CAPE TOWN & THE WINELANDS' TOP 10

TOP 10 Cape Town & the Winelands' Highlights

Modern visitors would agree with Sir Francis Drake's testament to the Cape region as "the fairest Cape in the whole circumference of the earth". Cape Town, sandwiched between the imperious heights of Table Mountain and the blue depths of the Atlantic, has a sensational setting. With its Mediterranean climate, the city is a haven for outdoor enthusiasts, offering hiking opportunities along the spine of the Cape Peninsula, local wildlife to glimpse, lush winelands to explore and pristine beaches on which to relax. For visitors inclined towards cultural pursuits, Cape Town has a vibrant Afro-fusion cultural scene, a rich sense of history and eye-catching colonial architecture.

1 The Company's Garden

Overshadowed by majestic Table Mountain, this park was established by the first Dutch settlers in 1652 and features an eclectic mix of museums and galleries (see pp8-9).

2 The V&A Waterfront

Outdoor cafés, a vibrant nightlife and exciting shopping can be enjoyed at this waterfront complex. It is also the departure point for trips to Robben Island (see pp10-11).

3 District Six Museum

This stirring Cape Town museum documents the apartheid-era evictions of "non-whites" from the central suburb of District Six to the remote Cape Flats (see pp14-15).

4 Castle of Good Hope

Constructed in the 1670s, South Africa's oldest extant building now houses several museums. The ramparts of the castle overlook the Grand Parade, where rapturous crowds gathered to greet Nelson Mandela on his release from jail in 1990 (see pp16-17).

5 Table Mountain

The thrilling aerial ascent of magnificent Table Mountain leads to a succession of stunning views over the Cape Peninsula and the Winelands (see pp18–19).

6 Kirstenbosch National Botanical Garden

At its best during the spring wildflower season, this garden protects the floral wealth of the Western Cape and is a year-round visitor attraction (see pp20–21).

7 Groot Constantia Wine Estate

South Africa's oldest estate, Groot Constantia is noted for its old-world Cape Dutch architecture nestled amongst leafy vineyards (see pp22–3).

8 Simon's Town and Boulders Beach

All quaint Victorian façades overlooking the splendid False Bay, this sleepy naval town is famed for the comical colony of penguins that waddles around on nearby Boulders Beach. (see pp24–5).

10 Stellenbosch

Despite its wealth of impressive Cape Dutch architecture, South Africa's second-oldest town is better known – and justifiably so – as the most central base for exploring the renowned Cape Winelands (see pp28–9).

9 Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve

Pink-hued proteas, grazing antelope and mischievous baboons can be observed at the peninsula's southern tip, where a cliff-top lighthouse offers bird's-eye views over Cape Point (see pp26–7).

TOP 10 The Company's Garden

This blissful oasis of shade and greenery at the heart of Cape Town is surrounded by the city's most important concentration of old buildings and museums. It was established by Jan van Riebeeck in 1652, just weeks after his arrival at the Cape, to provide fresh produce to passing Dutch ships. By the 18th century, what was created as a vegetable patch had transformed into a world-renowned botanical garden that spread over 18 hectares (44 acres) and exported bulbs and other produce to Europe. Today, the garden is a popular lunchtime retreat for city workers. The park-like lawns are inhabited by flocks of feral pigeons and tame squirrels and offer stunning views of the ragged cliffs of Table Mountain.

1 Iziko Slave Lodge
Founded in 1679, this handsome building (right), once an unsanitary and cramped slaves' home, is now a museum charting the history of slave trade.

2 St George's Cathedral
This Anglican cathedral (above) was a centre of political protest during the 1980s, and the site of clashes between the police and protesters. The oldest part of the building is a crypt designed by Sir Herbert Baker.

3 Entrance to Old Company's Garden
Flanked by the Slave Lodge and St George's Cathedral, the garden's main entrance (below) has not changed position since the 1670s.

4 Rhodes Statue

Commissioned in 1908, this statue of C.J. Rhodes (left) depicts the politician with his right arm raised northwards, symbolizing his aim to make Africa a British colony.

5 Aviary & Slave Bell

The aviary opposite the Gardens Tea Room houses parrots, while the Slave Bell is a fire bell that was moved from Greenmarket Square.

6 Tree Grove

Some of the garden's oldest trees grow in this enclave, including a tree aloë and other forest perennials.

7 Rose Garden

The garden was the site of the Cape's first wine-producing vine and a source of rosewater in the Dutch era. A central memorial is dedicated to HIV/AIDS victims.

8 Delville Wood Memorial

Featuring sculptures by Anton van Wouw and Alfred Turner, this stark memorial (above) unveiled in 1930 commemorates the South African casualties of World War I in Delville Wood, France.

9 South African Museum & Planetarium

To the garden's south, this 19th-century mansion (left) houses natural history displays, rock art and prehistoric artifacts. Beside it stands the large-domed planetarium.

10 South African National Gallery

From an initial bequest of 45 paintings in 1871, the gallery is now the sub-Saharan region's leading art museum. Apart from its African and European collections, it also features temporary exhibitions.

Archbishop Desmond Tutu

Desmond Tutu, the first black Archbishop of Cape Town was the bishop of St George's Cathedral. During his tenure, the church was an important centre of the anti-apartheid movement. Post apartheid, this 1984 Nobel Peace Prize winner chaired the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, and now addresses HIV/AIDS issues.

The planetarium's shows on southern hemisphere constellations are at 2pm Mon-Fri (also 8pm Tue); noon, 1pm & 2:30pm Sat-Sun.

TOP 10 The V&A Waterfront

There may well be larger shopping complexes than the V&A (Victoria & Alfred) Waterfront, but none boasts as scenic a location. Sandwiched between the sparkling waters of the Atlantic and the majestic contours of Table Mountain (centre), the waterfront is emblematic of Cape Town's resurgence in the post-apartheid era, and is integral to the modern-day city. The Waterfront complex opened in 1992 and has played an important role in reversing the economic decline that had gripped the historic docklands since the 1960s. Also a functional harbour to this day, the V&A Waterfront is ranked as South Africa's most-visited tourist attraction, with a huge choice of eateries, hundreds of shops, numerous sights and several leisure activities, including day tours to Robben Island.

Two Oceans Aquarium

Don't miss the sensational views of Table Mountain. Look out, too, for the seals and gulls that make the harbour their home.

There are several restaurants and cafés to choose from (see p68).

1 Two Oceans Aquarium

Over 3,000 marine creatures are housed here. Popular exhibits include the "River Meander" with its tame penguins and oyster-catchers, and a kelp forest with fish (below).

2 Craft Market & Wellness Centre

More than 120 stalls in South Africa's largest indoor craft market offer everything from African beadwork to tarot readings and holistic health treatments.

3 Nobel Square

Life-sized statues of four Nobel Peace Prize winners – Luthuli, Tutu, de Klerk and Mandela (below) – are set alongside Noria Mabasa's intriguing Makonde-esque sculpture.

4 Swing Bridge & Clock Tower

A piece of Victoriana, the iconic Clock Tower dates back to 1882. It is reached via a swing bridge that opens to accommodate passing boats (above).

5 Nelson Mandela Gateway

This is the embarkation point for day tours to Robben Island. It also houses multimedia displays documenting the island's history.

6 Alfred Mall

Lined with alfresco bars and cafés, this converted Edwardian warehouse (left) is an excellent spot to down refreshments while soaking up the idyllic views over the harbour to Table Mountain.

7 African Trading Post

Shelves of local music CDs and T-shirts are stocked alongside handcrafted beadwork and authentic Africana items at this craft and curio shop (above).

9 Vaughan Johnson's Wine & Cigar Shop

Whether it is vintage award-winners or the shop's affordable own-label products, this wine shop (above) is the place to stock up on a few bottles.

8 Victoria Wharf Shopping Mall

Shop till you drop, recuperate at one of the many restaurants and then catch a movie at the Art Nouveau Cinema – all in one of South Africa's largest malls.

10 Bay & Sunset Cruise

You can take a sunset cruise around Table Bay with one of the operators who can be found in front of the Victoria Wharf or Alfred Malls.

History of the Docklands

The docklands started to take shape in the 19th century, when in 1860, Prince Alfred (son of Queen Victoria) began the construction of the Alfred Basin by tipping a load of stones into the sea. Despite extensive development over the years, several Victorian buildings on the Waterfront, such as the Ferryman and Mitchell's Pubs and Breakwater Lodge, are still standing.

TOP 10 Robben Island

Situated in Table Bay, Robben Island is South Africa's answer to Alcatraz and has been a place of exile since Van Riebeeck's day. Its first political prisoner, a rebellious local trader named Autshumatom, was sent here in 1658. By the 1760s, the island held 70 prisoners, including several Muslim leaders. Today, it is best known for its role under apartheid, when Robert Sobukwe, Nelson Mandela, Walter Sisulu, Govan Mbeki (father of Thabo Mbeki) and Jacob Zuma among others were imprisoned here. The last prisoner left in 1996 and the island is now a museum.

Church in Island Village

1 Arrive at Nelson Mandela Gateway at least 30 minutes prior to departure to explore its museum.

2 There's nowhere to eat or drink on the island, but cafés are scattered around the departure point at the V&A Waterfront.

- 5 Jan van Riebeeck Quarry
- 6 Leper's Graveyard
- 7 Robert Sobukwe's House
- 8 Lighthouse
- 9 Limestone Quarry
- 10 Maximum Security Prison

1 Ferry Trip
The 30-minute ferry trip (above) from the V&A Waterfront is best on calm clear days, with fabulous views across Table Bay. Keep a look out for dolphins and seals.

2 Robben Island Village
Formerly home to the prison wardens, this small village now consists of residential quarters for the museum staff. It also has two old churches, one built from sandstone in 1895, and the other a garrison-like construction dating back to 1841.

3 Murray Bay
Robben Island's small harbour is home to 140,000 African penguins (left), making it the third largest colony in South Africa. Rather incongruously, the penguins are often seen in the company of the island's ubiquitous feral rabbits.

Robben Island was named after the colony of seals that inhabited the island in the 17th century – robben is Dutch for "seal".

4 Kramat of Tuan Guru

The island bus-tour's first stop is the shrine to Tuan Guru (above), an Indonesian Islamic cleric jailed here by the Dutch in the 18th century.

5 Jan van Riebeeck Quarry

The blue slate used to build the Castle of Good Hope was quarried by Van Riebeeck at the far south of the island. Bontebok and eland are often seen here.

6 Leper's Graveyard
This cemetery (above) seen from the bus tour is testament to the island's role as a leper colony from 1846 to 1930.

8 Lighthouse

The lighthouse (above) was built in 1865 on Minto Hill, the island's highest point. It replaced the fire beacons that were once in use.

7 Robert Sobukwe's House

Possibly the island's most forlorn sight, this is the house where PAC's Robert Sobukwe was held in confinement.

10 Maximum Security Prison

Conducted by former prisoners, the tour of the maximum security block is the sombre highlight of a visit to Robben Island. It includes a peek into Mandela's tiny cell (left) and incorporates photographic mementos of that era.

9 Limestone Quarry

Mandela undertook hard labour here. At a reunion in 1990, former prisoners spontaneously laid a cairn at this site.

Nelson Mandela

Mandela, born in 1918, was the first member of his family to attend school. His political career began in 1944 when, along with Oliver Tambo and Walter Sisulu, he formed the ANC Youth League. Mandela was accused of high treason in 1956, but charges against him were dropped after a four-year trial. However, he was captured and incarcerated on Robben Island in 1964 under charges of treason. Released from jail in 1990, he went on to win the Nobel Peace Prize in 1993 and became president of South Africa in 1994. He stepped down in 1999.

TOP 10 District Six Museum

Founded in 1994, this award-winning, community-funded museum draws on a rich repository of possession, photographs and recollections supplied by the forcibly dispossessed residents of District Six. A prosaically named municipal district, District Six was re-zoned as a whites-only area under the Group Areas Act during the apartheid era (see p34). The museum's exhibits celebrate everyday life as it was in this once-vibrant multiracial suburb, and mourn the destruction that it was subjected to at the hands of the apartheid government. Possibly the most moving of Cape Town's many museums, the District Six Museum provides some insight into the insidious effects of the racial discrimination propagated by the government on the day-to-day life of the ordinary folk who were victimized by it.

Museum façade

1 Many township tours start with a quick peek into the District Six Museum, but it is also worth visiting independently to absorb the minutiae of its detailed and poignant displays.

2 A coffee shop at the back sells cheap snacks such as sandwiches and pies. Several nearby restaurants serve more filling fare, including the coffee shop in the Castle of Good Hope (see p16).

1 Painted Floor Map

In the main hall, a hand-painted street map of District Six in its heyday is annotated by former residents with the locations of their houses before the bulldozers arrived (centre).

2 Methodist Church Building

The museum is housed in the Buitenkant Methodist Church, a former wine shop that was sanctified in 1883. The church was forcibly shut down for its stance against apartheid.

3 "Formation, Resistance, Restitution" Wall Panels

Using a combination of pictures, hard facts and interviews with former residents, this series of three wall panels (below) recounts the history of District Six since its creation in 1867.

4 Nomvuyo's Room

This simple exhibit (below) re-creates the single multi-purpose room that served as the family home of South African author Nomvuyo Ngcelwane, her parents and three siblings, prior to their forced eviction.

5 Story of Horstley Street

The memorial hall charts the history of Horstley Street. The mosaic and concrete floor (above) has written recollections of residents.

6 Tribute to Langarm Pioneers

Grainy photographs, period recordings and a stack of 78s by Swing musicians such as the Heartthrobs, form a tantalizing introduction to the distinctively South African Langarm "jazz" that rocked District Six during the 1930s–50s.

7 Barbershop Display

This cheerful nostalgic exhibit is a reconstruction of a typical 1950s barbershop, complete with period advertising plates pinned to the wall.

8 Bloemhof Flats Display

These poignant displays show photographs of Bloemhof Flats, a multiple-block housing development that was built over slummy Wells Square, and was famed for its football team.

Little Wonder Bookshop 10

It might be small, but this bookshop (right) on the ground floor stocks a comprehensive selection of titles about District Six and the many other forced mass evictions undertaken by the apartheid regime.

9 Sound Domes

Place your shoes on the marked footprint in front of the mural on the inside front wall of the first floor, and listen to a sequence of ten different stories narrated by former residents of District Six.

The Destruction of District Six

Cape Town's sixth municipal district was established in 1867 on the slopes below Devil's Peak. Its residents comprised freed slaves, immigrants and people of mixed race – the so-called Coloureds. The forced removal of Black residents by the police started in 1901; by 1967, 60,000 residents had been removed to the Cape Flats. The first to return post-apartheid were handed their house keys by Mandela.

TOP 10 Castle of Good Hope

Constructed between 1666 and 1679, the imposing Castle of Good Hope is the oldest functional building in South Africa. Pentagonal in shape, the castle was built with slate quarried on Robben Island and sandstone from Lion's Head, a small mountain which is sandwiched between Table Mountain and Signal Hill. The original position of the castle was right alongside Table Bay to protect the nascent Dutch settlement from naval invasion. Having long outlived its original function – the seaward wall now stands about 1 km (half a mile) inland after land reclamation – the castle serves as the military headquarters of the Western Cape. Following an extensive program of restoration that took place during 1969–93, it now houses two permanent museums and hosts occasional temporary exhibitions.

Main entrance

🕒 If you visit on a weekday, aim to be at the main gate at 10am or noon for the key ceremony and firing of the signal cannon.

