Sarpedon left the island. Minos claimed the throne on the death of Asterius and proved his right by inducing Poseidon to send a white bull that swam ashore from the sea.

His son Androgeus, on a visit to Aegeus, the king of Athens, was sent on an expedition to kill a dangerous bull and was himself killed. Minos blamed Aegeus for his son's death and invaded Athens. In settlement he demanded that seven youths and seven maidens be sent to Crete every year (or every nine years) to be handed over as victims to the Minotaur, the offspring of his wife Pasiphae and the bull which he kept hidden in the labyrinth built by Daedalus.

When Theseus came to Crete as one of the sacrificial victims, Minos threw his ring into the sea and challenged Theseus to prove that he was the son of Poseidon by retrieving the ring. With the help of the Nereids, Theseus recovered the ring quite easily.

He was said to be the father of a calf that changed colour three times each day from white, to red, to black. Pasiphae, enraged by his affairs with other women, gave him a potion that caused him to infect any woman he made love to. When Procris cured him, he gave her the dog Laelaps and an unerring spear.

He locked Daedalus and his son Icarus in the labyrinth and scoured the Mediterranean for them when they escaped after being freed by Pasiphae. When he found Daedalus at the court of King Cocalus he demanded that he be handed over but Daedalus (or a priestess of Cocalus) killed him by pouring scalding water or pitch over him as he lay in his bath.

In another version, he was killed in the fight that ensued when Cocalus refused to hand over Daedalus.

Zeus made Minos one of the three judges of souls in Tartarus.

In some accounts, the head of Minos, one of many in mythology said to act as an oracle, was taken to Scandinavia by the Norse god, Odin.

In another version, one son of Minos was called Lycastus and he had a son by Ida who was also called Minos, becoming the second king of Crete with that name. In this version, it was this grandson of Minos the First who married Pasiphae and his grandfather was married to Ithona.

Minotaur<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Asterion.Asterius.Minotaurus]
a monster

A bull-headed man or a man-headed bull born to Pasiphae after she mated with Poseidon's white bull. It was shut up in the labyrinth built on Crete by Daedalus and was fed on the seven youths and seven maidens given every year (or every nine years) by the Athenians as compensation to Minos for the death of his son at their hands. Theseus offered himself as one of these youths and killed the monster.

In some accounts, the monster was the offspring of Europa.

Minotaur<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Bull-Minos.Minotaurus]
the sacred bull worshipped by a Cretan cult

Minotaurus *(see Minotaur)Minotragos Greek

[Goat-Minos]
the sacred goat worshipped by a Cretan cult

Mintha *(see Minthe)Minthe Greek

[Menthe.Mintha]
a nymph, one of the Naiads daughter of Cocytus and Peitho

She was changed into the mint plant by Persephone to foil an attack by Hades.

An alternative version says that she was a mistress of Hades and the jealous Persephone trampled her to death, whereupon she was changed into mint.

Minu *(see Meni)Minu-anni Mesopotamian

[Minu-ullu]
a name for Ishtar as a goddess of fate

Minu-ullua *(see Minu-anni)Minuae *(see Minyans)Minyae *(see Minyans)Minyans Greek

[Minuae.Minyae]
the descendants of Minyas: a name for the Argonauts

Minyas Greek

king of Thessaly
son of Chryses
son or father of Orchomenus,
some say
father of Alcithoe, Alsippe, Leucippe and Periclymene
father of Clymene, some say

All his daughters, except one, were turned into bats (or birds) by Dionysus for refusing to join his revels. Others say that the god drove them mad so that they killed Leucippe's son, Hippasus, and the horrified Maenads put all three sisters to death.

Some say that his daughter Clymene became the second wife of Cephalus.

Mio Cid *(see El Cid)Miodach *(see Midac)Miodchaoin *(see Mochaen)Miodhchain (see Mochaen)

Mioduitnir Norse

[Mjoduitnir]
one of the dwarfs

Miolo-Seki Japanese

male and female rocks that rise out of the sea

Miollnir (see Miolnir)

Miolnir Norse

[Crusher.Miollnir.Mjollner.Mjol(l)nir]
the magic hammer of Thor

This wonderful weapon was made by Sindi and presented by Loki. It was once stolen by the giant Thrym but recovered by Thor dressed as Freya in a bridal-gown.

After the final battle in which Thor was killed, the hammer was recovered from the ashes of the world conflagration by his sons, Modi and Magni.

Mios (see Miysis)

Mioya Japanese

a primordial creator-god

He was welcomed by Tsukuba, god of Mount Tsukuba and, in gratitude, made the mountain green and pleasant. By contrast, Fuji refused to entertain him so Mioya caused Mount Fuji to be perpetually snow-capped.

Miqtu Mesopotamian

a Babylonian deity

Miquiztli Central American

the sixth of the 20 days of the Aztec month

Symbolising death and the west, the day was governed by Tezcatlipoca.

Mir (see Ishkur)

Mira Hindu

[Miraben]

a princess who loved Krishna so dearly that her soul was merged with his

Miraben (see Mira)

miracle

something achieved by supernatural power

miracle-worker

one who purports to work wonders

Mircucha (see Mbir)

miraculous birth (see magical birth)

Miraculous Hand (see Ka-bul)

Mirage People (see Kisani)

Mirage Boy North American

a Navaho demi-god who married the first woman

Miralaldu (see Djanggawuls)

Mirandoise (see Excalibur)

Miraramuin (see Mirrimina)

Miraude British

wife of Torec

She had possession of a circlet that had belonged to Torec's grandmother.

When he tried to regain possession of it, she said that she would marry him if he could defeat all the Knights of the Round Table. Gawain persuaded all the knights to co-operate and Torec was able to appear victorious and claimed Miraude's hand.

Mircurios (see Mercury)

Miren (see Fate<sup>1</sup>)

Mirimu African

a war-god of the Buganda

son of Musaka

brother of Kirabura and Nende

Mirka (see Abominable Snowman)

Mirkwood German

the forest separating the lands of the Germanic tribes from those of the barbarians to the east

Miro (see Miroku)

Miroet British

a Knight of the Round Table

son of Alvarez

brother of Kamelin

Miroku Japanese

[Buddhist Messiah.Miro:=Chinese

Hsiao Fo.Mi-lo-fo.Pu T'ai Ho-shang:

=Hindu Kalki:=Korean Miruk]

the Japanese version of Maitreya

(see also Hotei<sup>1</sup>)

Mircurios (see Mercury)

Mirrimina Australian

[Miraramuin.Mirrimina.Muruwul]

a water-hole, home of Yurlungur

Mirrimina (see Mirrimina)

Mirror of Matsuyama Japanese

a mirror in which a young girl saw the face of her dead mother

Mirror of Retribution Buddhist

a mirror in hell

The wandering spirit sees itself in this mirror; the good see themselves as they are while the evil see themselves as beasts.

Mirsa Russian

a Caucasian and Georgian god of light

Mirsi Mesopotamian

[Mirsu]

a name for Tammuz as a god

of irrigation

Miru<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

the Polynesian goddess of the dead

mother of Tau Tati

She lives in the underworld, Hawaika. Her daughters, the Tapairus, are sent to the upper world to ensnare mortals and take them to Hawaika where their mother cooks and eats them.

Miru<sup>2</sup> (see Milu)

Miru-me Japanese

[Mirume]

a female double-faced head

This object, capable of divining secrets, assists Emma-O in the judgment of souls in the underworld. It is placed to the right of his throne and sees everything.

(see also Kagu-hana)

Miruk Korean

[=Chinese Hsiao Fo.Mi-lo-fo:=Buddhist

Maitreya:=Hindu Kalki:=Japanese

Miroku]

a creator-god

He is said to have created the earth, pushing heaven and earth apart and supporting the heavens with a copper pillar at each corner. He created men and women from insects which appeared in the silver and gold trays which he held while praying to heaven. After many struggles with Sokka, the force of evil, he left the world to its own sinful ways.

Mirume (see Miru-me)

Mis Irish

daughter of Daire Donn

sister of Eochaid mac Mairedha

wife of Caoimhghin

When her father was killed in battle with the Fianna, she drank his blood and went mad, living like a wild animal. The harper Dubh Rois charmed her with his music and seduced her. She then regained her looks and her reason and married Dubh.

Mise Greek

a minor goddess

In some accounts, she is referred to as bisexual.

Miseke African

a maiden who married the thunder-god of the Banyarwanda

Misenus Greek

a Trojan, trumpeter to Aeneas

He was a companion of Hector who escaped with Aeneas at the fall of Troy. He died on the long voyage that took the escapees to a new home in Italy. Some say that he was drowned by one of the Tritons who was jealous of his prowess as a trumpeter.

Misericordia Greek

[Eleos]

goddess of mercy

a child of Erebus and Nyx

Misharu (see Mesharu)

Mishe-Nahmo North American

a monster in the form of a huge fish

This monster was overcome by Hiawatha.

Mishe-Mokwa (see Great Bear)

Mishna (see Mishnah)

Misikinebik North American

[Maskenomak.Meshekenabec]

a Menominee water-monster

This monster, in the form of a snake of many colours, was eating up all the tribe so Manabush offered himself and, once inside the serpent, stabbed it in the heart and killed it.

Misme Greek

mother of Ascalabus

She gave Demeter water to drink and, when her son, Ascalabus, mocked Demeter, the goddess turned him into a lizard.

Misor *(see Mesharu)Misran

a demon of persecution

Misroch

a demon

In black magic he is the paymaster of the Royal Household.

Miss Seventh *(see Ch'i-ku-niang)Missabos *(see Michabo)Misshakukongo Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Missiwabun *(see Michabo)Mist Norse

one of the Valkyries

mistai North American

wood-spirits of the Cheyenne

Mistelteinn *(see Mistilteinn)Mistilteinn Norse

[Mistelteinn]

a marvellous sword

In some accounts, Hoder killed Balder with this weapon, the name of which became translated as a mistletoe bough. He seized the sword from its original owner, Mimingus, in the underworld.

*(see also Hromund.Miming)Mistress, The Greek

an Arcadian goddess: a name for Core or Despoena

Mistress of Animals(see Potnia Theron)Mistress of Eternity *(see Renpet)Mistress of the Gods *(see Qedeshet)Mistress of the Griffins *(see Artemis)Mistress of the Labyrinth(see Ariadne)Mistress of Water *(see Hara-Ke)Mitana Japanese

soul of god

Mitana-shiro Japanese

Shinto ghost-sticks: tablets bearing the names of the dead

Mitamaya Japanese

a household shrine which houses the mitana-shiro

Mitgard *(see Midgard)Mitgardsormen *(see Iormungandr)Mithgarthsormr *(see Iormungandr)Mithr *(see Midir)Mithra Persian

[Mediator.Mitra:=Armenian Mihr:

=Hindu Mitra:=Roman Mithras.Saturn]

god of justice, light and war

one of the Yazatas

son of Ahura Mazda

In some versions he was born fully-formed from a rock, in others he was the twin brother of Ahura Mazda.

He carried a knife with which he killed the primordial bull Guesh Urva which had continually opposed Ahriman and from its dead body came plants and animals.

He came down to earth on December 25th to relieve the sufferings of man, returning to heaven afterwards. He is expected to return to fight the last battle, overcoming Ahriman and leading the elect to eternal life.

In some accounts, he was an assistant to Kshathra Varya.

His weapons are arrows and the mace and his animal is the boar.

Mithraeum Roman

a temple dedicated to Mithra in which bulls were sacrificed

Mithras Roman

[=Hindu Mitra:=Persian Mithra]

a god of soldiers

He was worshipped as a bull-god by men only who asserted that the marrow and blood of the dead bull became, like Christ's body and blood, the bread and wine of the sacrament.

Initiates to the cult took part in the sacrifice of the bull and were required to pass through at least seven stages.

Mithun *(see Mithuna)Mithuna<sup>1</sup> Hindu

[Mithun]

one of the signs of the Zodiac,

Gemini the twins

mithuna<sup>2</sup> Hindu

the state of being a couple: the sexual union of devotees

Miti Siberian

a mother-goddess of the Koryak tribe

daughter of Gi'thililan or Toko'yoto

consort of Quikinna'qu

mother of Cana'ina'ut, Eme'mqut,

Na'nqa-Ka'le and Yine'ane'ut

Mitnal<sup>1</sup> Central American

a part of the Mayan underworld reserved for the punishment of the wicked

Mitnal<sup>2</sup> Central American

a Mayan god of the underworld

Mito-komon *(see Tokugawa)Mitosh Japanese

a god of agriculture, guardian of farmers

Mitothin *(see Mjotudr-inn)Mitra<sup>1</sup> Hindu

['light of day':=Persian Mithra:

=Roman Mithras]

a sun-god, god of the sky, ruler of the day

one of the Adityas

brother of Aryaman and Varuna

Shiva lost his temper when excluded from a sacrifice by Daksha and wounded many of those present. Mitra had his eyes gouged out.

He is one of three judges who weigh souls in the underworld and is said to have 1,000 eyes and ears.

Mitra<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

a Babylonian sun-god

Mitra<sup>3</sup> *(see Mithra)Mitsotsozini African

in Potono lore, the first man

In other versions, Vere was the first man and he was shown how to make fire by Mitsotsozini.

Mitraton

an angel of the second heaven,

associated with the west

Mitsudomo Japanese

an amulet worn to protect from fire, flood and theft

Mitsumine Japanese

an amulet, in the form of a dog,

worn to protect from robbery

Mitys Greek

a man who was murdered

A statue erected to commemorate Mitys exacted retribution when it fell on the murderer, killing him.

Miuisit West Indian

[Baron Miuisit]

a Haitian voodoo spirit

Miwa Daimyo-jin Japanese

a deaf god

He forgot the date of a meeting of the gods and arrived a day late, causing much laughter among the other deities when they heard about it.

Miwi Japanese

a deity of springs and wells

Mixcoatl Central American

[Cloud Serpent.Iztacmixco(hu)atl.

Sky Father]

the Aztec god of hunting

son of Cihuacoatl

father of Huitzilopochtli

by Coatlicue

father of Quetzalcoatl by Xochiquetzal
In some accounts, his wife was Ilamatecutli who bore seven sons. Others give his wife as Chimalmatl by whom he fathered Ce Acatl.

Some say he was the father of Tezcatlipoca, others that they were the same.

He is depicted with white stripes covering his body or with the features of an animal and is sometimes accompanied by a deer with two heads.

Mixcoatl-Camaxtli Central American
an Aztec war-god, god of fire and the hunt
a form of Tezcatlipoca as fire-god (see also Camaxtli)

miya (see yashiro)

Miya-jjima Japanese

a celestial paradise

Miyake (see Miyadzu)

Miyatanzipas Mesopotamian

a Hittite grain-god

Miyadzu Japanese

[Miyake]
a princess

O-Uso-No-Makoto fell in love with her and so neglected his wife, Ototachibana, that she committed suicide to leave him free. When he realised what he had lost, Yamato lost interest in Miyadzu.

Miyazu Japanese

a guardian-goddess of the royal family

consort of Susanowa, some say

Miyne Buddhist

one of the six regions shown on the second ring of the Tibetan Wheel of Life, the Sipa Khorlo

Miyolangsangma Tibetan

a goddess of Mount Everest one of the Five Long Life Sisters, some say

She was originally an angry Bon deity and was adopted into Buddhism. The Tibetans give Everest the name, Chomulungma.

Miysis Greek

[Mios.Mysis]
the Greek name of Mihos

Miyul Tibetan

one of the 6 regions shown on the second ring of the Tibetan Wheel of Life, the Sipa Khorlo

This is the Buddhist realm of mankind, site of the temple.

Mizan Arab

the Zodiacal sign, Libra (scales)

Mizaru Japanese

[Mi-saru]

one of the Three Mystic Apes

He is depicted with his hands covering his eyes as 'he who sees no evil'.

Mizgitari

a demon associated with eagles

mizimu African

ancestral spirits of the Swahili

Mizkun

a demon of amulets

Mizu-Ha-No-Me Japanese

a Shinto water-goddess

She was born from the urine of Izanami when she was dying.

Mjoduitnir (see Mioduitnir)

Mjólnir (see Miólnir)

Mjöllner (see Miöllnir)

Mjöllnir (see Miöllnir)

Mjotudr-inn Norse

[Mitothin]

an early god

He was said to have impersonated Odin during the latter's absence and fled, when Odin returned, to Finland where, some say, he was killed.

He is regarded as an aspect of the treacherous Loki.

Mkana Nyifwa African

a name of Tilo as 'eternal'

mkisi (see nkisi)

Mkulumncande African

[Great First One]

a creator-god of the Swazi people

Mlacuch Roman

an Etruscan deity

Mlangeri African

[People of the Sun]

the family of the Swazi king who is a descendant of the sun.

Mlengavuwa African

a name of Tilo as 'maker of rain'

Mlengi (see Tilo)

Mlentengamunye African

a messenger god of the Swazi people

Mlezi African

a name of Tilo as 'giver of food'

Mlk (see Moloch)

Mlk-ab-Anm Canaanite

a name of El as 'master of time'

Mlk-Amuklos Semitic

a hero-god

mlungu African [chohile]

in Tanzania, a high god

Mm British

a Celtic goddess

consort of Aywell

mmoatia African

[=Brazil saci:=Dahomey azizan:

=Surinam apuku:=Yoruba ijimere]

dwarf sorcerers or forest spirits of the Ashanti

mna sidh Irish

a collective term for goddesses

Mne Seraphim

a name for Bne Seraphim used by William Blake

father of Thel

Mneme Greek

one of the Muses when there were said to be only 3 of them

Mnemosyne Greek

['memory']

a Titaness

goddess of memory

daughter of Uranus and Gaea

mother of the Muses by Zeus

Mnesileos Greek

son of Polydeuces by Phoebe

Mnesimache Greek

daughter of Dexamenus

She was abducted by the Centaur,

Eurytion, but Heracles arrived in time to kill the Centaur and save her.

Mneuis (see Mnevis)

Mnevis Egyptian

[Bull of Meroc.Menuis.Menur.Menvis.

Merur.Mer-wer.Mneuis.Nemur]

a sacred black bull representing Atum:

the bull of Ra: Ra incarnate as a bull

Where the Apis bull had a white patch on its head, the Mnevis bull was all black.

Mni-haha (see Minnehaha)

Mo-Aedoc (see Maodhog)

Mo-Caemoc Irish

[Mo Chaemoc.Mochaomhog]

a hermit

He sheltered the Children of Lir after their sojourn at sea and baptised them before they died.

Mo Chaemoc (see Mo-Caemoc)

Mo-ho Chia-yeh

(see Ma-ho Chia-yeh)

Mo-Ide (see Ide)

Mo-li-chi (see Maritchi)

Mo-li Ch'ing Chinese

[Land Bearer:=Buddhist Ch'ih

Kuo:=Hindu Dhartarashtra:

=Japanese Jikoku]

a Taoist deity, one of the Four

Diamond Kings

He is guardian of the east and owns the magic sword, Blue Cloud, which he uses to produce a host of flying spears to kill his enemies or a fire to burn them to death.

He is depicted with a white face and holding a ring and a spear.

Mo-li Hai Chinese

[Far-Gazer:=Buddhist Kuang Mu:=Hindu

Virupaksha:=Japanese Zochō]

a Taoist deity, one of the Four Diamond Kings
He is guardian of the west and is depicted with a blue face and holding a guitar, the music of which can destroy his enemies by fire.

Mo-li Hung Chinese
[Lord of Growth:=Buddhist Tseng Chang:=Hindu Virudhaka: =Japanese Komuku]
a Taoist deity, one of the Four Diamond Kings
He is guardian of the south and is depicted with a red face and holding an umbrella with which he can cause storms and darkness.

Mo-li Shou Chinese
[Well-Famed:=Buddhist To Wen:=Hindu Vaishravana:=Japanese Bishamon]
a Taoist deity, one of the Four Diamond Kings
He is guardian of the north and is depicted with a black face and holding two whips, a pearl and a bag made of panther skin which holds the rat, Hua-hu Tiao.

Mo-yeh Chinese
father of Fo-hsi
His wife, while walking beside a river, found herself encircled by a rainbow. She dreamt that she was pregnant with a white elephant and, twelve years later, her son Fo-hsi was born.

Moa Pacific Islands
son of Salevao and Papa
He was said to have been born in the centre of the earth. In some accounts he is the progenitor of mankind.

Moan Central American
a Mayan vulture-spirit
This spirit was regarded as the harbinger of death.

Moana-Irakau Pacific Islands
the ocean home of the wind-god Raka
In the coconut which is the universe, this place is situated below the Hollow Grey Rocks, home of Tumatea.

Moaner (see Ochain)

Mobhi (see Bearchan?)

Mobog East Indian
a ceremony in Borneo to drive evil spirits from a village
A pig, carried in a basket on the back of a woman, is beaten to make it squeal. The noise attracts the spirits who then follow the procession down to the river where they are set adrift on a raft.

Moccus (see Moccus)

Moccus Roman [Moccus]
a Celtic swine-god in Gaul

Mochaen Irish [Michan.Miod(h)chaoin]
a fierce warrior
father of Aedh, Conn and Corca
He was dedicated to preventing anyone from shouting on his hill, Cnoc Miodhchaoin, and he and his three sons killed Brian and his brothers Iuchar and Iucharba, the sons of Turenn, when they raised a shout in performing the tasks imposed for the murder of Cian. He and his sons were also killed in the fight.

Mochaioi Irish
a saint
While collecting firewood, he stopped to listen as a bird sang three separate songs. On returning to his monastery, he found everything had changed – each song had lasted for fifty years.

Mochaomhog (see Mo-Caemoc)

Mochna (see Bochna)

Mochra (see Bochna)

Mochta Irish
husband of Coman
father of Moninne

Mochuda Irish [Carthach]
a saint
He performed many miracles, including an instantaneous journey, in a flaming chariot provided for him by an angel, to administer the last rites to a dying king.
He and his followers were ejected from their monastery by the high-kings, Blathmhac at the instigation of other abbots jealous of his influence.

mockingbird North American in Hopi lore, the bird who allocated men, as they emerged from the underworld, to a particular tribe
It is said that, when the mockingbird ran out of songs, those who were still unallocated to a tribe returned to the underworld.

Mocumin Scottish
a servant of Columba
He was saved from the clutches of the Laidly Beast by the timely intervention of his master.

Mod Irish
a friend of Manannan
He was killed by a wild boar.

modaka Hindu
a cake used in sacrificial rites

Moddey Dhoo (see Mauthe Dog)

Modeina Polish
a woodland deity

Modgud Norse
[Modgud(u)r.Mothguthr]

a skeleton-like figure guarding the crystal bridge leading over the river Giall to Niflheim
In some accounts Modgud is a pale maiden guarding the bridge.

Modgudr (see also Modgud)

Modgudur (see also Modgud)

Modi Norse [‘courage’] son of Thor by Iarnsaxa
brother of Magni
He and his brother survived Ragnarok.

Modimo African
a creator-god of the Tswana people

Modir Norse
[‘mother’] wife of Fadir
mother of Jarl
She bore Jarl to Heimdall when he visited earth as Riger.

Modjadi (see Mujaji)

Modo British
a demon in King Lear

Modolf Norse
one of the men with Flosi when they killed the Njalssons and burnt their house

Modred (see Mordred)

Modron Welsh
[=Celtic Matrona]
a mother-goddess and river-goddess daughter of Avalloc wife of Urien, some say mother of Mabon
Some accounts equate her with Morgan le Fay and make her the mother of Owain by Urien.
(see also Lady of Little Van Lake)

Modrwy Eluned British
the ring of Eluned
This ring, which could make the wearer invisible, became one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

Modsognir Norse
Mime (or Mimir) as king of the dwarfs

Moe Pacific Islands
a Tahitian deity

Moel Arthur British
a hill in Wales where, it is said, King Arthur’s palace once stood

Moelo African
founder of the Bushongo son of Bomazi
twin of Woto

Moen (see Labraid Loiseach.Maon)

Moera (see Maera)

Moerae (see Moirae)

Moertholl (see Freya)

Mofebais Irish

[Mofebis]
father of Loch Mor

Mofebis (see Mofebais)

Mog (see Mogh)

Mogdrasir (see Lif)

Moggallana Buddhist

[Kolita]
a disciple of Buddha, said to have supernatural powers

Mogh Neid Irish

[Mog Neid]
a name of Eoghan Mor's father and a nickname of Eoghan

Mogh Ruith Irish

[Mog Ruith.Slave of the Wheel]
a druid

He was an adviser to Cormac mac Airt and Fiachu Muilleathan at the Battle of Fochaird and later helped Fiachu to defeat the invading forces of Cormac by causing a great conflagration that routed them.

In later centuries, it was said that he was a pupil of the sorcerer, Simon Magus, and had beheaded St John the Baptist.

He was said to be able to fly in a rudimentary aircraft (Roth Fail) or in bird costume.

Mogons (see Mogounos)

Mogounos Roman

[Mogons]
a Celtic sun-god in France

Mogthraser (see Lif)

Mogue (see Maodhog)

Moha Hindu

a demon

He was opposed by the Matrika, Kumari.

mohane South American

[agorero]
an Inca sorcerer

These people act as oracles and also claim to cure the sick.

Mohini Hindu

an incarnation of Vishnu

In this form Vishnu appears as an enchanting woman to seduce Shiva and to deceive evil spirits.

He performed this trick at the Churning of the Ocean, when the demons snatched the precious amrita, by promising to share it between them but gave the gods a drink first so that they, not the demons, achieved immortality.

Moikeha Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian prince
son of Muliela Alii husband of Ho'o Ipo

He entered a sailing race organised by the king, Puna, and, with the help of La'o Maomas his navigator, who was the wind-god in the guise of an old man, won the race and, with it, the hand of Puna's daughter, Ho'o Ipo, who bore him seven sons.

Moin Norse

[Moinn]
a dwarf
son of Grafvitnir
brother of Goin

Moine British

[Ivoine.Moines.'monk'] a name for Constans in French stories
His original name is given as Ivoine.

Moines (see Moine)

Moinn (see Moin)

Moirae Greek

[Moerae.Moirai.=Norse Norns:
=Roman Parcae]
the Fates

These three sisters, born of Nyx alone or fathered by Erebus on Nyx or by Zeus on Themis, control the fate of humans. Clotho spins the web of life, Lachesis measures it and Atropos cuts it with her shears. Some say that they invented the alphabet.

In the battle between the gods and the giants, they killed Agrius and Thoas. (see also Cataclothes)

Moirai (see Moirae)

Moireabh Scottish

a Pict
one of the 7 children of Cruithne

When Cruithne divided Scotland between his children, Moireabh was given Moray.

Mokele African

the first man in the lore of Zaire son of Wai
father of Lonkundo

Mokele-Mbembe African

a West African monster

This beast has one horn, the tail of a snake, and lives in sea-caves.

Some say that it lives in the forest and sleeps on a bed of elephant tusks.

Mokerkialfi Norse

[mist-calf.Mokkurkalfi]
a huge creature made from clay
When Thor fought the giant Hrungrnir, each was allowed a squire. The giants used clay to make Mokerkialfi, nine miles long and wide, to act for Hrungrnir. Thor's squire, Thialfi, killed the monster with a spade.

Mokkurkalfi (see Mokerkialfi)

Moko Pacific Islands

[Tu-te-Wehiwehi]

Moko Ruau (see Ruaumoko)

mokoi Australian

an evil ghost of the Aborigines

Mokoiro Pacific Islands

brother of Rangi husband of Angarua

Mokos Slav

[Makosh.Mokosh.Mokosi]
a fertility-goddess

This deity, the protector of women, was sometimes helpful, sometimes malevolent.

Mokosh (see Mokos)

Mokosi (see Mokos)

moksa (see moksha)

moksha Hindu

[moksa.=Sanskrit mukti]
deliverance: release from the cycle of rebirth (see also Nirvana.Sangsara)

Molaise

friend of Maodhog

Molc (see Ain)

Mole Prey-god North American

one of the 6 Prey-gods guarding the home of Po-shai-an-k'ia

He is responsible for the earth below.

Molech (see Moloch)

Molek (see Moloch)

Molekh (see Moloch)

Molimo African

[Morimo]
the supreme god of the Basuto

Molina, Christoval de South American

a 16th c priest of Cuzco

He recorded many Inca ceremonies and myths.

Moling Irish

a saint
son of Eamhnait

Eamhnait had an affair with her sister's husband and fled when she became pregnant. Her son, Moling, was born when she was trapped in the snow and his birth was heralded by angels and a dove from heaven.

The boy was rescued and reared by monks and became a monk himself. He is said to have saved himself from pursuing warriors by causing a mist to envelop them so that they became confused and ended up killing each other. On another occasion he reputedly raised a man from the dead.

He took care of the mad Suibhne Geilt in his last days and gave him the last sacrament when he died.

Molione Greek

daughter of Molus sister of Meriones

wife of Actor
mother of Cteatus and Eurytus

Moliones Greek

[Molionidae]

the giants Cteatus and Eurytus sons of Actor and MolioneThey were Siamese twins and their real father was Poseidon.Molionidae (see Moliones)Mollac (see Ain)Molloch (see Ain)Molloch May(see Maid of the Hairy Arms)Mollsognir Norse

the first dwarf to be made

Molmutius British

a king of Cornwall

He was said to have killed Pinner, king of England.Moloc (see Moloch)Moloch<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Makkal.Mikal.Malcam.Malek.Malik.

Melech.Melek.Milcom.Milkom.

Mlk.Molech.Molek(h).Moloc.

Molokh.Mukal]

an Ammonite god to whom children were sacrificed by fire

In some versions, the rite itself.

He is depicted holding a sceptre, with ram's horns or with the head of an ox.In some accounts he is identified with Melkarth.Moloch<sup>2</sup> *English*a rebel angel in Milton's *Paradise LostMoloch<sup>3</sup>

a demon

In black magic he is one of the Grand Dignitaries.Molokh (see Moloch)moloki African

a sorcerer among the Bangala

Molorchus *Greek*a peasant who gave shelter to Heracles when he was searching for the Nemean LionMolossus<sup>1</sup> Greek

son of Pyrrhus by Andromache

Molossus<sup>2</sup> Greek

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Molossus, tore him to pieces.Molpe Greek

one of the Sirens

Molua Irish

[Lugaid]

a saint

son of Carthach and Sochla

In some accounts, he was abandoned as a baby and found by St Congall who gave him instruction. He was said to be able to light a candle merely bybreathing on it but was himself unaffected by fire. On one occasion he freed a man from prison by offering a ransom of wheat grains that looked like gold but which reverted to their natural state later.Molus<sup>1</sup> Greek brother of Idomenus

father of Meriones and Molione

Molus<sup>2</sup> Greek

an illegitimate son of Deucalion

moly Greek

a magical herb

This was the herb given to Odysseus by Hermes to ward off the charms of Circe.Moma *South American*a creator-god and moon-god of the Uitoto IndiansHaving created mankind he was killed and became god of the underworld.Mombo Wa Ndhlophu African

an ancestral god in Mozambique

He sometimes appears as a snake.

Mombu West Indian

[Maitresse Mombu]

a female Haitian voodoo spirit

Momchilo (see Momtchilo)Mommu (see Mummu)Mommur British

the capital city of fairyland, ruled

by Oberon

Momo<sup>1</sup> (see Eire)Momo<sup>2</sup> (see Momu)Momos (see Momus)Momotaro Japanese

a hero

He was born from a large peach found floating in the river by a poor childless woman. When he grew up, he journeyed to Onigashima, an island inhabited by demons who had seized many young maidens and stolen much treasure.Helped by a monkey, a dog and a pheasant, he killed all the demons except their king, Akandoji, whom he took prisoner. He returned home with the stolen treasure which he gave to his foster-parents.Momoye (see Kino Momoye)Momtchilo Serbian

[Momchilo]

a noble

His wife, Vidossava, deserted him for Voukashin who then set an ambush in which the nine brothers of Momtchilo were killed while he escaped, only to be killed at the gates of his own castle.
Dying, he warned Voukashin not to trust a woman who had betrayed herhusband and so Voukashin had Vidossava torn apart by horses.Momu North American

[Momo]

a Hopi bee-spirit

Momur French

the fairy realm ruled by Oberon

Momus Greek

[Momos]

the god of mockery and ridicule son of Erebus and NyxHe constantly criticised the gods and even complained about the noise made by Aphrodite walking. He was eventually evicted from heaven.Mon Afghan

[Mandi]

a hero, weather-god and water-god of the Kafir

son of Imra

He rescued the gods, sun and moon which had been locked up by giants in a house made of gold. His function is to defend man, whom he helped to create, from demons.He is envisaged as a huge giant who lives in a lake surrounded by flame and may be depicted as a human with a bow and arrow, a standing stone or a fire-breathing bull.Mon-da-moin North American

[Mondamin]

a maize-spirit of the Algonquins

He was a handsome youth, sent from heaven, who was killed by a mortal.
Maize sprang from his grave when the killer buried him.monad

a spirit: god: a divine spark

Monan South American

a creator-god of the Tupi

He tried to exterminate the human race with fire. When a magician caused rain to fall to put the fire out, it caused the flood.Moncha Irish

mother of Fiachu Muilleathan

Her father, a druid, persuaded her to sleep with Eoghan who he knew was doomed to die in battle on the following day. She did so and her son was born posthumously. It was said that she deliberately delayed the birth to a more appropriate day by sitting in the river, an effort from which she died.Mondamin (see Mon-da-moin)Mondoro *African*in the lore of the Shona, a spiritual lion
This animal appears when danger threatens and fights on the side of the tribe. The good, when they die, become lions and fight on the side of their kinfolk.