📍 Situated inside the castle to the left of the main entrance gate, De Goewerneur Restaurant serves inexpensive snacks and light meals that have a Cape Malay influence.

1 Leeuhek & Moat

The way to the entrance is by crossing a moat (above). On the way is the Leeuhek (Lion's Gate), a sentry portal, which was built in 1720 and crowned with two lion sculptures.

2 Main Entrance

Built in 1683 to replace the seaward entrance, the main entrance is notable for its bell tower made of imported yellow ystelsteen and sculpted masonry depicting a lion with seven arrows to represent the provinces of Netherlands. A key ceremony is held here on weekdays.

The key ceremony

3 Block B

The castle's oldest section (below) to the right of the main entrance dates from the 1660s. A staircase leads to the grassy bastion, offering superb views across the Grand Parade.

4 Governor's & Secunde Houses
 Part of the 12-m (39-ft) high inner wall that bisects the courtyard, the Governor's and Secunde houses were built by Simon van der Stel in the 1690s to accommodate himself and his secunde (second-in-command).

5 Kat Balcony
 This ornate balcony (left) has an Anton Anreith bas-relief sculpture. During Dutch colonial times, it was the site for greeting visitors and reading out judicial sentences.

6 William Fehr Collection
 Reached via the Kat Balcony, this collection donated by Dr William Fehr includes paintings by Thomas Baines. Other works give an insight into the lives of early settlers.

7 Military Museum
 The Cape's military past, from the first clash between Bartolomeu Dias and the locals in 1488 to the 1899–1902 Anglo-Boer War, is documented here (above).

City Hall
 Cape Town had no city hall prior to 1905, when the foundation was laid in front of the Grand Parade opposite the castle. The Italian Renaissance-style exterior houses interiors with marble staircases and a stained-glass window commemorating King Edward VII. On his release from jail, Mandela made his first public speech from City Hall's balcony.

8 Archway & Old Well
 The archway connecting the courtyard's two parts is flanked by the covered well that once provided water to the castle's residents, and a memorial to fatalities of World War I.

Good Hope Art Workshop 10
 This community project offers a working space to aspiring young artists (right). Visitors are welcome to watch artists at work or view completed canvases.

9 Dungeon & Torture Chamber
 This room below the Nassau Bastion was the site where prisoners were tortured, in accordance with the Dutch law that required a confession before sentencing.

TOP 10 Table Mountain

South Africa's most celebrated geographical landmark, Table Mountain dominates the Cape Town skyline from almost every direction. This remarkably flat (hence the name) sandstone plateau basks in golden sunlight or is sometimes swathed in the cloudy shroud locals refer to as the "tablecloth". It is reckoned to be the world's most frequently climbed massif, but most people reach the top using the cableway that first opened in 1929 and celebrated its 18-millionth passenger in July 2007. The main attraction of the summit is the fantastic views, which capture Cape Town and the eponymous Peninsula in their full geological glory. The plateau is also an important sanctuary for fynbos vegetation and associated wildlife, and probably ranks as the "number one" day out from Cape Town.

Table Mountain cable car

1 The cableway is inoperable on days when mist and cloud settles on the mountain, so if you arrive in Cape Town in good weather, make it your first sightseeing priority.

2 The Dizzy Dassie self-service restaurant, set in an old sandstone building, is a great spot for a high-altitude meal and is very reasonably priced.

1 Cableway

The breathtaking 5-minute ride seems too short in this circular cable car, complete with rotating floor and 360-degree views of Cape Town and Table Bay. It travels within nerve-racking inches of the sheer cliff face below the Upper Cableway Station.

2 Upper Cableway Viewpoint

Emerge from the Upper Cableway Station for a view of the pinnacle of Signal Hill (left), Robben Island in Table Bay and the Hottentots Holland on the eastern horizon.

3 Fynbos Vegetation

A sweeping glance over Table Mountain's sandstone plateau might be your first exposure to fynbos, a heath-like cover whose muted shades are offset by fiery pink proteas, multicoloured disas and spectral silvertrees.

4 Birdlife

The fynbos attracts nectar-dependent sunbirds and sugarbirds. The redwing starling (right) and chat often visit the summit. Look out for swifts, kestrels and the black eagle.

5 Dassies & Other Mammals

The Dizzy Dassie Restaurant is a great place to look for the rock hyrax, or dassie, a loveable guinea-pig look-alike often seen basking on the rocky plateau. Other wildlife here include baboon, klipspringer, eland and the gaudy agama lizard.

6 Dassie, Agama & Klipspringer Trails

These circular, wheelchair-friendly walks (left), though not teeming with wildlife, offer fantastic views.

7 Sign 15 Viewpoint

This viewpoint offers sweeping vistas over the mountainous spine of the Cape Peninsula, with glimpses of Simon's Town and Kommetjie through the hills.

8 Abseil Africa

A must for adventurous travellers is Abseil Africa's 112-m (367-ft) abseil route (above) down the ledge of Table Mountain overlooking Camps Bay (see p49).

Tips for Walkers

Table Mountain has several well-marked trails leading to the summit, which have been graded according to their difficulty. All hikers must wear proper walking boots and are advised to check with the Lower Cableway Station before setting out, as weather conditions may deteriorate without warning. Hiking on windy or misty days is not recommended.

9 Maclear's Beacon

The highest point on Table Mountain (below) is an attractive goal for peak-baggers and rambles alike. There's some great scenery along the way, too.

10 Platteklip Gorge Trail

This non-mechanized alternative to the cableway (above) runs to the Lower Cableway Station from Maclear's Beacon.

The walk between the cableway stations via Platteklip Gorge takes 2–4 hours in either direction, depending on your fitness level.

TOP 10 Kirstenbosch National Botanical Garden

Kirstenbosch, one of the world's great botanical gardens, was established in 1913 to protect the immense floral wealth of the Western Cape. On the eastern slopes of Table Mountain, the garden is located on the former private estate of Jan Van Riebeeck (see p35). Later the property of CJ Rhodes, the garden was bequeathed to the nation in 1902. Today, the lower slopes are planted with lush indigenous flora, blending into a natural cover of fynbos and forest at higher altitudes, accessible by a network of footpaths.

6 Serious botanists should time their visit to coincide with the free guided walks at 10am and 11am from Tuesday to Saturday. Sunset concerts are held on Sundays between December–March.

6 The Silvertree Deli and Restaurant serves a range of meals and snacks. It also arranges picnic lunch baskets to take out onto the lawns.

1 Visitors Centre & Shop

The centre, which is at the entrance gate, sells a good map of the garden. A souvenir shop (below) and the Botanical Society Bookshop, stocked with books about South Africa's flora and fauna, are also located here.

2 Conservatory

The glass-topped conservatory boasts several plants from different South African habitats. At the centre, a spectacular kokerboom (tree-sized aloe), typical of the arid Kalahari, rises above other species.

3 Gondwanaland Garden

The rocks on display here (below) date back to when there was only one continent, Gondwanaland. The oldest is 3.2 billion years old.

Mathews Rockery 4

Mathews Rockery has a labyrinthine collection of dry-country plants (right) including massive tree aloes. It is at its most spectacular in winter, when the orange aloe blooms attract nectar-eating sunbirds.

5 Van Riebeeck's Hedge

This thick hedge (left) of native wild almonds planted by Jan van Riebeeck in 1660 marked the boundary of the fledgling Cape Colony. The cyanide-infused nuts of this plant are inedible.

6 Cycad Garden & The Dell

The garden's oldest part is also the most attractive, with riparian trees, a stream and a pond set below a steep slope of ancient cycads whose spiky leaves evolved over 200 million years ago.

7 Fynbos Walk

This footpath passes through pastel-shaded fynbos vegetation unique to the Cape (centre). The salmon-hued proteas found here bloom in winter and spring when they attract the long-tailed Cape sugarbird.

8 Useful Plants Garden

Complete with well-marked signs, this garden has a selection of medicinal plants used to treat everything from headaches and impotence to secondary symptoms of HIV-AIDS.

Wildlife in the Gardens

Though best known for its plants, Kirstenbosch also supports varied fauna, with its 200 vertebrate species. The birds range from the Cape sugarbird and orange-breasted sunbird to the spectacular black eagle that breeds on Table Mountain cliffs and gem-like malachite kingfishers that haunt the streams. Mammals include hyraxes and mongooses and two frog species found only on Table Mountain.

9 Statue Garden

Situated in the eastern corner of Kirstenbosch, the sprawling Statue Garden is scattered with superb examples of contemporary Zimbabwean and South African stone sculptures (right), created by rising stars of the local art scene.

10 Vlei

A wooden boardwalk crosses the small reed-lined vlei, (marsh). It is a magnet for birds, particularly during the summer months when it serves as a breeding ground for the brightly plumed weavers and bishops.

TOP 10 Groot Constantia Wine Estate

Founded by Simon van der Stel in 1685, Groot Constantia is the oldest wine estate in South Africa and possibly the most famous. It boasts a wonderful setting below the Constantiaberg on the Cape Peninsula some 10 km (6 miles) south of central Cape Town. Home to some of the country's most interesting Cape Dutch architecture, it boasts two gabled buildings completed under the late-18th-century proprietorship of Hendrik Cloete. It was under the Cloete family, which owned the farm from 1778 to 1885, that Constantia's dessert wines won international acclaim and the estate became the official supplier to the exiled Napoleon Bonaparte on St Helena. The estate was bought by the Cape Government in 1885 and is now run by a trust.

Orientation Centre

1 Most visitors dash in and out to see the museums and sample the wines, but it's worth exploring this lovely estate at leisure on foot.

2 For traditional Cape food, the estate has two excellent restaurants.

1 Wine-Tasting Cellar

Just inside the entrance gate, the wine-tasting and sales centre offers excellent wines. The highly praised Grand Constance (left) revives the dessert wine tradition that earned the estate its fame.

2 Historic Gates & Main Drive

The magnificent main drive leads right up to the main complex, passing through a gate (below) that dates from the 18th century.

3 Manor House Façade

Expanding on Van der Stel's house, Hendrik Cloete later added the front gables and commissioned the Anton Anreith sculpture in the niche.

4 Orientation Centre

The orientation centre is a useful first port of call, with its scale model of the estate and informative panels discussing the long history of Constantia.

5 Historic Gardens
 Dotted with trees planted in Van der Stel's day, the estate gardens are peaceful and ideal to walk around. They afford views of the vineyards and the sandstone Constantiaberg cliffs.

6 Manor House Museum
 This museum in the Manor House is decorated in a style typical of an 18th-century estate owner (left). The furniture and art was donated by collector Alfred de Pass.

7 Cloete Cellar
 A narrow structure, the building has South Africa's famous triangular gable and a striking Rococo pediment sculpted by Anton Anreith. Originally a wine cellar, it now displays antique wine storage vessels dating up until the 20th century (right).

8 Historic Bath
 This ornate oval pool (below) located on the Constantiaberg slopes is of uncertain origin, but it is similar in style to the gable of the main house which dates from the late 18th century.

Simon van der Stel

One of the most influential figures of the early colonial era, Simon van der Stel was born in 1639 to Commander Adriaan van der Stel and had a half-Malay mother. He became commander of the Cape in 1679 and was upgraded to Governor in 1691. Van der Stel played a key role in the foundation of Stellenbosch and Simon's Town, both named after him. He retired in 1699 and dedicated himself to the development of Constantia, where he died peacefully in 1712.

10 Coach House Museum
 In a courtyard behind the Jonkershuis, the Isaacs Transport Collection features old coaches, carts, bicycles and vintage mule and ox wagons (above).

9 Jonkershuis
 Expanded from an outbuilding, the thatched Jonkershuis (house of the eldest son or jonkheer) is an attractive Cape Dutch building with a fine restaurant (below).

TOP 10 Simon's Town and Boulders Beach

South Africa's third-oldest settlement, Simon's Town is named after Governor Simon van der Stel, who selected its harbour as a safe alternative to Table Bay during the stormy Cape winter. The town has a strong historical feel, reflecting its 160-year tenure as Britain's main regional naval base, prior to being handed over to the South African navy in 1957. But far from being the boozy sailors' hangout one might expect, Simon's Town comes across as oddly subdued and genteel. It is lent a distinct character by its wealth of Victorian architecture and lovely location on the steep slopes of the Cape Peninsula above a string of sandy beaches. Most famous of these is Boulders Beach, with its recently founded colony of 3,000 penguins.

Simon's Town Museum 2

Built as a Governor's Residence, this museum (right) houses an exhibition on apartheid's forced removals and a more light-hearted display about a seadog, Just Nuisance.

3 South African Naval Museum

Situated in a dockyard warehouse founded in the 1740s, this specialized museum is known for its life-sized replica of a submarine's interior and ship's bridge, the latter with a simulated rocking motion.

4 Historic Mile

The concentration of old buildings in Simon's Town is most dense along the so-called Historic Mile – Victorian façades that run along St George's Street (above). Stop by the quaint bar at the Lord Nelson Inn, built in 1802.

5 Jubilee Square and Quay

At the heart of historic Simon's Town lie palm-lined Jubilee Square and the Quayside Mall which overlook the harbour. Daily boat trips launch from the harbour's jetty to explore False Bay and Seal Island.

6 Seaforth Beach

Sheltered by rocks and occasionally visited by penguins from neighbouring Boulders, Seaforth (below) offers safe swimming in calm weather. Its popular beachfront restaurant offers a retreat when the wind gets too strong.

7 Boulders Visitor Centre

Before visiting the penguin colony, stop at the visitor centre at the entrance gate to watch a DVD about these charismatic creatures. There are also displays about marine birds in general.

8 Foxy Beach

Reached by a pair of boardwalks, sandy Foxy Beach lies at the heart of the African penguin colony (centre). You can glimpse several hundred penguins surfing, squabbling, sunbathing or strutting around.

9 Boulders Beach

The sheltering rocks after which Boulders is named make it a lovely, secluded spot for a swim. Although it supports fewer penguins than Foxy Beach, you're bound to spot several between the rocks.

Boulders Beach Orientation

Boulders lies to the south of Simon's Town and is accessed from the main road to Cape Point via Seaforth or Bellevue Road. Foxy and Boulders Beaches lie within an annexe of Table Mountain National Park and are entered via two separate gates. The Boulders Visitor Centre is at the Foxy Beach gate. Willis Walk, which connects the two gates, is outside the park and is open at all times.

Willis Walk

Situated outside 10 the national park, this wheelchair-friendly boardwalk (right) offers opportunities to spot penguins and their offspring, and fynbos birds such as Cape canaries and martins.

TOP 10 Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve

Though Cape Point is not the southern-most point in Africa, most visitors walk away with the distinct sensation that they've seen the end of the continent, such is the scenic drama of the storm-battered headland, whose precipitous cliffs rise to 250 m (820 ft) from the vast blue sea. The Cape of Good Hope (now part of Table Mountain National Park) is also of interest for its wealth of fauna, which ranges from the endemic bontebok and Cape mountain zebra to breeding cormorants and passing whales. The Cape's nature reserve has a cover of pastel-hued fynbos (see box on p78), which comprises more plant species than are indigenous to the entire British Isles.

6 Semi-habituated baboons lurk around the car park below Cape Point. Though they are a fascinating sight, baboons can be dangerous if you are carrying food.

9 The Two Oceans Restaurant adjacent to the car park serves mid-range meals during the day. Tasty ostrich platters are served at the Cape Point Ostrich Farm.

1 Buffelsfontein Visitor Centre

This Cape Dutch farmhouse (above) should be your first stop if you plan to explore the area. Apart from a stock of books and leaflets about the reserve, it also contains a natural history museum.

Kanonkop Walk 2

A short walking trail that starts at Buffelsfontein, Kanonkop Walk leads to the old signal cannon after which it is named. It passes a 19th-century lime kiln and offers some splendid views across False Bay (right). Look out for the blue disa that flowers here in January and February.

A view of Cape Point

3 Rooikrans

Just 1 km (half a mile) from the main road to Cape Point, this superb viewpoint is the best spot for seasonal whale watching. A footpath leads to the rocky beach below.

4 Cape Point Lighthouse

Built in 1913–19 with rocks carried by hand from the present-day car park, this is South Africa's brightest lighthouse (above). But the draw here is the stunning scenery, and this seldom disappoints – rain or shine.

5 Gifkommetjie Circular Drive

This road loop leads through subtly shaded fields of fynbos to a ridge studded with mushroom-like balancing rock formations. The views are stunning and energetic visitors can follow the little-used 3-hour walking trail to Hoek van Bobejaan (Baboon's Corner).

6 Platboom Beach

This little-visited beach is ideal for swimming. It is reached by a road that passes a giant cross erected in 1965 to commemorate Bartolomeu Dias' landing in 1488 (see p34).

7 Climb/Funicular to Cape Point

The final ascent to spectacular Cape Point involves hiking a steep footpath, or taking the funicular (above) – a rope-supported railway designed for such gradients.

8 Bordjiesdrif

The tidal pools at this rocky beach are good for marine life and the artificial rock pool above the beach is safe to swim in. Sights include a cross erected to honour Vasco da Gama's landing in 1497, and the Black Rock, an igneous formation.

10 Cape Point Ostrich Farm

Immediately outside the park entrance, this child-friendly private ostrich farm offers an opportunity to get up close with the world's largest birds (below). It is a good place to pick up ostrich-derived souvenirs, from giant hollowed eggs to plush leatherware.

9 Cape of Good Hope Footpath

If the windswept ascent to Cape Point hasn't robbed you of breath, try the 90-minute return trail (above) from the car park to the Cape of Good Hope beach below, offering stirring views of the lighthouse and good marine birdwatching.

Whales in False Bay

Between July and November, the whales that pass through False Bay can be observed from Rooikrans and other beaches along the reserve's eastern seaboard. The most common is the southern right whale, which typically reaches a length of around 15 m (49 ft). It is also possible to glimpse Bryde's whales, humpback whales and killer whales (orcas). Call (021) 787 9140 for news of recent sightings.

TOP 10 Stellenbosch

Founded by Simon van der Stel in 1679, Stellenbosch is the second oldest town in South Africa, and arguably the most beautiful. Running north from the banks of the Eerste River below the Jonkershoek Mountains, the stately avenues of this university town are lined with venerable Cape Dutch buildings and the shady trees that earned it the nickname of Eikestad (Town of Oaks). This old-world ambience is offset by a contemporary array of restaurants, cafés, bars and shops. It is worth spending a night here to explore the surrounding Winelands; the short drive to nearby Franschoek via the Helshoogte Pass is packed with must-see sights (see pp30–31).

Housed in a Rhenish parsonage, this museum has tiny houses (right), antique dolls and a re-created Blue Train travelling from a miniature Stellenbosch to Matjiesfontein.

3 Dorp Street
The best preserved road in town, Dorp Street is lined with pre-20th-century Cape Dutch buildings. The finest façades can be seen between the junctions of Herte and Drostdy Streets.

4 Oom Samie se Winkel

Named after former owner Oom (Uncle) Samie Volsteedt, this landmark store (see p86) stocks home-made confectionary and Africana (below).

5 Rupert Museum

To the town's southwest, this museum of South African art exhibits works by artists such as Irma Stern and Moses Kotler.

6 Stellenbosch Village Museum

Each of this museum's period-furnished houses (below) represent phases in the town's development; the most recent dating from the 1830s.

7 Moederkerk

Opposite the Village Museum, on the site of the original Dutch Reformed Church that burned down in 1710, stands the imposing Moederkerk (Mother Church), a tall Neo-Gothic construction whose steeple was completed in 1866.

University of Stellenbosch

South Africa's premier Afrikaans university started life in 1866 as the Stellenbosch Gymnasium in a building that still stands on Dorp Street. The university alumni include four of South Africa's presidents (Jan Smuts, DF Malan, JB Hertzog and HF Verwoed) and anti-apartheid activists such as Beyers Naudé and Heinrich Grosskopf. The town's Botanical Garden was founded by the university in 1922.

8 Botanical Garden

The small but leafy Botanical Garden, the town's best-kept secret, particularly notable for its collections of fynbos plants and dry-country succulents from Namibia.

Lanzerac Estate 10

This is the closest estate to Stellenbosch. First planted with vines in 1692, it was then known as Scoongezicht (Clean Face). Excellent wines and a restaurant (right) make it worth a detour.

9 Bergkelder Wine Cellar

This distinctive building nestled below the Papegaaiberg has more than 200 wines. Taste the Cape's finest produce in the atmospheric cellar.

The Huguenots

The Huguenots were French Protestants who fled France to escape Catholic persecution during Louis XIV's reign. Franschoek, then known as Olifantshoek (Elephant's Corner), is a legacy to their influx to the Cape in 1688. Due partly to a Dutch East India Company (VOC) edict that Dutch should be the exclusive language of education, local government and commerce, the Huguenots swiftly integrated into the established settler culture. By 1750, French was barely spoken in the Cape, but the Huguenot influence was a major contributor to South Africa's emergence as a top wine producer. Furthermore, many Afrikaans surnames are of French origin. While some like De Villiers and Malan have survived unchanged, others have been bastardized, such as Cronjé (Cronier) and Nel (Neél).

Left Foundation of the UDF Right The Anglo-Boer War*TOP 10 Moments in History*1 Prehistory

The earliest signs of human habitation along Table Bay, dating back 1.4 million years, consist of Stone Age tools of the Acheulean culture. San hunter-gatherers arrived around 30,000 years ago and left a legacy of rock art sites, notably the Cederberg Mountains north of Cape Town. Khoikhoi pastoralists first arrived with their fat-tailed sheep around 2,000 years ago.

2 The Portuguese Arrive

In 1488, Portuguese navigator Bartolomeu Dias became the first European to round the Cape. This led to a succession of clashes with the Khoikhoi that culminated in Captain d'Almeida's death in Table Bay in 1510.

3 Foundation of Cape Town

In 1652, Jan van Riebeeck, an employee of the Dutch East India Company (VOC), founded a victual station in Table Bay to provide fresh produce to passing VOC ships. Within a century, Cape Town was home to settlers from Europe, though slaves outnumbered free citizens.

4 British Occupation and the Great Trek

The relatively liberal governance of Cape Town by the British in 1795 led to the emancipation of slaves in 1834. This so angered slave-owning Boers (Dutch farmers) that over 12,000 moved north in the Great Trek of 1836–43, where they founded Boer Republics, notably the Free State and Transvaal.

5 Anglo-Boer War and Unionization

The Anglo-Boer War of 1899–1902 was initiated by English imperialists to gain control of the Johannesburg goldfields. This bloody three-year engagement led to the formation of the Union of South Africa in 1910 which comprised the Cape, Natal, Transvaal and the Free State. Former Boer general Louis Botha became the first prime minister.

6 Foundation of Apartheid

After the National Party (NP) was voted in by the electorate in 1948, parliamentary acts formalized racial inequities into the ideological monolith apartheid ("separateness").

Nelson Mandela, former ANC leader

Union workers protesting against apartheid

7 Sharpeville Massacre and Rivonia Trial

Resistance to apartheid was galvanized by the police massacre of 69 civilians at a peaceful protest at Sharpeville in 1960. This led to the formation of Umkhonto we Sizwe (the armed wing of the banned ANC) under Nelson Mandela, who was convicted of treason along with other anti-apartheid leaders in the Rivonia Trial of 1962–3.

8 Foundation of the UDF

In 1983, some 15,000 anti-apartheid activists congregated at Mitchell's Plain to form the United Democratic Front (UDF), effectively the domestic representative of the ANC in apartheid's dying years.

9 Release of Nelson Mandela

President FW de Klerk lifted the ban on the ANC in February 1990, and Mandela was released from prison after 27 years. He made his first speech outside Cape Town's City Hall (see p17).

10 Democracy

In May 1994, the ANC swept to victory in South Africa's first fully democratic elections, after securing eight of the nine provinces, the exception being the Western Cape, the last stronghold of the NP. Mandela was inaugurated as president.

Top 10 Famous South Africans

1 Jan van Riebeeck

Founder of Cape Town, Van Riebeeck was commander of the Cape until 1662.

2 Simon van der Stel

Governor of the Cape 1679–99, Van der Stel was the founder of Stellenbosch and prime mover behind the development of the Constantia wineries.

3 Cecil John Rhodes

British mining magnate Rhodes founded the diamond company De Beers, and was prime minister of the Cape from 1890 to 1895.

4 Breyten Breytenbach (b. 1939)

This Cape Town-educated poet and novelist, imprisoned for anti-apartheid activities, now resides in France.

5 Nelson Mandela

South Africa's most famous son was incarcerated in prisons around Cape Town for 27 years (see p13).

6 Archbishop Desmond Tutu

This Nobel Peace Prize winner served as Anglican Archbishop of Cape Town between 1985 and 1995 (see p9).

7 Brenda Fassie

The "Madonna of the Townships" was a popular recording artist prior to her drug-related death in 2004.

8 Jacques Kallis

One of South Africa's greatest cricketers.

9 Benni McCarthy

This footballer has scored 29 international goals.

10 JM Coetzee

Recipient of the 2003 Nobel Prize for Literature and two-time Booker Prize winner.

TOP 10 Viewpoints

1 Table Mountain Upper Cableway

Within 15 minutes of the Upper Cableway station, a succession of viewpoints reveal the geography of the Western Cape, from nearby Signal Hill and City Bowl to surf-splashed Robben Island and False Bay, all overshadowed by the Hottentots Holland Mountains. No less impressive are the views across the Cape Peninsula's mountainous spine to Cape Point.

2 Signal Hill

Rising between the City Bowl and Sea Point, flat-topped 350-m (1,148-ft) Signal Hill is an extension of a taller, hornlike rock formation known as Lion's Head. Accessible by car or foot, the picnic site affords a stunning view over the city centre, especially at sunset with the red western Atlantic sky. Many visitors like to visit in time for the firing of the Noon Gun, a tradition that dates back to the 18th century (see p62).

Views of Cape Town from Signal Hill

3 Rhodes Memorial

Situated on the eastern slopes of Table Mountain, this is a rather bombastic memorial. The views over the Cape Flats to distant Helderberg and the Hottentots Holland Mountains are best enjoyed from the adjacent coffee shop (see p73).

4 Chapman's Peak Drive

One of the world's most spectacular marine drives, this toll road was constructed in 1915–22 along the band of shale that divides the granite base of Chapman's Peak from the overlying sandstone. It winds along the mountainside between Hout Bay and Noordhoek with viewpoints along the way. Stop to admire the sheer cliffs of Chapman's Peak and the Atlantic battering the shore below (see p78).  Map G3 • Light vehicles: adm • www.chapmanspeakdrive.co.za

5 Cape Point

Situated at the southern tip of the Cape Peninsula within the Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve (see pp26–7), Cape Point is reached via a steep footpath or a chuffing funicular. The views include windswept cliffs and Atlantic-battered beaches to an open seascape that stretches all the way south to Antarctica (see pp26–7).

6 Rooikrans

Part of the Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve, this under-utilized viewpoint provides a thrilling north-facing vantage on the False Bay seaboard. There are great whale watching opportunities between June and November (see p26).

The vineyards surrounding the Tokara Estate

7 Bloubergstrand

About 10 km (6 miles) north of Cape Town, the Bloubergstrand beach hems in Table Bay on the West Coast. This "Blue Mountain Beach" is named after the flat-topped Table Mountain, which looms over its sandy expanse. Usually at its prettiest in the morning, the beach is worth visiting in the afternoon as well, when you can enjoy the vista from alfresco cafés (see p61).

8 Tokara Wine Estate

At the crest of Helshoogte Pass, this wine and olive estate boasts perhaps the most scenic location in the Winelands. The views stretch across eucalyptus-swathed slopes to False Bay and – on a clear day – distant Table Mountain. Best enjoyed with a chilled glass of the estate's crisp Zondernaam Sauvignon Blanc (see p30).

9 Franschhoek Pass

This pass is often ignored by tourists because it leads to remote Villiersdorp rather than trendy

Stellenbosch. But it is worth following this road for a couple of kilometres to take in the lovely views over the thatched rooftops and the expansive vineyards that are located in the Franschhoek Valley (see p31).

10 Paarl Mountain

The world's second-largest granite outcrop, Paarl Mountain is on the outskirts of Paarl. The mountain is at its most spectacular at dusk when it glows like a pearl, from where it gets its name. A 2-hour trail leads to the top of the outcrop. Views from this point stretch to the fynbos-covered lower slopes and the bustling town, and extend to the surrounding vineyards and the Drakenstein (Dragon's Stone) Mountain's outline. 📍 Map E1

2 Scratch Patch

With branches in Simon's Town and the V&A Waterfront, Scratch Patch resembles a psychedelic gravel heap. A profusion of colourful, tumble-polished gemstones – including tiger's eye, lapis lazuli, blue lace agate, rose quartz, amethyst and jasper – is scattered on the floor. For a small fee, kids (and adults) can "scratch" around and fill bagfuls to take home. 📍 The V&A Waterfront: Map A2; Dock Rd; (021) 419 9429; open 9am–5:30pm daily • Simon's Town: Map H4; Dido Rd; (021) 786 2020; open 8:30am–4:45pm Mon–Fri, 9am–5:30pm Sat–Sun • www.scratchpatch.co.za

3 Planetarium

The domed planetarium, part of the National Museum complex in the Company's Garden, features daily shows introducing the brilliant southern night sky.

Other specialized shows include programmes for kids (see p8).

4 World of Birds

Situated in Hout Bay, World of Birds is Africa's largest bird park with over 400 indigenous and exotic species, including parrots and barbets, in walk-through aviaries.

Visitors can glimpse the various aspects of birdlife, right from eggs in incubation to the feeding of chicks. The park also features reptiles and mammals, especially monkeys, in its Monkey Jungle (see p79).

5 Tygerberg Zoo

The only zoo in the Cape Town area, Tygerberg is situated in the Winelands and houses 1,400 individual animals from 280 species. The focus is on primates,

A lion at Tygerberg Zoo

small antelope and tortoises. Big cats are also well represented. The zoo doubles as a breeding centre for endangered wildlife, and also has a farmyard for children. 🗺️ Map D2 • 15 km (9 miles) from Stellenbosch, btwn Cape Town and Paarl • (021) 884 4494 • Open 9am–5pm daily • Adm

6 Spier Wine Estate
The most child friendly of the Cape wine estates, Spier has a playground near the Deli and an enclosed one across the river. Other attractions include tame cheetahs, a centre for birds of prey, and pony rides (see p83).

7 Ratanga Junction
This vast theme park to the north of the city has 27 rides, including a giant Ferris Wheel and an 18-m (59-ft) waterslide. Options such as dodgem cars, train rides and a mini-Ferris are more child-oriented. There is also a mini-golf course, a stone patch (similar to Scratch Patch), a baby crocodile farm and fast food outlets. 🗺️ Map B2 • N1 Sable Rd turn-off • (021) 550 8500 • Open 10am–5pm daily (only for the Western Cape school holidays) • Adm for rides • www.ratanga.co.za

9 Two Oceans Aquarium
South Africa's leading aquarium boasts an extraordinary diversity of marine life both from the chilly Atlantic and the warmer Indian Ocean on the east coast. The seals, sharks and giant rays are a favourite with children. A free activity centre in the basement hosts puppet shows and educational games. Visit at feeding time (see p10).