Moneiba Canary Islands
a goddess on Hierro, protector of women

Moneneque
[Monenequi]
a name for Tezcatlipoca as Claimer of Prayer

Monenequi (see Moneneque)

Monenna (see Moninne)

Monennai (see Moninne)

Moneta Roman
[=African Aje]
a goddess of prosperity, an aspect of Juno

She appeared in the form of a hen.

Mong Hsang Burmese
heaven, the home of Hkun Hsan Long

Mongan Irish
king of Ulster
son of Fiachna Lurgan or Manannan by Cantigern husband of Dubh Lacha
father of Sideng

When Fiachna was fighting the Saxons, Manannan seduced his wife who, in some accounts was Cantigern, threatening that Fiachna would die in battle if she refused him. The result of this union was Mongan. Manannan took him to the Otherworld and taught him the magic arts.

Another version of his birth has it that Fiachna was in Scandinavia and obtained, from an old woman, a cow needed to cure Eolgarg, the king, who was sick. Later, the king refused to compensate the owner of the cow and Fiachna invaded his country. When his army was repelled by Eolgarg, Manannan intervened and gave Fiachna victory and was allowed to sleep with Fiachna's wife as reward. Mongan was born of this union and was raised in the Otherworld where he learnt the art of changing himself into many different forms of animal.

He made peace with Fiachna mac Deamhain who had killed Mongan's nominal father and was given part of Ulster as his own but, after marrying Fiachna's daughter, Dubh Lacha, he exacted revenge by killing her father, taking the throne of Ulster. When Mongan promised to give Brandubh, the king of Leinster, anything he asked for, the king asked for Mongan's wife, Dubh Lacha. Mongan then used magic powers to change an old woman, Cuimhne, into a beautiful young girl and substituted her for his wife. At the same time, he rescued the wife of his servant, Mac an Daimh, who accompanied Dubh Lacha.

Another version of this story says that it was the poet Forgall who demanded the right to sleep with Mongan's wife who, in this case is given as Breothighearn, when he fell into an argument with Mongan about where Fothach had been killed. The warrior Cailte arrived just in time to save Breothighearn's honour by proving that Mongan's side of the argument was right.

As a young man, Mongan had forecast that a particular pebble on the beach would cause his death. Years later, one of the Britons defeated by Mongan picked up the stone as they fled back to their ships and, using it in his sling, killed Mongan.

Some say that Mongan was a reincarnation of Finn mac Cool.

Mongfhind (see Mongfhinn)

Mongfhinn Irish [Mongfhind]
sister of Criomhthann
second wife of Eochaid Muigl
She abandoned her step-son Niall as a baby and tried several times to kill him when he was a boy.

When her husband died, her brother Criomhthann took the throne but her four sons took over while he was away and divided the kingdom between themselves. When Criomhthann returned, she gave him a poisoned drink but she was forced to share it and died with her brother.

Mongibel British

[Mount Etna]
a mountain in Sicily

In some accounts, this was the site to which Morgan le Fay proposed to take King Arthur when he was wounded in his final battle with Mordred. Others say that the king was taken there and was seen alive.

Monimos Mesopotamian

[Monominos:=Arab Arsu]
in Syria, a star-god, the evening star personified (see also Azzizos)

Moninne Irish

[Dareca.Monenna(i).Sarbhile]
a saint
daughter of Mochta and Coman
She was credited with a number of miracles including making a dumb poet speak.

Monju Japanese

[Lord of Wisdom:=Buddhist Manjushri]
a bodhisattva

As a boy, he challenged Kobo Daishi to a contest and, when the saint wrote on the sky and the surface of water, the boy drew a dragon on the water. The saint added a dot that the boy had omitted, whereupon the dragon came to life and flew up to heaven, closely followed by Monju. (see also Dai-itoku)

monkey

a long-tailed animal, mostly tree-living, found in many parts of the world and appearing in various mythologies

(1) In Buddhist lore, the monkey is an incarnation of the Buddha.

(2) In China, the monkey is one of the members of the Twelve Terrestrial Branches.

(3) In the East Indies the monkey is regarded as holding the souls of the dead.

Some tribes in Borneo believe that the souls of the dead are translated into grey monkeys while in Java the black monkey is said to hold the soul of the scholar and the brown monkey the soul of the poser. (4) Hanuman, the trickster monkey-god of Hindu lore, is regarded as a manifestation of Vishnu.

Monkey<sup>2</sup> (see Pilgrimage to the West)

Monkey King (see Sun Hou-tzu)

monkshood (see aconite)

Mono-no-ke Japanese

demons: evil spirits (see also shikome)

monoceros Greek

a mythical beast, a form of unicorn

This beast was described as having the body of a horse, the head of a stag, elephant's feet and the tail of boar, as well as having one long black horn.

Monoi Pacific Islands

a Tahitian

He was the lover of Hina and was devoured by Rona, her mother. Hina, with the help of No'a-huruhuru killed Rona.

Monominos (see Monimos)

monopode
one of a race with just one, very large, foot

Mons Badonicus (see Lansdown Hill)

Mons Meg (see Long Meg)

Monseigneur Heaven
(see Mr Heaven)

Monster Face (see Tao Tieh)

Monster Slayer<sup>1</sup> North American

a hero of the Apache

He killed the giant, Metal Old Man,

by shooting his arrows into the giant's armpit, the only part of his huge body not covered by black armour.

Monster Slayer<sup>2</sup> (see Nayenezgani)

Monsters of the Night Mesopotamian
offspring of Benani and Meliti

These bird-bodied monsters, led by Kingu, helped Tiamat in her fight with Marduk.

Monstorum Historia

a 17th c book about mythical birds and beasts

Mont (see Menthu.Month<sup>2</sup>)

Mont du Chat British

the site in France where King Arthur fought a large, wild cat

Montalban European

[Montauban]
Rinaldo's castle

Montauban (see Montalban)

Montezuma<sup>1</sup> Central American

a trickster god of the Aztecs, later god of the underworld

Montezuma<sup>2</sup> Central American

an Aztec ruler
brother of Papan

His sister was said to have returned from the dead to warn him of the coming invasion by the Spaniards.

Montezuma<sup>3</sup> North American

the first man, in the lore of the Papago Great Mystery formed men from clay and the first man was Montezuma. All except Montezuma and Coyote were later destroyed in the flood but Great Mystery repopulated the earth after the waters had subsided. Montezuma came to regard himself as all-powerful and even challenged Great Mystery by building a tower to reach the heavens – like the Tower of Babel. Great Mystery destroyed the tower with an earthquake and, as in the story of Babel, caused the tribes to speak in different languages.

Montglave, Guerin de European

a governor of Vienne under Charlemagne

When he quarrelled with Charlemagne, the emperor besieged his city. The outcome was decided by single combat between his grandson, Oliver, and Roland. They fought an honourable draw and became firm friends.

Month<sup>1</sup> Central American

a Mayan creator-god

Month<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Mont]
the Greek version of the Egyptian Menthu

Monthu (see Menthu)

Montinig Pacific Islands

a god of the Philippines

When the god was decapitated by Balitok, his head continued to chew betel and to mock his attackers.

Montsalvatch (see Mount Salvat)

Montserrat Spanish
a mountain

It was said that this mountain split into many peaks and clefts at the Crucifixion.

Montu (see Menthu)

Moo Central American

[Mu]

a macaw

a Mayan princess

daughter of Kan

sister of Aac, Cay, Coh and Nieta

She rejected the suit of Aac and married his brother Coh. This led to war between the brothers and Aac murdered Coh, renewing his suit for Moo. When she rejected him once again, he waged war on her and, when her forces were defeated, she fled the country.

Moombi African

[Mumbi]

a creator-goddess of the Kikuyu

wife of Pikuyu

She bore the nine daughters who became the founders of the nine clans.

moomin Baltic

in Finnish lore, one of a race of imaginary forest-dwellers

These small, fat people are said to be very shy, hibernating during the winter.

Moon<sup>1</sup> Australian

brother of Dugong

When his sister, bitten by leeches, turned into a dugong, he died and became shells on the seashore but was restored to life after eating lily and lotus roots.

Moon<sup>2</sup> North American

one of the 4 Associated Gods of the Sioux

moon<sup>3</sup>

a satellite of earth

(1) Some Australian tribes regard the moon as the creator of the first couple.

(2) In Egypt the moon, deified as Ah, represents the male principle and is regarded as the left eye of Horus.

(3) Some Finno-Ugric peoples worship the moon as an old man with an evil eye.

(4) The Greeks regarded the moon as the peaceful home of the good dead, personified as Hecate (before rising and after setting), as Artemis (when riding in the sky) and as Selene or Luna (when kissing Endymion).

(5) In India the moon, deified as Chanra, is again the home of the good dead.

(6) Norse myths say that the moon originated in fire ejected from Muspelheim.

(7) Slavic lore regards the moon as the home of the souls of dead sinners.

(8) In those mythologies that say the universe was made from the body of some god or giant, the moon is frequently regarded as having been made from one eye, the sun from the other. In some islands of the Pacific, for example, the moon is the right eye of Na Atibu while in Egypt it is the left eye of Horus.

(9) In some mythologies, the hare and rabbit live on the moon while others say that it is the home of the toad (three-legged, in Chinese stories) or the frog. Some say that all the things which are wasted on earth are stored on the moon including such things as wasted talent, broken promises and misspent time. In some accounts, the moon deposits a kind of dew on certain plants in response to incantations.

(10) The shadows on the moon are variously interpreted as the face of the moon-god Amm (Arab), the goddess Pajon Yan (Cambodia), a frog formerly Heng O (China), a man, Wu Kang, chopping down trees (China), a girl making tapa (Cook Islands), ashes (Inuit), Cain (Europe), a man who sinned on the Sabbath (Europe), tar marks (Europe), boys' fingermarks (East Indies), Endymion (Greece), a hare painted by Sakka (Hindu), a hunchback sitting under a banyan tree (Malaya), a grumbling old woman (Maori), two children with buckets (Scandinavia), a tree, clawmarks of a bear, Coyote, a creatress with a cooking-pot (North American Indian), a girl with a bucket (Siberia), a jaguar with four eyes or the intestines of the moon exposed when the moon was attacked by ducks or rheas (South America), bruises caused when the moon was given a beating (Tierra del Fuego). In places as far apart as India, Japan, Mexico and Tibet, the shadows are seen as spots on the fur of the hare that lives in the moon.

Moon-bearer (see Tlehanoai)

Moon Brother Inuit

a boy who became the moon
brother of Sun Sister

When he became the clandestine lover of his sister, she identified him by putting paint or soot on her hands. She was so horrified at the discovery that she fled to the heavens where she became the sun. The boy chased after her but, failing to catch her, became the moon.

Moon-chief African

a deity of the Chaga

His people were rather backward and he was happy to reward Murile with many cattle when he came up from the earth and told them how to make fire.

Moon Child Japanese

a divine maiden

She was banished from the moon for some misdemeanour and grew up in the home of a humble bamboo-cutter. After rejecting all suitors, including even the emperor, she was allowed to return to her home in the sky.

Moon-children (see Gletivi)

moon-dew

a magical potion made from menstrual blood and used by witches

Moon Feast (see Capac Situa)

Moon Lady (see Heng O)

Moon-man (see Tjapara)

Moon Rama (see Rama<sup>1</sup>)

Moon Rejoicer (see Rama<sup>1</sup>)

Moon Spirit (see Tarqeq)

Moonremur Irish

a warrior of Ulster

He was one of those present at Mac da Tho's Feast.

Moonshade (see Chaya Bulan)

Moore Irish

a young noble

When he discovered that his mother had been seduced by a sea-being to produce him, he rode his horse into the sea and disappeared.

Moose (see O-yan-do-ne)

Moose Dog (see Pono-Kamita)

Moowis North American

a snowman which came to life

Elegant nearly died of grief when the maiden, Handsome, rejected his love, so he made a snowman which he bedecked with feathers and fine clothes and then gave it life, calling it Moowis. The maiden fell in love with Moowis and accompanied him when he left on a long journey. As the days grew warmer, Moowis melted in the heat of the sun and the girl was left with nothing but a heap of feathers.

mopaditis Australian

spirits of the Aboriginal dead

Mopsos (see Mopsus)

Mopsus<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Mopsos]

a prophet

son of Apollo or Rhacius by Manto

He entered into a contest with another seer, Calchas, who died of grief when he lost.

He quarrelled with Amphilochus and each killed the other when they fought.

In some accounts, he is the same as Mopsus, the Argonaut.

Mopsus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Ampycides.Mopsos]

son of Ampyx and Chloris

He took part in the battle between the Centaurs and the Lapiths and in the hunt for the Calydonian Boar; he also sailed with the Argonauts as soothsayer. When their ship was blown ashore in Libya, he was killed as a result of treading on a snake which bit him.

Some say that he is the same person as Mopsus, son of Apollo.

Mopsus<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Mopsos]

a shepherd

He is said to have made an unlikely marriage to the beautiful Nisa.

Moquequeloa Central American

an aspect of Tezcatlipoca as 'mockery'

Moqwaoi North American

[*wolf:=Chippewa Chibiabos]

ruler of the dead

brother of Manabush

In the lore of the Menominee, he was killed by one of the underworld spirits, the anamaqiu who dragged Moqwaoi under the sea, so causing the flood. His ghost was sent to Manabush to become the ruler of the dead.

Mor<sup>1</sup> British

an ancestor of Merlin

son of Ceneu

Mor<sup>2</sup> Irish

a sun-goddess associated with Munster

Mor<sup>3</sup> Welsh

a name for Dylan

Mor Mumhan Irish

daughter of Aedh Beannan

After wandering for two years in a state of madness, she married the king of Munster, Cathal mac Fionghuine (or mac Aodha).

Other accounts say that she was the wife of Donncha Daoi but left him, taking their four children with her. When they grew up and left her, she went in search of Donncha but failed to find him and died a lonely old woman.

Mor-Rhioghain (see Morrigan)

Mor-Rioghain (see Morrigan)

Mora (see Domovikha)

Moraian (see Moriaen)

Morain British

the kingdom of Mangoun

Moran (see Morann)

Morana Slav

a winter-goddess and goddess
of death

Morann Irish

[Moran]

a druid

son of Cairbre Catcheann

His father gave instructions for him to be drowned but he was saved and reared by the smith Maon to become a famous judge, deciding, amongst other things, who should be foster-father to Cuchulainn.

It is said that he could place the remnants of the caul which he had been born (Morann's collar) round the neck of an accused person whom it would strangle if that person were guilty.

Morant British

[Moraunt]

a giant

In some stories, he is the king of Ireland and Morholt is an ally; in others, the king is Anguish and Morholt is his brother-in-law; in others, Morant and Morholt are the same person. (see also Morholt)

Moraunt (see Morant)

Moravaya Panna Slav

a demon of pestilence in the form of a black woman

Morax

[Foraii.Forax]

a demon

one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon

He appears as a bull-headed man who, it is said, can teach the sciences.

Morbogran

an evil spirit

He is depicted in the role of a servant.

Morc Irish
 [Morca]
 a king of the Fomoire
 son of Dela
 brother of Slaine
 After Conan mac Febar was killed, Morc led the Fomoire in their defeat of the Nemedians.

Morca (see Morc)
Morchades (see Morgause)
Morda Welsh
 [Mordu]
 a blind man
 He was employed by Ceridwen to keep the fire going under the cauldron in which she was preparing the magic brew that would endow her ugly son Avagddu with supernatural knowledge.

Mordaf Welsh
 one of a triad of generous gods with Nudd and Rhydderch

Mordains (see Mordrain) Mordrain British [Mordains]
 the name taken by Evelake when he was baptised as a Christian

Mordo-khan Siberian
 a rain-god

Mordred British [Mardoc.Modred:=Welsh Medraut.
 Medrawl.Medrawl]
 a Knight of the Round Table
 brother of Agravain, Gaheris, Gareth and Gawain cousin, nephew or son of King Arthur father of Melehan
 In some accounts he was the incestuous son of Arthur by Morgan le Fay; others say he was fathered by Arthur on his sister Anna or Morgause, wife of King Lot.
 Some say his wife was Gwenhwyach, sister of Guinevere, but in the Welsh version his wife was Cywyllog.
 Merlin prophesied that this boy would grow up to kill King Arthur so the king ordered that all babies of royal families born on May Day should be cast adrift in a boat. Only Mordred, saved by Nabur, an Orkney fisherman, survived the subsequent shipwreck. At the age of fourteen he was taken by Nabur to King Arthur's court.
 He was jealous of Lancelot and he and his brother Agravain told Arthur of the queen's affair with Lancelot. Told to provide proof, he and Agravain, supported by twelve other knights, broke into Guinevere's room when the unarmed Lancelot was with her. Only Mordred survived when Lancelot killed one man with a footstool and then took his sword with which to kill the others.

Given proof of her adultery, the king condemned Guinevere to the stake but she was saved by Lancelot who took her to his castle, Garde Joyeux. After a battle ended by the intervention of the Pope, Lancelot returned the queen to Arthur and sailed for his home in France. Arthur followed with a huge army, leaving Mordred in charge of the country.

He looted Arthur's home in Cornwall and assaulted Guinevere who shut herself away in the Tower. He manufactured evidence to show that the king was dead and proclaimed himself king. When the Bishop of Canterbury protested, Mordred threatened to kill him and the bishop fled to Glastonbury where he became a hermit. Some say that Mordred and Guinevere went through a form of bigamous marriage. When Arthur hurried back from France to reclaim his throne, Mordred met him in several battles in which thousands of men were killed. He finally met Arthur in single combat at Camlan. He inflicted a mortal wound on the king but was himself killed by Arthur's spear.

In some accounts, Mordred survived the final battle and drove the remnants of King Arthur's army to Lyonesse. Here, the ghost of Merlin caused the land to sink, taking Mordred's men with it, while Arthur's men escaped.

Another story says that Lancelot killed Guinevere believing that she had been a willing accomplice of Mordred and shut Mordred in a room with the queen's dead body which Mordred, driven by hunger, ate.

In the Welsh version he is Dylan or Medraut, son of Lot and Gwyar.

Mordu (see Morda)

More<sup>1</sup> British

a 17th c hero

He is said to have slain the dragon of Wantley which was terrorising the local people and eating their children.

More<sup>2</sup> (see Kotre)

Morfan (see Morvran)

Morfessa Irish

a wizard

He was the ruler of Falias, one of the cities cited as the origin of the Danaans, and he entrusted the Lia Fail to them when they left for Ireland.

Morfran (see Morvran)

Morfudd Welsh

twin sister of Owain

Morgain (see Morgan le Fay)

Morgaine (see Morgan le Fay)

Morgan<sup>1</sup> British

wife of Nanters

In some accounts, she is equated with Morgan le Fay.

Morgan<sup>2</sup> British

a knight

He was an enemy of Meliad, Tristram's father, with whom he made peace after fighting him for many years.

In some accounts, he later killed Meliad and was himself killed by Tristram, avenging his father's death.

Morgan<sup>3</sup> European

[Ahes.Dahut.Mari-Morgan]

a water-fairy of Brittany

Morgan<sup>4</sup> Irish

king of the Land of Wonders husband of Coinchend

father of Delbchaem

He had locked his beautiful daughter in a tower to frustrate a prophecy that her mother would die when Delbchaem married but Art rescued her, killed both her parents and married her.

Morgan Frych Welsh

father of Merlyn, in some accounts

(see also Madog Morfryn)

Morgan-kara Mongol

the first shaman

He was reputed to have the power of raising the dead.

Morgan le Fay British

[Argante.Fata.Morgana.Feimurgan.

Lady of Avalon.Lady of the Lake.

Matrona.Modron.Morgain(e).Morgan le

Fée.Morgan(n)a.Morgen.Morghe.Morgue

le Fay(e).Nimue.Nineve.Queen of Avalon.Queen of Cyprus.Queen of Gore]

a sorceress

daughter of Gorlois and Igraine

sister of Cliton, Elaine, Gliten, Glitonea,

Marrion, Mazoe, Moronoe, Morgause,

Thitis and Tyronoe

sister of Oberon, some say

half-sister of Arthur

wife of Urien

mother of Owain

Some say she is the changling daughter of Gorlois and Igraine, others equate her with Morgause or Morgana; she is named as the Lady of the Lake and in some versions is equated with Nimue. Other versions keep Morgan and Nimue as two separate characters with Nimue as one of the damsels of the Lady of the Lake. Some say she was the mother of Mordred by King Arthur, others that she bore Oberon to Julius Caesar, Corbon to Renoart and Pulzella Gaia to Hemison.

She was a shape-changer who was said to have wings that enabled her to fly.

Her real home was in Avalon where she was head of a small community of women to whom she gave instruction in the magic arts. She was always accompanied by her three daughters, Carvilia, Morganetta and Nivetta, themselves fairy queens. Her other companions were Arsine and Maglore. She was reputed to have another home in Sicily where she was known as Fata Morgana.

When King Arthur upset her by executing one of her lovers, she planned to kill both the king and her husband and marry another lover, Accolan, ruling as his queen. She stole the sword Excalibur and gave it to Accolan and, by her magic, caused Arthur to fight him. Her plans went astray when Arthur won the fight and recovered Excalibur. In the belief that Accolan had won, she prepared to kill Urien with his own sword while he slept but her son, Owain, alerted by a servant, seized her in time to prevent the murder. She duped him into believing that she had been possessed by evil spirits and he forgave her when she promised to give up her magic arts – which, of course, she did not. Accolan died of his wounds.

In another attempt on Arthur's life she sent a bejewelled mantle to the king but, warned by Nimue, he made the damsel who brought it to the court put the mantle on. She fell dead, burned to a cinder.

She stole the magic scabbard of Excalibur and, chased by Arthur's men, threw it into a lake. She escaped her pursuers by turning herself and her party into standing stones. When the pursuers gave up the chase they resumed their normal shape and Morgan returned to her own country of Gore.

As Morgan, she rescued the infant Lancelot; as Nimue she was loved by Merlin.

Some say that it was she who alerted Arthur to Lancelot's affair with Guinevere when she gave him a magic drink which opened his eyes to what was going on.

In some versions she was one of the queens accompanying the dying Arthur on the boat taking him to Avalon.

After the fall of Camelot, Morgan and her daughters left Britain for the Straits of Messina where they lured ships on to the rocks. She appears in the Charlemagne stories as Morgana, where her sisters are said to be Alcina and Logestilla, and she is the mother of a son, Marlyn, by Ogier. Another such son, Meurvin, may be the same as Marlyn. In these stories she had a brother named Oberon.

(see also Morgen.Nimue)

Morgan le Fée (see Morgan le Fay)

Morgan Mwynfawr British

owner of a magical form of transport
This vehicle, a car or chariot, was one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin. Some say that it was owned by Morgan le Fay.

Morgan the Black British

in some accounts, a son of King Arthur

Morgan the Less (see Morganetta)

Morgan the Red British

in some accounts, a son of King Arthur

Morgan Tud British

chief physician at King Arthur's court

Morgana European

[Lady of Fortune.Lady of the Lake.

Morgan le Fay.Morganna]

an enchantress

sister of Alcina and Logestilla

She appeared at the baptism of Ogier and claimed him as her own, providing him with the sword, Cortana, when he was knighted by the emperor.

She captured Rinaldo, Florismart and several other knights and kept them as prisoners in her castle until Roland captured her and forced her to free them.

When Ogier grew old, she took him to Avalon and, in some versions, restored his youth and married him. Some say that they had a son, Marlyn. Another such son, Meurvin, may be the same as Marlyn. In these stories she has a brother named Oberon.

In the Arthurian legends, she is Morgan le Fay, half-sister of King Arthur.

(see also Morgan le Fay)

Morganetta British

[Morgan the Less]

a fairy queen

daughter of Morgan le Fay

She and her sisters Carvilia and Nivetta always accompanied their mother and helped her in her wicked plots. After the fall of Camelot, they all left Britain for the Straits of Messina where they lured ships on to the rocks.

Morganna (see Morgana)

Morgante Maggiore<sup>1</sup> European

a giant converted by Orlando

He was said to have performed many great deeds but was killed by a crab that bit him.

Morgante Maggiore<sup>2</sup> European

an Italian poem by Pulci, published in 1485 which tells the story of Morgante the giant

Morgaus (see Morgause)

Morgause British

[Anna.Anne.Belisent.Bellicent.

Margause.Margawse.Morchades.

Morgaus.Orcaedes]

daughter of Gorlois and Igraine

sister of Elaine and Morgan le

Fay

half-sister of Arthur

wife of Lot

mother of Agravain, Clarissant,

Gaheris, Gareth and Gawain

mother of Galachin by Nanters,

some say

Some say she was the daughter of Uther and Igraine. She was seduced by King Arthur who fathered Mordred on her in some accounts.

She was killed by her own sons when they found her in bed with Lamerock.

Morgawr British

a sea-monster

This beast, said to be seen off the coast of Cornwall, is described as having a humped back and a long bristly neck bearing a head with stumpy horns.

Morgen Welsh

a goddess of the druids

It was said that she could change shape at will and fly on artificial wings.

It is generally accepted that she developed into Morgan le Fay.

(see Morgan le Fay)

Morghe (see Morgan le Fay)

Morgiana Persian

a slave of Ali Baba

It was Morgiana who discovered the thieves hidden in the jars and killed them with boiling oil and later killed their leader. As a reward, she was granted her freedom and married Ali Baba's son.

Morglay British

the sword of Bevis, given to him by

Ermyn

Morgue le Fay (see Morgan le Fay)

Morgue le Faye (see Morgan le Fay)

Morhold (see Morholt)

Morholt Irish

[Marhalt.Marhaus.Marholt.

Mora(u)nt.Mor(h)old]

a giant

brother, brother-in-law or son of Anguish

He led a raid on Lyonesse and exacted tribute and then sailed for Cornwall to demand tribute from Mark, king of Cornwall, on behalf of Anguish, king of Ireland. Tristram engaged him in single combat and killed him. A splinter from Tristram's sword was embedded in Morholt's skull and this allowed Isolde to identify Tristram as the man who had killed him.

Some say that, in the fight with Tristram, he was only wounded; others say he was killed.

In the Wagnerian version, Isolde was betrothed to Morold. Tristram, who had been wounded in the fight with Morold, went to Ireland to heal his wounds and was nursed by Isolde. She saw his broken sword and realised that he had killed Morold but nevertheless fell in love with him.

In the Tavola Ritonda, he is given as the father of Amoroldo and Golistant.

In some stories, it was Marhaus who fought with Tristram; Morholt was his father. Other versions equate Morholt and Morant.

In other stories, Morholt became a Knight of the Round Table. In one story of his exploits as a knight of Arthur's court he was challenged by two knights but quickly unhorsed them in succession watched by Owain and Gawain. He then challenged the two newcomers, easily disposing of the inexperienced Owain and fighting an honourable draw with Gawain. The three became friends and travelled on together in search of adventure. When they met three women at a cross-roads who promised to lead them to adventure, Morholt chose the middle-aged one. They came to the castle of the Duke of the South Border who claimed that Gawain had killed one of his sons in battle and, as a result, he hated Arthur and all his knights. He forced Morholt to fight him and his six sons but they proved poor warriors and Morholt unhorsed all seven of them – and then did the same again. He forced the Duke to yield and ordered him to go to Camelot and ask the king's mercy. At a tournament a few days later, Morholt was the champion and won a golden circlet which he gave to his travelling companion. Morholt killed a giant, released the prisoners kept there and seized the treasure which the giant had hoarded. They returned to the cross-roads from where their quest had started and met up again with Owain and Gawain. All three then returned to Camelot where they were made welcome by the king.

In some accounts, Morant and Morholt are two distinct characters, allies fighting together in Cornwall. Others have Marhaus as the son of Marholt. (see also Morant)

Moriaen<sup>1</sup> British

[Moraen]

a black knight

son of Agloval or Percival

He was born of a liaison between a Saracen princess and either Agloval or Percival.

When he was twenty-four and on a quest to find his father, who had deserted his mother when Moriaen was born, he fought an inconclusive duel with Lancelot who was riding with Gawain (Walewein), also in search of Agloval, who, in this version, was Percival's brother. The three joined forces and then separated when they came to a cross-roads, Moriaen going to the left, Lancelot to the right and Gawain straight ahead.

In saving a lady in distress, Gawain killed a knight who turned out to be the son of a man who gave them shelter for the night. The distraught father had Gawain ambushed when he left the castle and Moriaen arrived on the scene just in time to save Gawain's life.

Lancelot, meanwhile, had killed a monster to win the hand of a queen but was wounded by a treacherous knight. Gawain saved Lancelot and they both returned to the cross-roads where they met Moriaen who had found Agloval and Percival.

All five of them helped Arthur to repel an invading force of Irish and then Moriaen and Agloval returned to Moriaen where Agloval married Moriaen's mother.

Moriaen<sup>2</sup> Dutch

a 13th c story of the adventures of Gawain, Lancelot

and Moriaen

Moriath Irish

daughter of Scoriath

wife of Labraid Loiseach

When Labraid fled to France, Moriath sent her father's harper, Craftiny, to convey her love. Maon came back at the head of an army, killed Covac the king, married Moriath and took over the throne of Ireland.

Morimo (see Molimo)

Moritama North American

a Pueblo spirit of spring

Mormhaol Irish

a king of the Fir Chuil clan

brother of Suigmhall

He and his brother killed Eochaid Airemh and fired his castle.

mormo<sup>1</sup> Australian

the hairy ghosts of the Aborigines

Mormo<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Mormolyce]

a queen of the Laestrygonians

She lost all her own children and, from then on, tried to kill all other children.

Mormolyce (see Mormo<sup>2</sup>)

mormos Roman

blood-sucking monsters

Morna Irish

father or, some say, mother of Goll

mac Morna

Morning Dew (see Tsuyu)

Morning Star<sup>1</sup> Central American

in Aztec lore, the morning star was personified as Tlahuizcalpantecuhltli, an aspect of Quetzalcoatl

Morning Star<sup>2</sup> Central American

a deity of the Cora tribe in Mexico

He is said to have shot the sun because it was too hot at noon and is depicted as a young man armed with a bow and arrows.

Morning Star<sup>3</sup> (see Apisuahts)

Moro East Indian

daughter of Maivia Kivavia

sister of Mavu

She and her sister and her brothers became the ancestors of the tribes of New Guinea.

Moro Oerfeddawg Welsh

owner of the horse Du

Ysbaddaden required Culhwch to get this horse in his quest for the hand of Olwen.

Morobo West Indian

a primitive being, one of the two Zemis, progenitor of the gods

(see also Binatel)

Morocco (see Marocco)

- Moroie Mor British [Fool of the Forest]
son of King Arthur
- Morois French
the French name for Murias
- Morold (see Morholt)
- Morongo African
the evening star of the Makoni
She was a woman, created by Maori, who mated with Mwetsi to produce animals and human beings.
- Moronoc Irish
a bishop
He went to Guaire's court to substantiate Mac Telene's boast that Munster was greater than Connaught and proved it when he acted the fool.
- Moronoe British
sister of Morgan le Fay, in some accounts
- Mororoma South American
a Bolivian thunder-god
- Moros (see Mors)
- Morpheus Greek ['shaper'] the god of dreams of human beings
son of Hypnos
brother of Icellus and Phantasus
He is depicted as a winged deity carrying a bunch of poppies.
- Morpho Greek
Aphrodite as 'the shapely one'
- Morrigan Irish [Badb.Be Neit.Fea.Mach.Mor-Riogha(i)n.
Morrighan.Morrigu.Phantom Queen:
=Connaught Maev.=Ulster Mac(c)ha]
a war-goddess
daughter of Ernmas
granddaughter or wife of Neit,
some say
wife of the Dagda, some say mother of Mechi
This deity is usually regarded as a trio of war-goddesses comprising Ana (or Nemain), Badb and Macha or Badb, Macha and Morrigan, who helped the Danaans at the Battles of Moytura.
She could appear as a maiden or an old hag, a raven or a crow. In some stories, she helped Cuchulainn in the defence of Ulster, in others she opposed him because he had rejected her advances. On that occasion, she coiled herself round him in the form of an eel when he was engaged in single combat with Loch Mor. She further harassed him, in the form of a wolf and then a heifer, but he managed to kill Loch despite her efforts. At the end of his life, she attacked him in the form of a crow, helping to kill him.
- In one story, she turned Odras, wife of a man from whom she had stolen a bull, into a river.
In some accounts, she is equated with Agrona, in others with Dana and is the basis for Morgan le Fay.
She rides in a chariot drawn by red horses and is frequently dressed all in red.
- Morrighan (see Morrigan)
- Morrigu (see Morrigan)
- Morris, William English
(1834-1896)
a writer
He was the author of Atalanta's Race, Life and Death of Jason, The Earthly Paradise, etc.
- Mors Roman
['death'.Moros.Morus.=Greek Thanatos] god of death, controller of fate
son of Nyx
twin brother of Somnus
He is depicted as holding an hour-glass and the scythe with which he cut down those whose life-span had expired.
In some accounts, Mors is female.
(see also Orcus)
- Morskoi Tsar Russian [Tsar of the Sea]
a sea-god
father of Vassilissa
- Mort Artu French
a French version of the story of King Arthur
- Morta Roman
[=Etruscan Culsu.=Greek Atropos]
one of the 3 Fates, the Parcae
- Morte Artbure English
a 15th c poem on the life and death of King Arthur by Thomas Heywood
- Morte d'Arthur English
the story of King Arthur and his knights by Malory a poem by Tennyson on the life and death of King Arthur
- Moruawr (see Morvawr)
- Morufonu Pacific Islands
the first man, in the lore of the people of Vanuatu consort of Jugumishanta Jugumishanta made herself a consort from her own body and they then built the islands of the Pacific from their own excrement.
- Morus (see Mors)
- Morvawr British [Marvawr.Moruawr.Turmwr Morvawr]
an ancestor of King Arthur
- Morvo Welsh
the Welsh name for Murias
- Morvran Welsh [Morf(r)an] son of Tegid Voel and Ceridwen
brother of Avagddu and Creirwy Avagddu was the ugly son for whom Ceridwen prepared a magic brew to make him wise in compensation for his ugliness. Morvran, in most accounts, was a handsome youth but in some stories he was one of Arthur's warriors and even uglier since none of the enemy at the battle of Camlan would tackle Morvran, believing him to be a devil. In this version, Avagddu is merely a nickname for Morvran.
- Morydd British
an ancestor of Merlin
- Morwen British
wife of Ivor
She and her husband raised Meriadoc who, with his brother, had been sent by Griffith to be killed in the woods, after he had murdered their father, Caradoc.
- Mosaku Japanese
a man killed by Yuki-Onna
- Moses<sup>1</sup> North American
a 19th c Oregon shaman
He attacked Smohala and thought that he had killed him.
- Moses<sup>2</sup> (see Musa Nyame)
- Moshanyana African [Ditaolane.Litaoalane]
a hero of the Sotho tribe
The monster Kholumulumo ate all the people, except Moshanyana's mother. He was born fully grown and fully armed and killed the monster, slit open its belly and released the imprisoned people.
- Moshaulom (see Ailill Olom)
- Moshiriikkwechep Japanese
a huge sea-monster
It is said that two deities are responsible for ensuring that this monster's movements, which cause earthquakes, do not destroy the whole world.
- Moss Maidens Norse
wood nymphs hunted by the Wild Hunt
- Most Ancient One (see Watauineiwa)
- Mot Canaanite
[Ghazir.Mowt.=Phoenician Muth]
the god of death
son of El and Athirat
twin brother of Baal
He refused to release the dead god Baal so Baal's wife, Anat, killed Mot, cut him up and ground him under her millstone. (see also Resep)
- Motsaoza (see Munso-murt)
- Mother Aloj (see Father Aloj)

Mother Chuber (see Tiamat)

Mother Corn North American
an Arikana goddess
When Nesaru, disappointed with the people he had created, drowned them all, he sent Mother Corn to the underworld to guide the inhabitants to the upper world to form the new population.

Mother Da (see Demeter)

Mother Earth
the earth personified, regarded as a deity
a name for Akhi, Demeter, Gaea, Nerthus, Pachamama and many other goddesses (see also Earth Mother)

Mother Nature (see Nunuoska)

Mother of Animals North American
the Indian deity responsible for all animal life

Mother of Books (see Luah)

Mother of Fire (see Ugunsmate)

Mother of Heaven
(see Hsian Nü.T'ien Mu)

Mother of Many (see Timbehes)

Mother of Mendes (see Hatmehyt)

Mother of Mind (see Alaghom)

Mother of Nations
(see Yabamat Liimmim)

Mother of the Earth
(see Zemesmate)

Mother of the Fields
(see Laukumate)

Mother of the Forest
(see Mezasmate)

Mother of the Gods
(see Asherah.Don.Neith.Tetetoinnan)

Mother of the Ladle (see Tou Mu)

Mother of the Land Mesopotamian
a name of Ninhursaga before she married Enki

Mother of the Sea (see Jurasmate)

Mother of the Sun (see Lat)

Mother of the Way (see Tao Mu)

Mother of the Wind (see Vejasmate)

Mother of Waters
(see Attabeira.Udensmate)

Mother Perna (see Anna Perenna)

Mother Serpent Mesopotamian
a primeaval serpent
Eagle killed and ate all Mother Serpent's offspring so Samas arranged her death. The serpent hid inside the carcass of an ox and killed Eagle when it came to feed on the flesh.

Mother Shipton English [Ursula Southiel]
a 15th c Yorkshire witch

Mother Spirit (see Nungeen)

Mother Tiamat (see Tiamat)

Mother-water (see Mama Cota)

Mothers<sup>1</sup> Celtic goddesses of plenty, usually 3 in number (see also Matres)

Mothers<sup>2</sup> Egyptian mother-goddesses in the form of the Seven Hathors

Mothguthr (see Modgud)

Motho Indian [vetch]
a culture-heroine
sister of Mungo

Motikitik Pacific Islands
a semi-divine hero
He is credited with having fished up some of the islands from the bed of the ocean.

Motlaba Basetsana African [Plain of Women]
the home of the first women
In the lore of Botswana, women were originally separated from men and animals. It was the giraffe that led the women to meet the men.

Motoro Pacific Islands
[Tè-io-Ora]
a god of the Cook Islands

Motori (see Intelligences)

Motu African
a man of the Boloki people
When he discovered that fruit was disappearing from his garden, he kept watch and saw beings descending from the clouds and stealing his produce. He seized one of the women and married her, learning from her the secrets of fire and cooking. They lived happily together until Motu, in defiance of orders from his wife, opened a basket she had brought with her. There was nothing inside but the woman knew that he had opened it and left him, returning forever to the land of the clouds.

Motu-tapu Pacific Islands
[Sacred Island]
the home of Tinirau
The Hervey Islanders envisaged the world as a coconut in which Atea lived at the top above the sacred island, Motu-tapu, home of his brother Tinirau.

Motzeyouf (see Arrow Boy)

Mouché Pierre West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit

Mound of Mourning Welsb
the home of the Black Worm of the Barrow

Moundongue loa West Indian
Haitian voodoo spirits derived from the deities of the Congo

Mount Agned British [Breguion.Breguoin]
the site of one of King Arthur's battles; others call it Breguoin

Mount Agung Pacific Islands
a sacred mountain on Bali
The gods moved from Java to Bali to escape the influence of Islam and built the mountains with Agung, the highest, in the middle for their new home.

Mount Alburz Persian [Albors.Alburz.Hara Berezaiti]
the hill that grew out of the primitive waters to reach the sky
The Chinvat bridge stretched from the mountain to heaven and the Arezur ridge on it's rim was the gateway to hell.
It was said that the sun and moon revolved round the top of Alburz, a mountain from which all light came and returned. It was also the home of the god Mithra and from its roots all other mountains grew.
This mountain is regarded as the source of the river Aredvi and the site on which the Gaokerena grows.

Mount Ambrius British
the site near Salisbury on which Merlin re-erected the stones from the Giants' Ring, now known as Stonehenge

Mount Ararat (see Ararat)

Mount Aravia British [Mount Aravius]
home of the giant, Retho
(see also Mount Erith)

Mount Aravius (see Mount Aravia)

Mount Athos Greek
a holy mountain

Mount Atlas Greek
home of the Graiae

Mount Badon British
the site of the battle in which King Arthur is reputed to have slain 960 Saxons

Mount Baker North American [Kobath]
a sacred mountain of the Skagit tribe
It is said that this was one of only two mountains which were not totally submerged by the flood.
(see also Mount Rainier)

Mount Caucasus Greek
the place where Prometheus was chained to a rock

Mount Celion
the site of the cave where the Seven Sleepers were immured

Mount Ceryneia Greek
[Mount Maenalus]
a mountain in Greece, home of the Ceryneian Hind

Mount Churuquilla South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia
This mountain was said to embody a male spirit to complement the female spirit of Mount Sicasica.

Mount Cithaeron Greek
the site where Heracles slew a lion and Oedipus was abandoned as a baby, his feet pierced by a nail

Mount Condorcoto South American
the site where 5 men were born from eggs after the flood subsided

Mount Cyllene Greek
a mountain in Arcady, birthplace of Hermes

Mount Dan-doku Japanese
[Mount Dandoku]
the site of the Buddha's meditation

Mount Dandoku
(see Mount Dan-doku)

Mount Demavand Persian
the place where Dahak was chained by Thraetona

Mount Dicte Greek
the site in Crete where the infant Zeus was hidden by Rhea

Mount Dolorousq British
the home of a giant killed by Fergus

Mount Eagle Japanese
a mount from which, it is said, the Buddha himself preached

Mount Ebal Hebrew
[Mount Gerizim]
a mountain which echoed any curses or blessings uttered on its slopes

Mount Emei (see Mount Omei)

Mount Erith Welsh
the name given to Snowdon in Arthurian tales
the site of Vortigern's tower
This was the place where Llund buried the dragons. In some accounts, it was the home of Retho.

(see also Mount Aravia)

Mount Etna British [Mongibel]
a site in Sicily where, some say, King Arthur and his knights lay sleeping Other sites suggested are at Alderley Edge, Cadbury, Craig-y-Dinas, Ogof Lanciau Eryri, Ogo'r Dinas, Richmond Castle and Sewingshields.

(see also Mongibel)

Mount Everest Buddhist
the world's highest mountain, in Nepal, revered as sacred by Buddhists

Mount Fuji Japanese
[Blue Rain Hill.Fuji San.Fujiyama.
Immortal Mountain.Moraisan]
a volcano regarded as a sacred mountain, home of the gods

The smoke which issues from the summit is the result of the love of the Emperor for the princess Kaguyahime who, leaving him to become an immortal, left him a mirror in which he might always see her image and which burst into flame with the heat of his passion. Its permanent cap of snow stems from the anger of the god Mioya when the god of the mountain refused to offer him hospitality.

Mount Gerizim (see Mount Ebal)

Mount Govardhana Hindu
the mountain that Krishna used to shelter the people and their cattle when Indra caused a flood

The god is depicted raising the mountain with the little finger of one hand.

Mount Hacho (see Abyla)

Mount Helicon Greek
home of the Muses

Mount Himavat (see Hindu)
the place where Manu's boat landed after the flood (see Naubandhana)

Mount Ho-ming Chinese
the site where Pien-shih received a revelation

Mount Huanacauri South American
a mountain in Peru

This is said to have been the resting place of the Children of the Sun, the place where Huana Cauri died and where, some say, Ayar Cachi turned himself into stone.

Mount Hugar Persian
the site of Urvis, the lake into which all waters flow and are purified

Mount Hursaq Mesopotamian
a mountain built by Ninurta to hold back the flood waters of Kur

Mount Ida' Greek
a mountain near Troy, home of the nymph Idaea

It was here that the infant Paris was abandoned and later judged the beauty contest of the three goddesses with the golden apple as prize.

Mount Ida<sup>2</sup> Greek
a mountain in Crete

It was here that the infant Zeus was reared by the nymph Ida and her sister Adrastrea.

Mount Iianyau South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia

Mount Illampu South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia

Mount Illimani South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia

Mount Kaf (see Mount Qaf)

Mount Kagu Japanese
a mountain in heaven on which the sacred tree, Sakaki, grows

Mount Kailasa Hindu
[Silver Mountain]
the site of the paradise of Shiva

Mount Kenya African [Kere Nyaga]
the home of Murungu

Mount Killaraus
(see Hill of Aisneach)

Mount Killarus
(see Hill of Aisneach)

Mount Killaurus
(see Hill of Aisneach)

Mount Kirishima Japanese
the site where celestial grandchildren descend to earth

Mount Kunlun Japanese
a sacred mountain, home of the Shinto gods

Mount Lamallaka South American
a mountain in Peru, sacred to the Quecha tribe

Mount Latmus Greek
the site of the cave where Selene hid Endymion

Mount Maenalus
(see Mount Ceryneia)

Mount Mandara Hindu
[=Cambodian Prah Sumer.=Chinese K'un Lun]
the mountain round which the gods coiled the World Serpent to cause the Churning of the Ocean

This is also said to be the home of the Shi Tenno, Japanese deities guarding the cardinal points.

Mount Meru Hindu [Devaparvata.Hemadri.Golden Mountain.Jewel Peak.Karnikacala.

Lotus Mountain.Mahameru.Mount Sumeru.Ratnasanu.The Mount]
the site of Brahmapura: the site of Indra's heaven: home of the gods at the centre of the universe

On the summit, some 350,000 miles up, lay Brahma's palace surrounded by the Ganges, while the homes of Krishna and Vishnu were built on the lower slopes.

It is said that seven underworlds exist below the mountain where the asuras live in caves.

Mount Meru also appears as the centre of the universe in Buddhism.

Mount Miwa Japanese
home of the youth who fathered Oho-tata-no-ko on Ike-taka-yori-hime

Mount Mururata South American
a volcano in Bolivia

In the lore of the Aymara, the god Viracocha knocked the top off this volcano with a sling-shot and the broken piece fell to earth to form Mount Sajama.

Mount Myrtium
(see Mount Titthium)

Mount Nissa Egyptian
the site where Osiris was born

Mount Nisu Mesopotamian
[Niumush.Ni(t)sir.Nisu.Nizir]
the site where Utnapishtim's boat landed after the flood

Mount Nohiako Central American
a mountain sacred to the Aztecs, home of the goddess Quetzalpetlatl

Mount Nysa Greek
home of the nymphs who raised the infant Dionysus who was born there

Mount Oeta Greek
the site of Heracles' apotheosis

Mount Olympus Greek
a mountain in Thessaly,
home of the gods

In some accounts, this is the place where Deucalion's ark landed after the flood but the more general consensus is that it landed on Mount Parnassus.

Mount Omei Chinese [Mount Emei.Mount Omi]
a sacred mountain guarded by Pu Hsien

Mount Omi (see Mount Omei)

Mount Orthrys Greek
the site where Deucalion's ark landed, in some accounts

Mount Ossa Greek
a mountain in Thessaly

This was one of the mountains that Ephialtes and Otus tried to pile one on the other to attack the gods.

Mount Oyo Japanese
the home of the goblin king, Shutendoji

Mount Parichata South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia

The Aymara say that the spirit of the mountain took pity on the men forced to work in the silver mines and, by turning insects into mules that carried the silver away by night, ensured that the mines were soon exhausted.

(see also Mount Tati-Turqui)

Mount Parnassus Greek
home of Dionysus

This mountain has two peaks, one dedicated to Apollo and the Muses, the other to Dionysus. It is generally said that Deucalion's ark landed here when the flood subsided though others say it landed at other sites such as Mount Etna, Mount Olympus, Mount Orthrys, etc.

Mount Pelion Greek
a sacred mountain in Thessaly, the original home of the Centaurs

This was one of the mountains that Ephialtes and Otus tried to pile one on the other to attack the gods.

Mount Pindus Greek
the place to which the Centaurs were banished when they were finally defeated by the Lapiths

Mount Pu Chou Chinese
the mountain that was impaled on the horn of Kung Kung, causing the world to tilt

Mount Qaf Arab [Mount Caf.Mount Kaf]
the only spot on earth where the roc will land; the home of giants and the jinn

This mountain is said to be made of emerald and is situated on the far side of the ocean which encircles the earth. Its reflection is what causes the sky to appear blue.

In some versions, Qaf is a range of mountains rather than a single peak.

Mount Ranier North American [Takobah]

a sacred mountain of the Skagit tribe
It is said that this was one of the only two mountains which were not submerged by the flood.

(see also Clear Sky.Kulshan.

Mount Baker)

Mount Rhodope Greek

the site of the oracle of Rhesus
Mount Sajama South American

a mountain in Bolivia
In the lore of the Aymara, the god Viracocha knocked the top off Mount Mururata with a sling-shot and the broken piece fell to earth as Mount Sajama.

Mount Salvat British [Montsalvatch.Mount Sarras]

the site in the Holy Land of the Temple of the Grail built by Titurel (see also Munsalvaesche)

Mount Samur Hebrew
[Mount Shamur]

a mountain said to be made of diamonds and known only to eagles

Mount San Francisco North American
a sacred mountain of the Navaho

The creators Atse Estsan and Atse Hastin placed White-corn Boy and Yellow-corn Girl together on the slopes of this mountain.

Mount San Juan North American
a sacred mountain of the Navaho

The creators Atse Estsan and Atse Hastin placed Pollen Boy and Grasshopper Girl together on the slopes of this mountain.

Mount Saphon (see Mount Zaphon)

Mount Sarras (see Mount Salvat)

Mount Shamur (see Mount Samur)

Mount Shasta North American
a sacred mountain of the tribes of the north-west

When Kumush created this mountain, he placed Grey Wolf on its slopes.

Mount Sicasisa South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia

This mountain was said to embody the female spirit to complement the male spirit in Mount Churuquilla.

Mount Sipylus Greek
the site on which Niobe was turned to stone by Zeus

Mount Sumeru (see Mount Meru)

Mount T'ai (see T'ai Shan)

Mount Takachichi Japanese
the site where the Bridge of Heaven reaches earth

Mount Tati-Turqui South American
a sacred mountain in Bolivia

The Aymara say that the spirit of the mountain took pity on the men forced to work in the silver mines and, by turning insects into mules that carried the silver away by night, ensured that the mines were soon exhausted.

(see also Mount Parichata)

Mount Taylor North American
a sacred mountain of the Navaho

The deities known as Turquoise Boy and Corn Girl sit on top of this mountain.

Mount, The (see Mount Meru)

Mount Titthium Greek
[Mount Myrtium]

the site where Asclepius was abandoned

This mountain was originally known as Mount Myrtium. It was here that Asclepius, abandoned as a child, was suckled by a goat and guarded by a dog.

Mount Zaphon Canaanite
[Mount Saphon]

home of the gods: the place where Baal was first buried by Anat and Sapas

Mountain Chant North American
a Navaho rite

This rite celebrates a young brave who tricked the tribe out of all its treasure and took it with him when he climbed the lightning strokes into the heavens.

mountain giants Norse enemies of the gods

(see also giants-Norse)

Mountain Lion Prey-god

North American

one of the 6 Prey-gods guarding the home of Po-shai-an-k'ia

He is responsible for the North.

Mountain Man Japanese

a male forest-demon

This being is said to look like a monkey. It frequently steals food from peasants but is always ready to help woodcutters who give him food.

Mountain of Light

(see Castle of Light<sup>2</sup>)

Mountain of Purgatory Chinese

the slope by which souls purified by prayer ascend from purgatory to heaven

Mountain People (see Gahé)

Mountain Spirit Thai

a female spirit of the mountains

It is said that the spirit is that of a princess who died when the bridge she was crossing collapsed. She now demands payment from those who travel that route.

Mountain Spirit Dancers

North American

[Crown Dancers]

men dressed as mountain spirits taking part in ceremonial dances

Mountain Spirits North American

[Ga'n]

guardian spirits of the White Mountain Apache

Having tried and failed to civilise the Apache, these spirits retired to a cave and were never seen again.

(see also Gahé)

mountain stem-winder

(see guyascutus)

Mountain Woman Japanese

a female ogre

This being is said to be able to fly and is covered with long white hair. Some say that she eats humans.

Mousaios (see Musaeus)

mouse Hindu

the animal used as transport by Ganesha

Mouso Coronie (see Musso-koroni)

Mover of Blood British

[Memory of Blood]

the scabbard of the Sword of Strange Girdles

Mowee (see Maui)

Mowis North American

a bridegroom made of snow who melts as soon as he leaves the wigwam

Mowt (see Mot)

Moyang Engko Malay

consort of Moyang Melur

Moyang Kapir Malay

a hunter

When Moyang Melur fell from the moon, Moyang Kapir lassoed it and they both climbed up the rope. He returned to earth with the rules of behaviour for humans which he had stolen from the moon.

Moyang Melur Malay

a moon-spirit

consort of Moyang Engko

He fell to the earth and was helped to return to the moon by Moyang Kapir who lassoed the moon.

Moymis Mesopotamian

a Babylonian deity

son of Apason and Tauthe

An alternative version of Mummu.

Moyna African

a hero of the Dogon

He is said to have invented the bull-roarer.

moyo African

the spirit of the individual, in the lore of the Bakongo

Moyocoatzin (see Tezcatlipoca)

Moyocoyan (see Tezcatlipoca)

Moys British

a companion of Joseph of Arimathea

He was swallowed up by the earth when he attempted to sit in the Perilous Seat.

Moyslaught Irish

[Mag Sleact.Mag(h) Slecht.

Plain of Adoration]

the site where the Milesians

worshipped Cenn Cruaich

It is said they sacrificed children on this site.

Moytirra (see Moytura)

Moytura Irish

[Field of Towers.Mag Tuired.

Mag Tuireadh.Maighe Tuired.

Moytirra.Plain of Towers]

site of 2 famous battles

(see also Battles of Moytura)

Mpambe (see Mbomba<sup>1</sup>)

Mpfundlwa (see Hlakanyana)

Mpokalero South American

a Tupari shaman

This giant is one of the rulers of the village of the dead. The other ruler is the giantess, Vaugh'eh. Newly arrived souls are required to have intercourse with one or other of these giant rulers.

Mpumuti Muchuni African

a usurper

He seized the throne of Mandwa which properly belonged to Ryangombe. Binego, Ryangombe's son, arrived when his father was playing a board game with Muchuni. He told his father the winning moves and, when Muchuni objected, killed him.

Mr Black (see Hei Lao-yeh)

Mr Heaven Chinese

[Lao-t'ien-yeh.Monseigneur Heaven]

a name for Yü Huang Shang Ti

Mr Redcoat (see Chu I)

Mr Spider (see Anansi)

Mr White (see Po Lao-yeh)

Mratna'irgin Siberian

one of 4 dawn-goddesses

Mrgasiras Hindu

a goddess of fortune

one of the nakstras

daughter of Daksha

wife of Candra

Mriga Hindu

a form of Prajapati, identified with the constellation Orion

Mriganda Indian

a weaver

He made cloth from lotus fibre for the gods and was given a tiger and a giant. He killed the giant for disobedience and used his bones to make the first loom.

Mriganka Indian

a magic sword

It was said that whoever owned this sword could conquer the world.

Mrityu Hindu

[Mrytu.=Buddhist Mara]

a goddess of death

Mrytu (see Mrityu)

Mshindi African

son of Kanzi

Msungu African

a name of Tilo as 'he who sustains'

Mtanga (see Mulungu<sup>1</sup>)

Mtaski African

a name of Tilo as 'saviour'

n'teoulin North American magic, in the lore of the Algonquian tribes

Mu<sup>1</sup> Burmese

one of the first nats, created by

Chinun Way Shun

Mu<sup>2</sup> East Indian

one of a race of Papuan dwarfs

These beings, no more than about two feet tall, are said to be very strong and have the power to make themselves invisible to humans.

Mu<sup>3</sup> Pacific Islands

a supposed lost continent
Some say that this continent, now sunk beneath the Pacific, was the original home of mankind. Some say it is Atlantis.

Mu<sup>4</sup> (see Moo)

an image of an enemy used in sympathetic magic

The image, usually of wood, is used as a substitute for the real person in the belief that injury inflicted on one will affect the other. In some cases, the image is made of paper. Such images are used by female mediums allegedly to contact the spirits of the dead.

Mu Kung Chinese

[Duke of Wood]
a ruler of the east and the element wood (see Tung Wang Kung)

Mu Jen *ChineseMu-lien Chinese

the name adopted by Radish when he attained enlightenment

Mu Monto Siberian

a Buriat hero
He is said to have visited the world of the dead and returned.

Muadhan Irish

a warrior acting as servant to Dermot and Grania

Muali African

a celestial deity of the Shona people

Muati Mesopotamian

a local Sumerian god
This deity was later merged with Nabu.

Mubaru Japanese

a lover of the Maiden of Unai
He and Chinu, who was his identical counterpart, both loved the Maiden of Unai and, when she threw herself into the river because she could not choose between the two, both men jumped in after her and all three perished together. Weapons were placed in Mubara's tomb but none in Chinu's. Chinu later borrowed the sword of a traveller and killed the spirit of Mubara, claiming the maiden for himself.

Muc-thainy Vietnamese

a fisherman who, it is said, captured in his net a tiger which was attacking a king

Mucalinda (see Muchalinda)Mucca Mhanannain (see Pigs of Manannan)Much Blood Boy (see Rabbit Boy)Muchalinda Buddhist

[Mucalinda.Mucilinda.(Naga)

Muchilinda:=Hindu Ananta]

a serpent, king of the Nagas

This snake sheltered Buddha with his hood from the violent weather that arose at the end of Buddha's period of contemplation under the bo-tree. When the storm was over, he turned into a handsome youth.

Muchilinda (see Muchalinda)Muchukunda Hindu

[Mucukunda]
a giant son of Mandhatiri

He could destroy by fire from his eyes any who dared to disturb his eternal sleep granted, at his request, for helping the gods against the Asuras.

He, like King Arthur and others, is said to be asleep but awaiting a call to help his country in its time of need.

Mucilinda (see Muchalinda)Mucukunda (see Muchukunda)Mud-kesa Mesopotamian

[Mud-kesda]
a name of Ninhursaga as 'stauncher of blood'

Mud-kesda (see Mud-kesa)Mudati Australian grandson of Mudungkala

son of Purukapali
brother of Jurumu

He was with his brother when he rubbed two sticks together and discovered fire.

Mudgala Hindu

a saint

It is said that he refused to go to heaven when his time came and continued his life of contemplation.

Mudgegong Australian

an evil spirit of the Aborigines

This being was created by Baime and turned all Baime's children into animals except one couple who became the ancestors of the human race.

mudheads (see koyemshi)Mudjekewis (see Mudjekeewis)Mudjekeewis<sup>1</sup> North American [Kabeyun.Mudjekewis.Mudjikiwis.

West Wind]

husband of Wenonah

father of Hiawatha

His name was changed to Kabeyan after he had killed the Great Bear.

Mudjekeewis<sup>2</sup> North American

a hero of the Ojibwa

He became jealous of the fifth of his nine brothers who had married their beautiful housekeeper and killed the girl when she rejected his advances. Her husband found her in the land of the Thunderers and took her, and her nine sisters, back to the lodge so that each of the brothers now had a wife.

mudung Korean

[male=mansin]
a female shaman

Mudungkala Australian

an ancestral heroine of the Bathurst and Melville Islands mother of Purukapali

She came out of the ground with three children who became the ancestors of the islanders. The woman, who was blind, crawled along and the water that was created in her tracks became the sea which separated the islands from the mainland.

Mug Neadat (see Eoghan Mor)muga Korean

shaman songs
Some of these songs relate to early creation myths.

Mugasa African

[Mugu]
a sky-god of the Pygmies

Muggo Korean

a wise man

He, together with Mugol and Zesa, helped Chumong to set up a new kingdom. He was later given the family name of Sosil.

Mugh Nuadhat (see Eoghan Mor)Mughain<sup>1</sup> Irish

a queen of Ulster daughter of Eochaid Feidleach sister of Clothra, Eithne and Maev
wife of Conor mac Nessa

She led the naked women who cooled Cuchulainn's battle fury with vats of cold water.

Mughain<sup>2</sup> Irish

one of the wives of Diarmaid

mac Cearbhaill
mother of Aedh Slaine

She was jealous of the other wife, Maireann, and exposed the fact that she was bald. St Ciarnan caused golden hair to grow on Maireann's head and Mughain was made barren as punishment. St Finnian tried to help by giving her holy water to drink but she produced first a lamb and then a fish. When the saint blessed Mughain herself, she bore Aedh Slaine.

Mughain<sup>3</sup> Irish

a tree said to have been planted by Fintan (see also Mugna)

Mughain<sup>4</sup> Irish

wife of Maolochtraigh mother of Cumane
mother of Comgan by Fiachna

Mugizi African

[Muguzi]

a Bunyoro god of Lake Albert

Mugna Irish

a tree which is said to have borne acorns, apples and nuts in never-ending supply (see also Mughain<sup>3</sup>)

Mugol Korean

a wise man

He, together with Muggo and Zesa, helped Chumong to set up a new kingdom. He was later given the family name of Zungsil.

Mug's Half Irish

the southern half of Ireland ruled by Eoghan Mor

Mugu (see Mugasa)

Muguzi (see Mugizi)

mugwump North American

a fabulous bird

This bird is said to sit on a fence with its mug on one side and its wump on the other.

Muhammad al-Mahdi (see Mahdi)

Muhingo African

a war-god of the Bunyoro people

Muhog Korean

a Buddhist priest

When General Yi deposed the king and was forced to move out of the capital, Muhog selected the site for the new capital which later became known as Seoul.

Muhongo African

wife of Kitamba

When she died, her grieving husband sent a sorcerer to find her. He found her in the underworld but she could not go back and instead sent her bracelet to her husband as proof that the sorcerer had found her.

Muhtabul Bahri Malay

a sea-princess daughter of Aftabul Ardi wife of Sulana

mother of Mencha Terim

She married Sulana, becoming his third wife and mother of his three sons.

Muhupudma Indian

the elephant which supports the earth. It is said that the earth rests on this animal's head and, when it moves its head, it causes an earthquake.

Muic Inish Irish

[Pig Island]

an early name for Ireland

Muileartach Scottish

a water-spirit

This spirit, a form of the Cailleach Bheur, could appear either as a sea-serpent or as an ugly old hag with one eye. She was said to be able to raise storms at sea.

Muiname South American

spirits of ancestors, in the lore of the Witoto

Muinchinn Irish

wife of Donall Dualbhui

In some versions of the story of Ailill Fionn and Flidhais, she takes the place of Flidhais and Donall appears in place of Ailill. When Fergus killed Donall and carried off his wife, he wondered if she might betray him as she had betrayed Donall and so he drowned her.

Muinreamhar (see Muinremuir)

Muinremuir Irish

[Muinreamhar.Munremur]

a hero of Ulster

one of the 12 champions of

the Red Branch

son of Ferrigid

In a fight with Cet, he was defeated and ended up with a permanently swollen neck.

At Bricciu's feast he accepted a challenge to a beheading contest.

Muircheartach<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Murchearthach]

a poet and adviser to Brian Boru

He was said to be a dwarf.

(see also Mac Liag)

Muircheartach<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Murchearthach]

a high-king of Ireland

son of Muireadhach and Earc

His father had been carried off by Eochu, king of Scotland, but the young man killed the king and returned with a wife Earc, daughter of Loarn, to Ireland where Muircheartach was born.

He was expelled from both Ireland and Scotland for murders and went to Britain where he was made king, eventually returning to his native land where he became high-king.

Other stories say that he put aside his wife, Duaidhbhseach, in favour of the charms of Sin, a sorceress. She brought about his death by conjuring up hosts of warriors for him to slaughter, gradually weakening him and finally making him believe that his palace was on fire so that he jumped into a vat of ale (or wine) to escape the flames and was drowned.

Muidris Irish

a water-monster killed by

Fergus mac Leda

Muireadhach<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Cu Choingeilt]

son of Eoghan Beal

brother of Cellach

He went to visit his elder brother Cellach who had been exiled from Connaught with four of his young monks. Muireadhach found that Cellach had been murdered by the four who had been bribed by Guaire, usurper of Cellach's throne. When he discovered the corpse, he was attacked by a wolf which he killed, becoming known as Cu Choingeilt.

He found the four monks, Maol Chroin, Maol Dulua, Maol Deoraidh and Maol Seanaigh, and had them brutally killed.

Guaire, feigning friendship, gave Muireadhach his daughter, Geilgheis, for a wife and promised to yield the throne to him. Instead, when Muireadhach came to visit him, Guaire had him killed.

Muireadhach<sup>2</sup> Irish

husband of Earc

father of Muircheartach

He was carried off by the Scottish king, Eochu, but killed him and took Earc, daughter of Loarn, back to Ireland as his wife.

He was killed by a jealous rival but Earc restored him to life with a herbal remedy.

Muireadhach<sup>3</sup> Irish

a high-king of Ireland

son of Fiachu

He succeeded to the throne when his father was killed by the Colla brothers, but later forgave them when they returned from exile in Scotland.

Muireadhach Meann Irish

a sub-king

He acted as tutor to Conor Gulban and was killed in the war between Connaught and Ulster.

Muireann Irish

wife of Raghallach

When her husband became enamoured of a beautiful maiden who, unknown to either of them, was his own daughter whom he had abandoned as a child, Muireann left him.

Muireartach Irish

a Lochlanner woman

She was a one-eyed hag who killed many of the Fianna before she was killed by Finn mac Cool.

Muirgen (see Li Ban<sup>1</sup>)

Muirgheilt (see Li Ban<sup>1</sup>)

Muirghein (see Li Ban<sup>1</sup>)

Muirn Irish

an Amazon

She guarded the three treasures that Congall Claringleach came to acquire at the behest of Beiuada.

Muirne (see Murna)

Muit<sup>1</sup>

a name for the Rainbow Snake

Muit<sup>2</sup> (see Mut)

Mujaji African

[Modjaji. Rain Queen]

a rain-goddess in the Transvaal

She lived in the Drakensberg Mountains and protected her people, the Lovedu, from the Zulus.

(see also Rain Queen)

Mukakagenda African

a female drum which, together with the male drum Kagenda, was given as a wedding present to Kanyarundi by his father Kihanga

Mukal (see Moloch<sup>1</sup>)

Mukameiguru African

a name of Rugaba as 'ruler of the sky'

Mukasa African

a god of cattle, food and rain among the Baganda son of Manema Mairwa and Nambubi son of Musisi, some say brother of Kibuka and Wamala husband of Ndwanga

father of Kirabira, Mirimu and Nende

As a child, he refused all food and disappeared. He was later found on an island in Lake Victoria but the people there feared him and built a hut for him where he lived alone or, some say, with three wives, the chief of whom was Ndwanga. When he drank the blood and ate the heart and liver of an ox, they realised that he was a god and he became the chief god of the tribe.