10 Imhoff Farm
This restored 18th-century farm on the Atlantic seaboard en route to Cape Point has domestic animals roaming the farmyard. Activities for kids include pony and camel rides. A pleasant coffee shop sells home-made cheese. 🗺️ Map G4 • Kommetjie • (021) 783 4545 • Open 10am–5pm Tue–Sun • www.imhofffarm.co.za

8 Drakenstein Lion Park
The best place to see lions in the Cape Town area is this park near Paarl, which provides sanctuary to captive-born lions that cannot be introduced into the wild. Viewing platforms overlook large enclosures that house the 15 lions. Include a trip to nearby Butterfly World when you visit (see p84).

Feeding time for lions in the Drakenstein Lion Park is at 4pm on Mon, Wed and Fri.

Proclaimed as a national park in 1998, this park amalgamates a series of reserves that follow the Cape Peninsula south to Cape Point. This rich biodiversity, with an estimated 2,000 plant species and fauna from the Himalayan tahr to endemic birds and frogs, thrives within metropolitan Cape Town. ☎ Map T4 • (012) 701 8692 • Opening hrs vary for each reserve • Adm for select reserves • www.tmnp.co.za

2 Kirstenbosch National Botanical Garden

On the eastern slopes of Table Mountain, these landscaped gardens showcase South Africa's peerless floral varieties, and can be explored on a network of well-maintained, wheelchair-friendly footpaths (see pp20–21).

3 Silvermine Nature Reserve

The least publicized of the three main blocs that comprise Table Mountain National Park, Silvermine is a refreshing alternative to the Table Mountain Cableway. The Silvermine River Walk provides an introduction to fynbos vegetation and birdlife, while the steeper walk to Noordhoek Peak and Elephant's Eye Cave offers oceanic views. ☎ Map B4 • (021) 701 8692 • Open May–Aug 8am–5pm; Sep–Apr 7am–6pm • www.tmnp.co.za

Cape Cormorant*4 De Hoop Nature Reserve

This reserve supports plant, bird and mammal species in the world's largest surviving tract of coastal fynbos. It stretches inland to the craggy Potsberg, a breeding site for the endangered Cape vulture. Used mostly by hikers and cyclists, it can also be explored by road (see p95).

5 Jonkershoek and Assegaibosch Nature Reserves

A ramblers' paradise, these adjoining reserves protect the Jonkershoek Mountains, which rise 1,526 m (5,005 ft) on the eastern outskirts of Stellenbosch. Apart from the wildlife and montane fynbos, it also offers day walks, ranging from a stroll through the Assegaibosch wild-flower garden, to the challenging 18-km (9-mile) Swartboskloof Trail (see p83).

Watsonia flowers in spring at Jonkershoek Nature Reserve

6 Rietvlei Nature Reserve

Located in suburban Milnerton and Table View, Rietvlei is one of the top bird-watching sites in Cape Town and provides protection to the Diep River floodplain, which attracts freshwater and marine birds.

Almost 200 species have been recorded to date. Between October and March, there is an influx of migrant waders. There is a hide and footpath here. 📍 Map T4 • Grey Ave, Table View • (021) 557 5509 • Open 7:30am–5pm daily • Adm • www.friendsofrietvlei.co.za

Harold Porter National Botanical Garden

7 Harold Porter National Botanical Garden

This botanical garden in Betty's Bay is an excellent place to get familiar with fynbos flora, including the Disa uniflora in its natural habitat, proteas, ericas and orchids. The birdlife found in the garden is an added attraction for avid birdwatchers, with most fynbos endemics well-represented (see p98).

8 Paarl Mountain Nature Reserve

Situated on the outskirts of Paarl, with a mix of montane fynbos and indigenous forests, this reserve protects the granite domes which give the town its name. Good for a bracing walk, the spot is frequented by anglers and mountain bikers. 📍 Map E1 • Jan Phillips Mountain Dr, Paarl • (021) 807 3601 • Open 7am–6pm daily, summer 7am–7pm • Fee for use of a vehicle

9 West Coast National Park

Centred on the sheltered Langebaan Lagoon, this sprawling marine park is popular with bird and watersport enthusiasts. Apart from the coastal scenery, attractions include dry-country wildlife such as oryx and springbok. Visit in August–September, when the blooming wildflowers in the Postberg section are a stunning sight (see p96).

10 Bird Island

This rocky outcrop, lying offshore of the west coast port of Lambert's Bay, is the world's only accessible breeding colony of the striking Cape gannet birds. The island also hosts Cape cormorants, penguins and seals. 📍 Map S1 • Lambert's Bay • (082) 455 5992 • Open 7am–5pm daily, summer 7am–7pm daily • Adm • www.capenature.co.za

TOP 10 Wildlife Experiences

1 Birdwatching at Rondevlei Bird Sanctuary

This large wetland on the Cape Flats is easily the best place to spot waterbirds in suburban Cape Town. Among the 230 species recorded are the great white pelican, African spoonbill and various herons. Two perpetually grunting hippos were introduced in 1982. 📍 Map 13

2 Harbour Cruise

Operators on the V&A Waterfront offer cruises through Table Bay, with a near certainty of sighting Cape fur seals and various gulls and terns. On a good day you might also catch sight of dolphins (see pp10–11).

3 Dassies on Table Mountain

Watch the endearing semi-tame dassies (hyraxes) sunbathing on Table Mountain. Resembling guinea pigs, but larger and sharper-toothed, these oddball creatures are dwarfish relics of a group of ungulates that dominated the African herbivore niche about 35 million years ago (see pp18–19).

4 Penguin Colony, Boulders Beach

Waddling around like tipsy tuxedoed waiters, these flightless birds are a firm fixture on the tourist itinerary. Amazingly, the 3,000-strong Boulder colony was founded by two breeding pairs as recently as 1982 (see pp24–5).

5 Seal Island, Near Hout Bay

A flat granite outcrop 6 km (4 miles) offshore, this island supports the Western Cape's largest seal colony (up to 75,000 individuals), along with some penguins and three species of cormorant. Though visitors are not allowed to mingle with the animals, boat tours run past the seal-lined shores (see p79).

6 Cape of Good Hope

The most southerly sector of Table Mountain National Park, the Cape of Good Hope boasts spectacular oceanic viewpoints. It also offers excellent wildlife watching – localized endemics such as bontebok, grysbok and mountain zebra coexist with the chacma baboon, eland and small grey mongoose (see pp26–7).

7 Land-Based Whale Watching

The Western Cape has the world's best land-based whale watching. Cliffs at Hermanus, De Hoop and False Bay offer vantage points to view the southern right whale breaching in the deep, sheltered bays. 📍 Peak season Jun–Nov; calving season Jul–Aug

8 Caged Shark Dives

Caged dives to see the great white shark in rapacious action rank as the ultimate submarine wildlife encounter for thrill-seekers. However, this baiting of sharks has been condemned by conservationists; it may also be the cause of the increased attacks on swimmers and surfers. 📍 Shark Cage Diving: (021) 461 6583 • www.sharkcagediving.co.za

9 Scuba Diving and Snorkelling

The kelp forests and deep tidal pools of the Atlantic offer some excellent opportunities for diving into the deep to glimpse weird and wonderful marine creatures.

10 Aquila Private Game Reserve

Situated in the Karoo scrub of the Hex River Mountains, this reserve is the Western Cape's answer to Kruger Park. Go on guided game drives to see assorted wildlife, including the Big Five. Four-star bush accommodation is available (see p64).

Top 10 Endemic Flora and Fauna

1 King Protea

This pineapple-sized salmon-pink bloom is South Africa's national flower.

2 Red Disa

The "Pride of Table Mountain", this pretty red flower blooms Dec–Jan.

3 Silver Tree

Restricted to the Cape Peninsula, this odd protea-affiliated tree has silver-haired stems and cone-like flowers.

4 African Penguin

The only penguin that breeds in South Africa. Two other sub-Antarctic species turn up occasionally on the Cape's beaches.

5 Bontebok

This beautifully marked antelope was on the verge of extinction in the 20th century.

6 Cape Dwarf Chameleon

The most readily observed of four chameleon species from the Western Cape mountains.

7 Cape Mountain Zebra

Rescued from extinction, the Cape Mountain Zebra has fared better than its close relative, the quagga, hunted out in the 19th century.

8 Cape Sugarbird

This long-tailed fynbos dweller belongs to a family whose range is limited to South Africa and Zimbabwe.

9 Orange-Breasted Sunbird

Dazzling nectar-eater limited to flowering fynbos habitats.

10 Table Mountain Ghost Frog

TOP 10 Beaches

1 Clifton Beach Situated within easy walking distance of Sea Point and Green Point, perennially fashionable Clifton is the closest swimming beach to the city centre. Of the four sandy coves divided by granite outcrops, Fourth Beach has the best facilities, including changing rooms, public toilets, snack and soda kiosks. Deck chairs and umbrellas are available for daily rental. The waters are relatively chilly and the undertow should not be underestimated (see p62).

2 Camps Bay Overlooked by the spectacular Twelve Apostles formation on the western face of Table Mountain, this wide, sandy beach lies alongside the main road through Camps Bay below a row of trendy street cafés, restaurants and bars. A popular haunt with families over the holidays, it is generally quieter at other times. Deck chairs and umbrellas are available for hire at this beach (see p61).

Camps Bay with Lion's Head in the background

3 Sandy Bay Protected by high dunes and dotted with secluded rocky coves for sunbathing, Sandy Bay near Llandudno has long been a semi-official nudist beach. It also hosts something of a gay scene, though by no means exclusively so. It is relatively inaccessible by public transport, and often too chilly for swimming. 📍 Map G2

4 Noordhoek Set below spectacular Chapman's Peak (see p61), Noordhoek is a seemingly endless arc of glorious white sand near Kommetjie. Though too exposed to the elements to host much of a beach scene, it attracts walkers, birdwatchers and horse riders. Perfect for a long seaside stroll (see p78).

5 Muizenberg Along the northern shore of False Bay, Muizenberg was Cape Town's trendiest beach in the 1960s, but its glitz has now faded. Still, it is usually safe for swimming and excellent for surfing. The varied facilities, including a protected pool, water-slides, miniature golf course, snack shops and colourful changing rooms, ensure that the beach remains a favourite with families. It is very accessible by train from the city centre (see p77).

The rocky shores of Seaforth Beach

6 Cape of Good Hope
Set below Cape Point, this windswept beach is arguably the most beautiful on the peninsula. As well as attracting sunbathers and swimmers, the Cape is also a magnet for walkers and nature enthusiasts (see pp26–7).

7 Boulders Beach
This is a lovely, secluded beach on the southern fringe of the penguin colony (see p42). Enjoy the company of these remarkable birds, who bustle fearlessly around the same rocks where tourists sunbathe. An entrance fee is required (see p25).

8 Seaforth Beach
Like nearby Boulders, this beach, within walking distance of Simon's Town, is hemmed in by gigantic rocks. Generally, it is not too busy, and there's a chance of spotting stray penguins waddling past. The charming Seaforth restaurant with its wooden balcony overlooks the beach (see p25).

9 Bikini Beach, Strand
Less than an hour's drive east of Cape Town, secluded Bikini Beach is the most popular of the many beaches around Strand. Overlooked by the Helderberg Mountains, it offers clear views across False Bay. The shallow waters are safe for swimming, and an abundance of cafés and restaurants make it very popular with families. If the sunbathing gets monotonous, there are some great tidal rock pools at nearby Gordon's Bay. Map D4

10 Bloubergstrand
The blouberg (blue mountain) referred to is Table Mountain (see pp18–19), whose flat-topped profile is displayed in full glory on a clear day. Sandy for the most part, Bloubergstrand has enough rocky protrusions to keep it interesting. Though rather exposed in windy weather, the beach is a favourite with water-sport enthusiasts (see p61).

9 Surfing

The Western Cape offers some of the world's best surfing. The part of False Bay around Muizenberg is usually reliable, but busy in summer. Sites along the Atlantic seaboard are less busy and more challenging.

10 Kayaking and Canoeing in False Bay

Starting from Simon's Town, ideally on a windless day, paddle through scenic False Bay, and look for penguins, dolphins and whales. All first-timers can set out on calm days, but experienced adrenaline junkies prefer to kayak in stormy weather.

7 River Rafting
The closest site for river rafting is the Breede River, which runs through the Robertson Valley lying to the northeast of Cape Town. Umkulu Safaris arrange day and overnight trips. They also run ambitious four- and six-day rafting trips on the Orange River along the border with Namibia. 📞 Umkulu Trails: (021) 853 7952; www.umkulu.co.za

8 Kloofing
One of the most popular activities out of Cape Town is to go kloofing – jumping into freshwater pools from cliffs up to 15 m (49 ft) high – in the Boland Mountains north of Cape Town. The best sites, including the ominously named Suicide Gorge, are reached after a fairly long hike. 1 District Six Museum
This emotionally charged museum is a testament to the iniquitous Group Areas Act passed by the National Party in the 1950s–60s. The museum focuses on day-to-day life in District Six before apartheid's bulldozers rumbled in (see pp14–15).

2 Slave Lodge
This double-storey building opposite the Company's Garden was founded in 1679 as basic quarters for the wretched immigrants – the force behind the Cape's agricultural economy – who were imported from Malaysia and Indian Ocean islands. Now a museum, it charts the local and international history of the slave trade through a series of multimedia displays (see pp8–9).

3 Rock Art Gallery, South African Museum
South Africa is one of the world's most important repositories of rock art, with several sites dating back 10,000 years scattered through the country. The Rock Art Gallery has a superb display on this powerful prehistoric medium, including re-creations and an original panel relocated here to prevent damage by road-works. 📍 Map P5 • 25 Queen Victoria St • (021) 481 3800 • Open 10am–5pm daily • Adm • www.iziko.org.za

Top 10 Slang Words and Phrases

1 Ag!

Pronounced like the Scots "Och", this can be an expression of distaste (Ag, sis!), sympathy (Ag, shame!) or annoyance (Ag, no!).

2 Bru

Derived from the Afrikaans broer (brother), this is a generic term of male address, a bit like "dude" in the USA or "mate" in the UK.

3 Dop

An alcoholic beverage – or the act of drinking one (as in "let's have a quick dop").

4 Babalas

A colourful Cape Coloured term for a hangover.

5 Ek sé

Literally "I say", the phrase is used to prefix a statement or request in the same way.

6 Izzit?

Literally "Is it", this phrase is often interjected when another person speaks. It is similar to the English "really?"

7 Moerse

Very – as in "it's moerse cold" on a cold day.

8 Lekker

Good or nice (as in "we had a lekker time"). It can also mean tasty. Sweets (candies) are called lekkers in Afrikaans.

9 Just Now

This misleading phrase, which frequently confuses and amuses visitors to Cape Town, means "a bit later" – or "much later"!

10 Jol

The word means party or any good time, and is used both as a noun ("where's the jol?") or a verb ("let's jol").

Fêted with the Best Steakhouse in South Africa 2005 award, this popular restaurant on the V&A Waterfront is the place to go for a prime fillet or rump. More than 100 of the Cape's finest wines are available by the glass, while sought-after rare vintages are available by the bottle (see p68).