(see also Mandwa<sup>1</sup>)

Mukhalinga Hindu

Shiva depicted with his face emerging from his lingam

Muks-ort (see Neskeper-ava)

mukti (see moksha)

mukulu African [plur=bakulu]

a Bakongo spirit of an ancestor living under water

Mukulu Ijulu African

a Swahili name for god

Mukunda Hindu

a name for Vishnu as 'liberator'

Mukunga M'buru African

a rainbow-god of the Kikuyu

When he found a boy grazing cattle on his field, the god swallowed the cattle and all the tribe except for the boy who, when he grew up, sought out Mukunga M'buru, proposing to kill him. The god persuaded the boy merely to cut a small hole in his finger, whereupon the people that the god had swallowed emerged. Later the boy returned and killed Mukunga M'buru and one of the god's legs fell into a pond. When the boy looked for the leg, it had disappeared but the cattle that the god had swallowed were in the pond.

Mukuru African

the sky-god of the Herero

Mul-ge (see Bel<sup>1</sup>)

Mul-lil Mesopotamian

an Akkadian storm-god

Mula Hindu

a goddess of fortune

one of the nakshatras

daughter of Daksha

wife of Candra

Mula Dyadi East Indian

a creator-deity of Sumatra

Mula Mullo (see Mullo)

Mulac<sup>1</sup> Central American

[Muluc]

a Mayan god

one of the 4 Bacabs

He was the supporter of the northern corner of the world (white)

(see also Kan Tzicnal)

Mulac<sup>2</sup> (see Ain)

Mulatib Persian

father of Sahlub

Mulciber Roman

a name for Vulcan as 'melter'

Mule Sans Frein<sup>1</sup> British a bridleless mule

This animal was brought to King Arthur's court by a damsel who needed help to find its bridle. Kay failed but Gawain found it.

Mule Sans Frein<sup>2</sup> French

a 12th c poem telling the story of Gawain's search for the mule's bridle

Mulengi African

a name of Chiuta as 'creator'

Muliele Alii Pacific Islands

a Hawaiian king

father of Moikele

Mulindwa African

a tribal guardian goddess of the Bunyoro royal family

Mulitta (see Mylitta)

Mulius Greek

son-in-law of Augeas

He was killed by Nestor during a cattle-raid.

Mulla (see Galla<sup>1</sup>.Mullo)

Mullack, Meg

(see Maid of the Hairy Arms)

Mullaghamart, Earl of Irish

an Irish noble

He is said to be asleep with his knights awaiting a call in some future hour of need.

Mullilitu (see Mylitta)

Mullin

a demon acting as a valet in hell

Mullin, Jean

a demon, a lieutenant to Leonard

Mulliyaras Mesopotamian

a Hittite god

Mullo Celtic

[Mula Mullo.Mulla]

a mule-god (see also Mars Mullo)

Mullogue Irish

a Fomoiré

He ensured that his master, Balor, exercised his right to sleep with any maiden on her wedding night, a duty in which he helped Maol.

mulogo African

a warlock among the Ganda

muloi (see muloyi)

muloyi African [muloi]

a Nande sorcerer

Mulopo African

a name for a god in the Congo

Multitude of Space Pacific Islands

the name for 4 storm-gods

These are listed as Matao-Anu, Mate-Anu, Whakarere-Anu and Whakatoro-Anu.

Multultu Australian

a kangaroo-man, an ancestral hero of the Aborigines

brother of Minawara

He and his brother appeared, after the primordial waters had subsided, in the form of kangaroos and they created all the other living things on earth.

Muluc<sup>1</sup> Central American

the ninth of the 20 ages of man in Mayan lore, the judgment of life's achievements

(see also Six Muluc)

Muluc<sup>2</sup> (see Mulac)

Muluku African

a creator-god of the tribes on the Zambesi

Having created the world, he drew two beings, a man and a woman, from holes in the ground. They were so disobedient that he changed them into monkeys and the monkeys into humans.

Mululu Australian

an ancestral hero of the Aborigines

He fashioned a ladder from his long beard so that his four daughters could follow him into the heavens.

Mulungu<sup>1</sup> African

[Kube.Likubala.Lima.Limi.Mtanga.

Mumbere.Mungu]

creator-god and sky-god of the Nyamwezi (see also Murungu)

Mulungu<sup>2</sup> African

a name of Asa as 'creator'

(see also Murungu)

Muma Padura Slav

a Romanian sprite living in the woods

Mumba Australian

one of the 2 lizard-men, ancestors of the Aborigines, known as Wati-kutjara

twin of Kurukadi

They awoke in the Dream Time and created the rocks, the plants and animals. When they met a group of women who were being chased by Kidilli, the moon-spirit, they killed him. Kidilli now appears in the sky as the moon, the women as the Pleiades and the twins as Gemini.

Mumba'an East Indian

a sun-god

He is said to have dried the earth after the flood subsided.

Mumbere (see Mulungu<sup>1</sup>)

Mumbi<sup>1</sup> African

a name of Asa as 'shaper'

Mumbi<sup>2</sup> (see Moombi)

mumbo-jumbo

a bogey; an idol

Mombonang East Indian

a god

father of Muntalog

Mumham (see Eire)

Mummu Mesopotamian

[Mommu.Moymis]

the personification of the mist forming above the primitive waters

a name for Ea as 'logos'

He was described as the son and chamberlain of Abzu and Tiamat.

When Abzu, Mummu and Tiamat planned to overthrow the gods, the gods retaliated.

Abzu was put to sleep, Mummu was tethered by a rope through his nose and Tiamat was killed by Marduk.

In some accounts Mummu is equated with Tiamat.

(see also Moymis)

Mumu Irish

an early name for Munster

Mumhange Pacific Islands

in some accounts, a wife of Tane

Mumuna (see Kunapipi)

mumy Siberian

['mother']

A generic name for female nature-deities of the Votyaks.

Mun-Ha Burmese

a chief priest of the goddess

Tsun-Kyan-Kse

When Mun-Ha was killed, the cat which had shared his daily worship in front of a statue of the goddess climbed on his shoulder and stared at the statue, whereupon the cat's yellow eyes turned blue and its white fur became the brown and gold of the Burman breed.

munajim Pacific Islands

a Malaysian astrologer and diviner

Munakata-No-Kami Japanese

Shinto sea-gods, gods of poets

This group of three gods is part of a larger group, the Sumiyoshi-No-Kami. Their names are given as Nakazutsuno, Sokozutsuno and Uwazutsuno.

munbano Siberian

the Samoyed rainbow

The rainbow is said to be the hem of the sun-god's coat.

Munda Hindu

a demon killed by Camunda

Mundane Egg (see Cosmic Egg)

Mundilfare (see Mundilfoeri)

Mundilfari (see Mundilfoeri)

Mundilfoeri Norse

[Mundilfare.Mundilfari.Mundilfore.

Nubdilfaeri]

a giant

father of Mani and Sol

Mundilfore (see Mundilfoeri)

mundus Roman

a pit in Rome which was said to lead to the underworld: a pit into which the first fruits are placed as offerings

Mungan-Ngana Australian

a culture-hero of the Aborigines

Mungo Indian

[pulse]

a culture-heroine

sister of Motho

Mungu (see Mulungu<sup>1</sup>)

muni Hindu

a sage

These silent ascetics are said to be able to read the thoughts of others and to fly.

Municami Indian

[=Hindu Munisvara]

a Tamil saint, worshipped as a demi-god

Municus Greek

a seer

son of Dryas

When they were attacked by bandits

who set fire to their castle, Municus and his family were saved from the flames by Zeus who turned them into birds.

Munifican European

a smith

He made Cortana and Sauvagine, the swords used by Ogier the Dane.

Munin Norse

['memory'.Muninn]

one of the 2 ravens of Odin

These birds brought Odin news of what was going on in the world. The other raven was called Hugin.

Muninn (see Munin)

Munisvara Hindu

[=Tamil Municami]

a saint worshipped as a demi-god

Munjem Malik Afghan

a Kafir earth-god

Munremur (see Muinremuir)

Munsalvaesche European

in Continental stories, a mountain

where the Holy Grail was housed or the site of the castle of Amfortas

This appears to be a corruption of Montsalvatch (Mount Salvat).

(see also Mount Salvat)

Munsumundok East Indian

wife of Kinharigan

She and her husband emerged from a rock in the sea and together they created the earth, using soil given to them by Bisagit, followed by the sky, the heavenly bodies, human beings and all the animals and plants.

Munt (see Menthu)

Muntalog East Indian

a deity

son of Mumbonong

He is said to have pulled some hair from his father's head and brought it down to earth as fire.

Muntso-kuzo (see Muntso-murt)

Muntso-murt Baltic

[Muntso-kuzo.Muntso-oz=

Russian Pyrsan-aika]

a Finnish bath-house spirit

He sometimes substitutes changlings for the proper children.

Muntso-oz (see Muntso-murt)

Muntu-Untu East Indian

a sun-god

Muntu Walunga African

the first being in the lore of the Bakongo people

This being was created by Nzambi in the form of a palm-tree from which men and women originated. It is depicted with male and female faces on opposite sides.

- Munume African
a weather-god of the Bunyoro people
- Munychus Greek
son of Acamas and Laodice
He was raised by Aethra, mother of Theseus.
- Mupe African
a legendary ancestor of the Bambuti husband of Uti
- Mur (see Ishkur)
- Mur y Castell Welsh
the fortress-home of Llew Llaw Gyffes
- Mura Hindu
one of the Danavas
father of Yakshi
- Muraian Australian
a culture-hero of the Aborigines in the form of a turtle-man
- Muraja Buddhist
a goddess of music
- Muraji Japanese
a title for those descended from gods other than the ancestral deities of the royal family
- Murakumo-no-Tsurugi (see Kusanagi)
- Murala Hindu
a Brahmin maiden
She was deceived into marrying a man of lower caste and committed suicide. The bamboo is said to have grown from the ashes of her funeral pyre.
- Muramura Australian
ancestral heroes of the Aborigines, spirits of the Dreamtime, now said to be invisible and living in trees
- Murata Ippai Japanese
a samurai
Seeing a number of boys near a moat planted with lotus, he set about killing them with wild sword-strokes. Then, overcome by the heavy perfume of the flowers, he fell asleep. When he awoke, he found that he had cut the heads off all the flowers and committed hara-kiri in remorse.
- Murchadh mac Briain Irish
a king of Leinster
son of Brian Boru
brother of Donnchadh and Saba
He defeated the high-king Fergal at the Battle of Elen. He was a great warrior and was said to have repelled an invasion fleet from the Otherworld and killed the leader of the Vikings at the Battle of Clontarf where his sword became red-hot from the slaughter he inflicted on the enemy and where, finally, both he and his father were killed.
- Murcheartach (see Muicheartach)
- Murcia (see Myrto)
- Murdad (see Ameretat)
- Murdhuaca (see Merrow)
- Murduk (see Marduk)
- murgi (see iodhi)
- Muri-ranga-wenhua Pacific Islands
an ancestress of the trickster-god Maui Maui used her jawbone, with which he was invisible, as a weapon.
- Murias Irish
[=French Morois=Welsh Morvo]
one of the 4 cities from which the Danaans originated
This was the city, ruled by the wizard Simias, from which came the magic cauldron, Undry.
- Muriel'
a demon, ruler of the sign Cancer, the crab (see also Phakael)
- Muriel' (see Muryel)
- Murigen (see Li Ban')
- Murile African
a boy who went to the moon
In the lore of Tanzania, the boy Murile went to the moon either by riding on a magic stool that he had made or by climbing a rope. Once there, he taught the people of the Moon-chief how to make fire and was rewarded with many cattle. He later returned to earth with his cattle, having promised never to eat the flesh of such animals. When he inadvertently ate some of the fat of a bull, he disappeared into the ground.
- Murmidones (see Myrmidons)
- Murmur
a demon of music in hell
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
He is said to appear as a huge soldier riding a vulture or a griffin.
- Murna Irish
[Mairne.Muirne.Murna of the White Neck] daughter of Tadhg wife of Cumail
mother of Finn mac Cool
She eloped with Cumail when her father refused to allow them to marry and, in one story, on Tadhg's orders, Goll mac Morna killed Cumail.
After Cumail's death she bore a son whom she called Demna (later known as Finn) and gave him to two old women to rear in the wild.
She then married the king of Kerry.
- Muromets, Ilya (see Ilya Muromets)
- Muromyets, Ilya (see Ilya Muromets)
- murozi African
a Burundi sorcerer
- murt Siberian ['man']
a generic name for male nature-deities of the Votyaks
- Murtagh mac Earc Irish
son of Earc
brother of Fergus
His brother borrowed the Stone of Destiny for his own coronation as ruler of Dal Riada but he never returned it.
- Murtaimu Mesopotamian [Murtaznu]
a Babylonian storm-god
- Murtaznu (see Murtaimu)
- Muru Hindu
a demon
He was said to have had some 7,000 sons, all of whom were killed by Krishna.
- Muruga (see Seyon)
- Murugan (see Seyon)
- Murukan (see Seyon)
- Murungu African [Mulungu.Muluku]
a supreme god of many Kikuyu tribes
father of Gikuyu, Kamba and Masai
- Mururata (see Mount Mururata)
- Muruwul (see Mirrimina)
- Muryel Welsh
[Muriel]
father of Gruddieu
- Muryoju (see Amitayas)
- Muryoku Japanese
a form of Amitabha
- Musa African
a spirit of the hunt in the lore of the Songhay people
- Musa Jinni (see Musa Nyame)
- Musa Nyame African [Moses.Musa Jinni]
an ancestral hero of the Songhai
He was the son of a jinn and his father taught him magic. With it, he was able to conquer the Hira, a huge monster.
- Musae (see Muses)
- Musaeus<sup>1</sup> Greek [Mousaios]
son of Orpheus
He initiated Heracles into the Eleusian mysteries
- Musaeus<sup>2</sup> Greek
[Mousaios]
a 4th/5th c poet
He wrote a poem on the story of Hero and Leander.
- Musagetes Greek
a name of Apollo as leader of the Muses

- Musala Hindu
the pestle of Balarama
- Musas (see Mashti)
- Muscas (see Mashti)
- musendabuzimu African
a root-drink used to wash out the mouth after dreams of foreboding
- Muses Greek
[Aganippides.Castalides.Corycian Nymphs.Corycides.Musae.Pierides.The (Tuneful) Nine.Virgins of Helicon: =Roman Camenae]
daughters of Zeus and Mnemosyne
Originally there were just three Muses, Aoede, Melete and Mneme or Hypate, Mese and Nete. Later there were four; Arche, Aoide, Maete and Theixinoe. The number was later increased to nine, one each responsible for a particular area of the arts, led by Apollo. The allocation of responsibilities varies from one version to another. The following list includes most of these alternatives:
Calliope-epic poetry (chief Muse)
Clio-history
Erato-erotic poetry, hymns, lyric poetry
Euterpe-flute-playing, lyric poetry, music
Melpomene-harmony, lyre-playing, song, tragedy
Poly(hym)nia-acting, dance, hymns, lyric poetry, mime, music, rhetoric, song, Terpsichore-dance, flute-playing, lyric poetry, song
Thalia-comedy, gaiety, pastoral poetry
Urania-astronomy
Other names include Menippe, mother of Orpheus.
They blinded Thamyris, a bard, for his presumption in challenging them to a contest of poetry. Winning a similar contest with the Pierides, they turned the losers into jackdaws. It is they who gave the Sphinx the riddle it posed to all travellers.
They are themselves sometimes referred to as the Pierides.
- Museum
originally a place devoted to or connected with the Muses
In some cases, the site had an altar or a temple.
- Mush Persian
a demon in the form of a mouse that destroys the harvest
- Mushdama (see Mushdamma)
- Mushdamma Mesopotamian
[Mushdama.Mussdamma]
a Sumerian god of architecture and building
- Mushmush North American
the white-tailed deer created by Kumush
- Mushrushshu (see Mushussu)
- Mushtari Persian
the Persian name for Jupiter
- Mushussu Mesopotamian [Mushrushshu]
one of the Eleven Mighty Helpers created by Tiamat
This beast took the form of a snake-dragon and may be the same as the Shining Snake. Others say that it was like a griffin or ostrich. (see also Musmahhu)
- Musikavanhu African
a supreme god in Tanzania a name of Mwari as creator
- Musisi African
[Wanema]
a god of earthquakes and messenger-god of the Ndonga people son of Kalunga
- Muskrat North American
one of the animals who tried to find dry soil for Manabush
In the lore of the Algonquians, four animals tried to find dry soil (oeh-da) from which Manabush could remake the world after the flood. Beaver, Mink and Otter all died in the attempt and only Muskrat succeeded.
- Musmahhu Mesopotamian [=Greek Hydra]
a monster in the form of a seven-headed snake (see also Mushussu)
- Muso Byoye Japanese
a fisherman
He used the fishing-rod and line given to him by Urashima to make a kite which, like the famous magic carpet, carried him to many fabulous places.
- Muso Kokushi Japanese
a priest
Taking shelter in a house where the owner had recently died, he volunteered to keep a vigil over the corpse and was able to see a mysterious shape which appeared and ate the corpse. It turned out to be a form of the priest Muso had met on the previous day and he confessed that he had been turned into a jikininki for being overly concerned with temporal matters. When Muso prayed for his soul, the jikininki and his hermitage disappeared and Muso found himself beside an ancient tomb.
- Muso Koroni (see Musso-koroni)
- Musoke African
a rainbow-god of the Bambara
- Muspel Norse
[Muspell]
the Fire Giants
sons of Surtur
- Muspelheim Norse
[Muspellheim(r).Muspell's-heim]
the land of fire, far to the south, ruled by Surtur
It is said that sparks flying up from this realm created the heavenly bodies.
- Muspell (see Muspell)
- Muspellheim (see Muspelheim)
- Muspellheimr (see Muspelheim)
- Mussdamma (see Mushdamma)
- Musso-koroni African [Mouso Coronie.Muso Koroni]
a fertility-goddess of the Bambara
She was the first woman, generated by Pemba, and mother of all living things, fathered by Pemba. She taught mankind the principles of agriculture.
She is depicted as a woman with many breasts or as a panther.
- Mustafa (see Mustapha)
- Mustamho Central American
a creator-god of the Mohave
son of Matyavela
He created the tribes and saved them when the flood came by holding them in his arms until the waters had subsided.
- Mustapha Arab [Mustafa]
a poor tailor
father of Aladdin
- Mustapha Baba Arab [Mustafa Baba]
a cobbler who stitched together the severed parts of Kassim's body
- Mustenin (see Custenin<sup>1</sup>)
- Musu South American
[=Paraguay El Gran Moxo]
ruler of a fabulous land of wealth in Quecha stories
brother of Sand Altar Woman
- Musubi Japanese [Mususbu]
a Shinto god of marriage
father of Sukanabikona
He is said to have restored Okuninushi to life on two separate occasions after he had been killed by his own brothers.
- Musubu (see Musubi)
- Mut Egyptian
[Ament.Lady of Asheru.Muit.Muut.
disappeared and Musso found himself beside an ancient tomb.

Nekhbet.Sakhmet.The Great Sorceress: =Greek Hera]
the goddess of Thebes consort of Amon mother of Khons
She is usually depicted with the head of a vulture but sometimes has the head of a lion.
Some say that she was a mate of Hapi; a name for Isis, in some accounts.
(see also Ament'.Hathor.
Mast.Nekhbet.Taure)

Mutabriqu Mesopotamian

a Babylonian god of lightning

Mutaga African

son of Mwezi husband of Inabizoza
father of Mwambudza

mutameli African

one appointed as a guardian of a graveyard among the Tsonga

Mutangakugara African

a name for Mwari as 'eternal'

Muth Phoenician

[=Canaanite Mot]
a god of death

Muti Mpungu African

in the lore of the Bakongo, the tree which split the androgynous being Mahungu into man, Lumbu, and woman, Muzita.

Mutinus Roman

[Mutunus (Tutunus);=Egyptian Min:
=Greek Priapus]
a fertility-god

Women made offerings to this deity in the hope of bearing children.

Mutsoyef North American

a Cheyenne medicine-man
The Great Spirit, Maiyun, gave Mutsoyef some magic arrows which, if pointed at buffalo or enemies, confused their senses so that they were easily overcome.

Muttalamman Indian

a Tamil plague-goddess

Mutto Greek

a king of Tyre
father of Dido, some say

In other accounts, Dido's father is given as Belus.

Mutu Mesopotamian

a dragon-headed Assyrian god of the underworld

Mutuhei Pacific Islands

a primordial god of silence in the Society Islands

Mutunus (see Mutinus)

Mutunus Tutunus (see Mutinus)

Muu-muu Pacific Islands

cannibal ogres of Guadalcanal and Mala

These beings are said to babble in some unknown language.

Muurup Australian

an evil deity said to eat children

Muut (see Mut)

Muwakkil Arab

a guardian angel

If a man becomes possessed by a devil, it is the Muwakkil's job to drive the devil away.

Muy African

an ancestral hero in Liberia

His youngest son was a ram who married a ewe and produced many lambs. When a cannibal king demanded sheep to eat, Muy killed him.

Muyinewumana North American

a Pueblo goddess of precious stones

Muy'inga North American

[Muy'ingwa] a Hopi corn-god living in the underworld

brother of Sand Altar Woman

He is in charge of the vegetation in the underworld and is depicted in a sitting position, wearing a coloured mask, and surrounded by birds, butterflies and many-coloured fruits and grain.

Muy'ingwa (see Muy'inga)

Muzem-mummy Siberian

an earth-goddess of the Votyaks

Muzita African

in the lore of the Bakongo, the tree
Muti Mpungu split the androgynous being Mahungu into man, Lumbu, and woman, Muzita.

mwaguzi African

a Swahili diviner

Mwali (see Mwari)

Mwambu African

the first man in the lore of the Abaluyia
son of Wele
brother and husband of Sela

He and Sela were born in heaven but Wele dropped a ladder from the sky and they came down and populated the earth with their offspring.

Mwambudza African

son of Mutaga and Inabizoza father of Intare

Mwari African

[Dzivaguru.Mbuya.Musikavanhu.
Mutangakugara.Mwali.Nyadenga]
the supreme god of the Shona people husband of Mashongavudzi

He is regarded as the creator of Mwetsi and later married the Rain Goddess.

mwaro Pacific Islands

in New Caledonia, a shrine where the sacred stones, the bao, are kept

Mwatuangi African

a name of Asa as 'distributor'

Mwenco African

a name of Chiuta as 'owner of all things'

Mweel African

daughter of Mbomba
sister and wife of Woot mother of Nyimi Lele

Mwenembago African

in the lore of Tanzania, a man deified
as lord of the forest

Mweri (see Weri Kumbamba)

Mwesi African

son of Intare and Inaruchaba father of Mutaga

Mwetsi African

the first man in the lore of the Makoni: the moon

He was created by Maori and originally lived in a lake but moved on to dry land which was, at that time, desolate. He mated with the maiden Massassi who produced vegetation and with the woman Morongo who bore animals and humans. He was bitten by a serpent born of Morongo and fell ill.
His own children strangled him and,
in some accounts, hid him in the body of Morongo.

Mwys Gwyddno British

the hamper of Gwyddno

This basket, which could change any piece of meat into a feast for a hundred people, was one of the Thirteen Treasures of Britain collected by Merlin.

My Lord Bag of Rice (see Hidesato)

myalism West Indian

witchcraft

Mydon (see Mygdon)

Myesyats Slav

wife of Dabog
mother of the 2 Zorya girls

In some accounts, Myesyats is male and his wife is Verchenyaya Zvezda.

Mygdalion Greek

son of Cinyras

Mygdon Greek

[Mydon]
king of the Bebrycans

He was killed by Heracles during his ninth Labour.

Mygdon Greek

a king of Phrygia
son of Acmon
father of Coroebus

Myiagros Greek

a god who chased away flies during sacrificial rites

- Myiammo Taung Burmese
a sacred mountain regarded as the centre of the earth
- Myles British [Miles]
a young knight
He was travelling with his fiancée, Elaine, to Camelot where they were to be married when he was attacked from behind by Loraine le Sauvage and badly wounded. Pellimore, Elaine's father rode past and, intent on a quest for the king, failed to recognise his daughter and refused to help her wounded lover. When Myles died of his wounds, Elaine killed herself with his sword.
In some accounts, he was killed by Pellimore in a joust.
- Mylitta Mesopotamian
[Mulitta.Mulliltu:=Greek Aphrodite: =Sumerian Ninlil]
a Babylonian mother-goddess and goddess of fertility a form of Ishtar
consort of Enlil
Each woman devotee was required, once in her life, to sell herself to a stranger for some fee which was then dedicated to Mylitta.
In some accounts she is identified with Belit.
- Myres Greek
son of Evenus
brother of Epistrophus husband of Briseis
He and his brother were killed by Achilles in the Trojan War and his wife, Briseis, was given to Achilles as a prize.
- Mynio Welsh
father of Iddawg
- Mynydd Fyrrddin Welsh
a site in Herefordshire, said to hold the grave of Merlin
- Myojo-tenshi Japanese
an angel of the morning star
This being, in the form of a handsome youth, guides the virtuous in their travels.
- Myoken Japanese
[Kagase-wo]
a Buddhist star-god, the Pole Star
- myomancy
divination from the movements of mice
- Myotei Japanese
a painter
He took the young Sawara as a pupil and wanted him as a son-in-law.
- Myrddin
(see Emrys.Lailoken.Merlin)
- Myrddin Wylt Welsh
the Welsh name for Suibhne Geilt
In some accounts, he is equated with Merlin.
- Myrddin's Precinct
(see Clas Myrddin)
- Myrina Greek
daughter of Thoas
sister of Hypsipyle
- myrkrida (see trollkana)
- Myrmidones Greek
[ˈant menˈ.Murmídones.Myrmídones]
When Zeus fell in love with Aegina he fathered Aeacus who grew up to be king of the island. Hera decimated the population in revenge so Aeacus prayed to Zeus who created a whole new population from ants. These were the myrmidons who followed Achilles and fought in the Trojan War.
- Myrmidones (see Myrmidones)
- Myrrha<sup>1</sup> Greek [Smyrna.Zmyrna.Zmyrne]
daughter of Cinyras
mother of Adonis by her own father
She was changed into a myrtle tree by Apollo to save her from her father's sword. The infant Adonis was delivered from the tree by a boar's tusk. In some stories, Myrrha is Smyrna, in others her father is Belus or Theias.
- Myrrha<sup>2</sup> Phoenician
[Smyrna.Zmyrna.Zmyrne]
a fertility goddess
mother of Kinnur
- Myrtea (see Myrto)
- Myrtilus Greek
son of Hermes by Cleobule or Phaetusa charioteer to Oenomaus
He was bribed by Pelops and Hippodamia to sabotage his master's chariot.
Pelops had promised to let Myrtilus sleep with Hippodamia but went back on his promise, kicking Myrtilus into the sea where he drowned, cursing all the descendants of Pelops.
Hermes set the image of Myrtilus in the heavens as Auriga, the Charioteer.
- Myrtium Greek [Tithium]
the mountain on which, in some accounts, the infant Asclepius was abandoned by Apollo
- myrtle<sup>1</sup> Egyptian
the tree sacred to Hathor
- myrtle<sup>2</sup> European Orlando was changed into a myrtle tree by Alcina
- myrtle<sup>3</sup> Greek
the tree of Adonis, Aphrodite, Artemis and Poseidon (see also Myrrha<sup>1</sup>)
- myrtle<sup>4</sup> Hebrew chewing the leaves of myrtle enabled one to detect witches
- Myrto Greek
[Murcia.Myrtea.Myrtoessa]
a name of Aphrodite when depicted sitting under a myrtle tree
- Myrtoessa (see Myrto)
- Mysing (see Mysinger)
- Mysinger Norse
[Mysing]
a leader of the Vikings produced from Frodi's mill
He killed the Danish king, Frodi, and captured his magic grindstones and the two giantesses, Fenia and Menia, who worked the the mill aboard his ship, producing salt. He so overworked them that the weight of salt sank the ship and made the whole sea salty.
- Mysis (see Miysis)
- Mysteries of Isis Egyptian
rites concerned with the death of Osiris and his resurrection by Isis
- Mysterion Greek
an Autumn festival in honour of Dionysus
- mystery-man
a magician: a medicine-man
- Mystes Greek
a name of Dionysus as 'the initiated'
- Mystic Apes (see Three Mystic Apes)
- mystic knot Buddhist one of the signs on the Buddha's foot, symbol of immortality and infinity
- myth
[mythos.mythus]
a story of heroes, gods, etc. belief without foundation
- Mythical Age North American
the period before the appearance of man
In the lore of the Indian tribes, this was a time when all the animals and birds talked and acted like humans and even, in some cases, looked like them.
- mythicise [mythise]
invent or write stories of heroes and gods: explain a miracle, etc. as a myth
- mythiciser (see mythicist)
- mythicisism
[mythism] explanation of miracles as myths

mythicist

[mythiciser.mythist]

one who writes stories of heroes
or gods

one who explains miracles, etc. as myths

mythism (see mythicism)mythist (see mythicist)mythogenesis

the origin of stories without foundation such as those of ancient heroes and gods

mythogony

the study of the origin of myths

mythographer

one who writes stories of heroes and gods

mythography

representation of myths: a collection of myths: a description of myths

mythologem

a mythological paradigm: a basic term of myths

mythologer

[mythologian.mythologist]

one who studies ancient stories of heroes, gods, etc.: one who sets out to explain such stories

mythologian (see mythologer)Mythological Cycle Irish

the corpus of literature dealing with characters from the Otherworld and the struggles of the Danaans

mythologise

put in the form of a story without foundation: explain the stories of the ancient heroes, gods, etc.

mythologist (see mythologer)mythology

[mythos.mythus]

the study of ancient stories of heroes,
gods, etc.

mythopoeic (see mythopoetic)mythopoeic

a mythical poem

mythopoetic

[mythopoeic]

myth-making

mythopoetry

mythical poetry

mythopoiea

myth-making

mythopoeist

one who invents stories without foundation or stories of heroes,
gods, etc.

mythopoeist

one who writes mythical poetry

mythos (see myth.mythology)mythus (see myth.mythology)

N

- N Central American
a Mayan deity of uncertain identity referred to as god N
This deity is thought by some to be the demon Uayayab which ruled the nemontemi, the five unlucky days at the year's end.
- Na Ainanu (see Hui Tarara)
- Na Atibu Pacific Islands
father of the gods of the Gilbert Islands husband of Nei Teukez
father of Na Kika, Nareau the Younger, Nei Marena, Riiki, Te Nao, Tei Ikawai
When Nareau had made the gods, he departed leaving Na Atibu to make the world and man. He allowed his youngest son, Nareau, to kill him using his body to make the world. A sacred tree, Kai-nu-tiku-aba, sprang from his spine which produced human beings.
- Na-chen t'ien-tsun Chinese a minor deity, assistant to the god of riches
- Na-ch'un Tibetan
the chief sorcerer of the government, acting as an oracle
This official is regarded as an incarnation of Pe-kar and makes annual forecasts of coming events.
- Na-gates Norse
gates leading from Niflheim to Helheim
It is said that those who pass through these gates die for the second time.
- Na-ka-hsi-na Chinese [Chia-hsi-na]
the Chinese version of Nagasena
- Na Kaa Pacific Islands
a primordial god of the Gilbert Islands brother of Tabakea
In the lovely garden where he lived grew two trees. Men lived under one of them, women under the other. When they met, they all went to the same tree, the tree of death. Na-Kaa expelled them from his paradise and he now guards the entrance to keep out sinners.
- Na Kika Pacific Islands
[Kika.Na Kiki]
the octopus-god of the Gilbert Islands
son of Na Atibu and Nei Teukez
He helped Nareau to build the islands of the Pacific.
- Na Kiki (see Na Kika)
- Na-naki Japanese
a pheasant
Waka-hiko was away for so long that the gods sent this bird to find him. Waka-hiko shot and killed the bird but was himself killed by the same arrow.
- Na-nefer-ka-Ptah Egyptian
a deity, destroyer of snakes
- Na Ngutu African
a Bakongo god of the dead
- Na-pihe-nui Pacific Islands
daughter of a chief
She was wooed by Ku who changed from a small dog into a man. When her father refused to sanction the marriage, Ku turned into a huge, fierce dog and ate many of the tribe.
- Naachjeii esdzaa (see Naste Etsan)
- Naapatecutli Central American
an Aztec rain-god
- Naas (see Boi')
- Naastrand (see Nastrand)
- nabaa Arabian
a tree
Arrows made from the timber of this tree are used in divination rites.
- Nabam (see Guland)
- Nabangatai Pacific Islands
a village in the underworld, Bulu, home of the souls of the dead
- Nabende African
a supreme god in Uganda
- Naberius
[Cerberus.Cerebus.Kerberos.
Kereberus.Naberus]
one of the 72 Spirits of Solomon
He is said to be able to teach logic and appears as a three-headed man on a crow or a black cockerel.
- Naberus (see Naberius)
- Nabgodon Irish
king of Uardha
He tried to seize Taise for himself but was killed by Congall Clairingleach to whom she was betrothed.
- Nabhi Jain
a culture-hero
- Nabi Khadir (see Khadir)
- Nabi Khidir (see Khadir)

Nabiata Pacific Islands

a messenger for the creator-god, Opo

Nabium (see Nabu<sup>1</sup>)

Nabon British

a giant

He was the ruler of the Isle of Servage and gave it to Segwarides. He was killed by Tristram.