2 Den Anker Restaurant and Bar

Set on a small jetty, this is one of the Waterfront's top eateries. It serves Belgian specialities, such as rabbit, fine wines and good Belgian beers. Eat outdoors with a view of seals and boats in the harbour. In poor weather, the boat-shaped bar compensates for being indoors (see p68).

3 Africa Café

This eatery, renowned for its evening buffet of pan-African dishes, provides a "flying tour" of Africa's varied flavours. The lively bar is reason enough to linger after the buffet (see p69).

Den Anker Restaurant and Bar*4 Savoy Cabbage

This is one of Cape Town's trendiest eateries, set in a restored Victorian building in the city centre. The historic setting is offset by a funky interior, and the imaginative menu is strong on game, shellfish and vegetarian dishes (see p69).

5 Cape Malay Restaurant

Part of the Cellars-Hohenort Hotel and perhaps the city's finest traditional Cape restaurant, its daily-changing set menu is accompanied by choice Cape wines. The food is matched by gracious Cape Dutch architecture and the setting on an estate bordering the Kirstenbosch National Botanical Garden (see p75).

6 Catharina's

Set below the majestic cliffs of Steenberg (Stone Mountain) this award-winning five-star restaurant, named after the estate's eccentric 17th-century founder, is housed in an airy Cape Dutch building. Strong on traditional Cape Malay dishes, it also serves a varied selection of creative meat and seafood dishes, complemented by a good wine list (see p75).

7 Bon Appétit

Simon's Town's finest has been a fixture in Wine Magazine's "Top 100 South African Restaurants" since 2000. This exceptional French restaurant, owned by a Michelintrained chef, is housed on the ground floor of the British Hotel. Delicious French food and good wine are served by candlelight. Set menu available (see p81).

8 Volkskombuis Something of a Stellenbosch institution, this proudly South African restaurant was founded on the north bank of the Eerste River in the 1970s. It continues to serve an excellent selection of local dishes, combining traditional recipes with adventurous contemporary touches (see p90).

9 Le Quartier Francais The ultimate culinary splash-out is the Tasting Room at Le Quartier Francais in central Franschoek. Among the world's finest restaurants, it serves an eclectic selection of food and is anything but cheap. The stylish iCi Restaurant in the same building offers an affordable opportunity to sample the Le Quartier style (see p91).

10 Le Pique Nique Something about the Winelands invites lingering lawn picnics with chilled white wine. No estate offers this facility with as much panache as the Bochendal estate and its moderately pretentious Le Pique Nique, set below shady pines and blue mountains (see p91).

Top 10 South African Dishes and Delicacies

1 Bobotie

Central Cape Town

THE HISTORIC HEART OF SOUTH AFRICA'S oldest city is bound by Table Bay to the north and Table Mountain to the south. Signal Hill forms an imposing barrier between the City Bowl's inner city suburbs and those along the Atlantic seaboard. The large number of historic buildings, excellent museums, cinemas, restaurants and nightclubs, together with a buzzing street life, confirm the city's status as one of Africa's major cultural centres. But the undoubted highlight, whether you are standing on the Castle of Good Hope's ramparts or nursing a chilled beer at a waterfront café, is Table Mountain, looming over the city centre with effortless majesty.

  - 7 The V&A Waterfront
  - 8 Beach Road
  - 9 Camps Bay
  - 10 Bloubergstrand

1 Table Mountain

The 1,000-m (3,280-ft) high plateau of Table Mountain is reached by a rotating cablecar that offers wonderful views across the city centre to the distant Hottentots Holland Mountains. At the top, a network of footpaths allows you to explore the fynbos vegetation and assorted wildlife. Maclear's Beacon, the highest summit, is less than an hour from the upper cableway. The adventurous traveller might like to undertake Abseil Africa's controlled 112-m (367-ft) descent from a ledge overlooking Camps Bay (see pp18–19).

2 Castle of Good Hope

Constructed in 1666–79, Cape Town's oldest building now stands inland as a result of land reclamation, and still serves as the Western Cape's military headquarters. An imposing slate and sandstone pentagon, the rather utilitarian design is alleviated by the sculpted masonry on the bell tower and the Anton Anreith bas-relief above the Kat Balcony. An interesting military museum and the 19th-century William Fehr collection of art are also housed here (see pp16–17).

3 District Six Museum

This moving tribute to District Six, bulldozed in the apartheid era (see p34), is housed in the former Buitenkant Methodist Church, whose association with the anti-apartheid movement led to its forced closure in 1988. The museum's centrepiece is a vast, annotated floor map of the suburb in its multi-racial heyday. Other exhibits bear witness to the cruelty and destructiveness of the racism that dominated South African life for almost half a century (see pp14–15).

4 The Company's Garden

Established in 1652 as a vegetable garden to provide fresh produce to Dutch East India Company (VOC) ships docking at Table Bay, the Company's Garden doubles as a botanical garden. At the heart of the so-called Museum Mile, this inner-city park, with a backdrop of Table Mountain, is a lovely spot for relaxing and strolling. You can spend a day exploring the buildings fronting its lawns, such as the Iziko Slave Lodge and the South African Museum and Planetarium (see pp8–9).

5 Greenmarket Square This cobbled square in the heart of old Cape Town served as a slave market under the Dutch East India Company (VOC) (see p34). Its name, however, alludes to a subsequent incarnation as a fruit and vegetable market that made way for a parking lot in the 1950s. Surrounded by historic buildings, many housing smart eateries and cafés, this graceful square is now home to a popular pan-African craft market and an assortment of lively street performers juggling, dancing, singing or performing mimes.  Map Q4

6 Michaelis Collection This world renowned collection of paintings by Dutch and Flemish masters of the Golden Age (16th–18th centuries) was donated to the city by Sir Max Michaelis in 1914. Housed in the beautifully restored Old Townhouse, which

When Van Riebeeck established Cape Town in 1652 (see p35), the Western Cape had been inhabited by the Khoisan-speaking populace for several millennia. Within 200 years they were gone; some had fallen victim to diseases while others were killed by gun-toting settlers. Those who remained integrated into the mixed-race community, Cape Coloureds.

served as the City Hall until 1905, the structure is counted among the foremost architectural gems of the city. It exemplifies the early Cape Rococo style with its graceful triple-arched portico and pretty belfry.  Map P4

7 The V&A Waterfront Cape Town's reconstituted harbour is now also the city's foremost shopping venue. Literally hundreds of shops, ranging from bland chain stores to quirky craft stalls, can be found alongside several restaurants and a host of tourist spots, including the Nelson Mandela Gateway. Boat and helicopter operators offer harbour cruises and flights over Table Mountain (see pp10–11).

Waterfront buildings, Camps Bay

8 Beach Road Passing through the suburbs of Green Point and Sea Point immediately west of the city centre, Beach Road runs along an attractive stretch of Atlantic coastline. The road is separated from the sea by a grassy promenade where locals jog, skateboard and walk their dogs. It's a great spot for some aimless wandering, especially at sunset. Also worth seeing is the Green Point Lighthouse, the oldest in the country. Map K3

9 Camps Bay Wonderfully set between mountain and sea, Camps Bay is where suburban Cape Town's Atlantic seaboard gives way to the wild and unspoilt coastal scenery of the Cape Peninsula. This idyllic suburb boasts one of the nicest beaches in greater Cape Town and has a fine range of restaurants and bars situated on its waterfront. Map H1

10 Bloubergstrand This long sandy beach 12 km (7 miles) north of the city centre offers the most spectacular view of Cape Town; Table Bay glittering in the foreground against a backdrop of Table Mountain in its flat-topped glory. The beach, though busy with locals in summer, is seldom crowded. There's a fair chance of spotting dolphins and whales in season in the chilly waters off the beach. Map B2

A Day in the City Centre

Morning

After breakfast, make your way to the District Six Museum (see pp14–15) and explore its stirring exhibits. Then walk a couple of blocks back down Buitenkant Road to the Castle of Good Hope, (see pp16–17) leaving time to admire the City Hall (see p17) where Mandela made his first public address after his release in 1990. At the castle, grab a snack at De Goeweneur Restaurant before joining one of the free guided tours that run daily at 11am. At noon, return to the main gate for the firing of the signal cannon. Either drop in at the castle's two museums or enjoy an early lunch at De Goeweneur. Then join the horse-drawn carriage tour of historic Cape Town that departs at 12:45pm and alight at The Company's Garden (see pp8–9).

Afternoon

If you didn't have lunch at the castle, there are plenty of choices here. When the weather's right for eating alfresco, Gardens Tea Room opposite the aviary has to be first choice. The atmospheric Crypt Restaurant in St George's Cathedral (see p8) is good on a gloomy day. Afterwards, take a stroll around the gardens, followed by a visit to one of the museums lining them, such as the National Museum and Slave Lodge (see p8). If you're feeling peckish, wander up to Mount Nelson Hotel (see p112) to sample its legendary tea buffet (2:30–5:30pm) before heading back to your hotel.

Probably the most popular organized excursion out of Cape Town is a guided tour of Robben Island, which includes the return boat trip from Nelson Mandela Gateway at the V&A Waterfront (see p12–13).

7 Whale and Dolphin Watching Cruise
Best undertaken in calm weather, cetacean-viewing excursions into Table Bay – though not as certain to produce whales as Hermanus – can be organized through kiosks lining the harbour at the V&A Waterfront.

8 Kloofing
Kloofing (literally "cliffing") is a popular local activity that involves leaping off cliffs into pools in mountain streams of the Winelands. Day trips entail a hike to the kloofing site (see p49).

9 Table Bay Helicopter Trips
Several companies based at the V&A Waterfront offer thrilling helicopter trips with superb aerial views over Table Mountain and the city (see p48).

10 Table Mountain Day Hike
Experienced hikers will enjoy the hiking possibilities offered at Table Mountain. They are best undertaken with a knowledgeable local guide to avoid being trapped by sudden weather changes. ☎ Cape Eco-Tours • (021) 919 2282

Southern Suburbs

CAPE TOWN'S MOST SIGNIFICANT CLUSTER of suburban attractions lies amidst the prestigious belt of leafy residential property that stretches southward from the city centre, flanked to the west by Table Mountain and to the east by the incongruously poor Cape Flats. An area of interest for nature lovers, Kirstenbosch and Tokai offer scenic surroundings for a stroll. The estates along the Constantia Wine Route are as enjoyable as its more far-flung counterparts around Stellenbosch. For art lovers, the Irma Stern Museum is a cultural highlight, while sports fans can take in a rugby or cricket match at the world-class Newlands Stadia.

 Newlands hosted its first international rugby test in 1891. A multipurpose venue with a crowd capacity of 51,100, it is home to one of South Africa's Super 14 rugby teams (see p46). Nearby, towering Table Mountain looms over the scenic Newlands Cricket Ground. Map J2

4 Kirstenbosch National Botanical Garden
 South Africa's most beautiful botanical garden extends up to the eastern slopes of Table Mountain. It boasts a rich selection of flora and birdlife typical to the Western Cape. The network of wide footpaths, suitable for wheelchair users, forms a springboard for visitors to explore the fynbos-draped upper slopes of Table Mountain (see pp20–21).

5 Groot Constantia Estate
 South Africa's oldest wine estate is situated in the suburb of Constantia, below the eastern contours of Table Mountain. The opportunity to taste the award-winning wines alone justifies a visit, as does the stately Manor House (see pp22–3).

6 Klein Constantia Estate
 A subdivision of the original Van der Stel estate, Klein Constantia is arguably the finest wine producer in Constantia. Of note is the Vin de Constance, a re-creation of the natural, sweet dessert wine whose ancestral namesake was a favourite with Napoleon Bonaparte.  Translated as "Beyond Expectations" – an allusion to the 100-tonne grape harvest reaped by Ryk Cloete in 1825 – this 18th-century Cape Dutch homestead is set at the foot of Constantia Mountain. Though the flagship wine is a Bordeaux-style blend, (Christine), the estate also produces unblended reds and whites. There is a restaurant on-site. # The Cape Peninsula

THE CAPE PENINSULA IS A MOUNTAINOUS SLIVER OF LAND that extends southward from Cape Town to Cape Point, flanked by the open Atlantic to the west and False Bay to the east. Two-thirds of the coastline along the north of the peninsula is studded with quaint villages, sandy beaches and pretty seaside resorts. However, the ragged mountain spine remains largely unsettled, supporting a cover of unspoilt fynbos interspersed with plantation forest. Most of the peninsula is now protected within Table Mountain National Park (TMNP). Outdoor enthusiasts living in Cape Town will testify to the opportunities that TMNP presents; you could spend a lifetime exploring this scenic tract of land, but for time-bound tourists, highlights in the peninsula include the Cape of Good Hope sector of TMNP (see pp26-7), the entertaining penguin colony residents at Boulders Beach near Simon's Town, and the lovely beaches at Muizenberg, Noordhoek and Fish Hoek.

1 Rondevlei Bird Sanctuary

A short drive north of Muizenberg, Rondevlei – Cape Town’s best bird sanctuary – is home to 230 marine and fresh-water species, which can be glimpsed from the short walking trail that connects its hides. Grebes, rails, herons and gulls are well represented here.

Hippos were introduced in 1982 to control the spread of surface vegetation. ☎ Map J3 • 1 Fisherman’s Walk, Rondevlei • (021) 706 2404 • Open 7:30am–5pm daily; Dec–Feb 7:30am–7pm daily • Adm • www.rondevlei.co.za

2 Muizenberg

This resort town on False Bay was the location chosen a century ago by Witwatersrand gold magnates to build a row of seafront mansions. Though less prestigious now, the town’s historical sights include Het Posthuys, built as a tollhouse in 1742, the battlements, which are remnants of the 1795 Anglo-Dutch Battle of Muizenberg, the Edwardian railway station and Rhodes Cottage Museum, where CJ Rhodes died in 1902. The wide, sheltered beach is a haven for surfers and swimmers. ☎ Map J3

Muizenberg’s beachfront

3 Fish Hoek

The quaint village of Fish Hoek lies at the mouth of the Silvermine River between Muizenberg and Simon’s Town, and boasts one of the warmest and safest swimming beaches on the Peninsula. The clifftop Jager’s Path runs southward from town and offers good vantage points for whale watching. Overlooking the town is Peers Cave, one of the Cape’s most important archaeological sites and a national monument. It contains evidence of human occupation dating back 11,000 years. ☎ Map H4

4 Simon’s Town and Boulders Beach

A naval base for over 200 years, the pleasantly time-warped feel of Simon’s Town is enhanced by the “Historic Mile”, a row of Victorian façades lining St George Street. The town’s Victorian railway station is the southern terminus of one of the world’s great suburban train rides. The route follows the False Bay seafront back to Muizenberg. The penguin colony south of the town centre at Boulders Beach is the main attraction (see pp24–5).

Cape Floral Kingdom

The smallest of the world's six floral kingdoms, the Cape consists of a unique floral community known as fynbos ("fine bush") a reference to the narrow leaves of many plants. A UNESCO World Heritage Site and a biodiversity hotspot for its floral wealth, the Cape Peninsula supports more indigenous species than the entire British Isles.

5 Imizamo Yethu Township

This name is an isiXhosa phrase meaning "Through Collective Struggle." This small township was established on the outskirts of Hout Bay after the collapse of apartheid in the 1990s. The township's picturesque setting overlooking the harbour is offset in shocking contrast by the harsh living conditions endured by its 14,000 residents. Township Tours SA provides tours into Imizamo Yethu. 📍 Map G2 • Township Tours SA: (083) 719 4870; 10:30am, 1pm, 4pm daily

6 Noordhoek Beach

The shores of Noordhoek Beach

Shacks on the mountainside, Imizamo Yethu

Noordhoek is the most beautiful beach on the Cape Peninsula. It is a lovely spot for walks and birdwatching; you may even catch a glimpse of the endangered black oystercatcher. Horse riding is also on offer here (see p46). 📍 Map G3

7 Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve

This reserve is the scenic highlight of the Peninsula, dotted with stunning viewpoints such as Rooikrans, Gifkommetjie and Cape Point. It is an important stronghold for the Cape's unique fynbos habitat and for wildlife such as the eland and the endemic bontebok (see pp26–7).