Nabu<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Nabium.Nabug.Nebo.Mermer:

=Babylonian Nebo:=Greek Hermes]

an Akkadian god of wisdom

son of Marduk and Sarpanitu

consort of Tasmetu or Ishtar

He invented the art of writing and recorded all knowledge on clay tablets.

His ship was known as Iddahedu.

(see also Ilu Tashmit.

Laghlaghghi-gar.Muati)

Nabu<sup>2</sup> (see Khadir)

Nabug (see Nabu<sup>1</sup>)

Nabur British

a fisherman of Orkney

The ship on which Mordred and other newly-born boys were set adrift was wrecked.The infant Mordred was found by Nabur and raised by him and his wife.

Nach-un Tibetan

an incarnation of Bi-har acting as oracle and sorcerer to the government

Nachiel

one of the 7 Intelligences

ruler of the sun

Nachiketäs Hindu

son of Aruni

When his father gave away all his possessions, Nachiketäs found himself given to Yama, the god of death, with whom he stayed for three nights and learned much.

Na'chitna'irgin Siberian

one of 4 Chukchee dawn-spirits

brother of Wu'squus

Nacht (see Nott)

Nachunde Persian

an Elamite sun-god

Nachuruchu North American

[Nah-chu-ru-ch]

a Pueblo weaver and medicine-man

When Nachuruchu married the moon, the two witches known as the Yellow Corn Maidens were so jealous that they drowned her in a well. All the animals and birds searched for her and the buzzard spotted a mound covered with flowers. Nachuruchu had the buzzard bring him one of the white flowers and, placing it between two robes, sang magic songs over it until it turned into his wife, fully restored. He then made a magic hoop for her to play with and when she bowled it towards the witches they grabbed hold of it and were immediately turned into snakes.

Nacien (see Nascien)

Nacom Central American

a low caste of Mayan priests

These priests served for a period of three years, during which they practised a regime of abstinence from the pleasures of the flesh.

Nacon Central American

a Mayan war-god

Nacoriel

a demon of the hours of the day

Nacren (see Nascien)

nada

elemental sound considered as a source of creation

Nadaka Hindu

a servant of Shiva

Nadi-Devata Buddhist

a river-goddess

Nadi Kashyapa (see Kashyapa)

Nadija (see Bhishma)

Nadimmud Mesopotamian

[Ninigkug.Nudim(mud)'.shaper']

Ea as 'ruler of everything'

Nadrushi-Namur Mesopotamian

a being in the form of a man-lion

He was created by Ea to go to the underworld to rescue Ishtar.

(see also Ashushu-Namir)

Nadus British

a king of Syria in Arthurian legends

Nae-Yaku Ceylonese

the spirits of recent ancestors: a ceremony invoking these spirits

Naegling (see Nagelring)

Naëise (see Naisi)

Naestan North American

the first woman

wife of Yadilyil

mother of Estanatlehi

Naete African

a sea-deity of the Fon

twin sister of Agbe

mother of Afrikete

Nafanua Pacific Islands

a Samoan war-goddess

Nag-pa Tibetan

a sorcerer

These men wear tall conical hats, a sash of bones and a magical mirror on the chest, engaging demons in battle.

naga<sup>1</sup> Hindu

['serpent']

one of the life forces

Naga<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Naia.Naja.Naje:female=Nagini]

a sacred snake

offspring of Kasyapa and Kadru

These beings could appear in many forms, such as snake-necked warriors, and could mate with humans. They are said to have a navel in the forehead and live in bejewelled underwater palaces in Bhagavati.

Alternative versions say that they live in Nagaloka or Niraya.

Naga<sup>3</sup> Indian

a water-god

He is depicted as a serpent with a human face in Hindu and Jain mythology.

Naga Mas Malay

a sea-monster

son of Budiman

brother of Lela Muda

Naga Min Burmese

a serpent-king

Naga Muchilinda (see Muchalinda)

Naga Padoha (see Naga Pahoda)

Naga Pahoda East Indian

[Naga Padoha]

a serpent in the primitive ocean, in the lore of Sumatra

Nagabodhi Tibetan

a Lamaist sorcerer

Nagadya African

a goddess of the Baganda

mother of Kibuku, some say

Nagagini East Indian

daughter and wife of Anantaboga mother of Anantaraja by Anantaboga wife of B'ima

Nagah North American

a mountain sheep

In the lore of the Paiute, Nagah climbed a very high mountain which reached the sky and the supreme being, Shinob, turned the sheep into the North Star, Qui-am-i Wintook.

Nagaicho (see Nagaitcho)

Nagaitcho North American

[Nagai(t)cho:=Sinkyone Kyoi:

=Yuki Taikomol]

the first man in the lore of the Kato

Indians of California

As an infant, Nagaitcho was saved from the flood by Tcenes.

In some accounts, he was the creator-god who made all things, including the first humans to whom he introduced the arts. The first world he created was destroyed by flood water. He then made a second world from a huge horned monster.

Nagaitcho (see Nagaitcho)

- nagakals Hindu
decorated stones bearing a serpent motif, dedicated by women wanting children
- Nagakumara Jain
a weather-god
one of the 10 Bhavanavasi
- Nagaloka Hindu
the realm of the Nagas (see also Bhagavati)
- Nagapasa Hindu
the noose used by Varuna to bind sinners
- Nagaraja Hindu [Nanda:=Tibetan Klu(-rgyal)]
a snake-god
- Nagarjuna<sup>1</sup> Buddhist a 2nd c Mahayana philosopher
- Nagarjuna<sup>2</sup> Tibetan
a Lamaist sorcerer
He gave the alchemist Charpati a pair of magic shoes, which enabled him to fly, in exchange for the secret of turning base metals into gold.
- Nagasena Buddhist
[=Chinese Chia-hsi-na.Na-ka-hsi-na]
a Buddhist priest
one of the 18 Lohan
He taught Menander the Buddhist doctrines and made the Emerald Buddha by magical powers.
- Nagasvaraja Buddhist
a name for the Buddha as liberator of the nagas
- Nagawonyi African
a hunger-goddess of the Baganda
- Nagelfare (see Naglfari)
- Nagelring German [Naegling.Naglring]
the sword of Dietrich von Bern
This weapon was given to Dietrich by Elbegast who had stolen it from the giant, Grim.
In Thidrekssaga, it was taken from the dwarf, Alfrik, by Thidrek.
In other stories, it was given by his uncle, Hygelac, to Beowulf who used it to kill Grendell.
(see also Hrunting)
- Nagenatzani (see Nayenezgani)
- Nagi North American
['death']
one of the 4 Godlike Spirits of the Sioux, an aspect of Wakan Tanka
- Nagila North American ['shadow']
one of the 4 Godlike Spirits of the Sioux, an aspect of Wakan Tanka
- Nagilfar (see Naglfar)
- Nagini<sup>1</sup> Hindu
[male=Naga]
a snake-girl
offspring of Kasyapa and Kadru
These beings could appear in many forms, such as beautiful maidens with serpent bodies below the waist, and could mate with humans.
- Nagini<sup>2</sup> Jain
[=Hindu Manasa]
a snake-goddess
- Naglefar (see Naglfari)
- Naglefare (see Naglfari)
- Naglfar (see Naglfari)
- Naglfari<sup>1</sup> Norse
[Nagelfare.Nagilfar.Naglefar(e).Naglfar.Naglfar]
the ship of the giants
This vessel was built from the nails of the dead and, piloted by Hrimnir, was used by Loki to transport the hordes from Muspelheim to the site of the final battle with the gods.
- Naglfari<sup>2</sup> Norse
[Nagelfare.Nagilfar.Naglefar(e).Naglfar.Naglfar]
first husband of Nott father of Aud
- Naglfar (see Naglfar)
- Naglring (see Nagelring)
- Nago loa West Indian a group of Haitian voodoo spirits derived from the Yoruba deities
- Nago Shango West Indian
a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from the Yoruba god, Shango
- Nagpanchami Indian [Nagara-panchami]
a rain-making ceremony
This is the name used in northern India for a ceremony based on the rain-making powers of the Nagas.
In southern India, the festival is known as Nagara-panchami.
- Nagrind (see Helgrind)
- nagua (see nagual)
- nagual Central American [nagua.tona(l).tono:plur=naguales] an animal or bird in Mexico, associated with each individual and regarded as a personal god, which lived and died with that person
- naguales (see nagual)
- nagumwasuck North American
ugly fairies of the Passemaquaddy
- Nagyboldogaszony (see Boldogasszony)
- Nah-chu-ru-chu (see Nachuruchu)
- Nahar Mesopotamian
a sun-goddess
- Nahema
[=Hebrew Lilith]
a demon
- Nahhundi Persian
an Elamite sun-god
- Nahi Arabian
a guardian god
- Nahui Ehecatl Mesopotamian
[Ehecatl]
an Aztec water-god
- Nahui Ollin Central American [Naollin]
an Aztec creator-god
He is regarded as the current (fifth) un and, in some versions, was originally the god Nanautzin.
- nahurak North American Pawnee animal-spirits
- Nahusa (see Nahusha)
- Nahusha Hindu
[Nahusa]
a tyrant son of Ayus
He took over as ruler of the earth in the absence of Indra but neglected his duties in favour of pleasure. When he kicked Agastis (or, some say, Brighu) in the head, the seer threw him out of heaven and turned him into a snake, a condition from which he was liberated by Yuhisthira.
- Nai African
an ocean-god of the Gan people
father of Ashiakle
- Nai-nai-niang-niang Chinese a name for Pi-hsia Yüan-chun as Madame Lady
- Nai-No-Kami Japanese
a Shinto god of earthquakes and storms
- Nai Thombo Thombo Pacific Islands
in some versions, the Fijian underworld (see underworld)
- Naia (see Naga)
- naiad Greek [plur=naiades]
a nymph of streams, lakes and rivers
- Naigameya Hindu
a goat-headed god
- Naijok (see Ajok)
- Naikiyas (see Naonhaithya)
- Nail of the North (see Bohinaville)
- nailing
the black magic practice of driving a nail through something such as the footprint or shadow of an enemy to cause him harm
- Naimes (see Namō)
- Nain Norse
the dwarf of death or his realm

Nain Rouge French

[Red Dwarf]
a house spirit, a lutin

nainden *(see Debility)Na'ininen Siberian

[Na'rminen]
a creator-god

Nainuema South American

a creator-god of the Uitoto Indians
He created the world and made it flat by stamping on it, after which he used his own saliva to make all living things.

Nair *(see Nar)Nairamata Buddhist

[Nairatma]
a goddess of knowledge, an aspect of Akshobhya

a sakti of Heruka or Hevajira

She is depicted as having three eyes and five or six arms.

Nairatma *(see Nairamata)Nairyosangha Persian

a fire-god

He is said to have acted as a messenger between the gods and humans.

When Kay Kaus tried to take over the kingdom of heaven, Nairyosangha was about to kill the invader when the unborn spirit of Kay's grandson, Kay Khusraw, pleaded for his grandfather's life and he was spared.

Nais Greek

[Echenais]
a water-nymph
wife of Daphnis
mother of Glaucus by Anthedon,
some say

She married Daphnis on the understanding that he would always be faithful to her. When he broke that promise, she blinded him and refused to help him when he was drowning.

Naisa *(see Naisi)Naise *(see Naisi)Naisi Irish

[Naeise.Naisa.Na(o)ise.Naoisi.Noisiu]
one of the 12 Champions of
the Red Branch
son of Usna and Elva
brother of Ardan and Ainel

He eloped with Deirdre and fled to Scotland. His uncle, Conor, the king of Ulster, who had reared the girl to become his own wife, gave them safe conduct to return but reneged on his promise and Naisi and all the party escorting the couple on their return were killed with the exception of Buino who had betrayed them. Most versions say that Naisi was killed by Eoghan mac Durthacht but some say that he was killed by Maine, a Norse prince. Deirdre later killed herself and the tree that grew over her grave entwined itself with another growing over Naisi's grave and the two could never be separated.

Naitaka North American

a water-serpent in the lore of the Indians of British Columbia

Naja *(see Naga<sup>2</sup>)Najara Australian

an evil spirit of the Aborigines

This spirit lures young boys away from their tribes by whistling.

Naje *(see Naga<sup>2</sup>)Nake-sa-muta *(see Nase)Nakaa Pacific Islands

a creator-god of the Gilbert Islands

Having created humans, he kept men and women apart and they lived as immortals, each sex with a tree in their part of the island. When Nakaa left on a journey, the men disobeyed his injunction and visited the women. The angry god deprived them of their immortality (which is why humans now die) and left, going to the land of the dead where he sits at the entrance and traps the souls of the dead in a net. If a soul can refrain from eating or drinking for three days, Nakaa allows them to return to the land of the living.

Nakada *(see Jata<sup>2</sup>)Nakahi New Zealand

a serpent-god of the 19th c Maori Papahiruhia cult

Nakali South American

a hero in Honduras and Nicaragua

When his wife died, he journeyed to the underworld to find her, crossing a bridge no wider than a single hair. Those who have been mean during their lifetime will fall off into a boiling pot tended by a sikla bird.

Nakatsu Japanese

a goddess

Nakazutsumo Japanese

one of the 3 sea and fish gods known as the Munakata-no-kami

Naked Ascetic *(see Mahavira)Naked Mountain Japanese

a barren mountain that blossomed when Kobo Daishi prayed there

Nakh *(see Nakk)Nakthoreb *(see Nectanebus)Nake-saha-me Japanese

a goddess of streams and marshes

She was born from the tears shed by Izanagi when Isanami died.

Nakinietsi *(see Nakinieiu)Nakinieiu Baltic

[Nakinietsi:male=Nakk]
a female water-spirit in Estonia
They are said to own beautiful cattle which live in water.

Nakiskat North American

in the lore of the Pawnee, one of the 5 houses of the animal spirits, the nahurak

Nakk Baltic

[Nekke.Nik:fem=Nakinieiu=Finnish Nakki]

an Estonian water-spirit

These spirits, which can appear as adult humans or as children or as horses, are the spirits of those who have drowned. The males lure victims by singing, the females, known as Nakinieiu, by sitting near the water combing their long golden hair while singing. Each has a huge mouth which can swallow almost anything.

Nakki Baltic

[=Estonian Nakk]

a Finnish water-spirit

They appear either as large humans, or as half man, half horse. The females, like their Estonian counterparts, have fine cattle living in water.

Naksatras *(see Nakshatras)Nakshatras Hindu

[Naksatras]
a group of 27 star-goddesses daughters of Daksha
consorts of Candra

Nakta-yamari *(see Yamantaka)Nakula<sup>1</sup> Buddhist [Bakula.Vakula:=Chinese No Ch'u-lo.

Pa-ku-la.Pa-no-ka.P'u-chu-lo]
one of the Eighteen Lohan

It was said that he became young again when he became a Buddhist at the age of 120.

He is depicted with a rosary in his hand or, in some versions, with a mongoose or a three-legged toad.

Nakula<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of the 5 Pandava brothers

son of the Aswins by Madri

twin brother of Sahadeva

husband of Karenumati

These twin boys were born to Madri, second wife of Pandu, when his first wife, Kunti, handed her the gift of producing a child by prayer to a god.

Nakulisha *(see Lakulisha)Nakwube African

a supreme god in Kenya

Nal Norse

a name for Laufeia as 'pine needle', a reference to her thin body

Nal-gab

a good demon

Despite being described as a good demon, this being is said to teach witchcraft.

Nala<sup>1</sup> Hindu

husband of Damayanti

father of Indrasena and Indraseni

In a story in The Mahabharata, Nala was chosen by King Bhima as a husband for his daughter, Damayanti, who managed to identify him from a group of gods who had taken identical form. The demon Kali caused him to gamble away his kingdom to his brother Pushkara and he left his wife.

A snake gave him a disguise in which he appeared as a deformed man and also a cloak which would restore him to his proper shape. When he got the job as charioteer to King Rituparna who was a lucky gambler, he exchanged his skill with the chariot for the king's luck which he then used to win a new fortune. He was found by Parnada, a counsellor to Damayanti's father, King Bhima, and, using the magic cloak to restore his former shape, he was reunited with Damayanti.

Nala<sup>2</sup> Hindu

in some stories, the monkey-king,

Sugriva

In some versions, Nala is a monkey-engineer who built Adam's Bridge, linking Ceylon with India, by floating stones into position. Over this bridge Sugriva led Rama's forces to attack Ravana's castle.

(see also Sugriva)

Nalagiri Buddhist

an elephant

Devadatta and Ajatasatru made this elephant drunk and turned it loose, hoping that it would kill the Buddha as it rampaged through the streets. Instead, the beast prostrated itself in front of the Buddha.

Nala's Bridge (see Adam's Bridge)

Nali Norse

one of the dwarfs

naljor-pa Tibetan

ascetics who, it is said, acquire magic powers

Nama Siberian

god of the underworld

He, like Noah, built an ark in which he, his family and some animals survived the world flood.

Namasangiti Buddhist

a god personifying a sacred text

a form of Avalokiteshvara

Namazu Japanese

a primaevial fish

This fish lived under the earth and caused earthquakes when it moved.

Nambalisita African

the first man, in the lore of the

Ambo people

He was born from an egg and grew up to be a fine warrior.

Proclaiming that he had created himself, he upset his real creator, the god Kalunga, and the two met in combat. The god prevailed and locked Nambalisita in a sealed room but the prisoner invoked the aid of animals who helped him to escape.

Nambi African

in the lore of Uganda, the first woman

daughter of Gulu

sister of Kaizuku and Walumbe wife of Kintu

When she left the sky for earth with Kintu, Walumbe (Death) followed. Kaizuku tried to kill him, to save mankind from death, but failed.

Nambo-Nansi West Indian

a Haitian voodoo spirit derived from

Anansi, the West African spider-god

Nambroth (see Frimost)

Nambubi African

wife of Manema Mairwa

mother of Mukasa

Nami (see Namo)

Namita East Indian

a primaevial goddess in Papua

She impregnated herself with one of her big toes and produced twins.

When she died, her blood gave rise to the progenitors of the tribes.

Nammu Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess of the primaevial waters

mother of An and Ki

mother of Enki and Enlil, some say

She is said to have made humans from clay. In some versions, the same as Abzu, the sweet waters.

Some versions say that she generated An and Ki, others that she was An's consort.

Namo European

[Naimes (de Baviere).Nami.Naymes]

a duke of Bavaria

adviser to Charlemagne

He acted as mentor to many of the younger members of the emperor's court, including Ogier.

He was placed in charge of Angelica when she came to seek the help of Charlemagne to separate Rinaldo and Roland who were fighting over her.

Namora East Indian

the first woman, in the lore of

New Guinea

mother of Maruka Akore

She is said to have emerged from Lake Eihovu. She produced a son, Maruka Akore, after swallowing a fish, and mated with him to produce the tribes of New Guinea.

Namorodo Australian

demons of the Aborigines

They are envisaged as being made of skin and bone with long talons, flying by night and killing all those they encounter.

Nampo Kundari Yasha
(see Gundari-myoo)

Namru Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk referring to his brilliance and power

Namtar Mesopotamian

[Namtaru:=Babylonian Irra]

the Sumerian plague-god

husband of Husbishag

He was an attendant on Ereshkigal in the underworld. When the gods invited Ereshkigal to send an emissary to collect her share of a feast they had arranged, Namtar was sent. All the gods greeted him except Nergal. Ereshkigal took offence at this slight and summoned Nergal to her presence.

Namtaru (see Namtar)

Namtillaku Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'god of life'

Namu Siberian

the man who survived the flood

He was given advance warning by Ulgan and built an ark in which he survived.

Namuci Hindu

a name of the monster otherwise known as Vritra (see also Mara)

Namugereka African

a name of Katonda as 'apportioner'

Namuginga African

a name of Katonda as 'shaper'

Nan-chi Hsien-weng
(see Shou Shen)

Nan-chi Fu Jen (see Hua Lin)

Nan-chi Lao Jen (see Shou Shen)

Nan Dapue (see Lugeilan)

Nan Hua Ching Chinese

the collected works of the philosopher

Chuang-tzu

Nan-lha Tibetan

[Nag-lha]

a household god

This deity, with a head like a pig, occupies different parts of the house at different seasons of the year. If he should be guarding the entrance, no bride or groom or corpse can enter or leave until he has been propitiated.

Nan-Sgrub Tibetan

a Lamaist god of death

Nan-t'i-mi-to-lo Chinese

the Chinese version of Nandimitra

Nana<sup>1</sup> African

the earth-goddess of the Yoruba

wife of Obaluwaye

mother of Omulu (see also Nanan)

Nana<sup>2</sup> Armenian

a mother-goddess

Nana<sup>3</sup> Mesopotamian

[Anna-Nin]

a Sumerian mother-goddess

wife of Nabu, some say daughter of Sangarius

sister of Tammuz, some say

mother of Attis

When Agdistis was castrated, an almond tree grew from the spot where his genitals fell. Nana picked some of its fruit and, as a result either of eating it or dropping it into her lap, became pregnant and bore Attis.

(see also Nanaï)

Nana<sup>4</sup> (see Inanna.Nanna<sup>2</sup>)

Nana Buluku African

[Nana Buruku]

the creator in the lore of the Fon

This deity was an androgynous being who begot Mawu-Lisa.

Nana Buruku (see Nana Buluku)

Nana Mirian African

wife of Fara Maka

Both her husband and the hunter Karadigi failed to kill the monster hippopotamus, Mali, but she paralysed it with a magic spell.

Nana Nyankopon African

a name of Nyame as 'the great one'

Nanaboojoo (see Nanabozho)

Nanabozho North American

[Great Hare.Nanaboojoo.Nanabush.

Nanibozho]

an alternative name for

Manabozho

In some accounts, he was the first-born of four brothers, one of whom was Wabasso (White Hare or Wolf).

(see also Manabozho.Nhenebush)

Nanabush (see Nanabozho)

Nanacatlzatzti Central American

one of quadruplets

son of Hueytonanzin

brother of Hueytecatl, Ixcuin and

Tentemic

Nanahuatl (see Nanautzin)

Nanai Mesopotamian

the chief Babylonian goddess

In some accounts she is identified with Nana. (see also Nanaja)

Nanaja Mesopotamian

a Babylonian fertility-goddess

and war-goddess (see also Nanai)

Nanak Sikh

[Guru Nanak.Nanak Chand]

(1469-1538)

the founder of Sikhism

first of 10 gurus

It is said that all the gods of the Hindu pantheon appeared at his birth which was accompanied by celestial music.

He was later carried up to heaven by angels to receive instruction from god and returned to earth to preach his doctrines.

He appears as a wonder-worker in Sikh lore.

Nanak Chand (see Nanak)

Nanakusa Japanese

[Festival of Seven Grasses]

a ceremony, held on January 7th, at which a bowl of rice and herbs is said to ward off disease

Nanan South American

an earth-goddess

A version of Nana imported into Brazil with the slaves from Africa.

Nanautzin (see Nanautzin)

Nanautzin Central American

[Nanhuatl.Nanautzin.Poor Leper]

an Aztec creator-god, ruler of the Fifth Sun

son of Quetzalcoatl

He was originally the god of skin diseases and is said to have burnt himself to death on a sacred fire (or was thrown there by his father) and his heart became the sun, Nahui Ollin.

In some accounts he is equated with Xolotl or Xipetotec.

Nancomala South American

a culture-hero of the Guayami Indians

He met the water-maiden Rutbe when the Flood receded and they mated to produce twins, who became the ancestors of the tribe.

Nanda<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[=Tibetan Dgah-bo]

one of the girls who gave food

to the Buddha when he broke his

fast

Another account says that Nanda and Upananda, both nagas, provided water for bathing the newly-born Buddha.

(see also Nandabala)

Nanda<sup>2</sup> Hindu

a cowherd

husband of Yasoda

Their daughter was exchanged for

Shiva to save him from the hands of Kansa who was killing all new-born boys.

In some accounts he is the same as Nagaraja, a human to the waist, and a serpent below.

Nanda<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a forest of Indra

Nanda<sup>4</sup> (see Ananda<sup>1</sup>)

Nandabala Buddhist

one of the girls who gave food

to the Buddha when he broke his

fast

(see also Nanda<sup>1</sup>)

Nandaka Hindu

the sword of Vishnu

Nandana (see Svarga)

Nandaryu Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

Nandi Hindu

['happy'.Mamdi.Nandin.Nandis(h)a]

the white bull sacred to Shiva

offspring of the cow Surabhi

The symbol of Nandi is the crescent moon worn by Shiva on his forehead.

Nandi Bear African

[Chemosit]

a monster in the form of a man-eating bear

In some accounts, this being is described as half man, half bird, with only one leg and a mouth that glows in the dark.

Nandi-Keshvara East Indian

a name for Shiva in Java

Nandimitra Buddhist

[Subhinda:=Chinese Nan-t'i-mi-to-lo.

Su-p'in-t'e.Su-p'in-t'o]

one of the Eighteen Lohan

He is depicted with an incense burner, a begging bowl and holding a book. He was known as 'the sweet one' and was believed to be the last disciple of the Buddha.

Nandin (see Nandi)

Nandini Hindu

a cow of plenty

In some accounts, this was the marvellous animal that was owned by Vashishtha, in others it was equated with Surabhi.

Nandisa (see Nandisha)

Nandisha Hindu

[Nandi.Nandisa]

Shiva as the sacred bull

Nandi personified

Shiva, as Nandisha, once assumed the guise of a dwarf with a monkey-like face. He met the demon Ravana who picked up a mountain to throw it at the dwarf. The latter merely touched it with his toe and crushed Ravana's hands.

Nane Armenian

[Hanea:=Babylonian Nana:=Sumerian Nanai]

a god

son of Aramazd

brother of Anahit and Mihr

In some accounts Nane is female, a war-goddess.

Nane Chaha North American

a mound in Mississippi: ancestors of the tribe

The Choctaw say that this mound is piled over the entrance to the tunnel by means of which their ancestors reached the upper world.

(see also Nane Waiyah)

Nane Waiyah North American

[Nanih Waya]

a sacred mountain of the Choctaws, home of the gods

Nang Lha (see Nan-lha)

Nang-pyek-kha Yek-khi Burmese

an earth-goddess

daughter of the first couple Ta-hsek-khi and Ya-hsek-khi

wife of Khur Hsang L'rong

She was born with the legs and ears of a tigress and her parents made her ruler of the earth and sea and gave her two gourds. When the gourds were split open by Khur Hsang L'rong, all the animals of the world emerged. Khur then married the goddess.

Nanga Pacific Islands

a Polynesian thief

It was said that he could work only if the skies were cloudy.

Nangananga Pacific Islands

a Fijian goddess of punishment

She lives in the underworld, Bulu, and receives the souls of bachelors which she smashes against rocks.

Nangi-Wutr Afghan

a Kafir goddess

wife of Sudrem

mother of Indr and Disani, some say

Nangombe African

son of Amangundu the first man

brother of Kanzi

Nanibozho (see Nanabozho)

Nanih Waya (see Nane Waiyah)

Nanihehecuatli Central American

a name for Quetzalcoatl as 'lord of the four winds'

Nanikahet (see Naonhaithya)

Nanilo (see Gano)

Naniumlap Pacific Islands

the god of fertility in the Carolines

Nankilstlas North American

[=Tlingit Nascakiyet']

a raven-god of the Haida

Nanna<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[As(h)-im-babbar.As(h)imbabbar.

Babbar.En-zu.Enzu.Nannar.Suen.

Zu-en(a).Zuen.Zuin:=Akkadian Acu:

=Assyrian Suin:=Babylonian Sin]

the Sumerian moon-god and god of fertility

son of Enlil and Ninlil

husband of Ningal

father of Inanna, Iskur and Utu

He was born in the underworld to where Enlil had been banished for raping Ninlil.

In some accounts, this deity is regarded as female or bisexual while others say that Sin was the crescent moon, Nanna was the full moon and As-im-babbar was the new moon.

(see also Nannar)

Nanna<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Nana]

a goddess of vegetation

and moon-goddess

one of the Asynjur

daughter of Nip

sister of Summa

wife of Balder

mother of Forseti

At the sight of her dead husband on his funeral pyre, Nanna died of a broken heart and her body was placed alongside his on the pyre.

When Hermod rode to Niflheim to ask for the release of Balder, Nanna sent back with him her magic ring to be given to Fulla and a carpet for Frigga.

Other accounts say that Nanna was the wife of Hoder who fought Balder for her hand.

Nannam (see Eire)

Nannar Mesopotamian

a Babylonian moon-god(dess)

Some say that Nannar is a separate deity, twin sister of Samas, but others regard Nannar as the same as Nanna who, in some accounts, had a bisexual nature.

Nanook North American

[=Inuit Nanue]

a bear

This animal was chased into the sky by the Pleiades, a pack of hunting-dogs, and became the Great Bear. He sometimes comes to earth to assist hunters.

Na'nqa-ka'le Siberian

a guardian-god

son of Quikkinna-qu and Miti

Nanse Mesopotamian

[Nanshe.Nas.Nina]

a Sumerian goddess of floods and justice

consort of Nindara or Haia

Nanshe (see Nanse)

Nansi West Indian

a name for Anancy or Anansi

in Curacao

Nanso-bo Japanese

[Nanzo-bo]

a Buddhist monk

By devotion he became a serpent so that he could live long enough to hear the prophecies of Miroku. He is said to have developed eight additional heads and in this form fought an eight-headed serpent to protect his wife.

Nant y Llew Welsh

a name for Llew Llaw Gyffes

in the form of an eagle

nantena North American

fairies or spirits of the Athapascans

Nanters British

[Nentres]

a Knight of the Round Table

a king of Garlot

husband of Elaine, the half-sister

of King Arthur

In some accounts, his wife's name is given as Blasine, in others as Belisent or Morgan. Some say that he was the father of Galachin by Morgause.

He was one of the rulers who rose against the king but lived and was made a Knight of the Round Table.

Nantes British

in some Continental stories, the site of King Arthur's court

Nantosuelta (see Nantsovelta)

Nantosuleta (see Nantsovelta)

Nantsovelta Celtic

[Nantosuelta.Nantosuleta]

a water-goddess and guardian goddess

in Gaul

consort of Sucellos

Nantur

a demon associated with writing

Nantwa Japanese

clay figures placed in a circle on a grave

Nanu (see Eire.Pisces)

Nanue North American

the Inuit name for Nanook

Nanso-bo (see Nanso-bo)

Naobi Japanese

benevolent spirits

These beings are said to make good the damage done by the evil Magatsumi.

Naollin (see Fifth Sun.Nahui Ollin)

Naoise (see Naisi)

Naosis (see Naisi)

Naosisu (see Naisi)

Naonhathya Persian

[Nanikahet.Naunhas:=Pahlavi Naikiyas]

a demon of discontent opposing Armaiti
In some accounts, this demon is a degenerate form of the Hindu Aswins.

Nao'tsiti North American

[Nautsiti]

a Pueblo creator-goddess

daughter of Utc'tsiti

sister of la'tiku

She and her sister were born and, for many years lived, underground until, instructed by the spirit 'Tsitcinako, they emerged on to the surface and set about creating plants and animals, spirits and gods. Nao'tsiti was impregnated by the rainbow and bore twin boys. She gave one, Tiamuni, to la'tiku and, taking the other with her, moved away to the east. These children were the progenitors of the tribe.

Napa (see Nape)

Napaeae Greek

[Napaiai]

nymphs of the trees and valleys

Napaiai (see Napaeae)

Nape Greek

[Napa]

one of the dogs of Actaeon

When Artemis discovered Actaeon, the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Nape, tore him to pieces.

Napi North American

[Na'pi.'old man']

the creator-god of the Blackfoot Indians
His father had a dream from which he learned to trap animals by hanging a spider's web across the trail. When his mother took a rattlesnake as a lover, his father trapped her in the web and cut off her head. Their two children ran off pursued by the head while the headless body chased their father. The boys escaped when the head fell into the water while the body (or head in some stories), which is the moon, still pursues the father, who is the sun.

His clever brother created the white races and taught them all they needed to know while the simple Napi founded the Blackfoot tribe, creating the first humans from clay and leading them out of the cave Nina Stahu. When the Buffalo-stealer drove off all the buffalo, he turned himself into a dog and drove the herds back to the Blackfoot tribe. He is expected one day to return.

Napir Persian

an Elamite moon-god

Nappatecuhtli Central American

an Aztec god of mat-making

Nappinnai Indian

a Tamil goddess

a consort of Krishna (see also Pinnai)

Naqbu Mesopotamian

a name of Ea as 'god of the deep'

Nar<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Nair]

a woman of the Otherworld

Criomthann Nia Nair lived with her for several weeks and then returned home laden with treasure.

Nar<sup>2</sup> Norse

one of the dwarfs

nar<sup>3</sup> Persian

[nara]

a male demon

Several of these demons are said to have waged war on a series of kings.

Nar<sup>4</sup> (see Finn Eamhna)

Nar<sup>5</sup> (see Rucht)

Nara<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Naraloka:=Tibetan Mi]

one of the 6 gati, the essential conditions or paths of existence

Nara<sup>2</sup> Hindu

the primitive waters

Nara<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a sage

an incarnation of Vishnu

Nara<sup>4</sup>

son of Dharmā

When he and Narayana were attacked by Dambhodbhava, he created a host of deadly missiles from a handful of straw and put the attacking army to flight.