8 Chapman's Peak Drive

Named after the peak that soars above it, Chapman's Peak Drive, constructed in 1915–22, is a magnificent stretch of road. Excavated into a band of soft shale in the almost-vertical cliff face that connects Hout Bay to Noordhoek, the road runs past parking spots from where you can watch the Atlantic batter the cliff's base. It now operates as a toll road after years of repair work. 📍 Map G3

9 Hout Bay Harbour and Seal Island

Hout Bay's busy little harbour is the launching point for boat trips to Seal Island, a flat granite outcrop that lies about 6 km (4 miles) offshore. The island's rocky shores support up to 75,000 Cape fur seals, the largest colony in South Africa. People are forbidden from landing on the island, but plenty of seals can be seen from the boat, together with various marine birds including black oystercatchers, African penguins and breeding colonies of three different cormorant species.

10 World of Birds

In a leafy suburb of Hout Bay, the World of Birds houses around 400 species, from indigenous garden birds such as bulbuls and parrots, to spectacular exotic species such as the scarlet ibis and Indian peacock. It also has an important breeding programme for the endangered southern bald ibis and crowned crane. The Monkey Jungle is home to marmosets, tamarins and squirrel monkeys from South America, as well as a charismatic meerkat family and the Malagasy hedgehog tenrec.

A Full-Day Driving Tour to Cape Point

Morning

🕒 After an early breakfast, head down the Atlantic seaboard via Camps Bay. Leave in time to break the 45-minute drive to Hout Bay with stops along Chapman's Peak Drive to enjoy the view. If you reach Hout Bay before 9:30am, hop aboard a round-trip cruise to Seal Island. Then continue your journey, driving south to the Cape of Good Hope sector of Table Mountain National Park (see p40). Stop at the Buffelsfontein Visitor Centre before you reach the Cape Point car park. If you're already peckish, enjoy a scenic lunch at the Two Oceans Restaurant (see p81) overlooking False Bay, or wait until after you've climbed the steep footpath (or caught the funicular) to Cape Point Lighthouse (see p27).

Afternoon

🕒 Walk off the lunch following the footpath from the car park to the Cape of Good Hope Beach, or drive back along the main road through the reserve towards the entrance gate, diverting to the Rooikrans, Gifkommetjie and Platboom Beach. Leave by 3pm, following the road that hugs the False Bay seaboard towards Simon's Town (see p76). Stop occasionally to look out for whales. Before you reach Simon's Town, turn right for Boulders Beach, (see p76) to watch the squabbling penguins. Before driving back, enjoy a drink at Seaforth Restaurant (see p81), or at Bertha's (see p81), overlooking Simon's Town's harbour.

The Winelands

THE MOUNTAINOUS TERRITORY immediately inland of Cape Town, often referred to as the Boland (literally “Uplands”), is among the most beautiful parts of South Africa. Its rugged sandstone peaks, interspersed with lush well-watered valleys, support intensive cultivation of deciduous fruit and trees. This region also forms the heart of the country’s wine industry; it is home to around 300 different wineries and is well organized for tourism, with most estates offering wine-tasting facilities and many also operating restaurants or cafés. A significant feature of the Winelands is its historic towns, which include Stellenbosch, Franschhoek, Tulbagh and Paarl.

1 Stellenbosch
The tourist capital of the Winelands lies amidst mountainous surrounds on the banks of the Eerste River. Established just 27 years after Cape Town was settled, Stellenbosch is South Africa's second oldest town and boasts the country's highest concentration of pre-20th-century Cape Dutch buildings. Despite its overtly historic feel, Stellenbosch is anything but staid, thanks partially to the bustling student life associated with its renowned university. The compact town centre is lively – and very safe – even after dark (see pp28–9).

The sandstone mountains of Jonkershoek Nature Reserve

2 Jonkershoek Nature Reserve

One of the Cape's most overlooked attractions, this mountainous reserve is on the outskirts of Stellenbosch. It is traversed by a selection of hiking trails, ranging from the easy paths through the reclaimed farmland of the Assegaaibosch sector, to the demanding hikes to the upper slopes. The mountain scenery hosts more than 1,000 species of fynbos plants and a varied selection of birds. The large mammal population – though thinly distributed – includes leopards, baboons and klipspringers. 📍 Map E3 •

Jonkershoek Valley: (021) 866 1560; open 7:30am–4pm daily; adm • Assegaaibosch: open 8am–6pm daily; adm • www.capenature.co.za

3 Spier Wine Estate
This estate does not aim for the gracious winelands ambience of Boschendal or Vergelegen, but adopts a more populist approach, which is why locals refer to it as “Disneyland”. Excellent facilities ensure that it goes down well with children – and adults who don't take their wine too seriously. The estate has a pool, spa, playground, craft shop, cheetah outreach programme, falcon and raptors centre, horse riding and two onsite restaurants. An open-air theatre hosts art events in summer that range from Shakespearean productions to jazz performances (see p55).

📍 Map D3 • Off R310 en route Stellenbosch • (021) 809 1100 • Tasting 9am–5pm daily • www.spier.co.za

4 Boschendal Wine Estate

The pioneering Boschendal Estate was first planted with vines by Huguenot settler Jean de Long in 1685. The most popular in the Stellenbosch-Franschhoek area, this estate is reached via a tree-lined drive and lies in a green valley flanked by the Groot Drakenstein and Simonsberg Mountains. The estate's Cape Dutch architecture includes a manor house dating to 1812 and a cellar built in 1795. There's a classy buffet restaurant and shady café, but on sunny days, the French-style “Le Pique Nique” on the lawns is irresistible (see p30).

5 Franschhoek

Franschhoek is the self-styled culinary capital of South Africa. With a French influence that dates back to its settlement by Huguenot refugees in the late 17th century, the town's history is documented in the Huguenot Memorial and Museum lying on its outskirts. Many wine estates lie in the immediate vicinity of this small town and its recent upsurge as a tourist hub is reflected in the boutique shops and world-class restaurants lining the main street (see pp30–31).

6 Butterfly World

Situated in Klipmuts on the R44, Butterfly World is South Africa's largest butterfly park and supports more than 20 indigenous free-flying species in an attractive, landscaped indoor garden. The recently added Martin Filmer Spider Room, which has different types of spiders housed in terrariums, educates visitors about the ecological value of these unjustly feared arachnids. 📍 Map D1 • R44, Klipmuts • (021) 875 5628 • Open 9am–5pm daily • Adm

Cape Dutch Houses

The Cape Dutch architecture that evolved in the 18th century adapted European styles to suit African conditions. Its defining feature, derived from medieval houses in Amsterdam, is an ornate round gable above the entrance. Typical buildings also have a thatched roof and an H-shaped floor plan like the manor house at Vergelegen.

7 Drakenstein Lion Park

This park was established in 1998 to provide lifelong sanctuary to captive lions that cannot be released into the wild. Housed in large enclosures, the lions can be viewed from raised platforms. Kids love it and it can be quite dramatic to visit at feeding time (4pm on Mon, Wed and Fri). 📍 Map E1

- Adm • www.lionrescue.org.za

8 Paarl

Hemmed in by Paarl Mountain to the west and the Berg River to the east, the largest town in the Winelands is rather scruffy compared to Stellenbosch. However, Paarl Mountain, a fantastic granite outcrop in a pedestrian-friendly nature reserve, and the Afrikaner Taal (Language) Monument are worth a visit. The Laborie Wine estate in the town centre is charming. 📍 Map E1

- (021) 872 4842

9 Tulbagh

The town of Tulbagh, below the Groot Winterhoek Mountains, was founded in 1700 and is relatively remote from Cape Town. It makes a charming getaway for those who want to avoid crowds. Boasting more than 30 Cape Dutch buildings, the centre exudes a period character. The fynbos-draped Groot Winterhoek Mountains form an imposing backdrop and offer good walking, horse riding and birdwatching opportunities. The area supports about two dozen wine estates.

📍 Tourist information: Map U3 • (023) 230 1348 • www.tulbaghtourism.org.za

10 Vergelegen Wine Estate

Translated as “lying afar”, this historic property on the slopes of the Helderberg started life as a remote outpost of the Cape Colony in 1685. Fifteen years later, it became the private estate of Willem van der Stel, who established the gracious manor house and octagonal garden, and planted the gnarled camphor trees at its entrance. Visit one of South Africa’s premier estates for its magnificent grounds or to sample its range of wines. 📍

The “Four Passes” Day Circuit

Morning

🕒 The circuit around the Hottentots Holland Mountains encompasses some of the Winelands’ finest scenery, architecture and wine estates. Starting in Stellenbosch (see pp28–9), drive south along the R310 to Somerset West. Follow the signs to the Vergelegen Wine Estate on the Helderberg slopes. Once here, explore the historic buildings and pause for a quick snack at a local coffee shop. From Somerset West, follow the N2 east via Sir Lowry’s Pass, then turn left onto the R321, passing through Grabouw and over Viljoen Pass before descending into the Riviersonderend (River Without End) Valley to Theewaterskloof Dam. Turn left onto the R45, which traverses the Franschhoek Pass, offering wonderful views over this eponymous town.

Afternoon

🍴 In Franschhoek, lunch at the Tasting Room at Le Quartier Francais or Mont Rochelle’s two restaurants (see p90). Then pop into the Huguenot Memorial and Museum or browse the shops along the main street. Continue west along the R45 and stop at L’Ormarins Wine Estate to visit the Franschhoek Motor Museum (see p30). Outside Franschhoek, branch left onto the R310 to reach Stellenbosch via the Helshoogte Pass. Stop en route at the Boschendal Wine Estate (see p83), the town of Pniel and Hillcrest Berry Farm. End your day with a drink at the Tokara Estate’s restaurant (see p87).

Operators in Cape Town and Stellenbosch offer “Four Passes” day tours, preferable to self-driving if you plan on wine-tasting.

TOP 10 Iconic Wines to Try

1 Kanonkop Paul Sauer

The winner of numerous local and international awards, this Bordeaux-style blend is dominated by Cabernet Sauvignon, with the 2003 likely to drink well for another decade.

2 Meerlust Rubicon

Another iconic Bordeaux-style blend, this is one of South Africa's best-known wines, with several awards to its name and a reputation for benefiting from long-term cellaring.

3 Ernie Els Red Blend

The association with South Africa's top golfer may come across as a gimmick, but the wine, another Cabernet-based Bordeaux blend, is anything but, having drawn many accolades.

4 Beyerskloof Pinotage

This restaurant staple is a good introduction to Pinotage, a uniquely South African cross between Cinsaut and Pinot Noir, pioneered in 1925. It tends to produce soft, dry, medium-bodied wines with hints of banana, plum or tropical fruit.

5 Zonnebloem Shiraz (and Other Reds)

Another restaurant and supermarket staple, Zonnebloem's flavoursome reds are good for daily consumption. The Shiraz is currently the favourite, but the Pinotage and Cabernet Sauvignon are also drinkable.

6 Vergelegen White Blend

Rated "Wine of the Year" in the 2007 Platter (see below), this is an oak-matured blend of two-thirds Semillon to one-third Sauvignon Blanc. It usually improves with cellaring for two to three years.

7 Ken Forrester Chenin Blanc Range

South Africa's most heavily planted grape, comprising 18 per cent of the national vineyard, Chenin Blanc may be a touch unfashionable – but not in the hands of local champion Ken Forrester, whose Chenin Blanc and award-winning FMC Chenin Blanc rank with the very best.

8 Boschendal Blanc de Noir

Perfect for fans of rosé and off-dry whites, this refreshing salmon-coloured wine is made from black grapes but fermented as a white wine. It is best drunk chilled and at a summery picnic.

9 Porcupine Ridge Sauvignon Blanc

You will often come across this zesty favourite on supermarket shelves and restaurant wine lists. It is reliable and affords good value for its price.

10 JC Le Roux Scintilla

This Chardonnay-based wine is made by South Africa's leading exponent of Cap Classique, a type of sparkling wine that is almost identical to champagne.

Beyond the Winelands

ASSUMING YOU CAN DRAG YOURSELF away from its estimable charms, Cape Town provides a great base for exploring the rest of the Western Cape, a province notable for its consistently scenic coastline, fynbos-swathed mountains and ever-expanding viniculture industry. Highlights east of Cape Town include the peerless, land-based whale watching in Walker Bay and the underrated De Hoop Nature Reserve – not to mention Agulhas, the most southerly tip of Africa – while the west coast stretching up towards Lambert’s Bay combines ruggedly beautiful seaside scenery with some of the world’s most spectacular floral displays.

1 Hermanus

Southeast of Cape Town, the quaint small town of Hermanus is perched on the sheer cliffs that hem in Walker Bay. Its attractions include the montane fynbos of Fernkloof Nature Reserve. But above all, Hermanus is the world's best place for some land-based whale viewing from June to November. The movements of southern right whales, which regularly breach in the waters below town, are tracked by a "whale crier". Map U5 • Tourist information: (028) 312 2629 • www.tourismhermanus.co.za

Eland at the De Hoop Nature Reserve

2 Gansbaai

This fishing village, named after the geese that once nested here, is known for the sharks and whales that live offshore. Its shark safaris mostly focus on Dyer Island, which supports African penguins, black oystercatchers and the Cape fur seal colony. Nearby, the 2,000-year-old potshards unearthed at Klipgat Cave are among the oldest discovered in South Africa. Map U6 • Tourist information: (028) 384 1439 • www.gansbaai.com

3 Agulhas National Park

The southernmost tip of Africa and meeting point of the Atlantic and Indian Oceans, Agulhas, named by Portuguese navigators, means "needles" – an allusion to the jagged offshore formations that have caused 250 shipwrecks. Home to South Africa's oldest lighthouse (built in 1849), its rocky beaches possess a stark charm. Proclaimed a national park in 1999, Agulhas has yet to be developed as one. ## 4 De Hoop Nature Reserve

To the east of Agulhas, this is South Africa's largest surviving coastal fynbos habitat. It is a breeding ground for the endemic bontebok and Cape mountain zebra. The coastline of tall dunes and sheer cliffs can be explored on short walking and mountain biking trails, or along a five-day hiking trail named after the whales that breach offshore between June and November. ### Whales and Dolphins

A remarkable 42 species of whales and dolphins have been recorded in South African waters. The Western Cape is the prime whale spotting destination, thanks to the southern right whales that migrate to sheltered coves such as Walkers and False Bays. Bottlenosed dolphins are regularly seen here too, pirouetting in apparent glee as they follow a boat's wake.