Nara<sup>5</sup> Hindu

the first man, Vishnu's bow-carrier

(see also Arjuna)

nara<sup>6</sup> Hindu

naras were the winged horses which transported Kubera through the heavens

nara<sup>7</sup> Pakistani

the name for a jinnee

nara<sup>8</sup> (see nar<sup>2</sup>)

Nara-raja Hindu

a name for Kubera as 'ruler of men'

Nara-Simha (see Narasinha)

Nara-Sinha (see Narasinha)

Narada Hindu

[Prajapati]

a sage, one of the 10 Rishis

a guardian of women

son of Kasyapa, some say

He was originally a sage who visited the underworld Patala. In some accounts he is regarded as an incarnation of Vishnu while others say that there were at least three Naradas.

Another version says that he quarrelled with Daksha who put a curse on him so that he was born again, this time to one of Daksha's daughters, fathered by Brahma.

In some accounts, he incited Vayu to blow off the top of Mount Meru.

(see Brahma-deva)

Naradatta<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

a nephew of Asita

Naradatta<sup>2</sup> Jain

a goddess of learning

one of the vidyadevis

Naraen Japanese

a guardian deity

one of the 28 Nijuhachi-Bushu

narahs Persian

[=Muslim jinn]

spirits

Narai (see Wisnu)

Naraka<sup>1</sup> Hindu

son of Bhumidevi

Naraka<sup>2</sup> Hindu

one of the Asuras

He took the form of an elephant and carried off some 16,000 women, holding them in a magnificent palace.

Naraka<sup>3</sup> Hindu

[Narakloka:=Tibetan Dmyal-wa]

hell, in many forms, for the torment of the wicked: one of the 6 gati

The seven stages of the Hindu hell are given as Avici, Mahakala, Ambarisha, Raurava, Mahaurava, Kalasutra and Andhatamisra.

Naraka<sup>4</sup> (see Narakasura. Yomi-tsu-kuni)

Naraka-Asura (see Narakasura)

Narakasura Hindu

[Naraka(-Asura)]

a hell-demon

This evil being lived in a fortress called Prag Jyotisha where he kept many thousands of women whom he had raped and the jewels he had stolen. He was killed by Vishnu and, in some accounts, the feast of Deepavali is held in celebration of this event.

Naraloka (see Nara<sup>1</sup>)

Narakloka (see Naraka<sup>2</sup>)

Naram-Sin Mesopotamian

a king of Akkad

When he sacked Nippur, the gods caused the hill-peoples to rise against him and placed a curse on Akkad.

Naranarayana Hindu

a sage

father of Urvashi

The gods, fearful of Naranarayana's increasing powers, sent a nymph to seduce him. The sage not only ignored her but produced an even more beautiful maiden, Urvashi, from his own thigh.

Narashima (see Narasinha)

Narasimha (see Narasinha)

Narasinha Hindu

[Girija.Nara-Simha.Nara-Sinha.

Narasimha.Narashima.N(a)risimha-avatara] the fourth incarnation of Vishnu, as an eight-armed man-lion

In this incarnation he killed the demon Hiranyakashipu.

Narasinhi Hindu

[Candika]

a mother-goddess, goddess of desire

a sakti of Narasinha

one of the astamataras

one of the navasaktis

Narayana<sup>1</sup> Hindu

a sage

a son of Dharmā

When he and Nara were attacked by Dambhodbhava, Nara created a host of deadly missiles from a handful of straw and put the attacking army to flight.

He is depicted as having four hands.

Narayana<sup>2</sup> Hindu

[Hiranya-garbha.Naroyana]

a name of Brahma as 'one who moves the waters' or of Vishnu

Narayana<sup>3</sup> Hindu

a name of Krishna or of Vishnu between creations

Narayana<sup>4</sup> Hindu

the cosmic egg floating on the primordial waters

Narayana<sup>5</sup> Thai

[Phra Narai]

the Thai version of Vishnu

father of Anomatan

Narayana is said to have had ten incarnations which differ somewhat from those attributed to Vishnu in the Indian version. The list includes the fish Matsya, the tortoise Kurma, the boar Varaha, the man-lion Narasinha, Krishna (Kresna) and the mortal Rama.

The dwarf Vamana defeats the demon Tavan instead of the king Bali; Parasurama is replaced by the ascetic Sanyasi; a buffalo and a nymph complete the list which has no entry for Kalki, the incarnation yet to come.

Narayana<sup>6</sup> (see Buddha<sup>1</sup>)

Narberth (see Arberth)

Narbeth (see Arberth)

Narbrooi East Indian

woodland spirits

These beings were said to take the souls of the sick who died unless gifts were offered for their return.

narcissus<sup>1</sup> Greek

a flower of purple and silver

the flower of Demeter

This flower was created by Zeus to hold the attention of Core so that his brother Hades could abduct her as she went to pick it. (see also Narcissus<sup>2</sup>)

Narcissus<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Narkissos]

son of Cephisus and Leiriopē

When Narcissus rejected his love, Ameinius committed suicide and, in punishment, Artemis caused Narcissus to fall in love with his own reflection in a stream. Unable to possess his own image he killed himself with a dagger. The flower that bears his name sprang from the soil that was stained with his blood.

In other versions, he just pined away from unrequited longings or threw himself into the water and drowned.

The voice of Echo, whom he had also rejected, grieved at his side. (see also narcissus<sup>1</sup>)

Narcoriel

a demon

Nare (see Narve)

Nareau<sup>1</sup> Pacific Islands

[Nareau the Elder.Nareu.'spider-lord']

the creator-god of the Gilbert Islands

father of Kobine

He made Na Atibu and Nei Teukez from sand and they mated to produce the gods the youngest of which, a trickster-god, was known as Nareau the Younger.

He also created the first human couple, Debabou and De-ai.

Nareau<sup>2</sup> Pacific Islands

[Nareau the Younger.Nareu.Te Kikinto]

son of Na Atibu and Nei Teukez

Nareau killed his father, using the dead man's eyes to make the moon and the sun. He then planted the spine which became the tree Kai-n-tiku-aba from which people developed.

Nareu (see Nareau)

Narfe (see Narve)

Narfi (see Narve)

Nari<sup>1</sup> Slav

demons said to be the spirits of dead children

Nari<sup>2</sup> (see Narve)

Nari Lugaldimmerankia Mesopotamian

a name of Marduk as 'deliverer'

Nari-kami (see Kaminari)

Nari-mariama Hindu

[Mariana]

a fertility-goddess

Nariel (see Uriel)

Nariman Persian

an aspect of Keresapa, in some accounts

Narisah Persian

a Manichaean goddess of light

In some versions, this deity is male and father of the so-called 'virgins of light'.

Narkissos (see Narcissus)

Narmada Hindu

[Induja.Makala.Reva]

the river Nerubuddo personified daughter of the Nagas or of Mekala

wife of Purukutsa

She and her husband defeated the Gandharvas in an underwater battle.

This is a very sacred river and even the Ganges (in the form of a black cow) comes to bathe in it every year.

Na'rninen (see Na'ininen)

Naro-mka-spyod-ma

(see Narokhachoma)

Narokhachoma Buddhist

[Naro-mka-spyod-ma:=Tibetan

Sarvabuddhadakini]

a sea-goddess

one of the Dakinis

Naropa Tibetan

a magician, tutor of Mar-pa: one of the Mahasiddhas

Naroyana (see Narayana)

Narpus British

an ancestor of Galahad

father of Nascien

Narru (see Enlil)

Nartaka (see Ogopogo)

Naru-kami (see Kaminari)

Narucnici European

[Orisnici.Udelnicy.Uresici.Urisniti:

=Croat Rodjenica:=Russian Rozanica]

spirits of fate, the departed spirits of dead mothers

Narunte Mesopotamian

an Assyrian goddess of victory

Narve Norse

[Nar(f)e.Nar(f)i] son of Loki and Sigyn

brother of Vali

When the gods finally banished Loki and bound him in a cave, the bonds they used were the entrails of Narve who had been torn to pieces by his brother Vali in the form of a wolf. These entrails then turned to iron.

Another version says that the entrails used were those of Vali who was torn to pieces by Narvi as a wolf.

Narwoje East Indian

a cloud-spirit in Papua
This being is said to abduct young children.

Nas (see Boi<sup>1</sup>.Nanse)

Nasatya Hindu

one of the 2 Aswins
twin brother of Dasra
father of Nakula by Madri
In some accounts the twins were born from their mother's nose.

Nascakiyetl North American

[=Haida Nankilotlas]
a creator-god of the Tlingit
He lived in the primordial darkness by the sacred river Nass, guarding the stars.

In some versions, he created the sages Heron and Yetl, but others say that Yetl was born to Nascakiyetl's daughter.

Nascien<sup>1</sup> British

[Nacien.Nacren.Nasciens.Nasien]
an ancestor of Galahad
father of Celidoine
brother-in-law of Joseph of Arimathea
A Saracen, originally called Seraph, who changed his name to Nascien when he was baptised as a Christian. He approached too close to the Holy Grail and was blinded but was cured by the blood which dripped from the Holy Lance. He came upon Solomon's ship and went aboard. There he found the Sword of David which broke when he picked it up since he was unworthy. Its repair became one of the objects of the Grail Quest. In some accounts, it was repaired by Evelake, in others by Galahad. He later came to Britain and, it was said, became king of Scotland. (see also Nascien<sup>2</sup>.Partinal)

Nascien<sup>2</sup> British

[Nacien.Nacren.Nascien the Hermit. Nasciens.Nasien]
a hermit
grandson of Nascien (Seraph)
son of Narpus
father of Eian

He received the white shield with the red cross drawn in the blood of Josephus (in some accounts, Joseph) at the death of its owner, Evelake, to hold in trust for Galahad. He foretold that Arthur would achieve great fame in the quest for the Holy Grail and warned the knights not to take their ladies on the quest.

In some accounts, Nascien the Hermit is a separate character from the son of Narpus. Other versions say that all three are the original Nascien living on through the generations.

Nascien the Hermit (see Nascien<sup>2</sup>)

Nasciens (see Nascien)

Nase Japanese

husband of Aze
This couple were so devoted to each other that, threatened with being separated, they both became pine trees.

Nashak Persian

a primaevial being consort of Siyamak
mother of Fravak and Fravakain

Nasien (see Nascien)

Nailele African

wife of Nyame

Naskeper-ava (see Neskeper-ava)

Nasnas Arabian

a spirit
These jinn-like beings had only one arm and leg and half a head or a head on the chest. Some had wings like bats. They were the product of the union of similar beings known as Shiqq with human beings.

In the guise of a weak old man, such a demon will ask a human to carry him across a river and then drown him.

Naso (see Ovid)

Nasr Arabian

[Nasur]
an early vulture-god

Nass North American

a sacred river of the Tlingit, home of Nascakiyetl

Naste Estsan North American

[Naachjeii esdzaa.Nasteetsan. Spider Woman]
an underworld spirit of the Navaho

She gave a feather to Nayenezgani and Tobadzistini which would protect them from danger on their journey to see their father, the sun-god Tsohanoai. (see also Hahai

Wugti.Spider Woman)

Nasteetsan (see Naste Estsan)

Nastrond Norse

[Naastrand]
hell: a part of Niflheim

This was the place to which the spirits of criminals were sent before being eaten by the serpent Nidhogg.

It was also the place to which the evil gods who died at Ragnarok were sent.

Nasu Persian

a female demon
This demon was said to cause the corruption of corpses. Others describe Nasu as a fly which crawls over rotting corpses.

Nasu-no Japanese

a death stone
The fox-witch, Tamano-no-maye, used this stone as a hiding place when pursued. Any person who touched the stone died at once.

Nasur (see Nasr)

nat<sup>1</sup> Burmese

[kaluk:=Thai thi:=Pakistani neq]
a supernatural being

A nat may be a nature-spirit such as a spirit of the air, earth, forest, etc., a spirit of the dead, or some other supernatural being. All need to be appeased. Some may be harmful, causing death and disease but others act as guardians, either of the individual or of his property or even of groups such as a tribe or village. (see also la)

Nat<sup>2</sup> (see Nott)

nat-kadau Burmese

mediums officiating at the festivals dedicated to the nats

nat-thami Burmese

a group of female nats
The function of this group is to guard the umbrellas of the royal family.

nat-than Burmese

spirit-songs
These songs or chants are used at the festivals dedicated to individual nats.

Nata Central American

[Tata]
an Aztec culture-hero husband of Nena

He and Nena were saved from the flood when Tezcatlipoca (or Titlacahuan, some say) warned them of its coming and told them to build a boat.

Another version says that they made a hole in a tree and survived by hiding in it. However, they had been told to eat only one ear of maize and, when they ignored this injunction and ate a fish as well, they were both turned into dogs.

Natalis (see Juno)

Natalon British

a king of Syria in Arthurian lore

Nataraja Hindu

[Nritta-murti.Lord of the Dance]
Shiva as king of dancers

In this form, Shiva is depicted inside a ring of flames with one foot resting on a dwarf. (see also Natesha)

Natchrantal Irish

a champion warrior of Connaught
Some say he found the Brown Bull and brought it to the Connaught forces; others say this was Buic.

He fought Cuchulainn in single combat during the Cattle Raid of Cooley and was killed.

Natesa (see Natesha)

Natesha Hindu

[Lord of the Dance.Natesa]
a name for Shiva as 'dancer'

In this form, Shiva is depicted with his left leg raised. (see also Nataraja)

Nath (see Neith)

Nath I (see Daithi)

Natha Buddhist

a god worshipped in Sri Lanka an aspect of Avalokiteshvara consort of Tara

Nathaliodus British

an army commander under Uther

Nathuram Indian

a seducer

When he was killed for seducing women in the north-west, his ghost still troubled women, who tried to appease him by obscene gestures and song.

Nathurama Hindu

a demon destroyed by Krishna

Natigai (see Olukan)

Natos North American

the sun-god of the Blackfoot husband of Kokomikeis father of Apisuahts

natsin Burmese

a shrine dedicated to a nat

Natt Norse

a giantess

Nattaputta, Nigantha (see Mahavira)

natural magic

wonder-working by using knowledge of the forces of nature

nature-god

[nature-spirit]

a god personifying some physical object or natural force

In some accounts, they are equated with the elementals.

nature-myth

a story using the symbolism of
natural phenomena

nature-spirit (see nature-god)

Nau Egyptian

a frog-headed deity

Nau Rooz (see Now Ruz)

Naubandhana Hindu

the place on Mount Himavat where Manu's boat came to rest after the flood

Naubolus Greek

son of Phocus and Antiope, some say father of Ipitus

Nauhollin Central American

an Aztec ceremony of sacrifice to the sun-god

Twice a year, in March and December, a captive was dressed in red and white striped clothing and was given a staff and shield to pass on to the sun-god and then sacrificed on the stone known as the Quauhxicalli.

Naunhas (see Naonhaithya)

Naunet Egyptian

[Nit.Nunet.Nut]

a goddess of the primitive waters
consort of Nun

She represents, with Nun, the depth of the waters.

She is sometimes depicted as having the head of a snake, sometimes as a baboon.

Naupiadame Greek

daughter of Amphodamus mother of Augeas by Helios

Nauplios (see Nauplius)

Nauplius<sup>1</sup> Greek

[Nauplios.'seafarer']

a king of Nauplia

son of Poseidon by Amynone

In some accounts, he was an ancestor of Nauplius the Argonaut, in others
they are the same person.

Nauplius<sup>2</sup> Greek

[Nauplios.'seafarer']

a king of Nauplia

one of the Argonauts

son of Clytioneus (see also Nauplius<sup>3</sup>)

Nauplius<sup>3</sup> Greek

[Nauplios.'seafarer']

a king of Euboea

husband of Clymene or Hesione

father of Oeax, Nausimedon
and Palamedes

When Catreus tried to get rid of his four children to frustrate a prophecy that one of them would kill him, he charged Nauplius with selling two of his daughters into slavery. Instead, Nauplius gave one, Aerope, to Atreus (or, in some versions, Pleisthenes) and married the other, Clymene, himself, although some give his wife as Hesione.

When his son, Palamedes was killed at Troy, he demanded satisfaction from the Greeks, who refused. In his bitterness, he lit false beacons which lured the ships returning from Troy to destruction. Some say that he died in the same way.

In another story, he was entrusted with the sale of Auge and gave her to Teuthras who married her.

In some accounts, he was the same as Nauplius, the Argonaut.

Nauroz (see Navasard)

Nausamon Greek

son of Amphithemis and Tritonis brother of Caphaurus

Nausicaa Greek

[Nausikaa.'ship-burner']

daughter of Alcinous and Arete

She found Odysseus when he was shipwrecked and alone. Her parents provided him with another ship in which to continue his journey home.

In some accounts, she married
Telemachus and bore a son, Perseptolis, though others say that the wife of Telemachus was Circe or Polycaste.

Nausikaa (see Nausicaa)

Nausimedon Greek

son of Nauplius and Clymene or Hesione

brother of Oeax and Palamedes

Nausineus Greek

son of Odysseus by Calypso, some say brother of Nausithous

Nausithous Greek

a king of Phaeacia

son of Odysseus by Calypso,

some say

brother of Nausineus

father of Alcinous and Rhexenor

Naut (see Nut<sup>1</sup>)

Nautia (see Minerva)

Nautsiti (see Nao'tsiti)

Navadurgas Hindu

9 forms of Durga

Navagvas Hindu

seers who helped Indra to recover
the cloud-cattle stolen by Ahi

Navaratri Hindu

[Durga-puja.Festival of Nine Nights.

Homage to Durga.Navaratra]

a festival in honour of Durga or Kali or celebrating the banishment of evil by Shera Wali Matha, held towards the end of September

(see also Dasara)

navasaktis Hindu

a group of virgin goddesses the 9 mataras

Navasard Armenian

[Nauroz]

the New Year festival presided over by Aramazd

Navel of the Earth (see Tlalzicco)

navi (see navky)

Navigatio Brendani Irish

[Navigation of St Brendan]

the 11th c story, in Latin, of the voyages of Brendan

Navigation of St Brendan

(see Navigatio Brendani)

Navigator (see Barinthus)

Navius Roman

a prophet
when challenged by Tarquinius Priscus,
he cut a whetstone in half with a razor.

navky Slav

[majky.mavje.navi.nejky.novjaci] one of a group of spirits
These beings are regarded as the souls of children who died before being baptised.

They could lure people into water where they drowned or they could attack women in childbirth. They developed into water-nymphs.

Nawang Wulan East Indian

a Javanese moon-goddess wife of Kyai Agung
mother of Roro Nawang
When she flew down to earth, in the form of a swan, to bathe, Kyai Agung stole her feather coat so that she was forced to remain on earth. She married Kyai Agung and bore a daughter before she found her feather coat and flew back into the heavens.

Nawezi African

daughter of Nkuba and Chinawezi sister and wife of Konde

Nawng Hkeo Burmese

a lake
This lake was formed when Hkun Hsang L'rong cut open the gourds owned by Nang-pyek-kha Yek-khi and water poured out. It was the home of Ta-hsek-khi and Ya-hsek-khi in their tadpole form. The lake became a sacred sea.

Nawtiyalas Mesopotamian

a Hittite deity

Naxos Greek

the island on which Theseus abandoned Ariadne

Nayaki Hindu

one of the 8 demonesses attendant on Durga

Naye Nezyani (see Nayenezgani)Nayenezgani North American

[Monster Slayer.Nagenatzani.
Naye Nezyani:=Paiute Shinob]
the Navaho war-god and god of light
one of the Yeibechi
son of Tsohanoai and Estanatlehi
twin brother of Tobadzistini, some say He and his brother, Tobadzistini, were given feathers by the spider-woman Naste Estsan, to protect them from all dangers when they travelled to the house of their father, the sun-god, Tsohanoai. He accepted that they were his sons only after testing them with spikes, scalding water and poison. He then gave them weapons such as lightning with which to rid the land of monsters.

They first killed the giant, Yeitso, and then the monster Teelget. They also killed the enormous beasts, with talons like the eagle, known as the Tsenahale, and plucked their feathers.
One of these birds had carried Nayenezgani to his nest on a high cliff aznd, after killing the bird, the young hero found himself stranded. He was rescued by Bat Woman who carried him down from the cliff in a basket on her back. He gave her the eagles' feathers as a reward but they all turned into small singing birds.

Other adventures involved the killing of a huge bear, the rock-spirit Tsenagahi, and the people who were alleged to be able to kill with looks,
known as the Binaye Ahani.

(see also Monster Slayer<sup>1</sup>)

Naymes (see Namu)Naymlap South American

a hero of the Mochica of Peru husband of Cetrni

He is said to have arrived by sea with his retinue and built the temple, Chot, in which was placed a carved figure of Naymlap. After a long reign, he disappeared into the heavens.

Nazi Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god
husband of Ninsar

He was one of the eight gods born to Ninhursaga to cure the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten
the eight plants produced by Uttu.

Nazir Egyptian

a winged serpent-goddess of the Nile delta

Nchienge African

[Woman of the Waters] in the lore of the Bakuba, the first woman
mother of Labama and Woto

Ndagijimana African

a name of Imana as 'protector'

Ndaula<sup>1</sup> African

son of Simbu and Nyina Mweru He accidentally killed the king, his grandfather.

Ndaula<sup>2</sup> African

a plague-god of the Banyoro people

Ndauthina Pacific Islands

a serpent, sea-god and fire-god of Fiji

He is regarded as the guardian of fishermen but he is otherwise a malicious trickster.

Ndema African

in the lore of the Igbo, evil spirits of ancestors

Ndengi Pacific Islands

[Ndengi]
a snake-god, the creator-god of Fiji
father of Rokomautu

He lives in a cave in the mountains and causes earthquakes when he changes his position.

He laid two eggs out of which hatched a boy and a girl who became the progenitors of the human race.

Ndengi (see Ndengi)Ndjambi African

a sky-god of the Herero people

ndogbojusui African evil spirits of the Mende, appearing as old men

ndoki<sup>1</sup> African

[=Bantu nganga]
a Bakongo sorcerer

If the soul of a ndoki enters a child at birth, that child will become a sorcerer.
Such a soul can leave the body at will and assume any shape.

Ndoki<sup>2</sup> (see Likundu)Ndorombwike African

a supreme god of the Ngonde

Ndosimau African

in one version of the Bakongo creation story, the first man, made by Nzambi

(see also Mahungu)

ndozi African

a Shaba sorcerer

Ndriananahary African

a supreme god of Malagasy
father of Ataokoloinona

He sent his son to earth to see if it was fit for men to live in. The son burrowed into the earth to escape the intense heat and has never been seen since.

Nduli Mtwaa-roho African

the Swahili angel of death
This being collects leaves falling from the Cedar of the End and claims those whose names are written thereon.

Ndundu African

[Ngwa]
an old woman in charge of the Kimpasi ritual

Ndwanga African

a python-woman
wife of Mukasa

ne Japanese

a sign (nat) of the Zodiac

Ne-a-go North American

[Fawn.Neago]
a Seneca sky-god in the form of a fawn which causes the south wind (see also Ga-oh)

- Ne-esthan (see Nehushtan)
Ne-iri-gal (see Nergal)
Ne-kilst-luss North American
 a creator-god of the tribes of the north-west
 He is said to have got the moon and sun from the supreme god, Settin-ki-jash, by deception to bring light to the human race.
- Ne-no-kuni Japanese
 a name for Yomi-tsu-kuni as ‘the land of roots’
- Ne-nokata-tsu-kuni
 (see Yomi-tsu-kuni)
- Ne Te-reere (see Nei te-Reere)
- Neabaz
 a demon said to take possession of humans
- Neago (see Ne-a-go)
- Neaera<sup>1</sup> Greek
 daughter of Perseus niece and wife of Aleus
 mother of Amphidamus, Auge, Cepheus and Lycurgus
- Neaera<sup>2</sup> Greek
 a nymph
 consort of Helius
 mother of the Heliades, some say
- Neachtan (see Nechtan)
- Neak Ta Cambodian
 a protective spirit of towns and villages
- Neamhain (see Nemain)
- Neara mac Niadhain (see Nera)
- Neas (see Nessa)
- Neasa (see Nessa)
- Neb-er-djei Egyptian
 a name of Atum as ‘lord of the world’
- Neb-hut (see Nephthys)
- Neb-ta-djeser Egyptian
 a name of Anubis as ‘ruler of the sacred lands’
- Nebak
 a demon
- Nebek
 a monster in the form of a hairy tyger
- Nebelkappe (see Tarnkappe)
- Nebet Hotep (see Nebethetpet)
- Nebethetpet Egyptian
 [Nebet Hotep]
 a primaevaal sun-goddess
 a consort of Atum (see also Nephthys)
- Nebetum Egyptian
 [Nebetum]
 a local field-goddess
- Nebhet (see Nephthys)
- Nebiru (see Nibiru)
- Nebo (see Nabu)
- nebris Greek
 the fawn-skin worn by Bacchus and his followers
- Nebrophonus<sup>1</sup> Greek
 one of the dogs of Actaeon
 When Artemis discovered Actaeon,
 the hunter, spying on her as she bathed, she turned him into a stag. His hounds, including Nebrophonus, tore him to pieces.
- Nebrophonus<sup>2</sup> (see Thoas<sup>3</sup>)
- Nebt-hot (see Nephthys)
- Nebthet (see Nephthys)
- Nebtum (see Nebetu)
- Nebty (see Two Ladies)
- Necessitas Roman
 [=Greek Ananke]
 a goddess of destiny
- Nechbet (see Nekhbet)
- Nechmetawaj (see Nehmetaway)
- nechombo African
 a priest of Korekore
- Nechta Scene (see Nechtan Scene)
- Nechtain (see Nechtan)
- Nechtan<sup>1</sup> Irish
 [Nechtan.Nechtain]
 a water-god
 a name for Nuada
 In some accounts he was the husband of Boann and owned the magic well known as the Well of Segais.
- Nechtan<sup>2</sup> Irish
 [Nechtan.Nechtain]
 a sailor with Bran
 In the story of Bran’s voyage, it was Nechtan who became homesick and crumbled to dust when he set foot on the shores of Ireland.
- Nechtan Scene Irish [Nea(c)htan Sceine.Nechta Scene]
 a woman from the Otherworld mother of Fannell, Foill and Tuachell
- Neckar (see Stromkarls)
- Necker (see Stromkarls)
- Necks (see Stromkarls)
- necromancer
 a sorcerer
- necromancy
 [necyomancy.liewiglunga.
 nigromancy.sciomancy]
 the black art: divination by observing the symptoms of the dying or invoking the spirits of the dead or from bones
 Some distinguish between necromancy, which involves a reanimated body, and sciomancy, in which the spirits of the dead (shades) are invoked.
 (see also black magic)
- necromanteion
 a place where necromancy was practised
- Necropolis Egyptian
 the realm of the dead in the west
- Nectanebo II (see Nectanebus)
- Nectanebus Irish [Nakhthorheb.Nectanebo II]
 [360-343 bc]
 an Egyptian pharaoh and magician son of Tjahepimu
 father of Scota
 He was the last of the native Egyptian rulers.
 In some stories he was the father of Alexander the Great.
 He was forced to flee from Egypt and went to Macedonia where he set himself up as an astrologer. When the queen, Olympias, consulted him about a possible heir, the wily Egyptian foretold that she would bear a son to Zeus Ammon. This turned out to be true but Zeus Ammon was Nectanebus dressed as a dragon. He died when Alexander, the son of this union, pushed him into a pit.
 In Irish stories, Nectanebus was the father of Scota.
- nectar
 the drink of the gods which conferred beauty and immortality
- necyomancy (see necromancy)
- Nedamik South American
 a culture-hero of the Chaco tribes in the form of a water-bird
- Nede (see Neidhe)
- Nediyon Indian
 a Tamil creator-god
- Nedu Mesopotamian
 [=Sumerian Neti]
 an Akkadian god of the underworld
- needfire
 fire caused by friction
 Some say that this fire will cure ailments caused by sorcery, especially diseases of cattle.
- Neegyauks North American
 [Volcano Woman:=Haida Dzelarhons]
 a frog-spirit of the Tlingit
- Neepec South American
 a mischievous spirit of the Chaco tribes
 When Cotaa created a wonderful tree which would provide food and drink for the tribes, Neepec poured a jugful of tears over it so that its fruit thereafter tasted salty.
- Nef (see Nip)
- Nef de Joie British [Ship of Joy]
 a ship made by Merlin
- Nef-er-tem (see Neferetm)
- Nefherho Egyptian
 an early god
 son of Thoth and Nehmetaway

Neferhotep Egyptian
a moon-god at Thebes

Nefertem Egyptian
[Iphthemis.Itum.Nefer-tem.Nefertum.

Nepthemis.'perfection'.Tum]
a creator-god and god of the lotus a form of Ra as the setting sun
son of Ptah and Sakhmet

Some say he was the son of Bastet or Wadjet or that he was a manifestation of Ra-Atum whose tears became men.

He is sometimes depicted with a lion's head.

Nefertum (see Nefertem)
nefesh Hebrew

part of the soul
This part of the soul, the vitalising part, is said to remain with the body at death. (see also ruach)

Nefyed Nav Nevion Welsh
[Nevyd]

the ship built by Dwyvan and Dwyvach
in which they escaped the Flood

Other accounts say he was the builder of the ship, others equate him with Nemed.

Nefyn Welsh

daughter of Brychan
wife of Cynfarch
mother of Urien

Negagfok North American
an Inuit spirit of cold weather

Nego Mesopotamian
a Babylonian god

Negun Mesopotamian
[Lisin]
a Sumerian goddess
sister of Asai

Neh-erh Kuo Chinese a mythical land where the inhabitants have very long ears and bodies that are covered in stripes

Nehalennia (see Nehallenia)

Nehallenia Norse [Nehalennia]
a goddess of plenty, guardian of sailors

Nehan Buddhist
the Japanese version of nirvana

Nehebkau Egyptian
[Nehebu-Kau]
a snake-god

He was originally human but developed the head (or two heads) of a snake and the tail of a scorpion when he ate parts of Apep, a crime for which he was banished to the underworld where he guards the king of that realm.

In some accounts, this deity was regarded as female, depicted as a human-headed snake or flying serpent,

and sometimes equated with Ma.

Nehebu-Kau (see Nehebkau)
Nehes Egyptian

a god of wakefulness
He travelled every night in Ra's boat.

Nehmetaway Egyptian
[Nehmetawaj.Nemetaway:

=Greek Dikaiosyne]
consort of Thoth, in some accounts
mother of Neferhor

Nehushtan Hebrew
[Ne-esthan]

a brass serpent used as an idol

Nei Auti Pacific Islands
a goddess

She is said to have introduced insect pests into the world.

Nei Marena Pacific Islands
a goddess of the Gilbert Islands

daughter of Na Atibu and Nei Teukez

Nei Nguiriki Pacific Islands
an ancestor of the Gilbert Islanders wife of Bakoa

mother of Taburimai and Teanoi

Nei Te-reere Pacific Islands
[Ne Te-reere]

a tree-goddess of the Gilbert Islands wife of Te Ariki-n-Tarawa

mother of Kirata-n-te-rerei

Nei Teuke (see Nei Teukez)
Nei Teukez Pacific Islands

[Nei Teuke]
mother of the gods of the Gilbert Islands

wife of Na Atibu mother of Na Kika, Nareau

the Younger, Nei Mareno, Riiki, Te Ikawai and Te Nao

Nei Tituabine Pacific Islands
[Neititua Abine]

a goddess of vegetation of the Gilbert Islands

wife of Auriaria, a giant chieftain

When she died, the coconut tree grew from her head, the almond from her navel and the pandanus from her heels.

Neidhe mac Adhna Irish [Nede mac Adhna.Nede mac Adnai]

a poet
son of Adhna

He was poet of the Red Branch and contested the office of chief poet of Ireland with Fer Cherdne but lost.

He satirised his uncle, Caier, king of Connaught, raising blisters in the king's face which caused him to abdicate. Neidhe took the throne but, when he went some time later to hand it back to Caier, his uncle died and Neidhe was killed by a piece of the flagstone on which his uncle had been standing.

Neikea (see Neikos)
Neikos Greek

[Neikea]
a deity, strife personified

son of Eris
He was opposed to Philotes, a version of Ares versus Aphrodite.

neimed (see nemeton)
Neimhead (see Nemed)

Neimheadh (see Nemed)
Neimheadh mac Sraibhghind Irish

husband of Sarait

Sarait was first married to Conaire mac Mogha Lamha but he was killed by Neimheadh who married his widow.
Conaire's three sons, all named Cairbre, helped by their uncle, Art, attacked Munster and Neimheadh was killed by Cairbre Musc, one of the sons.

Neimheid (see Nemed)
Neimheidh (see Nemed)

Neis Greek
daughter of Zethus and Aedon or Thebe

sister of Itylus

wife of Endymion, some say

Neit<sup>1</sup> Irish [Net:=Gaulish Neton]

a king of the Danaans consort of Nemain

grandfather or husband of Badb or Morrigan

He was killed fighting the Fomoiré at the second Battle of Moytura.

In some accounts he is the same as Nuada.

Neit<sup>2</sup> (see Neith)
Neith Egyptian

[African.Great Goddess.Mother of the Gods.Nath.Neit.Net.Nit.Tehenut:

=Greek Athena.Lamia]
the cow-goddess, goddess of war and hunting

guardian of the dead

mother of Sebek
Originally a snake-goddess in Libya,

she was adopted into the Egyptian pantheon.

Some say she emerged from the primitive waters, others that she was the daughter of Ra. Some say she was the mother of Sobek, some that she was the mother of Ra, others that she created Apep when she spat into the primitive waters.

In some versions she was the consort of Knum, in others of Seth.
She was said, by some, to have created the world by weaving it.

In some accounts, she is the same as Mehet-Weret.