5 Swellendam

Founded in 1745 at the Cape Colony's remote eastern frontier, this gracious small town has an old world atmosphere reinforced by Cape Dutch buildings such as the Old Drostdy (Magistrate's Seat), which was built in 1747 and is now a local history museum. Six kilometres (4 miles) out of town, a network of quiet roads and trails runs through the hilly renosterveld of Bontebok National Park, which was established in 1931 to protect the 30 last remaining wild bontebok, whose population has now risen to 200. ☎

The Wolfberg Arch in Cederberg

6 Cederberg

The Cederberg Wilderness (Provincial Reserve) and the Cederberg Conservancy (private farmland) form the heart of Cederberg. The montane wilderness is revered in hiking circles for its stunning sandstone formations, such as the Wolfberg Arch and Maltese Cross, its profusion of prehistoric rock art and a rich endemic flora and fauna. Though best explored over several days, the conservancy also offers shorter day hikes in montane and karoo surroundings, with private camps providing access to rock art sites and views. ☎ Map U2 • (027) 482 2403 • www.cederberg.co.za

7 West Coast National Park

Extending around the sparkling waters of the Langebaan Lagoon, this pristine coastline lies just an hour's drive north of Cape Town. It is particularly worth visiting in August–September, when magnificent spring wildflowers bloom in the Postberg sector. Offshore islands support breeding colonies of ten different marine bird species. The recreational zone of the lagoon is popular with watersport enthusiasts. ☎ Map S3 • (022) 772 2144/5

8 Paternoster and Cape Columbine

The coastal village of Paternoster on Cape Columbine to the north of Cape Town is renowned for its traditional whitewashed fishermen's cottages and superb crayfish. The adjacent Columbine Nature Reserve protects a lovely stretch of coast that bursts into spectacular bloom from August to October and offers excellent kayaking spots through the year. There is terrestrial and marine wildlife around too. Map S2

9 Lambert's Bay

The largest town on the west coast, Lambert's Bay retains the feel of a sleepy port, and its pretty harbour is regularly visited by seals and other marine creatures. The main attraction is Bird Island (see p41) with its 20,000- to 30,000-strong colony of Cape gannets. Boat trips further afield come with a good chance of sighting the localized Heavyside's dolphin and other cetaceans. It is a good base for exploring the underrated Olifants River Wine Route.

Map S1 • Lambert's Bay: (027) 432 1000 • www.lambertsbay.co.za

10 Namaqualand

This desert to the north of Lambert's Bay hosts one of the world's most astonishing floral spectacles. Between August and September, its parched soils, soaked by light but predictable rains, transform the rocky plains into dazzling fields of multi-hued flowers, including some 300 species of daisy and other annuals. Ten per cent of the world's succulent species are endemic to the region, including surreal tree aloes such as the kokerbooms (quiver trees) and bulbous halfmensboom (half human tree). Map T1 • (027) 712 8035/6 • www.namaqualand.com

Overnight Tour to Hermanus

Day 1

Follow the N2 east from Cape Town for 30 minutes, turning right onto the R44 at Strand. Hermanus (see p95) is 75 km (47 miles) from Strand, so you could make it in an hour, but it's worth stopping to admire the scenery. Rooiels Bay and Kleinmond offer wonderful views to Cape Point (see p36). Harold Porter Botanical Garden (see p98) in Betty's Bay is a great place to relax in a fynbos habitat. In Hermanus, check into a hotel and then lunch at the Burgundy Restaurant or grab a bite at beachfront Dutchies (see p99). In the afternoon, follow the Cliff Path west out of town. Or stroll around town keeping an eye trained towards the ocean for whales, or in calm weather, head to Onrus Beach. End with dinner at the Burgundy or Marine Hotel (see p118).

Day 2

After an early breakfast, drive to Gansbaai (see p95) for a cruise to Dyer Island (see p95) to spot whales, dolphins and the fearsome great white shark. Alternatively, stay back and take a 2-hour boat-based whale cruise, or explore the town's boutiques. If at Gansbaai, lunch at trendy Farango Bistro (see p99). Then, if time permits, follow the longer route that connects with the N2 at Botrivier and runs west through Vredendal and Sir Lowry's Passes to Somerset West (see p98). A detour to Vergelegen Wine Estate (see p85) located in the Helderberg Mountains is strongly recommended.

TOP 10 General Information

1 Government

South Africa has been a multi-party democracy with an independent judiciary since May 1994. The Parliament, situated in Cape Town, comprises a representative National Assembly and National Council of Provinces. The dominant party since 1994 has been the African National Congress (ANC). The official opposition is the Democratic Alliance. President Thabo Mbeki's second five-year term will end in 2009.

2 Economy

South Africa has Africa's strongest economy and accounts for half the continent's mineral and industrial output. Cape Town is one of four main economic hotspots and the national leader in the tourist sector. Its average growth of 3–4 per cent since 1999 has been somewhat tempered in recent times.

3 Languages

South Africa has 11 official languages: Afrikaans, English, isiNdebele, isiXhosa, isiZulu, Sepedi, Sesotho, Setswana, siSwati, Tshivenda and Xitsonga. The most widely spoken language in the Cape Town area is Afrikaans, followed by isiXhosa and English. English however, is sufficient for almost all practical purposes.

4 Religions

Though there is freedom of worship, Christianity is dominant, with Zionist, Catholic, Methodist, Dutch Reformed and Anglican being the most common. The remaining population follows Islam, Judaism, other religions or are atheists.

5 Electricity

Occasional, localized cuts are experienced in Cape Town. All hotel rooms take the old British Standard earthed plug. Most have adaptors for the twin-pronged unearthed plugs used in continental Europe.

6 Opening Hours

Post offices and government offices are open 8:30am–4:30pm Monday to Friday. Post offices are also open on Saturdays 8:30–11:30am. Timings for sights like museums and wine estates vary greatly (see also p108 and p111).

7 Time Zone

South Africa is two hours ahead of the UK, six hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time and 8 hours behind Australian Standard Time.

8 Embassies

Diplomatic representation is in Pretoria (Tshwane) in Gauteng Province. The UK, the USA and Germany have consulates in Cape Town.

9 Public Holidays

South Africa has 12 annual holidays from the global to the national: 1 Jan (New Year's Day), 21 March (Human Rights Day), Good Friday, Easter Monday, 22 April (Freedom Day), 1 May (Workers' Day), 16 June (Youth Day), 9 Aug (National Women's Day), 24 Sep (Heritage Day), 16 Dec (Day of Reconciliation), 25 Dec (Christmas) and 26 Dec (Day of Goodwill).

10 Further Reading

Tremendous literature by prominent novelists include works by Andre Blink, Achmat Dangor and Nobel prize winners JM Coetzee and Nadine Gordimer. Anthony Sampson's Mandela: The Authorised Biography and Mandela's autobiography, Long Walk to Freedom, are popular non-fiction books. A range of field guides focusing on the country's mammals, reptiles, trees and flowers can be picked up in any bookshop in Cape Town.

TOP 10 Planning Your Trip

1 Tourist Information

Cape Town Tourism is the official Visitor Services Organization, with 20 world-class information centres within the city. Visit them for information about reservation and other auxiliary services. ☎ (021) 487 6800 • www.tourismcapetown.co.za

2 Internet Resources

Many websites are dedicated to travel in Cape Town the most useful being the official tourist board (www.tourismcapetown.co.za). The unofficial www.cape-town.org and the listings-oriented www.capetowntoday.co.za are also popular. For Winelands coverage, www.wine-routes-sa.co.za is useful, while foodies are pointed to www.eatout.co.za and www.restaurants.co.za.

3 Maps

Tourist offices in Cape Town stock a good selection of free maps and you can pick up plans for smaller towns at tourist offices. For detailed maps, Map Studio has the best. ☎ Map Studio: Freeway Park on Upper Camp • (021) 510 4311 • www.mapstudio.co.za

4 Passports and Visas

Your passport should not be due to expire within six months of your intended date of departure from South Africa. It must contain at least two unused pages for stamps. Visas are not required by nationals of EU countries, the USA, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, who are granted a free three-month temporary visitor's permit upon arrival. Citizens of most other countries require a visa.

5 Customs

No customs duty is charged on items imported temporarily for personal use. Otherwise duty-free restrictions are standard.

6 Insurance

Travel insurance is highly recommended; there is no public health service, which means that all medical bills of uninsured travellers will have to be paid from their own pockets.

7 When to Go

The summer months of October–March are the peak tourist season, when facilities tend to be pricier. Winter is more of a lottery, with periods of beautiful, mild weather interspersed by days of cold, drizzle and wind. Late August–September is perfect; not too crowded, balanced weather and wonderful spring wildflowers on display.

8 What to Wear

Weather tends to be warm to mild in summer, so choose your wardrobe accordingly, and add in a couple of sweaters just in case. The winters (May–September) are cold and wet, making a jacket essential. Skimpily clad women may be subject to unwanted male attention, unless at a beach.

9 What to Pack

Arm yourself against the sun with sunblock and a hat, especially if you are coming from the northern winter. Carry binoculars to spot wildlife. Stock up on prescription drugs but there's no need to be over-prepared – anything you forget can be bought in Cape Town.

10 How Long to Stay

Anything less than a week for Cape Town and the Winelands would feel restrictively short. It is easily possible to spend two weeks holidaying in and around the city and stay busy.

TOP 10 Getting to Cape Town

1 Flights from the USA and Europe

The main gateway for international flights to South Africa is OR Tambo International Airport in Johannesburg. It is connected to Cape Town by numerous domestic flights. A number of operators also fly directly to Cape Town from North America or Europe, notably British Airways and South African Airways (SAA) (www.flysaa.com).

2 Flights from within Africa

SAA operates a network of direct flights to African capital cities. Most major African national carriers fly between their capital city and South Africa, with connections to Europe and North America. Flights from elsewhere in Africa land in Johannesburg, from where Cape Town-bound travellers need to catch a domestic flight.

3 Domestic Flights

The arrival of smaller airlines has ensured that cheap flights are available between Cape Town and other cities. You can shop online for details on such carriers as Mango, Kulula, Nationwide and 1time (see p107).

4 Airports

The Cape Town International Airport flanks the N2 highway 20 km (13 miles) east of the city centre. One of the busiest airports in Africa with a range of shops and restaurants, it is currently undergoing an upgrade. ☎ (021) 937 1200 • www.airports.co.za

5 Airport Hotels

With the isolated location of Cape Town International Airport on the Cape Flats, travellers arriving late or leaving early may elect to stay in the inexpensive but well-equipped 90-room Road Lodge, the only hotel adjacent to the airport. ☎ Map C3 • (021) 934 7303 • www.citylodge.co.za

6 Leaving the Airport

Some hotels offer free airport transfers. Otherwise, Randy's operates a regular shuttle to and from the city centre, the V&A Waterfront, Green Point and Camps Bay at R60–170 per person, depending on destination and group size. Private taxis are available at a higher price, as are several rental cars. ☎ Randy's: (021) 706 0166 • www.randystours.com

7 Intercity Buses

Intercity buses connect Cape Town to Johannesburg, Pretoria, Port Elizabeth, Durban and Upington. The fares are inexpensive. Major operators include Greyhound (www.greyhound.co.za), Intercape (www.intercape.co.za), Translux (www.translux.co.za), and Intercity Xpress (www.intercity.co.za).

8 Self-Drive

Car rental rates start at R150 per day and include 200 km (125 miles) free usage. Most major international players are represented. International operators such as Avis (www.avis.co.za) and Hertz (www.hertz.co.za) are costlier than local companies such as AA Car Hire (www.aacarhirecapetown.co.za) and Tempest Sixt (www.tempestcarhire.co.za).

9 Trains

Few tourists use passenger trains as they are not safe, but details are available at www.spoornet.co.za. Popular exceptions are the Blue Train between Pretoria or Johannesburg and Cape Town (www.bluetrain.co.za) and the luxurious trains of Rovos Rail (www.rovosrail.co.za).

10 Ocean Cruises

An unusual way to get to Cape Town is by one of the cruise ships that dock there en route to Indian Ocean Islands and Europe. Particularly legendary is the world's last operating mail ship, the RMS St Helena (www.rms-st-helena.com) running annually between Southampton and St Helena.

TOP 10 Getting Around

1 Rikki Taxis

Fulfilling a function somewhere between normal cabs and African “shared taxis”, these cabs can be booked by phone or hailed on the street through the city centre and select suburbs. There are “Rikki Phone” at various locations. They take up to six people and are far cheaper than bona fide taxis. ☎ (086) 174 5547
 • Hours: 6:30am–midnight
 Mon–Fri, 24 hours Sun
 • www.rikkis.co.za

2 Taxis

Taxis in the city are inexpensive by international standards at around R10/km. There are no roving taxis, but you can hire one at a taxi rank (outside most major upmarket hotels and shopping malls) or ring an operator. ☎ Marine: (021) 434 0434; Sea Point Taxis: (021) 434 4444; Uni-cab: (021) 448 1720

3 Car Rental

The Cape Peninsula and the Winelands are well suited to self-driving. The distances are quite small, so you should be alright within the free limit of 150–200 km (94–125 miles) that is imposed by most companies. Do be aware that the additional “per km” costs will build up quickly if you do something like drive between Johannesburg and Cape Town!

4 Filling Stations

Most filling stations stay open 24 hours and have decent shops attached. The price of fuel falls somewhere between fuel costs in Europe and the USA, and it cannot be paid for with a credit or debit card. Unless you have a locally issued petrol card, you’ll need to pay cash.

5 Parking

Multi-storey car parks dot the city. Car parks are also attached to tourist attractions such as the Company’s Garden and Castle of Good Hope. Most streets now have an attendant who’ll guard your car for a tip (R2–5).

6 Bicycles

Probably inadvisable in the city centre, cycling can be a very enjoyable way of getting around the sunny countryside, provided you’re aware of the considerable distances between places. A recommended agency for bike rental is Downhill Adventures (021 422 0388), www.downhilladventures.com.

7 Walking

This is the cheapest – and healthiest – way of getting about and most major attractions in central Cape Town are within walking distance of each other. It is advisable to avoid wearing valuables. Take advice from locals about where to go after dark; avoid walking alone. If in doubt hail a taxi cab or a Rikki.

8 Buses

The hub for metropolitan bus services is the Golden Acre Bus Terminal on Strand Street. The bus network is more limited in outlying suburbs. The open-top sightseeing buses are popular with tourists (see p107).

9 Trains

The main railway station is on Adderley Street. A great experience for tourists is the new “hop-on, hop-off” ticket available on the scenic southern line between Cape Town and Simon’s Town. On purchasing the ticket, you will get a map detailing sights within easy reach of key stations along the route. There’s a regular service to Stellenbosch. ☎ (080) 065 6463 • Ticket: R25 return • www.cape-metrorail.co.za

10 Organized Excursions

Without private transport, organized excursions are the best way to get to remote places such as the Cape of Good Hope Nature Reserve (see p26). They are also the safest option to visit townships or to explore the Winelands. Hotels or tourist offices can recommend operators

If you do plan to cycle around the Cape Peninsula, be aware that it is forbidden to carry bicycles on metropolitan trains.

TOP 10 Things to Avoid

1 Road Hazards

South Africans are known for their assertive driving style, and Capetonians are no exception. Be particularly cautious of the notoriously whimsical minibuses that serve as public transport. In the rural Winelands, be alert to the possibility of livestock suddenly crossing the road and drunken pedestrians weaving in front of your vehicle.

2 Sun

People who are unused to the ozone-depleted, cloudless southern sky are inclined to underestimate the strength of the sun here (see p109). Wear strong sunblock and a wide-brimmed hat whilst out walking, as well as on boat trips, when the reflection from the water intensifies the sun's rays.

3 Snakes

Although snakes are present on Table Mountain and in nature reserves, most species are harmless; even the venomous ones tend to flee when they sense the seismic vibration of an approaching human foot. The risk of snakebite can be further reduced by wearing solid shoes and trousers on nature trails. Also be sure that you avoid rummaging through woodpiles or picking up stones with gloveless hands.