Neititua Abine (see Nei Tituabine)
nejky (see navky)

Nekedzaltara North American Athapaskan gods or spirits acting as servants of Tena-ranide

Nekhebet (see Nekhbet)

Nekhbet Egyptian

[Great Mother.Nekhbet.Nekhebet.
 Nekhibet.=Greek Ilythia]
 the vulture-headed mother-goddess of Upper Egypt
 guardian of the pharaoh daughter and wife of Ra sister of Wadjet
 the consort of Hapy or Khenti-Amentiu

(see also Mut)

Nekhen (see Nekmet Awai)

Nekhibet (see Nekhbet)

Nekke (see Nakk)

Nekmet Awai Egyptian

[Nekhen]
 a goddess of justice

She was later merged with Hathor.

Nekumonta North American

an Iroquois brave

Most of his tribe had been wiped out by plague and his own wife, Shanewis, was on the point of death. He went in search of herbs to cure her and found none but heard a voice telling him to release the healing waters under the earth. He dug until his strength ran out and released the underground stream, the water from which made him strong again. He carried some of the water back to his wife and saved her life.

Nekusia Greek

a festival, honouring the dead, held in Athens

Nekyomanteion Greek

an oracle of the dead

Nel (see Niall)

nelago African

a woman used as an intermediary
 by Kalunga

nelaikis Baltic

a Lithuanian spirit

This dangerous spirit is that of a victim of murder, one who drowned or one who committed suicide.

Nelapa

an angel of the second heaven
 associated with the south

neles Central American

[=Nicaragua okuli sukya] a shaman in Panama

Neleus Greek

king of Pylas
 son of Poseidon by Tyro

twin brother of Pelias husband of Chloris

father of Alastor, Chromius, Nestor, Periclymenus, etc.

father of Pero

He and Pelias were abandoned as babies when their mother married Cretheus but were found and reared by a horse-herder. They killed Sidero, Tyro's stepmother (or, some say, second wife of Cretheus) who had been very cruel to her step-daughter.

He was driven from Iolcus by Pelias and fled to Pylas where he became king. Neleus and all his twelve sons, except Nestor, were killed by Heracles for helping Augeas when Heracles attacked Elis. Some say that he survived this battle and later defeated the Elians.

Nelle parjam Siberian

[Nellese]

the Cheremis festival of the dead, celebrated for each individual 40 days after burial

(see also toste-mari)

Nellese (see Nelle parjam)

nelumbo Egyptian

the sacred lotus

Nemain Irish

[Ana.'frenzy'.Neman.Ne(a)mhain.Nemon.
 =Gaulish Nemetona]

a war-goddess, an aspect of Morrigan
 daughter of Ernmas

wife or granddaughter of Neit

In some accounts she is one of the trio – Badb, Macha and Nemain – represented by the single war-goddess, Morrigan. In the Cattle Raid of Cooley, she caused panic and killed soldiers by her shrieking.

Neman (see Nemain)

Nemausicae Roman

3 Celtic mother-goddesses of Nimes

Nemda Asian

a god or spirit said to appear in time of war to lead the people

Nemea Greek

wife of Lycurgus

mother of Opheltes

Nemean games Greek

games held at five-yearly intervals

This event was held to commemorate either Opheltes the infant son of Lycurgus and Nemea who was killed by snake-bite or the early life and deeds of Heracles whose first Labour was to kill the Nemean lion.

In some accounts, the games were held every two years rather than every five years.

Nemean lion Greek

[Cleonaean lion]

a lion killed by Heracles as his first Labour

offspring of Typhon and Echidna

Some say that this beast was formed from sea-foam by Selene.

Heracles strangled the lion with his bare hands since its skin resisted all weapons and wore the skin as armour and the head as a kind of helmet.
 Others say that this was the skin of the Cithaeronian Lion.

Nemed<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Neimhead(h).Neimheid(h).Nemhedh]

leader of an invading force son of Agnoman

husband of Macha

father of Anind, Artur and Fergus

Leathdearg

father of Britan, some say

He was the leader of the third invasion of Ireland in which only he and four women (and, in some stories, four men) survived disease, starvation and ship-wreck to reach Ireland. He was one of the 3,000 Nemedians who died when they were struck by plague.

nemed<sup>2</sup> Celtic

[firnemed.neimhead(h).neimheid(h).

nemeid.nemeton]

a sacred grove

Nemedians Irish

early invaders of Ireland

Their leader was Nemed, a relative of Partholan. His invading fleet of thirty-two ships was wrecked and only five (or nine) people survived. They settled in Ireland and bred, defeating the Fomoiré in three battles, but later almost all the Nemedians died from plague.

After this, the remaining few were tyrannised by the Fomoiré who demanded two-thirds of all their children, produce and goods. Smol, the king of Greece, sent an army to their aid and together they defeated the Fomoiré, killing their king, Conall mac Febar, and looting his castle.
 When the Greek army withdrew, the Nemedians were again attacked by Morc, another Fomoiré leader. Most of the Fomoiré were killed and only thirty Nemedians survived. They split Ireland into three parts, each ruled by a grandson of Nemed, but this arrangement soon broke down; one grandson went to Britain, the other two to Greece where the descendants of one of them later returned to Ireland as the Fir Bolg and, later still, the descendants of Beothach also returned as the Danaans.

nemeid (see nemed<sup>2</sup>)

Nemesis Greek

[Adrastea.Leda.Rhamnusia:=Phrygian Ida]
a goddess of destiny and retribution daughter of Erebus or Oceanus and Nyx

Nemesis was pursued by Zeus, both frequently changing form, until Zeus, as a swan, fertilised Nemesis as a goose. The resulting egg was found by Leda and hatched to produce Helen of Troy. The alternative version involved Leda directly with Zeus.

She is depicted as carrying a bough of an apple tree and a wheel or, in other versions, scales or a whip and bridle, or axe. Her chariot is drawn by griffins.

Nemetaway (see Nehmetaway)

nemeton (see nemetona)

nemetona<sup>1</sup> Celtic

[sing=nemeton]
sacred groves: shrines: sanctuaries (see also nemed<sup>2</sup>)

Nemetona<sup>2</sup> Roman

[=Irish Nemain]
a Celtic deity
in Britain, a goddess of groves
in Gaul, a war-god(dess)

Nemglan Irish

[Nemhglan]
a bird god, king of the birds

He appeared to Mess Buachalla in the form of a handsome Danaan youth and seduced her. Their son, Canary Mor, was raised by her husband, Eterskel, as his own son.

When the flight of birds that Canary was following turned into soldiers, the leader, Nemglan, protected Canary from the others and told him his destiny as king and the obligations he must fulfil to become high-king.

Nemhain (see Nemain)

Nemhedh (see Nemed)

Nemhglan (see Nemglan)

Nemi wood Roman

a sacred grove

In the fertility rite symbolising death and resurrection, the old king-priest was killed in this grove by his young successor.

Neminatha Jain

the twenty-second tirthankara

Nemissa North American

a maiden, one of the Star-folk She lured the mortal, Cloud-carrier, to her home in the sky and married him. When he longed to return to his own people, she allowed him to return on condition that he did not marry again. He soon forgot this promise and married a girl of his own tribe but she died four days later. When he married another maiden, Nemissa recalled him and he was never seen again.

Nemon (see Nemain)

nemontemi Central American

5 unlucky days at the end of the Mayan calendar year

Such was the baleful quality of this period, governed by the demon Uayayab, that no work was done.

Nemoralia Roman

[Grove Festival]
a festival in honour of Diana, celebrated on August 13th

Nemquetcha South American

[Nemterequeteba.Sugumonxe.Sugunsua]
a culture-hero of the Chibcha Indians husband of Chia, some say

He appeared out of the east and traversed the country preaching chastity and right living and teaching the arts of painting and weaving. Having established a cult of priesthood, he disappeared.

In some accounts, he is equated with Bochica. Some say that he changed his wife into an owl or the moon.

He is depicted as an old man with long hair and beard.

(see also Chimizipagua)

Nemterequeteba (see Nemquetcha)

Nemu East Indian

creator-gods of the Kai people
These demi-gods invented agriculture and caused the sun, which previously shone all day, to go down at night so that they could get some sleep. They turned into stone or animals when they died and were finally destroyed in the Flood.

Nemur (see Mnevis)

Nena Central American

[Nina]
an Aztec culture-heroine wife of Nata

She and her husband Nata were saved from the flood when Tezcatlipoca (or Titlalahuan, some say) warned them of its coming and told them to build a boat.

Another version says that they made a hole in a tree and survived by hiding in it. However, they had been told to eat only one ear of maize and, when they ignored this injunction and ate a fish as well, they were both turned into dogs.

Nenabo North American

a trickster-deity of the tribes of New England

He is said to have brought beans and maize to the people and to have instructed them in the art of hunting.

Nenaunu African

a Masai storm-demon

Nende African

a war-god of the Baganda
son of Mukasa

brother of Kirabira and Mirimu

Ne'nenkicex Siberian

a creator-god of the Kamchadal people

Nenia Greek

a goddess of the dying

Nennius<sup>1</sup> British

a 9th c monk

His Historia Britonum, a mixture of legend and historical fact, gives much detail about King Arthur which has been used as the basis of many later writings.

Nennius<sup>2</sup> British

[=Welsh Nyniaw]
son of Belinus
brother of Lud and Cassivellaunus

When the Romans invaded Britain, Nennius was said to have met Caesar in single combat and captured his sword but was killed soon afterwards and buried with the sword alongside him in the grave.

Nenokatatsu (see Yomi-tsu-kuni)

Nentres (see Nanteres)

Nenun Egyptian

a falcon-headed god of Kus

He is equated with Horus in some accounts.

nenuphas

elementals, spirits of the air, some say

Neol Welsh

father of Ellylw

Neoptolemos (see Neoptolemus)

Neoptolemus Greek

[Neoptolemos.'young warrior'] son of Achilles.

The name given to Pyrrhus when he went to fight at Troy after the death of his father, Achilles. (see also Pyrrhus)

Nepele Australian

[Nepelle]

a name for the god Baime used by the Aborigines of the Murray River basin

brother-in-law of Ngurunderi Ngurunderi speared a pondi (cod)
which swam off but was speared again

by Nepele. They then cut the fish into small pieces and threw them, one at a time, into a lake, naming each as they did so. In this way, all the species of fish were created.

Nepelle (see Nepele)

nepenthe Greek

a pain-killing drug given to Helen of Troy by Polydamia

Neper Egyptian

a god of agriculture
son of Renenutet

A female version of this deity is known as Nepit.

Nephelae Greek

['clouds'] daughters of Uranus

Nephalion Greek

son of Minos

Nephele<sup>1</sup> Greek

['cloud']

Nephele<sup>2</sup>

a likeness of Hera made from cloud-material

When Ixion tried to rape Hera, Zeus foiled the attempt by making Nephele whom Ixion took as a wife. She bore Certanmnus to Ixion and later married Athamas bearing Helle, Leucon and Phrixus.

Nephele<sup>2</sup> Greek

a nymph attendant on Artemis

Nephelegeretes Greek

a name of Zeus as 'cloud-gatherer'

Nephilim Hebrew

a race of semi-divine giants

They were said to be the offspring of fallen angels or gods by mortal women.

Nepthemis (see Nefertem)

Nepthys Egyptian

[Lady of the Mansion.Neb-hut.Nebt-hot. Neb(t)het. Nepta.Watch Merti]

guardian, with Isis, of the coffin of the dead

daughter of Geb and Nut, or Ra and Nut sister of Isis, Osiris and Set, some say wife of Set mother of Anubis by Osiris

She tricked Osiris into fathering Anubis since she had no children by Set and then hid the child in the reeds to save him from her husband. When Set killed Osiris she left him.

She and Isis, sometimes said to be the mother of Anubis, were known as the Weeping Sisters from their wailing at the death of Osiris; some say that they were the same. Their tears are said to have caused the Nile to flood.

(see also Nebethetpet)

Nepit (see Neper)

Nepokwa'i North American

[=Hopi Kokopelli]
a Tewa fertility-deity
one of the kachinas

Nepret (see Renenutet)

Nepri Egyptian

a god of grain

Nepte (see Nephthys)

Neptunalia Roman

a festival in honour of Neptune, June 23rd

Neptune Roman

[Neptunus:=Etruscan Nethuns:=Greek Poseidon]

a sea-god, one of the Olympians

son of Saturn and Ops

brother of Jupiter and Pluto

husband of Salacia

Originally a god of irrigation and horse-racing, Neptune is generally depicted as bearded and holding a trident and may be riding a dolphin or a horse.

Neptunus (see Neptune)

Neptunus Equester (see Consus)

neq Pakistani

[=Burmese nat:=Thai thi]
a spirit of the dead

Ner (see Aer<sup>1</sup>)

Nera Irish

[Nera mac Niadhain]

a servant of Ailill, king of Connaught

He found a corpse on the gallows that said it was thirsty so he gave it a drink.

When he found that some of his friends had been killed by the fairies from a local sidhe, he followed the attackers into the sidhe where he married a woman of the Otherworld. He escaped with her and their child to warn Ailill of a planned attack by the people of the sidhe but, when Ailill destroyed the sidhe, Nera was trapped inside.

Some say that Ailill was killed and the sidhe destroyed by Fergus mac Roth.

In one story, a cow in his wife's herd produced a bull calf, sired by the Brown Bull of Cooley, Donn Cuailnge, which fought Maev's bull, Whitehorn, and was killed. This gave Maev the idea of matching Whitehorn with the Brown Bull, an idea which led to the famous Cattle Raid of Cooley and the war with Ulster which followed.

Neraida Greek

daughter of Alexander the Great a name given to Cale when she became immortal

Nereid Greek

one of the 50 (or 3,000) sea-nymphs attendant on Poseidon daughters of Nereus and Doris

Nereja British

an emissary of Amene

When Roaz attacked Amene's realm, she sent Nereja to King Arthur's court to ask for his help.

Nereus Greek

[Old Man of the Sea.'wet']

a sea-god

son of Pontus or Uranus and Gaea husband of Doris

father of the Nereids, including

Amphitrite, Galatea and Thetis

He was a shape-changing god who had a great struggle with Heracles before he would divulge the location of the garden of the Hesperides.

In some accounts he is identified with Glaucus, Phorcus or Proteus.

He is depicted with seaweed in place of hair.

Nergal<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Alad.Bull of Heaven.Erakal.Erra.Irra.

Ishar.Mes Lam T'aea.Meslam(t)aea.

Ne-iri-gal.Nerigal.Qaru:=Sumerian

Lugal-Irra:=Greek Ares:=Roman Mars]

a Babylonian war-god, god of death, fire and the underworld son of Enlil and Nininsinna or Ninlil

son of Inanna, some say

husband of Allatu, Ereshkigal or Laz

He was born in the underworld when Ninlil followed Enlil who had been banished to that place for raping her.

When Nergal was exiled to the underworld, or summoned there by Ereshkigal for having failed to speak to Namtar, her attendant, who had been invited to collect her share of a feast laid on by the gods, he threatened to kill her. She saved herself only by sharing power with him.

In some accounts, he raped her on the first occasion and forced her to share power with him when the god An ordered him back to the underworld.

In another version, Nergal consented to marry Ereshkigal only because she threatened to desolate the world if he refused.

In the form of the Bull of Heaven he was killed by Gilgamesh and Enkidu.

Nergal is sometimes identified with Irra. He is depicted with the body of a lion, holding a sword and a decapitated head.

(see also Enmesarra.Girunugal. Gugulanna.Lugal-Meslam)

Nergal<sup>2</sup>

[Nergel]

a demon acting as a spy

In black magic, one of the Ministers, head of the Secret Service.

Nergel (see Nergal<sup>2</sup>)Nerig (see Ninib)Nerigal (see Nergal)Nerio Roman

['strength']

a war-goddess

In some stories she is the sister or wife of Mars and equated with Bellona.

Some have Nerio in place of Minerva in the story of Anna Perenna's deception of Mars.

Neriosang Persian

an ancient messenger-god

Nero British

brother of Royns

When Royns was captured by Balin and Balor, with the aid of Merlin, and handed over to King Arthur, Nero prepared his forces to rescue him. Arthur took to the field, killing Nero and defeating his army.

Nerovens British

a Knight of the Round Table

Nerrivik Inuit

[Great Goddess:=Alaskan Sedna]

a name for Sedna in Greenland

Nerthus<sup>1</sup> German

[Aerth.Earth.Mother.Hertha.Mother

Earth:=Norse Frigga:=Roman Tellus]

a fertility-goddess

A local name for Holda, she was identified with Frigga in Germany but regarded as a separate deity in the Norse pantheon. (see also Nerthus<sup>2</sup>)Nerthus<sup>2</sup> Norse

[Hertha.Hlodyn.Hlothyn:=German

Hludana]

an earth-goddess

In some accounts, she was the first wife of Niord who later married Skadi. One or other of these wives produced Frey and Freya. Others suggest that she was the sister of Niord or that she became Niord. In some accounts, she is Frigga. (see also Nerthus<sup>1</sup>)Nerudee Persian

a demon of the Austatikco-

Pauligaur

Nerveless One, The (see Papaztac)Nes (see Nessa)Nesaru North American

[=Dakota Wakonda]

a creator-god of the Arikara

Lucky Man and Wolf Man suddenly appeared when the whole world was covered by water and ordered the ducks to bring up earth from the bottom. Lucky Man made the hills and valleys while Wolf Man made the prairies. They then dug up two spiders who brought forth all the various animals and a race of giants. Nebaru did not much care for the giants so he introduced maize which the animals planted in the earth. The seed of the maize became a new race of people underground. He then sent a flood which drowned all the giants and then created Corn Mother and sent her to the underworld to lead into the upper world the new people who lived there. These people repopulated the earth.

neshemah Hebrew

part of the soul

This part of the soul, which confers holiness, is said to go to heaven at death. (see also ruach)

neshret Egyptian

the bark of Osiris

Neske-pas (see Neskeper-ava)Neskeper-ava Siberian

[Muks-ort.Naskeper-ava.Neske-pas]

a bee-deity

Nesreca Siberian

an evil genius, the converse of Soreca

Ness (see Nessa)Nessa Irish

[Assa.Neas(a).Nes(s).Niassa]

daughter of Eochaid Salbuidhe wife of Fachtna, king of Ulster mother of Conor

It was said that her son, Conor, was fathered by Cathbad the druid or by a drop of magic water intended for Cathbad.

When Fachtna died, she married his half-brother, Fergus, on condition that he allowed Conor to hold the throne for a year. At the end of that time, Conor refused to give up the throne and Fergus was sent into exile.

Nesshoue African

a river-god in Benin

Nessie (see Loch Ness Monster)Nessus Greek

a Centaur

When acting as ferryman on the river Evenus, he tried to rape Deianeira, the wife of Heracles who shot him from the far side of the river. He told Deianeira to mix his spilt semen and blood with olive oil and save it as a love-potion in case she should ever need such a thing, indirectly bringing about the death of Heracles.

Nestor<sup>1</sup> British

brother of Ban

father of Bleoberis

Nestor<sup>2</sup> British

son of Bleoberis

Nestor<sup>3</sup> Greek

king of Pylos

son of Neleus and Chloris

husband of Anaxibia or Eurydice father of Antilochus, Pisistratus,

Polycaste and Thrasymedes

He was made king of Pylos by Heracles after he had sacked the city and killed the other sons of Neleus.

In some accounts, he was one of the Argonauts and a member of the party hunting the Calydonian Boar. In a raid, he killed Mulius and Itymoneus, capturing many horses and cattle and fifty chariots. On another occasion, he killed Ereuthalion in single combat.

He was known for his eloquence and wisdom and tried to mediate when Achilles quarrelled with Agamemnon at Troy.

Nesu<sup>1</sup> African

a god of the Fon

His function is to uphold royalty and protect tribal chieftains.

Nesu<sup>2</sup> (see Lil)Nesu-we African

a temple dedicated to Nesu

Net<sup>1</sup> Irish

a Fomoire god of war grandfather of Balor

father of Dot

Net<sup>2</sup> (see Neit.Neith)Nete Greek

['bottom']

an alternative name for one of the Muses when they were said to be only 3 in number

Neten (see Gnas-brtan)Neter Egyptian

a name for god: the creative principle

Nether World

the underworld: the land of the dead

Nethuns Italian

[=Roman Neptune]

an Etruscan water-god

Neti Mesopotamian

[=Akkadian Nedu]

a Sumerian god of the underworld

He acts as gatekeeper and servant of Ereskigal. He admitted the goddess Inanna to each of the seven realms of the underworld.

Neto (see Neton)Neton European

[Neto:=Irish Neit]

a Gaulish war-god in Spain

- Netor British
in Arthurian legends, a king of Bulgaria
- netun French
an early name for a lutin
- Neued Welsh
daughter of Cyfwlch and Drwgddyddwg
- Neuf Preux (see Nine Worthies)
- Neure (see Neures.werewolf)
- Neures European
Sarmatians who, it was said, once a year changed into wolves as they crossed a swamp (see also werewolf)
- Nevi Yanan Pacific Islands
an Indonesian sea-god
- Nevyd (see Nefyed)
- New Troy British
[Ternova.Tri-Novantum.Troia Nova. Troynovant]
the name given to the capital built by the supposed Trojan invaders, later London
- Newt
[Eut.Ewt]
a demon
- nexiuhpilitztl Central American
a period of 52 years (4 xiumalpilli) in the Aztec calendar
- Nexroth
a demon said to take possession of humans
- Nextepehua Central American
an evil spirit in the lore of the Aztecs
This fiend was one of the many hazards faced by the souls of the dead in their journey through the various layers of the underworld. It was said to take the form of a ghost which scattered clouds of ashes in the path of the soul.
- Nezahualcoyotl Central American [Fasting Coyote]
a legendary prince of Tezcuco
father of Nezahualpilli
He was captured and thrown into prison when the Tecpanecs conquered his country and killed his father but escaped with the help of the prison governor who was then killed for allowing him to escape. The prince sheltered in the Aztec court and later returned to his home city. The next ruler of the Tecpanecs was Maxtla who rejected the prince's homage and, having failed in several attempts to kill him, invaded Tezcuco. Once again the prince escaped and lived the life of a fugitive, helped by the peasants. Eventually the people rebelled against the despotic rule of Maxtla and
- Nezahualcoyotl led them in a battle in which Maxtla was defeated and killed.
- Nezahualcoyotl then took his rightful place on the throne and ruled wisely and well for many years. When his eldest son had an affair with one of the king's wives, he was tried and executed with his father's approval.
- Nezahualpilli<sup>1</sup> Central American
king of Tezcuco
son of Nezahualcoyotl
husband of Chachiuhnenetzin
When he discovered that his wife had been unfaithful with many others he staged a large public trial at which the queen was condemned. She, and several thousand of her helpers, were garrotted.
- Nezahualpilli<sup>2</sup> Central American
a name for Tezcatlipoca as The Hungry Chief
- Nga Atua Pacific Islands
the sixth heaven in the lore of the Polynesians
- Nga-hlut Piwe Burmese
a Buddhist festival of purification
- Ngaan African
a creator-god of the Bakuba
He quarrelled with his companion god, Mbomba, who then took over the heavens and earth, leaving Ngaa in charge of the seas.
- Ngabal Pacific Islands
[Racit Ngabal]
an Indonesian guardian-god
This deity is said to live in a fig tree.
- Ngai<sup>1</sup> African
a supreme deity of the Masai
- Ngai<sup>2</sup> (see En-Kai)
- Ngala African
[‘god’]
the Bambara name for Pemba
- Ngabalabal Australian
mother of Daramulum by Baime
- Ngalbjud Australian [Nialyod]
a name for the Rainbow Snake (see Yurlungur)
- ngama African
a witch-doctor in the Congo
- Ngamu African [Loo Seng]
a mask used in the rites of secret societies
- Nganamba African
king of Jerra
father of Gassire
- Nganaoa New Zealand
a Maori hero
son of Tairi
He killed a number of sea-monsters

and, when he cut open the stomach of one of them, found his parents who had long been missing.

Ngandjala-Ngandjala Australian
trickster-gods of the Aborigines

It is said that these beings who destroy growing foodstuffs and generally cause trouble, can sometimes be seen in the clouds.

nganga<sup>1</sup> African

[=Bakongo ndoki.=Swahili mganga: =Tanzanian mgonzi]

Bantu witch-doctors who can capture night-flying spirits

Nganga<sup>2</sup> New Zealand
a Maori god of sleet

Ngani-Vatu Pacific Islands

[Nguti-Lei.=Arab Roc: =Maori Poua-Kai]

a huge, man-eating bird in the lore of Fiji

Ngarara<sup>1</sup> Australian
an Aboriginal monster in the form of a huge lizard (see also Ngarara<sup>2</sup>)

Ngarara<sup>2</sup> Australian
[Karara-Huara.Ngarara Huarau]

a minor deity or, some say, a demon

Some accounts describe this being as a beautiful woman with a tail, others as a form of mermaid. Some say she is a lizard-woman.

In the form of a woman with a tail, she tried to seduce Ruru who had called at her island in search of water but, with the help of her servants Kiore Ta and Kiore Ti, Ruru got away. He then built a hut containing a model of himself and set fire to the building. Ngarara, who had coiled herself round the statue, was lucky to escape with the loss of her long tail.

(see also Ngarara<sup>1</sup>)

Ngarara-Huarau (see Ngarara<sup>2</sup>)

Ngariman Australian
the cat-man of the Aborigines

He got into a dispute with the Bagadjimbiri brothers and, with his followers, speared them to death. The earth goddess, Dilga, drowned the killers with a flood of milk from her breasts and restored the two giants to life.

ngaro Pacific Islands
food for the dead in the lore of the Polynesians

Ngaru Pacific Islands [‘surf’]

a culture-hero of the Mangaian Islanders grandson of Moko
husband of Tongatea

He was originally black and hairless but, when his wife left him, he bleached his body white and Tangaroa gave him hair. After this, his wife came back to him.

He overcame the sky-demon Amaite-Rangi and the sea-monster Tumu-I-Te-Are-Toka and when Miru tried to burn him to death in the underworld he caused a flood which extinguished the fires.

He is credited with the invention of the surf-board and is said to have taught the tribes ball-games which he learned from the spirits when he climbed up to the sky.

Ngawn-wa Mogam Burmese

son of Hkrip Hkrawp and Sik Sawp
He shaped the world with a hammer and made it fit for human beings.

Ngeketo African

a god of the Ngonde
brother of Lyambilo and Mbase

His brothers killed him, jealous of the fact that he had introduced maize to his people. When he reappeared in the form of a snake, they cut him into pieces and, when these pieces joined up again, they cut him up once more. He revived yet again and went away.

ngelmu East Indian

magic

ngelmu gadungan East Indian

the power to assume the form of a tiger

Ngewo African

[Leve.Ngewowa]

the creator-god and sky-god of the Mende

He moved up to a house in the sky to be free of the never-ending requests of mankind.

Ngewowa (see Ngewo)

Ngi African

the gorilla
son of Zamba

brother of Nkokn, Otkut and Wo
Zamba allowed his four sons to make human beings and Ngi made the strong.

Ngo African

a caterpillar, a form of the Bushman god, Kaang

Ngolimeno African

in the lore of the Ewe, a spirit
This is the spirit to which unborn children must pay a visit to determine their fortune.

Ngoma African

in the lore of the Kikuyu, the spirit of the individual which becomes a ghost when that person dies

Ngoyama Burmese

devils
These beings are envisaged as somewhat like humans but with tails. They are said to eat real humans.

Ngulaki African

[Nguloki]
spirits of the Kakwa people of Sudan

Nguleso African

a supreme god of the Kakwa people of Sudan

Ngunloki (see Ngulaki)

nguneme African

a charm in Dahomey
This is a specific type of gbo used to protect property. The sacred leaf, akuko, or a bunch of such leaves, may be left in the house or next to a particular object to be protected.

The result of violating this protection may be dire – for men, impotence; for women barrenness; for children, death.

nguno-wo (see ngunuwo)

ngunuwo African

[nguno-wo]
protective gods of the Hua people

Ngunza Kilundu (see Ngunzu)

Ngunzu African

[Ngunza Kilundu]
a culture-hero of the Mbundu people brother of Maka

When his brother died, Ngunzu trapped Kalungangombe, the king of the underworld, who gave him the seeds of plants to grow for food but later killed Ngunzu and turned him into a water-spirit.

Ngurai Pacific Islands

[Qurai]
a Fijian god

Ngurunderi Australian

[Nurrundere.Nurunderi]
a name for the god Baime used by the Aborigines of the Murray River basin brother-in-law of Nepele

He speared a pondi (cod) which swam away but it was again speared by Nepele. They cut the fish into small pieces and threw them, one by one, into a lake, naming each piece as they did so. In this way, all the species of fish were created.

He chased after his wives when they deserted him and, having drowned them by calling up a great storm, placed his canoe in the heavens as the Milky Way and then ascended to heaven.

Ngurvilu South American

a Chilean water-god
This deity was envisaged as a wild cat with a claw on the end of its tail.

Ngutu-Lei (see Ngani-Vatu)

Nguyen-hu'u-do Burmese

a viceroy who was deified as a god of wisdom

Nguyen-quan (see Huyen-thien)

Ngwa (see Ndundu)

Ngworekara African

a god of death

nhang Armenian

a malevolent spirit sometimes seen in the form of a mermaid or seal

Nhenebush North American

a trickster-god of the Ojibwa

(see also Nanabozho)

Nhialio African

a supreme god of the Dinka

Ni<sup>1</sup> East Indian

a moon-goddess in New Guinea sister of Hana

She mated with her brother to produce the human race and then they retreated to the sky where she became the moon and Hana became the sun.

Ni<sup>2</sup> South American

a sea-god of the Chimu Indians

Ni-o Japanese

2 warlike kings who guard temple gates

Nia Irish

son of Lughna
brother of Lugaid

He was step-brother to Cormac mac Airt and was killed when Eochu Gunnat temporarily deposed Cormac.

Nia Corb Irish

son of Cu Chorb
brother of Cairbre, Cluitheachair, Cormac Lusc and Meas Corb

Nia Seaghamain Irish

son of Adhamain and Flidhais

Nia-Tsu-Hi-No-Kami Japanese

a Shinto fire-god

Nial (see Niall)

Niall Irish

[Nel.Nial Niamhghlonnach.Niall Naoi-Ghiallach.Nial Noig(h)iallach]

a high-king of Ireland
son of Eochaid Muigl and Carenn father of Cairbre, Conall Gulban and Eoghan

step-brother of Ailill, Brian, Fergus and Fiachra

He was abandoned by his stepmother Mongfhinn but saved and reared by the bard Torna Eices. It was foretold by the smith, Sithchenn, that he would become the high-king. Only he would kiss an ugly old woman who demanded a kiss and she turned into the lovely Flaitheas, the embodiment of sovereignty.

When his poet, Laidcheann, refused hospitality to Eochu, a prince of Leinster, Eochu burnt his house to the ground. Niall invaded Leinster and took Eochu hostage, later sending him in exile to Scotland. When Niall visited that country, the vengeful Eochu shot and killed him. In other versions, he was killed by Eochu's arrow in the Alps or in the Channel Islands on one of his many expeditions of conquest.

Niall Caille Irish

[Nel.Nial]

a high-king of Ireland

He quarrelled with Feidlimidh, king of Munster, and defeated him at the Battle of Carman.

Niall Condail (see Niall Frasach)

Niall Frasach Irish

[Nel.Nial.Niall Condail]

a high-king of Ireland

son of Fergal mac Maolduin

brother of Aodh Allan

It is said that, when a famine occurred, he prayed and the famine was lifted with showers of food and silver falling from heaven.

Nialyod (see Ngalbiod)

Niam<sup>1</sup> Irish

[Deorgreine.Niamh (of the Head of Gold).Niamh Chinn Oir.Niav Cinn-

Oir]

daughter of Manannan wife of Oisín

mother of Plur na mBan

In some stories, she is the girl who came on a white horse and carried Oisín back to her home in Tir na n-Og (or Tir Tainigiri in some versions) where they married and lived together for 300 years.

Niam<sup>2</sup> Irish

[Niamh.Niav]

daughter of Celtchair wife of Conganchas and

Cormac Cond Longes

Her husband could be killed only by one who knew his secret. Niam discovered it and told her father who then killed Conganchas. Niam then married Cormac Cond Longes, son of Conór mac Nessa. (see also Niam<sup>3</sup>)

Niam<sup>3</sup> Irish

[Niamh.Niav]

wife of Conall Cearnach,

in some accounts

She became Cuchulainn's mistress in his later years.

In some versions, she is the same as Niam, daughter of Celtchair.

Niamh (see Niam)

Niamye African

a creator-god of the Ivory Coast

Niang Niang Chinese

goddess of T'ai Shan

(see also T'ai Shan)

Niassa (see Nessa)

Niav (see Niam)

Nibbana (see Nirvana)

Nibelheim (see Alfheim)

Nibelung Norse

[Niebelung]

king of the dwarfs

brother of Schilbung

He quarrelled with his brother over sharing their father's estate.

Some accounts say that he authorised Siegfried to divide his treasure between his three sons. Siegfried killed both Nibelung and his brother.

Nibelungen Norse

[Black Elves.Ni(e)b(e)l(ung)s.

Niflungar.Niflungs]

supernatural dwarfs, followers of Siegfried

This name was later given to the Burgundians as guardians of the Nibelung treasure.

In the Wagnerian cycle of operas, they are all the Germanic tribes.

(see also Lios-alfar)

Nibelungenlied, The German

[German Iliad.Lay of the Niblungs:

=Norse Thidrek Saga]

a 13th c epic poem from the Eddas, the basis for Wagner's cycle of operas

Nibhaz Hebrew

a god of darkness envisaged in the form of a dog

Nibiru Mesopotamian

[Nebiru]

the Babylonian ruler of the heavens:

the planet Jupiter

Niblungs (see Nibelungen)

Nicahtagah Central American

a Mayan deity, guardian of Iq'

Balam's people

Nice (see Nike)

niceras (see nok)

Nichant North American

an Algonquian god who destroyed the world by fire and flood

Nicholas

patron saint of children, Russia and sailors

He is said to be the prototype for Santa Claus (Father Christmas). In real life, he was a 4th c bishop, born in Lydia, who gave all his inherited wealth to the poor. During a famine, he persuaded sailors bound for Alexandria, to give him their cargoes of grain yet, when they arrived in Egypt their holds were still full.

His festival is held on December 8th.

Nicippe Greek

a priestess at the grove of Demeter at Dotrium daughter of Pelops and Hippodamia wife of Sthenelus

mother of Eurystheus

Nickard German

a water-monster

This being was said to steal a child from its bed, leaving a monster in its place. The mother could save her child only if she whipped the monster.

Nickel (see Stromkarl)

Nicker (see Stromkarl)

Nickneven Scottish

a spirit in the form of an old hag

Nicodemus British

a Pharisee who helped to bury Jesus

In Arthurian lore, his body was brought to Britain and kept there until it was transferred to the Grail Castle. It was later returned to the Holy Land in the ship that carried Percival and his companions on the voyage to return the Holy Grail.

Nicomachus Greek

a physician

son of Machaon and Anticleia

brother of Alexanor and Gorgasus

Niophoros Greek

a name for Zeus as bringer

of victory

Nicor<sup>1</sup> British

an ancient water-god

father of the nixes

(see also Stromkarl)

Nicor<sup>2</sup> (see Stromkarl)

Nicoran British

a knight

He was one of the 100 knights fighting for Lisuarte against 100 knights of the Irish king, Cildadan.

Nicostrate (see Carmenta)

Nicostrates Greek

son of Menelaus by Helen or a nymph After his father died, he drove Helen from Sparta.

Nicothoe (see Harpies)

Nictymene (see Nyctymene)

Nida Norse

the site of the heavenly hall

reserved for dwarfs

Nidaba Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess of music and writing

a corn-goddess: an aspect of Ishtar

nidanas Buddhist
the links in the chain of a man's finite existence

Nidavellir Norse
the realm of the dwarfs

Nidhad (see Nidud)

Nidhogg Norse

[Nidhogggr.Nidhug.Nithoggr]

a monster in the form of a dragon or serpent which gnawed at the roots of Yggdrasil and fed on corpses

Nidhoggr (see Nidhogg)

Nidhug (see Nidhogg)

Nidim (see Ea.Enki)

Nidimmud (see Ea.Enki)

Nidra Hindu

a goddess of sleep
daughter of Brahma

Nidud Norse

[Nidhad.Nidudr.Nidung.Nithad.Nithud]

king of Sweden
father of Bodwild

When Volund and his two brothers were searching for their swan-maiden lovers, Nidud accused Volund of stealing gold, cut out the sinews of his legs and made him virtually a slave.
When the king's two sons visited Volund, he killed them both and sent their heads, decorated with precious stones, to their father. He also seduced the king's daughter, Bodwild.

Nidudr (see Nidud)

Nidung (see Nidud)

Nibelung (see Nibelung)

Nibelungen (see Nibelungen)

Nibelungs (see Nibelungen)

Niels Ebbeson Danish

a hero who rid his country of foreign oppressors

Niete

a flower
a Mayan princess
daughter of Kan
sister of Aac, Cay, Coh and Moo

Niezguiniek Slav

a ploughman with a magic horse which can leap into the heavens

Nifelhel (see Niflhel)

Niflheim Norse

[Hel(heim).Nif(e)lhel.Niflheimr]

the land of mists and fog, in the north:
hell: the underworld ruled by Hel

In some accounts, Hel is the palace of the goddess, situated in the realm of Niflheim.

Niflhel Norse

[Niflhel]

a part of Niflheim

In some accounts, Niflhel is the lower part of Hel's region to which one gains access through the Gnipa cave, home of the dog Garm. In this version, Niflhel is a place where the dead undergo a second death and are punished.

Other accounts make Niflhel and Niflheim synonymous.

(see also Niflheim)

Niflheimr (see Niflheim)

Niflungar (see Nibelungen)

Niflungs (see Nibelungen)

Nigantha Nattaputta (see Mahavira)

nigheag na h-àth

(see ban nighechain)

Night<sup>1</sup> Central American

an Aztec goddess
consort of Huehuetotl

Night<sup>2</sup> (see Nyx)

Night Chant North American

a Navaho winter festival

This festival lasts for nine days and honours the spirits with dancing, sand painting and other rituals.

night hag

[nightmare]
an incubus or succubus inducing terrifying dreams

Night Lord Mesopotamian

a god of rain

It was he who, ordered by Samas, caused the heavy rains which gave rise to the flood.

Night of Tradition Pacific Islands

the past in the lore of the islanders

night-raven

a bird variously identified as a bittern, goatsucker, heron, nightjar or owl

In Denmark, the bird is said to be the incarnation of one who was murdered or committed suicide and was buried, at the junction of roads, in a grave from which it frees itself by moving only one grain of soil per year.

Some say that this bird flies in front of the Wild Hunt.

Night Sun (see Dionysus)

night witches African [baboi.baloi]

women of Botswana whose spirits leave their bodies at night to become witches

They are said to cut pieces from dead bodies and insert the pieces into those whom they wish to make ill, having first put them into a deep sleep. They must return to their own bodies before dawn or die.

Nightingale The Brigand Russian

a monster, part human, part bird

This being lived in a tree and attacked passing travellers. He was killed by Ilya Muromets.

nightmare (see night hag)

Nigi-haya-hi Japanese

a sun-god

Nigi-mitama Japanese

a gentle spirit

nigromancy (see necromancy)

Nihancan (see Nihansan)

Nihansan North American

[Nihancan]

a trickster or creator-god of the Arapaho

Nihon Japanese

the birthplace of Amaterasu

This holy name is used to ward off evil.

Nihongi Japanese

a book of Shinto legends written in AD 720

Nii-no-ama (see Sui Tengu)

Niudono Japanese

a female sea-spirit

She conducted Antoku Tenno to her undersea realm when he was killed in the battle of Dan-no-Ura.

(see also Sui Tengu)

Nijuhachi-Bushu Japanese

a group of 28 guardian deities These beings, who symbolise the constellations, are sometimes regarded as the servants of Kwannon. They are listed as:

Ashira	Magora
Bassosennin	Makeshura
Bishamon	Mansen
Daibenzaiten	Manzenshau
Daibonten	Mawaraten
Gobuju	Misshakukongo
Hibakara	Nandaryu
Karura	Naraen
Kendatsuba	Sanshi-taisho
Kinnara	Shakara
Komoku	Shimnoten
Kompira	Teishakuten
Konda	Tohoten
Konshiki	Zocho

Nik (see Nakk.nix)

Nike Greek

[Nice.=Roman Victoria]

the goddess of victory daughter of Pallas and Styx
sister of Bia, Cratus and Zelus
She was awarded the title of goddess of victory for the help she gave to the gods in their battle with the Titans.

She is often depicted as a winged figure.

In some accounts, she is identified with Athena.

(see also Nikephoros Athena)

Nike Apteros Greek

a name for Nike as 'wingless'

Nikephoros Athena Greek
a name for Athena as goddess of victory

In some accounts, the goddess of victory is Nike; others have Athena holding an image of Nike.

Nikkal Mesopotamian [=Sumerian Ningal]
a Syrian moon-goddess wife of Jarih
an aspect of Ningal as moon-goddess

Nikko Bosatsu Japanese
a Buddhist sun-god

Nikobo Japanese [Fire-Face]
a priest

He cured the wife of a governor by exorcism but the governor, jealous of his powers, had him killed. Nikobo returned in the form of a fiery globe which hovered over the governor who was taken ill and died. It is said that the fiery globe, in which the priest's face can be discerned, returns to the scene every year.

Nikolai Siberian
a Russian saint worshipped as a guardian god of seafarers

Nikumbha Hindu
a king of the Asuras

Nikur (see nix)

Nila (see Nilagiri)

Nila Tara (see Blue Tara)

Nila Utama Malay
son of Sapurba

He is said to have founded Singapore and took the name Seri Turi when he became its first ruler.

Niladanda Buddhist
a guardian god
one of the dikpalas

He is guardian of the south-western part of the world.

Niladevi Hindu [=Tamil Pinnai]
a consort of Vishnu

Nilagiri Indian [Nila]
a mythical range of mountains

Nilakantha Hindu
[Blue Throat]
a name for Shiva

He was given this name when, at the Churning of the Ocean, he swallowed the poison that arose, so saving mankind. He is sometimes depicted with a blue throat caused by holding the poison in his throat.

Nilalohita Hindu
a form of Rudra

Nilambara Hindu
son of Indra and Indrani

Nilawata East Indian [Indigo Flower]
a Javanese nymph wife of Bambang Kalingga mother of Sakri

His mother's spirit was in the form of a serpent which was killed by the prince, Bambang Kalingga, whom she married.

Nile Goose Egyptian
[Chaos Goose.Great Cackler.
Great Chatterer]
the bird that laid the cosmic egg,
the sun (see also Geb)

Nilus Greek
the Nile personified
the Greek name for Hapy

Nilsun Mesopotamian
[Nilsuna]
a sky-goddess
mother of Gilgamesh

Nilsuna (see Nilsun)

Niltshi North American
a Navaho wind-spirit

This spirit guided the Navaho in their ascent from the lower worlds.

Niman North American
[=Zuni Shalaka]
a festival of the Hopi Indians

This ceremony, which lasts for nine days in July, celebrates the return of the spirits to their underground home in Shipap where they will remain until winter returns.

Nimba African
an earth-goddess in Guinea

Nimble Men (see Fir Chlis)

Nimbosus Greek
a Latin name for Orion as 'bringer of rain'

Nimbu Indian
a tree said to ward off the evil eye

Nimi Hindu
king of Mithila

He was cursed by Vasishtha when he allowed Gotama to supervise a ceremony that had been promised to Vasishtha and lost his body as a result. He cursed Vasishtha who was then similarly afflicted but he was later given a new body whereas Nimi could not be reborn.

Nimiane (see Nimue)

Nimrod Hebrew
[Amarud.=Babylonian Gilgamesh: Namru]
a king of S(h)inar
son of Cush

He was a great hunter and warrior, said to have owned the clothes worn by Adam and Eve which guaranteed victory to those who wore them. He was deified and ordered the construction of the Tower of Babel for an attack on heaven itself.

It is said that, no matter how heavy the dew, none ever falls on Nimrod's tomb in Damascus. (see also Kesil)

Nimue British [Lady of the Lake.Nimiane.Nineve.
Niniane.Nymenche.Nymue.Nineue.
Vivian(e).Vivien(ne)]
one of the holders of the office of Lady of the Lake daughter of King Pellinore or Dyonas

In some stories she is a nun, in others the daughter of a Sicilian siren or of Dinas. Some equate her with Morgan le Fay, others have her as a separate person. As Vivian, she was the daughter of Dylan. Some accounts place her as one of the attendants of the Lady of the Lake who later assumed that office.

At Arthur's wedding feast the proceedings were interrupted when a white stag galloped into the hall followed by a white bitch and a pack of hounds. A knight seized the dog and rode off with it. A lady on a pony then appeared claiming that the dog was hers. She was forcibly dragged away by an unknown knight who rode into the hall. The knight was Ontelake and the girl was Nimue. She was rescued by Pellinore who killed Ontelake and brought her back to Camelot where Merlin fell madly in love with her as he had always known he would despite knowing also that she would destroy him.

When Guinevere was accused of poisoning the apple that killed Patrise, Nimue made it known that Pinel was the guilty party.

She travelled with Merlin to Ban's court in Benwick and back to England, always promising to sleep with her aging suitor if he would tell her all the secrets of his magic art which, foolishly, he did. In Cornwall, he used his powers to make a fabulous room inside a rock where they might be together but when they entered the room she sprang back and sealed the entrance with an unbreakable spell. She rode away leaving Merlin to his fate and came upon Pelleas dying of unrequited love for Ettarde. Nimue used her magic to cause Ettarde to fall in love with Pelleas but then put a spell on Pelleas so that he rejected her love. She stayed with Pelleas for the rest of her life; some versions say they married.

In some stories she left Merlin tied up in the magic forest, Broceliande, trapped in an oak tree or entangled forever in a thorn-bush.

In those versions where Nimue and Vivien are regarded as separate characters, it was the latter who entangled Merlin in a thorn-bush.

In some accounts, she is identified with Rhiannon.

(see also Morgan le Fay)

Nimurta (see Ninurta)

Nimush (see Mount Nisu)

Nin-buba Mesopotamian

[Nin-bubu]

a name for Ea as 'god of mariners'

Nin-bubu (see Nin-buba)

Nin Edin (see Geshtinanna)

Nin Ella Mesopotamian

a virgin-goddess

consort of Ea, in some accounts

Nin Ezen (see Gula)

Nin-Gala (see Ningal)

Nin Gishzida (see Ningishzida)

Nin-Gursu (see Ningirsu)

Nin-Ildu (see Ninildu)

Nin-Imma (see Ninmah)

Nin-ip (see Ninib)

Nin Ki (see Damkina.Ninki)

Nin Mar Ki (see Ninmah)

Nin Me En (see Ninmena)

Nin-Shaeh Mesopotamian

[Nin Shakh]

a Babylonian war-god in the form of a boar

Nin Sun (see Ninsuna)

Nin Ur (see Ninurta)

Nin-Uruwa (see Ningal)

Nina<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Ninetta:=Sumerian Nanna]

the chief Babylonian goddess

daughter of Ea

sister of Ningirsu

A form of the Great Mother or of Ishtar as a fish-goddess, she is sometimes equated with Belet-Seri.

Nina<sup>2</sup> (see Nanse.Nena)

Nina Stahu North American

the cave from which the ancestors of the Blackfoot Indians emerged led by Napi

Ninacolla South American

a servant of Naymlap acting as throne-bearer

Ninagal (see Ninegal)

Ninamaskug Mesopotamian

a Sumerian shepherd-demon, ruler of cattle-stalls

Ninanna (see Inanna)

Ninatta (see Ninattas)

Ninattas Mesopotamian

[Ninatta]

a Hurrian deity attendant on

Shaushkas or, in the Sumerian version, on Ishtar

Ninazu Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god of magic

and healing

son of Enlil and Ninlil

father of Ningis Zi Da

Like Nanna, he was born in the underworld where Ninlil had followed Enlil.

In some stories he is the husband or son of Ereshkigal, in others Ninazu is used as a name for Ereshkigal.

Nindara Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god

consort of Nanse

Nindub Mesopotamian

a Sumerian local god, god of Lagas

Nindubarra Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god, patron of shipmenders

(see also Nin-buba)

Nindukugga Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess of the underworld

mother of Enlil

wife of Endukugga

Nine Brahmarishis Hindu

the 7 Brahmarishis plus Bhrigu and Daksha

Nine Cauac Central American

the ninth of the 20 days of the Mayan creation cycle

On this day the creation of hell was started. (see also Cauac)

Nine Ladies British

a megalithic structure in Derbyshire

These ladies were said to have been turned into stones for dancing on a Sunday.

Nine Ollin Central American

an office held by a boy whose life was dedicated to the sun-god in Mexico

Having been chosen for this office at the age of nine, the appointee would serve until he reached the age of fifty-

two, at which point he would be sacrificed to the sun-god and cremated.

Nine Sisters British

the sisters of Morgan le Fay

Nine, the (see Muses)

Nine Wave Maidens

(see Wave-maidens)

Nine Worlds Norse

the realms into which the world of the Norse races was divided

These divisions are listed as Godheim (home of the Aesir), Helheim (home of the dead), Jotunheim (land of the Frost Giants), Liosalfheim (land of the light elves), Mannheim (home of man-kind), Muspelheim (land of the Fire Giants), Niflheim (the underworld), Svartalfheim (land of the dark elves), Vanaheim (home of the Vanir).

Other lists substitute Asgard for Godheim, Hel for Helheim, Alfheim for Liosalfheim, Midgard for Mannheim and introduce Nidavellir, the home of the dwarfs.

Nine Worthies, The European

[Neuf Preux]

heroes embodying the qualities of bravery and virtue

These men were listed in three groups of three. From the Bible there were David, Joshua and Judas; the classical period was represented by Alexander, Hector and Julius Caesar; and the later Christian world produced King Arthur, Charlemagne and Godfrey of Bouillon.

Nineb (see Ninib)

Ninedinna Mesopotamian

a Babylonian goddess

She kept the records of the dead in the underworld.

Ninegal Mesopotamian

[Ninagal]

a Babylonian smith-god

Ninella (see Damkina)

Ninetta (see Nina<sup>1</sup>)

Nineve (see Nimue)

Nineveh (see Ninus)

ning wot Burmese

divination using sticks of bamboo

When heated, a bamboo stick splits open and hairlike fibres can be seen on the split edges. The diviner claims to be able to read these fibres and thereby foretell the future.

Ningal Mesopotamian

[Nin-Gala.Nin-Uruwa:=Syrian Nikkal]

a Sumerian moon-goddess daughter of Enki and Ningikugal wife of Sin or Nanna

mother of Inanna and Utu

She refused to live with Sin until he had made the whole world fruitful.

Ningentue South American

a servant of Naymlap who acted as his cup-bearer

Ningikugal Mesopotamian

a Sumerian reed-goddess daughter of An and Nammu a consort of Enki

Ningilin Mesopotamian

[Ninkilim]
a Sumerian god

Ningirama Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god of magic

Ningirsu Mesopotamian

[En-Mersi.Nin Gursu.Ningursu]
a god of irrigation, god of Lagash son of Ninhursaga
son of Bel, in some accounts son and husband of Baba, some say brother of Nina

He was envisaged as a lion-headed eagle and, in some accounts, was identified with Tammuz. Some say that his mother was a goat.

He is associated with the planet Jupiter and the constellation Orion.

(see also Ninib)

Ningishzida Mesopotamian

[Gis(h)zida.Gizidu.Nin Gishzida.
Ningis Zi Da.Ningis-Zia.Ningizzida]
a Sumerian god of light gatekeeper for the god An son of Ninazu and Ereshkigal

In some stories he is a god of the underworld, equated with the restored Tammuz, or referred to as the brother of Tammuz.

Ninharsag (see Ninhursaga)Ning Sang Burmese

[Npham Wa]
the Buddhist supreme being

Ningis Zi Da (see Ningishzida)Ningis Zia (see Ningishzida)Ningizzida (see Ningishzida)Ningursag (see Ninhursaga)Ningursu (see Ningirsu)Ningyo Japanese

a mermaid

She is depicted as a fish with a human head.

Ninhursag (see Ninhursaga)Ninhursaga Mesopotamian

[Aruru.Belet-ili.Belit.Damgalminna.
Damkina.Lady of the Great Mountain.
Mah.Mama.Mami.Mammetu(m).
Mammitu(m).Mother of the Land.
Mud-kes(da).Nin Ki.Ningursag.
Ninharsag.Ninhursag(ga).Ninkarsag.
Ninkhursag..Ninki.Ninlil.Ninmah.
Ninmar.Ninna.Nintua(ma) Kalamma.
Nintu(r).Virgin Lady] a Sumerian earth-goddess, goddess of animals, birth and productivity daughter of An and Ki wife of Ea as Damkina

wife of Enki as Ninki wife of Enlil as Ninlil

wife of Sulpae, some say mother of Ninsar by Enki

mother of Ninurta by Enlil

When Enki was forming human beings from clay, she spoiled some of his handiwork by altering the shapes. As a result, dwarfs, cripples and giants were created.

She and her husband lived in Dilmun, the earthly paradise, until they quarrelled over Enki's pursuit of their own daughter. He had seduced Uttu, the goddess of weaving, who was his own daughter or granddaughter, so Ninhursaga recovered some of his semen from her body and used it to grow eight plants. Others say that Uttu gave birth to the plants. Enki ate them and became ill and would have died if Ninhursaga had not saved him by placing him in her own body from which he was born again. Another version says that she gave birth to eight deities each of which healed one of the ailments which afflicted Enki as a result of eating the plants. These deities were Abu, Dazimus, Enshag, Nazi, Ninkasi, Ninsutu, Ninti and Nintur.

As Aruru, she created the wild man, Enkidu.

Ninhursagga (see Ninhursaga)Nini Arteh East Indian

the little girl in the moon

Nini Muni Pacific Islands

an Indonesian witch

When a man comes to her realm seeking the magic medicine, Obat Hidup, she requires an offering of food. As she eats, she becomes younger and more and more beautiful and requires the man to make love to her before she will hand over the medicine.

Niniane (see Nimue)Ninib Mesopotamian

[Adar.Ber.Nerig Uras.Ninip.Nineb.

Ninip.Nirig:=Hittite Zamana:=Roman

Saturn]

an Assyrian sun-god and god of repose

a storm-god

son of Ea, Bel or Enlil

consort of Gula and Baba

A form of Tammuz, he is associated with the planet Saturn.

In some accounts, he is the same as Ninurta or Nusku.

(see also Ningirsu)

Niniganni East Indian

a benevolent python-goddess

Ninigi Japanese

[Honinigi.Prince Ninigi]

a Shinto ancestral god

son of Ama-no-Oshiho-mimi grandson of Taka-mi-musubi and Amaterasu

consort of Sengen consort of Uzume, some say

father of Fire Fade and Fire Flash

He was sent from heaven, bearing three gifts from Amaterasu – the sword Kusanagi, the mirror Yata-kayami and the jewel(s) Go-shih Tai – to bring order to the land of Idzumo. Three envoys went ahead to prepare the way but all proved disloyal. Two later envoys succeeded in restoring order and Ninigi descended to Idzumo where he was guided by the monster Deity of the Field-paths to whom Ninigi gave Uzume as a wife. Having forced Okuni-Nushi to hand over the throne, he fell in love with Sengen and married her but when he became jealous, she left him and immolated herself by setting fire to the wooden hut she lived in, after giving birth to three sons.

Ninikug (see Nadimud)Ninildu Mesopotamian

[Nin-Ildu]

a Babylonian carpenter-god

Ninimina African

[Malinke.Samano]

a mountain-demon with horns

He may disgorge gold and silver for a king or, if displeased, choke the king to death in his coils.

Ninimma (see Ninmah)Ninine Irish

a dumb poet

He became known as Ninine after his speech was restored by St Moninne.

Nininni (see Inanna)Nininsina (see Nininsinna)Nininsinna Mesopotamian

[Nininsina]

a Sumerian fertility goddess daughter of An and Uras

consort of Pabilsag or Nergal

Ninip (see Ninib)Ninkarnunna Mesopotamian

a Sumerian god of barbers

Ninkarraka Mesopotamian

[=Sumerian Gula]

a Babylonian goddess of childbirth

Ninkharsag (see Ninhursaga)Ninkhursag (see Ninhursaga)

Ninkasi Mesopotamian

a Sumerian goddess of pleasure and wine

She was one of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to cure the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten the eight plants produced by Uttu. She cured his mouth.

Ninki Mesopotamian

[Goshan-ki.Nin Ki]

a name for Ninhursaga as consort of Enki or Ea

a name for Damkina as 'lady of the earth'

Ninkigal Mesopotamian

a Babylonian earth-god

Ninkilim *(see Ninglin)Ninku *(see Nintu)Ninkurra Mesopotamian

a Babylonian artisan-god

Ninkurru Mesopotamian

a Sumerian mother-goddess daughter of Enki and Ninsar

In some accounts she gave birth to Uttu, fathered by her own grandfather Enki, nine days after conception. Other versions say that she was the mother of Ninmah and that Uttu was Ninhursaga's daughter.

Ninlil Mesopotamian

[Baalath.Haya.Kutushar.Ninhursaga:

=Babylonian Mylitta]

a Sumerian grain-goddess

daughter of Haia and Nunbarsegunu

Ninhursaga was the wife of Enlil by whom she was raped. When he was banished to the underworld, she followed him and their son, Nanna, was born there. They mated again to produce two other sons, Nergal and Ninazu.

Ninmah Mesopotamian

[Mah.Nin-Imma.Nin Mar Ki.

Ninimma.Ninmar.Ninna]

a name of Ninhursaga as 'great queen' an aspect of Ki, some say

In some accounts she, rather than Ninkurra, is the mother of Uttu by Enki, while others say that she created the first man from clay.

Ninmar *(see Ninmah)Ninmena Mesopotamian

[Nin Me En]

a Sumerian mother-goddess

Ninmu *(see Ninsar)Ninmug *(see Ereshkigal)Ninna *(see Ninmah)Ninni *(see Inanna)Ninos *(see Ninus)Ninsar Mesopotamian

[Ninmu.Urbadgumgum]

a Sumerian mother-goddess

daughter of Enki and Ninhursaga wife of Nazi

In some accounts she is the mother of Ninkurra, fathered by her own father, Enki, after a gestation period of only nine days.

Ninsebagunnu *(see Nunbarsegunu)Ninshubur Mesopotamian

[Ninshubur.Papukkal:=Babylonian Ilabrat]

a Sumerian messenger god attendant on Inanna: gatekeeper for the god An

When Inanna descended to the underworld she left Ninshubur on guard to ensure her safe return. When the goddess failed to return, Ninshubur raised such a lament that the gods intervened to save Inanna.

Ninsikil Mesopotamian

[Mah.Ninsikilla.Virgin Lady]

a Sumerian guardian-goddess of paradise

This is Ninhursaga after her marriage to Enki. She lives in Dilmun, the earthly paradise.

Ninsinna *(see Inanna)Ninsikilla *(see Ninsikil)Ninsu-utud *(see Ninsutu)Ninshubur *(see Ninshubur)Ninsun *(see Ninsuna)Ninsuna Mesopotamian

[Nin Sun.Ninsun.Sirtur]

the Sumerian cow-goddess consort of Lugalbanda

mother of Gilgamesh and Dumuzi

an aspect of Nana, some say

Ninsusinak Persian

a god of the Elamites

Ninsutu Mesopotamian

[Ninsu-utud]

a goddess

wife of Nintur

She was one of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to cure the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten the eight plants produced by Uttu. She cured his toothache.

Ninti Mesopotamian

a healing deity

One of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to cure the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten the eight plants produced by Uttu, healing his rib.

Nintinugga *(see Gula)Nintoku Japanese

son of Ojin

He was a benevolent emperor, deified after his death.

Nintu Mesopotamian

[Mah.Ninku.Nintud.Nintur]

Ninhursaga as goddess of birth consort of Enki

mother of Tagtug

In some accounts she is equated with Belet Ili, in others she is a form of Baba, half woman, half serpent.

Nintua Kalamma

(see Nintuama Kalamma)

Nintuama Kalamma Mesopotamian

a name of Ninhursaga after the birth of her children

Nintud *(see Nintu)Nintur<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

lord of Mangan

husband of Ninsutu

He was one of the eight deities born to Ninhursaga to cure the eight afflictions of Enki after he had eaten the eight plants produced by Uttu. He cured his hip.

Nintur<sup>2</sup> *(see Nintu)Ninudzalli *(see Gula)Ninurash *(see Ninurta)Ninurta<sup>1</sup> Mesopotamian

[Enurta.Nimurta.Nin Ur.Ninurash.

Sharuk=Hittite.Bel.Zamana]

the Sumerian war-god, god of farming, floods, and wind

son of Enlil and Ninlil or Ninmah

son of Inanna, some say

consort of Gula

When Zu stole the Tablets of Destiny from Enlil, Belet-Ili gave birth to Ninurta and sent him to recapture the Tablets. After a long battle, he killed Zu and returned the Tablets to Enlil.

He fought the demon Asag with huge stones which he later used to make mountains to hold back the flood-waters of Kur. He has a magic weapon known as Sarur and a double-edged scimitar. Some say that these weapons, Sarur and Sargaz, were cyclones which he controlled.

In some accounts, he is the same as Ninib. (see also Imdugud.

Sakut.Tispak)

Ninurta<sup>2</sup> Mesopotamian

an Akkadian war-god, god of the hunt

Ninus Mesopotamian

[Nineveh.Ninos]

king of Assyria son of Belus

second husband of Semiramis

father of Ninyas

He gave the throne to Semiramis who later killed him. His tomb was the site of the tragic story of Pyramus and Thisbe.

He is regarded as the builder of the city of Nineveh.

Ninvit (see kala<sup>5</sup>)

Ninyas Mesopotamian

son of Ninus and Semiramis
When Semiramis killed his father, Ninyas killed her though others say that Semiramis died of a broken heart when she failed to conquer India.

Ninzadim Mesopotamian

a Babylonian god

Nio-san Japanese

the collective name for the 2 gatekeepers, Udaijin and Yadaijin

Niobe<sup>1</sup> British

['snowy']
a maiden who loved Sagramore

Niobe<sup>2</sup> Greek

['snowy']
the first woman

mother of Argus by Zeus

mother of Pelasgus by Zeus, some say

In the lore of the Argives, she was the daughter of the first man, Phoroneus, by the nymph, Teledice. She was seduced by Zeus and bore a son, Argus, who became king of Phoronea, later called Argos.

Another version says that she was the wife of Phoroneus.

Niobe<sup>3</sup> Greek

daughter of Tantalus and Euryanessa or Dione

sister of Pelops

wife of Amfion, king of Thebes

She had seven sons and seven daughters (or six sons and six daughters, in some accounts) and boasted that, having so many children, she was greater than the goddess Leto, mother only of Apollo and Aphrodite, and should be worshipped. Apollo and Artemis killed her husband and all her children for this slight (though some say that one boy, Amydas, and one girl, Chloris, escaped) and Zeus turned the weeping Niobe into stone, which continued to weep, on Mount Sipylus.

Niobids Greek

the children of Niobe

Nioo Japanese

a guardian deity of the gates of a temple

Niord Norse

[Niordr.Njord(r).Njorthr.Nordur.Nyorthr]

god of inshore seas, ships and wind

brother of Nerthus, some say husband of Skadi

father of Frey and Freya

He was one of the Vanir who went to live in Asgard when they made peace with the Aesir.

When Skadi, daughter of Thiassi, demanded compensation for her father's death, the gods offered her any one of the gods as husband, to be chosen only by looking at their feet. She selected Niord and married him. She hated living in the warmth of Noatun so they moved to Thrymheim but Niord was not happy there because of the cold, so they alternated between the two, spending three days in each home. Some say they parted altogether.

In some stories, he had an earlier wife, his sister, Nerthus, and some say that, with a change of sex, he was Nerthus.

He is depicted in a short tunic and crowned with seaweed or shells.

Niordr *(see Niord)Niorfe Norse

[Njorfe]

king of Uplands

Fighting with Viking and Halfdan, each came to admire the other's courage and they became friends. Both Niorfe and Viking had nine sons who played together but, when one of them was killed in a quarrel, a feud began between the two families.

Nip<sup>1</sup> Norse

[Nef]

father (some say mother) of Nanna

Nip<sup>2</sup> *(see Ruberzahl)Nipa North American

an Algonquin moon-goddess

Niparaya North American

a supreme creator-deity of the Pericue husband of Anayicoyondi

father of Quayayp

He was in conflict with Wac whom he defeated.

Nipin *(see Nipinoukhe)Nipingr Norse

one of the dwarfs

Nipinoukhe North American

[Nipin]

a sky-god of the Montagnais people

brother of Pipinoukhe

He and his brother shared the rule as sky-gods, each ruling for six months of the year, Nipinoukhe in summer, his brother in winter.

Nira Mesopotamian

[Nirah]

a Babylonian deity

son of Ea

Nirah *(see Nira)Niraya Buddhist

hell: the downward path to hell

Nireus Greek

a commander at Troy

He led a small contingent from Syme, supporting the Greeks, and was killed by Eurypylus.

Nirig *(see Ninib)Nirmali Afghan

[Disani.Shuwe]

a Kafir birth-goddess

Some regard her as an aspect of Disani, not a separate deity.

nirmana-kaya Buddhist

one of the 3 levels of a Buddha's existence

In this form the Buddha appears as a physical body, an emanation of the 'real' Buddha or bodhisattva.

(see also Three Bodies Doctrine)

Nirmanarati Buddhist

the home of the gods of creation

Nirpean Cambodian

[=Buddhist Nirvana]

the highest of the 26 paradises

Nirrita Hindu

[Nirrita]

a god of death

guardian of the south-west, some say

He is depicted as being carried on a man's back.

Nirriti Hindu

[Nirriti]

a goddess of darkness and death

the female aspect of Nirrita

She is envisaged as a dark-skinned goddess and later as a god, one of the dikpalas, guardian of the south-west.

Nirrita *(see Nirrita)Nirrti *(see Nirriti)Nirrutu Hindu

an ancient Vedic god

Nirutu Phoenician

a mother-goddess

She is depicted as part woman, part serpent.

(see also Baau)

Nirvana<sup>1</sup> Buddhist

[Kas(h)i.Mahasukka.Nibbana:

=Cambodian Nirpean:=Hindu Molosha:

=Japanese Nehan]

a blissful state beyond the tribulations of individual existence, arrived at by the true devotee

In some versions it is regarded as an actual paradise. (see also Mahasukka.

Panimirvana.PureLand.

Sangsara.Sunya(t)a)