4 Feeding Baboons

Baboons fed by people perceive them as a source of food, which can lead to aggressive confrontations. Deliberately feeding a baboon encourages this, and may eventually lead to it being shot. All the same, should one confront you over food, surrender the titbit immediately – the doglike incisors of a baboon can inflict a nasty bite.

5 HIV and AIDS

The rate of HIV infection in South Africa is very high. The most certain way to avoid infection is abstinence. Failing that, condoms can provide a high level of protection; these can be bought at pharmacies, supermarkets and convenience stores at filling stations.

6 ATM Scams

Two scams are associated with ATMs. One involves a helpful local making off with your card, while the other entails causing cards to get stuck mid-transaction. You are most vulnerable outside of banking hours and at remote locations. Never reveal your PIN to a stranger and ensure nobody can see it when you type it in.

7 Mugging

The odds of being mugged are small, provided that you follow

common sense advice and exercise caution (see p109). In the unlikely event you are accosted, you're likely to walk away unscathed if you cooperate with your assailants.

8 Weather Changes on the Mountain

The fickle weather of Table Mountain claims a few lives every year. Don't even think about hiking on the mountain in stormy weather. Even on clear days, be alert to the possibility of changing conditions. Should mist suddenly descend, do the same – though if visibility is poor, it is best to wait for help.

9 Swimming in Dangerous Conditions

Although the occasional shark attack tends to grab headlines, a bigger danger to swimmers is riptides and other strong currents in stormy weather. Never swim without seeking local advice, in poor weather or where no other swimmers are present.

10 Drunk-Driving on Wine Routes

Driving and wine-tasting is potentially dangerous, and is illegal. Unless you have a designated driver who's prepared to abstain, join one of the inexpensive day tours operating out of Cape Town or Stellenbosch (see pp28–9).

TOP 10 Budget Tips

1 Cheap Domestic Flights

A recent boom in domestic carriers has led to wide availability of cheap air tickets – indeed, if you are flexible about dates, it may well be cheaper to fly between Johannesburg or Durban and Cape Town than to take a coach or train. For more information, try www.flymango.com, www.kulula.com, www.flynationwide.co.za, www.flysaa.com and www.1time.aero.

2 Off-Season Hotel Rates

As with any seasonal destination, Cape Town has a glut of empty rooms during the low season. Several hotels offer fantastic walk-in and last-minute online rates from May to September, sometimes as low as R300 for a double room (little more than a backpacker hostel). Check Protea and City Lodge chains for good deals. See www.citylodge.co.za and www.proteahotels.co.za for information.

3 Free Activities

Although entrance fees to Cape Town's main tourist attractions are generally reasonable, they quickly add up. You can save a packet by using free alternatives. Set a day aside to walk up Table Mountain rather than using the cableway, spend an afternoon feeding pigeons and watching squirrels in the Company's Garden or take a long stroll along Noordhoek Beach.

4 Happy Hour

Many bars in Cape Town have a Happy Hour, when drinks are half-price, or you get a second drink for the price of one. Ask around!

5 Cape Town Pass

Busy travellers can save on admission fees by buying a Cape Town Pass, which allows free entrance to more than 50 attractions in Cape Town and the Winelands. The best value is the six-day pass at R750; shorter variations are also available. The pass can be bought online at www.thecapetownpass.co.za, or at tourist offices (see p103).

6 City Sightseeing Buses

A popular, inexpensive way of getting around Cape Town is the open-topped hop-on, hop-off City Sightseeing Bus, which follows two routes – the Green Route and the Blue Route. It costs R100 for a day's unlimited usage. ☎ (021) 511 6000 • www.citysightseeing.co.za

7 Cheap Day Tours

Cheap day tours are more convenient than public transport and are cheaper than taxis. Tours offered by several companies include outings to Cape Point and Boulders, wine-tasting tours, township visits and adventure activities. You can book tours through the agencies along Long Street.

8 Bring Your Own Wine (Corkage)

Many restaurants allow diners to bring their own wine, which often saves on the price charged on the wine list, even where a corkage fee (typically R20–30) is levied. Check ahead when you call in for a reservation.

9 Picnic and Self-Catering

Cape Town is studded with good supermarkets, and canny travellers can save a small fortune in restaurant bills by self-catering, or putting together picnic baskets. Excellent picnic spots include the Company's Garden, Boulders Beach, or wine estates around Stellenbosch.

10 Use Your Feet

The cheapest way to get around is, of course, on foot. The compact districts of Cape Town, Stellenbosch and Franschhoek all reward pedestrian exploration. Keen walkers could extend their rambling to include suburban wine estates such as Mont Rochelle or Lanzerac.

The hop-on, hop-off Baz Bus (www.bazbus.co.za) connects Johannesburg to Cape Town via Durban and the Garden Route.

TOP 10 Banking and Communications

1 Currency

South Africa's currency is the rand, divided into 100 cents, locally denoted by the symbol R, and internationally by the prefix ZAR. Bank notes are in denominations of R10, R20, R50, R100 and R200. Coins come in denominations of R5, R2, R1, 50c, 20c, 10c and 5c.

2 Banking Hours

Most banks are open 9am–3:30pm Monday–Friday. City banks are open 8:30–11:30am on Saturday, but this may not be the case in small towns. Banks at international airports generally stay open late into the night.

3 Foreign Exchange

Most banks have foreign exchange facilities, and private bureaux de changes (locally called forex bureaux) are also found in malls and airports, typically keeping longer hours than banks. Most hotels also offer exchange facilities but at comparatively poor rates. All foreign exchange transactions are documented and you are required to show your passport. Exchange rates are non-negotiable and there is no black market.

4 Credit Cards

Major international credit and debit cards are accepted by practically all hotels, restaurants, shops and other outlets dealing with tourists. The most widely accepted card is Visa, followed by MasterCard. American Express is less widely used in South Africa, and may not always be accepted. Cards cannot be used at filling stations (see p105). Market stalls and small enterprises also require payment in cash.

5 ATMs

Most banks have at least one ATM where cash can be withdrawn using international cards, typically to a value of R1,000 (around US$145) per transaction. There are also ATMs in many airports and filling station shops. ATM-associated crime is common, so be careful when you withdraw money (see p106).

6 Telephone

Local and international calls can be made from most phone booths and hotel rooms. Cape Town has a 021 prefix and the international code for South Africa is +27. Calls out of South Africa are prefixed by 00. Mobile (cell) phones are in wide use and numbers start with 07 or 08.

7 Internet

Internet cafés with broadband are dotted all over Cape Town and are generally quite cheap.

Most hotels also offer Internet facilities, but at inflated rates. WiFi is still in its infancy, but is available at international airports and select hotels. If you need it, it is best to check if the hotel has the facility before you make a reservation.

8 Post, Shipping and Courier

International post in and out of South Africa is reliable but slow – airmail to Europe typically takes about a week and to North America at least two weeks. A faster service is offered by a private chain called PostNet, found in most large malls. Use an international courier such as FedEx or DHL for items of value.

9 Newspapers

Unlike during apartheid, South Africa now has freedom of press. Several English-language newspapers are available in Cape Town, notably the Cape Argus, Sunday Times and the Weekly Mail & Guardian.

10 Television

Public TV is restricted to three channels operated by state broadcaster SABC and privately run eTv. Both are heavy on imported American fare, punctuated by loud advertising. Most hotels have cable TV offering an array of movie, sports and international news.

TOP 10 Security and Health

1 Medical Insurance

Medical insurance is practically essential, as you'll be dependent on private healthcare facilities in the case of illness. Standards of private healthcare are high, and it is relatively cheap compared to the USA or Europe.

2 Vaccinations

Vaccinations advised for trips to most tropical countries aren't really applicable to the Cape Town area, though you should get polio or tetanus boosters if these have expired. No vaccination is mandatory for North Americans or Europeans, but anybody coming via a yellow fever area (anywhere else in Africa) might be asked to show a vaccination certificate at immigration.

3 Emergency Numbers

Nationwide emergency numbers are 10111 for the police and 10177 for ambulance (no area code required). Local emergency numbers will be listed in your hotel directory, though it is best to inquire at the reception before dialling.

4 Medical Facilities and Pharmacies

The Cape Town area is serviced by several hospitals that broadly conform to Western standards. Other facilities such as dentists and physiotherapists are also widely available – ask your hotel for a local recommendation. Pharmacies are scattered over the city, but the only 24-hour one is M-Kem on Durban Road next to the N1 highway (021 948 5706).

5 Malaria

Although malaria is present in South Africa, it is restricted to the northern and eastern border areas. There is no need to take precautions if your travels are restricted to the Western Cape, which is entirely malaria-free, but seek advice about prophylactic drugs if you plan on visiting Kruger Park or the coastal belt north of Durban.

6 Sunburn

Excessive exposure to the harsh sun is a perennial hazard for tourists hailing from gloomier climes. Overdo the sunbathing and you risk a painful sunburn or, in extreme cases, severe sunstroke. Dedicated sun worshippers are advised to smother themselves in strong sunblock and to restrict tanning to one hour, preferably when the sun is low in the sky.

7 Drinking Water

You can assume that all tap water in Cape Town is safe to drink unless you have been specifically warned to the contrary. Bottled water is widely available for those who prefer it.

8 Public Toilets

Public toilets are generally maintained to Western standards, though facilities are occasionally on the grubby side. Most filling stations and shopping malls have well sign-posted toilets. In the city centre you may need to look a little harder – or ask nicely and slip into a restaurant or hotel.

9 Mugging and Crime

Avoid carrying large sums of cash, and having any cameras loose. Do not leave your belongings unattended. In general take advice from locals about where to go after dark (see p106). In particular, take precautions at lonely lookout points, especially after dusk.

10 Dangerous Wildlife

Snakes and scorpions present a small but real danger when walking in nature reserves, so counter the threat by wearing solid shoes and long trousers. Shark attacks occur sporadically in False Bay, often on surfers. However, the risk is slight compared to, say, a car accident, and can be reduced by avoiding swimming with an open wound or between dusk and dawn, when sharks are most active.

Although people associate Africa with fierce wildlife, Cape Town's only potentially dangerous mammals are baboons (see p106).

TOP 10 Special Concerns

1 Disabled Travellers

Though facilities for disabled travellers in South Africa are not very sophisticated, the situation is improving. Most hotels, malls and tourist sights have wheelchair access. The main paths at Kirstenbosch are wheelchair-friendly and also have a Braille Trail. Check www.eco-access.org.za for details of wheelchair accessibility at various other reserves countrywide. If you plan on renting a car, be sure to ask for a special parking disk that allows for parking concessions.

2 Special Needs Tour Operators

Several tour operators specialize in itineraries for disabled travellers. Flamingo Tours (www.flamingotours.co.za) and Endeavour Safaris (www.endeavour-safaris.com) are both experienced and offer itineraries catering to most disabilities. A recommended operator on a national level is Rolling South Africa (www.rollingsa.co.za).

3 Women Travellers

Attitudes towards women are less enlightened than in most Western nations, but many women travel alone in South Africa. However, dress conservatively in rural areas and be sure to avoid walking alone in lonely areas or after dark.

4 Backpackers

Cape Town is a backpackers' hotspot with several dozen hostels catering to budget travellers. It also offers an excellent selection of short and long tours, locally and further afield. The website www.coastingafrica.com is an invaluable resource for backpackers, as is the associated free booklet, Coast To Coast.

5 Camping

There are plenty of good campsites around Cape Town and in most nature reserves, usually with good washing facilities and cooking areas. It is a great way to experience this beautiful region, especially if you have wheels, but lugging around a tent and gear can be quite restrictive.

6 Students

Travellers under the age of 26 or registered students may obtain reduced rates at certain tourist attractions and on public transport upon production of a valid student card.

7 Travel with Children

Cape Town has plenty to offer kids of all ages. Most hotels give significant discounts to youngsters (or allow them to share their parents' room for free) and many restaurants have inexpensive menus for children. Entrance fees to the sights and attractions for kids are typically half to one-quarter of the adult fee.

8 Senior Travellers

Cape Town is a popular destination with senior travellers; facilities for seniors are better here than elsewhere in Africa. Substantial discounts on many services and activities are offered.

9 Gay and Lesbian Travellers

South Africa has an enlightened constitution when it comes to gay and lesbian rights. Cape Town is the main hub of the country's homosexual community and is recognized as a leading gay destination. Elsewhere in South Africa, however, on-the-ground attitudes tend to lag behind official policy; overt homosexual behaviour could attract unwanted trouble.

10 Gay Resources

The gay travel sites, www.capetown.tv and www.capeinfoafrica.co.za include information about gay-friendly guesthouses and facilities. A more hard-hitting source of gay news and views, www.capetownpride.co.za is also the official site of the Cape Town Pride Festival, taking place over February–March (see p54). The Pink Map is another good source of information.

TOP 10 Shopping, Eating and Hotel Tips

1 Shopping Hours

Shopping hours are usually 9am–5pm Monday–Friday, but some outlets stay open until 6pm. Stores in malls such as Victoria Wharf (The V&A Waterfront) stay open until 9pm. Shops that are open on weekends have shorter trading hours.

2 VAT Refunds

Non-resident foreign passport holders on a visit to South Africa can claim a VAT refund of 14 per cent on all purchases over R250 intended for export. This is best done before leaving; it involves presenting all invoices to VAT refund offices at Cape Town International Airport or the OR Tambo International Airport in Johannesburg. Vat Refund: Clock Tower Bldg, The V&A Waterfront • Open 9am–5pm Mon–Sat, 10am–5pm Sun

3 Crafts and Curios

Cape Town is a great place to buy local crafts from around Africa, with excellent markets and shops at the V&A Waterfront, on Long Street, along the central railway station, at Hout Bay's fishing harbour and on the main road through Kalk Bay.

4 Breakfasts

Most smart hotels include breakfast in the room rate. Typically, this will be an extensive buffet of hot and cold dishes that sets you up for the day. Where it isn't included in the room rate, you'll be better off grabbing a hot drink and croissant at one of the delicatessens and coffee shops scattered around.

5 Lunches

When out sight-seeing, you can grab a bite to eat at any of the eateries that are attached to most of the tourist attractions. On more leisurely summer days, a lingering seafood lunch at the Waterfront is highly recommended, ideally accompanied by a bottle of crisp white wine.

6 Dinners

For most locals, dinner is the main meal of the day. If you eat out, it is usually a three-course affair served with red wine. Money-conscious tourists should note that starters and desserts tend to push up the price of a meal, and a well-chosen main course should suffice. In summer, it is pleasant to eat dinner alfresco, but this isn't realistic over May–September.

7 Picnicking

A popular lunchtime option on the Wine Route is to picnic on the lawn of your chosen estate – Boschendal and Spier in particular provide excellent picnic baskets, as does the Silvertree Deli in Kirstenbosch. You can also put together a picnic lunch at a supermarket.

8 Tipping

Waiters tend to be paid very poorly and depend on tips, which should be in the 10–15 per cent range depending on the quality of service. Give cash rather than adding the tip to your bill and paying by card. It is customary to tip hotel porters around R2–5 per bag. Elsewhere, tips are discretionary, and will be appreciated.

9 Self-Catering Accommodation

Opting for self-catering accommodation can save you from running up high restaurant bills and also offers greater freedom of choice. For self-catering properties in and around Cape Town, try Cape Letting (www.capeletting.com). Most backpacker hostels offer communal self-catering facilities.

10 Seasonal Discounts

The low season (May–September) is a good time for last minute deals. Check websites of chains such as Protea and City Lodge and you may find three-star hotel rooms going for as little as R300–400. If you can't find a good deal online, book into a hotel for your first night and look for cheaper walk-in options once you are there.
